Special Convention will decide on revisions in enforcement procedures

[Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles explaining the legislation to be considered at the special NCAA Convention June 20-21 in New Orleans.]

Delegates to the NCAA's fifth special Convention June 20-21 in New Orleans will have an opportunity to make major revisions in the Association's enforcement procedures when they act on Convention Proposal Nos. 3 and 4.

Both proposals are sponsored by the NCAA Presidents Commission and cosponsored by the NCAA Council, and both will be voted upon by roll call.

Proposal No. 3 sets forth a stronger and more streamlined enforcement process, while No. 4 would require restrictions or penalties imposed on a coach to be applied to that coach even if he or she moves to another member institution.

Both concepts were supported by the chief executive officers participating in the survey conducted for the Commission by the American Institutes for Research. In fact, the respondents wanted even stronger penalties against coaches involved in major violations.

The survey indicated that 62 percent of the CEOs (67 percent in Division I-A and 68 percent in Division I as a whole) favored a rule restricting a member institution from even employing a coach found guilty of repeated or serious violations. The Commission discussed possible legal questions about such a rule and decided to offer Proposal No. 4 instead.

The CEOs clearly want more stringent penalties. All of the following survey results are reflected in the provisions of Proposal No. 3:

- Seventy-nine percent favored classification of penalties by severity, with certain clearly specified penalties for each level of violation. In Division I (and in I-A alone), 85 percent favored that approach.

- Eighty-two percent favored applying specific sanctions automatically to institutions found guilty of repeated or serious violations. The percentage in Division I was 85 (82 percent in I-A).

- Eighty-six percent favored a requirement that coaches found guilty of serious or repeated violations be suspended, reassigned or dismissed. In Division I, 91 percent (and 90 percent in I-A) favored such a

Policy statement announced by committee on drug testing

The NCAA Special Committee for National Drug-Testing Policy will submit its recommendations for a mandatory program for drug-testing of student-athletes to the Council for review during its scheduled meeting August 14-16 in Boston.

In a statement issued following its May 16 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the special committee said it "recommends the development of a national policy to support drug-testing programs at NCAA championships and postseason bowl games designed to prevent drug users from obtaining unfair competitive advantages, to protect college student-athletes from the harmful physical effects of drugs and to safeguard the integrity of intercollegiate athletics from the obvious corruptive influences that can be brought to bear on student-athletes who use drugs."

The committee, chaired by John L. Toner, past NCAA president and director of athletics at the University of Connecticut, said it also is working toward the development of a coalition of other national sports governing organizations in the pursuit of a coordinated, continuing drug-education program and national drug-testing policies.

The Council appointed the special committee and charged it with reviewing Proposal No. 75 from the 1985 Convention and preparing the legislation for resubmission to the Council for review prior to the 1986

NCAA Convention.

The committee is working on the details of the policy it will recommend to the Council.

The policy will include, as minimum standards, "regular distribution of information on drug problems and issues to member institutions; proposed legislation that would require member institutions to certify that as a condition of in-season eligibility their student-athletes are not using substances on a list of banned drugs, and renewed institutional verification of each student-athlete's eligibility prior to participation in NCAA championships and postseason football competition."

Toner said the committee also will recommend that a consent statement be included in the student-athlete statement that would acknowledge the right of the student's institution, if it so elects, to conduct regular drug testing on its campus for its student-athletes.

The special committee is considering the implementation of testing prior to the postseason championships

Convention voting to be by electronic procedure

A computer-assisted electronic-voting procedure will be implemented at the NCAA special Convention June 20-21 in New Orleans, Louisiana, for issues scheduled for roll-call votes.

Two complete IBM PCXT computer systems with printers and four Scan-Tron 1200 scanners have been acquired. The two systems will be integrated but designed so that if one system breaks down, the second remains operable. Data Systems International of Kansas City, Missouri, will create the computer program and handle the on-site supervision of the system.

"We will use both systems in the scanning of the voting cards to speed up the process," said NCAA Controller Louis J. Spry. "But, of course, if something goes wrong with one of them, we have the other as a back-up system."

Each voting delegate will receive a complete packet of specially printed computer cards at the time of registration. Each card will be personalized with the name of the institution, division and proposal number. An additional quantity of cards will be printed in case more roll-call votes are requested.

Delegates will mark their votes on the cards with a No. 2 pencil. The cards will be collected by members of the Voting Committee and the NCAA staff, arranged in the proper order and fed into the scanners.

The computer will tabulate the total votes and a printout will indicate total votes by division and how each individual institution voted on a particular issue. The printout will be posted in the Convention hotel and will be printed in the following issue

Steroids cause irreversible side-effects, women athletes told

Women athletes who take anabolic steroids to improve performance can expect masculine, sometimes irreversible side-effects such as deeper voices and increased facial hair, a study says.

Anabolic steroids, or synthetic male hormones, "have received considerable attention during the past decade because of increasing use by male athletes attempting to improve their performance," researchers said in a study in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"It is clear some female athletes also use these hormones, as shown by the detection of anabolic steroids in the urine of women competing in international events in the shot put, the javelin throw and running," said the researchers, all from Ohio State University.

While steroids are used by athletes to increase muscle strength and size, their only accepted medical use is to replace lost testosterone, a male hormone, or to treat some types of anemia in men, said Dr. Richard Strauss of the university's department of preventive medicine.

The use of steroids "is considered unethical by almost all sports organizations in the United States" and is banned by the International Olympic Committee, Strauss told the Associated Press.

To determine what side-effects are experienced by women athletes, researchers interviewed 10 amateur athletes who participate in such sports as track and weight lifting at the national level.

All used steroids in conjunction with weight-training. They requested anonymity.

Anabolic steroids are prescription drugs generally obtained by athletes "on the black market," Strauss said. "We didn't ask these women where they got them."

"All women reported a significant increase in muscle strength, muscle size and sports performance," which were the desired effects, the study said.

However, all reported masculine side-effects, some of which were considered undesirable.

All said their voices had deepened, nine noticed increased facial hair and eight said their clitorises had enlarged.

While previous studies have shown those side effects may be permanent, the women said they would continue to use steroids, Strauss said.

Other reported side-effects usually disappear when steroid use is discontinued.

Reputable player-agents are few and far between

What we have at play here are two of society's biggest shames. One, man's everlasting effort to get something for nothing; and two, man's everlasting effort to exploit a weaker man.

The abuses of the sports-agentry business have gotten way out of hand. This year, more than any other since this peculiar occupation was hatched, college officials are yelping out desperate alarms. They parasitic bagmen have become epidemic, their numbers and their excesses threatening to shred the fragile fabric of amateur athletics.

Here's the problem: Anybody who passed fourth-grade arithmetic can see how lucrative this scam is. Let's see now, an Akeem Olajuwon or a Doug Flutie signs a pro contract that averages, say, $1 million a year. The agent gets, say, five percent of that. That's $50,000 for the talking dog.

The stench has gotten so bad that the legitimate sports attorneys are demanding some fumigating be done. The vermin have become so thick that the guys who are reputable can't take two steps on campus without tripping over the sludge.

Houstonian Alan Hendricks and his two brothers represent a sizable clientele of baseball and football players. The Hendricks brothers no longer do much business with college seniors because the competition from the flimflammers for the kiddie business has become so nasty.

"The Wall Street Journal says there are 2,000 people claiming to be athletics agents," says Alan. "Of that number, I don't think there are 30 who are both ethical and knowledgeable."

