Legislative decisions highlight Council's meeting

Decisions on the legislation to be sponsored or not sponsored by the NCAA Council at the 1986 NCAA Convention dominated the October 14-16 meeting of the Council in New Orleans.

One of the major decisions in that regard, however, was delayed. The Division I Steering Committee and the Council authorized NCAA President John R. Davis to communicate with the Division I leadership of the NCAA Presidents Commission regarding possible modifications of Bylaw 5-1-(j), which is scheduled to go into effect for Division I institutions August 1, 1986.

The Division I Steering Committee

discussed the modifications for a limited eligibility index as proposed by the Commission, as well as other means of modifying the bylaw in January, but no final action was taken by the Council pending Davis' communication with the Commission.

As a result of the Council's position, the Commission's proposal for a limited eligibility index, which was announced in the October 7 issue of The NCAA News, met the terms of the resolution (Proposal No. 25) adopted by the Convention in January. That resolution said a proposed modification must be announced to the membership not later than October 15, 1985.

The Council and/or Commission may determine alternative or additional proposals prior to the November 1 deadline for submission of legislation, and any six NCAA member institutions also can submit proposals to modify Bylaw 5-1-(j) in accordance with that deadline.

In other actions regarding Convention legislation, the Council decided not to sponsor proposals in two highly publicized areas:

- The proposed mandatory compliance program for member conferences in Division I will not be sponsored in January. The Division I Steering Committee discussed several concerns regarding the requirements of the program and voted not to support it.

• Legislation to eliminate all multidivision-classification opportunities in the Association will not be sponsored by the Council in January, largely due to the fact that the Presidents Commission has requested a study of all ramifications of the increasing federation within the NCAA structure, including classification and championships issues.

The Council specified that it remains interested in the concept of doing away with multidivision classification but prefers to work with the

Interpretations of football rules issued

In order to provide for more efficient officiating, administration and coaching, the NCAA Football Rules Committee recently issued to collegiate commissioners and officiating organizations a series of bulletins that are designed to clarify rules in the 1985 NCAA Football Rules and Interpretations.

The committee's latest bulletin emphasizes Rule 3-1-1, which states that the coin toss shall be made at midfield three minutes before the scheduled starting time. There are no exceptions to the rule, and NCAA Bylaw 3-5 requires member institutions to conduct all games under official football-playing rules of the Association.

The committee also clarified provisions for a referee's discretionary timeout due to crowd noise. When Rule 3-3-f-4 cannot be implemented for any reason, the referee may suspend the game temporarily under Rule 3-3-3-b, which states: "When the game is stopped by actions of a person(s) not subject to the rules, or for any other reasons not in the rules, and cannot continue, the referee shall: 1. suspend play and direct the players to their team area; 2. refer the problem to those responsible for the game's management, and 3. resume the game when he determines conditions are satisfactory."

In another bulletin, the committee clarified provisions of Rule 1-4-5-c regarding knee braces. The committee revised the rule to read: "Therapeutic or preventive knee braces shall be worn under the pants. The section of the knee brace below the pants shall be covered from direct external exposure."

Other rules clarifications or revisions issued in the bulletins included:

- Rule 2-4-1 - Contact in the back is an illegal block that is clipping and not illegal use of the hands or arms. Penalty: 15 yards.

- Rule 7-2-1-b - The rule should be deleted. Rules governing snapping and backward passes are covered in Rule 7-1-3-c-1.

- Rule 9-3-4-c - Defensive players may ward off or push an eligible pass

Restrictions placed on interpretations requests

In an attempt to assure more efficient handling of requests for interpretations of NCAA legislation, the NCAA Council has approved a new policy restricting the number of individuals from member institutions and conferences who can submit such requests.

Effective with this circularization to the membership in The NCAA News, only the chief executive officer, faculty athletics representative, director of athletics and primary woman administrator of athletics programs at a member institution will be permitted to request interpretations from the Association's legislative services department.

Requests from conference offices will be accepted from the conference commissioner and one other designated conference staff member.

NCAA President John R. Davis said the staff of the legislative services department has been directed not to respond to requests for interpretations from any other individuals at member institutions and conferences.

"Discussions with members of the Collegiate Commissioners Association indicated a desire to streamline the interpretations process so they can be issued more quickly and more consistently," Davis said.

In addition to reducing the number of telephone requests for interpretations—many of which are repetitive or otherwise not necessary—the new policy also will enhance institutional control of athletics programs by assuring that athletics administrators and/or faculty representatives are aware of their institutions' requests for interpretations.

"We also encourage the use of the conference office for interpretations," Davis said. "Conferences that prefer to perform that service for their members should notify the legislative services department so that desire can be honored whenever possible."

William B. Hunt, assistant executive director for legislative services, said the department receives an average of 250 to 300 telephone calls for interpretations each day during the workweek.

The new policy was approved by the NCAA Administrative Committee in a special meeting October 14 and affirmed by the Council in its New Orleans meeting October 16.

Member institutions join catastrophic insurance plan in record numbers

Final figures reveal that 203 NCAA member institutions enrolled in the Association's first lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program for 1985-86, the best participation that the NCAA has received in any insurance program.

The 203 institutions represent more than 25 percent of the Association's membership. Of the 203 enrolled, 92 are Division I institutions.

"We had been shooting for 200 institutions the first year, and we accomplished that goal," said Richard

D. Hunter, NCAA director of finance. "These totals reconfirm the need for a program of this type, and we are looking forward to continual growth in the future."

The NCAA lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program provides disability benefits and lifetime medical and rehabilitation benefits to any male or female student-athlete representing a participating institution. The program is designed to cover catastrophic injury costs that exceed the limits of regular athletics accident medical coverage in either dollar amount or benefit period, provided the deductible amount is reached.

Although the deadline for the 1985-86 year has passed and final figures have been released, institutions still can enroll in the program any time during the 1985-86 year, with coverage effective on the date the premium is received, according to Thomas F. Wilson Jr., vice-president of the college division of American Sports Underwriters, Inc., the administrator of the plan. Wilson noted that the premium amount would be the same, however.

In addition, the Association offers a basic athletics accident medical insurance program, which includes an accidental death and dismemberment provision and covers medical expenses up to a maximum of $25,000 per occurrence. That is where the catastrophic program begins.

Hunter said that response to the basic medical plan also has been favorable, even though the program was not available until late July. More than 40 institutions have enrolled thus far.

"These numbers reflect the soundness of the program and indicate that it is priced competitively," Hunter said. "We are pleased with the first year of this program thus far."

Any institution that would like to enroll in the NCAA lifetime catastrophic injury insurance program or the basic accident medical plan still can do so by contacting American Sports Underwriters, Inc., 300 Unicorn Drive, Woburn, Massachusetts 01801. Players who took cash should accept punishment

By David Casstevens

Melvin Belli once was accused on a radio talk show of being an "ambulance chaser." The flamboyant attorney took exception to the judgmental description of his calling and seized the public forum to set the record straight.

"I don't chase ambulances," Belli said. "I always get there ahead of them."

Ours is a litigious society. That's legal talk for meaning that we are a nation given to suing one another at the drop of a hat. Folks don't talk to one another nowadays. We pay lawyers to do that for us. Sometimes, you get the feeling that life is quickly becoming one big people's court, Judge Wopner presiding.

In 1978, a Boulder, Colorado, man sued his parents for $350,000. The suit alleged that in neglecting his needs for food, shelter, clothing and psychological support, the man's mother and father were guilty of "malpractice of parenting."

Elsewhere, a Bristol, Connecticut, high school girl sued her gym teacher after she broke a finger trying to catch a pop fly in a school softball game. The suit claimed that her teacher not only failed to instruct her in the act of catching, but also failed to warn her of the inherent dangers in playing the outfield.

Now comes the Texas Christian University case. Jim Wacker is told the team pending the completion of an NCAA investigation into the TCU football scandal. If Wacker or TCU refuses to allow the players to rejoin the team, the attorney says he may seek legal options.

To quote Mr. Slim Pickens in "Blazing Saddles": "Whut in th' wide, wide world of sports is goin' on here?"

Have we come to the day when a school placed on NCAA probation (it will happen to TCU, make no mistake), is dismissed from the team but kept on full scholarship, and then turns around and attempts to be rejoined with the teammates he betrayed and play alongside them, buying time, as it were, until the NCAA completes its inquiry, which could take several weeks, even months.

Do these players seriously believe the NCAA will exonerate them? Every TCU athlete signed an NCAA student-athlete statement of eligibility form at the beginning of the school year. That document reads, in part:

"To the best of my knowledge, I am eligible for athletics participation under these (NCAA) regulations and I was not recruited contrary to NCAA regulations by my institution or any representatives of its athletics interests."

"I understand that under the provisions of Constitution 3-6(a) and 3-9(d), I may jeopardize my eligibility to participate in intercollegiate athletics competition by falsely or erroneously signing this certification statement."

What is the basis for legal action? Do the players seeking reinstatement feel they were deprived of due process? Are they saying they were naively unaware that accepting money was a serious offense?

Wacker simply did what he said he would do. When players admitted breaking the rules, the coach acted without regard to race, creed, color or how alumni might view the wholesale dismissals, which have crippled the TCU team severely.

The players seeking reinstatement don't appear to have a legal leg to stand on. Wacker will not reverse his decision. You can bet on that. But even if by some turn of legal events these four did get their purple uniforms back, what kind of victory would that be? Wacker would not play them, and nowhere does it say he would have to.

So what are these guys doing with a lawyer? I can't imagine what they realistically hope to profit from their course of action, other than to find pleasure in harassing a coach who did what he had to do.

Columnary Craft

that seven of his players were illegally recruited and that they accepted cash from boosters. Confronted by the coach, each player, according to university officials, confessed complicity in violating NCAA rules. Wacker immediately dismissed said players from the team, which is the coach's prerogative and, if you ask me, his responsibility as well.

So what happens?

Four of the players retain legal counsel. Their lawyer says he will seek to have his clients reinstated on college coach can't boot admitted rule-breakers off his team without them slinking back in the company of a lawyer and crying, "Unfair."

Have we come to the day when a university athletics program can't police itself without first having to ask, "May I?"

"The boosters most likely are alumni cheerleaders, a universal euphemism for trouble. They stick their two cents worth well, actually, lots more into collegiate athletics programs and when the bottom falls out, they bare their souls, apologize for their misdemeanors and go back about their business."

"In all probability, the Texas Christian University case is the norm: overwhelming evidence exists of the commercialization of 'amateur' college football programs. From lucrative TV revenues, from alumni who raise and dispense the money clandestinely and illegally, to college administrators who wink and look the other way and authorize construction of lavish new football dorms for the recruited players, hypocrisy and corruption pervade the entire process."

"And when, on occasion, as in the TCU case, the system is exposed for all to see, few profess to see it even then. Letters to the Editor

The score isn't all that counts

To the Editor:

After reading the article "24 goals but no record" in the September 23, 1985, issue of The NCAA News, I was disappointed. The University of Hartford should not be commended for scoring 24 goals in a soccer game. Rather, the coach should have used better judgment in allowing such a score to occur.

Finally, this game should not be displayed as something that should be applauded. I hope The NCAA News uses more discretion in the future.

Issue of autonomy causes conflict

To the Editor:

I get awfully tired of hearing a lot of coaches blame this and that on the NCAA—like it's some organization detached from colleges and athletics. If more coaches would discuss regulations and legislation with their athletics directors and with the various committee people in each sport, they would feel much more a part of the process."

The major conflict in the organization, in my opinion, is the issue of autonomy of divisions. It's a shame that money is pulling the groups away from a healthy amateur position and each other. But, coaches have to understand that the legislation is the result of coaches, ADs and presidents exerting their influence as a group. It is not some force being promulgated by an abstract organization.

High score nothing to be proud of

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to an article entitled "24 goals but no record" that appeared in the September 23, 1985, issue of The NCAA News. I was very disturbed by the nature of this article, because it applauded the University of Hartford's efforts in humiliating Iona College's women's soccer team. I have never and would never beat a team by such a score, nor would I praise any team or coach for doing so.

In addition, mentioning the all-time record for goals scored in one game is not a statistic that any team should be particularly proud of.

I feel the paper exercised poor judgment in selecting the story and in regarding it as a feat to be admired.

That's what we're talking about, and everybody has to know that's wrong."

So long as there was no progress made in that program, athletes would not be eligible until they were back on track. If a person needed to go to summer school to get back on track, then so be it. I don't think that should be called a reform; but unfortunately, that's what it would be."

Only four teams unbeaten, untied in Division I-A

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Only four undefeated, untied Division I-A teams now remain after five teams were jolted from the perfect ranks October 19.

The odds are that at least one of the four—Iowa, Penn State, Air Force and Bowling Green—still will be perfect going into the bowls.

Why can we say this? Well...the last time there were no perfect records in regular season in Division I-A was almost 50 years ago—in 1936, to be exact.

Since 1936, there were just seven seasons in which there were no perfect-record teams after the bowls. It has become rather common recently, though, with four such seasons in the last eight.

In six of those seven seasons, the only perfect-record team was beaten in a bowl—Tulsa after the 1942 season, Maryland (1953), Wyoming (1967), Texas (1977), Penn State (1978) and Georgia (1982). After the 1983 season, there were two—Nebraska and Texas—and both lost in bowls.

Iowa's schedule toughest

Among the four perfect-record teams, Iowa has played the toughest schedule at .625. Its six opponents were 15-9 against other I-A foes when not playing Iowa. Bowling Green is next at .607 but its remaining I-A foes are only .273. Air Force's remaining schedule is first at .638, starting with 6-1 Utah October 26 and including 6-1 Brigham Young November 16. Iowa's remaining schedule is next at .615, including Ohio State and Minnesota, both now 5-1. Here are the fidgety four:

Team (wins)	Past Schedule	Future Schedule
Iowa (6)	.625	.607
Penn State (6)	.518	.500
Air Force (7)	.281	.638
Bowling Green (7)	.607	.273

Including all I-A opponents so far, Iowa's full-season schedule has a percentage of .615 so far—15th highest in the country, while Penn State's schedule is at .508, Bowling Green's at .460 and Air Force's at .451.

