I-A will consider nonfootball issues

A number of significant issues that extend beyond football concerns will highlight the agenda for the first Division I-A midyear legislative meeting June 28-29 at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare in Chicago (Rosemont), Illinois.

Members of Division I-A submitted no football legislation for consideration at the meeting in accordance with the April 29 deadline. Some have indicated their intention to submit proposals pertaining to non-football matters in accordance with the June 21, 1984, deadline.

The meeting is authorized to propose legislation on nonfootball matters for consideration at the 1985 NCAA Convention. Any such proposals must be sponsored by at least six Division I-A members and must be received in the national office on or before June 21. Copies of such proposals properly submitted will be distributed at registration for the I-A meeting.

During an April 16 planning session, Division I-A members of the Council (who serve as the program committee for the I-A legislative session) determined that a major feature of the June 28-29 gathering should be discussion sessions devoted to major topics affecting Division I-A institutions and conferences.

"Establishment of the Division I-A meeting by the 1984 NCAA Convention represents a long-awaited opportunity for Division I-A to enjoy its own forum for discussion and action, apart from the multifaceted business of an annual NCAA Convention," Secretary-Treasurer John R. Davis, chair of the program committee, said. "It is apparent that the legislative concerns of Division I-A are broader than football-only issues."

The Official Notice and Program for the June 28-29 meeting will be mailed from the national office May 14. Copies will go to the chief executive officer, faculty athletics representative, director of athletics and primary woman administrator of athletics programs at each Division I-A member institution, as well as to Division I-A allied conferences.

Accompanying the copy sent to the chief executive officer will be the form on which the CEO appoints the institution's or conference's delegates to the meeting.

Doland, Barrett, Miller named by Council as committee chairs

Members of the Nominating Committee and the Men's and Women's Committees on Committees for the 1985 Convention were appointed by the NCAA Council in its April 16-18 meeting in Kansas City.

The Nominating Committee, composed of 16 members, nominates candidates for NCAA president and secretary-treasurer and affirms the work of the committee's division subunits, which nominate candidates for each vacancy in the division's membership on the Council and for the division's vice-president.

The Committees on Committees, composed of 12 members each, will present to the business session at the 1985 Convention nominees for vacancies on all men's and women's sports committees.

Appointed as chairs of the three committees were Jack V. Doland, McNeese State University, Nominating Committee; Carl R. Miller, University of North Dakota, Men's Committee on Committees; and Mary R. Barrett, University of Massachusetts, Boston, Women's Committee on Committees.

Nominating Committee members serve one-year terms and are limited to three terms in any five-year period. Four of the 16 members are Council members. Eight members are from Division I, four are from Division II, and four are Division III members.

Eight new members were appointed to the Nominating Committee by the Council. New Division I members are Joan Cronan, University of Tennessee, Knoxville (Region 2); Thomas J. Frericks, University of Dayton (Region 3); June B. Davis, University of Nebraska, Lincoln (Region 3); Doland (Region 4), and Fred Jacoby, Southwest Athletic Conference (Region 4).

The new Division II member is Edward P. Markey, St. Michael's College (Region I). New members from Division III are Patricia A. Rogers, State University of New York, Albany (Region 2), and Russell J. Poel, North Central College (Region 4).

Nominating Committee members who were elected for another term are Bruce A. Corrie, Bucknell University (Division I, Region I); Charles Harris, University of Pennsylvania (Division I, Region I); Cecil W. Ingram, Florida State University (Division I, Region 2); Ola Goss, Norfolk State University (Division II, Region 2); Joan Boand, Grand Valley State College (Division II, Region 2).

La Salle's Wear appointed to Council

Kathleen M. Wear, assistant athletics director at La Salle College since 1977, has been appointed to replace Eve Atkinson as a member of the NCAA Council.

The replacement was necessitated by Atkinson's move from Hofstra University, a Division I member that does not sponsor football in Division I, to Temple University, a Division I-A institution. The move would have reduced the number of NCAA Council members representing Division I nonfootball institutions (or those that do not sponsor football in Division I) below the required four.

Wear's appointment is effective when Atkinson assumes her new duties at Temple later this month. She will serve until the 1985 NCAA Convention, in accordance with Constitution 5-1(f).

At La Salle, Wear is responsible for the women's athletics program and also serves as academic moderator for the athletics department. She was the head field hockey coach for the Explorers from 1977 to 1980 and has been a head coach in U.S. Field Hockey Association Olympic development camps for four years. She taught and coached at Haddon Township and Collingswood, New Jersey, for seven years before joining the La Salle staff.

She earned her bachelor's degree at West Chester University of Pennsylvania, majoring in health and physical education, and is working on an MBA degree at Glassboro State College. She is a past president of the Philadelphia Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women and currently chairs the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference Volleyball and Basketball Committees and the Women's Big Five Basketball Committee.

6,600 Final Four tickets sought by 140,000 fans

The odds were not very good, but someone had to be first. Dora Kessler of Louisville, Kentucky, was that person.

Kessler's application was one of more than 140,000—nearly four times the previous record number of applications—for tickets to the 1985 NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship semifinals and final March 30 and April 1 at Rupp Arena in Lexington, Kentucky.

In fact, there were so many applications with the necessary April 3 postmark that tournament officials could not fit all the letters into the bin that was to be used for the April 27 drawing. Instead, balloons, each with a number inside, were dropped from the ceiling of Rupp Arena. Seven were caught by volunteers from the crowd.

Each of the numbers inside those seven balloons corresponded to a mailing tray containing about 500 letters. The seven designated trays were dumped into the bin for the drawing, and Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler drew Kessler's form first.

A total of 6,600 tickets were allocated for the public drawing. Rupp Arena seats 23,000, but that will be reduced to 22,000 to make room for additional media requests.

The public allotment represents about 30 percent of the expected turnout. The four participating teams each will receive 2,125 tickets, and the National Association of Basketball Coaches will have a block of 2,600 tickets. Another 2,100 tickets will go to the NCAA, primarily for the national media; 2,000 seats are allocated for the University of Kentucky, and 200 will be set aside for local media.

A single ticket for both the semifinals and championship costs $43. Kentucky officials hope to have the orders processed and tickets mailed by mid-June.

Executive Committee sets agenda

A review of NCAA women's policies and programs, a report from the Special Committee on Drug Testing and reports from 15 sports committees highlight the agenda of the May 7-8 Executive Committee meeting at the Alameda Plaza Hotel in Kansas City, Missouri.

The 12-member Executive Committee will discuss suggested women's championships policies and programs after August 1, 1985, the deadline for women's programs in the NCAA to be in full compliance with NCAA rules and regulations.

The basic question confronting the Executive Committee is whether women's championships should continue to be treated differently than men's championships or whether Executive Committee policies should be applied similarly to both.

The NCAA Council, in its April 16-18 meeting, received a recommendation that all exceptions for women's programs, unless adopted by legislation, end August 1, 1985, as intended in the governance plan adopted at the 1981 Convention. The Council, however, also supported a recommendation that exceptions in seeding and bracketing of women's championships be continued to 1990. The Executive Committee will consider all recommendations regarding championships policies.

The Executive Committee also will discuss the new NCAA-administered drug-testing program endorsed by the Council last month. The plan to be considered by the Executive Committee is one of three alternatives proposed by the Special Committee on Drug Testing.

As reported in the April 25 issue of The NCAA News, this program would include testing for stimulants at championships and random testing of student-athletes in specified sports for anabolic steroids at campus sites

Accreditation program needed in athletics

By Al Palmeri

Grand Rapids (Michigan) Press

Arend D. Lubbers, president of Grand Valley State College, jokingly calls his idea "far-fetched" and expects some opposition.

Lubbers would like to see the NCAA authorize an accrediting system to check all athletics departments of its member institutions.

He feels it would help the NCAA make sure universities are complying with admissions and recruiting regulations for athletes. The accrediting organization, Lubbers suggested, could send examining teams every five or 10 years.

Recruiting scandals that have rocked college athletics in recent years would not be so commonplace if an accrediting system existed, Lubbers said.

"If you are doing things under the table and you know very well you're going to be reviewed every five years, it's a lot harder to cover up," reasoned Lubbers, president at the Division II college since 1969.

Accrediting agencies are well known on college campuses. The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has given academic accreditation to Michigan universities for years. Lubbers' idea has some drawbacks, not the least of which would be increased bureaucracy.

Lubbers fears the NCAA's 277 Division I schools, which stand to lose the most from increased scrutiny, will oppose any movement toward accrediting.

"It's not a major expense," he said. "It's worth some outlay of money."

Because of a recent decision at the NCAA's Convention, Lubbers is in a position to steer that idea toward reality. He is one of 44 college presidents appointed to the Presidents'

Commission, which will advise the NCAA.

Lubbers, one of 11 Division II representatives on the Commission, will serve until his term expires in 1987.

"I don't want to see athletics programs die because they've been corrupted," Lubbers said. "I want to see them really strong."

Motivated by that desire, Lubbers went to Dallas in January for his first NCAA Convention.

The question of presidential authority headlined issues before the Convention.

Member schools turned down a proposal that would have given the Presidents' Commission power to veto actions by the

Columnary Craft

Convention. That plan, backed by the American Council on Education, failed, 313-328. [Note: Two-thirds approval was required.] Then, the proposal for a weaker commission passed.

Though the presidents would up with less power, Lubbers said many were quite content when the second plan passed.

"There were a lot of presidents who wanted it the way it has finally come out," Lubbers explained. "They didn't want quite such a powerful group. A lot of the pressure for the Council concept that was defeated came from outside the NCAA itself. They (the American Council on Education) were involved because they didn't believe the NCAA leadership would be as ready to make changes that the American Council on Education felt they should."

The 44 presidents want to meet in June or July to discuss objectives. Subsequent meetings will focus on recommendations to be placed before the next NCAA Convention in January 1985.

"The opportunity for this group to have an unusual amount of influence on athletics policy in the NCAA is there," Lubbers said. "It could be a group that would be hard to ignore if it addresses the issues and can come to a consensus."

One major issue concerns academic standards. New NCAA regulations on test scores have been a subject of controversy.

Starting in 1986, a high school senior hoping to compete in athletics as a college freshman [in Division I] must achieve a combined score of 700, out of a possible 1,600, on the Scholastic Aptitude Test, or a 15 of 36 on the American College Testing exam.

The NCAA also will be requiring an incoming student to have maintained a high school grade-point average of 2.000 while taking a curriculum including three years of English, two of mathematics, two of social sciences and two of physical or natural sciences.

Presidents of predominantly black universities have criticized the test-score requirements, saying they are discriminatory.

Lubbers called the regulations "progress" and praised NCAA members for establishing one standard. Grand Valley, he said, requires a 2.500 for automatic entrance. A 2.000 student can be admitted, if approved by an admissions committee.

"One does not want to discriminate in quality against anyone, but one wants to set the same standard for everyone," Lubbers said. "I don't think we want a double standard. I don't think black leaders want a double standard, either. It doesn't help one group to lower the standard at all."

"I think a 2.000 in a college prep course is a legitimate standard."

Spring football best for teaching

Dave Currey, head football coach

University of Cincinnati

Cincinnati Enquirer

"There has been talk of eliminating spring football practice for colleges. That would be a major mistake. Spring is the best teaching time there is for a coach.

"During spring practice, all a coach has to worry about is teaching. He doesn't have the pressure of getting ready for the next game, the pressure of winning.

Opinions Out Loud

There are no checklists. It's the best teaching time for the coaching professional, and maybe about the only one left."

Jonathan Yardley, sportswriter

The Washington Post

"The dominant characteristic of television is its inability to look beyond itself, and nowhere is this more the case than in televised sports. This is not a flaw inherent in the medium, but a flaw of human nature: Because television offers the opportunity to project oneself instantly to an invisible audience of millions, the understandable if deplorable human instinct is to give precedence to the self over the subject.

"One need only spend an hour watching a local news broadcast to see the point demonstrated dozens of times. The real subject of the local news is not the 'news' itself, to the extent that there is any, but the people who 'present it'..."

College Football '84 Preview

"I enjoy recruiting because I get a kick out of forming opinions on kids, on their personalities, on what they say. I have a fetish about latent intelligence. I don't watch a lot of film. My evaluations are often based on whether a kid can cope with college life. I believe in college football, and I'm glad I'm part of it. My beliefs at this time are more suited to college football, and I like what it is all about... I think there is a very good foundation for college football, one that won't crumble... I'm glad I'm a part of it."

Henry Iba, former men's basketball coach

Oklahoma State University

Houston Chronicle

"You can't get along without them but anything that's wrong in athletics today is because of the influence of the alumni. The alumni want to win. Period. If you don't, they have no use for you. Is that good for the university? Is that good for athletics? Who's got the big stick? When the alumni get bigger than the institution, you've got trouble.

