World's Top Athletes Enter '72 Universiade

More than 400 collegiate competitors have been entered in the Seventh World University Winter Games at Lake Placid and Plattsburgh, New York, February 25-March 5.

Competitors will compete in ice hockey, figure and speed skating, alpine and nordic skiing.

Officials of the Games, which officially will be the 1972 Lake Placid Universiade, expect at least six more nations, with 100 or more competitors, to enter before the November 25 deadline.

France, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands, Japan, West Germany, Czechoslovakia, Great Britain, Spain, Norway, Yugoslavia, Switzerland, Austria, Russia, Rumania, Canada, South Korea, and the U.S. have entered the 1972 Games.

The Federation Internationale du Sports Universitaire (FISU), the governing body for international collegiate sports competition, sanctions biennial summer and winter games for the participation of its member countries.

An International Seminar in University Sports and Physical Education will be held at the State University of New York campus in Plattsburgh, February 22-25, in conjunction with the Universiade.

New NCAA Building

The proposed new national headquarters building for the NCAA is shown in drawing by architects Folger and Pearson. The two-story building will be located at U.S. 50 and Nall Avenue in Mission, Kansas. The NCAA's executive office currently is located in the Midland Building in downtown Kansas City, Mo., of which Mission is a close-in suburb.

NCAA Council Sponsors Resolution Membership Will Decide on Special Convention

A resolution calling for a special NCAA Convention prior to July 1, 1972, to consider the Council-backed proposals of the NCAA Financial Aid Committee, will be introduced at the Association's regular Convention January 6-8 in Hollywood, Fla.

The NCAA Council during its October meeting, voted to present the resolution when it took the further step of drafting specific amendments to the Constitution and Bylaws to implement the financial aid recommendations.

The Council also approved a shifting of the primary emphasis of the Association's international sports activities to the World University Games following the 1972

Olympic Games.

A special committee, studying legislative reorganization of the Association, reported to the Council. The policy-making body voted to request the committee to continue its studies and report again to the Council and Convention in January.

The Council has planned a Thursday morning, January 6, combined meeting of Faculty Representatives and Athletic Directors at the Convention where three panels will offer informative presentations on the financial aid proposals, legislative and membership reorganization and amendments recommended by the Recruiting Committee.

On Friday, January 7, in separate University and College Division meetings, full discussions will be held on each subject, with all representatives invited to participate.

Consideration of the recruiting amendments and the resolution for a special Convention will follow at Saturday's business session.

The financial aid amendments will be circulated to the membership for study prior to the Convention, even though they will not be considered for vote in January. The membership, however, will indicate its interest in the proposals when it votes whether to have a special Convention to pursue adoption of the cost-cutting measures.

In agreeing with the NCAA Olympic Committee to shift NCAA emphasis to the International University Sports Federation (FISU)-sponsored World University Games, the Council felt the Association would play a greater role and make more significant contributions in development of young American athletes into world class competitors.

NCAA Is Member

The NCAA is a member, along with the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, National Junior College Athletic Association, and the Division of Girls and Womens Sports of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, in the United States Collegiate Sports Council, franchise holder in this country for FISU.

District Five Vice President David Swank presented the report of the Committee on Legislative Reorganization. His group feels adoption of a single constitution for the entire membership and the use of separate bylaws by each of several divisions of the Association might provide more flexibility for institutions with programs of various sizes and goals.

The Committee will refine its proposals prior to the January Convention so delegates may decide whether consideration of these recommendations might go to a special Convention or wait until the regular 1973 meeting.

1972-73 Television Plan Receives Overwhelming Support of Members

The 1972-1973 football television plan recommended by the NCAA Television Committee was approved by a 92 per cent majority in the mail vote of the membership.

The vote of 191 in favor and 16 against the plan was consistent with the membership's past balloting when television plans were approved by an average majority of 90 per cent.

Negotiations with prospective purchasers soon will be under way, reports Thomas C. Hansen, NCAA television program director.

The substantive changes from the 1970-71 plan were generally inclined to present the purchaser of the 1972-1973 rights with options to televise additional games—thus spreading appearances and income among the football playing colleges and offering the public more attractive games at times which would do minimum damage to in-stadium attendance.

Other features incorporated into the new plan include permission to televise games on Labor Day and Veterans' Day plus the opportunity for the purchasing network to televise a doubleheader on Thanksgiving Day. Teams appearing on these dates would not be charged with an appearance.

In addition, the new plan will:

—Reduce restriction on night telecasts for College Division teams;

—Add one date (for a total of 15) due to the longer schedules now being played;

—Increase the maximum permissible assessment from 4½% to 6% and apply the assessment to special telecasts as well as Series programs;

—Permit an institution to participate in games which carry an exception to the appearance rules (other than the wild card game) once each year;

—Enable a College Division institution to petition for extension of its television network to 10 stations if a particular game or surrounding circumstances warrant;

—Require consent of the opponent for delayed as well as live telecasts;

—Present an option to the network to televise less or more than the customary four games on regional dates as long as 24 games are presented regionally each year;

—Permit the network to delay announcement of second half of the schedule with only the first six dates to be announced in March.

Season-Ending Grid Game Turned Down by Council

The request by the Television Committee for a proposed season-ending game in the 1972 and 1973 football TV series was turned down by the NCAA Council.

The Council rejected the proposal because (1) it felt the game would have been disruptive to the academic programs of the competing institutions and (2) the game could have been injurious to the traditional post-season bowl games, which long have been significant contributors to college football.

The proposed game would have matched two of the nation's top teams. The teams would have been eligible to play in a subsequent bowl game, and would not have been charged with television appearances.

Recruiting Amendments Win Council Approval

The NCAA Council endorsed 18 amendments, including several which could make sweeping changes in recruiting of high school prospects, at the October 25-27 meeting in Kansas City.