"It is so out of hand, there are guys swarming over every campus offering all sorts of inducements."

"Of course, there always have been the illegal cash advances to kids during their junior year, but now there are a lot of allegations about things like drugs (being offered by prospective agents)."

A situation exists here tailor-made for shysters on both sides. The plucker sees the opportunity to make a small fortune with what he considers a minimal amount of effort. The pluckee, too young and unsophisticated to know good advice from the bad, is only too eager to join up with the snake-oil salesman.

"Certainly, the young athletes contribute to the problem," says Hendricks. "One of the reasons they do business with these shady people is that it simulates the recruiting process they went through when they were picking a college."

"It's the same situation. Too often, college players expect to be recruited by agents, just like they were recruited by the colleges."

"And kids are getting burned on a daily basis. The problem is that they won't listen to guys who have gone through this before them."

"It seems like every day we hear another story of an athlete who was burned by an unethical agent. But the younger kids won't listen. The class of '85 doesn't pay much attention to the class of '84, and the class of '84 didn't pay any attention to the class of '83."

That's sad, because in almost every other area, there are laws to keep youngsters from stumbling over their own excesses.

Kids aren't allowed to go into a bar and drown themselves with firewater. They can't legally walk into a theater that shows red-hot mamas and papas acting out the rites of procreation. They aren't allowed into a race track where the grown-ups are betting on the bobtails.

However, he's free to be a pigeon when it comes time to sign the most important document of his young life. He's wrapped in a cocoon when it comes to protecting him from any of life's other trappings; but when it comes to the lust of quick money, he's at the mercy of the rat pack.

What we are talking about are 21-year-old tenderfoots, many from backgrounds where they never had to manage $10, much less $10,000. They are at an extremely impressionable age where the libido is still the dominant impetus of their life. Women, money, cars, perhaps drugs are the things that stir their passions — not the prospect of a secure bank portfolio when they are 50.

Unfortunately, the NCAA contributes greatly to the problem. It forbids the youngster from speaking with an agent until his college eligibility is finished. In theory, it's an excellent idea. In practice, it opens the door for the rats and slams it for the white hats.

"Reputable agents won't break the rules," explained Hendricks. "I would never contact a kid against NCAA regulations."

"The unethical guys, though, don't have any compunctions like that. They've been hounding the kid in some cases since he was a freshman. By the time he's a senior, the agent has been dealing with him for four years."

"That gives the shady characters a tremendous advantage. The agents who are decent people are trying to obey the rules. So they don't talk to the kid until he has graduated. But how can they distinguish themselves, when the other guy has been shadowing the kid for four years, giving him money or whatever else?"

The answer, of course, is that the good guy can't. He's dealing with a lethal, unbeatable mixture — a fool and a con man.

"The rookie secretary (Education Secretary William J. Bennett) has some novel ideas. He is about to establish within the Department of Education an office of educational philosophy. It will be composed of four or five 'really fine minds' . . . whose sole obligation will be to think."

"Now, it is not unusual around our town (Washington, D.C.) for the private sector to hire thinkers. . . . But it almost is unheard of for the government to hire one thinker, let alone four or five."

It is no less disgraceful when they compete more avidly for 7-foot centers than for Phi-Beta-Kappa-quality students. . . . Iba angered by coaches' inaction on stopping corruption

By Dick Williams
Atlanta Journal

Age has its advantages. Elder-statesman status carries the right to be blunt.

Hank Iba has that status in college basketball, by dint of several hundred victories at Oklahoma State and his Olympic gold medals. When he spoke in Atlanta at the Tipoff Club's Naismith awards banquet, Iba was blunt to the point of being crusty.

He was angry at the timidity of coaches who refused to adjust today's rules to today's taller, faster players for fear of the unknown.

Iba spoke primarily of the game on the court, but he referred as well to the rest of it, the part that's not a game. The coaches are timid there as well, afraid to take several obvious steps that could remove corruption from hundreds — yes, hundreds — of arenas.

Aha, you say, only a few schools are accused of running dirty programs, of paying players in shoe boxes, admitting young men who fail "Sesame Street" and winking at the search for a degree.

Balderdash.

Corruption begins with the first compromise of the educational mission, with the admission of the first unqualified student-athlete, with creation of the first course in "Principles of Coaching Basketball."

Money isn't the only definition of cheating.

The scandal at Tulane University won't be the last. Bribery and point-shaving cases won't be frequent, but the abuses that lead to them are everywhere.

As Iba pointed out, the coaches are paralyzed. They are under severe pressures to win. Each team that made basketball's Final

"We think because a guy's 6-10½ or 7-feet tall, he's 32-years old. But he's a kid. He's 17 and he's got acne. What does he know about gambling?"

"I'm not thinking about it (turning pro) at all. I'm planning to go to college. School is more important — definitely."

Four earned more than $700,000. Coaches deal in a subculture of tiny high school gymnasiums, summer camps and boys so poor they need the fee for a driver's license before they can be handed a new car.

There is a sign of hope.

Presidents and chancellors of major colleges are trying to act to clean up intercollegiate athletics, before more are forced to take drastic action for honor's sake, as were the presidents of Tulane and the University of San Francisco.

The NCAA is to hold a special convention in June, at which a 44-person Presidents Commission will recommend some stringent controls on athletics departments. The buck stops with the top man, as Clemson's former president knows. But as he also knows, too often the president has no control.

The NCAA Convention will be held in New Orleans, home of Tulane, where the stench should provoke reform. No coach, athletics director or president should be able to escape the stigma of Tulane's ills, the allegations of dumping, bribes and academic compromise.

The presidents will propose that sports budgets be controlled by the schools and approved by the top executive on campus. No more winking, or laments that athletics departments are privately chartered and supported. All sports budgets, they recommend, should be subject to an annual outside audit.

The presidents, acting from a survey of 791 college chiefs, want new NCAA rules to define major and secondary violations and to punish coaches by carrying over restrictions when they move to a new job. They also would penalize athletes paid illegally.

Their survey is interesting. Seventy-five percent of them say

I'm not happy with the fact that some of the things I've been trying to say and the philosophy I've been trying to advance and talk about, I'm not happy that has been derailed from time to time by emphasis or overemphasis on one comment, one aside."

"If I could live 11 weeks over again, I would be much more careful about exactly what I said. I would recognize that everything the secretary says in public will be written down and analyzed again."

"Sports and athletic activities long have been recognized throughout our culture to have a strong impact on our society. In a recent survey . . . it was reported that 90 percent of the high school age youth listed sports as their primary hobby."

"Other studies show that sports figures, coaches and team captains are very influential role models for youth."

"Opportunities for positive support historically have been overlooked. Thus, it seems very clear that sports activities and athletics directors and peer leaders could provide an excellent vehicle for reducing students' risk of alcohol and drug abuse. Our society's attitude regarding chemical use and abuse has been formulated over years. Therefore, attitudinal changes to promote healthier life styles for our students will take time."

They're afraid of illegal inducements to recruits. Rules violations by alumni and boosters were cited by 71 percent and 62 percent cited substandard academic work by athletes as a concern. That's more than smoke. It's a conflagration.

Fans troubled by the loss of integrity in big-time college sport would do well to watch the coming events in New Orleans. Two years ago, the NCAA decided on tougher admissions standards — the controversial 700 minimum on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. While the presidents come forward with standards, coaches and athletics directors already are talking of diluting that ludicrous minimum.

Standards won't stop scandal, but they build effort and character. The latter is the problem these days.