"Everyone wants to win, but how are you going to do it? That's the question. There's a tremendous fight going on. If it's just publicity and playing games and winning, there's no reason to have athletics at a university. It's so much more than that.

"What everyone connected with athletics must remember is that the most important people are the men who play the game. It's not the coach, the fans or the alumni. It's the players. When you lose sight of what you are supposed to be doing—helping these young men develop—then athletics can become a disease.

"I wonder about the role of athletics in our society. I don't know how it relates to the world. It's in a position where somebody has to step in. I mean administrators in universities and people in the government. We've got to take a long look at what we're doing to the lives of young people.

"It's almost gotten too big. The thing that I'm against is that the athlete gets overlooked at the expense of other people. He's at the university to develop as a person and to graduate, not to prepare for a professional career. How many of them make it? What happens to the rest of them."

Bob Prewitt, supervisor of basketball officials

Southwest Athletic Conference

Houston Chronicle

"Coaches look for consistency from officials, and that's the most difficult thing to get. It's the hardest game there is to officiate because the players now are better, and the game is played in a confined area. It's a 94-foot game these days, with the fast break and different presses and the quickness and great ability of the players. Before, it used to be more of a half-court game.

"Officials are like players. They have better games some nights than others. At times this year, I've seen games where I thought the officials have done a credible job, and I've seen other games where they have had some problems.

"The style of play can make a big difference. You may have a game where both teams play very aggressively in a tough man-to-man defense and press full court or a game where you get the teams shooting poorly and have a lot more rebounds and more contact under the backboards.

"Players can adjust to the officiating if they know the way the game is going to be called and if it continues to be called the same way."

Basketball notes

Seniors leave names in records book

Admittedly, the 1984 senior class in Division I men's basketball made an impact on the record book. Scoring champion Joe Jakubick of Akron, the first 30-point man since 1980; Centenary's Willie Jackson, and Iona's Steve Burtt all surpassed 2,500 career points, a milestone reached by only 18 others in 37 years of official NCAA records.

And Jackson, North Carolina's Sam Perkins and North Carolina A&T's Joe Binion all surpassed 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds, something done by only 39 others.

However, underclassmen dominated the consensus all-America team (Perkins was the only senior) and swept all the season individual statistics championships except scoring.

No underclassman was more impressive statistically than Houston's 7-foot Akeem Olajuwon. He won both the rebounding and field-goal percentage championships to become the first double champion in 22 years and only the fourth in history. Ohio State's Jerry Lucas won both the rebounding and field-goal shooting titles in both 1961 and 1962, and George Washington's Joe Holup did the same in 1956. Those are the only double crowns ever (none involving either scoring or free-throwing).

Olajuwon's 67.5 percent season accuracy ranks eighth on the all-time list. The gifted Nigerian turned pro last week along with Auburn's massive Charles Barkley, so Olajuwon's final career figure of 63.87 percent ranks eighth, barely behind the 63.89 by UCLA's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (and Barkley finished 12th at 62.6).

In rebounds, Olajuwon barely nudged little-known Carey Scurry, a 6-9 Long Island junior, 13.51 per game to 13.48, with 1983 champion Xavier McDaniel, Wichita State junior, a close third. In field goals, Olajuwon edged Alabama's Bobby Lee Hurt (66.4 percent) and Georgetown's Pat Ewing, another famous 7-footer (65.8), both juniors.

A former soccer goalie just turned 21, Olajuwon has come far in just four years in this country. He is unspoiled, and his smile still is illuminating; but his conversation was a bit different this season—he spoke of investments, taxes and Lloyds of London. "I am taking courses in business law, finances and how to invest money," he said.

A rare 30-point man

At 30.1, Jakubick became the first 30-point scorer since Tony Murphy of Southern-Baton Rouge averaged 32.1 in 1980. Why have 30-point scorers become so rare? One factor is the new free-throw rule of 1973 (no shot on the first six common fouls of each half) that reduced the number of free throws. Another is the growth of strong defenses, especially the zones. Of the 16 career 30-point scorers, only two (Larry Bird and Freeman Williams) have played in the past 10 years.

A 6-5 left-hander, Jakubick shot 52.4 percent from the field and 83.4 percent from the line to finish ahead of two other seniors—6-6 Lewis Jackson of Alabama State (29.0) and 6-7 Devin Durrant of Brigham Young (27.9).

Jakubick, from Mansfield, Ohio, does not look like a 30-point scorer at first view. His elbow-out shot looks unorthodox. Sleepy-eyed, hair askew, body limp as a dishrag and seemingly at cross-purposes, you wonder if he can walk and chew gum at the same time. "He looks like he's walking to Sunday school," said one observer, "and next thing you know, he's past three men and in for a layup." He also is accurate from long range—his 53 three-pointers (counted as two in NCAA rankings) ranked fifth in 1983.

91.3 percent—a freshman record

The free-throw champion is Indiana's Steve Alford, a 19-year-old freshman from New Castle, Indiana, where he played for his father, Sam Alford. His 91.3 percent is the highest ever by a Division I freshman (breaking the 89.8 by Mike Waitkus of Brown last year).

Alford was voted "Mr. Basketball" in Indiana in 1983 after scoring at a 37.2 pace and shooting 94.4 percent at the line. He once hit 64 straight free throws in the regular season and was 82-for-83 in state-tournament play. Only 6-2, he hit 59.2 percent from the field this season and led Indiana in scoring at 15.5 per game.

"The first thing my dad taught me was how to shoot free throws," said Alford, who shoots 200 a day in practice. "It's like a ritual now. I used to shoot with dad to see who could hit the most out of 20 shots. He would always make 20. Then we would shoot until one missed. The loser would rebound the ball. I got tired of being the rebounder."

The first 90 percent pair

Close behind Alford in free-throw accuracy were Harvard's Joe Carrabino at 90.5 percent and teammate Bob Ferry at 90.3, with Chris Mullin of St. John's (New York) in between at 90.4. Wait a minute, two 90 percenters on one team? That is right—the first such pair in 37 years of national major-college rankings. Just shooting 90 percent once is a feat—it has been done only 47 times in history by 43 players. The four who did it twice were Tommy Boyer of Arkansas in 1962 and 1963, Greg Starrick of Southern Illinois in 1971 and 1972, Ron Perry of Holy Cross in 1978 and 1979 and the late Jack Moore of Nebraska in 1981 and 1982.

Carrabino and Ferry are juniors, so both could join this select circle next year. They led Harvard to an all-time team record of 82.2 percent at the line.

The assists champion

Craig Lathen, a 6-1 junior from Aurora, Illinois, is the national champion in assists at 9.4 per game. This means his passes led to 18.8 points per game. Lathen also scored 13.8 per game in leading Illinois-Chicago to a 22-7 season under first-year coach Willie Little.

Cal State Fullerton's Leon Wood, averaging 24 points per game, and Gonzaga's John Stockton at 20.9 were the only top 60 scorers among the top 30 in assists. Wood's 188 assists means he accounted for 36.5 points per game passing and scoring. He was not the leader, however. Alabama State's Jackson had 118 assists, giving him 37.4 per game by passing and scoring.

Second in assists was Nevada-Las Vegas senior Danny Tarkanian, son of the head coach, Jerry Tarkanian, and a 3.890 student (4.000 is perfect) in finance.

Multicategory leaders

Among the top 60 scorers, or at least 19.5 points per game, only eight players also averaged at least 10 rebounds per game and shot at least 50 percent from the field. San Diego State senior Michael Cage heads this group in scoring at 24.5, and his 12.6 rebounding average is second in the group to the 13.1 by Wichita State's Xavier McDaniel. The others are Texas-Arlington's Sam Norton, Northeastern's Mark Halsel, Oral Roberts' Mark Acres, North Carolina A&T's Binion, South Alabama's Terry Catledge and George Washington's Mike Brown (see statistics page for their figures). Cage also leads this group with his 74.1 free-throw percentage.

Scoring champion Jakubick leads another group of six who averaged at least 19.5 points, shot at least 80 percent in free throws and at least 50 percent in field goals. The others are Alabama State's Jackson, McNeese State's Joe Dumars, Mullin, Carrabino and Lamar's Tom Sewell.

Career leaders

As mentioned, Centenary's Jackson at 2,535, Iona's Burtt at 2,534 and Jakubick at 2,530 all joined the 2,500-point club. They now rank 14-15-16 on the all-time list. Jackson also is just the 10th to reach 2,500 points and 1,000 rebounds (he had 1,013).

Jackson, Perkins (2,145 and 1,167) and Binion (2,143 and 1,194) are now on the list of those with 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds, which reads like a who's who of college basketball—Oscar Robertson, Elvin Hayes, Larry Bird, Bill Bradley, Elgin Baylor, Tom Gola, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Jerry West, Rick Barry, Ralph Sampson, and on it goes.

Eight others reached 2,000 career points—Brigham Young's Durrant 2,285, Dayton's Roosevelt Chapman 2,233, Alabama State's Jackson 2,231 (with his first two seasons in Division II), Yale's Butch Graves 2,091, Florida's Ronnie Williams 2,086, Houston's Michael Young 2,043, Loyola's (Illinois) Alfredrick Hughes 2,038 and Pittsburgh's Clyde Vaughan 2,011. Hughes is a junior, the others are seniors. He is averaging 23.2. Others above 20 are Jakubick 23.4, Centenary's Jackson 22.2, Burtt 20.9 and Graves 20.3. The highest career average, though, goes to sophomore Wayman Tisdale of Oklahoma at 25.8 with 1,729 points in just two seasons.

Cage led all seniors in career rebound average at 11.8 with 1,317. Binion was next at 1,194 and 10.3. Memphis State's Keith Lee leads all juniors 10.9 with 1,013.

Olajuwon and Barkley finished 8-12 in career field-goal accuracy. Finishing 13-14 on the all-time list were Tommy Best (62.2) of St. Peter's and Greg Foster (62.1) of Fairleigh Dickinson-Teaneck. Grambling State senior Napoleon Johnson, the only top 60 scorer to shoot over 60 percent this season (62.5 and 23.4—he also averaged 9.2 rebounds) was the other senior over 60 percent for his career, with 60.4.

Other juniors ranking high are Alabama's Hurt at 63.0 and Georgetown's Ewing at 61.8. In free-throw accuracy, the highest senior is Tennessee-Chattanooga's Willie White at 83.1 percent. There are 10 juniors above that figure, headed by Carrabino's 86.4.

Single-game highs

Tisdale joined history's 60-point club with his 61 points against Texas-San Antonio, a 20-8 finisher. That was the national season high and the most points by a Division I player against a Division I team since 1977, when Anthony Roberts of Oral Roberts had 65 vs. Oregon. Roberts had 66 in another game that season, then you must go back to 1971 for another such game. In major-college basketball history, Tisdale's 61 has been surpassed only 10 times (seven different players) against major opponents.

The season high in rebounds was 29 by Donald Newman of Arkansas-Little Rock against Centenary, with Olajuwon's 25 against Texas Tech next. The No. 2 figure in scoring was 52 by Grambling's Johnson against Alabama State.

Consensus all-America

Tisdale, Ewing and North Carolina's Michael Jordan were unanimous choices for all-America, making all four teams used in the consensus (Associated Press, United Press International, U.S. Basketball Writers Association and National Association of Basketball Coaches). This is Jordan's second straight unanimous year. As a senior next year, he can become only the 17th player to be a three-time consensus all-America—a list that starts with John Wooden at Purdue (1930-1932) and ends with Sampson last year—only player since 1975 to do it.

Perkins and Olajuwon missed "unanimous" by one team. Jordan, Tisdale, Perkins and Ewing are repeaters from last year, with Perkins the only senior; the others are juniors except Tisdale, a sophomore (who could make it a record four consensus AAs if he stays in college). On the consensus second team this year are Mullin, Durrant, Wood, Lee and Kentucky's Melvin Turpin.

Jordan and Perkins are only the fourth pair of consensus all-Americans from the same team and the third to make it in back-to-back seasons. The others were Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes of UCLA in 1973 and 1974, Ralph Beard and Alex Groza of Kentucky in 1947 and 1949 and Paul Nowak and John Moir of Notre Dame in 1936, 1937 and 1938.

Georgetown leads teams

Fittingly, national champion Georgetown is a triple champion in team statistics—in won-lost percentage at .919 on 34-3, in scoring margin at 16.4 (74.3 to 57.9) and in field-goal percentage defense, allowing only 39.5 percent, a record since this category was started in 1977 (breaking Wyoming's 39.7 in 1982). One factor was the 133 blocked shots by Ewing (Olajuwon led with 207 or 5.6 per game, Creighton's Benoit Benjamin had 157 for 5.2, LIU's Scurry 115 for 3.7 and Ewing's average was 3.6). In five NCAA tournament games, Georgetown was even better, allowing 38.1 percent (99 for 260), a modern best, with a relentless defense.

