Ice hockey play-offs undecided

Coaches are used to wondering, at the start of a season, whether their teams will advance to national-championship competition. Men's ice hockey coaches in Divisions II and III, though, will start the 1983-84 season also wondering in which national championship they might have a chance to play.

There will be an NCAA Division II Men's Ice Hockey Championship in 1984. It might consist of eight teams, as in 1983, or it might be a two-team event.

As it stands now, there will not be a Division III championship. By next January, though, such an event might be created.

The uncertainty resulted when research revealed that only 58 institutions in Division III have men's ice hockey teams. Association policy requires that 20 percent of a division—61 institutions, in this case—sponsor a sport before a new championship is created.

Action taken at the 1983 annual Convention to begin a Division III championship was, therefore, ruled out of order. The postseason situation reverted to the 1983 format of an eight-team tournament open to both Division II and Division III institutions.

New legislation could be acted on at the 1984 annual Convention to reinstitute the Division III event, just two months prior to its start. It is anticipated. See Ice hockey, page 3

New appeals procedure approved

The NCAA Administrative Committee has approved a new policy governing appearances before the NCAA Council and NCAA Executive Committee.

Noting the need to assure that the meeting time for the Council and Executive Committee is used efficiently and at the same time provide equitable treatment to all members appearing before those bodies, the committee approved the following policies and procedures:

•Requests for appearances—Except for infractions and eligibility appeals, the procedures for which are prescribed in NCAA legislation, all other appeals and requests for appearances before the Council, any division steering committee and the Executive Committee shall be submitted to the Administrative Committee for approval or disapproval.

•Time limitations—For infractions appeals, the time limit shall be prescribed by the Administrative Committee on a case-by-case basis but shall not exceed 30 minutes for presentation of the appellant's case. For eligibility appeals, the same procedure shall be followed, but presentation of the appellant's case shall not exceed 15 minutes. For all other appearances, a 15-minute limit on presentation shall apply, unless the Administrative Committee specifies a lesser time.

•Limitations on individuals—The provisions of the enforcement procedure effectively prevent establishment of a limitation on the number of persons representing the appellant in an infractions appeal. For eligibility appeals, not more than three persons shall represent the appellant, with the Administrative Committee authorized to grant exceptions in instances where more than one student-athlete is involved and desires to be present. In all other appeals or appearances, the three-person limitation applies.

Rehearing sought in football TV suit

The NCAA announced May 19 that it will ask for a rehearing of the recent decision by the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals, which ruled that the 1982-1985 NCAA Football Television Plan was in violation of Federal antitrust laws.

The circuit court's three-judge panel, in a 2-to-1 decision, upheld the lower-court ruling of Judge Juan C. Burciaga in the antitrust action brought last September by the Universities of Georgia and Oklahoma. Burciaga ruled on the case in an Oklahoma City Federal court, and the circuit court heard the case in November in Denver.

The Association will apply for the rehearing and suggest that it be heard by the full eight-judge circuit court, according to David E. Cawood, NCAA assistant executive director and television program director. He said the application for a rehearing will be made prior to the May 26 deadline.

"As part of the petition," said Cawood, "the Association will request the appeals court to clarify the terms by which the NCAA might administer a television plan for its membership without antitrust difficulties."

"The dissenting opinion emphasized that the district court and the appeals court majority failed to focus adequately on the procompetitive features of the NCAA television plan when considered in light of the entire NCAA design and purpose, which is fostering competition among its members, assuring nonprofessionalism in intercollegiate athletics and maintaining football within the educational framework. The dissenting opinion stressed that the football television plan and contracts promote competition and enhance overall viewership, both in-stadium and on television."

"The stay previously awarded to the NCAA by the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals will remain in effect at least until the appeal procedures have been concluded."

Should the circuit court reject the Association's request for a rehearing, Cawood indicated that the NCAA would consider asking the United States Supreme Court to hear the case. He said there was no indication of when the appellate court might act on the request for a rehearing.

In delivering its decision, the three-judge panel remanded the case to Burciaga's court for further consideration of his earlier injunction and, in doing so, said, "We agree with the NCAA that the trial court erred in holding that the television plan and network contracts constitute a group boycott. . . ."

Title IX center to be discontinued

The NCAA Administrative Committee has voted to close the Title IX Information Center, which has been maintained since the fall of 1980 in the offices of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, the Association's Washington, D.C., legal counsel.

Squire, Sanders & Dempsey will continue to monitor Title IX developments for the quarterly report of the NCAA Governmental Affairs Committee. If it receives requests from member institutions for preliminary legal advice or research regarding Title IX, that office will continue to respond to those requests, but hereafter with the explanation that it will be necessary for the institution to pay for the services.

