Changes in insurance proposed

The NCAA Insurance Committee has recommended that the current travel accident and loss-of-revenue insurance programs be discontinued and replaced by three new programs beginning with the 1985-86 academic year.

Meeting February 25-26 in Phoenix, Arizona, the committee recommended that the current programs, underwritten by Aetna Life Insurance Company, be dropped because only four percent of the membership purchased the travel accident program in 1984-85 and only one percent purchased the loss-of-revenue plan.

Last year, the NCAA Council granted a one-year exception to the seven-percent participation requirement to enable the programs to be continued for 1984-85.

"Even though Aetna has agreed to underwrite both programs in 1985-86 with no increase in premium, the committee believes that it is time to discontinue these programs and focus on potential new programs that will better serve the needs of the membership," said Charles A. Taff, committee chair.

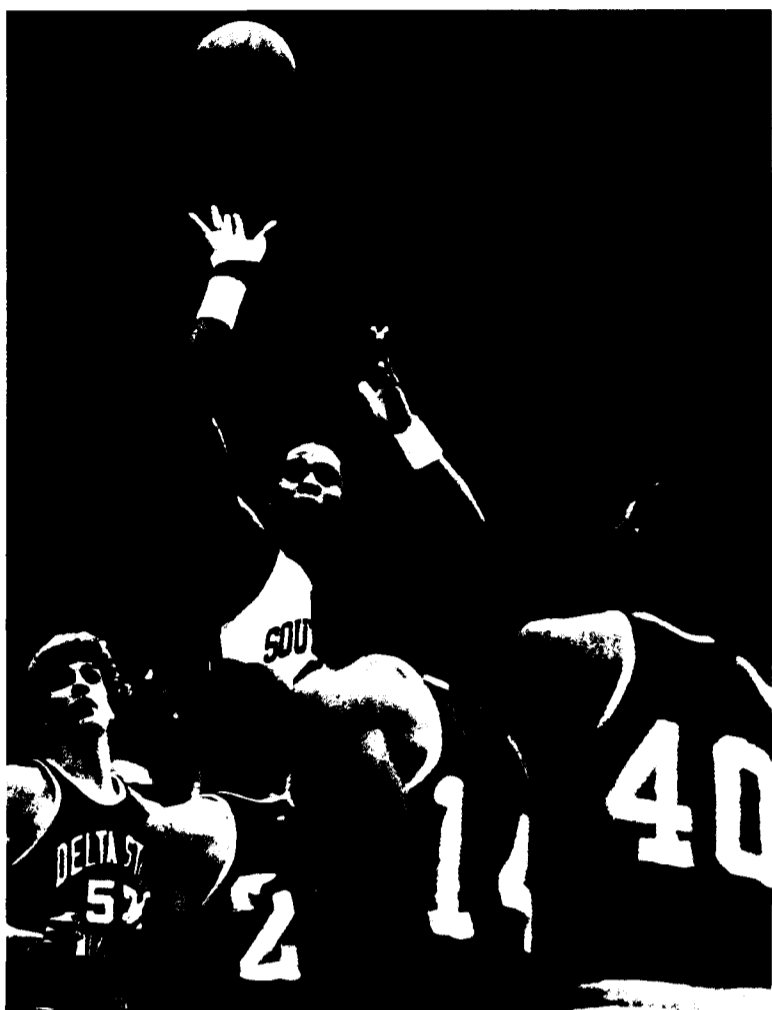

The new institutional programs to be considered by the Administrative Committee would be underwritten by State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America, the primary insurer for the lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program sponsored by the NCAA, and administered by American Sports Underwriters, Inc., the current administrator of the catastrophic program.

The new programs recommended by the Insurance Committee are basic athletics accident medical insurance, special intercollegiate all-risk accident insurance and loss-of-revenue insurance.

The basic athletic accident medical insurance program would include an accidental death and dismemberment provision and cover medical expenses up to a maximum of $25,000 per occurrence, which is where the catastrophic injury insurance begins.

Although the loss-of-revenue insurance program would be similar to the current program, it would be broadened to include postponement and rescheduling of games and would be extended to sports other than football and basketball. The all-risk policy would provide 24-hour all-

Answers provided for questions on catastrophic insurance program

Since the NCAA approved a plan in December to provide lifetime catastrophic injury insurance for student-athletes at NCAA member institutions, a number of questions have arisen. Following are some of the more commonly asked questions about the program.

Q: Why is the NCAA sponsoring this program?

A: There has been a growing concern on the part of the membership about how to provide adequate insurance benefits to catastrophically injured student-athletes. At the direction of the NCAA Council, the Insurance Committee spent the past two years examining the concept of providing lifetime benefits to students seriously injured while participating in intercollegiate athletics, negotiating with acceptable insurance companies and supervising the necessary compliance with legal requirements. In the committee's judgment, this program, which has been approved by the Council, represents the best program available to achieve the objective of offering lifetime benefits to catastrophically injured student-athletes and other eligible students participating in activities related to intercollegiate athletics.

Women schedule national meeting

A national meeting of women's athletics administrators has been scheduled June 7-8, just before the annual meeting of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics. A final decision regarding the Division I-A and Division I-AA midyear legislative meetings will not be made until after the special NCAA Convention June 20-21 in New Orleans.

The "women's meeting" will be conducted June 7-8 in Las Vegas by NACDA, in cooperation with the Special NCAA Committee on Women's Interests. The meeting is not being sponsored by the NCAA, although a subcommittee of the women's interests committee will plan and conduct the session. G. Jean Cerra, University of Missouri, Columbia, chair of the special committee, will appoint the subcommittee.

While the NCAA Administrative Committee has approved payment of the expenses of that subcommittee to attend the meeting, it noted earlier that it would not be appropriate for the NCAA to sponsor such a meeting and cause resultant costs for member institutions in light of the fact that the majority of the Special Committee on Women's Interests did not believe such a meeting was necessary.

Meanwhile, the Divisions I-A and I-AA midyear legislative meetings tentatively have been scheduled for August 7-9 at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare, Rosemont, Illinois, as announced in the February 6, 1985, issue of The NCAA News.

However, the Administrative Committee has noted that significant numbers of members in both Divisions I-A and I-AA have questioned the need to conduct the summer legislative meetings this year, especially in

Convention attendance sets record

A final audit of the registrations at the 1985 NCAA Convention in Nashville shows that the Convention did set an all-time attendance record, contrary to the preliminary count reported in the January 16 issue of The NCAA News.

A total of 1,742 persons attended the 1985 Convention, 10 more than first reported, surpassing the record of 1,737 set a year earlier at the Dallas Convention.

It marked the fifth consecutive year that the total-attendance record was broken. Since 1,075 (not a record) attended the 1980 Convention in New Orleans, the total has climbed to 1,314 in 1981 (Miami Beach), 1,315 in 1982 (Houston), 1,521 in 1983 (San Diego) and 1,737 in Dallas in 1984.

Included among the 1,742 in attendance in Nashville were 1,534 delegates from active member institutions and conferences, 15 representing affiliated members, 72 visitors and 121 media representatives.

Other records established in Nashville: 830 organizations represented, 701 registered voters (81.1 percent of all possible), 644 active members, 319 Division I members, 80.1 percent of all Division II members and 217 Division III members.

Divisions I and III had higher percentages attend in Dallas in 1984, while Division II's total attendance (rather than percentage) also was higher in Dallas.

Of the Association's 891 active and conference members, 705, or 79.1 percent, were in attendance in Nashville. Of the 864 eligible voters, 701, or 81.1 percent, were registered.

The number of legislative proposals before the Convention was 182, down 19 from the Dallas Convention and well under the record 257 in 1976.

Harshman leaves a legacy of honesty to college basketball

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

The world of college basketball will say farewell to a legend, Marv Harshman of Washington, in this 47th National Collegiate Basketball Championship. With 642 career victories, most by any active Division I men's coach and seventh best in history, Harshman is the leader of an outstanding field of tournament coaches.

Like DePaul's Ray Meyer a year ago, Harshman had a royal final season as the latest grand old man of college basketball coaching, receiving gifts and tributes at almost every stop along the way. Near the end, he was honored by an amazing outpouring of more than 200 former players at a home game, and his wife was given 40 roses—one for each of his 40 head-coaching seasons.

His team tied for the Pacific-10 Conference championship with Southern California and was 22-9 for the regular season, but the 67-year-old coach with thick white hair says he has not done a good job this season.

"This season is really eating me up," he said. "There have been so many demands on my time. I feel I'm not doing a good coaching job . . . A lot of times I just don't have time to concentrate." His top player, Detlef Schrempf of West Germany, has been caught between injuries and role changes and has not had an outstanding season.

Even so, the Huskies may be ready to peak at tournament time and could give Harshman his first trip to the Final Four. He is the sentimental favorite to reach Lexington. In any event, many describe him as a great person—dead honest and warm. For many years, he has been one of the most outspoken coaches in the land about recruiting abuses.

Of the first 22 coaches on the all-time Division I men's list in winning percentage, using a minimum of 10 seasons as a Division I head coach, 14 are in this tournament. Nevada-Las Vegas' Jerry Tarkanian heads the list at .814 (third highest ever), and North Carolina's Dean Smith is next at .770 (fifth).

The others in this classy group are Lou Carnesecca of St. John's (New York) at .738, Georgetown's John Thompson .734, Arkansas' Eddie Sutton .733, Wichita State's Gene Smithson .711, Maryland's Charles "Lefty" Driesell .706, Kentucky's Joe B. Hall .705, Notre Dame's Richard "Digger" Phelps .693, UTEP's Don Haskins .686, Virginia Tech's Charles Moir .682, Illinois' Lou Henson .669, Georgia's Hugh Durham .669 and Alabama-Birmingham's Gene Bartow .661.