Princeton led in scoring defense at 50.1, Tulsa in scoring offense at 90.8, Houston Baptist in field-goal percentage at 55.2, Northeastern in rebound margin at 9.8 (with Georgetown second) and, as mentioned, Harvard's 82.2 free-throw mark set a record.

North Carolina was second in won-lost (28-3 for .903), scoring margin, field-goal accuracy and free-throw accuracy—four No. 2's in all.

First-ever women's career leaders

The big news in Division I women's basketball is this first-ever list of career record holders, including three years of official NCAA statistics for current seniors and one season of unofficial statistics (this season's statistics champions will come later).

Eighteen seniors scored at least 2,000 career points, headed by Drake's Lorri Bauman at 3,115. Fifteen seniors had at least 1,000 career rebounds, headed by Temple's Marilyn Stephens at 1,519. Stephens also has the best average at 13. Bauman's 26-point average per game is second to the 26.7 by Sandra Hodge of New Orleans. Georgia Southern senior Trina Roberts leads in field-goal percentage at 63.2, using a minimum of 400 made, and Washington's Karen Murray is first in free-throw shooting at 87.6 percent, using a minimum of 250 made.

Bauman is just the third player in Division I women's basketball history to reach 3,000 points and 1,000 rebounds during a career, with 3,115 and 1,050. The other two played in the unofficial or pre-NCAA era. The all-time leader is Kansas' Lynette Woodward, with 3,649 points and 1,734 rebounds for four seasons, 1978 through 1981. UCLA's Denise Curry had 3,198 and 1,310 the same four seasons.

Bauman is an elementary education major and Iowa native who played the six-on-six version of girls' high school basketball popular in Iowa and Oklahoma (although in Iowa, only two dribbles are allowed before the ball must be passed or shot . . . three forwards play only offense, three guards play only defense).

2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds

Ten seniors, including Bauman, surpassed 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds. The others are Texas Tech's Carolyn Thompson (2,655 and 1,247), Louisiana Tech's Janice Lawrence (2,403 and 1,097), Southern California's Paula McGee 2,346 and 1,160 and her twin sister Pam (2,233 and 1,255), Florida State's Sue Galkantas (2,327 and 1,006), Oregon's Alison Lang (2,254 and 1,101), rebound leader Stephens (2,194 and 1,519), Alcorn State's Ella Williams (2,111 and 1,102) and Auburn's Becky Jackson (2,068 and 1,118).

Other career leaders

Jackson is the only player in the above group who shot 60 percent for her career, barely making it at 60.04. Next were Lawrence at 59.2, Lang 59.1, Pam McGee 58.1 and Bauman 57.2. In free throws, Eastern Kentucky's Lisa Goodin is second to Murray with 87.4, with Bauman third on 83.2 percent.

Eight others reached 2,000 career points. They are Louisiana State's Joyce Walker, second at 2,906; Hodge 2,860; Manhattan's Sheila Tighe 2,412; Holy Cross' Sherry Levin 2,253; Bethune-Cookman's Erma Jones 2,095; Xavier's Jo Ann Osterkamp 2,036; Villanova's Nancy Bernhardt 2,018, and U.S. International's Jamie Glassford 2,007.

Next after Hodge and Bauman in per-game average are Walker 24.8, Jones 24.1, Thompson 21.94, Levin 21.87 and Tighe 21.3.

Five others reached 1,000 career rebounds—Indiana's Denise Jackson 1,273, Georgia Southern's Roberts 1,229, Georgia's Wanda Holloway 1,163, Utah's Deb Asper 1,042 and Florida State's Cherry Rivers 1,029. After Stephens in per-game average are Roberts 10.5, Indiana's Jackson 10.35, Thompson 10.31, Williams 10.1 and Rivers 10.0.

Award winners and all-Americans

The 6-3 Lawrence won the Wade Trophy, awarded annually since 1978 to the outstanding senior women's college player. Southern California sophomore Cheryl Miller was awarded the second annual Naismith Trophy. The 10-woman all-America first team chosen by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association included Lawrence, Miller, Auburn's Jackson, Pam McGee, Stephens, Walker, Cheney's Yolanda Laney, North Carolina's Tresa Brown, Georgia's Janet Harris and Texas' Annette Smith. The five-woman Naismith first team included Lawrence, Miller, Harris, Old Dominion's Medina Dixon and Louisiana Tech's 5-4 Kim Mulkey, first recipient of the Frances Pomeroy Naismith-Hall

California schools favored in men's tennis

No NCAA championship can match Division I men's tennis for tradition. This year's tournament, May 12-20 in Athens, Georgia, is the 100th National Collegiate Tennis Championships.

And, true to form, this year's championships likely will be dominated by the traditional powers. Upsets and successful underdogs have been uncommon in Division I men's tennis.

If any team other than Southern California, UCLA or Stanford wins the team title this year, it will be an upset of major proportions. That trio not only occupies the top three spots in the latest national rankings but has dominated recent Division I championships.

Only once since 1959—Trinity (Texas) in 1972—has one of the three California powers not won the team title. UCLA (14), Southern Cal (12) and Stanford (7) have won by far the most championships since a team title was first decided in 1946. Otherwise, only William and Mary, with two, has won more than one Division I championship.

Southern Cal defeated UCLA, 5-4, April 6 to move past the Bruins into the No. 1 ranking in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association poll. The Bruins won an earlier dual by the same score, and the two are scheduled to meet again May 5. Defending champion Stanford has the No. 3 ranking, just ahead of Pepperdine and Trinity.

Leading the Trojans have been Ricky Leach, Matt Anger and Todd Witsken, ranked sixth, seventh and eight, respectively, in the national singles ratings. Leach and Tim Pawsat are the nation's top-ranked doubles team; Witsken and Jorge Lozano are ranked second.

UCLA's top singles players are Michael Kures, ranked 10th, and Jeff Klaparda (12th). Dan Goldie (16th) and Eric Rosenfeld (20th) are Stanford's top players.

While the team championship may follow a familiar pattern, the singles championship often is less predictable. Tennessee's Paul Annacone has been rated No. 1 all season, but he is likely to face stiff competition from the four players just behind him in the rankings—Jonny Levine, Texas; Frederick Pahlett, Minnesota; Michael Pernfors, Georgia, and Lawson Duncan, Clemson. Pahlett, a sophomore from Sweden, was a surprise runner-up last spring, losing to Utah's Greg Holmes in the final. Holmes has turned professional.

Others who could be factors in the singles championship include Kelly Evernden, Arkansas; Ted Farnsworth, Princeton; Paul Chamberlain, Arizona; John Ross, Southern Methodist, and Roberto Saad, Wichita State.

Annacone also could be a factor in doubles, along with partner Mark Herrington. Pernfors and Allen Miller from Georgia and Jerome Jones and Kelly Jones of Pepperdine are other doubles teams to watch.

Division II

If Division I seems tradition-bound, Division II is almost automatic.

Southern Illinois-Edwardsville will be shooting for its seventh straight team title in the 1984 NCAA Division II Men's Tennis Championships May 7-13 in San Marcos, Texas. And, based on this season's play, there is little reason to doubt that the Cougars' domination will continue.

Coach Kent DeMars' squad was a solid No. 1 choice in the latest Division II rankings and was ranked 18th nationally. Six Cougars were ranked in the division's top 25 singles players, led by Young Min Kwon (No. 1), Johan Sjogren (third) and Dave Delsini (fifth). Sjogren and Delsini are the division's top-ranked doubles team.

Stephen F. Austin State and Southwest Texas State, which will host the championships, were ranked second and third, respectively. Hampton Institute and Chapman round out the top five.

Sandwiched between Kwon and Sjogren in the singles rankings is Ferris State's Scott Appledorn, last year's runner-up. Other top singles players include Troy Turnbull, Chapman; Mike DeFranco, Central Florida; Jens Caap, Mercyhurst; Steve Riza, Stephen F. Austin State; Godwin Emeh, Hampton Institute, and Rob Pritzkow, Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo.

Riza and partner Herb Waters are ranked second in doubles, followed by Pritzkow and Randy Havens and Cal State Hayward's Rolf Wiedemeyer and Brian Mehmedbasich.

Division III

Defending champion Redlands has overcome heavy graduation losses and will be a cofavorite with Swarthmore in the NCAA Division III Men's Tennis Championships May 7-13 at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia.

Redlands boasts the division's top-rated singles player in junior college transfer Kevin Gillette. Gillette also teams with Karl Behring to form the division's No. 1 doubles tandem. Other key performers are Scott Moore, ranked eighth in singles, and Rich Frederick.

Swarthmore is ranked No. 1, thanks to strong play from Steve Brown, ranked third in singles, and the doubles team of Rick Van Den Bergh and Eric Prothero, ranked second. Jeff Krieger also has been a force for the Little Quakers.

Trailing Swarthmore and Redlands in the team rankings are Kalamazoo, Gustavus Adolphus and UC San Diego. Claremont-Mudd-Scripps and California-Santa Cruz also could be factors in the team championship.

Each of those challengers features at least one leading singles player: Eugene Jones, UC San Diego (ranked second); Tim Corwin, Kalamazoo (fourth); Scott Buss, California-Santa Cruz (fifth); Mark Nys, Claremont-Mudd-Scripps (sixth), and Duke Paluch, Gustavus Adolphus (15th). Others in the top 10 are Steve Paulsen, St. Olaf (seventh); Mike Ach, St. Thomas (ninth), and Conrad Frey, Lynchburg (10th).

Jones and Dan Beers could threaten the top Redlands and Swarthmore doubles teams, as could Paluch and Mark Kruger and Nys and Alex Cloth.

Cal State Northridge tries for repeat title

Can Cal State Northridge do it again?

The Matadors won the 1983 NCAA Division II Women's Softball Championship after finishing second in 1982, and they have a two-year streak of 64 consecutive innings without allowing an earned run in the finals-series play. As the 1984 tournament approaches, Northridge is the favorite.

Pitcher Kathy Slaten is a major reason for the Matadors' ranking. Slaten, a sophomore, hurled six shutouts and allowed five hits in 42 innings last year; two of her victories were no-hitters.

Last year's other finalist again could be Northridge's toughest competition. Sam Houston State (second place in 1983, champion in 1982), Stephen F. Austin State (third place) and Sacred Heart (fourth place) are among the division's top five teams. The newcomer is Akron, with one of the nation's top hitters—shortstop Kay Piper.

First-round games will be played May 11-12 at four campus sites. Winners will advance to the finals May 18-20 at Augustana College in Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Four of the eight participants will qualify automatically as conference winners. Current leaders include Southeast Missouri State (Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association), Augustana (North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conference), California-Davis (Northern California Athletic Conference) and Sacred Heart (New England Collegiate Conference).

Leading contenders by region, with won-lost records through April 26, include:

West—Cal State Northridge (39-12), California-Riverside (29-6), Chapman (32-21) and Cal State Chico (20-11).

Northeast—Sacred Heart (29-3), Quinnipiac (14-5) and Springfield (13-9).

Midwest—Minnesota-Duluth (11-0) and Augustana (12-4).

Mid-Atlantic—Akron (35-1), Bloomsburg (21-2), Slippery Rock (11-2) and Shippensburg (16-2).

South—Stephen F. Austin State (30-10), Sam Houston State (27-15), Mississippi University for Women (13-0) and Kentucky Wesleyan (11-7).

Central—Southern Illinois-Edwardsville (26-5), Wayne State (Michigan) (22-11-1), Southeast Missouri State (12-3) and Northwest Missouri State (17-8).

Southern Illinois-Edwardsville's Johan Sjogren

Trinity, Stanford top women's tennis field

Trinity (Texas) and Stanford will enter the 1984 NCAA Division I Women's Tennis Championships as favorites, but do not write off the rest of the field.

Stanford was the nation's top-ranked team in the preseason, but Trinity passed the Cardinal in the latest Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association poll, released April 9. Only two votes separated the pair, and both are traditional powers—Trinity finished second in last year's team championship, and Stanford won the 1982 title and finished fourth last spring.

Not too far back are Miami (Florida), UCLA and San Diego State, ranked third through fifth, respectively. UCLA will serve as host for the championships May 12-20.

Also prominent are defending champion Southern California, Pepperdine, Texas, Southern Methodist and Northwestern.

Southern Cal's chances of repeating as team titlist suffered an off-season blow when Beth Herr, last year's singles champion as a freshman, turned pro. Hoping to capture Herr's title will be Trinity's highly ranked pair of Gretchen Rush and Louise Allen, ranked first and fifth, respectively. They also are the top-ranked team and defending doubles champions.

Stanford also has highly ranked Patty Fendick, third, and veteran Linda Gates, fourth. Southern Cal sophomore Heliane Steden, ranked second, has been surprising, rising from 24th in the preseason. Her teammates Cheryl Jones and Kelly Henry are ranked eighth and 10th, respectively. Other prominent singles players include Lisa Spain, Georgia; Elizabeth Minter, UCLA, and Kathleen Cummings, Texas.

