Sports participation continues to increase

Participation by men and women in intercollegiate athletics at NCAA member institutions continued to increase in 1984-85, according to participation and sponsorship data reviewed by the NCAA Long Range Planning Committee in its February meeting.

Comparing the participation figures from 1983-84 and 1984-85, as reported by member institutions on their institutional information forms, the total number of men participating in NCAA-recognized sports increased by 5.8 percent, from 186,008 to 197,446, while the women's total jumped 7.4 percent, from 82,449 to 89,062.

Of the total number of participants, 68.9 percent were men and 31.1 percent were women.

Meanwhile, the number of sports sponsored by member institutions increased for both men and women in Divisions I and III but decreased slightly for both in Division II, possibly reflecting the early effects of Division II's reduction of its sports sponsorship criteria for men and women from six sports to four.

Among the 19 men's sports, 12 showed gains in sponsorship, two were unchanged from the year before and five declined. The big gainers were cross country and soccer, each up 11, and indoor track, up seven. The biggest decline in sponsorship was in wrestling, which dropped 17 teams.

Of the 15 women's sports, 11 showed sponsorship increases, one was unchanged and three declined. The biggest increases were in softball

NCAA signs pact with American

The NCAA and American Airlines have reached a three-year agreement that names the company as the official airline for NCAA championships.

NCAA President John R. Davis and Eugene E. Rondeau Sr., national manager of company meetings and conventions for American Airlines, announced the agreement.

As the official airline for NCAA championships, American will provide air transportation for NCAA committee members and student-athletes during NCAA championships.

American will provide special fares for team travel and for staff who are scouting, recruiting or attending meetings, including NCAA and NACDA Conventions.

Under terms of the agreement, American Airlines also will make annual contributions to NCAA sports development and youth programs, such as the National Youth Sports Program.

American Airlines offers NCAA member schools a service network that flies to 130 airports in 118 cities worldwide, including 100 domestic stops. In 1985, American boarded more than 41 million passengers on its 300 airplanes. American has a fleet consisting of planes ranging from the 115-passenger Boeing 727 to the McDonnell Douglas DC-10, which seats 313 passengers.

NCAA member schools may call a special toll-free number to receive specific information about American Airlines' new program: 1-800-433-1790.

Down to 16 teams

The Division I Men's Basketball Championship field is down to 16 teams, and North Carolina State will be counting on Nate McMillan to help the Wolfpack advance to the Final Four in Dallas.

Underdogs enjoy their finest hour

By James M. Van Valkenburg

This 48th Division I Men's Basketball Championship is the first one in history to use a shot clock, and many coaches predicted the clock would reduce upsets to a minimum because it favors the more talented team. Some purists even predicted that a Villanova-over-Georgetown stunner (in the 1985 title game) would never happen again.

Those coaches may be hiding today, because this 1986 NCAA tournament has produced upset records galore—both in quantity and in quality—that surpass anything that has happened in the decade of the 1980s.

Quantity? Only seven of the 16 teams seeded first, second, third or fourth in the four regionals are in the Sweet 16, heading into the regional semifinals. That is a record for the 1980s, surpassing the eight in 1981. And in 1981, no team seeded lower than ninth in its regional made the Sweet 16, while this year Cleveland State, seeded 14th; DePaul, seeded 12th, and Louisiana State, 11th, all are in the Sweet 16.

Quality? We realize the magnitude of an upset can be in the eyes of the beholder, but purely in terms of the difference in seeding numbers, this tournament already has produced the two biggest upsets of the decade. They were Cleveland State, seeded 14th, over third-seeded Indiana in the East regional and Arkansas-Little Rock, also a 14th seed, over third-seeded Notre Dame in the Midwest regional.

In each case, it was a difference of 11 places in the seeding. Only one other game in the entire decade of the 1980s produced a victory for a team down more than eight places in seeding—Navy (13) over LSU (4) a year ago, a difference of nine places. Fourteen games in the first two rounds saw the lower seed winning—one more than last year—but those 14 involved a total of 81 places in seeding, vs. 70 places last year.

Villanova, after all, was seeded

Story on no-pass, no-play rule has its other side

By Blackie Sherrod

The Dallas Morning News

The way memory dictates, the rules were basic back when Davy Crockett and some of us buckskinners were high school jocks.

There seemed only three requirements set forth by the Texas Inter-scholastic League: You had to live in the school district for at least a year. You could not be 21 years old on September 1 of that particular football season. And you had to pass every dang course you took.

Four subjects were required: English, math, foreign language or science, history or civics or something of that nature. These now are called, as I understand it, core curriculum. In those days, we wouldn't know a core curriculum if it took up residence in the smokehouse. Sounds like some sort of salve you made from apple scraps.

Of course, there were vocational courses back then, like mechanical drawing, home economics, hide tanning, fence repair, deer-stalking and how to make lye soap in a washpot. Nobody ever flunked those.

For those reared in such a primitive system, it is a bit difficult to understand all this Hue & Cry about the exam at SMU and brought it back to the sports department. We were going to take the thing and disprove Meek's gripes. After an hour trying to decipher the first page, we stared thoughtfully at each other and ad-who was a 140-pound guard when Wood coached at Stamford in 1958.

"I probably graduated second or third from the bottom of my class," wrote H. Wayne Smith. "But what I learned on the football field about competition and paying the price to succeed has made all the difference."

"I was barely able to be accepted at Tarleton State. Financially, I was barely able to pay my way by table-hopping at a boarding house. Believe it or not, I made the dean's list my second semester. I graduated from Texas A&M in the top half of my class. I know I would have never developed the determination to get my education or acquire control of this $38 million bank had it not been for the self-discipline and love for competition that you and your staff taught all of us. I will always be grateful for this."

"The no-pass, no-play rule fails to recognize that extracurricular activities in public schools are extremely important in balancing the academic program," wrote the banker.

At a Kansas City confab recently, Dick MacPherson attacked the subject of higher NCAA requirements.

"When we have a problem, they seem to go to extremes the other way to solve it," said the bombastic Syracuse coach. "We're on the right track, making the kid take core-curriculum courses. But I'm not sure we're on the right track that once we force him to do that, he flunks one and he can't play. Maybe they should be allowed to flunk one, but not two."

"Some New Jersey people did a study that shows absolutely no correlation between SAT scores and later success in life. That there is no correlation between grade-point average and later success in life. But a very high correlation between extracurricular activities and success. We may be taking away the only thing the kid has. If he flunks, he's got nothing left. And I think it's sad."

The above sentiments are what's known as equal time.

Columnary Craft

current no-pass, no-play ruckus. It seems a return to simplicity; you don't work, you don't eat. If you make one F, turn in your pads. Nobody whined about it then. It was just a hard-rock fact of life.

However, in all fairness, it is a different ballgame nowadays. The Texas educational system still is woefully modest, but it is a zillion times better than it used to be. I remember once when Bill Meek complained about this newfangled SAT test his football prospects had to pass to enter SMU. Bud Shrake, a demon reporter at the time, lifted an SAT journed to the nearest bowling alley.

So, perhaps these new no-pass, no-play requirements need modification; maybe a passing grade in four of five subjects is more realistic. Some of us hardheads still think the kid can pass all subjects if he pushes, but perhaps the moderates have a point.

Gordon Wood, the grandmaster of Texas high school coaching, is retiring at 72, but the Brownwood veteran still campaigns for the less strict requirements in the new state standards. During a visit last week, Gordon shoved a letter in my pocket. It was from a bank president in Big Lake,

"What, however, if the best black high school players began to decide they wanted to play for black coaches? You would start to see black coaches winning more than white coaches. Then, you would see more Blacks hired as coaches. And black kids, after their playing days were through, would have another career avenue open to them."

Writer's son recruited with decorum

To the Editor:

So much has been written and discussed in the media about recruiting violations and irregularities, I feel compelled to write to you when the recruiting process is conducted to the letter and in the spirit of NCAA regulations.

My son, Patrick, was contacted by over 50 colleges. He was highly ranked in many polls as a promising college quarterback. Letters, catalogs, programs and telephone calls arrived with increasing regularity. I kept a box score on each school, its activity and visits, and the coach. It was a fascinating experience for our family, having raised two girls prior to Patrick.

Although most college representatives were above reproach, I would like to single out the five final schools and our contact with individuals in each school for their excellent presentations of programs, general concern for the student-athlete, and conduct and deportment:

Terry Donohue, Bill Rees, Don Riley and Homer Smith from UCLA; Joe Kapp, Ollie Wilson and Sam Parker from California; Jack Elway and Dave Baldwin from Stanford; Ted Tollner and Ron Turner from Southern Cal, and Earl Bruce, Jim Tressel and Tom Lichtenberg from Ohio State.

Each person should be commended for his approach to high school football recruiting. The NCAA should feel confident—not to mention proud—that there are individuals and schools conducting themselves properly within the context of a very trying and laboring experience. Football recruiting is a very difficult task. I certainly couldn't do it. But these men have dedication to their profession, their colleges and the philosophy promulgated by the NCAA.

We're glad that it's over. Football recruiting should be labeled or subtitled: "How to spend a lifetime in 10 months."

Coach can influence his own fate

To the Editor:

Football coaches must emphasize the virtues football teaches: honesty, integrity, perseverance, determination, character and moral principles. Football coaches also must realize that cheating and moral corruption are becoming a national disgrace. We must face this disgrace with courage and conviction. We must dissociate ourselves from coaches who profess to win at all costs, to those who say—just get the job done—nobody will know—everybody is doing it—so what—who cares.

Whatever happened to teamwork, courage and conviction? What really counts is our ability to teach values and virtues that will allow our athletes and ourselves to become productive and effective citizens.

Clearly, many coaches are not involved in this moral corruption, and they deserve praise and congratulations. We as a team of professionals need to weed

"Not only are the Japanese outworking, outselling, outproducing and outliving us, they are outsmarting us as well. Evidence of Japanese academic superiority has been accumulating for several years. The most recent finding is a careful study in Science magazine showing that American youngsters in kindergarten, first and fifth grades lag considerably behind Japanese children in math."

out or cut from the squad those coaches who continue to cheat and who continue to use our profession for their own glory.

My purpose in writing is to suggest that coaches speak out and become involved in controlling their own destiny. Football is a great game, and to sit back and let others do our thinking for us is dangerous. We must clean up our own act. Our first priority should be that we will not, should not and cannot be a part of football's moral disgrace. Those who refuse should be cut from the squad.

Funding of Division III events

To the Editor:

Concerning the Division III Championships Committee's approach to funding Division III championships, the committee first determined that the approach should be consistent with the Division III philosophy, with the following principles followed: 1. equal treatment of all sports; 2. emphasize educational priorities; 3. postseason championships reserved for exceptional talent; 4. encourage maximum participation for in-season competition; 5. priority on internal constituency; 6. compliance with NCAA executive regulations.

