Council presses for rules compliance and integrity

Building on the initiative already taken by the NCAA Presidents Commission, the NCAA Council highlighted its April 15-17 meeting in Kansas City by approving a summary position statement and a recommended program to enhance institutional integrity and compliance with intercollegiate athletics policies and rules.

The Administrative Committee had directed that such a document be prepared for the Division I Steering Committee, which refined and approved the document April 16. Arliss L. Roaden, president of Tennessee Technological University and NCAA Division I vice-president, then presented it to the full Council, which further revised it and then unanimously approved the statement and program April 17.

Following is the full text of the document approved by the Council:

Preamble

The chief executive officer's progressive involvement in the policy of this interest, and the special NCAA Convention in June 1985 is testimony to the CEO's authority.

The single most important responsibility of the NCAA Council is to assert a leadership role in seeing to it that the day-to-day management of intercollegiate athletics — at the insti-officers.

Statement I

The chief executive officers, through the NCAA structure and in numerous other forums, have made it clear that they should be the ones to determine fundamental intercollegiate athletics policy. A study of the Presidents Commission's survey of chief executive officers regarding the value of grant-in-aid awards and a review of NCAA studies on the related issues of "amateurism" in sports (other than football and basketball) reflect overwhelming support within Division I (and specifically Division I-A) for maintaining the current rules of the Association, albeit possibly with modest modifications. The policy authorities of member institutions, in effect, have declared they do not want to authorize enlarged financial aid awards for student-athletes, either in all sports or for football and basketball players only.

Likewise, there is no indication that the NCAA membership wishes to accept the generalized amateur concepts of the International Olympic Committee and the liberal interpretations thereof by the international and national sports governing bodies.

Statement II

Intercollegiate athletics is most vulnerable when it pretends to be something that it is not. This is most dramatically illustrated in the expressed desire of the membership to keep in place basic educational and amateur values through national policy, but then frequently yield to local pressures in condoning exceptions to academic standards and the application of financial aid and amateur rules. The benefits and financial rewards of commercialization too often take precedence over desired educational principles and far too many institutions condone or turn their backs on substantial violations of rules to which they are committed.

Statement III

The NCAA Council must take a leadership role in putting in place a program that will enhance to the maximum means possible institutional compliance with the policy directives adopted by chief executive officers of the NCAA membership. This problem centers in Division I and its solutions, in the main, should be developed within Division I. That is not to say that violations reflecting comparable technique but of more modest proportions are not present in Division II and quite possibly Division III.

Recommended program

The following steps, advanced by the Division I Steering Committee and unanimously approved by the Council, are intended to assure that the NCAA leadership of Division I and the Council, as a whole, will come forward with a major effort to reverse the present unsatisfactory climate of condoned rules violations and bring a supporting force to institutional athletics managers, most of whom would prefer to operate on a sounder educational basis.

A review of proposed enforcement changes

A proposed revision of NCAA enforcement procedures to be sponsored at the June special Convention by the NCAA Presidents Commission and the NCAA Council would categorize all violations of NCAA regulations as "secondary" or "major," with specific penalties for each category. In addition, there would be a separate, additional set of penalties for repeated major violations.

Following is a summary of the proposed enforcement provisions:

Secondary violations

Definition: The violation provides a limited recruiting or competitive advantage, if any, or the violation was relatively isolated or inadvertent in nature.

The assistant executive director for enforcement would determine whether an alleged violation was secondary or major. If determined to be secondary, the assistant executive director for enforcement would determine if no penalty is warranted or, if appropriate, require that a penalty or penalties be imposed.

All actions by the assistant executive director for enforcement in regard to secondary violations would be reported to the Committee on Infractions and subject to appeal to that committee. In addition, all disciplinary or corrective actions taken by the assistant executive director for enforcement or the Committee on Infractions in cases involving secondary violations would be published in The NCAA News.

Penalties for secondary violations would include one or more of the following:

- Termination of the recruitment of the prospective student-athlete by the institution or, if the prospect enrolls or has enrolled in the institution, permanent ineligibility to represent the institution in intercollegiate competition unless eligibility is restored by the NCAA Eligibility Committee.
- Forfeiture of contests in which an ineligible student-athlete participated.
- Prohibition of the head coach or other staff members in the involved sport from participation in any off-campus recruiting activities for one year.
- An institutional fine for each violation, ranging in total from $500 to $5,000.
- A limited reduction in the number of either initial or total financial aid awards that may be awarded during a specified period in the sport involved, but not more than 20 percent of the maximum number normally permissible in that sport.
- Institutional recertification that its current athletics policies and practices conform to all requirements of NCAA regulations.

Major violations

Definition: Any violation that is not determined to be secondary, specifically including those that provide an extensive recruiting or competitive advantage. In addition, repeated secondary violations will be identified as major violations.

Violations identified as major would be handled by the Committee on Infractions, as is currently the case, and the committee's actions would continue to be subject to appeal to the Council.

Penalties for major violations could continue to include any of those in Enforcement Procedure 7-(b), pages 211-212 of the 1985-86 Manual; however, the minimum penalty for a major violation would include all of the following:

- A two-year probationary period, including a periodic in-person monitoring system and written institutional reports; and
- Elimination of all expense-paid recruiting visits to the institution in the involved sport for one recruiting year; and
- A requirement that all coaching staff members in the sport be prohibited from engaging in any off-campus recruiting activities for one recruiting year; and
- A requirement that all institutional staff members determined knowingly to have engaged in or condoned a major violation be subject to termination of employment, or to suspension without pay for at least one year, or to reassignment of duties within the institution to a position that does not include contact with prospective or enrolled student-athletes or representatives of the institution's athletics interests for at least one year; and

- One year of sanctions precluding postseason competition in the sport; and
- One year of television sanctions in the sport; and
- Institutional recertification that its current athletics policies and practices conform to all requirements of NCAA regulations.

If the Committee on Infractions determined to vary from those minimum penalties in any way, it would be required to state specific reasons for doing so.

Repeat violations

Definition: An institution would be considered a "repeat" violator if any major violation is found within a five-year period from the starting date of an earlier major penalty, regardless of the sport involved.

Cases of repeat violations would be handled by the Committee on Infractions, subject to appeal to the NCAA Council.

Penalties for a repeat violator would include, at a minimum, all

12 legislative proposals submitted for special Convention

Delegates to the special NCAA Convention June 20-21 in New Orleans will act on 12 legislative proposals, all addressing issues of integrity and economics in intercollegiate athletics.

The 12 include eight submitted by the NCAA Presidents Commission (and now cosponsored by the NCAA Council) and four offered by the Council. No other properly submitted and sponsored proposals were received by the April 21 deadline.

Eight of the proposals — including seven of those from the Presidents Commission — deal directly with integrity issues in college athletics, as reflected in the Commission's recent survey of chief executive officers at all NCAA member institutions. The other four deal with economic concerns.

The 12 proposals will be printed in their entirety in the Official Notice and Program of the special Convention, which will be mailed to the membership May 6.

All eight of the Presidents Commission proposals will be acted upon by roll-call vote, as directed by the Commission. A new system of electronic voting will be utilized to facilitate those eight votes. Those eight issues will be acted upon before the other four proposals, as directed by the Commission.

Following is a summary of the intent of the 12 legislative items facing the special Convention, in the order in which they will be presented:

Institutional self-study

An amendment to Constitution 4-2 to require each member institution to conduct a self-study of its intercollegiate athletics programs at least once every five years as a condition and obligation of membership in the Association. The content and format of the self-study would be determined by the NCAA Council, and the self-study report and supporting documentation would be available for examination by an authorized representative of the NCAA. (Sponsored by Presidents Commission and Council; effective August 1, 1986.)

Academic reporting

An amendment to Bylaw 5-6, for vote by Division I only, to establish an academic-reporting program requiring each Division I member institution to report annually to the NCAA information concerning regular and special admissions, high school grade-point averages and national test scores, compliance with continuing eligibility requirements, and graduation rates. The data regarding admissions and graduation rates would be for both student-athletes and students generally at the institution. The Division I institution would have to meet the reporting requirement in order to be eligible for NCAA championships. (Sponsored by Presidents Commission and Council; effective August 1, 1986.)

Enforcement

Coaches receptive to stricter rules enforcement

By Steve Herman

Proposals by the NCAA Presidents Commission to severely punish cheaters in college sports "intensifies the awareness there is a problem," but the harshest penalties being considered may be softened before final action is taken, University of Notre Dame athletics director Eugene F. Corrigan says.

"My guess is that by the time we get to the June meeting, some of those things will be modified, probably tempered a bit," said Corrigan, a member of the NCAA Council that endorsed the series of measures drawn up by the commission of presidents from NCAA-member schools.

The proposals, which would identify major and secondary violations and give the NCAA enforcement staff broad powers to punish violators, will be voted on at a special NCAA Convention June 20-21 in New Orleans.

