

Finances, Reorganization and Enforcement Key Items

Financial aid, legislative reorganization and a major change in the enforcement machinery were key items discussed by the NCAA Council at its spring meeting April 7-9 in Kansas City.

The Council said it will continue to support four basic proposals in the area of financial aid to student-athletes and, since no action was taken on them at the past convention, will review the specifics during the summer council meeting then re-introduce the legislation at the 67th NCAA Convention in Chicago next January.

The four proposals as they now stand are:

1. Require scholarship aid to be on a need basis.
2. Limit the number of grants-in-aid that can be awarded by each school.
3. Introduction of a candidate's Declaration Program, an extension of the National Letter of Intent. The distinction here is that the program would be national in scope, there for all NCAA member institutions to use. It also includes a quiet period in which no prospective student-athlete can be contacted by a member institution prior to his declaration date.

4. Limit to one year the financial aid award.

In the area of reorganization, the Council heard from a special committee headed by David Swank of the University of Oklahoma.

The proposals for reorganization range from a "no change" attitude toward maneuvers which would further divide the NCAA which now has University and College Division categories.

The committee favored, Swank said, virtually the same proposal which was discussed at the 66th NCAA Convention—one with one constitution, one set of bylaws but voting within two, three or four distinct divisions.

Each division would have specifics set out in the bylaws as to number of grants-in-aid. A member institution could pick its division but would be bound to remain there for all sports.

The special committee will meet again this spring and prepare a report for the August meeting of the Council.

Enforcement machinery will be changed if the upcoming convention approves the constitution and bylaw amendment the Council will introduce.

The switch is designed to improve the enforcement operation and relieve the Council of some of its workload in this area.

Instead of being a fact finding body, the Committee on Infractions would become a judicial body. The committee would expand from three to five members, be empowered to try infraction cases and be able to impose penalties.

The NCAA enforcement staff would be the fact finder and present the alleged violation case to the committee. Any institution found in violation could appeal to the Council.

Also, enforcement in the area of ethical principles was discussed by the Council. Recent incidents such as the Minnesota-

Ohio State basketball game, the College Division Basketball Championships at the regional and finals level, plus the gambling by student-athletes at Tennessee brought about the discussion of punishment for ethics violations.

The type of penalty would range from a private to a public reprimand to a show-cause procedure in which the institution would have to show the Council why it shouldn't be penalized for failure to take appropriate disciplinary action against the individual(s) involved.

A Conference of Conferences was approved by the Council and will be held July 17-18 in Denver. It will be held to help strengthen and secure greater compliance with governing conference and NCAA legislation.

Each member conference will be asked to send one athletic director, one faculty-representative and a conference official to the meeting.

Fifteen Student-Athlete Scholarships Awarded

Fifteen senior basketball players are recipients of $1,000 Postgraduate Scholarships awarded by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The 15 winners, who epitomize the term "student-athlete," bring the number of scholarships to 512 for a total allocation of $512,000 since the inception of the program in 1964.

"The program was created to recognize student-athletes and to give these outstanding young men an opportunity to continue their graduate work at an institution of their choice," said Laurence C. Woodruff of the University of Kansas and chairman of the NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship Committee.

The 15 winners are divided into three groups, University, College and At-Large, with each division having five players who are cam-

Morse of Penn, Jay Mottola of Lafayette and Alan Nissen of Nebraska.

College Division—Don Fishman of Brandeis, Vic Guerrieri of Oberlin, Bobby Jobe of Transylvania, David Platte of Wartburg and Matt Zweig of Colby.

At-Large—Dan Bush of Indiana State, Greg Flaker of Missouri, Joe Good of Catholic University, Jeff Naslund of Claremont Men's College and Jim Phe-lan of Boston College.

Funds Granted To NSYSP

The Federal Government will fund the 1972 National Summer Youth Sports Program (NSYSP) for $3 million, the White House staff has announced.

Details are presently being worked out.

The announcement came at a recent White House briefing for a group of big city mayors in which the mayors learned of all the summer programs that receive federal aid.

Jim Wilkinson, NSYSP director, said the program will provide about the same budget as in 1971.

The program runs from June 5 to Sept. 2 at various campus sites around the country and provides sports activity for over 43,000 underprivileged children.

GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONIES—The first of its kind, the new NCAA building is under construction in Mission, Kan. Ceremonies to kickoff the event were attended by (from left) Wade Stinson, Kansas athletic director and NCAA District Five vice president; Mayor George D. Anderson of Mission; Senator James B. Pearson of Kansas, and NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers. The building will house the executive staff and publishing service which will be moved from Arizona.

Second Lawsuit Seeks Disclosure of Early Cage Signings

A suit against the American Basketball Association, former Western Kentucky University player Jim McDaniels, the Carolina Cougars basketball team, Athletes Advisory Group, Inc., and agent Norman Blass was filed April 5 in the United States District Court, Louisville, Kentucky, by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The suit seeks, in part, to require the ABA to disclose the names of any student-athletes with collegiate eligibility remaining who enter into either an oral or a written agreement with an ABA team or the league within 24 hours after such an arrangement is reached.

In announcing the suit, NCAA President, Earl M. Ramer, professor of education at the University of Tennessee, said "The NCAA does not prevent any player from signing a professional contract at any time. However, in order to protect the integrity of collegiate athletics we must have all signings publically known.

"It is because of the secrecy of the McDaniels' signing, the denials under oath of the signing and the assurances of others that there was no signing that the NCAA is suing.

"This is one more way of the NCAA's total effort to help member institutions to keep sports activity honest and above board. We will fight fraud, deception and dishonesty in any way we can," Ramer added.

Total damages of $285,763.80 are being sought from the defendants, with the NCAA contending that McDaniels signed with Blass, an agent of Athletes Advisory Group, Inc., and also with the ABA and a member team while still participating for WKU.

The suit filed by the NCAA seeks the following damages:

Actual damages, $185,763.80, including Western Kentucky's 1971 Tournament share and NCAA investigating expenses.

Exemplary damages, $100,000.-00.

