15 STAR CAGERS RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIPS

Fifteen top senior basketball players with significant academic and athletic achievements have been awarded $1,000 Postgraduate Scholarships by the National Collegiate Athletic Association,

Five awards were given in each of three groups—University Division member institutions, College Division members and At-Large. A Scholarship may be used for postgraduate study at the institution of a recipient's choice.

Each winner has earned better than a 3.0 or "B" accumulative grade point average for three years of college work, and has performed with distinction on the basketball floor. In addition, each must have signified his intention of beginning graduate studies as soon as possible and must have been judged capable of doing postgraduate work by his major professor.

Outstanding Players Included

The group includes such outstanding cagers as Notre Dame's two-time captain, Bob Arnzen; Davidson's Wayne Huckel; UCLA's Kenny Heitz, a member of three National Championship teams; and Princeton's Chris Thomforde, two-time All-Ivy League center.

The average grade for all the college work done by these exceptional athletes is an impressive 3.38. The majors of the 15 cover most of a university curricula—including psychology, economics, pre-medicine, pre-law, chemistry, biology, mechanical/aerospace engineering.

The selections were made by the NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship Committee. Members of the Committee, of which Kansas' Larry Woodruff is chairman, include A. D. Kirwan, Kentucky; Sherman Stanford, Penn State; Samuel E. Barnes, Howard; Maj. Peter M. Dawkins, U.S. Military Academy; Max Schultze, Minnesota; J. Nells Thompson, Texas; and W. H. H. Dye, Northwestern.

This is the fifth year of the program. It has grown from 32 initial awards to a new high this year of 80. Besides the 15 basketball scholarships, 33 were awarded earlier this year in football and 32 will be awarded later in the year to participants in all other NCAA sports.

Following is a list of the winners.

Council, Executive Committee Plan Spring Meetings

The NCAA's two top administrative bodies—its Council and Executive Committee—head south in mid-April for annual spring meetings in Florida.

The Executive Committee meets April 18-19 and the Council April 20-22 at the Galt Ocean Mile Hotel, Fort Lauderdale.

Committees to Report

The Executive Committee will hear reports from rules committees, will receive administrative and financial reports on the Association's 24 championship events, will review financial matters and will begin planning for the NCAA's annual Convention, which will be held in Washington, D. C. in January, 1970.

The policy-making Council, an 18-man body, will receive reports from a number of committees, including such groups as Extra Events, Insurance, Public Relations, Professional Relations and Television. It will review a report from the Executive Committee.

The Council will appoint the Committee on Committees and the Nominating Committee for the 1970 Convention.

The Extra Events Committee, of which Stan Bates, Washington State University director of athletics, is chairman, will meet on April 20 in Fort Lauderdale prior to reporting to the Council.

Decal Orders Hit 239

As the NCAA NEWS went to press, orders for Football Centennial helmet decals had been received from 239 institutions.

They were continuing to come in at a steady rate.

Thus over half of the 433 football - playing member institutions will be wearing the decals during the Centennial season. Several others have ordered cloth jersey patches rather than decals.

Members of all of the major conferences, many major independents, teams from Hawaii to Maine, will be wearing decals.

If you have lost your order blank, just write "Centennial Decals, NCAA, 1221 Baltimore Ave., Kansas City, Mo. 64105" to order the number you will need for your team.

DECAL USES VARY

Numerous requests have been received for College Football Centennial decals for uses other than on the helmets of players at NCAA member institutions.

Consequently, the NCAA has made arrangements for the decals to be sold to interested parties.

Listed in this story are a price schedule for decals similar to those for use on the helmets (adhesive on back) and a price schedule for decals for inside window application (adhesive on front).

They may be ordered from:

Football Decals
Lowell Press
113 E. 31st St.
Kapeas City Mo. 64108

Kansas City, Mo. 64108

These decals will be in the standard red, white and blue color combination.

In addition, any institution which wishes to order Centennial decals in its own colors may do so. Cost per decal for a small quantity is 35 cents. To obtain the prices of larger quantities, an institution should contact Lowell Press.

Institutions which have not ordered helmet decals—available free from the NCAA for that specific use only—may still do so by contacting the NCAA Executive Office in Kansas City, Mo.

