Player agent listing mailed to members

Initial lists of player agents who have registered with the NCAA have been mailed to directors of athletics, career-counseling panel members and conference commissioners.

Approximately 250 agents have voluntarily agreed to participate in the registration program, a result of the Association's increased attention in the past 18 months to problems in the area of player agents. By signing a registration form, which requests educational and professional background information, a player agent agrees not to jeopardize the eligibility of an enrolled student-athlete prior to an agreement to be represented and to contact the director of athletics at a member institution prior to each contact with enrolled student-athletes.

"The registration program is one manifestation of the NCAA's overall commitment to provide student-athletes with as much accurate information as possible concerning reasonable expectations for a professional athletics career, earnings potential as a professional and factors to be considered in selecting competent representation," said John H. Leavens, director of legislative services, who coordinates the Association's efforts related to player agents. "Information supplied by agents on registration forms will be provided to member institutions upon request to assist in evaluating a particular agent's professional preparation and experience in the field."

Information available from the national office includes educational background, sports in which the agent has represented athletes and the names and team affiliations of athletes currently and formerly represented, other professional licenses and qualifications (including certification by the National Football League players' association), financial information, and professional references. Copies of blank registration forms were included in the mailing.

"We are just breaking ground in this area and everyone involved must understand that there are far more agents contacting student-athletes than those who have taken the time to register," Leavens said. "But the registration list will grow and the effectiveness of the overall effort will increase only to the extent that member institutions' coaches and directors of athletics recognize the legitimate interests of responsible player agents and assist in establishing an institutional policy

Resolution for 'Rule 48' study highlights academic proposals

A resolution from the NCAA Council and Presidents' Commission to conduct a cooperative study of possible alternative modifications of Bylaw 5-1-(j) ["Proposal No. 48"] highlights seven academic items to be considered by delegates to the 1985 NCAA Convention.

In addition, two proposals on the agenda, one from the Council and one from the American Council on Education, would encourage greater attention to the academic progress of student-athletes.

Since the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(j), as amended at the 1983 NCAA Convention, do not become effective until August 1, 1986, and since the Council and Presidents' Commission have determined that additional study is necessary before any satisfactory modifications could be proposed, there will be no proposal at the 1985 Convention to modify Bylaw 5-1-(j).

Included in the cooperative study, which would be conducted by the Council and the Commission and would involve other appropriate organizations, such as the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education, would be consideration of a formula that would combine the core-curriculum grade-point average and a Scholastic Aptitude Test or American College Testing Program test score.

The resolution (Proposal No. 25) calls for the Council and Presidents' Commission to present modifications of Bylaw 5-1-(j) to the 1986 NCAA Convention and to announce the proposal to the membership not later than October 15, 1985.

The legislation as adopted by the Official Notice to be mailed November 21

The Official Notice of the 1985 NCAA Convention will be mailed November 21 to the chief executive officer, faculty athletics representative, director of athletics and primary woman administrator of athletics programs at each active member institution, as well as to officers of conference and affiliated members.

All 145 proposed amendments to NCAA legislation that were submitted by the November 1 deadline are included in the Official Notice.

Chief executive officers receive with their copies the official forms on which CEOs appoint their delegates to the Convention, which will be held January 14-16, 1985, at the Opryland Hotel in Nashville, Tennessee. A special notice will be included in copies 1983 Convention will require students to achieve both a 2.000 grade-point average in a core curriculum of 11 high school courses and a combined score of at least 700 on the SAT or 15 on the ACT for initial eligibility at a Division I member institution.

A proposed modification from the Special Committee on Academic Research would have required a student to take and pass all 11 courses in the prescribed core curriculum as stated in the bylaw, to achieve an overall 2.000 grade-point average in those courses and to take either the ACT or SAT test so that test-score data would be available.

If the student passed all 11 courses but did not achieve a 2.000, he or she could gain initial eligibility by scoring at least a 700 on the SAT or a 14 on the ACT test. Effective August 1, 1988, however, a minimum 700 SAT or 14 ACT score would be required, in addition to passing the core courses with at least a 2.000, for initial eligibility.

The Administrative Committee (acting for the Council) and Presidents' Commission eventually agreed, however, that additional study was desirable before sponsoring a proposal to modify Bylaw 5-1-(j).

The Council also is sponsoring Proposal No. 24, which would require a Division I member institution, as a part of the annual certification of compliance, to publish its regular entrance requirements, requirements for satisfactory progress toward a degree and policies regarding special-admission opportunities for the academic year.

The proposal also would require the institution's chief executive officer

Burciaga to hear suit against CFA

Judge Juan C. Burciaga has been assigned by the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver to hear the antitrust action filed by the Association of Independent Television Stations and Sports View Company against the College Football Association, the Big Eight Conference, ABC and ESPN, according to a report in the Daily Oklahoman November 9.

The suit contends that CFA contracts with ABC and ESPN restrict the output of televised games. The action challenges contracts that give ABC, ESPN and Katz Sports (which telecasts Big Eight games) exclusivity during certain time periods on Saturdays.

It was Burciaga's decision in Federal district court in Oklahoma City that voided the NCAA's 1982-1985 Football Television Plan because of antitrust violations. The suit challenging the NCAA plan was brought by the Universities of Oklahoma and Georgia.

Attorneys Clyde Muchmore and Andy Coats of Oklahoma City, who represented the plaintiffs in the suit against the NCAA and who now represent the CFA, argued against the current suit being assigned to Burciaga. They said the cases are not truly related, the Associated Press reported. Later, Muchmore said he had no objections to Burciaga hearing the case, the AP said.

to athletics directors, reminding them that the CEOs of their institutions receive the delegate-appointment forms.

Also included in the Official Notice is an up-to-date schedule of meetings being held January 11-18 in conjunction with the 79th annual NCAA Convention.

All members are urged to review the opening section of the Official Notice, which sets forth in detail the procedure for appointing delegates and other pertinent policies regarding Convention operations and voting.

The Official Notice also contains an appendix listing the candidates being proposed to serve as NCAA officers (president, secretary-treasurer and Division I vice-president) and to fill vacancies on the NCAA Council, as proposed by the Nominating Committee.

This is the third year that the Nominating Committee's recommendations have been distributed to the membership prior to the Convention. The committee's recommendations also will be featured in the November 19 issue of The NCAA News.

Accompanying the Nominating Committee's recommendations in the Official Notice is a review of the Council-approved procedures for nominating and electing members of the Council and NCAA officers. That information also will be reprinted in the Convention Program, which is distributed at the Convention itself.

Bryant's solution was to ban NCAA rules violators

By Jesse Outlar
The Atlanta Constitution

The late Bear Bryant, admittedly no amateur in the art of recruiting football players in the early stages of his coaching career, vowed that he reformed when he came back to Alabama.

Despite diligent efforts by some of his opponents to prove otherwise, no one ever did.

A self-acknowledged authority on the subject, Bryant was concerned about mass violations in the 1970s. In his book, "Bear," written with John Underwood in 1974, he said, "I have personally had boys tell me what they were getting, and I wouldn't touch them with a 10-foot pole . . . I'm not a freshman on the subject. I don't know why the cheating has gotten so bad again, unless it's a product of all we read about on the front page, or inflation. But it has. And it's not just the young coaches trying to make their mark. It's the older ones, too. The NCAA has heard about it. The SEC commissioner knows about it."

Bryant had, in his opinion, a solution to the problem, and I think his plan would have worked then and now. He proposed that, when the NCAA or a conference proves that a coach has violated the rules, the coach should be banned from college football . . . along with the players who accept illegal financial inducement.

It seems grossly unfair to punish all the players and a college for flagrant violations involving blue-chip players. Despite all the stories, most of today's college players don't receive cars and other extravagant gifts. So why should they pay the price for those who do?

Frankly, I think players should receive a stipulated sum of money. For many years, the SEC permitted colleges to give each player $10 a month, in addition to full grants-in-aid. Today, of course, you can't get your suit cleaned for 10 bucks a month. So what would be wrong with an allowance for players? Colleges see nothing wrong in collecting millions from TV and ticket sales.

Florida already has executed half of the plan Bryant recommended. Charley Pell, who, incidentally, played for Bryant at Alabama, has been fired by the university. However, none of the players directly involved have received any penalty, other than the proposed probation.

It's past time that the NCAA and all its members should face up to reality. College football is not an amateur sport. You don't collect more than a million in one afternoon from tickets and TV and call it amateur.

Hugh Cunningham, highly respected professor of journalism at Florida, has made a long and thorough study of the problems of colleges, athletes and big-time sports. Cunningham points out that a regular student at Florida, eligible for full support because his family can't provide monetary help, can receive $5,020 for two semesters from financial aid sources. Under existing NCAA rules, a scholarship athlete at Florida gets compensation totaling only $4,877.

Maybe I'm naive, but even in my old age, I still believe that most college athletics departments and their coaches attempt to operate under NCAA rules.

Coaches are cast in an impossible situation. If they don't win, they get fired. And it's difficult to win without violating rules. There was a story recently out of Dallas that H.R. "Bum" Bright, owner of the Dallas Cowboys and several million dollars, is disappointed and impatient that Texas A&M coach Jackie Sherrill, hired after the 1981 season for a reported $267,000 annually, has a mere 13-14 record. It wouldn't matter too much to Sherrill if Bright, who handpicked him, was just a wealthy alum. But Bright is also the head of the Texas A&M board of regents.

Since colleges started playing football, educators and alumni have clashed about what should be done about the sport. Well, one thing all the presidents could do, without NCAA assistance, is fire a coach proved guilty of hiring players. On the other hand, there's strong argument for reimbursing the players with more than a grant-in-aid.

1984 Column No. 28

Outside competition

Under the provisions of Constitution 3-9-(c), a member of an institution's intercollegiate team (other than basketball) who wishes to remain eligible may not compete as a member of any outside team in any noncollegiate, amateur competition in that sport [other than the Olympic games and final tryouts therefor or other competition approved by the NCAA Council in accordance with Constitution 3-9-(c)-(2)] during the institution's intercollegiate season. For purposes of Constitution 3-9-(c), the intercollegiate season in a sport shall be the period between the opening of the institution's formal varsity practice and its last regularly scheduled game. For an individual student-athlete, the season begins when the student first reports for practice or competition for that sport in that year. [Legislation dealing with outside competition in basketball is set forth in Constitution 3-9-(b).]