This is the second such court action taken by the NCAA. On February 23, a suit was filed against the ABA and Howard Porter, formerly of Villanova University, for a similar early signing.

McDaniels led his Western Kentucky team to a third-place finish in the 1971 National Collegiate Basketball Championship.

The suit contends that McDaniels, after being solicited by Blass, signed in October, 1970, an undated agency contract for use of his exclusive services as a professional basketball player in and for the ABA.

Next, the suit states, in November, 1970, Theodore J. Munchak, principal owner of the Carolina Cougars, obtained McDaniels' signature on an agreement tying the player to the ABA and to the Cougars for five years for $900,000.

Later in November, 1970, an undated employment agreement with the ABA was signed, the suit adds, and $25,000 cash was paid "... to or for Defendant McDaniels."

The agreements, the suit says, gave the ABA and the Cougars exclusive rights to McDaniels from October, 1971, to October, 1976, for more than $1,000,000, with an option to extend for one additional year.

The suit says, "Defendant McDaniels failed to advise either Western Kentucky University or NCAA of any of the matters . . . but instead . . . deceived NCAA and Western Kentucky University by continuing to play and participate . . . thereby falsely and fraudulently representing to NCAA and Western Kentucky University that he was eligible to participate in such games and events, when, in fact, Defendant McDaniels knew, or should have known, that he was ineligible to so participate and play."

McDaniels, on February 11, 1971, signed an affidavit for the NCAA saying he had not signed any professional contract and, the suit continues, "... verbally represented: that he had not previously entered into or made any agreement or commitment with the ABA; that he had no agreement or commitment with any agent or agency to represent him; that he had not received any money, or the promise of money, from the ABA or any agent or agency; and that there was no written document in existence between him and any professional basketball league or team."

Investigation continued on McDaniels' early signing, the suit adds, and "Upon an express in-

We'll Miss "Duff"

The recent passing of Gene Duffy, NCAA assistant executive director, was deeply felt by his many friends and fellow workers around the country. His jovial manner, warm personality and tireless energy will be missed at various national events such as the College World Series in his former residence, Omaha, and the College Division Basketball Championships in Evansville, Ind. They don't come with any more class than Duffy, he's irreplaceable.

Frosh Rule Questioned

by Wiles Hallock

Pacific Eight Commissioner
as told to Tom Siler in the Sporting News

The Pacific Eight feels that freshman eligibility is foolish from a practical standpoint. Costs are important, but it is a dubious rationale that costs will be materially reduced.

If they are, it will be only because college athletics has taken another step backward in its failure to provide as broad participation as possible. When college athletics become solely a matter of the grant-in-aid athlete being the only one participating, then alienation from the student body and from educational objectives will be complete.

We intend in the Pacific Eight to continue with freshman programs or a combination of freshman-junior varsity competition which we feel is so very important. The number of freshmen who can play on the varsity will be very few.

How many freshmen do you bring back for August practice? How much does this cost? What extra personnel does it take to handle larger turnouts for a varsity practice? How many young men will serve a coach's purpose for one year as a freshman, never pass an hour's work and drop out of school? How will varsity football pressures affect academic adjustment on the part of a freshman griddier?

I don't know all the answers, but I'm not for it. I don't believe it's going to result in great savings. I don't believe it's going to help the little guy to any great extent. It's not going to make much difference to the big guy, and it will work toward increased professionalism of collegiate sport.

Elsewhere in Education Corporate Aid Reaches $20 Million

Programs in which corporations match donations by employees brought about $20 million in aid to colleges and universities in 1970, the Council for Financial Aid to Education reported recently.

A survey showed that more than 85,000 employees gave a total of more than $10 million to colleges and universities, and that this was matched by corporate gifts in excess of $9 million.

The council said about 500 companies now have matching programs, an increase of 100 in the past four years. About 25 companies began such programs for the first time each year.

Comparisons of JC and College Students

The Census Bureau has found in a 1970 survey a number of differences between freshmen and sophomores attending four-year colleges, and those going to two-year institutions.

The survey found that 6.3 million students were undergraduates—1.7 million (27 percent) enrolled at two-year colleges, and 2.2 million (36 percent) enrolled as freshmen or sophomores at four-year colleges.

- The bureau arrived at the following findings:
- 47 percent of the two-year college students were 20 years old or over, compared with 23 percent of freshmen and sophomores at four-year colleges.
- 30 percent attended classes part-time, compared with 11 percent in four-year schools.
- 23 percent were married, compared with 11 percent in four-year programs.
- 45 percent were from suburbs of metropolitan areas, compared with 37 percent from four-year schools.
- 34 percent lived in the West, compared with only 14 percent of the four-year students.
- 92 percent attended public supported schools compared with 73 percent of four-year students.
- 15 percent of the two-year students came from families in which the head of the family had completed college, compared with 26 percent of the students in the first two years of a four-year college.

The bureau said there were 482,000 black students enrolled in the first four years of college in October 1970, with about 336,000, or 70 percent of them, enrolled in the first two years of college. The bureau said that Negro students comprised eight percent of all undergraduate students and a similar proportion of the students enrolled in the first two years of college.

New Cage Rules Adopted for '73

Six rule differences will go into effect next basketball season as a result of the National Basketball Committee of the U.S.A. and Canada's rule committee meeting.

The complete list:

Rule 1, Section 10, Baskets—Size, Material. A basket may have only a single metal ring.

Rule 9, Section 1, Free Throw. New interpretation, a substitute free throw shall be awarded if a violation by the player shooting the free throw was a result of disconcertion.

Rule 9, Section 7, Three-Second Rule. Further explanation, the three-seconds lane violation applies only when the ball is in the front court.

Rule 9, Section 9, Ball in Back Court. New exception now limits returning the ball to the back court following a center jump to a player who is in the air when he secures control of the tap.

Rule 10, Section 7, Unsportsmanlike Tactics. New addition, a player who fouls must raise one hand only and lower it in a sportsmanlike manner.