Division III institutions and Bylaws 5-1-(m)-(12), (13) and (14)

In evaluating a transfer student's eligibility, Division III institutions should note that Bylaws 5-1-(m)-(12), (13) and (14) apply independently of one another. In other words, a student who transfers to a Division III member institution may have his or her eligibility determined under the exception provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(12), (13) or (14), whichever is most beneficial to the student's eligibility. For example, a student who is transferring from one Division III institution to another Division III institution and whose situation satisfies the criteria for immediate eligibility under both Bylaws 5-1-(m)-(12) and (14) may wish to use the transfer provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(12) so that he or she could be eligible immediately for institutional financial aid as well as practice and competition. Under the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(14)-(vi), a student-athlete using this transfer exception who transfers from one Division III member institution to another Division III member institution is not eligible to receive institutionally administered financial aid during the first academic year in residence at the certifying institution.

Entertainment of prospective student-athlete by student host

Under the provisions of Bylaw 1-8-(j)-(2)-(i), an institution may provide a student host with a maximum of $20 (Division I) or $10 (Divisions II and III) for each day of a prospective student-athlete's official campus visit for the purpose of covering the actual and necessary costs to entertain the prospect. The money provided to a student host is for entertainment purposes only and may not be used for the purchase of souvenirs such as T-shirts or other institutional mementos. Also, each day of the visit is defined as a 24-period. Therefore, the maximum entertainment amount for the 48-hour visit would be $40 in Division I and $20 in Divisions II and III.

Freshman eligibility requirements for Division I institutions

Bylaw 5-1-(j) (Proposal No. 48)

Division I member institutions are reminded that student-athletes who first enter a collegiate institution in a regular academic term (excluding summer sessions) after August 1, 1986, are required to meet the new freshman eligibility requirements set forth in Bylaw 5-1-(j) (sometimes referred to as Proposal No. 48). Accordingly, a prospective student-athlete who graduates from high school in the spring of 1986 and attends an institution's summer session prior to August 1, 1986, still must meet the new freshman eligibility requirements if the student's first regular academic term of enrollment commences after August 1, 1986.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to Stephen R. Morgan, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Under the provisions of NCAA Constitution 5-1-(a)-(6), Roaden will complete this year as Division I vice-president and a member of the Council. The largest dose reported was nine times the recommended medicinal dose for men, taken during a four-week cycle.

The mean age of the participants was 23. The mean height was 5-foot-4, and the mean weight was 152 pounds. The mean length of time they had been using steroids was 2.1 years.

provision. Eighty-two percent thought the same penalty should be applied to directors of athletics (84 percent in Division I; 86 percent in I-A).

Seventy-three percent thought that a lack of sufficient authority for the NCAA to enforce rules was a major or minor cause of integrity problems in college athletics. That figure was 68 percent in Division I (59 percent in I-A).

Enforcement

Proposal No. 3 at the special Convention would revise several sections of the enforcement procedure, as well as certain constitution and bylaw provisions. Therefore, the voting requirements will differ on various segments of the proposal; however, a two-thirds vote of the delegates present and voting will be necessary to approve the constitutional provisions.

The proposal would be effective September 1, 1985, and would:

- Establish distinctions between "major" and "secondary" violations of NCAA rules and regulations, with specific penalties for each category;
- Establish additional specific penalties for repeated violations (i.e., a second major violation, regardless of the sport involved, within a five-year period);
- Authorize specific disciplinary or corrective actions for any institutional staff members found to be in violation of NCAA regulations;

• Authorize the assistant executive director for enforcement to impose penalties for secondary violations, subject to review by and appeal to the Committee on Infractions, as a means of streamlining the procedure.

Every action of the staff (i.e., the assistant executive director for enforcement) would be reviewed by the Committee on Infractions, and any such action could be appealed to the committee.

One feature of the proposal that responds to the CEOs' concerns is the fact that there would be an automatic package of penalties to be assessed as a minimum in every major or repeated violation. The Committee on Infractions would be free to add to that minimum package, but it could not eliminate any part of the package without issuing a statement of the reasons it believed the case was unique.

A complete review of the proposed enforcement revisions appeared in the April 24, 1985, issue of The NCAA News and accompanies this article.

Coaches

Proposal No. 4, amending Bylaw 5-6-(d)-(3) and Enforcement Procedure 7-(b)-(12), will require the majority approval of each division for adoption of the bylaw and a majority vote of all delegates for the change in the enforcement procedure.

Committee Notices

Nominations must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan in the NCAA national office no later than June 3, 1985.

Field Hockey (two vacancies): Replacement for Margaret A. Peterson, resigned from the University of North Dakota. Replacement must be a Division II representative. . . . Replacement for Judy T. Baxter, resigned from Lehigh University, effective July 1, 1985. Replacement must be from Division I.

A review of proposed enforcement changes

A proposed revision of NCAA enforcement procedures to be sponsored at the June special Convention by the NCAA Presidents Commission and the NCAA Council would categorize all violations of NCAA regulations as "secondary" or "major," with specific penalties for each category. In addition, there would be a separate, additional set of penalties for repeated major violations.

Following is a summary of the proposed enforcement provisions:

Secondary violations

Definition: The violation provides a limited recruiting or competitive advantage, if any, or the violation was relatively isolated or inadvertent in nature.

The assistant executive director for enforcement would determine whether an alleged violation was secondary or major. If determined to be secondary, the assistant executive director for enforcement would determine if no penalty is warranted or, if appropriate, require that a penalty or penalties be imposed.

All actions by the assistant executive director for enforcement in regard to secondary violations would be reported to the Committee on Infractions and subject to appeal to that committee. In addition, all disciplinary or corrective actions taken by the assistant executive director for enforcement or the Committee on Infractions in cases involving secondary violations would be published in The NCAA News.

Penalties for secondary violations would include one or more of the following:

- Termination of the recruitment of the prospective student-athlete by the institution or, if the prospect enrolls or has enrolled in the institution, permanent ineligibility to represent the institution in intercollegiate competition unless eligibility is restored by the NCAA Eligibility Committee.

• Forfeiture of contests in which an ineligible student-athlete participated.

• Prohibition of the head coach or other staff members in the involved sport from participation in any off-campus recruiting activities for one year.

• An institutional fine for each violation, ranging in total from $500 to $5,000.

• A limited reduction in the number of either initial or total financial aid awards that may be awarded during a specified period in the sport involved, but not more than 20 percent of the maximum number normally permissible in that sport.

• Institutional recertification that its current athletics policies and practices conform to all requirements of NCAA regulations.

Major violations

Definition: Any violation that is not determined to be secondary, specifically including those that provide an extensive recruiting or competitive advantage. In addition, repeated secondary violations will be identified as major violations.

Violations identified as major would be handled by the Committee on Infractions, as is currently the case, and the committee's actions would continue to be subject to appeal to the Council.

Penalties for major violations could continue to include any of those in Enforcement Procedure 7-(b), pages 211-212 of the 1985-86 Manual; however, the minimum penalty for a major violation would include all of the following:

• A two-year probationary period, including a periodic in-person monitoring system and written institutional reports; and

• Elimination of all expense-paid recruiting visits to the institution in the involved sport for one recruiting year; and

• A requirement that all coaching staff members in the sport be prohibited from engaging in any off-campus recruiting activities for one recruiting year; and

• A requirement that all institutional staff members determined knowingly to have engaged in or condoned a major violation be subject to termination of employment, or to suspension without pay for at least one year, or to reassignment of duties within the institution to a position that does not include contact with prospective or enrolled student-athletes or representatives of the institution's athletics interests for at least one year; and

• One year of sanctions precluding postseason competition in the sport; and

• One year of television sanctions in the sport; and

• Institutional recertification that its current athletics policies and practices conform to all requirements of NCAA regulations.

