

EXPENSES, INCOME OF COLLEGE ATHLETICS DOUBLE

A 400-page analysis of the revenue and expenses of intercollegiate athletics has been completed confirming what most sports fans and economists already knew—rising operating costs are pinching everyone.

In the field of college athletics, expenses for the average department of intercollegiate athletics have risen more than 100 per cent during the period 1960-1969, and a summary of the causes shows:

More athletes, more sports and general program expansion	25%
Improved quality in more specialized instruction, better equipment and facilities, etc.	32%
Side effects of more activity and greater expense per athlete	9%
Inflationary trends and uncontrollable price changes	34%
	100%

The impressive, in-depth study was conducted by the University of Missouri-Columbia under contract from the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The director of the research was Dr. Mitchell H. Raiborn, CPA, operating under the general supervision of Dr. Joseph A. Silvoso, chairman of the Department of Accountancy at the University, and Arthur W. Nebel, dean of the University's School of Social and Community Services and the chairman of the special NCAA Committee on Intercollegiate Athletic Costs. Almost half of the NCAA's 636 member institutions participated in the research.

The average total expenses for an athletic program increased from $259,000 in 1960 to $548,000 in 1969. Among institutions which sponsor major football programs, the 1969 average was nearly $1.4 million.

After allowing 34 per cent for non-controllable inflationary factors, an analysis of some of the other cost increases showed:

Increase in number of sports sponsored—during the study period, the average institution increased the number of intercollegiate sports sponsored from 8.2 to 9.7.

Increase in cost and number of grants-in-aid—the average annual cost of a maximum grant-in-aid at an NCAA member institution rose from $1,284 in 1960 to $1,550 in 1969. The average number of full grants-in-aid awarded increased from 116 to 131 during the period 1965-1969. (Among the institutions which had grant-in-aid programs and sponsored intercollegiate football, 70 per cent attributed the larger number of grants to increased squad size.)

Larger athletic staff and more coaches—during the 1960-69 period, the average athletic staff increased by one-third, from 18 to 24, while the average number of full-time equivalent coaches rose by 40 per cent, from 10 to 14. Among the respondents, 57 per cent attributed the increase in number of coaches to greater specialization in the coaching of certain sports, and 67 per cent cited the addition of sports not previously offered. NEW FOOTBALL SYMBOL ON BILLBOARD

A new college football billboard for 1970 containing a new symbol for the game is being provided each football-playing member institution by the NCAA. Two copies of the billboard should be received on each campus about August 1.

In addition, the Association this summer is sponsoring radio and television promotional campaigns heralding the coming season.

Another spotlight will be turned on the college grid season Thursday, August 27, when ABC-TV presents an hour-long preview of the coming campaign: "College Football 1970—The Year of the Quarterbacks."

The show will be presented at 10 p.m., EDT, and will concentrate upon the unusually large number of top-rated, well-known collegiate quarterbacks who return this fall.

A special feature of the billboard is its physical makeup. The right one-third of the board is blank to permit each institution to place its home schedule or other message in that area. The board is a 24-sheet size poster, and is 9' by 21'.

Billboards in addition to the complimentary copies may be purchased by institutions at $6.50 each (f.o.b. Tulsa, Okla.) from Ted Thompson, Sales Associates, 601 Broadway, Denver, Colo. 80203.

Orders must be received by August 15.

102 Coming Up

The new symbol includes a design option. As shown on the black and white illustration of the board (which will be full color) in this issue of the NEWS, it is more symbolic and modern. As an alternative, it may be used with the number "102" in the ball, representing the 102nd season of college football.

(Although last year was the 100th anniversary of college football, it actually was the 101st season played—because a first anniversary does not occur until the second time an activity is conducted. The change to 102 was made this season to avoid confusion over this point later.)

Reproduction proofs of the symbol will be mailed to each football-playing member shortly.

Three NCAA Staff Changes Announced

Three staff changes in the NCAA Executive Office in Kansas City have been announced by Executive Director Walter Byers.

One change is to replace a departed staff member, one creates a new position and one is a change in assignment. In the first two cases, assistant sports information directors at NCAA member institutions are involved.

Grayle W. Howlett, III, joins the NCAA from the University of Michigan, while Bruce E. Skinner comes from the University of Washington.

Howlett, a Michigan graduate, will be NCAA promotion director, responsible for promotion of the NCAA's 26 championship events and its six College Division football bowl games. He replaced Jon Foley, who accepted a position as director of information at Springfield (Mass.) College.

Skinner, a Washington graduate, will become editor of the NCAA NEWS, the Association's newspaper. The NEWS will be published on a bi-monthly basis except for the summer months beginning with the 1970-71 academic year.

Mary Ehwa, currently a member of the NCAA public relations staff, has been named assistant editor of the NEWS. She is a graduate of the University of Missouri, Columbia.

A personal viewpoint . . . LESSONS IN LEARNING

It is becoming increasingly clear to those deeply concerned with college and university life that higher education is in disrepute with a large segment of the American public. Many of the colleges' best friends undoubtedly will remain skeptical until educational management ceases placing the burden of blame on external factors instead of internal mistakes which have been made by some people who are paid substantial amounts of money to protect and advance our educational heritage.

Colleges exist as insulated havens for freedom of thought, rational discourse and a continuing search for new knowledge and truth. Through the politicizing process far too many colleges have sacrificed that very fundamental reason for existence. This process, in the main, has been carried forward by a relatively small number of young people who really are not very serious students and a relatively small number of faculty people who are not very serious teachers. A hard-core revolutionary force—nationally stimulated and directed—has exploited the situation.