Behind Rush and Allen in doubles ratings are Cynthia MacGregor-Linda Howell, San Diego State; Kate Gompert-Michelle Weiss, Stanford; Lise Gregory-Marlin Noriega, Miami (Florida), and Trinity's No. 2 team of Karen Denman-Jana Klepac.

Division II

Tennessee-Chattanooga, with a 26-3 dual-match record, the No. 1 seed and the home-court advantage, will be favored to defend its team title in the 1984 NCAA Division II Women's Tennis Championships May 7-12.

The Lady Moccasins swept all three doubles matches in last year's team championship, coming from behind for a 5-4 victory over California-Davis. Cal-Davis, the No. 2 seed this year, again looms as a serious challenger. Also seeded were Morehead State, No. 3, and Notre Dame, No. 4.

In singles competition, defending champion Suzanne Kuhlman of Georgetown is gone, but last year's runner-up, Sandra Elliott of Northern Colorado, is back. Cal-Davis' Helen Nazar, a semifinalist last year, and Cal Poly-Pomona's Mary Holycross, a quarterfinalist in 1983, are top returnees.

Elliott was a doubles titlist last spring but is paired this season with a new partner, Kellie O'Rourke.

Here are the teams (with season dual-match records in parentheses) and individuals selected for the 1984 tournaments:

Team championship—Tennessee-Chattanooga (26-3) vs. Radford (19-5); California-Davis (13-3) vs. Stetson (16-12); Morehead State (23-5) vs. Southern Illinois-Edwardsville (21-3); Notre Dame (22-3) vs. Denver (16-10).

Singles championship Sandra Elliott, Northern Colorado; Helen Nazar, California-Davis; Missy Conn, Cal State Northridge; Laura Slade, Idaho State; Kim Daus, Denver; Debbie Jung, Cal Poly-Pomona; Mary Holycross, Cal Poly-Pomona; Robin Cloverdale, Montana State.

Laurie Moss, Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo; Maria Newton, California-Davis; Sally Garheff, California-Davis; Diane Miloslavich, San Francisco State; Dawn Furfeth, San Francisco State; Sue McCulloch, Tennessee-Chattanooga; Judy Kniffen, Abilene Christian; Pam Yates, Tennessee-Chattanooga.

Allison Avey, Florida Southern; Sharon Swanberry, Stetson; Lois Jackson, Florida International; Betsy Broadwater, Florida Southern; Kathy Federici, Georgetown; Christine Nelson, Radford; Dawn Cocozza, Central Connecticut State; Justine Landis, Bloomsburg.

Division III

One thing will be certain when the 1984 NCAA Division III Women's Tennis Championships are held May 7-12 at Kalamazoo, Michigan—there will not be a repeating team champion.

Defending champion Principia, which had heavy graduation losses, was not selected for this year's team competition; neither was runner-up North Carolina-Greensboro.

That could open the door for 1982 champion and 1983 third-place finisher Occidental. The Tigers boast defending singles champion Jean Marie Sanders.

Challenging Occidental will be UC San Diego, Pomona-Pitzer, Mary Washington, Davidson, Luther, Trenton State and William Paterson. Team seeding will be done May 6. The team championship again will be flighted, rather than dual matches.

Hoping to dethrone Sanders will be Nancy Sharkey of William Paterson, a 6-2, 7-5 loser to Sanders in last year's singles semifinals, and Laurie Laughlin of Southwestern (Tennessee), whom Sanders defeated, 6-1, 6-1, in the finals. Claire Slaughter, Trinity (Connecticut), is the fourth returning semifinalist.

The doubles championship appears to be up for grabs, though Sanders and partner Kristin Carter should be highly seeded.

Here are the teams (with season dual-match records in parentheses) and individuals selected for the 1984 championship:

Team championship—UC San Diego (18-7); Davidson (17-6); Luther (27-1); Mary Washington (20-4); Occidental (17-7); Pomona-Pitzer (18-6); Trenton State (17-2); William Paterson (12-5).

Singles championship: Jean Marie Sanders, Occidental; Kristin Carter, Occidental; Cathy Sturdivant, UC San Diego; Jessica Vernon, UC San Diego; Nadine Akimoto, UC San Diego; Suzanne Katleman, Claremont-Mudd-Scripps; Pam Noble, La Verne; Nancy Sharkey, William Paterson.

Claire Slaughter, Trinity (Connecticut); Yvette Waggonson, Fairleigh Dickinson-Madison; Tory Thomas, Allegheny; Kim Hatten, Dickinson; Bonnie Locdel, Binghamton;

Tennessee-Chattanooga's Christine Picher

Laura Parker, Vassar; Aileen Smith, Wheaton (Massachusetts); Courtney Allen, Principia.

Division III women's softball

Trenton State to defend title

The 1984 NCAA Division III Women's Softball Championship could be a lot like the 1983 tournament.

Trenton State won in 1983, relinquishing only two runs in 57 innings. The Lions are favored to repeat.

The top four teams in a recent ranking by the Division III subcommittee of the Women's Softball Committee were among the six finalists a year ago.

Regional competition begins May 11-12 at six campus sites. The finals series will be May 19-22 at St. Norbert College in DePere, Wisconsin.

Pitchers Gina LaMandre and Robin Payne, who combined for Trenton State's seven tournament victories last year, return for coach June Walker's powerhouse. The only run LaMandre allowed in 37 2/3 innings was in a 1-0 loss to Buena Vista. Payne then made Buena Vista a victim with a two-hit shutout in the title game. All-America first baseman Karen Youngman also is back.

Chanel Finzen, who bested LaMandre in that duel, is one reason Buena Vista is a championship contender. Eastern Connecticut State and Allegheny, 1983 finalists, are among this year's best.

Buena Vista is the current leader in the Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, one of three leagues whose champions qualify automatically. Other conference leaders are Trenton State (Jersey Athletic Conference) and Bridgewater State (Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference).

Top contenders, by regions, include:

New England—Eastern Connecticut State, Bridgewater State (Massachusetts) and Salem State.

East—Cortland State and Ithaca.

Midwest—Allegheny, Calvin, Scranton and Ohio Northern.

South—Trenton State, Montclair State, Salisbury State and Stockton State.

Central—Wisconsin-Whitewater, Illinois Benedictine and Concordia (Illinois).

West—Buena Vista, Augsburg, La Verne and UC San Diego.

Unbeaten Maryland heads women's lacrosse

Maryland, undefeated in its first 10 games, is the early favorite to unseat Delaware as the NCAA women's lacrosse champion. The road to that title begins with first-round games May 9 and concludes May 20 with the championship final at Boston University.

Under coach Sue Tyler, Maryland advanced to the quarterfinals a year ago. Through mid-April, the Terrapins had victories over powerful Penn State and Temple and a tie with defending champion Delaware.

"I believe if we met again, we could come out on top," said Tyler, referring to the Delaware contest. "In our wins against Temple and Penn State, we got an early lead and were able to struggle through the rest of the game. Penn State is one of the strongest teams I have ever seen."

Tyler said her defense has played beyond preseason expectations. "Considering we play a freshman, two sophomores and two seniors, they have played very well. I believe we have the best man-to-man defense in the country right now." That defense was able to thwart a rally by top-ranked Penn State for a 9-8 victory. Penn State coach Gillian Rattray's team had defeated Delaware, Temple and Massachusetts en route to eight straight victories before the Maryland loss.

The biggest surprise for Penn State has been senior Laurie Gray, a walk-on who has scored 38 goals with 18 assists through nine games.

She had a three-goal (including the game-winning goal) performance in a 6-5 victory over Temple; seven goals in the Delaware victory, and six of her squad's eight goals in the loss to Maryland. In the play-offs, Gray could be a key because of her past performances under pressure.

Delaware senior Karen Emas is another clutch performer, and she will be a catalyst in the Blue Hens' effort to make the play-offs. With losses to Penn State and Temple and the tie with Maryland, Delaware coach Janet Smith was expecting her team to relax.

"Our problems in the games we have not performed well in have been psychological," Smith explained. "We have to learn to relax. We have a good passing-game offense, and when we allow ourselves to play that game, we are very good. The bad games have happened when we were not getting into that type of game very well."

Losses to Penn State and Maryland are the only blemishes on Temple's record after 12 games, and the Owls should be a challenger for a spot in the final four.

Marie Schmucker, Sue Yeager and Kathleen Barrett have provided most of the scoring, while Chris Muller has played well in goal. Schmucker leads all Temple scorers with 43 goals and 11 assists; Yeager has scored 33 times and contributed 11 assists, and Barrett has 38 goals and four assists.

Through 12 games, Muller had stopped 86 opponent shots while giving up only 45 goals, a 3.75 goals-against average.

After advancing to the second round last year, Harvard has lost only to Maryland, 9-2, in nine games.

Senior Maggie Hart has piled up 32 goals with eight assists, and Lisa Hart, a junior, has added 21 goals and six assists.

Polly Keener has filled in for Pam Hixon at Massachusetts while Hixon has been preparing for Olympic field hockey competition. Massachusetts has struggled to a 3-3 record, but Pam Moryl (20 goals and nine assists) and Linda Haytayan (11 goals, five assists) make the Minutewomen a threat in postseason competition.

In the Midwest, Northwestern has a 7-2 record, the Wildcats' only losses coming to Pennsylvania and Temple. The Wildcats are led by attackers Lisa Griswold (28 goals, three assists) and Kathleen Kochmanky (34 goals, two assists), while defender Leslie LaFronz and goalkeeper Jane Billeter have helped shut down opponents.

"We see ourselves with a legitimate shot to make it to the final four," said coach Cindy Timchal, who is heading a program that was started only three years ago.

All of the contenders have knocked off each other, with one exception. Maryland got through the toughest part of the season virtually unscathed.

Hobart remains top-ranked team in lacrosse despite .500 start

The road to the 1984 Division III Men's Lacrosse Championship will include a play-off stop at Hobart College in Geneva, New York; but for the first time in four years, the journey to the top of the mountain may not end there for the visiting team.

"When we started the season, I thought this might be the year we would not play at home at the end of the season," said Hobart coach Dave Urlick. The Statesmen still were the division's top-ranked team through eight games despite a .500 record, and many observers believe Hobart is the team to beat.

"I believe the tournament this year will be wide open, and I'm not just saying that," Urlick countered. "Just about anybody can win the thing, and there are some very good teams in the division this year."

Urlick's squad must be considered one of the best, despite four losses. Two defeats were by defending Division I champion Syracuse; the second game, played in mid-April, still has Urlick excited.

"That game, especially the first half, was the best exhibition of lacrosse by two teams that I have seen in a long time. The first half was very fast-paced, highly skilled lacrosse. We had 6,200 people jammed into our stadium that day, and I know none of them left disappointed."

Urlick, however, sounded a little disappointed; no Hobart team has lost half of its first eight games since 1959. "If you lose and play well, you have to learn to live with that. But if you lose because you were doing some things wrong, you have to work on getting those things fixed."

Four Statesmen have provided the scoring punch for Hobart. Through eight games, the scoring leaders are Marc Van Arsdale (19 goals, 19 assists), Tom Grimaldi (20 goals, 10 assists), Cal Harris (13 goals, 10 assists) and Joe Reagan (16 goals, six assists).

Chuck Warren has done most of the goaltending, giving up 76 goals with 108 saves—a goals-against average of 11.1 and a save percentage of .587.

Washington (Maryland) coach Terry Corcoran has the Sho'men ready for the play-offs, which begin May 9 and end May 19 on the campus of one of the finalists.

Washington put together a 7-4 record through mid-April, based mainly on the goaltending of senior Greg Baker. Some Division III followers compare Baker to Hobart's Guy Van Arsdale, who was the division's top goalie until his graduation last year. Baker has a .668 save percentage.

Tom Gaines, Ricky Sowell and Walker Taylor have solidified the Sho'men attack. Defensively, Steve Beville, Mike Cranston and Eric Geringswald have played well.

Salisbury State has won 11 of its 12 games. Steve Hurley leads the offense with 31 goals and 25 assists.

Jim Huelskam has scored 21 times and added 15 assists for the Sea Gulls. Roger Koch has 12 goals and 16 assists, and Rob Clark has 26 goals and 11 assists. The defensive help comes from goalkeeper Kevin McFarlin, who has recorded 170 saves in 12 games.

Roanoke, like Hobart, has a .500 record. The Maroons had to replace all-America attackers Paul Goldsmith and Sean Smith.

Willie Benassi (20 goals, 14 assists) and Rocco Guglielmo (17 goals, five assists) have taken up most of the slack.

Mark McWright has added 14 goals with three assists, and goalie Bill Pilat has saved 123 shots for a .654 average. Roanoke has faced a tough schedule and should not be counted out as the play-offs begin.

First-year coach Jerry Casciani has Cortland State battling for a spot in the play-offs. "We have had some injury problems on offense, but that is getting better," Casciani explained. "Our defense has improved tremendously, and we have been playing better. I know our team is hungry to get to the play-offs, but we have some tough games to play between now and then."