If the Committee on Infractions determined to vary from those minimum penalties in any way, it would be required to state specific reasons for doing so.

The proposal would require that any restrictions imposed on an institution's coaching staff member by the Committee on Infractions (e.g., a prohibition on being involved in recruiting for a period of time) must be applied to that coach even if he or she is employed by a member institution other than the one at which the violations occurred.

The same would be true of any restrictions imposed on a coach as a result of the show-cause provisions in the existing enforcement procedures.

In short, any coach who through the NCAA enforcement procedure has been suspended or prohibited from participating in certain identified coaching-related activities, such as recruiting, cannot escape those penalties by moving to another institution.

That proposal would become effective immediately upon adjournment of the special Convention.

[Next in the series: A review of Proposal Nos. 6 and 7, which would assure greater institutional control of athletics budgets and expenditures.]

competition—as soon as an institution has qualified or has been selected for such competition—and at the conclusion of the competition as well.

Any policy that the committee recommends will include all performance-enhancing and recreational drugs, Toner said.

In addition, the committee is studying the possibility of proposing the resubmission of 1985 Convention Proposal No. 89, which would have permitted member institutions to pay drug-rehabilitation expenses for student-athletes.

The next meeting of the special committee has been scheduled June 18-19 in New Orleans.

Repeat violations

Definition: An institution would be considered a "repeat" violator if any major violation is found within a five-year period from the starting date of an earlier major penalty, regardless of the sport involved.

Cases of repeat violations would be handled by the Committee on Infractions, subject to appeal to the NCAA Council.

Penalties for a repeat violator would include, at a minimum, all of the following:

• Prohibition of all outside competition in the sport involved in the latest major violation for one or two seasons in that sport, and prohibition of all coaching staff members in that sport from involvement directly or indirectly in any coaching activities at the institution during a two-year period; and

• Elimination of all initial grants-in-aid and all recruiting activities in the sport involved in the latest major violation for a two-year period; and

• A requirement that all institutional staff members serving on the NCAA Presidents Commission, Council, Executive Committee or other committee of the Association resign those positions; all institutional representatives would be ineligible to serve on any NCAA committee for a period of four years; and

• A requirement that the institution relinquish its voting privilege in the Association for a four-year period.

As in major violations, if the Committee on Infractions determined to vary from those minimum penalties in any way, it would be required to state specific reasons for doing so.

New Hampshire wins women's lacrosse crown

New Hampshire completed an upset sweep of the top-ranked teams in the National Collegiate Women's Lacrosse Championship with a 6-5 victory over Maryland in the title game May 19 at Pennsylvania.

The Wildcats surprised top-ranked Temple in the semifinals (7-3) to earn a championship berth against Maryland, 12-11 winner in overtime against Penn State in semifinal action. The favored Terrapins jumped out to an early two-goal lead, but New Hampshire was able to earn a 3-3 tie at intermission.

Ann Sherer's second-half goal broke a 5-5 tie and propelled the Wildcats to victory and the school's first NCAA team championship in any sport. Postgame awards went to Maryland's Karen Trudel (most outstanding attacker) and Trudy Stumpf (most outstanding defender), and New Hampshire's Sandy Vander-Heyden (most outstanding midfielder).

Wendy Beer converted a pass from Anyisia Fedec, and Kay Ruffino quickly followed with an unassisted strike to put the Terrapins up in the game's opening minutes, 2-0. Pauline Collins converted a feed from Sarah Kittredge to put New Hampshire on the board, but Fedec got the goal right back on an unassisted score to make it 3-1.

New Hampshire rebounded on unassisted goals by Collins and Suzie Haynes to knot the score at 3-3 at half time.

Trudel opened second-half scoring when she found the New Hampshire goal on a pass from Fedec, giving the Terps a 4-3 lead. Barb Marois tied the score with an unassisted strike less than a minute later.

The Wildcats then took the lead on Sarah Kittredge's unassisted goal, but Trudel tied things 5-5 with an unassisted strike. Sherer found the Maryland net with less than six minutes to play, giving New Hampshire the one-goal lead it protected for the victory.

New Hampshire finished the season at 11-3, while Maryland ended the year 15-2.

Hobart takes sixth straight men's championship

Hobart won its sixth consecutive Division III men's lacrosse championship with a 15-8 victory over Washington (Maryland) May 19 in Chestertown, Maryland. The Statesmen (11-3) controlled 22 of 27 face-offs in the contest, forcing the Sho'men (13-3) to play defense much of the afternoon.

"Everybody wanted to play better than we did the first time we came down here this season," said Hobart coach Dave Urlick, referring to the Statesmen's 8-7 (overtime) regular-season loss to Washington (Maryland).

"I think the win down there makes it (the championship) more satisfying," Urlick said. Hobart had won its five preceding titles in championship games played on the Statesmen's home field in Geneva, New York. "Everybody wanted to do something that had never been done before. And, I think the fan support we got was a big lift to the team." Many Hobart supporters followed the team to Washington (Maryland) for the title game.

Marc Van Arsdale led all scorers with four goals for Hobart. Teammate Tom Grimaldi had three, and Tom Rosa, Mike Guy and Bill Bergan added two each. Rosa's biggest contribution to the victory may have come in face-off situations, where he teamed with Ray Crawford to neutralize this phase of the Sho'men game.

"Our play in the face-offs forced them to play a lot of defense," said Urlick. "That, combined with a lot of ride time, made them struggle." The victory brings Hobart to within one of the all-time record for consecutive team championships in NCAA play-off action. Legendary coach John Wooden led UCLA to seven straight Division I men's basketball titles, 1967-73.

Trenton State claims trophy in Division III

Trenton State blew open a close game early in the second half to earn a 7-4 victory over top-ranked Ursinus and the first Division III Women's Lacrosse Championship May 19 at Pennsylvania.

The Lions (11-3) led 3-2 at intermission and built the lead to 7-2 before the Bears (12-7) could manage another score. Tricia Randall, Chris Heddy and Peggy Engelbert each scored twice for Trenton State, and Tina Goldhirsch added the other Lion tally.

Devin Murphy scored two goals to lead Ursinus, with teammates Kelec Whiteley and Donna Wurzbach each chipping in a goal.

The game opened with both teams scoring unassisted goals, Trenton's by Randall, and Ursinus' by Whiteley. Heddy and Goldhirsch then ripped off strikes for the Lions, and Murphy scored unassisted to make it 3-2 at intermission.

Engelbert scored twice and Randall and Heddy also scored, giving the Lions a formidable 7-2 lead. The Bear managed goals by Murphy and Wurzbach, but Trenton State held on.

The title marks Trenton State's fourth NCAA team championship. The Lions have two field hockey titles and one in softball. The Lions played for the National Collegiate Women's Lacrosse Championship in its first season, losing to Massachusetts 9-6.

Trenton State swept the individual awards. Heddy was named outstanding attacker. Randall was named best midfielder, and Lori Jordan was top goalkeeper.

Doubles teams boost Chapman to Division II tennis crown

Riding on the strength of its doubles teams, Chapman scored a 5-4 victory over Hampton to win the team title in the 1985 Division II Men's Tennis Championships at Cal State Northridge May 13-19.

