

YOUTH SPORTS PROGRAM TAKES SHAPE

One of the most ambitious and significant programs ever undertaken by the NCAA and its member institutions is rapidly taking shape for the summer of 1969—a National Summer Youth Sports Program.

The selected NCAA member colleges and universities (as well as other institutions) will conduct the Program in cooperation with the U.S. Government in a partnership arrangement which promises significant benefits to the young people of the United States.

The goal is to offer summer sports competition and instruction to youngsters of both sexes, ages 12 through 18, in poverty areas of the nation's larger cities through use of the exceptional facilities and highly-trained personnel of the NCAA's member institutions.

The committee responsible for supervision of the Program and approval of the budgets of the sponsoring institutions includes: Richard C. Larkins, director of athletics, Ohio State University; Forrest F. Twogood, assistant athletic director, University of Southern California; Edward S. Steitz, director of athletics, Springfield (Mass.) College; William J. Bowerman, head track coach, University of Oregon; William Exum, director of athletics, Kentucky State College; Walter Byers, executive director, NCAA; and two representatives of the Federal Government to be designated.

Administrative planning is moving ahead swiftly.

Following preparation of institutional application forms at the Feb.

13-14 meeting of the NCAA's supervisory committee for the Program, they will be mailed to all interested institutions in the near future.

They are to be returned to the NCAA executive office by March 10. By April 1, final approval of individual institutional programs and authorizations will be in the hands of the participants.

All this activity and all these deadlines are indicative of the fast-paced action which has surrounded plans for the Program since its Jan. 3 announcement by then NCAA President Marcus L. Plant.

25 Largest Cities

Designed to make the facilities, equipment, teaching experience and qualified personnel of the nation's universities and colleges available to urban youth during the summer, the Program's goal is to involve an estimated 50-100 colleges in approximately 30 metropolitan areas this summer.

This Program is considered by President Richard M. Nixon as an ongoing program to be expanded in future years.

While the institutions provide administration, facilities and personnel, the NCAA will supervise the individual programs to see they conform to governmental specifications. The NCAA expenses will be absorbed by the Association, without cost to the Government. The Federal Government will fund operating costs, estimated to be four to six million dollars annually.

At least 200 youngsters are to be in each individual institution's program. Of those, it is desired that a minimum of 80 per cent will be

FROSH RULE REMAINS UNCHANGED

In a Convention noteworthy primarily for the orderly completion of routine administrative measures, the NCAA's 1969 gathering in Los Angeles earned greatest recognition for what it did not do.

That was the result of the decision by the delegates to vote down all five proposals to amend the current rule regulating competition by freshman students.

Every proposal from "play all" to "don't play at all" was defeated, so freshmen remain eligible for NCAA competition in all sports except football and basketball. The same College Division exceptions still apply.

The other item which created particular interest, the addition of the "Manifest Disobedience" paragraph to O.I. 2 (c) of Constitution 3-1, fared better with the delegates.

Asks Written Ballot

Needing a two-thirds majority since it pertained to the Constitution, it passed 167-79 (67.9 per cent) on a written ballot. An earlier standing vote had been narrowly enough above the winning percentage that President Marcus L. Plant asked for the written ballot.

Other measures approved mean:

* NCAA teams cannot appear in doubleheaders with pro teams;

* A student-athlete who predicts 1,600 on the national table upon

HARRY M. CROSS

WILLIAM J. FLYNN

Harry M. Cross, professor of law at the University of Washington, and William J. Flynn, director of athletics at Boston College, are the NCAA's 1969 officers.

They were elected by the Association's 63rd Convention in Los Angeles.

Cross has been Washington's faculty athletic representative since 1963 and is a former president of the Pacific-8 Conference.

He is a graduate of Washington State University, and earned his LL.B. at Washington. He has been a member of the Law School faculty there since 1943. He is a native of the state, and has spent his life there except for graduate work at Yale University in 1940 and 1941 and assignments in Washington, D.C., and Chattanooga, Tenn., with the U.S. Treasury General Counsel Office from 1941 to 1943.

Infractions Committee Member

Cross has been parliamentarian of the last two NCAA Conventions. He has been a member of the Committee on Infractions for two years, and just completed a six-year term on the Constitution and Bylaws Committee, of which he was chairman.

Flynn, now serving his 12th year as director of athletics at Boston College, has been on its campus in various capacities since 1945. At that time he left the FBI to become a professor of mathematics.

In 1952 he was appointed alumni secretary, then in 1957 was named director of athletics.

He has been chairman of the NCAA Television Committee since 1967, a TV Committee member since 1958, and a member of the Executive Committee since 1967. He has

PLANT, MCCOY NAMED TO EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The immediate past officers of the NCAA, Marcus L. Plant and Ernest B. McCoy, were elected to the Executive Committee by the Council at its post-convention meeting in January.

Plant is professor of law and faculty athletic representative at Michigan. He is immediate past president.

McCoy is director of athletics and dean of the School of Physical Education at Penn State. He is immediate past secretary-treasurer.

One position on the Executive Committee had been open since Everett D. Barnes left Colgate University in mid-1968, and another vacancy was created when William J.

Flynn was elected secretary-treasurer for 1969.

Other elected members are Jesse T. Hill, director of athletics, University of Southern California; H. B. Lee, director of athletics, Kansas State University; Robert F. Ray, dean, Division of Extension and University Services, University of Iowa; Francis E. Smiley, dean of students, Colorado School of Mines, and James H. Weaver, commissioner, Atlantic Coast Conference.

The officers and Vice-President At-large Wilford H. Ketz, Union (N.Y.) College, join them as ex officio members to give the Executive Committee its full complement of 10 members.

The Editor's View

The Plant-McCoy Years

Two years ago, in January of 1967, when Marcus L. Plant became president and Ernest B. McCoy was elected secretary-treasurer of this Association, the NCAA faced major challenges on several fronts.

The two-year-old 1.600 legislation was a controversial issue in some sections of the nation, the AAU was enjoying considerable success in thwarting the growth of the sports federation and a rapidly-expanding Association needed improved internal and external communications.

When those same gentlemen left office this January, conditions were much improved. The 1.600 was well accepted, with not a single negating amendment proposed at the 1969 Convention, although minor procedural polishing remains to be accomplished.

The Federations now number five, and each has grown to a significant place in amateur sports in America. Commissions, or similar bodies to govern U.S. foreign competition, on which the federations have equal power with the AAU, appear to be the solution in at least two sports. Four federations now can schedule foreign competition without interference from any other domestic body.

