RECRUITING CURBS WIN COUNCIL FAVOR

Comprehensive proposals to dramatically alter the methods by which prospective student-athletes are recruited by NCAA member institutions have been "endorsed in principle" by the Association's Council.

The proposals came to the Council's spring meeting from the Special Committee on Recruiting, which had been studying recruiting practices and possible means of stopping excesses, cutting costs and reducing pressure on the youngsters sought by colleges and universities.

Included in the group are four specific proposed amendments and five proposed Official Interpretations of the amendments.

In addition, without drafting specific amendments, the Special Committee recommended a national letter-of-intent be adopted, suggested that a recommended financial aid form be adopted and "looked with favor" upon legislation which would restrict the number of institutions which a prospective student-athlete may visit.

The only qualification expressed concerning the last point was the Committee, at the time of the report, had not perfected an administrative plan for operating such a program.

In making the recommendations, the Committee stated it was submitting them on the basis that:

(1) The justification of expense-paid campus visitation is to acquaint the prospective student-athlete with the facilities, patterns of life and atmosphere normal to student life on that campus and its environs;

(2) Two expense-paid visits to the campus are sufficient for the purposes described above;

Football Centennial Postal Meter Slugs Available From NCSS

College Football Centennial postage meter slugs are now available from the National College Sports Services office in New York City.

Price of the slugs—which incorporate the official Centennial symbol and the phrase "An American Tradition" from the Centennial Medallion—is $12.75 each. An individual placing an order must include the type of meter or model number of his meter.

A purchase order or a check payable to the NCAA may be enclosed.

Delivery will be within three weeks of receipt of order.

The NCSS address is Box 757, Grand Central Station, New York, N. Y. 10017.

(3) On-campus entertainment of parents or guardian should be restricted to two persons and one visit.

Two-Visit Limits

Most dramatic among the proposed amendments is a limit of two expense-paid visits (regardless of source) a prospect could make to an institution's campus and a limit of two off-campus visits to a prospect or his family by an institution's athletic representatives.

Another amendment would prohibit contact with a prospect at the site of his high school's athletic competition in which he is a participant.

Two O.I.'s would prohibit both off-campus contacts and paid visits until the prospect had completed his junior year in high school or prep school.

One of the O.I.'s would require a prospect when visiting a campus to live and take his meals on-campus as regular students normally do. His entertainment would have to be conducted on campus by regular students.

Entertainment of the party accompanying a prospect to the campus would be limited to two relatives (or legal guardian) for one visit not to exceed 48 hours.

Another O.I. would prohibit any publicity by an institution of the commitment by a prospective student-athlete to attend that institution or accept a financial aid tender.

Council, Executive Committee to Meet at Western Site in August

The NCAA's Council and Executive Committee will both hold August meetings at a western site, the groups determined at their respective spring meetings.

For the Executive Committee, which will convene Aug. 18-19, the meeting will be its annual fall session.

The Council will hold a special meeting for the second time in two years. The dates will be Aug. 20-22. As a year ago, a heavy agenda dictated the extra session. The Council will hold its annual fall meeting in October.

is Edwin H. Cady, Indiana University. Members were John Bateman, Rutgers; John Dromo, Louisville; Howard Gentry, Tennessee A&I; Robert C. James, Mid-American Conference; and James D. Owens, Washington.

The NCAA Council, at its August meeting, will examine the specific language of the proposals and determine the form of the amendments it intends to sponsor at the 1970 Convention.

10 Picked for NCAA Olympic Committee

Ten members, including six new appointees, have been selected for the NCAA Olympic Committee, the members of which also serve as members of the USOC Board of Directors.

The NCAA Council reappointed Edward S. Steitz, Springfield College; Samuel E. Barnes, Howard; Claude Gilstrap, UT Arlington; James R. Jack, Utah; and William R. Reed, Big Ten Conference, current Committee chairman.

Newly-appointed members are George R. Woodruff, Tennessee; Marcus L. Plant, Michigan; Robert Karnes, Drake; William J. Bowerman, Oregon; and Charles M. Neinas, NCAA.

Barnes had earlier been appointed to fill a partial term on the Board of Directors. Now he and the others will serve a full term through the next Olympiad.

Convention Dates, Sites Set by Executive Committee

Action on arrangements for three future NCAA Conventions was taken by the NCAA Executive Committee at its spring meeting.

The dates of the 1970 Convention were confirmed as Jan. 12-14. The sessions will be at Washington, D. C.'s Statler Hilton Hotel.

The site of the 1971 Convention was selected as the Astro-World Hotel, Houston, Tex. The dates that year will be Jan. 11-13.

The American Football Coaches Association Convention will be held January 12-14, 1971. AFCA headquarters will be the Shamrock Hotel.

The dates of Jan. 6-8 were picked for the 1972 Convention. No site has been selected at this time.

In addition, the 1970 Committee on Committees and Nominating Committee were chosen.

Both the Executive Committee post and the basketball committee chairmanship, plus a berth on the latter group, were vacated with the resignation of Bebe Lee as director of athletics at Kansas State.

Joel Eaves, director of athletics at the University of Georgia, was named to the Basketball Tournament Committee to take Lee's place.

