Insurance programs approved

Two new insurance programs for the NCAA membership have been approved by the Kansas Insurance Department and now are available to member institutions.

Available to the membership in 1985-86 will be a basic athletics accident medical insurance program and an athletics staff accident program. Information and highlights of the benefits of each program were included in a mailing this week to all NCAA member institutions.

Both programs will be underwritten by State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America. The staff accident program will replace the travel accident programs underwritten by Aetna Life Insurance Company, which were discontinued because of declining enrollment.

Institutions interested in the basic athletics accident medical insurance program should complete the quotation-request form included in the mailing and return it to American Sports Underwriters, Inc., administrator of the plan. The institution then will be given a rate based upon information received by ASU.

The basic athletics accident medical insurance program will include an accidental death and dismemberment provision and cover medical expenses up to a maximum of $25,000 per occurrence, which is where the NCAA lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program begins.

Institutions can provide their staff members with 24-hour accidental death and dismemberment coverage through the athletics staff accident program. Enrollment forms for this program, which takes effect August 1, were included in the recent mailing.

The loss-of-revenue insurance program, also approved earlier this year by the NCAA Administration, is also available.

Two named to Presidents Commission

Michael Schwartz, president of Kent State University, and Richard L. Van Horn, chancellor of the University of Houston, have been named to Division I-A positions on the NCAA Presidents Commission.

Schwartz replaces Glen R. Driscoll, who retired at the end of June as the president of the University of Toledo, as the Mid-American Conference representative on the Commission. Van Horn was named to replace Herbert H. Reynolds, president of Baylor University, as the Southwest Athletic Conference representative. Van Horn is the new chair of that conference's council of presidents.

Schwartz will complete Driscoll's term, which ends in January 1989. Van Horn will serve until this coming January, when Reynolds' term ends, but will be eligible for election to a full four-year term at that time.

President of Kent State University since September 1982, Schwartz has been at that institution since 1976, serving as vice-president for graduate studies and research, interim president, and acting vice-president for academic affairs before being named vice-president for academic and student affairs in 1978. He added duties as provost in 1980.

Prior to his tenure at Kent State, he served in faculty and administrative positions at Wayne State University

Michael Schwartz

(Michigan); Indiana University, Bloomington, and Florida Atlantic University.

He holds three degrees from the University of Illinois, Champaign — a bachelor's in psychology, a master's in industrial relations and a Ph.D. in sociology.

Van Horn became chancellor at the University of Houston's University Park campus in September 1983 after serving three years as provost at Carnegie-Mellon University.

He was a researcher and administrator at the Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, California, from 1957 to 1967 before joining the Carnegie-Mellon University staff as a faculty member and associate dean of the graduate school of industrial administration. He served at Carnegie-Mellon for 15 years, including a two-year leave of absence as director and professor of management systems at the European Institute for Advanced Studies in Management, Brussels, Belgium.

During his stay at Carnegie-Mellon, he also served as vice-president for business affairs and vice-president for management.

He earned a B.S. degree in industrial administration with highest honors from Yale University, an M.S. degree in industrial management from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a Ph.D. in system sciences from Carnegie-Mellon.

Modifications in academic standards could be announced later in month

The Special NCAA Academic Standards Committee will meet July 29 in Washington, D.C., at which time possible modifications to the new academic standards set for 1986 may be announced.

The special committee, chaired by Wilford S. Bailey, faculty athletics representative at Auburn University and secretary-treasurer of the NCAA, met for the third time earlier this month and continued its discussion of modifying Bylaw 5-1-(j), which was amended at the 1983 Convention.

"We met with representatives of the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) and ACT (American College Testing Program) programs to get their reactions to possible modifications," Bailey said. "We hope that the July 29 meeting will be our last one and that we at least in preliminary form will have some conclusions to present to the NCAA Council."

Among the groups that met with the special committee in its last meeting were the American Council on Education, the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education, and the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

The special committee was created as a result of the passage of Proposal No. 25 at the 1985 Convention, which empowered the Presidents Commission and Council to consider possible modifications of Bylaw 5-1-(j) and report any proposed changes to the NCAA membership by October 15, 1985.

The legislation as adopted by the 1983 Convention will require students to achieve both a 2.000 grade-point average in a core curriculum of 11 high school courses and a combined score of at least 700 on the SAT or a 15 on the ACT for initial eligibility at a Division I member institution.

Several possible alternatives have been considered by the special committee, including an index approach that would combine the core-curriculum grade-point average and an SAT or ACT test score. However, Bailey said no official reports on the special committee's discussion will be released until any final modifications are approved.

Other members of the special committee are Edward B. Fort, North Carolina A&T State University; Joseph B. Johnson, Grambling State University; Gwendolyn Norrell, Michigan State University; John W. Ryan, Indiana University, Bloomington; Otis A. Singletary, University of Kentucky; and John Taylor, National Institute of Education.

Nominations invited for NCAA committees

Administrators at NCAA member institutions are requested to submit nominations for upcoming vacancies on NCAA general committees.

The vacancies to be filled are for terms beginning September 1, 1986. Committee members who are eligible for reelection normally are reelected. The NCAA Council appoints general committee members according to the provisions of Bylaws 12-1 and 12-3.

Nominations should be submitted to Fannie B. Vaughan, administrative assistant, in the NCAA national office, and must be received no later than August 19.

Administrators should submit the nominee's name, title, institution, division, district and conference, along with a brief paragraph describing the nominee's qualifications. A separate nomination letter should be provided for each candidate and should indicate whether the candidate would serve if appointed.

A list of all general committee vacancies follows. A complete listing of committees may be found in the 1984-85 NCAA Directory. Committee changes that have occurred since publication of the Directory have been printed in the Record or Committee Notices column of The NCAA News.

Academic Requirements — Two expirations. Eligible for reappointment: Ollie Bowman, Hampton University (II). Not eligible for reappointment: Ronald D. Potier, Franklin and Marshall College (III).

Classification — Three expirations. Eligible for reappointment: Paul V. Amodio, Kent State University (I); Roland H. Dale, University of Southern Mississippi (I); Dorothy E. Dreyer, Wayne State University (Michigan) (II).

Community and Junior College Relations — Two expirations. Not eligible for reappointment: Patrick R. Damore, Fredonia State University College; Dorothy E. Dreyer, Wayne State University (Michigan) (chair).

Dreyer must be replaced as chair, and her replacement as a committee member must be a woman.

Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports — Four expirations. Eligible for reappointment: Jeffrey O'Connell, University of Virginia (law). Not eligible for reappointment: Daphne Benas, Yale University (athletics training; woman responsible for total athletics training at a member institution); Nell C. Jackson, State University of New York, Binghamton (not to be replaced in order to reduce committee to 12 members as specified in the bylaws); Robert C. White, Wayne State University (Michigan) (man responsible for total athletics training at a member institution).

Constitution and Bylaws — One expiration. Eligible for reappointment: Clayton W. Chapman, Eastern College Athletic Conference (I, chair).

Drug Education — Two expirations. Eligible for reappointment: Jackie Sherrill, Texas A&M University (I athletics director/head coach). Not eligible for reappointment: Naomi R. Schaub, M.D., Tulane University. Schaub must be replaced by a woman.

Eligibility — Two expirations. Eligible for reappointment: Joan C. Cronan, University of Tennessee, Knoxville (I); Edwin D. Muto, State University of New York, Buffalo (III).

Extra Events — One expiration. Not eligible for reappointment: Mary Miller Carson, Boston College (I).

Governmental Affairs (Committee is composed of Council members) — One expiration. Not eligible for reappointment: Elmer W. Yost, Otterbein College. Terms of members of this committee are concurrent with service on the Council. New appointee must be a Council member whose term does not expire January 1986.

At last, presidents have taken over in athletics

By Tracy Mixson

The Gamecock, University of South Carolina

Used to be, a college athlete could lead his team to success without using drugs or creating a score to fit the needs of the neighborhood bookie.

And—get this—the kid did his homework before he went to play.

Yes, believe it or not, this used to be a regular occurrence. At this time, long, long ago, things were looking good for college sports' governing body, the NCAA.

But, somewhere between there and here, something went wrong.

Somewhere, some coaches started cheating—with recruiting violations, drug scandals, gambling involvement and unenforced academic regulations for their athletes.

Somewhere, athletics directors decided to look the other way when they saw their programs venture off the paths of good sportsmanship and fair play.

Somewhere, student-athletes stopped learning in the classroom and instead became educated in the world of college corruption. So what if they couldn't spell their own name? They were still learning—how to shave points, duck classes and get paid to play by big-time alumni with big-time dreams of athletics dynasties.

And somewhere—New Orleans, Louisiana, to be exact—someone finally decided to do something about this mess, once and for all.

College presidents from more than 200 universities met to discuss, argue, complain and finally suggest solutions to bring "integrity" back to the NCAA. Armed with a "get-tough" attitude, the representatives voted to pass the hardest sanctions and penalties ever, including the much-publicized "Death

Columnary Craft

Penalty." Now, colleges caught violating rules twice within five years will have the most recently penalized sport suspended for [up to] two seasons—a period thought long enough to effectively kill the program for decades.

The sanctions are important, but an even more far-reaching policy came from the meeting. At last, college presidents have taken over their athletics departments. At the University of South Carolina, this event took place several years ago; but at many universities, the athletics department has been its own little empire under the direction of the AD, who, in turn, was under the direction of the NCAA.

But not anymore. As columnist Greg Cote of Knight-Ridder Newspapers wrote: "The football coach's boss no longer is just his old pal the athletics director, who probably is an ex-coach who knows what it's like and what it takes to win nowadays. The coach has another boss now, probably a Dr. somebody with a law degree and as much interest in honors programs and science labs as Saturday's game.

"The college president is running the NCAA now, and all hell is about to be lassoed and herded into a pen."

There are plenty of skeptics who use words like "overkill" and "suicide pact" to describe the presidents' new ground rules. Jim Murray, long-time sports columnist of The Los Angeles Times, wrote: "These cops aren't going to raid the building, they're going to burn it down. They're not throwing the baby out with the bath water, they're drowning him in it first."

On the other hand, Bobby Knight, the opinionated basketball coach at Indiana University, Bloomington, called the meeting "do-nothing" and its accomplishments "rhetoric." "If anything good comes out of it, I'll believe it when I see it," he said.

But c'mon, Bobby, at least it's a step in the right direction. The new rules can work, but only if they're enforced. That was the downfall of the NCAA, so why not let the presidents have their shot? When 98.6 percent vote for these measures, you know they're serious.

The sanctions are tough, and more are expected to pass at another meeting in January. Only time will tell if the cleanup attempt was successful or futile. But the presidents are to be commended for their goals toward putting sportsmanship back into sports. So what's wrong with a little integrity?

It just might be a refreshing change of pace.

Educational goals should come first

"Cheating...is seen as bad, not so much because it corrupts principles of education or amateurism, but rather because cheaters gain an improper economic advantage over other competitors...."

"To the extent that the prevalent view is that college sports is commercial entertainment, we will not see a basic redirection...."

"It is too early to tell which view—education or entertainment—will hold sway in the current debate about regulatory reform.... Numerous examples can be found to suggest that those who are mainly concerned with shoring up a tattered entertainment product have had a great influence in framing the present debate (over reform in collegiate athletics)."