Based on financial information provided by the NCAA office, it was estimated that funding all championship sports in Division III according to the same procedures utilized in 1984-85 would result in a cost of $1.66 million.

While the committee's preference is full funding as we've enjoyed it in the past, the financial reality is that the block grant for Division III is $1.1 million.

We are now exploring ways of reducing costs or generating increased revenue to accommodate the $560,000 differential. Our hope is to maintain the integrity of the championship structure while keeping the financial burden on institutions to a minimum.

Information on committee deliberations will appear in The NCAA News as the process continues. We are charged with making final recommendations to the Executive Committee in early May. I hope that Division III members will continue to offer suggestions to assist the committee in this challenging and very important assignment.

Coach survived by family of 2,500

To the Editor:

The death by suicide February 2, 1986, of Holy Cross football coach Rick Carter was a genuine tragedy. Inevitably, some will ask if the pressures of the coaching profession were the major contributing factor. I would answer in the negative.

All jobs, my own included, have their rewards but also have their share of frustrations, disappointments and unmet goals. There have to be other unusual circumstances that, combined with normal rigors of daily life, constitute an overload that leads to suicidal depression.

The irony in Carter's case is that intensity and family devotion may have contributed to his illness. I saw the intensity in the fall of 1963 in a classic confrontation between two great quarterbacks—Carter, playing for Earlham College, against Kalamazoo College's Jim Harkema, who is now football coach at Eastern Michigan. I had just a glimpse of the family devotion in his remarks and his quick action in phoning his family in Ohio with details after a victory over Connecticut in the fall of 1984. His father, with whom he had an extremely close relationship, died in the late summer of 1985; another family member died a few months later, and his mother was mortally ill at the time of Rick's death. All of these have to be taken into account.

Jackie MacMullen and Michael Madden of the Boston Globe deserve high praise for their coverage of Carter's death. MacMullen wrote an unusually sensitive in-depth article titled "Looking For An Answer," and Madden closed his commentary with this memorable paragraph—"In addition to his mother, his wife and his two sons, Rick Carter is survived by a family of 2,500 at the College of the Holy Cross."

School to reduce athletics budget

Officials of Louisiana Tech University have announced $200,000 in athletics spending cuts that include an end to men's golf and tennis.

The school said that the cuts also include eliminating several coaching positions.

"We regret the impact on all affected," said President F. Jay Taylor. "But athletics and academics must make sacrifices to cope with the state budgetary crisis."

State officials have predicted Louisiana will face a budget shortfall this year of up to $600 million.

The reduction plan ultimately will cut one position in the football coaching staff and one position each from the men's and women's basketball coaching staffs.

Athletics director Bob Vanatta said the number of people allowed to travel for away games will be cut to the minimum that can represent the school competitively.

"Our summer camps, which have been highly successful, will continue but with changes that will allow the university to operate on a more efficient basis," Vanatta said.

Chief problem in college athletics is academics, poll respondents say

Most of the readers responding to an informal poll by a north-central Missouri daily newspaper say that the biggest problem confronting intercollegiate athletics is maintaining the academic standards of student-athletes.

Other problems, in the order ranked by the readers, are illegal recruiting, use of illegal drugs, controlling boosters and point-shaving.

The poll was conducted by Mark Cunningham, sports columnist for the Moberly Monitor-Index. The evening and Sunday paper has a circulation of about 10,000. About 350 persons filled out questionnaires that were distributed at various locations.

Interestingly, the respondents were almost evenly divided on the question of whether there is too much sports emphasis at major universities: 165 answered yes, 164 said no. Within that group, 72 percent of those 46 years old or older said sports are overemphasized. Only 35 percent of those under 21 years of age agreed.

By a margin of more than three-to-one, readers believe that most of the major colleges are engaged in illegal recruiting practices: 226 yes, 108 no. By an even larger margin, respondents said the NCAA should discipline student-athletes (to the point of a one-year suspension) who are recruited illegally: 72 percent to 22 percent.

In other areas, only 79 of 324 readers believe that the field (64 teams) for the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship is too large. Readers also favor by more than a two-to-one margin a play-off system to determine a national champion in major-college football. Those in a group 36 years old or older prefer staying with the traditional ranking system of the wire services.

Are there too many bowl games? 184 readers said yes; 164 said no, including a majority of the 46-year-old or older group.

In response to a question about expense money for student-athletes,

188 said none should be given; 157 said athletes should receive monetary benefits. One person, reflecting the thinking of many, wrote: "No matter how much is given, greedy boosters will always find a way to pay more, and the problems would not be solved."

On the question of illegal drugs, respondents were strongly in favor (278 yes, 73 no) of mandatory drug tests for student-athletes.

Two join national office staff

Two new employees joined the NCAA national office staff March 17. Nancy J. Lattimore joined the championships department as assistant director of championships, and Jack L. Copeland joined the publishing department as a publications editor and assistant editor of The NCAA News.

Lattimore is a 1976 graduate of West Chester University of Pennsylvania, where she received a master's degree in 1981. A member of the NCAA Division III Women's Basketball Committee since 1980, she has been employed by Juniata College since 1977.

She coached women's basketball, tennis and field hockey at the school and was named assistant athletics director in 1982. Since that time, she also has been responsible for managing varsity athletics events, budget preparation, supervision of the athletics department's work-study program and coordination of Juniata's Sports and Recreation Center.

Her responsibilities in the championships department will be primarily with women's tennis, field hockey, men's and women's fencing, Division III women's basketball, and Division II women's volleyball. She replaces Tamatha J. Byler, who resigned to move to the Chicago area.

Copeland received his undergraduate degree in 1978 from Pittsburg (Kansas) State University and has completed work on a master's degree at the University of Oklahoma.

He has been a senior writer in the Oklahoma news-service department since 1982 and was a writer in the department for two years prior to that. He also has four years' experience in the newspaper business.

Copeland replaces Michael V. Earle, who now serves as NCAA assistant director of publishing.

developing any associations with precisely the people who want to know them and who could be helpful in enhancing the athletes' postgraduate, nonathletic careers.

"Keeping the boosters out of recruiting is an absurd infringement of athletes' rights—as well as an infringement of the boosters' rights as citizens. Who is the NCAA to tell a businessman he can have no contact with a young athlete?"

Wilfred Sheed, author
Gentlemen's Quarterly

"Winning, without doubt, is the American thing; it is what we do. Yet, however manfully we strive, precisely as many games are lost every year as won. And all the will-power in the world cannot add one title to that percentage.

"So we are left with a lot of losers to dispose of, half the sporting population, in fact, on any given day, and we haven't really got the heart for it.

"Gazing at the whipped-dog faces of a losing team, more dejected than anything in nature, one has to wonder if the "only thing" (as in Vince Lombardi's phrase) hasn't blocked off too much else of value and isn't sitting a little too heavily on these youngsters' heads."

Jim Brock, baseball coach
Arizona State University
Los Angeles Times

"I think it's a good thing (NCAA limit of 60 games in spring and 20 in the fall for Division I baseball teams). It had to come down sooner or later. I think it's reasonable to play 60 games in the spring. It addresses the problem.

"Anytime you have a situation when schools can schedule an unlimited number of games, it gives those schools a recruiting advantage. A kid thinks that if he plays more, it can help him get more exposure and better stats.

"This will put more emphasis on fall programs. You can play meaningful games and generate interest in your team."

eight before its title run a year ago (meaning that 28 teams were seeded ahead of Villanova), and North Carolina State before its Cinderella title run in 1983 was seeded sixth (meaning 20 teams seeded above it). Cleveland State was seeded 14th, meaning 52 teams were seeded above it.

More than one way

This tournament has proven to the "never again" purists that holding the ball is not the only way to produce an upset. Another way is by pressing, attacking in waves, stealing the ball and beating the opponent to the goal, as demonstrated by coach Kevin Mackey's Cleveland State team of the Association of Mid-Continent Universities and by coach Mike Newell's Arkansas-Little Rock team of the Trans America Athletic Conference.

Yet, both proved capable of playing the half-court game well—Cleveland State late in the Indiana game and in beating St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania), and Arkansas-Little Rock when it came within an eyelash of beating North Carolina State in regulation before losing in double overtime.

Off-Broadway guys

"This is a great one for Cleveland and for the off-Broadway guys over the prime-time guys," Mackey said after the Indiana game. "Our guys are hungry. They have been watching the prime-time guys on television and eating their hearts out." After the victory over St. Joseph's, he said: "This is just fantastic. All my prayers were answered."

In nonconference road games, Cleveland State defeated DePaul by a wide margin, lost at Ohio State by a few points and played Michigan close into the second half. Mackey's team ranks second nationally in Division I scoring offense (98.2 entering the tournament).

Despite all the upsets, three No. 1 seeds remain—34-2 Duke, 33-3 Kansas and 31-3 Kentucky. And there are several more with great records, like 33-4 Nevada-Las Vegas, 29-3 Cleveland State, 29-4 Navy, 28-5 North Carolina, 28-7 Louisville and 27-6 Georgia Tech. "Parity" to us means a lot of mediocre records. True, there is no one dominant team like Georgetown last year (remember it did not win the title), but there are a lot of top teams. It is a big country, and there are a lot of gifted players, outstanding teams and smart coaches.

If there is any doubt that this is the most upset-happy NCAA tourney of the 1980s, just consider one fact: the Big East Conference, 18-5 in last year's tourney with three Final Four teams, has zero teams left; the Mid-Continent has one.

In the first seven years of the 1980s, here are all the games in which an underdog of at least seven places in the seeding won in the first and second rounds:

1980—Pennsylvania (seeded No. 12) over Washington (seeded No. 5), UCLA (8) over DePaul (1), Lamar (10) over Oregon State (2).

1981—St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania) (9) over DePaul (1), Kansas State (8) over Oregon State (1).

1982—Boston College (8) over DePaul (1).

1983—Princeton (12) over Oklahoma State (5), Utah (10) over UCLA (2).

1984—Richmond (12) over Auburn (5), Dayton (10) over Oklahoma (2).

1985—Kentucky (12) over Washington (5), Navy (13) over Louisiana State (4), Kentucky (12) over Nevada-Las Vegas (4), Boston College (11) over Duke (3), Villanova (8) over Michigan (1), Auburn (11) over Kansas (3).

1986—DePaul (12) over Virginia (5), Cleveland State (14) over Indiana (3), Arkansas-Little Rock (14) over Notre Dame (3), DePaul (12) over Oklahoma (4), LSU (11) over Memphis State (3), Cleveland State (14)

Ron Virgil, Iowa State

Clinton Ransey, Cleveland State

Fran Harris, Texas

Pam Leake, North Carolina

over St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania) (6), Auburn (8) over St. John's (1).

