

Not Enough Time to Prepare

Special Convention Will Not Be Held

A special NCAA Convention to act on the Association's Financial Aid Committee Report will not be called this spring as discussed at the NCAA Convention January 11-13 in Houston.

"The Committee didn't think it would have enough time to listen to all the people who have something to say about the Report and then get its final recommendations into legislation before a special Convention could be held," said William J. Flynn, chairman of the Committee and director of athletics at Boston College. "And we didn't want to make it look as if we were trying to railroad it through."

The Financial Aid Committee, which first presented the Report to the membership at the Convention, offering it principally as a means to combat the rising costs of intercollegiate athletics, has proposed a plan which would base all financial aid on the need of the individual student-athlete, and would reduce the number of football and basketball grants to 30 and to 6 respectively on an annual basis, subject to "banking" privileges.

Opposition Voiced

Following the Convention, where mostly opposition was voiced to the report at a roundtable discussion January 11, the Committee decided to add four consulting coaches to represent the 15 NCAA affiliated coaches associations.

Each of the coaches' groups is to nominate two members, with the NCAA Officers then to select one consultant each from the Football and Basketball Coaches associations, and two more from the remaining 26 nominees. The consultants would be non-voting members.

The Committee, which also added outgoing NCAA President Harry M. Cross of the University of Washington, will hold its first post-Convention meeting February 28-March 2 in Denver.

"We want to give a hearing to the Football, Basketball and other Coaches' Associations," Flynn said, "and to anyone else who wants to have a hearing."

"Then we'll see what comes out of this meeting and the several other meetings we probably will hold to determine whether a report can be presented at the next Convention."

That is scheduled for next January 6-8 at Hollywood, Fla.

"We have several other things to talk about now, too," Flynn added.

"Personally, I think the freshman rule may affect the outlook of the Committee."

Frosh to Play

At the recent Convention, the delegates voted to allow freshman participation in College Division basketball and football, and by only a 102-113 margin was a similar proposal defeated for University Division events.

Freshman participation is allowed in all other UD events.

"I know the rule only applies for Championship events," Flynn said, "but conferences usually follow NCAA legislation. If freshmen were to become eligible in every sport, it certainly would be weighed most seriously by the Committee."

"In my discussions with College Division people who wanted freshman eligibility, some of them said they wanted freshman participation because they needed the manpower, but most said they wanted it because of rising costs."

"An institution doesn't have to have as many coaches, as many hotel rooms, as many meals, or a lot of other things by not having freshman teams. I realize there probably would be sub-varsities of some sort. But I wouldn't anticipate those programs would be as extensive."

McFillen Joins NCAA Executive Office Staff

Ralph McFillen, 29, a world history, physical education instructor and coach at Raytown South High School in Raytown, Mo., has been hired as an executive assistant in the NCAA executive offices in Kansas City, Mo.

He will aid Assistant Executive Director Warren S. Brown in investigating infractions cases, which will allow Brown more time to concentrate on official interpretations.

Born in Parsons, Kansas, McFillen attended Belleville High School in Belleville, Kansas, where he participated in football, track and basketball.

K-State Athlete

He majored in education and minored in physical education at Kansas State University, from which he graduated in 1964. While an undergraduate at K-State, McFillen lettered three years in football and two years in track.

In football, McFillen set a new

K-State record for pass receiving, led the team in scoring, led the Big-8 in pass receiving, was a member of the All-Big-8 Second Team and, in 1963, was voted "Most Inspirational Player."

FCA Member

He was a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He won the Distinguished Cadet Award in K-State's advanced Air Force ROTC.

Following his graduation, McFillen worked as a graduate assistant in football while studying for his Master's Degree in education.

After obtaining his master's degree, he taught one year in California and one in Kansas before assuming his post at Raytown South in 1967.

"I feel bad about leaving coaching because I love it, but this position with the NCAA is an advancement and a challenge for me," McFillen stated recently.

Ramer, Barnes Chosen to Head NCAA; Other Officers Elected, Shuffled

Dr. Earl M. Ramer, a seven-year member of the NCAA Council from the University of Tennessee, was elected president of the Association January 13 at the conclusion of the 65th annual Convention in Houston.

