

Federal Court Dismisses AAU Suit Against NCAA on Meet Certification

The Federal District Court in Alexandria, Va., has dismissed an action brought by two college athletes and financed by the Amateur Athletic Union against the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The suit claimed violation of the personal and constitutional rights of Fred Samara of the University of Pennsylvania and Dennis Walker of Adelphi University as a result of their participation in the AAU-sponsored United States-Russia dual track and field meet in Richmond, Va., in March.

The AAU had not requested certification of the meet from the NCAA for participation by athletes from NCAA member institutions.

The Court, in a ruling handed down May 1, found no violation by the NCAA of the athletes' personal or constitutional rights. The Court expressly found "no evidence of malicious intent on the part of the defendant" in not certifying the meet, and that "to the contrary, a legitimate and commendable purpose underlies the (meet-certification) regulations."

The Court also found and stated in its formal opinion that AAU had suggested to the athletes that they bring the action and that the AAU had paid their attorneys' fees.

The suit charged the NCAA with violation of three legal theories in regard to the athletes. The first is the tort theory, which charged a wrongful act; the second charged that the NCAA violated the Sherman Antitrust Act; and the third charged that the NCAA's action constituted state action and violated the plaintiffs' rights under the First, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution.

The Court rejected all three theories and cited numerous precedents in support of its ruling.

Further, the Court noted that certification of the meet would have been granted if only the AAU had applied for it. The AAU argued that was indication that there was no need for application of the regulation to this meet. "But it is no answer to a licensing requirement, otherwise valid, to say that 'Since I meet all the requirements of the license I need not apply for one,' " the Court decision noted.

At the time of the meet, the plaintiffs obtained a preliminary restraining order which prohibited the NCAA from enforcing NCAA Constitution 3-9-(g) and Bylaw 2-4 to their eligibility and they proceeded to compete in the non-certified meet.

At press time, under pertinent NCAA constitutional provisions and regulations, any action with respect to the matter rested within the exclusive jurisdiction of the NCAA member institutions attended by the athletes.

Final Reorganization Proposal Approved

During its Spring meeting in Kansas City, the NCAA Council endorsed the proposals for legislative reorganization which was formulated and submitted by the Special Committee on Reorganization—1973.

The proposals call for three divisions and a change in the make-up of the Council and Executive Committee. They will be voted on at the Association's first Special Convention, Aug. 6-7, at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare Hotel in Chicago, Ill. The Council also approved the site of the Special Convention, which previously was to have been held in St. Louis.

The plan provides that the NCAA Constitution will remain a single document; calls for a common set of Bylaws, and allows each division to adopt amendments to the Bylaws without the approval of any other division, unless the Convention delegates in unicameral session object by a two-thirds majority.

Also, the proposal calls for the NCAA to sponsor at least 39 National Championships with at least 10 in each of the three divisions.

Following is the recommended plan:

A. Determination of Divisions

1. There shall be three legislative and competitive divisions.
2. Each institution shall select its division through the process of self-determination, except in the sport of football. Each division may establish criteria for membership in its division.
3. If a division establishes criteria for membership, then each institution in that division shall have five years in which to meet the criteria.
4. An institution in Division II or Division III may elect to participate in Division I in one sport, other than football or basketball. The institution shall continue to compete in Division I in that sport for at least three years. It shall apply the provisions of the Bylaws which govern Division I in the sport in question.

B. Change of Division

1. An institution may change its division by petitioning the Council. If a member meets all applicable criteria (if any) of the new divisions, its membership shall be transferred to that division. This contemplates elimination of the various classification committees.
2. All applications must be received by the executive director not later than June 1 and, if approved by the NCAA Council, shall become effective the following September 1, for a minimum of three years duration.

C. Legislation

1. The NCAA Constitution shall continue to be a single document, applicable to all member institutions. A two-thirds majority will be needed to amend the Constitution as required at present.
2. There shall be a common set of Bylaws. Each division may adopt amendments to the Bylaws, not inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution.
3. Bylaw provisions adopted by a division are subject to review at the annual Convention and may be rescinded by a two-thirds vote of all delegates.
4. Members of Division I which also are Division I in football may submit legislation applicable to football under the conditions described above and such legislation may be subject to vote by only Division I football members and, if adopted, shall be applicable only to such members.
5. An institution which competes in more than one division shall observe the Bylaw provisions of that division where applicable to the sport in question.
6. An institution which has its membership in a different division than its football classification shall vote on amendments pertaining to football in the division in which its football team is classified.
7. An allied member shall be entitled to vote in the division in which at least 50 per cent of its members hold membership. The Council shall determine an allied member's division if half of the conference's membership is in one division and the other half is in another, or there is not at least 50 per cent in any one division.

D. Representation

1. The NCAA Council and Executive Committee shall be restructured to guarantee representation for each of the three divisions.

Helmet Ads Disclaimed By NOCSAE

The National Operating Committee on Standards for Athletic Equipment (NOCSAE) wishes it to be known that recent advertisements by Riddell, Inc., entitled "What happened when Riddell met 8 well-known helmets head on?" was made without NOCSAE's prior knowledge or consent.

The independent test referred to in the ad was not designed to ascertain the relative merits of specific helmets nor to match one type of helmet against another, but rather to determine a proper method of testing helmets for purposes of safety.

The results of this test have, in fact, not yet been finalized. When they become final and a proper test method is thereby determined, the results will be announced to the public, NOCSAE said.

NOCSAE further emphasized that it does not endorse the aforesaid advertisement, or any similar claims by others, and in fact, NOCSAE disavows any responsibility for the claims therein made.