Remember, there are four No. 1 seeds, four No. 2, etc.—four at each number up to 16 in a 64-team field. Please note that missing from the list is Navy, seeded seventh, over Syracuse, seeded second. Some consider that a major upset because it happened on the Syracuse home court. Another seven-over-two was Iowa State over Michigan's two-time Big Ten champions; still another, LSU (11) over Purdue (6)—but that was at LSU.

Five never in Final Four

Five of the current Sweet 16 never made the Final Four—Georgia Tech, Navy, Auburn, Alabama and Cleveland State. In fact, Cleveland State never had been in the tournament before. Iowa State has reached the Sweet 16 just once before (in 1944, when it was an eight-team affair), and Navy is in the Sweet 16 for the first time since 1959. All the others have made the Sweet 16 at least once in the

The other six spots went to the 3-2 Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, the 4-5 Big Ten Conference, the 2-1 Colonial Athletic Association, the 2-0 Pacific Coast Athletic Association, the 2-0 Mid-Continent (chosen at large) and independent DePaul.

Lower seeds: 7 of 34

Nine teams not seeded in the top 16 of this tournament are in the Sweet 16. But what are their chances of reaching the Final Four? Well, in the first six years of the 1980s, 34 such teams advanced this far, and only seven reached the Final Four—a batting average of .206. By contrast, 62 teams seeded 1-2-3-4 in the regionals advanced this far and 17 made the Final Four—a batting average of .274.

The seven lower seeds who reached the Final Four were Iowa, Purdue and UCLA, all in 1980; Houston in 1982; North Carolina State in 1983; Virginia in 1984, and Villanova in 1985. Villanova and North Carolina sessions seems certain to be broken—in fact, the total is headed for a figure well above a half million.

The reason for the big increase is that two of the sites were at big, domed stadiums in Minneapolis (80,021 for three sessions) and Syracuse (57,574) for three, producing the two highest figures ever for first- and second-round play.

Tourney scoring jumps

Tournament scoring is now at 142.8 points per game, both teams combined, for the 48 games in the first two rounds. That compares to just 127.4 in 1985—an increase of 15.4 points per game. And it is above the national average of 138.5 for all 283 teams in Division I, heading into postseason play (same as midseason; 1985 final was 138.3).

With the 45-second clock being used for the first time, it is worth noting that this is the first time since 1980 that tourney scoring exceeds national scoring. Obviously, since holding the ball is out, teams are pressing, stealing, running and scoring more. In 1985, tourney scoring was, as mentioned, only 127.4 vs. the national average of 138.3. In 1984, it was 133.0 vs. 136.3; in 1983, 125.5 (lowest since 1952) vs. 138.7; in 1982, 131.1 vs. 135.1 and in 1981, 132.8 vs. 141.1 (in 1980, it was 146.4 vs. 144.0).

Previous to 1981, tourney scoring was above national scoring seven times in eight years and 20 times in 28 years. This makes sense, because the top teams are in the tournament and most scored well above the national average. The all-time high in tournament scoring was 172.6 in 1970—a jump of 28.2 over 1969. That is the biggest one-year jump ever in tourney scoring, and the current 15.4 ranks second.

11 repeaters in women's Sweet 16

The remaining field for this fifth annual Division I Women's Basketball championship certainly has a familiar look. Four teams are in the Sweet 16 for a fifth consecutive year—Southern California, a two-time champion (1983 and 1984); Louisiana Tech, the 1982 champion; Tennessee, and Long Beach State.

Four teams are in the Sweet 16 for the fourth time in the tournament's five-year history—Georgia, Mississippi, Texas and Penn State. The first three are doing it a fourth straight season, having missed in 1982, while Penn State missed in 1984.

Auburn makes it for the third time and repeats from 1985, while Ohio State and Western Kentucky, shut out prior to 1985, are the other two repeaters from last year. The other five are North Carolina and Louisiana State (each for the second time—each made it in 1984) and three in the Sweet 16 for the first time ever—Oklahoma, James Madison and Rutgers.

Those three bring to 34 the total number of Division I teams making the round of 16 the first five years. The current field accounts for 49 of the 80 spots, and for 10 of the 16 Final Four spots so far. Louisiana Tech leads with three Final Four trips, Southern Cal, Tennessee and Georgia have two each and Western Kentucky one.

Those missing from the 1986 field? Old Dominion, the 1985 champion, and Cheyney have reached the Final Four twice, Northeast Louisiana and Maryland once each.

Mason leads scorers

Sixteen players in the Sweet 16 have scored at least 20 points in their first tourney game, led by Western Kentucky's Lillie Mason at 27. Next in line come Ohio State freshman Nikita Lowry 26, Long Beach State's Cindy Brown 26, Georgia's Teresa Edwards 25, Western Kentucky's Clemette Haskins 24, Louisiana Tech's Tori Harrison 24, Texas' Fran Harris 24, North Carolina's Dawn Royster 22, Louisiana State's Bonita Branch 22, Long Beach State's Carol Brandt 21, Oklahoma's LaTrenda Phillips 21, Mississippi's Alisa Scott 21, LSU's Lesa Thornton 21, Texas' Clarissa Davis 21, North Carolina's Pam Leake 20 and Mississippi's Jennifer Gilmon 20.

Eleven more are shooting at least .700 from the field, using a minimum of six goals made. Two are tied for the lead at .857—Haskins (12-for-14) and Texas' Annette Smith (6-7). Next is Clarissa Davis at .833 (10-12), then Nikita Lowry at .800 (8-10), and two at .778 on 7 of 9—Tennessee's Karla Horton and Rutgers' Sue Wicks. Three more are shooting .750 on 6 of 8—Rutgers' Crystal Berry, Southern California's Cynthia Cooper and Texas' Beverly Williams. Fran Harris is .727 on 8 of 11 and Lillie Mason .714 on 10 made in 14 attempts.

Eleven players in the Sweet 16 grabbed at least 10 rebounds in their first game, led by Tennessee's Sheila Frost at 17. LaTrenda Phillips had 15, Cindy Brown 13, Louisiana Tech's Stacey Davis 12, Dawn Royster 11, Lesa Thornton 11, Georgia's Lisa O'Connor 11, Auburn's Charlene Thomas 10, Carol Brandt 10, Clarissa Davis 10, Southern California's Cherie Nelson 10 (and in case you are wondering, her all-everything teammate, Cheryl Miller, broke a finger on her left hand last week in practice and did not play). Davis is the only player ranked in all three of the above categories. Phillips just missed a triple, as she shot .692 (9-13) from the field.

Shooting up, scoring down

In 24 tournament games so far, the combined shooting percentage from the field for all teams is .478, compared to .467 at this stage a year ago. Eleven teams shot at least .500, but no team in women's history—tournament or otherwise—can top the .750 (42-for-56) posted by Texas vs. Missouri (former national record—.745 by Southeastern Louisiana on 35-47 vs. Southern-New Orleans, November 28, 1983). Tournament scoring now is 138.5 points per game (both teams combined) vs. 151.6 at this stage a year ago, 149.6 at this stage in 1984 (compared to the national figure of 137.7 at midseason; national shooting was .439 at that point).

Basketball notes

1980s except Michigan State, which last made it in 1979 when it won the championship with Earvin "Magic" Johnson.

Six are repeaters from 1985—Georgia Tech, North Carolina (making it a sixth straight year), Alabama, Kentucky, North Carolina State and Auburn. Nevada-Las Vegas, DePaul and Louisville last made it in 1984, Kansas and LSU in 1981, and Duke in 1980.

In the current field of 16, Kentucky and North Carolina lead in Final Four trips with nine each, but Kentucky has five championships to two for North Carolina (North Carolina State also has two). Kansas and Louisville each have six Final Four trips and one title; Duke four Final Four trips; North Carolina State three; DePaul, LSU and Michigan State two each, and Nevada-Las Vegas and Iowa State one each (again, we are counting the eight-team era).

Kentucky is in the Sweet 16 a record 29th time (in this, its 31st NCAA tournament), including the era when the field was eight teams. That leads not just the current field but the entire nation (UCLA is next at 21; then Kansas State 15; North Carolina 15; Louisville 15; Indiana, Villanova and Notre Dame 13 each; Kansas, Ohio State, San Francisco and Utah 12 each; Houston and Marquette 11 each, and North Carolina State and DePaul 10 each).

Kentucky also dominates in regional second-place finishes—just one game from the Final Four—with 12. Kansas State and Villanova are next at six each (second to Kentucky in the current field are Kansas and North Carolina with three each).

The conference argument

The Atlantic Coast Conference, 9-2 in the tourney, and Southeastern Conference, an amazing 8-0, have four teams each in the Sweet 16. The 5-3 Big Eight Conference is the only other with more than one—with two.

State won the title and UCLA finished second. Only two were seeded as low as eighth—Villanova and UCLA.

The No. 1 seeds of the 1980s so far have reached the Final Four 10 times, won two championships and finished second three times (No. 2 seeds are second in each: 4-1-2).

Robinson leads scorers

Navy's David Robinson leads the Sweet 16 field in scoring average at 32.5 points per game. Ten others still playing are averaging at least 20 points per game—Michigan State's Scott Skiles 27.5, Duke's Johnny Dawkins and Kentucky's Kenny "Sky" Walker each 25, Navy's Vernon Butler 24, Nevada-Las Vegas' Anthony Jones 23, Louisiana State's Don Redden and Cleveland State's Clinton Ransey 22, and Georgia Tech's Mark Price, North Carolina State's Chris Washburn and North Carolina's Brad Daugherty each 20.

Walker leads in field-goal percentage with an amazing .900 (18-for-20); then come Daugherty .727, Dawkins .724, Louisville's Pervis Ellison .706, and Louisville's Billy Thompson and Iowa State's Ron Virgil each .700. Two others are close to .700—Butler .690 (to teammate Robinson's .621) and Michigan State's Darryl Johnson .680. Robinson has 23 rebounds and is tied for third. The leader at 27 is Armon Gilliam of Nevada-Las Vegas, whose teammate Mark Wade and Kansas' Cedric Hunter are tied for first with 20 assists.

Attendance up

Attendance for the first two rounds totaled 347,916 for 24 sessions, an average of 14,497 per session, compared to 11,178 at the same stage in 1985 (first year of a 64-team bracket). The all-time per-session average of 16,498 in 1982 (for 26 sessions, the last two 61,612 each at the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans for the Final Four) is safe, but the record total of 440,121 set last year for 34

Iowa grabs ninth consecutive wrestling crown

Iowa managed to stuff four more records into its already crowded wrestling album en route to another team title at the 56th annual NCAA Division I Wrestling Championships, which it hosted March 13-15.