Dr. Samuel E. Barnes of Howard University was selected as secretary-treasurer, while five other representatives of NCAA members will join the Council and Executive Committee.

Dr. Ramer has served two two-year and one three-year terms on the Council since 1964. He took over as Tennessee's faculty athletic representative in 1961.

Lambuth Graduate

He attended Lambuth College in Jackson, received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Peabody College in Nashville and his Ph.D. from Columbia. He joined the UT Faculty in 1944, and became head of the College's Department of Curriculum and Instruction in 1954.

Dr. Barnes has served on the Council for five years and currently is a member of the NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship and Olympic committees.

He served as Howard University's director of athletics and chairman of its Physical Education Department from 1956 to 1969. He has been a faculty member of the institution since 1947, and currently is a professor of physical education as well as the institution's faculty representative.

He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Oberlin

College in 1936 and 1947, and his Ph.D. from Ohio State in 1956. Last June he was the recipient of the Helms Award, given to directors of athletics who have made notable contributions to intercollegiate athletic programs.

Four new members were added to the Association's Council, the geographically representative policy-making body of the Association.

Temple University Director of Athletics Ernest C. Casale takes over the District 2 position vacated by Secretary-Treasurer Barnes, while Michigan State Faculty Athletic Representative John A. Fuzak fills the expired term of James R. McCoy of Ohio State as District 4 vice-president.

George F. Ilg of Fresno State takes over the District 8 position vacated by Robley C. Williams of California, while Tennessee State Director of Athletics Howard C. Gentry fills the expired at-large term of Alan J. Chapman of Rice.

Chapman Remains

Chapman remains on the Council, as he was named District 6 vice-president. He fills the spot of J. William Davis, who remains on the Council as an at-large member.

The only other new at-large member is Harry M. Cross, the immediate past NCAA president.

Of the newcomers, Casale has been Temple's director of athletics for 12 years, and is a member of the Association's Eligibility and University Basketball Tournament committees. He is the chairman of the Atlantic Coast College Division Football Committee.

Fuzak, the associate dean and director of the School for Advanced Studies in the College of Education at Michigan State, is past chairman of the Academic Testing and Requirements Committee.

Ilg has been Fresno State's faculty representative for 15 years and currently is the assistant dean of Agricultural Sciences. Gentry has served as director of athletics at Tennessee State since 1961, and also is a member of the Association's College Basketball Tournament Committee.

The newest member of the Association's Executive Committee is A. M. "Tonto" Coleman, commissioner of the Southeastern Conference. He has served on the Legislative Committee and the Committee on Committees, and currently is a member of the Long-Range Planning Committee.

William J. Flynn, immediate past NCAA secretary-treasurer, also joins the group which oversees the Association's championship events and financial affairs.

The Executive Committee and Council will hold their first full post-Convention meetings of the year at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in late April. The Executive Committee will meet April 23-24 at the Galt Ocean Mile Hotel, while the Council meeting is scheduled for April 25-27.

Competition in Space

EDITOR'S NOTE: The remarks of Christopher C. Kraft, Jr. of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in accepting the 1971 Theodore Roosevelt Award are recorded below. Kraft feels that the qualities learned from competition on the athletic field in America have been paramount in bringing about success in the U.S. space program.

I would like first to pay tribute to the fine group of Americans with whom we are surrounded here. It makes one feel very proud of being an American indeed.

I am most pleased that you honored me with the NCAA annual Theodore Roosevelt Award. I must say I was most surprised but very happy that I was even considered for this award.

Baseball to me has always been my first love, but my aspirations far exceeded my ability to play the game. The coaches of Virginia Tech, such as Ed Laird whom you honored at this convention in 1970, Michael Sever and Johnny Barker were always kind and allowed me the opportunity to play. Seriously, I would like to say how much my association with these dedicated men really meant to me because of the inspiration they provided.

I have oftentimes looked back at my college life and tried to find those things from which I benefited most in my lay career. Certainly one must receive the fundamentals of a particular vocation, but these are wholly tentative upon one's capability to absorb the knowledge and really have little effect on shaping one's character or preparing an individual for such things as management and leadership.