An institution that conducts clearly defined separate fall and spring playing or practice periods in a sport (e.g., tennis, golf, baseball, lacrosse, softball, volleyball, soccer) may permit a student-athlete to participate in that sport on an outside team during the time between the two periods without affecting the student-athlete's eligibility for that sport. However, if an institution's intercollegiate team continues to practice or to participate against outside competition continuously during the academic year, members of the institution's intercollegiate team would be prohibited from participating on an outside team during this time. Further, only those student-athletes who otherwise are eligible for intercollegiate practice and competition could participate as a member of the institution's team. Please note that competition in indoor soccer or box lacrosse is considered competition in the sport of soccer or lacrosse, respectively, for the purpose of any NCAA legislation.

Case No. 282 — seasons of competition

Institutions are reminded of the provisions of Case No. 282 (pages 322-323, 1984-85 NCAA Manual) that defines the term "intercollegiate competition" for purposes of determining a student-athlete's number of completed seasons of competition under the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(d)-(1). Under this legislation, a student-athlete is considered to have engaged in a season of intercollegiate competition if, during the academic year in question, the student: (1) represents the institution in regularly scheduled, regular-season or postseason competition or in a scrimmage with outside competition; (2) participates in collegiate competition, regardless of the fact that the student's performance is not included in the scoring of the event or is considered an "exhibition;" (3) competes in the uniform of the institution; (4) receives any expenses for the competition (in which he or she participates), including transportation, meals, room or entry fees from the institution, or (5) receives any type of equipment or clothing for the competition (in which he or she participates) from the institution.

Recommended Policy 13

Member institutions are reminded of Recommended Policy 13 that overwhelmingly was adopted at the 1983 Convention. This legislation requests that each institution identify an institutional staff member to be responsible for coordinating the application of NCAA rules and regulations to the institution's athletics program. If questions concerning such rules cannot be resolved on the institutional (or conference) level, the designated individual from the institution (or conference) should contact the NCAA national office for additional assistance. In this regard, when questions regarding NCAA legislation arise, coaches and other institutional staff members should contact the appropriate individual on the institution's campus, rather than the national office directly, in accordance with this recommended policy, which is intended to provide the most efficient use of staff time to assist the member institutions.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to Stephen R. Morgan, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Anabolic-steroid use is dangerous

Dan B. Riley, conditioning coach
The Washington Redskins
Scholastic Coach

"Somewhere in this land of ours, several athletes are dying and a lot of others are going to go in the same way and for the same reason—unless we can get our doctors and athletes to stop arguing about the use of steroids.

"Notice that I said 'the use of steroids,' not 'steroid abuse.' I believe that any use of an anabolic steroid by a healthy athlete is abuse.

"Let me say it loud and clear: Steroids are dangerous; they are potential killers. That's why it's illegal to purchase them without a doctor's prescription, and that's why any physician who prescribes steroids to a healthy individual should be prosecuted for criminal malpractice."

"I should take 25 percent of the credit for a successful field goal. The snapper, the holder, the line—they do most of the work, 75 percent of it. I do 25 percent of it."

Edward T. Foote, president
University of Miami (Florida)
The Washington Post

"The NCAA is just too big for sensible operation, too unwieldy, too slow to respond, the staff too harried and spread too thin.

"With nearly 1,000 institutions, there are too many different kinds of institutions; too many interests for an orderly, timely resolution of problems affecting any one group among them.

"Whatever might have been the case otherwise, the Supreme Court decision, among a few others, seems to have ended the usefulness of the NCAA as presently constituted.

"Possibly, the NCAA can be restructured, but I'm not optimistic. I would welcome it, but I see little reason to expect it."

Dave Hart, athletics director
University of Missouri, Columbia
The Associated Press

"The overexposure (football on television) is a great concern. Our Wisconsin game was televised here, and it hurt our attendance. You can say we got money for it—yeah, we got two-eighths of something we don't know yet. We'll know when our syndicator knows how many markets he got it into and how many markets he was able to sell.

"I think every AD at a Division I school is looking at the same thing. There's no way anybody is going to make what they made last year. It's a mess. It's strapping everybody. I don't know where it's all going to lead."

Walt Hazzard, men's basketball coach
University of California, Los Angeles

"UCLA made college basketball big time, and the name is still magic. You have to be like a gunfighter—you're only as good as your last bullet."

Paul Hardin, president
Drew University
Letter to the NCAA

"I am concerned that the NCAA permits no appeal from tournament-selection decisions, even when errors are made that all agree were not matters of subjective judgment but were based on erroneous, determinative data. I am furious on behalf of a great team (field hockey) and coach—embarrassed on behalf of the NCAA.

"Each selection can be a once-in-a-lifetime experience for a player. A blunder that results in nonselection cannot be easily dismissed."

Rob Hobart, senior middle guard
Harvard University football team
News release

"If you look at the number of people hurt in football, I would suspect that more injuries occur on kickoffs than on any other type of play.

"You are much more likely to get hurt on a kickoff because of the collisions at full speed. One good thing is that the rules makers have eliminated blocking below the waist.

"I don't think that the opportunity to break a big play should be given up. But, if people are concerned with reducing injuries in football, the kickoff seems to be one play that is expendable without altering the nature of the game. I think that eliminating kickoffs would be a good spot to begin reform."

Herschel Nissenson
sportswriter
The Associated Press

"Ever since its inception, the two-point conversion has worked against a team that has the lead even though barely 10 percent of all conversion tries are two-pointers.

"And since 94 percent of all extra-point kicks are successful, compared to around 40 percent for a two-point run or pass, the team that scores first almost invariably will kick the point for a 7-0 lead.

"Try this on for size: Eliminate the extra-point kick and make a team run or pass on all conversions, regardless of whether they're worth one point or two."

Unbeaten, untied teams in Division I-A trimmed to two

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Another round of upsets left only two undefeated-untied teams in Division I-A—9-0 South Carolina and 10-0 Brigham Young—and each ranks low on the toughest-schedule ranking.

South Carolina, which faces 3-5-1 Navy and 7-2 Clemson in its last two games, ranks 92nd at .425; Brigham Young, which meets 6-4-1 Utah and 1-8 Utah State its last two games, ranks 96th at .393. This means South Carolina's past and future I-A opponents this season have won 32, lost 44 and tied four to date against other I-A teams when not playing South Carolina, while BYU's foes are 37-58-3 against I-A foes when not playing BYU.

Including all past and future regular-season opponents for 1984, the current leader in the toughest-schedule ranking is Florida at .644. Others in the top 10 are Utah State .628, Georgia .624, Penn State and Baylor tied at .608, Notre Dame .603, Texas .601, Stanford .593, Boston College .590, and Clemson .587.

In the second 10 are Alabama .586, Syracuse .581, Washington State .5789 to .5786 for Maryland, Pittsburgh and Tennessee tied at .574, Southern California .572, Navy over Auburn .5704 to .5699, and Kansas State .567.

Also two perfects in I-AA

The perfect-record list is down to just two in Division I-AA as well—8-0 Alcorn State and 10-0 Tennessee State—and they also are well down the list in the toughest-schedule ranking.

Alcorn State's schedule ranks 55th. Its I-AA-or-higher opponents are 27-33-2 vs. I-AA-or-higher opposition when not playing Alcorn State (all opponents below I-AA are deleted). Tennessee State's schedule is 65th on 24-34-2.

Football notes

The top 10 schedules in I-AA, including all past and future opponents, belong to North Texas State .617, Virginia Military .601, Florida A&M .592, Holy Cross .578, Connecticut .573, Grambling State .572, Davidson .568, William & Mary .567, Boston .565 and Northwestern State (Louisiana) .546.

Rice's collegiate records

Jerry Rice, Mississippi Valley State's remarkable senior receiver, has broken two all-time, all-divisions NCAA career collegiate records and is closing in on a third with one game left in his career.

Rice now has 296 career receptions, far above the collegiate-record 261 by Howard Twilley of Tulsa from 1963 to 1965 (this is Rice's fourth season, Twilley had a three-season career, but Rice had only 30 catches as a freshman in 1981).

Rice's career yardage has reached 4,575, breaking the collegiate record of 4,354 formerly held by Emporia State's Bruce Cerone from 1966 to 1969 (he played his first two years at Yankton). In career touchdowns, Rice now has 47 to Cerone's record 49.

One season collegiate (remember, this is all NCAA divisions, all time) record now belongs to Rice, but of two others, one seems out of reach—probably. His 24 touchdown catches this fall in just nine games is far above the old collegiate mark of 20 formerly shared by two players—Ed Bell of Idaho State (then Division II) in 1969 and John Aromando of Trenton State in Division III in 1983. Both played 10 games.

Twilley holds the collegiate records for catches (134) and yards (1,779) in a season—1965 at Tulsa in 10 games. Rice now has 98 for 1,564 in nine. His single-game career highs are 24 catches (also the collegiate record) and 294 yards.

Totten's toteboard

Rice's batterymate, junior quarterback Willie Totten, also has broken

Robbie Bosco of Brigham Young is the leader in passing efficiency in Division I-A

Delaware State's Gene Lake is the Division I-AA leader in rushing with 172 yards per game

Charles Sanders of Slippery Rock leads Division II individual rushers with 123 yards per game

Gary Errico of Lowell is averaging 161 yards per game to lead Division III rushing many records and with a year to go, has a chance for many more. His season totals of 4,236 yards passing, 4,247 total offense, 49 TD passes and 53 touchdowns-responsible-for (he scored four) all are Division I-AA season records, breaking the records formerly held by Neil Lomax of Portland State in 1980 (4,094, 4,157, 37 and 42, respectively).

Lomax had 13,220 career passing yards and 13,345 in total offense—both collegiate records. Totten now has 8,692 passing and 8,940 total offense with a game and a season to go, so it will be close at his current pace.

Flutie breaks another one

Boston College's remarkable little Doug Flutie set another major record last Saturday and seems on target for 11,000 total-offense yards and 10,000 passing yards over his career. He now has 9,695 passing with three games left, breaking the 9,614 by Duke's Ben Bennett (1981-1983). Flutie's total-offense figure now is 10,320, putting him almost 600 yards beyond the old mark that he surpassed November 3. He now needs just 680 total offense and 305 passing to reach 11,000 and 10,000.

What a comeback

Maryland's rally from a 31-0 halftime deficit to a 42-40 victory over Miami (Florida) in the Orange Bowl last Saturday is the biggest deficit ever overcome by a winning team in Division I-A history. Oregon State trailed 0-28 with 9:30 left in the third quarter in beating Fresno State in 1981. Washington State trailed 14-42 with 5:38 left in the third period in beating Stanford this season, 49-42. Of course, it can be argued that overcoming a 28-point lead in 20 minutes and 22 seconds is a greater feat than overcoming a 31-point lead in 30 minutes. But Maryland now holds the record for biggest deficit overcome by a winning team.