Syracuse's Jim Boheim (.744), Memphis State's Dana Kirk (.667) and Old Dominion's Paul Webb (.666) have nine seasons on the Division I level. Others, like Tulsa's Nolan Richardson (.768), meet the five-year requirement; still others, like Temple's John Chaney (.775 for 13 years), have not been in Division I five seasons. In all, 49 tournament coaches have won at least 60 percent over their careers.

In total victories after Harshman's 642, the field includes Oregon State's Ralph Miller at 584—601, eliminating voids and forfeits (see chart and foot-

CEOs in concert can clean up college athletics

By Maury White
The Des Moines Register

Several times last fall, pulse-takers of college athletics were shocked when Walter Byers, the executive director of the NCAA, who generally surfaces before the public about once every 14 years, started not only being seen but heard, and making some unusual statements.

For one thing, after more than three decades at his post, Walter seemed to have discovered that cheating had not only been invented but was rampant. More, it obviously had been brought to his attention that selected amateur athletes were getting rich, or nearly so.

Since it is common knowledge the one-time Iowa student is almost as wise as Solomon, plus virtually as sly as a fox, veteran Byers watchers knew there was a reason. Sure enough, Walter gave his conviction that if college presidents and/or chief executive officers didn't suck it up and actively lead restoration of a sane approach to college athletics, the "tyranny of the lowest common denominator of ethical conduct" would prevail.

Well, the CEOs have agreed to do what they should have been doing more of all along, which is minding the store. It's not that they often didn't recognize the problem, but getting involved has risks. The trustee who, in effect, hired a corner-cutter as football or basketball coach might get nasty about approving a law library if his boy was told to go stand in the corner. Popular coaches carry much more public clout than college presidents. But . . .

"The issue in final analysis clearly is whether policy will be set by the college presidents or by a minority of coaches, enslaved alumni and boosters who think the order of the day should be to win at any cost," Byers warned College Football Preview '85.

The Presidents' Commission will prepare in April for the full meeting in New Orleans in June [special NCAA Convention]. Byers mentioned the possibility of canceling games to "ostracize" chronic offenders and, as usual, the penalty angle promptly got the ink. Yet, it seems to me that any real hope lies in the revival of common sense.

"I believe the CEOs in concert can achieve what individual CEOs may not be able to accomplish under intense pressure on their own campuses," said Byers. "I believe institutions must move to a more open inspection of their practices in academics, recruiting, finances . . . If colleges can spend so much time and money on the recruiting of athletes, they certainly can spend some on the disclosure of their methods."

Well, praise the Lord, that's what I believe, too, and what newspapers have been preaching since shortly after the invention of movable type. Instead of doing business in secrecy and taking the Fifth Amendment concerning their own mistakes, school officials could deal cheating its greatest blow by the belated recognition that telling the truth and doing business in the open is the very most sanitary mode of operation.

This being the imperfect world that it is, there always will be cheaters, so there always must be penalties. The presidents have a tough task in finding a couple of new ones that will withstand the now-routine and costly legal challenges. I wish them luck.

The NCAA's greatest problem is being perceived by the public as a dictatorship, when it isn't that at all. Schools voluntarily seek membership, set the rules and promise to obey. There shouldn't even be a need for investigators and enforcement committees, except a few folks in a hurry would rather be their brother's cheater than his keeper.

"The enforcement system has a difficult road at best," says Byers. "It's voluntary in the sense you have to ask, 'Will you tell?' It's voluntary that the Committee on Infractions has to decide who's telling the truth without the availability of a 'false find' penalty, which civil procedures have. It's a fragile instrument to enforce rules, but I think we can make it work if the presidents want to make it work. I think most coaches want to work in a clean climate, to test their skills cleanly and openly."

One thing is gospel; there are problems: Are football and basketball for fun and enjoyment or merely ways to bring in money? Should athletes who generate so much revenue be allowed more rewards, as are the amateurs eligible under Olympic rules? If a basketball superstar isn't allowed to take $10,000 for wearing a certain brand of shoes, should his coach be allowed to pocket $20,000 for putting the whole squad in that brand? Should as much attention be given to "exit" as "entrance" requirements for student-athletes?

Let us hope the CEOs get at it PDQ, and win. They seem the last hope.

It's time for Smith family reunion

Dick Fenlon, columnist
The Columbus Dispatch

"The NCAA tournament, once a verily, verily exclusive club, is about to take on the appearance of a Smith family reunion.

"Don't bother about trying to keep track of who's in when it begins. It will be easier to figure out who's not. A not-so-grand total of 64 teams in all. What began with eight teams—Ohio State one of them—in 1939, now looks like an invitation list to the opening of a Long Beach used-car lot.

"I am not so sure that this is a good idea. In fact, I am pretty sure it is a bad idea. Not long ago, coaches legitimately saved their jobs by making the field. That was when making it to the NCAA meant something—in the beginning, winning the conference championship or being among the two or three best independents in the "College football and basketball are out of control for the fundamental reasons that the people who run college athletics insist on enacting amateur rules to govern what fundamentally are professional sports.

"Over and over, we have seen that where large amounts of money are involved in a sport, amateur rules are impossible to enforce. Tennis, hockey, track and skiing are just a few examples. Even a person so powerful as (former International Olympic Committee president Avery) Brundage lost this battle in the Olympic movement, as well he should have.

"In a sport where coaches earn $250,000 a year and colleges are fighting each other in court over television money, the athlete has justifiable reason to feel that he should get his fair share. And, one way or another, he will.

Coaches' actions should be controlled

To the Editor:

I believe it is time the NCAA takes a firm stand in controlling the conduct of basketball coaches. Like in so many other instances, a few will give a bad impression to the public that affects all. (Head men's basketball coach George) Raveling of Iowa is quoted as saying his antics were "to get the crowd into the game." The recent incident of (head basketball coach Bob) Knight of Indiana throwing a chair across the court was, in his own words, "to fire up the crowd."

Is this really what we want? Doesn't the home team have too great of an advantage as it is? Can't the crowd just enjoy the game? Must spectators participate in being led by the theatrics of the coach? I, for one, would appreciate an official coming down hard on such shenanigans. The game is basketball. Let the skill of the teams determine the winner without interference from the sideline.

Texans fastest on the draw with money for '86 tickets

Fred Koger III of Dallas is the first person to order tickets for the 1986 Division I Men's Basketball Championship Final Four, scheduled March 29 and 31 at Reunion Arena in Dallas.

Koger's was one of seven orders received March 1, the date tickets went on sale through a mail-order procedure announced in the February 27 issue of The NCAA News.

"The other six orders came from Kilgore, Texas," said NCAA controller Louis J. Spry, who receives updates on ticket requests from United Missouri Bank, the financial institution serving as a clearinghouse for the mail orders.

"In fact, nobody here at the national office ever sees one of the orders," said Spry. "United Missouri personnel pick up orders daily from the special lock box we have secured from the postal service."

"Mr. Koger's application was the first one to be opened and processed, although the other six arrived at the same time," Spry explained. "Things really have picked up since that first day. Through March 11, we had received 1,826 orders for a total of 6,560 tickets to the 1986 Final Four."

Orders, which are limited to four tickets per application, are being accepted until April 15. The combined semifinals/finals tickets are $46 each; a full, four-ticket order is $184.

Each application should include a cashier's check or money order for the proper amount, made payable to "1986 Final Four"; the name and correct address of the applicant also should be included.

All orders should be mailed to: NCAA Final Four, c/o United Missouri Bank of Kansas City, N.A., P.O. Box 1986, Kansas City, Missouri 64141. Periodic updates on the 1986 Final Four ticket requests will appear in future issues of the News.

Legislative Assistance

1985 Column No. 11

Basketball recruiting calendar—championships

Division I member institutions sponsoring men's and women's basketball and Division II members sponsoring men's basketball are reminded that Bylaws 1-2-(a)-(6)-(i) and (ii) prohibit any on- or off-campus, in-person contacts in connection with the recruitment of prospective student-athletes by an institutional staff member or representative of an institution's athletics interests during the periods of the respective Division I Men's and Women's Basketball Championships. This legislation also precludes the provision of expense-paid visits or any other visits by prospective student-athletes to the institution's campus during that time. Based on the dates of the 1985 Division I Men's and Women's Basketball Championships games, this legislation would apply from midnight March 27 until noon April 2 for the men's programs and from midnight March 26 until noon April 1 for women's programs.

Women's gymnastics recruiting—Proposal No. 143

The adoption of Convention Proposal No. 143 prohibits a Division I institutional staff member or representative of its athletics interests from engaging in any on- or off-campus, in-person contacts in connection with the recruitment of prospective student-athletes in the sport of women's gymnastics during the period beginning with the Wednesday prior to the National Collegiate Division I Women's Gymnastics Championships and ending at noon on Sunday after the championships. This legislation also would preclude the provision of expense-paid visits or any other visits by prospective student-athletes (which would involve recruiting contacts or activities) to the institution's campus during that time. Based on the dates of the 1985 Division I Women's Gymnastics Championships, this legislation would apply from midnight April 9 until noon April 14.