Rochester Institute of Technology has parlayed the scoring punch of Bill Bjorness and the goalkeeping of Andy Demetres into a 7-1 record. Only a sophomore, Bjorness has 24 goals and 22 assists, and Demetres is 6-1 with a .594 save percentage.

Ohio Wesleyan should make the play-offs again. Coach Jay Martin's squad was 11-2 through mid-April. Other squads with play-off potential include Ithaca, St. Lawrence and Middlebury.

Bud Jack of Utah wins Corbett Award

James R. "Bud" Jack, assistant vice-president for athletics development at the University of Utah, is the recipient of the 1984 James J. Corbett Award. The award, sponsored by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA), will be presented June 11 during NACDA's annual convention.

Jack's 38 years of leadership in intercollegiate athletics has included a variety of achievements in national and international sports. At Utah, Jack also has served as ticket manager, assistant director of athletics and director of athletics. He was instrumental in the formation of the Western Athletic Conference in 1962 and has served on numerous NCAA committees. He was chair of the NCAA Postseason Football Committee (then known as the Extra Events Committee) from 1962 to 1964.

A member of NACDA's original Executive Committee, Jack was the Association's president in 1971-72. In 1977, he was elected into the NACDA Hall of Fame, and in 1982 he received the inaugural NIT-NACDA Athletic Directors Award.

Jack was a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee from 1964 to 1980. He served as transportation chair for the Winter and Summer Olympics in 1972 and 1976. He was named U.S. chief of mission for the boycotted 1980 games in Moscow.

During Jack's tenure as director of athletics at Utah, the university constructed the 15,000-seat Special Events Center and a health, physical education and recreation multibuilding complex. Rice Stadium, home of the Utah football team, was renovated for the first time in two decades.

"I feel deeply honored to follow in the footsteps and be in the company of previous James J. Corbett Award recipients," Jack said. "Receiving this honor motivates me to an even greater commitment to intercollegiate athletics."

Wiles Hallock, former executive director of the Pacific-10 Conference, was the 1983 Corbett winner.

Deadline for petitions to change classification is June 1

Deadline for receipt of petitions to change classification by member institutions is June 1. The petitions must be received in the NCAA national office by June 1 or must be postmarked no later than May 25.

The petitions for changes in division membership or multisport classifications as dictated by the provisions of Bylaws 10-3 and 10-4 will be considered by the Classification

Committee at its July 10 meeting in San Francisco.

The committee will determine if those requesting a change meet the applicable membership criteria, as set forth in Bylaw 11, of the division to which the transfer is planned.

Also, the committee must consider whether the institution has operated in conformity with all other bylaw requirements of the division for a

Rules on initial eligibility mailed to school principals

Copies of a brochure explaining the requirements of NCAA Bylaws 5-1-(j) and 5-6-(b) have been mailed to principals of approximately 23,000 private and public high schools across the country.

The four-page pamphlet is designed to provide a basic understanding of the provisions of the two bylaws (sometimes referred to as "Proposal No. 48"), which will become effective in 1986.

A memorandum from NCAA President John L. Toner, which accompanies the brochure, states that the NCAA Council "believes it is important that potential Division I student-athletes receive correct advice about the standards that must be met for initial eligibility."

The memorandum requests that principals "share this information with your students and the persons from whom they seek advice, such as high school counselors, coaches, teachers and parents."

Under the new criteria, an entering student-athlete will be required to meet both a minimum 2.000 high school grade-point average in 11 college-preparatory courses and a minimum combined score of 700 on the SAT verbal and math sections or a minimum 15 composite score on the ACT to be eligible to participate in intercollegiate athletics or to receive an athletics grant-in-aid as a freshman.

The brochure includes an explanation of the new requirements, definition of a core course, grade values and the method of determining grade-point averages, and interpretations.

two-year period prior to June 1.

If all requirements are met, the member will be transferred to the new division effective September 1, 1984, or the beginning of practice in any sport for that fall term or the first day of classes for that fall term, whichever occurs first.

Institutions choosing to change division membership or multisport classification must remain in the new division for three years. The committee also will consider applications for new membership.

Any institution planning a change in membership classification or multisport classification in a men's or women's sport may obtain a copy of the official petition form by contacting Shirley Whitacre, membership coordinator, at the national office.

Summary of NCAA Council Actions

Following is a listing of all actions taken by the NCAA Council in its April 16-18, 1984, meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

Interpretations

All new or revised interpretations approved by the Council will appear in The NCAA News, which constitutes official circularization per Constitution 6-2.

In addition to those, the Council:

Approved a plan by which intercollegiate ice hockey could receive funds from professional ice hockey under the provisions of Case No. 2.

Ruled that a transfer student under the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(k)-(i) must have met all graduation requirements at the junior college before transferring and being immediately eligible.

Concluded that a member institution may permit a student-athlete to use required equipment (e.g., a computer) if the item is required of all students and consider such use as part of the athletics grant-in-aid, but it may not permit eventual possession of the item by the student-athlete.

Agreed with the Division III Steering Committee that club teams and junior colleges should not be counted in determining compliance with that division's scheduling criteria.

Approved the Division I Steering Committee's denial of a request by the Pacific-10 Conference that it be permitted to continue using for one term only a conference exception to the satisfactory-progress rule.

Affirmed that a Division I-A institution must submit its audited paid football attendance figures for receipt in the NCAA national office not later than February 15 after completion of the football season; agreed that the national office should respond to those submissions within one month.

Ruled that a high school or junior college coach employed by a Division II or III institution per Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(3) must be under contract or employment agreement for not less than one academic year, although the institution is permitted to confine its compensation to such coach to a shorter period, such as a sport season.

Membership

The Council and division steering committees took the following actions regarding membership applications and requests:

Elected the College Field Hockey Coaches Association and the National Softball Coaches Association to affiliated membership, effective immediately.

Elected the Gulf Star Conference to allied membership in Division I, effective immediately.

Granted a request by the College of William and Mary for an exception to the three-year membership requirement to permit the institution to reclassify its women's basketball program in Division I.

Approved continuation of the use of a non-NCAA sport at seven Division I institutions and one Division II institution per Bylaw 11-4-(b)-(7).

Denied a request by Guilford College, an applicant institution, for a geographical waiver per Bylaw 11-2-(g); requested additional information regarding similar requests by the University of Puget Sound and Southern Oregon State College.

Reviewed the current status of eight institutions that earlier had received geographical waivers per Bylaw 11-2-(g).

Approved continuation of the consortium membership of Pomona-Pitzer Colleges.

Granted a request by the University of San Diego for a geographical waiver of the Division III football scheduling criterion.

Reviewed the current status of two institutions that earlier had received geographical waivers per Bylaw 11-3-(f).

Legislation

The Council voted to resubmit for the 1985 Convention the following proposals that were defeated or not considered at the 1984 Convention:

A revised version of 1984 Proposal No. 12, to alter the membership of the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports.

Proposal No. 43, to delete the opportunity for allied members to vote on NCAA legislation.

Proposal No. 49, to move the definition of commonly accepted educational expenses from the constitution to the bylaws. The Division II Steering Committee asked that the matter be reviewed in the August Council meeting.

Proposal No. 123, to establish limitations on playing seasons and numbers of contests or dates of competition in all sports in all divisions, noting that the proposal will be studied and may be revised by the Council and steering committees.

Proposal Nos. 135 and 136, affirming the existing limit on the soccer playing season and clarifying the limit on postseason practice in that sport.

Proposal No. 140, prohibiting member institutions from conducting practice in football and basketball at sites other than those regularly utilized by the institution, with appropriate exception opportunities.

Proposal No. 146, expanding the Division I-AA preseason football orientation period from two days to four days.

Proposal No. 149, to eliminate part-time assistant coaches and reduce the number of full-time assistant coaches from eight to seven in Division I-AA football, with an exception to permit part-time coaches at institutions that do not allow freshmen to compete on the varsity and conduct freshman competition instead.

Proposal No. 157, permitting the Postseason Football Committee to impose fines on bowl-game managements that fail to comply with the provisions of Bylaws 2-2-(a) through (i) and (l) through (o).

Proposal No. 158, precluding the use of institutional facilities by noncertified college all-star football or basketball contests.

In other actions regarding 1984 Convention proposals, the Council:

Referred Proposal No. 37, which would permit legislative autonomy for Division I-A and for the remainder of Division I, to the NCAA Presidents' Commission and to the Division I summer meeting and the Division I-A midyear legislative meeting.

Agreed not to resubmit Proposal No. 86, dealing with eligibility for the Division III Football Championship, inasmuch as an alternative proposal was adopted at the 1984 Convention.

Agreed that the portion of Proposal No. 97 dealing with a prohibition on all in-person recruiting contact during an 84-hour period surrounding the National Letter of Intent signing date should be considered by the Council after it is reviewed by the Division I summer meeting and the Division I-A midyear legislative meeting.

Noted that the Special Committee on Player Agents would submit a recommendation regarding Proposal No. 119, which would have permitted a student-athlete to borrow against his or her future earnings potential as a professional athlete in order to purchase disability insurance.

Agreed to consider legislation in August to establish a permanent NCAA women's basketball rules committee and to apply the provisions of Bylaw 3-5 to NCAA women's basketball rules, per 1984 Convention Proposal No. 166.

The Council voted to sponsor the following legislation at the 1985 Convention:

A comprehensive revision of the tryout and camp and clinic legislation [Bylaw 1-6 and a new Bylaw 1-7], including a restriction of the application of the tryout rule to those individuals who have begun classes for the ninth grade or have attained their 15th birthdays; a clarification of the physical activities involving prospective student-athletes that are permitted under Bylaw 1-6 (c) or that can be approved by the Council; a restriction of the prohibition against high school contests being held in conjunction with collegiate contests to limit the prohibition to basketball, football, gymnastics and volleyball, and an effort to incorporate the current requirements regarding camps and clinics into a new Bylaw 1-7.

An amendment to Constitution 6-4-(a) to specify that only the chief executive officer of an active member institution or the CEO's designated representative is entitled to submit a resolution, and to require sponsorship of a resolution by at least six active members.

An amendment to Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(i)(iii), recommended by the Southwest Athletic Conference, to prohibit in Divisions I and II institutions the issuance of institutional or conference financial aid agreements prior to the initial signing date stipulated for the sport in the National Letter of Intent program and to apply that legislation to all sports, rather than only to football and basketball.

An amendment to Bylaw 3-3-(d) to permit member institutions to participate in Puerto Rico against or under the sponsorship of a member institution located in Puerto Rico without that competition counting as a contest for purposes of Bylaw 3-3-(a).

An amendment to Bylaw 12-3-(u) to increase the Public Relations and Promotion Committee from eight members to nine and to designate the sports information director from the NCAA president's institution as an ex officio member.

An amendment to Constitution 3-9-(b)-(l)-(ii) to affirm that individuals associated with collegiate institutions are not permitted to serve on the staffs of NCAA-approved summer basketball leagues or the teams in those leagues and are not permitted to participate in approved leagues.

An amendment to Constitution 3-9-(b)-(l)-(v) to clarify that a summer basketball league approved by the NCAA shall not generate revenue from raffles or similar activities, over-the-air or cable television rights fees, or radio rights fees.

[Note: The Council voted to sponsor certain additional legislative proposals in the reports of various NCAA committees, as noted later in this summary.]

Appointments

The Council appointed the Nominating Committee and Men's and Women's Committees on Committees as reported elsewhere in this issue of The NCAA News.

Noting concerns regarding equitable minority representation on NCAA committees, the Council voted to urge each appointing agency in the Association to consider appropriate minority representation when making appointments to NCAA committees.

The Council elected Kathleen M. Wear, La Salle College, to replace Eve Atkinson on the Council, as reported elsewhere in this issue.

Presidents' Commission

As reported in detail in the April 25 issue of The NCAA News, the Council endorsed a series of principles regarding relationships between the Council and the new Presidents' Commission and approved several referrals and related documents for submission to the Commission.

Committee Reports

Convention Operations: The Council noted that the Executive Committee will act in its May 7-8 meeting on the committee's recommendations regarding Convention arrangements and procedures, including the use of a card system or "mark sense" system for roll-call voting.

The special committee will submit legislation to require the support of 50 delegates to mandate a count of a paddle vote, rather than the request from a single delegate that has been recognized in the past. The committee also will suggest legislation to permit voting in a division round table on matters applying only to that division.

Academic Testing and Requirements: In response to a recommendation that the declaration of a major for purposes of the satisfactory-progress rule must occur prior to the third season of competition or the seventh semester or 10th quarter of collegiate attendance, whichever occurs first, the Council affirmed the current interpretation (major must be declared by start of fifth semester or seventh quarter) and agreed to sponsor legislation at the 1985 Convention to enable the membership to determine the interpretation it desires.