Two have only a tie

Two I-A teams have only a tie marring their records—Florida and Fresno State, both 5-0-1. Florida's schedule so far rates at .661—sixth highest—and its future schedule at .707—second to Ohio State's .714, while Fresno State's past foes are .320 and its future opponents are .385.

Florida leads nation

Not surprisingly, Florida's full-season schedule leads the country at .684. Others in the top 10 are, in order, Notre Dame .682, Ohio State .669, Alabama .661, Illinois and Rice both .6604, Minnesota .660, Auburn .655, Oklahoma .642, and Michigan .630.

Looking at games played through October 19, Tennessee has played the strongest schedule at .771—its foes have won 18, lost five, tied one vs. I-A teams when not playing Tennessee. Next come Oklahoma .750, Notre Dame and Rice both .708, Navy .684, Alabama and Florida both .661, Auburn .654, Wyoming .650, and Boston College .638.

If you consider future schedules only, from October 26 on, Ohio State leads at .714, then Florida .707, Florida State .6904, Illinois and Minnesota both .6897, Utah State .688, Notre Dame .6613, Alabama .6607, Mississippi State .659, and Auburn and Purdue, tied for 10th at .655.

Three perfects in I-AA

There are three perfect-record teams in Division I-AA—Grambling State, Middle Tennessee and Richmond. Eddie Robinson's Grambling team, after handing Mississippi Valley State its first loss October 19 (and giving Robinson his 326th career victory, equalling the pro leader, George Halas of the Chicago Bears), has played the toughest schedule in this group at .591. Here is the list:

Robbie Bosco, Bringham Young, is among Division I-A passing leaders

Brian Forster, Rhode Island, leads Division I-AA in receiving

Nicholls State's Oscar Smith is a Division I-AA rushing leader

Sandy Rogers, Emory and Henry, is a Division III rushing leader

Team (wins)	Past Schedule	Future Schedule
Grambling State	.591	.429
Middle Tennessee	.583	.379
Richmond	.328	.370

Grambling's overall schedule rating is .500, Middle Tennessee's is .457 and Richmond's is .345. Grambling plays old rival Jackson State, now 4-2, October 26; Middle Tennessee faces 3-3 Austin Peay, and Richmond meets I-A Rutgers, 0-5-1 (but the tie was with unbeaten Florida).

S.C. State leads the list

The toughest I-AA schedules so far? For all opponents (past and future), the leader is South Carolina State at .643, followed by Boston University at .607, Lehigh .604, Florida A&M .600, Northeastern .592, Massachusetts .585, Western Illinois .5694, Holy Cross .5690, Alabama State .548 and East Tennessee State .545.

A record field goal day

Yes, indeed, October 19 was a big day in field goal history, with 132 kicked in 52 games involving at least are among 15 Division I-A teams that already have won more games than all of last season. The others are 4-2 Indiana, 2-5 Utah State, 3-4 California, 4-4 Cincinnati, 3-3 Iowa State, 4-2-1 Pittsburgh, 5-1 Minnesota, 5-2 Southern Mississippi, 5-2 Mississippi State and 6-1 Baylor. Indiana and Colorado both have four victories more than in all of last season; Rice and Cincinnati have two each.

Two more teams with winning records—4-3 Pacific and 5-2 Kansas—have equaled last season's victory total.

Quotes of the week

Tennessee Tech coach Gary Darnell, whose team is on a losing streak, at the weekly Tech Pride luncheon: "When I look at our staff, I see (volleyball coach) Sharron Bilbrey, who's an attractive lady, and she's winning. I see (women's basketball coach) Marynell Meadors, who's very attractive and one of the winningest basketball coaches in the nation. I see (basketball coach) Tom Deaton, who's catch Eddie Robinson, but we've had fun." (Larry Happel, Central SID) (Wittenberg is going for its 31st straight winning season, most of them under Dave Maurer and Bill Edwards; Grambling State is going for its 26th straight, all under Robinson; Nebraska has the longest current streak in Division I-A and is going for its 24th straight winning season, all under Bob Devaney and Tom Osborne, while Penn State leads all of college football in consecutive nonlosing—500-up—seasons at 46 and now is assured 47 in a row, with its last losing year being 1938.)

Iowa quarterback Chuck Long passed up a lucrative pro contract to return to Iowa for a fifth year, hoping to lead the team to the Rose Bowl, and right now the team is 6-0 and top-ranked nationally. Long would not know what it is like to play without his biggest fan watching. His brother Andy is 14 and was born with cerebral palsy. Despite his difficulty walking and talking, he shares in the glory of Chuck's times.

"He's always been interested in what I've done and he's become a part of it," Long told Terry Boers, Chicago Sun-Times. "After games, he'll stay in the locker room and get autographs from everybody he can. He'll get the same autographs every week. It doesn't matter to him. He loves being around Hawkeye football."

Long feels the same way. "What's happened this year has been like a dream come true. To think where this team was five years ago (19 consecutive nonwinning seasons—a I-A national record at the time)... I'll never forget when Hayden Fry recruited me; he said he was going to turn this around, and I believed him... We have had to fight hard here to get (national) recognition, and I think now we've earned it."

Interviews take a good chunk of Long's time, but he loves it: "I know there are some athletes who won't talk to the press, but I'll never understand that.... This is just the greatest time of my life and I'm going to cherish every minute of it." So will Andy. (George Wine, Iowa SID)

Kansas coach Mike Gottfried, a quarterback at Morehead State, still tinkered with the thought of playing professionally when he was offered, oh, $100 a game to play for the Richmond Rebels of the now-defunct World Football League. He packed his bags and drove to the airport but missed his flight, so he drove back home to Crestline, Ohio, and left his playing career behind. "I guess if I wanted to go there, I would have been there on time," he told Bob Nightengale, Kansas City Star. "Really, ever since I was in fifth grade, all I ever wanted to do was coach."

Why else did he organize games at recess, putting the best Catholic school kids on his team until he was caught by the nuns? Why else did he read the book about Knute Rockne five times? Why else did he attend every coaching clinic that time would allow?

"I still enjoy going into Southern California's stadium, Nebraska's stadium... the little kid comes out of me," said Gottfried, now 41 and in his 20th year of coaching. "Hey, it's not bad for a kid from Crestline." (Doug Vance, Kansas SID)

No, Oberlin senior offensive guard John Erdmann, 6-2, and 225, acted one of the lead roles in the Blossom Repertory Theatre in Kent, Ohio, this summer and also sang in the choir for a play. The team's most valuable offensive lineman in 1984, he earned a 3.150 grade-point average in physics and won a graduate assistantship in the Kent State nuclear physics department. Pennsylvania Dutch harvest

There are two kinds of harvests in Pennsylvania Dutch country this fall. The usual kind is taking place in the rolling farm fields of Lancaster County. The other kind is happening on the football fields of the county's two college football teams. Millersville and Franklin and Marshall both were undefeated until October 19, when Millersville lost to Bloomsburg and Franklin and Marshall lost to Fordham. You have to go all the way back to 1940 to find anything matching a pair of 5-1 starts. (Greg Wright, Millersville SID)

81 straight PATs

Coe kicker Rims Roof has kicked 81 straight extra points, breaking the former Division III record of 75 by Chuck Smeltz, Susquehanna, in 1970-71, 73-74. (Alice Davidson, Coe SID)

Can you top these? All of Marist's first five games ended in shutouts. Marist shut out four opponents and was blanked once. (Robert Bowls, Marist SID)

Denison has an amazing takeaway vs. giveaway ratio of 19 to 2—that is, Denison has recovered 12 opponent's fumbles and intercepted seven passes, while turning it over just twice in five games (one fumble and one interception). (Steve Hiles, Denison SID) one I-A team, an average of 2.54 per game. That nudged the previous record of 2.53 set September 22 last year and tied a month later, October 20, 1984. Nebraska junior Dale Klein tied the I-A record of seven field goals and became the first ever to go 7-for-7 in one game with distances of 32, 22, 43, 44, 29, 43 and 43 yards. Mike Prindle of Western Michigan was 7-for-9 in his record day against Marshall in 1984.

Football notes

Klein, by the way, had kicked only six field goals in his entire career before his big game against Missouri. He was the difference in a 28-20 victory. Iowa's Bob Houghtlin had all of his team's points in a big 12-10 victory over Michigan, and Texas' Jeff Ward did all the scoring in his team's 15-13 upset over Arkansas. But despite the record day, the nation's kickers are behind last year's record average of 2.30 per game, with a current figure of 2.25 per game.

Downtrodden rise up

Mark down October 19 as a big, big day in the life of downtrodden football teams. The seven losingest teams of the last five years were unbeaten on that day.

Eastern Michigan, Oregon State, Northwestern, Rice, Colorado and Kent State all won (UTEP did not play) for a 6-0 record. Perhaps the biggest victory was Oregon State's 21-20 upset of Washington, although Northwestern's victory over Wisconsin was close.

What's more, Colorado now is 5-1 for the season (vs. 1-10 a year ago) despite losing its wishbone quarterback early in a 40-6 romp over Iowa State. Eastern Michigan is 3-3, Northwestern 3-3 and Rice is 3-3, after winning two straight Southwest Athletic Conference games. Kent State is 3-3 and Oregon State 3-4. Only UTEP is winless in this group.

Five (all but Kent State and UTEP) sitting here looking like he just stepped out of Esquire, and his team plays in the NIT. I've figured out our problem—I'm just too ugly to be a winning coach." (Rob Schabert, Tennessee Tech SID)

Kent State senior guard Jon Patton, talking about his knee injury and his chances for returning to the team soon: "Well," he told a weekly Coaches Corner luncheon, "this is my fifth year and my extended warranty is up." (Tom Bochenek, Kent State SID)

California coach Joe Kapp was talking about halfback Marc Hicks, who became the first Cal freshman to rush for 100 yards in a game since Jackie Jensen did it in 1946 (139 in 14 carries against Missouri): "Is that man talented or what? He's not only big and fast, but he's good-looking and articulate. I'm going to send him out for my postgame interviews."

Arizona State coach John Cooper was talking about the roller-coaster world of college football—his team defeated Southern California, 24-0, then lost to UCLA, 40-17: "Last week we were drinking the wine. This week we're picking the grapes." (Jim Muldoon, Pacific-10 Conference SID)

Cal State Fullerton coach Gene Murphy on the size of the Utah State team (its offensive line averages 278 pounds): "They are so big, we might get a delay of game penalty if we have to walk around them on the way back to the huddle."

Murphy's defensive tackle, Ron McClean, out for the season with a knee injury: "Be sure to tell those ESPN guys why I'm not in there. All my friends in Santa Maria signed up for the cable just to see me on TV." (Mel Franks, Cal State Fullerton SID)

Coach Ron Schipper, after clinching his 25th consecutive winning season in as many years at Central College in Pella, Iowa (trailing only Wittenberg and Grambling State): "We may not

I-A attendance still behind

Oklahoma played its first home game of the season October 19 (another oddity in the schedule that makes predictions difficult), but Division I-A attendance lost more ground compared to the record pace of 1984. It now is 1,346 per game behind (or 3.09 percent) the average for this point a year ago. Division I-AA also lost a little ground but still is ahead of last year by 5.02 percent per game. The chart:

Women's Basketball Preview

Several teams could challenge Monarchs for title

By Timothy J. Lilley
The NCAA News Staff
Rebounding.

"To leap or spring, as in recovery" is one way to define the term, according to Webster. Another may be like the way Old Dominion sprung senior Tracy Claxton on Georgia in the 1985 Division I women's basketball championship game.

Claxton seemed to draw caroms like a magnet, and the Lady Monarchs won the title primarily on rebounding strength. The word most likely has been on coach Marianne Stanley's mind since that early spring Sunday in Dallas.

With Claxton and teammate forward Medina Dixon lost to graduation, Stanley must find a way to rebound from the losses to defend the national championship.

The challengers will be many: Georgia again, Northeast Louisiana, Louisiana Tech, Southern California, to name a few. And there is a world of great players returning, led by Trojan Cheryl Miller, Old Dominion's Marie Christian and Georgeann Wells of West Virginia, the first woman to dunk a basketball in a game.

Twenty-victory seasons also will be prevalent again this season; more than 40 teams won at least 20 games a year ago, and many of those programs appear strong again. Conference races will be down-to-the-wire affairs in all parts of the country.

The following conference champions will receive automatic berths into the Division I championship tournament field: Atlantic Coast Conference, Atlantic 10 Conference, Big East Conference, Big Eight Conference, Big Ten Conference, Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference, High Country Athletic Conference, Metropolitan Atlantic Athletic Conference, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, Mid-American Athletic Conference, Mountain West Athletic Conference, Northern Pacific Athletic Conference, Ohio Valley Conference, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Southeastern Conference, Southland Conference, Southwest Athletic Conference and Sun Belt Conference.

The 1986 women's final four is set for the University of Kentucky. Regional finals will be played at the University of Pennsylvania; University of Iowa; University of Texas, Austin, and California State University, Long Beach.

Here is a conference-by-conference look at the division's top teams and players, including independent programs:

Atlantic Coast

The battle in the ACC probably will stay in North Carolina again this season. The Tar Heels (21-11 last season, four starters back) will challenge North Carolina State (25-6, three), but the Wolfpack may be too tough. Duke (19-8, three) and Virginia (21-8, four) also could make a run for the crown.

Top players—Janet Knight, senior, forward, Clemson (20.1 points per game); Melinda Ashworth, senior, guard/forward, Clemson (13.6 ppg); Chris Moreland, sophomore, forward, Duke (17.6 ppg, 9.5 rebounds per game); Connie Goins, senior, guard, Duke (12.4 ppg); Dolores Bootz, sophomore, center, Georgia Tech (17.9 ppg, 8.5 rebounds per game); Kim Crawford, junior, guard, Georgia Tech (11.1 ppg); Chequita Wood, senior, forward, Maryland (11.9 ppg, 7.5 rpg); Pam Leake, senior, guard, North Carolina (20 ppg); Dawn Royster, junior, forward/center, North Carolina (20.4 ppg, 11.8 rpg); Trena Trice, junior, center, North Carolina State (14.8 ppg); Nancy Mayer, junior, forward/guard, Virginia (12.1 ppg); Donna Holt, sophomore, guard, Virginia (11.3 ppg); Amy Privette, junior, guard, Wake Forest (13.8 ppg); Janice Collins, senior, forward, Wake Forest (12.7 ppg).