The last time a team from the West Coast won the event was in 1977 when Chapman coach Mike Edles was an all-America player on the winning UC Irvine team. Edles is in his third year as coach of the Panthers. He led Chapman to a seventh-place finish in 1983 and a fourth-place showing in 1984.

En route to the finals, Chapman crushed Stephen F. Austin State and Rollins by identical 5-1 scores. In the final, however, Hampton played the Panthers to a 3-3 tie after singles competition. Chapman's doubles teams of Troy Turnbull-Terry Davis and Paul Wescka-John Hancock pulled the Panthers through with three-set victories. Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo defeated Rollins, 5-4, for third place.

In the individual singles competition, Brian Talgo of Rollins swept Rolf Wiedenmeyer of Cal State Hayward, 6-3, 7-5. In doubles, Stephen F. Austin State's Tom Goles-Chris Langford team defeated Aleco Prevolos-Steve Clark of California-Davis, 1-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Swarthmore upsets Kalamazoo for Division III team title

The Swarthmore Little Quakers knocked off the favored Kalamazoo Hornets, 5-4, to capture the 1985 Division III Men's Tennis Championships at Washington and Lee. It was the Little Quakers' third title. They previously won national honors in 1977 and 1981 (tie with Claremont-Mudd-Scripps).

In individual singles competition, Toby Clark of Principia defeated Shep Davidson, the No. 3 seed, of Swarthmore, 6-3, 6-1, to win his first title. Davidson and partner Jeff Krieger, the No. 2 seed, barely edged No. 3-seeded John Bunch and Roy

Sites proposed for '86, '87 men's ice hockey play-offs

Sites for the 1986 and 1987 Division I Men's Ice Hockey Championships were recommended by the Men's Ice Hockey Committee at its May 13-16 meeting in Carmel, California.

The Providence Civic Center in Providence, Rhode Island, was chosen as the 1986 site, and Joe Louis Arena in Detroit, Michigan, was selected for the 1987 championship. Both recommendations will be considered by the NCAA Executive Committee in August.

Brown University and Providence College will serve as host institutions for the 1986 event. A return to Joe Louis Arena in 1987 was expected after the 1985 championship drew a three-day total of 39,318 spectators, including a record 16,282 for the championship game.

In other championships matters, the Division III subcommittee recommended a minigame format for championship competition, rather than the two-game, total-goals format used by Division I. In the minigame format, a 10-minute overtime "game" will be played at the conclusion of the two-day tournament if each team wins one of the two regulation games. This recommendation also must be approved by the Executive Committee.

Chow of Redlands, 7-6, 6-7, 7-5, for the doubles crown.

Swarthmore squeezed past Washington and Lee, 6-3, and St. Thomas (Minnesota), 6-3, en route to the finals, while Kalamazoo defeated Carleton, 7-2, and defending champion Redlands, 5-4, to reach the finals.

In the finals, the score was 3-3 after singles, and 4-4 after the first two doubles matches. It went down to the wire as Swarthmore's No. 2 doubles team of Eric Prothero and Rick Van Denbergh slipped past Kalamazoo's Jim Burda and Chris Stokes,

The Men's Ice Hockey Committee also made minor rules revisions and discussed at length the increasing problem of rough play. The committee plans to conduct seminars for coaches and officials to curb increasing roughness in the game.

Among changes made in the NCAA ice hockey rules were two dealing with penalties in short-handed situations. In the case of coincidental minor penalties in a short-handed situation, penalties will continue to be assessed; however, teams will continue to play with the same number of skaters. Teams will continue to play five-on-four instead of four-on-three when coincidental minor penalties are assessed to both teams.

Delayed penalties now will be served in short-handed situations when a goal is scored. Formerly, both the penalty being served and the delayed penalty were nullified when the goal was scored.

The committee clarified Rule 6-26-b to note that a maximum of five players per team per stoppage of play will be disqualified. In addition, a rule was clarified to require goalies to wear the same style of face mask as required of other players. The committee also reworded Rule 1-4-c to require rectangular creases to be painted on the ice.

3-6, 6-4, 7-6.

Redlands overwhelmed St. Thomas (Minnesota), 5-1, to take third place.

Florida Southern rally claims Division II men's golf title

Led by Marco Dawson's final-round 69, Florida Southern overcame a five-stroke lead by Stephen F. Austin State to win the 1985 Division II Men's Golf Championships May 14-17 at the Waterwood Country Club in Huntsville, Texas.

Stephen F. Austin State and host Sam Houston State were tied for the lead after 18 holes, and Stephen F. Austin retained its lead through 54 holes; however, Florida Southern shot a 291 in the final round for a 10-stroke victory.

Although Dawson sparked the Moccasins in the final round, Lee Janzen was Florida Southern's most consistent performer, shooting rounds of 74, 71, 75 and 71 on the par-71 course. Janzen's 291 was second to tournament medalist Hugh Royer III of Columbus, who shot a two-over-par 286.

In addition to Janzen's 291, other Florida Southern team members were Scott Hawkins 298, Dawson 299, Gregg Gamester 309 and Don Fardon 310. Stephen F. Austin was led by Joe Golden, who tied for fourth at 296.

Florida Southern, Division II golf champion in 1981 and 1982, now is tied with Troy State and Cal State Northridge in all-time team titles with three.

Cal State Stanislaus wins eighth golf crown in 11 years

Consistency was the formula for Cal State Stanislaus as the Warriors won their eighth title in 11 years May 14-17 at the 1985 Division III Men's Golf Championships in Pittsford, New York.

Coach Jim Hanny's four top team members shot 302, 303, 303 and 304 and did not have a round over 79 on the par-72 Monroe Golf Club course in Pittsford. Chuck Burley was the top Warrior finisher with a 14-over-par 302. Doug Dunakey and Doug Potter tied for 17th individually with 303 totals, and Nick Bocchino was one stroke back at 304.

Cal State Stanislaus won six straight Division III golf titles from 1976 to 1981 and started another streak last year.

Despite a final-round 80, Central's (Iowa) Brian Goldsworthy won medalist honors after surviving a play-off with UC San Diego's Pat Weishan.

Goldsworthy won the play-off with a birdie on the second extra hole. He was four-under through 36 holes with two rounds of 70 but shot 77 and 80 to finish at 297.

"I sat awake most of the night, trying to imagine what it would be like to be a national champion," said Goldsworthy. "I just couldn't imagine. I still can't."

CFA plans meeting in Dallas

The College Football Association's ninth annual meeting is scheduled May 31 to June 2 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dallas.

The opening session is scheduled for Friday, May 31, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Panel discussion topics include NCAA rules enforcement and academics.

The general business session is planned for Sunday, June 2, from 9 a.m. until noon.

Other discussion topics include freshman eligibility, tutorial systems, satisfactory progress and drug testing.

Championships Corner

The NCAA Women's Lacrosse Committee is soliciting proposed budgets for review at the committee's June 18-21 meeting from institutions interested in hosting the 1986 Division III, National Collegiate and/or a Division III/National Collegiate Championships double-header on May 17 or 18, 1986.

Institutions wishing to submit a proposed budget should contact committee chair Margaret E. Faulkner at Towson State University or Patricia E. Bork, director of women's championships, at the NCAA national office.

Each team in the 1985 Division II Women's Softball Championship had 18 players in uniform, but Cal State Northridge needed only one — pitcher Kathy Slaten.

For the third consecutive year, Slaten won the title game for the Lady Matadors, this year defeating Akron, 2-1, May 19 before the home-town fans in Northridge, California.

