NCAA Council Adopts Rulings On 1.6 Average

Operating Manual Set for Midsummer

Interpretations relating to the 1.6 minimum academic legislation were adopted by the NCAA Council at its April meeting and an operating manual completely outlining procedures to be followed in order to conform will be issued by the NCAA Executive Office in midsummer.

Effective date of the new By-law [B4-6, (b)] is January 1, 1966. Interpretations adopted are as follows:

1. If a student is below 1.600 after his first academic year, he may go to summer school in an effort to raise his average to the 1.600 minimum or above for the beginning of the next academic year; however, his institution may not provide him grant-in-aid assistance to attend summer school under these circumstances.

2. A high school graduate will be considered as an incoming student and judged on his predicted grade-point average. Attendance at a summer session between high school graduation and enrollment in the certifying institution the ensuing year will not be considered.

3. A student-athlete whose grade-point average is less than 1.600 at the end of the academic year automatically eliminates himself for aid regardless of the initial duration of the grant. (He can again become eligible for aid when he attains the required grade-point average.)

4. Failing grades must be included in computing a grade-point average. If the student subsequently repeats and satisfactorily passes a course, then his passing grade may replace the failure.

No More Moonlighting For NCAA Members

It is now a violation of the conditions and obligations of institutional membership for the staff member of an NCAA college or university to receive compensation from professional sports organizations for the scouting of athletic talent or the negotiating for talent contracts.

Validation by the NCAA Council last month of an institutional referendum vote revealed that by a nearly unanimous ballot of those responding—132 to 2—Association members clearly wish to define what is and is not ethical in their dealings with professional sports.

The Council, in light of this overwhelming sentiment, approved the following interpretations related to the application of Article 3, Section 6, (b), which is now enforceable legislation rather than recommended policy only:

- (a) It is permissible for a staff member to provide in written or oral form information concerning the talents of college student-athletes to professional sports organizations provided he does not receive, directly or indirectly, compensation or any other tangible reward.

- (b) Staff members may not receive Christmas presents, gratuities or expense paid trips through direct or indirect means for assistance to professional sports organizations in the scouting or signing of talent.

- (c) Any arrangement between a professional sports organization and a college staff member for purposes of scouting other professional teams or assisting the professional employer in coaching his team shall be construed to be prima facie evidence of an indirect arrangement to obligate the staff member's assistance in evaluating or procuring college talent.

The now enforceable legislation is binding until next January's 60th NCAA Convention in Washington, D. C., when, ac-

Cage Tourney Is Transferred To Maryland

Cole Fieldhouse Will Seat 14,000

Next year's National Collegiate Basketball Championship site has been moved from the Chicago Stadium to the University of Maryland's Cole fieldhouse.

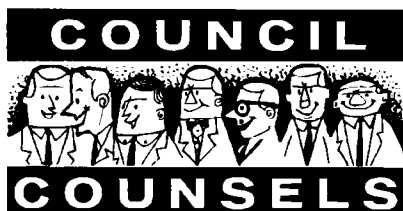

The NCAA's premier cage attraction, March 18-19, 1966, is being shifted because "differences in the basic administrative requirements of the NCAA and Chicago's ticket-sellers' union cannot be reconciled."

Announcement of the move came from Bernie A. Shively, chairman of the NCAA's Basketball Tournament Committee. It followed mutual agreement by the NCAA's Officers and the Chicago Stadium management plus approval by the University of Maryland to accept the 28th annual Championship finals.

Maryland's William P. Cole, Jr., fieldhouse will seat 14,000 for the NCAA tournament. The Chicago stadium's seating capacity is 19,000. The University was one of several to submit bids previously for next March's championship event.

"Neither the NCAA nor the Chicago Stadium management anticipated complications over ticket handling," Shively said, "but union policy will not permit the 'complete management and control including the use of institutional personnel for the operation of the facility and related duties during the staging of any event,' as called for by NCAA policy."

"The decision to move the NCAA Championship from Chicago was made most reluctantly and uncritically. Loyola, Northwestern and Chicago stadium management have been most cooperative and understanding. We feel, however, it is as necessary and right for us to hold to our principles."

EXTRA EVENTS REVIEW REVEALING

First review by the NCAA Extra Events Committee of certification of track and field and gymnastics since such certification was authorized to begin March 1, reveals the following:

In every instance in which a meet had applied for and received sanction from the AAU and then received certification from the NCAA or sanction from the U. S. Track and Field Federation or U. S. Gymnastics Federation, the AAU immediately withdrew its sanction and threatened to rule ineligible any open athlete who competed in the meet.