NABC Recognizes Iba, Byers, 500-Game Winners

Olympic basketball coach Henry P. Iba and NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers were honored with the top awards presented by the National Association of Basketball Coaches at its annual meetings at the NCAA tournament in Louisville.

International Contributions

Iba was recognized for "outstanding contributions to the international aspects of the game."

Byers was presented with the NABC award given annually to an "individual who has made an outstanding contribution to the game of basketball." He is the first noncoach ever to be so honored.

Honors awards for service went to head coaches Madison Brooks, East Tennessee State; LeRoy Morley, Western Illinois; Hal Bradley, Texas; and John B. McClendon, Jr., Cleveland. Each man has been a head coach for 25 years, a college coach at least 15 years and a member of NABC for 20 years. These four, plus eight others, won merit awards for over 500 lifetime coaching victories, plus 20 years in NABC.

Joining the coaches named above were Boyd King, Northeast Missouri; Dan Lynch, St. Francis College; Jim McDermott, Iona; Charles Law, Suffolk (Mass.); Lon Varnell, University of the South; Arad McCutchan, Evansville; Dom Rosselli, Youngstown State; and George Ziegenfuss, San Diego State.

A personal viewpoint . . . ASSAULT ON AMATEURISM

Amateurism serves as a ready scapegoat. Losers blame their defeats on its supposed archaic provisions while accusing winners of violating them. Amateur stars condemn the code's "unrealistic" terms as they sign lush professional contracts. Jaded sports columnists like to jab at its alleged hypocrisy when they are short of material and, of course, it forms the perfect international bridge on which virtually all Olympic-minded nations can find common footing to criticize Avery Brundage.

Indeed, amateurism is a symbolic target for the slings and arrows of a contradictory mixture of sports lovers and sports haters, conservatives and liberals, idealists and cynics. Yet, it remains today a challenging, inspirational concept, as old as sport itself.

There is much more to the amateur principle than the critic's flippant dismissal of it as an outdated carry-over of Ye Olde English concept that only gentlemen should play sports. An English inheritance does not help these days anyway because . . . well, let's face it, heredity is not selling well in the current social climate of America.

If there is not solid ground for defending amateurism, then perhaps it should be sacrificed to the pragmatists so they can write a new code which supposedly would tell it the way it is.

Historic Support of Educational Community

Today's amateurism embodies the policies and rules which define an amateur and an amateur, according to the dictionary, is "one who engages in a sport as a pastime rather than a profession." An amateur in other activities sometimes is described as a dilettante, but the dictionary (Webster's Seventh Collegiate) carefully points out that in sports the word "amateur" does not apply so clearly to lack of skill but avoidance of direct remuneration.

That puts it neatly—why avoid remuneration considering the country's current attitudes? Or, to turn it around, why has the educational community historically supported amateurism?

Conceding that yesterday's reasons may not satisfy today's skeptics, it is worth remembering that the campus games started as a volunteer, emotional movement by students who wanted to test their counterparts down the road. Hiring gladiators to carry the school's colors to victory wasn't part of the action. (After all, the Revolutionary War presumably proved that patriots could beat mercenaries when the cause is really dear.)

It did not take long for the overzealous to seek out transients, however, to help the college's cause, and so the rule book was born. The evolution of the educator's concept of amateurism (which now consumes several pages with numerous cross references) has been directed more toward keeping the athletically-inclined student a part of the student body (and intercollegiate athletics a part of the educational process) than furthering any inherited or imported amateur philosophies.

Through this process, the educational community logically has evolved a hybrid definition which brings together Webster's traditionalism and the colleges' continued insistence on education first, athletics second. In many instances, they are mutually inclusive.

Educational Interpretation of Amateurism

The 1.600 legislation, still in the process of being perfected and

Columnary Craft

Reprinted below is an excerpt from the writing of a news columnist commenting pertinently about college or amateur athletics. It is selected because the NCAA NEWS feels it makes a point or discusses a topic which will interest NEWS readers.

John Mooney, Salt Lake City Tribune

(Commenting upon wearing of beards and mustaches by student-athletes.)

At first glance, the edict against the growing of facial foliage may seem to be nit-picking, and there may be level-headed people who agree such demands infringe on human rights.