In communications, this periodical has become a monthly paper of some size in a major effort to keep the membership informed, and the Association's New York office has been expanded in size and scope to permit greater dissemination of news in that communications center. Likewise, the Kansas City public relations and promotion staff has been expanded.

These are but a few of the accomplishments. Lawyer Plant and Dean McCoy would be quick to point out that others contributed much work toward achieving them. But knowledgeable observers in amateur athletics agree that few of them would have been realized without our outgoing officers' strong leadership.

Letters to the Editor...

Mr. Walter Byers
Executive Director
NCAA
Kansas City, Missouri

Dear Walter:

Football coaches accept the fact that criticism (often erroneous) of their coaching strategies, their way of carrying out their jobs, and even the way they live their personal lives is a hazard of the profession. But, when an unsubstantiated public attack comes directly from the Head of the Organization to which we belong and support—first, shock and hurt, and then reaction is our course.

Let us remind you, Mr. Byers:

1. The Active members of the American Football Coaches Association, which completely controls our organization, are with very few exceptions also associated with the NCAA.
2. The AFCA is also a dues-paying associate of the NCAA.
3. Many of our members are also accredited delegates to the NCAA meetings.
4. Therefore, we think that we should not be subjected to unwarranted and flimsy attacks from the Head of the NCAA.

Now, let us examine your editorial. We accept completely the Football Code and the statement, "Traditionally football is the game of the schools and colleges." Why bring this up? Wasn't the "Code" authored primarily by men who coached?

We ask: What do you mean when you state that college football is on a collision course with college management? College football has always been controlled by college management. Who collides with whom—coaches have no argument about whose nose is most powerful if a collision occurs. We are disciplined people, and when we know the rules we support them, even though we too often have no part in their making.

We are not involved—but we ask—why bring up the question of the sanctity of the rules committee? We believe in and support the fact that the rules committee is a part of the NCAA, and derives its present form and any future course from the NCAA.

Relative your statements about our Rule Surveys, we believe that the men who coach have the greatest knowledge and responsibility for the game of football, and that these men would be shirking their duties if they did not make known their views of the rules. We are committed to this course, but deny any allegations that we are exerting undue pressures. Perhaps at this point we should remind you that we surveyed our coaches following the passage of the 1967 Punt Rule. The contents of this report were submitted to the Rules Committee, which decided not to change its course even though the survey showed the coaches almost unanimous in opposition.

Your implication that members of the American Football Coaches Association are pro-oriented thinkers and that college coaches are the pro game is the most ridiculous of all your charges.

Did you, Walter, take time to view any of the recent Bowl Games? The teams that played in the five major New Year's Bowl Games truly represent the college game. Tell us, please, in what manner these teams are pro? And, perhaps you would like to explain how their Head Coaches are pro-oriented.

Also, Walter, what good comes out of your threat that soccer might be a replacement for intercollegiate football? Do you have any guarantee that soccer will not become costly?

Let's think for a minute about the game of football and the coach. Do you, Walter, have any doubts about the values of football as builders of good citizenship for those who play, and vicariously for the millions, who listen, read, and watch?

Do you have any doubts about the quality of the men who coach football? We will concede that there

NOTES and QUOTES

Rick Forzano has moved back into college coaching, accepting the head coaching position at the U.S. Naval Academy. He was an assistant at Navy for a time, helping the Mid-dies to four wins over Army.

Herbie Smith, former football and baseball star at Northwestern State College, Louisiana, has been appointed head baseball coach at that school. He also will assist with the football team. Smith is a 1965 graduate of Northwestern.

Joe Paterno of Penn State and Jim Root of New Hampshire have been named "Coach of the Year" by the American Football Coaches Association. Paterno won the major college honor as his team posted an 11-0 record, including a win in the Orange Bowl.

Root won the College Division honor with a 6-2 record, and the co-championship of the Yankee Conference. This was Root's first year as a head coach.

Donald Cross has been appointed head football coach at Southwest Missouri State College. Cross had been line coach at Illinois State since 1966. He succeeds James Mentis, who resigned as grid coach, but will remain on the faculty at Southwest Missouri.

may be a tiny fraction of coaches that do not fully subscribe to the demands of the profession.

Let us tell you something about the American Football Coaches Association. First, from the By-Laws, "the objects shall be, to help maintain the highest possible standards in football and the football coaching profession, to discuss matters of mutual interest, to submit to the proper organization suggestions for the improvement of football, to discuss various phases of football, to place at the disposal of coaches sources of football information, to work together for the improvement of conditions in American Football, to have a representative group of football men in which football problems of general interest may be discussed and to which they may be referred for friendly interchange of ideas . . ."

Second, you, of all people, should be aware of the efforts that our Association has made to develop and carry out our code of ethics.

Let us remind you that the American Football Coaches Association for many years has spent sums from its one-time meager resources to find ways and means to make football a safer game.

If you follow the Proceedings of our meetings, you will note that we spend most of our time on matters relating to the improvement of all phases of football. For instance, our Proceedings of the January, 1966 meeting will show that we discussed the topic, "The Rising Costs of Football." A careful study of our Proceedings over the years indicates clearly that we are not acting as a LOBBY for our own interest relative to the football rules. We wonder if it has occurred to you that regardless of the rules our selfish interest will not be improved. We live or die on the winning percentages. We do not know of any suggested rules that can improve on the winning records of our combined membership. Do you?

Perhaps you ought to listen more carefully to the arguments of the vast majority of the coaches and members of the rules committee in their belief that the present substitution rules better serve the welfare of intercollegiate football. Can you think of any reason why these devoted and dedicated men want to, in any way, hurt the game for which they give their lives?

For the sake of brevity, we believe that football serves this nation and that football coaches are making a great contribution toward the development of its welfare. Therefore, we take issue with your allegations that we are a selfish organization, thinking in terms of our own selfish interest.

The American Football Coaches Association believes that the first thing to be done is to find the facts relative "the rising costs of football and other areas of intercollegiate athletics." We are dedicated to this project, and in our open meeting of January 8th, our membership directed our trustees to appoint a committee to find the facts, make a study of the results, and report their findings. Therefore, at this moment, we have joined in our efforts with two other vitally concerned groups. A combined committee composed of the NCAA Rules Committee, The American Football Coaches Association and The National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics is beginning an intensive survey of the rising and spiraling costs of intercollegiate athletics in our member institutions. After our survey is completed (as rapidly as possible), all of us will be more able to make accurate statements as to the actual costs of our athletic programs. We are vitally interested in this information.