"It appears clear that the eventual disposition of the legal issues involved in Title IX will be made by the U.S. Supreme Court, since there are cases on the pertinent issues already at the circuit-court level," explained Jack V. Doland, president of McNeese State University and chair of the Governmental Affairs Committee.

"We also believe that the regulations and their enforcement have reached a point at which member institutions themselves probably have the background and the experience to be able to deal with them without specialized assistance from the Title IX Information Center."

Doland noted that the Title IX Information Center had provided a highly useful service to a substantial number of member institutions during its 2½ years of operation.

40 coaches are selected for Division I summer meeting

The American Football Coaches Association and the National Association of Basketball Coaches have named a total of 40 Division I head football and basketball coaches to attend the first Division I summer meeting June 24-25 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Kansas City, Missouri.

The coaches will be among more than 150 representatives of Division I member institutions attending the meeting, designed to provide a forum early in the year for more extensive participation by the various constituencies within the division in considering legislative and policy issues of importance to the division's membership.

In addition to the coaches, the meeting will be attended by representatives selected by each of the Division I voting allied conferences, which have been invited to send from two to four persons each based on the conference's sponsorship of men's or women's programs or both. The Division I Steering Committee also will be in attendance.

Bo Schembechler, University of Michigan, president of the AFCA, will chair the separate meeting of the football coaches, while Bob Knight, Indiana University, Bloomington, a member of the NABC board of directors and chair of its legislative committee, was selected by that organization to lead the basketball coaches' gathering.

Charles McClendon and Joseph R. Vancisin, executive directors of the AFCA and NABC, also will attend.

Basketball coaches selected by the NABC to attend the meeting:

Sonny Allen, University of Nevada, Reno; Murray Arnold, University of Tennessee, Chattanooga; Jack Avina, University of Portland; Gene Bartow, University of Alabama in Birmingham; Jim Boeheim, Syracuse University; Lou Campanelli, James Madison University; Don Donohue, University of Dayton.

Academic advisers play key role in athletics

By George W. Schubert

Advising the student-athlete requires special knowledge, understanding and empathy on the part of the academic adviser. The special knowledge relates to being familiar with relevant NCAA and/or National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics regulations and the rules of other conferences of which an institution is a member.

Understanding and empathy apply to the academic adviser's familiarity with the unique conditions and situations that may apply to student-athletes. Some of these conditions are:

- The student-athlete is required to study and memorize athletically related information.

- The student-athlete is required to be off campus on a regular basis; therefore, he is unable to enroll in classes in which attendance or practicum is required.

The academic adviser must realize that, at times, some athletes have an unrealistic picture of themselves. Sometimes they view themselves as professional athletes; and later, usually when athletic tasks are not going well, the athletes become disillusioned. Often this disillusionment affects the academic behavior. Too often, the athlete is in the "spotlight" because of athletic achievement rather than academic achievement, and, therefore, the athlete prioritizes athletic goals above academic goals. Sometimes the athlete expects to have special treatment because of his or her role on campus, and that expectation is or may become unrealistic.

Very few student-athletes will make the transition to professional athlete. Even if the student-athlete is identified as having the necessary outstanding physical and mental talents, the responsibility of the academic adviser must be to advise and counsel a student in such a way that the student is advancing toward meeting graduation requirements at a normal rate and through normal channels.

Student-athletes should be expected and required to follow all academic procedures that other students are expected to follow. For example, student-athletes should be expected to register for their own classes, complete and hand in drop/add forms, and attend orientation meetings. Student-athletes, like other humans, when placed on a pedestal usually want to stay there, and a few athletes begin to believe that this is where they belong.

The academic adviser who is going to be an asset to the institution and to the student-athlete is the person who has a basic knowledge of the structure and rules of the NCAA and/or NAIA. However, it is impossible for an academic adviser to be informed about all rules that may affect student-athletes. The academic adviser, at a very minimum, must know whom to contact for specific information. The adviser must have access to manuals and other information that have a direct bearing on the student-athlete's academic and athletic success.

Some common concepts and rules that all advisers of varsity student-athletes should be familiar with are:

1. Most universities/colleges belong to the NCAA or NAIA; some institutions belong to both associations. When this situation occurs, student-athletes usually are required to meet the standards and regulations of both organizations.

2. The NCAA is composed of three divisions, and each division has rules that apply to the student-athlete's participation in a sport within that division. Each division has its own rules, and an adviser should be aware that rules differ between divisions.