A brotherly connection

While Willie Totten has been setting records, remember there are many other talented quarterbacks in Division I-AA football. Rhode Island's Tom Ehrhardt, a junior, has passed for 2,893 yards and 26 touchdowns. He had three straight 400-yard passing games, tying the record set by Portland State's Neil Lomax in 1980 (later surpassed by Totten this fall, with five).

In the process, points out SID Jim Norman, Ehrhardt has led Rhode Island to eight victories—most ever for the university in 84 years of playing the game. Ehrhardt's father died at an early age and his brothers became the father image to Tom. Older brother Bob was a star at Rhode Island in the early 1970s and still holds three career passing records that Tom likely will surpass next year. Tom was recruited by Rhode Island but decided to stay closer to home (Flushing, New York) and play at C.W. Post. When Post decided to move to Division III, Tom decided to go to a higher level. (He threw for more than 3,600 yards in two seasons at C.W. Post.) Bob's influence was a factor in the transfer but added to the pressure Tom faced this fall. He started slowly, then has been spectacular. One other note, Ehrhardt has won the Golden Helmet award from the Boston football media twice in three weeks. No other player in New England history, including Boston College's Doug Flutie, can match that.

Quotes of the week

Texas Christian coach Jim Wacker has a new version of the football punishment detail. The 47-year-old son of a Lutheran minister told Gordon White Jr. of the New York Times: "When I arrived here last year the grade-point average for the whole football team was 1.990 (on a 4.000 scale). The first thing we did was scream at them, 'You go to classes and study hall or you run three miles at 6 a.m.' After the first year, the grade-point average was up to 2.420 for the team and right now it is 2.520."

After Louisiana State survived a wild last quarter to edge Mississippi, 32-29, a member of the New Orleans quarterback club asked coach Bill Arnsparger if his team would, please, get a lot of points early and coast home to ease the strain on the fans. Replied Arnsparger: "That's part of my contract. When I came in, Bob (Brodhead, athletics director) said he wanted me to keep the people in the stands as long as possible so we could sell more hot dogs." (Sure enough, LSU won another squeaker last Saturday, 16-14, over Alabama.) (Joe Yates, Louisiana State SID)

Mike Sheppard, first-year coach at Long Beach State, was talking to a booster group recently when he told this story: "People kept coming up to me before the season and telling me good luck and so forth. After we came close to beating Oregon in our opener, people kept saying, 'Good game you're a good old boy.' After we came close, but lost, to UCLA, people would say, 'You're a super old boy.' But after we lost our first five games, people just started using the initials—SOB." (Terry Ross, Long Beach State SID)

Texas-Arlington first-year coach Chuck Curtis on offensive lineman David Sitler, who has started at center, guard and tackle this season: "He's our bandaid. Wherever we have a sore, he's there to patch things up." Curtis after a 51-21 loss to Arkansas State: "We've got to pump up our tires, we're a little flat. We've been using cold patching, now we need to use some hot patching to carry us through the last three games." (Jim Patterson, Texas-Arlington SID)

Auburn's Bo Jackson is back. He made it a week earlier than he promised, getting three touchdowns in one quarter vs. Cincinnati in preparation for the Georgia game this Saturday. What did he do while recovering from the shoulder separation? Well, the telephone company made some money. He called Napoleon McCallum, the Navy back who broke his leg, to commiserate. He called Doug Flutie, the Boston College quarterback, and warned him "not to catch the Heisman Trophy jinx." He even called Texas' Jerry Gray, of all people (the man who tackled him when he hurt his shoulder), to kid around. "I disguised my voice," Jackson told Mark Bradley of the Atlanta Journal. "I told Jerry I was his agent, that from now on I was calling the shots. I finally told him who it was. We laughed. It's not like he tried to put me out." (David Housel, Auburn SID)

Kansas coach Mike Gottfried talking about a minor interruption at half time of a 28-27 victory at Colorado: "The big thing that sticks in my mind was when we were saying our prayer. We were at 'and Hallowed be Thy Name' when someone yelled 'Here comes the buffalo' and everyone started diving everywhere. I'm glad we don't have to see that buffalo this week." (But his Jayhawks did face a thundering herd of Huskers—Nebraska won, 41-7.)

I-AA moves ahead; I-A still up

Division I-A attendance lost a little bit but stayed well ahead of 1983, while Division I-AA jumped ahead of its 1983 pace for the first time all season, helped by that 63,808 turnout Sunday, November 4, at Jackson for the Mississippi Valley State vs. Alcorn State showdown, which was not in last week's figures. Division I-A is now 654 ahead in per-game terms, or 1.55 percent, while I-AA is 253 ahead, or 2.35 percent. Both divisions also are well ahead of 1983 in percentage of capacity.

The top 10 attendance teams totaled 805,055 last Saturday—seventh highest ever—but the season per-game average still dipped slightly to 42,814 vs. 42,160 at this point a year ago. The Division I-A game count is 16 behind 1983 (thus the division is down in total), but this is due to schedule changes. After this Saturday, there still will be 32 games left in I-A the last two weekends vs. just 18 last season.

	Games	Attendance	Average	Percent Capacity
Division I-A season figures to date	525	22,477,111	42,814	81.1
Same 105 teams at this stage in 1983	541	22,808,382	42,160	79.6
Division I-AA season figures to date	427	4,707,066	11,024	55.1
Same 87 teams at this stage in 1983	423	4,555,930	10,771	52.9

Asked to compare Oklahoma and Nebraska (who meet this Saturday at Lincoln), Kansas State coach Jim Dickey said: "It's like comparing the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans—you can drown in either one." (Tim Allen, Big Eight Conference SID)

Bowling Green State quarterback Brian McClure, only a junior but already over 7,000 yards in career passing, is not known for his running ability. His career total offensive total is some 400 yards less due to quarterback sacks. After running for a career-high 19 yards and a first down against Northern Illinois, McClure replied: "Geez, no way. That was a one-time thing. I don't think I've ever been more scared to death in my life." (Allan Chamberlin, Mid-American Conference SID)

Rhode Island tight end Tony DiMaggio, considered the team's "Mr. Clutch" under heavy pressure, is often asked about his relationship (if any) to "Joltin' Joe" of baseball fame. As a schoolboy, Tony wore No. 5, too: "I was a decent player, but nothing great. Sometimes I'd walk up to the plate and the catcher would say, 'Think you're great, huh? Why don't you point to where you're gonna hit it?' But I never did that."

And, yes, he is related to the great Joe of coffee commercials fame. He is a third cousin. "But it's a little confusing," Tony says. "I'm a third cousin on my mother's side, and her maiden name was not DiMaggio. If she hadn't married a DiMaggio, no one would ever ask me if I were related; but people never believe it when I tell them." Tony says he decided on football because his older brother, Frank, played for Temple and spent a season with the New York Jets. In fact, he says he likes the idea of trying to live up to the DiMaggio name. "Except," he says when people ask me to go out and get them a cup of coffee." (Jim Norman, Rhode Island SID)

Historic seasons

Washington & Jefferson ended its nine-game regular season with eight victories (losing only to Case Reserve)—the most victories by a Washington & Jefferson team in 63 years. The last W&J team to win eight or more in one season was the 1921 team, that won 10 in a row and was invited to play California in the Rose Bowl game, which ended in a 0-0 tie. W&J is the smallest college ever to play in the Rose Bowl game. (Paul Shearn, Washington & Jefferson SID)

A four-sport family

Central's (Iowa) scoring leader, wide receiver-kicker Matt Schulte, has competed in four sports at Central. The last Central athlete to do that? His father, Eldon, a 1958 Central graduate. Aside from football, Matt plays guard in basketball and catcher in baseball. Last spring, he earned NCAA Division III all-America honors in the 4x400 meter relay. (Larry Happel, Central SID)

Florida, Texas headed for another showdown

By Steven M. Carr
The NCAA News Staff

Trying to determine the team that will dominate Division I men's swimming and diving this season is about as easy as picking a five of hearts from a deck of cards.

Florida won the biggest prize the past two years, but the two-time defending NCAA national champion faces another talented group of teams this season, like national runner-up Texas, Stanford, UCLA, Southern Methodist and California, all top-six 1984 finishers.

The Florida Gators, coached by Randy Reese, became only the second two-time winner of the NCAA Division I Men's Swimming and Diving Championships since California in 1979 and 1980, and a third crown remains within their grasp. Southern California is the last team to win more than two consecutive titles, capturing four straight beginning in 1974. Indiana's six straight national championships (1968-1973) stands as the longest winning streak. Michigan won the inaugural meet in 1937, the first of five in a row.

Depth was the key for Florida, which won only two individual championships but collected seven second place finishes, one third, three fourths, three fifths and two sixths to outdistance the Texas Longhorns by 10½ points.

Reese, who has a 53-11 record, two NCAA championships and five Southeastern Conference titles in eight years at Florida, returns 15 all-America swimmers. Included in the group are Olympians Mike Heath (two golds and one silver at the 1984 Olympics) and Rafael Vidal, who took a bronze for his Venezuelan team.

Heath clocked 1:35.21 in winning Florida's only individual championship — the 200-yard freestyle — and was a member of the winning 800-yard freestyle relay team that broke the existing NCAA record (6:21.29). Albert Mestere, who swam with Heath on the relay team, also returns. He was second in the 100-yard freestyle and fifth in the 200-yard freestyle at the NCAA championships. Vidal, one of only two seniors on the team, was fifth in the 200-yard butterfly, and diver Scott Fosdick, a sophomore, was second in the one-meter event.

Pablo Morales, Stanford

In addition, Reese can look to top-10 finishers Matt Cetlinski (freestyle) and Bobby Laugherty (breaststroke), as well as top freshman recruits Paul Wallace, Jerry Frentzos and Jayme Taylor.

But the Gators will have just three meets to prepare for a rematch with Texas, the only team to defeat Florida (9-1) in dual-meet competition last season.

The Longhorns, host of the 1985 NCAA championships, invade Gainesville, Florida, with all but three members of last year's 7-2 dual-meet team and a score to settle. Texas, coached by Randy Reese's brother, Eddie, will have to cope with the loss of Olympic backstroke Rick Carey, winner of the NCAA 100 and 200 backstroke crowns and a member of the winning medley-relay team.

Helped by senior Matt Scoggin, the two-time one-meter diving champion, and a strong core of butterfly swimmers, Texas will try to defend its Southwest Conference title against Southern Methodist, the 1984 SWC runner-up and fifth-place NCAA team.

The Texas butterfly trio of sophomore Bill Stapleton and juniors Chris Rives and Ken Flaherty; fourth-place backstroke Glenn McCall, and Stuart Smith, third in the backstroke, provide a solid foundation for the Longhorns.