The Council also approved the revision of 10 interpretations.

The recruiting amendment proposals sponsored by the 18-man Council included:

- Limiting a prospective student-athlete to one expense-paid visit to a campus and a total of five expense-paid visits to five different member institutions.

- Prohibiting a prospective student-athlete from making an expense-paid visit to a campus prior to the opening of classes of his senior year.

The Wishbone-T: It's the Craze of 1971 College Football

It's the craze of 1971.

No, not hot pants . . . but the wishbone-T.

There are many questions surrounding college football's new offensive formation, but there's no question about its success.

Many of the collegiate powers, including Alabama, Oklahoma, and Notre Dame, are running the wishbone-T.

Perhaps the No. 1 question concerning the wishbone-T is how to stop it, but let's take first things first.

Where did the wishbone-T start?

It was developed by Coach Darrell Royal at the University of Texas. Old Chef Royal decided he wanted to dish up a new recipe for the Longhorns' Southwest Conference opponents and he came up with a dilly.

It's encouraging to see where many colleges are having special promotions to interest youngsters in college athletics.

One of the most recent promotions was at North Park College in Chicago where youngsters from the Albany Park and North Park neighborhoods were the guests of the local Edgebrook Kiwanis Club at a North Park College football game.

It was a community effort with the Kiwanis-purchased tickets distributed to the kids by the members of the Social Services Commission of the North Park College Student Association in conjunction with the North River Commission.

The University of Oregon has conducted a tremendously successful statewide Kiwanis-sponsored free college football game for neighborhood youngsters for many years.

It is hoped that others will pick up the idea and expose more youngsters to all college athletics.

SPINNING THE WHEEL—Can anyone top Wayne State University's self-acclaimed record for having 21 of its 60 football players serve as high school captains? . . . Arizona State Coach Bobby Winkles, who coached the U.S. entry in the Pan-American Games in Colombia last summer, would like to take a collegiate team to Havana, Cuba for the World Amateur Baseball Tournament.

Louisville Coach Lee Corso thought he had a good one in running back Howard Stevens, and he knew it for a fact when the LaGrange Reformatory All-Prison Yard team was selected. "After we played an intrasquad game at the Reformatory last spring," reports Corso, "the prisoners named Howard to the All-Prison Yard team. Howard is the first 'outsider' to ever make the team, so I knew he had to be good." Stevens is one of the many mini-powerhouse runners in college football this season. He stands only 5-5 and weighs 165 pounds. And, who was it that said the only place for a little football player was in Japan?

Elsewhere in Education

74% of Colleges Caught by Freeze on Wages

Preliminary results of a national survey show that 74 per cent of colleges and universities reporting said that funds for salary increases were either appropriated but frozen by the Aug. 15 wage-price freeze, or had not yet been appropriated when the freeze became effective.

The American Association of University Professors, conducting the survey, reported that 965 institutions had responded. Of that number, 588 (61 per cent) said funds were appropriated for salary increases but were frozen, and 123 (13 per cent) had not yet appropriated funds. A total of 203 (21 per cent) said funds were appropriated and not frozen by the President's action.

Earlier, a task force established by the AAUP recommended to the Cost of Living Council that, if ceilings are to be set on the rates of increases of wages and salaries, ceilings should apply "to whole salary budgets of colleges and universities, not to individual salaries."

The association said this would allow institutions to correct inequities within their faculties. The association also said if ceilings are to be tied in any way to productivity indices that guidelines based on numbers of students or credit hours "would serve to diminish the quality of our educational system, and reduce national productivity growth."

Appeals Court Upholds Campus Decision

The U. S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit has upheld the decision of Central Connecticut State College not to recognize a local chapter of Students for a Democratic Society as an official college organization.

And, that leads to the next question. What is the wishbone-T?

The name comes from the alignment of the backs. The fullback sets a yard in front of the two halfbacks in a variation of the famous old tight-T formation.

What the wishbone-T offers is a triple option for the offense and a king size headache for the defense.

While the position of the backs resembles the tight-T, the actual operation of the wishbone—is like another old formation—the old split-T belly option.

But Chef Royal added a new ingredient—the threat of a pass.

The wishbone quarterback, like the split-T belly option, moves along the line of scrimmage and (1) keeps the ball, or (2) pitches it to a trailing halfback, depending on whether the defensive end commits himself or (3) throws a pass.

The wishbone also gives a step or two advantage to the fullback, who by being closer to the line, gets a quicker start.

Surprisingly, the most successful wishbone offenses have all but ignored the pass. The passing threat is there, but the teams seem to be content with running over and around the opposition.

Yes, for the time being opponents are strangling on the wishbone. The day is coming, however, when the opposition will do a little choking of its own.

And, about then another prominent chef named Bryant, McKay, Parseghian or Royal will brew up another potent dish. It's all part of the greatness of college football.

Council Backs Recruiting Amendments

- Prohibiting the transporting of relatives or friends of a prospective student-athlete to visit a campus or elsewhere by an alumnus or friend of an institution.

- Limiting entertainment for a prospective student-athlete and his parents to the institution's campus. No entertainment would be allowed for other relatives or friends of a prospective student-athlete at any site.

- Limiting an institution's athletic staff member or other representative of its athletic interests to two visits with a prospective student-athlete. One additional visit may be made if the prospective student-athlete signs a letter of intent at the institution.

- Prohibiting the employment of a prospective student-athlete at a summer camp after his sophomore year in high school if an NCAA member institution coach or representative is involved in any way with the camp.

An amendment also was endorsed which would permit a graduate student to compete in his fourth year of attendance at the institution where he completed his undergraduate work.

UOP President McCaffrey's Athletic Career Recalled

By Prescott Sullivan

San Francisco Examiner

Nowhere in the announcements of his recent appointment to the presidency of the University of Pacific have we noted any reference to Stan McCaffrey's background in athletics.