If you don't have your tickets to the National Collegiate Basketball Championship to be played at the University of Maryland, March 19-21, 1970, you're too late. Maryland's entire allotment of 8000 seats was sold out the first day of public sales. The remaining seats will go to the four competing institutions, and the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Recruiting Recommendations Courageous

The NCAA Council, at its spring meeting, "endorsed in principle" an extensive group of recommendations created and presented to it by the Special Committee on Recruiting.

The Council discussed the specific items and considered formally adopting the proposed amendments for presentation to the 1970 Convention. However, it felt the entire membership should have an opportunity to study each proposal and suggest possible editorial or substantive changes before the Council acted. Hence, it delayed formal action until its next meeting.

The recommendations are courageous and comprehensive. Most of the ideas are not original with the Committee—many have been discussed for some time among intercollegiate athletics' administrators—but the Committee met head-on many of the criticisms which have been leveled increasingly at college recruiting.

A story on the recommendations may be found on page one.

If adopted in entirety, these recommendations would relieve problems in three areas causing current concern:

(1) Restrictions on trips by prospective student-athletes and by coaches or other athletic representatives would cut recruiting costs and the time each prospect spends away from his senior year in high school;

(2) Repeated contact with an outstanding prospect by each institution interested in him would be eliminated and consequently pressure upon the prospect would be reduced;

(3) Lavish entertainment of prospects would be curtailed, reducing recruiting costs and lessening the chance that the highly-recruited young man's sense of values will be destroyed.

Not included as a specific amendment but recommended by the Committee was legislation which would limit the number of member institutions which a prospective student-athlete may visit.

In a similar vein, the Committee recommended that the Association proceed to adoption of a national letter-of-intent. Again the goals were cost-cutting and reduction of recruiting pressures. No "babysitting" visits would be necessary after a prospect had signed the letter, and a boy could end all recruiting contact with one signature.

Finally, establishment was suggested of a recommended form to serve as a guide for describing to a prospect the amount, duration, conditions and terms of institutional financial aid being offered him by an institution.

Obvious Cost Cutting

Since the attractiveness of the cost-cutting features of the Committee recommendations is obvious, no elaboration will be made here of that vital area.

However, the desirability of reducing the pressures and improving the public image of athletic recruiting merits re-emphasis.

We are sure everyone in college athletics dislikes many aspects of recruiting, deplors its consumption of time, talent and money, and is convinced it is an undesirable experience for an 18-year-old youth. Most coaches thoroughly regret that competitive success seems so closely related to recruiting success.

What may be surprising, however, even to veteran recruiters and public relations-conscious administrators, is the overwhelmingly poor image held of recruiting by the athletic public and our own faculties.

Discussion of recruiting was held at the 1969 NCAA Media Seminar, and the prominent writers present were asked to relate their own thoughts and their impressions of the public's views on the current conduct of recruiting by NCAA members.

Whereas many phases of the colleges' enforcement program were complimented, the consensus was that the colleges' highly concentrated recruiting practices gave intercollegiate athletics its worst image.

"The public feels recruiting is worse than ever, that cheating is widespread and the situation is deteriorating—and many writers agree," stated one newsman, accurately summarizing the group's attitude. The writers—not easily shocked or easily impressed by unsubstantiated rumor—feel that jet-age recruiting's pace, pressures and expenditures are startling, and not in the athletes' best interests.

Concurrently, in a Public Relations Committee survey, faculty members of member institutions were saying they too look with disfavor upon the annual scramble for talent. Wrote one:

"I can think of few institutions in our area which have not allowed their intercollegiate athletic programs to get out of hand as a result of recruiting. I seriously question the value of these programs for the student-athlete."

With this evidence before it, coupled with well-drafted, well-considered proposals, the time appears right for the Association's membership to follow the lead of the Recruiting Committee by facing the recruiting issue squarely and adopting these recommendations which would cut costs, lessen pressures and improve a bad image.

INTERPRETATIONS

Situation—An alien student participates in track competition in his country between his twentieth and twenty-first birthday. During the period following his twenty-first birthday (which occurs a few months prior to his enrollment at an NCAA member institution), the young man again participates in track competition in his home country. He enrolls at an NCAA member institution with advanced standing.

Question—How many years of NCAA eligibility remain to him?

Answer—One. (Bylaw 4-1-(e)-(1)).

Situation—A representative of a member institution's athletic interests wishes to pay the expenses of a high school athlete to a summertime camp.

Question—Would this action place the institution in violation of NCAA legislation?

Answer—Yes. Such action would be considered an improper inducement to enroll. (NCAA Bylaw 6-1).

Situation—A prospective student-athlete with outstanding ability in basketball also is a fine golfer. He is recruited by the basketball coach of a member institution and is invited to visit the campus.

Question—While visiting the campus is it permissible for the institution's golf coach to accompany the young man on a round of golf?

Answer—No. Such action would constitute a violation. (NCAA Bylaw 6-3).

Situation—Freshman football squad reports for fall practice on a date subsequent to the beginning of varsity squad practice. In addition, certain individual players on either squad report after the first three days of practice.

Question—Are the requirements related to non-contact drills applicable to both varsity and freshman squads and to the latecomers as well?

Answer—Yes, for both squads; no, for latecomers. [Bylaw 8-1-(a).]

USOC Games Committee Members Chosen

The NCAA's members on 24 games committees of the U.S. Olympic Committee have been chosen by the Association for the coming Olympiad.

Approval of the slate of members was granted by the Council at its spring meeting.

Members of two committees, Equestrian and Shooting, are still to be named. The NCAA will have one representative on each body.