"The recent scandals—and their accompanying personal tragedies for the players involved—provide a unique occasion for riveting attention on the problems of intercollegiate athletics. Regulatory responses that gloss over the basic educational problems of college sports will rob this period of its potential significance.

"The discussion of reforms needs a mooring more firm than concern for public appearances and competitors' marketplace advantage. A basic redirection is called for."

"The popularity of college sports can be recognized, but educational goals should receive an unmistakable priority. In short, the economics of sports should accommodate education, and not vice versa."

Jim Dickey, head football coach

Kansas State University

The Associated Press

"I'm all for them (NCAA member institutions) making the rules tougher and trying to get everybody to observe the rules. I hope it works. People who live within the rules don't like to see others who don't. We put our necks on the line and see others who don't observe the rules...I'm telling you, that's hard to live with."

"I'm glad the presidents are getting involved. It's obvious they've already made a difference. But the next time a coach has a down year and the boosters start making threats or demands, the president needs to stand up for him. It's obvious that the pressure to win has become so great, the temptation to cheat has become too attractive to some."

Gilman

Wyatt

Richard C. Gilman, president
Occidental College

Occidental College News

"The fact is now that under the Presidents Commission, the presidents have a vehicle, which we did not have before. The presidents now have a vehicle whereby they can exert a significant and timely influence in the conduct of the NCAA. It was there on paper before; I do not deny that."

"Presidents could go to the NCAA (Convention), but when that meeting was structured in such a way and held in such a time and place that it could not get the undivided attention of presidents, one just had to opt for other things."

"The establishment of the Presidents Commission provides the first significant and substantial opportunity for the presidents of colleges and universities to involve themselves efficiently as well as effectively in NCAA affairs, and the special Convention represents the first fruit of that involvement."

"You see, what the presidents have done is to zero in on those matters of institutional priority and presidential prerogative, namely academic integrity and fiscal responsibility."

Joe B. Wyatt, chancellor
Vanderbilt University

The Associated Press

"My view is very simple—I don't believe you should have students competing as athletes who were not admitted by the regular process and are not able to complete the educational process."

"We've been seeing messages for several years—the relationship between professional and college sports—that once gifted athletes are recognized, the educational aspect on their part is really not important. We have a situation where we encourage young people at a very early age—secondary schools, maybe before—that their future is involved with being an athlete and not a student. We have to change that message. We have to send a very clear message that what colleges and universities are about is education first and foremost."

"Athletics is a wonderful way for people to express a relationship with a college or university, but some people—just a handful, I think—support the notion of winning at any cost."

"The (NCAA) rule book is more complicated than the U.S. Constitution. I believe now we have to back off and take an overall view of what colleges and universities are all about and the role of athletics in them."

Letter to the Editor

Athlete must learn to do for himself

To the Editor:

In following the dialogue about pay for scholarship athletes, which recently has appeared in The NCAA News and many newspapers across the country, I have been somewhat dismayed about the charges that those of us who do not support such measures are naive and out of touch with reality.

I would suggest that the real naivete belongs to those who really think that $50 a month will stop cheating. Such a notion defies reality; those who are inclined to cheat still will do so.

We expect millions of nonathletes to work in the summer and to budget their earnings over the course of the academic year. Should we expect less of the full-scholarship athlete?

It seems fairly evident that we are doing a poor job of making the scholarship athlete think and do for himself. By creating an environment that has someone else do virtually everything for an athlete, it becomes increasingly difficult to deny that athlete's request for "something extra."

The rationale that athletics departments are making so much money that the athlete should get his share is ludicrous. The obvious response to those who are making so much profit from TV and gate receipts would seem to be a plowing back of excess funds into the general scholarship fund, research or faculty salaries.

We have evolved to the point where universities, especially in football and basketball, are the minor leagues for professional teams. Rather than continuing and furthering this notion by paying student-athletes, we must step back from this self-destructing course and force each athlete to be a student and to have a vested interest in his future. By so doing, the real service will be to the young man who may not have the talent to be a professional athlete but will have the education and maturity to survive in the real world.

Complaints about No. 48 become a bit disgusting

By Harley Bowers

Macon Telegraph and News

Ask any college football coach in America if he feels tougher academic requirements should be imposed on athletes, and he will say yes.

Then, most of them will start hedging. They don't want players to be required to take all those core courses that are called for under NCAA Proposal No. 48.

They don't want the athlete to have to maintain certain grades.

What this amounts to is the coach coveting the athlete regardless of the academic standards.

Combine these complaints with the push to have different requirements for white and black athletes and you can see why little, if anything, is going to be done about upgrading the quality of people attending colleges on athletics grants-in-aid.

This is especially true for the big revenue-producing sports of football and basketball.

The one statistic I would like to see regarding college athletics is the College Board score of every youngster signed to a grant.

The academic problems of athletes start here.

We hear about the percentage of athletes this school graduates, the percentage that school graduates.

This is really meaningless. You can take figures and make what you want of them. Every school uses a different method in arriving at percentages.

But it all goes back to institutions accepting young men and women who have no more business in college than my neighbor's dog.

Eagles' graduation rate keeps pace with basketball victories

While a recent national publication revealed low graduation rates among many college basketball teams, Tennessee Technological University is an exception to those low rates. It puts degrees as well as basketballs in the hands of its student-athletes.

Two members of coach Tom Deaton's recent Ohio Valley Conference championship and National Invitation Tournament squad — Jimmy Elliott and Rick Cantrell — were among the 525 who recently received diplomas.

In five seasons under Deaton, 15 of 16 seniors — more than 93 percent — have graduated from Tennessee Tech. Two more will complete their academic work next year. The Golden Eagles' five-year basketball record is 71-65 (52 percent).

Depending on the years covered, Tennessee Tech's graduation rates for basketball players range from 78 to 93 percent.

Those figures run counter to numbers reported by 200 colleges and universities in a nationwide poll by USA Today. The listing, reflecting the totals from 1972 to 1982, showed an average graduation rate of well below 50 percent for college basketball players.

"We're extremely proud of our graduation rate," said Deaton. "Our players know that they are at Tennessee Tech, first and foremost, for a quality education."

"We make sure they understand that when they enroll at Tech, and we keep track of their progress toward a degree," he said.

The athletics staff includes a full-time academic advisor, Delores Wheatley, who ensures that all student-athletes are making progress toward a degree and not taking courses simply to retain eligibility.

While the NCAA recently has made that a requirement of all student-athletes, it is a policy that Tennessee Tech has been following for several years.

"I think Delores Wheatley is 10 years ahead of what everybody else is doing," said associate basketball coach Frank Harrell. "She's created an environment where our players take their books on all trips."

The accent at Tennessee Tech is on academics. If there is a scheduling conflict, a player goes to class instead of practice. If a player doesn't attend classes, he's dropped from the team.

"A few years ago, we had a top-notch transfer come to Tech, but he wouldn't go to classes," Harrell said. "He was told twice to go to classes; but he wouldn't go, so Tom dropped him from the team."

"We haven't had that kind of problem since then," Harrell said. "Tom clearly got the message to our players that we're not just talking when it comes to academics."

Another example of Deaton's desire for academic success is John Mathis, a senior walk-on during the 1980-81 campaign. Because of an engineering class, Mathis missed every Wednesday afternoon practice.

The following year, Deaton put Mathis on a grant-in-aid to allow him to finish his degree despite the fact that he had no eligibility remaining.

Tim Patterson, a reserve who saw very limited action throughout his career, was kept on a grant six years so he could earn his diploma.

"I think we have proven that we're committed to strong academics," said Deaton.

The graduation results under Deaton continue Tennessee Tech's rate of success that was exhibited by the Golden Eagles during the period from 1972 to 1982, the same as the USA Today poll.

During that period, 54 students enrolled on basketball grants-in-aid. Two still are enrolled. Eight transferred to other schools. Of the 44 remaining, 12 who had not completed their basketball eligibility left the program for reasons other than academics.

That leaves 32 scholarships athletes whom the school can be held academically accountable for. Only seven didn't receive degrees, giving Tennessee Tech a graduation rate of more than 78 percent for 1972 to 1982.

Softball tie-breaker rule modified; power ratings sought by committee

A change in the tie-breaker rule and the introduction of power ratings for championships selection purposes were among the recommendations of the Women's Softball Committee at its July 8-11 meeting in Jacksonville, Florida.

If the score is tied after nine innings, the offensive team shall begin the top of the 10th inning with the player who completed the last at bat the previous inning at second base. This past year, the tie-breaker rule went into effect if the game was tied after seven innings. This change does not require Executive Committee approval.

Because of the difficulty of evaluating strength of schedules for teams without common opponents from different regions, each division's subcommittee recommended a power-rating formula to assist in the overall determination of strength of schedule.

In Division I, five points will be given for a victory against a ranked Division I team, three points will be awarded for a victory against any other Division I team and one point will be given for a loss to a Division I ranked team.

In Division II, six points will be awarded for a victory against a Division I team and three points will be earned for losing to a Division I team. Five points will be given for defeating another Division II or NAIA team and two points will be awarded for a loss at that level. Against Division III teams, four points for a victory and one for a loss will be awarded.

In Division III, eight points will be given for a victory against a Division I or Division II opponent, six points will be awarded for a victory against a Deaton has recruited 20 players in his five seasons. Eleven still are enrolled, and three have transferred. Of the six who completed their eligibility, five have graduated. That's 83 percent.

Compliance forms mailed

Certification of compliance forms, which include some new requirements for 1985-86, have been mailed to chief executive officers at NCAA member institutions.

Included in the mailing were the 1985-86 Institutional Certification of Compliance Form, the 1985-86 Staff Members Certification of Compliance Form and an instruction sheet for use in completing the forms.

The 1985-86 institutional form requires the chief executive officer at Division I institutions to affirm that his or her institution has published regular entrance requirements and requirements for satisfactory progress toward a degree and that each student-athlete who represents the institution will be in good academic standing and maintaining satisfactory progress toward a degree.

In addition, the financial aid director at a Division III institution or an institution that is classified in Division

In his five seasons at Tennessee Tech, Deaton has turned a losing program into a winner and he's maintained a winning tradition in the classroom, too.

III in a sport must certify that the institution is in compliance with NCAA Division III financial aid legislation.

The staff members' forms must be signed by all appropriate athletics department personnel stating that their sports are in accordance with NCAA rules and regulations.

Both forms must be completed and returned to the NCAA national office by September 15, 1985, if an institution wishes to be eligible for team and individual competition in 1985-86 NCAA-sponsored championship meets or tournaments. Forms received after September 15 must have been postmarked by September 8.

All women's programs must begin compliance with NCAA rules and regulations no later than August 1, 1985. Those institutions that used AIAW rules during the 1984-85 academic year must conform to NCAA rules effective August 1, 1985.

Division I

- Beginning with the 1986 regionals and 1987 finals, institutions serving as host will be required to guarantee 75 percent of the net receipts.

- Effective with the 1986 championship, the committee recommended an increase in the bracket from 16 to 18 teams.

- The committee voted to keep the finals at the Seymour Smith Softball Complex in Omaha, Nebraska, in 1986 (May 23-27) and 1987 (May 22-26), with Creighton University serving as the host institution.

- Beginning with the 1986 championship, the top four teams may be seeded in the bracket.