It's strange. The 54-year-old McCaffrey wasn't that bad of an athlete in his younger days that a secret should be made of it.

The fact is he played varsity football and baseball at the University of California's Berkeley branch and was twice a letterman in both sports.

We remember him well. A strikingly handsome six footer, he cut a dashing figure on the gridiron as well as on the diamond and five campus sororities voted him their favorite pin-up boy.

His one weakness was a pair of heavy feet. Despite the appearance of liteness, he was notoriously slow. His fastest time for the 100-yard dash was roughly the equivalent of the then existing record for the 440.

Carried .300 Batting Average

McCaffrey played first base for the baseball team. He was a pretty fair hitter. He had to be to average .300 when they were throwing him out on anything short of a three-bagger.

In football his position was center. He was full of the ol' spirit but his unresponsive feet were no match for his willingness.

The ball carrier had to come to him if McCaffrey was to make the tackle. Even so, he was a valuable man to have around. He was a born leader and, owing to his good looks, he never failed to take a nice picture.

McCaffrey's football career at Cal coincided with the Stub Allison era. It was on January 1, 1938, that he went to the Rose Bowl. He was there with the Golden Bears when they dumped Alabama.

Mostly, though, he went for the ride and to visit with the folks at the family home in nearby Whittier. A second stringer behind All-American Bob Herwig, he didn't get to play very much.

As a student, however, he was first team material all the way. He attended Cal on an academic scholarship, made Phi Beta Kappa and was elected student body president on the strength of a straight A report card.

McCaffrey was cut out to be an educator. The University of Pacific made no mistake when it named him top banana. We are confident he'll do a bang-up job.

Old-Timers Remember Another Player

Still, he is going to have to go some to make the old-timers forget another old football player in whose path he is traveling.

That would be the late Dr. Tully Knoles, who had been president of what was then the College of Pacific for 27 years when he died in 1959 at the age of 83.

Self-described as "the oldest living quarterback from USC," the renowned savant was strictly redhot when it came to football.

He defended it at every turn and was especially fond of the following quotation: "America needs football because it strengthens the national backbone."

Dr. Knoles said nothing of what it did for knees and ankles. Concerned with the character building properties of the sport, he probably figured the sprains and torn ligaments were out of his department.

He made a point of attending every home game the COP team played. You couldn't miss him. Although he was a little guy, he was

Michigan State Coach DUFFY DAUGHERTY's answer when asked who would replace Carl (Buck) Nystrom as the Spartans' line coach: "Me. I'm a former line coach. If the boys block well, we'll call them 'Duffy's Toughies.' If they don't, we'll call them 'Duffy's Fluffies.'"

FRANK DITTA, Houston linebacker, on his 100-yard interception for a touchdown: "The first two minutes of the run seemed as long as the last three."

BOB DEVANEY, coach of the pre-season No. 1 ranked University of Nebraska: "It feels a lot better starting out No. 1 than starting out as No. 99 and trying to work your way up."

University of Miami Coach FRAN CURCI's description of Notre Dame defensive star Walt Patulski: "It's not fair that they allow him to play on the same field."

Oklahoma assistant coach LARRY LACEWELL, following the Sooners' successive games with Southern California, Texas and Colorado: "I can't figure how we missed scheduling Russia."

JOHN MCKAY, University of Southern California coach, commenting on football as a game of emotion: "Nobody is more emotional than my wife, and she's a lousy football player."

Colorado Coach EDDIE CROWDER, appraising sophomore quarterback Kenny Johnson's outstanding performances: "Kenny doesn't know he's a sophomore, and I'm not going to tell him."

EDDIE ROBINSON, Grambling coach, claims he doesn't have any drug problem with his team: "I went to one of these drug seminars and I came back and told my players that when you use drugs you lose your sex drive. You should have seen how big their eyes got."

Texas Assistant Athletic Director BILL ELLINGTON claims the artificial turf used by the Longhorns has been good for the players but bad for grasshoppers: "I've seen two or three grasshoppers out there and they don't know what to do. They're the most frustrated things. You come back the next day and they'll be dead. I don't know whether they die of shock or what."

Tennessee Coach BILL BATTLE, on the slogan "The Bear (Alabama Coach Bear Bryant) Is Back": "I didn't realize he had gone anywhere."

CHUCK FAIRBANKS, Oklahoma coach, reply to a question about what kind of a game he expected his team to play: "I have no idea. That's the great thing about college football. You don't know what 20-year-olds will do."

SPECIAL RECOGNITION—Illinois Institute of Technology President John T. Rettaliata, left, presents an engraved pin to Bernard (Sonny) Weissman in appreciation of his 43 years of service to the university. Weissman retired as athletic director in June. Weissman came to Armour Institute of Technology, predecessor of IIT, in 1928 as part-time boxing coach. He later coached wrestling, baseball and basketball at IIT before becoming athletic director in 1949. Edward W. Glancy succeeded Weissman as AD.

CD Cross Country Meet Expects Record Turnout

Eastern Michigan is expected to have a difficult time defending its NCAA College Division Cross Country Championship November 13 at the Chicago Country Club in Wheaton, Ill.

Early indications are that another record turnout will participate in the 13th annual championships, the first NCAA championship event for 1971-72.

Last year's event drew a record 337 runners and 45 complete teams.

Each year the meet gets bigger and better. Wheaton College has been the host institution since the meet was inaugurated in 1958.

Eastern Michigan used Gordon Minty's third place finish and outstanding depth to score 100 points and slip past the Mark Covert-led California State Fullerton team (123) in last year's meet.

Covert won the individual title with a 25:13 clocking over the five-mile course. Minty's third place time was 25:23.

Covert returns with the same Fullerton team this season, but Minty remains a questionable performer. Minty is recovering from a leg fracture and it's still unknown if he will be able to compete.