Outside competition—basketball

Under the provisions of Constitution 3-9-(b), a student-athlete shall be ineligible if he or she participates in organized basketball competition except while representing his or her institution in intercollegiate competition and except as permitted under the provisions specified in Constitution 3-9-(b). Member institutions are reminded that Constitution 3-9-(b) applies to both men's and women's intercollegiate basketball programs in all divisions. A member of an institution's intercollegiate basketball team may participate in an approved summer league only with the specific written permission of the director of athletics, or in another competition permitted under the exception provisions of Constitution 3-9-(b)-(2), (3) or (4). In light of the continuing number of violations of this legislation, the NCAA Eligibility Committee has requested that member institutions review these regulations with members of their basketball teams and place particular emphasis on spring tournaments, charity games and unapproved summer leagues.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to Stephen R. Morgan, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Answers

Insurance Committee believes that if a student is injured while representing a member institution in intercollegiate athletics, benefits should be available from some source for as long as necessary to cover all expenses and costs directly related to the injury.

Q: If an institution currently has an athletic accident injury policy, why does it need this policy?

A: The NCAA program is designed to cover catastrophic injury costs that exceed the limits of regular athletic accident coverage in either dollar amount or benefit period, provided the deductible amount is reached. Most accident policies have a maximum dollar amount limit and a benefit time limit, and therefore exhaust themselves either by paying out the maximum medical benefits or by running out the maximum amount of time for benefits to be paid. When those benefits run out, it forces the catastrophically injured student-athlete to seek other remedies for the costs of extended or lifetime care. This program, by providing lifetime payments to meet the expenses of the injury, will minimize the cost problems for the student-athlete and his/her family. It is hoped that such protection will reduce the threat of litigation against the institution.

In addition, the Insurance Committee knows of no other insurance program currently available to colleges and universities that will provide lifetime benefits for an injured student. Unique features of the program include the following:

- A disability income provision beginning at $18,000 per year with a four percent annual inflation factor continuing for life. After 20 years, this would equate to almost $40,000 per year.

- Up to $100,000 miscellaneous benefits during the first decade of disability to provide special vans, remodeling of home, etc.; $50,000 per decade thereafter for such expenses.

- An ancillary illness and accident medical policy that covers the student-athlete up to $100,000 for other injuries and illnesses that might occur once the student begins receiving benefits from the initial accident. This is extremely important since disabled individuals have trouble securing adequate medical insurance.

quate medical insurance.

- Up to $2,500 per year for psychological and psychiatric counseling.

Q: How will the NCAA lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program coordinate with an institution's current basic athletic accident insurance?

A: The NCAA program is an excess plan and pays once the injured student's medical expenses have exceeded the deductible amount of $25,000 and all other valid and collective insurance programs have paid their benefits. Therefore, one approach would be to adjust, if necessary, the limit on an institution's basic athletic accident program to cover medical expenses up to $25,000.

Q: How will future premiums be based?

A: Unlike most plans currently available that provide for experience rating per institution, the NCAA program will be rated subject to the experience of all participating NCAA member institutions combined at the level of participation by the membership. This will facilitate those institutions that suffer catastrophic losses to continue to purchase coverage in the future, based upon the experience of the group.

Q: Why is the program not being marketed through brokers or agents?

A: The NCAA Insurance Committee has selected American Sports Underwriters, Inc., Woburn, Massachusetts, to be the administrator of this program. Since ASU was directly involved with the committee and the primary insurer in developing this program, it has a thorough understanding of the benefits and provisions of the program. In general, local brokers and agents have not had experience with catastrophic injury insurance. In addition, it does not appear that local marketing and servicing will be necessary for this program. The Insurance Committee believes many brokers, agents and consultants have recognized the desirable nature of the NCAA catastrophic program and have recommended it to their clients.

Q: Are club and intramural sports covered?

A: No. Because of the wide diversity of levels of supervision and eligibility of such programs, the Insurance Committee decided not to include those participants in this program. In addition, the committee believed that its primary concern should be those students participating in intercollegiate athletics programs.

Q: Who are the insureds covered by this program?

A: Coverage will be provided to male and female student-athletes from participating member institutions who are involved in intercollegiate athletics activities. Also covered are cheerleaders, student coaches, student trainers and student managers. Benefits would be afforded to a covered student if catastrophically injured while participating in scheduled games or organized, supervised practice sessions or official or group travel in connection with the institution's intercollegiate athletics program.

Q: When is the program available and how do I enroll my institution?

A: The program is available for the 1985-86 academic year. Enrollment forms were sent to all member institutions earlier this month and must be returned by May 15.

Q: Who is the insurer?

A: State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America was selected to provide this coverage. Founded in Worcester, Massachusetts, in 1844, State Mutual is the fifth-oldest life insurance company in the United States, ranks among the top 20 mutual life insurance companies in the country (with assets of approximately $3 billion) and enjoys an A+ (excellent) rating by Best's Insurance Reports.

Q: Who is the policyholder?

A: The policy form of the NCAA lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program has been filed and approved by the state of Kansas. The master policy has been issued to the NCAA as the policyholder. All participating institutions enrolled in the program will be issued certificates outlining all coverages and conditions.

Q: How do I get more information?

A: Additional information is available by contacting the administrator of the program, American Sports Underwriters, 300 Unicorn Park Drive, Woburn, Massachusetts 01801, or telephone (toll free) 1-800-621-2116 (in Massachusetts, 617-938-9017).

"If there were a gold medal for absurd judgment, it would now be awarded to the International Olympic Committee. Its executive board has approved opening the 1988 games to professional athletes. But only some professional athletes: only those who are 23 or younger, and only those who play ice hockey, soccer or tennis. That's bizarre. What rule of reason or nature makes a 23-year-old qualified and a 24-year-old not? Why young tennis pros, say, but not young track pros?"

"The sounder remedy is finally to end the amateur pretense altogether. There are few amateurs left in major sports... In bitter truth, blatant corruption has become the model for high-sounding 'amateur' sports."

"The International Olympic Committee overlords claim they're powerless to do more than they have, contending that they can only approve what the federations for each sport request. Only the hockey, soccer and tennis federations asked for professional eligibility. How they all happened on age 23 is anyone's guess, but that mocks the spirit of competition. Why shouldn't all sports be open to everyone?"

Smith at 548, Webb 511, Driesell 503, Haskins 440, Henson 434, Bartow 429 and Tarkanian 402. Eleven more have won at least 300 and 16 more at least 200.

Looking at tournament victories, 10 are in the select circle of 10 NCAA tournament victories over their careers, topped by Smith's 28-15 and Hall's 18-8. At the other extreme, 10 are head-coaching in the NCAA tournament for the first time. One is a great story: Lehigh's Tom Schneider, whose team was 4-23 in his first head-coaching season just a year ago.

It was Lehigh's first NCAA tournament berth in history (despite a 12-18 record—the sixth losing record in tourney history). Schneider's team upset his alma mater, Bucknell, in the East Coast Conference tournament finals. Much like Ivy Group teams, Lehigh does not award athletics scholarships. It is known for its wrestling teams. Winning seasons in basketball are rare.

Three of the first-time coaches also played in the NCAA tournament: Pennsylvania's Craig Littlepage for Penn in 1971-72-73 (32 points in nine games, twice second place in the East regional), Loyola's (Illinois) Gene Sullivan for Notre Dame in 1953 (eight points in three games, regional second place) and Miami's (Ohio) Jerry Peirson for Miami in 1966 (nine points in one game).

Nine veteran tournament coaches in the 1985 field have played in the NCAA: Boeheim, Dayton's Don Donohoe, Haskins, Miller, Southern California's Stan Morrison, Richardson, Smith, Sutton and Thompson.

Lehigh is not the only team in the tournament for the first time ever. Fairleigh Dickinson is the other, making 209 different teams in the 47 years. Iowa State returns after 41 years, 1944 being its only other appearance. Georgia Tech's last and only other appearance was 1960. Navy's last NCAA was also 1960, and Loyola last appeared in 1968. Others who last reached the NCAA prior to the 1980s are Texas Tech (1976), San Diego State (1976), Arizona (1977), Michigan (1977) and Michigan State (1979 champion).

Most-improved teams in tourney

Cincinnati seems to have a lock on the Division I most-improved title for 1985, but the next three teams on the list are in the NCAA field and have a slim mathematical chance to win it. Cincinnati is up 12½ games over last season, 16-13 vs. 3-25 (13 more victories and 12 fewer losses is 25; divide by two), heading into the National Invitation Tournament. The Bearcats under second-year coach Tony Yates thus can finish no worse than up 12 games. Southern California (up 9½ games, 19-9 vs. 11-20), Arizona (9 games, 21-9 vs. 11-17) and St. John's (9 games, 27-3 vs. 18-12) would have to sweep six NCAA games to tie or edge Cincinnati, which could clinch it by winning two of three NIT games.

Southern Cal, by the way, can become only the eighth Division I team since 1950 to win 20 games a year after losing 20 (Morrison's team tied for the Pacific-10 title). Last to do it were Utah State, 20-9 in 1983 after 4-23 in 1982, and Xavier (Ohio), 22-8 in 1983 after 8-20 in 1982. Both made the NCAA tournament in 1983.

Two teams improved eight games this season—16-12 Detroit and 15-13 Texas; four more are up 7½ games—24-5 Georgia Southern, 21-8 Cleveland State, 18-9 Southeastern Louisiana and 12-15 Eastern Washington. The seven teams up seven games include two in the NCAA field—23-7 San Diego State and 22-8 Mercer—plus Yale at 14-12, Brooklyn at 15-13, 12-16 Western Michigan, 12-16 Texas-Arlington and 9-19 Pacific. The five teams up 6½ games include three NCAA teams—23-8 Pepperdine, 21-10 Iowa and Lehigh—plus 22-7 Siena and 16-14 Virginia Military.