Division III

- Beginning with the 1986 championship, the committee recommended an increase in the bracket from 16 to 18 teams. In addition, the top four teams would be seeded in the bracket.

- The committee recommended a reduction in the number of regions from six to five to achieve a better balance of competitive teams. The number of teams in each region would be as follows: West (34), Midwest (39), Central (37), Northeast (57) and Mid-Atlantic (41).

In a Division I decision that does not require Executive Committee approval, the Women's Softball Committee determined that beginning in 1986, institutions that serve as host to Division I regionals must have fences that are a minimum of 190 feet and a maximum of 235 feet.

Vermont to host 1986 skiing championships

The University of Vermont was selected as the host for the 1986 Men's and Women's National Collegiate Skiing Championships by the NCAA Men's and Women's Skiing Committee at its annual meeting in June.

The committee also approved use of a season-report form to aid in the selection of individuals for the championships and discussed a possible change in the seeding procedure for the meet.

Vermont will host the 1986 meet March 5-8, with Alpine events scheduled for Stowe Mountain and Nordic events to be conducted at the Trapp Lodge. Typically, the meet is alternated between the East and the West each year.

A season-report form for individual performance for both Alpine and Nordic competition will be mailed before the season starts to every institution that sponsors skiing. It will be returned to the committee prior to the selection of individuals for the meet to assist the advisory committee in determining participants.

In other action, the committee voted to continue for one more year the current seeding practice of allowing a team to replace an individual who has been injured with someone else from the team. However, the coaches will be surveyed to determine support for simply moving the competitors up in the seeding when an individual is forced to withdraw from the competition.

Also, the committee will continue to alternate men's and women's events each year and will expand the practice to alternating between runs. In other words, the men's first run of the giant slalom will be followed by the women's first run, the men's second run and then the women's second run.

The committee also voted to disallow the use of videotapes to assist in determining results in any jury meetings.

Complaints

They're there for one purpose and one purpose only — to play some sport.

Oh, we hear about how some poor kid found himself once he was in college and how his future was saved because he was given a chance. But these are one in a million, give or take a few thousand.

And most of them who do manage to survive in class are taking remedial courses, or wasting time in some classroom that does nothing to prepare them for a useful career.

Most of the problems, I contend, with college athletics would vanish if tough standards of admission were applied.

What I'm saying is that if they are not serious students in the classroom, starting in high school, don't allow them to go to college just to play some sport.

If you're thinking that such a move would hurt some schools and not hurt others, forget it. It would hurt some schools more than others, but it would hit them all. There isn't a school around that doesn't take athletes who make less than 700 on the College Board. Some take fewer than others, and I applaud them.

I am becoming a bit disgusted with coaches who moan that the requirements of Proposal No. 48 are too stiff. They're taking a self-serving approach to a problem that is a lot bigger than winning or losing a football game.

I am also becoming disgusted with those who say there should be different standards for Blacks and whites. This is an insult to both races. Demand the best from everybody. Demand less than the best, which is certainly what we now do, and you're going to get just that.

Meanwhile, I'd like to see the NCAA require every college signing an athlete to release his or her College Board score.

Then, we could find out which schools are stooping the lowest in trying to build the biggest athletics programs.

We should all then join in condemning those going for the academically inept in order to achieve athletics superiority.

Idaho State placed on probation for violations in men's basketball program

Idaho State University has been placed on probation for a two-year period by the NCAA's Committee on Infractions as a result of violations occurring in the conduct of the university's intercollegiate men's basketball program.

The penalty includes sanctions that will prohibit the men's basketball team from participating in any post-season competition or from appearing on any "live" telecasts in men's basketball during the 1985-86 academic year.

In addition, the penalty will require the university to submit annual written reports to the NCAA during the probationary period that identify all corrective measures implemented by the institution during each applicable 12-month period.

In accordance with the "show-cause" provision of the NCAA enforcement program, the university also was required to disassociate its men's head basketball coach from the institution's intercollegiate athletics program.

The head coach, however, resigned prior to receipt by the university of the findings and penalty proposed by the Committee on Infractions. Upon notification of the committee's findings and penalty, the former head coach appealed those matters involving him to the NCAA Council but recently withdrew the appeal without acknowledging culpability in the case.

"The Committee on Infractions considered several of the violations in this case by two former basketball staff members at the university to be quite serious," said Frank J. Remington, chair, Committee on Infractions.

"The committee was particularly disturbed by the efforts of the former head coach and one former assistant coach to subvert the enforcement process by providing false and misleading information to university officials and the NCAA, as well as by their attempts to influence other principals in the case to do the same. The committee wishes to make it clear," said Remington, "that such conduct will not be tolerated by the NCAA."

"In addition," Remington noted, "the committee was concerned that certain violations in the case indicated a lack of attention to NCAA regulations. The penalty, therefore, included a requirement for written reports by the university and an in-person review of the university's athletics policies and procedures by NCAA staff members to ensure that adequate measures are taken to avoid future infractions."

The committee found violations involving ethical conduct, improper benefits to enrolled student-athletes, automobile transportation, out-of-season basketball practice and tryouts.

Penalty to be imposed upon institution

1. Idaho State University shall be publicly reprimanded and censured, and placed on probation for a period of two years, effective June 19, 1985, it being understood that should any portion of the penalty in this case be set aside for any reason other than by appropriate action of the Association, the penalty shall be reconsidered by the Committee on Infractions.
2. The university's intercollegiate men's basketball team shall end its 1985-86 basketball season with the playing of its last regularly scheduled, in-season contest, and the team shall not be eligible to participate in the Division I Men's Basketball Championship or any other postseason competition.
3. During the 1985-86 basketball season, the university's intercollegiate men's basketball team shall not be eligible to appear on any television series or program subject to the administration or control of this Association or any other television programs involving "live" coverage.

4. The university shall submit a written report to William B. Hunt at the NCAA national office prior to or on June 19, 1986, as well as June 19, 1987, that shall identify the corrective actions taken by the university during the applicable 12-month period to ensure adequate administrative controls over the athletics department with specific emphasis on the men's basketball program; further, prior to the expiration of the probationary period in this case, the NCAA shall conduct an in-person review of the university's athletics policies and practices.

5. In accordance with the "show-cause" provision of the NCAA penalty structure, the university was required to disassociate its men's head basketball coach from the university's intercollegiate athletics program.

Summary of violations of NCAA legislation

1. NCAA Constitution 3-6-(a) [ethical conduct] (a) The former men's head basketball coach acted contrary to the principles of ethical conduct, inasmuch as he did not, on all occasions, deport himself in accordance with the generally recognized high standards normally associated with the conduct and administration of intercollegiate athletics in that his involvement in and knowledge of certain of the violations set forth in this report demonstrate a knowing and willful effort on his part to operate the university's intercollegiate men's basketball program contrary to NCAA legislation; further, the former head coach knowingly provided false and misleading information to the NCAA and the university concerning his involvement in and knowledge of five violations listed in this report; further, on several occasions during the spring semester of the 1983-84 academic year, the former head coach directly or indirectly instructed at least four principals in the case to report false information when contacted by the NCAA about these matters, and (b) a former assistant basketball coach acted contrary to the principles of ethical conduct inasmuch as he did not, on all occasions, deport himself in accordance with the generally recognized high standards normally associated with the conduct and administration of intercollegiate athletics in that his involvement in and knowledge of the violations set forth in this report demonstrate a knowing and willful effort on his part to operate the university's intercollegiate men's basketball program contrary to NCAA legislation; further, the former assistant coach knowingly provided false and misleading information to the NCAA and the university concerning his involvement in and knowledge of six violations listed in this report, and finally, during the spring semester of the 1983-84 academic year, the former assistant coach, following instructions from the former head coach, instructed a prospective student-athlete to report false information when contacted by the NCAA about these matters.

2. NCAA Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(1) [recruiting inducements]—(a) On or about April 12, 1982, while recruiting a prospective student-athlete, a then assistant basketball coach loaned the young man $250 to pay an overdue telephone bill; further, this loan was not repaid, and finally, the then head basketball coach was aware of this loan; (b) during the summer of 1982, while recruiting a prospective student-athlete, a then assistant basketball coach arranged for the prospect to be provided a new pair of basketball shoes and for the young man's junior college coach to receive cash in three transactions totaling approximately $1,000 in order to pay personal debts accumulated by the prospect; further, the then head basketball coach was aware of these arrangements; (c) prior to the fall semester of the 1982-83 academic year, the then head basketball coach gave two prospects approximately $300 each under the guise of compensation for approximately eight hours of yardwork; (d) prior to the fall semester of the 1982-83 academic year, the then head basketball coach gave a prospect approximately $80 under the guise of compensation for approximately four hours of yardwork; (e) on several occasions in April 1982, while recruiting a prospective student-athlete, a then assistant basketball coach provided the cost-free use of a rental automobile to the young man for his personal transportation needs, and (f) on or about April 4, 1982, during the official paid visit to the university's campus of two prospective student-athletes, a then member of the university's men's basketball coaching staff purchased, or provided the cash necessary to purchase, a pullover sweatshirt and an orange T-shirt for the young men while escorting them through the university's bookstore.

3. NCAA Bylaws 1-6-(a) and 3-4-(b) [tryouts and postseason basketball practice]—During the spring semester of the 1981-82 and 1982-83 academic years, through the arrangements of the then head basketball coach and a then assistant basketball coach, numerous prospective student-athletes making their official paid visits to the university participated in basketball workouts with members of the university's intercollegiate men's basketball team; further, on numerous occasions, at least one of these coaches observed the workouts.

4. NCAA Constitution 3-1-(g)-(5) and Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(1) [extra benefits and recruiting inducements]—(a) On one occasion during the summer of 1983, while recruiting a prospective student-athlete, a then assistant basketball coach gave numerous articles of clothing and several pairs of athletics shoes to two student-athletes with instructions to provide several of the items to the prospect; (b) on one occasion during the summer of 1983, a then assistant basketball coach transported two student-athletes round trip between one of the student-athlete's homes and a local restaurant, where the then assistant coach entertained the young men for a meal at no cost to them, and (c) on one occasion during August 1983, a then assistant basketball coach provided one-way, local automobile transportation from the Pocatello, Idaho, airport to the university's campus to a student-athlete in order for the young man to attend classes at the university.

5. NCAA Bylaws 1-8-(g), 1-8-(j) and 1-8-(l) [recruiting]—(a) On or about May 14, 1982, a representative of the university's athletics interests transported two prospects round trip between one prospect's home and a local restaurant, where the representative entertained the young men for a meal; further, a then assistant basketball coach accompanied the representative and the prospects on this occasion; (b) on one occasion during April 1982, a then assistant basketball coach provided local automobile transportation to a prospect at no cost to him, and (c) on one occasion during August 1983, a then assistant basketball coach provided a prospect one-way automobile transportation from the Salt Lake City, Utah, airport to the then assistant coach's home in Pocatello, Idaho, where the young man was provided lodging for one night and entertainment for at least one meal at no cost to him; further, the following day, the then assistant coach transported the young man to the university to enroll and attend classes.

