Commission discusses freshman eligibility, financial issues

Freshman eligibility and financial issues promise to be major topics for the NCAA Presidents Commission this year.

Those topics attracted considerable attention in the Commission's first full meeting of 1986, held April 2-3 in Chicago. Many of the discussions in that meeting will result in the development of information for the next meeting, scheduled September 30 and October 1 in Kansas City, Missouri.

The Commission reaffirmed its three major topics for the year, as determined earlier by its executive committee: financial issues, academic integrity, and enforcement and compliance. It asked the executive committee—the four Commission officers—to present specific alternatives in each of those topics for consideration in the fall meeting.

Financial issues

The Commission did not attempt to resolve in the April 2-3 meeting the question of moving the NCAA financial aid legislation from the constitution to the bylaws or the matter of exempting more or all of the Pell Grant from the Association's grant limitation. The Divisions I and III subcommittees, however, favored moving the aid legislation, while the Division II subcommittee was opposed.

The Division I subcommittee agreed to examine all components of the cost of attending a college or university and will attempt in the fall meeting to formulate a recommendation regarding the amount of aid a student-athlete should be able to receive.

"It was clear that the Division I members do not favor any form of outright 'pay' for student-athletes," said I. M. Heyman, chancellor of the University of California, Berkeley, and Division I chair of the Commission. "What we are interested in determining is whether the amount of aid available for actual educational expenses needs to be increased, especially in comparison to the aid available to students in general."

At the other end of the array of financial issues considered at the meeting, the Division I subcommittee will develop a set of options designed to reduce institutional costs of conducting athletics programs. Included will be possible reductions in size of coaching staffs, numbers of grants in various sports and length of playing seasons.

That subcommittee also will review the arguments for and against basing athletics aid, all or in part, on demonstrated need of the student-athlete.

In other financial issues:

- The Division I subcommittee did not favor resubmitting 1986 Convention Proposal No. 25, which would have permitted aid past the five-year eligibility period, and did not believe that questions regarding one-year grants as opposed to four-year grants were appropriate Commission considerations.

- The Division I subcommittee did not choose to propose legislation to require reporting and/or control of coaches' outside income but did conclude that it probably would support legislation to require each head coach to report all outside income to the institution's chief executive officer, if the Council or others decide to propose such legislation.

- The Division III subcommittee recommended a stronger statement of principles regarding that division's financial aid criteria, citing problems with varying interpretations of those criteria from institution to institution.

Academic integrity

Commission Chair John B. Slaughter, chancellor of the University of Maryland, College Park, volunteered to develop a document reviewing the freshman-eligibility question for review by the full Commission and especially the Division I subcommittee prior to the October meeting.

"Chief executive officers continue to express concern regarding the demands on freshman student-athletes, especially in the high-pressure sports of football and basketball in Division I," Slaughter said. "We are aware, of course, that a survey of Division I chief executives last year did not support freshman ineligibility, but those attitudes may be changing and it seems appropriate to revisit this issue."

Women's basketball will have coaching box

The use of a coaching box in all intercollegiate competition has been approved for the 1986-87 season by the NCAA Women's Basketball Rules Committee.

The coaching-box rule change was one of three changes made by the committee when it met March 30 to April 1 in Lexington, Kentucky. The committee also approved the experimental use of a three-point field goal by conferences for the coming season.

Also approved as rules changes were the elimination of the jump ball and a change in the administration of the technical foul before the start of a period.

The coaching-box rule is the same as that used in men's competition. All bench personnel must remain seated on the bench when the clock is running and the ball is alive, except to report to the scorer's table or to react spontaneously to an outstanding play. The head coach may be up but is confined to the coaching box except to get information from the scorer or timer during a timeout or intermission or to request a timeout for a correctable error by the officials.

Seven conferences had experimented with the coaching box in 1985-86.

"The committee felt that there were three good reasons for the rule change," said Marcy Weston, secretary-rules editor. "The coaching box allows better visibility for the table personnel to communicate with officials, it opens up the sidelines for the movement of officials, and it puts the focus of the game on the players rather than the bench personnel."

The women's committee also voted to adopt the men's rule for alternating possession of the ball on held-ball situations and at the start of the second half. The change was supported by more than 60 percent of those responding to the committee's annual survey.

The only other rules change was one affecting the administration of a technical foul prior to the start of a period. Under the new rule, such technical fouls will result in a free throw and possession of the ball for the offended team.

Conferences may request permission to experiment with a three-point field goal. The distance is 19 feet, nine inches from the center of the basket, the same distance as was approved by the men's committee for all intercollegiate competition. Requests should be made in writing to Elaine Hieber, chair of the committee and associate director of athletics at Iowa State University.

session for an open discussion of any topic requested by a member of the committee.

Meanwhile, the Division II committee will consider possible academic requirements for initial eligibility in Division II, possible modification of transfer rules for that division and concerns dealing with multidivision classification.

Division III members also will look at possible academic requirements for initial eligibility in that division. That committee also will review information regarding conference playing-season limitations in Division III, as well as a clarification of the Division III financial aid criteria.

NCAA President John R. Davis, assisted by Secretary-Treasurer Wilford S. Bailey, will lead the Council meeting. The three new division vice-presidents will be chairing their first full meetings of the division steering committees: Lewis A. Cryer, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Division I; Asa N. Green, Livingston University, Division II, and Judith M. Sweet, University of California, San Diego, Division III.

Highlights of the Council meeting will be reported in the April 23 issue of The NCAA News, with a complete summary of all voting actions appearing one week later.

A comment from the past that bears repeating

By Elmer A. Blasco

The date was February 12, 1986. It was a date of extreme significance to many of our nation's high schools, to most all colleges and universities in the U.S. and certainly of vital importance to the sports press of the country.

"Lincoln's birthday?" you ask. Hardly anything so mundane. "The beginning of Lent?" Nothing quite so ordinary.

February 12, 1986, was the day that marked the end of the 1985-86 college football recruiting season. It was the day that letters of intent had to be filed with the NCAA establishing the college of choice by the current crop of high school football players. It was the day that the nation's colleges and universities learned the results of their recruiting efforts over the previous weeks. It was the day that would help determine the number of television appearances for their team in coming seasons... it was a day that might hold promise of a bowl bid for a New Year's Day to come.

Recruiting. In today's world of interscholastic and intercollegiate athletics, there is much conversation about scholastic entrance standards for athletes, the number of athletics scholarships each school should be allowed, payment of college football players for "services rendered," athletics dormitories and control of television. Discussion is held on elimination, change or modification of these elements of athletics activities. But of "recruiting" the motto is, as it was on the 1775 rattlesnake flag of the continental navy... "Don't Tread On Me."

But if some of the "mess" of college athletics is to be cleaned up, it is going to have to begin with the recruiting process, where a good many of the ills of college football have their inception.

Short of total elimination of recruiting (held by some, including us, to be worthy of consideration), changes have to be made if college athletics is to regain some semblance of the integrity it once commanded.

And no less an authority on the subject than NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers felt the same way as he addressed approximately 50 of the nation's top sports writers in Kansas City in late February.

"Recruiting cleanup is vital," he told the writers. He described the current climate of intercollegiate athletics as "a renaissance of the spirit and will to conduct intercollegiate athletics in an honorable fashion."

"There's nothing wrong with intercollegiate athletics except the recruiting process," Byers said. "The only weakness we have is in the area of recruiting. The next step is to embrace, at least the concept, and much of the detail as well, the Southwest Athletic Conference proposal and remove outsiders, boosters and nonstaff members from the recruiting process."

While reading Mr. Byers' remarks we were reminded of some commentary on the subject of recruiting by the Athletic Journal's founder, Maj. John L. Griffith. (Remember, he was the Big Ten's first commissioner as well as president of the NCAA.)