NSYSP Gets $3 Million in Federal Funds for Record Fifth Year in 1973

The National Summer Youth Sports Program (NSYSP) will be funded for the fifth consecutive year with an allocation of $3 million from the federal government, it was jointly announced by James H. Wilkinson, National Program Director for the NCAA, and Verle L. Nicholson of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

The 1973 Program will have 105 participating universities, colleges and junior colleges in a record 75 cities and 37 states and the District of Columbia.

"We anticipate an enrollment of about 40,000 youngsters," Wilkinson said, "with a daily average attendance of about 33,000."

The $3 million in federal funds will cover the cost of daily meals, medical examinations, staff salaries and wages, transportation, insurance and expendable equipment and supplies.

The participating institutions will contribute $2.35 million by providing facilities (swimming pools, gymnasiums, tracks, playing fields, etc.), capital equipment, project directors, and other supporting services.

The NCAA will contribute approximately $55,000 by assuming all of the expenses of the national program staff and other administrative services (legal, printing, travel, etc.). In addition, the Association makes its permanent national headquarters staff available to assist with various phases of the program.

The United States Department of Agriculture will spend close to $135,000 and other contributions from local and state governments, private organizations and business should amount to $125,000.

The program will begin June 4 and run through Sept. 1 and each project will operate a minimum of five weeks, five days a week or six weeks, four days a week.

Last year, 104 institutions took part in NSYSP projects in 70 cities and 35 states.

The project's aim is to reach poverty-level youngsters in metropolitan inner-city environments and provide them opportunities in the instruction and competition of sports, in sound nutritional services, sound health practices and hygiene, drug education, and career and educational counseling.

At least 90 per cent of all enrollees must meet the criteria set forth in the Office of Economic Opportunity Poverty Guidelines.

The program is made up of both boys and girls, ages 10 to 18, and each project must maintain an average daily attendance of at least 200 youngsters.

NCAA Upheld in Federal Court

The dismissal of an Amateur Athletic Union-backed suit against the NCAA by the Federal District Court in Alexandria, Va., is important for a number of reasons.

First, it reaffirmed the Association's meet certification rules, describing them as "legitimate and commendable." The Bylaws regarding certification of extra events shall continue to be an important protection for student-athletes.

The Court's findings also revealed the action was strictly a cheap shot by the AAU, which was struck down on each of the three legal theories it presented.

It is unfortunate that two talented young athletes were persuaded to test the reasonableness of the meet-certification rules by participating in a non-certified meet. Apparently, they were fast-talked into the action and then no amount of talking in the courts by AAU-paid attorneys could get them out of it.

Maybe the next time the AAU cooks up an international track meet or basketball tour, it will have the courtesy to request NCAA certification. It could save itself a lot of embarrassment if it tried to do things the right way.

NSYSP Should Have Own Funds

The National Summer Youth Sports Program (NSYSP) has been funded for the fifth consecutive year by the Federal government.

The $3 million allocation was expected, but it was, by no means, a certainty. Plans for this year's program couldn't be finalized until the money was assured.

The same situation occurred last year. And the year before that. It's time the program is funded on a continuing basis instead of the current "let's wait and see" attitude.

NSYSP has proven itself and no longer is a pilot program.

Rep. Peter Peyser of New York has introduced a bill that would establish funds to put NSYSP on a permanent basis. The bill, HR910, would take NSYSP out of a myriad of federally funded projects and establish it as a continuing program.

Other bills have been introduced in past years by legislators who recognized the importance of the program. But none of them have accomplished what Peyser's bill could, if it is passed.

The NCAA appreciates what Peyser's legislation is trying to do. The bill deserves the support of all NCAA member institutions whether or not each one has an NSYSP project.

Reorganization Plan—

2. Each district will have a vice-president on the Council, and six vice-presidents will be elected at-large. Among the 14 vice-presidents, eight will be from Division I members, three from Division II and three from Division III. The president and secretary-treasurer shall be ex officio members of the Council, and they may be elected from any division.

3. The Executive Committee shall be constituted as follows: five members shall be from Division I; three members shall be from Divisions II and III and both Divisions shall be represented by at least one member; the president and secretary-treasurer shall be ex officio members.

4. "Playing conferences"; i.e., those which conduct regular season competition in football or basketball, may not be represented on any NCAA committee or the Council by more than one individual, excluding the NCAA president and secretary-treasurer.

5. If reorganization is approved, standing committees will be evaluated with a view toward providing representation to each division where appropriate. Specifically, each of the three divisions shall be represented on rules committees. The implementing legislation shall be presented to the 68th annual Convention.

E. National Championship Competition

1. Not later than the 1975-76 academic year, 39 national championships will be sponsored with at least 10 championships in each of the three divisions.

2. Each of the three divisions will have national championship competition in the following sports: baseball, basketball, cross country, golf, soccer, swimming, tennis, outdoor track and wrestling.

3. Division II and Division III each will have a football championship.

4. Gymnastics and lacrosse championships will be sponsored in both Division I and Division II, and members of Division III will be eligible for the Division II championship in these sports.

5. Only one championship will be conducted in the sports of fencing, ice hockey, skiing, indoor track, volleyball and water polo. All member institutions will be eligible for these championships.

6. In individual events, certain place winners from Division II and Division III championships who meet the qualifying standards shall be eligible to compete in the Division I competition, providing such individuals have met all academic and eligibility requirements of Division I including academic standards for initial participation.

F. Effective Dates

1. If the reorganization plan is approved, 1973-74 National Championship meets and tournaments will be renamed to coincide with the new names of the respective divisions.