Since we had no opportunity to present rebuttal to your "article" in the last issue, The American Football Coaches Association requests that you print this letter in its entirety, without comment, at the same prominent position in the next issue of the NCAA News.

Sincerely,

PAUL F. DIETZEL, President
American Football Coaches Association

P.S. We feel that the football coach, and, for that matter, all athletic coaches are making a unique contribution to the youth of our nation. Where else in our society can you find a closer and more wholesome boy-man relationship than in athletics? Who can possibly have a greater moral effect on young men than a coach can have on his athlete. Great coaches of the past have added immeasurably to the make-up of the men who are now in athletics. We believe that efforts to keep and attract devoted men to our ranks is a matter of more urgency than anything now before us.

Ellickson, Reed, Koenig Named to Council

Three new members were elected to the NCAA's policy-making Council by the 63rd Convention, Raymond T. Ellickson, Dwight T. Reed and Richard P. Koenig.

Ellickson was named vice-president of District Eight, while Reed and Koenig were chosen members-at-large.

In addition, James R. McCoy, Ohio State, and J. William Davis, Texas Tech, were re-elected vice-presidents of Districts Four and Six, respectively, Samuel E. Barnes moved from an at-large position to the vice-presidency of District Two, and the man who had held that position, Frank Carver of Pittsburgh, moved to an at-large berth.

Ellickson, of the University of Oregon, is faculty representative and professor of physics. He is president of the Pacific-8 Conference. He has been at Oregon since 1948.

Reed is director of athletics at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo., and has been football coach there for 20 years. He is a member of the NCAA Track and Field Rules and Meet Committee, and a member of the College Committee.

Koenig is serving his 12th year as director of athletics at Valparaiso College, where he has been a staff member 25 years. He played basketball and football at Valparaiso. He was elected to the College Committee in January, with his term to begin Sept. 1.

Political Refugee Seeks U.S. Post In Sports Program

A man with a distinguished foreign background in the theory of sport and the organization of mass athletic programs is looking for a job in this country. Tomasz Lempart, longtime secretary of the Polish Olympic Committee, is now a political refugee in Vienna.

His wife and 16-year-old son are with him, and the Lemparts would like to come to the United States. The 53-year-old Lempart spent 23 years as a high level official in Polish sport and Olympic preparation programs.

He was instrumental in the construction of facilities at both the Higher School of Sports in Warsaw and at the Olympic Training Camp at Walcz, where the Poles trained for the 1964 Olympic Games.

Mr. Lempart may be contacted through the NCAA Office in Kansas City.

Assembly of the varsity basketball team on a single day for the purpose of taking squad photos is now permissible outside the playing and practice season as a result of an amendment to the NCAA Bylaws passed by the delegates to the 63rd Convention in Los Angeles.

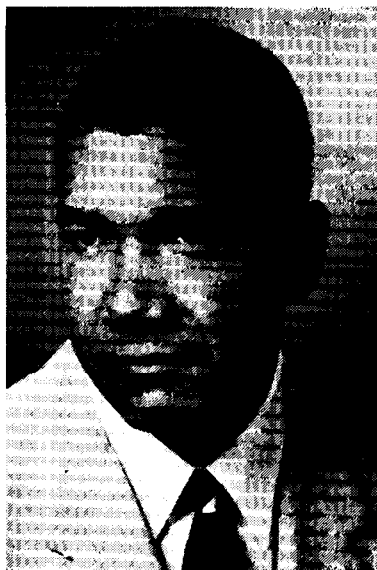

Previously, assembly of a uniformed team and its coaching staff would have been a violation.

Now, "It shall be permissible to assemble the basketball squad for one day for purposes of taking squad pictures," according to the amendment to Bylaws 8-2-(6).

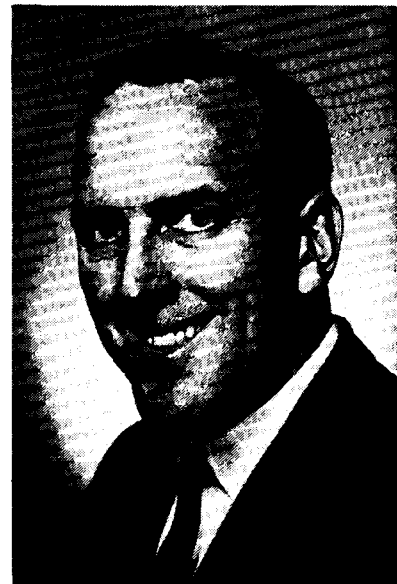

The legislation was proposed by the Conference Information Directors, NCAA Public Relations Committee and the NCAA Council.

NCAA REAFFIRMS SUPPORT OF WRESTLING FEDERATION

The NCAA has reaffirmed its support of the young, growing United States Wrestling Federation.

A resolution drawn up at the 63rd annual Convention of the NCAA states the Association would strive wherever possible to aid the Federation in its development in order to strengthen the amateur wrestling program in this country.

The resolution:

Whereas, the National Collegiate Athletic Association has supported the formation of the United States Wrestling Federation,

Whereas, the United States Wrestling Federation has been established as a democratic organization of athletic groups to provide opportunity for amateur athletes to compete with one another and to provide an opportunity for all groups interested in fostering progressive programs designed to promote amateur wrestling in the United States,

Whereas, the United States Wrestling Federation encompasses wrestling interests which hold the key to the United States' future in international competition, including the Olympics,

Whereas, the NCAA in previous Conventions has pledged its support to various other sports federations of which this Association is a member,

Therefore, be it resolved by the NCAA in Convention assembled that:

1. The members of the Association affirm their support of the United States Wrestling Federation.
2. The member institutions of this Association will contribute to and participate to the fullest extent possible in the programs of the United States Wrestling Federation, they will make every effort to provide competition, coaching personnel and facilities for Federation activities and they will assist in the Federation's development program in order to advance the sport of amateur wrestling in the United States.

NCAA Membership Now Is 711

The NCAA's membership stood at 711 as of Feb. 1, with 223 of those members in the University Division and 391 in the College Division.

The total of 614 active members is augmented by 39 allied members, 34 associated members and 24 affiliated members.

The table below shows the membership by divisions and by districts.