As recommended by the committee, Case No. 319 will be revised to replace references to declaring a major with references to a "designated program of studies leading to a baccalaureate degree."

The committee recommended six "situational" interpretations of Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(6), and the Council supported five of them. The Council will consider legislation to implement the sixth recommendation, which would apply Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(6) and Case No. 319 to the eligibility of a junior college transfer upon enrollment at the certifying institution.

The Council agreed to resubmit Proposal No. 26, defeated by the 1984 Convention. In addition, the Council will sponsor an amendment to Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(8)-(i) to require a junior college transfer who was a 2,000 qualifier and who graduated from the junior college to have satisfactorily completed a minimum of 48 semester or 72 quarter hours of transferable degree credit acceptable toward a baccalaureate degree program for the student-athlete at the certifying institution.

The Council supported an increase from 43.6 to 45 in the minimum GED test score required to satisfy the 2,000 legislation, effective August 1, 1984.

It was agreed that the Association should lend appropriate support to the National Association of Collegiate Admissions Counselors in promoting its motivational pamphlet for students but should not provide financing for the project.

The Council declined to support a committee recommendation that a representative of the National Athletic Academic Advisors Association be appointed to the committee, either as a regular position or as an ex officio member. The Council noted that it can appoint members of that organization to the committee in the normal appointment procedures, if it desires, and that one member of the organization currently serves on the committee.

Drug Testing: The Council endorsed a drug-testing plan for championships and campus sites, as reported in detail in the April 25 issue of The NCAA News.

Infractions: The Council agreed to sponsor legislation at the 1985 Convention to include in the official enforcement procedure any procedures regarding infractions appeals to the Council that are not included currently.

The Council will sponsor legislation to delete Bylaws 2-2-(j) and (k), which set forth the date on which invitations to participate in bowl games can be extended and accepted. It asked the Postseason Football Committee to discuss possible standards in that regard for inclusion in the committee's bowl-game certification procedure.

Insurance: The Council approved an exception for one year to the requirement that seven percent of NCAA member institutions participate in an Association insurance program for it to continue to be offered, thus enabling the Association to make available to the membership in 1984-85 the travel accident and loss-of-revenue insurance programs.

The Council also noted that the proposed NCAA catastrophic injury insurance program would not be available for 1984-85 inasmuch as all contractual commitments from necessary parties were not in place and the policy form had not been approved by the Missouri insurance department. The committee will continue to pursue such a program.

Long Range Planning: The Council directed the Administrative Committee to assure that the faculty representatives handbook initiated some three years ago will be completed this year.

Reports from NCAA sports committees

Women's Gymnastics

Future championships sites were determined by the Women's Gymnastics Committee in its April 23-26 meeting in Kansas City. All championships matters must be approved by the NCAA Executive Committee.

The future sites include: 1986 Division I championships, University of Florida, April 4-5; 1985 Division I regionals—Oregon State University (West); Arizona State University (Midwest); University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa (Central); University of Georgia (South)—all March 30. The Northeast regional site will be determined later.

In other championships matters, the committee has recommended that qualifications for the Division I regionals be based on the average of the five best regular-season meet scores, of which two must be home and two must be away. The current qualification base, which will be retained for Division II competition, is the average of the four best regular-season meet scores, of which one must be home and one must be away.

A survey of Divisions II and III head coaches and primary women athletics administrators will be conducted to determine the possibility of changing regional qualification guidelines for the Division II championships.

The committee also recommended that the tie-breaking procedures currently used in national-championships competition be eliminated, thereby allowing ties to stand. Ties involving qualifications for the sixth berth in regional competition would be broken by using the next highest regular-season meet score.

In a financial matter, the committee recommended that the head coach of a full team that qualifies for the Division I or Division II championships receive transportation expenses.

The following actions, which do not involve Executive Committee approval, also were taken:

- The cut-off date for regional-qualifying scores has been moved to the Saturday, rather than the Sunday, before regionals. In 1985, this will be March 23 for Division I and March 9 for Division II.

- The committee agreed to make no exceptions to the United States Gymnastics Federation Class 1-B rules of competition for the 1984-85 season; championships will be conducted according to the USGF Class 1-B rules as of October 30, 1984.

- The committee requested that the NCAA Council sponsor legislation at the 1985 Convention to establish a quiet period in recruiting during the Division I championships. The intent is to develop legislation that would prohibit in-person, on- or off-campus recruiting in women's gymnastics by a member of a Division I coaching staff from the Wednesday preceding the Division I championships through noon on Sunday following the championships.

Men's Gymnastics

A recommendation by the Men's Gymnastics Committee to eliminate compulsory competition from the National Collegiate Division I Men's Gymnastics Championships will be forwarded to the NCAA Executive Committee.

All member institutions sponsoring men's gymnastics will compete in one championship beginning in 1984-85, due to elimination of the Division II championships. Elimination of the compulsory competition, which the committee noted has proven to be a financial drain on the championships, would decrease the championships' schedule by one day.

If this recommendation is approved, the dates of the 1985 championships would be April 12-13 (currently April 11-13), and the 1986 championships would be held April 4-5 (currently April 3-5).

The committee, which met April 23-26 in Kansas City, recommended that each team be limited to six entries per event, with the top five scores to be counted toward the team score. Currently, teams are limited to five entries per event with all five scores counted.

To offset the loss of the Division II championships, the committee formulated a resolution to assure one individual representative from a Division II or Division III institution in each event at the championships.

In other action, the committee made three decisions involving event apparatus. For 1984-85 competition, the still rings will be raised from 102 to 106 inches to allow taller competitors to perform routines safely.

Padding used in various events has been increased from four inches to five inches in thickness. The committee requested that equipment manufacturers provide three new vaulting boards for use in NCAA championships. One board would be used in the vaulting competition, one would be utilized in practice and the third would be available for possible use in other events.

Karl K. Schier, secretary-rules editor, Pennsylvania State University, and committee member Jeff Cardinali of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy were appointed to develop a comprehensive supplement to the modifications and additions to the International Gymnastics Federation (FIG) Code of Points adopted by the committee in 1980 for production and distribution to member institutions.

Each committee member was asked to study two issues and obtain advice from coaches and athletics administrators in their respective regions.

The first issue involves the potential realignment of regions to reflect the addition of Divisions II and III institutions that now will compete with Division I institutions in a single national championship.

The other topic involved the possibility of moving the date of the championships to later in April.

Men's and Women's Swimming

Swimmers in both dual-meet and championships competition now will be disqualified after one false start. This is one of a number of rules changes made by the NCAA Men's and Women's Swimming Committees April 23-26 in San Diego, California.

Previously, competitors in championships competition were allowed two false starts. All rules changes apply to both men's and women's competition.

Two rules changes were made in the program and order of events for dual and championship meets. In combined men's and women's dual meets, the order for the men's one-meter diving and men's three-meter diving was reversed. The three-meter event now will be event No. 12, and the one-meter event will be No. 22.

The program and order of events for men's championship meets has been modified thusly: event 5, 400-yard medley relay; event 11, 400-yard freestyle relay; event 13, 200-yard butterfly; event 14, 100-yard freestyle; event 15, 200-yard backstroke; event 16, 200-yard breaststroke; event 17, three-meter diving; event 18, 800-yard freestyle relay.

Each committee made several championships recommendations. Most of these recommendations must be approved by the NCAA Executive Committee.

Men's Swimming Committee

The following championships dates and sites were recommended: 1986

Division I championships, Indiana University Natatorium, Indianapolis, Indiana, March 27-29; 1985 Division II championships (common site), University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, North Dakota, March 13-16; 1985 Division III championships, Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, March 21-23.

The committee recommended that team scoring be extended from the top 12 places in each event to the top 16, with awards for each event remaining at six.

If approved by the Executive Committee, participants who have qualified in one event and are on site will be allowed to compete in another event if the field for that event is not full. Determination of extra participants would be based on regular-season times.

Qualifying standards, including degree-of-difficulty standards for Divisions II and III diving competition during the dual-meet season, also were recommended, along with automatic qualification for Division I diving, based on conference and zone allocations.

The committee will consider separate swimming and diving championships, as well as the initiation of a long-course swimming championships event.

The men's committee also recommended a joint effort by the NCAA and United States Swimming to provide a swimming pool certification program.

In a championships-administration matter, member institutions planning to enter individuals and/or teams in NCAA championships meets will be required to use one of the next-day delivery services to expedite the forwarding of entry forms.

Women's Swimming Committee

The women's committee has recommended that a 20-event program be maintained for NCAA championships events for 1985. The committee also selected the University of North Dakota as host for the common-site 1985 Division II Men's and Women's Swimming and Diving Championships and Emory University as host for the 1985 Division III women's championships.

The committee also recommended that team scoring in women's championships events be extended from 12 to 16 places.

Both committees recommended continuation of the current structure of the two bodies; the committees have dual responsibilities for rules and separate responsibilities regarding championships.

Division I Women's Volleyball

The NCAA Division I Women's Volleyball Committee, meeting April 23-26 in Kansas City, Missouri, established seeding procedures and criteria for selecting sites for next year's championship. The committee's recommendations require Executive Committee approval.

The committee recommended that the top four teams be seeded nationally for the championship and that regional pairings be based on seeds.

First-round play (November 29-December 2) and regionals (December 6-9) will be conducted at campus sites. The semifinal, third-place and championship matches are scheduled for December 14-16 at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Site-selection criteria established will be based (not in preferential order) on the quality of facilities, location, potential for financial success, accommodations and transportation. The seeding of teams will not be the determining factor in site selection; it will be considered, however, if other criteria are comparable.

In other action, the following were recommended for automatic qualification for the championship: Atlantic 10 Conference, Big Eight Conference, Big Ten Conference, Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference, High Country Athletic Conference, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, Mid-American Athletic Conference, Mountain West Athletic Conference, Northern Pacific Athletic Conference, Southland Conference and Western Collegiate Athletic Association. Recommendations for automatic qualifications are pending for five additional conferences.

Conferences with automatic qualification will be asked to recommend four officials to work all rounds of the championship. In the past, regional advisers have selected officials.

The committee delayed selecting playing rules for the championship until it evaluates the 1984 editions of National Association of Girls and Women in Sport and United States Volleyball Association rules. A decision will be made in June.

It was recommended that four line judges be used for the championship and that minimum ticket prices be $3 for students, $4 for general admission and $5 for reserved seating.

The weekly 20-team Division I poll will be September 17 to November 26. At-large teams for the championship will be determined by November 25.

Division III Women's Volleyball

A new championship format was adopted by the NCAA Division III Women's Volleyball Committee at its April 23-25 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

The play-off format, which must be approved by the Executive Committee, was preferred by a majority of Division III coaches in a recent survey.

Under the 24-team format, first rounds would be November 16-17 at eight campus sites, with three teams—one of which will receive a bye—at each site. The second round, November 30 to December 1, would be conducted at four campus sites, with two teams at each site, followed by the semifinals, third-place and championship matches. A site for the final four has not been selected.

Campus sites will be selected on the basis of availability of facilities, location with regard to expenses, commercial appeal, receipts and seeded teams.

The committee recommended automatic-qualification privileges for the Chicago Metro Women's Conference, Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, Ohio Athletic Conference and Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Dates also were set for the Division III poll. The top 20 teams will be ranked weekly from September 25 to November 6. Teams selected at large for the championship will be determined November 11.

Wrestling

The NCAA Wrestling Committee eliminated the mandatory stalling warning and clarified a rule to give coaches more freedom when it met April 25-27 in Kansas City, Missouri.

The mandatory stalling warning required referees to warn one wrestler for stalling at the end of the first regulation period if no points or warning had occurred.

"The committee felt that in some cases, referees had to make very difficult judgment calls," Robert Kopnisky, chair of the committee, said. "It is very difficult to make that type of decision if both wrestlers are aggressive and really are not stalling. The committee also felt it (the warning) should not be a determining factor in the outcome of a match in overtime-criteria situations."

Rule 4-9-d was clarified to permit coaches, without penalty, to approach the scorer's table to interpret scoring or bout time.

"Some referees interpreted Rule 4-9-d to mean that they were unapproachable," Kopnisky said. "Referees are only unapproachable on judgment decisions. The rule permits coaches to check on scoring or time so they can be informed about the match."

In other rules deliberations, the committee:

- Adopted the technical-fall rule, which terminates the bout when a wrestler achieves a 15-point differential. A technical fall will be scored the same as a fall.

- Voted to separate the top two wrestlers from a qualifying tournament in the first two rounds of 32-man brackets at NCAA championships.

- Eliminated the undergarment rule.

- Standardized methods for calling falls.

- Clarified the ruling that the 275-pound maximum for heavyweights is in effect for the 1986-87 season.

The committee also agreed to include an Athlete's Code of Ethics and a case-study manual and to expand the index in the next edition of NCAA Wrestling Rules.