Atlantic 10

Six teams have a chance to win the league title this season. In alphabetical order, they include Penn State (28-5, three), last year's co-champion with St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania); Rhode Island (13-15, four); Rutgers (19-9, four); St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania) (25-5, three); Temple (20-9, four), and West Virginia (20-10, two).

Rhode Island and West Virginia are the long shots, but the Rams have Michele Washington, one of the best players in the division, and the Mountaineers have Wells, who certainly will add some slams to her total this season. The nod would seem to go to Penn State, with St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania), Temple and Rutgers all challenging hard for the title.

Top players—Kelly Ballentine, senior, guard, George Washington (12.2 ppg); Barbara Hebel, senior, guard, Massachusetts (12.8 ppg); Michele Washington, senior, forward, Rhode Island (17.7 ppg, 11.1 rpg, 80 steals); Sue Wicks, sophomore, forward, Rutgers (14.9 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Julie Salmon, senior, forward, Rutgers (13.2 ppg); Terri Mohr, senior, forward, St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania) (13.0 ppg); Teresa Carmichael, junior, forward/center, St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania) (12.5 ppg, 8.6 rpg); Erin

Jonelle Polk, Illinois

Cowley, senior, guard, Temple (13.9 ppg); Mimi Carroll, senior, forward, Temple (13.9 ppg); Georgeann Wells, senior, center, West Virginia (14.8 ppg, 10.8 rpg).

Big East

Villanova should win the league title this season, after tying for the regular-season crown with St. John's (New York) a year ago. The Wildcats have all five starters back from a 21-9 campaign.

The committee's chair is J. Elaine Hieber, a Division I representative from Iowa State University. Secretary-rules editor is Marcy Weston of Central Michigan University, also a Division I representative.

Other committee members are: Division I—Sharon Chatman, San Jose State University; Sue Gunter, Louisiana State University; Linda K. Sharp, University of Southern California, and Barbara A. Stevens, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Division II—Louise Albrecht, Southern Connecticut State University; Rita Castagna, Assumption College, and Darlene May, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

Division III—Lynn Agee, University of North Carolina, Greensboro; Kay Gould, Allegheny College, and Diane C. Jones, University of Wisconsin, Whitewater.

Requests for interpretations or clarifications of the new rules should be directed to Weston at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, Michigan 48859.

Copies of the new rules are available from the NCAA publishing department for $3 each, postpaid.

Boston College (19-9, four) also could challenge, and St. John's (New York) (18-11, two) certainly will not roll over and play dead. Syracuse (18-13, three) also could make a run at the top, but it seems Villanova should have the strength to hold off all challenges.

Top players—Ann Odoy, sophomore, guard, Boston College (12.7 ppg); Marie Grant, senior, center, Boston College (12.6 ppg); Mary Burke, junior, forward, Providence (15.9 ppg); Britt King, senior, forward, Providence (15.1 ppg, 14.2 rpg); Jackie Smith, senior, forward, St. John's (New York) (13.3 ppg); Felisha Legette, sophomore, Syracuse (12.8 ppg, 8.1 rpg, league rookie of the year, 1985); Lisa Angelotti, sophomore, forward, Villanova (12.6 ppg); Shelly Pennelther, junior, forward, Villanova (18.8 ppg, 10.9 rpg).

Big Eight

Missouri (22-9, four) probably will have to hold off teams from Kansas (19-10, four), Kansas State (16-13, four) and Oklahoma (23-7, five) to defend the conference title it won a year ago.

The Sooners may be the toughest of the three, and coach Maura McHugh has a veteran ball club. Nonetheless, Missouri is the defending champion and must be given the early nod.

Top players—LeeAnn Banks, senior, center, Colorado (13.4 ppg, 9.6 rpg, defending conference rebounding champion); Erin Carson, sophomore, forward, Colorado (14.0 ppg); Vickie Adkins, senior, forward, Kansas (20.4 ppg, 9.0 rpg); Cassandra Jones, senior, guard, Kansas State (17.1 ppg); Carlisa Thomas, junior, forward, Kansas State (10.5 ppg, 8.6 rpg); Sarah Campbell, senior, guard, Missouri (15.4 ppg); Renee Kelly, junior, center, Missouri (13.5 ppg, 9.5 rpg); Angie Miller, junior, center, Nebraska (13.8 ppg); Maurice Ivy, sophomore, guard, Nebraska (14.0 ppg); Jacquetta Hurley, senior, forward, Oklahoma (17.2 ppg).

Big Ten

This will be the toughest conference in the country this season.

Ohio State (28-3, four) will try to stretch a winning streak in league play that resulted in a perfect (18-0) record a year ago. New coach Nancy Darsch, who had been an assistant to Pat Head Summitt at Tennessee, replaces Tara VanDerveer, who led the Buckeyes to four straight league titles.

Indiana (16-12, four) will be strong and may challenge for a title if new coach Jorja Hoehn can mold the team into the kind that produced a 118-34 record for her, including an NCAA Division II championship, at Central Missouri State.

Iowa (20-8, five) also should be battling for the title, as will Minnesota (18-10, four). Northwestern (16-12, three) could make some noise if newcomers and transfers can fill the void left by Anucha Browne's graduation. Experience favors the Buckeyes, however.

Top players—Jonelle Polk, junior, center, Illinois (17.9 ppg, 10.1 rpg); Karna Abram, junior, center/forward, Indiana (22.9 ppg, 7.5 rpg); Cindy Bumgarner, sophomore, center/forward, Indiana (16.7 ppg); Lisa Becker, junior, center, Iowa (12.1 ppg); Lisa Long, junior, forward, Iowa (13.1 ppg, 9.5 rpg); Lorea Feldman, sophomore, forward, Michigan (13.7 ppg); Wendy Bradetich, senior, forward, Michigan (12.8 ppg); Kim Archer, junior, forward/guard, Michigan State (13.2 ppg, 7.0 rpg); Kris Emerson, junior, forward, Michigan State (12.7 ppg, 8.4 rpg); Molly Tadich, junior, center, Minnesota (15.6 ppg, 10.7 rpg); Tracey Hall, sophomore, forward/guard, Ohio State (12.8 ppg, 8.3 rpg); Sharon Versyp, sophomore, guard, Purdue (12.3 ppg); Kay Sharp, junior, forward, Purdue (12.3 ppg).

Colonial

This is a new conference, made up of members of the old ECAC South. East Carolina (20-9, three) and James Madison (22-7, three) must be considered the favorites.

Top players—Jody Thornton, junior, guard, American (14.3 ppg); Beth Shearer, sophomore, forward, American (13.8 ppg); Loraine Foster, senior, guard, East Carolina (12.9 ppg); Betsy Witman, junior, forward, James Madison (16.5 ppg, returning from injury); Laurie Governor, sophomore, center/forward, Richmond (12.1 ppg); Karen Jordan, junior, forward, William and Mary (13.6 ppg).

Cosmopolitan

Monmouth (New Jersey) (20-8, four) should be considered the favorite in this conference. Other top teams include Siena (16-12, three), under the direction of new coach Jerry McLaughlin, and Wagner (20-10, three).

East Coast

Watch Delaware (19-9, four), Lafayette (24-6, four) and Lehigh (20-8, five) battle for the league title. Towson State (17-12, two) could be a dark-horse.

Top players—Ann Kirwin, junior, forward/center, Bucknell (14.0 ppg); Meg McDowell, senior, forward, Delaware (13.1 ppg, 7.9 rpg); Colleen Dougherty, senior, guard, Drexel (15.0 ppg); Barbara Yost, sophomore, guard, Drexel (14.1 ppg, 2.6 steals); Mary Hanwood, senior, guard/forward, Hofstra (12.7 ppg); Maureen McManus, junior, forward, Lafayette (13.5 ppg); Shawn Steward, senior, guard, Lehigh (14.7 ppg); Ruth Ann Holter, sophomore, center, Towson State (14.9 ppg, 10.6 rpg, defending conference rebounding champ).

Gateway

Defending champion Illinois State (23-6, two) will have a tough time with Drake (24-6, four) and Southern Illinois (21-7, five). This should be one of those nail-biting conference races. Look for Drake to prevail.

Top players—Wanda Ford, senior, forward/center, Drake (24.2 ppg, 17.8 rpg); Julie Fitzpatrick, sophomore, forward, Drake (23.1 ppg); Chris Aldridge, senior, forward, Eastern

Women playing under own rules

Women's college basketball has a new set of rules; the game will not change much, however, even though the rules book has.

The NCAA Women's Basketball Rules Committee has published the Association's first set of playing rules for the game.

How will NCAA rules change the women's game? Several alterations have been noted by the committee, including:

- Offensive fouls will be called only on a player in control of the ball while holding, dribbling or shooting (the latter prior to release of the ball). Team control fouls no longer are offensive fouls.

- Filling the bottom-lane space on each side of the lane by opponents of the free-throw shooter now is mandatory.

- The dribble rule has been expanded to allow for recovery of a fumble at the end of a dribble without penalty.

- "Delayed-whistle" calls in jump-ball situations have been eliminated. Officials now will call violations as they occur, no longer waiting to see if an advantage is gained.

- A vertical plane and corresponding restrictions have been added during inbound plays.

- When three or more substitutes enter a game simultaneously, team captains may request the official to allow a "line-up" to permit a team to identify its opponents.

- Uniforms (including warm-ups) purchased after November 7, 1983, may bear only a single manufacturer's or distributor's label or trademark not to exceed 1½ inches square in size. All other items of apparel (e.g., socks, head bands, wrist bands, T-shirts, etc.) may not include any visible commercial identification.

Like their men's counterparts, members of the women's rules committee will meet annually to review and make adjustments to the rules, and the committee also has the ability to permit experimentation within the rules.

This season, for example, experimentation has been authorized involving use of the 28-foot coaches' box that was implemented for men's basketball last year.

Broncos, Jennies still have a lot of kick left in Division II

Cal Poly-Pomona and Central Missouri State have dominated Division II women's basketball since the NCAA began sponsoring the Division II championship tournament four years ago.

As a new season begins, a similar story probably will be played out. Both teams have experienced major losses, however; the Jennies even lost head coach Jorja Hoehn to the Division I program at Indiana.

Both schools have ranked other programs ahead of themselves in pre-season information supplied to The NCAA News. Both also know how to win, apparently without regard to mitigating circumstances.

The Broncos, for example, under head coach Darlene May, have won two of the four Division II tournaments, including last season when they beat Central Missouri State.

Although only two starters return from that 26-7 championship team, senior Vickie Mitchell has to be considered the early choice as Division II player of the year. She was all-conference, all-America and the most outstanding player of the Division II final four.

She averaged 12.8 points a game on 55 percent field-goal shooting and averaged 10.6 rebounds per game. Another center, Central Missouri's Rosie Jones, who earned player of the year honors last season, has graduated, and the spotlight likely will fall on Mitchell.

Mitchell is one of five returning letter-winners on the Cal Poly-Pomona roster, and May seemingly has taken care of a potential back-court deficiency through the addition of Michelle McCoy, a transfer from UCLA who could become one of the top guards in the division as the year wears on.

The Broncos thus appear to have the best pivot player in the nation, and a guard who could attain similar status. May has an 11-year coaching record of 282-75; look for that victory column to exceed 300 this season, and look for Cal Poly-Pomona to settle in, at or near the top of the rankings and stay there.

Central Missouri's new head coach, John Pye, may have to switch his emphasis to the back court for stability early.

Junior guard Shara Sherman returns with her 17.3 points-per-game average. With senior Crista Troester, the tandem provides the team with a solid back line. If this duo can stabilize the team while a replacement for Jones is found and adjusts to the system, Central Missouri should be right back at the top.

Pye also has some big shoes to fill. Hoehn took the Jennies to the Division II final four three straight years, and they won the 1984 championship.

Here is a region-by-region rundown of some of the top teams and players in Division II:

New England

Top teams—The Northeast 8 Conference race may heat up. Although Stonehill (21-9 last season, two starters returning) won the league title a year ago, the Chieftains have suffered more losses than other league teams. Look for challenges from fine teams at Bentley (25-6, two), Bryant (21-8, four), St. Anselm (12-12, four) and possibly Springfield (12-12, three).

Quinnipiac (24-4, four), should defend its New England Collegiate Conference title, but New Hampshire College (20-9, three) should be tough.

Top players—Simone Courtlandt, sophomore, guard, Bridgeport (13.6 ppg); Karyn Marshall, senior, center, Bryant (18.8 ppg, 10.0 rebounds per game); Karen Balzano, junior, forward, New Hampshire College (12.3 ppg, 9.2 rpg); Rita Campbell, senior, guard, Quinnipiac (14.8 ppg); Kelley Gray, junior, center, Sacred Heart (9.4 rpg); Elizabeth Pelletier, junior, guard, St. Anselm (11.1 ppg); Lesli Laychak, junior, forward, Stonehill (14.6 ppg).

East

Top teams—There may be more good teams in this region than any other this season.

Army (14-15, four) should make tremendous improvement in the Empire State Conference and challenge the likes of Mercy (22-7, three) and Pace (28-3, three) for league honors.

In the Pennsylvania Conference, Lock Haven (21-8, four) probably will defend its postseason tournament title. The stiffest competition will come from Millersville (17-9, four) and Slippery Rock (14-10, four).

Other top teams in the region include Niagara (11-11, five), Philadelphia Textile (18-9, three), Pittsburgh-Johnstown (26-3, three) and Utica (22-4, three).