Iowa's record-setting performance included crowning five individual champions, scoring 158 points, winning by a margin of 73 1/4 points and collecting its ninth consecutive team title. In addition, Iowa's Marty Kistler, the defending 158-pound champion, was named the tournament's most outstanding wrestler after capturing the 167-pound title with a superior (15-3) decision over Oklahoma State's Mark Van Tine.

The Hawkeyes entered the championships without 118-pound all-America Mark Egeland, who failed to make weight for the Big Ten Conference tournament, and a heavy-weight qualifier. Iowa also was coming off its first dual-match loss, a 19-16 defeat to Iowa State in late February, in 37 consecutive matches.

However, Iowa, spurred on by the March 13-15 championships by a home crowd, proved that eight qualifiers would be plenty for another team title and that its dual-meet loss was not a sign of decline.

"Gable gave us his usual talk before the finals," Kistler said. "And he did mention that if we did well, we could break the team record for points."

"Even if we hadn't broken the points record, I feel that this team is as tough as the 1983 team that had the Banach brothers."

Brad Penrith started the Hawkeyes' individual-titlist march with a 9-4 decision over Army's Dennis Semmel for the 126-pound title. Kevin Dresser followed with an 11-6 decision over Lehigh's Peter Yozzo for the 142-pound title before teammate Jim Heffernan won the 150-pound title with a 10-3 victory over Arizona State's Adam Cohen.

Kistler's championship match included a clinic in takedowns. Kistler, who finished his collegiate career with a 118-25-0 record, scored three takedowns in the first period to jump out to a 6-2 lead over Van Tine. After escaping seconds into the second period, Kistler worked for another takedown with 25 seconds left to make the score 9-2. After Van Tine escaped to open the third period, Kistler picked up a penalty point, another takedown, back points and time advantage for a 15-3 victory.

Iowa's Duane Goldman, who had reached the finals for the fourth straight year, later capped his collegiate career and Iowa's team scoring with his first title over defending 190-pound champion Dan Chaid of Oklahoma to complete the Hawkeyes' rout.

Defending champions in addition to Kistler included Bloomsburg's Ricky Bonomo (118), Wisconsin's Jim Jordan (134) and Oklahoma's Melvin Douglas (177). Ohio State's Jude Skove (158) and Michigan's Kirk Trost (heavyweight) also won individual titles.

Arkansas captures third straight indoor track crown

Sprinter Roddie Haley and a strong middle-distance crew that included Paul Donovan and Doug Consiglio led Arkansas to its third consecutive Division I Men's Indoor Track Championships team title at the Myriad in Oklahoma City March 14-15.

The Razorbacks scored 49 points, outdistancing second-place Villanova (22), and two teams tied for third with 20—Georgetown and Boston U.

Haley, who won the 1985 400 meters outdoors, blazed to a world-best 59.82 in the 500 meters. Donovan, another individual champion from 1985 (indoors 1,500), earned 3,000-meter top honors with a 7:54.60. He also contributed to an NCAA title in the 3,200-meter relay, accompanied by Keith Iovine, Matt Taylor and Wayne Mondrieffe. The time of 7:20.72 was an American best.

Other middle distancers also helped. Consiglio placed second in the 1,000 meters (2:19.36), behind an American best of 2:18.74 by Freddie Williams of Abilene Christian, and Gary Taylor finished third in the mile run (4:03.15).

Another world-best performance was earned by Lee McRae of Pittsburgh in the 55 meters. His 5.99 eclipsed a 6.02 time by Carl Lewis in 1983. Southern Methodist's 1,600-meter relay team earned an American best of 3:06.24.

Alabama claims its first women's indoor track championship

Roll, Tide, roll seemed to be the chant as the 1985 Division I women's indoor track season came to a close. Alabama first gained national attention by edging Louisiana State 125½ to 125 in the Southeastern Conference Indoor Track Championships. And then, March 14-15 at the Myriad in Oklahoma City, the Crimson Tide claimed its first NCAA indoor track title with 41 points.

Texas, runnerup in 1985, finished second with 31 points, while Southern California and Tennessee tied for third (26). Louisiana State was fourth (24), and 1985 champion Florida State placed fifth (16).

Sophomore Elizabeth Lynch of Dundee, Scotland, led the Tide with 18 points—10 for a first place and NCAA record in the mile (4:37.73) and eight for a second-place finish in the 3,000 meters (9:05.94). Evelyn Adiru of Arua, Uganda, finished second in the 1,000 meters (2:43.81) and Lillie Leatherwood placed second in the 500 meters (1:10.16). Sprinter Pauline Davis contributed six points by earning third place in the 55 meters.

Eight NCAA meet records were set.

Mountaineers shatter all team marks en route to rifle title

West Virginia shattered every team record and won its third national title in four years at the 1986 NCAA Men's and Women's Rifle Championships March 14-15 at the U.S. Naval Academy.

The Mountaineers' aggregate score of 6,229 eclipsed by 23 points the record (6,206) another West Virginia team set in 1984.

"I was quite surprised with the way this team shot," said WVU head coach Ed Etzel. "I'm very proud of this effort, and I think it is representative of the continued improvement of collegiate shooting. All of the people who competed shot very well."

Marianne Wallace of Murray State got the record-breaking party under way with a 392 (out of 400) in the individual air rifle competition March 14. The Mountaineers and Racers each claimed five of the top finishes in the individual smallbore and air rifle events, which suggested a repeat of last year's down-to-the-wire finish in the team competition when Murray State took the overall title from WVU by one point.

Mountaineer Mike Anti took the individual smallbore title and paved the way to the overall championship.

The team smallbore record fell first when Anti and his teammates posted a 4,674, breaking by three points a mark that had been held by the 1980 Tennessee Tech squad. West Virginia then shattered the team air rifle mark of 1,538 it set in 1984 by recording a 1,555.

With the team victory, West Virginia joins Tennessee Tech as the only teams to win three NCAA rifle championships. The Eagles took the 1980, 1981 and 1982 crowns, and the Mountaineers added the 1986 trophy to those from 1983 and 1984.

Team results: 1. West Virginia (Mike Anti,

Marianne Wallace, Murray State

Dave Johnson, Bill Dodd, Web Wright, Christian Heller), 4,674-1,555; 2. Murray State (Gary Stephens, Pat Spurgin, Marianne Wallace, Deena Wigger, Alison Schultz), 4,617-1,546; 3. Army (Larry Arthur, Gordon Taras, Randy Powell, Rhonda Barush, Jim Clancy), 4,622-1,516; 4. Tennessee Tech (Jesse Johnston, Earl Hauf, Tony Leone, Fritz Borke, Janice Schuler), 4,576-1,514; 5. East Tennessee State (Dave Yeager, Mark Patterson, Kurt Kisch, Randy Howard, Cynthia German), 4,586-1,499; 6. South Florida (Sean Bridges, Peter Durben, Kristin Peterson, M. Elaine Worland), 4,562-1,523; 7. Washington State (Andrea Cardon, Pat Domitrovich, Eric Stiemert, Mike Terzi), 4,534-1,482; 6,016.

Note: Texas A&M (Chris Fedun, Mike Moore, Annette Tyler, Eric Uptagrafft), 4,498 (smallbore only); and St. John's (New York) (Craig Blake, Kristina Dean, Robert Dell, Alan Wilcoxson), 1,493 (air rifle only) did not qualify for the overall team title.

Roadrunners break Matadors' hold on men's swimming title

On the strength of record-setting performances in the individual freestyle and team relay events, Cal State Bakersfield convincingly ended five years of domination by Cal State Northridge to win the 1986 Division II Men's Swimming and Diving Championships March 12-15 in Orlando, Florida.

The Roadrunners racked up a record 549 points and won eight events in capturing their first-ever team championship. Bakersfield also claimed six of 11 records broken during the meet.

Sophomore Bartt Frey of Bakersfield won all three individual freestyle events he competed in, breaking records in the 100- and 200-yard lengths and also winning the 500-yard event. Roadrunner senior Thomas Roth broke his own year-old record in the 100-yard backstroke and also won the 200-yard backstroke.

Frey and Roth also helped lead Bakersfield to record-setting victories in the 400- and 800-yard freestyle relay and 400-yard medley relay events.

Northridge won five events, led by three-time winner Jeff Kubiak. The Matador junior successfully defended his two 1985 individual championships with a win in the 200-yard breaststroke and a record-breaking performance in the 200-yard individual medley. Kubiak claimed another record in winning the 400-yard individual medley.

The Matadors' other two championships came in diving, where senior Blaire Nogosik won both the one-meter and three-meter events.

Clarion outdistances Division II field for women's swimming crown

Clarion relied on depth to claim its third title in five years during the 1986 Division II Women's Swimming and Diving Championships March 12-15 in Orlando, Florida.

Finishing third or higher in 10 events, Clarion claimed championships in the diving events and in the 400- and 800-yard freestyle relays. Tampa finished a distant second, followed by Cal State Northridge in third.

Sophomore Doria Mamalo of Clarion won the one-meter diving event and successfully defended her 1985 championship in the three-meter event.

Two freshmen, Angel Myers of Furman and Joan Wojtowicz of Bloomsburg, turned in outstanding performances during the meet. Myers set records in the 100-yard freestyle, 100-yard butterfly and 200-yard individual medley events and also won the 50-yard freestyle event. Wojtowicz won championships in the 200-, 500- and 1,650-yard freestyle events.

Ten records were broken during the fifth annual championships.

Champion West Virginia dominates all-America rifle team

West Virginia shooters dominated the collegiate all-America selections announced by the National Rifle Association March 15.

After firing record scores in team competition at the 1986 NCAA Men's and Women's Rifle Championships, the winning Mountaineers placed five individuals on the smallbore first team and six on the air-rifle first team.

Second-place championships finisher Murray State picked up many of the remaining spots on both all-America squads, and Racer coach Elvis Green was one of two NCAA coaches recognized by the NRA for outstanding contributions to collegiate shooting. Also receiving the award was Maj. Richard Pitts of Texas A&M.

Following is a list of the 1986 NRA all-America teams:

Second team—Rhonda Barush, Army; Jim Bishop, West Virginia; Kristina Dean, St. John's (New York); Kim Hogrefe, West Virginia; Jesse Johnston, Tennessee Tech; Kristin Peterson, South Florida; Randy Powell, Army; Jan Schuler, Tennessee Tech; Gary Stephens, Murray State, and Annette Tyler, Texas A&M.

Note -- Terry Crowe (Tennessee Tech), Mike Terzi (Washington State) and Eric Uptagrafft (Texas A&M) were named honorable mention.