Those selected for the four-year terms are listed below. An asterisk in front of a name indicates that individual has served during the last Olympiad. The NCAA has a policy of rotation which limits games committee membership to two Olympiads for its representatives.

Where a chairmanship is listed for one man in the larger groups, it signifies the individual is chairman of the NCAA's members when they might meet as a body, but not that the individual is chairman of the USOC committee itself.

5,000th Champion To Be Crowned At Golf Meet

The 5,000th National Collegiate Champion will be crowned June 28 at the conclusion of the National Collegiate Golf Championships at the Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The collegiate championships date back to 1883 when tennis was established as a national championship for college athletes. That was 23 years before the founding of the NCAA, but the Association has included the tennis and golf winners of the early years in its figures. The first golf championship was conducted in 1897 with Louis P. Bayard of Princeton the winner.

In recent years the number of champions has increased markedly, with the inclusion of many sports in the championship series. In the current year, 1968-69, the NCAA will sponsor 15 National Collegiate Championships, plus another nine national championships on the College Division level. Two more championship events, water polo and volleyball, will be added next year.

This year 190 champions will be crowned. This includes members of first place teams in championship competition.

The golf champion will be following in the footsteps of many famous athletes including Jack Nicklaus, Tom Nieporte, Joe Campbell, Rex Baxter, Phil Rodgers, Kermit Zarley, R. H. Sikes, Marty Fleckman, and Bob Murphy, all successful tour golfers.

Grier Jones of Oklahoma State was last year's champion and he graduated, so the field is wide open. The tournament will begin June 23, concluding five days later.

THIRD NCAA GRID DIVISION SET

A third division has been approved for postseason competition in college football.

The NCAA's Executive Committee authorized the playing of two regional championship games for the "smaller" football playing institutions. The name of the new division will be determined at a later date.

The plan had been recommended by the College Football Committee.

The College Football Committee reviewed the list of non-major football-playing institutions and classified 159 as College Division and 155 as third division teams.

Each regional chairman had contacted the institutions in his region to ascertain in which division each wished to play. A memorandum will now be distributed to each College Division football-playing member explaining the new plan. Each institution will be assigned to a competitive division.

If an institution wishes to be classified in a division other than that in which the Committee placed it, it may appeal to the Committee. Requests to move from third division to College Division will be granted automatically.

Institutions originally classified as College Division which wish to move to the third division will be asked to submit information for the review and study of the Committee, which may or may not grant the request.

If the college objects to the decision, it may appeal to the Executive Committee.

The championship games for the third division will be played not later than the first weekend in December, and preferably earlier. Thanksgiving and the Saturday following are the most likely dates.

67 in East

Of the 155 institutions currently classified as third division, 67 are located in the East region. The Committee recommended, and it was approved, that both teams in the East championship would come from that region and the two teams in the West championship would come from the other three regions.

It is proposed that the games will be played on the campuses of competing colleges.

The games, including the selections of teams and sites, will be under the jurisdiction of the College Football Committee.

Memorial Stadium, Baton Rouge, La., will be the new home of the College Division Mideast football championship. The Downtown Lions Club of Baton Rouge will be the sponsoring agency. The Gulf States Conference, Southern University and Grambling College will serve as hosts. The stadium seats 23,000.

CD Football Regional Realignment OKayed

A realignment of the College Division football regions has been executed with the approval of the Executive Committee. The Committee also approved the shifting of the Mideast Championship, to Baton Rouge, La.

The realignment will set boundary lines for both the College Division and third division games. A map of the new regions is shown elsewhere on this page.

On the basis of the realignment in the College Division, 42 teams are eligible in the East, 38 in the Mideast, 40 in the Midwest and 39 in the West.

The Football Committee feels that the new alignment will bring about equality both in quantity and quality of teams involved.

There is overlapping of conference lines in two instances and the committee has ruled that teams will play in the geographical areas in which they are located.

Exec. Committee Dismisses Football Playoff Committee

The special committee studying the feasibility of establishing National Collegiate Championship competition in football was disbanded by the NCAA Executive Committee at its recent spring meeting.

In response to a request for survey funds from the Committee, the Executive Committee voted to discharge it with thanks for its efforts.

Cited as the primary reason for the action was a feeling by Executive Committee members that persons in the university community are strongly opposed to extending the football season and placing still greater emphasis on the sport.

Opposition on Campuses

The Council at its spring meeting a year ago had questioned the establishment of the committee in terms of the opposition its creation had caused on university campuses.

In other actions last month, the Council certified the 12 bowl games recommended by the Extra Events Committee and approved an interpretation on fall practice, and the Executive Committee tightened eligibility certification procedures for extra events.

The interpretation concerns the three days of conditioning drills required of football teams.

The three days are required of teams—both varsity and freshman—but not players who report late, the Council decreed. The policy-making body felt a conditioning requirement imposed on individual players reporting after those initial three days would be impractical.

Teams which are picked for post-season football games must return their NCAA eligibility forms within 48 hours of receipt of the forms under the new regulation imposed by the Executive Committee. This requirement will allow opponents to learn in advance what personnel it will face and allow time for proper checking of eligibility lists.

The 12 certified bowl games, the same games as played following the past season, are listed below.