Top players—Julie DelGiorno, senior, forward, Army (14.9 ppg); Pam Pearson, senior, center, Army (14.4 ppg, 10.9 rpg); Jean Millen, senior, forward, Bloomsburg (18.5 ppg, 15.8 rpg); Gina Castelli, senior, guard, Canisius (15.4 ppg); Sara Petropoulos, junior, forward, Colgate (14.9 ppg, 7.3 rpg); Tara Gallagher, senior, guard, East Stroudsburg (13.8 ppg, 6.2 rpg); Letty Huntzman, senior, center, Immaculata (14.0 ppg, 13.9 rpg, 96 blocked shots); Mary Tipping, junior, guard, Immaculata (13.3 ppg, 99 assists); Tina Martin, senior, guard, Lock Haven (21.6 ppg); Donna Sergi, sophomore, forward, Lock Haven (13.1 ppg); Helen Woltman, senior, center, Lock Haven (13.1 ppg, 10.2 rpg); Pam Johnson, senior, center, LIU-C.W. Post (12.9 ppg, 7.8 rpg); Paula Oleksy, senior, guard, Mansfield (14.6 ppg); Ursula Gregg, junior, guard, Mercy (14.3 ppg); Stacey Gillespie, senior, center, Mercy (13.3 ppg, 14.7 rpg); Donna Mauro, senior, forward, Molloy (21.5 ppg, 13.8 rpg); Merle Soden, junior, forward, New York Tech (18.0 ppg, 12.0 rpg); Jackie Farnan, sophomore, guard, New York Tech (16.0 ppg); Laura Regal, senior, center, Niagara (14.7 ppg, 6.6 rpg); Carrie McConley, sophomore, guard, Niagara (14.5 ppg); Jenny DiMaggio, sophomore, center, Pace (15.3 ppg, 7.3 rpg); Vincene Morris, senior, forward, Philadelphia Textile (21.1 ppg, 12.4 rpg); Diane Walker, senior, forward, Slippery Rock (20.2 ppg, 10.9 rpg); Bobbie Mitzel, senior, forward, Shippensburg (14.7 ppg, 8.1 rpg).

South Atlantic

Top teams—Among the best squads in this region are District of Columbia (14-12, three); Elizabeth City State (12-9, four); Maryland-Baltimore County (17-12, four); Mount St. Mary's (23-6, five); Navy (16-11, five); Virginia Union (15-10, four), and Winston-Salem State (16-11, three). The Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association race should be a good one, but Mount St. Mary's, an independent, probably is the best team in the region and one of the best in the division.

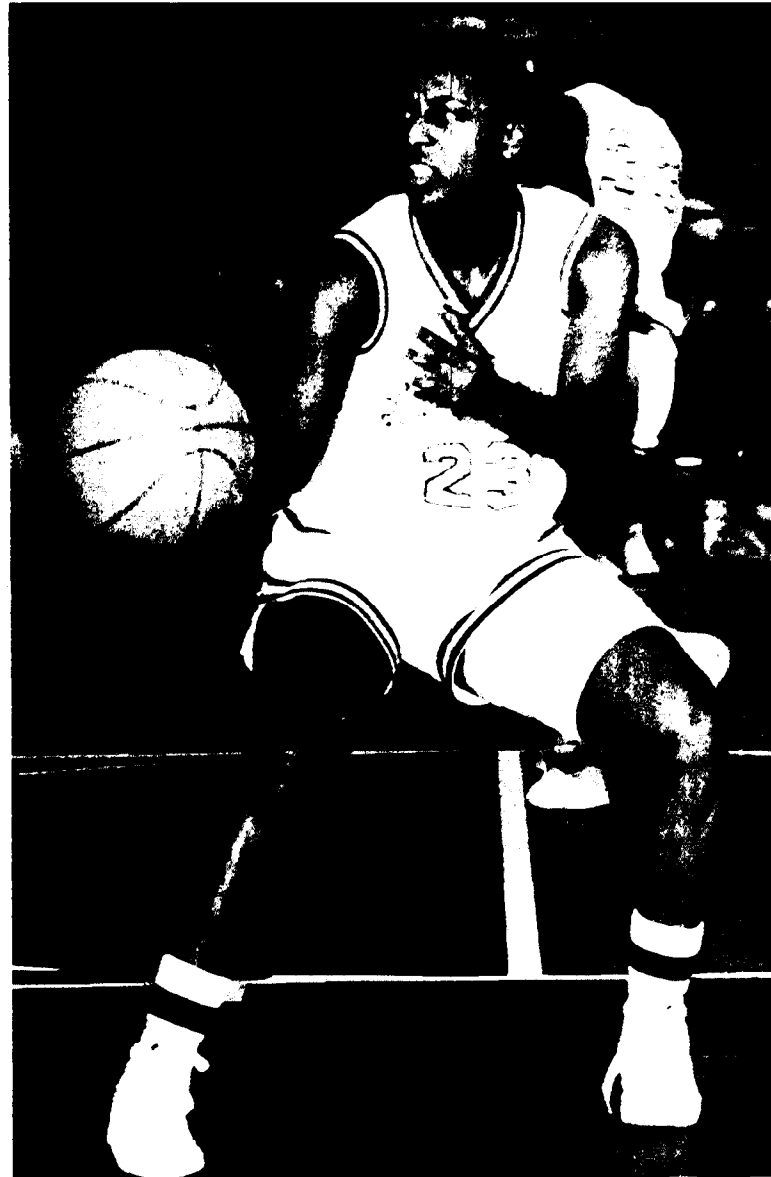

Top players—Marie Brown, sophomore, center, Bowie State (10.1 ppg, 10.9 rpg); Tracy Walton, junior, center, District of Columbia (14.1 ppg, 11.5 rpg); Juanita Barnes, senior, forward/guard, Elizabeth City State (16.5 ppg, 10.8 rpg); Cassandra Howell, senior, forward/center, Johnson C. Smith (15.6 ppg, 12.2 rpg); Caren Forbes, junior, guard, Longwood (14.2 ppg); Tammy McCarthy, junior, forward, Maryland-Baltimore County (18.7 ppg, 9.5 rpg); Kori Kindbom, senior, guard, Maryland-Baltimore County (13.6 ppg); Lisa Green, junior, forward, Mount St. Mary's (18.7 ppg, 7.7 rpg); Shaun Jackson, junior, guard, Mount St. Mary's (16.1 ppg); Rhonda Twitty, junior, guard, St. Paul's (18.0 ppg); W. Rene Jones, sophomore, forward, St. Paul's (12.7 ppg, 8.9 rpg); Sylvia Walker, senior, forward, Virginia Union (16.6 ppg, 12.7 rpg); Keenan Menefree, senior, guard, Winston-Salem State (16.2 ppg); Carolyn Huntley, junior, guard, Winston-Salem State (15.1 ppg).

South

Top teams—There are lots of good teams in this region, including Alabama A&M (17-10, four), Coastal Carolina (19-11, four), Delta State (19-7, three), Florida International (22-6, four), Mississippi University for Women (20-4, two), North Alabama (19-8, two), Tuskegee (22-6, two), Valdosta State (16-11, three), and Winthrop (16-14, three).

North Alabama should defend its Gulf South Conference title.

Top players—Patrice Jackson, senior, guard, Alabama A&M (24.3 ppg); Sherrie Zinn, junior, forward, Alabama A&M (11.6 ppg); Janice DeWitt, junior, center, Coastal Carolina (20.5 ppg, 13.1 rpg); Delinda Samuel, senior, center, Delta State (25.5 ppg, 11.7 rpg); Lynette Richardson, senior, guard, Florida International (25.3 ppg); Lillie Young, senior, center/forward, Florida International (12.9 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Pam Crockett, senior, guard, Mississippi University for Women (13.1 ppg); Deborah Benson, senior, guard, North Alabama (16.4 ppg, 6.9 rpg); Denise Brooks, junior, guard, St. Leo (18.8 ppg); Vera A. Grissom, junior, forward/guard, Savannah State (17.5 ppg); Kim Jones, junior, forward, Savannah State (13.5 ppg, 11.1 rpg); Candace Fincher, junior, center, Valdosta State (15.4 ppg, 10.7 rpg); Stephanie Morris, senior, forward, Winthrop (15.8 ppg, 8.8 rpg).

Deborah Benson, North Alabama

Great Lakes

Top teams—The big question in this region revolves around Saginaw Valley State.

The team finished 32-1 last season, 16-0 in the Great Lakes Conference. But coach Marsha Reall lost all her starters. There are some good people back, but Reall has her work cut out for her.

In the Great Lakes Valley Conference, a three-team race is likely among defending champion Lewis (22-7, three), Bellarmine (16-12, five) and Indiana Central (17-8, three).

Top players—Roxanne Cox, junior, guard, Bellarmine (16.1 ppg, 6.5 rpg); Rose Antrim, sophomore, guard, Grand Valley State (13.5 ppg, 6.3 rpg); Laura Foreman, senior, guard, Indiana Central (13.1 ppg); Mary Fisher, junior, forward, Michigan Tech (15.5 ppg, 9.4 rpg); Melissa Wood, junior, guard, Northern Kentucky (14.4 ppg); Paula Peterson, senior, guard, Northwood Institute (15.0 ppg); Tammy Bumpus, senior, forward/center, Northwood Institute (14.0 ppg, 7.6 rpg); Linda Wiesenbahn, senior, center, St. Joseph's (Indiana), (17.5 ppg); Judy Stewart, junior, guard, St. Joseph's (Indiana) (17.2 ppg); Peggy Wilsman, senior, forward, Southern Indiana (15.5 ppg).

North Central

Top teams—The Dakotas and St. Cloud State battle again in the North Central Conference.

North Dakota (23-6, three) finished second last season, tied with St. Cloud State (24-6, none). South Dakota (23-6, two) won it all and could do so again.

Want a sleeper? How about North Dakota State (19-8, four). It has more returning talent than any of the other clubs and could become a big surprise this season.

Quincy (19-5, three) and Southern Illinois-Edwardsville (14-11, five) are good independents in this region.

Top players—Melissa Olson, junior, guard, Augustana (South Dakota) (16.6 ppg, 8.7 rpg); Amy Wilhelm, junior, guard, Morningside (20.4 ppg); Sandi Walford, senior, center, North Dakota (15.2 ppg, 9.2 rpg); Janice Woods, senior, forward, North Dakota State (17.0 ppg); Dana Patsie, sophomore, center, North Dakota State (12.6 ppg); Barbic Drew, senior, forward, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville (15.8 ppg); Mary Metcalf, senior, forward, Wisconsin-Parkside (12.8 ppg, 8.4 rpg).

South Central

probably will be among the teams favored to win the 1986 championship.

In the MIAA, Central Missouri, as mentioned earlier, has a strong tradition, but the Jennies must adjust to new coach Jon Pye and the loss of Rosie Jones. Guard Shara Sherman will need to lead the way early. Southeast Missouri State (18-10, three) seems to be a favorite to unseat the Jennies. Also keep an eye on Northwest Missouri State (18-10, four).

In the Lone Star, the two-team battle between Abilene Christian (21-10, four) and Texas A&I (15-11, five) probably will take place again. Give the edge to the Wildcats, due to the return of forward Claudia Schleyer.

Air Force (20-8, three) and Eastern Montana (16-12, four) out of the Continental Divide Conference also could make some noise in the region.

Top players—Claudia Schleyer, senior, forward, Abilene Christian (23.6 ppg, 9.4 rpg, 2,000 career points through three seasons); Stacy Goss, senior, guard, Air Force (18.3 ppg); Kelly Clark, senior, forward, Angelo State (15.2 ppg); Shara Sherman, junior, guard, Central Missouri State (17.3 ppg); Kelly Hadley, junior, forward, Colorado School of Mines (14.7 ppg); Kelli Kenyon, junior, guard, Eastern Montana (13.9 ppg); Susan Mullins, junior, forward, Missouri-Rolla (13.8 ppg); Tanya Hough, sophomore, forward, Missouri-Rolla (13.0 ppg, 10.6 rpg); Annette Rogers, Northeast Missouri State (12.8 ppg, 8.0 rpg); Kim Scamman, senior, guard, Northwest Missouri State (15.5 ppg); Virginia Blissett, senior, forward, Southeast Missouri State (17.1 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Jesse Cloud, senior, center, Texas A&I (11.4 rpg); Laurie Nickolaus, Western State (Colorado) (12.9 ppg).

West

Top teams—Cal Poly-Pomona, as defending national champion, has to be the top team in the region as the season gets under way. The Broncos will get competition from Cal State Sacramento (17-7, four), and possibly from Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo (9-17, three) and Cal State Northridge (9-15, three).

Top players—Cheryl Bishop, senior, forward, Alaska-Anchorage (15.2 ppg, 7.4 rpg); Vickie Mitchell, senior, forward/center, Cal Poly-Pomona (12.8 ppg, 10.6 rpg); Sherrian Ellison, junior, forward, Cal State Dominguez Hills (14.8 ppg, 8.3 rpg); Regan O'Hara, sophomore, center, Cal State Northridge (12.1 ppg, 10.9 rpg); Heidi Carroll, senior, center, Cal State Sacramento (18.6 ppg, 14 rpg, three blocked shots per game); Diane Black, senior, forward/center, Seattle Pacific (14.2 ppg, 8.0 rpg).

A repeat of last season's final seems likely in Division III

Don't be surprised if Scranton and New Rochelle play for the 1986 Division III championship; be surprised if they don't.

As the Division III season gets underway, these two teams, finalists in last year's tournament, would seem to be as strong as anyone else in the nation and certainly capable of matching last year's accomplishments. Of the two, Scranton probably lost more; however, coach Mike Strong should be able to make up for the departures.

The Lady Royals lost by 30 points to Utica last year in the third game. They have not lost since.

Their final mark of 31-1 included a 29-victory rampage to the Division III championship, led by two Shelleys and a Deanna. The Shelleys, center Parks and guard Ritz, are back. Deanna Kyle, probably the best player in the division last season, has departed.

Strong has a great foundation in Parks and Ritz, along with 10 other letter-winners, and he did a good off-season recruiting job. Penciling Scranton into the 1986 championships bracket and moving them rapidly to the final four might be premature, but it also might be accurate.

New Rochelle will get two shots at the national champs before the tournament; a pair of regular-season showdowns with Scranton are on the schedule.