But, believe me, the beards and mustaches are not the issue at all.

Let every athlete who chooses resemble the Wild Man of Borneo and the militants will find another cause for protest.

Concede to the demands for the beards and you'll be faced with another, and still another demand, ad infinitum, ad nauseam.

One Vital Point

That an athlete may be forced to live under a conduct code which does not apply to the other males in the student body may be interpreted as discriminatory, if you are seeking a point to argue.

Yet for most of the 100 years of college football, the athlete has been forced to live a more Spartan life than his fellow students.

He is not allowed, under the training rules, to smoke, drink or keep late hours; rules which do not apply to the non-athletes.

strengthened to realize its ultimate objectives, represents a magnificent forward step in furthering the latter principle. If a similar alliance of NCAA members could be forged to eliminate encroaching professional attitudes and practices, college athletics would take an equally important forward step. Examples? How about athletic dormitories (which fly in the face of both principles of college athletic amateurism); football coaches who want contracts to provide a percentage of bowl game receipts; efforts to manipulate the awarding and withdrawal of financial aid; attempts to beat the out-of-season practice limitations through weight classes.

A QUESTION: Is the ceiling on grants-in-aid and scholarships based upon an educational interpretation of what the amateur rule should be or a convenient pay ceiling for holding down costs? If the latter is the case, then (for example) athletes should have bonus agreements comparable to those of the head coach.

In the minds of many of us rests a deeply felt longing that the amateur spirit should be emphasized and reemphasized—that it is not correct to presume that amateurism exists only for eager, unsophisticated youth or nostalgically-inclined former All-Americans. It is important, in the long-range scheme of man's life, that he be willing to discipline himself to achieve a worthy goal. Amateur sports serves as a show case for that ideal.

Conceding that mayors and councilmen are preoccupied with securing a pro team for every season and dollar-conscious merchants think in "big league" terms, let's consider what a dreary day it would be if all we had to applaud was a professional athlete who had just come off of the picket line in an 11th hour settlement of a contract dispute . . . or, if fans selected as sportsman-of-the-year the mediation lawyer who settled the Amalgamated Players Union's beef with the Consolidated Corporation of Privately and Publicly Owned Ball Parks.

The annals recording the more than 60 years of NCAA history are replete with eloquent speeches of intercollegiate leaders urging support and perfection of the educators' concept of amateurism. It would be tragic to yield now to the constant urgings of expedient zealots, some harried administrators, a few win-conscious coaches and the professionals themselves who have no regard or respect for amateur principles.

The ideal is far too important for the colleges, the competitors and the nation, itself, to permit a piecemeal surrender. Our educational institutions have built with some pain and considerable effort a sound administrative structure for intercollegiate athletics and it should be used to eradicate professional concepts and attitudes just as it has been used to better so many other aspects of this most vital of all sports activities—intercollegiate athletics.

natur Byers

P.S. To my newly-discovered pen pals in the football coaching fraternity—please keep those mash notes coming. It would be more constructive, however, if ideas were advanced on reducing football costs instead of repeated oaths of allegiance to two-platoon football and vows to do in anyone who thinks to the contrary.

He even must keep his academic marks above a certain level to be eligible to compete. The student who does not participate in extra-curricular activities is not under this pressure.

But there is one vital point which the bleeding hearts overlook in their desire to protest the alleged "mistreatment" of the athletes.

A Fair Exchange

An athlete may be offered room, board, tuition, books and a modest sum for spending money IN EXCHANGE for his athletic skills and endeavors.

It is not a one-way transaction; both must contribute to make a fair deal. In accepting financial remuneration which is not offered to the non-

In accepting financial remuneration which is not offered to the non-athlete, the football or basketball player must accept as his end of the bargain certain rules or stipulations which do not apply to the non-athletes.

You see, the school which has a reputation to uphold, and a coach who has a job to maintain, have certain "rights," too.

Like all Americans, the protestors and the malcontents have an inalienable right—they may leave.

And let the boys who are willing to pay the full price for their athletic competition enjoy the education and benefits they have received willingly IN EXCHANGE for their skills, sacrifice, loyalty, obedience and efforts.