2. Legislation presented to the 68th annual Convention in January 1974 will be subject to the provisions of divided voting.

3. The restructuring of the Council will be accomplished by the Nominating Committee at the 1974 Convention, except that present Council members may complete their terms of office.

4. The Executive Committee appointed by the Council for 1974 will conform to the provisions adopted by the Special Convention.

Women are beginning to make their presence felt at the University of Notre Dame in more than just the classroom, reports assistant sports information director Bob Best.

One hundred and thirty years of male tradition were broken last fall when 325 women registered as undergraduates.

In 1969, the male cheerleaders for football and basketball were joined by four young ladies from St. Mary's College, a women's institution across the highway from the then all-male campus. In 1971-72, the group was honored as the national cheerleading champion. The Notre Dame record on the gridiron and court speaks for itself.

The ice hockey team added five young ladies as combination figure skaters-cheerleaders this past season. The effect on the icers was quite evident as they enjoyed their best season ever.

Now the baseball team is getting into the act. Coach Jake Kline, 78 years young and a tradition at Notre Dame, added the new weapon to the Irish arsenal—six bat girls. They made their debut April 15 at Notre Dame's home opener.

"We were happy to have our new bat girls with us," Kline said. "We decided to send three of them over to help the Xavier team and I'm glad we did. Their players were so used to looking at curves that we were able to get the fast balls by them."

Notre Dame swept the double-header, 6-4 and 11-3.

Numerous Recommendations Presented To and By Council

The adoption of the legislative reorganization proposal and recommendations from the Committee on Infractions, Drug Education and Extra Events Committees highlighted the Spring meeting of the NCAA Council.

The Council, meeting in Kansas City, Mo., amended and adopted the plan which was formulated and submitted by the Special Committee on Reorganization—1973. Details of the proposal are to be found elsewhere in the NEWS.

The Committee on Infractions, which will now handle all enforcement cases instead of presenting them to the Council, except in appeals, made several recommendations to the Council.

The two major recommendations from the Committee on Infractions deal with penalty structure and with individual eligibility rules.

The former would make imposed penalties more meaningful to the institution involved and would provide for the reduction in the number of grants-in-aid that would be allowed to be given. For example, if an institution's football team was guilty of an infraction, it may be required to reduce the number of its football grants for a required length of time.

"In effect, it will penalize the institution to some extent," said Warren S. Brown, NCAA assistant executive director in charge of the Association's enforcement procedures. "We will refer this recommendation to various coaches' associations and also ask them for other more meaningful penalties," Brown said.

The other major recommendation would waive the residence requirement of the NCAA transfer rule for individuals involved in certain violations.

The Council authorized the Drug Education Committee to conduct voluntary, national random samplings in regular season competition to determine drug usage at the time of competition.

The program is voluntary and urinalysis would be the method of testing used. Also, the Committee will distribute questionnaires on drug usage to 350 institutions and 35,000 athletes in all sports. The questionnaires would also be filled out voluntarily and returned anonymously.

The Special Convention, set for Aug. 6-7, was moved from St. Louis to the Hyatt Regency O'Hare Hotel in Chicago.

The Extra Events Committee certified 11 postseason football games for next season, which is a reduction of one from the 12 certified last year.

The Council also referred to the Extra Events Committee and chairman Robert C. James to consider ways and means of enforcing the "early-contact" provision on Bowl games.

Harry Cross, former NCAA president from the University of Washington, submitted a report from the Special Committee on Amateurism. The Council received the report, but has taken no action on it at this time.

Principal aspects of the report include the definition of amateurism on a sport-by-sport basis. If an athlete is a professional in one sport, he could still be considered an amateur in another sport. The Council will consider that definition at its August meeting and it may be presented to the Association at its 68th Convention in January in San Francisco.

Other parts of the report on amateurism included recommendations that would allow a prospective student-athlete a try-out with expenses from a professional team before his actual enrollment in a member institution. Also, a student-athlete would be allowed to officiate on any level except the professional level and he would be allowed to teach physical education outside of his own institution.

The Long Range Planning Committee made three major recommendations at the Council in its submitted report. Two involve the sport of football in that it recommended the elimination of spring practice and recommended the Football Rules Committee give serious consideration to returning to one-platoon football.

The final proposal from the Long Range Planning Committee was to add students from member institutions to some NCAA committees.

The Council also accepted the resignation of J. William Davis for reasons of health.

Three Member Institutions Placed On Probation

Three member institutions — Livingston University, Pan American University and Doane College—have been placed on probation by the NCAA Council.

The hearings by the Council mark the conclusion of infractions cases that will be decided in this manner, with one exception. All future disciplinary action will be handled by the NCAA Committee on Infractions and the Council will be concerned only as a board of appeals.

Livingston University's athletic teams were placed on an indefinite probation, not less than two years, because its football team participated in a 1972 postseason contest which was not certified by the NCAA Extra Events Committee.

The violation occurred while the institution was already on probation for a similar infraction in 1971. Livingston's teams and athletes are ineligible for National Collegiate Championship competition and all postseason meets and tournaments.

Pan American's basketball team was placed on two years probation for a number of violations, including provisions governing improper financial aid, recruiting, limitations on playing and practice seasons, and institutional eligibility.

Pan American was placed on a one-year probation in 1968 for some of the same type of violations and involving some of the same personnel of the institution.

Doane College's football team was placed on probation for one year for participating in non-certified postseason competition last season. During the time of probation, the Doane football team must end its season with the final regularly scheduled in-season game and shall not be permitted to participate in any postseason competition.