Even more serious, however is that the politicizing complicates the analysis and treatment. The politicizing has promoted the often accepted conclusion that permissiveness and liberalism are the same. (There is nothing in the views of John Morley, Thomas H. Huxley or Walter Lippmann, for that matter, to support such a proposition.) In fact, liberalism and discipline are much more compatible bedmates.

Since the situation has become politicized, the first step, it would seem, would be for conservatives and liberals to agree to act in concert to restore our colleges to their fundamental purpose and that can only be done by a reversal of the apparent educational mind-set in some quarters that problems will disappear if permissiveness is substituted for discipline.

A 1965 Prediction of Trouble

C. Clement French, then about to retire as president of Washington State University after a long and distinguished career in education, told a small dinner party in the nation's capital in August, 1965, that as devoted as he was as an educator, he was glad to be leaving. Why? Because the colleges were headed for serious trouble as a result of the "anything goes" attitude of the faculty and students.

This warning was sounded before today's activists knew where to find Viet Nam on the map.

Franklin D. Murphy was an excellent chancellor at two of our most distinguished universities. As board chairman for the Chandler empire, he waxed philosophical the other day to laud the "aware" college youth. He explained they were fashioning a new 21st century credo, "Sentio ergo sum." ("I feel, therefore I am.")

That really misses the point. Certainly young people are "aware." One of the things of which they are aware is that a college often is an amorphous institution in which the leadership is so fragmented that a hard-core group of revolutionaries can shut down a university.

They also are aware that at some institutions the administration is weak and can be bullied. They are aware that appeasement is the course of too many administrators and forgiveness is the college penalty for a crime. ("Crime" is meant to cover misdemeanors, felonies, assault and such youthful indiscretions as paint-spraying the word S--- in big red letters on Syracuse University's new $5 million Pei-designed Newhouse School of Journalism.) A university chancellor recently was commended for "defusing" an explosive situation when he went the popular "option" route; i.e., you can go home if you are afraid for your safety and take the grade you have, or finish the course, or take an incomplete or . . . well, Neville Chamberlain was applauded for securing (buying) "peace in our time" and he hardly had his umbrella put away before we were in the biggest war of them all.

Comparison Structures All

Students also are aware that many curriculums are outdated and repetitious; that they have to work their way through a lot of teaching assistants and instructors before they get to see some of the "big name" faculty; that some of the $30,000-a-year teachers skip their classes too often for other business; that too many teachers are substituting seminars and "free think" sessions for hard learning, and that the Total Pass-Fail grading system is backed more often by "lazy" teachers than sincerely-motivated reformers.

A faculty member recently explained that he supports Pass-Fail because "you really can't compare one person to another, you can only compare the person to himself." He is one person who has been in that insulated haven too long because he doesn't realize that comparison and selection structures all that is and all we have. (Wonder why good students usually want to be graded and poor students don't?)

Emerging from a university as a political activist and "aware" is no substitute for learning, for hard thought and academic discipline. A liberal education supposedly trains a student to think, reason and express himself intelligently in written and oral form. An educator's tendency to indulge the youthful mind does not accomplish that mission. In short, the permissive doctrine in higher education today appears, on all discernible counts, to be a failure and the more rapidly it is rejected the better. The net result comes out as a lowering of standards, personal and educational.

Nicholas Murray Butler was a great educator. (He must be resting fitfully if the Angels have told him about his beloved Columbia where he served as president 43 years.) In "The Meaning of Education," he cited five evidences of an education

1. Correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue.
2. Refined and gentle manners which are the expression of fixed habits and thoughts of action.
3. The power and habit of reflection.
4. The power of growth.
5. Efficiency, or the power to do.

The permissive "anything goes" theory of education gets failing marks on the first four. It is difficult to grade the last point because one must admit that some students are observing how to use force and coercion to get things done—even if it is the demoralization, closing or near-destruction of a university.

Why should athletic people be concerned?

Concern to College Athletics

Well first off, anything that hurts higher education hurts the nation; also, if higher education is in trouble, it follows that intercollegiate athletics is in trouble or soon will be. But of more immediacy and concern is that the calculated assault on discipline and standards eventually will focus on the dedication and discipline necessary to achieve athletic success. With it will come questions of spending institutional funds to support college sports instead of raising faculty salaries (or paying the 100% increase in insurance rates). In fact, it is not unlikely that those playful SDS-types might like to test the administration's courage by interrupting a football game or two. (The local SDS chapter at Tulane, named, interestingly enough, the Tulane Liberation Front, has taken upon itself to write prospective student-athletes and discourage them from enrolling at Tulane.)

Remarkably, many of the policies of permissive-minded educators seem to embrace discredited practices for which intercollegiate athletics has been criticized willy-nilly for the past half century: Backdoor admissions—soft courses—missed classes—slovenly dress—manipulated majors—non-graduation!

College administrators have made extraordinary progress toward eliminating such abuses from competitive college sports. Intercollegiate athletics stands today as an important, fully justified educational discipline. Let us not sacrifice its gains or demean its meaning at the hands of an obvious destructive element which, tiring of the Indo China problems, might well attack intercollegiate athletics next.

Walter Byers.