LIMITS ON VISITS PROPOSED

The complete text of each proposal follows:

PROPOSALS OF THE COMMITTEE ON RECRUITING

1. Amend Bylaw 6-5-(a) and (b), as follows:

- No member institution shall permit a prospective student-athlete to receive more than two expense-paid visits to its campus. One of these paid visits may be financed by the institution and one by an alumnus or friend who must also, at his own expense, accompany the prospect on the visit. Only round trip transportation costs by direct route between the student's home and the institution's campus may be paid. The two possible visits may occur in either sequence of time.
- If institutional or conference regulations prohibit an institution from financing one visit of a prospective student-athlete as provided in paragraph (a), said institution may permit any person, at his own expense, to pay the transportation costs of a prospective student-athlete to visit the campus one time, regardless of whether the person accompanies the prospect on his visit.

Interpretations to above amendments:

O.I.—A prospective student-athlete may visit a member institution's campus at his own expense as often as he wishes; during such visits the institution may not pay any expense nor provide any entertainment except a maximum of two complimentary passes (not tickets) to a campus athletic event. Payment of any expenses or providing any entertainment, except as noted, on such trips shall constitute one official visit.

O.I.—No member institution or a representative of its athletic interests may extend an invitation or pay the expenses for a prospective student-athlete's visit to its campus prior to the completion of the prospect's junior year in high school or preparatory school.

O.I.—A prospective student-athlete visiting a member institution's campus shall live and take his meals on-campus as regular students normally do; his entertainment shall take place on campus with and be conducted by regular students. If campus facilities or entertainment are not available, local commercial facilities may be used but at a scale comparable to that of normal student life. The institution or representatives of its athletic interests may not provide cash to the prospect for entertainment purposes nor may they provide an automobile for his use.

2. Amend Bylaw 6-5-(c), as follows:

- No member institution may finance the transportation costs incurred by relatives or friends of a prospective student-athlete to visit the campus or elsewhere. Entertainment of the party accompanying a prospective student-athlete to the campus shall be limited to two relatives (or legal guardian) and for one and only one visit not to exceed 48 hours.

3. Amend Bylaw 6-2-O.I. 126, as follows:

- O.I. 126—The appearance of a prospective student-athlete on a television program conducted by the coach of an NCAA member institution or on a television program in which the coach is participating will place the member institution in violation of Bylaw 6-2; further, no member institution shall undertake to publicize the commitment by a prospective student-athlete to attend the institution or accept its tender of financial assistance.

4. Amend NCAA Bylaw 6-6 by adding paragraph (a) and identifying present 6-6 as (b) amended, as follows:

- Visits by an institutional staff member or a representative of its athletic interests with a prospective student-athlete or any member of his family for the purpose of furthering the interests of the prospect in attending the member institution, at any site other than the institution's campus, shall be limited to a maximum of two such visits.
- Any institutional staff member or other representative of its athletic interests desiring to contact a prospective student-athlete at the student-athlete's high school, college preparatory school or junior college shall first contact that institution's executive officer or his authorized representative, explain the purpose of his call and request permission to contact the student-athlete. Only if permission is granted may the contact be made at the high school, college preparatory school or junior college, with the visit being arranged for after school hours. No contact with a prospective student-athlete shall be made at the site of his school's athletic competition in which the prospect is a participant.

Interpretations to above proposed amendments:

NSYSP NOW SET IN 35 MOST NEEDFUL POVERTY AREAS

James H. Wilkinson, the NCAA's national program director of the National Summer Youth Sports Program is striving for a batting average of 1.000 in his first season.

Wilkinson says that with the addition of Detroit, El Paso and New Orleans, it appears the nation's top 35 priority areas will be serviced in the inaugural year of the program.

"We have high hopes that we can run this program in all of the 35 areas which have the largest number of poverty families, and we believe that we will cover nearly all of the top 50 before we are through," said Wilkinson.

Eighty-five schools are now set, with many other applications being processed. It is expected the 35,000 poverty area children will become involved in the program.

"Sportsmen's Cuisine" Is Southern Conference's Favorite Sports Recipes

Although the NEWS is not in the habit of reviewing books, a most unusual volume has been published by the Southern Conference, one which will be of interest to everyone in college athletics.

The subject is FOOD, which rates right up there with a 10-0 record in interest among coaches and athletes.

The author is Sylvia Shirley, wife of the Southern Conference's Assistant to the Commissioner, J. Dallas Shirley.

Mrs. Shirley has "coaxed" favorite recipes from friends of the Southern Conference and has titled the result "Sportsmen's Cuisine."

Included are the tastiest dishes of wives of college presidents, faculty representatives, athletic directors, coaches, SID's, supervisors of officials, Commissioners, Senators and Governors.

Copies of the book are available from Mrs. Shirley (whose own favorite recipe is a dessert pizza) at 1200 N. Nash St., No. 522, Arlington, Va. 22209. Price is $2 per copy.

CoSIDA Meeting July 29-31

The annual meeting of the College Sports Information Directors Association of America is set for July 29-31 in its traditional Chicago headquarters, the Bismarck Hotel.

The CoSIDA sessions will be followed by the annual meeting of the Football Writers Association of America on Friday, Aug. 1, at the Sherman Hotel.

Both programs will pay tribute to college football's Centennial, which is being celebrated throughout 1969.

CoSIDA President Tom Miller, Indiana University, will preside at the SID's sessions, while Dave Campbell, Waco Tribune, is President of the FWAA.