Building a 'Landmark' For NCAA

The NCAA's new National Office Building was dedicated April 28 as more than 200 invited guests watched in person in Mission, Kans., and millions more watched on national television during ABC's Wide World of Sports program.

NCAA President Alan J. Chapman called the completion of the building "a landmark for the NCAA."

Chapman, who presided over the dedication ceremonies, also commented: "Although this handsome structure obviously is well designed for use by the Executive Office staff, our thoughts should not dwell on the physical."

"Rather, I think of this building as an investment by the membership in the current well-being and the future expansion of intercollegiate athletics, as a tangible endorsement of their place on the campus."

"It represents a pledge by the Association's member institutions to students, coaches, faculty and alumni to maintain properly administered, high quality, expanding athletic programs as an integral part of higher education. It is appropriate that each of these elements of the college community is represented here today, for intercollegiate athletics is for all of them."

After other brief remarks, Chapman introduced special guests Senator Robert Dole (R-Kans.) and Congressman Larry Winn (R-Kans.).

Executive Director Walter Byers also took part in the dedication ceremonies.

"This building is dedicated to competitive excellence in intercollegiate athletics," he said. "It is therefore appropriate to introduce three champions who are with us today."

Byers then introduced John Crosby of Southern Connecticut State College, who has won more individual NCAA titles than any other athlete in history, with 13 in the sport of gymnastics; Larry Farmer, basketball forward at UCLA and a member of the past three National Collegiate champion Bruins; and Dave Williams, golf coach at the University of Houston, whose teams have won 12 NCAA Championships.

Elsewhere in Education

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled 6-3 that a graduate student at the University of Missouri was protected by the First Amendment when she issued an underground newspaper found to be in violation of campus standards of student conduct.

The unsigned majority opinion said the First Amendment "leaves no room for the operation of a dual standard in the academic community" and that the university's action in dismissing her "cannot be justified as a nondiscriminatory application of reasonable rules governing conduct."

The brief opinion also stated: "This case was decided several days before we handed down Healy v. James, 408 U.S. 169 (1972), in which, while recognizing a state university's undoubted prerogative to enforce reasonable rules governing student conduct, we reaffirmed that 'state colleges and universities are not enclaves immune from the sweep of the First Amendment.'" In the 1972 case the court ruled unanimously that Central Connecticut State College denied students rights of free speech and association in refusing to permit the establishment of an SDS chapter on campus.

Of 298 women's colleges in 1960, about half of them had either become coeducational or gone out of business by 1972, Educational Testing Service's College Research Center reported. Among the 146 institutions that did not change their status, the center said, 90 said they were committed to remain women's colleges. The others reported they were still studying the situation on a "wait and see" basis.

The survey found that Roman Catholic and public institutions led the way toward coeducation. Only 73 of the original group of 185 Roman Catholic colleges continued to operate as women's colleges in 1972. Bowing to a variety of pressures, 27 Roman Catholic institutions went out of existence.

C.D. Baseball Field Still Incomplete

Inclement weather throughout much of the nation this spring has delayed the selection of teams for the sixth NCAA College Division Baseball Championship.

The C.D. Tournament will be hosted by MacMurray College in Springfield, Ill., June 1-4 and teams from all parts of the country are scrambling to make up games lost and to finish conference races.

Some selections have been made for the tourney, which has been expanded from four to six regions this season. Heading the list is Florida Southern, the two-time defending champion.

Florida Southern, which will also host the South Atlantic Regional playoffs, is 23-5 and ranked the No. 2 C.D. team in the nation by Collegiate Baseball.

Other teams selected for the South Atlantic Region are Rollins (22-16-1) and Eckerd (26-8 and 12th-ranked).

No. 1 ranked California-Irvine (34-11) has been selected from the West Region, along with Puget Sound (18-3), the No. 21-ranked team. UCI will host the regional May 24-26.

Other teams under consideration for the West Region are Chico State, U.C. Davis and Cal State Hayward from the Far Western Conference and Cal Poly (San Luis Obispo), Cal Poly (Pomona), and Cal State Northridge from the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

Southern Illinois-Edwardsville (19-3) will host the Mideast Region. Other teams selected in the Mideast include Eastern Illinois (18-8), Marietta (20-4) and Indiana Central (14-2).