By Slaten's standards, the championship game was subpar — only four strikeouts in seven innings. However, earlier in the day she pitched the entire game in a 15-inning, 2-0 loss to Akron. In that game, Slaten had 20 strikeouts and allowed only four hits and two unearned runs.

Earlier in the tournament, Slaten had a one-hit, 12-strikeout performance in a 3-0 victory over Akron and a three-hit, 16-strikeout effort in a 2-0 victory over Stephen F. Austin State. For the tournament, Slaten recorded 52 strikeouts in 36 innings and allowed 11 hits and one earned run. She finished the season with a 41-11 record.

Terri Lamoree and Linda Lowande provided the offense for Cal State Northridge in the championship game with run-scoring doubles. Akron's run — the only earned run against Slaten in the tournament — came on a homer by Kay Piper.

Named to the all-tournament team were pitchers Slaten and Renee Vance of Akron; catcher Stacy Lim, first baseman Dee Dee Baddeley, shortstop Lowande, third baseman Michey McAnany, outfielder Barbara Jordan and outfielder Lamoree of Cal State Northridge; second baseman Lisa Arvey and utility players Kay Piper and Tracy Alcorn of Akron, and outfielder Kathy Walker of Stephen F. Austin State.

Texas hopes to cap turnaround season with CWS crown

Baseball and superstition go hand-in hand at the University of Texas, Austin. Whenever the Longhorns trail in the late innings, the cry goes out for "rally caps," the jinx-buster that requires team members to wear their hats inside out.

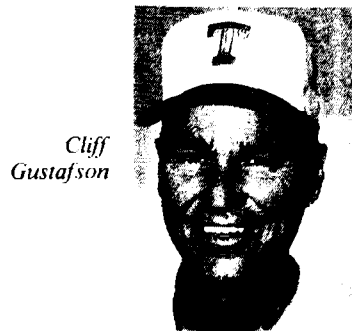

But the No. 1-ranked Longhorns, floundering in the Southwest Conference race with a 4-5 record earlier in the season, cannot entirely credit their rally caps for a subsequent 12-game winning streak, a 56-12 record and their seventh consecutive berth in the 39th annual NCAA Division I Baseball Championship.

Coach Cliff Gustafson, who has led Texas to 16 conference titles in 18 years, made several key lineup moves after the Longhorns' shaky start.

Gustafson switched David Denny to left field and he promptly began pounding the ball, driving in a team-leading 85 runs while becoming Texas' career hitting leader. Gustafson also put Dennis Cook in the No. 3 spot in the batting order and the right fielder-pitcher responded with a .388 batting average.

The rejuvenated offense and the pitching of all-America Greg Swindell (14-1 with a 1.74 ERA and 154 strikeouts entering the conference postseason tournament) have made the Longhorns an early favorite to be one of the eight regional winners that will begin double-elimination play for the College World Series title May 31 at Omaha, Nebraska's, Rosenblatt Stadium. All regionals also are double-elimination tournaments.

Cliff Gustafson

This year's tournament features 25 automatic qualifiers and 13 at-large selections, the largest field in CWS history.

Although an outstanding team, the Longhorns would be hard-pressed to go undefeated in CWS play this year as they did in capturing the 1983 title. Texas finished as runner-up to Cal State Fullerton in 1984.

No. 2-ranked Stanford, 43-12, wrapped up a berth by winning the Pacific-10 Conference title. The West I regional host, Stanford boasts one of the best defensive teams in the tournament, led by second baseman Pete Stanicek and shortstop John Verducci, perhaps the best double-play combination in Division I.

According to the adage about good pitching beats good hitting, fifth-ranked Mississippi State, the South I regional host, should make its third consecutive trip to Omaha. The Bulldogs' pitching staff, led by Jeff Brantley, who was 13-2, at press time, sports a glossy 3.03 ERA.

Sixth-ranked Miami (Florida), the 1982 champion selected at large with a 56-14 record, also has a strong pitching staff backed up by short reliever Rick Raether with a 1.27 ERA. Unlike its 1982 team, Miami relies on defense and execution rather than the home run.

The question is whether Raether, or any of the relievers who will face Texas, can withstand a confrontation with the Longhorns' rally caps.

Following are the regional pairings for the 1985 Division I Baseball Championship:

East (May 23-26 in Columbia, South Carolina): Old Dominion (49-9) vs. Western Carolina (35-33), South Carolina (43-20) vs. La Salle (29-18), Rider (26-10) vs. St. John's (N.Y.) (31-19).

South II (May 23-26 in Tallahassee, Florida): Arkansas (45-13) vs. Eastern Kentucky (41-27), Florida State (57-21) vs. George Mason (38-21), Georgia Tech (39-17-1) vs. Central Michigan (38-17).

Midwest (May 24-27 in Stillwater, Oklahoma): Oklahoma State (54-13-1) vs. Minnesota (33-21), Oral Roberts (49-17) vs. Wichita State (65-18).

South I (May 24-27 in Mississippi State, Mississippi): Mississippi State (45-12) vs. West Virginia (27-13), Michigan (52-8) vs. New Orleans (42-26).

West I (May 24-27 in Stanford, California): Stanford (43-12) vs. Oregon State (34-15), Pepperdine (47-12-1) vs. Nebraska (44-22).

Atlantic (May 24-27 in Coral Gables, Florida): Miami (Florida) (56-14) vs. Princeton (29-10), Florida (40-16) vs. Virginia (37-14).

Central (May 23-26 in Austin, Texas): Texas (56-12) vs. Grambling (36-14-1), Oklahoma (53-12) vs. Lamar (32-22), Louisiana State (41-16) vs. Houston (43-15).

West II (May 23-26 in Fresno, California): Fresno State (41-20) vs. California (44-22), Brigham Young (43-27) vs. Arizona (44-20).

Roadrunners shift into high gear for run at Division III title

Coaches generally do not like to single out one player as being irreplaceable. However, Ramapo coach Michael Ennis cannot deny Derek Bastinck's role in the Roadrunners' drive to a second consecutive NCAA Division III Baseball Championship title.

Although Ramapo has a .348 team batting average, Bastinck wields the biggest bat in the lineup. When Bastinck, named most valuable player in last year's championship after hitting .600, missed 15 games earlier this season because of an ankle injury, the Roadrunners' offense sputtered, and the team lost two games to rival Montclair State.

Bastinck's recent return to the lineup was punctuated with three home runs in two games, boosting his batting average to .452.

Ramapo also has solid pitching to go with an offense averaging nine runs a game. The pitching staff, led by Bob Sudo (7-1) and Steve Anderson (7-2), has an ERA of 4.15.

When Ramapo is hitting on all cylinders, the Roadrunners are hard to slow down. They reeled off two eight-game winning streaks and were enjoying a six-game winning streak at press time.

It will not be easy for Ramapo to keep its victory streak intact in the tough Mid-Atlantic regional and advance to the May 30-June 2 double-elimination championship round at Marietta, Ohio. But with Bastinck in the lineup, Ramapo has a good shot at being the first team to win back-to-back titles since 1979.

Redlands was the first team to make hotel reservations in Marietta after the Leopards captured the West regional title by upsetting La Verne in a five-game series.

In the Mideast region, Marietta, 39-7-1 at press time, will be hard to stop from a return trip to the championship round in front of the home folks. The Pioneers, who have won or finished second in five of the nine championships, have done another exceptional rebuilding job under coach Don Schally.