Rule 10, Section 10, Personal Fouls. New addition, the offended team is now awarded the ball for common fouls (rather than shoot a free throw) until the bonus rule goes into effect. This is for non-shooting fouls only.

1972 NCAA-ABC Football Telecasts

Under provisions of the new NCAA-ABC television plan for collegiate football, here are the first six weekend alignments for national and regional telecasts:

September 9—Tennessee at Georgia Tech; September 16—Arizona State at Houston; September 23; Nebraska at Army, Georgia at Tulane, Stanford at Duke and Bowling Green at Miami of Ohio; September 30—Illinois at Washington; October 7—Notre Dame at Michigan State; October 14—Oklahoma vs. Texas at Dallas; Arizona at New Mexico, and The Citadel at East Carolina.

The remainder of the schedule will be announced on a game-by-game basis, no later than the Monday preceding the Saturday of the game.

NCAA Suit

quiry by and from the NCAA, defendants Blass and AAG (Athletes Advisory Group, Inc.) . . . stated and purposefully implied that defendants Blass and AAG did not represent defendant McDaniels as an agent . . . and conspired with, aided and abetted defendant McDaniels in concealing and secreting from Western Kentucky University and NCAA that he had already entered into an agency agreement and several contracts to play professional basketball in or for the ABA. . .

Inquiries also were made of Jack Dolph, ABA commissioner, during February, 1971, concerning McDaniels, the suit continues, and Dolph said McDaniels had not signed a contract or agreed to play in the ABA.

In Seattle, Washington, there is a suit pending between McDaniels and the Seattle Super Sonics of the National Basketball Association as plaintiffs vs. the Carolina Cougars, Athletes Advisory Group, Inc., the ABA and Dolph as defendants for damages of $3-900,000. The suit seeks an injunction under Federal anti-trust laws and McDaniels, among other matters, alleges that these defendants misled him by saying the several contracts he signed in late 1970 would not make him ineligible to continue playing amateur basketball.

Organization Needed

by Volney Meece

Oklahoma City Times

The sun won't set on '72 without war re-erupting between the NCAA and AAU over control of international competition.

The NCAA won't mount its attack until after the summer Olympics because of the adverse effect it might have on some athletes' chances to compete.

But the NCAA has tried peaceful negotiations and has had it with the AAU's taking advantage of same to entrench itself. So this autumn you can expect to see the NCAA take its case to court, to Congress and to the citizenry.

One witness for the NCAA might well be Joe Gieck, U of Virginia trainer who interned under Oklahoma's Ken Rawlinson. Gieck served with the U.S. team in the Pan-American Games and was so impressed with AAU inefficiency he made it the subject of a paper as part of work toward a doctorate.

"I had read about all the trouble our international teams have had in the past with AAU officials," Gieck wrote, "but you really don't appreciate how bad the problem is until you are directly involved."

Pointing out he wasn't out to get anybody but simply enlighten a complacent public, Gieck said, "Maybe by people reading what I saw, they might do something about it. I know they've read the same thing before but you have to keep trying to get the point across."

Gieck's point: U.S. athletes are giving up summer jobs to compete for their country and, in return, are being treated "like seventh graders."

Place NCAA in Charge

Gieck said, "There is no question that the NCAA should be in charge of the international games. The AAU people, who by and large make up the Olympic committee, have no comprehension of how to operate athletic events."

"Secondary school athletic programs are better run and organized. If anyone operated a college athletic program like they do the Olympic program, that man would be fired before the year was over . . .

"Having heard of the Olympic and Pan-American Games all my life, I expected to meet some class individuals . . . I never thought much about all the news stories of how incompetent, senile, jealous and childish these officials were.

"Not only were they all these things, but I could go on for pages with other adjectives . . . I shall continue to look for an AAU-USOC official who varies from the mold but fear it will be like Diogenes looking for that truly honest man . . ."

Gieck said at the Pan-Am basketball tryouts in Colorado, the chairman was a millionaire who "had a mania for trivia." He also had his son-in-law and a cousin on the committee and his grandson on one of the teams, which angered bona fide candidates.

In Colombia Gieck said, "The combined efforts of the Olympic Committee and Pan-Am officials was something to behold. No one knew when they were to work out or compete or where they did so."

Too Much Trivia

"The entire committee decided such trivia as how many cokes to pass out, what type soap to buy, how much toilet paper to buy, etc. They are just like children, afraid to give anyone any responsibility for fear they won't get credit for the act."

"Three of the 'officials' worked while the rest were housed in the Grand Hotel in luxury. They never set foot in our squalor (at the dorms, which hadn't been completed and had 12 to 14 crammed into a room)."

Of serving as Pan-Am trainer, Gieck declared, "It was an interesting experience but there is no way I would ever do it again, not with the AAU having its 1890's attitude toward sports."

Ideas Exchange The Spring Football Game

What to do with the spring football game? The University of South Carolina has made their annual intrasquad grid contest part of a "Day of the Gamecocks."

A busy day of sports activity begins at 10:30 a.m. with a baseball game against Georgia Southern followed at noon with the annual USC Association of Lettermen barbecue at the football stadium, the spring game begins at 2 p.m. with a golf match and a track meet both beginning at 5:30 p.m. against the University of Georgia.

"We are including admission to both baseball and track events with the price of a spring football game ticket," said USC Sports Information Director Tom Price. "With three events for the price of one, we feel it will gain exposure for the other two sports from those persons who normally attend just our football games."

This is the first attempt at organizing such a day at South Carolina and the school is sending flyers promoting the event to over 6,000 booster club members.

Football Ticket Drive

A school bordering a sparsely populated section of the state but still an hour-and-a-half freeway drive away from a metropolis that boasts other colleges and professional teams, must be innovative in securing season football ticket holders.

Such is the case at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo. The Rams have installed the "CSU Caravan" during the summer months with the idea being that personal contact with alumni, previous lettermen and potential ticket buyers is the best approach.

"We pick out 10 towns, mostly in Northern Colorado which is basically a rural area and a few around the Denver area," says Riley Hall, CSU sports information director, "and we contact our key alumni and ex-athletes to help us coordinate the day."