Of recruiting, said Maj. Griffith... "In the last analysis, there is no more reason why an attempt should be made to recruit football players than there is for recruiting Latin or science students.... If a boy is singled out because of his athletic ability and is "rushed" for a certain college, he naturally comes to believe if he elects to enroll in the college in question, that he has honored the college by his presence and attendance. Such a boy is inclined to feel that if he is indispensable to the college he has thus favored, that the institution owes him something in the way of special favors, kindly consideration in the matter of credits or perhaps he may expect financial pay for his services. The purpose of the college must primarily be considered as that of enriching the lives of its students. If students are to enter college for the purpose of enriching the college, then we may reasonably conclude that the colleges are not worth the money that they now cost."

And thus have two NCAA officials commented on the subject of recruiting... a half-century apart. May the spirit of both prevail.

Blasco is the publisher of Athletic Journal. This column appeared in the April issue.

Adoption of three-point play a surprise to some coaches

Coaches from Final Four teams have expressed reservations that the NCAA decision to adopt a 19-foot, nine inch three-point goal in college basketball was a good idea and thought it could make zone defenses obsolete.

"I'm shocked that something like this has been passed at this time," said coach Mike Krzyzewski of Duke. "To me, the game seems to be great right now. This is a revolutionary change, and I don't think it's good for the game right now."

"We've just had a year of no chaos and now we're introducing chaos," Krzyzewski said. "I don't think that's good for the game. There are a lot of major coaches shocked by this. If we're shocked, then you know there hasn't been a lot of discussion about it, and certainly there has been no public outcry to implement a three-point shot."

"I think the three-pointer has merit, (but) I'm a little confused about the distance," said coach Larry Brown of

Brown

Kansas. "I don't want it to be such an easy shot that it really becomes more important than anything, because I don't think that's the purpose; I do think that it'll open the game up a little more, and we probably won't see as many zones."

Louisville assistant coach Jerry Jones, who said he was speaking for coach Denny Crum, said his first reaction to the three-point goal was "that shot can cause as much harm as benefit because it's not a high-percentage shot."

"I think it's a way of legislating against zone defenses without really saying so," Jones told the Associated Press.

"We put the (shot) clock in and if that didn't keep you out of the zone, we'll put the three-point play in to make you play man-to-man," Jones said the NCAA was seeming to say.

The NCAA Men's Basketball Rules Committee adopted rules instituting the three-point goal and use of instant replays to assist in scoring and time-keeping calls. Videotaped replays would not be used to settle arguments over judgment calls such as fouls.

"I'm very surprised to see it (three-point goal) pass," Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps said. "I didn't realize it was under serious consideration, based on the experimentation by major conferences a few years back, which generally seemed to be negative."

On the TV replay, Jones noted: "If they cannot correct an error by normal channels — that is by statistics or play-by-play — there's nothing wrong with using a replay to correct something like a clock error. Anytime you can eliminate an error, that is something positive."

"Sometimes, they give the guy the wrong foul," Brown said of the replay recommendation. "Sometimes, guys go to the free-throw line who weren't fouled. We had that happen to us in a very big game with Louisville."

Steve Alford, Indiana's all-America guard, said he likes the three-point rule.

"Anytime you add something to an individual's game that is his particular asset or strength, you've got to like it," Alford said. "And I think shooting's one of my strengths and probably my major strength. My jump shot's worth one more point now."

But he added, "I really don't see our (the Hoosiers') game changing. We've had that rule before in the Big Ten, and it didn't really change our game that much."

Jacksonville coach Bob Wenzel

said he was totally against the three-point goal "from any distance. We've experimented with it in the Sun Belt Conference a few years back, and we didn't like it. I don't think many coaches do."

"I think perhaps we're fooling around with the rules too much," Wenzel said.

Iowa State coach Johnny Orr was pleased with the three-point-shot plan.

"I'm not opposed to it at all," Orr said. "Now, you may recruit a guy who's a great shooter. It may open up the way for the smaller guys."

Wyoming coach Jim Brandenburg attacked the adoption of the three-point field goal.

"The rules committee dropped a bombshell on the coaching profession," Brandenburg said. "We just got the 45-second clock. We should stabilize the game."

Edward S. Steitz, secretary-rules editor of the committee, said the change would put the "little man back in the game."

Improvements in college athletics won't come overnight

"In a domed stadium, a basketball game loses some of its appeal for many spectators. By its nature, a domed stadium is built for football and baseball, games with vast playing areas that can be surrounded with seats. But on a basketball court, the action is much more compact. For that reason, the seating capacity needs to be much more compact, as it is in the traditional arenas."

ing of academic integrity, the Commission expressed no appreciable support for 1986 Convention Proposal No. 68, which would have permitted five years of eligibility for participation in college athletics instead of four.

Noting that concerns regarding redshirting and application of the "hardship" rule apparently had prompted the proposal, the Commission suggested that the NCAA Council develop approaches to treat those concerns rather than changing the basic period of eligibility.

Meanwhile, the Divisions II and III subcommittees both considered the possible establishment of academic requirements for initial eligibility in those divisions in light of the new Bylaw 5-1-(j) provisions in Division I. The Division II group will develop information centered on use of core-curriculum and grade-point requirements, coupled with strong support for satisfactory academic progress, while the Division III subcommittee intends to look at institutional profiles comparing student-athletes with non-athletes and probably will not propose a national requirement for that division apart from consistency within each institution.

Other academic discussions included these:

- The Division I subcommittee continued to monitor implementation of Bylaw 5-1-(j). It also supported in concept attempts to tighten the satisfactory-progress legislation and expressed considerable interest in more specific disclosure of academic data by each Division I institution.

- That subcommittee decided not to take action to amend Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2) to permit an additional season of eligibility for the nonqualifier under those provisions. It also took no action regarding 1986 Convention Proposal No. 17, which would have added grade-point-average requirements to the satisfactory-progress rule, noting that grade-point systems and values differ among institutions.

Enforcement, compliance

Interest was expressed in the concept of peer-review visitations, and the Division I subcommittee agreed to encourage the Pacific-10 Conference to pursue its proposed visitation program and report on its progress to the Commission. Other conferences will be encouraged to consider development of such programs.

The Commission continued to review implementation of the requirements adopted at the special Convention in June 1985, receiving progress reports on the self-study, academic-reporting and external-audit requirements as well as other efforts to enhance the Association's enforcement and compliance activities.

The group also received a progress report on the work of the Special NCAA Committee on Deregulation and Rules Simplification and will report several concerns and suggestions to that special committee.

Other

In another discussion, the Commission received a report on "federation" within the NCAA, which it had requested earlier. Consideration will be given to providing a copy of that report to each chief executive officer in the membership. While praising the report, some members of the Divisions II and III subcommittees expressed concern regarding the extent to which "federation" will continue to occur in the Association's activities.

Under that same topic, the Division III subcommittee supported the eventual elimination of all multidivision-classification opportunities, suggested that Division II members compete in the Division I championships instead of the Division III championships in those sports for which no championship is offered in Division II, and agreed to review in the future the purposes and continuation of NCAA Division III championships.

Other actions by the Commission:

- The NCAA staff was asked to develop a publication on the principle of institutional control and the CEO's responsibilities in that regard.

- The Commission will encourage the Faculty Athletics Representatives Forum to continue development of its statement of philosophy, including consideration of a possible recommendation regarding a mandatory minimum role for faculty representatives.

- The Division III subcommittee will urge greater CEO involvement at the conference level within that division.

- The Commission will attempt to improve its communications with CEOs at all member institutions by developing a special newsletter to be sent to the chief executives after each Commission meeting.

More TV information sought from members

The Special NCAA Committee on Copyright Royalty Tribunal Proceedings has directed the national office staff to make a second request for 1985 television programming information from member institutions. The group met in Dallas March 31 to review data already gathered for 1985 in preparation for the filing of the Association's claim on behalf of the membership.