Southern Methodist will not stop dead in the water with a returning crew that includes Ricardo Prado, an Olympic silver medalist in the butterfly and NCAA 200 and 400 individual medley champion. Only a junior, Prado was second in the 200 butterfly. He will be joined by junior Cory Robinson, SWC 500 freestyle champion; junior Mook Rhodenbaugh, who was third in the NCAA 100 backstroke, and junior Rich Saeger, third in the 200 freestyle. Sophomore Mike Short was fifth in the NCAA 50 freestyle; and coach George McMillion, who is 130-28 in 13 years at Southern Methodist, added top recruits Tim Genz and Andy Everatt.

On the West Coast, Stanford, UCLA and California are coming off very strong performances and should battle again for the national crown. The Stanford Cardinal, a favorite to win the 1985 title, may have the right ingredients to win its first crown since 1967. Coach Skip Kenney suits up a team rich in experience and strong in depth, led by Pablo Morales, a two-event NCAA champion and member of the U.S. Olympic team's gold-medal 400-meter relay squad. He also won silver medals in the 100 butterfly and 200 individual medley and set the American 100 butterfly record at the NCAA championships as a freshman.

With Morales are fellow Olympians John Moffett, a junior and former world-record holder in the 100-meter breaststroke and winner of the 100 and 200 breaststrokes at the national finals last season. Jeff Kostoff, a sophomore, set the American, NCAA and pool records in the 1,650 freestyle; was second in the 500 freestyle, and placed third in the 400 individual medley before making the Olympic team.

Unbeaten the past two seasons in dual-meet competition and winner of three consecutive Pacific-10 Conference crowns, Stanford can look to Dave Bottom, Mike Conaton, Jon Denney, David Loudon, David Lundberg and Sam McAdam for depth.

At UCLA, coach Ron Ballatore's Bruins would like to repeat their 1982 national championship season. Junior Tom Jager returns to defend his NCAA 50 and 100 freestyle championships. He also tied for second in the 100-yard butterfly and will be joined by an experienced crew including seniors Bruce Dorman (butterfly), Dave Cherek (breaststroke) and Bruce Hayes (medleys and freestyle). Freshman Olympians Giovanni Minervini and Rolf Dicgel are the top newcomers, and junior John Sauerland (sprints and relays) and sophomore distance swimmer John-Henry Escalas will lend support.

California boasts six all-Americas in addition to three medal-winning Olympians, led by senior Bengt Baron, who won medals in 1980 and 1984.

Sophomore Matt Biondi took a gold in the 400-meter freestyle relay, and John Mykkanen won the silver in the 400-meter freestyle. Sophomore T.A. Biase, senior Alan Gresham, and juniors Thomas Lejdstrom, Michael Soderlund, Rick Gill and David Roach each earned all-America honors in 1983-84. The Golden Bears did not lose a single point scorer from their sixth-place NCAA team.

Alabama coach Don Gambriel's returning crew includes all-America swimmers Bryan Jennings (backstroke), Don Berger (freestyle), Marcello Juca (freestyle), Andreas Schmidt (freestyle), Jay Posey (freestyle) and Filiberto Colon (butterfly).

Add to that list three summer Olympic finalists and the Crimson Tide should be right in the thick of the Southeastern Conference race. Justin Lemberg won a bronze medal for Australia at the Olympics while Frank Iacno of France was fifth and Jon Sieben won the gold in the butterfly. Sieben will be at Alabama to start the second semester.

Matadors (who else?) among top Division II contenders

During the 21 years Division II men's swimming and diving teams have battled for the national championship, no team has dominated the sport like Cal State Northridge. Last year's title was the Matadors' fourth straight and eighth in the past 10 years under coach Pete Accardy, whose 147-28 record is a testament to the program's success.

In addition to three second-place finishes, Cal State Northridge claims the highest point total at a national tournament (444 in 1982) and the largest margin of victory (199½ points in 1981). No team has won as many individual championships (45), and only UC Irvine and Cal State Chico have won the championship three times.

Whether the Matadors' domination continues in 1984-85 remains to be seen, but Accardy's troops certainly will be a contender again.

Intact is the record-setting 400-yard relay team of Scott Grigsby, Reed Gerswind, Bruce Parker and Danny Kleiser that established the meet standard of 3:03.32. Parker earned all-America honors in six events and was a member of the winning 400-yard medley team with Grigsby.

Gerswind finished third in the 200 freestyle, and one- and three-meter diver Blair Nogosek, a junior, was among the top four in both events. The Matadors appear strong in all events except the 200 butterfly and are especially powerful in the middle distances.

The Pioneers of Oakland, NCAA runner-up the past two years, will depend on four veterans as they shoot for their second national title. In fact, since 1979, Oakland has been runner-up to Cal State Northridge four times, reversing roles with the Matadors in 1980.

Coach Pete Hovland and crew will have to overcome the loss of three-time swimmer-of-the-year Tracy Huth, who won two events and was part of the winning 800-yard freestyle relay team last year. Hovland, however, ranks his recruits among the finest in the program's history.

Back from last season are juniors Jeff Colton (backstroke) and Matt Croghan (1,650 freestyle), senior John Christiansen (butterfly), and sophomore Steve Larson (freestyle) to take on an extremely demanding schedule that includes Michigan State, Purdue, Miami (Ohio), Michigan and Division III champion Kenyon.

Clarion had its best team last year (7-0 in duals, third at the NCAA) but graduated four all-Americas.

However, Bill Miller's tradition at Clarion the past seven years includes only four dual-meet losses in 55 appearances. With six swimmers and two divers back from 1983-84 and a solid recruiting effort, the Golden Eagles should not be counted out, both nationally and within the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference, where they will be seeking their 15th straight championship.

Divers Mike Cherwenka and Bill Kokinos return and must take up the slack now that Kevin O'Neil, winner of the one- and three-meter diving titles, has graduated.

Miller will rely on swimmers Vic Ruberry (breaststroke), Jim Hersh (freestyle), Dave Holmes (freestyle), Tim Wojtaszek (freestyle), Tim Fahey (freestyle) and Jack Gardner (distance), along with recruits Mike Lalli, a Navy transfer; freshmen James Bowers and Chris Gordon in the butterfly and Dave Peura in the backstroke. In addition, junior college all-America diver Jim Daley and freshman Dale LaFrance join the crew.

Ruberry, Clarion record holder in the 100 breaststroke and top-five finisher at the nationals, swam with his native Bermuda team in the 1984 Summer Olympics.

Shippensburg will rely on Doug Myers, who set a Division II record of 1:50.66 in winning the 200-yard butterfly. A senior, Myers took second in both the 200 and 500 freestyle events.

The Red Raiders, second to Clarion in conference standings with a 10-1 dual-meet record, will find additional experience in sophomore Jack Cahillane (freestyle), David Kees (butterfly), Greg Chew (freestyle) and Doug German (freestyle).

Four juniors — Jon Staley (diving), Derek Coon (breaststroke), Paul Perich (backstroke) and Scott Carney (butterfly) — and sophomore Martin Rodseth (freestyle) provide the experience at Missouri-Rolla, which finished ninth at the NCAA championships last season.

Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo's first-year coach Traci Serpa is confident the Mustangs will improve on last year's 10th-place finish. Brian Wilkerson (backstroke), Eric Rinde (individual medley) and Kirk Simon (freestyle) return to lead a talented group of freshmen and transfers.

St. Cloud State goes after its fourth straight North Central Conference title and should be the favorite. Mark Tollefson, a senior, gained all-America honors in the 100 and 200 breaststrokes, finishing third and fourth in the events at the nationals. Tom Swanson (freestyle), a sophomore, and junior Tom Ruehle (freestyle) also return.

Tampa set national records in the 400 freestyle relay and 200 individual medley last season when it finished sixth in the nation. Sophomore freestylers Mike Hlafast, Chris Gregory, Eric Nordheim and George Brew are back, as is junior Bill Key (butterfly). Coach Ed Brennan has added high school all-America Dave Hunter to the butterfly crew.

At least seven women's teams capable of winning it all

The winners of the first three NCAA Division I Women's Swimming and Diving Championships — Florida, Stanford and Texas — are capable of winning another title, but many other teams will be top contenders in 1984-85.

Florida will be without the services of Tracy Caulkins and Megan Neyer, winners of 18 NCAA titles. Stanford and Texas return most of their top performers, but many others, including Southern Illinois, Michigan, Alabama and Southern California, could move into the winner's circle.

The defending champion Longhorns return nine of the team's 11 freshmen who made up more than half of Texas' 18-member roster (13 all-Americans), and coach Richard Quick added two national high school champions to the team.

As impressive as the list of returning and new swimmers and divers might be, the list of losses on a national level is equally impressive.

Caulkins, the most prolific scorer in the history of women's swimming, will be missed. She will not return for her senior year after winning three Olympic gold medals and 12 NCAA titles and setting 61 American records. Neyer, a six-time NCAA springboard champion who swept the one- and three-meter events three straight years, will be hard to replace.

Texas must overcome the departures of Swedish Olympic swimmer Agnetta Eriksson, who won the NCAA 100-yard freestyle, and Norwegian diver Tine Tollan. Both opted to forgo collegiate competition.

North Carolina lost Sue Walsh, who won the 100- and 200-yard backstroke crowns three consecutive years and set the NCAA 200 meet record of 1:58.82.

At Texas, Quick may be lacking in college-level experience, but he has plenty of talent. Newcomer Tiffany Cohen from Mission Viejo, California, is the American record holder in the 1,650-yard freestyle, won 12 national titles and picked up the gold medal in a record-breaking 400-meter freestyle at the Olympics. Her time of 4:07.10 was an American and Olympic record, as was her gold-medal time in the 800.

Another freshman, Kim Rhodenbaugh of Cincinnati, Ohio, is a five-time national breaststroke champion, an area in which Texas has been weak in the past.

Back from last year are all-American Kirsten Wengler; Canadian Olympian Carol Klimpel, who red-shirted last season to train for the Olympics; Tori Trees, runner-up in the NCAA 100 and 200 backstrokes, and sophomore Kara McGrath, third in the 200 butterfly.

Stanford coach George Haines, who has won one national title and finished second twice in the past three years while building a 31-2 dual-meet record, will rest his hopes on a large contingent of returnees. Heading the list are senior Susan Rapp, silver medalist in the 200-meter Olympic breaststroke and defending NCAA 200-yard breaststroke champion, and senior Marybeth Linzmeier, defending 200-, 500- and 1,650-yard freestyle champion.