Track and Field Crown to Kansas

The University of Kansas, thanks to a gutty mile victory by Jim Ryun, took the team title at the 1969 National Collegiate Indoor Track Championships at Detroit's Cobo Hall. The meet was hosted by the University of Michigan, and sponsored by the Detroit News.

Ryun, feet bleeding from a bad case of blisters, outlasted Marty Liquori of Villanova in the mile run, in the time of 4:02.6. The victory clinched the meet for Kansas, which scored 411/2 points. Villanova finished second, with 33 points.

It was the third consecutive title for Ryun in the Indoor Champion-ships, a feat that was matched by Ray Arrington of Wisconsin in the 1,000-yard run.

Other Kansas winners were Karl Salb in the shot put and Ron Jessie in the long jump. Villanova came up with four titles—Erv Hall in the high hurdles, Larry James in the 440, Frank Murphy in the 880, and its distance medley relay team.

Ron Jourdan of Florida was the only record breaker, soaring 7" 34' in the high jump to break the 7' mark set in 1966 by Otis Burrell of John Carlos in the 60-yard dash, and Hall in the high hurdles, both equaled existing marks.

The summaries:

INTERPRETATIONS

Under date of May 24, 1968, the NCAA Officers reminded the Association's membership of existing interpretations concerning summer camps. Inasmuch as numerous inquiries are being received regarding 1969 summer camp operations, the rulings are herein repeated and affirmed for 1969.

SUMMER CAMPS

In applying NCAA legislation and interpretations which are applicable in this area, a distinction is made in some instances between two types of summer sports camps, as follows:

Specialized Sports Camp-is defined as one which places special emphasis on a particular sport or sports and which provides specialized instruction, practice and usually competition.

Diversified Sports Camp-is defined as one which offers a balanced camping experience, including participation in seasonal summer sports and recreational activities, without emphasis on instruction, practice or competition in any particular sport.

The Association's recruiting legislation applies to these camps only when a member institution's facilities or athletic staff personnel are involved.

The rules of the various high school athletic and activities associations should be respected in each instance. Frequently, their legislation will differentiate between the specialized and diversified camps.

The following rulings of the NCAA apply to all member institutions and apply equally to both types of camps unless otherwise indicated:

- (1) No prospective student-athlete may participate in the camp. For purposes of this rule, a prospective student-athlete is one who is eligible for admission to college or who has enrolled for any academic study following completion of his junior year in high school.
- (2) No prospective student-athlete [as defined in (1) above] may be employed at the camp.
- (3) No enrollee may receive benefit of reduced or free tuition, room and board, transportation or any other camp cost unless there is a published and announced policy in this regard and it is applied uniformly to all qualified camp candidates without reference to their athletic ability or reputation.
- (4) Enrolled student-athletes of the NCAA member institution may be employed as counsellors in diversified sports camps except that not more than one member (with eligibility remaining) of the previous year's freshman or varsity football squads and not more than one member (with eligibility remaining) of the previous year's freshman or varsity basketball squads may be so employed.

The above ruling also applies to specialized sports camps except that: (a) in those instances of specialized camps emphasizing football, no member (with eligibility remaining) of the previous year's freshman or varsity football squads of the NCAA member institution may be employed or otherwise participate in the camp proceedings, and (b) if the sports camp specializes in basketball, the same prohibition applies to members (with eligibility remaining) of the previous year's freshman and varsity basketball squads.

If an enrolled student-athlete is employed as a counsellor in a specialized sports camp, it is essential that his duties are of a general supervisory character and any coaching or officiating assignments represent not more than half of his work time.

(5) An enrolled student-athlete of the NCAA member institution may be listed as a staff member of the camp (subject to the above restrictions) but his name or picture may not be used to advertise or promote the camp.

880-Yard Run-1. Frank Murphy, Villanovn, 1:51.1: 2. Ron Kutschinski, Michigan, 1:52.5: 3. Phil Tobin, St. John's, 1:52.8; 4. Carl Trentadue, Southern Calif., 1:53.8; 5. Larry Kelly, Tennessee, 1:53.8.

World Games Site Is Moved to Italy

Sports Federation has announced that the World University Games have been rescheduled for the summer of 1970, and will be held in Turin, Italy.

The Games were originally scheduled for this summer in Portugal, but the event was cancelled by the Portuguese government.