"Some of the things, like the idea of closing down a football program for two years . . . effectively, if you do that to a Division I program, is like shutting down the program forever," Corrigan told the Associated Press.

"But if there are two infractions in five years, probably they deserve to close forever."

As for other proposed penalties, including curtailment of recruiting visits by coaches and by high school athletes to the colleges, suspension of staff members for at least one year, and sanctions against postseason competition and television appearances, Corrigan said, "Those things should be done, absolutely."

"The fact that a student-athlete accepts money or illegal inducements, the coach who cheats and then moves on should not be allowed to coach. All those things I think are proper,"

Corrigan said.

"One of the things that has happened is that each year, the penalties have become stiffer. But everyone (on the NCAA Council) feels it's important to have the presidents involved. The Council basically approved the proposals. We said we'd take them to the meeting (in June), and we're going to support them."

The proposals resulted from several months of meetings by the NCAA presidents and were not prompted by the recent basketball scandal at Tulane University, Corrigan said.

"My feeling of the Tulane affair is it's really tied into drugs," he said. "That's almost a different issue. A combination of factors made the president of Tulane do what he did (dropping the program)."

Purdue University football coach Leon Burtnett said the Tulane investigation "scares you because of the outside forces. We can't live with the players every day, and we hope they're strong enough to overcome the outside forces."

"The get-tough measures would be great if the NCAA can really enforce them," Burtnett said of the proposals. "I think the rules the NCAA already has are fine if the NCAA would just back them up with proper enforcement."

"They have to stop talking about rules and start enforcing the rules they have. The NCAA is a weak organization right now. It has suffered too many blows. If a school cheats, it should pay the price, but that hasn't been the case in several recent circumstances," Burtnett said.

"College football is at a pivotal point right now because the pressure to win on young men is tremendous," the Purdue coach added. "I feel we have to start doing more for our players. The agents worry coaches the most because vast numbers of kids have already signed with agents before their senior years. This is because of the financial strains the rules put on our athletes."

Indiana University, Bloomington, football coach Bill Mallory said, "I'm glad to see them coming down hard. There needs to be more severe penalties, and I think the presidents are the ones that have to lead the pack. They have to know what's going on in their athletics programs."

Indiana President John W. Ryan is head of the NCAA Presidents Commission.

Mallory, agreeing with Corrigan, said, "I don't think, though, that banning football or basketball or whatever sport for the one or two years is the right answer."

"I just don't believe in punishing kids who are innocent victims. My personal feeling is that you punish the kids and the coaches involved and get rid of them. If they can't run a clean ship, then get rid of the violators."

Others commenting on the NCAA proposals included the following:

Bobby Ross, head football coach, University of Maryland, College Park: "It's a step in the right direction. I'm always for stricter punishment on violations that are willful. But to what extent, I don't know. I don't know if it means to totally ban a program."

John R. Davis, NCAA president: "I don't think we'll ever be in a position to outlaw and do away with all sin. That was attempted one time with 10 other rules, and they didn't work very well. But, I think this will go a long way toward that."

Vincent J. Dooley, athletics director and head football coach, University of Georgia: "I think you'll find 90 percent of the coaches in favor of this. If this doesn't do it, it can't be done, because what those individuals would be risking is no football . . . and that could make an impression on everybody."

Bo Bayer, director of high school relations, University of Florida: "We would react favorably, even though we may be in the hot seat now. It's a way to crack down. In some ways, no, it's not fair that the whole program would suffer. That's part of the Tulane situation now. And in football, you're talking six or seven times as many athletes."

William C. Friday, president, University of North Carolina system: "It's time for the NCAA to move, especially when it's an organization fighting hard to maintain control. Tougher enforcement measures by the NCAA are a worthy step and a much-needed step, but one must remember that is has been the NCAA's laxness in this area that created the problem."

"And what do my immediate bosses expect out of me. And if I can work within the framework of what it is the president of the university and the athletics director want, and the kids I coach want, that should be most important."

"But, it's difficult to do that, because there's always that element of fans and the media that create problems—from the letters to the editor, negative articles and so forth. "The rule (Proposal No. 48, which will require freshman athletes at Division I institutions to have a combined score of 700 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test or 15 on the American College Testing program's examination) to be eligible to compete in intercollegiate sports) was enacted to eliminate exploitation of the athletes. But the exploiters have been the big schools that chase the big bucks and treat athletes, particularly black athletes, wrongly."

"I thought that if they really wanted to atone for their sins, then what they should be doing is giving consideration to an athletes' bill of rights to limit practice time, to include tutorials and to insure five-year scholarships. None of those things were ever proposed."

" . . . It is welcome news that college presidents are trying to regain control of sports from their athletics administrators."

"But there is one major weakness in the move by the college presidents: They can only be as committed as the people who hire them."

"Most college presidents are hired for their fund raising and social and academic abilities, not because of any great expertise in criminal investigation or sports administration. Most presidents can't afford to know that powerful boosters give money and cars and no-show jobs directly to blue-chip athletes."

"The highly recruited athlete, perhaps from a poor background, wants to live at least as well as the wealthier students on campus; he does not want to recognize that many college students take loans and part-time jobs and share grubby rooms and eat haphazardly in order to be educated. The athlete knows only that he makes a ton of money for the college; he wants his share now."

And while newspapers have reported the arrests and indictments, some readers may wonder whether the papers have not indirectly contributed to the unhappy events."

"Newspapers, including The Post, publish syndicated columns such as 'The Latest Line.' They appear in tiny agate type, but sports fans do manage to find the point-spread listings."

"Since sports gambling, except for horse racing, is illegal in all states except Nevada, I wonder why newspapers publish information that contributes to illegal betting. I wonder if such listings do not swell the betting pot so that there is more incentive to bookmakers or gamblers to find ways to convert their bets to sure things."

"Should we not ask newspapers, rarely shy about commenting on the ethics of others, whether they are behaving ethically?"

Interpretations

Transfer residence requirement exception

Situation: In accordance with Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(14), a student who transfers to the certifying institution from another four-year collegiate institution may be eligible to compete immediately if the specified conditions are met. (622)

Question: What is necessary to meet the condition in subparagraph (ii) that the student did not receive athletically related financial assistance or such assistance was not renewed at the previous institution, and how does a student satisfy the condition in subparagraph (iii) that he or she is in good academic standing and meets the satisfactory-progress requirements?

Answer: To meet the requirement in subparagraph (ii), a student must not have received athletically related financial aid at the previous institution, the nonrenewal of a student's athletically related financial assistance must be for reasons unrelated to the student's transfer from that institution (e.g., the student would not meet the condition if the nonrenewal occurred after it was learned that the student was planning to transfer) and the student cannot have rejected or failed to accept an official offer of financial aid (initial or renewal) from the previous institution. To satisfy the condition in subparagraph (iii), the transferring student must be one who would have been eligible had he or she remained at the institution from which the student transferred, and he or she also must be eligible at the certifying institution under the provisions of Constitution 3-3-(a). [B 5-1-(m)-(14)]

Limitations on contests and dates of competition

Situation: Bylaw 3-3-(a) limits the numbers of contests and dates of competition in which a Division I or Division II member institution's student-athletes and intercollegiate athletics teams may participate during the prescribed playing season. (628)

Question: What constitutes a contest or date of competition for purposes of this legislation?

Answer: In the sports for which the limitations are based on the number of dates of competition, a member institution shall be considered to have utilized a date of competition if the minimum number of student-athletes participating on behalf of the institution in an intercollegiate competition on that date equals or exceeds the minimum number established for that sport in Bylaw 11-4-(b)-(2). (In the sport of tennis only, a dual match or an individual singles and/or doubles tournament shall be considered one date of competition.) In the sports for which the limitations are based on the number of contests, each competition against an outside team shall constitute a contest. Any contests or dates of competition shall be counted if they meet the criteria above, regardless of whether the institution considers the events to be scrimmages, exhibitions or regular-season contests. [B 3-3-(a)]

Question: Do the competitive-date and contest restrictions limit the competition of a student-athlete on behalf of a member institution individually and as a member of a varsity or subvarsity team?

Answer: Yes. A student-athlete may represent his or her institution in intercollegiate competition only on the number of dates of competition or in the number of contests allowed for that particular sport, regardless of whether the minimum number of student-athletes is competing for the institution on that date. For instance, a student-athlete in the sport of track could represent a Division I institution as an individual on five different dates and as a member of the institution's minimum team on 24 other dates without exceeding the overall limit in track of 29. The combination of a student-athlete's participation in competition as a member of varsity and subvarsity teams could not exceed the dates-of-competition or contest limit for the particular sport. [B 3-3-(a)]

Dates of competition—tennis

Situation: In the sport of tennis in Division I or Division II, a dual match or an individual singles and/or doubles tournament shall be considered one date of competition under Bylaw 3-3-(a). (629)

Question: For purposes of this legislation, what constitutes a dual match and an individual singles or doubles tournament?