Without Caulkins, Neyer and all-American Kathy Treible, Florida coach Randy Reese will rely on seven strong recruits and four returning all-Americans to provide the depth the Gators lacked last year when only nine swimmers and three divers were on the squad. Holly Green (butterfly), Christi Woolger (individual medley), Olympic gold medalist Mary Wayne (freestyle) and three-meter diver Mary Hummer are all back. Reese hopes the addition of Canadian diver Debbie Fuller will offset Neyer's loss. Fuller is considered Canada's best all-around diver.

Reese expects freshman Karin Werth, another Mission Viejo product, and Beverly Acker to score for Florida, a team looking for its fifth straight Southeastern Conference championship.

Alabama and Auburn, though, will have something to say about which team puts the SEC trophy in its case. Crimson Tide mentor Don Gambriel said his 1984-85 team is "the best women's team we've ever had." Auburn added nine outstanding freshmen to an already powerful team.

Alabama freestyler Kim Nicholson set a school record in the 50-yard event and helped the 200-yard medley relay team establish another Crimson Tide mark. Relay teammate Jennifer Brothers returns, as does sophomore Sandi Sciples, who set the Alabama 100-yard butterfly record. Angelika Knipping, a West German Olympian in the breaststroke, will help in the relays and sprints. The addition of three freshman divers doubles the size of the diving squad.

Auburn coach John Asmuth looks to the backstroke as the team's strength. Success in the freestyles and individual medleys will depend on the development of nine freshmen. Sandra McIntyre (backstroke), Libby Pruden (freestyle), Darci Bodner (backstroke) and diver Jenny Chapman return after national-championship appearances.

North Carolina goes after its fifth consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference championship and another unbeaten dual-meet season without Walsh, who won 11 national collegiate titles. All-American Martha McCann (butterfly), Sue Scott (freestyle) and Sarah Durstein (freestyle) provide experience for the Tar Heels. Polly Winde (breaststroke, freestyle, individual medley) and freshmen Susan O'Brien (backstroke) and Melanie Buddemeyer (butterfly, freestyle) were finalists at the Olympic trials.

Southern California's recruiting class could be just the ticket for a trip to the national championships. Two of the top recent recruits for coach Don Lamont are freshman diver Wendy Wyland, who won the bronze medal at the Summer Olympics, and spring freestyler Heather Strang from Michigan.

Ten all-Americans return to the Trojans' pool, including Canadian Olympian Anne Ottenbrite, winner of the gold medal in the 200-meter breaststroke; Michelle Ford, who won the 1980 Olympic gold in the 800-meter freestyle; Sue Habernigg, the 1982 NCAA 200-yard freestyle champion, and Lisa Wen, who represented Taiwan at the 1984 Olympics.

Eight of 10 Southern Illinois all-Americans are back, and the Salukis appear strong in the breaststroke and distance freestyle events. Three-time all-American Amanda Martin (breaststroke) and Janic Coontz (freestyle) will pace Southern Illinois in its quest for another unbeaten dual-meet season. A tough schedule that includes Auburn and Alabama will not make it an easy chore.

Notes: Eastern Kentucky, New Orleans and Providence will debut in NCAA competition, while Laura Baumhofer is the new coach at Oregon State. . . . East Coast Conference champion Drexel returns five conference titlists who combined to set 10 school records during a 9-1 1983-84 dual-meet season. . . . Two-time all-American Tammy Pease leads Kansas in its quest for an 11th straight Big Eight title. . . . Big Eight diving champ Sarah Newcombe and Dawn Lamarca, 100-yard breaststroke champion, return at Oklahoma, which boasts an extremely strong diving team. . . . Michigan lost four seniors but returns Canadian Olympians Melinda Copp, Naomi Marubashi and Louise Webster.

Six of Houston's swimmers represented their native countries in the Summer Olympics. . . . Washington puts its dual-meet record of 39 straight victories on the line. Nancy Gillingham, holder of four school records, returns. . . . Clemson set 16 school records last season. . . . Nevada-Las Vegas defends its Pacific Coast Athletic Association title in a league expanded from three to five teams. . . . Mary T. Meagher, winner of Olympic gold medals in the 100 and 200 butterflys, leads California in pursuit of its fourth NorPac Conference championship. . . . Eastern three-meter champ Mary Ellen Clark is back at Penn State. . . . South Carolina will have to make up for graduation losses to repeat as Metro Conference champion, a feat accomplished in its first year in the league. Returning all-Americans Kathy O'Donnel and Lisa Williams should help.

Six of eight all-Americans are back at Georgia but must go against a schedule that includes five of last year's top 15 teams. . . . Five swimmers and one diver return to La Salle's Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference championship team. . . . Increased depth could be the key for Notre Dame.

Clarion hopes to rebuild in time to defend Division II title

After winning the last two NCAA Division II women's titles and seven of the past eight (including association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women), Clarion is rebuilding.

Jeanne O'Connor, Terri Peot and Joyce Skoog — owners of three relay championships and two individual crowns — have graduated. Coach Becky Leas returns a good nucleus but any depth will have to come from the freshman class.

"We have some top-notch swimmers and divers on the 1984-85 team, but we'll need some help from our freshman recruits to stay in that top group at nationals," Leas said. "I think we can be there again, but we really have our work cut out for us this year, more than during any of the past five seasons. In some respects, we simply lack that nationals experience, and that's what concerns me."

Tina Bair and A'Lisa Woicicki, members of Clarion's record-setting 200-yard freestyle relay team and experienced medley swimmers, return along with SueLynn Langdon. Leas' freshman crew includes four-time high school all-American Holly Edwards and divers Doria Mamalo and Kathy Mulrow.

But the team will have to come together quickly because of the competition offered by Cal State Northridge, South Florida, Oakland, Boston College, Furman and North Dakota.

Cal State Northridge teams have finished first, second and third since the NCAA Division II championships began three years ago.

Seniors Michelle Hampton, who finished second in the 1,650-yard freestyle in 1984, and Tracey McCluskey (freestyle) are back, along with Marion Gelhaus, who was third in three-meter diving. Butterfly specialists Krista Lawrence and Michelle Barnett will be joined by Laurie Kent (freestyle).

Coach Pete Accardy, whose men's team is the defending national division champion, expects freestyle and butterfly to be the team's strengths, while diving will have more depth with three new potential scorers.

South Florida coach Bill Mann has all four scorers back from last season's NCAA third-place team and had an excellent recruiting year. Alicia McHugh, winner of the 100-yard freestyle; Nancy Bercaw (breaststroke); Maggie Mortell (backstroke), and Merit Greaves (breaststroke) provide the foundation. Auburn transfer Dawn Hewitt will add additional experience. McHugh, Bercaw and Greaves were on the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Oakland beat three Division I schools before finishing fourth at the NCAA championships last year and returns top performers Kim Pogue (freestyle), Kathy Van Valkenburg (backstroke) and Linda Scott (freestyle).

Boston College's Tara McKenna

became the school's first individual NCAA champion last season with victories in the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke events, and she returns to defend her titles. Four seniors — Mary Kennedy, Denise Callahan, Cris Aloia and Linda Dixon — join top juniors Sheila Malloy and Diane Flaherty and three freshmen on the Eagles' roster.

Coach Tom Groden lost his top diver from last season — national three-meter champion Susan Dales — but could pick up points from freshman diver Linda Gailius and first-year swimmers Kathy Koval, Susie Sullivan and Cathy Glynn.

North Dakota's Kim Edwards had an outstanding sophomore season last year. She broke eight school and five conference records en route to the 50-yard national freestyle championship. A 12-time all-American pick, Edwards is in strong company with Peggy Schmidt, a four-time all-American, and Mary Beth Dunlevy, a six-time all-American selection.

Furman sophomore Paula Boehme opened her NCAA career with national championships in the 100 and 200 butterfly events and helped the Lady Paladins to a sixth-place NCAA finish. Coach Howard Wheeler hopes to better the team's 8-3 dual-meet record with returning swimmers Rita Brodnisk (freestyle), Lisa Blackwell (butterfly), Ann-Marie Lill (freestyle) and Kim Paskal (freestyle).

Depth may again be a problem for Tampa, despite the addition of freshmen Gail Thompson (butterfly), and Laura Atteberry (freestyle sprints) and transfer Janet Pietroforte (backstroke). Donna Strong returns from last season's eighth-place NCAA team.

Title hopes reBorn at Kenyon, five-time men's winner

The good news for national champion Kenyon is bad news for the rest of the Division III men's swimming and diving teams.

The Lords, winners of five national titles, boast a roster that includes 15 all-America swimmers. Among that group is junior Jim Born, who established the Division III 100-yard freestyle record en route to the championship. Born, also the defending 100-yard butterfly champ, was a member of Kenyon's three winning relay teams.

He will be joined by sophomores George Pond, 1,650-yard freestyle record holder (15:46.04); Craig Hummer (individual medley), and J.B. Goessman (breaststroke); junior Karel Sterek (backstroke), and senior John Callinan (backstroke).

Kenyon lost only one member from each of the 400- and 800-yard freestyle relay teams and two swimmers from the 400-yard medley relay team.

Coach Jim Steen has scheduled mostly Divisions I and II programs in preparation for the NCAA finals, where Kenyon's 260½-point victory margin last year was the largest in history.

Like Kenyon, Claremont-Mudd-Scripps will have familiar faces on the roster with 11 of 12 national qualifiers back in the pool alongside six freshmen. The Stags, runners-up the past two seasons, are seeking their fourth straight Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference title. Coach Michael Sutton has a 35-7 overall record and 24-1 SCIAC dual-meet mark.

Tom Harrison, who finished 15th in the Division I 400-yard individual medley, owns the Division III crown, and the junior heads up the Claremont returning class. Other juniors are Nick Bagatelos (breaststroke), Ned Busch (individual medley) and Ben Stern (individual medley).

Eric Ryba (butterfly) and Greg Stoll (freestyle) are the top sophomore swimmers, and David Neault (backstroke) leads the senior contingent. Sophomore diver Derck Eberhardt, runner-up in the three-meter event and sixth in the one-meter, also is back.

UC San Diego has nine all-Americans and a support crew filled with transfers who join a program that has shown continued improvement since finishing 15th in the 1977-78 National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics championships. Last year, the Tritons were third, 6½ points behind Claremont-Mudd-Scripps.

Seniors Pete Ackhoff (freestyle) and Dave Reed (breaststroke, freestyle), and junior Cutch Cramer (freestyle) are back from their runner-up finishes in the 400 and 800 freestyle relays. Other key returnees are senior all-America Jeff Enright (freestyle); John Irwin (individual medley), a senior all-America who was ineligible last season; sophomore Sean Wiggins, an all-America freestyler, and juniors Chris Manolis (breaststroke), Pat Simpson (breaststroke) and Eric Vitcenda (backstroke).