Hughes vs. McDaniel

Wichita State senior Xavier McDaniel leads the nation's rebounders (15) and is tied for the national scoring lead with Loyola's Alfrédick Hughes at 27.4 (both have 822 in 30 games). McDaniel could become the first Divi-

Championship Highlights

Conley, Donovan guide 'Hogs' to second crown

Mike Conley and Paul Donovan combined for three individual championships to lead Arkansas to its second consecutive team title in the NCAA Division I Men's Indoor Track Championships March 8-9 at Syracuse University.

The Razorbacks also captured second-place finishes in the high jump, the triple jump and both relays to dominate the men's competition. Arkansas scored 70 points, and Tennessee was a distant second with 29.

Conley defended his championships in both the long jump and triple jump to capture individual titles Nos. 4 and 5, more than any Division I athlete has won in the meet's history, and he did it in three years.

Donovan ran a meet-record 3:43.38 in the 1,500 to help stake the Razorbacks to 30 points in first-place finishes. Joey Wells finished second in the triple jump for Arkansas, and William Jasinski was second in the high jump.

Tennessee's only first place was in the 55-meter dash, where Sam Graddy ran to a meet-record 6.12. A total of 10 records were set and another was tied in the two-day meet.

Seminoles 'deep-six' Division I women's field

Seldom have so few done so much for one school as six women did for Florida State at the NCAA Division I Women's Indoor Track Championships March 8-9 in the Carrier Dome at Syracuse University.

With a half-dozen runners and jumpers, Florida State coach Gary Winckler won the team title, dashing the hopes for Nebraska's third championship and Texas' attempt for its first.

Michelle Finn won the 55-meter dash, and Esmeralda Garcia won the triple jump and finished third in the long jump to lead the way for the Seminoles, who scored 34 points to edge Texas at 32.

Texas, under new head coach Terry Crawford, needed only to finish fourth in the final event of the meet, the 1,600-meter relay, to capture the team title. The Longhorns' lead-off runner fell, however, and Texas could do no better than sixth.

It may have been the triple jump that turned the title toward Florida State. Texas' Terri Turner, the outdoor NCAA triple jump champion last spring, pulled a muscle in final competition and finished sixth, while the Seminoles' Garcia won the event. The injury also kept Turner out of the 1,600 relay.

A surprise third-place finish was turned in by Louisiana State, which won the 1,000, was second in the 3,200-meter relay and scored in three other events. LSU finished the meet with 28 points.

Nebraska, the two-time defending champion, finished fourth. The Cornhuskers lost premier sprinter and defending long-jump champion Angela Thacker with an injury in preliminary competition.

Nine records were set in the meet.

Beacons take Division III women's title

Massachusetts-Boston, sparked by a one-two-three finish in the 400-meter event and a first-place finish by triple jumper Ann Brissett, edged Cortland State by nine points for the NCAA Division III Women's Indoor Track Championships team title.

Massachusetts-Boston, which compiled 50 points, and Cortland State dominated the championships. Colby finished third with 22 points, followed by St. Thomas (Minnesota) and Stony Brook in a tie for fourth with 20 points.

The Beacons' sweep in the 400-meter dash was paced by Mutonda Durant, who broke the tape in 57.07, followed by Genesia Eddins and Donna Bogues.

Brissett's triple jump of 37-11¼ was more than a foot longer than the second-place jump.

Massachusetts-Boston's title drive in the championships, hosted by Bates College March 8-9, also was aided by Michelle Williams, who took first in the 55-meter hurdles in 8.31.

Cortland State's Tracey Armstead was the meet's only double winner, with a first-place finish in the 55-meter dash and a long jump of 18-7¼.

First crown in 17 years

Snowbound Cowboys clear path to ski title

Wyoming, a four-time runner-up since taking its first NCAA Men's and Women's Skiing Championships team title in 1968, rode the dominance of its women's team and the consistency of its men's team to its first title in 17 years.

Wyoming won the women's five-kilometer cross country relay to close out the March 6-9 meet at the Bridger Bowl and Crosscut Ranch ski area in the mountains 15 miles north of Bozeman, Montana. Wyoming scored 764 points, the most in the 32-year history of the meet.

Wyoming entered the final day trailing Vermont by nine points, but the women's cross country victory, coupled with a fifth-place finish in the men's 10-kilometer relay, produced the team title.

Wyoming's women's team of Grethe-Lise Hagensen, Goril Stav and Hege Peikli-Randall covered the cross country course in 53:38.3.

Two-time defending champion Utah finished second with 744 points, while Vermont, the runner-up the past four years, was third with 721 points.

Utah, boosted by second place finishes in both the men's and women's relays, edged Vermont despite the Catamounts' victory in the men's relay race.

Vermont's Bruce Likly, George Welk and Todd Boonstra finished the 10-kilometer race in 1:25:57.7. The trio, led by Boonstra and Welk, finished second, third and fourth in the individual 15-kilometer race.

Dartmouth's Tom Foote grabbed the giant slalom lead in his first run and made it stand up to win the title. After Foote finished the course in 1:51.94, he underwent surgery to remove his appendix. Following a two-day hospital stay, the sophomore attended the evening awards banquet after the final day of competition.

Spurgin fires up Murray State, shoots down West Virginia

Olympic gold-medalist Pat Spurgin led her Murray State teammates to a stunning upset over West Virginia and to the National Collegiate Men's and Women's Rifle Championship in the closest match in the six-year history of the event.

When the smoke cleared March 9 at the U.S. Military Academy, the Racers had scored 6,150 points; two-time defending champion West Virginia had 6,149. Murray State is only the third team to hold the national title, following Tennessee Tech (1980-82) and West Virginia (1983-84).

Perennial contenders East Tennessee State (6,102) and Tennessee Tech (6,069) finished third and fourth, respectively. Rounding out the scoring were Army (6,063), Eastern Kentucky (6,049) and Tennessee-Martin (5,993).

Spurgin also took the individual smallbore title with a score of 1,168; she is the only woman to hold an individual title in either smallbore or air rifle competition and she won the 1984 air rifle title with a score of 388.

West Virginia freshman Christian Heller snatched the air rifle title away from Spurgin on the basis of most inner 10s; this measurement, used to break ties for the top six places in national championships rifle competion, is the total number of perfect bull's-eye shots made by a competitor.

Heller, Spurgin and Randy Powell of Army each scored 387 in air rifle; Heller, however, had 18 inner 10s, besting Powell (15) and Spurgin (12). Only three points separated the top nine individual air rifle finishers, and several ties had to be broken.

Texas (No. 1) plans to play it by the numbers in play-offs

Quality and quantity will be the necessary ingredients for winning the 1985 Division I women's swimming championships, scheduled March 21-23 at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa.

Texas has dominated the rankings during the regular season, but coach Richard Quick still is working on a sure-fire combination as the championships near.

"I do think we have the potential to have a great meet," said Quick, whose Longhorns took the Southwest Conference title by a good margin. "I think the main difference between a dual meet and a championships meet like this one is the quality of the depth a team brings with it.

"In a dual meet, a few quality swimmers can make a difference; in a meet like the NCAA championships, you need quality swimmers and lots of quality depth. You need a lot of people to make the finals in their events."

Quick thinks the Longhorns' strong-est events will be the backstroke races, but he said Texas should be represented in every event on the schedule. He also had interesting perspectives on other Division I contenders.

"I think the team with more depth than anyone is Southern California," he said. "Alabama also has the numbers; the question will be whether or not their depth comes through.

"In terms of quality people, I believe Florida, North Carolina and Stanford all have some very talented people. The question here is whether or not there are enough numbers for these teams to score a lot of points."

Southern Cal assistant coach Teri McKeever thinks the Trojans will be able to score significantly in several events. "The sprint freestyles, particularly the 100- and 200-yard events; the backstrokes, and the breaststrokes all should be good events for us," McKeever said.

Team captain Sue Habernigg led the way for Southern Cal's successful regular season culminated by the Western Collegiate Athletic Association championship victory over national-championship contender Stanford.