In championships matters, the committee established a $25 fine for each protest and a late-entry fine of $100 per individual or $500 per team for failure to return certification-of-eligibility entry forms on time. The protest fine will be reimbursed if the protest is upheld.

The fines must be approved by the Executive Committee and would be in effect for all championships.

"The committee felt the $25 fine was appropriate in view of the increasing number of protests at championships that did not deal with misapplication-of-rules situations," Kopnisky said. "We believe the late-entry fine will discourage coaches from bending the rules. Reprimanding coaches and then allowing their wrestlers to participate in the championships proved to be ineffective in dealing with late-entry problems."

Other recommendations submitted to the Executive Committee included:

- Appealing the Championships Standards Committee directive to reduce the number of participants in the Division II and Division III championships in order to achieve a 1:16 ratio.

- Recommending a waiver of the criterion that requires conferences to be composed of at least six institutions for automatic qualification for the Pacific-10 Conference, Big Eight Conference, Western Athletic Conference and New England University Wrestling Association.

- Approving Wright State University as host for the Division II championships, Augustana College (Illinois) as host for the Division III championships and the University of Iowa's budget to host the 1986 Division I championships.

- Requesting funds to produce a videotape of the semifinal and final rounds to sell to the public and member institutions.

The committee also appointed a subcommittee to study the effects of drastic weight loss on wrestlers. The subcommittee, chaired by Wayne Baughman of the U.S. Air Force Academy, will survey coaches about weight-loss methods used by wrestlers.

"We're going to review current weight-loss practices and see if we can come up with some proposals for our coaches," Kopnisky said. "The committee is concerned about some of the methods used to drop weight, and we feel kids are hurting themselves and our sport."

Western Kentucky is reprimanded, censured

Western Kentucky University has been publicly reprimanded and censured by the NCAA's Committee on Infractions for two violations in the recruitment of a prospective student-athlete in men's basketball in April 1983.

The penalty imposed by the NCAA does not include sanctions related to postseason competition or television appearances but will require a written report to the NCAA by August 1 describing the educational and administrative programs developed by the university to ensure future compliance with NCAA legislation by athletics department staff members.

"The Committee on Infractions determined that a public announcement in this case was appropriate to emphasize that the men's basketball coaching staff should increase efforts to properly apply NCAA recruiting regulations," said Frank J. Remington, Committee on Infractions chair. "In addition, the committee required the university to develop programs to ensure future compliance," noted Remington.

Following is a statement of the penalty imposed by the committee and a summary of the violations in the case.

Penalty to be imposed upon institution

1. Western Kentucky University shall be publicly reprimanded and censured and admonished to avoid a recurrence of similar violations in the future.

2. The institution shall develop and implement corrective educational and administrative programs for athletics department personnel in order to avoid similar occurrences in the future, further, the university shall report in writing to the NCAA, by August 1, 1984, the measures taken by the institution to ensure compliance with NCAA legislation.

Summary of violations of NCAA legislation

1. NCAA Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(1) [inducements]—During April 1983, the head basketball coach arranged for a prospective student-athlete, his mother, a cousin and two friends to be lodged for two nights under circumstances that reasonably could be understood to be on a complimentary basis; further, the costs were not paid by the prospect's mother until NCAA inquiries into the matter revealed that no payment had been requested or received.

2. NCAA Bylaw 1-8-(i)-(5) [lodging and entertainment]—During April 1983, members of the basketball coaching staff arranged for the cousin of a prospective student-athlete to receive at least two meals and lodging for two nights in Bowling Green, Kentucky, during the prospect's official paid visit to the university.

Legislative Assistance

Equivalency limitations

At its April meeting, the NCAA Council approved an interpretation in reference to the application of the maximum equivalency limitations on financial aid awards set forth in Bylaws 6-5-(b) and (h). On the recommendation of a special Council subcommittee, the Council determined that the sum of all fractional and maximum awards received by student-athletes shall not exceed the total limit (based on equivalencies) for the sport in question for the academic year as a whole. The Council concluded that application of the limitations to the entire academic year was preferable to requiring that the limitations not be exceeded at any time during the year and was consistent with the approach taken by a majority of conferences and member institutions. The Council will sponsor legislation for the 1985 annual Convention to clarify Bylaw 6-5 in a manner consistent with this interpretation.

Soccer summer camps and outside participation

Also at its April meeting, the NCAA Council voted to sponsor again 1984 Convention Proposal Nos. 135 and 136, which relate to the intercollegiate soccer playing season and postseason soccer practice, for vote at the 1985 Convention. However, in accordance with the current Council interpretation, intercollegiate soccer practice or competition is not permissible after the conclusion of the institution's regular academic year. Accordingly, any organized practice or competition by an institution's intercollegiate soccer team after the institution's final day of classes of the regular academic year and prior to the first permissible preseason practice date as set forth in Bylaw 3-1-(a)-(4) shall constitute out-of-season practice and is contrary to NCAA regulations.

For purposes of this interpretation, neither employment as summer camp counselors nor participation (practice or competition) on outside, amateur soccer teams by institutional squad members subsequent to the institution's final day of classes of the regulation academic year shall be considered out-of-season practice. In order for a team to be considered an outside, amateur soccer team, no member of the institution's coaching staff may supervise, direct or otherwise be involved in the team's practice or competition.

In addition, under the provisions of Constitution 3-9-(c), a member of an institution's intercollegiate soccer team who wishes to remain eligible may not compete as a member of any outside team in any noncollegiate, amateur competition in soccer (other than the official Olympic Games and the final tryouts therefor) during the institution's intercollegiate soccer season, including the winter and spring if the institution conducts intercollegiate soccer then.

Institutional promotional items

The use of a student-athlete's name or picture by a member institution for promotional activities incidental to the student-athlete's participation in intercollegiate athletics competition must comply with the provisions of Constitution 3-1-(e) and Case No. 42 (page 256, 1984-85 NCAA Manual). In this regard, no commercial company or service may be associated (other than through the reproduction of the sponsoring company's regular trademark or logo on the item) with the sale or distribution of the institutional publication (e.g., picture, poster or calendar).

Accordingly, there shall be no indication in the makeup or wording of the institutional promotional item that the institution's squad members, individually or collectively, or the institution itself endorses the product or service of the sponsoring company. For example, it would not be permissible for an institution to market or distribute without charge a promotional calendar that depicts student-athletes wearing or utilizing the sponsoring company's product or service.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services staff as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to Stephen R. Morgan, director of legislative services, at the NCAA national office.

Robert E. Smith

R. E. Smith to speak at CWS event

The president of amateur baseball's governing bodies in the United States and internationally will be the speaker at the College World Series luncheon June 1 in Omaha.

He is Robert E. Smith, vice-president for institutional advancement at Greenville College. Smith serves as president of the United States Baseball Federation, the governing body for amateur baseball in the United States, as well as the International Association of Amateur Baseball.

Both organizations have been involved in preparations for the baseball competition scheduled during the 1984 Summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

Smith is a Greenville College graduate with advanced degrees from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, and Florida State University. He began his teaching and coaching career at Taylor University in 1958.

After three years at Taylor, Smith returned to his alma mater to coach baseball, basketball and cross country and teach in the physical education department. He coached at Greenville until 1975 except for a two-year respite to serve as assistant baseball coach at Florida State University (1969-71).

In 1975, Smith was appointed assistant to the president and director of alumni affairs at Greenville, ending his coaching career. He assumed his current position in 1977.

Smith was honored in 1984 with the American Baseball Coaches Association's Lefty Gomez Award for contributions to amateur baseball, that organization's highest honor.

The College World Series luncheon will be held at the Holiday Inn in Omaha, the tournament headquarters. All eight participating teams will attend. More information about the luncheon is available from Jerry A. Miles, director of men's championships, at the NCAA national office.

VFY seminars scheduled

A series of "Getaway Weekends" in June will compose the 1984 NCAA Volunteers for Youth summer seminar/workshop series.

The leadership conferences will be held June 1-3 at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee; June 8-10 at Springfield College, Springfield, Massachusetts; June 22-24 at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Indiana, and June 29-July 1 at the University of California, Davis.

Topics will include specific areas related to the VFY, according to Audrey West, senior national direc-

Southern-Baton Rouge publicly reprimanded

Southern University, Baton Rouge, has been publicly reprimanded and censured by the NCAA's Committee on Infractions for violations of NCAA legislation occurring in the recruitment of a prospective student-athlete in football during the spring of 1983.

The penalty imposed by the NCAA also will reduce the university's athletic grants-in-aid in football by the value of two grants for the 1984-85 academic year. The penalty will not affect the university's eligibility for postseason competition or television appearances.

The case involved three violations related to the recruitment of one prospect. The assistant football coach who was involved in the case no longer is employed by the university.

"Although the violations in this case were limited in nature," said Frank J. Remington, infractions committee chair, "the committee was concerned that violations occurred on the evening before the young man signed a National Letter of Intent to enroll at the institution, as well as on the morning the letter of intent actually was signed. The committee concluded that the violations represented an effort to secure an advantage in the recruitment of the prospect, and the committee believed that a reduction in the grants-in-aid available to the university in football would be an appropriate penalty."

The committee found violations related to the principles governing recruiting and certification of compliance of NCAA legislation. The following is a statement of the penalty imposed and a summary of the findings of violations in the case.

Penalty to be imposed upon institution

1. Southern University shall be publicly reprimanded and censured and admonished to take every precaution to avoid a recurrence of similar violations in the future.

2. During the 1984-85 academic year, the total value of financial aid awarded by the university to student-athletes in the sport of football under the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 6-5-(d) shall not exceed the value of 73 financial aid awards.

Summary of violations of NCAA legislation

1. NCAA Bylaws 1-8-(j) and 1-8-(l) [transportation and entertainment]—(a) On February 8, 1983, a former assistant football coach provided a prospective student-athlete automobile transportation between his home and a restaurant in another city where the prospect was entertained for a meal; further, the assistant football coach subsequently transported the prospect to a local high school and to another restaurant for a second meal before returning home, and (b) on February 9, 1983, the former assistant football coach provided the prospect local automobile transportation from the young man's home to a junior high school to sign a National Letter of Intent and then transported the prospect to his high school.

2. NCAA Bylaw 5-6-(d)-(5) [certification of compliance]—With full knowledge at the time that certain practices of the university's intercollegiate football program were not in compliance with NCAA legislation, a former assistant football coach attested on a statement filed with the university in June 1983 that he had reported his knowledge of an involvement in any violations of NCAA legislation involving the institution.

Full-contact football camps, alumni games scrutinized

In August 1981, a high school student participating in a football camp on a college campus died of a serious head injury in a pass-catching drill. The camp was termed a "non-contact camp," and the players were unprotected. In the fall of 1982, a 25-year-old male was paralyzed from an injury in a football alumni game. The game was conducted at the high school level, and neither the injured party nor the school had medical insurance.

These were among the incidents reported to the NCAA Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports that caused the committee concern about summer football camps and alumni games.

That concern prompted a survey of 510 NCAA member institutions last year. The committee discovered that 44 percent of those responding conduct an on-campus football camp for junior high or senior high students. Of those camps, 10 percent are "full-contact" camps.

Head coaches from 44 percent of the respondents participated in football camps sponsored by off-campus organizations. Thirty-nine percent of those were full-contact camps.

In addition, the 412 respondents conducted 454 alumni games, including 81 in basketball, 78 in soccer, 62 in baseball and 45 in football. Thirty-seven percent of the games were sponsored by Division I institutions.

"It is the strong feeling of the competitive safeguards committee that in this day and time, when there is so much emphasis on safety in sports, it is unrealistic to conduct a full-contact football camp in a period of one or two weeks," said Chair Frederick O. Mueller of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Mueller said the committee questioned whether players should wear full equipment in midsummer. Other concerns include the risk of major injuries, the possible lack of adequate medical personnel (especially at off-campus camps), and the potential liability of coaches and institutions involved in full-contact camps.

"Even more unrealistic than the full-contact football camps, though, is the sponsoring of alumni games," Mueller added. "The exathletes participating in these games, in most cases, are in poor physical condition and do not have sufficient time to prepare for play."

Athletics departments should evaluate their policies concerning summer football camps and varsity alumni games, the committee concluded. Involvement by the institution or its coaches in on-campus or off-campus full-contact camps should be of particular concern. If those events are sponsored by a college or university, all possible safety measures should be followed.

Mueller said partial acclimatization to heat takes from seven to 10 days, and all of the football camps are held in the summer heat. Regular fall football practice has a specified period for gradual physical conditioning, but a majority of the summer camps do not have time for conditioning.

In alumni games, the possibility exists for all types of injuries. Catastrophic injury and death are particular possibilities for concern.

Copies of the complete survey results can be obtained from Eric D. Zemper, research coordinator, at the NCAA national office.

Summary

The Council referred to the Public Relations and Promotion Committee a recommendation that the former NCAA Media Seminar be reinstated as an annual program.