3. An institution's definition of satisfactory progress and/or good academic standing is extremely important as these definitions may have a direct and important bearing on the eligibility of student-athletes.

4. Eligibility rules pertaining to transfer students often are very complex. Transfer students need special and detailed academic guidance in regard to a sound academic program and athletic participation.

5. Student eligibility rules constantly are changing. A student's date of matriculation has an important bearing on the application of eligibility rules.

Advisement of student-athletes requires special knowledge, special study and sometimes extra diplomacy on the part of the academic adviser. Without proper preparation, the academic adviser is not able to provide in-depth academic guidance to student-athletes. The academic adviser who is uninformed about student-athlete eligibility regulations will not be able to provide the best possible assistance.

"They (athletes from Eastern Bloc countries) are so far ahead of us, and they shouldn't be. We have more great athletes, more great coaches and more great facilities. We like to admit that we're superior—we're not. Why are we so far behind? They're really trouncing us something badly.

"I'm telling you, we're (the United States) in trouble in 1984. . . . It's too late; '84 is next year. We need to do a lot with this '84 team, but we're about three years behind. Maybe this will shock Americans."

"I do think television is going to be the ultimate success of intercollegiate athletics. We cannot make it on ticket sales. We cannot make it on gifts given to the department from alums and so forth. "They (freshmen) have so many pressures on them; and while a lot of them make it, we've found that most freshmen not only want to start, but you can cross out the 't'—they want to star. If they're not on the bench, a lot of them are still unhappy as starters. It's a different role for them. Maybe they're a support player. Maybe they're a sixth man. But most of them who are playing still aren't happy."

Dallas Times Herald

"I think we've got a good league. It has been good, and it always will be good. I don't think that much stuff (illegal recruiting) is going on that anyone needs to get on a soapbox. I've been around the conference. . . . You hear rumors each year. 'They bought him' is an old, old excuse, and I just don't know that much about what's going on. I'm more concerned about things we have control over at Tech, not what's going on at other places."

Don Nehlen, football coach
West Virginia University

Kansas City Times

"The kids just aren't prepared for college, that's all. The problem is with the high schools, and, because of that problem, we are recruiting a bunch of idiots.

"You go into a high school, see that an athlete has a 2.400 (grade-point average), maybe even a 2.800 average. Not bad, it appears. But then you get the athlete into college and discover he has trouble reading and writing.

"As far as I'm concerned, there is no place on the college campus for remedial programs."

Questions/Answers

Q. How does a conference obtain automatic qualification for its teams or individual student-athletes for competition in NCAA championships?

A. Each governing sports committee recommends annually to the Executive Committee those conferences that should receive automatic qualification. To obtain automatic qualification, conferences must: (1) be an allied member of the NCAA for two consecutive academic years and have conducted competition in the sport for two consecutive years, with at least six members participating in the automatic-qualification process; (2) have at least six members sponsoring the sport on a varsity intercollegiate basis in the division in which automatic qualification is sought; (3) conduct conference competition in the sport and determine a conference champion; (4) maintain and enforce compliance with eligibility rules as stated in Bylaw 5 of the NCAA Manual; (5) conduct competition in the sport that is of sufficient quality to warrant automatic qualification.

In Division I men's basketball, a conference also must satisfy the provisions of Bylaw 5-7 and must have been a member of the Association for three consecutive academic years. In addition, the Division I conference must not have any member institution that has been a member of Division I for less than five consecutive academic years.

Championships Previews

New winner expected in Division I track

After a four-year dominance of the National Collegiate Division I Men's Outdoor Track Championships by Texas-El Paso, a new titlist likely will emerge from the May 30-June 4 meet at the University of Houston.

The favorites for the team championship are Southern Methodist, the 1983 NCAA indoor track champion, and Washington State. Neither team ever has won the trophy.

Washington State may have a slight edge because of depth. The Cougars probably will have 15 qualifiers, and Southern Methodist likely will have nine.

If everything holds to form, the Cougars will have 15 events in which to score, while the Mustangs must do all of their scoring in nine events. Nevertheless, the results could be close.

Southern Methodist used the 35-pound weight throw as its scoring base in the indoor meet, and the hammer throw could provide the same impetus for the Mustangs in the outdoor meet.

Robert Weir is No. 2 on the U.S. list of hammer throwers and is expected to win. Right behind him are teammates Richard Olsen and Anders Hoff. However, Washington State's Tore Gustafsson also can score in the hammer.

The Cougars should draw first blood. They have decathlete Brad Harris and three entries in the javelin to open Wednesday's competition.