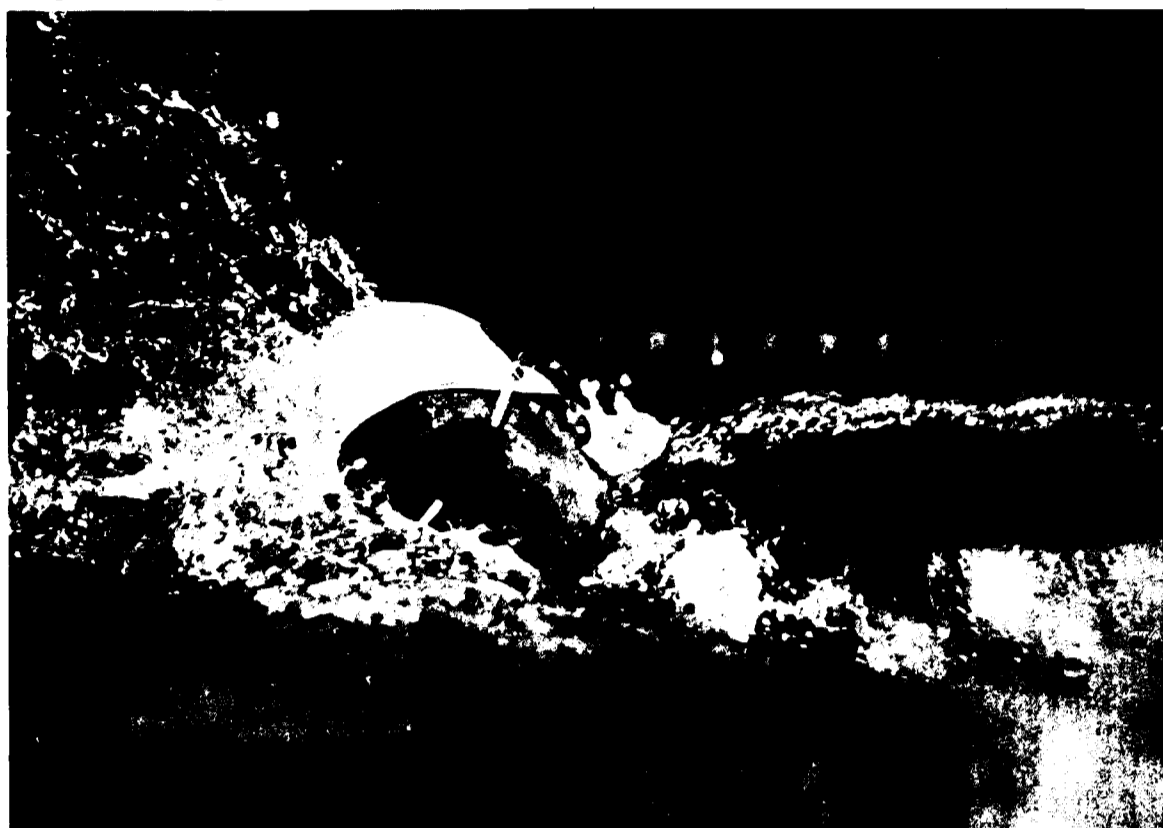

Also swimming well for the Trojans are Heather Strang and Anna-Karin Andersson, a newcomer from Sweden.

"We have 10 people qualified," McKeever said, "and nine of them will swim in at least two events. Our relays also should be strong this year. I think everyone has a chance of scoring in the top eight."

That kind of point production could put pressure on the Longhorns.

"Did they tell you how they (Southern Cal) won the meet?" Stanford coach George Haines asked with a chuckle. "We won the 200 medley relay, but we were disqualified because of a bad takeoff. That cost us 40 points, and Southern Cal beat us for the WCAA title by 12 points; we are claiming a moral victory."

Marybeth Linzmeier again will anchor the Cardinal championship effort. "She will do better than she did in the conference meet, which is the same way it happened a year ago," Haines said. In 1984, Linzmeier won three individual titles.

"I don't think anybody has the ability to really challenge Texas," Haines continued. "I think there will be a real battle for second, third and fourth places, and I think we are in the middle of that."

Florida coach Randy Reese is looking for some consistency in the championships. "We swam pretty well throughout the year, but we are still working on some things.

"We have been inconsistent; I can't say we really had one person swim exceptionally well all season long. No one swimmer was consistent."

Reese said his team was capable of a top-five finish and could be a challenger for national honors if the bugs get worked out. "I don't think anybody can pinpoint the keys to winning the national championship," Reese said. "We are top-five caliber, and we may be able to move up higher, but there is no way anybody can say what it will take to get there. I guess we'll find out soon."

Irish threaten Wayne State (Michigan) hold on fencing title

Wayne State (Michigan) has won three consecutive NCAA fencing titles, but Notre Dame could put an end to that streak March 19-20 at the NCAA Men's Fencing Championships in Notre Dame, Indiana.

Notre Dame, which will host the championships for the fourth time, and Wayne State both could field two contestants in each weapon (epee, foil, sabre), the most entrants allowable in the national tournament.

Both squads return individual champions—Notre Dame's Charles Higgs-Coulthard in foil and Ettore Bianchi of Wayne State in epee—and both have national contenders in other weapons.

Higgs-Coulthard is 33-2 this season, and Bianchi will enter the national tournament with a 21-2 record, which includes the championship of the Great Lakes tournament.

Other possible weapon winners for coach Mike DeCicco's Notre Dame squad are Andy Quaroni in epee (sixth last year) and Don Johnson in sabre (third last year). Christian Scherpe, a transfer from Cal State Northridge, also may qualify in epee.

Wayne State, third on the all-time list with six NCAA titles, will counter with Giovanni Giroto in sabre (fourth last year) and Stefan Cheval in foil (fourth last year). Giroto is 24-0 this year; Cheval is 30-3.

Under the guidelines of a new selection process, the East region is guaranteed more participants because sponsorship is highest in that part of the country (58 of the 90 sponsors are in the East).

Notre Dame and Wayne State will be awarded most of the Midwest's allocation of six positions in sabre, seven in foil and eight in epee. In the East, however, a number of teams will vie for the 20 positions in sabre, 19 in foil and 19 in epee.

New York University and Penn State would appear to be the best in the East. NYU features the top performer in the country in Michael Lofton, who was 57-1 as a freshman last year and won the NCAA sabre title.

Lofton has continued his torrid pace this year, compiling a 30-0 record. He competed on the U.S. Olympic team last summer. Lofton may be joined by teammate Arthur Tarnowski in sabre competition.

Penn State's second-place finish last year was its best in history, and the Nittany Lions could crack the top three again in 1985. Brian Keane (27-2 this season), second in sabre last year, is Penn State's top performer.

Columbia, led by Russell Wilson in sabre, and Pennsylvania, with David Donaido in sabre (25-6 this year), are other top teams in the East. Columbia, which last won the NCAA title in 1971, is second in all-time victories with eight; Pennsylvania, the 1981 champion, has won three NCAA championships.

In the West, the top teams are Stanford, San Jose State and Air Force.

Yale women fencers should offset challenges by Penn, Penn State

Although Penn State and Pennsylvania feature the tournament's individual stars, Yale appears to have the talent necessary to defend its title at the 1985 Women's Fencing Championships March 21-23 at Notre Dame, Indiana.

Led by Jessica Yu and Andrea Metkus, Yale is the top team in the Northeast region, followed by Columbia-Barnard and St. John's (New York). Metkus finished second in individual competition last year.

Four pools of three teams each will compete in the team competition, with two teams in each pool advancing to the direct elimination. Teams that qualify will fence a direct elimination to determine the champion.

Following the team competition, four pools of six fencers each will compete in individual competition. The top 16 fencers will be seeded into a double-elimination tournament to determine the national champion. All bouts in the double-elimination tournament will be determined by eight-touch system.

The three team positions in the Mid-Atlantic/South region likely will be awarded to Pennsylvania, Temple and Penn State. Pennsylvania is led by Mary Jane O'Neill, last year's individual champion, and Gail Rossman. Jana Angelakis, 1983 champion and fifth last year, and Hope Meyer are the top performers for Penn State. Temple has three fencers who should be selected for individual competition—Mindy Wichwick, Rachael Hayes and Julie Rachman.

Northwestern, Wayne State (Michigan) and Wisconsin are the top contenders in the Midwest.

Wayne State, 1982 champion and runner-up last year, is led by Laura Glassi, Kathryn Watson and Sara Nuttal. Casaga Hovanyi of Ohio State could fare well in individual competition.

In the West, two of the three spots should go to Stanford and San Jose State. Katie Coombs is the top hopeful for San Jose State, which was second in the 1982 tournament. Holly Taylor and Jennifer Yu will lead Stanford, and Carolyn Moore of Air Force also should be selected.

Other teams with championship hopes are Cornell, North Carolina, Fairleigh Dickinson and Air Force. Other key individuals are Caitlan Bilodeaux, Columbia-Barnard; Sharon Monplaisir, Hunter; Christine Hamori, Cornell; Lisa Piazzar, Columbia-Barnard, and Randi Samet, St. John's (New York).

Kenyon men prepare to claim sixth Division III swimming title in row

Kenyon swimming coach Jim Steen could make history in the next two weeks. Should his women's and men's teams win their respective Division III championships, Steen would become the first head coach to lead two teams to back-to-back titles in the sport.

A victory by the men's squad in the championships March 21-23 at Emory University would mark Kenyon's sixth straight men's triumph and tie Steen with Indiana's legendary coach James "Doc" Counsilman, who stands as the only coach to lead team to six consecutive swimming titles.

To hear other coaches talk, the Lords should not have much trouble with the team event. "Kenyon is realistically way ahead of the game," said UC-San Diego head coach Bill Morgan.

"I think the race will be for second place," said Claremont-Mudd-Scripps coach Mike Sutton.

Steen is not buying their stories. "My natural approach is conservative," he said. "We are not planning to have an easy time at this meet. We always go in expecting a fight. I think the bottom line is that the team that shows up ready to swim for three days is going to win the championship. I hope we will be that team, but I don't look at us taking a joy walk through the championships."

The competition disagrees because of the Lords' talent and depth. Leading the way will be Jim Born, who won two individual titles and swam on all three winning relay teams in the 1984 championships. Born is one of six Kenyon swimmers who qualified for the national championships early this season.

Steen said the team had its ups and downs but could benefit from the regular-season competition. "I believe we had one of the most demanding dual-meet schedules in school history this season. If we win the title, I'll tell you the schedule was very good for us. If we lose, I probably won't be as happy with it.

"Overall, I'm pleased with the team's progress so far, but we are going to need to come through in some key areas if we expect to win the championship. Our distance events could use some improvement. This team is not quite as well balanced as last year's."

Clarmont-Mudd-Scripps coach Sutton evaluated his team's prospects succinctly. "We match up well with Kenyon everywhere but in the sprints," he said. "You can't give up 70 points against a team like Kenyon; I don't see anywhere we can make up that kind of deficit."

For the first time, the Stags will send a full team (13 individuals) to the championships. "This has been my best year in coaching, and it's all due to the caliber of kids," Sutton said.

"We think we will be able to hold off UC San Diego for second place; we beat them in a dual meet this season. We have a strong group of veterans back and a good group of freshmen."