Joining UC San Diego this season is Roger Brisbane, a California-Riverside transfer who won the Division II 100-yard butterfly national championship; Dave Higdon, an all-America freestyler at California; Nevada-Las Vegas transfer Greg Jordan (butterfly), and high school All-America Jeff Stabile.

Three seniors, three juniors and two sophomores offer Williams coach Carl Samuelson reasons for optimism after the Ephs' 8-0 dual-meet record and fourth-place national finish.

Robert Kirkpatrick (breaststroke), John Peloso (backstroke) and Peter Orphanos (butterfly) head the upperclassmen; juniors William Andrew (freestyle, backstroke), Bill Couch (butterfly, individual medley) and

Jim Born, Kenyon

Steve DeLano (freestyle) also return. Chris Kiwan (breaststroke) and Scott Robinson (freestyle) are the top sophomores.

At St. Olaf, sixth at the NCAA championships last year, sophomore Robert Hauck will defend his national 100 and 200 backstroke championships after an unbeaten dual-meet season in 1983-84. Seniors John Rydberg (freestyle), and Marcus Gernes (butterfly), junior Stuart Noun (breaststroke), and sophomore Bill Bloomberg (breaststroke) have the experience to support six strong freshman recruits.

Coach Rich Burrows takes over the Denison program and has all but one individual scorer from last season's NCAA seventh-place team. Sprinter Sean McLellan, who owns the 50-yard freestyle record, is not attending Denison during the first semester but is expected to return for the second semester.

Burrows will look for strength from sophomores Tom Anderson (breaststroke) and John Malarney (freestyle), juniors Rob Danielson (breaststroke, freestyle) and Rich George (freestyle), and seniors Mike Lavery (freestyle) and Paul Thielking (backstroke).

Alfred's biggest concern will be replacing Howard Seidman, winner of six NCAA breaststroke titles. Nevertheless, seven all-America swimmers return, and coach Mike Schaeberle hopes to duplicate last year's 10-0 dual-meet mark and improve the eighth-place national finish.

MIT coach John Benedick goes after his third straight winning season and will have all-Americans Andy Renshaw (butterfly) and diver Clark Dorman to lead the way.

Gary Mauks assumes control of an established program at Rochester Institute of Technology. All-America Jim Shank, a junior freestyler, leads an experienced squad. Jeff Smith (freestyle) and Tim Merriman (breaststroke) are the top seniors; Shank, Karl Wilbanks (butterfly) and Damon Georgia (freestyle) pace the junior class. Scott Ingwers (butterfly, backstroke) and Earl Hollinshead (freestyle) are the top returning sophomores.

Notes: Six all-America swimmers return at Grove City, which was 11-1 in dual meets and 12th at the national championships. Gordon Brown takes over at John Carroll. Lake Forest returns 11 veterans and recruited nine prospects. Tom Kaczowski makes his debut at Ohio Northern. Wisconsin-Milwaukee broke 12 school records in 1983-84 en route to an 8-4 dual meet and 13th-place national finish. Four all-America swimmers return. Mount Union will compete in the Penn-Ohio meet, a Divisions I and II tournament, because the Ohio Athletic Conference eliminated swimming as a championship event.

Kenyon women seek second title in row

Kenyon freestyler Patty Abt made quite a splash during her freshman season last year when the Lords won their first title in the NCAA Division III Women's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Abt set championship records in winning the 50-, 100-, and 200-yard freestyle titles and was on the record-setting 200- and 400-yard freestyle relay championship teams. She is one of the reasons Kenyon coach James Steen is confident about the Lords' chances this year.

Seniors Karen Agee and Renee Pannebaker also return from the freestyle relay teams, and Steen brought in 11 freshmen to complement the returning contingent. Nadine Nell is the top junior swimmer after third-place national finishes in both the 200 and 400 breaststrokes, but Kenyon will be without Lori Thompson, 500 freestyle champion, who left school.

Nine of Hamline's 12 all-Americans are back, but losses may prove costly for the 1983-84 national runner-up. Five-time all-America Paula McDonald and seven-time selections Holly Hawker and Barb Lee are gone, and all-America diver Ann Kelly chose to compete in gymnastics this season.

Coach Marty Knight has seniors Sue Brings (individual medley) and Sue Kortz (breaststroke) and sophomore Jane Rotman (butterfly) for experience, but he will need the freshman class to fill in the gaps.

Graduation did not cost Pomona-Pitzer a single swimmer or diver from its third-place NCAA team, and the Sage Hens could be a challenger this year.

Lyn Cunliffe, who broke the 400-yard individual medley record in taking the title, leads a strong crew of returnees, including the winning 800-yard freestyle relay team of Amy Dantzer, Karah Coe, Kristin McQueen and Ellen Roc. Pomona-Pitzer coach Penny Dean recruited 10 freshmen to join veterans Daniela Stepman (breaststroke), Liane Stevenson (backstroke) and Amanda Wright (butterfly, freestyle).

The Sage Hens have won the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference crown eight straight years and are 38-1 during the same period in dual-meet competition under Dean's direction.

Williams also is rich in returning talent with national record setters Katherine Eckrich, Joan Horgan, Susan Knapp and Kathryn Kirmayer.

Eckrich won the 50, 100 and 200 breaststroke events in record time. She also set the standard in the 100-yard individual medley and joined Kirmayer and Horgan in winning the 200-yard medley relay. Horgan, who established the 200 backstroke mark, teamed with Eckrich and Knapp to set the record in the 400-yard medley relay.

Coach Carl Samuelson, whose Williams teams won the 1982 and 1983 national championships, also can rely on seniors Myla Jordan (freestyle) and Jonna Jurucz (freestyle) and junior Jennifer Raymond (freestyle).

Four all-America swimmers will lead UC San Diego, which finished sixth in 1983-84. Junior Alison Gilmore and seniors Barbara Lee, Karen Schramm and Jacki Van Egmond scored in relay events, and junior Irene Mons picked up points in the 100 butterfly at the 1982 national championships. Six freshman swimmers and sophomore Leann Brown complete the roster.

Wheaton (Illinois) coach Jon Lederhouse hopes for better health for his team this year. Last year, both Linda Chambers and Melody Hopkins were hampered by illness or injury and still finished second in their respective events. Holly Flickinger and Lori Martin also return to the defending Illinois state champion. All four were named all-Americans last season.

Bowdoin's five returning all-Americans may give the Polar Bears the edge in battling Williams for New England honors. Robin Raushenbush was third in the 200 butterfly and fourth in the 100-yard event at the national championships, and Anne Dean set the Bowdoin record in the 50 backstroke last season. Sophomore Julie Coogan established the freshman 1,650 freestyle mark.

The team of Ann Hennessey, Michelle Roy, Heather Taylor and Raushenbush should make the medley and freestyle relay teams very competitive.

YOUR SPORTS TRAINING TEAM JUST GOT A WINNER.

Now you've got a book as big as the field itself, the medical care and training of career, amateur and recreational athletes, from the sunrise jogger to the high-priced pro.

Encouraged by the National Athletic Trainers Association, we developed this all-inclusive, professional book to deal with every aspect of prevention, care and reconditioning to help stem the tide of the estimated two million athletes who are injured annually.

At your fingertips you'll have more than 600 pages detailing the latest advances in 51 comprehensive chapters, including conditioning, prevention, musculoskeletal injury management, emergency care, special medical considerations, rehabilitation and an extensive section on the knee. Then, to clarify terms, a complete glossary has been provided.

Naturally, you'd want a book this broad to be amply illustrated, so we've added over 450 drawings, charts, x-rays, photos and diagrams to aid understanding.

A book this thorough requires a team approach. So, better than 50 contributors—orthopaedic surgeons, other physicians, athletic trainers and allied experts—combined to assure the kind of accuracy and timeliness you can count on.

Chances are this single up-to-date volume by itself could replace a collection of other books and still deliver knowledge.

Adding this winner to your sports training team is as easy as completing and mailing the coupon below. Or calling 1-800/519-5199 (in Illinois 1-800/972-5855) and using your charge card to order. Of course, your satisfaction is guaranteed.

New meet format puts premium on excitement

By David P. Seifert
The NCAA News Staff

Regional allocations and double-round-robin tournaments bring thoughts of meetings instead of meets, but changes in these procedures are expected to bring more excitement to the NCAA Men's Fencing Championships. Changes in the NCAA Women's Fencing Championships will not be as sweeping, but the intent is the same.

The NCAA Men's Fencing Committee has made extensive changes in the method of selecting championships participants and the way in which individuals advance through the competition. The changes, which place a premium on performance, are intended to make the meet more interesting.

"In the former system, a pool winner could remain unknown until the points were tallied," said secretary-rules editor Alfred R. Peredo of Bernard M. Baruch College. "Now, it should be easy to pinpoint the fencers who are contending for the national championship in each weapon."

To get that chance, fencers will have to qualify through a complex system of regional allocations that combine sponsorship levels with past performance in each geographical area.

Approximately 60 percent of the field (54 participants) will be determined by the number of institutions that sponsor men's fencing in each region. The remaining 36 fencers are determined by performance of the top 12 finishers in each weapon for the previous three NCAA championships.

The system gives the East, where sponsorship is highest, 58 of the 90 participants — 20 in sabre and 19 each in foil and epee. The Midwest is allocated six positions in sabre, seven in foil and eight in epee; the West receives four each in sabre and foil and three in epee.

"It's the first time the committee has determined these allocations mathematically — all the committee members had their calculators out at the meeting," Peredo said. "The combination of performance and sponsorship should result in an equitable system."

The 30 fencers in each weapon will start competition in six pools to determine seeding for the rest of the tournament. In the next round, six of the seeded fencers are eliminated to cut the field to 24. Another preliminary round reduces the group to 16. Those final 16 in each weapon compete in a 10-touch, double-elimination tournament.

"The format is more American than the current international system, which uses double elimination until eight fencers are left and then goes to direct-elimination finals," Peredo explained. "The committee believed it would be more fair to use the same system all the way through the tournament."

Changing the system may not change the results, though. Midwest powers Wayne State (Michigan) and Notre Dame again will join the East's Columbia, Pennsylvania and New York University as preseason favorites. In the past 20 years, only Detroit (1972) has prevented one of those five from winning the national championship.

This year's individual competition should be strong, since all three champions return: New York University's Michael Lofton (sabre), Wayne State's Ettore Bianchi (epee) and Notre Dame's Charles Higgs-Coulthard (foil).