I believe that my experience in the field of athletics and as a member of the Corps of Cadets at Virginia Tech had a very profound effect on shaping my future. The experience and intuitive background that the whole realm of athletics provides is almost priceless. One gains respect for his teammates and learns to judge one's adversaries through athletic competition that can be gained in no other endeavor. It teaches one to accept the exhilaration of victory with respect and deal with the true problems in accepting defeat. It also underlines the absolute necessity for untiring preparation in order to be in the best of positions to perform at one's highest level.

These qualities certainly have been paramount in bringing about the success we have had in the nation's space program. I have seen the same characteristics of the athletes in the people who conduct missions and carry out the management of our most complex space operations.

These people learn their task by the same technique of continued practice and review in identical fashion to the athletes themselves. The tremendous pressure that exists at the point of time of decision can only be dealt with as a result of actions which have become second nature. Indeed, the astronauts themselves are typical examples of today's most respected athletes.

Today's world of collegiate athletics is intensely competitive, very often expensive, and many times criticized as an over-emphasized part of college life. However, I am convinced that its results have had tremendous beneficial effects on the position of preeminence that this country has held. For this reason it is most important that you, the NCAA, maintain a strong and active organization and assure us all that college athletics will continue to progress in the future.

Thank you again for the honor you have bestowed on me.

Championship Corner...

GYM: Rules Interpretations and Corrections In Effect for 1971 Events

The 1972 Olympic Games compulsories for high bar, parallel bars, rings and long horse will be used for the 1971 National Collegiate and National College Division Gymnastics Championships.

Further, last summer's World Games' compulsories will be used for the side horse and floor exercise.

The University Division meet will be held April 1-3 at the University of Michigan, while the University of Illinois at Chicago Circle will host the College Division meet March 25-27.

For the NCAA University Division Gymnastics Championships, compulsories will count for team points. The team scores for the compulsories and optionals will be averaged and added to the team scores in the finals in order to determine the team champion. The original five men representing a team in the compulsories must remain the same for the optionals and team finals. However, the competitive order of these five men may be changed for each session. The top three men in each session will count for team points.

To participate in the College Division Championships, a team must have scored a minimum of 135 points in at least one meet during the year. Individuals not entered with a team must have scored the minimum of an 8.0 in at least one meet during the year.

The At-Large Gymnastics Meet—the regional qualifying championships for independent teams for the National Collegiate event—will follow the same format as the NCAA meet. It will be held March 18-20 in Denver, Colo.

AAU Fails To Approve Track Record

The U.S. Track and Field Federation has accused the Amateur Athletic Union of not submitting a world-record-tying performance by Thomas Hill of Arkansas State run in the USTFF Outdoor Championship Meet at Wichita State University June 13.

Carl Cooper, USTFF Executive Director, said the AAU has failed to approve and forward the performance by Hill of 13.2 seconds in the 120 yard high hurdles to the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

He said the reason the AAU has given for its lack of action is the USTFF did not have a sanction for the meet from the Missouri Valley Association of the AAU and did not have the signature of the Registration Committee of that Association.

Doesn't Need Sanction

However, the USTFF feels that a meet closed to USTFF members does not require any sanction and said the AAU should recognize the World Record and forward the application to the IAAF. All application papers necessary for a World Record have been submitted to the AAU, as required by the IAAF.

"The sport is for the athlete," Cooper said, "and an athlete shouldn't have a record taken away when all the IAAF regulations have been met."

The U.S. Track Coaches Association joined the USTFF in the protest. The USTCA Executive Committee demanded the record be accepted on January 9.

The AAU set precedent in such a case in 1968 when it finally approved—after several years—a world record by Jim Ryun in the 880-yard run, which was set in a USTFF outdoor meet held without AAU sanction.

Officers Warn Against High Paying Jobs

A warning against acceptance of unusually high rates of pay by student-athletes employed in recreational programs for youth has been issued by the NCAA Officers.

Student-athletes have been hired for recreational programs, primarily for disadvantaged youth, at high rates of pay because of the belief by the hiring agencies their publicity and reputations will enable them to recruit participants for the programs and maintain interest by participants.