AIR RIFLE

First team—Anti; Roger Davidson, West Virginia; Dodd; Johnson; Heller; Hogrefe; Spurgin; Stephens; Marianne Wallace, Murray State, and Wigger.

Second team—Bishop; Fritz Borke, Tennessee Tech; Dean; Rob Harbison, Tennessee-Martin; Earl Hauf, Tennessee Tech; Kurt Kisch, East Tennessee State; Peterson; Powell; Yeager, and Wright. Note—Alison Schultz (Murray State), Dale Szpisjak (Navy), Alan Wilcoxson [St. John's (New York)] and M. Elaine Worland (South Florida) were named honorable mention.

Christian Heller, West Virginia

Deena Wigger, Murray State

Kenyon women swim to a third straight Division III title

Kenyon swimmers won 14 events and scored a record 713 points en route to claiming the Ladies' third consecutive team title in the Division III Women's Swimming and Diving Championships. The meet was held March 13-15 at C. T. Branin Natatorium in Canton, Ohio.

UC San Diego was second with 403½ points, while last year's runnerup, Pomona-Pitzer, placed third (373).

The Ladies jumped out to a 263 to 181½ lead over UC San Diego on the first day of competition, scoring with victories in the 200-yard medley relay (1:49.29) and 800-yard freestyle relay (7:39.93). Sophomore Amy Heasley took top honors in the 100-yard butterfly (57.96) and 200-yard individual medley (2:10.74), while freshman Erin Finneran won the 200-yard backstroke (2:04.90) and senior Patty Abt was first in the 50-yard freestyle (24.32).

On the second day, Kenyon widened its lead over the Tritons (535 to 307½). Heasley and Finneran won events again—Heasley in the 400-yard individual medley (4:35.82) and Finneran in the 100-yard backstroke (58.69) and 200-yard freestyle (1:53.51). Senior Deborah Neil raced to a 1:07.47 to win the 100-yard backstroke. In addition, Kenyon won both relays of the day—200-yard freestyle relay (1:36.21) and 400-yard medley relay (3:58.80).

On the final day, the Ladies ensured the title with victories in the 100-yard freestyle (52.46) by Abt, the 200-yard backstroke (2:25.94) by Jeannine Gury and the 200-yard butterfly (2:07.57) by Heasley. Kenyon wrapped up the final event with an NCAA record time of 3:28.49 in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

CBS tops college basketball ratings

Although CBS Sports won the college basketball television ratings sweepstakes for the third straight season, competitor NBC Sports boasted a ratings increase of 10 percent, according to figures released by CBS.

Saturday broadcasts from the networks produced a combined 4.3 rating. CBS edged NBC in ratings for Sunday games with a 5.8 rating to its competitor's 5.2. Although CBS increased its rating on Sundays by seven percent over 1984-85, the net-work's total rating was reported down two percent from last year.

CBS also claimed two of the networks' three most-watched regular-season telecasts. The North Carolina at Marquette (January 19, 7.4 rating) and Georgetown at Syracuse (February 23, 6.9 rating) games topped the list, while NBC's Notre Dame at Duke (February 16, 6.2 rating) game took third place.

According to the CBS announcement, its rival network also claimed the No. 4 spot with the Georgia Tech at North Carolina (January 25, 5.9 rating) game, which was the most-watched Saturday telecast. NBC produced eight broadcasts that achieved a 5.0 rating or better, while CBS produced six.

Ratings figures for CBS' telecasts of the Division I Men's Basketball Championship tournament and the Division I Women's Basketball Championship game are expected to be available sometime in April.

Frostburg State men capture school's first indoor crown

Hurdler Maynard Hurd and sprinter/jumper Joseph Barber led Frostburg State to its first Division III Men's Indoor Track Championships team title March 14-15 at Bethel College in St. Paul, Minnesota.

The Bobcats scored 38 points, just edging Mount Union with 34 points. St. Thomas (Minnesota), which won the first Division III championship last year, placed third (31), while Wisconsin-LaCrosse was fourth (28/1/3).

Hurd set an NCAA meet record in the 55-meter hurdles (7.40) to earn 10 points for his institution. Barber, with second-place finishes in both the 55 meters and long jump, tallied 16 points for the Bobcats. Other point-getters were Raymond Toppins, second in the triple jump (14.71, 48-3/4), and Steven Terry, fourth in the 55 meters (6.49).

Mount Union had an individual champion in the pole vault. Ken De-bos went 4.75 (15-7) to set an NCAA record in the event, one of six set in the meet.

Massachusetts-Boston repeats as women's indoor champion

Ten Massachusetts-Boston athletes scored 47 points in seven events to give the Beacons their second consecutive Division III Women's Indoor Track Championships title in only the second year of the event, which took place March 14-15 at Bethel College, St. Paul, Minnesota.

The depth of Massachusetts-Boston was quite a contrast to second-place finisher Springfield, whose 36 points were scored by one athlete—Janet Williams. The senior won the 55-meter hurdles, setting an NCAA record in 7.99. Other finishes were second in the 55 meters (7.14) and third in the high jump (1.64, 5-4 1/2), long jump (5.44, 17-10 1/4) and triple jump (11.37, 37-3 1/4).

Massachusetts-Boston was paced by Genesia Eddins, NCAA champion in the 800 meters (2:13.97); Ann Brissett, runner-up in the triple jump (11.50, 37-8 1/4), and Diane Weeder, runner-up in the 3,000 meters (9:56.47).

Potsdam State caps unbeaten basketball season with title

Maybe it was a year of destiny for Potsdam State. The Bears finished as the only undefeated men's team in NCAA basketball and in the process downed LeMoyn-Owen, 76-73, to capture the Division III men's championship March 15 at Calvin College in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

The 32-0 Bears held off a determined LeMoyn-Owen squad in the second half to post the victory.

Coach Jerry Welsh's Bears got balanced scoring—from Brendan Mitchell with 18 points, Tim Harris (15), Barry Stanton (14) and Roosevelt Bullock (12). Hot shooting proved to be the difference. Potsdam hit 31 of 49 shots from the floor for 63 percent, while the Magicians could manage only 32 of 72 for 44 percent.

LeMoyn-Owen, the 1975 Division III champion, got 20 points from Michael Neal. Gregory Williams added 14, while guard Curtis Hollowell turned in 10 assists.

To reach the finals, Potsdam State sweated out a 91-89 victory over Jersey City State, and LeMoyn-Owen eliminated Nebraska Wesleyan, 86-80, in the semifinals March 14. In the third-place game, Nebraska Wesleyan, behind Kevin Cook's 24 points and Dana Janssen's 22 points, outscored Jersey City State, 97-93.

In the championship game, Potsdam State took a commanding 44-33 half-time lead and seemed to be in control, stretching the margin to 16 points three times in the second half. But a 14-2 run by the Magicians near the end of the game made it close.

It was the second Division III title for the Bears (the other came in 1981). Potsdam State also has finished second three times, including last year's 72-71 loss to North Park in the finals.

Salem State women take Division III honors

The Salem State Lady Vikings finally captured the Division III women's basketball championship after three previous attempts with an 89-85 victory over Bishop March 15.

Salem's Evelyn Oquendo led the way for the Lady Vikings with 15 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists, as the champions finished the season with a 29-1 record. Bishop, making its first final-four appearance, ended its year at 28-3.

After making tournament appearances in 1983, 1984 and 1985, Salem State had to mount a furious second-half comeback to down the Tigerettes. The Lady Vikings were trailing, 41-32, at the intermission but came back behind Oquendo, Beth Kapnis and Ann Breitenwischer.

Kapnis led Salem State with 17 points, but Oquendo had 15, Breitenwischer had 15, Barbara Tourville had 13 and Marydolores Brown had 11. Crystal Coleman and Batavia

Evans each had 19 points to pace Bishop.

In the semifinals, Bishop edged Capital, 73-68, and Salem State whipped 1984 titlist Rust, 67-59. Capital downed Rust, 77-61, in the third-place game.

Tar Heels' Anthony quits football to become a student

By Thomas Stinson
Atlanta Journal

No, it wasn't the losses, those Saturday afternoons that fell apart as he held them in his hands. They happen to any quarterback who ever dared to play the game.

To hear him tell his story now, Kevin Anthony was not dogged by what had taken place during his football seasons at North Carolina. No, he wondered more about what would happen to him after they had gone by.

So one day last December, Anthony went to visit Dick Crum, his coach. Anthony had established an assortment of school offensive records as the Tar Heels went 10-11-1 over the past two seasons, had become a productive passer even within Crum's Stone-Age tailback left, tailback right system. He had a chance to establish himself as the most prolific passer in Carolina history.

But Kevin Anthony, a two-year starter, told his coach he wouldn't be back this fall. He wanted to study instead. He has one year of eligibility remaining; but at 21 years old, there is no more room for football in his life.

"I think coach Crum thinks I'm a mature person," Anthony said, "mature enough to make a decision like this. I don't think he feels I made it out of haste. He knows I put a lot of thought into it."

And maybe the institution of college football would do well to put some thought into it, too. A conscientious young adult, Anthony is everything the college game aspires to, an honest-to-goodness student-athlete. What Anthony says now is he can't keep these "two balls in the air," that in the system the game has created for all players, he just couldn't remain that student-athlete anymore.

"It's really a sad situation," he said, "just because of the importance placed on the game right now and how it's become a business. As long as it's headed that way, I feel the academic side of things is going to be short-changed. If you're willing to put up with the late hours, go on four or six hours of sleep a night and really limit your social activities, cut out a lot of things that other students enjoy, then you're able to do it.

"And that's what I've been faced with my four years here. I've put a lot into my books; and at the same time, I've put just so much time into football, and it's been tough. It'll pull you in all directions."

So what Anthony is going to do is graduate in May, on time—another football anomaly—and pursue business study in graduate school, if a Rhodes scholarship candidacy doesn't pan out. He may try marketing or finance or investment banking, but he's not sure. That's another thing about college football. He hasn't had enough summer-job experience to even guess what he might want to do.

This is not, he says, a condemnation of the North Carolina football program, which is hardly a football factory. When Anthony's plans were made public, released quietly by the university's sports information department, the media's response was subdued. Coincidentally, it was the same day he was named to the COSIDA academic all-America team.

"Kevin is a great example of what a student-athlete should be," Crum said. "He has no professional football aspirations, and I can understand his decision to spend more time on his academic work."

This was the end to a strange road. Anthony was widely sought in 1981 when he came out of high school. His transcript was immaculate: National Honor Society, 3.970 GPA on a 4.000 scale. He settled on North Carolina largely for its academic reputation and registered as an economics major.