On the New Rochelle roster is Dawn Cillo, arguably the best player in the Division III this season. Teaming with senior forward Laura Michell, Cillo will help make the Blue Angels' front line one of the most formidable in the country.

Head coach Louis Kern has four starters back among the group of 10 returning letter-winners, and like Strong, he did a good job of recruiting. Projecting this team into the final four also may be premature, but failing to do so might be a mistake.

Many Division III fans thought Millikin's trip to the final four was a mistake last season; some kind of natural phenomenon that occurs every once in a while, allowing small, scrappy basketball teams to win more games than they are supposed to, beat a few teams they have no business beating.

Millikin's brand of lightning could strike twice. This 22-3 team from a year ago—with four players back who were starting at the end of the season—is just the kind of "David" that makes "Goliath" teams like Scranton and New Rochelle wish they had never shown up for the game.

Millikin's returning starters—Stacy McLaughlin, Michelle Mariage, Tonda Logue and Paula Keller—will lead the way for the Big Blue, and coach Harriett Crannell is hoping to get help from Queen Dickerson and Jennifer Fisher, the tallest player on the team at 5-10.

What this club lacks in size it makes up for with determination; heart, some folks call it, and that makes Millikin a threat to shake up the division again this season.

Here is a region-by-region look at some of the top teams and players in Division III this season:

Northeast

Top teams—Bridgewater State (Massachusetts), Salem State and Worcester Polytechnic again appear to be the class of the region, but there is a large number of good teams in the Northeast.

Included in the group are Babson (14-9 last season, three starters returning); Bowdoin (14-9, four), Bridgewater State (Massachusetts) (26-2, four), Clark (Massachusetts) (18-7, two), Colby (18-7, two), Colby-Sawyer (17-8, five), Curry (15-5, two), Emmanuel (19-7, five), Hartwick (15-6, two), Mount Holyoke (15-6, four), Pine Manor (18-8, three), Rhode Island College (19-7, three), Salem State (23-5, three), Southern Maine (23-6, three), Tufts (14-7, three), Western Connecticut State (21-5, three), Western New England (20-8, three) and Worcester Polytechnic (14-9, four).

Note—Thomas College returns to action with a women's varsity basketball team after a three-year hiatus. Mark Boyea is the head coach.

Top players—Sally Graves, senior, guard, Anna Maria (13.7 ppg); Sue O'Donnell, senior, forward/center, Babson (13.0 ppg, 9.0 rpg); Christine Corsac, sophomore, forward, Brandeis (11.3 ppg, 9.8 rpg); Carolyn Parsley, senior, forward, Bridgewater State (Massachusetts) (13.0 ppg, 6.7 rpg); Marina Giolas, junior, forward/center, Clark (Massachusetts) (14.2 ppg, 9.8 rpg); Karen Jodoin, senior, forward, Colby (12.7 ppg, 10.3 rpg); Kelly Bryant, senior, forward/center, Colby-Sawyer (13.2 ppg, 13.9 rpg, 2.5 blocked shots per game); Chris Page, senior, forward, Fitchburg State (14.9 ppg, 7.5 rpg); Gina Burrows, senior, forward, Hartwick (14.4 ppg, 9.5 rpg); Carol Thomas, senior, forward/guard, Massachusetts-Boston (19.3 ppg); Ellen Wiese, senior, guard, Mount Holyoke (14.2 ppg); Heidi Landry, senior, forward, Mount Holyoke (14.0 ppg); Elise Cromack, junior, center, Mount Holyoke (13.3 ppg, 11.8 rpg); Mary Engel, senior, guard, New England College (20.3 ppg); Lisa Gionet, sophomore, guard, Nichols (16.0); Cathy Lanni, junior, center/forward, Rhode Island College (14.9 ppg, 9.2 rpg); Carolyn Brooks, sophomore, forward, St. Joseph's (Maine), 15.1 ppg, 8.6 rpg; Evelyn Oquendo, senior, guard, Salem State (17.4 ppg); Hilary Fink, junior, guard, Smith (16.7 ppg); Marcella Zalot, junior, forward, Smith (12.4 ppg, 13.7 rpg); Cathy Johnson, senior, guard, Southeastern Massachusetts (17.5 ppg); Alicia Sisk, senior, forward, Wesleyan (16.3 ppg, 8.7 rpg); Yovanna Brown, sophomore, guard, 14.5 ppg; Beth Hennessy, junior, forward, Westfield State (17.5 ppg, 9.5 rpg); Kim Fay, senior, guard, Worcester Polytechnic (16.9 ppg); Cindy Perkins, junior, forward, Worcester Polytechnic (15.5 ppg).

East

Top teams—Albany (New York) (23-4, four), Buffalo State (18-8, two), Clarkson (12-6, four), CCNY (26-3, four), Columbia (19-7, four), Geneseo State (10-9, five), Herbert Lehman (19-9, five), New Rochelle (25-8, four), New York University (20-9, four), Rochester (21-6, three), St. John Fisher (21-8 in Division II last year, one), Stony Brook (16-10, five and William Smith (12-7, four).

If any team will dethrone New Rochelle, which seems highly unlikely, it might be either Rochester or Albany (New York).

Top players—Wilhelmina Lesane, senior, guard, Albany (New York) (17.0 ppg); Karen O'Callaghan, senior, forward, Buffalo State (12.0 ppg, 11.2 rpg); Hilda Cruz, senior, forward, CCNY (20.7 ppg, 10.1 rpg); Ellen Bossert, senior, center, Columbia (18.8 ppg, 14.2 rpg); Sue Lind, junior, center, Geneseo State (17.4 ppg, 8.6 rpg); Sarah Feyerherm, senior, guard, Hamilton (16.4 ppg); Sabrina Johnson, senior, forward, Herbert Lehman (14.3 ppg); Karen Vercelli, senior, forward, Manhattanville (14.5 ppg); Dawn Cillo, junior, forward, New Rochelle (21.2 ppg); Laura Michell, senior, forward, New Rochelle (11.8 ppg, 10.2 rpg); Wanda Davis, senior, center, New York University (14.1 ppg, 13.0 rpg); Chris Robinson, junior, forward, New York University (13.1 ppg); Linda DeRyke, senior, center, Oswego State (13.4 ppg, 11.1 rpg); Darcy Gilbo, senior, guard, Plattsburgh State (13.1 ppg); Angela Carter, senior, guard, Staten Island (20.8 ppg); Ellen Gribbin, sophomore, guard, Staten Island (16.9 ppg); Donna Garrison, sophomore, forward, Staten Island (13.1 ppg, 10.8 rpg); Michele White, junior, guard, Stony Brook (20.1 ppg); Trena Sutton, sophomore, forward, William Smith (15.7 ppg).

Amy Proctor, St. Norbert

Mid-Atlantic

Top teams—Allegheny (24-3, four), Allentown (20-8, three), Elizabethtown (17-7, four), Gettysburg (19-6, three), Juniata (15-7, four), King's (15-11, four), Scranton (31-1, two), Spring Garden (15-10, three) and Susquehanna (24-5, one).

Although Elizabethtown, Gettysburg and Susquehanna all seem capable of mounting a charge, none should be able to oust Scranton from the top spot in the region. The Lady Royals should keep the crown.

Top players—Lynn Butler, junior, forward, Allentown (19 ppg, 7.7 rpg); Jane Meyer, senior, guard, Elizabethtown (20.5 ppg); Elaine Balaban, junior, center, Elizabethtown (12.9 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Karen Steidle, senior, forward, Franklin and Marshall (12.3 ppg, 9.7 rpg); Barb Taylor, senior, forward, Gettysburg (15.5 ppg); Susan Grubb, sophomore, forward, Juniata (12.9 ppg, 10.2 rpg); Patti Thomas, junior, center, King's (17.6 ppg, 11.8 rpg); Anne Scaries, sophomore, forward, Muhlenberg (13.6 ppg); Shelley Parks, senior, center, Scranton (16.6 ppg, 12.7 rpg); Ann Wright, junior, guard, Spring Garden (15.3 ppg); Cindy Kelly, senior, forward, Washington and Jefferson (19.4 ppg, 10.7 rpg); Elaine Calzonetti, junior, forward, Widener (17.6 ppg, 8.6 rpg); Michelle Zawoiski, senior, forward, Wilkes (14.7 ppg, 8.4 rpg).

Atlantic

Top teams—Capital (23-2, five), Catholic (16-7, five), Fairleigh Dickinson-Madison (11-9, five), Frostburg State (21-5, three), Kenyon (13-9, three), Muskingum (25-4, two), Ramapo (15-11, five), Trenton State (16-9, two), Wooster (21-8, two) and Wright State (16-12, four).

Unless the unexpected occurs, Frostburg State and Muskingum again should rule this region. Both have good players returning.

Top players—Debbie Crider, senior, guard, Baldwin Wallace (17.45 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Dianne Hess, junior, forward, Bethany (West Virginia) (18.4 ppg, 7.7 rpg); Karen Haben, senior, guard, Capital (15.8 ppg); Allison Bethca, sophomore, forward, Case Reserve (13.9 ppg); Robin Jones, junior, forward, Denison (20.3 ppg, 11.2 rpg); Wendy Waters, junior, forward, Fairleigh Dickinson-Madison (16.1 ppg); Tammy Long, senior, guard, Frostburg State

(17.1 ppg); Felice Byser, senior, forward, Galaudet (16.9 ppg, 11.6 rpg); Tammy Steele, senior, guard, Glassboro State (19.8 ppg, 7.6 rpg); Terri McDivitt, senior, guard, Hiram (17.3 ppg); Sue Haskett, senior, forward, Hiram (10.6 rpg); Monique Hemingway, sophomore, center, Jersey City State (16.7 ppg, 15.4 rpg); T.C. South

Top teams—Christopher Newport (16-9, two), Eastern Mennonite (22-4, five), Emory and Henry (15-8, three), Fisk (22-4, two), Greensboro (14-10, four), LeMoyn-Owen (16-11, three), Marymount (Virginia) (15-8, four), North Carolina-Greensboro (21-7, two), Roanoke (17-7, three), and Rust (25-2, three).

Winner of the Division III championship two seasons ago, Rust must be considered the top team in the region as the new year begins. Fisk and North Carolina-Greensboro also should be strong all year long.

Top players—Diana Beard, junior, guard, Bridgewater (Virginia) (13.4 ppg); Pam Stewart, junior, forward, Christopher Newport (16.7 ppg); Rory Peets, junior, forward, Christopher Newport (10.4 ppg, 12.8 rpg); Deana Moren, senior, guard, 14.7 ppg; Susie French, sophomore, guard, Eastern Mennonite (14.2 ppg); Carolyn Foster, senior, center, Emory and Henry (16.7 ppg, 11.9 rpg); Ann Reynolds, sophomore, guard, Ferrum (15 ppg); Kathryn Jennings, junior, forward, Ferrum (12.3 ppg, 10.1 rpg); Jewell Humphrey, junior, guard, Fisk (24.8 ppg); Helen Beard, sophomore, forward, Fisk (22.4 ppg, 11.0 rpg); Lorraine Orr, sophomore, forward, Greensboro (13.3 ppg, 9.4 rpg); Amy Morgan, sophomore, forward, Hollins (18.3 ppg, 7.2 rpg); Vanessa Golden, junior, guard, Lane (14.1 ppg); Christy Shelton, sophomore, guard, Mary Baldwin (13.4 ppg); Vivian Culverhouse, junior, forward, Methodist (13 ppg, 11 rpg); Michelle

Top teams—Albion (15-5, two), Calvin (13-7, three), Ripon (17-4, five), St. Norbert (24-4, two), Wisconsin-Oshkosh (18-8, three), Wisconsin-River Falls (19-8, three) and Wisconsin-Whitewater (21-8, four).

Amy Proctor's return makes St. Norbert the early favorite to stay on top of this region. Proctor is the team's leading scorer and rebounder and was an all-conference and all-tournament selection at both the NCAA regional and finals.

But any of the listed Wisconsin schools could steal that title away before the end of the season.

Top players—Tammy Holloway, junior, guard, Adrian (14.5 ppg); Karen Gingras, senior, forward, Hope (17 ppg); Suzy Eskola, senior, guard, Ripon (15.3 ppg); Amy Proctor, senior, center/forward, St. Norbert (19.9 ppg, 10.2 rpg); Kristi Gunderson, senior, guard/forward, Wisconsin-La Crosse (13.8 ppg, 7.2 rpg); Sherri Batterman, junior, forward/guard, Wisconsin-Platteville (14.8 ppg); Mary Johnson, senior, center, Wisconsin-River Falls (13.6 ppg, 10 rpg); Sonja Sorenson, sophomore, center, Wisconsin-Stevens Point (18.1 ppg, 11.3 rpg); Bev Podewils, junior, forward/guard, Wisconsin-Whitewater (15 ppg).

Central

Top teams—Augustana (Illinois) (15-9, five), Buena Vista (20-8, four), Carroll (22-6, two), Central (Iowa) (17-6, two), Millikin (22-3, four), Washington (Missouri) (13-5, four), Wheaton (Illinois) (14-8, four) and William Penn (21-7, three).

Short on height but long on gutsy play, Millikin probably will remain the top team in the region. Watch out for Jeannie Demers-led Buena Vista and William Penn. Both will be very strong.