"Although we received excellent response from our first mailing (which was completed in December 1985), we believe it is in the membership's best interest for this committee to attempt to gather as much data as possible," said Wilford S. Bailey, NCAA secretary-treasurer and chair of the special committee. "The Copyright Royalty Tribunal financial pool continues to grow each year, and

Distinguished American Award will go to Toner

John L. Toner, director of athletics at the University of Connecticut, has been named the recipient of the Distinguished American Award by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

He will receive the award during the foundation's annual awards dinner December 9 in New York City.

In announcing the selection, Vincent dePaul Draddy, foundation chair, said, "John Toner has served college football well as a player, coach, athletics director and as president of the NCAA (1983 to 1985)."

Currently, Toner serves as chair of the Special NCAA Postseason Drug-Testing Committee.

Toner was the quarterback of the Boston University Terriers in 1947 and 1948 after having served for more than three years in the army.

After graduation, he embarked on a successful football coaching career. He became an assistant at Boston University before joining the Columbia staff in 1957. He became head coach at Connecticut in 1966 and later was to add the duties of athletics director.

He has served on many NCAA committees. In 1981, he was elected secretary-treasurer of the NCAA, a post he held until being named president of the Association.

Championships' ratings good

Overnight ratings announced by CBS Sports indicate that the network's telecasts of the NCAA men's Final Four and the Division I women's championship game again drew large audiences.

Saturday's semifinal contest between the University of Louisville and Louisiana State University drew a 9.6 rating and a 30 share, according to figures compiled by A. C. Nielsen. Ratings are determined by an average percentage of possible television homes tuned in to the game, while a share is based on the average percentage of the nation's sets in use viewing the program.

The second semifinal game, which featured top-ranked Duke University and the University of Kansas, drew a 13.3 rating and a 31 share. The men's championship game, won by Louisville, 72-69, drew a 20.7 rating and a 31 share, ranking it among the most-watched college games in history.

Viewing for the Division I Women's Basketball Championship improved over a year ago, and the University of Texas, Austin, contest with the University of Southern California drew a 6.5 rating and a 24 share. Last year's Old Dominion University and University of Georgia contest drew a 5.6 rating.

those institutions and conferences that fail to provide the Association with appropriate information are denying themselves an opportunity to share in the available funds."

A May 1 deadline has been set for return of forms from the second mailing, which will be completed by April 11. Administrators are encouraged to return the forms even if none of their institution's intercollegiate athletics contests was televised during 1985.

The special committee also noted that administrators should make use of the programming logs for 1986 that were included with the December 1985 mailing. These forms, which facilitate tracking television programming information on a continual basis, should make compilation of television appearance data much easier.

The group has set a June 1 deadline for return of information relating to 1986 appearances by winter-spring sports teams.

The Copyright Royalty Tribunal is a clearinghouse for the distribution of funds paid by television programming concerns (e.g., cable companies) that broadcast but do not originate programs, including athletics contests involving teams representing NCAA member institutions. For example, State plays basketball at Tech, and Tech originates a broadcast of the game. Any cable companies that pick up the telecast for distribution to their subscribers will contribute to the CRT pool. The Association annually files a claim on the membership's behalf to recover the appropriate funds from the CRT pool.

eliminate all the rules that deal with humanistic behavior. You can't have a player practice three hours every day and then, if he has a toothache, not be able to take him to the dentist. "You've got to come down on the buying of athletes. You've got to bury the coach and the athlete. But you can't have different standards for different schools. Nothing offends a coach more than to see another coach going to the Final Four and he's buying players. They ought to take every team that gets an NCAA bid and get the players and coach to take a polygraph test.

"No, I've got a better idea. Take the top 100 kids in the country and then get the recruiters and have all of them take a lie detector test. But they're never going to do that, and the reason is there are certain programs they don't want anything to happen to. They don't want anything to happen to Kentucky basketball. They don't want anything to happen to University of Texas football.

"We had three real good opportunities. We didn't make it. And, sure, it was a disappointment. But in no way am I going to equate 25 years of coaching with one brief experience."

Stanford men swim to a second straight team title

Four Stanford swimmers claimed victories during the final day of competition to help the Cardinal pull away from the pack and win the team title in the Division I Men's Swimming and Diving Championships April 3-5 at Indianapolis.

The Cardinal won its second consecutive championship by scoring a record 404 points, one-half point more than its record total of a year ago. Stanford coach Skip Kenney called the victory even more satisfying than winning his first title last year.

"This one means more to me than the other because, as in anything in athletics, it's hard to repeat," Kenney told the Associated Press. "The odds were against us, but we really fought hard."

Pablo Morales, Jeff Kostoff, John Moffet and Sean Murphy all claimed individual championships on the final day to help Stanford run away with what was expected to be a closely contested title. With its closing-day performance, the Cardinal left behind a logjam of teams, including runner-up California (335 points), Texas (325½) and Florida (321).

Morales won the 200-yard butterfly for the third consecutive year, claiming his third individual title of the meet and the eighth of his career. Earlier, the junior set American and meet records in the preliminaries of the 100-yard butterfly (46.26) before repeating as champion in that event and also successfully defended his title in the 200-yard individual medley.

Kostoff broke his own American and meet records in winning the 1,650-yard freestyle with a time of 14:37.87. Moffet and Murphy successfully defended their championships in the 200-yard breaststroke and 200-yard backstroke, respectively. Moffet, however, was unable to repeat as the 100-yard breaststroke champion, losing to Giovanni Minervini of UCLA.

Morales was not the meet's only three-time winner. California's Matt Biondi became the first performer in 56 years to sweep the three freestyle sprints. He won the 50-, 100- and 200-yard freestyles to match the triple accomplished by Northwestern's Al Schwartz in 1930. His time of 19.22 at the 50-yard length set American and meet records.

Biondi also anchored the Golden Bears' record-breaking 400-yard freestyle relay team, which set a meet mark of 2:53.02, and helped lead California's 800-yard freestyle relay team to victory.

UCLA's Doug Shaffer won the one-meter diving event, but he was nosed out by Southern California's Hong Ping Li in the three-meter event.

Arizona State claims men's gymnastics crown

A .3-point penalty levied against Nebraska, combined with key performances in the final event by sophomore twins Dan and Dennis Hayden, helped Arizona State capture its first Division I Men's Gymnastics Championships team title April 4-5 in Lincoln, Nebraska.

Dan Hayden scored a 9.9 in the high bar and his brother posted a 9.8, giving the Sun Devils the upper hand after Nebraska coach Francis Allen filed a fourth inquiry concerning scoring, which was denied by the judges. It was the first national title for Sun Devil coach Don Robinson.

The Cornhuskers held a 1.35-point lead going into the final round of competition, but the judges' denial of the fourth protest proved costly for Nebraska. Without that protest, the meet would have ended in a tie.

This is the first year the NCAA has permitted coaches to file inquiries about scoring in men's gymnastics competition. A three-tenths-of-a-point penalty is assessed if the fourth protest filed by a coach is denied.

Arizona State, which finished second in 1978 and 1974, scored 283.90 to 283.60 for second-place Nebraska, a five-time champion. Stanford was third with 279.50 points.

"I did not know what the score was at the time," Allen said. But he noted that it would not have mattered had the judges agreed with his argument that one inquiry already upheld was the same as two the judges later denied.

Allen filed an inquiry about the scoring on a particular move on the high bar by a Nebraska competitor and the gymnast's score was raised. Allen said he also filed inquiries about the same move performed by two other Huskers, but those inquiries were denied.

Allen's earlier protest about a score during the parallel bars competition also was denied.

Senior Jon Louis of Stanford captured the individual all-around title after finishing fifth last year. He posted a 57.60 total to edge Brian Ginsberg of UCLA (57.35) and Dan Hayden of Arizona State (57.00).