One pleasant development has been the return of diver Derek Eberhardt, who was injured in midseason. Eberhardt, along with veterans Tom Harrison and Nick Bagatelos, could make the difference for the Stags. Harrison and Bagatelos also will team with Dave Neault and Eric Ryba to form a powerful relay team.

UC San Diego coach Morgan agrees with Sutton's assessment of the team picture. "We don't have the depth to go against Kenyon. Our team goal is to score 250 points, and I believe this team and Claremont are 100 points better than they were a year ago; but Kenyon will be in the 400-point range.

"I think we're still a year away," Morgan continued. "We have 13 men qualified, and I guess we have guarded confidence."

The teams most likely to challenge Kenyon say they still are not strong enough for a legitimate title bid. The Lords, on the other hand, are apprehensive as the championships approach. All seem to have talented swimmers, and the depth of these teams appears comparable.

"You don't believe everything you hear," said Steen. "I'm just as worried about this meet as I have been about all the others."

Outdoor track standards set

The qualifying standards for the 1985 NCAA Men's and Women's Outdoor Track Championships are listed below.

Qualifying standards must be competed in meters, except for the 400-meter relay and the 1,600-meter relay, which may be competed in yards. All field-event performances must be measured, recorded, and entered in feet and inches.

A wind-gauge reading is required for all manual-time entries in the 100- and 200-meter dashes and the 100- and 110-meter hurdles. The wind reading must be recorded on the entry form and must not exceed 4.73 miles per hour to be acceptable.

Changing sports is academic to all-America Demers (4.000)

About the time the Buena Vista College women's basketball team pulls up for a final jump shot, the Beavers' softball players are working out the kinks of winter.

However, Buena Vista's Jeannie Demers' only physical preparation for the spring sport is just to change uniforms.

"There's not much of an adjustment time because the atmosphere is totally different," Demers said. "Once I get around the girls playing softball, I swing right into it."

The trip from hardwood to soft grass travels a straight route through the classroom, where Demers, who has a 4.000 grade-point average (4.000 scale), adjusts as easily.

She finished her sophomore basketball season as the top scorer in Division III (30.9 points a game). It took her only two years to reset the Buena Vista career-scoring record; this year, she established Iowa Conference standards in field-goal shooting percentage (52), single-game scoring (42 against Simpson College), total points (429), scoring average (30.6) and field goals (188).

A 20-8 basketball record behind her, the 20-year-old Demers headed for the softball field where, in 1984, she turned in an all-America performance at third base for the national-champion Beavers, despite not having previously played the position.

Coach Marge Willadsen moved Demers to the hot corner from shortstop, her high-school position.

"She's just a highly unusual athlete," Willadsen said. "We converted her from shortstop to third base because we had our shortstop back and I needed a third baseman. We needed that spot filled, and it turned out great."

Recruited by several Division I schools that would have required Demers to choose between her two favorite sports—she played in five in high school—Demers chose Buena Vista, bringing with her a touch of humility sometimes absent in student-athletes of her caliber.

"I do not bring success to programs," she said. "These programs have been successful in the past few years, and I'm just lucky to be a part of them."

And vice versa. "She's an exceptional young lady," said basketball coach John Naughton. "She doesn't say much. She just goes about her business. I'm just fortunate, that's all, to have that kind of ability in an athlete. She's religious, too, but she wouldn't tell you that."

"This girl is humble. I've been at it (coaching) 35 years and I can tell you she's confident, but she's humble."

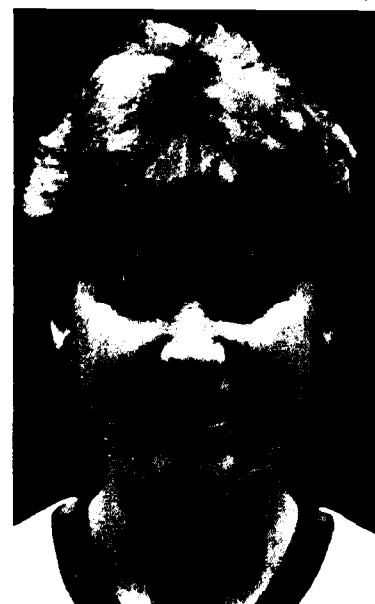

Demers' family home is seven miles from the campus of Buena Vista in Storm Lake, where Jeannie's older sister, Jolene, played for Naughton.

An elementary education major, Jeannie wants to coach after graduation. She coaches a boys' baseball team in the summer.

"My older sister went to BV and I knew it was a good college," Demers said. "I'm out to get a degree and not just to play sports. I concentrated on that, too, when I made my decision on which school to pick."

But, what does a student-athlete like Demers plan to do to top a year like the one she's having?

"It will be hard to top and I don't know how to approach it, but I'll take it as it may fall. I'll come back and give it everything I've got and play my hardest."

In that case, the adjustments next season will have to be made by the opposition.

Ewing, Tisdale selected all-America third time

Patrick Ewing of Georgetown and Wayman Tisdale of Oklahoma have been named to the Associated Press all-America basketball team for the third straight year. Chris Mullin of St. John's (New York) and Keith Lee of Memphis State joined Ewing and Tisdale as unanimous first-team selections. The other first-team member is Xavier McDaniel of Wichita State, who could become the first Division I player to lead the nation in scoring and rebounding.

Ewing, Tisdale and Mullin played on the U.S. Olympic team that won the gold medal last summer in Los Angeles.

Ewing, a 7-foot, 240-pound senior center, led the defending NCAA Division I men's champion Hoyas to a 30-2 record, including the Big East Conference tournament title.

Tisdale, a 6-9 junior center, led the Sooners to a 28-5 record and the Big Eight Conference regular season and tournament championships. He is the Big Eight all-time leading scorer with 2,570 points.

Mullin, a 6-6 senior guard, was instrumental in St. John's Big East regular-season title. He led the Redmen in assists and steals and was the third leading rebounder.

Lee, a 6-10 senior, is the leading scorer and rebounder in Memphis State history. He paced the Tigers to the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference regular-season and tournament titles, making 50 percent of his shots from the field this season.

McDaniel, 6-7 senior, guided Wichita State to the Missouri Valley Conference tournament championship. At the time of the selections, he had averaged 27.4 points a game with 56 percent field-goal marksmanship and 15 rebounds a game.

The all-America team was selected, without regard to position, by a 10-member panel of AP and newspaper sports writers.

The all-America team:

First team—Patrick Ewing, 7-0, senior, Georgetown; Keith Lee, 6-10, senior, Memphis State; Xavier McDaniel, 6-7, senior, Wichita State; Chris Mullin, 6-6, senior, St. John's (New York); Wayman Tisdale, 6-9, junior, Oklahoma.

Second team—Len Bias, 6-8, junior, Maryland; Johnny Dawkins, 6-2, junior, Duke; Jon Koncak, 7-0, senior,

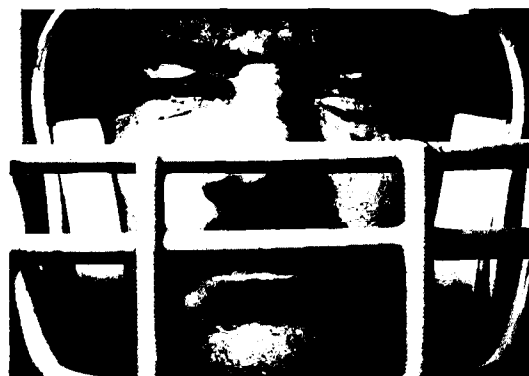

Clemson coaches enter guilty pleas

Two former Clemson University coaches pleaded guilty March 11 to illegal possession and distribution of prescription drugs and were fined and placed on probation. They were instructed to perform community service.

Sam Colson, 33, and Stan Narewski, 35, entered their pleas, but Judge C. Victor Pyle decided against jail terms. Pyle fined Colson $2,000 and placed him on three years' probation. Narewski was fined $750, given a one-year probation and instructed to perform community service.

The Business Of Winning

More than 100 high school all-star games certified for '85

More than 100 high school all-star games have been certified for 1985 by the NCAA High School All-Star Games Committee.

Two criteria changes are in effect for high school all-star games this year:

- Criterion No. 5 was revised in 1983 to require that game sponsors provide, in addition to other required information, proof of payment of all net proceeds (including any delayed amounts) to the specified charitable or educational organization. Proof of payment will be requested by the NCAA National office after the game at the same time final reports (financial report, physician's statement) are submitted.

- Criterion No. 12, approved by the Council in 1983, limits payments of expenses to players and coaches actually participating in the game. In addition, game sponsors no longer will be permitted to provide expenses or free admission for a participant's high school coach, relatives (including parents) or other interested parties.

risk accident coverage for institutional staff, allied conference staff and NCAA staff.

If the three new programs are approved by the Administrative Committee, it is anticipated that they would be available to the membership about May 1. The policies first would have to be approved by the Kansas Insurance Department.

Since most of the institutions participating in the NCAA loss-of-revenue program are from Division I, the Insurance Committee also recommended that the seven percent participation requirement for NCAA-sponsored insurance programs be adjusted so that participation in the loss-of-revenue program is based only on the number of institutions in Division I rather than the entire membership.

In addition, the committee suggested that a three-year period be allowed for the proposed new programs in 1985-86 to meet the seven percent participation requirement. The committee believes it is appropriate to allow the administrator of the plan a three-year period to generate an acceptable level of participation.

The Insurance Committee's recommendations will be considered by the Administrative Committee this week.

view of the scheduling of the special NCAA Convention in June.