The Officers warn that payment of such fees for these positions is contrary to the provisions of O.I. 15, which states: "... compensation may not include any remuneration for value or utility which the student-athlete has obtained because of his athletic ability."

The NCAA Council has not moved more aggressively in the past in applying this rule because of what it feels have been misunderstandings on the part of government officials, local authorities and college officials concerning the application of O.I. 15 as it pertains to poverty programs.

The Council hereafter intends to apply fully the provisions of O.I. 15 to these types of jobs. Accordingly, the Officers extend this notification to member institutions and encourage the membership to educate student-athletes to the Association's "Job Income" interpretations.

King Favors 3-Man Show

By John Bansch
Indianapolis Star

Nowhere in the wonderful world of sportland is individual judgment more of a factor than it is in basketball officiating. Labeled a "non contact sport" in the rule book, the winter madness that afflicts millions across the nation is a game that involves 10 players constantly on a collision course.

Various actions have been undertaken to alleviate the gripes of the participants, coaches and fans but the only move that seems to have helped is the Big Ten's decision several years ago to use three officials instead of two.

Many of the so-called gray areas on the court have been eliminated—especially the tendency to set high screens. Before three officials were used the man under the basket watched for bodies bumping plus violations of the three-second rule while the arbiter working near the center line was observing the action near the ball.

One of the staunchest advocates of the three-official system is George King, the personable, successful Purdue basketball coach. He was in favor of the system long before it was brought into use by the Big Ten and is still one of its strongest backers.

George King
Likes three officials

One Too Many

"More coaches are against the system than in favor of it, but ask them why and they can't give any good reason for it," King said the other day before practice. "These are the same coaches who say one official is too many."

Still Blow Calls

King favors the three-man operation because "the game is so fast it is impossible for two officials to stay in front of the play . . . it is impossible to ask them to keep up with the pressing defense kids play today."

There are instances when officials make a wrong decision and no one is quicker to point that out than King as he asserts "even when on top of the play they can blow the call, but at least now there is a physical possibility of getting the job done."

Since the inception of the three-official system the number of fouls in the conference has decreased. When it was installed a great hue and cry arose among basketball purists who claimed the number of violations called would increase and the game would become more of a drag.

According to Big Ten figures there were 2.3 less fouls per game a year ago than in the previous season. "All of us appreciate the fact there is less walking back and forth between the foul lines," King said.

A Wrestling Match

Another area which has come under criticism lately is the pushing and shoving both under the baskets and out on the court. Gone are the patterns fans used to watch in awe. They've been replaced by what almost amounts to a wrestling match.

King disagrees with those who charge there is too much contact. "The problem has been magnified because we have bigger and bigger people working in the same limited area," he claims.

Freshmen May Enter CD Championships

An amendment to allow freshmen to compete in all National College Division Championship events was passed by NCAA delegates at the Association's 65th annual Convention in Houston January 13, with the legislation to become effective immediately.

However, a similar proposal for University Division events narrowly was defeated (102-113), making freshmen still ineligible for football and basketball. Under current NCAA rules, freshmen are eligible for all other NCAA Championship events.

Need for the ruling in College Division events was cited by supporters because of rising costs and a need for more manpower on varsity squads.

In other action the delegates passed amendments to:

- permit unclassified awards for special events provided they are personalized and the total value does not exceed $100 for all awards;
- allow the NCAA Council to permit a student-athlete to compete in Pan American and Olympic soccer tryouts and competition without jeopardizing his intercollegiate eligibility;
- enable an institution to use an off-campus game site for recruiting purposes when its campus facility cannot be used due to conditions beyond its control. The proposal came from Washington State University, which was forced to play its games in Spokane, Wash., after its home field in Pullman was partially destroyed by fire;

- lower the age from 20 to 19 under which an alien student-athlete may compete in his own country without loss of collegiate eligibility;
- enable freshmen to compete without penalty during an institution's regular season when a University Division football or basketball squad has been decimated by accident or illness;
- recognize that an institution must be in good standing with its conference as well as the NCAA to compete in NCAA Championship events;

- consolidate all NCAA promotional activities under a newly-formed Promotion Committee;
- require a District to have at least five active members sponsoring a sport on an intercollegiate basis before it can be represented on a rules and meet or tournament committee;
- added two members to the Swimming Rules and Meet Committee—one with expertise in diving and another who will represent junior college swimming;

1.600 Rule Modified But Not Abolished by 65th Convention

An amendment to abolish the 1.600 rule was defeated, but another to modify the financial aid provisions of the rule for disadvantaged students was passed at the NCAA's annual Convention January 13.