	University	College	District Total	Grand Total
District One	17	55	72
District Two	46	94	140
District Three	46	84	130
District Four	31	79	110
District Five	18	29	47
District Six	19	13	32
District Seven	19	7	26
District Eight	27	30	57
Total Actives	223	391		614
Allied				39
Associated				34
Affiliated				24
Grand Total				711

The 711 total was reached with the addition of Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va., as an active member.

A member of the Virginia Soccer Conference, Madison College fields teams in soccer, basketball, golf and tennis. It has a total enrollment of 3,700, with 500 male undergraduates.

Dr. G. Tyler Miller is president of Madison. John W. Rader is director of athletics.

A beautiful blonde football fan, Barbara Specht of Texas Technological College, is College Football's Centennial Queen. Already busy promoting the 100th Anniversary of college football, as these photos attest, she'll travel across the nation during 1969 on her mission. In (1), Queen Barbara, left, had breakfast with Princesses Kathy Lohry, Oregon State, center, and Brenda Shrum, Delaware, while a proud Executive Director Walter Byers looked on. Then, (2), at halftime of the Shrine East-West Game, Byers did what comes naturally when crowning a pretty girl. Following the ceremony, Princess Kathy Lohry, Byers, Queen Barbara, Carl O. Uren, Chevrolet Motor Division Advertising Manager, and Princess Brenda Shrum posed. At the Los Angeles Honors Luncheon, (4) the Queen found herself handcuffed to Lee Majors, who had hurried to the luncheon in costume from a "Big Valley" shooting session. Next, (5) she chatted with Alabama football coach Paul W. Bryant, Tide grid great Johnny Mack Brown and actor Dennis Weaver. Art Linkletter and Dennis Morgan were charmed by the lovely Texan (6).

Trainer-Magician Will "Perform" at Indoor Track Meet

BOB WHITE

Bob White could be classified as a magician of a trainer without stretching the truth any. The Wayne Stater will be serving as trainer for the National Collegiate Indoor Track Championships this year for the fifth straight time.

He also served as a trainer for the U.S. Olympic team in the recent games at Mexico City.

White's magical reputation comes both from his treatment of ailing athletes and his hobby. He is a sleight-of-hand-artist in his spare time.

He spices all road trips taken by Wayne State athletes with his tricks, and used some of them to relax track men at the Olympics.

Eastern Michigan Grad

White is a graduate of Eastern Michigan, where he lettered twice in football, and took up training as an undergraduate. He received an M.A. at Michigan in 1950, and then joined the Wayne State staff.

He teaches courses in athletic training, first aid and hygiene at Wayne State, and holds the rank of assistant professor.

He may not be seen by the fans at the NCAA Championships at Detroit's Cobo Hall, March 14-15, but the athletes will know he's there.

NOTES and QUOTES

Roland H. Dale has been appointed head football coach at the University of Southern Mississippi. Dale has been an assistant at the University of Mississippi. He succeeds Thad (Pie) Vann who has retired after 20 years at Southern. Vann's teams won 139 games, losing 55 and tying 2. Dale is a graduate of Old Miss, and captained its 1949 football team.

Mike Reid is a composer. He hopes someday to compose a classical piece about football. "Something combining different elements like Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony. I'd love to try. I think I have the ability, and the material is there." But before that, Mike was occupied preparing to play defensive tackle for unbeaten Penn State against Kansas in the Orange Bowl. Mike has already composed about 20 pieces. He plays the piano and organ.

FIGHTER SQUADRON REQUESTS FOOTBALL FILMS FOR VIETNAM

A request for football films from a fighter squadron in South Vietnam has been received by the NCAA, which hereby passes it along to its member institutions in hope they will provide films of recent games for these fighting fans.

The 416th Silver Knights Tactical Fighter Squadron is stationed at Phu Cat Air Base, South Vietnam. This is about 12 miles northwest of the city of Qui Nhon. It flies F-100 Super Sabres, and its mission is one of close air support.

Writes Lt. Dennis F. Hlad:

"There isn't a lot to do over here in your spare time. That's our reason for trying to get some football films. We've shown several, and everyone really enjoyed them. Anything you can do in helping us to obtain more would be greatly appreciated."

Hlad promised to return the film to any institution which can send one to the 416th.

His address is:

Lt. Dennis F. Hlad, USAF
Entertainment Officer

from homes in poverty areas.

It is planned for each institution's program to run six weeks (five is the minimum period allowed), four days per week, with two hours of activity per day.

Meals Included

In addition to the mass sports participation part of the Program, a brief academic educational component on a regular or periodic basis and one meal per day will be included.

Costs to the Government will include fees for coaches and supervisory personnel, transportation of enrollees where necessary, insurance and medical expenses, clean-up and repair of facilities where necessary and miscellaneous equipment purchased for the program.

In his announcement, Plant stated:

"We think this program will be constructive in many ways and will help solve some of the problems of the inner city.

"The NCAA's member institutions welcome the opportunity to participate more fully in community life and in the solutions of community problems.

"Our goal is to provide sports training and competition to the nation's youth on an unprecedented scale, making available expert instruction, competent supervision and superior facilities for many young people who are unable to secure this important experience through their own means.

"The combining of Federal funds with collegiate facilities and know-how provides an inspiring challenge for the educational and athletic leaders of the nation to perform a needed service they are uniquely qualified to provide."

As the initial steps were taken and the Program began to move, 1969 NCAA President Harry M. Cross added:

Administrator Added

"We are proceeding to add a full-time administrator to the NCAA staff, and we anticipate a highly successful inaugural effort this summer.

"We hope the Program will be so successful it will rapidly expand into all of the nation's larger cities."

Astrodome, LA, Cage Title Sites

The sites of two future National Collegiate Basketball Championship finals and starting times for games in the 1969 cage classic were determined by the University Basketball Tournament Committee at its recent Los Angeles meeting.

Also selected were 1969 first round sites and 1970 regional sites.

The Astrodome in Houston, Tex., will be the site of the 1971 NCAA finals, with the University of Houston serving as host.

In 1972, the finals return to the site of the 1968 tournament, the Los Angeles Sports Arena. The University of Southern California will be host.

Louisville For 1969 Finals

This year's finals are scheduled for March 20-22 in Louisville's Freedom Hall. In 1970, the tournament will be hosted by the University of Maryland.

The 1969 tournament's regionals and finals will be played under a new Thursday night-Saturday afternoon format. The Championship game is set to begin at 4:15 p.m. (EST) on Saturday, March 22.