NCAA President John R. Davis and John W. Ryan, chair of the NCAA Presidents' Commission, have agreed that an amendment to Constitution 5-7-(b) and (c) will be submitted for a vote at the June special Convention to specify that the I-A and I-AA legislative meetings "may" be held annually, rather than "shall" be held annually as now required by those constitutional provisions.

If that amendment is adopted at the special Convention, members of Divisions I-A and I-AA would be polled immediately after the special Convention to determine if they wish to schedule the legislative meetings in August. If the majority does not wish to have the meeting in either subdivision, it will be canceled.

If those meetings are conducted, Division I-A would meet August 7 and until noon August 8, with Division I-AA meeting that afternoon and part of August 9.

TV in the News

Sports Time to cease operations

Sports Time, a pay cable sports network covering 15 Midwest states, will cease operations March 31.

The Associated Press reported that the network has only 37,000 subscribers, after company officials had predicted a paid-subscriber list of 150,000 by the end of its first year. Sports Time went on the air last April.

The company said it had been unable to generate sufficient revenues from cable subscribers and advertisers to cover its costs.

ACC gets two-year football pact

Jefferson Pilot Broadcasting of Charlotte, North Carolina, and the Atlantic Coast Conference have signed a television package calling for the broadcast of 12 ACC football games during each of the next two seasons.

The agreement with Jefferson Pilot is in addition to the recent pact between the ACC and CBS for 14 appearances during the 1985 and 1986 seasons. ACC schools are active members of the CFA but will not participate in any CFA-negotiated television series for the next two years.

"The agreement with Jefferson Pilot, along with the CBS arrangement, puts our conference in an excellent position as far as TV exposure is concerned with the other major football conferences around the country," said Robert C. James, ACC commissioner. "It will provide much more exposure for all of our schools, as well as generate more money for the conference schools."

Naismith winners to be announced

ESPN will televise the announcement of the 1985 Naismith Award winners during its coverage of the first round of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship.

The awards, given annually to the outstanding male and female college basketball players, will be presented at a banquet in Atlanta April 4.

Game draws highest cable rating

The Georgetown-St. John's (New York) basketball game broadcast on ESPN February 27 drew the largest audience of any network cable telecast ever, the Associated Press reported.

The Big East Conference game was seen in 2.9 million homes and drew a record rating of 8 and a share of 12 in the 35 million homes that receive ESPN, according to figures released by the cable network and attributed to A.C. Nielsen Company.

The best previous regular-season rating on ESPN was 4.8 for college basketball, said ESPN spokesman Mike Soltys.

A rating point represents the percentage of all the homes that get the service, and a share is the percentage of sets with the program turned on.

CFA signs pacts with ABC, ESPN

The College Football Association and ABC have agreed to a two-year contract providing for the broadcast of a minimum of 21 games each season.

The Associated Press reported the contract to be worth $31 million. Earlier, the CFA and ESPN worked out a two-year pact for the televising of 17 games each season.

The ABC agreement guarantees each of four CFA conferences—Big Eight, Southwest Athletic, Southeastern and Western Athletic—as well as northern and southern independents two appearances each.

Mizlou expects to carry new NIT

Mizlou, an independent sports syndicator, appears to be the top candidate to broadcast the preseason NIT Tournament, after officials at NBC and CBS expressed little interest in televising the 16-team event nationally.

Mizlou has an agreement to televise the postseason NIT.

The two major networks' officials were not interested in televising the tournament—scheduled the last two weekends in November—against college football in the afternoon or in prime time during the network's ratings sweeps period, USA Today reported.

However, John W. Kaiser, athletics director at St. John's University (New York), and a member of the five-man NIT committee, is optimistic about signing a television contract.

The tournament, which was approved by the NCAA Convention in Nashville, Tennessee, will be called the Big Apple Tournament.

Soccer committee reprimands, penalizes Kean and Scranton

Kean College and the University of Scranton have been publicly reprimanded and assessed financial penalties by the NCAA Men's Soccer Committee in connection with an incident during the 1984 NCAA Division III Men's Soccer Championship.

After reviewing written, verbal and personal presentations by representatives of both institutions and other observers during two recent meetings, the committee determined that participating student-athletes, student-athletes not in uniform and spectators representing both institutions were involved in a fight late in a second-round game played November 10 at Kean.

The committee emphasizes that "it is the responsibility of each institution to provide proper administrative control at the site and on organized travel to the site." The committee specifically cited failure to control access to alcoholic beverages, a direct violation of NCAA policy.

In accordance with Executive Regulation 1-2-(o), the NCAA Men's Soccer Committee voted to impose the following sanctions: (1) The University of Scranton shall not receive payment of the NCAA travel guarantee for the game in question, and (2) Kean College shall not receive an honorarium for serving as host for the game. The committee also noted that, in accordance with NCAA regulations, future incidents of this nature could affect the eligibility of either institution for championship competition.

ESPN to cover festivals

ESPN has been awarded television rights to the National Sports Festival for three years beginning in 1985, the cable sports network and the U.S. Olympic Committee announced jointly March 12.

The National Sports Festival, a USOC-sponsored event that involves competition in 34 sports from the Olympic and Pan American games, will be held in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, July 22 to August 4 this year.

Steven M. Bornstein, ESPN vice-president of programming, said the network would televise 35 live hours from the competition, including prime-time week-night and afternoon weekend hours.

The 1986 sports festival will be in Houston, and the 1987 event is scheduled for Raleigh-Durham, North Carolina. The competition is held each year except in Olympic years.

This year's sports festival is expected to attract nearly 3,000 competitors and about 250,000 spectators, the USOC said.

Briefly in the News

Worcester Polytechnic Institute trustees have approved a $1.9 million renovation program to upgrade the institution's athletics fields. The heart of the project includes installation of all-weather surfaces on the football field and running track. The new football surface also will allow playing space for soccer, lacrosse and field hockey varsity teams and intramural groups. Oakland University and its athletics department will host a conference for athletics administrators of small and medium-sized institutions April 15-17. The conference will be limited to 38 participants. For information, write Athletic Administrators Conference, Lepley Sports Center, Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan 48063; telephone 313/377-3196.

Wichita State University head women's volleyball coach Phil Shoemaker has announced that a memorial fund has been established to honor the late Stephanie Mullins, 22, a WSU volleyball player who died January 8 of complications following surgery. Funds will be used to support the volleyball program. Contributions can be sent to Wichita State University Athletic Association, Campus Box 18, Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas 67208.

University of Delaware athletics director Edgar N. Johnson has cited 116 varsity student-athletes in 18 sports for their excellence in the classroom during the fall semester. The athletes were named to the AD's first honor list for achieving a 3.000 or higher (4.000 scale) grade-point average for the semester. Columbia University has announced the construction of a $1 million stadium for its soccer team, winner of seven consecutive Ivy League championships. The stadium—with seating for 3,500, lights for night matches and natural grass—is expected to be ready by fall.

Rochester Institute of Technology is in search of a fight song to call its own and is willing to pay the winning lyricist $750. The school is asking its students, faculty, staff and alumni to write lyrics that could be set to music for a school pep song. A seven-member committee, which includes five alumni, one student and one professor, will judge the entries. University of Colorado football player Ed Reinhardt Jr. has been discharged from a Denver hospital after undergoing treatment for a severe head injury incurred in last fall's game against the University of Oregon. If progress continues as expected, Reinhardt will begin working on walking with a brace and crutches soon. Outpatient therapy will continue.

Hamilton College will host its first ice hockey school this summer under the direction of Phil Grady, the institution's head coach. The school, for boys between the ages of 10 and 17, will be conducted June 23 through July 5 and July 7 through July 19. The California Interscholastic Federation council has approved the use of a smaller-sized basketball for women at all California schools, beginning with the 1985-86 school year. The University of Maryland, College Park, will begin a drug-testing program for all of its athletes in August when the football team reports for physicals.

Louisiana State University had more than 50 verbal commitments to lease suite boxes at Tiger Stadium at $30,000 a year even before the institution's marketing campaign began. The school plans to build 70 suites and to add more seating to the stadium, which now holds 76,869. Revenue bonds will be sold to finance the expansion. Women's gymnastics has been discontinued at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, effective next year because of a lack of facilities. With the expected closing of Baker Field House next year, the team will have no practice space.

Distinguished American award will go to Flynn

William J. Flynn, director of athletics at Boston College and former NCAA president, has been named the recipient of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's Distinguished American award for 1985.

Flynn will receive the award at the foundation's 28th annual hall of fame dinner December 3 at the Waldorf Astoria in New York City.

After serving as the Association's secretary-treasurer for the 1969-70 term, Flynn was elected NCAA president in 1979 and 1980. He also has served on the Executive Committee and as chair of the Football Television Committee.

A graduate of Boston College, Flynn played end and was captain of the 1938 football team. He also was a forward on the Eagles' hockey team and excelled on the baseball team as an outfielder.

After serving in the FBI for four years, Flynn returned to his alma mater as a professor of mathematics. In 1952, he became executive secretary of the alumni association. Before being selected as director of athletics in 1957, Flynn served as an assistant football coach.

In 1982, Flynn won the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics' James J. Corbett Award, symbolic of outstanding achievements and contributions to athletics administration.

Under Flynn's guidance and leadership, Boston College's athletics programs have become highly successful. Flynn was honored with a bronze casting of his likeness and the dedication of the William J. Flynn Student Recreation Complex by the Boston College President, the Very Rev. J. Donald Monan, in 1979. It is Boston College's only building dedicated to a current school employee.

sion I player ever to win the scoring and rebounding titles. It is possible for their teams to meet in the East regionals at Providence. Hughes has passed Larry Bird to reach No. 6 on the all-time Division I career scoring list at 2,868 (16 behind Elvin Hayes, Houston '68) in four seasons—Bird played three. McDaniels seems to have the rebound crown wrapped up.