Laslo Babits holds the school javelin record (282-5), and teammate Gerald Lyons has a 271-8. The third thrower is Sonny Elkinton, who has had some hamstring problems.

The middle-distance and distance events are the keys to Washington State's chances. Richard Tuwei, the defending champion, returns in the steeplechase, along with Julius Korir and Steve James. Tuwei probably will run in the 1,500, too.

Peter Koech is expected to do well in the 10,000, and he will be counted on in another event.

Washington State also expects to get points from Francis Dodoo in the triple jump and Chris Whitlock in the 400 and perhaps the 200.

Southern Methodist should have the upper hand in the triple jump with defending champion Keith Connor, and Michael Carter, two-time shot put champion.

Other scoring possibilities for the Mustangs are Paul Rugut in the 1,500, Henry Andrade in the high hurdles, Sven Nylander in the intermediate hurdles and Roald Bradstock in the javelin. The Mustangs also have one of the best 1,600-meter relay teams.

If either the Cougars or Mustangs falter, Alabama is ready to step in with sprinters Calvin Smith, who could win the 100 and 200, and Emmitt King, and a powerful 400-relay team.

Tennessee also will be strong with sprinter Willie Gault, who won both the 60 and the high hurdles at the March indoor meet.

Finally, Texas-El Paso, which has finished no worse than second the past eight years, is not helpless. The Miners have outstanding distance men in Gidamis Shahanga, Zakarie Barie and Sam Ngatia; high jumper Milton Ottey, and quartermiler Bert Cameron.

Tennessee's Willie Gault returns in sprint and hurdle events

Division I women's track

Four teams top prospect list

UCLA, Tennessee, Florida State and Nebraska—the top four finishers last year—are the front-runners for the NCAA Division I Women's Outdoor Track Championships May 30-June 4 at the University of Houston.

Although a couple of other teams could sneak in the back door, two things are certain: The sprints will be fast and dangerous, and the distance events will be missing some big names. All four leading contenders will go head-to-head in the sprints, which could be disastrous for the remainder of the field.

The big names are back for UCLA, but the Bruins are bruised. Much of their success depends on Jackie Joyner, who has qualified in the 200, 100 hurdles, long jump and heptathlon. She also has helped qualify both relay teams.

Joyner is the defending heptathlon champion and has a wind-aided 6,161 in 1983. She likely will compete in the hurdles, long jump, heptathlon and one relay at the NCAA championships.

UCLA also has Jeanette Bolden (100) and Florence Griffith (100, 400). Griffith is the defending 200 champion but had not qualified by mid-May, and LaShon Nedd had not qualified in the 100 or 200.

The Bruins expect a lot from Michele Bush, Linda Goen and freshman Polly Plumer in the 1,500 and Susie Ray in the javelin.

Tennessee may be in the best position of all the contenders. Benita Fitzgerald has qualified in the 100 and 200, and she is the defending champion in the high hurdles.

American record-holder Sharrieffa Barksdale gives the Volunteers a solid threat in the 400-meter hurdles.

Barksdale, a junior, set an American record at 55.78 last Saturday in the Tom Black Classic in Knoxville, Tennessee. The previous record of 56.16 was set by Esther Mahr in the Netherlands in 1980.

Also back are Cathy Rattray in the 200 and 400, Joetta Clark in the 800 and 1,500 and Patricia Walsh in the shot put and discus. Missing are defending 5,000 champion Kathy Bryant, sidelined with an injury, and defending 800 winner Delissa Walton Floyd, expecting a child after her marriage to Stanley Floyd of Houston.

Freshman Alison Quelch could make the difference for Tennessee. She has qualified for all three distance races and has personal bests of 9:14.8, 16:29.5 and 34:29.0.

Nebraska has more depth this year. The Cornhuskers' sprint entries will include some combination of Merlene Ottey, the defending 100 winner; Angela Thacker, second to Ottey in the Big Eight Conference meet, and Janet Burke.

Coach Gary Pepin believes Nebraska can score in the high hurdles with Rhonda Blanford, Stephanie Thomas and Deborah Powell and in the intermediate hurdles with Nicole Ali.

Nebraska also has the best javelin thrower in the country in Denise Thiemard (201-3).

Florida State should score well through the 400 with sprinters Randy Givens, Marita Payne and Brenda Clette. Payne is the defending champion in the 400. The Lady Seminoles have Ovrill Dwyer-Brown back in the 800.

Stanford will be missing Ceci Hopp, defending 3,000 winner, and Kim Schnurpfeil, defending 10,000 champion and fifth in the 5,000. Both are injured.