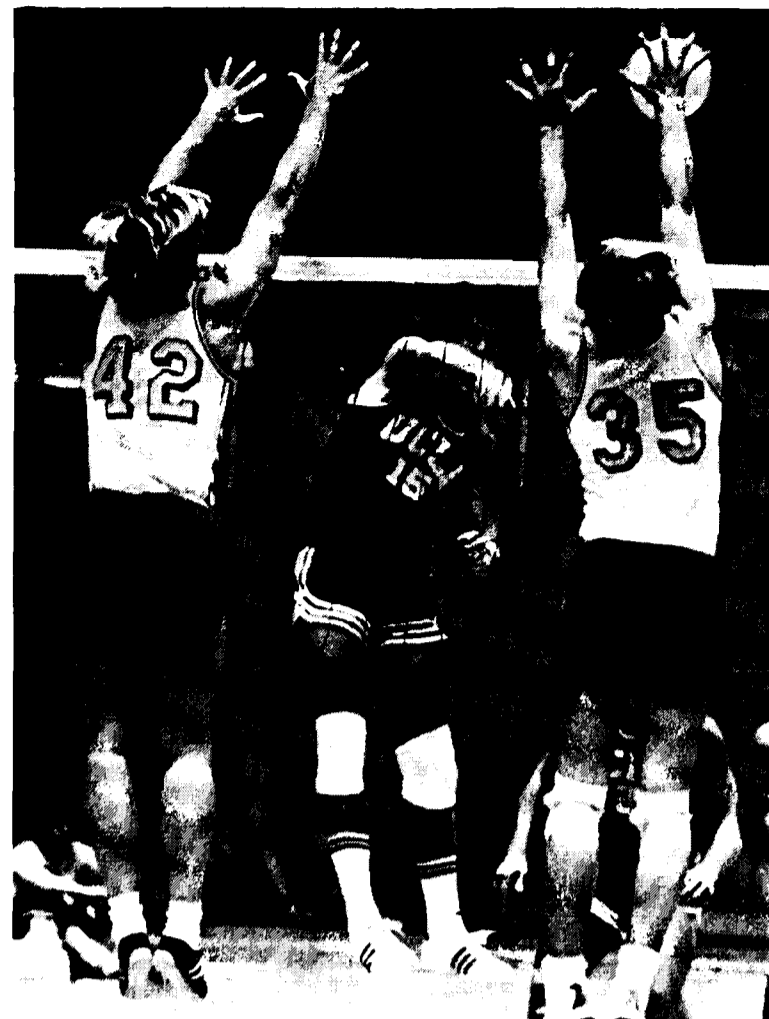

Teams from other regions have not yet been selected, but top contenders for berths in the playoffs include U. Missouri-St. Louis in the Midwest Region, Springfield (Mass.) in the Northeast, and LSU-New Orleans in the South.

Basketball Promo Films Will Be Continued

The NCAA Promotions Committee has authorized funds for the production of four college basketball films for the 1973-74 season.

One of the films will focus on the most controversial calls in basketball. Goal tending, charging and traveling violations will be filmed from both the fan's and official's viewpoints.

Anyone wishing to offer suggestions on feature ideas for the films should contact Jerry Miles, NCAA director of public relations, P.O. Box 1906, Shawnee Mission, Kans. 66222 or (913) 384-3220.

SPIKED PUNCH—Jeff Jacobs of UCLA helped provide the spiking as the Bruins won their third consecutive National Collegiate Volleyball Championship in 1972.

New Volleyball Titlist Appears Likely in 1973

Host San Diego State University is one of the prime contenders for a berth in the fourth National Collegiate Volleyball Championship Tournament, which will be played on the Aztec campus, May 25 and the San Diego Sports Arena, May 26.

The Aztecs, runners-up to UCLA last season, are under consideration for one of the two berths from the West Region for the four-team tournament.

The winner of the Southern California Intercollegiate Volleyball Association is an automatic qualifier for the Championship. Cal State Long Beach won the SCIVA and San Diego finished one game back.

USC is 7-3 and three-time defending champion UCLA, the tourney's only winner, is 5-5 and appears to be out of contention for a berth in the Championship unless it wins a post-season tournament. U.C. Santa Barbara is 4-6.

Only two teams from outside the state of California have participated in the tournament and it appears the same two teams have the best chance of returning this season.

Ball State, which has participated in all three previous tournaments, appears to be the No. 1 choice for the Midwest berth in the four-team tournament as it has defeated its prime opposition, Ohio State.

Springfield (Mass.), which took part in the 1971 National Championship Tournament, is the top Eastern threat this season, along with Army.

Nomination Deadline Near For Teddy, Top Ten Awards

The deadlines for nominations for the Association's Theodore Roosevelt (Teddy) Award and College Athletics' Top Ten are rapidly approaching, according to NCAA Public Relations Director Jerry Miles.

Winter-spring nominations for College Athletics' Top Ten, which is divided into a Today's Top Five and a Silver Anniversary Top Five, is May 25.

Nominations for the Teddy Award are due June 1.

The Top Ten is the newest phase of the NCAA's Honors Luncheon program and honors the top five outstanding senior student-athletes of the preceding calendar year and also recognizes five distinguished former athletes on their 25th anniversary as college graduates.

The Today's Top Five selection is based on athletic ability and achievement, character, leadership, activities and academic achievement. Nominations are received twice a year —first for winter-spring athletes and again for fall athletes.

Silver Anniversary nominees must have been a prominent college athlete, must have participated in other collegiate activities and his subsequent career must be one of distinction.

Award Criteria

The criteria for the Theodore Roosevelt Award states that it shall be presented to a "distinguished citizen of national reputation and outstanding accomplishment who—having earned a varsity athletic award in college—has by his continuing interest and concern for physical fitness and competitive sport and by the example of his own life exemplified most clearly and forcefully the ideals and purposes to which collegiate athletic programs and amateur sports competition are dedicated."

Nomination forms have been sent to directors of athletics.

Committee on Infractions Expands Members, Duties

Sweeping changes in the area of enforcement were made at the Association's 67th annual Convention in Chicago.

The Committee on Infractions was increased from three to five members and made the adjudicatory body of the Association. The Council, which previously heard cases presented by the NCAA's investigative staff, will now serve only as an appeals board in infractions cases.

George H. Young of the University of Wisconsin will continue as chairman of the committee. Arthur R. Reynolds, University of Northern Colorado, and John W. Sawyer, Wake Forest University, will continue to serve on the committee.

Joining the committee in its expanded form and duties are Harry Cross of the University of Washington and Charles A. Wright of the University of Texas at Austin.

Cross is a former president of the Association.

Wright is professor of law at Texas and considered one of the nation's highest authorities on constitutional law. He has presented cases on the Supreme Court level and was successful in the landmark decision in the San Antonio School District vs. Rodriguez case, where it was held that education is not among the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution.

Cross, along with Wright and chairman Young, is a professor of law, giving the Committee on Infractions three such professional members.