Nick Rodis, president of the United States Collegiate Sports Council, affiliated with the FISU, has requested that all American Games Committees stay together, and continue planning for the Games.

Rodis has also announced the USCSC's men's basketball team will go on tour this summer. The Department of State has agreed to fund the project. Rodis is also hoping to have teams in other sports travel abroad this summer.

UCLA, John Wooden and Lew Alcindor broke nearly every barrier except sound in winning the 1969 National Collegiate Basketball Championship.

For UCLA and Wooden, it marked the third straight title, the fifth championship in six years and the 20th consecutive win in NCAA tournament play, all of which are the best marks ever in the tournament's 31-year history.

Alcindor was voted the Most Outstanding Player for the third straight year, an unprecedented feat made even more unusual by the fact that in none of the years was he the leading scorer in the tournament.

Longevity did pay off for the 7-1 senior, however, as his 37-point performance in the championship game moved him into third place among the all-time scoring leaders. In 12 tournament games, Luscious Lewis scored 304 points, a total exceeded only by Oscar Robertson (324) and Elvin Hayes (358).

The Bruins now own a 23-9 record in 10 tourney appearances, a winning percentage of .719. Only Kentucky has more wins (28); and just Indiana (.769), Cincinnati (.750) and Ohio State (.724) sport better percentages among the 16 teams which have won 10 or more tournament games.

With one exception, the Uclans had things pretty much their own way throughout, as they defeated New Mexico State, 53-38, and Santa Clara, 90-52, in the West Regional.

No Major Changes In Basketball Rules

rule changes for next season. The Basketball Rules Committee contented itself with making a few seemingly minor changes, and simplifying some of the language. The principal change will affect the pivot man, who, like all others on the floor, will now have only five seconds to pass off or shoot.

The committee did add some technical fouls. An addition to the squad list, or a change in the starting lineup after the expiration of time for the submission of either list is a technical foul.

New Technical Fouls

Penalty for substitutes not reporting between halves prior to the signal which ends intermission is a technical foul. Failure to occupy or provide players benches placed in accordance with the rules is also a technical.

The committee also emphasized some rules, including the illegal use of hands on both offense and defense. "Some players have been permitted to illegally use arms or hands to contact or apply pressure to an opponent in an effort to hinder, drive around, control or anticipate his next maneuver. Such contact shall not be considered incidental and is a foul."

The committee also stressed that "backing-in" should often be called a charging foul on the offensive player trying to move his man out from under the basket in an attempt to gain better position.

Drake fell in the semifinals, 85-82, by far the slimmest winning margin in Alcindor's three tournament years. The Bulldogs' 82 point total was exceeded by only four Bruin opponents in UCLA's last 99 games.

UCLA seemed to have an easy victory in its grasp when Lynn Shackelford's layup made it 83-74 with 1:30 left in the game. But Willie Wise hit from the side, Willie McCarter sank two free throws, then added a 17-footer and Dolph Pulliam put in a rebound to make it 83-82 with nine seconds left.

Shackelford converted two free throws after time had expired to account for the final margin.

John Vallely hit 29 points (9 of 11 from the field), and Alcindor scored 25 and pulled 21 rebounds to lead UCLA, while McCarter scored 24 for the losers.

Rick Mount, the tournament's leading scorer, fired 36 points over the North Carolina defense in the other semifinal contest to help Purdue to a 92-65 win.

Strangely enough, the Boilermakers expanded their lead from nine to 22 points midway in the second half without a single point from the Blond Bomber for seven minutes. Mount scored 10 points in the last nine minutes to wrap up the vic-

1970 Cage Tickets

Ticket requests for the finals of the 1970 National Collegiate Basketball Championship will be accepted by the University of Maryland beginning April 21.

The tickets, which must be purchased for both the Thursday night and Saturday afternoon sessions are eight dollars per session, or $16 total per seat. A 50 cent postage and handling fee should be added to each order. There is a limit of four tickets per order.

Ticket requests should be sent to "NCAA Ticket Office, Box 295, College Park, Maryland 20740." A self-addressed envelope should be included in each order.

The tickets will be mailed to the lucky buyers shortly before the Tournament at Maryland March 19-21, 1970. championship game and the crowd was humming with the prospect of an upset.