Stanford still should score, however, with Regina Jacobs in the 800 and 1,500, Patti Sue Plumer in the 3,000 and 5,000, and Carol Cady in the shot put and maybe discus.

Oregon, fourth last year, could benefit from staying away from the sprints. However, the Ducks also are missing two distance stars: Eryn Forbes, second in the 5,000 and third in the 10,000, and Leann Warren, defending 1,500 champion and third in the 800.

The final entry in the championships—and maybe the deciding factor—will be the Houston humidity.

Jackie Joyner leads UCLA's hopes

Baseball field completed

Fullerton State, a 1982 College World Series finalist, and Western Athletic Conference runner-up San Diego State, ranked No. 1 in the country earlier this month, are among the at-large teams selected to complete the field in the 1983 NCAA Division I Baseball Championship.

Oral Roberts, Mississippi State, Arkansas and James Madison also were chosen by the Baseball Committee to join conference winners in the postseason tournament, which begins at eight regional sites May 26-27. The complete pairings and regional sites:

Central (May 26-29 at Austin, Texas)—Texas (56-13) vs. Southland Conference winner (Northeast Louisiana or Lamar); Pan American (60-16) vs. Grambling State (30-10); Tulane (44-15) vs. Mississippi State (40-15).

East (May 26-29 at Chapel Hill, North Carolina)—South Carolina (33-11) vs. James Madison (33-11); North Carolina (41-8) vs.

William and Mary (24-14); Citadel (32-8) vs. Delaware (33-13).

West I (May 27-30 at Stanford, California)—Stanford (37-15) vs. Oregon State (27-15); San Diego State (61-13) vs. California-Santa Barbara (42-20).

Midwest (May 26-29 at Stillwater, Oklahoma)—Oklahoma State (43-14) vs. Wichita State (54-16); Oral Roberts (49-15) vs. Arkansas (44-19).

Midwest (May 27-30 at Ann Arbor, Michigan)—Michigan (45-7) vs. Morehead State (26-15); Indiana State (37-12-1) vs. Miami (Ohio) (35-13).

Northeast (May 27-30 at Orono, Maine)—Maine (26-14) vs. New York Tech (24-8); Temple (27-8) vs. Harvard (25-6).

West II (May 27-30 at Tempe, Arizona)—Brigham Young (54-9) vs. Arizona State (39-22); Fullerton State (49-19-1) vs. Fresno State (43-17).

South (May 27-30 at Tallahassee, Florida)—Florida State (56-17) vs. South Alabama (40-24); Miami (Florida) (57-19) vs. Alabama (40-9).

Winners from the eight double-elimination regional tournaments will advance to the College World Series, June 3-12 at Omaha, Nebraska. Miami (Florida) is the defending champion.

ated that such legislation will be proposed.

If sponsorship totals on September 30 reach the required minimum, the previous legislation probably will be reintroduced by Division III members. If the minimum is not reached, the event still might be established through another route being considered by the NCAA Council.

The Council is expected to introduce legislation for 1984 that would remove all-women's institutions from the total used to determine minimum sponsorship requirements for men's championships. Between 15 and 20 such institutions are Division III members; that difference should be enough so that a new event could be started with the required sponsorship level.

The Division III championship field would be based on the Association's standard 1:8 ratio (one championship participant for every eight teams that compete during the regular season). The same ratio would require a reduction in the size of the field for the Division II event, perhaps to as few as two teams.

That low sponsorship level could result in the elimination of the Division II championship following 1984. Dennis L. Poppe, NCAA assistant director of championships, said that the event would have to be discontinued unless net receipts exceed all expenses, including transportation and per diem. The determination would be based on a moving three-year average, and Poppe estimated that net receipts of $75,000 from the 1984 event would be necessary for continuation of the championship.

Elimination of the Division II championship would require institutions in that group to determine by June 1, 1985, whether to compete in the Division I championship or the Division III championship. They would have to conform to the eligibility rules of the division selected, such as financial aid based only on need in Division III.

Division I championship participation could be selected even if the institution has another sport officially classified in Division I, because of the elimination of the championship opportunity within its own division.

Poppe said that members of the Division II subcommittee worked on plans for all eventualities at their May meeting.

Division I Men's Tennis

A young Stanford squad upset Southern Methodist for the team title and Utah's Greg Holmes lived up to his No. 1 seeding during the 1983 NCAA Division I Men's Tennis Championships May 14-22 in Athens, Georgia.

Holmes became the first player from a Western Athletic Conference school to win an NCAA singles title when he defeated unseeded Fredrick Pahlett of Minnesota, 6-3, 6-2, in the final. Holmes finished the season with a 48-4 record.