P.S. Prospects? At the Oakdale, Mich., elementary school recently, the pupils staged a sit-in when their recess period was suspended for "rude, noisy and discourteous behavior" on the playground. The slogan: "No recess, no school!" And last month an NEA task force recommended less discipline from kindergarten through high school as a means of dealing with student unrest.

FINANCIAL SURVEY: INCOME, EXPENSES DOUBLE OVER 10-YEAR PERIOD

able increases in coaches occurred in football and basketball.

Travel expenses—major factors here are additional sports, larger football traveling squads and additional recruiting expenses because of difficulty in obtaining the desired number of athletes. Also of significance were use of better facilities for travel and lodging, and increased scouting of opponents.

Five categories account for over three-fourths of the expenses for an average athletic program. Grants-in-aid average 21 to 23 per cent; game guarantees and options, 13 to 16 per cent; salaries and wages, 23 to 31 per cent; travel, scouting and recruiting, 9 to 11 per cent; and uniforms, equipment and supplies, 5 per cent.

Among the major institutions, football accounted for 51 per cent of total expenses and 68 per cent of total revenue. Average basketball expenses amounted to 10 per cent while creating 9 per cent of the total revenue.

While expenses doubled during the study period, so did revenues. In 1969, NCAA members realized $205 million in athletic revenues, approximately half of which came from ticket sales for home games.

Although revenues and expenses increased at approximately the same rate during the survey period, administrators realize that revenues are reaching a peak due to limited stadium capacities. Consequently, they were asked for their reactions to several proposals designed to reduce expenses.

Limit On Aid Favored

Among responding institutions which have grant-in-aid programs, 60 per cent favored a national limitation on the total number of full awards an institution may make. Also favored as a means of reducing costs are earlier signing dates for letters-of-intent, national limitations on the size of traveling squads, a limitation on the number of institutions a prospective student-athlete may visit, and replacing four-year awards with grants which are renewable annually.

A copy of the full report has been forwarded to the member institutions which participated in the survey. A summary will be provided all member institutions.

NCAA LEADERS TO GATHER IN SEATTLE

The annual late-summer meeting of the NCAA Executive Committee and a special Council meeting will be held August 17-21 in Seattle, Wash.

The Executive Committee will meet August 17-18, and the 18-man policy-making Council August 19-21.

All sessions will be held at the Washington Plaza hotel.

Chief assignments of the Executive Committee are review of the 1969-70 financial reports of the Association and preparation of its 1970-71 budget.

The Council will begin preparation of specific legislative proposals to be presented to the NCAA's 65th annual Convention in January in Houston, Tex. Further restriction of recruiting and drafts of the recodified NCAA Constitution and Bylaws, which include substantive changes, are the main items the Council will consider.

NCAA President Harry M. Cross, University of Washington, will preside at both meetings.

NOTES and QUOTES

Doug McArthur, sports information director at the University of Puget Sound, has been promoted to the post of director of athletics at that institution. McArthur is a graduate of Puget Sound. He served for a time as Director of Parks and Recreation for the city of Tacoma. He is a member of the NCAA Public Relations Committee.

Bob Moyers, sports information director at Wittenberg University since 1965, has resigned his position effective July 15 to accept a similar post at Bowling Green State University.

The 29-year-old sports publicist also will resign as director of the Ohio Conference Sports Bureau when he reports to Bowling Green.

Before going to Wittenberg, Moyers was an assistant in the sports information office at the University of Iowa for two years while completing work for a master's degree.

At Bowling Green, Moyers will replace Dick Maxwell, a senior who has served as a part-time sports information director since Jerry Mix resigned last fall.

Rensselaer Polytechnic basketball assistant Ken Slonis will succeed Dr. John Glinski as head coach at State University of New York College at Oswego. Glinski, whose teams posted a 163-76 record in 12 seasons, will continue as athletic director.

Replacing Dick Garibaldi, who has resigned as head basketball coach at Santa Clara University, is Carroll Williams, Garibaldi's assistant and head freshman coach for the past seven years. Garibaldi quit to take a position with a sports equipment firm.

Harvard University's new sports information director is Ron Cantera, who has been public relations director of the Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League for the past five years.

1970 Feature Series Available

The NCAA Football Program Feature Series still is available to football program editors for the 1970 season.

The Series, a service of the Association's Public Relations Committee, is designed to add national flavor to each member institution's football programs.

Included in this season's Feature Series is Rube Samuelson's story of former All-America tackle Paul Schwegler and his lifesaving fraternity—"The Viking Blood Bank"—the story of the humanitarian efforts of several former football greats.

There is a look into the future of college football—"The Story of College Football—Circa 2070"—by John Mooney, president of the Football Writers Association of America.

Several reminders of college football's great past are included—"Number Forty-Four for Syracuse," the story of three Syracuse All-America ball-carriers who brought great honor to the number "44" and "Holy Cross—A Bug Beats a Football Team," the story not so much of the defeat of a team's hopes for a fine season as of the rallying of the entire college football community behind a fellow competitor in trouble.

The unique story of a football family—"Football's Amazing Majors Family"—is told by Tom Siler, sports editor of the Knoxville News Sentinel.

There is a heart-warming open letter to youth from Clifton E. Cushman, a former Olympic athlete, now listed as missing in action in Vietnam. Finally, the Series includes a new set of "Halfback" cartoons.

The Feature Series is available from the NCAA executive office. The price for mats of the Series is $15 for institutions with a program circulation of less than 10,000 and $25 for those with circulations over that mark. The prices for offset proofs for the same categories are $10 and $20.