Answer: A dual match shall be head-to-head competition involving the intercollegiate teams of two collegiate institutions or an intercollegiate team and an outside team. An individual singles or doubles tournament shall not include any team scoring or the recognition of a team champion and shall count as only one date of competition for the participating individuals, regardless of the number of days during which tournament competition takes place. The individual singles or doubles tournament also shall count as a single competitive date for those institutions that have five or more student-athletes compete therein. [B 3-3-(a)]

Foreign competition approval (Replaces Case Nos. 258, 259, 260)

Situation: The foreign-tour provisions of Bylaw 3-6 are applicable to institutions that are represented by more than a specific number of student-athletes on the same all-star team in international competition in a sport. (631)

Question: How many student-athletes from the same member institution may participate on the all-star team without the tour requiring Council approval and counting as that institution's foreign-tour opportunity in that sport for a four-year period as prescribed by Bylaw 3-6-(b)?

Answer: An all-star team that includes more than the following numbers of student-athletes from the same member institution would cause the all-star tour to require Council approval and count as that institution's foreign-tour opportunity in that sport for a four-year period: baseball 4, basketball 2, cross country 2, fencing 4, field hockey 5, football 5, golf 2, gymnastics 2, ice hockey 4, lacrosse 5, rifle 2, skiing 4, soccer 5, softball 5, softball 4, swimming and diving 5, tennis 2, track and field 7, water polo 4, wrestling 5, volleyball 2. Tulane discontinues men's basketball Tulane University's Board of Administrators has voted unanimously to end the school's 72-year old basketball program.

Players and other students are alleged to have been involved in a point-shaving gambling scheme to rig two games last February.

"I'm saddened and disappointed by the events that have taken place and the necessity for taking this action," said Tulane President Eamon Kelly, who had recommended the abolition of the men's basketball program.

Board Chairman Boatner Reily III said the administrators felt that "under the circumstances, Dr. Kelly took exactly the appropriate action" with his recommendation, which earlier was approved overwhelmingly by the school's senate.

Tulane teams played almost 1,400 games since the school started intercollegiate basketball in 1912.

Reily would not discuss the possibility that the program might be revived at some later date.

However, Kent McWilliams, chairman of the intercollegiate athletic committee, said he hopes it can be resumed.

"I told them that after the studies and all, we are going to double our efforts and we are going to end up with a program that suits the academic program at Tulane. We are going to reearn our credibility, and we'll be back to them."

Two members of last season's team are under indictment for point-shaving. Another player pleaded guilty in the conspiracy, and two are testifying against their former teammates. Five others were indicted in the gambling investigation: three students, a convicted bookmaker and a young man accused of being a courier for bribed money.

Cocaine is alleged to have been involved in the scheme.

Athletics director Hindman Wall, coach Ned Fowler and two assistant basketball coaches have resigned. Kelly said Fowler admitted paying at least one player for playing.

Wall has denied any knowledge of it.

The school picked head football coach Mack Brown as athletics director April 19.

The university's senate had voted 42-5 to abolish the program, with the five votes in favor of keeping the sport coming from the five student members. Their vote reflected a widespread feeling among students that their president overreacted.

The Association of Student Bodies voted to ask the board to delay any permanent action on Kelly's recommendation until after completion of a study on the role of intercollegiate athletics at Tulane.

Host school to draw penalty for late play-off game reports

The NCAA Division II Football Committee voted to implement a late-fine penalty against host institutions in championship play-off games for failing to submit a financial statement within 60 days of the game and recommended that 75 percent of net receipts be guaranteed by institutions submitting proposed budgets. The measures must be approved by the NCAA Executive Committee.

Unless a waiver is approved by the committee, host institutions would be required to file a financial statement within 60 days of the game or face a fine of 10 percent of net receipts.

"I think everybody wants basketball here, but at the same time, the violations are egregious enough that something has to be done," said Billy Rippner, a senior in business school whose term as ASB president ended two weeks ago.

Kelly recommended the study, calling for a blue-ribbon panel to consider whether Tulane should continue in Division I-A athletics and under what terms. He said the committee is to consider admission standards, classroom standards, counseling for players, and other matters affecting the university and athletics.

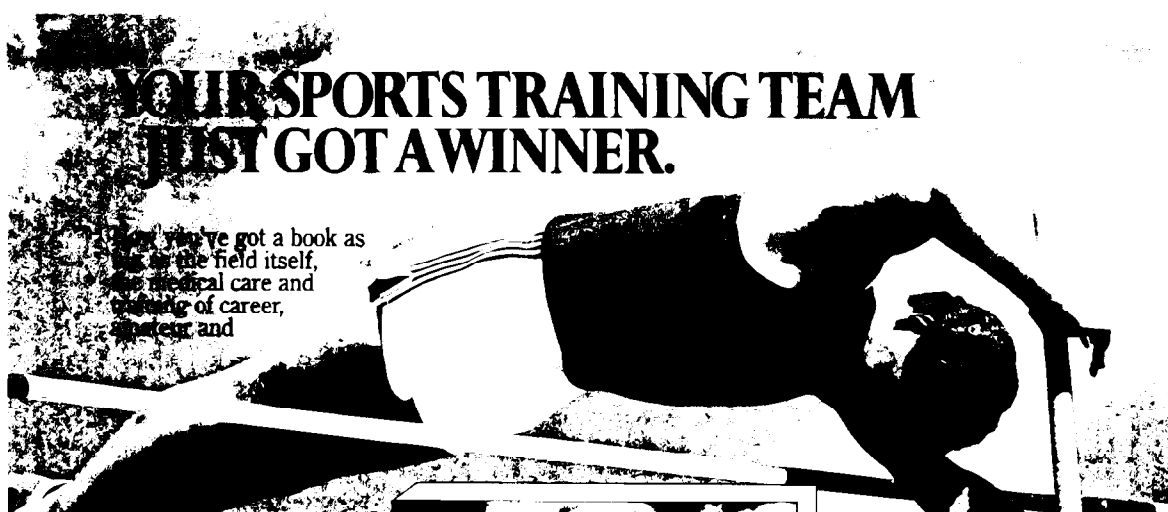

"I would hope that we would have a report from the committee by the end of the fall semester," Kelly said.

He also said he is asking the basketball-oriented Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference to waive its requirement that members participate in basketball so that Tulane can continue in the league it helped to found.

After meeting with representatives of the Palm Bowl to discuss promotional efforts and local arrangements, the committee recommended for the fourth consecutive year that McAllen, Texas, be the site of this year's Division II championship game, which is scheduled for December 14 with a tentative starting time of 7 p.m. First-round games are scheduled for November 30, followed by the semifinals December 7.

The committee once again will rank the top 10 teams on a weekly basis starting September 17 and ending with the announcement of the play-off field November 24.

A book this thorough requires a team approach. So, better than 50 contributors—orthopaedic surgeons, other physicians, athletic trainers and allied experts—combined to assure the kind of accuracy and timeliness you can count on.

Chances are this single up-to-date volume by itself could replace a collection of other books and still deliver the knowledge.

Championships Previews

Waves pepper conference opponents with volleyball losses

Pepperdine, the coaches' preseason favorite to capture the 1985 NCAA Men's Volleyball Championship, hasn't let the prognosticators down.

Undefeated (18-0) in California Intercollegiate Volleyball Association league play, Pepperdine already has clinched a spot in the May 3-4 final four at UCLA and continues to be the favorite to take the trophy home.

"Our goal every year is to win the national championship, and we go about it with a well-rounded attack," said Marv Dunphy, Waves' head coach. "Once you are in the final four, not much goes on in the way of magic ... it's what you've done up to that point that will take you through."

As 1978 national champion and runner-up in 1983 and 1984, Pepperdine's aura has been growing quietly for years, overshadowed by the seemingly unshakable reign of UCLA, the all-time national champion.

The Waves relied on a balanced attack in posting a 22-2 overall record and an astonishing .380 team hitting percentage, while holding opponents to a .209 percentage. Key players in the attack are setter/hitter Troy

Tanner (.404), setter/hitter Mike Fitzgerald (.392), hitter Bob Ctvrtlik (.392), middle blocker Rob Scott (.389), middle blocker Mark Arnold (.382) and hitter Matt Rigg (.355).

George Mason earned the berth from the East by defeating Penn State, 3-0, in the East regional championship last weekend. Going into the finals of the championship, the Nittany Lions had a 2-1 edge on George Mason in regular-season play, but a change in the Patriots' offense kept Penn State's transition game in check.

The Patriots (27-6), who finished third in last year's championship, are led by setter Ric Lucas (.278), middle attacker Moyo Kasim (.324) and outside hitter Jon Henwood (.351). The 6-6 Kasim leads the team in total kills with 412.