NCAA and the colleges and universities of the nation joining to help prepare the poverty area children to meet the competition in life situation.

Central Michigan Grid Team Members Help Indian Children

Central Michigan University football players are combining spring practice with social work.

The squad's Maroon and Gold spring game will be designed to raise money for Central's Chippewa Big Brother-Big Sister Program.

Proceeds from the game will be used in a student-operated program aimed at helping children at the nearby Chippewa Indian Reservation.

Bob McCraith, a junior, and director of the program, says that the students have collected $2,400 of the $3,000 needed for next year's program.

The money is used to rent state cars which are then used to transport the CMU students to the homes of the Indian children.

Students Tutor

The CMU students tutor the Indians, spending time with an appointed little brother or sister during each week, and also transport the children to various events in the local area.

Football Coach Ray Kramer says, "We on the football team, and the entire athletic department, feel this is an extremely worthwhile program, and we want to have a hand in keeping it going."

the values of the ghetto child, and the environment should help him appreciate the merits of present day society. He will be taught true values and the meaning of fair play. He will be taught how to win and how to accept defeat. This will truly be a preparation for life.

"We believe that the program will spur the youngsters on to get a better education, and hope that this exposure to a campus will give each the incentive to come back when he graduates from high school," he stated.

Two Changes Made In Pole Vault Rules

The NCAA Track and Field Rules Committee is calling attention to two changes in the pole vaulting rules.

Under Rules of Competition, page 29, in the Track and Field Guide, item 3 has been changed, and section 4 has been deleted.

Both had to do with when a failed attempt should be called.

Item 3 will now read:

"When any part of the vaulter's body or his pole touches the ground or the landing pit beyond the vertical of the stop-board, without clearing the bar."

The change is from plane to vertical.

Item 4 formerly read, "When, after a competitor has cleared the bar, his pole passes under the bar and touches the ground or the landing pit beyond the plane of the stop-board of the box."

This section has been taken out entirely.

Interim Appointments To Two Groups Made By Officers

Interim appointments to two bodies have been made by the NCAA Officers.

John Toner, Connecticut's head football coach, has been named as the Association's District One representative on the Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Committee.

Hugh M. Gloster, president of Morehouse College, was appointed to the Long-Range Planning Committee.

Centennial Sportswriting Contest Ends

North Carolina's Owen Davis and Princeton's David Huber are first-place winners in a national student sportswriting contest conducted as part of college football's year-long Centennial celebration.

The contest, which attracted 146 entries, was sponsored by the NCAA and the Football Writers Association of America. Each winner will receive the $200 first prize in his category.

Davis, a 20-year-old junior from Auburn, Ala., won the column-feature category with his humorous column on Clemson's football coach, entitled "Frank Howard, Baron from Barlow Bend."

Huber, a 21-year-old junior from Belleville, Ill., took the game-story category with his description and analysis of Harvard's 9-7 victory over Princeton last season.

Auburn's Richard Wittish (of Jacksonville, Fla.) was the column-feature runnerup. Third was Brigham Young's Roger Gillespie (of Mount Prospect, Ill.).

Yale's Bob Small (of Little Silver, N. J.) was the game-story runner-up. Third was Rick Malwitz (of Rutgers, N. J.).

All Undergrads Eligible

Runnersup will receive $100 each, third-place finishers $50 each. Judging was by an FWA committee. The contest was open to all undergraduate writers for student newspapers at NCAA-member schools.

Davis, a journalism major with a 3.20 g.p.a., is sports editor of the Tar Heel student newspaper and has a summer job at the Atlanta Journal awaiting him.

Huber is majoring in history, currently serving as a senior editor for the Princetonian student newspaper and spends six weeks each summer on a Naval ROTC cruise.

Wittish, 22, is a senior journalism major and was one of 10 students named distinguished military cadets in ROTC. He's now executive editor of the Auburn Plainsman student paper after serving the last three quarters as sports editor.

Small, 21, is a junior majoring in English. He's a utility man with the baseball varsity whose promising football career was ended by a high school shoulder injury.

Malwitz, also 21 and a junior, is a political science major. He's executive sports editor of Targum — first published in 1869, the year Rutgers and Princeton played the first college football game. Gillespie, 23, is a senior political science major and sports editor of the Daily Universe at BYU.

Former Grid Star to Key Chevrolet Post

A former little All-American lineman who is a keen college football fan has become general sales manager of one of America's key industrial firms which also is one of college football's best commercial friends.

Robert D. Lund, who starred as tackle and guard for St. Thomas College, St. Paul, Minn., will head all sales efforts for the automotive giant.

Chevrolet is a major sponsor of NCAA football telecasts, and an active promoter of college football throughout the year. Last fall, it sponsored the Centennial Queen Contest in which Texas Tech's Barbara Specht was chosen to reign over 1969's 100th Anniversary observance.

Lund played from 1938 to 1942 at St. Thomas, where he received a B.A. in business administration. He later attended the Harvard School of Business Administration.

He joined Chevrolet upon his discharge from the Navy in 1946, and most recently was assistant general sales manager for the central states.

It was Lund who unveiled Chevrolet's four Centennial paintings to the nationwide television audience last August at the College All-Star game in Chicago.

Non-College Sponsored Track Meets Certified

The Extra Events Committee has certified several track and field meets sponsored by non-collegiate entities in which student-athletes of NCAA member institutions may participate.