Marietta has a championship-tested pitching staff sparked by right hander Jim Katschke, who had a 13-2 record and 2.34 ERA through games of May 15, and left hander John Hamborsky (9-1). Marietta's offense is led by Monte Duncan (.417), John Hefner (.407) and Jeff Witt (.397). Mike Brandts (.383) leads the team in RBIs with 53.

In four previous championship appearances, No. 1-ranked North Carolina Wesleyan has finished fourth twice and third once. The Battling Bishops should make another fine showing with the return of 15 lettermen from last year's 34-11 team; however, they must get past red-hot Trenton State in the South region to improve upon past finishes.

The remaining teams selected, by region, are as follows:

South (May 20-22 at Trenton State College): Virginia Wesleyan (29-7) vs. William Paterson (24-11-2), Trenton State (28-15-1) vs. North Carolina Wesleyan (34-7-2). Mid-Atlantic (May 22-24 at Montclair State College): Ramapo (29-6-1) vs. Methodist (32-12), Montclair State (30-9-1) vs. Swarthmore (26-4). Midwest (May 22-24 at the University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh): Wisconsin-Oshkosh (29-1) vs. Baldwin-Wallace (23-13), Luther (24-8) vs. St. Olaf (26-10). Northeast (May 22-24 at Eastern Connecticut State University): Brandeis (27-8) vs. Ithaca (30-9-1), North Adams State (26-7) vs. Eastern Connecticut State (34-10). Mideast (May 22-24 at North Central College): Ohio Northern (26-6) vs. Allegheny (28-15-1), Maryville (Mo.) (26-10) vs. Wooster (28-17); Marietta (39-7-1) vs. North Central (25-11).

NCAA committee discusses drug plans with pro teams

The NCAA Professional Sports Liaison Committee, meeting with representatives of Major League Baseball and the National Football League, reviewed each league's drug-testing and drug-education policies and discussed options concerning revision of current NCAA rules on professionalism.

The committee, which met May 13-15 in Boston, discussed ways in which the professional leagues' policies could be assimilated or used by the NCAA's Special Committee for National Drug-Testing Policy. Information about experiences with player-agents and ways to provide security against the link between drugs and gambling also was exchanged.

The committee supported a recommendation by the NCAA Special Committee on Player-Agents to produce a videotape to supplement existing educational materials regarding player-agents. The videotape would be shown at college and high school all-star games and would be made available to institutional counseling panels for viewing by enrolled student-athletes.

After discussing current NCAA rules, the committee reviewed four proposals dealing with methods by which student-athletes could acquire information about professional opportunities and professional earnings potential.

The four proposals will be forwarded to the Special Committee on Player-Agents and the American Football Coaches Board of Trustees for their advice. The committee will convene this summer in a teleconference to discuss each of the proposals before forwarding recommendations to the NCAA Council. Advice from the special committee and the coaches' association will be sought.

In other action, the committee recommended that the Special Committee on Player-Agents support revision of Constitution 3-1(h)-(4) to allow a member of an institution's athletics department to be on the three-member career-counseling panel.

Bluebonnet Bowl to return to Rice

The Bluebonnet Bowl has decided to end a 17-year association with the Astrodome and return its New Year's Eve game to Rice Stadium, where the first game was played in 1959.

Greater Houston Bowl Association President Jack Busiek said that the NCAA had increased the bowl's minimum contribution to $500,000 per team for the 1986 game, and the increase was a factor in that move.

Rice Stadium will seat 20,000 more fans than the Astrodome. Busiek said the additional seating and a favorable rental agreement from Rice were strong factors in the move.

"The Bluebonnet Bowl is Houston's only annual event televised live nationally and brings a lot of positive publicity and prestige to the Houston area," Busiek said.

Alabama State placed on probation

The NCAA Committee on Infractions has announced that Alabama State University has been publicly reprimanded and censured and placed on probation until December 30, 1986, for violations related to the ineligible participation of several football team members.

As a part of the penalty, the NCAA required the university to take action against its head football coach that will at least preclude him from participating in any off-campus recruiting contacts with prospective student-athletes during the 1985-86 academic year and from any further participation in the determination of eligibility for football team members.

In addition, nine football team members were declared ineligible for receiving athletically related financial assistance or participating in practice sessions or games while ineligible.

Frank J. Remington, Committee on Infractions chair, stated that "the university's procedures for determining eligibility were inadequate in that members of the football coaching staff, including the head coach, disregarded the university's normal eligibility certification procedures, which resulted in the improper certification of numerous football team members."

"The NCAA's penalty in this case," Remington said, "is intended to require the university to develop a system to certify eligibility that places full responsibility for those decisions with administrative personnel without influence from the football coaching staff."

The violations found in the case involve NCAA legislation pertaining to the 2,000 regulation, academic progress and transfer regulations.

The following is a text of the penalty and a summary of the violations found in this case.

Penalty to be imposed upon institution

1. Alabama State University shall be publicly reprimanded and censured and placed on probation until December 30, 1986, it being understood that should any portion of the penalty in this case be set aside for any reason other than by appropriate action by the Association, the penalty shall be reconsidered by the NCAA.

2. The institution shall submit a written report to the NCAA by June 30, 1985, to clarify that the institution's procedure for determining athletics eligibility provides that the responsibility for eligibility certification rests with the proper administrative personnel (i.e., faculty representative, director of athletics and the registrar) rather than members of the football coaching staff.

3. In accordance with the NCAA "show cause" procedure, action shall be taken against the head football coach that will at least prohibit him from participating in any in-person, off-campus recruiting contacts (evaluation of prospects would be permissible) during the 1985-86 academic year.

Summary of violations of NCAA legislation

1. NCAA Bylaws 5-1-(j)-(2), 5-5-(j)-(3) and

5-6-(b), and Case No. 333 [eligibility]—During the 1984-85 academic year, numerous student-athletes in the sport of football were awarded institutional financial aid or permitted to participate in practice sessions or regular-season competition, even though the student-athletes had not achieved accumulative high school grade-point averages of at least 2.000 after six, seven or eight semesters of high school attendance. Specifically, six student-athletes were awarded improper financial aid; seven of these student-athletes participated in football practice sessions and four participated in regular-season games.

2. NCAA Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(6)-(ii) [eligibility]—During the 1984-85 academic year, five student-athletes participated in regular-season football competition for a portion of the season, even though each young man had not completed 36 quarter hours of acceptable degree credit subsequent to the 1983 football season.

3. NCAA Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(7) [eligibility]—During the 1984-85 academic year, a student-athlete represented the university in regular-season football competition, although the young man had not satisfied the one-year residency provision of the NCAA's transfer rule.

4. NCAA Bylaws 5-1-(j)-(2), 5-1-(j)-(9) and 5-6-(b), and Case No. 333 [eligibility]—During the 1984-85 academic year, a student-athlete received institutional financial aid and participated in football practice sessions and regular-season competition while ineligible under the NCAA's junior college transfer rule.

5. NCAA Bylaw 5-6-(b)-(1) [eligibility]—During the 1984-85 academic year, the university permitted two student-athletes to participate in football practice sessions for a period of time that exceeded two weeks without obtaining verification of the young men's high school grade-point averages in order to certify them eligible or ineligible under the NCAA's 2,000 legislation.

Patricia A. Thompson

Elmira appoints Thompson as AD

Patricia A. Thompson, a member of the NCAA Council since 1982, has been named director of athletics at Elmira College. Thompson had been the interim athletics director since last October.