Top players—Jill Rednour, junior, center, Augustana (Illinois) (13.6 ppg, 9.5 rpg); Jeannie Demers, junior, guard, Buena Vista (30.6 ppg); Amy Vanden Langenberg, senior, guard, Carroll (19.4 ppg); Kim McFarlan, junior, guard, Central (Iowa) (14.6 ppg); Penny Wehrs, sophomore, guard, Dubuque (16.9 ppg); June Salow, junior, forward, Dubuque (14.2 ppg); Chris Morrison, senior, center, Dubuque (912.2 rpg); Karen Kinsella, senior, center/forward, Elmhurst (15.3 ppg); Sharon Forgue, senior, center/forward, Elmhurst (14.6 ppg); Sherry Bryan, senior, forward, Eureka (15.6 ppg); Carol Nadolski, senior, guard/forward, Illinois Benedictine (13.5 ppg); Ann Considine, sophomore, guard, Illinois Wesleyan (13.1 ppg); Deb Jacobsen, sophomore, center, Luther (15.3 ppg, 7.6 rpg); Kristy Adkison, sophomore, forward, MacMurray (13 ppg, 9.3 rpg); Michelle Mariage, senior, forward, Millikin (13 ppg); Tonda Logue, senior, guard, Millikin (13 ppg); Angie Isaacson, sophomore, guard, Trinity (Illinois) (19.5 ppg); Patti Montgomery, senior, center, Upper Iowa (19 ppg, 11.5 rpg); Sue Klahsen, senior, center, Wartburg (14.7 ppg, 6.1 rpg); Jacquie Welker, junior, forward, Washington (Missouri) (16.2 ppg); Debby Braun, junior, guard, Washington (Missouri) (16 ppg); Sunnie Kemp, senior, center, Wheaton (Illinois), (19.9 ppg, 9.6 rpg); Becky Inman, junior, forward, William Penn (17.6 ppg, 8.9 rpg).

West

Top teams—Bishop (14-8, four), Concordia-Moorhead (16-12, three), Pomona-Pitzer (27-2, two), St. Benedict (20-9, four), St. Mary's (Minnesota) (24-2, four), St. Thomas (Minnesota) (17-9, three), and Whittier (17-9, five).

Pomona-Pitzer may not be able to defend its West region championship from last season. Whittier will be very strong, as will St. Mary's (Minnesota). This race could be a toss-up.

Top players—Michele Boyer, sophomore, guard, Augsburg (17.8 ppg); Carla Williams, senior, forward, Bishop (15.6 ppg); Sayori Thomas, sophomore, guard, Cal State San Bernardino (19.9 ppg); Nicki Herath, sophomore, center, Colorado College (14.7 ppg); Jessie Beachy, sophomore, guard, Concordia-Moorhead (14 ppg); Linn Erickson, junior, forward/center, Gustavus Adolphus (16.1 ppg, 9.6 rpg); Pam Summers, senior, forward, Hamline (19.6 ppg, 10.2 rpg); Kelly Collins, junior, forward/guard, LaVerne (17.2 ppg); Wee Ling Wong, junior, forward, Occidental (18.1 ppg); Terri Russo, junior, guard, Redlands (13.4 ppg); Jennifer Nash, senior, forward, St. Benedict (15.3 ppg); Mary Schultz, senior, center, St. Mary's (Minnesota), (21.4 ppg, 11.1 rpg); Mary Kincaid, senior, guard, Whitman (14 ppg); Julie Curtis, junior, guard, Whittier (26.4 ppg).

Illinois (14.7 ppg); Amy Hile, junior, forward, Indiana State (19.8 ppg); Juli Stiles, junior, center, Illinois State (13.1 ppg); Diane Roberts, sophomore, forward, Northern Iowa (19.3 ppg); Petra Jackson, senior, guard, Southern Illinois (18.2 ppg); Jeanette Tendai, senior, forward, Southwest Missouri State (18.5 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Allison Daniel, senior, guard/forward, Wichita State (19.5 ppg).

Gulf Star

Northwestern Louisiana (20-6, five) will win this conference for the second year in a row. Another perfect (10-0) league record also is possible.

Top players—Realia Davis, junior, center, Nicholls State (16.6 ppg, 11.7 rpg); Gussie Leonard, sophomore, center, Northwest Louisiana (19.7 ppg); Linda Grayson, junior, forward, Northwest Louisiana (17.5 ppg, 9.2 rpg); Renee Daniels, senior, forward/center, Southeastern Louisiana (22.3 ppg).

High Country

Brigham Young (19-9, two) has bolstered a group of six returning letter-winners with four solid recruits, making the Cougars a favorite to defend their league title. Look for challenges from New Mexico State (15-13, three) and Utah (16-12, two).

Top players—Tresa Spaulding, junior, center, Brigham Young (19.1 ppg, 9.7 rpg); Michele Hoppes, junior, forward, Wyoming (15.1 ppg, 10.6 rpg); Winifred Foster, senior, forward, New Mexico (13.5 ppg); Jeanette Feaster, senior, guard, New Mexico State (15.0 ppg).

Ivy

Princeton should be the frontrunner for the league crown (15-11, five) after tying with Brown (15-11, three) for the 1985 championship.

Dartmouth (11-15, four) could challenge, after last year's 8-4, third-place finish.

Top players—Christa Champion, senior, center, Brown (14.2 ppg); Michelle Smith, senior, forward, Brown (15.4 ppg, 8.4 rpg); Jayne Daigle, senior, center, Dartmouth (19.3 ppg, 10.5 rpg); Bev Hagerdon, sophomore, forward, Dartmouth (13.9 ppg, Ivy rookie of the year); Ellen DeVoe, senior, forward, Princeton (14.1 ppg, 10.5 rpg); Sue Johnson, senior, forward, Yale (18.3 ppg).

Metro

South Carolina (18-10, five) may be able to overtake defending champion Memphis State (23-7, three) and win the league title.

Virginia Tech (16-13, three) also could be tough as the season progresses. South Carolina's veteran lineup makes it the favorite.

Top players—Keely Freeman, senior, forward, Cincinnati (13.9 ppg, 1,158 career points); Lorraine Rimson, junior, forward, Florida State (16.3 ppg); Brantley Southers, senior, forward, South Carolina (17.2 ppg); Renee Dennis, junior, forward, Virginia Tech (14.2 ppg).

Metro Atlantic

The same three teams that battled last year for supremacy will battle again this season.

Give the early nod to St. Peter's (25-4, four), but keep an eye on Holy Cross (21-7, four) and La Salle (22-8, five). This will be one of the most exciting league races in the division.

Top players—Sharon Nast, senior, forward, Fordham (17.3 ppg); Janet Hourihan, senior, forward, Holy Cross (20.1 ppg, 12.5 rpg, league player of the year); Cheryl Aaron, junior, guard, Holy Cross (17.3 ppg); Joanne Ryan, senior, forward, Iona (15.0 ppg); Linda Hester, senior, guard/forward, La Salle (20.0 ppg); Jill Crandley, senior, guard/forward, La Salle (17.3 ppg); Adrienne Draughn, senior, forward, St. Peter's (14.2 ppg).

Mid-American

Just about everyone in the conference has a lot of veterans returning, so a finish similar to last season is likely. Look for Central Michigan (19-10, four), Western Michigan (19-10, four) and Miami (Ohio) (14-13, three) to battle for the title.

Top players—Stephanie Coe, senior, forward/center, Bowling Green (14.7 ppg); Joclyn Shoup, senior, forward/center, Bowling Green (12.9 ppg, 13.6 rpg); Betsy Yonkman, senior, forward, Central Michigan (16.3 ppg, 7.9 rpg); Latanga Cox, senior, center, Central Michigan (15.1 ppg, 9.8 rpg); Caroline Mast, senior, forward, Ohio (24.1 ppg, 11.7 rpg); Liz Meiring, senior, forward, Toledo (17.0 ppg, 11.0 rpg); Tracy Wells, junior, guard, Western Michigan (14.6 ppg).

Mid-Eastern

South Carolina State (20-5, five) should win 20 games for the second year in a row; another perfect (11-0) league record also is possible. Coach Willie Simon has a veteran club, and he should see his charges put together another fine season.

Top players—Monica Felder, sophomore, guard, Maryland-Eastern Shore (21.2 ppg); Marsha Oden, junior, guard, North Carolina A&T (13.7 ppg); Yvette Estep, junior, forward, North Carolina A&T (12.0 ppg); Vonda Middleton, senior, guard, South Carolina State (17.3 ppg); Latasha Anderson, senior, forward, South Carolina State (13.0 ppg); Wanda Pittman, junior, center, South Carolina State (11.3 rpg).

Mountain West

Eastern Washington (20-7, two), Idaho (28-2, four) and Montana (22-10, three) are the teams to watch this season. Give the nod to defending champion Idaho, coming off the most successful season in school history.

Top players—Brenda Souther, junior, center, Eastern Washington (15.3 ppg, 10.6 rpg); Mary Raese, senior, center, Idaho (18.7 ppg, 9.4 rpg); Mary Westerwelle, senior, forward, Idaho (14.5 ppg); Sharla Muralt, senior, center, Montana (13.8 ppg, 8.6 rpg); Kathleen McGlaughlin, senior, forward/center, Montana State (19.5 ppg, 11.7 rpg).

New South

This is another conference in its first season of play. Early favorites for the first title include Central Florida (20-10, three), under the direction of new head coach Nancy Little; Florida A&M (19-9, four), and Georgia State (16-10, four). Another team to watch is Mercer, a final-four participant in Division II last year.

Top players—Susan Patz, senior, forward, Central Florida (16.3 ppg); Kristy Burns, senior, forward, Central Florida (16.0 ppg); Regina Days, sophomore, forward, Georgia Southern (16.7 ppg, 11.2 rpg); Angela Jenkins, sophomore, forward, Georgia State (21.1 ppg, 15.1 rpg); Lorna Jefferson, junior, guard, Georgia State (14.0 ppg); Dallas Boychuk, senior, center, Stetson (14.3 ppg, 9.3 rpg).

NorPac

Washington (26-2, two) is the defending champion, but the Huskies lost some talented people and will be adjusting to new coach Chris Gobrecht.

If any team can wrest the top spot away from Washington, it will be either Oregon (14-14, six including part-time starters) or Oregon State (19-10, three).

Top players—Shannon McGee, junior, forward, Fresno State (16.4 ppg); Lauri Landerholm, junior, guard, Oregon (15.2 ppg); Brenda Arbuckle, junior, forward, Oregon State (14.1 ppg, 7.6 rpg); Marcia Miles, senior, forward, Washington State (17.9 ppg).

North Star

Defending champion Notre Dame will feel a lot of heat from the league's "three Ds": Dayton (17-10, four), DePaul (19-9, four) and Detroit (17-11, three). Loyola (Illinois) (19-8, three) also could be tough, but the Irish should fight their way to another crown.

Top players—Sally Anderson, junior, guard, DePaul (19.5 ppg); Cassandra Pack, junior, forward, Detroit (17.8 ppg, 6.7 rpg); Barb Dykstra, senior, guard, Evansville (14.1 ppg); Kathy Leyden, senior, guard, Loyola (Illinois) (15.8 ppg); Lynn Suplicki, junior, center, Marquette (12.6 ppg, 9.2 rpg); Trena Keys, senior, forward/center, Notre Dame (17.2 ppg).

Ohio Valley

Defending champion Middle Tennessee State (23-7, three) and Tennessee Tech (20-9, five) are the teams to beat in the OVC this season. Middle Tennessee State should be able to hold off the Golden Eagles and the rest of the league again.

Top players—Dorothy Taylor, senior, forward, Austin Peay (13.9 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Angela Fletcher, senior, guard, Eastern Kentucky (13.3 ppg); Kim Webb, junior, guard, Middle Tennessee State (18.1 ppg); Kay Willbanks, junior, center, Middle Tennessee State (15.8 ppg, 7.8 rpg); Shawna Smith, senior, guard, Murray State (12.5 ppg); Cheryl Taylor, junior, center, Tennessee Tech (18.4 ppg, 13.6 rpg); Chris Moye, senior, forward, Tennessee Tech (14.9 ppg); Danielle Carson, senior, guard/forward, Youngstown State (17.3 ppg).

Pac West

These teams belonged to the Western Collegiate Athletic Association last year, so not much has changed.

Look for Cheryl Miller to lead Southern California (21-9, three) to the new league's title in this, her final season with the Women of Troy.

Top players—Sherry Poole, junior, forward, Arizona State (12.6 ppg); Cheryl Miller, senior, forward/center, Southern California (25.8 ppg, 15.8 rpg); Kami Anderson, sophomore, forward, Stanford (14.7 ppg); Virginia Sourlis, senior, guard, Stanford (14.1 ppg); Anne Dean, senior, guard, UCLA (14.3 ppg).

Pacific Coast

Long Beach State (28-3, one) won the WCAA title a year ago. Now in the PCAA, the 49ers will have to fight Nevada-Las Vegas (26-5, five) for the title. Give the edge to the Runnin' Rebels, one of the strongest teams in the division.

Top players—Cheri Graham, senior, center, Cal Irvine (18.3 ppg, 7.5 rpg); Cindy Brown, junior, forward/center, Long Beach State (20.0 ppg, 10.0 rpg); Kristen Nicholson, senior, guard/forward, Cal Santa Barbara (14.9 ppg); Misty Thomas, senior, guard, Nevada-Las Vegas (20.4 ppg, PCAA player of the year); Angela Christian, junior, forward, Nevada-Las Vegas (13.1 ppg, 7.1 rpg); Janet Whitney, senior, forward, Pacific (17.3 ppg); Janet Otto, senior, forward, Pacific (11.1 ppg, 10.2 rpg).

Seaboard

Northeastern (22-7, four) should defend its 1985 conference championship. The only real trouble may come from Maine (21-9, four). With center Elizabeth Coffin only a sophomore, the Black Bears will be a conference contender for at least three more seasons.

Top players—Renee Kurowski, junior, guard, Boston University (13.4 ppg); Yvette Jones, senior, forward, Central Connecticut State (17.2 ppg, 8.3 rpg); Sethe Thompson, junior, guard, Central Connecticut State (15.3 ppg); Elizabeth Coffin, sophomore, center, Maine (15.5 ppg, 12.7 rpg); Terri Mulliken, junior, forward, New Hampshire (13.1 ppg); Pam Green, senior, forward, Northeastern (17.5 ppg); Joann McKay, sophomore, center, Vermont (15.2 ppg, 9.2 rpg).

Southeastern

Can anyone catch Georgia? Coach Andy Landers has another final-four contender, with three starters back from last year's 29-5, national-finalist season.

Other teams to look for include Alabama (18-10, five), under the direction of new head coach Lois Myers; Louisiana State (20-9, four); Mississippi (29-3, three), and Tennessee (22-10, four).