Following are the future dates and sites, the times and the sites for this year's first round games and next year's regionals.

The 1969 regionals will be hosted by Maryland, Wisconsin, Kansas State and UCLA.

Mideast Regional: HOTEL ROOMS SCARCE

Media representatives planning to cover the Mideast Regionals of the University Basketball Championship are urged to make hotel reservations in the near future by Jim Mott, sports information director at the host University of Wisconsin.

The tournament dates overlap a bowling tournament in Madison, and Mott advises that a writer who waits until the last minute may experience difficulty getting a room at the hotel or motel of his choice.

Mott forwards the names and addresses of the following motels for writers to contact:

Ramada Inn, 3841 E. Washington (53704)
Holiday Inn No. 1, 4402 E. Washington (53704)
Holiday Inn No. 2, 6301 E. Broadway (63716)
National Motor Inn, 350 W. Washington (53703)
Park Motor Inn, 22 S. Carroll (53703)
Quality Courts Motel, 4916 E. Broadway (53716)
The Edgewater, 666 Wisconsin Ave. (53703)

Midwest Regional: TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets for the Midwest Regional of the University Basketball Championship to be played March 13-15 at Kansas State University are currently on sale at $4 per ticket per session, plus 50 cents handling charge on the entire order. Ticket requests should be addressed to "Athletic Ticket Office, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66502." Checks should be payable to "NCAA Regional Tournament."

NCAA PROFILE

MILTON F. HARTVIGSEN

Milton Hartvigsen, BYU Miracle Man, Serves on Council

They call the Brigham Young University athletic complex "Milt's Miracle Mile," for a good reason. Dr. Milton F. Hartvigsen, Dean of the College of Physical Education has been the person most responsible for the extensive modern facilities at BYU.

Dr. Hartvigsen is serving his fourth year as a member of the NCAA Council, and is the faculty representative to both the Western Athletic Conference and the NCAA.

A former teacher, coach, principal and superintendent of schools in Idaho, Dr. Hartvigsen moved to BYU in 1956, after obtaining his Ed.D. at UCLA. He was a 1930 graduate of Utah State University, and obtained his M.Ed. from that school.

Dr. Hartvigsen is a past president of the Utah Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and has held various offices in the Southwest District of AAHPER.

He also is active in civic affairs, as a member of the Chamber of Commerce and a past president of the Provo Kiwanis Club.

Dr. Hartvigsen also is president of the Utah Safety Council.

He was voted professor of the year at Brigham Young in 1963. Dr. Hartvigsen is married to the former Virgil Burrup, and the couple has four children.

New NCAA Officers

been a member of the Committee for the Advancement of Intercollegiate Football and the Extra Events Committee.

He is a former member of the ECAC Executive Committee.

In 1958, he was honored by Boston College as its outstanding alumnus. As an undergraduate at BC, he was captain of the football team, a three-year baseball letterman and rated among its outstanding hockey players.

The officers serve one-year terms of office. Their positions afford them membership on the NCAA Council, the Executive Committee and the Committee on Interim Interpretations.

Media Arrangements Are Completed For Louisville Basketball Tourney

Media representatives planning to cover the "new-look" National Collegiate Basketball Tournament at Freedom Hall, Louisville, Ky., are urged to forward requests for their credentials and housing in the near future to the NCAA.

Requests should go to Tom Hansen, NCAA Director of Public Relations, 1221 Baltimore, Kansas City, Mo. 64105.

The 1969 Championship initiates the new Thursday evening-Saturday afternoon format under which both regionals and finals will be played in the future.

The semifinals will be played at 7:40 and 9:40 (EST) on Thursday, March 20, and the third-place and championship games at 2:10 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. (EST) respectively on Saturday, March 22.

As in Los Angeles in 1968, the working press seats will be along one side of the floor and in two sections of the bleachers. Photographers will be restricted to the ends of the court.

However, due to bleacher configuration, there will be 20 fewer places than in L.A., and no auxiliary press boxes are available in Freedom Hall, so Hansen urges media representatives to make requests in the very near future.

A deadline of March 13 has been established for credentials requests. Any received after that time will not be granted the priority which they might have received prior to March 13. Also, it appears very doubtful in light of the volume of requests already received that space will be available after that time, Hansen said.

Press Headquarters

Press headquarters will be room 1207 of Stouffer's Louisville Inn, where media representatives will be housed. Credentials will be available there from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday, March 20. They cannot be mailed and will not be available prior to that time.

A working press room will be operated in the Sycamore Room, on the mezzanine level of Stouffer's.

Hotel requests should go to Hansen, not directly to Stouffer's.

No parking arrangements will be made for media due to the ample parking available at Freedom Hall for only 10 cents, and the arrangements which have been made for bus transportation from Stouffer's.

Press Busses

Press busses will leave the Jacobs Street entrance to Stouffer's at approximately 5:30 p.m. and 12:30 p.m. on Thursday and Saturday respectively. Exact times will be announced tournament week. Busses also will operate from Stouffer's to Freedom Hall for the Wednesday press conference.

On Wednesday, all four coaches will be interviewed around the practice of the finalists. On Friday, the coaches of the two finalists will be interviewed at the conclusion of the USBWA meeting at Stouffer's.

A press dinner will be served in the East Wing of Freedom Hall from 6 p.m. until 7:40 p.m. on Thursday. On Saturday, a snack will be available from 1 p.m. until the start of the Championship game.

The National Association of Basketball Coaches will hold its "Coach of the Year" Luncheon at the Kentuckian Thursday, March 20. A limited number of tickets have been reserved for media representatives and are available from Tom Hansen at $4.50 each.

The United States Basketball Writers Association will hold its annual meeting at 10 a.m., Friday, March 21, in Ballroom A at Stouffer's, according to President Bill Sims.

Working press credentials for the first-round and regional games must be obtained from the sports information director of the host institution for that particular game.

College Division Basketball Committee Set To Operate New Tourney Selection Format

Automatic qualifying is out, and the field for the NCAA College Division Basketball Tournament will be reduced to 32 teams in 1969. Tournaments will be held in eight areas, with the finalists meeting at Evansville, Ind., March 12-14 to battle for the title.

The College Division Basketball Tournament Committee met at the NCAA Convention, and reviewed plans for this year's tournament.

Chairman Walter Hass and his committee also reviewed procedures for choosing teams, and specified that swing teams, moving from one region to another, will be chosen only in unusual circumstances this year, and then only from adjacent areas.