Ball State's Cardinals slipped past archrival Ohio State in the Midwest Intercollegiate Volleyball Association play-offs to tighten their grip on the Midwest regional slot they clinched in league play (6-0).

Setter Dale Carney paces the 22-11 Cardinals, and he recently was named the league's most valuable player. He is second in team kills (300), assists (640), digs (183), service aces (26) and blocked shots (98 assisted, 21 solo). Setter Chad Weyenberg is the team assists leader (779), and middle blocker Chris Dowler is the top blocker (126 assisted, 51 solo) and first in hitting percentage at .322.

The last of the final four teams will be decided April 25 and 27 when the West regional championships take place at Cal State Northridge. CIVA runner-up Southern California will play fifth-place Stanford, and third-place UCLA will go against fourth-place California-Santa Barbara.

Southern California, 25-8 overall and 15-3 in the conference, relies on outside hitter Bill Yardley (.362) and middle blockers Adam Horstman (.426) and Chao Ying Zhang (.374). The Trojans won the NCAA title in 1977 and 1980 and finished second in 1981.

UCLA, 31-7 overall and 13-5 in the league, features outside hitter Asbjorn Volstad, averaging 13.5 kills, and middle blocker Tim Otterman, the team leader in hitting percentage at .377. The Bruins have won the past four NCAA titles.

The California-Santa Barbara Gauchos finished league play at 11-7 (24-14 overall). Middle blocker Randy Ittner paced the team in hitting percentage (.348), and setter/hitter Jared Huffman led the Gauchos in kills (228).

Stanford's 23-9 record is its best showing ever, and 1985 marks the second time the Cardinal has reached regional play. Stanford is led by outside hitter Chris Vraun (297 kills, .322), middle blocker Scott Fortune (.302) and outside hitter Jon Root.

Lady Moccasins shooting for third consecutive Division II tennis title

Tennessee-Chattanooga's Lady Moccasins have set their sights on a third consecutive NCAA Division II Women's Tennis Championships title, but they should meet some powerful opposition when action begins May 6 at Cal State Bakersfield.

Although the eight-team tournament field has not been selected, Tennessee-Chattanooga looks like a contender from the South region with an 18-1 record.

After capturing the team title in 1983, the Lady Moccasins hosted the 1984 championships and defeated Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, 8-1, in final team play. In individual championships competition, the Tennessee-Chattanooga doubles team of Sue McCulloch and Christine Picher defeated teammates Pam Yates and Lori Massengill for the crown. In addition, McCulloch finished second in singles competition to Elisabeth Calandar of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville.

That Tennessee-Chattanooga four-some is back this year. McCulloch, a senior from Nottingham, England, sports a 16-4 overall record at the No. 1 singles position and was ranked second nationally in an April 2 Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA) poll. Yates, a senior from St. Albans, England, plays No. 2 for the Lady Moccasins and was tied for third in the poll.

The doubles team of McCulloch and Picher was ranked No. 1 nationally, followed by Massengill and Yates at No. 2. The teams have 14-3 and 15-2 records, respectively.

Also vying for the South region position or for one of the four at-large berths are Abilene Christian (15-3), Florida Southern (15-9), Florida Atlantic (16-8) and Stetson (10-15).

From the East region comes Central Connecticut State at 16-1. Kim Murphy-Francis, 15-0 at No. 1 singles, leads the squad with help from teammate Yvonne Clemens, 15-1 overall. Murphy-Francis teams up with Dawn Cocozza as the Blue Devils' No. 1 doubles team (13-1).

Three strong teams are battling in the Midwest region - Notre Dame, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville and Morehead State. The Fighting Irish are 21-4 this year and led by singles contenders Susie Panther (12-8), Mary Colligan (15-5) and Lisa LaFratta (15-4).

Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, last year's national runner-up, still boasts defending singles champion Calandar. The sophomore from Stockholm, Sweden, is 21-3 and ranked No. 1 in singles in the April 2 ITCA poll. Calandar and teammate Jan Petras team up in doubles.

Morehead State, at 18-3, features Angela Longo (18-9), Sally-Anne Birch (21-3) and Helen Curtis (18-4) in singles positions and Curtis-Birch (12-5) at No. 1 doubles.

In the West, Cal Poly-Pomona paces division play with a 20-9 record. Pat Choomngern (13-16, 10-10 in Division II), Sandra Rodriguez (17-11, 15-4 in Division II) and Debbie Jung (19-8, 17-1 in Division II) head Pomona's singles roster.

Cal State Northridge at 21-8 also is a top contender from the West. Marla Reid (14-14) and Missy Conn (21-8) in singles and the Susie Campbell-Cindy Woodhouse team in doubles (19-9) lead the Matadors.

California-Davis, Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo, Cal State Bakersfield and Northern Colorado round out the top contenders from the West.

In individual competition, scheduled May 8-11, 32 singles players and 16 doubles teams are invited to participate. In addition to players already mentioned, singles players being considered include Vidya Damadharan of Florida International (19-8), Kathy Federici (11-3) and Penny Rickard (11-0) of Georgetown, Maria Newton of California-Davis (10-6), and Sondra Elliott of Northern Colorado (17-6).

The doubles teams of Allison Avery-Betsy Broadwater of Florida Southern, Panther-Lora Lee of Notre Dame and Sandra Elliott-Nancy Roe of Northern Colorado are front-runners for the competition.

UC San Diego hopes to serve sweet revenge at victory table

UC San Diego's Tritons will be looking for victory and a small taste of sweet revenge when the NCAA Division III Women's Tennis Championships get underway May 6 at Haverford College.

The Tritons were edged out of 1984 honors by Davidson, which scored 15 points to UC San Diego's 14 in team play.

The 1985 team championship will use team head-to-head competition for the first time, instead of the previous years' flighted tournament format (No. 1 players compete against other No. 1s, etc.). One team will come from each of four regions, and four at-large berths will be awarded. Participant selection for the tour-namment will not be completed until April 29; however, UC San Diego from the West and Davidson from the South look like contenders. The Tritons are 16-5 and have won their last 11 matches, while Davidson is 17-3. In the April 2 Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA) poll, Davidson was ranked No. 1 and UC San Diego and Trenton State were tied for third.

Davidson's No. 1 singles player is Caroline Barclay, a junior from Hinsdale, Illinois. She and Amy McNelis, a freshman from Annandale, Virginia, are the No. 1 doubles team.

UC San Diego's Jessica Vernon, 16-5 in dual matches, and two-time all-America Nadine Akimoto are the Tritons' mainstays. The Vernon-Akimoto doubles team is 15-4.

Other strong teams from the South region are Emory (15-8), Rhodes (17-4) and Mary Washington (21-4-1). Emory's top player is Sandy Stein (12-8), a freshman from Union, New Jersey. Her most impressive victory of the year came last week against Davidson's Barclay. Stein and Debbie Herbert form the No. 1 doubles squad.

Rhodes' No. 1 singles player, Laurie Laughlin (17-2), teams with Mary Ann Fesmire in doubles (15-4).

Mary Washington, No. 2 in the ITCA poll, features Suzie Groah, a freshman from Reston, Virginia, in the No. 1 singles spot.

In addition to UC San Diego in the West, Colorado College (16-3), Pomona-Pitzer (21-2), Creighton (17-3) and Occidental (11-10) are strong contenders. Colorado College's Karen Ruehl is 10-8 in singles and 13-4 in doubles with partner Laura Hoven. Kristen Carter, a sophomore from Visalia, California, plays in the No. 1 singles slot for Occidental.

In the East, Trenton State, Franklin and Marshall, Skidmore, and Allegheny are battling for a tournament spot. Trenton State's No. 1 Debbie Daniel recently was injured and appears doubtful for championship play. The No. 2 player, Wendy Kaufman (14-7), has taken up No. 1 duties, and Amy Danser (29-5) has moved to No. 2.

The doubles team of Janet Amarilla and Anne Williams (8-0) is strong for Franklin and Marshall, and Rebecca Buster-Kris Kohn (5-1) pace Allegheny.

In the Midwest, Principia features outstanding players. Courtney Allen returns to defend her 1984 singles championship. Allen and doubles partner Suzy Verhuel took the national doubles title. Gustavus Adolphus, Luther College and Kalamazoo also are contenders.

Thirty-two singles players and 16 doubles teams will compete in the individual competition beginning May 8.

National coordinators named in VFY program

Five student-athletes at NCAA member institutions have been selected to the national staff for the 1985-86 Volunteers for Youth program and will begin work July 15.

New national coordinators selected by the NCAA Volunteers for Youth Committee are Roy Deary, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; John Dolan, Duke University; Cole Mehlman, Claremont McKenna-Harvey Mudd-Scripps Colleges; Robin Shaw, University of California, Davis, and Mary Jean Wright, University of Virginia.