Other individual winners were Jerry Burrell of Arizona State in floor exercise, Curtis Holdsworth of UCLA on the pommel horse, Mark Diab of Iowa State on the still rings, Chad Fox of New Mexico in the vault and Dan Hayden of Arizona State in both the parallel bars and horizontal bars. Dan Hayden and Diab were the only repeat individual event winners from 1985.

Total attendance for the meet was 11,704.

Here are the summaries of the 1986 championships:

Team Scoring

1. Arizona State, 283.90; 2. Nebraska, 283.60; 3. Stanford, 279.50; 4. Oklahoma, 281.70; 5. UCLA, 280.45; 6. Iowa, 279.00; 7. Southern Illinois, 278.00; 8. New Mexico, 277.85; 9. Ohio State, 277.00; 10. Penn State, 274.40. *Nebraska penalized .3 of a point for too many inquiries.

Future championships

Dates and sites have been approved for the following NCAA championships:

1986 Division II Men's Golf Championships — To be conducted May 19-22, instead of May 20-23, at the Innisbrook Resort and Golf Club in Tarpon Springs, Florida. The tournament previously was scheduled for the Bloomingdale Country Club in Tampa, Florida. The University of Tampa will host the event.

1987 Division I Women's Basketball Midwest Regional — Either March 20 and 22 or March 21 and 23, at Northeast Louisiana University.

Division II players honored

Vickie Mitchell of Cal Poly-Pomona and Tampa's Todd Linder were selected NCAA Division II players of the year at the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass., March 21.

NBC signs for Seoul Olympics

NBC and the Seoul Olympic Organizing Committee have signed a $300 million contract for exclusive U.S. television rights to the 1988 Summer Olympics, the network and officials of the organizing committee announced.

"The ink is finally on the contract," said Tom Merritt, a public relations spokesman for NBC Sports. It was announced last October 3 that the network had been awarded the TV rights.

The Seoul committee had originally hoped to get about $600 million for its television rights, based on bids for previous Olympic games. But the three major television networks made bids far lower than expected.

field, Massachusetts, March 21.

Mitchell, who led the Broncos to a second consecutive NCAA Division II national championship, was presented the fourth annual Women's Basketball Coaches Association-Champion Award.

Linder, recently named as the only repeat first-team selection on the National Association of Basketball Coaches all-America squad, received the fourth annual NABC-Spalding Trophy.

Both players were honored at an NCAA Division II player-of-the-year luncheon in the Springfield Civic Center, site of the combined men's and women's championships.

Previous winners of the WBCA-Champion Award are Jackie White, Cal Poly-Pomona (1983); Carla Eades, Central Missouri State (1984); and Rosie Jones, Central Missouri State (1985).

Previous winners of the NABC-Spalding Award are Earl Jones, District of Columbia (1983 and 1984), and Charles Oakley, Virginia Union (1985).

Seattle Pacific women roll up Division II gymnastics record score

Seattle Pacific, riding the performances of Barbara Elliott and Bonnie Parman, rolled up a record number of points and captured the Division II Women's Gymnastics Championships team title April 4-5 at Colorado Springs.

It was the first title for the Lady Falcons and broke the two-year streak of Jacksonville State, which finished second. Seattle Pacific scored 175.80 points, breaking the record of 174.35 set in 1983 by Denver. It was the fifth year for the championships.

The Lady Falcons barely got by Jacksonville State, which finished with 175.15 points, and Northern Colorado, which finished third with 174.45.

Elliott took first places in three individual events — the balance beam, vaulting and floor exercise. Parman finished second in vaulting. Elliott also finished in a tie for third place in the uneven parallel bars. Jeanne Foster of William and Mary tied Mary Leivian of Wisconsin-Oshkosh for the individual title in that event.

Leivian and Foster also shared the individual all-around title with 36.65 points each. Leivian posted an 8.9 in the vault, 9.3 on the uneven bars, 9.15 on the balance beam and 9.3 in floor exercise. Foster had 9.35 in the vault, 9.15 on the uneven bars, 9.25 on the balance beam and 8.90 in floor exercise.

Elliott posted a 9.325 point total in the vaulting, 9.3 on the balance beam and 9.6 in the floor exercise to wrap up the individual titles. Foster and Leivian each had 9.3 to tie for the uneven bars crown.

Top-seeded Southeast Missouri State finished fifth in the final standings, as Sandra Foster provided the only high finishes for the Otahkians. Southern Connecticut State was fourth and Indiana (Pennsylvania) sixth, followed by William and Mary and Towson State.

Jacksonville State, seeded fifth, was one of three at-large entries in the championships this year, and the Lady Gamecocks had won back-to-back titles. Cal State-Northridge won the first women's Division II crown in 1982.

Following are the final standings for the 1986 Division II Women's Gymnastics Championships:

Team results

1. Seattle Pacific, 175.80; 2. Jacksonville State, 175.15; 3. Northern Colorado, 174.45; 4. Southern Connecticut State, 174.20; 5. Southeast Missouri State, 173.95; 6. Indiana (Pennsylvania), 173.70; 7. William and Mary, 173.45; 8. Towson State, 172.70.

Individual results

Vaulting: 1. Barbara Elliott, Seattle Pacific, 9.325; 2. Bonnie Parman, Seattle Pacific, 9.275; 3. (tie) Sandra Foster, Southeast Missouri State and Marie Phillips, Northern Michigan, 9.2; 5. Joellen Strada, Seattle Pacific, 9.0; 6. (tie) Sue Wahl, Indiana (Pennsylvania) and Lisa Larson, Towson State, 8.95.

Uneven Bars: 1. (tie) Jeanne Foster, William and Mary, and Mary Leivian, Wisconsin-Oshkosh, 9.3; 3. (tie) Barbara Elliott, Seattle Pacific, and Gina Gover, Indiana (Pennsylvania), 9.2; 5. Robyn Norton, Seattle Pacific, 9.1; 6. Lori Pepple, William and Mary, 9.0.

Balance Beam: 1. Barbara Elliott, Seattle Pacific, 9.3; 2. Diane Farmer, Northern Colorado, 9.1; 3. Jeanne Foster, William and Mary, 9.05; 4. Sue Weiland, Air Force, 8.95; 5. Jean

Division I women's gymnastics

Utah and Arizona State to square off again

Utah appears to be the team to beat in the Division I Women's Gymnastics Championships April 18-19 in Gainesville, Florida. Just check the NCAA championships record book, and it becomes apparent that the Utes are the class of women's gymnastics. They have won every team title since the NCAA began sponsoring the championships in 1982. However, Utah coach Greg Marsden has his own ideas about the upcoming competition.

"We are very confident in our ability," Marsden said. "But Arizona State is a strong contender, and we will have our hands full just competing against them in the regionals."

The two teams have met twice this season, and each has come away with a victory. Utah is ranked No. 1 in the national coaches' poll, but Arizona State is second. Utah edged Arizona State in the championships in 1985; and this year, the closeness between the two teams has continued. Utah is averaging 187.64 in meet scoring, while the Sun Devils average 187.55 per outing.

"My feeling is that the region is so strong that the winner of the regionals will be seeded first in the national championships, and the second-place finisher will be seeded second," Marsden continued.

"We have won all of our meets except one and so has Arizona State. I think both Georgia and Alabama will have strong teams but, realistically, I expect the toughest competition in the regionals in Salt Lake City."

Of the 12 gymnasts on the Utah roster, eight are returning letter-winners, and five of those are all-America performers. Topping the list is senior Lisa Mitzel, last season's individual floor exercise champion.

Others expected to aid the Utah cause are juniors Tina Hermann and Sandy Sabotka; sophomores Lynne Lederer, Lisa McVay and Cheryl Weatherstone, and surprising freshman Hillary Portels.