With Covert and his second place teammates intact again, the Californians definitely rate as strong contenders to dethrone Eastern Michigan.

However, there are several other outstanding teams, including University of California, Davis; Mankato State; North Dakota State; and Eastern Illinois, which saw its two-year reign as college division champion end last year.

Covert must rate as the individual favorite again, but he will have to be at his best to whip teammate Tim Tubb, Bill Hansen (UC Davis), Mike Slack (North Dakota State), Liam Ryan (Cal Poly, Pomona), and Minty providing he recuperates in time to compete.

Hansen was sixth last year, while Tubb placed eighth, and Ryan finished ninth.

The Chicago Country Club has a cloverleaf pattern course, which was designed by Gil Dodds, former indoor mile world record holder and track and cross country coach at Wheaton.

While it's a tough course for competitors, the fans couldn't ask for a better place to watch a meet.

"It's an ideal setting," says Harvey C. Chrouser, director of athletics at Wheaton College. Last year's meet attracted more than 1,500 fans on a windy, 38-degree day.

William Exum of Kentucky State College is chairman of the 1971 meet.

Infractions Group May Become Judicatory Body

A recommendation to make the Infractions Committee a judicatory body will be presented to the membership at the annual Convention.

The NCAA Council, at its October 25-27 meeting, approved the recommendation in an effort to streamline the Association's enforcement procedure.

The recommendation was the result of a special committee's study of the enforcement procedure. Harry Cross of the University of Washington headed the special committee.

As a judicial group, the Infractions Committee could act upon cases without having its recommendations presented to the Council. The Council, however, would hear any appeals from institutions which did not agree with the Infractions Committee's decision.

It also was recommended that the Infractions Committee be increased from three to five members for a broader representation. Three members would constitute a quorum at meetings.

Coaches Named For NABC Game

Dayton, Ohio—Two of college basketball's all-time coaching greats have been named to head the squads for the 1972 National Association Basketball Coaches East-West All-Star Game, April 1, at the University of Dayton Arena.

Howard Hobson, former mentor at the University of Oregon and Yale University, will coach the East All-Stars, while the legendary Henry Iba of Oklahoma State fame will handle the West squad. The announcement was made by NABC President Bill Wall.

This will be the 10th annual game in the series, which features the outstanding senior collegians.

NCAA Membership Hits Record 760 Institutions

The NCAA membership has hit an all-time high with the addition of seven new active members.

The total membership is a record 760 institutions.

The seven new active members are College Division institutions. Five are in District Three and the other two are in District Four.

The new District Three members, with their president, athletic director and faculty athletic representative listed:

Armstrong State College, Savannah, Georgia (President—Henry L. Ashmore, AD—Bill E. Alexander, FR—Robert Strozier); Florence State University, Florence, Alabama (E.B. Norton, Henry H. Self, Dallas Lancaster); Jacksonville State University, Jacksonville, Alabama (Ernest Stone, Charley Pell, William Reid, Jr.); Livingston University, Livingston, Alabama (John E. Deloney, Don Johnson, Charles Tucker); and Troy State University, Troy, Alabama (Ralph W. Adams, Billy Atkins, Eugene Sherman).

Indiana Central College, Indianapolis, Indiana (Gene E. Sease, Angus Nicolson, Robert M. Brooker) and University of Minnesota, Morris, Minnesota (John Q. Imholte, Wayne Simpson, George Fosgate) join District Four.

A breakdown of the NCAA membership at this date shows: Active—656 (243 in the University Division and 413 in the College Division); Allied—44; Associate—34; and Affiliated—26.

Of the 656 active members, there are 75 in District One (16 UD, 59 CD), 152 in District Two (50 UD, 102 CD), 146 in District Three (55 UD, 91 CD), 116 in District Four (34 UD, 82 CD), 52 in District Five (18 UD, 34 CD), 30 in District Six (19 UD, 11 CD), 28 in District Seven (21 UD, 7 CD), and 57 in District Eight (30 UD, 27 CD).

conspicuous by reason of a grey goatee that looked as if it had been appropriated from a billy goat.

Vividly recalled is his presence at a game in Stockton between COP and Hardin-Simmons of Texas. We volunteered to cover it and very soon we were wishing we hadn't.

It was a crazy game. The two teams piled up touchdowns so fast our scribbled notes couldn't keep pace with them. The final score, 35-35, will give an idea of the deciphering problem we were up against.

But the real fireworks were supplied by Dr. Knoles himself. All along he had been screaming at the officials. At halftime, he took the more direct course of marching onto the field and shaking a scolding finger under their collective noses.

What with the distinguished educator's billy goat chin whiskers bobbing in unison, it made for a priceless sight. Like we say, the new man, Stanley E. McCaffrey, is going to have to try harder if he is to beat it.

College Football—Three Plays Per Minute!

Delaware Tops in CD Bowl Action...

BIG GAINER—University of Delaware halfback Gardy Kahoe, a Little All-American candidate, picks up big yardage as he slips off tackle in game against Lafayette. Lafayette's Mike Lawleer (51), Gene Thaw (36) and Barry Hughes (24) attempt to stop Kahoe.

With the bowl competition fast approaching, the talk seems to lean to the success of teams in the bowls. And, when that's the case, the University of Delaware steps front and forward one giant step.

No College Division team can match the Blue Hens' perfect 3-0 bowl record.

Delaware is the undisputed champion of the Boardwalk Bowl, which is staged in the Convention Hall at Atlantic City. The Blue Hens defeated Indiana (Pa.), 31-24, in the first Boardwalk Bowl in 1968. They returned in 1969 to score a 31-13 triumph over North Carolina Central and last year Delaware surprised Morgan State, 38-23, at the Convention Hall.