The five new national coordinators will work with Audrey West, senior national coordinator, to administer the VFY program, which operates at 58 NCAA member institutions. Student-athletes at participating institutions develop individual relationships with young persons from junior high schools near the campuses.

Institutions involved in the VFY program provide an athletics department staff member to serve as an adviser to a group of student-athletes.

After four regional workshops this summer, the 1985-86 staff will work with West at the NCAA national office before leaving September 2 to visit as many of the VFY programs as possible.

Following are biographical sketches of the new VFY members:

Deary, a student director for three years at Arkansas, was captain of the Razorbacks' swimming team last year and was a three-time finalist in Southwest Athletic Conference competition. A business administration major, Deary was active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and was a member of the Golden Key national honor society. He also participated in the 1984 U.S. Olympic trials.

Dolan, a football player at Duke, has participated in the VFY program for 2½ years. He has been involved in various extracurricular activities at Duke, including the Duke University Athletic Board, the Duke University Athletic Association, an alcohol awareness task force, the undergraduate judicial board and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He is an economics major from Atlanta.

Mehlman, a basketball player at Claremont-Mudd-Scripps, was a VFY volunteer for three years before assuming the student director's duties. A political science major from Scottsdale, Arizona, Mehlman has served as a resident assistant and dorm intramural representative and was a member of the freshman orientation staff and the student and academic

Deadline May 13

Nominations for NCAA postgraduate scholarships in sports other than football and basketball must be mailed to district selection committee chairs by May 13.

A total of 45 awards (25 for men and 20 for women), each worth $2,000, will be given to student-athletes. Nominees must have demonstrated ability on the playing field and in the classroom.

Faculty athletics representatives are responsible for nominating student-athletes at each institution. The following guidelines must be met:

- Nominate not more than two men and two women.
- Use the application forms provided by the NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship Committee.
- Complete all forms, providing complete information.
- Mail the forms and transcript(s) in one package to the appropriate district selection committee chair by May 13.

Winners will be selected by the national committee in June and announced as soon as possible thereafter. More information about the program is available from Fannie B. Vaughan, administrative assistant, at the NCAA national office.

affairs committee.

Shaw is a member of the skiing club team at California-Davis. A mathematics and computer science major, Shaw has been a VFY student director for three years. She is a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, an honorary mathematics society.

Wright, the female student-athlete of the year in the Atlantic Coast Conference, qualified for NCAA competition eight times in cross country and track and field. She has been president of the athletic captain's council, student representative on the athletic advisory board and a member of the education council. She is working on a master's degree in science education.

West, a 1980 graduate of California-Davis, is in her third year as senior national coordinator and her fifth year as a VFY national staff member.

Audrey West

Staff members from 1984-85 who will be completing their year of service this summer are John Eaves, Morehouse College; Steve Holwerda, South Dakota State University; Liz Pardoe, Duke University; Nancy Sieben, North Dakota State University, and Chris Waters, Arizona State University.

ABC seeks cut in USFL rights fees

The American Broadcasting Company has asked the United States Football League for almost a 50 percent cut in the cost of television rights to the league's games during the 1985 season, the Los Angeles Times reported April 20.

Citing a USFL source who was not identified, the Times said ABC, which had agreed to pay $15 million for the rights, has asked for a concession of $7 million.

"There are stipulations in the contract that entitle us to renegotiate because of the configurations of the league," said Jim Spence, ABC vice-president for sports.

Since ABC agreed to the contract in 1983 before the USFL began to play, the league has been reduced from 18 to 14 teams. Teams in the major television markets of Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Detroit and Washington have moved, folded or merged with other teams.

USFL commissioner Harry Usher would not comment on the issue.

"In two weeks, I'll be able to tell you more," Usher said.

In the next two weeks, USFL owners are expected to decide whether they will shift from a spring schedule to a fall schedule in 1986.

ESPN to carry tennis tournaments

The 1985 NCAA Division I Men's and Women's Tennis Championships will be televised by ESPN.

The men's semifinals will be broadcast live May 25 at 10 a.m. (Eastern time), with the men's singles and doubles scheduled for live broadcast May 26 at 1 p.m. (Eastern time).

The women's finals will be televised on a tape delay basis at 1 p.m. (Eastern time) on May 25.

Big Eight game added to series

A Big Eight Conference baseball game between Oklahoma State University and the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, has been added to ESPN's schedule for its "Sunday Night College Baseball" series.

The game will be seen live at 8 p.m. (Eastern time) May 5.

SEC title game draws top ratings

The Lorimar Sports Network's broadcast of the Southeastern Conference basketball tournament championship game reached 500,000 households in more than 35 markets, according to the A.C. Nielsen Company.

In markets receiving the broadcast, the game between the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, and Auburn University failed to win top ratings only in Louisville and Memphis, which have teams in the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference. The Metro Conference championship game between Memphis State University and the University of Louisville was televised opposite the SEC championship game's first half.

• First—The Division I Steering Committee and the Council unanimously support all of the initiatives of the Presidents Commission, and the Council will cosponsor all of the Commission's legislative proposals at the special NCAA Convention in June.

• Second—The Council will take a strong position on the issues of improper financial aid in the sports of football and basketball, and the excesses in many other sports, by requiring through Convention legislation a one-time affidavit program to be signed by head coaches and student-athletes attesting to current compliance with specifically identified rules. This would take place prior to or shortly after the start of the 1985-86 academic year and will be presented as legislation at the special Convention.

• Third—Through enactment of amendments to the provisions governing automatic qualification of conferences in Division I, a mandatory compliance and on-campus visitation program will be required of all such conferences, and no conference will be granted automatic qualification unless it has in place the means to implement said program.

There is natural conference vs. conference rivalry as to the number of conference teams that achieve bowl-game invitations or NCAA tournament berths. Conference commissioners and staff too often are exhorted by their members to increase revenue, which tends to work against meaningful enforcement actions. This program would offset such pressures and enforce, at a minimum, nearly uniform efforts among the respective conferences to achieve compliance on the part of their members. Such uniformity tied to automatic entry to national competition constitutes a rational connection for such a requirement.

Implementing legislation will be submitted to the 1986 NCAA Convention and will include such requirements as:

1. Mandatory attendance by Division I conference commissioners at an annual NCAA rules clinic and planning program.

2. Annual mandatory rules clinics by the conference commissioner for the head coaches of all conference members, with mandatory attendance required of said head coaches.

3. Annual inspection of institutional operations by conference executives in the sense of reviewing each institution's efforts to achieve compliance among its coaches, alumni groups and boosters and a full review of the financial records of all outside fundraising groups.

4. Confirmation that the Presidents Commission's mandatory self-study program has been completed by the conference members in accordance with the terms of the amendments before the special Convention.

In those instances where a Division I institution is not a member of a conference that has automatic qualification status in one or more sports, then the above policies would be implemented by a designated individual in the NCAA legislative services department.

• Fourth—The present certification of compliance form should be substantially revised. It would be administered by an institutionally designated individual (designation procedure comparable to the procedure for authorizing submission of amendments) and would involve a signed statement that said individual had conducted appropriate interrogation of each head coach and each student-athlete receiving athletically related financial aid as to the application of specified rules and would include the results of such interrogation, signed by the participants in affidavit forms.

• Fifth and sixth—The ominous combination of point-shaving (or game-fixing) and use of drugs by student-athletes has come into full

Return to previous play-off format sought by Men's Fencing Committee

In hopes of creating championship opportunities for more institutions, the NCAA Men's Fencing Committee has recommended that only one student-athlete per institution be allowed to compete in each of the three weapons.

The committee, meeting April 15-18 in New Orleans, voted to return to the format in effect prior to the 1985 championships, when a maximum of two participants per institution were allowed to compete in each weapon.

In other championships matters, the committee recommended that Princeton University serve as the host institution for the 1986 Men's Fencing Championships March 18-19 and that a waiver of Executive Regulation 1-2-(k) be granted so that admission would not have to be charged at the 1986 championships.

The committee also announced the following regional allocations for the 1986 championships: East—sabre 19, foil 19, epee 18; Midwest—sabre 6, foil 7, epee 8; West—sabre 5, foil 4, epee 4. In addition, the committee recommended that the number of directors in attendance at the championships be increased from 12 to 14.

All championships matters recommended by the Men's Fencing Committee will be considered by the NCAA Executive Committee at its May meeting in Kansas City.

In addition, the Men's Fencing Committee eliminated most of the NCAA rules contained in the United States Fencing Association rules book. With a few exceptions, all NCAA competition now will be conducted under USFA rules.

NCAA rules that remain in the USFA rules book are those pertaining to organization of a dual meet and substitutions. An addition was made to part C of the substitution section as follows: "The substitute fencer cannot have fenced in another weapon in that dual meet or have been listed in the original starting lineup."