On the football field, he was red-shirted in 1982, served as chief backup to Scott Stankavage in 1983; and in 1984, as a sophomore in eligibility terms, he became the starting quarterback.

Carolina went 5-5-1, but Crum, after years and years of ground-control football, opened up his game. Anthony responded with an unprecedented passing performance, setting 10 offensive records, including total offense (1,786 yards).

He set four more records last season, but Carolina foundered. Before then, Anthony had already started the struggle within himself.

"Just comparing the two sides of my life, I felt like my academic side seemed a bit more promising," Anthony said. "I really couldn't see putting off some of the other opportunities I had for another year. I felt like now was as good a time as any."

"There are thousands of other students out there that are dying to come to Carolina," he said. "I may have gotten a break from football. It's an opportunity of a lifetime. I decided to get myself ready for the rest of my life. I think people can appreciate that."

So he met with Crum. With just two months of study remaining, Anthony holds a 3.726 GPA. He's applying to business schools at Carolina, Virginia, Indiana, Illinois and Chicago. He also hopes for some type of internship that may help finance all of this, but he's actually fumbling in the dark here, too. He doesn't know what he wants to do, what interests him.

"One way that I've kind of missed out," he said, "is when you look at my resume, there's a lack of experience. And that's simply because of my having to take part in a year-round job for the past four years. I've really never had an opportunity to have a job. I've never held a job for more than a month. I've missed out on how it works and what fields I might want to get into."

But what does all this really mean? Is Jack Armstrong really dead? Are there to be no more Whizzer Whites? Bill Bradleys? Tom McMillens? Is this where athletics and academics have made their irrevocable split? What have the colleges done to their game? What can they do to fix it?

Said Anthony, "If they got rid of spring football, if they cut the schedule back to 10 games and if they really made the academic standards more stringent, I think more players would see the game as fun, see themselves as college students instead of just athletes. I think too many people are leaning on the athlete side of the student-athlete."

And that's why Kevin Anthony got out.

When we joined NCAA, we had a vision, we had a mission and we had a goal. We were in an industry that was in a state of flux.

But we're not the sort of fans who sit out the games. This year we've affected a few financial sacrifices, such as the $1.3 million we've Secretly donated. It's a big advantage and took a lot of something to give over the summer months of the NCAA's games. And our cause.

It should also mean that we don't have to travel, or that at least some of our needs for comfort and convenience are being met. For example, the new cylinder design means you'll be able to use a portable tank for a longer time, and that's a first to me. And, I'd like to see more tanks that are easy to use.

Ad campaign promotes Gopher women's sports

The women's athletics department at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, has retained an international advertising company to create a campaign to promote the school's women's sports teams.

Grey Advertising Inc. says the campaign is the first to promote intercollegiate women's sports teams.

"We're very excited. Grey has done a fantastic job catching the emotion of University of Minnesota women's athletics," says Merrily Dean Baker, director of women's athletics. "A complete marketing/advertising strategy and campaign for women's intercollegiate athletics have never been developed anywhere in the country, to my knowledge. This campaign will help U of M women athletes get the attention they deserve," Baker says.

Increasing public awareness of women's athletics at the university is the campaign's main goal, says George Carlson, vice-president/account supervisor, Grey Minneapolis/St. Paul. "We also want to increase attendance at U of M women's sporting events—for instance, in women's basketball, from 1,000 to 5,000 per game.

"Another goal of this campaign is to help make the women's program more financially independent of the men's," he says.

Families with daughters are a special target of the campaign. "As young men want to be like (U of M football quarterback) Rickie Foggie or UM hockey players, we'd like to see young women make the outstanding female athletes at the university their role models—for both athletics and academic achievements," says Baker.

The campaign will consist of billboards, transtop (bus shelter) posters, and print, television and radio advertisements.

The billboards and transtop ads focus on the U of M women as dedicated athletes and students. Track and field and basketball athletes are featured first in the outdoor ads, with theme lines such as "Watch a scholar overcome a hurdle" and "Watch a scholar reach a conclusion." Advertisements will be prepared for cross country, volleyball, gymnastics, swimming and diving, tennis, softball, and golf as they come into season.

"Women approach college athletics differently than men," says Ellen Hanson, head coach of the women's basketball team. "Our women are more realistic than the men. They realize there are fewer opportunities for them in professional sports and therefore they prepare for the future by building a career in their major field of study while playing sports."

In late January, a television commercial will communicate the competitive spirit and emotion of women's intercollegiate athletics by focusing on the taping of U of M women athletes' hands and feet. In the 30-second commercial's final scenes, ath-

School terminates a second sport

A state budget crunch in Louisiana has claimed another victim—the $70,000 soccer program at Northeast Louisiana University, the school announced March 12.

Athletics director Benny Hollis said it's the second sport to be dropped this year because of finances. The first was rifle.

"I'm extremely disappointed that we have to take this action," Hollis said. "But this is the only way we can reduce our budget."

He said that 10 students on soccer scholarships would remain, and that soccer coach Jim Kane would stay on contract through June 30.

The soccer squad was 10-8-3 last fall and for the past five years has been Louisiana's top-ranked team in the sport.

letic tape is stripped, revealing the new Ms. logo created for the U of M women's teams. The Ms. logo appears in all the advertisements, visually distinguishing the women's athletics program from the men's.

The commercial also symbolizes the progress in the women's program at the university. When the program was in its infancy 10 years ago—when funds were extremely tight—after a gymnastics competition, the men would carefully remove their tape to give to the women gymnasts to use in their next meet.

Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke says, "The momentum created by this marketing thrust can have nothing but a positive effect on the women's program, the other conference members and the conference as a whole. I applaud the Minnesota women and their innovation."

Berry a unanimous selection to AP all-America basketball team

In a college basketball season loaded with outstanding guards, back-courtmen Johnny Dawkins of Duke and Steve Alford of Indiana were named to the Associated Press' Division I all-America first team.

St. John's (New York) 6-foot-8 center Walter Berry, the top scorer and rebounder for the Big East Conference tournament champions, was the only unanimous selection on the squad. Maryland's Len Bias and Kentucky's Kenny Walker, both 6-8 forwards, completed the first team.

Alford and Berry are juniors; Bias, Dawkins and Walker, all seniors, were second-team selections last season.

A panel of 10 sports writers and broadcasters made the choices.

The second team consisted of four seniors: guards Scott Skiles, 6-1, of Michigan State and Dell Curry, 6-4, of Virginia Tech; 6-11½ center Brad Daugherty of North Carolina and 6-6 forward Ron Harper of Miami (Ohio), plus 6-11 sophomore forward Danny Manning of Kansas.

The third team included three juniors: Dwayne "Pearl" Washington, 6-2 guard from Syracuse; 7-0 center William Bedford of Memphis State, and David Robinson, 6-11 Navy center. Mark Price, Georgia Tech's 6-0 senior guard, and 6-11 Roy Tarpley, a senior center from Michigan, completed the squad.

Dawkins, 6-2, is the leading scorer in Duke history with 2,403 points and No. 2 all-time in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He averaged 19.3 points on 54 percent field-goal shooting and 81 percent from the free-throw line this season and, with point guard Tommy Amaker, led the top-ranked Blue Devils' pressure defense, which forced an average of 19 turnovers.

Dawkins also became the first player in ACC history to accumulate more than 2,000 points, 500 rebounds and 500 assists in a career.

"He's the premier player in our conference," says Mike Krzyzewski, coach of 32-2 Duke, winner of the ACC in both regular season and post-season.

Alford's outside shooting led Indiana to a 21-7 record and a runner-up spot in the Big Ten Conference. With 56 percent accuracy from the field and 87 percent from the foul line, he averaged 22.4 points this season, going over 30 points five times.

Alford, 6-2, the only 1984 Olympian still playing college ball, ranks as Indiana's No. 4 all-time scorer with 1,665 points.

"He's as good a scorer for being strictly a jump shooter as anybody I've seen," Hoosier coach Bob Knight says.

Berry, the Big East's player of the

Retrial for Williams

Former Tulane University basketball star John "Hot Rod" Williams soon will be back in a New Orleans courtroom to face charges that he took part in a point-shaving scheme during the 1984-85 season, the Associated Press reported.

The Louisiana Supreme Court cleared the way March 7 for Williams' retrial by ruling, 4-3, to leave intact an appeals court's decision to reinstate the charges against the former Green Wave center.

The charges, two counts of sports bribery and three counts of conspiracy to commit sports bribery, were dismissed during a trial last August by Criminal District Court Judge Alvin V. Oser.

Oser, who since has retired, said prosecutors at Williams' trial intentionally provoked a mistrial by withholding evidence that might be favorable to the defense. He barred prosecutors from trying Williams again, saying to do so would be double jeopardy.

year in the opinion of the conference's coaches, averaged 22.9 points and an 11.3 rebounding mark despite being double- and triple-teamed most of the season.

Already a winner of the Wooden Award as college basketball's top player, Berry emerged from the shadow of all-America Chris Mullin this season and took over the center spot vacated by 7-0 Bill Wennington.

The left-handed Berry, who spent his freshman season at San Jacinto (Texas) Junior College, displayed great leaping ability, unorthodox style and a soft touch to lead the Redmen to a 30-4 record. He connected on 60 percent of his field-goal tries and holds the school record for total points in a season and blocks.

Berry, who maintains he will remain at St. John's for his senior season before turning pro, emerged as a team leader. In a spectacular finish to the Big East tournament, he blocked Washington's shot just before the buzzer to preserve a 70-69 victory over Syracuse.

While Berry did his work close to the basket, Bias hit from the outside for 22.9 points on 55 percent shooting from the field and 86 percent from the foul line in the Terrapins' 18-13 season.

Bias, the AP's unanimous choice as the Atlantic Coast Conference's player of the year, became Maryland's all-time leading scorer this season with 2,092 points, passing Albert King.

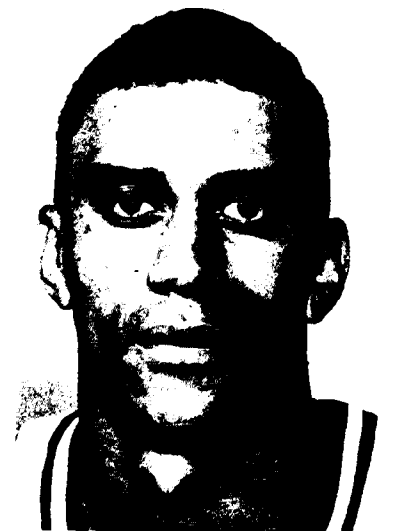

"Bias is not only an all-American," Lefty Driesell, the coach of Maryland, said, "but he's all-world. He's the best player I've ever coached."