The new measure also will strengthen the rule for all athletically recruited students. Under the old provision, a student who did not predict 1.600 before entering college could sit out one academic year, and then compete and receive financial aid at an institution which used the NCAA national 1.600 table or a more stringent one—whether or not he attained a 1.600 grade point average during his initial year.

Modified Rule

In modifying the rule for disadvantaged students, the Convention's delegates revised O.I. 100, which elaborates the definition of a "student-athlete."

A student may now be considered to be non-recruited if a coach comes in normal contact without pre-arrangement with a prospective student, or requests via mail his high school scholastic record.

A non-recruited student, in turn, can be directed toward an institution's disadvantaged student program if he does not predict. He then may receive aid during his first year from the institution, as

- reduced the number of members on the Wrestling Rules and Tournament Committee from 16 to 15.

The Association's delegates defeated amendments to:

- allow for reviewing of the Association's playing rules by the Executive Committee, which subsequently could ask for action from the NCAA Council.
- permit Tony Lema Memorial Award winners to participate in intercollegiate golf.

Three-Way Tie for Track Title

Three Universities—Kansas, Oregon and Brigham Young—share the 1970 National Collegiate Athletic Association Track title, as California has been stripped of the title for using an ineligible runner. The action came at a January 10 meeting of the NCAA Executive Committee.

The Bears were dropped to 10th place after the Association declined to waive the applicable Executive Regulation in the case of Isaac Curtis, a sprinter, ineligible for the meet last June. He was a freshman at the time of the meet, placing second in the 100-yard dash, fourth in the 220, and running the second leg on the winning 440-yard relay team.

Curtis was found to have been ineligible because California had not established his predictability under the 1.600 rule, which requires that an athlete's test scores and high school record indicate he is able to earn at least 1.600 grade point average at the institution he is seeking to enter.

California officials told the Executive Committee, which administers the Association's Championship events, that through an error Curtis was not administered any test. The institution said it did not discover the omission until after the track meet.

Audience Ratings Up for College Football

(Editor's Note: The following report on the television aspects of the 1970 college football season was produced by NCAA TV Liaison Officer Larry Klein, based upon the report of the 1970 NCAA Television Committee.)

The 1971 NCAA football television schedule, due to be announced in late March, confronts the ABC-TV Sports staff with two major, demanding goals: 1) To bring characteristically excellent college football to the television audience, and 2) to protect the hundreds of games played each week on college gridirons throughout the land from the damaging effects which would surely arise from unlimited televised football.

This success formula worked again in 1970.

More people than ever—29.5 million—witnessed College Football in the stadium this year.

And ABC Sports picked a 1970 television schedule in March that by December had set these all-time highs for audience people were tuned into this intersectional battle more than five minutes each.

Notre Dame and Southern Cal, of course, were no novices in the big-numbers game. When ABC pioneered the wildcat telecast in 1968, the network chose the Notre Dame-Southern Cal game and made history by reaching 20.7 million total homes, the first time an NCAA series game broke the 20-million barrier.

In 1969, Southern Cal and UCLA—in an intracity battle of unbeaten—upped that all-time NCAA telecast record to 22.8 million homes.

Other Highlights

The Michigan-Ohio State game of November 21 drew a 52 share. This means, of all U.S. households using television at the time, 52 per cent were tuned into an average minute of Michigan vs. Ohio State. The 52 represents the highest share earned by an NCAA telecast since the Notre Dame-Michigan State game of 1966.

Over the full season, an average of 27.0

Key for Ratings Table

TOTAL AUDIENCE: audience viewing all or any part of program in excess of five minutes, reported in two ways:

- (a) In per cent of U. S. TV households;
- (b) In terms of the projected number of households reached.

AVERAGE AUDIENCE: number of TV households tuned to program during average minute, reported in two ways:

- (a) In per cent of U. S. TV households;
- (b) In terms of the projected number of households reached.