Success certainly is not new to the Blue Hens, in fact, the people at Delaware proudly state that their brand of football has become synonymous with success. It's hard to argue the point when you look at the records.

The high-flying Blue Hens posted their second consecutive 9-2 record last year under Coach Harold (Tubby) Raymond. In addition to winning the Boardwalk Bowl, Delaware was voted recipient of its third consecutive Lambert Cup, symbolic of outstanding achievement among middle-sized colleges in the East. The Hens have won the coveted Lambert Cup six times—1959, 1962, 1963, 1968, 1969, and 1970.

Last year's Boardwalk Bowl championship saw Delaware, the NCAA College Division team rushing champion, roll up 397 yards against Morgan State, while the tough Blue Hen defense held the potent Bears to only 128 yards on the ground.

The Blue Hens lost 15 starters from last year's Boardwalk Bowl championship team.

"We certainly have a lot of holes to fill," said Raymond, "but there is also a lot more excitement around here.

"In the past couple of years, most of the positions were filled even before pre-season began. But, it's not true this year, and this is what is causing excitement. I hope this will offset inexperience."

Delaware Keeps Rolling

Apparently it has, because Delaware just keeps rolling along its merry way. The return of All-American candidates Bill Armstrong and Gardy Kahoe, a pair of power runners, and slick throwing quarterback Sam Neff also has helped the Blue Hens' bid for a fourth straight appearance in the Boardwalk Bowl.

Delaware won the 1970 NCAA rushing title with an average of 385.9 yards per game, the third highest total to win the crown since the NCAA started compiling college division statistics back in 1948. The Blue Hens' 397 yards against Morgan State marked the sixth time in 1970 Delaware had rushed for more than 390 yards.

The Blue Hens notched their third Boardwalk Bowl title before a crowd of 10,078. Delaware had established a record in total attendance at Delaware Stadium in 1970. A total of 98,625 fans watched the Hens perform at home—an increase of 2,607 per game over the previous year.

The Hens also set a single game record last year when they played Villanova before 19,067 spectators at Delaware Stadium.

Records and wins are synonymous with Delaware football.

Pressing Delaware for College Division Bowl honors is North Dakota State. The Bisons have compiled a 4-1 record in bowl competition.

North Dakota State's first bowl appearance was in 1965 in the Pecan Bowl at Abilene, Texas, where the Bisons whipped Grambling, 20-7.

The Bisons returned to the Pecan Bowl in 1967 and 1968. In 1967, Texas Arlington blanked the Bisons, 13-0, for their lone bowl defeat, but in 1968 they rebounded with a 23-14 win over Arkansas State.

North Dakota State then switched to the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento, Calif., where it scored 30-3 and 31-16 victories over the University of Montana in 1969 and 1970.

The Bisons started the 1971 season as the winningest college football team in the nation—college division or major. They had an incredible five-year, regular season won-lost percentage of .946 (43-2-1) under the coaching of Ron Erhardt.

The 3-1 bowl record hikes Erhardt's over-all record to 46-3-1, a winning percentage of .939!

Go back another two seasons, and North Dakota State has a 62-3-1 (.947) seven-year, regular-season record, a feat unmatched even by coach Bud Wilkinson's best seven years at Oklahoma, 64-4-2 (.929) in 1952-58.

Unlike Oklahoma, winning football had not been part of North Dakota State's history. Until Coach Darrell Mudra and top assistant Erhardt arrived in 1963, the Bisons had recorded only three winning seasons in 22 years. The frustration continued with the '63 season, as the Bisons won only three games, but it ended with the 1964 campaign.

The Bisons were 10-1 in '64, and they started a 24-game win streak, which ended in 1966.

Amazingly enough, the seniors on the 1970 Bison team could boast of not losing a single regular-season college football game. Only one other college-division team, Doane (Neb.), can make that claim in the last quarter-century. North Dakota State did it the last four years, while Doane's four-year streak ended last year.

North Dakota State has been ranked in the top 10 for six consecutive years, winning the Associated Press polls in 1965, 1968 and 1969 and the United Press International ratings in 1965 and 1969.

Motivation Key to Winning

Erhardt claims the key to winning is motivation.

"We sacrifice anything for morale, like unexpectedly cutting a two-hour practice to 45 minutes," he says.

"The most difficult thing about winning," he says, "is waiting to see when it will end. When we lose I hope it's 7-6."

The Bisons finally tasted defeat after winning their first five games this season. The University of North Dakota snapped the Bisons' 35 consecutive games without defeat (the nation's longest streak—college and university division) and 42 consecutive regular season games without defeat streaks with a 23-7 upset.

Still, North Dakota State has tremendous pride and, with the running of fullback Wayne (Truck) Stevenson, and halfbacks Tom Varichak and Dan Smrekar, and the all-around quarterbacking of Mike Benton, the Bisons have a proven offense.

Defensively the Bisons are pinning their 1971 bowl hopes on tackles Tom Marman, a 240-pounder, and 1971 College Division

190-pound wrestling champion Bob Backlund.

Tennessee State, like Delaware, is unbeaten in bowl competition, although the Tigers were tied in their first bowl game. The tie was a 14-14 deadlock with Ball State in the 1965 Grantland Rice Bowl at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Coach John Merritt's team returned to the Grantland Rice Bowl in 1966 and 1970 and registered 34-7 and 26-25 wins over Muskingum and Southwestern Louisiana, respectively.

Merritt ranks high in won-lost percentage (11th with a 123-43-7 record for a .731 percentage) and total victories (8th with 123 wins).

Merritt's Tennessee State teams use a pro-type offense with multiple sets not to mention plenty of scoring. Merritt is a two-time winner of the Coach of the Year award.

Daring Joe Gilliam, whose father Joe Gilliam Sr. is Merritt's No. 1 assistant, directed the Tigers to their 26-25 come-from-behind win over Southwestern Louisiana in the '70 Grantland Rice Bowl.