Three Must Be Chosen

At least three teams from each area must be chosen for that area's playoff.

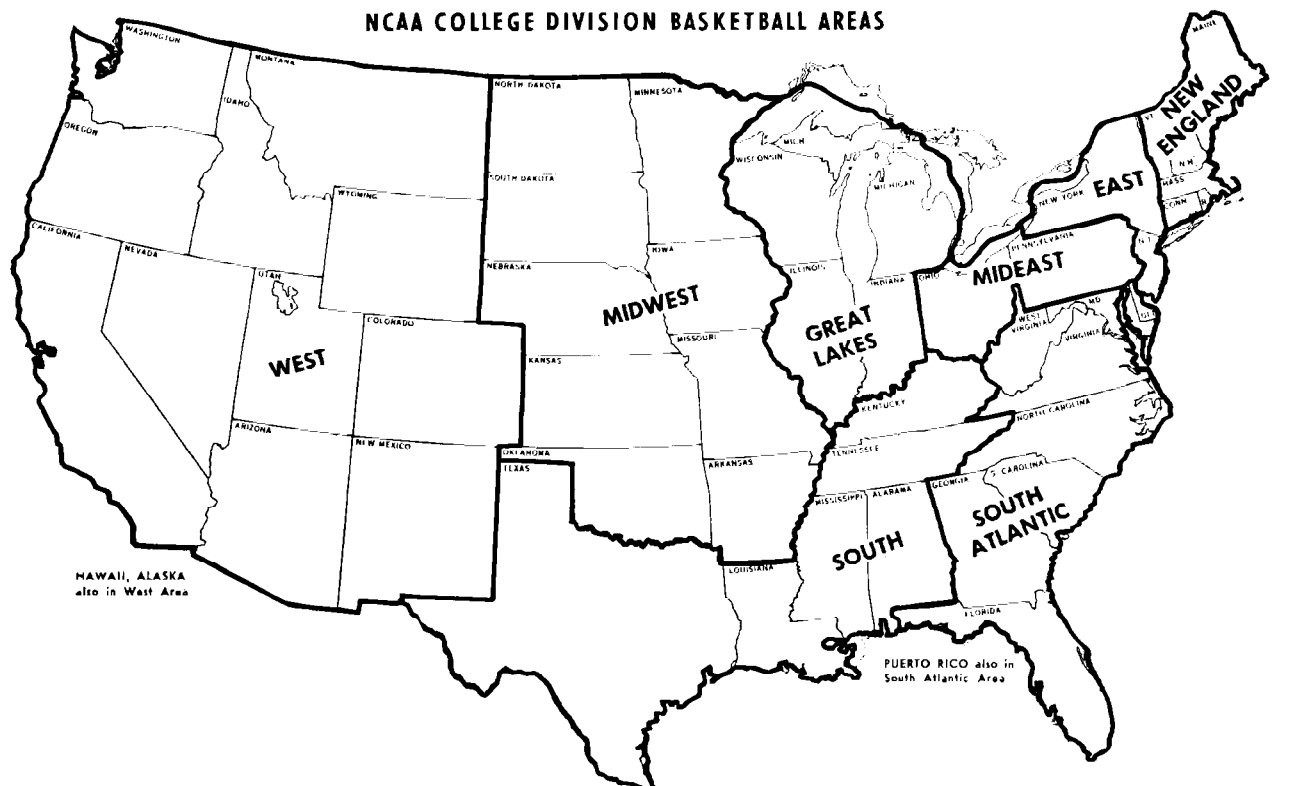

The committee also set a minimum ticket price of two dollars for all games in the tournament.

The country has been divided into eight areas—New England, East,

Midwest, South Atlantic, South, Great Lakes, Midwest and West.

Pairings also have been set, with a seven-year plan in effect, that would have each area playing each of the other areas in the opening round once, and being bracketed with each other area twice in the seven years.

This year's opening round at Evansville will have South Atlantic vs. South, West vs. New England, East vs. Midwest and Great Lakes vs. Midwest.

A GRID CENTENNIAL MESSAGE TO MEMBERSHIP

Chairman Bronzan Outlines Plans, Asks Help of Members

The purpose of this report is to further acquaint the membership with the College Football Centennial program and plans.

Before discussing specifics of the Centennial Program it may be informative to briefly explain the background leading up to the present.

In April, 1966, the NCAA Executive Committee recognized a need and so authorized a Special Committee for the Promotion of Intercollegiate Football; from this group came the recommendation for the establishment of a permanent committee.

Shortly thereafter, the Executive Committee approved a 13 man Committee for the Advancement of Intercollegiate Football. Broad representation was deemed advisable. The committee includes the NCAA Public Relations Committee Chairman, the CoSIDA president, the secretary of the Football Rules Committee, the executive director of the American Football Coaches Association, the NCAA TV Committee chairman, the president of the CCA, the NCAA Public Relations Director, two at-large seats presently occupied by the Commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, and myself as chairman; ex-officio members are the director of NCSS, the executive director of the NFSHSA, the president of the NJCAA and the president of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Space does not permit a complete review of the many ideas and projects which the committee has considered. However, you may be interested in an accounting of some of the gains which have been realized to date, as well as some of the immediate future plans.

During the past 18 months the following has been accomplished:

1. A pre-season national television show of one hour entitled "Of Touchdowns and Men—College Greats of '68" was carried by 159 ABC stations. A similar feature will be repeated in 1969.

ED CZEKAJ NAMED 1968's TOP ATHLETIC BUSINESS MANAGER

EDWARD M. CZEKAJ

Edward M. Czekaj of Penn State was awarded the 1968 Business Manager of the Year Award by CABMA at the annual convention in Los Angeles.

The two previous awards went to Ken Ferriss of Oklahoma and Herb Jones of Notre Dame.

Czekaj joined the Penn State staff in 1953 as assistant graduate manager of athletics and by 1957 was business manager. He served as president of CABMA in 1965. He also is associate director of athletics at Penn State.

2. A film-clip service was effected which provided materials to all three national networks for their electronic feed system. Some 320 television stations across the country—as well as 4 armed-services stations in Vietnam, Korea, Okinawa and the Philippines received an average of two segments each week. We expect to increase the exposure in 1969.

3. A College Football Handbook for Speakers will be mailed soon to each football coach, athletic director, sports information director and institution's president. This handbook contains a summary of pertinent facts and events related to college football—from the game's basic values to career achievements of former players.