"Lisa Mitzel is particularly strong in the all-around, and Lisa McVay has had a real strong year," Marsden said. "We have had some injuries to two of our veterans, Tina Hermann (ankle) and Lynne Lederer (mononucleosis), but they should be recovered by the nationals. The real surprise has been the performance of our freshman Hillary Portels, who has been strong during the last half of the season."

Arizona State, the runner-up in 1985, will be led by seniors Jackie Brummer, Kim Neal and Lisa Zeis. Zeis was the individual champion last year on the balance beam, and Neal was second in the all-around competition. Junior Shari Mann was third in the vault in 1985. Sophomore Michele Hanigsberg also brings experience to the Sun Devil squad.

Host Florida finished third behind Utah and Arizona State in 1985, but the Gators will have trouble just winning the tough Southeastern Conference over Alabama and Georgia.

Gator coach Ernestine Weaver has a good group back from last year's third-place team, including senior Elfi Schlegel, who tied for fifth in floor exercise and eighth in the vault. Weaver also looks forward to the home-floor advantage in Gainesville.

"We hope to provide the kind of mental attitude that will allow our girls to go out and do the best they can, knowing the crowd will be with them no matter what happens," she explained.

Florida's SEC rival Alabama should feel comfortable at the championships after last year's fourth-place finish. Senior Penney Hauschild, the defending all-around champion, will be a formidable opponent once again. Hauschild finished first in both the uneven parallel bars and the all-around, and she will be joined by juniors Julie Estin and Cindy Wilson and sophomores Allison Beldon, Kathy Bilodeau, Lisa Farley and Stephanie Kehr.

Georgia coach Suzanne Yoculan

Lisa Mitzel

will count on junior all-America Terry Eckert, who tied for second place on the uneven parallel bars in 1985. She also will have sophomores Gina Banales and Julie Klick and newcomers Debbie Greco and Paula Mayhew ready for a title run.

Cal State Fullerton is another team hoping to break the string of Utah championships, and coach Lynn Rogers has senior Roni Barrios returning from last year's fifth-place team. It was the first time in four years that the Titans had finished lower than third in the championships.

UCLA, second-place finisher in 1984, hopes to get back into the national spotlight. Eighth-place Ohio State will be a challenger with what coach Larry Cox calls his best team ever. The Buckeyes have won five straight Big Ten Conference titles.

Team and all-around competition are scheduled April 18, with the individual-event championships scheduled April 19.

NCAA postgraduate scholarships awarded in basketball

Postgraduate scholarships of $2,000 each have been awarded to 10 men and 10 women basketball players at NCAA member institutions.

The Association annually awards 90 such scholarships. In addition to the 20 basketball awards, 25 scholarships are presented to student-athletes who participated in football, and 45 awards (25 for men and 20 for women) are made to student-athletes in other sports in which the NCAA conducts national championships competition.

The NCAA postgraduate scholarship program has presented scholarships worth $2,394,000 to 1,669 student-athletes since 1964. To qualify, a student-athlete must maintain a minimum 3.000 grade-point average on a 4.000 scale—or its equivalent—and perform with distinction in a varsity sport.

Following are the 1985-86 postgraduate scholarship winners in basketball:

Men's basketball

Division I

Tobin Doda (Texas Tech University, 3.655 grade-point average in premed)—A walk-on during his freshman year, Doda advanced to a sixth-man role his sophomore and junior years and became a starter and captain of the squad his senior season. The 6-7 forward was a College Sports Information Directors of America academic all-district selection three years. He served as academic chairman of hall floor and did volunteer work for Little Dribblers Basketball and the Ronald McDonald House. A dean's list member, Doda also was a member of the Golden Key Honor Society and Phi Kappa Phi. He hopes to attend medical school in the spring of 1987 and study ophthalmology.

Jerry Steven Hale (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, 3.252 grade-point average in biology)—A starter since his sophomore season, Hale has been instrumental in the Tar Heels' success, which includes Atlantic Coast Conference titles in 1984 and 1985. The 6-3 guard was named North Carolina's most inspirational player and outstanding defensive player in 1985 and 1986. He set the school's single-season free-throw record in the 1984-85 season. Hale has been a keynote speaker for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and has made the dean's list and honor roll. He recently was accepted by the University of North Carolina School of Medicine and plans to become an orthopedic surgeon.

Larry Brett Krystkowiak (University of Montana, 3.620 grade-point average in business administration)—A 6-9 forward, Krystkowiak was named Big Sky Conference MVP and honorable-mention all-America his sophomore, junior and senior years. He finished out the 1985-86 season averaging 22.2 points and 11.4 rebounds, good enough to become the all-time scorer and rebounder in Montana history and District VII player of the year. He also finished second on the Big Sky all-time scoring list and third on the all-time rebounding chart. Krystkowiak was a Big Sky all-academic selection for three years and also was named CoSIDA academic all-America in 1984-85 and 1985-86. The 21-year-old worked with Big Brothers and Sisters and was a member of the Silent Sentinel, a university honorary and service organization. He hopes to attend law school at Montana.

Richard Ellsworth Strong Jr. (Colorado State University, 3.000 grade-point average in mathematics, with emphasis in computer science)—A four-year starter for the Rams, Strong holds seven Colorado State records and is second on the all-time lists in three others. His 16.9 scoring average and 7.6 rebounding average for the 1985-86 season earned him all-Western Athletic Conference honors and second-team District VII selection. A 6-9 forward and center, Strong was named second-team all-WAC as a sophomore and junior. He is involved in the Campus Crusade Christian Fellowship and toured Europe with News Release Basketball, a Christian team. He hopes to pursue an MBA in management at either Colorado State or New Mexico.

Divisions II and III

David Allen Di Cesaris (Pomona-Pitzer Colleges, 3.060 grade-point average in economics)—A junior college transfer, Di Cesaris led the Sagehens to their two finest seasons ever, culminating in an invitation to the NCAA national championships. The 6-5 forward was Pomona-Pitzer's leading scorer and rebounder and earned Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference all-league accolades as a junior and senior. He also was named conference player of the year for the 1985-86 season. He served as secretary of the economics club his senior year and as a volunteer for several service organizations. Di Cesaris hopes to pursue an MBA degree at UCLA.

Donald Patrick Harnum (Susquehanna University, 3.860 grade-point average in history)—A four-year letterman, Harnum received All-Middle Atlantic Conference Northern Division MVP honors in addition to National Association of Basketball Coaches all-America accolades. As team captain his senior season, the 6-1 guard led the Crusaders in scoring (23.2) and was one of the nation's top Division III scorers. Harnum served on the dorm council and was a university scholar and dean's list member for four consecutive terms. Recently he was named to CoSIDA's first team academic all-America list. He plans to study sports administration or sports management in graduate school.

John Charles Kelzenberg (Morningside College, 3.760 grade-point average in chemistry)—A three-time North Central Conference all-academic player, Kelzenberg was chosen the Commissioner's Academic Player, an award presented to the outstanding student-athlete in the league. As a senior, the 6-7 forward averaged 14.1 points a game and was selected to two all-tournament teams. In previous seasons, Kelzenberg backed up all-conference players on teams that made it to the Division II final four and NCAA quarterfinals. He also pitched for Morningside in the 1983 and 1984 baseball seasons. The St. Paul, Minnesota, native is vice-president and senior adviser for Phi Eta Sigma and also is a member of Kappa Mu Epsilon. He was awarded the outstanding general chemistry and physics and engineering student awards. He hopes to attain an advanced degree in chemical engineering.

Scott Michael Sawyer (Luther College, 3.900 grade-point average in biology)—Sawyer, an Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic Conference second-team selection in 1985-86, was captain of the Norse his junior and senior years. He was awarded IIAAC first-team honors in 1984-85. Although he suffered a knee injury in the first part of his senior season, the 6-0 guard came back to average 12.3 points a game and lead Luther to a winning record. He has been awarded numerous academic and leadership scholarships and should graduate either magna or summa cum laude. He will enter the optometry school at Indiana University next fall.