6. NCAA Constitution 3-1-(g)-(5) and Bylaw 1-8-(g) [extra benefits and recruiting] (a) On one occasion during August 1983, a then assistant basketball coach provided a prospect and a student-athlete one-way automobile transportation from the Salt Lake City, Utah, airport to the university's campus in order for the young man to begin classes at the university, and (b) in August 1982, the then head basketball coach and a then assistant basketball coach provided one-way, local automobile transportation for several prospects to travel from the Pocatello, Idaho, airport to various dormitories on the university's campus in order to enroll and attend classes.

7. NCAA Bylaws 1-1-(b)-(1) and 1-8-(j) [recruiting inducements and improper transportation]—During the summer of 1982, the then head basketball coach and a then assistant basketball coach provided local automobile transportation to two prospects in the home town of the young men and also purchased a pair of canvas tennis shoes for one of the prospects.

8. NCAA Bylaw 1-8-(h) [improper transportation]—On several occasions during August 1982, a then assistant basketball coach (the then head basketball coach on one occasion) provided three prospects round-trip automobile transportation between the university's campus and a nearby business, where the young men were employed.

9. NCAA Bylaw 1-8-(j)-(4) [recruiting]—On or about October 6, 1983, during the official paid visit to the university's campus of a prospective student-athlete, a then assistant basketball coach provided the use of an automobile for a student-athlete to transport the prospect during the visit.

10. NCAA Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(5) [recruiting contacts]—On one occasion in February or March 1983, a then assistant basketball coach contacted a prospect in person, off campus at a time when such contacts were not permissible.

11. NCAA Bylaw 3-6-(d)-(4) [erroneous certifications of compliance]—With full knowledge at the time that certain practices of the university's intercollegiate basketball program were not in compliance with NCAA legislation, the then head basketball coach and a then assistant basketball coach attested on August 16, 1982, and August 23, 1983, respectively, on statements filed with the chief executive officer of the university that they had reported to the chief executive officer their knowledge of and involvement in any violations of NCAA legislation involving the university.

Legislative Assistance

1985 Column No. 27

Academic reporting—Convention Proposal No. 2

At the recent NCAA special Convention, Proposal No. 2 (as amended by Proposal No. 2—1) was adopted, effective August 1, 1986, to establish an academic reporting program that will require Division I member institutions to report annually information concerning freshmen, compliance with continuing eligibility requirements, and graduation rates for recruited student-athletes and students generally to the Association in order to be eligible for NCAA championships competition. A member institution's chief executive officer shall provide the required information annually on a form approved by the NCAA Council, and the completed form must be received at the NCAA national office by mail or wired transmission not later than October 1 (any form received after that date shall be postmarked not later than September 23).

Sub-paragraphs (1) through (5) of Proposal No. 2 set forth the information that is to be supplied to the national office on the approved form. The first forms will be filed in the fall of 1986. The information required in sub-paragraph (1) will be based upon the 1985-86 academic year. The information required in sub-paragraph (2) will concern student-athletes who first enter the member institution in the fall of 1985. Sub-paragraph (3), as amended, will relate to the student-athletes who competed for the institution during the 1984-85 academic year and will require the institution to report the status of those student-athletes for the 1985-86 academic year. The information required in sub-paragraphs (4) and (5) will be based upon the graduation rates and degree programs for students who began full-time attendance at the institution during the 1981-82 academic year. The Council will develop the forms and mail them to Division I members in the summer of 1986.

Countable players—Bylaw 6-4-(d)

As Divisions I and II member institutions calculate the maximum-awards limitations for each sport for the 1985-86 academic year, it is important to note that the NCAA Council has determined that income earned through employment in an institution's athletics department or on athletics facilities is countable financial aid per Bylaw 6-3 and O.I. 600 and that Bylaw 6-4-(d) cannot be used to exempt a recruited student-athlete who is receiving such aid from counting toward the financial aid limitations. This is the case regardless of the source of funds (e.g., work-study program) or the office or department hiring or paying the student-athlete (e.g., financial aid or physical plant offices), inasmuch as such arrangements, regardless of the involvement of the institution's athletics department personnel, cannot be considered as unrelated to the student-athlete's athletics involvement or ability.

High school all-star football and basketball contests

Contact and evaluation

Divisions I and II member institutions are reminded that Bylaw 1-2-(e) prohibits in-person contacts by members of the coaching staff of a member institution on or off its campus with a prospective student-athlete at the site of practice or competition for a high school all-star game outside the permissible contact periods for football [per Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(4)] and basketball [per Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(5)]. In addition, off-campus scouting activities involving student-athletes shall be restricted to the permissible periods for off-campus, in-person recruiting contacts in that sport with the following exceptions: Such scouting activities also shall be permissible in basketball during the period between June 15 and August 1 and the period between the prospective student-athlete's initial and final high school or junior college contest; scouting activities are permissible in football during the period between August 1 and December 1 (or the prospective student-athlete's final high school or junior college contest), as well as the month of May. These limitations do not become applicable until August 1, 1985, to the recruitment of prospective student-athletes being recruited to participate on a Division II member institution's women's basketball team.

NCAA tells Federal panel it wants crackdown on gambling

John R. Davis, NCAA president, has told the President's Commission on Organized Crime that the Association will give its full support to Federal or state legislative efforts to ban any form of gambling on intercollegiate sports events.

Davis testified before the commission June 25 (The NCAA News, July 3), and he said the NCAA intends to develop a model state bill that would prohibit wagering on amateur sports events, although the Association's preference would be for passage of a Federal law.

Following is a complete text of Davis' statement to the commission:

I appear before the Commission today to draw your attention to one of the most serious problems affecting the integrity of intercollegiate athletics programs in the 1980s—the individual and combined threat of drugs and gambling to the programs of our members and to the 270,000 student-athletes currently participating in those programs under the auspices of the NCAA.

Two months ago, hard on the heels of [allegations of another] point-shaving scandal involving intercollegiate basketball, the governing NCAA Council unanimously adopted the following statement:

"The ominous combination of point-shaving (or game-fixing) and use of drugs by student-athletes has come into full view. The potential for the destruction of intercollegiate athletics' integrity from either already has been recognized. Their combination more than doubles that threat. The honesty of competition, in the public's eye, probably is more important than even the integrity of an academic record or the financial aid rules of the institution."

The tragic social problem involved in the availability to the nation's young people, including college students, of marijuana, cocaine, heroin and numerous other illicit drugs is, of course, well-documented. Students engaged in intercollegiate athletics are by no means insulated from the problem, but as noted by the NCAA Council, the problem is exacerbated in intercollegiate athletics by the pressures and influences, often involving drugs, of those who would bet on, or affect the outcome of for betting purposes, college games.

It thus will not come as any surprise to the Commission to learn that the NCAA is flatly opposed to any form of gambling on intercollegiate sports events and will support any legislative effort—Federal or state—that would make such practice illegal or otherwise would impede the opportunity to gamble on the outcome of such events.

The NCAA has taken a strong antigambling position because of the particular vulnerability of intercollegiate sports programs and their young participants to the undesirable side effects of gambling. Gambling on intercollegiate athletics contests clearly is inconsistent with fundamental concepts of amateurism in sports and raised questions whether college sports conducted in such an atmosphere remain valid education programs.

Gambling increases the pressures and responsibilities already placed on college athletes by adding—to the already-existing academic and competitive pressures—the pressures of defending themselves against harassment by gamblers seeking to gain an "edge" from "inside information" and against improper attempts to influence the outcome of the events in which they participate. Further, where gambling exists, suspicions about the integrity of the competition inevitably arise.

For its part, the NCAA has adopted rules and regulations governing intercollegiate competition in order to maintain such competition within reasonable educational boundaries and control and to prevent the exploitation of the competition and the participants therein. Included are specific rules aimed at destroying or minimizing the opportunities for organized gambling on intercollegiate athletics events. In addition, the membership of the NCAA adopted an overall policy concerning gambling, which sets forth recommended actions to be undertaken by member institutions to combat the menace presented by gambling and the bribery that often accompanies sports betting, as gamblers attempt to eliminate or minimize their risks.

Tampering with intercollegiate sports events is not a "victimless" crime. Its victims include:

- The student-athletes directly involved;
- Other student-athletes who may be subjected to pressures from gambling interests or whose honesty may be called into question when their efforts appear to be responsible for a failure to "beat the spread";
- All participants in intercollegiate programs, the value of which may be questioned if tainted by an association with gambling; and
- The colleges and universities whose reputations for integrity may be affected.

Dramatic current evidence of the impact of gambling on an institution itself can be found in the recent decision of Tulane University to drop intercollegiate basketball in the wake of a point-shaving investigation.

In 1976, the President's Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling reported that "in terms of gross volume of betting, sports wagering is today the No. 1 form of illegal gambling in the United States." The NCAA is not aware of any data to suggest that this statement is any less true in 1985.

Although the commission's report does not distinguish between the volume of illegal betting on professional or amateur contests, it unfortunately is safe to assume that betting on college football and basketball—betting information on which is widely and regularly published by professional gamblers and indeed some of the nation's largest and most prestigious newspapers—annually involves hundreds of millions of dollars.

Notably, the president's commission on gambling in its final report took a vigorous stand in opposition to gambling on amateur events:

"...the commission strongly recommends that there be an absolute prohibition against the inclusion of wagering on amateur sporting events in legalization [of gambling which might occur]. While the commission recognizes that some amateur events already are the objects of illegal wagering nationwide, it cannot condone the utilization for wagering purposes of educational institutions and similar organizations dedicated to the improvement of youth.

"This opinion is in part predicated on the fact that young athletes of high school and college age are far more impressionable and therefore are in greater danger of being subject to the temptations of player corruption. Additionally, unlike professional sports college contest by bribery.

To be frank, we at the NCAA have no "hard" information that there is a direct link between organized crime, on the one hand, and drugs and gambling on the college scene, on the other, but from our conversations with Federal law enforcement authorities, we believe this simply is a probability that cannot be ignored. What we do know is that legal and illegal gambling and the illegal distribution of drugs, both separately and combined, threaten to destroy the integrity of major college sports programs and threaten the well-being of the young men and women who are involved in those programs.

We at the NCAA believe that the time has come to confront directly the issue of gambling on college and other amateur sports events. We believe that the gambling commission's recommendation in 1976—that gambling on these events be made illegal—should be implemented by Federal legislative action, now. We thus urge this Commission to recommend to the President that he propose legislation to the Congress prohibiting such gambling, whether involving interstate or intrastate activity. You may be assured that we and our members will provide maximum support for any such initiative, and I am absolutely confident that strong support will come from the nation's high school administrators and from other ama-tion to the prohibition—currently existing in the statute, for the news reporting of sporting events—to exclude the transmission of odds or point-spread information relating to intercollegiate athletics contests. Although it is clear that such an amendment would not have the effect of eliminating, in the nation's newspapers, information relating to gambling odds and point spreads, it would have the effect of preventing gambling businesses from supplying such information and would thereby impede, we believe, gambling on intercollegiate sports events.

Quite frankly, were it not for apparent constitutional limitations, the NCAA would favor Federal legislation that prohibited the publication, by the nation's newspapers and other media, of gambling information relating to intercollegiate events.

The NCAA also intends to develop a model state bill prohibiting wagering on amateur sports events. We anticipate that once this bill is drafted, our member institutions—many of which are state-supported institutions—would be in a position to spearhead a legislative effort to gain adoption of the model legislation—although we recognize that implementation of any model legislation is a time-consuming process. As indicated above, our strong preference would be for passage of a Federal law preempting the entire issue.