But the sounds turned to moans as the 6'4" junior from Lebanon, Ind., missed his next 14 attempts while the redoubtable Alcindor was collecting 13 points to put the Bruins up by 16, 26-10, midway through the first half.

Mount Is 3 for 18

At the end of the period, Mount was 3 for 18 from the floor with 8 points, while Alcindor had scored 24 giving the Bruins a 42-31 lead. Alcindor finished with 37 and 20 rcbounds. Mount warmed up to 9 of 18 from the field in the second half to total 28 counters for the night. UCLA hit 55.2 per cent from the floor to 29.3 for the Boilers.

Two statistics belie the Bruins' domination of the game. Heitz, who held Mount to 12 of 36 from the field, failed to score, missing three shots and a free throw. His allies more than took up the slack, however.

Second. Purdue committed only four errors during the game to 19 for UCLA. The difference in shooting percentages more than offset these factors, however.

Watts Replaces Gardiner as Head Of Cage Coaches

Stan Watts, head basketball coach at Brigham Young University, was elected president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches at that group's annual meetings in Louisville at the time of the National Collegiate Basketball Championship.

He succeeded Bill Gardiner of Catholic University, who now will serve as an ex officio member of the board of directors.

Other officers named are: Adolph Rupp, Kentucky, first vice president; Bill Wall, MacMurray (Ill.) College, second vice president; Steve Belko, Oregon, third vice president: and Fred Taylor, Ohio State, fourth vice president.

Abe Lemons, Oklahoma City University, was elected to the Board of Directors, while current members who were returned to office included: Bob Polk, Trinity (Texas); Tex Winter, Washington; and Bill Foster, Rutgers.

Cliff Wells was re-elected executive secretary.

Kentucky Wesleyan Wins Third CD Title

Spurred by George Tinsley and Tommy Hobgood, Kentucky Wesleyan recled off its third National College Division Basketball Championship in four years via a 75-71 win over Southwest Missouri March 14 in Evansville's Roberts Stadium.

It was the second straight title for the Panthers under coach Bob Daniels, who is two-for-two in two years at the helm. Since assuming the reins after being a Panther as sistant, Daniels has won 53 of 61

Tinsley, a 6-4 senior from Louisville, was named the Most Outstanding Player at the finals. His 97 points for five tournament games, including 23 in the championship tilt, placed him second in scoring to Greg Hill of third-place Amer-International, who finished with 106.

Tinsley Sets Record

A longevity record which may never be broken was set by Tinsley in appearing in his 20th NCAA tournament game.

The Panthers won 19 of them. The two halves of the championship game were as different as night and day. Hobgood's 25-footer broke a 4-4 tie two minutes into the first half and the Panthers were ahead to stay. The winners pulled away rather steadily, then overran the Bears 15-2 during the last three minutes of the first half to take a seemingly unsurmountable 49 - 28 lead. Hobgood, John Duncan and Gene Smith accounted for all 15 counters in the burst.

After Wesleyan expanded its lead to 53-30 with 18 minutes to play, statisticians were seen poring over tournament records to determine most points in a championship game, biggest margin and other wonders.

Meanwhile, coach Bill (Jinx) Thomas was rallying his Southwest Missourians toward what was to become, in the words of one veteran writer who has seen all the College Division finals, "the greatest

Attendance Up In Average for Cage Tourneys

For the second straight year, more than a quarter of a million people attended NCAA basketball tournament games. This year, 257,366 watched the College and University Division tournament games on 35 playing dates. The 1968 figure, for 37 openings, was 259,083.

Trimming the tournament field from 36 to 32 teams and subsequent reduction in playing dates from 23 to 20 caused College Division attendance to drop from a record 98,-195 in 1968 to 92,051 this March. Average attendance, however, went up from 4,269 to 4,603 per date.

One additional first round doubleheader helped raise the National Collegiate Championship attendance to 165,315 for 15 dates compared to 160,888 last year in 14 openings.

Best house in 1969 was the 18,669 which saw UCLA win its third straight title by defeating Purdue in Louisville's Freedom Hall. Top College Division crowd was also at the championship game with 12,132 watching Kentucky Wesleyan win its third title in four years, 75-71, over Southwest Missouri in Roberts Stadium, Evansville.