The return of sabre stars Brian Keane and Chris Fowlkes could move 1984 runner-up Penn State one notch higher. Higgs-Coulthard is one of four returning Notre Dame fencers who finished in the top 14 in one of the three events last year.

Wayne State has won three consecutive team titles and five of the past six. Foil runner-up Stephan Kogler will team with Bianchi, and Australian national foil champion Peter Disdale will help ease some key losses.

Wayne State's women's team, which finished first in 1982 and second in 1983, also looked overseas for help. Sara Nuttal of Australia and Laura Galassi of Italy may be Wayne State's top two performers.

It may take more than that to move the title from the East, though. Penn State, Columbia and Yale all return two of last year's top 10 finishers, and Temple has two of the top 20 returning. Individual champion Mary Jane O'Neill of Pennsylvania also is back.

Women's competition again will be limited to foil, and a separate tournament will determine the team champion. The success of that format has led the committee to make only minor changes in this year's meet.

Last year, team competition was held the final two days in an attempt to maximize excitement and fan interest. That increased the emphasis on individual play, though, which was not the committee's intent. It also meant that injuries could play a large part in the outcome of the team tournament. This year, the team portion returns to the beginning of the March 21-23 event at Notre Dame.

Both championships again will be held at the same site (the men's meet is March 19-20) but not at the same time.

Best men's fencers

Lofton faces challenge to repeat

When a student-athlete's career begins the way Michael Lofton's did, the obvious question is whether there is anything left to achieve.

Lofton ripped through New York University opponents for a 57-1 record as a freshman, capping the year by winning the sabre title at the 1984 NCAA Men's Fencing Championships. His collegiate debut was a prelude to the summer, when Lofton earned a spot on the U.S. Olympic fencing team.

Most Olympic fencers were older than Lofton. Sabre fencers usually do not reach peak performance until 30 years of age, so he is one of the youngest world-class sabre stars.

With Lofton's help, NYU finished fifth in NCAA team competition, and the Violets should contend for the title again this year. He is favored to retain his individual championship, which would put him halfway toward a goal never achieved in NCAA competition.

No men's fencer has won four individual titles, but Lofton has a chance. Wayne State's (Michigan) Ernest Simon, who won foil championships in 1978, 1980 and 1981, was the most recent three-time champion. Bruce Soriano of Columbia (1970, 1971, 1972) is the only three-time sabre winner.

The top teams and individuals in NCAA men's fencing, listed by region, include the following:

East

Top teams — Columbia, Pennsylvania, New York University, Penn State, Yale, Johns Hopkins, North Carolina, Princeton, Duke, William and Mary, St. John's (New York), MIT.

Top individuals — Epee: Greg Petranek, St. John's (New York) (14-9, 5th in NCAA); Charles Melcher, Yale (10th); Kevin Bunn, North Carolina (18-6, 28th); Jeremy Bruce, Navy (13-9, 29th); Steve Trevor, Columbia; Michael Harill, St. John's (New York) (20-13); Michael Robolio, Haverford.

Foil: Russell Holtz, MIT (7th); Demetrius Valsamis, New York University (9th); Andy Goldberg, Johns Hopkins (23rd); Steve Kiefer, Duke (44-15, 29th); Mark Elvin, North Carolina; Larry Wilson, Pennsylvania; Ben Mazza, Drew; Wei-Tai Kwok, Yale.

Women fencers see best year ahead

This might be collegiate women fencers' finest hour.

The top nine finishers from the 1984 NCAA Women's Fencing Championships return, including champion Mary Jane O'Neill of Pennsylvania. Intra-state rival Jana Angelakis of Penn State, the 1983 individual champion, also is back. Several other school record holders add to the elite cast, such as Navy's Nancy Heckman (34 victories is a single-season record) and three-time Virginia state champ Gretchen Schmidt of William and Mary.

Angelakis entered last year's meet favored to repeat as individual winner but was upset by Katie Bilodeaux of Columbia. Later, Yale's Andrea Metkus eliminated Angelakis, who finished fifth.

Champion O'Neill's closest bout was the final against Metkus. O'Neill finished fourth in 1983.

Seven of the nine national contenders are from the East (Northeast and Mid-Atlantic/South regions). The top five squads in 1984 team competition also were from that area. Midwest and West Coast contenders will challenge the Eastern teams, but when the season starts, it is clear where eyes will turn first.

Top teams and individuals in women's fencing, listed by region, include the following:

Northeast

Top teams — Columbia-Barnard, Yale, St. John's (New York), MIT, Cornell, Wellesley.

Top individuals — Andrea Metkus, Yale (18-0, 2nd in NCAA); Lisa Piazza, Columbia-Barnard (4th); Katie Bilodeaux, Columbia-Barnard (6th); Sue Kendall-Cook, Yale (43-10, 8th); Jessica Yu, Yale (47-3, 12th); Christine Hamori, Cornell (14-1, 13th); Sharon Monplaisir, Hunter (3rd in 1983); Terry Silvia, Rhode Island College (35-18); Alice Thompson, New York University; Michelle Madden, Columbia-Barnard; Sio Moss, Cornell.

Mid-Atlantic/South

Top teams — Pennsylvania, Temple, Penn State, North Carolina, Duke, Randolph-Macon Woman's, William and Mary.

Top individuals — Mary Jane O'Neill, Pennsylvania (15-0-1, 1st); Jana Angelakis, Penn State (91-2 career, 5th); Hope Wells Meyer, Penn

State (3rd); Rachael Hayes, Temple (24-8, 9th); Mindy Wichick, Temple (23-12, 18th); Amy Riebman, Duke (38-27); Toyken Yec, Stevens Tech (47-7); Karen Marnell, North Carolina (49-9); Nancy Heckman, Navy (34-7); Gretchen Schmidt, William and Mary (146-49 career); Cathy Coyle, Duke (38-24).

Midwest

Top teams — Notre Dame, Wayne State (Michigan), Ohio State, Wisconsin, Northwestern.

Top individuals — Csaga Hovanyi, Ohio State (14th); Kathy Watson, Wayne State; Chris Urban, Northwestern (64-37); Molly Sullivan, Notre Dame; Rosemary Gara, Detroit (44-9); Cana Garcia, Cleveland State (51-13); Janet Sullivan, Notre Dame (26-12).

West

Top teams — San Jose State, Stanford, Air Force, Cal State Fullerton.

Top individuals — Jennifer Yu, Stanford (66-3, 7th); Katie Coombs, San Jose State (54-10, 19th); Chrissy Dickerson, Air Force; Holly Taylor, Stanford (54-8); Debbie Gossman, San Jose State.

Cal State Northridge contributed to that razor's edge by dropping the sport this year. They also affected the quality of men's fencing, which has 66 teams, since Northridge finished eighth last year and Long Beach State 15th.

Concern about the sport will continue as the championships approach, but time will move the focus away from the institutions and closer to the individual champions who return to both meets in 1985.

Midwest

Top teams — Wayne State (Michigan), Notre Dame, Illinois, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Michigan State.

Top individuals — Epee: Ettore Bianchi, Wayne State (1st); Andy Quaroni, Notre Dame (35-3, 6th); Tim Gillham, Wisconsin (36-6, 17th); Rich Chiao, Illinois (53-18, 25th).

Foil: Charles Higgs-Coulthard, Notre Dame (43-6, 1st); Stefan Cheval, Wayne State (4th); Sunil Sabharwal, Ohio State (6th); Mike Pederson, Wisconsin (38-4, 13th); Mike Van der Velden, Notre Dame (32-8, 14th); Arnold Manaois, Illinois (54-16, 18th); Julito Francis, Detroit (29-24).

Sabre: Don Johnson, Notre Dame (35-6, 2nd); Giovanni Giroto, Wayne State (4th); Tony Kroeten, Wisconsin (43-11, 17th); Ralph Wroblewski, Cleveland State (49-19); Doug Bennett, Northwestern (29-23).

West

Top teams — Stanford, San Jose State, Air Force.

Top individuals — Epee: George Chandler, Air Force.

Foil: Dean Hinton, San Jose State (29-9, 16th); Erv Scheets, Air Force (25th); Elliot Cheu, Stanford; Scott Cahn, San Jose State (29-12).

USE THE SOFTWARE GEORGETOWN TRUSTS!

Another basketball season is getting started, and that means yet another year of the job you love to hate — keeping statistics. This year, throw away your calculator and put your IBM PC to work with the ASSIST™ basketball statistics program from PM Software. All season long, ASSIST stores and updates your team's statistics quickly and easily in a fraction of the time required by hand.

Even if you're a computer novice, ASSIST is remarkably simple to use. After each game, you just fill in a boxscore on the screen, right from the official NCAA paper boxscore. The program then takes this information and creates all the reports you need to keep track of your team's performance: composite stats (overall/conference), scoreboard, game-by-game, individual highs, team highs, career highs, and career totals.

The ASSIST basketball statistics program was written last season for the national champion Georgetown Hoyas and is being offered to other schools for the first time at a price of $250. For more information, call or write:

with the team's interests at heart, individual stars will surface automatically and get their due recognition."

Recognition is fine, but victories keep a team alive in the single-elimination tournament, and McCrath is aware of the caliber of competition.

Tampa, (15-4 as of November 6) in the South, Davis and Elkins (12-1-3) in the Great Lakes. Gannon (15-3) in the Mid-Atlantic and Cal-State Hayward (10-3-3) in the West are among those expected to battle for regional play-off spots.

"Tampa's got a great tradition," McCrath said. "I think they've got some revenge on their minds. I imagine they feel they were the best team going into the play-offs last year, and they would probably like to get another crack at it."

In the South, Rollins (13-2-1) and Florida International (10-4-1) made the tournament selection even more difficult by playing to a scoreless tie in their final regular-season encounter.

First-round games must be played no later than Sunday, November 18, second-round by November 25 and semifinals by December 2. The championship game will be played December 8 or 9 on the campus of one of the finalists.

Following is a list of teams selected for the Division II championship:

Bridgeport at New Haven; winner will play Tampa. Oakland at Seattle Pacific; winner will play Davis & Elkins. Cal State Hayward at Cal State Northridge; winner will play Missouri-St. Louis. Lock Haven at Gannon; winner will play Florida International.

Division III Women's Volleyball

The fourth annual NCAA Division III Women's Volleyball Championship gets under way November 16 and 17 with first-round matches.

Twenty-four teams, including four seeded teams, will meet in the first round with three teams at eight sites. The winners will advance to four second-round sites two weeks later to determine the final-four participants, which will meet December 7-8 in Elmhurst, Illinois.