The event involves the alumni rounding up people they think are interested in college football and CSU in particular then inviting them for a day of golf and an evening program at CSU's expense.

"We golf in the afternoon and at dinner have a member of our coaching staff talk and show either the league or our own highlight film," added Hall.

Student Athletes Speak

What do today's collegiate athletes say about their own futures? Do they have specific goals in academic careers?

The NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship winners in basketball have definite plans, here's what a few of them are thinking:

Bob Morse, Penn: "I plan to become a general practitioner (MD), hopefully involved with those segments of our society which traditionally have had inadequate medical services. I feel that I could find satisfaction in relationships with patients, in helping people in ways that no one else can, both in times of joy and sorrow."

Jeff Naslund, Claremont Men's College: "Education is an area of critical importance to our society, for we act as we have learned. Academic as well as athletic discipline determines whether people can join together to achieve common goals. Our society has set down some basic goals, but as yet, we have been unable to achieve them. My goal is to serve the community. I would like to play many positions at this juncture, but, more importantly, I wish to play."

Don Fishman, Brandeis: "Law, for me, offers the opportunity to fulfill my desire to lead a significant life and at the same time contribute to our society. Being a lawyer involves playing a variety of roles. It is being an advisor to those less qualified and being an architect of an ever-changing society. Rather than being stagnate in one's job, the lawyer must always be learning, changing and adapting."

Greg Flaker, Missouri: "I have been greatly influenced by doctors particularly through athletics. People need doctors, not only for the relief of physical symptoms, but also for psychological guidance. Hopefully, in this profession, I can give back to society a part of what has been provided me."

David Platte, Wartburg College: "A law career offers both a challenge and an opportunity to provide a service. Since the ideas and attitudes of society are constantly changing, the legal framework under which we live must be flexible enough to accommodate these changes. Lawyers are becoming involved in situations dealing with the preservation of our environment. I would like the opportunity to work toward the preservation of these resources by applying the legal knowledge I hope to gain."

Joe Good, Catholic University: "In the specialized world of today, I find architecture a discipline which relates not just to one aspect of man, but to the experiential totality of man. Architecture incorporates the strict reasoning processes of man along with the aesthetic factor, which relates to the mystique, the undefinable in man. Architecture to me is the creative power of communicating in a multi-level fashion through the three dimensions, a form, which relates to the polydimensional man."

Alan Nissen, Nebraska: "From the onset of my undergraduate studies, I have planned a career in medicine. In my junior year I had the opportunity to watch a number of operations by doctors in our area. This was utterly fascinating. There is so much to accomplish in medicine and it presents such a great challenge. To me that is what one wants of a profession."

OUTSTANDING PERFORMER—Mike Porcarelli paced the University of Colorado to the 1972 National Collegiate Skiing Championship. The junior was named the top man in the meet after winning the slalom and finishing fourth in the downhill to capture the alpine combined scoring. He was named to the All-America team for the second straight year. Picture by Lloyd Coleman, Winter Park, Colo.

Colorado, Boston University, Detroit Win Winter Meets

The University of Colorado won its third National Collegiate Skiing Championships, edging neighbor University of Denver by five points, 385.3 to 380.1.

The 19th title meet saw the state of Colorado claim the crown for the 17th time with Denver holding the biggest chunk, 14 trophies.

Mike Porcarelli paced Colorado in the alpine events, winning the slalom with a total time of 1:25.71 and finishing fourth in the downhill in 1:10.97, slightly over one second off Otto Tschudi's winning 1:09.22 mark.

Tschudi of Denver was the only one of three returning champions to fare well as he defended his crown in the downhill, beating the field by one second.

Vidar Nilsgard of Colorado could finish but fourth in jumping as DU's Odd Hammernes took that event, and Ole Ivar Hansen of DU was no better than seventh in cross country competition won by Wyoming's Stale Engen in :52.24.

The Skimeister award for competition in all four events went to New Hampshire's Kim Kendall who finished 27th in downhill, 52nd in slalom, 36th in cross country and 18th in jumping.

Four Colorado skiers earned the Buffalos' crucial points in the nordic events as Ron Yeager and Raoul Wille finished fifth and sixth in cross country while Arne Haugen and Nilsgard took second and fourth in jumping.

Twenty schools participated sending 149 skiers to Winter Park, Colo. for the Championships. Wyoming finished third behind CU and DU with Middlebury fourth and Dartmouth fifth.

Ice Hockey

It must be the year of the repeat—Boston University took home its second straight National Collegiate Ice Hockey Championship with a 4-0 shutout of Cornell University, March 18 at the Boston Gardens.

BU joins Indiana in swimming, UCLA in basketball and Cal State Fullerton in college division gymnastics as repeat champions for 1972.

The Terriers did it in sensational fashion with the 1971 most outstanding player, goalie Dan Brady, on the sidelines due to a knee injury. All BU did was unveil Tim Regan who had appeared in only seven games prior to the tourney and watch as Regan shut-out Cornell to take home this year's outstanding player trophy.

It was the first shutout in 225 games for Cornell and the second defeat to BU the Big Red had suffered in two weeks. Boston prevailed, 4-1, in the ECAC finals, the lowest single goal output by Cornell until the Championship game.

Regan's work was only the second shutout in the 25 year history of the championship finals. He turned back 33 Cornell shots.

The semifinals saw BU dump Wisconsin, 4-1, and Cornell skate past Denver, 7-2.

Fencing

Detroit University broke a 13-year Eastern stranglehold on the National Collegiate Fencing Championships with its first team title in that sport.

The Titans used superior depth and the unbeaten record of Fencer of the Year, Tyrone Simmons, to become the first midwestern team to win the title since Illinois took honors in 1958. East Coast schools kept the title during the interim.

Simmons repeated as the national champion in foil competition rolling up 23 straight victories during the March 23-25 meet held at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle.

Detroit used sound depth as Kenneth Blake put together a 19-4 record for runnerup honors in sabre and Fred Hooker went 16-7 for fourth spot in epee.