Gilliam completed 19 of 37 passes for 280 yards and two touchdowns and also scored another TD on a three-yard run.

Joe Jr. had a dazzling performance in Tennessee State's 41-35 victory over Grambling earlier this season. He had 408

(384 passing and 24 rushing) of Tennessee State's 441 total offense yards. Gilliam rushed for a pair of touchdowns and passed for three others as he accounted for the most yards ever chalked up against a Grambling team.

Arkansas State, last year's No. 1 ranked team in both the Associated Press and United Press International polls, is another big winner in bowls.

The Indians made it two consecutive triumphs in the Pecan Bowl at Arlington, Texas with a wild 38-21 win over Central Missouri. In 1969, Arkansas State defeated Drake, 29-21, in the Pecan Bowl to avenge its 23-14 loss to North Dakota State in the 1968 bowl contest.

The year 1970 was indeed a very good year for Arkansas State. The Indians posted their first undefeated and untied season with an 11-0 record; won a third straight Southland Conference Championship; captured the Washington Touchdown Club's honor award as the top college division team in the nation; and had their head coach Bennie Ellender named Coach of the Year.

Led by the passing of quarterback James Hamilton and the rushing of tailback Calvin Harrell, Arkansas State piled up 509 yards to overwhelm Central Missouri in the '70 Pecan Bowl. Hamilton passed for 244 yards and Harrell rushed for 135 yards.

Both Hamilton and Harrell are back this season trying to help make Bill Davidson's first season as head coach a winning one. Davidson was the offensive coordinator under Ellender, who moved on to Tulane University.

Most Memorable Win

Probably the most memorable Pecan Bowl win for the Indians was the 1969 victory over Drake.

The Pecan Bowl was rematch of Arkansas State and Drake's regular season 21-21 tie. Drake tied the score by scoring on the last play of the game and then adding a successful two-point conversion after the game had ended.

The Indians lost the services of quarterback Hamilton on the first series in the Pecan Bowl when he suffered a broken ankle. The quarterbacking then fell on the shoulders of 5-10, 155-pound Bubba Crocker.

Crocker, who currently is a law student at Texas Tech, came off the bench to throw two touchdown passes, score another and add a two-point conversion in the first half as the Indians took a 22-0 halftime lead. Arkansas State then held on for its 29-22 win and Crocker, who had played sparingly throughout the regular season, was named Most Valuable Player.

The 1971 NCAA College Division Football Championships again will offer six bowl games.

A new site has been selected for the Midwest game. The Pioneer Bowl makes its debut at Wichita Falls, Texas.

Recruiting—Private Aircraft

Situation: An institution wishes to use a privately owned airplane to transport a prospective student-athlete to visit the campus. (21)

Question: Under what circumstances may such an airplane be used for this purpose?

Answer: A privately owned airplane may be used only when it is totally owned by one person. This legislation prohibits use of such an aircraft when it is owned by a company, corporation, or more than one person including a corporation comprised of members of one family. [B1-2-(b)]

Recruiting—Entertainment

Situation: A prospective student-athlete pays his own expenses to visit an institution's campus. He is accompanied by his parents. (67)

Question: Is it permissible for a representative of an institution's athletic interests to provide local entertainment to the parents of the prospect without such entertainment constituting a paid visit?

Answer: No. If an institution or a representative of its athletic interests provides entertainment for the parents of a prospective student-athlete, this counts as a paid visit for the prospect and as the one occasion on which the parents of a prospect may be entertained. [B1-5-(d)-(3)-O.I. 100]

Recruiting Meals

Situation: A prospective student-athlete visits an institution's campus and is housed in a motel inasmuch as campus housing facilities are not available. (68)

Question: Must he eat his meals on the campus if facilities are available rather than at the motel where he is housed?

Answer: Yes. [B1-5-(e)]

Alien Student Eligibility

Situation: An alien student-athlete participates in organized competition in a particular sport in a foreign country subsequent to his nineteenth birthday and prior to his matriculation at a member institution. This participation results in the young man losing one year of varsity eligibility for purposes of participation in an NCAA championship event. (40)

Question: Does this participation in one sport affect the remaining years of eligibility for participation in an NCAA championship event in other sports?

Answer: No. The sport in which the young man participated as an alien student is the only sport affected. [B4-1-(f)-(2)]

Individual Eligibility

Situation: An alien student participates in two years of competition in a particular sport in a foreign country subsequent to his nineteenth birthday and prior to his initial enrollment in an NCAA member institution. During his first year in residence, the student-athlete participates as a freshman on the varsity team in that sport (41)

Question: How many years of eligibility does he have remaining for purposes of participation in an NCAA championship in the sport involved?

Answer: One year. The student-athlete utilized two years of eligibility through participation in a foreign country and one year by participating as a freshman on the varsity team. [B4-1-(f)-(2)]

1.600 Rule

Situation: A student attends high school for nine semesters. (46)

Question: In determining the student's eligibility under the 1.600 rule, is it permissible to utilize the student's accumulative high school record (rank-in-class or grade point average) at the end of the ninth semester?

Answer: No. O.I. 409 provides that a student's accumulative high school record at the end of the sixth, seventh or eighth semester must be used in determining his eligibility under the 1.600 rule [B4-6-(b)-(1)-O.I. 409]

High School Records

Situation: A three-year high school will provide a student's record (rank-in-class or grade average) only for his last three years. The high school includes the sophomore, junior and senior years, but not the freshman year. (47)

Question: Is it permissible to include a student's ninth grade record in developing the accumulative sixth, seventh or eighth semester record?

Answer: No. Unless such a high school determines records on a four-year basis for all of its students. Only then would it be permissible to use a student's four-year record [B4-6-(b)-(1)-O.I. 409]

Championship Corner...

Skiing Championships at Winter Park, Colo.