"I felt like we were both tight at first," said Holmes, a sophomore who was eliminated in the first round last year. "I think that my getting on top early was very important for me. We had some long rallies from the baseline that turned into some tough points."

Stanford got on top of No. 1 seed Southern Methodist early in the team final, taking the singles, 4-2. The Cardinal, which played with four freshmen and two juniors in its lineup, closed out the match when Scott Davis and John Letts defeated Southern Methodist's Jerome Vanier and Eric Korita, 7-6, 6-4, at No. 1 doubles. The Mustangs won the final two doubles matches for a 5-4 final score. "Being up 4-2 after singles was a big boost for us," said Stanford coach Dick Gould. "The win at No. 2 (singles) by John Letts was a key win for us. I thought he hung in there against a great player (Korita), and it usually takes something like that to push a team over the top."

Letts defeated Korita, 6-4, 7-6, to trigger Stanford's seventh NCAA team title. The Cardinal first won the team championship in 1973 and repeated in 1974, 1977, 1978, 1980 and 1981.

Last year's runners-up Ola Malmqvist and Allen Miller of Georgia captured the doubles title with a pair of tough final-day victories. The unseeded Bulldog duo knocked off the top-seeded team of Roberto Saad and Paul Smith of Wichita State in the semifinals, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, and then defeated the No. 2 seeds, Ken Flach and Robert Seguso of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, 7-5, 6-3, in the final.

Division I Women's Tennis

Southern California's freshman sensation Beth Herr led the Lady Trojans to the team championship and won the singles title in the 1983 NCAA Division I Women's Tennis Championships May 14-22 in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Southern Cal ended the season with a 30-0 record in dual-match competition, defeating Trinity (Texas), 8-1, in the final of the team championship. Herr's 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 victory at No. 1 singles over Trinity's Louise Allen got the Lady Trojans rolling.

"I thought we had the potential to be champions," said Southern Cal coach Dave Borelli, "but to go undefeated all year and then play as well as we did here, well, that's a compliment to the team."

Southern Cal finished fourth in last year's inaugural NCAA Division I Women's Tennis Championships, losing to Trinity in the third-place match. Defending champion Stanford lost to UCLA in this year's third-place contest.

Herr, the No. 3 seed in singles, survived two match points in a third-set tie breaker to defeat unseeded Gigi Fernandez of Clemson, 3-6, 6-2, 7-6, in the championship. Herr was down 4-6 in the 12-point tie breaker before rallying for an 8-6 victory.

"I was just trying to hang in there," Herr said. "I usually play better when the pressure is on."

Allen and partner Gretchen Rush captured the doubles crown with a 6-2, 6-4 triumph over Elise Burgin and Linda Gates of Stanford in a match-up of the top two seeded teams (Allen and Rush were No. 1 seeds).

Allen, the No. 1 seed in singles who lost to Herr in the semifinals, and Rush used a variety of lobs and finesse shots to overcome the power game of Burgin and Gates.

Division II Men's Golf

Southwest Texas State's prospects of winning the Division II Men's Golf Championships, which were held May 17-20 at California State College in California, Pennsylvania, appeared to be pretty slim after two rounds of play. The Bobcats trailed Troy State by eight strokes and faced less than ideal weather conditions to play catch-up golf.

Despite the high winds and rain, Southwest Texas State turned an eight-stroke deficit into a five-stroke lead after three rounds and, with a final round 308, won the title with a 1,229 total. Troy State, which also shot 308 in the final round, finished second at 1,234.

Greg Chapman of Stephen F. Austin shot a final-round 75 on the 7,000-yard, par-71 Speidel Golf Course to win the individual championship at 296. J. L. Lewis of Southwest Texas State finished second at 299. Lewis was first after a three-under 69 in the first round but dropped out of the race with second and third rounds of 79 and 78. He shot a 73 in the final round.

Jim Hallet of Bryant and Mike Walton of Columbus tied for third at 301. Marc Stevens of Northridge State and Bernie DiLoreto of Indiana (Pennsylvania) finished eight strokes off the pace at 304.

Named to the coaches' all-America team were Chapman, Lewis, Hallet, Walton, Bob Gaus of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville and Collin McCrary of Troy State.

Division III Men's Golf

Allegheny overcame a two-stroke deficit in the final round to edge defending champion Ramapo in the Division III Men's Golf Championships May 17-20 at the Wooster Country Club in Wooster, Ohio.

The Gators were led by Matt Clarke, who took individual honors with a 297 total over the 6,396-yard, par-72 course. Teammate Dave Hagstrom finished second at 302 after recording the low score of the final round with a 70.