Another defending champion, Bruce Soriano, beat all competition in sabre to take home his third consecutive title. He went 23-1 during the three-day affair.

Soriano becomes the first three-time winner in fencing's 28 year history of collegiate championship competition.

One upset occurred with Ernesto Fernandez of Pennsylvania unseating defending champion George Szunyogh of New York University, in epee competition. Fernandez was 21-2 while Szunyogh managed but an 18-5 record.

Roanoke Blends Talent in College Division Tourney

It was a strange combination of talent that got little Roanoke College its first national title, the 1972 College Division Basketball Championship.

The Lutheran school from Salem, Va., with an enrollment of 1,250, dumped bigger University of Akron, 84-72, to win the crown, March 17 at the University of Evansville.

The Maroons combine a six-foot guard who four years ago spent eight days unconscious as a result of a skull fracture, a 6-7 forward who is 27 years old, plus a sophomore forward who was on the receiving end of blows twice during the Tournament.

The guard is Hal Johnston, voted the most outstanding player of the tournament with 69 points and 24 assists. He hit for 22 points in the title game.

The 27-year-old is Beatty Barnes who hit for 14 points and grabbed 15 rebounds against Akron. Barnes spent four years in the Navy and earned junior college All-America honors before going to Roanoke.

The sophomore forward Jay Piccola, named to the all-tourney team, was knocked down in a regional game and knocked out in the semifinals but bounced back to score 22 points against Akron.

A highlight of the tourney came when Akron gained a finals berth by beating pre-meet favorite Tennessee State, 71-69, in overtime on reserve forward Brian Westover's driving layin with one second on the clock.

Roanoke, coached by Charles Moir, gained the finals with a 99-73 decision of Eastern Michigan.

The leading scorer and rebounder in the Tournament both came from Tennessee State. Leonard Robinson scored 113 points in five games while teammate Lloyd Neal grabbed 71 rebounds.

Robinson and Neal joined Johnston and Piccola from Roanoke plus Akron's Len Paul on the All-Tournament team.

UD Gymnastics

Penn State is noted for its top gymnasts. They are so good in fact that they return to haunt their alma mater.

Such is the case with Southern Illinois and Coach Bill Meade. With the 1972 National Collegiate Gymnastics Championships under his belt, Meade now has whipped his old school and former coach, Gene Wettstone, four times.

The Salukis took honors beating defending champion Iowa State on the Cyclones home ground, 315.925 to 312.325 with Penn State finishing third.

Steve Hug of Stanford upset the four favorites to capture all-round honors. Not among the pre-meet picks, Hug zipped by Gary Morava of Southern Illinois, Marshall Avener of Penn State and Tom Lindner of SIU to score 107.75 points.

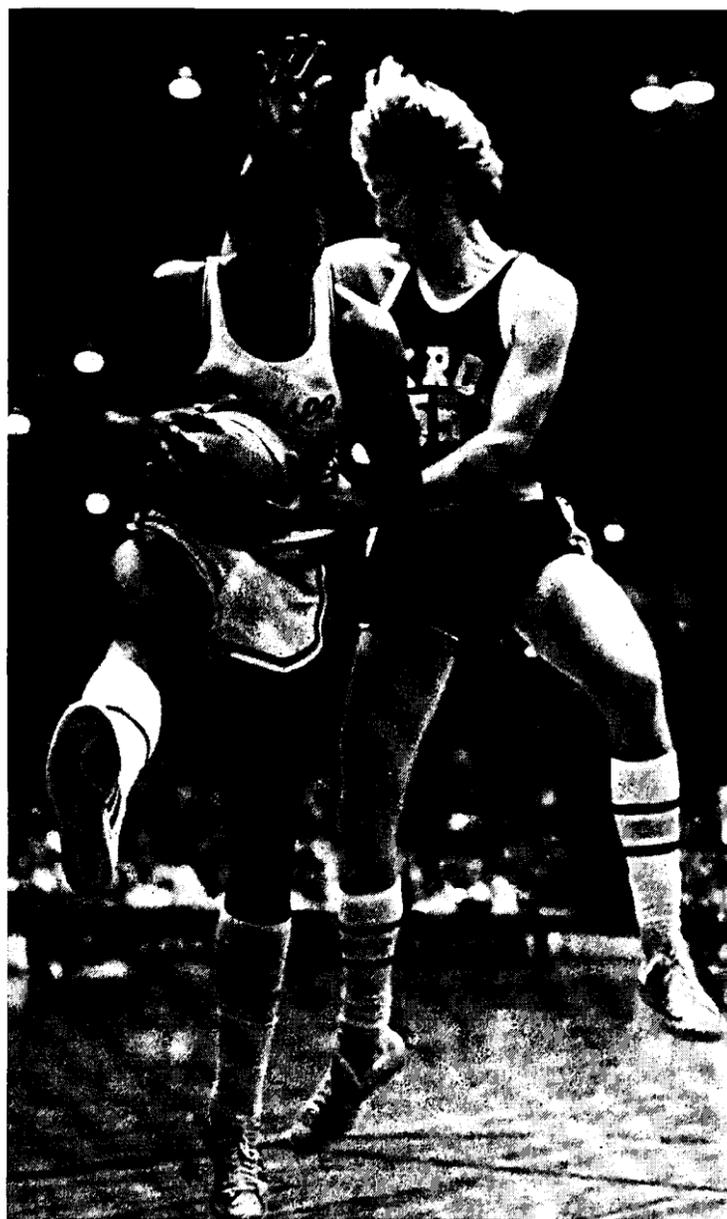

The Big Eight and the Midwestern Conference took care of all the individual titles except all-around.

Odess Lovin of Oklahoma won in floor exercise, Russ Hoffman of Iowa State took his third consecutive side horse crown and teammate Dennis Mazur beat the field on the parallel bars as Big Eight winners.

The Midwestern Conference provided rings champ Dave Seal of Indiana State, horizontal bar winner Lindner and valuting ace Morava both of SIU.

Hoffman spiced an Iowa State comeback which delighted the 18 to 19,000 hometown fans that viewed the April 6-8 meet.