The commission should be aware that in the past few weeks, representatives of the NCAA have been engaged in intense discussions with both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration to attempt to establish the basis for an increased level of cooperation between those agencies and the NCAA and its members.

Although it is premature to outline fully the major points of this program of cooperation, it is reasonably safe for me to say that both agencies have expressed an enthusiastic willingness to participate in a major expansion of drug-education clinics for college athletics department personnel and for student-athletes engaged in intercollegiate athletics. It also appears likely that the FBI will be willing to extend its already-existing education program concerning the dangers of gambling—currently conducted in cooperation with some of the major professional leagues—to the intercollegiate athletics scene as well.

The objectives of this latter program would be to advise athletics depart-leagues, particularly the NFL, amateur athletic associations do not have enforcement or investigative capabilities which would enable them to maintain sufficient safeguards."

Regrettably, no action has occurred in the ensuing nine years to give any effect to this recommendation of the commission.

The situation now has become even more serious. As noted at the beginning of our statement, the NCAA increasingly is aware that a nexus exists between the introduction of drugs into the collegiate athletics scene and gambling on intercollegiate events, at least in terms of efforts by gamblers to affect the outcome of a teur sports administrators as well.

We also believe that existing Federal antigambling legislation should be amended to permit more effective response to gambling on collegiate contests. This would first involve amending the Federal sports-bribery statute (18 U.S.C. § 224), which relates only to utilization of the facilities of interstate commerce, to cover purely intrastate activities as well, when those intrastate activities relate to intercollegiate athletics competition.

Second, the NCAA proposes that the statute prohibiting the interstate transmission of wagering information by gambling businesses (18 U.S.C. § 1084) be amended to limit the excep-

"PROMOTION OF THE CERTIFIED ATHLETIC TRAINER"

ATHLETIC TRAINING SERVICES, INC. is a professional consulting and recruiting corporation for certified athletic trainers in high schools, colleges, universities, professional athletics, sports medicine clinics, industry, and hospitals. The corporation is headed by Kenneth W. Kopke, A.T.C., Director of Sports Medicine, and Ronald A. Sendre, A.T.C., Curriculum Director of Sports Medicine at Central Michigan University.

A.T.S., Inc. has developed the ATHLETIC TRAINER NATIONAL REGISTRY to assist employers in their search for certified athletic trainers. The registry offers employers the opportunity of advertising their job opening directly to a nationwide network of job seekers. Depending upon an employer's time considerations, financial pressures, or other concerns, the employer has the option to advertise his job opening in the JOB OPPORTUNITY BULLETIN. The bulletin is circulated every month to all certified athletic trainers who are members of the National Registry. The employer's second option is to use A.T.S.'s COMPUTER DATA-BASE RECRUITMENT SERVICE.

As a professional consulting firm, A.T.S. offers the complete analysis, needs assessment, and final implementation of programs, establishing hospital-based sports medicine clinics or in-house rehabilitation centers for universities, colleges and corporations.

So, if you're an employer with a job opening for a certified athletic trainer, or you are a certified athletic trainer looking for a job, let the Athletic Trainer National Registry assist you.

13 with perfect GPAs selected to academic all-America team

Thirteen student-athletes with perfect grade-point averages were among the 123 named to the men's and women's university and college at-large academic all-America teams by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA).

The at-large teams are composed of student-athletes in sports other than football, men's basketball, women's basketball, baseball, women's softball and women's volleyball—sports for which CoSIDA has separate academic all-America teams.

Pennsylvania swimmer Tom Peres, a chemical engineering major who received no grade lower than an A during his academic career, had the most votes in the men's university division. Peres' GPA was matched by university-division first-team selections Scott Claycomb, Northeast Louisiana; Tom Essman, Drake; and Vince Hughes, Montana.

Oregon's Kathy Hayes, who received the most votes among women's university-division members was named to the first team for the third consecutive year. An outstanding performer in both track and cross country, Hayes has held the collegiate records in the 3,000-, 5,000- and 10,000-meter events.

Joining Hayes were three student-athletes with 4.000 grade-point averages—Jody Coble, North Carolina State; Sharon Leidy, Southern Florida; and Michele Sheskin, American. On the women's college division first team, Lynne Robertson, Augustana (Illinois), boasted a perfect GPA.

Illinois Wesleyan track performer J. C. Anderson compiled a perfect GPA and was named to the men's college-division first team, along with Clifford J. Eskey, MIT, 5.000 (5.000 scale).

Nominees must have maintained a grade-point average of 3.200 or higher and excelled in their particular sports.

Following are the CoSIDA university- and college-division academic all-America teams:

MEN'S UNIVERSITY DIVISION

First team

Bengt Baron, California, swimming, 3.750

grade-point average (4.000 scale) in business administration; Doug Beaman, Northern Michigan, skiing, 3.760 in chemistry; Tony Catlin, Akron, tennis, 3.990 in Spanish/French; Scott Claycomb, Northeast Louisiana, swimming, 4.000 in premedicine; Tom Essman, Drake, tennis, 4.000 in premedicine; Craig Farnsworth, Ball State, track, 3.979 in landscape architecture; Lawrence (Bruce) Hayes, UCLA, swimming, 3.571 in political science; Vince Hughes, Montana, wrestling, 4.000 in computer science/economics; Tom Peres, Pennsylvania, swimming, 4.000 in chemical engineering; Robert Playter, Ohio State, gymnastics, 3.830 in aeronautical engineering.

Second team

Scott Bortoff, Syracuse, track/cross country, 3.900 in electrical engineering; Dave Brown, Old Dominion, swimming, 3.910 in chemistry; David Herak, Delaware, tennis, 3.919 in chemical engineering; Ken McDonald, Central Michigan, soccer, 3.830 in journalism-broadcast/cinematic arts; David Mirth, Ohio, cross country, 3.852 in mechanical engineering; Pablo Morales, Stanford, swimming, 3.200 in English; John Rogerson, Florida, track, 3.940 in history; Jim Sapienza, Dartmouth, track/cross country, 3.410 in English; Christopher Terreri, Providence, ice hockey, 3.300 in business management; Asbjorn Volstad, UCLA, volleyball, 3.789 in engineering.

Third team

Todd Anderson, Duke, golf, 3.500 in economics; Gerard Averill, Wisconsin, soccer, 3.885 in civil-environmental engineering; Peter Bouton, Illinois, tennis, 4.880 (5.000 scale) in engineering mechanics; Keith Hanson, Marquette, track, 3.700 in business administration/finance; Mark Kasevich, Dartmouth, swimming, 3.740 in physics; John Krug, Notre Dame, wrestling, 3.796 in mechanical engineering; Sean O'Neill, Villanova, track, 3.630 in business; Joey Seivold, North Carolina, lacrosse, 3.803 in history; Paul Tarricone, American, soccer, 3.750 in computer systems.

MEN'S COLLEGE DIVISION

First team

J. C. Anderson, Illinois Wesleyan, track, 4.000 in biology (premedicine); Mark Beaman, Brandeis, cross country, 3.470 in psychology; Barry Bohlman, Central Missouri State, track, 3.950 in computer science; Jens Caap, Mercyhurst, tennis, 3.920 in computer management/international business; James Drougas, Case Reserve, tennis, 3.870 in chemistry/history; Clifford J. Eskey, MIT, rifle, 5.000 (5.000 scale) in chemical engineering; Pat Parris, MIT, track, 4.700 (5.000 scale) in electrical engineering/physics; Eric Poullain, Tufts, track, 3.820 in electrical engineering; Andrew Renshaw, MIT, swimming, 4.800 (5.000 scale) in biology/nutrition; Prody Ververeli, Ursinus, wrestling, 3.960 in biology (premedicine).

Second team

Brian Goldsworthy, Central Iowa, golf, 3.490 in business management; Jamie Goodberlet, Bates, track, 3.650 in physics; Michael Graner, Illinois College, track, 3.957 in English/biology; Joel Hutcheson, Hampden Sydney, golf, 3.898 in chemistry; Mike Morkin, Augustana (Illinois), nois), tennis, 3.590 in physics/mathematics/computer science; Todd Olsen, Slippery Rock, soccer, 4.000 in sports management; Michael Short, Carnegie-Mellon, track, 3.650 in biology; Duane Snavey, Elizabethtown, soccer, 3.970 in mathematics; Keith Walcutt, Baldwin-Wallace, track, 3.960 in business administration; Mike Waters, Baldwin-Wallace, soccer, 3.925 in chemistry.

Bengt Baron

Third team

Robert Aunan, Michigan Tech, cross country, 3.860 in civil engineering; Jeffrey Dixon, Washington & Lee, wrestling, 3.765 in chemistry/biology/physics; Bob Dunphy, North Central, cross country, 3.410 in marketing; Paul Junck, Ferris State, wrestling, 3.450 in social services; Jeff Leonard, Tampa, golf, 3.864 in business; Jeff Neubauer, Western Washington, track, 3.720 in psychology/physical education; Terence O'Rourke, Moravian, cross country, 3.950 in biology (premedicine); Robert Rapp, High Point, soccer, 3.569 in business/accounting; Kirk Simon, Cal Poly-SLO, swimming, 3.460 in computer science; Roy Triveline, Augustana (Illinois), wrestling, 3.620 in biology; Ed Vanderkaait, Harding, track, 3.850 in mathematics/computer science.

WOMEN'S UNIVERSITY DIVISION

First team

Jane Ashton, Villanova, cross country, 3.990 in honors; Jody Coble, North Carolina State, rifle, 4.000 in animal science; Megan Donnelly, Massachusetts, field hockey, 3.940 in anthropology; Alison Farrance, Delaware, track, 3.950 in economics/English literature; Andrea Fischer, Missouri, cross country, 3.970 in biology (premedicine); Kathy Hayes, Oregon, track/cross country, 3.850 in biology; Joanne Kehs, Villanova, track, 3.870 in English; Sharon Leidy, Southern Illinois, track/field hockey, 4.000 in business administration; Wendy Markham, Florida State, track, 3.940 in dietetics; Michele Sheskin, American, tennis, 4.000 in finance/computer science.

Second team

Nicole Ali, Nebraska, track, 3.560 in economics; Kellie Allison, West Texas State, rifle, 3.960 in mathematics/physics; Sandra Beth Goeking, Texas A&M, swimming, 4.000 in bioengineering; Beth Huber, North Carolina, soccer, 3.710 in biology; Amanda Martin, Southern Illinois, swimming, 3.640 in business; Debbie Risen, Texas, swimming, 3.640 in business; Sue Schroeder, Michigan, track/cross country, 3.920 in German; Kayla Skelly, Western Michigan, track/cross country, 3.940 in premedicine; Brynette Smith, Prairie View A&M, track/cross country, 3.890 in electrical engineering; Laura Lynn Thomas, Georgia, swimming, 3.930 in accounting.

