Council session

The first session of 1986 for the NCAA Council was conducted in Kansas City, Missouri, April 14-16. A full report on all actions taken will appear in the April 23 issue of The NCAA News.

New Manual Certification of 19th bowl game recommended

mailed to membership

The 1986-87 NCAA Manual has been mailed to the membership, and additional copies are available for purchase.

Included in the new volume is all legislation adopted or amended at the fifth special NCAA Convention last June and the 80th annual NCAA Convention in January. In addition, the 1986-87 edition includes a significantly expanded index to the constitution and bylaws, as recommended by the Special NCAA Committee on Deregulation and Rules Simplification.

Copies of the Manual are sent to the chief executive officer, faculty athletics representative, director of athletics and primary woman administrator of athletics programs at each active member institution. Conference members, affiliated members and corresponding members also receive copies automatically.

Many institutions annually purchase additional copies of the Manual for other staff members, campus athletics committee members and other representatives of their athletics interests. The books may be ordered from NCAA Publishing, P.O. Box 1906, See New Manual, page 6 The NCAA Postseason Football Committee has recommended recertification of the 18 bowl games played last year and approved certification for an additional postseason game, the Hall of Fame Bowl in Tampa, Florida, December 25. The recommendations, approved during an April 9 to 11 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, must be approved by the NCAA Council.

The Hall of Fame Bowl originally was played in Birmingham, Alabama, but the name was changed to the All-American Bowl last year.

The committee submitted the following bowl games to the Council for 1986-87 certification (Eastern starting times):

California Bowl, December 13, 8 p.m.; Independence Bowl, December 20, 8 p.m.; Aloha Bowl, December 27, 8 p.m.; Cherry Bowl, December 29, 8 p.m.; Liberty Bowl, December 29, 8 p.m.; Freedom Bowl, December 30, 8 p.m.; Holiday Bowl, December 30, 9 p.m.; All-American Bowl, December 31, 8 p.m.; Bluebonnet Bowl, December 31, 3 p.m.; Peach Bowl, December 31, 2:30 p.m.; Cotton Bowl, January 1, 1:30 p.m.; Fiesta Bowl, January 1, 1:30 p.m.; Florida Citrus Bowl, January 1, noon; Orange Bowl, January 1, 8:30 p.m.; Rose Bowl, January 1, 5 p.m.; Sugar Bowl, January 1, 8 p.m.; Gator Bowl (date and time to be determined); and Sun Bowl (date and time to be determined).

Last season's 18 bowl games generated gross receipts of more than $52 million, of which approximately $41 million was distributed to the participating institutions. Gross receipts increased by $2 million over the previous year.

In addition, the committee will recommend to the Council that the Hall of Fame Bowl, scheduled for 8 p.m. December 25 in Tampa, Florida, be certified. The game would be held in the 74,350-seat Tampa Stadium. The sponsoring organization, Hall of Fame Bowl Association, Inc., has obtained a line of credit to guarantee the financial obligations of certified bowl games and has a syndication commitment for telecast of the game. Game proceeds would be given to the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, Inc., and the United Way of Greater Tampa.

In other action, the committee recommended that the Council sponsor legislation to amend Bylaw 2-2-(g) to permit each competing institution to claim tickets for up to one-sixth of the total seats in the stadium; however, once claimed, the tickets would become the responsibility of the institution, except that a maximum of 1,000 tickets could be returned within 10 days of the game.

A three-year analysis of the number of tickets sold for postseason games showed that, in most instances, competing institutions do not sell their full one-sixth per-team allotment of game tickets. Unsold tickets, however, generally are unavailable for sale by sponsoring organizations in the locale of the game during the 10 days immediately after the announcement of the competing teams. The legislation is intended to make competing institutions submit a more realistic projection of the number of tickets they will sell.

The committee also recommended that the Council study the possibility of an NCAA indemnity agreement with postseason bowls to cover any liability resulting from a bowl's involvement in the Association's drug-testing program due to the possibility of a bowl being named in a lawsuit.