He became the first collegian ever to win three titles on side horse.

LEADING REBOUNDER—In the 1972 College Division Basketball Championship, Lloyd Neal of Tennessee State, shows Akron's Brian Westover why Neal was named to the all-tournament team. Westover eliminated the Tigers on a last second shot in overtime, 71-69.

Bruin Machine Churns To Sixth Straight Title

The machine rolls on, not like the "Wooden Soliders" depicted in one newspaper, but like a finely-tuned, well-oiled computer that spits out a correct solution each time.

UCLA has the answer and six consecutive National Collegiate Basketball crowns to its credit. And the master, John Wooden, did it this time with fresh troops.

What makes the Bruin string impressive is that this is Wooden's fourth complete changeover in the parts department and the new pieces have worked just as well as their older counterparts.

Trojans Own Victory Streak

Indiana University has won five consecutive NCAA swimming crowns, UCLA has captured the last six basketball titles.

What's the longest championship streak in NCAA history?

Paul Zimmerman, retired sports editor of the Los Angeles Times says Dean Cromwell's Southern California track teams won nine national titles in a row from 1935 through 1943, broken only by World War II. The second string also belongs to USC track and coaches Jess Hill and Jess Mortensen who put together seven in a row from 1949-55.

From the Hazzard-Goodrich era to the Alcindor era to the Patterson-Rowe-Wicks era to the Walton-Wilkes run than began this past season, the Bruins have put together 49 straight wins, 32 consecutive NCAA Tournament victories and eight of the last nine National titles.

The last one should have been easy, right? Nope, Florida State stuck with the potent Bruins and had UCLA on the run early in the title game, decided by an 81-76 margin.

The Seminoles of Coach Hugh Durham raced to a 21-14 lead early, the biggest deficit for UCLA this season, then closed to within seven with five minutes to go only to turn the ball over four times.

An overlap in the parts exchange, Henry Bibby, got the Bruins going during the first half and finished with 18 points but honors went to the sophomores Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes. Walton, the Tournament's most outstanding player, hit for 24 points and grabbed 20 rebounds while Wilkes canned 11 of 16 shots enroute to 23 points.

Florida State had its heroes—Otto Petty who raced through a pressing North Carolina defense enroute to a 79-75 semifinal victory, and the two Rons, King and Harris, who shot the Seminoles back into the UCLA game with 27 and 16 points respectively.

In the other semifinal game UCLA got only two points from foul-plagued Bibby but still rolled over Louisville and Jim Price, 96-77.

The third place game saw North Carolina's Robert McAdoo hit 30 points and grab 19 rebounds to zip past the Cardinals, 105-91. Price got 23 points for Louisville in this one after a 30 point showing against UCLA.

The others with Walton on the all-tournament team were McAdoo, King, Price and Wilkes.

And so the UCLA streak goes on. One bystander at the trophy ceremonies was quoted as saying, "There are some things in this world which never change. And this has to be one of them."

INTERPRETATIONS

(Note: Publication of an interpretation in this column constitutes official notice to the membership. New O.I.s printed herein may be reviewed by the annual Convention at the request of any member. Questions concerning these or other O.I.s should be directed to Warren S. Brown, assistant executive director, in the Association's executive office.)

It is suggested each set of interpretations be clipped from the News and placed in the back of the reader's NCAA Manual. It also is recommended that a reference to the O.I. be made in the Manual at the appropriate point.)

Summer Camps

Specialized Sports Camp—one which places special emphasis on a particular sport or sports and which provides specialized instruction, practice and usually competition.

Diversified Sports Camp—one which offers a balanced camping experience, including participation in seasonal summer sports and recreational activities, without emphasis on instruction, practice or competition in any particular sport.

Prospective Student-Athlete—until October 1, 1972 as the term applies to summer camp interpretations, is one who is eligible for admission to college or who has started classes for his senior year in high school.

Member Operated Camp

Situation: An NCAA member institution (a) operates a summer camp either on or off its campus, or (b) one or more of the institution's athletic department personnel are involved in the operation of a summer camp, either diversified or specialized, or (c) the institution permits the use of its facilities for a camp. (70)

Question: Is it permissible for a prospective student-athlete to enroll and participate in the camp?

Answer: No. This would be a violation of the Association's "tryout" rule. [B1-3]

Question: Is it permissible to employ a prospective student-athlete at the camp? (71)

Answer: No. This would be considered to be an inducement to ultimately enroll at the institution; also, it would be considered to be a "tryout." [B1-1; B1-3]

Question: Would it be permissible to award a young man of known athletic ability free or reduced tuition to attend the camp? (72)

Answer: No, unless it can be shown that there is a published and announced policy in this regard and it is applied uniformly to all qualified camp candidates without reference to their athletic ability or reputation. Otherwise, it would be considered as an inducement to ultimately enroll at the institution. [B1-1]

Question: Is it permissible for the institution (or athletic personnel operating the camp) to hire one of the institution's football or basketball players in a camp specializing in the player's sport? (73)

Answer: No. In those instances of specialized camps (football or basketball), no institutional squad member of that sport with eligibility remaining may be employed or otherwise participate in the camp proceedings. [B3-2]

Question: Is it permissible for an institution (or its athletic personnel) to hire one of its student-athletes as a counselor in a diversified sports camp? (74)

Answer: Yes, except that not more than one member (with eligibility remaining) of the previous year's freshman or varsity football squads and not more than one member (with eligibility remaining) of the previous year's freshman or varsity basketball squads may be so employed [C3-1; B3-2]

Question: Is it permissible for the institution (or its athletic personnel) to employ a student-athlete (of another institution) in its camp specializing in the student-athlete's sport, i.e., football or basketball? (75)

Answer: Yes, but it is essential that his duties are of a general supervisory character and any coaching or officiating assignments represent not more than one-half of his work time. Further, not more than one (football or basketball) student-athlete of any one institution may be employed. [C3-1; B3-2]

Question: If an institution (or athletic personnel operating the camp) employs a student-athlete with eligibility remaining at an NCAA member institution in its camp, may his name or picture be used to publicize the camp? (76)

Answer: His name and picture may be listed as a staff member in the camp brochure, but his name or picture may not be used in any other way to directly advertise or promote the camp. [C3-1]

Privately Operated Camp

Situation: A privately-owned or operated camp wishes to utilize the services of an athlete as a counselor (no member institution or its athletic personnel directly involved). (78)

Question: Is it permissible for the privately-owned camp to hire an enrolled student-athlete from an NCAA member as a counselor in a camp specializing in the student-athlete's sport?