Third team

Tracy Barrett, Wisconsin, swimming, 3.700 in physical therapy; Sheila Cunneen, William & Mary, field hockey, 3.850 in English; Carol Galloway, Connecticut, track, 3.750 in sports medicine; Gen Greiwe, Texas, tennis, 3.360 in communications; Julie LaBonte, U.S. International, tennis, 3.950 in civil engineering; Gretchen Orr, Brown, soccer, 3.600 in biology; Siobhan Riley, North Carolina-Charlotte, tennis, 4.000 in nursing; Sheila Terranova, Brown, field hockey, 3.850 in mechanical engineering; Cindy Tuttle, California, swimming, 3.470 in sociology; Michelle Zupancic, Toledo, cross country, 3.960 in marketing.

Controlling coaches' income poses major sports problem, Doland says

The most important problem in collegiate sports, according to one president, is the lack of control a school has over the income of some coaches, which he says undermines the entire concept of college athletics.

"We must set up some guidelines in the NCAA to control our staffs or we will not be able to control the actions of the student-athletes," said Jack V. Doland, president of McNeese State University and a member of the NCAA Council.

Doland told the Associated Press that "in all but a few cases—like Bear Bryant and John Wooden and maybe right now Bobby Knight—the institution is the reason a coach is famous. If they changed coaches at Oklahoma or Ohio State or Notre Dame next week, the new coach would become famous.

"In academics, there's hardly a professor who can make more than 15, 20, 25 percent of his salary on the side without being called in, but coaches have carte blanche to do whatever they want. Yet we're supposed to be educational institutions with salaries in the $70,000-$80,000 range. If we're to control the student-athletes, we ought to control the high rollers.

"The chief executive officer and the board of trustees have to decide what these people are worth. And you rather hope a coach has integrity because he has no reason to. His perks are uncontrolled.... We've got to come to the realization that we don't have to pay anything extra to a player or a coach."

One of Doland's major gripes is the coach who "gets a stipend to endorse a product (i.e., athletics shoes) and the school gets the product free. That's pure bribery, in my opinion."

Doland cited the following points as "the crux of the problem":

- "Salary—Must be no higher than that of vice presidents or deans of the university. It must be a 12-month contract, as is the case with most administrators at an institution.

- "Booster or alumni contributions to the coach's salary must be funneled through the institution, as are all other donations for athletics.

- "TV shows involving the institution's contests are the property of the institution, and the coaches narrating the shows cannot be paid more than a total of $1,000 as a talent fee for each show. All profits for the shows are deposited in the regular income of the institution as athletics-related receipts.

- "Endorsements must be cleared through the institution if the name of the institution or any logo belonging to the institution is used. The coach may be paid a reasonable talent fee if approved, but the institution markets the endorsement.

- "Athletics camps may be conducted on a university campus only if the university makes the facilities available at a normal rental cost. Coaches who conduct camps must be on regular vacation time if they collect fees for personal use.

- "The coach will get tickets only for his family use, and all other tickets will be controlled by the institution. Tickets may be used as complimentary only with the name of the individual who uses them listed and with the written consent of the chief executive officer of the institution.

- "All other types of inducements, such as prepaid insurance, investments and other items, must be agreed to by the president and published. The proceeds from alumni or booster investments for the coach must be detailed and approved by the CEO if not considered as part of the salary limit.

- "All automobiles, boats, country club memberships, housing, etc., are listed and approved by the CEO of the institution."

Doland submitted his proposals to the NCAA Council in April, and the Division I Steering Committee voted to study the situation.

"These rules can be written so that no law is violated, and it is within the jurisdiction of the NCAA to limit the salary of coaches," Doland said.

Slingshot "87"

and the ADDED MEASURE PADDING

From the inventor of the first single standard goal post comes slingshot "87" complete with one piece uprights that meet the NCAA requirements of 1987 with additional safety features. 3 models: Pro-College "20" and High School "20".

National introduces "added measure" padding "78" and "84" designed for safety at a price to suit your budget. Added measure padding increases the scope of safety at a decreased cost.

For 1984-85 academic year

Cost of education at public colleges jumped 11 percent

The cost of education at public colleges and universities last year increased 11.1 percent over 1983-84 to an average of $4,522 per student, the National Institute of Education has reported.

The report said students and their families were paying an average of $1,055 per student for tuition, an increase of 6.9 percent over 1983-84. The balance of the average cost, $3,467, was paid by state and local taxpayers. That figure is 12.5 percent higher than the previous year.

Kent Halstead, who wrote the report for the institute, said tuition fees outpaced the inflation rate in the past year because public colleges and universities were trying to reverse the significant loss in purchasing power of faculty salaries in the past 20 years.

Halstead said college faculty members had experienced a 16 percent decline in purchasing power since the early 1970s, while students "are nowhere beginning to pay the full cost of a college education."

The report also showed that public colleges and universities absorbed 8.9 percent of all state and local tax revenue.

$2.1 billion in debt

According to Department of Education figures, 891,066 former college students owe a combined total of $2.1 billion in Federally guaranteed student loans, an average of $2,328 per person.

Next month, the department will begin sending notices to those in arrears, and nonpayment could result in the loss of Federal income tax refunds next year.

South Carolina has the lowest average amount owed at $1,366, while Hawaii is highest at $2,878.

Grades show drop

Good grades at many U.S. colleges and universities appear to be harder to come by even though "the abilities of students and their test scores have continued to rise," according to Harris Olson, associate registrar of the University of Michigan. The average grade-point average at Michigan was 2.940 (4.000 scale) last year, down from 3.020 a decade ago.

Washington State University registrar C. James Quann told USA Today, "Grades are coming down." The average GPA at Washington State in 1983-84 was 2.680, down from 2.840 in 1974-75.

In the California state university system, 29.6 percent of all grades were A's last spring, compared with 31.5 percent 10 years ago.

Texas rule upheld

The Texas Supreme Court has ruled unanimously to uphold the state's no-pass, no-play rule for high school students, stating that students "have no constitutionally protected interests in participation in extracurricular activities."

Under the rule, students who got below 70 in a course during a six-week grading period were not allowed to participate in athletics or any other extracurricular activities during the next grading period.

The rule was implemented in January by the State Board of Education as part of school reform measures adopted by a special session of the legislature.

About 50 parents and students filed suit because of the rule, claiming that it was unconstitutional and deprived students of a right to participate in extracurricular activities and was unequally applied, affecting students who took part in various activities but not penalizing those who failed but took no part in extracurricular activities.

Gov. Mark White said he was pleased with the decision, which he said firmly establishes the priority of academics.

The New York Times quoted Brice B. Durbin, executive director of the National Federation of State High School Associations, as applauding the court's ruling, but he said the no-pass, no-play rule was particularly severe.

"The states and districts should have the right to set standards for students," Durbin said, "but the responsibility should be in the hands of educators and not the legislature."

Durbin said a standard of satisfactory progress toward graduation would be more appropriate than letting a single failing grade bar a student from activities.

Silber makes offer

Boston University has offered to take over the public school system in the city, saying it could operate the system economically and more effectively than the city's school committee.

According to United Press International, John R. Silber, university president, asked the school board to give the university a five-year management contract that would relinquish board control over curriculum, budget, management and personnel.

In a letter to the board, Silber said the reduced enrollment of white students since court-ordered desegregation began a decade ago could be reversed by improving the schools. He said white families had withdrawn their children from public schools not because of integration, but because the system is so inadequate parents will not impose it on their children.

Joseph McDonough, interim school superintendent, said he doubted such a plan would work.

Temporary decline

Public school enrollment in 1983-84 declined by almost 500,000 from the previous year, according to the National Education Association. Total enrollment was 39.2 million, of which about 23.4 million were enrolled in elementary schools and 15.8 million were in secondary schools.

Elsewhere in Education

All but 11 states showed declining enrollments. Most were in the Northeast and Midwest, led by New York with 71,813 fewer students and Michigan with a loss of 57,592.

California (22,500), Florida (10,788) and Texas (9,341) registered the biggest gains.

However, a large crop of toddlers is coming along to reverse the trend in declining enrollments, according to new Census Bureau figures.

Between 1980 and 1984, the school-age population—ages five to 17—fell 5.3 percent, reflecting the so-called "baby bust."

An increase in preschoolers is building, however, as the nation's large postwar, baby-boom generation moves into the childbearing years.

Testing approved

Reversing its previous position, the National Education Association earlier this month voted to support the use of written tests to certify new school teachers as one step toward raising professional standards. However, the NEA remained opposed to the testing of experienced teachers.

Committee recommends increases

Action that could lead to minimum scheduling requirements for Division I women's basketball programs, the development of a format for the 40-team tournament in 1986, and recommendations for 1986 regional dates and sites resulted from the July 7-11 meeting of the NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Committee in Newport, Rhode Island.

The committee voted to ask the NCAA Council to sponsor legislation at the 1986 NCAA Convention to make the minimum scheduling requirements of Bylaw 11-1-(c) applicable to women's basketball.

Such legislation would mean that Division I programs could play not more than four women's basketball games against institutions that are not members of the division, that institutions applying for Division I membership could play no more than two women's basketball games against competition outside the division and that Division I applicants would be required to play at least one-third of their regular-season women's basketball contests in an arena used regularly for the institution's home games.

In other business, the committee developed the following format for the 1986 tournament, which will include 40 teams. Requiring Executive Committee approval, the format calls for a continuation of seeding of the top eight teams nationally in the tournament.

Each of four regions would include first-round games involving the seventh-, eighth-, ninth- and 10th-seeded teams within the regions. Those contests would be played March 12, with second-round games involving the remaining 32 squads to be played March 14, 15 or 16.

The following 1986 regional championship dates and sites will be recommended for Executive Committee approval:

East — University of Pennsylvania, March 20 and 22.

Midwest — University of Iowa, March 21 and 23.

Midwest — University of Texas, Austin, March 21 and 23.

West — California State University, Long Beach, March 20 and 22.

The committee recommended that the following conferences receive automatic qualification for the 1986 tournament:

Atlantic Coast Conference, Atlantic 10 Conference, Big East Conference, Big Ten Conference, Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, Mid-American Athletic Conference, Mountain West Athletic Conference, Northern Pacific Athletic Conference, Ohio Valley Conference, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Southeastern Conference, Southland Conference, Southwest Athletic Conference and Sun Belt Conference.

In other action relating to the 1986 tournament, the committee voted to require institutions submitting proposed budgets for first- and second-round games to guarantee $6,000 in gross ticket sales. The guarantee requirement for the 1985 first and second rounds was $5,000.

The committee also voted to require institutions submitting proposed budgets for regional championships and the final four (beginning with the 1987 tournament) to guarantee 75 percent of the net receipts indicated on those budgets.

The following ticket prices were approved for the 1986 tournament:

First and second rounds — Students, $2 per session; others, $5 per session.

Regionals — Students, $4 per session; others, $6 per session.

Final four — Students, $5 per session; others, $6 per session.

New Orleans named host for 1986 Final Four

The NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee, which met July 7-11 in Newport, Rhode Island, took action regarding sites for 1986 and 1987 regional competition and conducted its annual session with the board of directors of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

The committee approved a request from the University of Arizona to delay that institution's hosting of the West regional tournament one year, to 1987, and selected California State University, Long Beach, as 1986 host for the West region.

The committee named the University of New Orleans as host institution for the 1986 Final Four, noting that Tulane University had withdrawn its request to serve as host.

The following 1987 first-round,

More three-point shot tests needed

More Division I men's basketball programs are needed for three-point field-goal experimentation during the 1985-86 season, according to Edward S. Steitz, secretary-rules editor of the NCAA Men's Basketball Rules Committee.