The Committee also reported that the AAU no longer will sanction a single event or two within a predominantly college meet as in the past. The AAU now insists upon sanctioning the entire meet or not at all. Thus the AAU takes the position that if a meet is composed of, for example, 500 high school and college athletes, plus five open athletes, the AAU and only it may approve or sanction the competition and thus exercise exclusive control of the event.

In response to inquiries from member institutions, the Extra Events Committee has issued the following guideposts and interpretations:

- (a) If a member institution secures the use of a non-collegiate facility, obtains complete control of that facility and sponsors, promotes and manages its own track and field meet, then said meet does not come under the certifying provisions of Article 7 of the By-laws even though it is an income meet.
- (b) A non-income meet, as defined by the Extra Events Committee, and reported to the membership February 23 in the Officers' REPORT TO MEMBERSHIP, does not come under the provisions of Article 7. It is not necessary to file papers with the Extra Events Committee (or the United States Track and Field Federation or United States Gymnastics Federation) concerning this competition.
- (c) If a meet is held on the campus of a member institution and is sponsored, promoted, managed and controlled by a collegiate entity, or utilizes a non-campus facility per above (a), it does not come under Article 7 unless it is required to obtain a sanction from an outside organization; e.g., the AAU. Obtaining such a sanction diminishes and, in effect, negates the control of the collegiate entity; thus, the meet comes under the certification program of this Association.

Under these same circumstances, however, sanction by an outside organization of an individual event within such a meet would not, in the judgment of the Extra Events Committee, diminish or negate the collegiate control. [The distinction drawn here by the Extra Events Committee is based upon a direct inquiry related to AAU practices; i.e., AAU sanction of a meet directly affects gate receipts, television arrangements and income, who may or may not compete, and even the dates and site. Sanction of an individual event within a meet results in payment of a nominal, set fee and there is no intrusion of the AAU into the management and conduct of the meet itself.]

The Extra Events Committee wishes to add one additional thought regarding the NCAA's relationships with the United States Track and Field Federation (and United States Gymnastics Federation). The USTFF, in effect, serves as a clearing house for its constituents; i.e., the NCAA has close and cooperative relationships with the National High School Federation, the National Junior College Athletic Association as well as other USTFF member groups. When competitors other than college athletes are involved in a meet, we ask and urge the host member college to secure a USTFF sanction which assures that the rules and regulations of our sister organizations are observed as well as our own.

Executive Committee Covers Much Ground

Some decisions of the Executive Committee's recent meeting, April 8-9, are covered separately elsewhere in the News. Below, however, is a capsulized summary of other action of interest to all member institutions:

CROSS-COUNTRY—University championship meet may no longer be conducted in the same NCAA district more than two consecutive years. Championship course length will be increased, but determination of distance over four miles referred to CC subcommittee of Track and Field Rules committee.

GOLF—Qualification format changed for NCAA championship to require district selection of teams and individuals.

GYMNASTICS—Format for NCAA championship altered to eliminate inter-regional tournaments with four primary regionals to qualify directly to finals a maximum of three teams per region plus top six individuals in each event. NCAA team champion will be determined from maximum 12-team field the first day, also individual all-around champion. Individual titlists in all single events to be determined the second day.

SWIMMING—WATER POLO—Separate rules committee for water polo was not authorized, but it was recommended that a subcommittee for water polo be established within the Swimming Rules Committee.

DISTRIBUTION OF RECEIPTS—Formula for reimbursement of net receipts (if any) in all individual-sport NCAA championships will henceforth be similar to track and field in which competing institutions' allocations are based on individual place-winners in the respective sports.

FOUNDATION TRUST—Establishment of an NCAA Scholarship Foundation Trust as a depository of funds for the Association's successful postgraduate scholarship program launched last year was established. At the same time the newly-formed National Educational Marketing Services of Chicago was appointed for the express purpose of providing additional funds for expansion of the scholarship program. (At present there are 32 one-thousand dollar awards in football and basketball and financing is from NCAA TV revenue.) NEMS has been authorized to sell and distribute through cooperation with selected manufacturers in a dignified manner collegiate sports-oriented youth mercantile items and in other ways promote the values of competitive collegiate athletics with the purpose of adding scholarships in sports other than football and basketball. Some 30 additional post-graduate awards are an approximate goal.

Moonlighting? NCAA Turns Thumbs Down

cording to the resolution which established the referendum in January at the Chicago Convention, "it is intended to place this provision in the permanent legislation of the Association."