Clarke and Hagstrom were named to the coaches' all-America team along with Scott Nye of Wooster, Jim Bombard of Worcester State, Mike Baker of Methodist and Mike Higgins of Nebraska Wesleyan.

Going into the final round, Ramapo and Methodist were tied for first at 930, two strokes ahead of Allegheny and three strokes ahead of Stanislaus State and Ohio Wesleyan. Seven other teams were within 10 strokes of the leaders. But Clark and Hagstrom rebounded from disappointing third rounds in which they shot 76 and 80, respectively, to lead Allegheny to its first Division III men's golf title.

Women's Lacrosse

Unused Delaware capped a string of upsets with a stunning 10-7 victory over Temple in the NCAA Women's Lacrosse Championship May 22 at the University of Pennsylvania.

On the way to the championship—Delaware's second national-team championship (the other was 1979 Division II football)—the Fightin' Blue Hens held their opponents to fewer than seven goals per game and recorded victories against three of the tournament's top four seeds.

Top-ranked Temple provided the opposition in the final game, and junior Karen Emas led the upset with two goals and three assists. Lisa Blanc, Missy Meharg and Anne Wilkinson added two goals each.

The game was almost seven minutes old when Temple's Kathleen Barrett put the Lady Owls on top with an unassisted goal. The score remained 1-0 until the 10:22 mark when Delaware's Blanc scored unassisted. Meharg gave the Hens a 2-1 lead at 12:08 with a score off a pass from Denise Swift. Less than 30 seconds later, Barrett tied the match 2-2 with her second unassisted goal.

Delaware scored five goals before half time to mount a 7-2 lead, giving the Blue Hens enough cushion to survive a strong Temple comeback in the second half.

The Lady Owls outscored Delaware, 5-3, in the final 30 minutes, with Barrett adding three more goals, all of them unassisted. Marie Schmucker and Carol Schultz completed Temple's scoring with one goal each.

In the third-place game, five players scored as Penn State outlasted Massachusetts, 7-6. The Lady Lions, seeded second, lost, 7-5, to Delaware a day earlier. In the other semifinal, Temple defeated Massachusetts, 10-4.

Division III Men's Lacrosse

Hobart's powerful offense exploded in the third quarter when the Statesmen scored four times in less than two minutes and they took a 13-9 victory over Roanoke at the Division III Men's Lacrosse Championship May 22 in Geneva, New York.

Seven Hobart players scored, and senior all-America goalie Guy Van Arsdale stopped 14 Roanoke shots to help the Statesmen to their fourth straight title. Johns Hopkins, a Division I team, is the only other NCAA lacrosse-playing institution that has won four national titles.

Hobart opened the scoring with only 44 seconds gone in the contest when senior Bruce Eckerson scored off an assist from Jim Holihan. Roanoke's Paul Goldsmith countered to tie the score and set the stage for a see-saw, first-half battle.

Goldsmith, a senior attackman, tallied three goals in the match and established a new Division III record for goals in a tournament with 12.

In the closing minutes of the first half, Hobart's Joe Reagan twice converted passes from Marc Van Arsdale to give the Statesmen a 7-4 advantage at intermission. The two teams traded goals to open the third quarter before Hobart went on its four-goal scoring binge and extended the lead to 12-5 after 45 minutes.

The Maroon closed the margin to 12-7 on goals from Goldsmith and Russ Hildebrand, but Hobart's Tom Grimaldi sealed the verdict with an unassisted tally.

Hobart finished with a 13-2 record; Roanoke was 11-5.

Division II Women's Softball

Domination of softball championships by first-year players is becoming common in NCAA postseason play.

First, there was Debbie Doom, who pitched UCLA to five straight victories in winning the 1982 Division I championship. Now, Kathy Slaten of Northridge State has entered the record book with her performance in the 1983 NCAA Division II Women's Softball Championship May 20-22 at Chapman College in Orange, California.

Slaten, the tournament's most outstanding player, led Northridge State to the championship, winning the final game with a 1-0 decision over 1982 champion Sam Houston State. She allowed one hit and struck out 16.

It was Slaten's third shutout victory of the finals series, improving Northridge State's pitching performance to 102 innings without allowing an earned run over the 1982 and 1983 championships. The final game was her second one-hit, 1-0 decision over Sam Houston State, and she had a no-hitter in a 4-0 victory over Stephen F. Austin. In all, she allowed two hits in 21 innings, striking out 48 (16 in each game, setting a single-game tournament record) and facing just one batter over the minimum.