Reynolds, who has served three terms on the NCAA Council, is dean of the Graduate School and professor of history at Northern Colorado, and has long been associated with intercollegiate athletics, from his undergraduate football-playing days at Peru State College in Nebraska in 1937.

Sawyer is professor of mathematics at Wake Forest and also has been deeply involved in Association affairs. He was a prominent member on the Special Committee on Financial Aid as well as the Infractions Committee.

The Infractions Committee will consider complaints which are filed with the Association charging the failure of any member to maintain the academic or athletic standards required for membership or the failure of any member to meet the conditions and obligations of membership in the Association.

The Committee will determine the facts of alleged violations and can impose appropriate penalties if a member institution is found guilty.

The Committee will notify the institution, after all necessary hearings have taken place, of the penalty. The institution then has 15 days to appeal to the Council.

If no appeal is made, the Committee will make its findings and penalty public. If an appeal is made to the Council, no public announcement will be made until after the Council acts upon the appeal.

Few Minor Rules Changes Will Be In Effect for 1973-74 Cage Season

"The popularity and healthy condition of the game of basketball resulted in the fewest significant changes for 1973-74 that the history of the game has seen," said Dr. Edward S. Steitz, secretary-rules editor of the NCAA Basketball Rules Committee.

"The past reflected comparative rules satisfaction from a national point of view," Steitz added. "There were repeated requests to concentrate on a more consistent and uniform administration of our present rules rather than change those we have at present."

The Committee has revised six rules for the 1973-74 season, and all of them are relatively minor changes.

Rule 1-8 will require padding on the bottom edge of all rectangular backboards.

Rule 2-2 will not allow for head decorations or headwear other than a 2-inch, unadorned headband of specified material. All others are illegal.

Rule 2-10 now reads: If the error is made while the clock is running, it must be recognized before the ball again becomes alive following the first dead ball after the error.

Rule 3-4-(a) now makes it mandatory that team shirts be of the same solid color in front and back.

Rule 6-4 will require that for any jump ball, jumpers shall have both feet within the restraining circle.

Rule 9-3 reads: When a player has been designated to be the thrower-in, only he may be out of bounds.

"Besides the editorial changes," Steitz said, "it was the consensus of the Rules Committee that three aspects of the game need special attention during the 1973-74 season."

"These are identified as Points of Emphasis. The areas designated are: Fouling away from the ball; illegal use of hands, and illegal screening."

NCAA Briefs

Louisiana State University's junior forward, Collis Temple, a 6-7, 208-pound basketball standout, may have a future in track and field. In a P.E. class, he triple jumped 38 feet on his first try at the event and then hit 43 feet before the day was over. The following night, he was on the track team and in a triangular meet with Mississippi State and Baylor, jumped 45-3. Not bad for a guy who learned the event the day before.

The Southeastern Conference has adopted a more compact basketball schedule for the next four years. The double round-robin conference slate will be played in nine consecutive weeks and features games on Saturdays and Mondays. Games begin Jan. 5 and end March 4 with a March 6 date for a playoff game, if necessary.

Northern Illinois University is now a member of the Mid-American Conference, becoming the ninth member. NIU can't compete for the football title until 1981 because of locked-in schedules, but will take part this coming season in cross-country, swimming, wrestling, track, golf and tennis and in basketball by 1975-76.

The probability for a team and its opponents to end the season with identical scoring averages is astronomical.

At the end of the 1972-73 basketball season, the University of South Florida found that its team scored 1921 points (76.8 average) while the opponents scored 1920 (76.8 average) after 25 games. South Florida's record was 14-11.

Western Michigan University will conduct intercollegiate hockey on a varsity basis beginning July 1, and will participate in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association.

Gannon College has accepted an invitation to become the seventh member of Middle Eastern College Athletic Association (MECAA). The Knights won't be eligible for the basketball title next season, but will compete for championships in all other sports.

A record $763,482.60 has been paid to the two teams that played in the Sugar Bowl football classic on New Year's Eve 1972. Oklahoma and Penn State each received $381,741.30. The Sugar Bowl has now gone over the $11 million mark in money distributed to institutions over the past 39 years.

ABC-TV Picks First Six Games To Be Televised

ABC-TV has announced six games that will be televised this fall during the 1973 NCAA football telecasts.

The season-opener for TV will pit UCLA against Nebraska on Sept. 8. Notre Dame-Purdue will be televised on Sept. 29.

The Oklahoma-Texas game from Dallas will be telecast on Oct. 13. Thanksgiving will see a doubleheader telecast with Air Force-Notre Dame and Alabama-LSU taking over on Nov. 22. Nebraska-Oklahoma will follow on Nov. 23.

The final announced game will be the Dec. 1 clash between Army-Navy.

It has been previously announced that ABC will also carry the Dec. 15 College Division I Championship game from the Camellia Bowl in Sacramento.

CLOSE-IN TRACK—The J. Owen Huntsman all-weather track, site of the 11th NCAA College Division Track and Field Championships, May 31 and June 1-2, sits near the center of the Wabash College campus in Crawfordsville, Ind.

INTERPRETATIONS

Graduate Student Eligibility

Situation: A student-athlete is enrolled in his fourth year or less of college and, prior to completing the requirements for a baccalaureate degree, is admitted to and enters a graduate or professional school at the institution. (194)

Question: Is the young man eligible to participate in intercollegiate athletics until the completion of four years of attendance?