Other NCAA differences from USFA rules that remain are those dealing with a bout commenced out of order, substitutions, coaching time-out and the tie-breaker procedure. USFA rules deal only with an individual tie-breaker procedure, whereas NCAA rules address a team tie-breaker procedure. The procedure for tie breakers no longer will be printed in the USFA rules book since it is contained in the fencing championships handbook.

An additional item was added to the tie-breaker procedure as follows: "If there is a tie for second, third and all subsequent places, total indicators shall be used beginning with the first qualifying round."

The committee also retained sections 646 and 647 dealing with warnings and penalties. Section 647 was revised to allow an indisposed or injured fencer one 10-minute rest period and one warning if the director deems necessary. In addition, an indisposed or injured fencer may not fence again during the same match.

Legislative Assistance

1985 Column No. 17

Financial aid for summer school and Proposal No. 49

Under the provisions of Constitution 3-4-(b)-(1), financial aid may not be provided to a student-athlete while attending a summer school or summer term unless the student-athlete has been in residence a minimum of one term during the regular academic year, or the student is attending a summer orientation program for which participation is required of both athletes and nonathletes and financial aid is administered on the same basis for all participants in the program.

Financial aid awarded to an eligible student-athlete under Constitution 3-4-(b)-(1) for summer school attendance is considered a separate award and would not be countable toward the maximum financial aid awards limitations set forth in Bylaw 6-5. The amount of aid an individual student can receive is limited by Constitution 3-1-(g)-(1) to tuition and fees, room and board, and required course-related books for the summer term.

The membership's adoption of 1985 Convention Proposal No. 49, which amends Constitution 3-4-(d)-(1), permits a student-athlete to receive legitimate summer employment earnings without total-dollar restrictions, even if the student-athlete is attending summer school as a recipient of institutional financial assistance.

It is important to note that an entering freshman with no previous collegiate attendance who matriculated as a 2,000 nonqualifier in a Division I member institution and whose matriculation was solicited per O.I. 100 is not eligible to receive financial aid while attending a summer orientation program as provided in Constitution 3-4-(b)-(1), inasmuch as such a student would not be permitted to receive institutional financial aid until completion of the first academic year in residence at the Division I institution.

In addition, financial aid for summer school expenses may be used only to attend the awarding institution's summer school. As discussed in Case No. 125 (page 291, 1985-86 NCAA Manual), it would not be permissible for the parent institution in which the student-athlete is enrolled to pay the student-athlete's summer session expenses incurred in attending the institution's branch campus.

Council interpretations

At its April meeting, the NCAA Council developed several interpretations, including those that appear in the Interpretations column on page 3 of this issue. Others will appear in subsequent issues of the News. Please note the following:

Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(14) transfer exception

1. The Council approved Situation No. 622 to confirm its earlier interpretations regarding Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(14), subparagraphs (ii) and (iii).

Playing and practice seasons—contest or date of competition

2. The Council approved Situation No. 628 that confirmed the Council's earlier interpretation appearing in Legislative Assistance Column No. 5 in the January 30, 1985, edition of The NCAA News. This interpretation specifies what constitutes a contest or date of competition under Bylaw 3-3-(a) [1985 Convention Proposal No. 96, as amended by Proposal Nos. 96, 3, 96, 5, 97 and 99].

Date of competition—tennis

3. The Council approved Situation No. 629 to specify what constitutes a dual match and an individual singles or doubles tournament under Bylaw 3-3-(a) [1985 Convention Proposal No. 99].

Foreign tours—all-star teams

4. The Council approved Situation No. 631 to set forth limits on the numbers of student-athletes from the same institution that may participate on an all-star foreign tour without the tour requiring Council approval and counting as an institution's foreign-tour opportunity in that sport for a four-year period as prescribed in Bylaw 3-6-(b).

Bylaw 7-1-(h)—extensions for graduate assistant coaches

As set forth in Bylaw 7-1-(h), an individual may not serve as a graduate assistant coach at a particular member institution for a period of more than two years unless the Council has granted an exception. At its recent meeting, the Council determined that exceptions will be granted only when circumstances clearly supported by objective evidence establish that the graduate assistant coach was unable to attend the collegiate institution for reasons that are unrelated to athletics or to personal or family finances and that are beyond the control of either the coach or the institution. Any such extension would cover the exact number of calendar days that the coach was unable to attend the member institution plus the time that elapses between the date the individual became able to return to the institution and the individual's first opportunity to enroll in a regular term.

In developing this interpretation, the Council determined that the intent of the legislation was to provide a limited opportunity for an individual to gain coaching experience and not necessarily to complete a specific graduate degree. It was noted that many graduate degrees could not be completed in two years if the student enrolled in only the minimum academic course load required by the legislation. Accordingly, the Council concluded that if extensions were granted to all those who did not complete a degree in two years, the two-year restriction would become meaningless.

A more detailed presentation of this proposal appears on page 1. (Sponsored by Presidents Commission and Council; effective September 1, 1985.)

Coaches

Amendments to Bylaw 5-6-(d)-(3) and the enforcement procedure to require that any restrictions imposed on a member of an institution's coaching staff by the Committee on Infractions (or as a result of the show-cause provision of the enforcement procedure) will be applied to that coach even if he or she moves to a different member institution and to provide authority to impose restrictions even if the coach moves to a different member institution before the rules violation has been processed to conclusion. Student-athletes

Resolution expressing belief that student-athletes should be held accountable for their involvement in serious rules violations and directing the NCAA Council to develop legislation for the January 1986 Convention in that regard. (Sponsored by

(Sponsored by Presidents Commission and Council; effective immediately.)

Expenditure audit

Amendment to Constitution 3-2 to require an annual audit of all expenditures for an institution's athletics program, with the audit to be conducted by a qualified auditor from outside the institution and selected by the chief executive officer (or an institutional administrator outside the athletics department who is designated by the CEO). (Sponsored by Presidents Commission and Council; effective immediately.)

Playing season

Resolution expressing support for restrictions on numbers of contests or dates of competition; resolving that the Association does not favor an increase in the current permissible numbers of contests or dates in any sport, including football and basketball, and directing the Council to propose legislation at the January 1986 Convention to permit a member institution's basketball team to participate in any one year in not more than one of the competition opportunities that do not count toward the maximum number of contests. (Sponsored by Presidents Commission and Council.)

Affidavit program

Resolution establishing a one-time (prior to the 1985-86 academic year) affidavit program requiring every head coach and grant-in-aid student-athlete at NCAA member institutions to sign an affidavit attesting to current compliance with specifically identified rules. Failure to do so would cause the institution (or the individual student-athlete, in that instance) to be ineligible for NCAA championships. (Sponsored by Council.)

Summer meetings

Amendment to Constitution 5-7-

(b) and (c) to provide that the appropriate members of the Council may schedule the Division I-A and/or Division I-AA midyear legislative meetings based on the interest in having such meetings in any given year, rather than requiring that the meetings be held each year. [The Division I-AA Council members have decided not to conduct a Division I-AA legislative meeting in August if this proposal is adopted in June; the Division I-A Council members will make that decision prior to the June special Convention.] (Sponsored by Council; effective immediately.)

Sports sponsorship

Amendment to Bylaw 11-1-(f)-(1), for vote by Division I-A only, to reestablish the series of steps for reaching the required minimum of eight varsity intercollegiate sports for women as a criterion for membership in Division I-A. Those steps were eliminated in the voting sequence at the January 1985 NCAA Convention. If the proposal is adopted in June, Division I-A institutions would be required to sponsor six women's sports in 1985-86, seven in 1986-87 and eight during 1987-88 and thereafter. (Sponsored by Council; effective date September 1, 1986, with compliance as specified.)

Playing rules

Amendment to Bylaw 3-5 to delay until August 1, 1986, the requirement that member institutions conduct all of their intercollegiate contests under the Association's playing rules in every sport for which the NCAA develops playing rules. The requirement as it applies to football and men's and women's basketball would remain in effect, but no other sport would be required to use NCAA playing rules in the regular season until the 1986-87 academic year. The proposal was recommended by the Special Committee to Review Playing Rules in order to assure sufficient time for the NCAA's rules-making sports committees to include appropriate exception or waiver opportunities in the rules to assure that member institutions, especially in Divisions II and III, would not encounter undue economic burdens in complying with certain current playing rules. (Sponsored by Council.)

Huskies plan expansion of stadium

University of Washington regents have approved the start of detailed planning and fund-raising for a 13,700-seat addition to Husky Stadium, including a special section with separate food service.

There was little discussion before the unanimous vote to proceed with plans for the $12.6 million addition, which would be funded entirely from private sources and would give the open-air stadium the largest seating capacity in the city.

About $5 million would come from an athletics endowment fund established in 1976 and another $5 million from contributions for the "Tyee Center," a special section of 480 seats with access to a special indoor food and beverage area.

The motive for adding the additional seats is money. Football revenue provides virtually all the support for 19 men's and women's athletics programs, President William P. Gerberding told the regents.