The membership is reminded that Bylaws 7B and 7C are in effect during the summer months and it is not permissible for student-athletes to participate in non-certified summer competition.

Several prominent track and field meets have not as yet applied for certification. None are exempt from the program. It is expected that additional meets will be considered by the Extra Events Committee and the membership will be notified promptly of those which are certified.

The management of some meets does not provide insurance for participants. In the interest of promoting competition, the Committee has certified these meets but identified them below by asterisks.

Indiana Defends Swim Title

Bloomington, Ind.—Led by sensational Mark Spitz, Indiana University defended its National Collegiate Swimming and Diving team Championship in its own Royer Pool, March 27-29.

The Hoosiers scored 427 points, the most ever in championship competition, to finish far ahead of runner-up Southern California, which had 306 points.

Spitz was the individual star, winning all three of his events, the 500-yard freestyle, the 200-yard freestyle and the 100-yard butterfly.

He set new American and NCAA Meet records in both freestyle events, swimming the 500 in 4:33.2 in a heat, knocking almost four seconds off the 4:37.0 of Greg Buckingham and Mike Burton set in 1967. He zipped to a 1:39.5 in the 200, which beat his own American record of 1:40.5, and the NCAA Meet record of 1:41.3 set by Buckingham in 1967.

Spitz had to be great to be the star. He had competition from teammate Charlie Hickox, who just missed winning three gold medals.

He took the 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard backstroke, and was second in the 100-yard backstroke. He also swam on the victorious 400-yard medley relay team.

Breaks Two Records

Then there was Hans Fassnacht of Cal State Long Beach who demolished two records, the 1,650 freestyle (swimming it in 15:54.2, five and two-tenths seconds better than Mike Burton's record set in 1968) and the 400-yard individual medley in a time of 4:07.7 (2.2 seconds better than the record he had set in the afternoon, which bettered the old mark of 4:10.9 set by Bill Utley a year ago).

Indiana also got great point scoring from the diving members of its team, sweeping the one meter, and taking the top two spots in the three meter diving. Jim Henry took both gold medals, and Win Young second in both.

SFVSC Takes Second Crown In Gymnastics

San Fernando, Cal.—San Fernando Valley State College made it two straight in College Division Gymnastics Championships, sweeping to the title behind sensational Rich Grigsby. SFVSC scored 151.80.

His teammate, Juan Sanchez, shared the long horse crown and was second on the horizontal bar.

Championship

Denver 4, Cornell 3

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Denver University defended its hockey championship, and the East made a slight dent in Western supremacy during the National Collegiate Ice Hockey Championship at The Broadmoor and the Air Force Academy, March 13-15.

Denver whipped Harvard 9-2 in the semifinals, while Cornell was tipping Michigan Tech 4-3 in a sudden death overtime. Denver came back to take the title 4-3. Harvard took the third place game in a double overtime, 6-5.

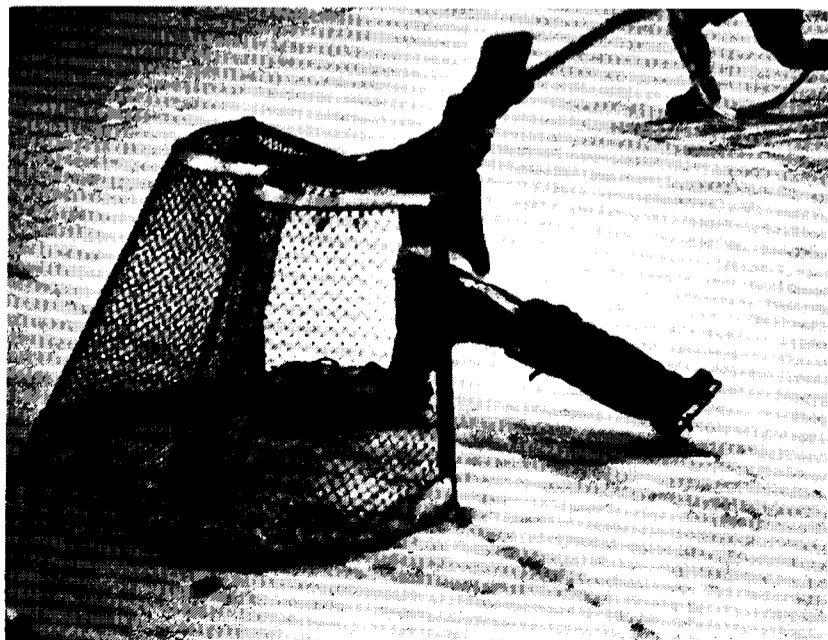

The second and third places were the best finishes for the East in many years, with the exception of 1967, when Cornell won the title over Boston College.

Denver had the shots on net to win the championship game handily, but Cornell's Ken Dryden was effective in turning away 32 shots.

The game was tied going into the final period, but goals by Bob Trembecky at 4:17, and Tom Miller at 11:50, iced the contest.

Denver's Keith Magnuson earned the MVP honors for the tourney with fine overall play throughout the two games. He came through with three assists against Cornell.

Michigan Tech scored four goals in the first period, in the battle for third place, but Harvard fought back with two goals in both the first and second periods, and finally won the game after playing 78:53 minutes, when Chris Gurry scored on an assist from John Torco.