SHARE OF AUDIENCE: audience during average minute of program, in per cent of households using television at time program was telecast.

attention within the NCAA series:

Most total homes per game all season—16.2 million, which means that an average of some 25.9 million people watched more than five minutes of each college football telecast during 1970. The previous high for total homes per game was 15.6 million in 1969. For further comparison, the 16.2 of 1970 represented a 56 per cent increase over the 10.4 million total homes average of 1960.

Most average homes per game all season—8.3 million, which means that more than 13.2 million people watched during the average minute of each telecast. For obvious reasons, average homes per game—up some 100,000 from the previous college football high of 1969—is the figure that interests most commercial sponsors.

On a single-game basis, Nielsen ratings show that the Notre Dame-Southern California wildcard selection of November 28 set all-time NCAA records by delivering 13.3 million average homes and 23.3 million total homes. Thus, some 37.3 million per cent of all U.S. TV households watched more than five minutes of each ABC-NCAA telecast. This was up from the 26.6 of 1969 and the series' highest since 1957, when regional Saturdays (usually rated below national games) were not included in the season averages and when the average of total homes reached was only 12.3 million.

ABC also televised four College Division regional championship bowl games into their heaviest-interest areas for the fifth straight season. They included the Boardwalk Bowl at Atlantic City, N. J., (Delaware vs. Morgan State); the Grantland Rice Bowl at Baton Rouge, La., (Tennessee State vs. Southwestern Louisiana); the Pecan Bowl at Arlington, Texas, (Arkansas State vs. Central Missouri State); and the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento, Calif., (Montana vs. North Dakota State).

College football's weekly highlight show also prospered and gained sponsor strength. "College Football 1970" was seen by an average of 2.2 million homes each week.

LSU Wins Chevrolet College TV Band Contest

The 270-member Louisiana State University marching band has been named the "All-America College TV Band" of the 1970 college football season in the National Collegiate TV Band Contest sponsored by the Chevrolet Motor Division. The band received the award from Chevrolet and performed during the televised halftime show Jan. 2 at the East-West Shrine Game in the Oakland (Calif.) Coliseum.

Less than 24 hours earlier, the band played at the Orange Bowl (Friday night, January 1 in Miami, Fla.) when the LSU Tigers fell to the Nebraska Cornhuskers, then jetted to California for the January 2 performance.

LSU's marching unit, directed by William F. Swor, was selected as the top collegiate band by celebrated musicians and members of the College Band Directors National Association. The contest winner was announced by Robert D. Lund, Chevrolet general sales manager.

"Every college and university with a marching band appearing on the ABC-TV/NCAA Game of the Week series was invited to participate in the contest," Lund said.

Participating bands were judged either "live" at nationally televised games or through films taken by NCAA Official Films of their halftime performances.

The contest judges included a number of celebrities in the world of music and entertainment—Doc Severinsen, Pete Fountain, Steve Allen, Herb Alpert, Les Brown, Duke Ellington and Meredith Willson.

Other judges, all college band directors, were Acton Ostling, Jr., of Iowa State University; John Wakefield, University of Maryland; Jack Lee, University of Arizona; James Berdahl, University of California; Dr. William P. Foster, Florida A&M; and Randall Spicer, Washington State University.

"As a long-time supporter and sponsor of college football activities, Chevrolet has a deep interest in the young people represented by the LSU band members," Lund said.

"Most college bands specialize in either pageantry or drill," Swor said, "but LSU aims for versatility."

"By using both pageantry and drill, we are able to play a wider variety of music."

Runners up to LSU in the contest were Arizona, Florida State, Michigan State, Mississippi, Missouri, Tennessee and Texas.

Bands receiving honorable mention were Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado and Oklahoma.

Youngsters such as these pictured during the 1970 National Summer Youth Sports Program at Trinity College (Connecticut) will enjoy the Program in 1971. Congress has authorized an expenditure of $3,000,000 in OEO monies for the 1971 NSYSP.