At large

Joseph Mark David (University of Pittsburgh, 3.410 grade-point average in behavior/neuro science)—Winner of the Big East male scholar-athlete of the year award, David has been a member of the director of athletics' honor roll for seven consecutive semesters. As the starting point guard and captain for the Panthers, the 6-5 David led the team in assists. He was selected as the first winner of the Bernice and Morton Lerner Scholarship, an endowed financial aid award given to the best qualified academic performer on the basketball squad. He will begin the Pittsburgh master's program in exercise physiology following graduation. He then plans to attend medical school.

Phillip Edward Wendel (DePauw University, 3.280 grade-point average in psychology)—After serving as starting guard for the Plymouth High School (Indiana) state champions, Wendel became a four-year starter for the Tigers. As a sophomore, he set the single-season school record for most assists (178) and was named defensive player of the year in the process of leading the team to its best record in school history and a third-place national finish. In his junior season, Wendel became the all-time DePauw assist leader. Besides serving as captain, the 6-0 Indiana native is a resident assistant, peer counselor and vice-president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He plans to pursue a career in school administration and will attend graduate school in the fall of 1986.

Division I

Christa Margaret Champion (Brown University, 3.800 grade-point average in biomedical engineering)—While leading her team to Ivy League titles, Champion also excelled in her studies, becoming one of the top biomedical engineers at Brown. The 6-3 center averaged a career 13.8 points and 7.0 rebounds and was named all-Ivy second team. She also was selected to the Fast-break all-region first team in 1984. Champion was named a CoSIDA first-team academic all-America in 1984, 1985 and 1986. She is a member of the Society of Women Engineers, the Biomedical Engineering Society, Resident Counseling Program and Tau Beta Pi tutoring program, and is active in the Sarah Doyle Women's Center. The Massachusetts native will study either bioengineering or physiology at the graduate level. She has been accepted at Pennsylvania and Penn State.

Anne Christine Dean (University of California, Los Angeles, 3.490 grade-point average in communication studies)—The fifth all-time scorer for the Bruins, Dean served as varsity captain her junior and senior seasons. She holds the school record for single-season free throw percentage. The 5-10 guard was a two-time all-conference selection and was a preseason honorable-mention all-America prior to the 1985-86 season. She averaged more than 25 minutes of playing time for her career and finished with over an 11-point average. The Santa Ana native has been a dean's list honoree and UCLA scholar-athlete all four years and was a District VIII academic all-America in 1986. She is a member of the UCLA Business Society and University Catholic Community Youth Group and was chairperson of the Athletes' Advisory Council. She hopes to pursue graduate studies in business management with an emphasis in finance.

Susan E. Johnson (Yale University, 3.600 grade-point average in American studies)—The holder of six school records and Yale's all-time scoring leader, Johnson is an all-Ivy team member. She was only the second woman in Yale history to receive the Francis Gordon Brown Alumni Prize, given to the top junior for academic and athletic excellence. The 5-10 forward was Yale's most valuable player and served as captain her senior year. She also competed on the softball and lacrosse teams and is a member of the Yale Women's Athletic Organization and the Big Brother/Big Sister program. She plans to attend law school in the fall and to pursue a career in either family or criminal law.

Caroline Diann Mast (Ohio University, 3.817 grade-point average in mathematics education)—A CoSIDA first-team academic all-America, Mast was a Mid-American Conference (MAC) academic selection all four years of collegiate play. The 5-11 forward was the first MAC player (male or female) to score 2,000 points and grab 1,000 rebounds, and she was the MAC player of the year several times. She holds seven Ohio school records and finished her career with a better than 22-point average. She serves on the Mortar Board and is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She eventually plans to teach high school mathematics and coach basketball.

Divisions II and III

Heidi Lynn Carroll (California State University, Sacramento, 3.450 grade-point average in environmental biology)—The 6-2 center led the Hornets in scoring and finished her college career as the school's all-time leading scorer, male or female. She was a two-time Division II all-America and recently was selected to the academic all-district team. She is involved in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and has traveled with the Athletes in Action team to Australia. She will play for AIA in South America this summer. She plans to study zoology in graduate school and hopes to pursue a career in veterinary medicine.

Cretchen Sue Gates (University of Chicago, 3.600 grade-point average in economics)—A CoSIDA first-team academic all-America, Gates is a dean's list member and a recipient of the College Honor Scholarship and National Merit Scholarship. The Chicago captain holds seven school records and earned MVP honors for her senior-year efforts. She recently was named first-team all-Midwest Athletic Conference for Women, leading the league in scoring (26.3) and rebounding (15.5). The 6-0 forward was a member of the Fast-break all-America first team and the Kodak all-district team. She is involved on the Committee for Alumni Affairs, Student Relations Committee and Women's Athletic Association. She will attend law school in the fall at Harvard, Stanford, Chicago or Michigan.

Elizabeth Jane Murphy (Wellesley College, 3.898 grade-point average in chemistry)—Recently awarded a Rhodes Scholarship, the Wellesley captain was one of 12 American women to receive the honor. Murphy is the all-time leading scorer and rebounder in school history and has won MVP honors as well as scholastic awards. She also competes on the varsity tennis, soccer and lacrosse teams and was invited to the NCAA championship tennis doubles competition in 1984. The Fort Lauderdale, Florida, native is involved in Wellesley's Academic Assistance Program, working as a dorm academic adviser and tutor in chemistry, physics and computer science. Academic awards include Freshman Distinction, the Dreyfus Foundation Summer Grant, Phi Beta Kappa, Zimmerman Foundation Summer Grant and the Katharine Malone Prize. She will study chemistry or biochemistry at Oxford and then will attend Harvard Medical School.

Wooster sets record for homers

Wooster sluggers Dave Kessler and Mike O'Brien had opposing pitchers looking over their shoulders all day when they recently led the NCAA Division III Scots to a collegiate single-game home-run record.

Wooster slugged a total of 13 homers in its 33 15 home-field victory over Kenyon March 29, breaking the national college-division single-game record of 11 set in 1970 by Winona State against Bemidji State. The Scots' total also tops the major-college record of 11 set by Maryland in 1980 and tied by Georgia Tech in 1985.

Collegiate baseball records are compiled by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association, which annually publishes a record book.

Kessler and O'Brien each hit four home runs in the game to join a crowd of collegiate players tied for the single-game home-run record. Also, the Scots racked up 77 total bases to set another national collegiate mark.

Wooster swept a four-game series from Kenyon to open North Coast Athletic Conference play with a 4-0 record. In the series, the Scots outscored the Lords 93-19 and pounded out a total of 92 hits.

Counting their latest wins in an April 5 doubleheader against Muskingum, the Scots have scored in double figures 11 times this season to open with an 18-3 record. Kessler, the team's designated hitter, has hit 10 homers in 74 at bats and compiled a batting average of .392, while first

Judge petitioned to negate award

A Georgia state attorney asked a Federal judge April 4 to overturn a jury's $2.57 million award to Jan Kemp, a former University of Georgia instructor who said she was fired for protesting academic favoritism for athletes.

Pat McKee, an assistant state attorney general, also asked U.S. District Judge Horace Ward to grant a new trial on Mrs. Kemp's lawsuit against two university administrators.

Ward heard arguments April 4 on motions filed by both sides after the original 5½-week trial, which ended February 12 when a six-member Federal jury found Mrs. Kemp was unfairly fired and awarded her the $2.57 million in punitive and actual damages.

McKee called the verdict outrageous and said it would destroy the lives of the two defendants, Vice-President for Academic Affairs Virginia Trotter and LeRoy Ervin, director of the university's developmental studies program, the Associated Press reported.

The $279,000 awarded to Mrs. Kemp in actual damages would be enough to serve the ends of justice, he argued.