Championship would tie NCAA team record Hobart seeks seventh straight lacrosse title

Hobart's quest for a seventh straight Division III Men's Lacrosse Championship highlights an exciting agenda of spring championships action, which soon will get under way with men's volleyball competition. Complete coverage of spring championships appears in The NCAA News, and the 1986 schedule starts next week with previews for lacrosse, softball, tennis and volleyball.

Should the Statesmen win the 1986 tle head coach Dave Urick would tie the legendary John Wooden of UCLA for most consecutive titles in a team sport. Wooden's UCLA men's basketball teams took the Division 1 championship every year from 1967 to 1973. Urick's Hobart squads have captured every Division III title since the inception of the championship in 1980. The championship will be decided May 17 on the campus of one of the finalists. Upsets have been almost common in Division I men's lacrosse, and the 1986 tournament could produce some surprises. Johns Hopkins, Virginia, North Carolina, Syracuse, Maryland, Army, Navy...the list of potential champions is a long one. Hopkins has tradition on its side, but the Blue Jays will face stern tests from their play-off opponents. The final four teams will advance to Delaware for the semifinals and finals May 24 and 26.

Look for the same teams to be strong again in women's lacrosse. 1985 champion New Hampshire, Temple, Maryland, Penn State, Delaware and Massachusetts have done most of the winning in past tournaments. The 1986 affair begins May 7 and will conclude at Maryland for the championship game May 17.

In men's volleyball, Pepperdine will be out to defend its 1985 championship, which it won by breaking UCLA's four-year hold on the championship trophy. The Bruins also will be tough again, and Southern Cal has been at or near the top of the weekly polls all season. Penn State will host the championship May 2-3.

Miami (Florida) surprised some observers with its march to the 1985 College World Series championship, but the Hurricanes will not sneak up on anyone this season. Coach Ron Fraser's ball club has been among the top three teams in the nation for much of the season, and the Hurricanes look like they have the talent to make a return trip to Omaha.

Louisiana State, Florida State and South Florida will keep things hot for Miami in Gulf Coast country, and Texas and Oral Roberts are winning big, too. Loyola (California), whose only appearance in the Division 1 tournament was in 1973, may have the ability to get to Omaha this season. Other West Coast contenders include Stanford and UCLA. The CWS will be held May 30 through June 8 and will follow regional action scheduled for May 22 to 26. Defending Division II champion Florida Southern is back in the top 10 this season, and like Miami, its toughest tests could come from teams within a day's drive. Troy State, Columbus, Eckerd, Florida Atlantic, Tampa and Jacksonville State all appear to have the ability to advance to the championship round, which Troy State will host May 23 to 28. In Division III, Wisconsin-Oshkosh appears to be ready to defend its 1985 title. Once again, Marietta will host the championship round May 29 through June 1, which follows regionals set for May 25. Little Three coaches unhappy over move to the big-time

By Tom Ernst The Buffalo News

Little Three women's basketball teams will be competing at the Division I level next year, but nobody's jumping for joy over the prospect.

In fact, interviews with 10 administrators and coaches at St. Bonaventure, Canisius and Niagara failed to find anyone in favor of it, or who had much good to say about it.

On the contrary, the move from Division 11 already is placing strains on budgets, causing controversy and arguments within athletics departments, and forcing two coaches to make career decisions they would just as soon not make.

So why make the change?

The schools don't want to. They are being forced by the NCAA. They must either play Division 1 women's basketball or drop the sport.

For several years, schools that play Division I men's basketball have been allowed to have one sport (in addition to football) at a lower level. The Little Three schools all opted to play Division II women's basketball.

That "exemption" is eliminated, effective next basketball season, as a result of a vote taken at the 1985 NCAA Convention in Nashville.

The Little Three schools are among 55 across the country being forced to to rescind the exemption was a wom-

upgrade their women's basketball programs

According to the Rev. Michael Shea, director of athletics at Niagara, the idea was to eliminate schools "picking and choosing" what division they would be in: If you want to be Division I, be Division I in everything. (An exception is made for football because it is so expensive.)