Top players—Carol Smith, senior, forward/center, Alabama (17.5 ppg, 10.1 rpg); Teresa Edwards, senior, guard, Georgia (15.5 ppg); Katrina McClain, junior, center, Georgia (13.7 ppg, 8.1 rpg); Leslie Nichols, senior, forward, Kentucky (18.4 ppg, 9.1 rpg); Alisha Jones, junior, center, Louisiana State (17.3 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Natalie Randall, senior, forward, Louisiana State (13.0 ppg); Jennifer Gillom, senior, forward/center, Mississippi (18.2 ppg, 7.2 rpg).

Southland

Northeast Louisiana (30-2, five) may be the team to beat, not only here but in the entire country. This has to be the finest group of returning veterans to be found anywhere. They should win the conference and are likely candidates for the final four.

Top players—Charlotte Fields, junior, center, Arkansas State (15.6 ppg, 7.7 rpg); Vicki Gentry, senior, center, Lamar (13.4 ppg, 8.7 rpg); Kim Turner, sophomore, forward, McNeese State (12.9 ppg); Sheila Stow, senior, forward, North Texas State (16.0 ppg); Barbara Williams, senior, center, North Texas State (15.6 ppg, 8.8 rpg); Lisa Ingram, senior, center, Northeast Louisiana (21.2 ppg); Eun Jung Lee, senior, guard, Northeast Louisiana (18.0 ppg, 8.6 assists per game); Chana Perry, sophomore, center, Northeast Louisiana (12.5 ppg); Aronji Johnson, sophomore, forward, Southwestern Louisiana (21.1 ppg, 10.0 rpg).

Southwest

Look for Tennessee-Chattanooga (16-13, three) to defend its 1985 league title. Appalachian State (16-12, five) could make some waves with its veteran lineup.

Top players—Valerie Whiteside, sophomore, center, Appalachian State (27.1 ppg, 15.5 rpg); Karen Robinson, junior, forward, Appalachian State (18.2 ppg); Katie Beck, sophomore, forward, East Tennessee State (15.9 ppg, 9.6 rpg); Regina Kirk, sophomore, forward, Tennessee-Chattanooga (20.4 ppg, 9.7 rpg); Emily Holliday, senior, center, Western Carolina (15.1 ppg, 9.5 rpg).

Southwest

Texas should win the league championship again. The Longhorns have all their starters back from last year's 28-3 campaign. Senior center Annette Smith will be a big contributor, after redshirting last season. Senior Kamie Ethridge may be the best guard in the country.

Top players—Rita Martin, senior, guard, Baylor (15.0 ppg); Sonya Watkins, senior, center, Houston (18.1 ppg, 9.7 rpg); Holly Jones, junior, forward, Rice (15.6 ppg); Fran Harris, senior, forward, Texas (15.0 ppg); Gay Hemphill, senior, center, Texas (14.7 ppg); Kamie Ethridge, senior, guard, Texas (7.2 assists per game, SWC player of the year); Tricia Clay, senior, center, Texas Tech (16.8 ppg, 6.8 rpg).

Sun Belt

Old Dominion's Lady Monarchs will have their work cut out for them in the conference. Returning are two starters from last year's national champions (31-3), but coach Marianne Stanley has had a good recruiting season. Trouble in the Sun Belt will come from Western Kentucky (28-6, five, final-four participant), a powerhouse team, and possibly from South Alabama (19-10, five), a team that should improve on a .500 league record last season.

Top players—Kristen Wilson, junior, center, North Carolina-Charlotte (18.3 ppg, 13.0 rpg); Orphie Moore, junior, forward, South Alabama (19.8 ppg, 10.6 rpg); Wanda Guyton, sophomore, center, South Florida (13.8 ppg, 6.8 rpg); Lillie Mason, senior, forward, Western Kentucky (16.2 ppg, 7.5 rpg); Kami Thomas, senior, guard, Western Kentucky (14.1 ppg); Clemette Haskins, junior, guard, Western Kentucky (12.9 ppg, 6.2 assists per game).

West Coast

Pepperdine (10-19, four) and San Diego (14-13, four) will fight it out for the title in the first year of WCAA basketball competition.

Top players—Chris Starr, senior, forward, Nevada-Reno (23.7 ppg, 9.2 rpg); Maureen Formico, senior, forward, Pepperdine (24.6 ppg, 13.2 rpg); Shawn Sturgeon, senior, forward, Pepperdine (14.4 ppg); Debbie Theroux, senior, guard/forward, San Diego (12.2 ppg, 8.4 rpg); Margaret Walsh, junior, forward, San Francisco (14.3 ppg); Toya Decece, senior, forward, U.S. International (24.6 ppg, 12.6 rpg).

Independents

Louisiana Tech has fielded one of the top independent programs in the country, and 1985-86 should be no different.

The Lady Techsters (29-4, four) also will benefit from the signing of freshman Nora Lewis, one of the nation's outstanding prep players. This team again will challenge for a trip to the final four. Other top programs include Creighton (21-6, five), Gonzaga (28-4, two), Jackson State (17-11, two), Miami (Florida) (21-7, two), New Orleans (18-10, two), Portland (26-8, three), Radford (17-10, three), and Texas-San Antonio, (18-10, three).

Top players—Jurice Hardin, junior, forward, Alabama State (13.8 ppg, 8.2 rpg); Lisa White, junior, guard/forward, Augusta (17.0 ppg); Cathy Coker, sophomore, forward, Baptist (15.2 ppg); Antionette Matthews, senior, forward, Campbell (15.7 ppg, 11.1 rpg); Debbie Thomas, senior, center, Cheyney (11.6 ppg, 12.3 rpg); Connie Yori, senior, guard, Creighton (18.7 ppg); Heather McGee, junior, forward, Davidson (17.0 ppg, 8.2 rpg); Tammy Tibbles, sophomore, guard, Gonzaga (15.8 ppg); Lisa Vestal, senior, forward, Gonzaga (13.9 ppg, 9.1 rpg); Anna Eatmon, senior, guard/forward, Jackson State (15.9 ppg); Lori Harrison, junior, center, Louisiana Tech (14.5 ppg, 9.2 rpg); Teresa Weatherspoon, sophomore, guard, Louisiana Tech (7.2 assists per game); Maria Rivera, sophomore, guard, Miami (Florida) (18.7 ppg); Carmen Reed, senior, forward, New Orleans (17.5 ppg, 10.3 rpg); Julie Hanks, senior, guard/forward, Northern Arizona (16.7 ppg); Pecola Miller, senior, center, Northern Arizona (11.5 ppg, 7.7 rpg); Margaret Flannery, senior, forward, St. Francis (New York) (15.3 ppg); Patricia Dolan, junior, forward, St. Francis (New York) (11.3 rpg); Barb Miller, junior, forward, St. Francis (Pennsylvania) (13.6 ppg); Arlene Lampe, senior, center, St. Louis (15.0 ppg); Starlite Williams, junior, forward, Texas-San Antonio (17.6 ppg, 7.9 rpg); Stacey Gaudet, junior, guard, Tulane (16.3 ppg); Lyn Swanson, senior, forward, Valparaiso (15.6 ppg).

Top-level panel to report on status of elementary schools

Secretary of Education William J. Bennett has announced that a 21-member panel will make a report to the nation next summer on the status of elementary schools. Bennett will chair the panel.

Bennett's predecessor, T. H. Bell, organized a similar committee during President Reagan's first term that resulted in a report (A Nation at Risk) that launched a widespread movement for education reform in the nation's high schools.

In addition, Bennett said he was beginning an elementary school program to recognize "exemplary" schools.

He said it was fitting for the "excellence movement" to concern itself initially with high schools. Now, he said, we must begin to focus on elementary schools.

Enrollment in elementary schools is expected to rise by almost four million by 1992, and the schools will have to hire thousands of new teachers in the next few years.

"What is more," Bennett said, "the performance of elementary school children is not improving as it should."

Numbers increase

A record 342,113 foreign students were enrolled in U.S. colleges and universities last year, according to the Institute of International Education.

Engineering continued to be the leading field of study, followed by business and management, mathematics and computer sciences, and physical and life sciences.

It was the second year in a row that growth was less than one percent. In the 1970s, the foreign-student population grew at 10 percent or more each year.

California attracted the most foreign students, 47,318; New York was second with 31,064, and Texas was third with 29,429. Institutions with the highest number of foreign students were Miami-Dade Community College (4,316); University of Southern California (3,761); University of Texas, Austin (3,286); University of Wisconsin, Madison (2,901); Columbia University (2,773), and Ohio State University (2,606).

Karnes says he hopes Drake stays in Division I-AA

Retiring Drake University athletics director Robert D. Karnes says a fitting going-away present would be to see the school's football program maintained at Division I-AA.

"That really would be a great present," he said October 16 in a telephone interview with the Associated Press. A blue-ribbon committee at Drake has recommended the football program be scrapped because it's costing the school too much money.

"Over the years, we've had our detractors and they're still there," Karnes said. "I've talked to everybody who would listen. It's in Drake's best interest (to remain) in Division I-AA."

"That was the first charge President Paul Sharp gave me when I was hired as athletics director in 1968 - to upgrade the program from Division II and get back into the Missouri Valley (Conference)," Karnes said.

"There are indications from students, people in the community and some of the alums that the program should continue. I think President (Michael) Ferrari would like to have it here," Karnes said.

Ferrari is expected to make his recommendation to the school's executive committee following the Bulldogs' last game of the season, Karnes said.

and community concern over the graduation rate of basketball and football players.

"We're confident that with the system we now have, we can offer student-athletes the personal attention they need to meet academic goals," said Don K. Carson, vice-president for student educational services.

SAT scores up

The average SAT score for the class of 1985 jumped five points in verbal to 431 and four points in mathematics to 475, the largest gain in scores when combined since the peak year of 1963, of the past several years. Now we cannot get complacent. SAT scores and other gauges of academic performance have still not recovered to the levels they were at before the decline began."

The average SAT score still is far below the peak of 980 in 1963, the first year the College Board recorded the scores nationally.

The College Board also reported that scores this year rose despite an increase of 12,600 students taking the test, and scores improved in all major groups of test-takers. Gains in the last few years had been concentrated mostly among girls. All minority groups also showed increases.

Teachers unhappy

A new poll has revealed that more than 25 percent of the country's school teachers say they likely will quit their jobs within the next five years because of low pay and a belief that their views are not being sought in shaping the education reforms being implemented.

About two-thirds of the teachers polled say their views have not been sought or reflected in the reforms being put in place across much of the country.

The poll was conducted by Louis Harris & Associates.

The results add weight to recent Federal studies that predict the nation will have 34 percent fewer teachers than it needs in 1992.

"Despite all the reports and studies that have been issued over the past few years, very little has been done to make teaching the type of profession that will attract bright, creative and, yes, ambitious men and women," said John J. Creedon, president of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which sponsored the poll.

"Teachers are telling the American public that education is headed for deep trouble unless teaching is treated as a true profession," said Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the National Education Association.

Elsewhere in Education

the center are registration counseling, degree and career planning, study-skills seminars, and information regarding university policies and procedures. Materials on NCAA rules and regulations also will be available through the center.

A director and two full-time staff members will continuously advise the athletics director and head coaches on the academic status and eligibility of every student-athlete.

The counseling services also will be when scores began a 17-year decline.

The combined total of 906 (possible 1,600) puts the SAT average back where it was a decade ago.

The average ACT score achieved by nearly one million seniors rose by one-tenth of a point, to 18.6, on a scale of 1 to 36, a gain less significant than the one registered on the SAT, education officials said.

Secretary of Education William J. Bennett said, "We begin to see here the impact of the reform movement

Basketball contact period—fall basketball

Division I and Division II member institutions are reminded that under the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(5), off-campus, in-person contacts with prospective student-athletes shall be permissible in the sport of basketball only during the period between September 1 and October 10 and the period between March 1 (or the date of completion of the prospective student-athlete's final high school or junior college contest, if it occurs thereafter) and May 15, except for the period surrounding the Division I men's and women's basketball national championship games as set forth in Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(6).

Please note that in those states that have interscholastic or junior college basketball contests in the fall only, it would not be permissible for a Division I or Division II institution to contact a prospective student-athlete in person until March 1, which would be considered the first date subsequent to the prospect's final high school or junior college contest under these circumstances.

National and institutional letters-of-intent

Under the provisions of Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(1)-(iii), no Division I or Division II member institution may participate in an institutional or conference athletics letter-of-intent program that involves a signing date in the sport of football or basketball that precedes the initial signing date for that sport in the National Letter of Intent program. This regulation precludes a member institution from obtaining a prospective student-athlete's signature on any institutional letter-of-intent form or athletically related grant-in-aid statement in the sport of football or basketball prior to the initial signing date for that sport in the National Letter of Intent program.

The signing periods in the National Letter of Intent program for men's and women's basketball are November 13–November 20, 1985, and April 9–May 15, 1986. The signing period for football is February 12–May 1, 1986, with an early signing period of December 11, 1985–January 15, 1986, for midyear junior college transfers. It should be noted that if a prospective student-athlete has not signed during the early signing period, a member institution could not obtain the prospective student-athlete's signature on any institutional letter-of-intent or athletically related grant-in-aid statement prior to the next signing date for that sport (i.e., football—February 12, 1986; basketball—April 9, 1986).

Under this interpretation, a member institution may indicate in writing to the prospect that an athletically related grant-in-aid will be offered to him or her by the institution; however, the prospect may not sign a form indicating his or her acceptance of such an award prior to the applicable signing periods.

Media days

Member institutions are reminded that under the provisions of Constitution 3-1-(h)-(1), it is permissible for member institutions to pay expenses for their student-athletes to attend conference-sponsored media days and regularly established local or regional media functions. It should be noted that this interpretation does not allow member institutions to pay the expenses incurred by their student-athletes to attend special or single-game promotional media events.

Council interpretations—restrictions on interpretation requests

At its recent meeting, the NCAA Council approved a new policy restricting the number of individuals from member institutions and conferences who can request interpretations from the Association's legislative services department. This new policy is set forth on page one of this issue of The NCAA News and was approved by the Council to encourage institutional control and achieve more efficient handling of requests for interpretations of NCAA legislation.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Presidents Commission in that regard. An action of the Division III Steering Committee to sponsor the legislation was rescinded by the full Council.