Answer: Yes. It would not be necessary for the student-athlete to have received his baccalaureate or equivalent degree. [C3-3-(c)]

Preseason Football Practice—Room and Board

Situation: A student-athlete reports for preseason football practice prior to the start of the academic year and has not been awarded financial assistance by the institution's regular scholarship awards authority. (180)

Question: Is it permissible for the student-athlete to receive the benefits of free room and board during this preseason practice period the same as other student-athletes who are the recipients of institutional financial aid which provides for these items?

Answer: Yes. In this instance, these identified benefits are considered to be incidental to a student's participation in intercollegiate athletics, it being understood that the student-athlete has been accepted for admission to the institution at the time he receives such benefits. [C3-1-(h)-(3)]

Most Valuable Player Awards

Situation: A student-athlete is selected as the most valuable player on his team for the season by his institution and one or more agencies or groups. (192)

Question: How many most valuable awards may one student-athlete receive in a single season?

Answer: Numerous awards may be received as long as they are approved by his institution (and conference) and are in keeping with NCAA awards legislation. [C3-1-(h)-(7)]

Pro-Am Golf Awards

Situation: A student-athlete desires to participate in golf competition, either individually or as a member of a pro-am team, and this competition may take place either during the regular academic year or vacation periods. (204)

Question: What type of awards may the student-athlete receive as a result of such participation?

Answer: The student-athlete may receive multiple awards provided the total value of any and all awards received does not exceed $100, and each item is properly personalized with information pertaining to the particular event or the recipient. This requirement would apply to awards won by a student-athlete for participation in pro-am competition even though his partner might receive cash or comparable prizes. [C3-1-(h)-(7)-(ii)]

Educational Expenses—Branch School

Situation: A student-athlete enrolled in a member institution desires to attend a summer session at a branch campus of the member institution. (201)

Question: Is it permissible for the parent institution in which a student-athlete is enrolled to pay the young man's summer session expenses incurred in attending the branch campus?

Answer: No. An institution may provide financial aid for its student-athlete only to attend the awarding institution's summer school. [C3-1-(f)-(2)]

CERTIFICATIONS

SOCCER CLUBS

The following soccer teams have been certified by the NCAA Extra Events Committee in accordance with the provisions of Constitution 3-9-(d). The certification of each team shall be in effect until Aug. 31, 1973, unless the membership is otherwise notified.

POST-SEASON FOOTBALL GAMES

The following post-season football bowl games have been certified by the NCAA Extra Events Committee in accordance with NCAA By-law 2-2:

Liberty Bowl, Dec. 17, 1973, Memphis, Tenn.

Fiesta Bowl, Dec. 21, 1973, Tempe, Ariz.

Tangerine Bowl, Dec. 22, 1973, Orlando, Fla.

Peach Bowl, Dec. 28 or 29, 1973, Atlanta, Ga.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, Dec. 29, 1973, Houston, Tex.

Sun Bowl, Dec. 29, 1973, El Paso, Tex.

Gator Bowl, Dec. 29, 1973, Jacksonville, Fla.

Sugar Bowl, Dec. 31, 1973, New Orleans, La.

Rose Bowl, Jan. 1, 1974, Pasadena, Calif.

Cotton Bowl, Jan. 1, 1974, Dallas, Tex.

Orange Bowl, Jan. 1, 1974, Miami, Fla.

WORTHY WALKERS—Members of the Wake Forest football team joined with other students in a 20-mile walk for the March of Dimes. Forty-six players raised $500 for the charity.

Wake Forest Gridders Raise $500, Lots of Blisters in March of Dimes Walkathon

Sprained ankles, twisted knees, broken bones, pulled muscles and a variety of bumps and bruises.

All of these have long been associated with football injuries. But members of the Wake Forest football team came up with a different problem recently—sore feet.

During the recent Winston-Salem March of Dimes Walkathon, 43 members of the Deacons' football team took part in the 20-mile walk through the city in their effort to help raise money for the local March of Dimes chapter.

The Deacons logged a total of 678 miles with 26 members lasting the entire 20 miles. Of the 43 walkers, they averaged 15.8 miles each.

While 26 went the distance, two stayed in for 15 miles, nine walked 10 miles before "sore feet" set in, one called it quits at the end of eight miles, four had enough at the seven-mile point and one walked two miles.

Even the football staff and athletic director got in on the act. AD Gene Hooks, head coach Chuck Mills and assistants Garth Hall, Ken Hirose, Gene McKeehan, Paul Wargo and Cliff Yoshida went off with the mass of walkers at 8:15 a.m., but were seen back at the starting point after only one mile.

And when it was all over, the Deacons had raised a total of $500 to the 1973 March of Dimes campaign. "And that's what makes it all worthwhile," said Mills.

UConn's New President Just Southpaw at Heart

By GERRY FINN

Hartford Times

Have faith, ye staunch supporters of the UConn sports sphere, a new jock walks among you.

"The best damned curve ball pitcher I've ever seen," a former teammate of recently appointed University of Connecticut President Glenn W. Ferguson bubbled over the phone. Hartford attorney, Ed Daly—who played third base while Ferguson toiled on the Cornell mound back in the late 40's, claims he doesn't overstate Glenn's baseball ability. The man, himself, neither confirms nor denies it.

"It was an abbreviated career," Ferguson tried to hold back comment that might label him one of yesteryear's heroes who labors in the what-might-have-been syndrome. "Between my freshman and sophomore years I developed what is called tennis elbow—a stretching of the tendons in that area. I couldn't throw after that, so my aspirations took a turn—a turn for the best. I am very happy at the work I'm doing today."