Seven conference champions received automatic qualification, and at least one team each from the East, Northeast, Central, South, Midwest and West regions was selected. The remaining teams were selected at large.

Those receiving automatic qualification, with their latest rankings, include defending champion and No. 17 Elmhurst, Chicago Metro; No. 3 North Carolina-Greensboro, Dixie Intercollegiate; No. 10 Alma, Michigan Intercollegiate; No. 1 Juniata, Middle Atlantic States; No. 9 Gustavus Adolphus, Minnesota Intercollegiate; No. 4 Ohio Northern, Ohio Athletic Conference, and No. 2 La Verne, Southern California Intercollegiate.

Championship runner-up UC San Diego, which is ranked sixth, is the West region's top team. No. 5 Wisconsin Stevens-Point of the Central region will make its first play-off appearance since 1981. No. 15 Calvin is the top team in the Midwest, and No. 11 Western Maryland in the South region is in line for its third consecutive play-off appearance. Ithaca and MIT, tied for seventh in the rankings, were chosen from the Northeast and East regions, respectively.

Pairings for the 1984 NCAA Division III Women's Volleyball Championship:

Wooster vs. Grove City; winner plays Juniata, the No. 1 seed. Eastern Connecticut State vs. Mount Holyoke; winner plays MIT. Western Maryland vs. Brooklyn; winner plays North Carolina-Greensboro. Calvin vs. Alma; winner plays Ohio Northern, the No. 4 seed. Occidental vs. Wisconsin-Stevens Point; winner plays La Verne, the No. 3 seed. Albany (New York) vs. Nazareth; winner plays Ithaca. St. Catherine vs. Wisconsin-LaCrosse; winner plays Gustavus Adolphus. Elmhurst vs. Illinois Benedictine; winner plays UC San Diego, the No. 2 seed

Field hockey crown goes to Bloomsburg

Bloomsburg was able to break the goalkeeping magic of Messiah's Annette Mullen, defeating Messiah, 3-2, to win the Division III Field Hockey Championship November 10 at Trenton State College in Trenton, New Jersey.

Entering the championship contest, Mullen had allowed only one goal this season, and she and her teammates were going for a 14th straight shutout.

The Falcons of Messiah got on the board first when Kim Leppo scored an unassisted goal at 14:43 of the first half. Linda Hershey unraveled the Mullen mystique at 25:46 when she tied the score 1-1.

Misti Wildasin fed Jennifer Terranova 59 seconds into the second half to put Messiah back on top, and the lead stood for more than 20 minutes. At 23:05, Bloomsburg's Karen Hertzler converted a pass from Carla Scheerer to tie the score again. Hertzler and Scheerer had combined for the game-winner against Trenton State in the semifinals.

Kate Denny gave the Huskies the lead for good at 28:34 when she scored on a pass from Hershey. The victory gave Bloomsburg a second straight national field hockey title; the Huskies won the NCAA Division II championship in 1983.

The all-tournament team included Hershey, Hertzler and Scheerer of Bloomsburg; Leppo, Terranova and Mullen of Messiah; Heather Doyle and Mildred Piscopo of Ithaca, and Diane Smith, Bridget Roun and Cheryl Simonsen of Trenton State.

Committee discusses limits on baseball

Proposed playing-season limitations occupied the attention of the NCAA Baseball Committee at its November 5-8 meeting in Kansas City.

Proposals to be considered at the 1985 annual Convention will suggest a maximum of 60 games in Divisions I and II and a five-month period for practices and games in Division III.

Divisions I and II committee members are hopeful that the legislation will be amended to permit 60 games during the traditional (spring) season and another 15 games in the fall. Division III members would like a six-month maximum—two months in the fall, four in the spring.

Committee members expressed concern about the NCAA Council proposals, noting that a recent survey by the American Baseball Coaches Association reported that many institutions' schedules are in excess of the new limits.

In other business, the committee:

- Reviewed a research study conducted at Brigham Young University for Rawlings, Inc. The tests revealed that there is little, if any, difference in the distance a baseball travels when hit with a wood bat or an aluminum bat.
- Discussed final modifications in the 1985 NCAA Baseball Rules.

• Recommended granting automatic qualification to 25 Division I teams from 23 conferences. Conference realignments have resulted in a different group of qualifiers than in 1984, but the total is unchanged. The committee also will discuss with several conferences whether their teams' performances will warrant continuation of the automatic-qualification privilege.

• Noted with satisfaction a financial report from the 1984 Division I Baseball Championship, a record-setting event in attendance and income.

Women's basketball coaches alerted to rules corrections

Women's basketball coaches at NCAA member institutions should be aware of several corrections that should be made in the 1984-85 basketball rules published by the National Association of Girls and Women in Sport (NAGWS).

Paulette Sempler of NAGWS outlined those corrections, the first of which appears on page 41 of the rules book. The definition of a held ball in Rule 4 should read: "A player holding (not dribbling) the ball five seconds when closely guarded." The phrase "in the frontcourt" should be deleted.

On page 50, Rule 8-28-(d) should read: "Holding the ball five seconds out of bounds, five seconds inbounds while closely guarded, or 10 seconds on a free throw."

The second paragraph of Rule 12-40-(b), found on page 58, should read: "An initial legal defensive position is when the defender is facing her opponent in a straight-line path and has both feet on the floor in a normal straddle position. The defensive player, after establishing the legal guarding position, may jump vertically or may continue to move backward away from her opponent. A defender must allow an offensive player without the ball a chance to stop or change her direction."

Rule 12-42-(b), dealing with a double technical foul, is on page 63. The last sentence of that section should be amended to read: "Play is resumed by a jump ball in the center restraining circle between any two opposing players in the game at the time."

The final correction appears in the last sentence of Rule 14-50, found on page 67. "In all situations, except a through d of Section 49, the score shall stand."

For additional information, coaches should contact June Courteau, rules interpreter for the NAGWS rules committee, at 3633 Ravenwood Circle, Waterloo, Iowa 50702.

Resolution

to verify that each student-athlete who will represent the institution in intercollegiate athletics competition during the academic year will be, at the time of competition, in good academic standing and maintaining satisfactory progress toward a degree as required by NCAA legislation.

In another proposal dealing with satisfactory academic progress, seven member institutions are sponsoring for the ACE Proposal No. 23, which would empower the NCAA to review academic records of student-athletes on a "spot check" basis. Member institutions would have to make the academic records of their student-athletes available for inspection.

Among four other academic proposals, the one that probably would generate the most headlines if passed is Proposal No. 22, which would require Division II institutions to meet the same academic standards as are required in Division I.

Sponsored by the Great Lakes Valley Conference, this proposal would require Division II institutions to comply with Bylaw 5-1-(j), including the subparagraphs that currently affect only Division I institutions [5-1-(j)-(1) through (5) and 5-1-(j)-(8) through (10)]. In other words, Division II would be required to meet the so-called "Proposal 48" standards.

The remaining three academic proposals all deal with satisfactory progress, including its application to

Proposals sought for rules changes

The NCAA Football Rules Committee has issued a bulletin requesting proposals for rules changes and compliance with Rule 1-2-4-d.

Those receiving the bulletin should submit changes for 1985 NCAA Football Rules and Interpretations by November 26, 1984, to David M. Nelson, secretary-rules editor, at the University of Delaware.

The proposals should be referred to by rule number and rewritten with the changes underlined. Other rules affected by the change also should be listed. Editorial corrections also should be submitted.

The bulletin also cited repeated violations of Rule 1-2-4-d, which prohibits media personnel in team areas. Commentators, cameras and sound equipment continue to remain in team areas.

Conversations between coaches and players, including strategy, have been televised, and commentators have interviewed players.

Home management and coaches are responsible for compliance with Rule 1-2-4-d. If the media do not cooperate, the outcome of the game may be decided by a violation of the rule.

Rule 1-2-4-d reads: "No media personnel or their equipment shall be in the team area, and no media personnel may communicate in any way with persons in the team area."

transfer from a junior college.

Proposal No. 26, sponsored by the Council, would affirm the requirement that a student-athlete must designate a program of studies leading toward a specific baccalaureate degree by the beginning of the third year of enrollment and would require such a designation by a transfer student to be eligible under the satisfactory-progress rule.

The other satisfactory-progress proposal is brought by the Pacific-10 Conference. If passed, Proposal No. 28 would specify that a student-athlete must complete 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of degree credit work since the beginning of the institution's last season of competition in that sport (rather than the student-athlete's last competition in the sport) to be eligible under the requirements of the satisfactory-progress rule.

Proposal No. 27, sponsored by the Council, would require a junior college transfer who was a 2,000 qualifier and who has graduated from the junior college to demonstrate satisfactory academic progress to be immediately eligible upon transfer to a Division I member institution.

In addition, credit used by a junior college transfer who has not graduated from junior college (to meet the immediate-eligibility requirements) must be credit acceptable toward any baccalaureate degree program at the certifying institution.

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles covering legislation to be considered at the 79th annual Convention. In the remaining issues of the News leading up to the Convention, legislation in the following topical groups will be considered: governance, membership and classification, financial aid, personnel limitations, general, amateurism, championships, playing and practice seasons, eligibility, and recruiting.

Coaches seek Pac-10 tournament

The Pacific-10 Conference basketball coaches have voted unanimously to conduct a postseason conference tournament, subject to approval of the conference presidents and chancellors when they meet in December.

A year ago, chief executive officers rejected a similar proposal by a 4 to 6 vote.

Some schools have been concerned about athletes losing more classroom time or having conflicts with exams during the proposed tournament.

Stanford University coach Tom Davis said a conference tournament could be worth millions of dollars to participant programs. "I don't know exactly how much it would bring to the other schools but it would be in the millions," Davis said. Other benefits, he said, would be more national exposure that could result in improved recruiting.

allowing at least limited exposure through the institutions' three-member career-counseling panels."

Institutional counseling panels, permitted by legislation adopted at the 1984 Convention, are appointed by a university's chief executive officer and consist of staff members outside the athletics department. The panels have the primary responsibility of advising student-athletes concerning professional opportunities and earnings potential and may employ individuals outside the university community (e.g., financial consultants, sports lawyers) to provide unique perspectives or special expertise.

Counseling panel members also may assist student-athletes in securing competent representation. Institutions wishing to establish career-counseling panels under the provisions of NCAA Constitution 3-1-(h)-(4) should contact Leavens at the national office.

The panels' effectiveness also will depend upon the extent to which panel members have access to useful and reliable information. Leavens said that a number of professional league offices, players' associations and agents have indicated a willingness to cooperate in providing information critical to the panels' success. Member institutions will receive additional information and updated registration lists throughout the 1984-85 academic year.