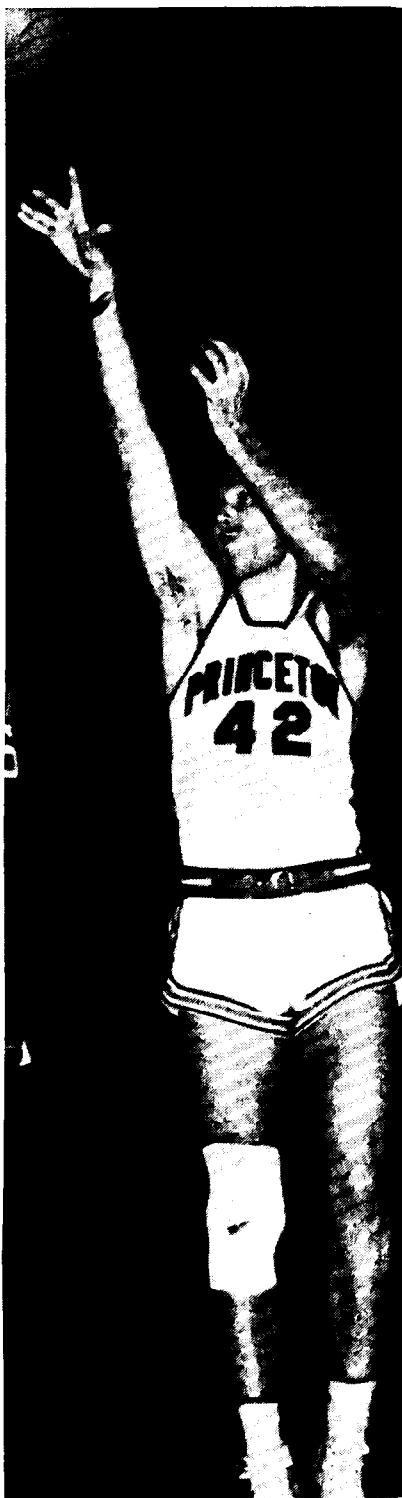

The Chicago action was touched off by last December's premature signings and use of the "undated" contract on the part of the American and National Football Leagues. At that time the NCAA Committee on College-Professional Relations, chaired by James J. Corbett, director of athletics at Louisiana State University, presented a strongly worded report calling on both collegiate and professional interests to do away with unethical practices.

Since that time the committee has engaged in a series of negotiations with the two leagues and on May 4, Corbett announced both NFL and AFL had agreed to the following:

(a) From the time of his enrollment until the academic year in which his class graduates, no college student shall be signed to a contract or any other document (including a letter of intent), directly or indirectly, until completion of all football games, including post-season bowl games in which the team of the college of such player is to participate and in which the player is to participate; such provision shall apply to college football players competing in football in any season ending after the date when the original class of such player shall have been graduated.

(b) Whereas the leagues have agreed they will not sign a student who is engaged in his fourth year of college until after all football competition of that year, including post-season competition, they may sign a student with football eligibility remaining between the completion of the varsity season of his fourth academic year and the beginning of his fifth year of academic work. Once said student enrolls for classes in his fifth year, however, neither league will sign the student until he has completed his football competition of that year, including post-season event.

(c) The professional leagues report that it has been general practice and policy for scouts visiting the campus to make initial contact with the athletic director or head coach. This will be continued. The leagues have agreed that during such meetings ground rules for subsequent contact will be arranged as long as such rules are reasonable.

(d) Although the clubs of neither league promise to disclose promptly all signings because of the requests of some student-athletes that the signings not be disclosed, each league does pledge to disclose any and all signings of fifth year students prior to the September first of their final season of eligibility.

Dick Yastrzemski, younger brother of AL bat king Carl Yastrzemski, rates covetous glances from major league scouts but plans to remain at LaSalle College in Philadelphia where he'll be a junior next year.

"Carl told me," said the fledgling pitcher-outfielder, "the biggest mistake he made was leaving Notre Dame at the end of his sophomore year, although he has been able to go to college in the off season and will get his degree soon.

"He told me about the hundreds of guys who leave college for a baseball career, then don't make the grade and are left high and dry without anything to fall back upon. I don't want that to happen to me."

Blackie Sherrod, Dallas Times-Herald

(Re the proposed United States Football League in the spring)

Regardless whose idea it is or who does it, the spring program would be a super-saturation of football. Enough is enough.