NSYSP Funded for Third Year

The National Summer Youth Sports Program, the sports program for poverty-area youngsters, administered through the National Collegiate Athletic Association, has been granted $3,000,000 in Federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) monies for use in the summer of 1971. The NSYSP is sponsored jointly by the Federal Government and the universities and colleges where the Program is conducted.

This $3,000,000 is the same figure the Government has appropriated for the Program each of the past two years.

"We had requested $5,000,000 so that we could expand the Program in 1971," James H. Wilkinson, the Program's national director, stated.

"We are still hoping that HEW can grant us $2,000,000 from its supplemental budget for Program expansion. We also are seeking some assistance from the Department of Agriculture for our nutrition program," he continued.

"The NSYSP should be expanded so we could include not only youngsters from larger urban areas, but also those from other areas who are in need of a program of this type.

"Eighty-four colleges which were anxious to be in the Program were turned away in 1970 because of budget limitations," Wilkinson added.

Conducted by approximately 100 colleges and universities in nearly 60 cities within 30 states each of the past two summers, the NSYSP has served a total of some 85,000 youngsters.

Participants in the Program, boys and girls, aged 10 to 18, are instructed in swimming, football, basketball, baseball, gymnastics, volleyball, tennis, track and field, dance, etc., by college and high school coaches and outstanding athletes working as staff members. They also receive a medical examination, liability insurance, a daily meal, health education and counseling in study and career opportunities.

The 45,000 youngsters who participated in 1970 were served 779,092 hot meals and given 40,647 medical examinations.

Nearly 3,000 target-area citizens have received summer employment in connection with the program over the past two years.

Early Appropriation

Wilkinson was pleased the Congress acted to give the NSYSP an early appropriation.

"It will be a real pleasure to administer the 1971 program with no fears that our efforts will be in vain," Wilkinson added.

Convention Delegates Condemn Use of Non-Therapeutic Drugs

A resolution which condemns the use of non-therapeutic drugs by any of its member institutions was passed by the delegates to the NCAA's 65th Convention in Houston.

The resolution also says the Association's member institutions should combat the use of drugs by the nation's youth, and that non-therapeutic drug usage by staff members or student-athletes is in violation of the principles of ethical conduct of the NCAA.

Proposed by the NCAA Drug Education Committee, the resolution was drafted by chairman Robert W. Pritchard of Worcester Polytechnic Institute (Mass.); Dr. Donald L. Cooper, M.D., Oklahoma State team physician and a U.S. team physician for the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City; Pacific-8 Executive Director Thomas J. Hamilton; and James H. Wilkinson, a member of the NCAA staff.

The resolution reads:

WHEREAS, non-therapeutic drug usage described as doping is reported to be on the increase in the general college and youth populations; and

WHEREAS, the NCAA always has been opposed to non-therapeutic drug usage by student-athletes;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the NCAA affirms its unequivocal condemnation of the employment of non-therapeutic drugs in any of its member institutions or affiliated organizations by staff members who authorize or allow their student-athletes to use such drugs and by student-athletes who do use such drugs;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that all member institutions, their athletic staffs and their student-athletes aggressively assert their wholesome influences in combating usage of non-therapeutic drugs among the nation's youth;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that staff members or student-athletes who use drugs in a non-therapeutic manner in any athletic program are in violation of the principles of ethical conduct of the NCAA.

Robert Cahill Elected CABMA President

Other officers elected at the twenty-first anniversary meeting in Houston were: John O'Neill, Georgia Tech, first vice-president; James Pittenger, Nebraska, second vice-president; and Philip Barry, Connecticut, third vice-president.

William Aspinwall, assistant to the director of athletics at Wisconsin, was elected as permanent secretary-treasurer of the association.

Frank Anderson of Indiana won the group's top award when he was selected Business Manager of the Year. Past winners of the award are Ken Farris of Oklahoma, Herb Jones of Notre Dame, Ed Czekaj of Penn State and Aspinwall.

The officers will serve on the CABMA executive committee, while outgoing President Tidd also will serve on the Committee for one year.

Sawyer has been the faculty athletic representative at Wake Forest since 1960. He is currently serving on the NCAA Financial Aid Committee, and was a member of the 1969 NCAA Nominating Committee.

Stasavich will become chairman of the NCAA National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Committee. He has been a member of the nine-man group since January of 1970.