Walker led Kentucky, 29-3, to Southeastern Conference titles in both the regular season and postseason this year. He averaged 19.6 points on 57 percent shooting from the field, moving him to third on Kentucky's all-time list with 1,976 points. He also averaged 7.6 rebounds.

Kentucky coach Eddie Sutton says,

Steve Alford

Kenny Walker

"Kenny's also one of the best defensive forwards in college basketball."

Following is the all-America team:

First team— Len Bias, 6-8, senior, Maryland; Kenny Walker, 6-8, senior, Kentucky; Walter Berry, 6-8, junior, St. John's (New York); Steve Alford, 6-2, junior, Indiana; Johnny Dawkins, 6-2, senior, Duke.

Second team— Dell Curry, 6-5, senior, Virginia Tech; Brad Daugherty, 6-11, senior, North Carolina; Danny Manning, 6-11, sophomore, Kansas; Ron Harper, 6-6, senior, Miami (Ohio); Scott Skiles, 6-1, senior, Michigan State.

Third team— William Bedford, 7-0, junior, Memphis State; Mark Price, 6-0, senior, Georgia Tech; David Robinson, 6-11, junior, Navy; Roy Tarpley, 6-11, senior, Michigan; Dwayne Washington, 6-2, junior, Syracuse.

Association adopts Pac-10 penalties against Arizona State

The NCAA Committee on Infractions has adopted the Pacific-10 Conference penalties imposed upon Arizona State University in December 1985 for violations found in the men's basketball program.

A one-year probationary period is in effect in the case (December 11, 1985, to December 31, 1986), and no grants-in-aid may be awarded to any incoming prospect in men's basketball during the probationary period.

The current men's basketball coaching staff is prohibited from engaging in any off-campus recruiting activities or from providing any paid recruiting visits to the university's campus during the probationary period.

The case included a violation of the NCAA's ethical conduct rule that occurred when a former men's assistant basketball coach instructed a student-athlete to report false information and to withhold information when contacted by NCAA and Pacific-10 Conference investigators. None of the violations in the case involved members of the current basketball staff.

Frank J. Remington, chair, Committee on Infractions, stated that "the committee was concerned that a pattern of looseness prevailed in the university's athletics department for a significant period of time. In fact, this infractions case resulted in the third penalty that has been imposed by the Pacific-10 Conference involving five sports over a 28-month period. "Therefore," noted Remington, "the committee determined that a penalty was warranted that would severely affect the university's efforts to develop its men's basketball program for a one-year period, and that would emphasize the need for more effective monitoring programs at the institution. The penalty also is intended, however, to provide a new basketball coaching staff a full opportunity to develop its program at the end of this one-year period."

"It should be noted," Remington said, "that the committee is encouraged that several appointments have been made to place individuals who did not contribute to past violations in key administrative and coaching positions at the university, and the committee recognizes that appropriate actions are being taken to demonstrate the university's commitment to full compliance in the future."

The violations that were found included unethical conduct, recruiting inducements, the NCAA tryout rule, out-of-season practice, extra benefits to enrolled student-athletes, improper recruiting contacts and official-paid-visit limitations.

The following is the complete text of the penalty and a summary of the violations found in the case.

Penalty to be imposed upon institution

1. The NCAA Committee on Infractions voted to adopt the following actions previously taken by the Pacific-10 Conference as the NCAA penalty in this case:

a. Arizona State University shall be placed on probation from December 11, 1985 (i.e., the date this penalty was approved by the chief executive officers of the Pacific-10 Conference) until December 31, 1986. Prior to the conclusion of this probationary period, an on-campus review of the intercollegiate athletics program shall be conducted by the conference and NCAA enforcement staff.

b. During the period from January 1, 1986, through December 31, 1986, the university shall be prohibited in the sport of men's basketball from awarding any initial financial aid grant to an incoming student-athlete, engaging in off-campus recruiting activities of any nature and from providing any paid recruiting visits to its campus. This penalty is intended to have the following effects: (1) No off-campus recruiting evaluations or contacts may take place during the 1986 calendar year in the sport of men's basketball. (2) Any prospective student-athlete who appears on campus at his own expense may be recruited while on campus. No paid recruiting visits to the campus may be provided. (3) Prospective student-athletes may be contacted by mail or by telephone during the period in question. (4) Initial grants-in-aid in the sport of men's basketball may be awarded to any student-athlete who enrolled in the university prior to January 1, 1986, and who is a continuing student. Such a student-athlete is eligible for aid whether he was previously a student-athlete in a second sport (aided or unaided) or a non-aided student-athlete in the sport of basketball. (5) No athletically related financial aid shall be awarded in the sport of men's basketball to a newly enrolled student-athlete during the 1986 calendar year, except as set forth in (6) below. (6) These prohibitions would not preclude the award of athletically related financial aid in the sport of men's basketball to any prospective student-athlete who signed a National Letter of Intent with Arizona State University prior to January 1, 1986.

c. The university shall disassociate one representative of its athletics interests from participation in all activities associated with the university's athletics program during the probationary period.

Summary of violations of NCAA legislation

1. Violation of the principles governing ethical conduct [NCAA Constitution 3-6(a)] A men's assistant basketball coach acted contrary to the principles of ethical conduct inasmuch as he did not, on all occasions, deport himself in accordance with the generally recognized high standards normally associated with the conduct and administration of intercollegiate athletics. Specifically: (a) On or about October 10, 1984, and during late May and early June 1985, this coach instructed a prospective student-athlete to report false information and to withhold accurate information when contacted by NCAA and Pacific-10 Conference investigators; (b) during the 1982-83 academic year, this coach attempted to conceal the fact of a 19th official paid visit (limit is 18) to the university by requesting a prospect's mother to pay her son's transportation expenses and by reimbursing the prospect during his visit, and (c) this coach's involvement in and knowledge of the violations found in this case demonstrate a knowing and willful effort on his part to operate the university's intercollegiate men's basketball program contrary to NCAA legislation.

2. Violations of the provisions governing recruiting inducements [NCAA Bylaws 1-1-(b)-(1) and 1-1-(b)-(2)] (a) During the summer of 1983, a representative of the university's athletics interests provided reduced-cost housing for three student-athletes; (b) during the summer of 1984, a representative of the university's athletics interests provided reduced-cost housing for two student-athletes; (c) for a period of approximately one month during the summer of 1983, a men's assistant basketball coach permitted a student-athlete to use the automobile of another individual; (d) during the fall of 1982, a prospective student-athlete was provided room and board on the university's campus for approximately three weeks at no cost to the young man; further, the young man had not been officially accepted for admission to the university; (e) in July 1983, a representative of the university's athletics interests provided two prospective student-athletes a cash advance that was repaid approximately three weeks later from their employment earnings; (f) during the spring of 1983, an athletics department staff member gave a prospect a pair of basketball shoes; (g) in March 1983, a men's assistant basketball coach gave a prospective student-athlete a pair of coaching shorts, and (h) during the spring of 1983, the men's head basketball coach gave souvenir items to two high school basketball coaches.

3. Violations of the provisions governing recruiting contacts [NCAA Bylaw 1-2-(a)-(5)]—During the 1982-83 academic year, two prospective student-athletes or members of their families were contacted in person, off campus for recruiting purposes by members of the men's basketball coaching staff contrary to the provisions of the NCAA recruiting contact legislation.

4. Violations of the provisions governing tryouts and out-of-season practice [NCAA Bylaws 1-6-(a) and 3-1-(a)-(1)]—(a) In March 1983, two prospective student-athletes participated in basketball activities during their official paid visits to the university; further, members of the men's basketball coaching staff observed this workout, and (b) during the fall of 1983, members of the men's basketball coaching staff conducted and supervised team conditioning drills that did not comply with NCAA rules governing such workouts prior to the first permissible date for preseason basketball practice.

5. Violation of the provisions governing official paid visits [NCAA Bylaw 1-8-(b)]—During the 1982-83 academic year, the university provided 19 official paid visits to the university's campus in the sport of men's basketball; further, a men's assistant basketball coach was involved in arranging for a prospective student-athlete to make the 19th visit.

6. Violations of the provisions governing local automobile transportation [NCAA Bylaw 1-8-(j)] (a) During the fall of 1982, three men's basketball student managers provided a prospective student-athlete local automobile transportation on several occasions to travel between an apartment and the site of his summer job, and (b) in March 1983, a men's assistant basketball coach transported a prospective student-athlete and his brother by automobile a total distance of approximately five miles.

7. Violations of principles governing extra benefits to student-athletes [NCAA Constitution 3-1-(g)-(5)]—(a) During the 1983-84 academic year, members of the men's basketball coaching staff gave each of several members of the men's intercollegiate basketball team a sweater, and (b) on at least one occasion, a member of the coaching staff arranged for some members of the men's basketball team to receive free admission to a professional basketball game.

USOC not in favor of 'open' games featuring professionals

The United States Olympic Committee announced March 18 that it does not support an "open" Olympic Games featuring top professional competitors.

It said, however, that it strongly supports allowing any U.S. professional athlete to compete in any sport other than the one for which the athlete is being paid.

The USOC also said each international federation should define which athletes are "professional" in a sport. The committee said in its statement that it recognizes there are differences among the sports over what is considered to be professional.

"The Olympic Games should remain a goal for all athletes and not degenerate into simply another forum for professional athletes," said USOC President Robert H. Helmick. "Millions of Americans support amateur sports and the U.S. Olympic Committee with their efforts and hard-earned dollars because they believe in the Olympic dream and amateur sport."

The Soviet Union has announced its opposition to professionals competing in the Olympics.

The U.S. announcement comes as the International Olympic Committee, as well as international federations in the various Olympic sports, set their eligibility standards for the 1988 games. The IOC's 91st congress is scheduled October 8-18 in Lausanne, Switzerland. The matter also is on the

Bay rejects 'bonus' for new coach

Ohio State University athletics director Richard M. Bay has said thanks, but no thanks to area businessmen who offered to raise $100,000 to help him find a new basketball coach.

"I had a breakfast meeting with them to discuss our new facilities," Bay said, "and they mentioned the business community would help get a new coach. I was grateful."

"Ultimately, I might need some modest help, but I don't now."

Ohio State is looking for a successor to Eldon Miller, whom Bay fired February 3 near the end of a 14-14 season.

"I haven't had a single guy who was not interested in Ohio State say he was not interested because of money," Bay continued. He said he hasn't offered the job to anybody.

Bay said gifts of money from businessmen to the new coach would be legal under NCAA rules if they were channeled through the athletics department.

"We have to extend the money," he said.

Bay said he is not bothered that several major-college coaches have taken themselves out of consideration for the Ohio State post, the Associated Press reported.