We'll get ours (TV interests), J.B. (J. B. Banknote) and by the time football becomes a weary drug on the market, we'll be lolling in the Caribbean, challenging Errol Flynn's record for the 50-yard dash on a slippery yacht deck.

It won't do us Great Unwashed Public much good to squall about overexposure. Business is going to do what profit dictates.

Morosely, we must protest that springtime football is like eating garlic for breakfast. You can have it, baby, and chances are you're going to get it.

Bert Nelson, Track and Field News

... But we recognize as we long have, that track in the U.S. could be conducted in a much better fashion. We feel that despite the major improvements made by the AAU in the last three years there is need for a complete overhaul of the administration of track and field... We feel that an organization representing all significant segments of track and field, and having responsibility only for the administration of track and field, could be of tremendous value. And 84 per cent of the coaches answering our recent opinion poll agree with us... Our opinion poll confirmed a great deal of dissatisfaction with the AAU's administration, even among those who oppose the tactics of the NCAA. Until the bulk of this dissatisfaction is eliminated, either by better communications or through major changes, it will remain a festering sore, liable to spread its poisons again.

Pete Peterson, Assistant Coach, Southern California Striders

(In Track and Field News)

Personally, I feel that the AAU has stabbed us in the back by not providing competition for their athletes, and by standing by while supporting the NCAA program. They do this when they (the local AAU officials) help out in the officiating of college track meets, and by refusing to help out our all-comers track meets. Most of the local AAU officials have some interest in the local colleges and they show more concern for them and not for their own organization... They promised to help our meets if we request that length of time (three to four weeks) prior to our meets. We don't even know if our club will exist in three to four weeks.

Jerry Eaton, The Arizona Republic

Quoting NCAA President Everett D. (Eppy) Barnes—"I wore a fob chain and vest even as a little tyke... I determined then and there that I would not only be well dressed, but a man of mystery as well. As such, I never have and never will reveal whether the fob chain is connected to a watch."

Committee Nixes Christmas Day Football Games

Santa Claus will not be burdened by a Christmas package of NCAA bowl games, nor will such be played on the Sabbath as the result of last month's action of the Extra Events Committee.

In certifying games for 1965-66, all confirmed by the Council, the EE committee also set qualification standards for future bowl game sponsorship as follows:

They shall be restricted to those operations which are sponsored by local non-profit, charitable or educational organizations.

The committee denied the certification request of the Hula Bowl, January 7, in Honolulu because it violates NCAA By-laws with reference to missing class time to participate.

Two new games were certified — an all-star football contest at Cedar Rapids, Ia., November 27, 1965, between seniors of member colleges within the State of Iowa—and two all-star basketball games matching Indiana and Kentucky collegian members.

Following are those games certified:

THE EIGHT BEST college baseball teams in the nation will meet in the 19th annual College World Series at Omaha, Nebraska, June 7-11. Creighton University will serve as host institution. Minnesota is defending champion.

Certification Not Needed For Cross-Country Race

The NCAA Council ruled at its April meeting that no certification procedures will be necessary in cross country under terms of the new track and field extra events legislation.

Track and field certification, however, is required the full 12 months of the year. No certification is necessary in competition outside the United States.

The Association's policy-making body also dealt with the following during its regular spring session in Kansas City:

Basketball — Approved acceptance by Springfield College, Michigan, and St. Joseph's (Pa.) of invitations by BFUSA and the U.S. Department of State to go on international junkets this summer to India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Turkey, Greece, Israel and South America. Approved proposed trips by

- Blue-Gray, Montgomery, Ala. — December 31.
- All-star basketball games:
- Indiana - Kentucky — April 1-2, 1966

the basketball teams of Brigham Young University and New Mexico State to South America and western Europe respectively. These trips are also sanctioned by BFUSA.

Approved for allied membership the Ivy Basketball League.

Additional Membership — Southampton College to associate membership and the Southland conference to allied membership.

Individual Appointments — Arthur W. Nebel, University of Missouri, to the Council, to replace Earl Sneed, University of Oklahoma, as District Five Vice-President.* . . . Karl Peterson, Temple University, to the Gymnastics Rules Committee, replacing Thomas Maloney, U.S. Military Academy. . . . Herman N. Neilson, to the Track and Field Rules Committee as College Division representative.

Potential Legislation—Voted to sponsor legislation at the next national convention limiting the number of football grants-in-aid to 30 per year utilizing the "banking" principle up to five and limiting number of basketball grants-in-aid to six per year, "banking" one or two.