4. A National Centennial Queen Contest was conducted. Most of the 432 football playing member colleges and universities elected campus queens. They, in turn, competed in conference and regional contests, most of which were shown at halftime of televised games.

Fourteen finalists were chosen and introduced at halftime of the Notre Dame-USC game. Next, the public cast more than 200,000 votes and elected the National Centennial Queen, Barbara Specht of Texas Tech, who will reign throughout 1969. She was crowned at halftime of the nationally televised East-West Shrine game.

During 1969, Queen Barbara will appear on nationally televised entertainment programs, at nationally televised games and at many national conventions of industry, business, and professions.

5. A 20-page removable insert was carried in the October issue of the Reader's Digest, and thereby reached some 50 million readers. This insert was highlighted by reproductions of the four original oil paintings depicting major eras of intercollegiate football by artist Arnold Friberg. Reproductions of the paintings have been made available to the public through the vast network of Chevrolet dealers, while the original paintings will be exhibited around the nation during the year.

6. A long-playing record featuring 19 favorite college marches and a specially conceived NCAA march was produced. Several thousand of this record have already been purchased.

These are but a few of the actual attainments to date. Many other plans are underway.

Recognizing the importance of the Centennial Year, the Executive Committee last November formed the NCAA College Football Centennial Coordinating Committee. This committee represents all areas of concern.

The Centennial Year gives us a special opportunity to energize and focus public and campus attention to intercollegiate football.

Accordingly, the Centennial Committee offers the following plans, and at the same time strongly urges each head football coach, director of athletics, and sports information director to become engaged in most, if not all, of the program.

Details of each plan will reach your desk throughout the coming months. For purposes of stimulating your interest and support, some are now called to your attention.

1. The NCAA will provide free-of-charge 150 decals for application to the football helmets. These should be applied in time for the promotion photographs taken this spring and early fall.

2. A shoulder patch for game jerseys is available at the institution's option.

ROBERT T. BRONZAN

Game officials will wear a special patch.

3. The NCAA will provide free-of-charge 44 certificate-medallions for the players of each institution; additional medallions may be purchased at a nominal sum. It is strongly urged that head football coaches and directors of athletics capitalize upon the opportunity afforded by this phase of the celebration. A symbolic presentation of the certificate-medallions should be made during any single game in October. The president of the institution, or another influential individual, should be personally involved in the presentation. The presentation of a certificate-medallion to game captains would be symbolic for all members of each team. The public address system should carry a brief explanation of the ceremony and its meaning.

While the presentation ceremony should be the focal point, there is much that can be suggested to augment it. Specially designed game program covers and program content will be available. Centennial stadium flags are available for purchase. Marching bands should be alerted in time to incorporate appropriate music and marching maneuvers. Rooting sections and card stunts should be encouraged to carry out the theme. Specially prepared script for radio and television broadcasters will be available. All in all, there should be full attention focused upon the Centennial Year of Intercollegiate Football.

4. Football coaches and athletic directors will be urged to utilize the Centennial Symbol which has already reached their offices. This symbol should appear on most printed materials which emanate from your department, such as game programs, brochures, press releases, envelopes, tickets, schedule cards, posters, and alumni magazines. Your commercial friends and advertisers should be encouraged to incorporate the symbol in their packaging and advertising.

5. Through the efforts of Rutgers University, the Post Office Department has approved a commemorative postage stamp. This stamp will appear for public use within the immediate future.

6. The Lion's International through its hundreds of chapters will salute College Football Centennial Week during the week of September 21-27.

7. A specially prepared letter has been mailed to the 1,000 business leaders and 500 major business firms throughout the nation, soliciting tie-ins in their advertising and publications.

8. A college sports-writing contest is underway with desirable prizes.

9. A contest among the nation's sports-writers will be conducted; the best stories will appear in a paper-back book to be sold at newsstands.

10. A variety of specialty items will be available for purchase through campus shops, such as souvenir glasses, cuff links, tie clasps, etc.

11. You are urged to consider a faculty luncheon or dinner which will provide your team members and faculty an opportunity to become better acquainted. It is suggested that this event feature a talk by one of your former football players who has attained prominence and who believes that his playing participation was significant to him.

These are a few of the highlights planned for the Centennial Year. Their success, and ultimately the continued success of intercollegiate football, depends upon each athletic director, head football coach, and sports information director. The Committee is confident that you will share its enthusiasm in the program, and that the real beneficiary will be intercollegiate football now and in the years ahead.

ROBERT BRONZAN, Chairman, College Football Centennial Coordinating Committee; Chairman, Committee for the Advancement of Intercollegiate Football.

BIG TEN FROSH VOTE SCHEDULED MARCH 6-8

A final decision on whether freshmen will be eligible to play on its varsity teams has been postponed by the Big Ten Conference until its March 6-8 meetings.

The decision affects sports other than football and basketball. Tentative approval was recorded at a special meeting Feb. 2, but the vote was divided and final action thus postponed until the March meetings.

A favorable vote would grant freshmen immediate eligibility in the Big Ten.

Evashevski New Chairman of NCAA TV Committee

Forest Evashevski, director of athletics at the University of Iowa, has been named chairman of the NCAA Television Committee.

He replaces as chairman William J. Flynn of Boston College, newly elected NCAA secretary-treasurer. Flynn remains as a member of the TV Committee.

With his election, Evashevski also becomes a member of the Committee for the Advancement of Intercollegiate Football.

NOTES and QUOTES

Paul Fernandes has been appointed head baseball coach at C.W. Post, replacing Don Anile, who has stepped out in order to devote more time to his football coaching duties. Anile had been baseball coach since 1961, and took over the head football job last September. Fernandes is a graduate of Cortland State, and had been a graduate assistant at C.W. Post.

William Mallory, assistant coach at Ohio State, has been named head football coach at Miami of Ohio. Mallory played under Ara Parseghian and John Pont while a star end at Miami. He has been an assistant at Bowling Green and Yale, and served three years at Ohio State.

Indoor Track Meet Standards Set

Qualifying performance standards for the National Collegiate Indoor Track Championships, to be contested March 14-15 at Cobo Arena, Detroit, Mich., have been released by Meet Director Donald Canham of the University of Michigan.

Times made on tracks larger than 220 yards, or on 220-yard banked board tracks may not be counted for standards.

No more than two athletes from one school may enter the same event.