• The 1972 National Collegiate Skiing Championships will be held at Winter Park, Colorado, March 16-18.

The University of Colorado will be the host institution for the 19th annual championships.

CD Soccer Championship Dates, Sites

• Tentative dates and sites for the four College Division Regional Soccer Championships have been announced.

South—December 3-4 at Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida.

Atlantic Coast—November 19-20 at Elizabethtown College, Elizabethtown, Pa.

Pacific Coast—November 19-20 at Chico State College, Chico, Calif.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING—NCAA College Billboards have proved to sell football tickets for many institutions throughout the country. Dr. Fred L. Miller, new athletic director at Arizona State, and Frank Kush, head football coach for the Sun Devils, show the billboard's effectiveness.

At NCAA Film Service

Championship Movies Available for Members

Whether it's for instruction, entertainment or whatever the NCAA Film Service probably has the film for the occasion.

An extensive library of 16 mm films of NCAA Championship events and many instructional films are available for use by member institutions, high schools, civic clubs and other groups.

The library includes films covering NCAA Championships in the sports of basketball, gymnastics, ice hockey, swimming, track and field and wrestling. More than 500 films of championship competition in these sports are available.

Color and Sound

Commencing with the 1968 Championships series, all films are in color, and, with 1969, sound is available as well. The 1970 and 1971 championship events may be viewed in 30-minute sound/color highlight films as well as full-length silent/color.

As far as instructional films are concerned, the NCAA Film Service maintains a complete sports educational film library, including cartridge film loops covering the basic maneuvers in over 22 individual and team sports. The library has 200 educational films with the recent addition of soccer, women's field hockey, and a basic physical fitness film.

The Super 8 mm loops are silent enabling the instructor to control the level of the commentary, and each is under four minutes in length. Each series is in color and is authored by an outstanding coach or physical educator.

Many special films and highlights are available in 16 mm with sound and color on either rental or purchase basis. Starting with the 1969 season, highlight films of the college football season and the National Collegiate Basketball Championship are available with sound and color.

These films are approximately 30 minutes and are ideal for showing at meetings or special occasions.

Popular Film

Another popular highlight film is the National Summer Youth Sports Program, which is conducted by the NCAA. The film explains the needs filled by the program, shows many of the myriad activities conducted and contains comments of educators, instructors and participants on the merits of the summer program.

NCAA Profile

Council 'Challenging, Interesting' for Myers

As District Seven Vice-President, Louis A. Myers Jr. brings a wide background of educational experience to the NCAA Council.

"I was not active in intercollegiate athletics," Myers says, "but I've always been interested in athletics. I have found my work with the Council interesting and challenging."

The University of Arizona professor will complete his second year on the Council in January.

Myers has served the University of Arizona in a number of ways since 1939 when he enrolled as a student. He earned a B.S. degree in 1943 and then served in the Army with the 16th Cavalry before returning to earn his M.S. degree in business administration.

Myers started teaching in 1948, but was recalled to active duty in the Army during the Korean War.

In 1953 he resumed teaching and also received his Certified Public Accountant certificate for the state of Arizona.

Myers was named acting head of the Department of Accounting in 1959 and the next year he assumed permanent direction of the department. He held the position until 1967 when he asked to return to full-time teaching.

He also served as interim dean of the College of Business and Public Administration for a six-month period in 1963. He has served as chairman of the committee appointed to select the Alumni Association Faculty Achievement Award winner and currently is serving on the Faculty Senate.

The University of Arizona honored Myers as its Outstanding Male Faculty Member in 1966-67. Myers has been on the University's Faculty Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics since 1959 and has been the Faculty Athletic Representative since 1968.

"I believe intercollegiate athletics are a very valuable part of the educational process," Myers says.

BYU Will Open Cage Season in New Arena

Brigham Young University will open its 1971-72 basketball season in its new 22,000-seat Marriott Activities Center, but Cougar fans have been warned not to expect too much too soon. "We have done all we can do to get the building ready for the opener," said Sam Brewster, director of Physical Plant at BYU. "But the public shouldn't expect to find a finished building at the first event." The new center will be the largest on any campus in the country.

The University of Arizona's Frank Sancet has announced he will step down at the end of the season after 22 years as baseball coach . . . Miss Barbara Specht, College Football's Centennial Queen in 1969, is continuing her association with intercollegiate athletics. Miss Specht, a June graduate of Texas Tech University, has joined the staff of the Western Athletic Conference in Denver.

Larry White of Louisiana Tech, a junior journalism student, has been selected as the recipient of a $200 scholarship given annually by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association. The award is presented to a Louisiana college student for outstanding service as a student assistant to his school's sports information director . . . Mattline Render has received a certificate from Phi Lambda Sigma honorary physical education sorority at East Stroudsburg State College in recognition of her winning a Pan American Games gold medal in track. Miss Render is on the faculty at East Stroudsburg.

More honors: The "dean of the South Dakota State University coaches," Glenn Robinson, recently was presented with the South Dakota Health, Physical Education and Recreation Association Honor Award . . . Doyt L. Perry, who was the nation's winningest football coach from 1955 to 1964 at Bowling Green State University, has been inducted into the Falcons' Athletic Hall of Fame. Macs Leitman, football and baseball star of the 1920's, and Crystal (Boo) Ellis, captain of the 1957 basketball team, also were inducted.

The University of Michigan Media Hall of Fame has been formed and the 11 charter members are Sam Greene (Detroit News), H. G. Salsinger (Detroit News), Edgar Hayes (Detroit Times), Lad Slingerland (Lansing State Journal), Mill Marsh (Ann Arbor News), Wilfrid Smith (Chicago Tribune), Roscoe Bennett (Grand Rapids Press), Eddie Edgar (Detroit Free Press), Doc Holland and Ty Tyson (WWJ) and Les Etter (Michigan Sports Information Director).