Answer: Yes, but it is essential that his compensation is commensurate with the going rate for camp counselors of like ability and he is paid for services performed. Further, his name, picture and institution may be listed as a staff member in the camp brochure, but his name or picture may not be used in any other way to directly advertise or promote the camp. Finally, it is the obligation of his institution to make sure that not more than one student-athlete from the same football squad (or basketball squad) from that institution is employed in the camp. [C3-1; B3-2]

Situation: A privately-owned or operated camp wishes to utilize the temporary or part-time services of a member institution's athletic personnel as a consultant or guest lecturer. A prospective student-athlete is either employed by or enrolled in the camp. (79)

Question: Is it permissible for an institution's athletic personnel to serve on a temporary or part-time basis as a counselor or guest lecturer?

Answer: No. This would be a violation of the Association's "tryout" rule. [B1-3]

NCAA Profile

Ralph Fadum Of NC State Joins Council

Intercollegiate athletics can provide the "rallying point" for a college campus, says Dr. Ralph E. Fadum, newly elected NCAA Council Member.

Fadum, dean of engineering at North Carolina State University, was elected District Three vice president at the last NCAA Convention replacing H. Boyd McWhorter of the University of Georgia.

NCAA Council Member

Fadum, president of the Atlantic Coast Conference, feels that "a sound intercollegiate athletic program is a vital and essential part of contemporary college life.

"In these troubled times with issues that tend to divide a campus community, it is especially important to support activity that provides an esprit de corps and an athletic program in the right perspective can go a long way toward holding a campus together."

Educated at Illinois and Harvard, Fadum taught at Harvard and Purdue before moving to North Carolina State in 1949. He assumed the head spot in engineering in 1962.

A registered professional engineer, Fadum was cited as the outstanding civil engineer in North Carolina for 1971. He previously won the engineering award of the year from the North Carolina Society of Engineers and the distinguished alumnus award of the civil engineering department at Illinois.

Fadum also is commissioner of the Raleigh Housing Authority and is chairman of the Water Control Advisory Council to the North Carolina Board of Water and Air Resources.

THE NCAA RECORD

A roundup of current membership activities

TOPS FOR THE WINNERS—Mike Kelley, all-around ace for California State at Fullerton, paced the Titans to a successful defense of its 1971 College Division Gymnastics Championship. Kelley finished third in the all-around competition plus tying for first on the parallel bars.

Indiana, East. Michigan Swimming Champions

Forget UCLA's domination of collegiate basketball for awhile and throw bouquets at Indiana and Coach Jim Counsilman for a record-tying fifth consecutive National Collegiate Swimming Championships.

The Hoosiers took honors once more at the 35th title meet held March 23-25 at West Point. But the race was considerably closer as Indiana used six first places to nudge Southern California, 390 to 371.

Southern Cal has been chasing Counsilman's crew the past four years, narrowing the margin each time out. This year was the tightest meet since Stanford nosed out USC in 1967 by 15 points.

Michigan won the first five National Championship events and that mark has now been tied by Indiana.

The Hoosiers came out of the gates like gangbusters, setting American and NCAA records in the first two finals held. John Kinsella's 4:24.496 timing in the 500-yard freestyle and Gary Hall's 1:51.507 200-yard individual medley mark were both new records.

Seven other American and NCAA records fell. Southern Methodist's Jerry Heidenreich went 1:38.357 in the 200-yard freestyle, Indiana's Mark Spitz hit 1:46.898 in the 200-yard butterfly, Brian Job of Stanford swam the 100-yard breaststroke in 56:891 during the preliminaries, Princeton's Charles Campbell hit 1:50.557 in the 200-yard backstroke, Job came back with a 2:02.592 in the 200-yard breaststroke, Spitz returned with a 48.770 showing in the 100-yard butterfly and Tennessee's 400-yard freestyle relay team of Tom Lutz, Ken Knox, Dave Edgar and John Trembley went 3:01.118 to round out the record-breaking.

Spitz closed out his Indiana career becoming only the third collegian to win a single event for four straight years when he took honors in the 100-yard butterfly. Another senior, Tennessee's Edgar, made it three-in-a-row for both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle sprints.

Other defending champs were Hall in the 200-yard individual medley, Kinsella in the 500 and 1650-yard freestyles plus Job in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Ohio State dominated the two diving events, winning six of the top 12 places available. Todd Smith captured the one-meter springboard with Tim Moore finishing third and Steve Skilken sixth. On the three-meter board, Moore was third, Smith fifth and Skilken sixth. Minnesota's Craig Lincoln took top honors at three-meters.

CD Swimming

Eastern Michigan University snapped UC Irvine's string of three straight NCAA College Division Swimming and Diving Championships with a solid victory in the March 16-18 meet held at Washington and Lee University.

The Hurons, coached by Mike Jones, gave that meet its first non-Western winner since the title was held in 1964 when Bucknell won.

Two relay victories, depth in the diving events and individual titles by Robert Crosby in the 100-yard freestyle plus Richard de Manicor on the three-meter springboard sparked Eastern Michigan's title run.

The Hurons claimed the 800-yard and the 400-yard freestyle relays in 7:12.25 and 3:13.05 to win the title with 222 points over UC Irvine and San Fernando Valley State, both tied for second with 164 points.

Tom Boughey of UC Irvine was the individual star with three titles and one NCAA meet record, a 4:19.76 timing in the 400-yard individual medley which was over four seconds faster than the previous mark.