"And until (coach) Don James is run over by a bus or otherwise indisposed, we expect that to continue," he said.

Members of the Tyee Club, people who contribute at least $250 to university athletics programs, could post $50,000 for a 10-year hold on blocks of four seats within the prime, midfield area. They would still have to buy regular tickets to attend each game.

The rest of the money for the expansion would come from sources that could include higher ticket prices, bank loans or revenue bonds.

The project involves construction of an upper deck on the north side of the stadium, matching one on the south and bringing seating capacity to 72,200—about 7,000 more than the Kingdome.

University officials estimate it would boost gate revenues by $700,000 and contributions by $1 million a year.

The tentative schedule calls for a construction contract to be awarded in May 1986 and completion of the work by the 1987 football season.

The Business Of Winning

Cardinals' goal puts much more than points on scoreboard

The play was a simple handoff, but it took the University of Louisville football team two days to reach the goal. The score was worth more than six points, and the yardage was measured in miles.

The Cardinals' "field" measured 75 miles—the distance from Lexington, Kentucky, to Louisville—and the final tally on the scoreboard read $15,000, as football coach Howard Schnellenberger and his team completed a benefit run for Easter Seals.

"This has really been a great thing that is going to be very beneficial in helping bring this team together," Schnellenberger said. "It is a very positive thing. We want to be a part of this community and help in any way we can. In turn, we want the community to be a part of our football program, too."

The Cardinals' unusual workout—the first project of its kind for the Louisville football program—included players, trainers, full-time staff and two wheelchair-bound fans, Jim Walser and Nat Carter. Runners secured pledges for each mile the team ran.

The two-day trip began March 30 at an Easter Seal-funded hospital in Lexington and reached its midpoint that night at the state capitol in Frankfort. Gov. Martha Layne Collins provided a March 31 send-off from which the team ran through heavy rains and wind en route to its final destination on stage at the Louisville Easter Seals telethon.

Walser and Carter covered the entire 75-mile course in their wheelchairs. Team members formed a relay shuttle on the second day in which players handed off a football from one group to the next.

"We want people to see that our young men can do much more than play football," Schnellenberger said. "These guys are definitely winners, and we're confident the same attitude and determination will be there when we take the field this fall."

The football carried by the team and bearing team members' signatures was auctioned off for $850 on the telethon. It will be the game ball in Louisville's 1985 season opener and then will be presented to the successful bidder.

But it was Carter, made an honorary member of the Cardinals at the end of the run, who symbolized the spirit of the benefit.

Confined to a wheelchair since he was five as a result of a bicycle-truck accident, he took on the challenge with encouragement from Walser, an experienced long-distance wheelchair competitor.

"Nobody had the confidence that I had in me," Carter said after finishing the course more than an hour after the team members. "Everybody told me that I couldn't do it. But the more they told me I couldn't make it all the way, the more determined I became to try it.

"It was anything but easy. The weather was really bad that first day and I couldn't keep up with the team, but I kept right on pushing. I was determined to give it my best shot."

Even Schnellenberger didn't expect Carter to finish.

"I honestly didn't think you would make it," the coach told Carter. "But when we got here and found out that you were only about an hour away, I was definitely not going to miss being here to greet you. That was one tremendous accomplishment."

Penn's Bill Morrill

good despite all the young kids we have," he explained. "I felt like the key would be how quickly some of those guys learned and adapted to our defensive system, which is a match-up zone. Obviously, they've grown comfortable with things."

Even though newcomers have been important, veterans Jim DellaRocca, Bill Morrill and Leo Paytas also have played key roles. "Having Jim in goal as a returning (third team) all-America has really helped our defense, no question," said Seaman.

"Bill already has set our career scoring record; he did that in the sixth game this season. And Leo has been outstanding in midfield. See, although we lost a lot of people, we had talent and experience up the middle. That's why I thought we had a chance of being a good team."

And these days, good teams are becoming more plentiful in the Ivy League. "For years, Cornell was the dominant team in the league, and they still are one of the best programs in college lacrosse," Seaman said. "But now, more teams are getting better."

"We have been fortunate to win the league championship, and we may win it again this season. But the league has progressed to the point where anybody can beat anybody. We lost that game to Yale in sudden-death; that's an excellent example. Nobody, including me, expected us to lose that game."

"Yale is averaging around 2,000 fans a game this season, and we are getting anywhere from 3,000 to 5,000 at our place. People have heard about the good lacrosse being played in the conference, and they are coming out to be a part of that."

Enthusiastic crowds, tough competition and close games; sounds like a postseason tournament. "In many ways, the Ivy League season has taken on a play-off flavor," Seaman said. "I think that will help all of us prepare for the possibility of making the play-offs."

"With all those teams ranked as high as they are," he said, "we still may be playing league games in May."

Carter didn't expect the reception he received on his arrival at Frankfort at the end of the first day. Team members carried his wheelchair up the steps to the door of the capitol building.

"That was something special," he said. "I never expected to see anybody in Frankfort, especially not all those guys from the football team. I figured that by the time I got there, they'd be long gone."

The trip Sunday proved even more difficult as Carter battled poor weather and aching muscles.

"I kept telling myself that what I was doing was important, not just to me, but to a lot of people," said Carter, a member of the Louisville wheelchair basketball team. "You see, I looked at making this kind of journey as a challenge to everybody who thinks they can't do something, whether they're handicapped or not. I wanted to prove to myself and anybody else who cared that I was a winner."

"I want to be more than just another handicapped guy who has accomplished a few things. I want to go from just another handicapped kid on the outside looking in, to an achiever."

Basketball hall to make move to new quarters

The world's only basketball hall of fame is getting ready to make a move soon.

Currently on the Springfield College campus, where it has been situated since 1968, the memorial and shrine to the game's inventor, James Naismith, will have a new $11.4 million home in mid-1985.

With an $8 million grant from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and a $3.4 million campaign, chaired by Hall of Famer Bob Cousy, the new facility will be in Springfield Center, adjacent to Interstate 91—the major north-south highway through New England. It is expected to open to the public in mid-June, climaxed by enshrinement ceremonies Monday, July 1.

The hall of fame will have three levels that will contain something for just about everyone, whether they are basketball fanatics or sports fans in general.

The new Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, with a theme of audience participation, will be almost completely automated. The architectural firm of Cambridge Seven Associates is creating some exhibits and games designed to increase visitor entertainment and participation, such as:

Action game—In this exhibit, visitors will feel as though they are standing in the middle of a professional basketball game. Action films will be projected on four walls encircling the visitors as well as the ceiling to create maximum effect. The exhibit will feature a quadrophonic sound-track so the players and referees can be seen and heard.

Shoot-out—In this exhibit, visitors will have a chance to try their skill at scoring a basket. After stepping on a moving walkway that passes through a miniature gymnasium, balls will be provided on a separate conveyor belt. There will be special challenges, such as three-point shots and free throws. A scoreboard also will be provided for visitors to attempt to break the all-time records.

There also will be a film room to view the game's greatest moments; a video game room, and, of course, the honors court, where homage is paid to basketball's immortals—those enshrined in the hall of fame.

The new hall of fame will continue to be an all-encompassing shrine to the American game, saluting every facet of the sport. Portions will be devoted to history and players from all levels of the game—high school, college, professional, international and Olympic. There will be a memorial tribute to Naismith, who invented the only major sport founded in America, in December 1891.

Of course, basketball memorabilia, currently on view, will be included in the new building.

About 200,000 visitors are expected each year. More than 620,000 have visited the hall of fame since it opened in 1968 on the Springfield campus.

Penn Quakers join race for Ivy lacrosse title

The road to the Ivy League men's lacrosse championship has been re-routed through Pennsylvania, which has one of the hottest teams in Division I. The Quakers, under third-year coach Tony Seaman, are paving the way for an Ivy drive to national lacrosse prominence.

Pennsylvania is one of four teams from the conference with legitimate postseason play-off potential; Brown, Yale and Cornell have joined the Quakers in the top-15 poll all season. They are ranked ninth, 10th 11th, respectively. The Quakers are sixth in the most recent poll.

"It sure is exciting to see so many teams from the Ivy League ranked so high," said Seaman, who has guided Pennsylvania to the NCAA tournament the past two years.

"The caliber of lacrosse in the league keeps getting better and better; the only negative aspect is the fact that everybody is beating up on each other," Brown over Princeton, Yale over Dartmouth, Yale over Pennsylvania. Three critical Ivy League games this season, all decided in sudden-death overtime. "There is no doubt about it," Seaman said, "it's good lacrosse."

And the Quakers are playing as well as any team. Starting the season with a lot of inexperience (only five starters returned from a 12-2 team a year ago), Seaman has had as many as six freshmen in pivotal positions each match.

Division III committee seeks expansion of football play-off

The NCAA Division III Football Committee has voted to resubmit to the Executive Committee its recommendation that the play-off field be expanded from eight to 16 teams and proposed that the championship game return to Phenix City, Alabama.