4 Titles for Bruins

When UCLA won the NCAA tennis tournament, it was the fourth National Collegiate Championship earned by the Bruins this year. Earlier crowns came in basketball, water polo and volleyball. The Bruins' total matches the record total of cross-town rival USC, which won four in 1962-63. That year the Trojans were champs in swimming, track and field, baseball and tennis.

NCAA INSURANCE PROGRAM OFFERED FOR THE 19TH YEAR

The NCAA's intercollegiate athletic accident insurance program begins its 19th year of operation in 1970-71, with an enrollment of at least 250 member institutions anticipated.

It provides protection against catastrophic medical expenses resulting from injuries suffered while participating in intercollegiate athletic competition.

When the insurance program originated in 1951, the premium rate was one dollar per athlete covered, regardless of sport or area of the nation. Up until 1966, the rates were still the same across the nation.

Then, beginning with 1967, the nation was zoned into nine geographical regions and premium rates were adjusted to correspond with costs prevailing in different localities of the country.

In addition, various sports have now been classified in separate groups in order to allocate higher premium rates to those in which the incidence of claims is greatest. Over the years, approximately 75 to 80 per cent of the claims have been submitted for football.

Sports other than football in which the likelihood of injury is greatest are boxing, ice hockey, judo, karate, lacrosse, skiing and soccer.

Highest Rate

The current premium rate for football in the highest rated zone—the Pacific Coast—is $105 per athlete. This covers fall and spring practice with a $250 deductible; the $500 deductible premium is $26.25. The lowest premium rate—in the New England and Middle Atlantic areas—is $2.65 for $250 deductible or $1.75 for the $500 deductible covering cross-country, fencing, golf, rifle, swimming and tennis.

The insurance program is administered by the Association's Insurance Committee: Walter L. Haas, University of Chicago, chairman; James R. McCoy, Ohio State University; and Rix N. Yard, Tulane University.

In 1969, the Committee negotiated a three-year contract with the Travelers Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn., to underwrite the accident insurance plan, with premium rates being guaranteed for the three-year period commencing September 1, 1969.

Competitive Rates

The Insurance Committee believes the present program includes the most liberal benefits available at rates which are competitive in light of today's increasing hospital and medical costs.

The NCAA also is offering again a travel accident plan which provides death and dismemberment protection and covers student-athletes and institutional personnel who travel on athletic department business from the time they leave the institution until their return. Enrollment totaled 165 institutions and 17 conferences last year.

To enroll, an institution must file a properly completed enrollment form for each program. To obtain the forms, an institution may write the NCAA executive offices.

In order for insurance to be effective September 1, the completed application and premium payment must be received by that date in each case. If received after September 1, coverage will become effective on the day application and premium are received.

Cal Poly SLO Wins CD Track Championship

St. Paul, Minn.—On the eve of the 1970 National College Division Track and Field Championships, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo coach Dick Purcell was certain his team didn't have the potential to score as many points as it did the last two years when it won the title.

He didn't even think the team should be rated as the favorite, but it was, and justified that ranking by winning its third straight title in a great meet at Macalaster College.

Cal Poly scored 49 points to edge C.W. Post and Occidental. Post, behind the running of Ron Stonitsch, gained second place with 45 points, one ahead of Occidental. The Californians earned 67 points in 1968 and 76 in 1969.

Seven defending champions were beaten, with only Mathyas Michael of Cal Poly successfully repeating in the 880-yard run.

Four records were broken and another tied. Stonitsch broke records in both the six and three-mile runs.

In the six-mile on Friday evening, he shattered the mark set in 1964 by Jim Keefe, 29:16.6, by coming from behind in the time of 28:46.9. Stonitsch had trailed John Cragg of St. John's for most of the race, but poured it on in the last lap to win by 25 yards.

Stonitsch came back on Saturday to move into the lead early in the three-mile and beat defending champion Bill Scobey of Humboldt State. Stonitsch did the distance in 13:56.0, with Scobey finishing in 13:58.7, both of them under Scobey's record of 14:00.4 set a year ago.

Clyde McPherson of Adelphi was involved in the other two new records, running the 440 in 46.2, half a second faster than the record, then anchoring the Adelphi mile relay team to a record 3:08.0.

North Carolina Central tied the record in the 440 relay, with a time 40.4.

Occidental came up with the only other double winner of the meet,

Chuck Smith, a senior running track for the first time. He took the 100-yard dash in a wind-aided 9.4, then came back to win the 220 with a time of 20.7 on the full turn.

Steve Gough of Seattle Pacific became the first College Division Decathlon champion with a convincing victory, scoring 7,269 points. He also added to his team's total by finishing third in the triple jump during the actual meet. The decathlon places were scored as in the other events, with Seattle Pacific getting 10 points for Gough's first place.

Cage Rules for 1970-71 Clarified

Participants and fans of basketball will find only minor changes in the rules for 1970-71. In fact, the game itself hasn't been changed at all, although some clarifications have been made by the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada.

The jurisdiction of the officials now begins 30 minutes before game time, and the rule against a dunking during warm-up drills has been strengthened by this change. The official is now responsible for the entire pre-game practice, and will invoke the penalty called for, a technical foul.

The free throw lane violation received special emphasis, and the Committee expects the rule to be called more closely.

A wording change in rule 1, section 14, now recommends that the benches be placed along the sideline. This formerly was mandatory.