"We already have received requests to experiment from some programs in Divisions II and III," said Steitz, "but we need more programs from Division I willing to experiment and generate data for the committee's review."

Other experimentation authorized second-round and regional sites will be forwarded to the NCAA Executive Committee for approval:

East: First and second rounds — Charlotte Coliseum, Charlotte, North Carolina, and Carrier Dome, Syracuse, New York. Region championship — Meadowlands Arena, East Rutherford, New Jersey.

Southeast: First and second rounds — Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center, Birmingham, Alabama, and the Omni, Atlanta, Georgia. Region championship — Freedom Hall, Louisville, Kentucky.

Midwest: First and second rounds — Hoosier Dome, Indianapolis, Indiana, and Rosemont Horizon, Chicago, Illinois. Region championship — Riverfront Coliseum, Cincinnati, Ohio.

for the 1985-86 season includes use of a backboard that eliminates the bottom six inches of glass and use of a rear-boundary arc that will decrease the area of the front court.

Institutions and conferences interested in obtaining permission to participate in any of the experiments should contact Jerry V. Krause, who chairs the committee's experimentation subcommittee, at Eastern Washington University, Cheney, Washington.

Division II seeks 17 automatic-qualifying berths

Meeting July 7-11 in South Lake Tahoe, California, the NCAA Division II Men's Basketball Committee recommended an increase in the number of automatic-qualification berths for the 1986 tournament.

After reviewing applications from conferences interested in receiving automatic qualification, the committee voted to request 17 berths involving 15 conferences. The recommendation will be considered by the NCAA Executive Committee in August.

Conferences that would receive first-time automatic qualifications include the Lone Star Conference, the Mason-Dixon Athletic Conference and the Mideast Collegiate Conference. The Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference would receive two automatic play-off berths. The Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association already is awarded two automatic West: First and second rounds — The University of Arizona and the University of Utah. Region championship — Kingdome, Seattle, Washington.

The committee received support from NABC for the 64-team tournament, first played in 1985.

The coaches group also indicated that its membership does not believe there was a problem with the policy of permitting some teams to play first- and second-round games on home courts. The committee had received similar information from NABC before adopting that policy in 1985.

In other business, the committee noted that 1985 Final Four participants were paid $751,899 each, region finalists $601,519, region semifinalists $451,139, second-round participants $300,760 and first-round participants $150,380. The total amount returned to participating institutions exceeded $18.6 million. Victor A. Bubas, committee chair and commissioner of the Sun Belt Conference, said, "I believe many people have the misconception that only those 64 teams that participate in the Division I tournament benefit financially from that participation. In reality, many of those institutions are members of conferences, and each conference has some type of revenue-sharing program that permits the tournament disbursements to be utilized by a great majority of Division I basketball-playing institutions.

"It is estimated that over 200 of the 282 institutions that indicated sponsorship of Division I basketball programs during 1984-85 shared in the tournament's receipts.

"In the Sun Belt Conference, for example, I saw eight teams benefit financially from the 1985 tournament through the appearances of Virginia Commonwealth and Alabama-Birmingham. So, I believe one must consider the total financial impact of this tournament when discussing or reviewing its financial summaries."

The committee took action regarding automatic qualification for the 1986 tournament, recommending that the newly formed Colonial Athletic Conference receive a berth.

The Colonial Conference formerly was the ECAC South; and due to the change, the committee voted to reduce ECAC automatic qualifications to two.

The committee voted to support the concept of a national basketball officiating certification system that has been forwarded to the Executive Committee by the NCAA Special Committee on Basketball Officiating. A complete report on the special committee proposal appeared in the July 3, 1985, issue of The NCAA News.

Intercollegiate Athletic Association and Sunshine State Conference.

The committee also:

- Recommended that institutions interested in serving as hosts for regional and/or quarterfinal competition in the tournament be required to guarantee 75 percent of the net profits listed on their proposed budget forms;

- Approved the following increases in ticket prices for the 1986 tournament: At quarterfinal sites that use reserved seating, reserved seats increase from $5 to $6 and general admission from $4 to $5. At quarterfinal sites without reserved seating, all seats increase from $4 to $5. Student tickets also will increase, from $2.50 to $3;

- Agreed to continue to assign Division I officials to Division II tournament games and agreed to encourage open communications between Division I conferences and Division II conferences that assign officials in regards to ratings of officials who work games in both divisions. The committee hopes to provide an opportunity for officials who work Division II contests throughout the regular season to be assigned to postseason play-off games.

- Voted to resume playing a third-place game at the site of the championship finals beginning in 1987.

Division II women's minimum boosted to 22

An increase in minimum scheduling requirements as a criterion for selection to the Division II Women's Basketball Championship has been recommended by the Division II Women's Basketball Committee.

The committee, meeting July 8-11 in Tahoe City, California, recommended that Division II programs be required to play a minimum of 22 contests against domestic, four-year, degree-granting institutions, with at least 18 of those 22 games being played against NCAA Division I or Division II teams, effective with the 1986-87 season.

In addition, the committee recommended an interpretation of a requirement that excludes games against National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) member institutions from being counted toward the season minimum of 14 games against Divisions I or II teams.

"It was the sense of the committee that only NCAA member institutions' basketball programs should be counted against the minimum re-

Regional site selection set for September 9

At its July 7-11 meeting in Newport, Rhode Island, the NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Committee voted to conduct regional site selection for the 1987 tournament during its September 9, 1985, conference call.

"Because of the committee's decision to select 1987 regional sites in less than eight weeks, it is imperative that institutions interested in hosting a regional submit proposed budgets to the NCAA national office no later than August 26," said Patricia E. Bork, the Association's director of women's championships.

Forms and additional information may be obtained by contacting Bork at the national office.

quirements," said Pamela L. Gill, director of women's athletics at the University of California, Davis, and chair of the committee. "The committee always has interpreted the minimum-scheduling requirements in this manner, but we felt it was necessary to reaffirm our position and seek Executive Committee approval of that interpretation."

The committee recommended granting automatic qualification for the 1986 tournament to the following conferences: California Collegiate Athletic Association, Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Continental Divide Conference, Empire State Conference, Great Lakes Valley Conference, Gulf South Conference, Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association, New England Collegiate Conference, North Central Intercol-

Springfield, Massachusetts, was recommended as the site for Division II men's and women's common-site championships in 1987, 1988 and 1989. The committee also recommended that institutions interested in hosting Division II tournament competition be required to guarantee 75 percent of their projected net receipts, beginning with the 1986 tournament.

The Division II Women's Basketball Committee voted to change the starting times of the championships semifinals and finals. Semifinal games Thursday and Friday night would be played at 6:05 p.m., and the championship game Saturday night would begin at 8:35 p.m.

As part of this program, the NCAA Council intends to propose an amendment to current NCAA legislation, to be considered next January, that would require institutional staff members and student-athletes to cooperate fully with the NCAA and institutional representatives administering investigations that involve gambling and sports bribery, drug distribution or drug use that allegedly involve intercollegiate athletics. Failure to cooperate in this regard would result in a particular individual being found in violation of the NCAA principles of ethical conduct, and therefore subject to disciplinary action for staff members and loss of eligibility for student-athletes.

We also contemplate adopting an internal operating procedure directing each of our staff investigators to include, in an investigation of an alleged violation of our rules, an inquiry concerning possible gambling activities, and the establishment of an experimental "hot line" to encourage the reporting of illegal gambling or bribery information related to intercollegiate athletics.

At the next NCAA Convention, legislation will be proposed to provide for drug testing of participants in bowl contests and NCAA championship events. We hope to begin implementation of this program in the 1986-87 academic year. We expect, moreover, to seek assistance from the Federal authorities in obtaining new legislation or regulations restricting the distribution of anabolic steroids except pursuant to a physician's prescription for the purpose of enhancing the health of a patient, excluding the improvement of athletic performance.

We very much appreciate the opportunity to appear before the Commission and strongly urge that the commission give serious consideration to support of the legislative and other initiatives that I have just discussed. We are, moreover, fully prepared to cooperate with the commission in developing additional information concerning criminal activities related to either gambling or drugs on the college scene, and we welcome the opportunity to work with your staff in this respect.

Track committee proposes four-day championships format

New javelin specifications and a four-day championships format were among the changes made by the NCAA Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee in June at Big Fork, Montana.

The committee also adopted the point-first landing for the javelin, and the Divisions II and III subcommittees eliminated many of the qualifying rounds in field events at their championships.

Although there was no significant support for the "new" javelin, which is designed to reduce the distances it can be thrown by the top performers in the event, the committee approved use of the redesigned implement to put intercollegiate track and field in step with international competition.

"There were some strong feelings that the new javelin has been designed for a handful of international performers who no longer could compete in the traditional stadia because of the distances they were throwing," said John Mitchell, secretary-rules editor for the NCAA committee.

"I think the committee felt it had no choice but to approve the new javelin because not to would have put NCAA athletes at a disadvantage when they compete in a TAC (The Athletics Congress) meet," Mitchell said.

It is anticipated that the new javelin actually may improve the performances of many athletes who have had trouble controlling the flight of the implement.

Additionally, the committee voted to measure only javelin throws when the point lands first. Although the point-first landing has been the rule internationally for some years, intercollegiate track and field has been conducted under a rule that accepted any javelin landing so long as it was within the sector.

Among several recommendations the committee will make to the NCAA Executive Committee regarding championships is a decision to combine multiple-event and open competition and reduce the number of days needed

'85 football preview ready for ordering

"College Football '85—The Saga Continues," an overview of the coming season, has been distributed to sports information directors at NCAA Division I institutions and is available from the NCAA Library of Films.

The annual NCAA production, which was written and hosted by well-known journalist Dick Schaap, features a review of the top conferences and teams as well as key independents and highlights top returning statistical leaders such as Ohio State tailback Keith Byars and Washington State running back Rueben Mayes.

Action highlights and interviews with several of the nation's top coaches, including one locker-room scene featuring colorful Texas Christian coach Jim Wacker, also are included in the 24½-minute production.

Other segments feature Brigham Young's victory over Michigan in the Holiday Bowl that won the Cougars the mythical national championship and a look at up-and-coming teams such as Virginia, Texas Christian, Boston College and Washington State.

For the third straight year, the show has been distributed on a three-quarter-inch videocassette. NCAA Productions first produced the show in 1977. It has been well-received at booster club meetings and summer camps as well as local television stations.

Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of "College Football '85—The Saga Continues" should contact Cathy K. Bennett, productions coordinator, at the national office.

for NCAA championships from six to four.

"This will be a tremendous help to the Divisions II and III institutions, which will be faced with paying their own transportation expenses next year," said Al Buchler, committee chair. "It also reduces the cost for housing and meals for the Division I institutions."

In Divisions II and III, the multiple events will be conducted on the first two days of the competition. Division I multiple-event competitors probably will spread the competition over all four days, with the men competing on the first two days and the women on the last two.

The Division II subcommittee voted to eliminate qualifying rounds in all field events for both men and women. Competition will begin with preliminary rounds and progress to the finals. Division III voted to eliminate qualifying rounds for all women's field events and for some of the men's events.

Additionally, the final round of competition in field events for NCAA championship meets will be reduced to eight.