GABLE PINS CHAMPIONSHIP FOR IOWA STATE'S TEAM

Provo, Utah—Iowa State's wrestlers, led by sensational Dan Gable, romped to the team championship at the 39th annual National Collegiate Wrestling Championships, March 27-28-29 at Brigham Young University.

Gable took the 137-pound championship, the award for most pins (five) and the outstanding wrestler award. He has never been beaten in high school or collegiate wrestling, and has one more year of wrestling at Iowa State.

Iowa State scored 104 points, the first time in the history of the championships a team has broken the century mark. Along with Gable, Jason Smith at 167 and Chuck Jean at 177 also won titles.

Oklahoma finished in second place, in a meet that was particularly rewarding to three of its wrestlers. David McGuire took the 130-pound championship. He won it as a sophomore in 1967, then lost it last year to Gable.

Mike Grant lost in the finals a year ago, but came back to win this year, in a decision over Ray Murphy of Oklahoma State.

But probably the most rewarding was the 160-pound title won by Cleo McGlory. He had been a defeated finalist for the last two years, but this time came through with a 5-3 victory over Dave Martin of Iowa State in the finals.

The title was the third for Iowa State, and 104 points beats the mark set in 1964 by Oklahoma State, and equalled in '55 by Iowa State, the last time ISU won the title.

* New American Record

"Scholar-athletes" is an accurate description for four Boston University athletic captains, all of whom are Dean's List students who collectively have achieved a 3.25 academic average through their first seven semesters of college study. (Left to right) Terry Cotton of El Cajon, Calif. (baseball); Jay Donabedian of Salem, N. H. (football); Peter Hoss of Rockland, Mass. (track) and Jim Neviackas of Greenlawn, N. Y. (crew).

BU Student-Athletes Combine Brain-Brawn

Four Boston University athletic captains have made a major contribution towards dispelling the old myth concerning brain and brawn.

Jay Donabedian, Jim Neviackas, Peter Hoss and Terry Cotton, who captain Boston University's football, crew, track and baseball teams, collectively achieved an overall 3.25 academic grade average (based on a perfect 4.0) during their first seven semesters of college work.

Donabedian, a resident of Salem, N. H., and a business administration major, has been a regular defensive standout on the football team for the past three seasons. He has already been awarded an NCAA postgraduate scholarship. Described as "the best football captain I've ever had," by Coach Warren Schmakel, Jay was named the "Most Valuable Player" on the 1968 team that posted a 5-3 record.

Neviackas, a senior from Greenlawn, N.Y., is a biology major in the College of Liberal Arts. A three-year regular on the crew, he has already been accepted by the Yale Medical School, and recently co-authored a study, "The Effects of Colchicine on Regenerating Membranellar Bands in Stentor Coeruleus," that will be published in the Journal of Protozoology in the future. The study was financed through a grant from the National Science Foundation.

Hoss is one of the most accomplished student artists in the country today. A resident of Rockland, Mass., and a senior in the School of Fine and Applied Arts, he spent last summer on an art scholarship at Tanglewood. Equally devoted to his running, Peter commuted from Rockland for three years, coming into Boston during the very early morning hours to run six to nine miles a day prior to the start of morning classes. He owns the Boston University records for the indoor mile and two-mile events as well as the outdoor two-mile.

Cotton, who originally came from El Cajon, Calif., is an Air Force veteran with a wife and child. HIGHER EDUCATION ENROLLMENT INCREASES

The nation's total enrollment in institutions of higher education was 7.5 million at the beginning of this current academic year, an increase of 8.7 per cent over a year ago, according to a report from the U.S. Office of Education's National Center for Educational Statistics.

An increase in enrollment of 12.8 per cent in public institutions and a decrease of one half of one per cent in private institutions was reported in the NCES's 23rd annual enrollment survey.

All but four of the 2,495 institutions of higher education reported, of which 1,015 are public and 1,476 private. Public institutions accounted for 72 per cent of the students this fall, compared with 70 per cent a year ago.

Women accounted for 40 per cent of the enrollment both years.

Pros Can't Keep Up with College Football's Pace

By BEANO COOK

ABC-TV College Football Press Officer

In the last three seasons, the top college teams in the country have increased their plays per game advantage over the best professional teams from nine plays per game to approximately 17 plays per game.

In 1966, the top professional teams averaged 60.9 plays per game compared to the college average of 69.6. In 1967, college games won, 74.3 to 60.3. Last season, the figure zoomed as the college elevens averaged 80.9 plays per game while the pro teams averaged just 63.1.

Figures for regular season games are used in compiling these comparisons. Playoff and bowl games are not included.

In 1966, the top eight college teams and the four best pro teams were used for this study. In 1967 and 1968, six teams in each bracket were used.

Although some fumbles occur on punt and kickoff returns and after a completed pass, the fumbles were used in relationship to running plays to illustrate a clear and fair comparison. Where the pro statistics place "quarterback losses on attempted pass plays" in a separate category, this survey doesn't. This category comes under rushing plays. Certainly when a quarterback is almost caught by a defensive lineman but manages to escape and gain 20 yards, this figure appears under rushing and it seems ironic to list losses in a special section.

It is also interesting to note that in each year, all of the college teams ran off more plays per game than the pro teams. No pro team has averaged 70 plays per game. Yet, in the last two years, every college team has averaged at least 70 plays per game.

It is true that in 1968, the colleges were aided because the clock was stopped more than in previous years. However, this cannot be considered a fault because the fans benefit from the opportunity to see more action and more plays.