Non-jumpers may not change position on the restraining circle after the official is ready to make the toss as a result of another action.

The Committee also emphasized that backing-in is the responsibility of the man with the ball, and felt this foul is not being called often enough.

Officials were urged to enforce the bench rule, keeping the coach seated on the bench except to confer with the scorer, timer, and his team, and the third technical foul on a coach was made a flagrant foul, calling for banishment.

For the third straight year, Ohio University reigns as the Mid-American Conference all-sports champion.

It was the sixth all-sports crown for Ohio in the last eight years, and the eighth since the award was originated in 1959.

Houston Takes 12th Golf Title

Columbus, Ohio—The University of Houston made it an even dozen National Collegiate Golf Championships it has won by taking the 1970 tournament June 22-27 at Ohio State University.

The Cougars defended their 1969 title, made their record 12 of the last 15 titles and continued their domination of the sport.

Houston out-shot second-place Wake Forest by an even 10 strokes, 1172-1182. Brigham Young and Oklahoma State followed at 1189 and 1190 respectively.

The first three individual finishers represented the top three teams, with Houston's John Mahaffey the champion at 284. One stroke back was Lanny Wadkins of Wake Forest, while Ray Leach of BYU had a 286 and Tom Kite of Texas had 287.

Defending champion Bob Clark of Cal State Los Angeles never really got hot, took a third-round 79, and finished at 296. A total of 108 individuals participated.

SFVSC WINS CD DIAMOND CHAMPIONSHIP

Springfield, Mo.—San Fernando Valley State College won the College Division Baseball Championship the hard way—coming back through the loser's bracket—despite having its top two pitchers sidelined with injuries.

Valley State took the title by beating Springfield, Southwest Missouri and Nicholls State of Louisiana twice. Southwest had put the Matadors in the loser's bracket on the opening day, 6-2. Valley State got another shot at the host team and pulled out a 6-1 win.

Nicholls State, meanwhile, was winning its first two, over Springfield and Southwest, to go into the Saturday afternoon finals needing only one win to knock Valley State out of the tourney.

The Californians pulled off a 9-5 win with three runs in the eighth inning and two more in the ninth to send the tournament into the seventh game for the first time in the three-year history of the event.

Brian Ford gave a gutty performance on the mound for the Matadors, allowing Nicholls only two hits, to win 2-1. He was opposed by Gene Duhe, who had won on the Wednesday night, and who gave up only four hits in eight innings.

The winners scored the deciding run in the seventh inning without a hit. Three men walked and, with one out, Nicholls attempted to turn over a double play to end the inning but missed, allowing the run to score.

Valley State had scored in the third inning when Dennis Collier doubled, was sacrificed to third by Ford and scored on an infield out.

Nicholls opened the tournament on Wednesday afternoon with a 3-1 win over Springfield. The Colonels got a clutch pitching job from Duhe who gave up ten hits and walked four, but managed to shut the Chiefs off consistently when he was in trouble.

Springfield left 12 runners stranded, three of them in the first inning when they threatened to blow the game wide open. A home run by Peter Workman, Nicholls catcher, put the game on ice in the eighth inning. It was the only four-bagger of the tourney.

Wednesday night it was Ken Watkins of the home forces in a superb 6-2 win over San Fernando. Watkins has now won the opener for Southwest two years in a row. Ford started for SFVSC, but was lifted in the seventh. Watkins gave up two first inning runs but only one base hit after the second inning.

Valley State and Springfield tied up in a loser's bracket game that started at 1:30 Thursday and ended Friday afternoon. Rain caused suspension of the game with Valley State in a 3-2 lead in the sixth inning.

Valley State came back to score single runs in the seventh and eighth innings, then had to fight off a Springfield rally in the ninth that had scored one run and had the winning run at the plate. Bob Johnson, who went all the way, managed to get out of the inning.

Nicholls State appeared to be solidly in the driver's seat with a 8-5 win over Southwest in the winner's bracket Friday night, but it took a good relief job by Matt Dinkle to save the win for Ken Alfred. Dinkle pitched the last 1 2/3 innings and struck out four men with a blazing fast ball.

Southwest bowed out of the tourney in the second half of the Friday night schedule, losing to San Fernando's Larry Ramirez 6-1. Ramirez was the number one pitcher for Valley State a year ago, but had troubles this season, posting a 7-5 record. He was rarely in trouble in this game, allowing six hits and walking four, but striking out nine.

The Saturday afternoon game was the longest of the seven, going 3:17, but it was all excitement. Valley State stranded 14 runners, Nicholls 13. Nicholls has been a comeback team all season, and didn't give up easily in this game. The Colonels had many baserunners in the late innings, but couldn't score off left hander Mike Rapkin. Nicholls made it to the Championships by winning the Mid-East regional over defending Champ Illinois State, Southern Illinois at Edwardsville and Union University. Nicholls lost the opener of that tourney but came back to win.

Valley State beat Chapman, Sacramento State and UC Irvine to make the trip. Chapman had been rated the top CD team in the nation.

Valley State lost two pitchers with injuries in the regionals: Lew Lerner, who had an 11-2 record during the regular season, and Steve Lee, who was 6-6 but with a 2.05 earned-run-average. Both are underclassmen and will be the nucleus of coach Bob Hiebert's squad next year.

Springfield stranded 23 runners in the two losses, with the heart of its order having troubles at the plate. Centerfielder Juhan Laurits and second baseman-outfielder Joe Cervino seemed to be on base constantly. Laurits had four stolen bases in the two games, Cervino had five hits.