"When you get closer to a second interview, and you're getting serious and talking numbers and an interview with the president, a guy has to search his conscience," Bay said. "It's not like the pros, where it's the highest bidder. In college, you're talking about loyalties."

One businessman who asked not to be named said his group asked the athletics department not to hire "any second-raters. We all want an experienced, top-flight coach."

The businessman added that his group was willing to raise $100,000 but did not say if it would be paid in a lump sum.

"We basically told them the money is here.... we're fed up to the gills with mediocrity with that coaching department."

"I think they got the message."

The U.S. Tennis Association has endorsed professionals in the Olympics and so have some members of the USOC Athletes Advisory Council.

In the 1984 Olympic Winter Games in Sarajevo, a precedent was set when members of the Canadian ice hockey team included professional hockey players. Protests were lodged by the USOC and the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, the sport's national governing body.

U.S. professional soccer players replaced amateurs on the U.S. Olympic team just two weeks before the 1984 Summer Games in Los Angeles after a ruling by the IOC and the FIFA, the international soccer federation, allowing pros to compete in that event.

(up 42), cross country (41), soccer (32) and indoor track (31), while gymnastics led the declining women's sports by dropping 10 teams.

In Division I in 1984-85, the average numbers of sports sponsored per institution were 10.2 for men and 7.3 for women (17.5 total); in Division II, 7.8 for men and 6.3 for women (14.1), and in Division III, 8.9 for men and 6.8 for women (15.7).

Trends

For the first time, the Long Range Planning Committee had available a review of data on sports sponsorship covering six years (1979-80 through 1984-85) for men and four years (1981-82 through 1984-85) for women. That information was based on the percentage of NCAA members sponsoring each sport during each year in the respective periods.

On that basis, the committee was able to determine trends in sports sponsorship, arriving at these conclusions:

- The fastest-growing men's sports (in terms of the percentage of the NCAA member institutions sponsoring them) are cross country (up 5.5 percent since 1979-80), soccer (5.3 percent) and indoor track (2.7 percent). Others that have gained in that period are lacrosse, football and ice hockey; all other men's sports have declined except basketball, which remained exactly the same (98.8 percent of all member institutions sponsor men's basketball). Football increased in sponsorship four of the past five years.

- The major declining men's sports, in terms of sponsorship, are wrestling (down 8.9 percent and has declined each year during the period), gymnastics (down 7.8 percent), swimming

(5.8 percent) and golf (4.8 percent). Over the five years of comparative figures, men's outdoor track and fencing also show regular, although smaller, declines.

- Among the women's sports, these are growing the most: cross country (up 16.2 percent since 1981-82), soccer (up 12 percent), indoor track (up nine percent) and softball (up 8.9). Of the other 11, seven have smaller net increases over the four-year period.

- The major declining women's sports, in terms of sponsorship, are gymnastics (down 4.5 percent), field hockey (down 3.4), fencing and golf. Over the period, gymnastics, field hockey and fencing have dropped each year.

Tabulations of the key data reviewed by the Long Range Planning Committee accompany this article on page 1.

Team up with Greyhound[®] and see what kind of sports we really are.

Charter Greyhound, and we'll return up to 10% of your school's billings.

Every time you ride with us — from athletic teams to the band and other college organizations — you're helping to build the total amount of NCAA charter billings on Greyhound. And that adds up to big returns for your school.

With our new game plan, as the total NCAA volume figure grows, the percentage of billings that are returned to you will grow as well.

Up to a maximum 10% rate of return that goes directly to the athletic department.

So when you go Greyhound, you're getting more than our reputation for safety, service and reliability. You're getting a new way to keep expenses down.

When you're ready to plan your charters for the season, call us at 1-800-USA-NCAA. We'll give you more information and immediate charter quotes. And your Greyhound NCAA sales representative will contact you soon afterwards.

This year, put a good sport on your team. Choose Greyhound charters all season long.

The Facts...

DRUG ABUSE is one of American society's most compelling problems. Whether on the job, on the playing field or in the classroom, its effects and consequences can create serious and oft times hazardous situations.

While there is no easy solution to this problem, drug screening programs are proving effective in many ways: productivity is improving, absenteeism is being reduced, safety and security are enhanced, and the programs themselves are serving as deterrents.

Once the decision has been made to establish a drug screening program, careful consideration should be given to the selection of the laboratory which will perform the testing. While some clinical laboratories offer limited drug screening as a part of their testing capabilities, at The American Institute for Drug Detection, the Facts speak for themselves:

Fact: A laboratory dedicated solely to testing for drugs of abuse and steroids

Fact: A professional staff committed to providing results of the highest quality, accuracy and precision

Fact: State-of-the-Art instrumentation and quality control

Fact: Strict confidentiality and documented chain of specimen custody

Fact: Immediate confirmation of positive findings by Gas Chromatography/Mass Spectrometry

Fact: Unparalleled responsiveness with most testing completed within 72 hours of receipt in the laboratory (priority testing services are available)

Fact: Test regimens individually designed to meet your most specific service requirements

Legislative Assistance

1986 Column No. 12

Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2) interpretation

The NCAA Administrative Committee has reviewed the amended provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2) that become effective August 1, 1986. The committee considered the application of the reference in this regulation to a high school graduate who presents an overall accumulative minimum grade-point average of 2.000 (but who fails to present the required grade-point average in the core curriculum and achieve the required test score) and, therefore, may receive financial aid under the specified circumstances. The committee confirmed that the required 2.000 grade-point average under these circumstances must represent the individual's accumulative high school grade-point average following completion of the individual's final term, and that the sixth-, seventh- or eighth-semester accumulative grade-point average-alternative (which was permitted under the previous 2.000 rule) could not be utilized in such cases.

Contest limitations

The Administrative Committee has reviewed 1986 Convention Proposal No. 20, which will preclude (effective September 1, 1986) a member institution's intercollegiate basketball team from participating in any one year in more than one of the opportunities for competition (excluding one contest with a foreign team in the United States) that do not count toward the maximum number of contests. The committee considered whether a member institution that has an existing contractual agreement with member institutions in Hawaii or Alaska for such competition should receive a waiver of the requirements of this regulation. It was the committee's position that such a waiver would not be appropriate and that each member institution should comply with the requirements of this legislation subsequent to its effective date. The committee noted that the new legislation still will permit a member institution to have two opportunities for competition in the same year that would not count toward the maximum number of contests; further, that inasmuch as the contractual agreements in question involve member institutions (rather than other individuals or agencies outside the Association), the necessary adjustments could be made to achieve compliance with this regulation.

Tryout rule

During the 1986 Convention, Proposal No. 46 was adopted in part to clarify the exceptions to the Association's tryout rule. As a result of this amendment, the new provisions of Bylaw 1-6-(c)-(3) stipulate that no awards may be presented to participants in competition involving high school athletics events (e.g., an invitational track meet sponsored by a member institution involving events in which high school athletes participate). In light of the tradition of providing such awards during past invitational track meets, the Administrative Committee asks member institutions to note that the new legislation will preclude such awards; further, the new legislation does not include any waiver provision related to this issue.

Part-time coaches

The Administrative Committee has reviewed the application of 1986 Convention Proposal No. 88, which was adopted to stipulate that if a Division I-AA member institution sponsors a junior varsity intercollegiate football team in addition to varsity and freshman teams, that member institution may employ or otherwise utilize two additional part-time coaches in the sport of football. The committee noted that under this legislation if a member institution sponsors a junior varsity intercollegiate football team in addition to its varsity team, but does not sponsor a freshman team, the institution may not utilize the additional part-time coaches and also must remain subject to the more restrictive football coaching staff restrictions that were adopted by Division I-AA through 1986 Convention Proposal No. 87.

Promotional activities

The Administrative Committee has reviewed the situation involving a student-athlete who won a prize (i.e., a trip to Nassau) by sinking a half-court basketball shot during one of the institution's half-time promotional activities. The committee noted that it would not be permissible for a student-athlete with remaining eligibility to retain such a prize. The committee confirmed the current interpretation that when such a promotional venture is scheduled in conjunction with intercollegiate competition and a student-athlete is selected to participate, the receipt of such a prize would result in an extra benefit for that individual, as well as involving the student-athlete in activities designed to promote the commercial sponsor of the event.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Misconduct rule invoked in men's basketball

The Division I Men's Basketball Committee has applied the Association's championships misconduct rule for the first time, requiring a University of Oklahoma player to sit out the Sooners' first game in the 1986 championship.

Event will aid special scholarship fund

The sixth annual Swim with Mike fund-raiser will be conducted April 19 at the Olympic swim stadium at the University of Southern California to provide scholarships and other assistance to physically challenged athletes.

Mike Nyeholt was an all-America swimmer at Southern Cal when he was paralyzed after a motorcycle accident in 1981. His teammates conceived a Swim for Mike fund-raiser, enabling Nyeholt to purchase a specially equipped van.

The Physically Challenged Athletes Scholarship Fund was a result of the initial event. Nyeholt attended the first event, although still hospitalized, and promised that he would be a

Under the provisions of Executive Regulation 1-2-(o), the committee informed the university last August that Tim McCalister would be suspended "from the next NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship game in which the University of Oklahoma participates" as a result of McCalister's throwing a cup of water on the back of an official at the end of a game in the 1985 Midwest regional.

In January, the university requested a review of the suspension under the provision of Executive Regulation 1-2-(o)-(5). The Division I Men's Basketball Committee reviewed the matter in an in-person meeting with the student-athlete and university representatives March 7 and informed the university March 9 that it had sustained the earlier decision.

The university accepted the committee's action, noting that "...the committee's decision and reasoning was clearly an exercise of sound judgment, leaving us no reason to pursue the appeal with the (NCAA) Administrative Committee."

Committee Chair Richard D. Schultz, director of athletics at the University of Virginia, emphasized that the committee will not condone cases of misconduct in the championship.

Big Ten to develop TV plan

The Big Ten Conference has announced that it has engaged Bill Rasmussen, the founder of ESPN, to explore opportunities and develop plans regarding a wide spectrum of communication matters.

Rasmussen will begin work immediately with the Big Ten in developing a television plan for the 1987 conference basketball season designed to maximize both exposure and revenue, with special emphasis on marketing, sales, promotion and station affiliate relations. Under this new concept, the Big Ten will coordinate the production and scheduling of all conference basketball games to be televised, with the exception of those games selected for either CBS-TV or NBC-TV. It is anticipated that all 90 Big Ten Conference games will be offered for television in 1987, as well as several nonconference games in December.

"We're pleased to have a person with the expertise and background of Bill Rasmussen assist the Big Ten in its television matters," said Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke. "Bill is among the most respected authorities in the TV industry today. His founding and development of ESPN are an indication of the success he has enjoyed in this unpredictable world of sports television."