Fortunate Thing

Ferguson was so proficient at throwing baseballs that he earned a tryout with what was then the Washington Senators. "Ossie Bluege was the manager," Glenn recalled. "And I had to pitch to Rick Ferrell. They liked me so much that they offered to give it a try the following spring. But then the elbow problem came along and my budding major league career ended there. I was serious about it, though. The injury was a fortunate thing, however. How many southpaws really make it, anyway?"

Baseball wasn't Ferguson's only interest at Cornell. He earned his freshman football numeral and was all set to take up the chase at varsity tailback when another injury put him out of commission. "It was very discouraging," he told. "But I was determined to do something. Eventually, I went out for track and ran the 100 and 220 my last two years."

Naturally, the UConn sports fan is wondering what position the new president will assume in the program there. "I really can't make any statements on the matter at this time," he said. "I am not that familiar with the athletic situation at the school, but I view sports as an important part of the university scene . . . one that merits consideration."

Reads Sports Pages

With his active sports background as a springboard, Ferguson expects that he will become a fan and devotee of athletics when he takes over the UConn reins. "I have to admit, however, that I am not a very good spectator," he cracked. "I find it difficult to get the enjoyment out of watching games that one gets by participating in them. But I suppose most former athletes feel the same way."

Ferguson notes, too, that he is something more than a front page and editorial page reader of newspapers. "I enjoy the sports pages very much and seldom miss a chance to read them," he disclosed. "And I'm a big baseball fan, too. However, I have to say that I haven't developed an affinity for the Red Sox. Would you believe a Texas Rangers' fan here in the middle of New England. I gather UConn is Red Sox country, so I'll definitely be in the minority there."

When advised that certain UConn alumni had been making waves about the school's athletic program, Ferguson didn't seem to be surprised. "Oh, they have those people there, too?", he laughed. "This is only natural. And it isn't confined to just one level of play. It happens at most colleges and universities. It is part of the community."

Make Jogging Room

The incoming president comes to UConn from Clark University, a school not noted as an athletic power. "We don't play football here," he revealed. "But we play most of the other sports. Our students and alumni are very enthusiastic about them . . . and they like to win. Just the other week we engaged in something called 'Ultimate Frisbee' against Rutgers. And from the way it was received you'd think it was our national pastime!"

They'll have to make room for a new jogger when Ferguson arrives at UConn. He is a physical fitness addict who comes to run. "I get out three to five times a week," he told. "And I play a lot of paddle tennis. I don't know if there are any courts at UConn, but if there are, I'll be out on them as often as I can. I'd say it's a throwback to my college days. I'm just an old southpaw at heart."

On the surface, then, it appears that UConn will have a president who doesn't turn his back on sports. If this can be interpreted as a step in the right direction, it is a step well taken. At least Ferguson is aware of athletics. In this day and age of certain educators, that's saying something!

'Hardship' Cases Ineligible

Eight undergraduate basketball players who underwent the recent National Basketball Association player draft as hardship cases are no longer eligible for intercollegiate competition at NCAA member institutions, according to Assistant Executive Director Warren S. Brown.

"Under Constitution 3-1-(a)-(2) and Cases Four and Five in the NCAA Manual," Brown explained, "the players are now ineligible."

The players are William Averitt of Pepperdine University; Larry Harris of Geneseo Community College in Flint, Mich.; Dwight Jones of Houston; Larry Kenon of Memphis State University; Raymond Lewis of Cal State Los Angeles; Arnold Mast of Oklahoma City Southwest Junior College; Larry McNeil of Marquette University; and John Lee Williamson of New Mexico State University.

HAPPY TO HELP—Nick Rodis (left) of Brandeis University, president of the United States Collegiate Sports Council, accepts a check in the amount of $100,000 from Rodney Gott, chairman of the board of AMF, Inc. The money will be used to send the United States' team to the World University Games in Moscow Aug. 15-25.

AMF, Inc. Contributes $100,000 to USCSC

AMF, Inc., a world-wide corporation, has contributed $100,000 to the United States Collegiate Sports Council (USCSC) to send United States' athletes to this summer's World University Games.

Rodney Gott, chairman of the board of AMF, Inc., presented a check to Nick Rodis, president of the USCSC, May 2 in Chicago.

The U.S. will send nearly 300 athletes to Moscow, Russia, Aug. 15-25, to compete in the World University Games, the largest international student competition in the world.

"AMF's sponsorship of the U.S. team represents a major step for the United States' athletes," said Frank L. Bare, executive director of the USCSC.

"It allows us to field the largest team in the history of our participation in these Games," Bare added. "It means we will be in Moscow with a team of more than 250 athletes."

More than 4000 student-athletes from more than 60 nations will take part in the World University Games. Competition will be held in nine sports—basketball, swimming and diving, gymnastics, tennis, wrestling, volleyball water polo, fencing and track and field. Women teams also will compete in all sports except water polo and wrestling.

Bare also announced additional coaching appointments for the Games. Jim Coleman of George Williams College in Downers Grove, Ill., has been selected as the men's volleyball coach.

Mrs. Muriel Bower of California State University at Northridge has been selected as the women's fencing team coach. The women's basketball team will be coached by Jill Upton of Mississippi State College for Women and Billie J. Moore of California State University at Fullerton. Jeanne Rowlands will be the team manager.

In addition, Bob Hartman of Farmingdale College in New York has been selected as the assistant coach for the Greco-Roman wrestling team and Wally Johnson of the University of Minnesota the assistant coach for the freestyle wrestling team.

All information, including participation forms and entry blanks, for the national wrestling trials, which are to be held in Anoka, Minn., July 13-15, are available from Johnson, Trials Director, at the Bierman Building, U. of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.