UC IRVINE DOMINATES CD NET TOURNEY

Hayward, Calif.—The University of California, Irvine, dominated the 1970 National College Division Tennis Championships June 9-13, winning the singles and doubles titles in addition to the team crown.

The singles title went to Earl O'Neill, while Chuck Nachand and Gregg Jablonski took the doubles.

UC Irvine scored 25 points in winning, the highest number ever scored by a team, 13 points better than runnerup Cal Poly College at San Luis Obispo.

The Irvine team victory marked the seventh time in the eight-year history of the tourney that a team from California won the title. The winning team was so dominant that both runnersup were from the Irvine campus also.

O'Neill defeated Craig Neslage 6-3, 6-3 in capturing the singles title, but their combined efforts were not good enough to overcome the excellent play of teammates Chuck Nachand and Gregg Jablonski who won the doubles title 6-3, 6-4. Jablonski also advanced to the semi-finals of singles play before being defeated by Neslage.

A field of 54 players made up the singles play, with 25 doubles teams, all from 20 participating colleges.

Play throughout the tournament was close, with only four of eight seeded players advancing past the first day of singles play. Doubles play was fairly close to expectations, with seven of eight seeded teams advancing to the quarter finals.

The top-seeded team of O'Neill and Neslage defeated its opponents in the semi-finals during early play on the last day, then teamed in the finals of the doubles, losing in a closely played match. O'Neill and Neslage then squared off in the finals for the showdown in singles.

TROJAN COMEBACK EARNS WORLD SERIES TITLE

Omaha, Nebr.—Record-breaking attendance and two come-from-behind, extra-inning victories by Southern California highlighted the 1970 College World Series, won by the Trojans.

Florida State succumbed in the title game after 15 thrilling innings, 2-1, giving Southern Cal a record sixth championship.

Both the single-game and Series attendance marks were shattered. A record 12,798 viewed Dartmouth's 7-6 win over Iowa State in a first round game while the 11,542 fans who attended the championship game brought the Series total to a record 74,683. The old records were 11,761 and 63,906, respectively, both having been set in 1967.

As it turned out, the record number of fans saw the longest Series in history with 146 innings being required to determine a champion, one more than the 1962 tournament.

Forty-eight hours prior to their victory, the Trojans' stock was at a low ebb. They were trailing Texas, 7-1, after six innings of play. In the seventh, however, the eventual champions tied the score with a six-run rally, after which a pitching duel developed between relievers Larry Hardy of Texas and Jim Barr of Southern Cal. Hardy faltered in the 14th and the Trojans won, 8-7, handing Texas its first loss.

The opening game of the session saw Florida State eliminate Ohio, 2-0, behind the combined pitching efforts of Tom Henson and Mac Scarce, the latter fanning four of the five batters he faced.

Trojans Win Draw

With three teams remaining after the fourth round, a drawing was held to determine which received the bye into the finals. Southern California coach Rod Dedeaux picked the correct envelope, leaving Texas and Florida State to settle the other spot.

Most Outstanding Player Gene Ammann pitched Florida State to the finals with an easy 11-2 win over the Longhorns. Texas started the injured James Street on the mound, but he failed to survive the first inning. A six-run seventh inning put the game on ice for the Seminoles.

Five Longhorn pitchers were shelved for 13 hits while Coach Cliff Gustafson was forced to rest his ace, Burt Hooton, as he had pitched and won his fourth World Series game in two years just two days previously.

Florida State drew first blood in the final game after two were out in the fifth inning. Tom Porter singled to right. Starting pitcher Pat Osburn's bouncer was gloved by Trojan pitcher Greg Widman, but his throw sailed into the bullpen and Porter scored from first. Osburn injured his knee running to first and had to be removed from the game.

The Trojans tied the score in the seventh, also after two outs, with a pair of pinchhitters figuring prominently. Jeff Port was hit by Ferguson, and Jeff Pedersen drew a walk. Shortstop Cal Meier singled to center off Mike Slade, scoring Port. Scarce then fanned Dan Stolligrosz to end the inning.

Scarce retired 15 consecutive men and in his 7 1/3 inning stint, only five men reached base; one on an error, one on an intentional walk, one with a hit and two others on walks.

When Meier walked on a full count to open the 15th inning, Seminole coach Jack Stallings brought in Carl Gromek. Stolligrosz drew a walk and the Trojans filled the bases when Dave Kingman's well-placed bunt was unplayable.

Frank Alfano swung and missed at Gromek's first two offerings, then sent a bouncer toward third. Gromek cut the ball off, but slipped and fell as he attempted to stop and his throw to the plate was too late to catch Meier streaking home with the winning run.

Barr picked up his second win of the week in relief with a masterful performance. In the final eight innings, Florida State collected only three hits and a walk with no Seminole reaching third base.

Florida State allowed only nine runs in six games, the second best defense ever in the Series. California permitted its five opponents only three runs enroute to the 1957 title.

BOROWIAK LEADS BRUINS TO NET CROWN

Salt Lake City, Utah — Singles champion Jeff Borowiak—the fifth seed—led UCLA to the 1970 National Collegiate Tennis Championship June 15-20 at the University of Utah.

Stanford's Roscoe Tanner was runnerup.

The race for team honors was the closest in years, with only seven points separating the top six teams. Trinity and Rice tied for second place at 22 points.