Other significant rules changes include:

- Measuring and recording all field event performances metrically. (Only metric measurements will be accepted for qualifying marks into the NCAA outdoor championships.)

- Permitting the use of a centered chevron on the hurdles to assist the contestants in determining the center of the lane.

- Prohibiting the use of metal cross-bars in the high jump and pole vault.

- Charging the clerk of the course with the responsibility of enforcing the uniform and commercial logo rule at the time of check-in. (The committee also added the commercial logo rule to the track and field and cross country rules.)

- Prohibiting the use of a mark to indicate the high jumper's approach within six feet of either standard.

- Prohibiting a pole vaulter from steadying the bar during an attempt.

- Eliminating the need to move athletes from the same institutions to different heats when forming heats for laned races.

- Making the relay substitution rule the same for both indoor and outdoor meets. (In preliminary heats, three of the four contestants that met the qualifying standard must compete. A substitute may be made for the fourth contestant, or for any of the contestants in the finals, for certified medical reasons.)

The Division I subcommittee voted to recommend that the distance medley relay and the 400- and 800-meter events be eliminated from the men's indoor meet and replaced by the 3,200-meter relay, that the events for the men's and women's indoor meet be run back-to-back, and that Louisiana State University be selected as the host institution for the 1987 outdoor championships.

Division II will recommend to the Executive Committee that the outdoor meet return to California State University, Los Angeles, in 1986 and to Southeast Missouri State University in 1987.

Division III will recommend Bethel College (Minnesota) as the host for the indoor meet in 1986 and is still pursuing sites for the 1986 outdoor championships.

The committee voted to recommend Bill McClure, Louisiana State University, as the new committee chair. He also would serve as the Division I subcommittee chair. Ruth Marske, South Dakota State University, was elected Division II subcommittee chair, and Timothy G. Hale, University of Rochester, will be the new Division III chair.

Continued seeding of soccer teams for play-offs advised

Depending upon Executive Committee action in August, there could be some last-minute changes this fall in the championships structure for Divisions I and II men's soccer.

The Men's Soccer Committee has recommended that seeding of teams be continued in Divisions I and II, although both championships continue to be deficit events.

In Division I, the committee is requesting approval to continue its two-year practice of seeding the top four teams at the quarterfinal round. The committee believes that the practice has not increased transportation costs significantly and it assures that the best teams will meet in the championship.

In Division II, the committee also is requesting continuation of its seeding practices because of the built-in transportation problems. The top Division II teams are situated in the four extreme corners and the middle of the country.

If the Executive Committee does not approve the continuation of seeding in Divisions I and II, changes in the championships structure would have to be made. The Executive Committee meets August 12-13 in Boston.

In hopes of increasing revenue, the Men's Soccer Committee is recommending that ticket prices be increased in all three divisions. If approved by the Executive Committee, it would be the first increase since 1977.

The recommended prices for all rounds in all three divisions are $4 for general admission, $2 for students and $1 for children under 12 years of age. The committee believes that these prices are similar to other NCAA championships.

The Men's Soccer Committee also appointed a rules subcommittee, which was approved by the Executive Committee in May. The subcommittee will be responsible for rules discussion prior to the annual meeting, although all changes must be approved by the entire committee meeting in joint session.

Appointed to the rules subcommittee were C. Cliff McCrath, secretary-rules editor, Seattle Pacific University;

Craig A. Reynolds, Bucknell University; Greg Myers, U.S. Naval Academy; Edward Cannon, St. Anselm College; Owen L. Wright, University of La Verne, and Bruce C. DuBois, Nassau Community College (New York).

Annual meetings of the Men's Soccer Committee have been moved from the week after the Division I championship in December to February. The 1986 meeting is scheduled February 5-8 at a site to be determined.

Plea entered in Tulane case; four agree to aid prosecution

The young man accused of hatching a point-shaving and drug conspiracy that led to the termination of Tulane University's 57-year-old men's basketball program pleaded guilty to some criminal charges July 16 in a plea bargain with prosecutors.

Gary Krantz, a 21-year-old Tulane student from New Rochelle, New York, pleaded guilty to 10 counts of sports bribery and two counts of conspiracy in the case.

In return, prosecutors said they would not prosecute Krantz on several drug charges, as well as conspiracy and sports-bribery charges evolving from a game last season against Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Of eight people originally indicted in the case, four now have agreed to cooperate in the case against the other four. Additionally, two former Tulane basketball players were promised immunity from prosecution in return for their cooperation.

Sentencing of those who entered guilty pleas will be done after the others are tried, said Judge Alvin Oser of Orleans Parish Criminal District Court.

Basketball players John "Hot Rod" Williams and sophomore point guard David Dominique face separate trials later this summer, along with convicted bookie Roland Ruiz and alleged bagman Craig Bourgeois.

Sports sponsorship forms will be mailed

The 1985-96 Official Institutional Information and Sports Sponsorship Forms will be mailed by July 25 to all active members of the NCAA. The forms are mailed to directors of athletics at member institutions.

Forms should be returned by August 15 to Shirley Whitacre, membership coordinator, at the NCAA national office. In accordance with Executive Regulation 1-5-(b)-(5), forms must be returned by institutions by September 15 to be eligible for NCAA fall championships.

The information provided on the returned forms is needed to ensure that all NCAA eligibility lists, mailing lists and other records are correct. The information also is used to produce the NCAA Directory.

Names of each institution's chief executive officer, faculty athletics representative, director of athletics and primary woman administrator of athletics programs are requested, along with the numbers of contests for men's, women's and mixed teams in each varsity sport sponsored by the institutions.

An active member institution may be required to pay a penalty of $150 or $300 for failure to indicate sponsorship of a varsity sport, if it later wishes to be eligible for championship competition in that sport in accordance with Executive Regulation 1-5-(c).

Reclassifications are approved

Morgan State University, which moved its program from Division II (except football) to Division I-AAA last fall, was reclassified to Division I-AA, and two other institutions were reclassified to Division I-AAA by the NCAA Classification Committee at its July 11 meeting in Kansas City.

Central Connecticut State University was reclassified to Division I-AAA, with football remaining in Division II; Coppin State College, which does not sponsor football, also will move to Division I-AAA.

The reclassifications become effective September 1, 1985, for Coppin State and September 1, 1986, for Morgan State and Central Connecticut.

Petitions were denied for West Texas State University to move from Division I-AA to Division II in all sports and for the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, to move from Division III to Division II, with its soccer program remaining in Division II.

St. John Fisher College was reclassified from Division II to Division III effective September 1, 1986.

The committee placed the following institutions in unclassified status:

Lane College and New York Maritime College (Division III, football only); Pfeiffer College, Transylvania University, Franklin College and Pembroke State University (Division II, men's basketball only), and Gallaudet College (Division III football and men's basketball only).

Unclassified status was removed, effective September 1, 1985, for Division III institutions Eureka College (football), Knoxville College (football) and Polytechnic Institute of New York (men's basketball).

The following petitions for reclassification in one sport were approved effective September 1, 1985:

University of California, Santa Barbara (Division I women's gymnastics from Division II), Colorado College (Division I women's soccer from Division III), Delta State University (Division II women's basketball from Division I), University of Denver (Division II women's swimming from Division III), Georgia Southern College (Division I women's swimming from Division II), Jacksonville University (Division I women's volleyball from Division II), Long Island University, Brooklyn Center (Division I women's softball from Division II), Long Island University, C. W. Post Campus (Division III football from Division II and Division I baseball from Division II), California State University, Los Angeles (Division I men's soccer from Division II), Marist College (Division III women's volleyball from Division I), Mercer University (Division I women's basketball from Division II), Montclair State University (Division III women's basketball from Division I), Pace University (Division I baseball from Division II and Division II women's volleyball from Division III), University of Pittsburgh, Johnstown (Division II women's basketball from Division III), Stetson University (Division I women's tennis from Division II), University of Tennessee, Martin (Division II women's basketball from Division I), Wagner College (Division I women's softball from Division II), West Chester University (Division I baseball from Division II and Division II wrestling from Division I).

Applications for membership were approved for NCAA Council action from Ferrum College (Division III) and Trinity College (Illinois) (Division III). Applications for membership were denied for Franklin Pierce College (Division I), Paine College (Division II) and Champlain University (Division II).

Basketball leagues are sanctioned

The NCAA Administrative Committee has approved a final list of 31 summer basketball leagues, bringing to 278 the number of leagues approved for 1985.

Under the provisions of NCAA Constitution 3-9-(b)-(1), a male or female student-athlete with intercollegiate basketball eligibility remaining may participate between June 15 and August 31 in an approved basketball league.

Lists of approved leagues appeared in the May 15, May 29, June 12 and July 3 issues of The NCAA News.

Any questions concerning the application process, which ended for 1985 leagues July 15, or requirements for NCAA approval of summer basketball leagues should be directed to Jamie McCloskey, legislative assistant, at the NCAA national office.

Following are the final summer basketball leagues approved:

Men's Leagues

Briefly in the News

McKale Center in Tucson and is expected to provide a gate of $200,000. A network television broadcast also is being explored... Georgia Institute of Technology will begin the reconstruction of Grant Field December 1 with the demolition of the south stands. The demolition will reduce the stadium's capacity by 12,000 to 46,000. The future shape of the stadium is undecided... Sentencing has been postponed for a former Tulane University basketball player who pleaded guilty in a basketball point-shaving investigation. Sentencing for Bobby Thompson, 21, of New Orleans was set for September 20.

The West Coast Athletic Conference will add five sports for women in 1985-86. League members are Loyola Marymount University; the University of Nevada, Reno; Pepperdine University; the University of San Diego; the University of Santa Clara; the University of San Francisco, and U.S. International University. All seven schools will compete in basketball, volleyball, cross country and tennis, and all but Pepperdine will compete in softball. The conference has applied for automatic qualification for the Division I Women's Basketball Championship.

Northeast Missouri State University is adding women's golf to its intercollegiate sports program for 1985-86. Sam Lesseig, who coached the club team, will be varsity coach.

Insurance

trative Committee, probably will not be offered this year.

"Because of the complex nature of this policy, we believe it is unlikely that the Kansas Insurance Department will approve it as a group program," said Charles A. Taff, chair of the Insurance Committee. "The committee also questions whether this program is something the membership really wants (only nine institutions participated last year). It is doubtful that a viable group plan can be afforded for such a small market."

In its July 1-2 meeting in Kansas City, the Insurance Committee agreed to recommend to the NCAA Council that the loss-of-revenue program not be implemented for the 1985-86 year.

Even though the current participation level in the NCAA lifetime catastrophic injury program is good, the Insurance Committee also agreed to forward to the Council its concern that the catastrophic injury insurance plan offered by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics may adversely affect the total participation in the NCAA plan and could ultimately affect the availability of this type of coverage to the membership in the future. The NACDA plan is almost identical to the program developed initially by the NCAA.

The Insurance Committee also voted to expand medical insurance coverage for all NCAA championships so that all participants will be covered under the NCAA lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program. This recommendation requires approval of the NCAA Executive Committee.

In other action, the Insurance Committee reviewed the catastrophic injury program and noted that August 1 is the deadline for enrollment in the program. Institutions can enroll in the program after August 1 but will receive no reduction in premium.

A story detailing the progress of the catastrophic injury insurance program will appear in the August 14 issue of The NCAA News.