Penn State Amazingly Efficient

Penn State's efficiency for the 1968 season was amazing. In 812 plays, the Nittany Lions fumbled only 18 times and had but seven passes intercepted. This one stat alone could be the reason Penn State finished with a 10-0 record, followed by a super-win in the Orange Bowl over Kansas, 15-14.

One reason it is so difficult to do so many instant replays during a telecast of a college game is that there isn't enough time because of the fast pace of the collegiate game.

All College Teams Run More Plays

Three of the college teams averaged more than 80 plays per game in 1968. The team with the lowest average in the college group still ran off 11 additional plays per game, in comparison with the average of the six professional teams.

The three-year study clearly shows that there is more action in a college game and the mistakes are nearly evenly divided.

In conclusion, it should be noted that it takes the college teams an average of 16 seconds between plays. The pros average approximately 26 seconds.

Photography Drew Smiley Into Sports

Dean Francis E. Smiley may have been a late starter in sports but once he became involved it was full speed ahead. Colorado School of Mines needed a movie photographer for its football games in 1950 and Smiley was the man.

That started his involvement and he was named faculty representative at Mines in 1957. By 1965 he was elected secretary-treasurer of the NCAA after serving on numerous committees. He is now a member of the Executive Committee.

He joined the faculty at Mines in 1940 and has been there since with the exception of a three-year World War II interruption.

He became Dean of Students at Mines in 1964 after a distinguished teaching career at that school. Dean Smiley is a graduate of Colorado School of Mines. He attained a professional degree in Petroleum Engineering there in 1940 and a B.S. in Civil Engineering from the University of Colorado in 1950.

He is a past president of the Rocky Mountain Region American Society of Photogrammetry and a member of the National Board of Directors of that organization. He was a member of a field party in 1957 that filmed explosions in ice in Greenland.

He is currently chairman of the Long-Range Planning Committee and has served on the Voting, Nominating, Recruiting and Financial Aid committees. He was also chairman of the College Committee.

Star Cagers Chosen for All-Academic Team

Bob Arnzen, Notre Dame, was named to the 1969 Academic All-America Basketball squad for the third straight year, while Dave Scholz, Illinois, and Dennis Awtrey, Santa Clara, were picked for the second year.

In all, six seniors, three juniors and one sophomore were picked on the 10-man first team in balloting by the nations' major college sports information directors. The team was announced by Ted Emery, Jacksonville, Fla., CoSIDA chairman.

Others on the first team are Kenny Heitz, UCLA; Joe Smith, Oklahoma State; Ed Siudut, Holy Cross; Ron Becker, University of New Mexico; Ron Mendell, Wichita State; Rich Yunkus, Georgia Tech; and Bill Zopf, Duquesne.

All hold a "B" or higher grade average in the classroom, a requirement for nomination to the team.

Arnzen, 6'5, whose selection this year qualifies him as captain of the all-academic unit, has also been the Irish team leader the past two years. He has averaged better than 21.5 in scoring during his college career. He is a Liberal Arts major with a solid B-plus average in the classroom.

Awtrey, who first made the team a year ago as a sophomore, is 6'9½, as is Yunkus. The Santa Clara center holds a B-plus average in history for his college career to date. He averaged 21.3 in points this year as Santa Clara finished the season with a 27-2 mark.

Illinois' Scholz shows a solid B-plus in pre-med and has some fine credentials on the playing floor as well. He was named to the Big Ten all-Academic for the third straight year, and is the all-time career scoring leader for the Illini with 1,459 points. He was third team all-America and carries a career scoring average of 20.5.

Kenny Heitz, 6'3½, was part of a fabulous basketball record at UCLA the past several years. Counting a 21-0 record for the Bruins freshmen four years ago, Heitz was involved in a mark of 109-2, won-lost, as well as participation with three straight national championship teams. Top honors this past year included being named to the all-West Regional tourney.

Oklahoma State's Joe Smith was the leading scorer for that team the past two years, with an 11.5 mark with a team that stressed defense and low-scoring games. He has maintained a strong A-minus in the classroom as a business administration major. Siudut of Holy Cross completed a three-year varsity career as the fifth leading scorer in Crusader history, behind four former all-Americans. He started 72 straight games for the Worcester team, and scored 1,611 points for a career average of 22.4. His work off the court earned a B-plus in English.

Becker and Mendell both moved to the first team this year after mention on reserve units in 1968. Becker, guard and captain of the New Mexico Lobos, has a cumulative career classroom mark of B-plus in history and, on the playing floor, averaged 11.5 points per game.

Mendell, who doubles as sports editor of the Wichita State yearbook, is an A-minus student in Journalism. He has been named twice to the Missouri Valley Conference all-Academic team. He had a 15.3 scoring average this last year, had 91 assists to lead team in that category and led in free throw percentage in the conference with an 83.3 mark.

Rich Yunkus of Georgia Tech is the lone sophomore on the first unit and he has great credentials. Yunkus turned in an overall scholastic mark of B-plus in industrial management. He led Tech scoring this year with a 24.1 average on the way to four new Tech records.

Zopf, a Duquesne guard, averaged 12.9 in scoring this past year. He was the playmaker for the Dukes team which went to the second round of NCAA play. With an A-minus in history over his first three years, Zopf is currently listed as candidate for a Rhodes Scholarship nomination this next school year.