The Council will sponsor legislation at the 1985 Convention to restore the committee to its original size (13 members), rather than reducing it to 10.

The committee recommended a study of appropriate terms of service on sports committees, suggesting a four-year term or two two-year terms. The Council approved such a study.

Postseason Football: The committee recommended a change in the radio policy for postseason football games, excluding networks and permitting only single stations to broadcast a bowl game. The Council did not support that recommendation, instead affirming the current radio policy.

The Council approved certification of the same 16 bowl games as were conducted in 1983-84, as listed in the April 18 issue of The NCAA News. It directed the committee to assure that each postseason game meets all of its obligations under NCAA legislation or not recommend it for certification in the future.

The committee recommended certification of two new bowl games: Cherry Bowl, Detroit, Michigan, December 22, 1984, and Freedom Bowl, Anaheim, California, December 26. Noting that a possible Division I-A football play-off would have an effect on some bowl games and that such a play-off, as well as the concept of a moratorium on certification of any new bowl games, would be discussed in the Division I and Division I-A June meetings, the Council deferred action on the recommendation.

The Council referred the suggestion regarding a Division I-A football play-off to the Division I and Division I-A June meetings and to the Presidents' Commission, as reported in the April 25 issue of The NCAA News.

Football Television: It was noted that the Council had approved in a mail vote, with no opposing votes, a series of modifications in the 1982-1985 Football Television Plan for the 1984 and 1985 seasons.

The Council replaced Hugh D. Hindman on the committee as reported in the April 25 issue of The NCAA News.

Player Agents: The Council approved a player-agent registration form as reported in detail in the April 25 issue of the News.

Select Committee: The Council and the Division I Steering Committee reviewed all recommendations by the Select Committee on Athletic Problems and Concerns in Higher Education and referred each one that had not been acted on previously to the Presidents' Commission, as well as to the Division I and Division I-A summer meetings in certain cases and to the Recruiting Committee in one instance.

The Council rejected the concept of a special committee to handle interpretations issues, stating that the Administrative Committee, as the membership-elected officers of the Association, is the appropriate body to issue interpretations between meetings of the Council.

Women's Committee on Committees: All recommendations will be placed in legislative or policy form and considered in the August Council meeting.

Women's Interests: The Council approved a recommendation that exceptions in seeding and bracketing of women's championships be continued to 1990, noting that the issue is under the jurisdiction of the Executive Committee. The Council also received and made a part of the minutes of the meeting a report recommending that all exceptions for women's programs, unless adopted by legislation, should end by August 1, 1985, as intended in the governance plan approved at the 1981 Convention. The matter will be reviewed by the Executive Committee May 7-8 and again by the Council in August.

The Council agreed to invite representatives of the Executive Committee to attend the August Council meeting to present an overview of championships issues and to address all concerns of the Special Committee on Women's Interests in that regard.

The Council adopted a statement affirming its support of men's and women's athletics programs as reported in the April 25 issue of the News.

Division I Steering: It was agreed that the term "I-Other" no longer will be used to refer to members of Division I that do not sponsor football, or not in that division; instead, they will be referred to as "I-AAA."

A committee of Francis W. Bonner (chair),

Mikki Flowers and David L. Maggard was appointed to revise the proposed Division I statement of philosophy that was rejected by the 1984 Division I round table.

Division III Steering: The committee will ask the Executive Committee to rule that any sports poll printed in The NCAA News must be open to all member institutions, rather than limited to members of the organization conducting the poll.

Equivalency Awards: The Council approved a recommendation of the special committee that the time period for calculating equivalencies be the academic year, rather than a day-to-day determination, thus reversing a November 1983 action by the Administrative Committee.

The committee chair asked that a Division II Council member be added to the special committee.

The committee will continue to study more equitable procedures in the equivalency calculation, to offset distortions between public and private institutions, in-state and out-of-state awards, and flat tuition fees vs. per-credit-hour fees. The committee asked conferences to discuss the matter in their spring meetings.

during the academic year.

The drug-testing committee met again April 26-27 in Chicago to discuss the Council's reaction and will have an updated report for Executive Committee consideration. Preliminary cost estimates for the drug-testing program will be developed by the Executive Committee.

Among the 15 sports committee reports is the Division I Women's Basketball Committee request that it be allowed to seed a maximum of eight teams nationally, rather than four, and place those teams in the bracket without geographical restriction. Criteria for automatic qualification in the Division I Women's Basketball Championship also will be considered.

The Division II Football Committee is requesting that the 1984 Division II Football Championship be held December 8 at the Palm Bowl in McAllen, Texas, site of the past two championships.

The Division II Women's Volleyball Committee has submitted four requests, including a proposal that in order to be considered for automatic qualification, effective with the 1985 season, a conference must conduct either double round-robin, in-season competition or single round-robin competition and a post-season tournament to determine its champion. The committee also is requesting an increase in the bracket from 16 to 18 teams and is recommending that Portland State University serve as host institution for the 1984 championship December 7-8.

Other sports committees with recommendations before the Executive Committee: Men's Fencing, Field Hockey, Women's Golf, Men's Gymnastics, Women's Gymnastics, Men's Soccer, Women's Soccer, Men's Swimming, Women's Swimming, Men's Track and Field, Women's Track and Field, Division I Women's Volleyball, Division III Women's Volleyball, and Wrestling.

Those issues eventually raised by the Presidents' Commission that affect Association finances will be referred to the Executive Committee.

Other reports will be presented by the Championships Standards Committee, Insurance Committee, Eligibility Committee and Extra Events Committee.

Included in the Official Notice and Program will be detailed information relating to three of the major topics that will be discussed at the meeting:

Football television schedules announced

Special-date games and control dates selected by ABC and CBS for the 1984 college football season have been announced by the NCAA Football Television Committee.

Representatives of both networks participated in an April 30 telephone conference call with a subcommittee of the Football Television Committee to select the games and dates under provisions of the 1982-1985 NCAA Football Television Plan, according to John D. Swofford, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, director of athletics and committee chair.

ABC Sports selected four special-date games, and CBS Sports announced three of its four special-date games. CBS Sports will announce its fourth game (December 1) later.

All special-date games are tentative, pending final negotiations between the two networks and the institutions involved, according to Swofford. Control-date rights allow each network first selection of games for that date and the opportunity to select the early (between 12:20 p.m. and 12:35 p.m. Eastern time) or late (between 3:45 p.m. and 3:50 p.m. Eastern time) kickoff.

Following are the special-date games announced by the committee (all times Eastern):

September 8, Boston College at Alabama, 9 p.m., ABC; September 22, Nebraska at UCLA, 9 p.m., CBS; November 23, Arkansas at Southern Methodist, ABC, and Army vs. Navy at East Rutherford, New Jersey, CBS; November 24, Pittsburgh at Penn State, ABC, and Boston College at Miami (Florida), CBS; December 1, Auburn vs. Alabama at Birmingham, Alabama, ABC.

The committee also announced the 1984 control dates for the two networks. The control dates for ABC are September 8, September 15, September 22, October 27 and November 17. Control dates for CBS are September 29, October 6, October 13, October 20, November 3 and 10.

Two insurance programs to be continued by NCAA

Travel accident and loss-of-revenue insurance programs again will be offered to the membership for the 1984-85 academic year.

The NCAA Council approved continuation of the programs based on a recommendation by the Insurance Committee, although participation in 1983-84 was lower than the minimum specified in Association policy.

The travel accident program provides 24-hour coverage for student-athletes, cheerleaders and other student or institutional employees who have official duties connected with a member institution's or allied conference's athletics program on trips to competition or business meetings. A principal sum ranging in multiples of $5,000 from a minimum of $5,000 to a maximum of $250,000 can be selected for students and staff members. Coverage for institutional staff members includes all accidents (not just travel accidents) including an amendment to provide increased voting autonomy in Division I that was rejected at the 1984 Convention.

- Division I-A football play-off, consisting of a review of the format for such an event that has been offered without recommendation by the NCAA Postseason Football Committee.

Also scheduled for discussion at the meeting are reports from the Division I summer meeting June 7-8 and a status report on the 1982-1985 NCAA Football Television Plan.

24 hours a day for the entire year.

Loss-of-revenue insurance provides game-cancellations protection for catastrophic losses, including hijacking, suffered by a varsity football or basketball team. A maximum season benefit for each team is available in units of $10,000, to a maximum of $2.5 million or 10 percent of gross receipts, whichever is less.

Both programs again will be underwritten by the Aetna Life Insurance Company and administered by Professional Planning Services in Shawnee Mission, Kansas.

Grant Osborn, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, chair of the Insurance Committee, said that continuation of the programs was recommended because Aetna was willing to provide the same coverage at no increase in price. Also, Osborn said, the loss-of-revenue coverage is not readily available to NCAA members through many other sources.

Enrollment forms and additional information will be mailed to member institutions and allied conferences by May 15. Questions should be referred to Richard D. Hunter, director of finance, at the NCAA national office.

NCAA shooters finish one-two

Dave Johnson and Mike Anti of 1984 NCAA rifle champion West Virginia finished one-two at the second Junior Olympic Rifle Championship April 28 at Ohio State University. Patty Spurgin of Murray State, the 1984 NCAA individual air rifle champion, finished third.

Johnson, a sophomore, defended his 1983 championship in the smallbore, three-position rifle event by firing a score of 1,161 (1,200 is perfect). Anti, a freshman, fired a 1,157 for second place, and Spurgin took third with 1,155.

Sponsored by the National Rifle Association in cooperation with Ohio State, the event drew 90 shooters aged 20 and under. Most will try out for the U.S. Olympic shooting team next month in Los Angeles.

Smaller ball to be ready for next basketball season

Representatives of Spalding, manufacturers of the official ball for the National Collegiate Men's and Women's Basketball Championships, have assured the NCAA that the company plans to market the new, smaller women's basketball for the 1984-85 season.

"We expect to have the balls available in three to four months," said Chris Mittler, an administrative assistant in Spalding's marketing division. "Schools should contact their local distributors at the appropriate time for further information."

Spalding's contract as the official ball of the six (three men's and three women's) NCAA basketball championships runs through the 1986 championships. The NCAA does not have an official-ball program and does not endorse any specific product for regular-season play.

Other companies already have a small ball on the market and are developing further marketing plans. Those companies include Baden, Mikasa, Tachikara, Voit and Wilson. Coaches and equipment managers are encouraged to contact manufacturers with questions about their products.

The smaller ball will be 28½ to 29 inches in circumference, weigh 18 to 20 ounces and have narrow seams (½ inch).

The rules change was enacted for the 1984-85 season by the United States Girls' and Women's Basketball Rules Committee last month in Washington, D.C. The rules committee is under the auspices of the National Association of Girls and Women in Sport and is not administered by the NCAA.

Alcorn State draws reprimand, censure

Alcorn State University has been publicly reprimanded and censured by the NCAA's Committee on Infractions for violations of NCAA recruiting regulations in women's basketball during the spring of 1983.

The penalty imposed by the NCAA did not include sanctions, and the women's basketball team remains eligible to participate in postseason competition.

"The primary issue involved an outside athletics representative who transported two prospects from their homes to another community at a time when collegiate institutions other than Alcorn State University were interested in recruiting the young women," said Frank J. Remington, chair, NCAA Committee on Infractions. "The representative failed to consult the university's staff members concerning his plans, but the mother of one prospect and the women's head basketball coach became aware of the matter on the same day and the prospects were returned immediately to their homes."

Remington also noted, "The Committee on Infractions believes that the university is committed to compliance with NCAA legislation and that the violations in this case were isolated and inadvertent in nature. Further, the university has notified the involved athletics representative in writing that he is expected to become knowledgeable of and comply with NCAA requirements."

During the course of interviews conducted by the NCAA staff, two additional violations regarding the NCAA's recruiting contact legislation were disclosed to the NCAA by the university. The following is a statement of the penalty imposed and a summary of the findings of violations in the case.

Penalty to be imposed upon institution

1. Alcorn State University shall be publicly reprimanded and censured and admonished to avoid a recurrence of similar violations in the future.

2. The university shall notify one outside representative who was involved in the violations cited in this case of his responsibility to learn and comply with NCAA recruiting regulations.

Summary of violations of NCAA legislation

1. NCAA Bylaws 1-1(b)-(1), 1-8(j) and 1-8(l) [transportation and entertainment]—In April 1983, a representative of the university's athletics interests transported two prospective student-athletes from their homes to another community where the representative entertained them for one meal and provided them an allowance for additional meals.

2. NCAA Bylaw 1-2(a)-(1) [recruiting contacts]—During the 1982-83 academic year, two prospective student-athletes and their mothers were contacted on more than three occasions at sites other than the young women's high schools by the women's head basketball coach and a representative of the university's athletics interests.

3. NCAA Bylaw 1-2(a)-(3) [recruiting contact]—In April 1983, the women's head basketball coach contacted a prospective student-athlete in person prior to the completion of the prospect's junior year in high school.