McKee also argued that Ward failed to emphasize strongly enough to the jury that testimony about preferential treatment of athletes at Georgia was irrelevant to the case. He said the judge also failed to stress to the jury that, if the defendants could prove that Mrs. Kemp would have been fired despite her protests about athletes, then no injustice was done.

Mrs. Kemp's attorneys also have motions pending before Ward. They are seeking an order reinstating Mrs. Kemp to her job, and they want Ward to disqualify the attorney general's office from representing Ms. Trotter and Ervin during appeals of the case.

ESPN lists opener

Miami (Florida) at South Carolina, a game featuring quarterback Vinny Testaverde of Miami, will be televised Saturday, August 30, as the opener in a 17-game College Football Association series to be shown by ESPN.

baseman O'Brien has contributed five home runs and is the team's leading hitter with a .479 average.

Seven of Wooster's eight starters, including O'Brien and Kessler, return from last year's Scots team that recorded a 29-19 record and defeated Maryville (Missouri) in the NCAA Division III Midwest regional before losing to eventual division runner-up Marietta and being eliminated by Ohio Northern.

Wooster will continue its bid for a seventh NCAA tournament invitation when it meets conference rival Ohio Wesleyan in back-to-back double-headers April 11-12.

Williams' point-shaving trial set May 27

A date of May 27 has been set for trial for John "Hot Rod" Williams, the former Tulane basketball star accused of conspiring to shave points.

The arrest of Williams, other players and Tulane students on point-shaving and drug charges led the school to drop its men's basketball program in the middle of the 1984-85 season.

Three Tulane students and one former player have since pleaded guilty to various charges.

Judge Patrick G. Quinlan also set April 18 as the date he will hear arguments on pretrial motions in Orleans Parish Criminal District Court.

Williams was tried last August on three counts of conspiracy to commit sports bribery and two counts of sports bribery, but Judge Alvin V. Oser declared a mistrial after ruling that prosecutors deliberately withheld evidence that would have helped Williams' defense.

Oser also ruled Williams could not be tried again, but the state's 4th circuit court of appeals and the Louisiana Supreme Court reversed that ruling.

Williams, a 6-foot-10 former Metro Conference player of the year as a junior, played one season with the Providence Gulls of the United States

Basketball League before the Cleveland Cavaliers chose him in the second round of the 1985 National Basketball Association draft.

Williams lives in Cleveland, but the NBA has refused to let him sign a contract with the Cavaliers until the point-shaving charges are disposed of.

Orr named to NABC board

Johnny Orr, head men's basketball coach at Iowa State University, has been named to the board of directors of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Orr, who has an overall record of 339-233 in 21 years as a head coach, succeeds John Thompson, head coach at Georgetown University. Thompson assumes the role of immediate past president.

Other members of the board for 1986-87 are Billy Key, University of Missouri, Rolla; Eddie Sutton, University of Kentucky; Jerry Krause, Eastern Washington University; Jud Heathcote, Michigan State University; Clarence Gaines, Winston-Salem State University; Herb Kenny, Wesleyan University; Gerald Myers, Texas Tech University; C. M. Newton, Vanderbilt University; Ladell Anderson, Brigham Young University; Jack Avina, Portland University; George Blaney, Holy Cross College; Bill Knapp, Beloit College, and Joe Vancisin, executive director of the NABC.

Rules committee hopes three-point play will open up game

The NCAA Men's Basketball Rules Committee became the last of this country's rules-making bodies for the sport to adopt a three-point field goal. However, only 35 percent of NCAA coaches who returned the 1986 basketball rules questionnaire said that they would approve the measure, so the committee approved the three-point field goal at its recent meeting in Dallas despite a clear majority of sentiment against it.

"We knew that the adoption of the three-point field goal was contrary to the questionnaire," said Jerry V. Krause, Eastern Washington University, who chairs the rules committee. "It is a very rare exception and a significant rule change, but there are precedents for it."

Among the questionnaire's 2,063 respondents, 45 percent of NCAA referees favored the three-point shot, and only 38 percent of the news media polled favored the rule change.

"The rules committee believes that the adoption of the three-point field goal will do much to open up the game," said Edward S. Steitz, secretary-rules editor of the committee and athletics director at Springfield College. "It will force teams to play more defense away from the basket, and it will assist in the problem area of rough low-post play."

In adopting the three-point field goal, which will be awarded for successful shots taken behind an arc line 19 feet, nine inches from the center of the basket, the committee relied on research over the past five years by 20 conferences utilizing the three-point shot.

Coaches involved in the experimentation were in favor of the three-point field goal, 2-1, with players and fans overwhelmingly in favor.

The committee also approved the use of television replays by officials to determine only timer's and scorer's mistakes and clock malfunctions. Replays will not be used to examine officials' calls.

"This instant-replay rule is designed to take care of situations such as the one in Kansas City or anywhere else it might happen," Steitz said. "I would be false if I said that the Kansas City situation did not bring into focus the need for the new rule."

In Kansas' 96-86 overtime victory over Michigan State in the Midwest regional semifinals, the clock at Kemper Arena failed to start after a Michigan State free throw with two minutes, 21 seconds remaining in regulation play. Spartan coach Jud Heathcote noticed the clock was not running and alerted the scorer's table. The timer jiggled the clock's starter, and the clock began running but approximately 15-20 seconds should have ticked off.

Steitz said game officials could have huddled with the play-by-play crew or the 45-second clock operator or even determined the amount of time by a series of counts they made during the game. But he added that television replay could be the best tool.

"Yes, it could," Steitz said, "because they could make a determination of a definite amount of time. All the information you can piece together makes for a better decision."

Steitz said the replays would not be used for judgment calls by officials (e.g., whether a basket counted or whether a foul was committed).

The basketball committee also changed rule 10-10-a to allow coaches to leave the coaching box during a live-ball situation to correct a timing or scoring error or alternating-possession error and not be charged with a technical foul. The committee also eliminated the definition of a designated thrower-in on out-of-bounds plays from rule 7-6.

Another rule change involved the change of status in Rule 4-6-a, which now will allow a team a full 10 seconds to call a time out and a full five seconds on throw-ins rather than 80 percent of that time. Another change in rule 4-15 eliminates the combination count while being closely guarded in the midcourt area, which eliminates the need for the 28-foot hashmarks on the court. Now, the entire front-court area will have a five-second count on a closely guarded player either holding or dribbling the ball.

The committee also approved several points of emphasis, which are not rule changes but rather areas given special attention in the coming year in clinics. When a topic is included in the points of emphasis, there has been evidence during the previous year that there has not been consistency in administering the area of concern.

The points of emphasis included illegal use of arms and hands during rough post play by the offensive player, as well as the ejection of players because of flagrant intentional fouls. Illegal screening away from the ball should be closely watched with three-second violations called to minimize illegal screening in the lane.

Other points of emphasis involve the principle of verticality or preventing the defensive man from encroaching or moving under the airborne offensive player, and better off-the-ball coverage concerning illegal screening, holding, grabbing and the "cheap shot."

The committee also approved several items for experimentation during the upcoming season. The items included the rear boundary arc, widening the lane to 16 feet, reducing the size of the backboards and approving the sizes 3½' X 6' and 3' X 5½' rectangle boards, awarding all players not disqualified in regulation an additional (sixth) personal foul before disqualification in overtime contests, and changing the officials' requirement to be on the court from 30 minutes prior to gametime to 20 minutes before the starting time.

The rear boundary arc is a curved line on the court measured 41 feet from the center of the baseline. The arc intersects both sidelines and is tangent to the center circle. It would replace the midcourt line for purposes of the 10-second backcourt count and would decrease the amount of space for the offensive team.

The widening of the lane to 16 feet from the present 12-foot width will be experimented with to see if it can help eliminate the inside rough play.

The reduction in size of backboards is related solely to safety, and research needed to be done to arrive at the safest system available.