Travel expenses will be paid for champions from many conferences. Others may, by placing in the final events, share in the pro-rated expenses from the meet income and reserve fund if necessary.

Qualifying Standards for Indoor Track Championships

60 yards	:06.2
440-600 yards	:49.2 or 1:11.5
880-1000 yards	1:53 or 2:11.5
Mile run	4:10.0
Two-mile run	fastest 12 (about 9:00 or better)

Baseball in News, Two Rules Changed

Strike Zone Is Defined, Trips by Coaches Limited

The NCAA Baseball Rules Committee, at its meeting in January, voted to change the strike zone definition and limit the number of trips a coach may make to the mound.

The strike zone is now "... the area over home base between the player's armpits and the top of his knees when he assumes his natural stance."

On trips to the mound, the wording of the new change is:

"If a coach or his non-playing representative goes to the mound a second time in the inning or three times during the game to talk to a pitcher (the same pitcher) the pitcher must be removed permanently from his position except in case of obvious injury. A coach is allowed a total of three free trips to the mound in any one game. (A free trip is one in which you do not remove that pitcher.) One extra free trip to the mound will be permitted in the event of an extra inning game.

"The coach cannot circumvent this rule by asking one of his players to act for him, and neither can the coach or his representative leave the bench or dugout and approach the sidelines to confer with his pitcher for the purpose of evading this rule. When a pitcher is intentionally removed from his position, but remains in the game, he may return only once. In the event a coach gives instruction to his substitute pitcher, he should do so without delay."

The Committee had made a number of minor changes during an earlier meeting. These can be found on pages 59 and 61 of the Official Collegiate Baseball Guide.

Federation President Praises U.S. Team In Diamond Tourney

William "Dutch" Fehring, president of the U.S. Baseball Federation praised the play and deportment of the amateur baseball team which represented America at the Mexican Invitational tournament in November, while speaking at a press conference at the NCAA Convention.

"They acted like gentlemen at all times, and didn't get involved with the riot during the final game, when the Cuban players went into the stands to fight with the Mexican fans.

"Their play was exceptional despite attacks of the flu, which managed to disable just about everyone on the squad, including the coaches, at one time or another."

U.S. Team Champion

The United States team won the tournament with a 5-1 record, the only loss a 1-0, 10-inning defeat by Mexico. The Americans beat Cuba 2-1 and 5-1, Mexico 9-4, and Puerto Rico 10-9 and 9-2.

Squad members from NCAA schools were Vic Ambrose of Albuquerque, John Bell of Jacksonville, Jim Cardasis of NYU, Larry Gura of Arizona State, Rich Hinton of Arizona, Bob Jones of Amherst, Harry Kendrick and Marv Knight of Michigan State, Mark Marquess of Stanford, Dana Miller of Navy, Larry Pyle of Miami (Fla.), Glenn Redmon of Michigan, Mike Rogodinski of Southern Illinois, Gary San-serino of UCLA, Steve Steitz of Springfield and Brent Strom of USC.

The team was coached by Dan Litwhiler of Michigan State, assisted by Frank Sancet of Arizona, Virgil Yelkin of Nebraska at Omaha, and Elmer Kosub of St. Mary's, Texas.

Championship Corner . . .

UD Track, Cross Country: CORRECTION IN NCAA GUIDE

There will not be competition in the decathlon in the 1969 National Collegiate Track and Field Championships. The Official Track and Field Guide erroneously lists the decathlon as an event. It has not been approved and will not be contested this year.

In cross country, only the top 15 runners from the College Division Championship will be eligible to compete in the National Collegiate Championships. Contrary to the Guide, there will be no team qualifications from the College Division.

CD Baseball: THREE OF FOUR SITES NOW SET

The College Division Baseball Committee has selected sites for three of the four regional playoffs. The Atlantic Coast Regional again will be held at Fort Eustis, Va., May 29-30-31; the Midwest at Mankato State College, Mankato, Minn., May 23-24; and the Pacific Coast Regional at Sacramento State College in California, May 22-23-24. The Mideast site has not been chosen.

The championship round will again be played at Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, Mo., June 4-7.

The pairings also have been set, with the Atlantic Coast and Midwest to meet in one semi-final, and the Pacific Coast and Mideast in the other. Atlantic Coast and Mideast will be the home teams.

CD Cross Country: WHEATON TO HOST HARRIERS AGAIN

Wheaton College again will be the home of the College Division cross country championships, November 15. The race will be run over a five-mile distance. The top 15 runners will be allowed to participate in the National Collegiate Championships. The Executive Committee of the NCAA has rejected a proposal that the top three teams be invited to the University Championships.

CD Football: SITES, THIRD DIVISION, BOUNDARIES ON AGENDA

The College Division football playoff committee will meet in New Orleans March 30, and April 1-2. A review of the current boundaries will be on the agenda, along with the proposal for a third division. If approved, the third division plan will then go before the Executive Committee at its April meeting.

A review of the sites of the 1969 regional championships will also be made by the CD Committee.

Television: THREE CHAMPIONSHIPS ON ABC

ABC-TV will televise the National Collegiate wrestling, swimming and outdoor track events this spring.

The network also will present two other championship events in the calendar year 1969.

The wrestling Championships will be held at Brigham Young University March 27-29. Swimming will be hosted by Indiana University, on the same weekend.

The spring track Championships will be held at the University of Tennessee, June 19-21.

Soccer: STEPS TAKEN TO AVOID TIES

The NCAA Soccer Rules and Tournament Committee has developed a method it hopes will prevent the declaration of co-champions in the National Collegiate Tournament. The past two years have seen co-champions when the title games ended in ties.

In the future, if the championship game is tied, the teams will play five-minute sudden death overtime periods until one team scores a goal.

In the unlikely event that no goal is scored and weather conditions or darkness prevent continued play, the Rules Committee in consultation with the game officials and the two teams can declare co-champions.

In tournament games up to the championship contest, the rule will remain basically the same, with the exception that corner kicks will not be counted until the first overtime period. Thus teams that tie after four regulation periods will play sudden death overtime.

If at the end of the fourth overtime period one team has more corner kicks than the other in the overtime periods only, it shall be declared the winner. If the corner kicks are tied, two more sudden death overtime periods will be played, and corner kicks shall be counted to determine the winner.

Corner kicks will be counted at the end of each even-numbered overtime period until a winner is declared. A goal at any time, of course, will end the game.