In doubles competition, Miami's (Fla.) Luis Garcia and Pat Cramer beat Stanford's Tanner and Rob Rippner for the title, boosting their team to fourth place in the process.

Tanner, a freshman who was seeded fourth in the singles and only seventh-seeded with Rippner in doubles, was the surprise of the Tournament. He finally wore down and settled for the two second places after he needed five sets to win his semifinals matches in both singles and doubles. As it was, he led Stanford to fifth place, one point ahead of defending champion USC.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA shortstop Cal Meier scores the winning run in the last of the 15th inning giving the Trojans a 2-1 edge over Florida State for their sixth National Collegiate Baseball Championship. Seminole catcher Harry Saferight cannot reach the bouncing throw (note ball under Meier's right arm) from pitcher Carl Gromek who fell while fielding the ball. INTERPRETATIONS of NCAA Legislation

If a prospective student's matriculation at an NCAA institution is solicited by a member of that institution's athletic department (or by a representative of the institution's athletic interests), and the prospect receives institutional financial aid, then the presumption is that the institutional aid was awarded on bases which took into consideration in some degree the prospect's athletic ability, the NCAA Officers have reminded the Association's membership.

In urging the membership to keep this principle in mind, the NCAA Officers pointed out that Constitution 3-4-(b) and 3-4-(c), and Bylaw 4-6-(b) were applicable in such instances.

The Officers noted that if an incoming student-athlete has not been athletically recruited (as defined in Official Interpretation 100) and is receiving governmental assistance or institutional financial aid awarded on bases having no relationship whatsoever to the recipient's athletic skill or reputation, then the above cited NCAA legislation pertaining to financial aid and his eligibility are not applicable.

High School Must Furnish Rank or GPA

In connection with the 1.600 legislation, the Officers said that it is the responsibility of the high school or the preparatory school to provide the required high school rank (HSR) or high school grade point average (HSGPA). An NCAA member utilizing a prediction table based upon HSGPA must secure the computation from the candidate's high school. The member college may calculate the prospect's GPA for prediction purposes, but the college-computed GPA may not be higher than that provided by the high school.

The following additional interpretations are presented for the membership's guidance:

Situation: A 1970 graduate of a United States high school wishes to enroll at an NCAA member institution but his high school does not provide class rank or grade point average.

Question: Under these conditions can the prospective student-athlete qualify for financial aid and eligibility to practice for and participate in intercollegiate athletic competition in accordance with the provisions of Bylaw 4-6-(b)-(1)?

Answer: No. In order to assist the student-athlete to establish predictability (1.600), the high school must provide his class rank or a grade point average. There is no procedure by which his predictability could be determined other than by use of class rank or grade point average [Bylaw 4-6-(b)-(1)].

Situation: A member institution wishes to receive funds from a professional sports organization, either: (a) the money will be placed in the institution's general fund and credited to the athletic department for an unspecified purpose or (b) the money will not be earmarked by the donor for any specific use but received and credited to institutional funds for financial assistance to student-athletes generally.

Question: Would NCAA legislation permit the member institution to accept [in (a) and (b)] and utilize such funds for awards to student-athletes?

Answer: No. [NCAA Constitution 3-1-O.I. 11]

Situation: Tickets to professional sports contests are available to a member institution on a complimentary basis. The institution plans to use these tickets for distribution to squad members and/or entertainment of prospective student-athletes and their parents or friends.

Question: Are such practices permissible under NCAA legislation?

Answer: No. In the case of the enrolled student-athlete, a gift of the tickets represents an unacceptable fringe benefit. [NCAA Constitution 3-1-O.I. 10] In the case of a prospective student-athlete, a gift of the tickets represents an improper inducement. [NCAA Bylaw 6-1]

Situation: A member institution wishes to permit its basketball squad members to participate in a "wheelchair" basketball game following the close of the institution's regular basketball season. The opponent would be an established "wheelchair" team.

Question: Would this activity be permissible under present NCAA legislation?

Answer: Yes, provided the team does not wear regular basketball uniforms and there is no regular practice prior to the game. [NCAA Bylaws 8-1-(b) and 8-2-(b)]

Situation: A member institution which conducts an established annual track and field meet wishes to invite an outstanding prospective student-athlete to participate in an established "open" event. Under the procedures for conducting the meet, the host institution pays the expenses of competitors in this open event. The host institution is actively recruiting this outstanding prospect.

Question: Can the institution pay the expenses of the prospective student-athlete in order that he may participate in this "open" event?

Answer: Yes, provided the expenses of all other competitors are paid; the expenses are not paid from athletic department (non-meet) funds; and the expenses of the prospect are limited to actual transportation, room and board. This trip must be considered the one paid visit to the institution's campus with the prospect remaining not in excess of 48 hours. NCAA Bylaw 6-3 is not violated because the competition is a regularly scheduled event open to all qualified competitors. [NCAA Bylaw 6-5, 6-5-(a)]

Situation: A member institution wishes to sponsor the Junior National AAU Gymnastics Championships. The age limits are 11 and up for girls and 13 and up for boys. The institution fully understands its obligations under NCAA Bylaw 6-3 and also understands the provisions of Bylaw 6-3-O.I. 135.

Question: Does present NCAA legislation permit the member institution to support this activity?

Answer: Yes, provided the meet is approved by the NCAA Council (and is consistent with whatever USGF rules may apply). [NCAA Bylaw 6-3-O.I. 135]

Situation: A prospective student-athlete is enrolled as a freshman in a junior college where he has been in attendance less than two full semesters or three full quarters. Further, he has not been tested in regard to 1.600 legislation.