The six-foul experiment would be available in overtime, and only players with four fouls or less in regulation would be eligible for the extra fouls. A player who fouls out in regulation time with five fouls would not be eligible to return to the contest for the overtime.

Changing the officials' pregame jurisdiction to 20 minutes also will require both teams to provide a member of their respective coaching staffs to monitor and prevent pregame dunking and grasping the ring 30 minutes prior to game time.

Fritz gets new post with NAIA

Control of the NAIA is shifting from athletics directors to college presidents, and Harry Fritz, executive director of the organization of small-college sports programs since 1976, has been reassigned, it was announced April 4.

In a written news release, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics said Fritz will become a senior consultant to the council of presidents. Under a resolution approved 319-55 during the NAIA's recent convention, the council of presidents will become the group's governing body.

Formerly an advisory group, the council of presidents will take direct responsibility for setting budget and academic standards and hiring the executive director and national office staff.

Those matters were previously handled by the national executive committee, a 10-member body made up primarily of athletics directors. That group now will report to the council of presidents, which will be composed of a president from each of the NAIA's 32 districts.

The news release said a search would begin immediately for an executive director.

Fritz will advise the council of presidents in developing an operating budget, in staff evaluations and in "an association-wide study to reassess goals and purposes," the NAIA said.

"These responsibilities represent the activities facing the council of presidents, and it is imperative to use the extensive experience and contacts of Dr. Fritz in meeting our obligations," said Farris.

It also was announced that Wallace Schwartz, associate executive director, has been appointed NAIA chief administrator. Schwartz has been a member of the NAIA staff since 1986.

Five join staff at national office

Five new employees recently joined the NCAA national office staff.

Kevin C. Lennon and Stephen A. Mallonee have joined the legislative services department as legislative assistants, and Dan Calandro, Mike Garnes and Mark Jones have joined the enforcement and compliance department as enforcement representatives.

Lennon is a Harvard University graduate who earned a master's degree in sports administration from Ohio University. He moved to the NCAA from the University of Notre Dame, where he served as promotions director for the athletics department.

Mallonee is a graduate of the University of the South and was the No. 1 player on the men's tennis team as an undergraduate. 1986 Column No. 15

Prospect's legal residence

The Administrative Committee has reviewed the application of Case Nos. 210 and 211 (pages 315 and 316, 1985-86 NCAA Manual) to a situation involving a prospective student-athlete whose parents authorized other individuals to properly care and provide for the prospect during a specified period of time in order to establish "legal residence" for the prospect at a site other than the parents' home. The committee determined that the "guardians" of the prospect under such circumstances must have full legal authority for the individual, rather than limited responsibilities related to the individual's health and safety, in order to meet the requirements of Case Nos. 210 and 211 and avoid a violation of the Association's tryout rule.

Videotapes as recruiting aids

The Administrative Committee has ruled that enrolled student-athletes would be precluded per Constitution 3-1(e) from participation in videotapes designed to be mailed to prospective student-athletes if a commercial sponsor is involved in the videotape program. Further, the provisions of Case No. 184 would preclude distribution of any videotapes to prospective student-athletes, regardless of whether the tapes are provided on a temporary "loan" basis or given to the prospect.

Financial-aid notification

As the academic year comes to a close, member institutions are reminded that under Constitution 3-4(g), they are required to notify each student-athlete who received financial assistance during the current academic year and who is eligible to receive an award and has eligibility remaining under Bylaw 4-1 or Constitution 3-3(a)-(3) for the ensuing academic year, whether or not the grant has been renewed. This notification must come from the institution's regular financial aid authority (notification from the institution's department of athletics does not satisfy this requirement) on or before July 1 prior to the academic year for which it is to be effective.

In addition, in a situation where a student's financial assistance has not been renewed for the ensuing academic year, the institution shall inform the student-athlete that if he or she believes the award has not been renewed for questionable reasons, the student-athlete may request, and shall have the opportunity for, a hearing before the institutional agency making the financial award. In this regard, it is not permissible for the institution's regular financial-aid authority to delegate the responsibility of conducting the hearing to the university's department of athletics or its faculty athletics committee.

In all cases, the institutional agency making the financial aid award shall give the recipient a written statement of the amount, duration, conditions and terms thereof. The chair of the regular committee or other agency for the awarding of financial aid to students generally, or the chair's official designee, shall sign the written statement. The signature of the director of athletics attesting to the committee's award does not satisfy this requirement. The definition of "questionable reasons" for nonrenewal of a scholarship or grant-in-aid is left to the discretion of the involved member institution to be determined in accordance with its normal practices for students generally.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

CORRECTION

Due to an editor's error, the March 19 issue of The NCAA News incorrectly reported that Clyde Witman was retiring as wrestling coach at East Stroudsburg. Witman gave up that post in 1979.

NABC names Sutton coach of the year

Eddie Sutton, who faced immense pressure after taking the treasured head basketball coaching job at Kentucky this year, made believers of his peers as he led the Wildcats to the finals of the NCAA Southeast regional tournament and was named coach of the year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC).

Sutton, who moved to Kentucky after a highly successful career at Arkansas, guided the Wildcats to a 32-4 overall record and the Southeastern Conference championship. Kentucky was eliminated in the Division I Southeast regional championship by Louisiana State, 59-57.

Sutton has forged a 374-129 (.744) record in 17 years (including stints at Creighton and Arkansas) and is 10th on the active coaching list for winning percentage. He also was chosen coach of the year in 1977 by the United States Basketball Writers Association and in 1978 by both United Press International and the Associated Press. He was named coach of the year by the AP this season as well.

Eddie Sutton

Others honored as coach of the year were Dave Bike of Sacred Heart, NCAA Division II, and Jerry Welsh of Potsdam State, NCAA Division III. Bike's Pioneers became the first New England team to win a national basketball championship since Holy Cross in 1947 as Sacred Heart beat Southeast Missouri State, 93-87, in the Division II title game. Welsh's Bears capped off a perfect 32-0 season with a 76-73 victory over Le Moyne-Owen in the Division III championship contest.

Bike is fourth on the Division II active coaches winning percentage list with a career mark of 188-59 (.761) in eight seasons. Welsh is fifth on the Division III list with a 334-119 (.737) record in 17 seasons.

Sutton's Wildcats ignored preseason picks in the SEC, which excluded them as championship contenders, and won the league to make a record 31st appearance in the NCAA tournament.

He led Arkansas to the NCAA tournament nine times, and his 1978 team finished third behind Kentucky's championship club. He is one of 60 coaches in collegiate basketball history who also played in the NCAA tournament. He played for the legendary Henry Iba at Oklahoma State.

NCAA CURRENT ISSUES FORUMS

Top administrators at NCAA member institutions will have an opportunity to discuss with NCAA staff members critical issues facing intercollegiate athletics in Current Issues Forums at three regional sites in May.

Six NCAA administrators representing four departments at the national office are slated to make presentations at each site concerning the Association's new compliance programs, championships selection and block-grant funding, drug-testing and gambling, as well as a full day's presentation of legislative issues, including proposed major revisions to current recruiting rules.

These sessions are open to institutions' chief executive officers, directors of athletics, primary women athletics administrators, faculty athletics representatives and associate or assistant directors of athletics as designated by the institution.

Lone rules seminar scheduled April 29-30

The NCAA legislative services department will conduct one rules seminar this year, April 29 and 30, at the Sheraton-Hyannis Hotel (Hyannis, Massachusetts) on Cape Cod. This seminar will be the only one of its type, since the new NCAA Current Issues Forums are scheduled to begin in May.

The rules seminar will be similar to those conducted last year by the Association in other geographical areas of the country, and representatives from any member institution may attend. Among topics to be discussed are the satisfactory-progress rule, financial aid regulations, Bylaw 5-1-(j), recruiting and new legislation adopted at the 1986 NCAA Convention.

The seminar's scope is directed toward legislation and interpretations related to the daily application of the