As reported in the April 17 issue of The NCAA News, a majority of chief executive officers of Division III member institutions sponsoring football are in favor of expanding the play-off field even if transportation expenses are not guaranteed for first-round games.

If expansion of the play-off is approved, first-round games will be played November 23, followed by quarterfinals November 30, semifinals December 7 and the championship December 14.

NCAA won't impose further sanctions against Sun Devils

The NCAA Committee on Infractions has announced that it has accepted previous action taken against Arizona State University by the Pacific-10 Conference, which resulted from violations in the institution's baseball, men's gymnastics and wrestling programs. The NCAA will not impose additional penalties.

In November 1984, the Pacific-10 Conference placed Arizona State University on probation for a two-year period and imposed grant-in-aid reductions in baseball, men's gymnastics and wrestling. The conference also prohibited the baseball team from participating in any postseason competition following the 1985 season and vacated the university's 1984 conference baseball championship.

Some of the violations also related to the eligibility of student-athletes who participated in the 1983 and 1984 Division I Baseball Championships and the 1984 Division I Wrestling Championships. In accordance with NCAA legislation, the university will be required to return approximately $9,000 to the Association for using ineligible student-athletes in those events, and the individual and team records that were achieved will be deleted by the NCAA. After serving as site of 10 of the past 12 championship games, the committee recommended that Phenix City serve as this year's host for the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl. The past two championship games were played at Kings Island, Ohio.

The committee also voted to recommend that a late-fine penalty of 10 percent of the net receipts be imposed against those institutions failing to submit a financial report within 60 days of the game and that institutions guarantee 75 percent of net receipts in proposed budgets.

The committee will rank the top 20 teams in a weekly poll starting October 15. The final poll and team selections for the play-off will be announced no later than November 17.

Conference puts baseball coach on probation

Southeastern Louisiana University baseball coach John Stephenson is suspended for four games and on probation through the end of the 1986 season because he bumped an umpire during a game against Southwest Texas State University, Gulf Star Conference Commissioner Dave Waples announced.

Stephenson charged umpire Kelly

Nutt in protesting the ejection of Southeastern's catcher and a series of calls leading to bases on balls in a game April 6.

"He proceeded to charge me at a full run. An argument ensued during which time the coach struck the bill of my cap and the side of my face," Nutt said in his report to the conference office.

"It is one of those incidents that I sincerely wish had never happened," Stephenson said.

The four-game suspension covers next year's games against Southwest Texas State.

"We are not going to tolerate violence in any form against our officials, and I hope that everyone learns that quickly," Waples said.

Mack Smith

Toros' all-round athlete Smith molds himself to golf career

He is called, with youthful jocosity, "Captain Hook" by his golfing teammates at California State University, Dominguez Hills.

It's not in reference to his efforts off the tee. It's just that Mack Smith has part of his left hand molded in a permanent golf-club grip. And before he graduates in June, Smith, whose stroke average is 74.05, may become the finest golfer in the history of the sport at the school, according to his coach.

He almost didn't get that chance.

While on a fishing trip in Mexico last summer, Smith cut most of the tendons and both digital nerves in the fourth and pinky fingers on his left hand.

After receiving emergency treatment, Smith drove back across the border to his own doctor, fearing that he might lose both fingers and almost assured that he wouldn't be able to play golf again.

"The doctor asked me if I was involved in any sports where it would be advantageous to have fingers fully extended, because however he mended my fingers, that is the way they would be the rest of my life.

"I told him I was a golfer, and if he could form the fingers to the grip of a club, I might be able to continue to play," Smith said.

The doctor obliged, and Smith resumed play.

"Mack is the most consistent golfer in the school's history," says coach John Johnson, who was the coach when a ball was first put up on a tee 17 years ago at the school.

"His consistency is derived from a tremendous faculty to recover from bad shots, and he is as good as anyone at getting the ball up and down," Johnson says.

Smith has finished in the top four in three tournaments this season, and he hopes to qualify for the professional tour in October.

After excelling at a number of sports in high school and college, Smith settled on golf. The 5-6, 156-pounder began his collegiate sports career as a football recruit at Brigham Young University. He decided to focus on golf, however, and enrolled at Mount San Antonio College before coming to Cal State Dominguez Hills for his junior and senior years to play golf and major in sociology.

"It is said that adversity brings out the best in some people; and in Smith's case, that surely applies," says Steve Barr, Toro sports information director.

As for Smith, he's just happy he still is able to play golf.

Payment probe completed at SIU

Southern Illinois University has announced plans for a nationwide search for a new basketball coach and reported completion of the school's probe of a payment scandal involving a star player.

Coach Allen Van Winkle quit April 9, five days after the resignation of assistant coach Stafford Stephenson, who admitted he knew about the under-the-table payments made by a booster to 6-foot-11 center Kenny Perry.

Van Winkle denied knowledge of the payments, and a university investigation showed he was not involved in the arrangement, said Dean Stuck, the school's special assistant in charge of intercollegiate athletics.

"We have completed our investigation and have sent a report to the NCAA and the Missouri Valley Conference," Stuck said.

The probe was launched earlier this month after Carbondale chiropractor Roy S. White told school officials he had paid Perry $200 a week since the center transferred to Southern Illinois from the University of Evansville in the summer of 1982.

Van Winkle, 37, moved to Southern Illinois in 1981 after three years at Jackson Community College in Michigan. He compiled a 49-62 record with the Salukis 29-25 in the past two years when Perry was with the team and averaging 13.4 points per game.

Assistant coach Herman Williams and assistant athletics director Bruce McCutcheon were given responsibility for the basketball program while university officials seek replacements for Van Winkle and Stephenson, Stuck said.

Records reviewed

Eastern Washington University records are being reviewed by state auditors to determine whether money intended for academic programs was diverted to athletics.

School officials have conceded that a buildup in the athletics department coincided with some painful financial shortages in academic programs but denied that any illegal funding shifts had occurred.

"They're not going to find anything (illegal)," said Russ Hartman, EWU vice-president for business and finance.

Hartman admitted, however, that libraries and maintenance suffered as EWU beefed up athletics programs to qualify for admission to the Big Sky Conference.

EWU has drawn legislative fire for spending more than $1 million in state money on athletics this year, more than any other institution of higher learning in the state.

The audit began this week at the urging of Sen. Sam Guess of Spokane, who expressed concern after learning that EWU's athletics department had a $400,000 deficit because of overly optimistic projections of gate receipts and fund-raising.

Coach charged

Vanderbilt University strength coach E. J. "Doc" Kreis and a Franklin, Tennessee, pharmacist were indicted April 19 on misdemeanor charges of conspiracy to illegally distribute prescription drugs.

Kreis, who resigned his post April 20, and M. Woody Wilson were named in the indictment issued by the Davidson County Grand Jury. Thomas Patterson, who worked for Wilson the program still is being developed.

"Drugs are a problem everybody has to deal with," Bleymaier said. "It's a societal problem, and I don't think anybody is immune."

He said a committee of coaches, athletes, academic counselors and others was formed to study the problem of drugs and is working on a program after examining drug-education efforts at other universities.

Drug use probed

Use of anabolic steroids probably exists among athletes at every South-west Athletic Conference school, according to a survey of nearly 50 current and former SWC coaches, trainers, doctors, athletes and Olympians, conducted by the Waco Tribune-Herald.

The newspaper also said in copyright stories that SWC head football coaches, track coaches, team doctors and trainers said they would support an NCAA testing program in some form.

And the Tribune-Herald said April 21 that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the state board of

at a pharmacy he operated near the Vanderbilt campus, was also indicted.

Kreis was indicted on eight counts, Wilson on 91 counts and Patterson on six counts.

Kreis and Wilson appeared before Criminal Court Judge J. Randall Wyatt shortly after the indictment and were released on personal recognition bonds.

The indictment was the result of a Tennessee Bureau of Investigation probe that was begun in January after a South Carolina investigation into the source of a drug found in the body of a Clemson University athlete led to Nashville.

Drug tests planned

Boise State University is preparing to test its football and basketball players for drugs, and the school already has the players participating in a 10-hour drug-awareness seminar, the BSU athletics director said.

"We are hoping to initiate some drug testing before the end of school," Gene Bleymaier said. But he added pharmacy were conducting separate investigations of possible illegal distribution of the potent hormone-derivative drugs.

The newspaper's investigation into steroids follows controversies over their use at Baylor University, where basketball coach Jim Haller resigned February 22 after a tape recording made by a player showed the coach had discussed steroid use.

"We're at war with the drug and alcohol abuse," said one trainer, who asked not to be quoted by name. "We're fighting a war—everybody is."

The FDA is examining large distributors of anabolic steroids who may be selling the drugs without prescriptions in Texas and elsewhere, said William Sedgwick of the agency's Dallas office.