• The Council did not favor a Presidents Commission proposal to amend Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2) to permit a nonqualifier under the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(j) to receive athletic aid during the freshman year and to retain all four years of eligibility after that year. The proposal would eliminate the current requirement of a 2.000 overall high school grade-point average for such an individual, and President Davis was authorized to inform the Commission of the weaknesses in the proposal.

Legislation sponsored

Among the proposals the Council voted to sponsor are the following:

• An amendment to establish a drug-testing program for NCAA championships and postseason football contests. The legislation would include a list of banned drugs and authorization of penalties for institutions' staff members who know of the use of banned drugs by student-athletes and who fail to follow institutional procedures regarding drug abuse. Use of a banned drug by a student-athlete would result in his or her loss of eligibility for postseason competition.

• A resolution setting forth the Council's concerns regarding gambling in intercollegiate athletics and urging Federal legislation in that regard. The actual resolution will be developed before November 1 by the Administrative Committee.

• A resolution authorizing the Committee on Infractions during the next year to study current enforcement procedures and to implement policy changes, on an experimental basis, that appear necessary to process infractions cases under the new penalty structure. Any changes that appear desirable after that year of experimentation would be proposed as legislation at the 1987 Convention.

• Several different proposals intended to assist in controlling the Association's legal costs, essentially as presented in the September 30 issue of the News. One of those proposals would authorize the Council (or a subcommittee) to hold a member institution accountable for 50 percent of the legal costs incurred by the Association in a suit initiated by the member institution's staff member or a student-athlete if the institution did not exhaust the internal procedures of the Association in the case or did not cooperate with the Association in defending against the suit.

• The proposal to move the Association's limitation on the amount of a grant-in-aid from the constitution to the bylaws, retaining a ceiling in the constitution. The Council thus affirmed its vote in August to sponsor the proposal, which the Presidents Commission agreed early in October to cosponsor. In a related action, the Council decided not to propose an amendment to exempt the full amount of a Pell Grant from the aid limitation, rather than the current $900 exemption.

• Proposals to provide that indoor and outdoor track and field must be treated as one sport for NCAA purposes. Included was affirmation of the proposal to eliminate the Divisions I and III Men's and Women's Indoor Track Championships, but effective August 1, 1986, instead of 1987 as approved earlier; affirmation of a proposal to eliminate the opportunity to count indoor and outdoor track as two sports in meeting the Association's sports sponsorship requirements, but effective August 1, 1988, instead of 1986, and elimination of the opportunity to consider indoor and outdoor track as separate sports in determining the number of seasons of competition in which a student-athlete has competed, effective August 1, 1986.

• Recruiting restrictions to permit each Division I-A and Division I-AA institution to visit a football prospect's educational institution not more than once each week during the contact period in that sport, and to prohibit Division I institutions in any sport from providing official visits for, or making in-person recruiting contacts with, a 2.000 nonqualifier in the first year of junior college enrollment.

Other actions

Among the nonlegislative actions

by the Council, it was decided that:

• There will be no women's round table scheduled at the 1986 NCAA Convention inasmuch as the four-year "transition" period in the governance plan adopted at the 1981 Convention has ended and such a meeting appears unnecessary.

• Summer legislative meetings for Divisions I-A and I-AA probably will not be necessary in 1986, but in case they are, they will be held during the week of August 3. The final decision regarding such meetings will be made in the Council's post-Convention meeting in January.

• The Council will not propose elimination of complimentary admissions in NCAA legislation. Instead, it will ask the Presidents Commission to consider this matter in its intended discussion of financial aid issues.

A complete summary of all Council voting actions will appear in the October 28 issue of The NCAA News.

American University given public reprimand by NCAA

American University has been publicly reprimanded and censured by the NCAA's Committee on Infractions for a violation of NCAA legislation governing out-of-season practice in men's basketball.

The penalty imposed by the NCAA also will require the university to postpone the beginning of organized preseason practice in men's basketball from October 15 to October 22, 1985. No other sanctions were imposed, and the university remains eligible for television appearances and postseason competition.

The violation found in this case occurred in September and October 1984 when members of the university's men's basketball coaching staff observed and participated in several basketball workouts that involved basketball team members. In announcing the NCAA penalty, Frank J. Remington, infractions committee chair, stated that "the committee believed that its penalty in this case was appropriate to emphasize that basketball coaches are not permitted to participate in or observe basketball team workouts prior to October 15."

The following is a statement of the penalty imposed in the case and the violation that was found by the committee.

Penalty to be imposed upon institution

1. American University shall be publicly reprimanded and censured, and admonished to avoid a recurrence of a similar violation in the future.

2. The university's men's basketball team shall be precluded from beginning practice in the sport of men's basketball for the 1985-86 season until October 22, 1985.

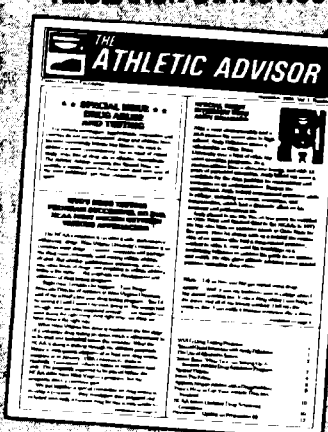

Summary of the violation of NCAA legislation

1. NCAA Bylaw 3-1-(a)-(1) [out-of-season practice]—On numerous occasions during September and October 1984, members of the men's basketball coaching staff participated in and observed basketball workouts that involved basketball team members.

week, with experienced staff waiting to take your call.

Q. While I am at the championship or meeting, I have to change my return. How do I get a new ticket and what do I do with the original ticket?

A. Just call the travel service, which is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The agent will make the changes and authorize tickets to be picked up at the airline ticket counter, if necessary. All unused tickets must be returned immediately to Fugazy.

Q. Our local agency quoted a lower fare than Fugazy. What should I do about it?

A. Call the travel service immediately so that they can investigate the difference. Deregulation has allowed airlines to experiment freely with fares; therefore, the fare can be affected by reservation date, ticketing date, minimum and maximum stay, and numerous other reasons. The Fugazy travel service guarantees the lowest applicable, available fare or the agency pays the difference.

Q. Can the travel service arrange charter flights?

A. Yes, these arrangements are made in the same method as that used for individual tickets so long as the charter meets the financial guidelines of the NCAA. Because it is more difficult to arrange a charter, there sometimes is a delay of a day or two in confirming the arrangements. The travel service, however, will complete the charter arrangements as soon as possible. Fugazy is bonded for public charters for $200,000.

Q. What if I combine NCAA business and personal travel on the same trip?

A. The travel service still can make all arrangements for you. The Association will be billed for its portion of the trip, and you will receive a separate bill for the personal part.

Q. Can the NCAA travel service arrange ground transportation and lodging?

A. Yes, the travel service can provide these special services to NCAA member institutions. Beginning in 1985-86, arrangements for car rentals for which the NCAA will reimburse the cost must be made through the travel service.

Q. What if circumstances arise that make it necessary to change a ticket or obtain a new ticket during a trip, with the additional ticket being paid for by the coach or participant?

A. Return the unused ticket to Fugazy with a letter explaining the situation and a copy of the new ticket confirming the actual cost. This information will be verified, and the national office will be advised. Payment will be sent directly from the Fugazy travel service to the institution within two to six weeks.

Q. How can I become acquainted with the NCAA travel policies?

A. The NCAA Travel Handbook, which outlines these policies, is published each year and distributed to all athletics directors, committee members, faculty representatives and primary women administrators of athletics programs. Additional copies also are provided each institution for its coaches and administrative staff. In addition, each championships handbook has information in it pertaining to these policies.

Q. How can I obtain an exception from the NCAA travel policies?

A. You should contact Richard D. Hunter, NCAA director of finance, at the NCAA national office. All exception requests are considered on a case-by-case basis.

Q. To whom should I talk if I have questions regarding the operation of the travel service?

A. If you have questions about arrangements, you should call Karen LaRose, Ken Luciani or Topper Luciani at Fugazy International Travel. If you have other kinds of questions, you should call Hunter at the NCAA national office.

No irregularities found in probe

An internal investigation into the Texas Christian University basketball program has failed to confirm any "substantive" violations, Chancellor William E. Tucker said.

The probe began about three weeks ago after the discovery that several football players had received cash payments from boosters.

"We are not on a witch hunt, but we are interested in making certain that all of our intercollegiate athletics programs reflect the university at its best," Tucker told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"At this point, we have not found anything.... If we find substance to any rumor involving any improprieties in any program, we will do exactly as we did before," he said, referring to coach Jim Wacker's dismissal of several football players.

The Star-Telegram said the major rumors concern a sports car driven by one basketball player and money that another player was alleged to have received for signing with the Horned Frogs.

Basketball coach Jim Killingsworth discounted the rumors.

"There is nothing suspicious going on at all, as far as I'm concerned. If there is anything going on (in connection with the program), I would be totally in shock," Killingsworth said.

Tucker could not say when the investigation might end but said he hoped to bring it to a conclusion as quickly as possible.

WE KNOW THE SPONSORSHIP GAME INSIDE OUT

In the past three years, Fair-Play has installed more sponsored scoreboards and message centers than all the other scoreboard companies combined. From large, custom designed boards on down, Fair-Play is the name to remember in sponsorship.

So, if you're about to acquire a sponsor-financed scoreboard, talk to Fair-Play first. You'll come out the big winner.

CORRECTION

Because of incorrect information provided to The NCAA News, it was reported in the October 7 issue that the minimum combined Scholastic Aptitude Test score of 1,330 (620 verbal, 710 math) must be attained for a student to enroll at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. That score represents the average for the 1985 incoming freshmen, not the minimum requirement.

In the same story, it was reported that the annual tuition at RPI is $15,000. That figure represents tuition and room and board.

ESPN to carry 144 basketball games, mostly in prime time

ESPN will telecast 144 college basketball games this season, including 28 NCAA tournament games, with more than 80 percent of them shown during prime time, the cable network has announced.

The network said at least 111 of the 116 regular-season and tournament conference games will be shown live — an increase in live contests from 63 percent last season to 95 percent. Only 54 percent of the games were presented in prime time last season when ESPN telecast 159 games.

The first game to be telecast will be UCLA at North Carolina Sunday, November 24.

The schedule includes at least 20 games from the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship, semi-final and final coverage of the Division I women's championship, and the championship games from the Division II men's and women's championships.

Six conferences will be featured on a regular basis: Atlantic Coast (28 games), Big East (25), Metro (10), Pac-10 (10), Sun Belt (10) and South-eastern (8).

North Carolina and Maryland each will have nine appearances. There will be six appearances each for St. John's (New York) and Georgia Tech.

There will be double-header telecasts four nights a week during the season.

Bouncing back

Basketball sounds that hadn't echoed for years in gyms at the University of Miami (Florida) and the University of San Francisco vibrated again with the official start of drills October 15.

The San Francisco Dons, winners of back-to-back national championships and 60 consecutive games 30 years ago, returned to the hardwood for the first time since the Rev. John Lo Schiavo, university president, announced the end of the program three years ago.

A basketball tradition that produced Bill Russell and K.C. Jones, 14 NCAA play-off berths and 42 winning seasons crumbled in the wake of recruiting violations and alumni payments to players.

Eleven years earlier, a lack of interest forced the Hurricanes out of the gym as the team collected more red ink than fans. Fewer than 1,000 per game showed up for their games during the 1970-71 season.

But optimism abounds as Miami coach Bill Foster and his counterpart at San Francisco, Jim Brovelli, go about rebuilding from the ground up.

"It was a good first practice... after a long, long wait," Foster told the Associated Press. "I didn't get much sleep last night, and I guess that's a little surprising when you've been in this game as long as I have. But after talking to some of these players today, I found out that they were a little nervous last night, too."

Foster, who compiled winning records in 18 of his 19 seasons at three schools, most recently Clemson University, drilled a group of nine freshmen, two transfers and four walk-ons through nearly three hours of practice.

"Our goal this year is to be successful, and I can assure you we're going to be successful," he said. "To me, this team will be a success if it works as hard as it can. And they will work as hard as they can and they'll work together. Attitude and team is what it's all about."

Brovelli had 13 players at his first practice — five freshmen, six junior college transfers, a four-year college transfer and 5-10 guard Jimmy Giron, the only player remaining from the last San Francisco team.

"It's been a major void here at USF and the entire city," Brovelli said. "With the great, rich tradition, everyone has missed it."

Neither team is planning an easy trip on the road to recovery. Miami's

Appeal is filed

The attorney for University of Connecticut basketball star Earl Kelley has appealed a Federal court decision dismissing his lawsuit against the Big East Conference school.

Attorney Lubbie Harper Jr. also filed a request in U.S. district court for an extension of a court order measures.

He and another student allegedly harassed two other students and briefly abducted one of them in a search for a student who according to Kelley had stolen items from his dormitory room.

Additionally, the school has charged Kelley with keeping a pistol and several knives in his dorm room.

Early registration

The U.S. Olympic Committee is accepting early registration for the United States Olympic Academy, June 10-14, 1986, at the Olympic complex, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The theme of this year's academy, "The Olympic Games, the Worldwide Olympic Movement, and Olympism," celebrates a decade of discussion of the principles of the Olympic movement and challenges facing the Olympic Games.

During the academy, recognition will be given to the outstanding American Olympians in recognition of the 90th anniversary of the inaugural games in Athens.

Registration and housing at the Olympic complex is limited to the first 350 applicants, according to Larry McCollum, director of the Olympic Training Center and cochair of the academy.

McCollum said a special program has been arranged for spouses that includes visits to landmarks in the vicinity.

The program has been arranged by Harry Fritz, chair, USOC Education Council and executive director of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Lecturers and panelists have been selected from among the best-known sports historians, sports-medicine authorities, sports psychologists, sports sociologists and leaders in amateur athletics, Fritz said.

Additional information and registration materials are available by writing C. Robert Paul Jr., USOC, 1705 East Boulder Street, Colorado Springs, Colorado 80909-5760.