Former North Carolina A&T greats Dr. Charles U. DeBerry, Earl (Dutch) Clark, Al Attles, J. D. Smith, and the late Jim Neely, Horse Lane and Sam Bruce were honored during A&T's first annual Sports Hall of Fame induction ceremony . . . Many of the great names in University of South Dakota football history recently returned to the Vermillion campus for a reunion with the Coyotes' winningest football coach Harry Gamage.

Reed Memorial

The Tournament of Roses has planted a giant albizzia tree at its Pasadena (Calif.) headquarters in the memory of Big 10 Commissioner William R. Reed, who died last May after serving the conference for 29 years.

A Mid-American Conference attendance record was established at the Toledo-Bowling Green game, October 6, when 26,860 fans saw the Rockets score their 28th consecutive victory, the longest winning streak in the nation.

It also was the first sellout in the six-year history of Bowling Green's Perry Field. The old conference attendance mark was 23,214 for the 1970 Toledo-Western Michigan game at Western Michigan.

Oregon Gets Final Olympic Trials

The Final Olympic Trials in track and field will be conducted at the University of Oregon over a 10-day period starting not earlier than June 28 and not later than July 1, 1972.

The Board of Directors of the U.S. Olympic Committee awarded the trials to Eugene, Oregon following the recommendation of the men's track and field committee. The trials will be conducted under the auspices of the State of Oregon, the City of Eugene, the University of Oregon and the Oregon Track Club.

All U.S. athletes who have met the qualifying standards adopted for a nation entering more than one person in an event at the Olympic Games are eligible to compete in the Final Olympic Trials.

"The final trials will be the only trials," reports Robert Giegengack, chairman of the men's track and field committee.

Performance standards for the individual athletes may be attained in any fully certified meet, such as any recognized national championships, conference championships, regional meets of open competition or in the Armed Forces championships.

The first three place finishers in the final trials will qualify for the U.S. Olympic team. The maximum complement for the U.S. team is 70, which includes four extra men for the two relay races.

Giegengack said that under this system for the trials there would be no numerical limitations on the field in the U.S. trials in any of the 22 individual events on the Olympic Games schedule.

The Qualifying Standards

100 Meters—10.3 or 9.4 for 100 yards
200 Meters—20.9 or 21.0 for 220 yards
400 Meters—46.4 or 46.7 for 440 yards
800 Meters—1:47.6 or 1:48.3 for 880 yards
1500 Meters—3:41.6 or 3:59.6 for mile
5,000 Meters—13:48.0 or 13:21.0 for three miles
10,000 Meters—28:50.0 or 27:55 for six miles
Steeplechase—8:38.0
High Hurdles—14.0
400 Meter Intermediate Hurdles—50.6 or 50.9 for 440-yard intermediate hurdles
High Jump—7-5/8
Pole Vault—16-8 3/4
Long Jump—25-7
Triple Jump—53-1 1/4
Shot Put—62-4
Discus—193-7
Hammer Throw—216-6
Javelin—262-5
Decathlon—7,600 points
No qualifying standards have been set for race walking and the marathon races.

Tiltons 'Doubling Up' for Southwest Missouri State

By Wally Renfro

Southwest Missouri St., Asst. SID Springfield, Mo. — Knowing Marvin Tilton and Martin Tilton is like flipping a coin and finding that both sides are heads.

You see, Marvin is a six-foot, 199-pound sophomore offensive guard, and Martin is a six-foot, 198-pound sophomore defensive end for Southwest Missouri State College.

They're twins.

In fact, they look so much alike that Martin grew a mustache during the summer to help friends and coaches distinguish which is which.

"Hi, Martin," someone greeted one of them the other day. "No, I'm Marvin."

"But I thought Martin was the one with the mustache," stammered the bewildered friend.

"He was," replied Marvin, "but he shaved his off, and I started growing one."

"You two keep that up and no one is going to believe you," charged the friend. "They'll call the whole affair a sham and a hoax. It's more than the mind and eye can work out."

And that's more or less the way it's been since the day Tilton and Tilton arrived on campus a year ago. The only time there isn't confusion is when they have their numbered jerseys on in a game.

"Actually, I've never had any trouble telling us apart," Martin proclaims with a face that in a poker game would be as good as four aces. It's the same sort of humor he uses in practices to get the team up.

"They both joke a lot, and get the team loose and ready for practice," Coach Don (Red) Cross says.

"They are both great team leaders. They do the same thing during a game, but then they are very serious and conscientious."

There is very little that isn't unusual about the Tiltons. For instance, they were new year babies ("We got a lot of presents for that little trick.") in 1952.

Then they did a complete turnabout in position when they came to Southwest Missouri State. Offensive guard Marvin had played defensive end at Carthage (Mo.) High School, and defensive end Martin had played offensive guard.

"That switch was no mistake," Cross quickly explains. "Martin was quicker on his feet than Marvin, so we decided to make him into a defensive end, and Marvin was a sound blocker. They have both done a great job adjusting."

During the three years the Tiltons played prep ball, Carthage lost only four games and tied two others.

"We didn't decide to look for a school where we could both go together," Martin said. "It just seemed to work out that way."

Martin wasn't in on the first play of the first game his freshman year, but it was the only game he missed starting as a rookie. Marvin was a backup guard and worked on the speciality units last year.

"Anybody can play defense. It takes a year to really learn how to play good offense,"

Marvin suggests, throwing a sidelong look at Martin.

"Oh, brother," Martin grimaces.

Which one is the best football player?

"Well, I'm afraid I'd have to admit that I am," they simultaneously announce.

And it goes on continually between the two twins.

"Actually, Marvin was pretty unhappy with himself when he didn't start last year," Cross says. "Both are very dedicated players, and very intelligent, and very, very fine young men."