The Lady Matadors won the title with a run in the top of the seventh, breaking up a scoreless duel between Slaten and Sam Houston's own freshman standout, Kathy Phillips (23-3 for the season).

The victory gave Northridge State a 35-20-2 record, while Sam Houston State finished 43-17. The Bearkats had come back to defeat Sacred Heart, 3-1, and Stephen F. Austin, 3-2, to reach the final after the opening loss to Northridge State.

Slaten, as most outstanding player, and Phillips headed the all-tournament team. Other selections from the champion Northridge State team were shortstop Kathy Toerner, outfielders Linda Lowande and Terri Lamoree and utility player Stacy Lim. Sam Houston State placed five more players on the team: catcher Lisa Busby, first baseman Ginger Cannon, second baseman Pat Mulcahey, outfielder Beth Smith and utility player Mary Baskin. Third baseman Rene Smith of Stephen F. Austin completed the squad.

Frank to assist conference

James Frank, former president of the NCAA, has been retained by the Southwestern Athletic Conference to conduct a study of the conference, determine strengths and weaknesses, and identify problems that a capable commissioner could resolve.

The conference has decided to hire a commissioner for the first time in six years. Norris A. Edney of Alcorn State University has been performing many of the duties normally assigned to a commissioner.

Conference officials said Frank, former president of Lincoln University (Missouri), will be looking at the conference constitution and bylaws and laying the groundwork for the new commissioner.

USFL won't sign more undergraduates—for now

The United States Football League will not sign any undergraduate college players with eligibility left until it can make its rules more flexible, Commissioner Chet Simmons told a United States Senate committee hearing May 23.

"We know we have a very rigid rule," Simmons said. "We have declared a moratorium until we deal with the various collegiate bodies and can come up with some changes."

At the same hearing, National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the NFL would continue its policy of refusing to sign undergraduates unless there were extenuating circumstances.

Simmons said the USFL signed Herschel Walker of Georgia five months ago because the league was threatened with a lawsuit by Walker's lawyer.

Simmons and Rozelle testified during hearings on a bill introduced by Sen. Arlen Specter, Pennsylvania Republican, which would make professional leagues immune from anti-trust lawsuits if they have rules prohibiting the signing of undergraduates with eligibility.

A bill similar to Specter's was introduced in the House last week by Rep. Doug Barnard of Georgia.

Arizona placed on probation

The University of Arizona has been placed on probation for a two-year period, effective May 19, by the NCAA's Committee on Infractions as a result of violations in the institution's intercollegiate football program.

The penalty includes sanctions that will prohibit the university's football team from participating in postseason football bowl games following the 1983 and 1984 seasons, as well as from appearing on any NCAA-controlled television program or any other "live" football telecast during the 1984 and 1985 regular seasons.

In accordance with NCAA enforcement procedures, the two-year television penalty will not begin until the 1984 season because of an existing commitment by the University for a 1983 television appearance that was executed prior to notification of the NCAA's penalty.

None of the athletic department staff members who were involved in the violations in this case remains associated with the university's athletic program at this time.

"This case was considered to be quite serious by the NCAA Committee on Infractions," said Charles Alan Wright, chair, NCAA Committee on Infractions. "It involved significant benefits and substantial amounts of money provided to enrolled student-athletes by former members of the football coaching staff. Based on the number and nature of these violations, as well as the numerous recruiting violations that were found, the committee determined that a significant institutional penalty should be imposed."

"The committee wishes to emphasize, however, that more severe sanctions would have been imposed if the case had involved current staff members or if the committee had not been convinced that the university adequately demonstrated its full commitment to compliance with NCAA legislation at this time."

"In closing, the committee did not impose a reduction in the number of initial grants-in-aid for new recruits or other penalties that would adversely affect the recruiting efforts of the current football staff."

The committee found violations of NCAA legislation related to employment, extra benefits, financial aid, ethical conduct, several recruiting regulations and certification of compliance with NCAA legislation.

Rehearing

The 1982-1985 NCAA Football Television Plan is a part of contracts with ABC and CBS totaling $263.5 million. A two-year, $17 million contract also was signed with Turner Broadcasting System, Inc., for a supplementary series carried on cable television.

The NCAA Football Television Committee will conduct a special meeting May 27 in Chicago to receive a complete legal briefing on the suit.

Commissioners of all Division I-A football conferences have been invited to attend that meeting, along with Eugene F. Corrigan, director of athletics at the University of Notre Dame, who will represent Division I independents. Corrigan has been designated chair of the athletic directors section of the NCAA Division I summer meeting June 24-25.