A 1975 Elmira graduate, Thompson is a member of the Eastern College Athletic Conference executive council and has served on the NCAA Promotion Committee and the Division III Steering Committee. She chaired the 1982 Women's Committee on Committees.

At Elmira, Thompson has served as assistant athletics director, sports information director, campus special events coordinator and assistant instructional program coordinator.

Gonzaga's Maria Stack named best small women's player

Maria Stack of Gonzaga University will be the recipient of the second annual Frances Pomcroy Naismith-Basketball Hall of Fame Award as the outstanding senior student-athlete in women's basketball who is under 5-feet, 6-inches. Stack led Gonzaga to a 28-4 record while averaging 24.4 points a game. The University of Notre Dame and the U.S. Naval Academy will play their November 1986 football game at Memorial Stadium in Baltimore. "It's great for the city," said Louis J. Grasmich, a member of the city's parks board. The city expects about $1 million in gross revenues from the event.

The University of Southwestern Louisiana will add women's track and field and cross country for the 1985-86 seasons. Randy Stephens, who was assistant track and field coach last year, will coordinate the new programs. Western Carolina University will no longer sponsor rifle, soccer or softball but will add women's tennis and track and field for 1985-86. The realignment leave the school with eight men's sports and six women's. Roger Williams College will become the eighth member of the Commonwealth Coast Basketball Conference next season. The Division III conference is moving toward a schedule that will include two games between each of the eight teams.

A blanket invitation has been extended to all American veterans of Vietnam to attend the December 21 Independence Bowl football game in Shreveport, Louisiana, for a massive half-time ceremony. "We can envision a field full of them. It's a belated honor, but it's well-deserved," said Cecil Lloyd, chair of the bowl committee. Each year, the Independence Bowl presents the Omar N. Bradley Spirit of Independence Award. This year, it will be presented to all Vietnam veterans gathered on the field. The women's volleyball team at Wayne State University (Michigan) has a cumulative grade-point average of 3.150 (4.000 scale) for the last semester. Two players had GPAs higher than 3.500. Bucknell University's baseball team has set a school victory record (currently 18-10-1) and 15 team and individual records. Eight starters and one of the top two pitchers have grade-point averages of at least 3.000 (4.000 scale), and six of those eight are at 3.400 or higher. Left fielder John Hamilton, a civil engineering major, leads the team with a 3.600 GPA.

Council requires Virginia Tech to return awards from bowl

In accordance with the restitution provisions of the Association's enforcement procedure, the NCAA Council has required Virginia Polytechnic Institute to return to the sponsors of the Independence Bowl (Shreveport, Louisiana) the team trophy received by the institution and individual awards received by student-athlete Bruce Smith resulting from the institute's participation in the 1984 Independence Bowl.

Smith was charged with the loss of eligibility under NCAA rules after the Association's Committee on Infractions found in May 1983 that he had been recruited improperly by Virginia Tech. The committee's findings, which included violations involving the arrangement of three expense-paid recruiting trips (rather than the permissible one official paid visit) for Smith to visit the institute's campus and excessive off-campus recruiting contacts by the institution with the young man, were accepted by Virginia Tech and not appealed to the NCAA Council.

After accepting the findings of the Committee on Infractions, Virginia Tech requested restoration of Smith's eligibility in a series of five eligibility appeal hearings conducted by the NCAA Eligibility Committee (in October and November 1983) and the NCAA Council's Subcommittee on Eligibility Appeals (in January, August and November 1984). In each instance, the appeal for restoration of Smith's eligibility to represent the institute in postseason competition was denied. Under the recruiting rules in question, Smith remained eligible to represent the institute in regular-season competition, but the institute was notified (initially in May 1983) that the young man was ineligible to represent Virginia Tech in postseason football competition.

During the week preceding the December 15, 1984, Independence Bowl, Smith filed suit against the NCAA and Virginia Tech in the Virginia state court (Montgomery County). He then was permitted to participate with the institute's football team in the Independence Bowl while ineligible under NCAA rules by virtue of a restraining order granted by the state court. After the completion of the Independence Bowl contest, which Virginia Tech lost to the U.S. Air Force Academy, 23-7, Smith requested a voluntary nonsuit that resulted in the dismissal of the litigation.

After the Virginia state court's action to dismiss the suit, the NCAA Council reviewed the effect of Smith's participation in the Independence Bowl and voted to invoke the Association's restitution provisions.

The membership has authorized the Council to apply these regulations whenever an ineligible student-athlete competes under a court order that subsequently is voluntarily vacated or reversed by the courts. In accordance with the Council's decision, the institute will be required to return its team trophy and Smith's individual awards, including a sweater, watch, carry-on bag and hat, to the Independence Bowl.

"The restitution provisions were adopted by the membership in the interest of fairness to institutions forced by a court order to compete against teams including an ineligible student-athlete," said John R. Davis, president of the NCAA. "The provisions are designed to eliminate any competitive advantage gained by an institution while permitting an ineligible student-athlete to participate under a court order that eventually is vacated voluntarily or reversed."

"It should be noted," continued Davis, "that the Council's decision was not based on any determination that Virginia Tech was involved in initiating or supporting the court proceedings. In arriving at its decision, the Council concluded that other member institutions, which might have been selected for bowl competition, as well as the institute's opponent in the Independence Bowl, were those whose interests were placed at a disadvantage as a result of Smith's ineligible participation, regardless of the institute's involvement in the court proceedings."

Kreis pleads not guilty

Former Vanderbilt University strength coach E.J. "Doc" Kreis and two other men pleaded innocent May 16 to charges they were involved in the illegal distribution of steroids to athletes at three universities.

Kreis and pharmacist M. "Woody" Wilson did not appear at the arraignment but the pleas were entered through their attorneys. Thomas Patterson, who worked at a pharmacy near Vanderbilt operated by Wilson, was the only defendant to enter his plea in person.

The three were arraigned at the metro Nashville courthouse on a 97-count indictment returned April 19 by the Davidson County grand jury.

Wilson County Circuit Court Judge Bobby Capers set July 1 as the date for attorneys to file motions in the case. Attorneys have until July 11 to present a settlement to avoid trial, said Capers, who was called in after another judge stepped aside, citing an acquaintance with Wilson.

The three, who have remained free on their own recognizance, were indicted for allegedly selling nearly 100,000 doses of steroids to athletes at Vanderbilt, Clemson University and Colgate University.

Kreis, who resigned his position at Vanderbilt April 20, was named in eight counts, Wilson in 91 counts and Patterson in six counts.

Big East signs television pact

CBS news has signed a $9 million contract to televise Big East Conference basketball games exclusively for three years starting in 1986, the network confirmed May 15.

A contract will increase the Big East to 72 regular-season appearances on CBS, including the conference tournament semifinals and final. It also will prohibit Big East teams from appearing on NBC or a cable network on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The Big East's current three-year contracts with CBS and NBC, worth about $9 million, expire after the 1985-86 season. NBC will have seven Big East appearances next season.

Players sentenced

Four Wichita State University football players were sentenced May 15 to a year's suspended sentence and 100 hours of community service and were ordered to make restitution in connection with their part in running up a $1,785 bill on stolen telephone credit-card numbers.

Charles Edward Walker, 19, of Okmulgee, Oklahoma; George Edward Baxter, 22, of Los Angeles, and Wayne Edward Bell, 18, and Brian McDonald, 20, both of St. Louis, were sentenced by Sedgwick County District Judge Paul W. Clark.

The sentencing followed the group's no-contest plea of April 30 to a charge of theft of telecommunications services.