Wooden, Alcindor, John, Callahan Earn Basketball Honors

Basketball's post-season awards go this year to John Wooden, Maury John, Bill Callahan and, of course, Lew Alcindor.

Wooden, coach of UCLA's threetime champions, was named University Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Callahan, head coach at American International College of Springfield, Mass., was picked College Division

Coach of the Year by the NABC.

John was named Coach of the Year by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association after he led Drake to a strong third place finish in the National Collegiate Basketball Championship.

Alcindor, Outstanding Player in the NCAA finals for a record-shattering third consecutive year, was named Player of the Year by the comeback in tournament history."

The Bears forced the winners into 18 second-half turnovers and allowed the Panthers just seven field goals in that period, but could not come closer than the final margin. Down by 12 with 3:32 to play, the Missourians scored eight straight points to make it 67-71 with 58 seconds left.

Two Are All-Tourney

The Kentuckians, who reached the round of four for the fourth straight year, defeated Transylvania, 77-61, and previously undefeatcd Alcorn A&M, 81-79, in the South Area Tournament: then downed Oglethorpe, 82-68, in the quarterfinals, and bested American International in overtime, 83-82, in the semifinals.

Oglethorpe led by as many as 10 points before falling to Wesleyan's second-half surge, while the lowjackets from New England failed to convert a one-and-one free throw situation after time had virtually expired in the overtime period giving the defending champions a one-point decision.

Southwest Missouri reached the title game more easily with wins over St. Olaf, 75-47, and South Dakota State, 87-74, in the Midwest Tournament. The Bears trounced Montclair State, 92-76, in the quarterfinals; then bested No. 1 ranked Ashland, 58-48, in the semifinals.

Cal Poly Tramples Opposition — Wins Third Title

by WAYNE SHAW

Sports Information Director Cal Poly San Luis Obispo

San Luis Obispo-With a record crowd in attendance, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo breezed to the team championship in the 7th annual NCAA College Division Wrestling Championships on its own mat March 14 and 15.

Coach Vaughan Hitchcock's Mustangs had the title wrapped up at the conclusion of the semifinals and went on to accumulate a record harvest of 127 points. Poly became the first three-time winner of the championship and the first school to succeed at home.

Colorado State College, competing in the CD for the first time, had been favored to take team honors on the strength of its 21-6 dual meet win over Cal Poly during the regular season. The Greeley Bears were a distant second with 81 points and had only one individual champion, unbeaten 130-pounder Len Groom.

Four Champs

The tourney hosts had four champions—Terry Hall at 115, John Woods at 167, Ken Bos at 177 and Tom Kline at 191. Annexing four titles equalled a tourney record set by Southern Illinois in 1963. Poly's 46-point margin over the secondplace Coloradoans was another new mark.

A crowd of over 3,500 jammed Men's Gym for the finals. A tournament record attendance of over 10,-000 sat in on the four sessions of the two-day tournament. Seventy schools and 277 wrestlers participated. The entry was the second largest in both categories.

Kline at 191, Northern Iowa heavyweight Kent Osboe and Wilkes' 160-pounder Joe Wiendl repeated as champions. Cal Poly's John Woods took 167-pound laurels after finishing second in 1968. SUCNY-Oswego 123-pounder, John Walter, a runner-up the previous year, won his division. Portland State's Chuck Seal, the 152-pound titlist in 1967 and runner-up at 145 last season, captured top honors at 145.

Two defending champions were unseated. Northeast Missouri's 115pounder Curd Alexander was defeated 20-9 in the quarterfinals by Ted Pease of East Stroudsburg, the eventual fourth place finisher. In the 152 title match Poly's defending champ John Finch was pinned by Carl Ragland of Old Dominion in 4:05.

Ragland was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler by vote of the NCAA Coaches' executive committee and he also won the Gorriaran Award for most falls in least amount of time. He pinned four of his five foes en route to the crown in an elapsed time of 13:20.

Second-seeded Bos of Cal Poly, a third-place finisher in 1968, earned the 177 championship. The third time was the charm for Northwest Missouri's 137-pound ruler Paul Stehman. He had placed fifth in '68 and fourth in '67.