Question: May the prospective student-athlete be tested (national test on national testing date) during his freshman year at the junior college similar to an untested freshman at a senior college?

Answer: Yes. [NCAA Bylaw 4-6-(b)-O.I. 116]

Situation: A student at a junior college is untested and has completed one year or more at the junior college.

Question: Is it permissible to test him prior to his enrollment at an NCAA member institution for purposes of NCAA Bylaw 4-6-(b)?

Answer: No. After completion of one year at the junior college, his eligibility for practice, participation and financial aid will be governed by the record he has made at the junior college. [NCAA Bylaw 4-6-(b)-O.I. 112]

Situation: It is the intent of a member institution to operate its program of intercollegiate athletics under a combination of administrative and faculty control. In addition to administrative personnel and faculty members, the board of control includes alumni and student members.

Question: What ratio of administrative personnel and faculty members is necessary to maintain institutional control per the NCAA Constitution?

Answer: Administrative and/or faculty personnel must constitute at least a majority of the board and if the board has a parliamentary requirement necessitating more than a simple majority to transact some or all of its business, then the administrative and/or faculty members of the board must be of at least sufficient number to constitute that majority. [NCAA Constitution 3-3]

Situation: An institution wishes to award financial aid to student-athletes through the actions of a committee made up of faculty members, or perhaps a committee composed of faculty and students. Conceivably, the committee could be the institution's faculty committee on athletics and the athletic department could be represented on that group. As far as award of financial assistance is concerned, the committee's administration would not extend beyond the realm of athletics.

Question: Can such a committee function within the framework of present NCAA legislation?

Answer: No. Under present legislation, financial assistance to student-athletes must be administered by the institution's committee or agency which administers financial aid to students generally. [NCAA Constitution 3-4-(a)-O.I. 40]

A native of New York City, the 27-year-old Giannini is a 1966 graduate of the University of Florida. He also attended St. Leo's Junior College in Florida and Furman University.

Ted Haracz, 28, assistant director of sports information at Notre Dame, has been named director of Purdue's sports information activities.

A graduate of the College of St. Thomas, St. Paul, Minn., Haracz (pronounced Harris) went to Notre Dame in February, 1968, after two years as sports information director at the University of Illinois-Chicago Circle campus.

Gray Simons, former three-time NCAA champion, two-time Olympic team member and, currently, the coach at Lock Haven State College, has been named the wrestling coach at Indiana State University.

For the past six years, Simons has coached his Lock Haven teams to a 59-10-1 record, placing sixth and seventh in NCAA competition.

As a college wrestler at Lock Haven State, Simons won three NCAA titles (60-61-62) and was named the Outstanding Wrestler of the meet in both his junior and senior years.

Simons was twice a member of the U.S. Olympic wrestling team, placing fifth at Rome in 1960, and then, even though he was unbeaten in the 1964 games at Tokyo with a 3-0-2 record, Simons failed to place because of a complicated scoring system.

He replaces Chuck Sanders, who is stepping out of the coaching ranks after nine varsity seasons. Sanders will remain in the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation as a faculty member.

Conference of Midwestern Universities.

In a similar action, Big Ten Conference Commissioner William R. Reed was appointed to the NCAA Financial Aid Committee, replacing Evashevski.

Flynn will hold the TV chairmanship only until January 1, 1971, at which time his term on the Committee will expire.

Glenn Gossett, head football coach and athletic director at Northwestern State University for the past three years, has assumed the additional responsibilities of head track coach.

William E. Partlow, head basketball coach at Benedict College, has been named director of athletics, replacing Thomas S. Martin who will remain as director of health and physical education.

NCAA PROMOTES 70 GRID SEASON

The 11 television shows being produced include features on the quarterbacks, running backs, receivers, linebackers and defensive backs, plus illustrations of second effort in the college game, the spirit and pageantry of college football and the special role a quarterback plays.

The format of the radio shows is similar. Both are now in stations throughout the country and should be on the air currently and until early September.

DEF Program Continues

In addition, the Association is continuing its New York-based electronic feed program whereby the radio and television networks regularly receive film and tapes of college football for use on network news shows and to feed to affiliated stations for use on local news shows.

The promotional program is conducted by the Committee for the Advancement of Intercollegiate Football in cooperation with the NCAA Television Committee. Funds derived from the NCAA's share of the income from college grid telecasts are utilized.

Robert T. Bronzan, director of athletics at San Jose State, is chairman of the Advancement Committee. Wilcs Hallock, commissioner of the Western Athletic Conference, is chairman of the TV Committee's subcommittee for football promotion. Counsel and assistance have been provided those groups by the NCAA Public Relations Committee, of which Bill Young, University of Wyoming sports information director, is chairman.

FLYNN NAMED CHAIRMAN OF NCAA'S TV COMMITTEE

William J. Flynn, NCAA secretary-treasurer and director of athletics at Boston College, has been appointed chairman of the NCAA Television Committee, a post he held prior to his election as secretary-treasurer.

Two new members were appointed to the TV Committee, Donald B. Canham, director of athletics at the University of Michigan, and James B. Higgins, director of athletics at Lamar State College of Technology.

The vacancy in District 4 and in the chairmanship resulted from the resignation of Forest Evashevski as director of athletics at the University of Iowa.