Boughey also won the 500-yard and the 1,650-yard freestyle events.

Other meet records came from sophomore Rick James of Kenyon with a 1:59.6 timing in the 200-yard backstroke and from 1971 triple winner Rick Morehead of South Florida with a 2:13.38 mark in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Morehead won the 200-yard individual medley to be a double winner while Bill Milne of Johns Hopkins took home trophies in the 100-yard and 200-yard butterfly.

Eastern Michigan trailed UC Irvine until the final day as the Hurons scored points in 14 of the 18 events held. Three of the four Huron first places came on Saturday during the final seven events.

CD Gymnastics Title to Titans

The College Division Gymnastics Championships is in a rut—but that's okay as far as John Crosby of Southern Connecticut State and Cal State Fullerton are concerned.

Crosby repeated as the all-around champion and the Titans took team honors for a second straight year at the 5th annual Championships held March 30 through April 1 at Wheaton, Ill., College.

Crosby reached the finals of each event, winning in floor exercise and vaulting plus tying for honors on parallel bars with Fullerton's Mike Kelley. Crosby hit a 9.25 routine for 18.30 total points in floor exercise and again went 9.25 for an 18.15 vaulting total. He and Kelley both tied with 18.30 points on the parallel bars with Kelley holding a large edge in compulsories.

Fullerton, coached by Dick Wolfe, had some breathing room in quest of the team title, beating runnerup Southern Connecticut 160.55 to 153.05.

San Fernando Valley State was third followed by Illinois-Chicago Circle, Eastern Illinois, Springfield, Northern Colorado, Western Illinois, LSU-New Orleans, Wheaton, Eastern Michigan and Mankato State.

Other individual champs with their total scores include Steve Fox of UI-Chicago Circle with 17.825 points on side horse, Keith Fuerst of Eastern Illinois with 18.40 on rings, and Rick Mashler of San Fernando Valley State with 18.175 points on horizontal bar.

Fuerst joined Crosby as a repeat champion.

Wolfe was named coach of the year while regional awards went to U.S. Olympic Coach Abe Grossfeld from Southern Connecticut, Bill Rotzheim from UI-Chicago Circle and Tony Rossi from Northern Colorado.

Tennis Site Moved To Kalamazoo College

A new site and date for the College Division Tennis Championships has been approved by the NCAA officers on recommendation of the Tennis Tournament Committee.

Kalamazoo, Mich., College is the new host and the Tournament will be held June 5-9.

The original host, Oglethorpe College of Atlanta, Ga., declined to hold the tournament due to unavailability of tennis courts.

$10,000 FOR DRUG FIGHT—The NCAA Drug Education program is richer thanks to proceeds from the first annual Fiesta Bowl football game. The game committee has elected to make a $30,000 donation to the NCAA drug fight program and 1972 Committee Chairman Don Meyers (right) pays the first installment to NCAA Program Director Jim Wilkinson as Western Athletic Conference Commissioner Stan Bates looks on. The WAC football champion is the host team in the Fiesta Bowl.

Third NCAA Volleyball Championship At Ball State, West Teams Favored

The beach boys head to the Midwest April 28-29 to show the rest of the country how volleyball is played in the west.

The National Collegiate Volleyball Championship is set for Ball State University and with the entries yet to be decided, an almost certainty is that the tournament will be dominated by California schools.

As of press time both defending champ UCLA and San Diego State were unbeaten and UC Santa Barbara had lost but one match.

The winner of the West Coast round robin play gets an automatic berth to the semifinals with the other spot determined by a playoff April 22 at San Diego State.

The remaining two berths are decided by the Midwest Intercollegiate Volleyball Association champion and an at-large pick.

Vying for the MIVA title are host Ball State with a 16-0 mark and Ohio State which stands 14-2 with two matches remaining against Ball.

UCLA is the only national champ volleyball has known with the Bruins, coached by Allen Scates, taking the two previous title affairs.

The at-large entry could come from the MIVA; the East where Penn State, Yale and Springfield all have tough teams, or from the West.

Top players who may see action this year are All-Americans Dick Irvin and Larry Griebenow of UCLA, both members of the NCAA All-Star team a year ago, plus UCSB's Dave DeGroot, Ball State's Rick Miemi and San Diego State's Randy Stevenson, also all-star members.

The 1972 Championship will provide the NCAA with another all-star team which will compete in the USVBA national championship May 5-6 at Salt Lake City.

Ball State's coach, Don Shondell, is looking for a sellout crowd around 7,000 for Saturday's semifinals and finals following Friday's round robin play which determines the seedings. "We have averaged around 2,000 for our dual matches but pre-tourney ticket sales indicate the possibility of a full house," said Shondell.

NCAA Council Recommends 50 Game Limit in Baseball

the next NCAA Convention was approved by the Council due to expected time-consuming discussions on the reorganization and the financial aid proposals.

The Council also said it will recommend to its members that no intercollegiate baseball team be allowed to play over 50 regular season games in an academic year.

Two committee chairmen were named. Louis A. Myers of the University of Arizona will chair the nominating committee and Karl Kurth Jr., of Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., will head the committee on committees.

The NCAA Executive Committee reported on the following items:

—Confirmed the approval of the executive regulation as it pertains to Western Kentucky and the 1971 National Collegiate Basketball Championship finish.

—Qualified the procedure for the NCAA Cross Country Championship: instead of an open field, district qualifying races were approved.

—The site of the 1973 Cross Country Championships will be Spokane, Wash., with nearby Washington State University the host school.

—Added two conferences to the automatic qualification list for District play in baseball. The West Coast Athletic Conference in District Eight and the Southern Conference in District Three provided that district has a six team bracket.

—The site of the 1972 first annual College Division Soccer Championship will be Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, Dec. 7-9.

—Vacated Samford University of Birmingham, Ala., 1971 Stagg Bowl football title due to participation by ineligible players. Samford beat Ohio Wesleyan, 20-10, in the College Division bowl contest.

—Reaffirmed support of the existing policy that club teams and individuals on club teams are not eligible for competition in NCAA Championship events.