A coaching Who's Who

Only three Final Four coaches from the first three tournaments are missing from the field for the fourth annual Women's Division I Basketball Championship. Ten coaches are in the tournament for the fourth straight year, and seven more are on hand for the third time in four years. Of the 35 tournament coaches for 1985 (including cohead coaches), 24 have career winning percentages above .700 and 10 more are above the .600 level.

That is why this field virtually is a Who's Who of Division I head coaches. Marianne Stanley of Old Dominion heads the list of those with at least five seasons in Division I with .875 for eight seasons, followed by Louisiana Tech's Sonja Hogg at .850 for 11 seasons and Long Beach State's Joan Bonvicini at .819 for six seasons.

Texas' Jody Conradt, whose team is the top seed in the tournament, leads the national list in total victories at 392 (12 victories over junior college teams do not count in the official NCAA records), using a minimum of five head-coaching seasons in Division I. Tennessee Tech's Marynell Meadors is next at 341, then UCLA's Billie Moore at 314.

Sixteen tournament coaches were on the preseason list of active coaches with at least .700 winning percentages using the five-year minimum. Two more have made the list, since this is their fifth season—Holy Cross' Togo Palazzi at .792 and Idaho's Pat Dobratz .779.

As the chart shows, 19 teams are repeaters from 1984, eight are in the tournament for the first time and nine have made it for the fourth straight year.

Appalachian State leads the race for the most improved team in Division I basketball for 1985, but two teams in the NCAA tournament field—Penn State and Washington—still have a chance to finish on top, with 10½ games to 10 for the leader.

Appalachian State, coached by Linda Robinson in her first year on the job, finished 16-12 after losing to Marshall in the Southern Conference tournament semifinals. A year ago, the team was 6-22. Robinson, a 1978 Mars Hill graduate, compiled a 101-36 record in four seasons at Pembroke State before coming to Appalachian State.

Penn State is up eight games—27-4 vs. 19-12 a year ago. So is Washington, 26-1 vs. 17-8 (nine more victories, seven fewer losses is 16; divide by two). Both would need a sweep of all five NCAA games to reach 10½ games improvement. A third team in the NCAA field is on the list of teams up at least 7½ games—28-1 Idaho, which was 21-9 a year ago.

Here is the list:

| | 1985 | 1984 | Games Up |
|-------------------|-------|-------|----------|
| Appalachian State | 16-12 | 6-22 | 10 |
| Alabama-Birm. | 14-15 | 4-24 | 9½ |
| Iowa State | 12-16 | 3-25 | 9 |
| James Madison | 22-7 | 13-15 | 8½ |
| Queens | 14-14 | 6-23 | 8½ |
| Georgia State | 16-10 | 9-20 | 8½ |

|-----------------|-------|-------|----|
| Penn State | 27-4 | 19-12 | 8 |
| Washington | 26-1 | 17-8 | 8 |
| Prairie View | 11-16 | 1-22 | 8 |
| Boston College | 19-9 | 11-16 | 7½ |
| Monmouth (N.J.) | 20-8 | 13-16 | 7½ |
| Idaho | 28-1 | 21-9 | 7½ |

Robinson, by the way, was an outstanding player and student at Mars Hill. She averaged 18.3 points per game for her four seasons, including 21.1 her senior year, and was the first female to have her jersey retired by the school. Bill Ivey was named interim head coach at Alabama-Birmingham, his first job at the four-year level. He inherited a 4-24 team but said: "I'm confident we'll get this going. This will be interesting. I've never coached a women's team and I've never coached with the 30-second clock." As it turned out, the Lady Blazers were 14-15 in the tough Sun Belt Conference for an improvement of 9½ games—second in the nation.

Pam Wettig was in her first year on the job at Iowa State in a 12-16 year that was an improvement of nine games over 325 in 1984. She came from Miami (Ohio), where she stood 131-102 for eight seasons. Said Wettig: "The Big Eight Conference in itself was a big attraction. Only one other conference had two teams in the top 20 in 1984." Next was James Madison, coached by Sheila Moorman, a 1968 Brigham Young graduate. Queens under Sharon Manning Beverly was 14-14 after winning just 20 the previous five seasons.

Rich Keast took over a 1-9 Georgia State at midseason last year, and led it to an 8-11 record the rest of the season then, to a winning 16-10 this year. Keast, 37, has had 16 years of coaching experience in high schools and at Georgia Military College.

Penn State coach Rene Portland was a four-year starter for Cathy Rush at Immaculata when the Philadelphia school won three AIAW national titles and finished second in 1975 to Delta State, which was coached by the legendary Margaret Wade and led by one of the game's all-time great players, Lusia Harris Stewart. She has had nothing but success in her nine-year coaching career (202-67) at St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania), Colorado and Penn State. Washington's Joyce Sake is a 1965 San Diego State graduate.

Baseball players sought for U.S. team

College baseball players who are 17 or 18 years of age are eligible to compete in the seventh National Sports Festival, scheduled July 20-August 1 in Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Players must be born between January 1, 1967, and December 31, 1968, to be eligible for the team, and they could participate with the U.S. junior team at the World Junior Baseball Championships this summer.

"The National Sports Festival and the World Junior Championships are the U.S. Baseball Federation's development program," said USBF Executive Director Richard Case. "They identify players for future U.S. senior teams that will compete in the Pan American and Olympic games."

The country is divided into four regions for the National Sports Festival, held in non-Olympic years. The coaching staff from each region is responsible for selecting its own athletes. Chairmen then select a four-year college coach, a junior college coach and two youth-level coaches to recommend the best 17- and 18-year-old baseball players in their respective states.

Eligible players not nominated by their state committee who are interested in competing should contact Brad Rumble at the National Federation of State High School Associations, P.O. Box 20626, Kansas City, Missouri 64195.

The four teams selected will compete in a round-robin tournament in Baton Rouge. The top three teams will be awarded gold, silver and bronze medals. The top 18 players from among the four regional teams will be chosen to represent the United States in the World Junior Baseball Championships August 3-11 in Albany, New York.

O'Brien joins Basketball Hall of Fame

Lee Williams, who guided the development of the Basketball Hall of Fame, will retire as executive director July 2. Joseph M. O'Brien, head basketball coach at Assumption College, will assume Williams' position.

"When I came here in 1966, there was a foundation and a hole in the ground amid chronic pessimism," Williams said. "My best friends said building the hall of fame couldn't be done."

The hall of fame will move from its present location at Springfield College, where James Naismith is credited with inventing the game of basketball in 1891, into an $11.4 million building under construction in downtown Springfield.

Prior to assuming the duties of executive director, Williams, 66, was basketball coach and athletics director at Colby College. O'Brien, 49, a hall of fame trustee and past president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, has been head basketball coach at Assumption for 18 years. His teams compiled a 321-173 record and made 10 consecutive appearances in the NCAA Division II play-offs.

NACDA to sponsor two-day clinic

The National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics will sponsor the 1985 Southeast Facilities and Fund-Raising Clinic March 30-April 1 in Lexington, Kentucky, site of the NCAA Final Four.

The two-day clinic at the Best Western Continental Inn in Lexington will feature sessions on choosing an architect, renovating existing facilities, raising funds from students for facilities and multisport activity centers.

Included on the program are personnel from large and small universities involved in constructing or renovating indoor arenas and outdoor stadiums.

Registration fee for NACDA members is $75, and forms must be returned by March 18 to the NACDA office.

Parson, Buck begin prison terms

Former University of South Carolina head women's basketball coach Pam Parsons and former player Tina Buck entered Federal prison March 11 to begin serving four-month sentences for lying to a Federal jury.

Parsons had sued Sports Illustrated over a 1982 article that said the coach was a lesbian and recruited with sex in mind. The article said she and Buck had an affair.

Parsons filed a $75 million libel suit against the magazine, citing irreparable damage to her future in collegiate coaching. The perjury charge stemmed from the libel trial, during which both women denied testimony by a witness that they had been together in a Salt Lake City bar popular with lesbians.

Nebraska sets conference on academics

"It's a tough job," says Ursula Walsh, academic counselor for the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, athletics department, about being an academic counselor. And, as with any job, changes occur that can make it tougher.

"New NCAA legislation requires a lot more academic tracking of the student-athlete now," said Walsh. "We've been doing it for a long time, and we want to share what we've learned over the years with those now appointed to do it at other universities and colleges."

"We've had a lot of calls in the last couple of years asking about our program, so we thought a conference might be something that would help others."

The "Counseling the Student-Athlete" conference is scheduled March 24-26 in Lincoln. It is sponsored by the athletics department and the department of conferences and institutes.

Walsh will explain and discuss the university's academic program—from the recruiting process through graduation. Currently, 92 percent of Nebraska's players of the past 12 years have graduated. During Walsh's tenure, there also have been 87 academic all-Big Eight Conference selections, 22 academic all-Americans and 10 NCAA postgraduate scholarship winners.

Conference topics are the major tasks of adolescence, the recruiting process, the forms used for complying with NCAA regulations, freshman orientation and study skills, and academic tracking forms (including computerized record-keeping). Rounding out the conference will be topics on how to structure a study table; communication with parents, coaches and professors; personal counseling, and orientation to independence (including postgraduate study, the senior personal financial planning seminar and choosing an agent).

For more information about the conference, contact the Department of Conferences and Institutes, 205 Nebraska Center, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, Nebraska 68583-0929; telephone 402/472-2844.