He has been Athletic Director at East Carolina since 1963, and served as head football coach from 1962 to 1969.

Harris, SID at Tennessee since 1961, joins the PR Committee automatically as the sports information director of the NCAA President's institution as an ex-officio member of the Committee.

Harris is a 1951 graduate of the University, where he received a degree in journalism.

Non-Certified All-Star Games

Situation: An institution's athletic trainer wishes to serve as a trainer in a non-certified college all-star football or basketball game.

Question: Is a trainer considered to be a staff member of an athletic department for purposes of this legislation?

Answer: Yes. Accordingly, he is prohibited from serving in any capacity in a non-certified college all-star football or basketball game. [C3-6(d)]

Institutional Aid

Situation: A student-athlete is awarded institutional financial aid in the form of books and tuition for a four-year period. This aid is based in part on his athletic ability.

Question: May the institution increase the amount of the young man's award because of athletic reasons during the four-year period?

Answer: No. Gradation of aid by increasing or reducing the amount during the period of the award because of athletic reasons is not permissible. [C3-1-O.I. 2]

Professional Ruling

Situation: A student-athlete participates on a team which includes a professional coach or referee.

Question: Does the student-athlete professionalize himself under the Association's professional rulings by participating on the team?

Answer: No. Inasmuch as the participation of a professional coach or referee on a team does not cause it to be classified as a professional team under O.I. 14, a student-athlete may participate on the team. [C3-1-O.I. 11-O.I. 14]

Graduate Student Participation

Situation: A graduate student wishes to participate on an institution's intercollegiate team.

Question: Is a graduate student eligible for such competition?

Answer: No. NCAA legislation restricts participation on a member institution's intercollegiate teams to undergraduate student-athletes who are in good standing as determined by the rules of the institution. [C3-3]

1.600 Rule

Situation: To establish eligibility under B4-6-(b)-(1) [1.600 rule], a high school must provide a student's record (grade point average or class rank). A high school grades on a system other than a 4.0 scale (i.e., 3 or 5 point scale, or a numerical scale of 100).

Question: May an NCAA member institution convert the student's grade point average provided by the high school to the 4.00 system for purposes of the GPA prediction table?

Answer: No. The high school must provide a student's high school record including any necessary conversion to the 4.00 scale. If the high school will not provide a converted grade point average to the 4.00 scale, the student is a non-predictor for the purposes of establishing eligibility under the 1.600 rule. [B4-6-(b)-(1)].

Athletic staff members also are prohibited from participating in non-certified basketball all-star contests, according to Constitution 3-6-(d).

Three-Phase Honors Program Highlighted...

The NCAA Honors Program was initiated six years ago in order to bring to the nation's attention, with outstanding personal examples as illustration, an ultimate objective of higher education and the NCAA: The development of outstanding leaders whose mental alertness and physical well-being serve as examples for our country.

The Program is divided into three phases. At each year's Honors Luncheon, special groups of individuals in selected fields of endeavor who are making a notable contribution to the nation's welfare and progress, and who were outstanding intercollegiate athletes, are presented Commemorative Plaques. At right, Nathan Gordon, one of the Congressional Medal of Honor winners recognized at this year's Luncheon, receives his Plaque from former NCAA President Harry M. Cross.

...At Annual Luncheon

In another phase of the Program, eighty $1,000 Postgraduate Scholarships are awarded annually to outstanding student-athletes.

Five of these award-winners (pictured above) were honored as representatives of the entire group at this year's Honors Luncheon. They are (from right to left) Bill Zapalac, Jr., Texas; Jim Lindsey, Abilene Christian College; Dave Elmendorf, Texas A & M; David Cooper, Clemson; and Mike Heitmann, Texas A & M.

The Theodore Roosevelt Award, the Association's highest honor, is the symbol of the third goal of the Program, to honor one individual each year for whom competitive athletes in college and attention to physical well-being thereafter have been important factors in a distinguished career of national significance and achievement.

Christopher C. Kraft, deputy director of the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, was the 1971 recipient. He is pictured at right with his award. Ozzie Nelson, the 1971 Honors Luncheon master of ceremonies, looks on.