Ellen Conley, coordinator of women's athletics at Canisius, said another factor was that some large schools, ones that could afford to compete in Division I in everything, were picking a Division II sport that they could dominate on a national level, such as swimming or tennis. That had the effect of excluding "legitimate" Division 11 schools from a shot at championships

It might seem likely that the move

en's rights issue: women saying, in effect, you've got Division I men's basketball, we want Division I women's basketball.

If that was a factor at the Convention, it was not a factor as far as the Little Three schools, who all opposed the move, are concerned.

Women coaches and administrators at all three schools said virtually the same thing: They were content with Division II; they had a good, competitive league without many of the demands they feel Division I will force upon them.

'We were very happy at Division II," said Niagara coach Nancy Riccio. "I think we were all content with the situation (in Division II), and now we're being forced into moving," added St. Bonaventure coach Mary Jane Telford.

The Little Three teams spent last season in the seven-team Upstate Women's Conference. That will cease to exist with the Lady Bonnies switching to the Atlantic 10 and Canisius and Niagara joining the newly formed Middle Eastern College Association, a six-team league with Colgate, Siena, Utica and Queens.

For St. Bonaventure, the move is more drastic than for the other two. The school will be playing in one of the strongest women's leagues in the country, one that has three of the topranked 25 teams in the country.

The Lady Bonnies, in their first season in Division I, figure to be easy pickings.

Last season, all St. Bonaventure games were within a three-hour bus trip of campus. Next season will involve trips to Philadelphia, West Virginia, Washington and Massachusetts. Last year, the players missed little or no class time for games. That won't be the case next year.

And it will be expensive. Athletics director Larry Weise said the women's basketball budget (excluding salaries) will more than double, from $56,000 to $125,000.

Competing in Division I means finding Division I-caliber players, and that means all three schools will have to increase their recruiting efforts (and budgets) to find them.

For Telford, last season's coach of the year in the Upstate Conference, it also means a painful decision.

In addition to coaching, she also is associate director of admissions. With the move to Division I and more See Little Three, page 3

Letters to the Editor

Bay explains recent coaching change To the Editor:

Since our men's basketball season now is completed, I wanted to react to some of the news reports and comments relative to coach Eldon Miller leaving Ohio State University, a few of which appeared in The NCAA News.

First and foremost, it is important to me that the intercollegiate athletics community know that I did not fire Eldon Miller. With nine games remaining in the regular season, coach Miller came to me and initiated a discussion emphasizing that we should hire a new coach since he did not believe he could take the Ohio State program any further.

It had become clear to coach Miller that he did not enjoy a broad base of support from either the general public or the media and that that situtation, coupled with my inability to procure for him a multiyear contract, left him in a predicament that inhibited his effectiveness in recruiting and therefore in raising the program to new heights.

While I agreed with coach Miller's assessment of the situation we were facing, I encouraged him to delay his decision until the end of the season. In fact, ironically, the very morning we talked, there had appeared in The Columbus Dispatch a story in which I had supported coach Miller publicly and without reservation and stated that we still had a great opportunity to finish the season on a successful note.

Coach Miller, however, insisted that we make the announcement that day and also requested that I "fire" him. Coach Miller did not want to use the word "resign" since his competitive instincts suggested that resigning was tantamount to "quitting," a word none of us in athletics likes to hear.

While understanding his concerns, I reacted by saying I could not fire him since his record at Ohio State did not warrant such action. Furthermore, I was extremely sensitive to sending any signal from Ohio State that we had "fired" a man who not only has had more consecutive winning basketball seasons than any coach in Buckeye history, but also one who has a record of unquestioned integrity and who is concerned about the graduation and social development of his players.

Therefore, I ultimately suggested to coach Miller that I issue a press release stating that we had "mutually agreed that it would be in the best interests of the men's basketball program for the university to seek a new head basketball coach at the end of this season," and that as a result, coach Miller's contract would not be renewed. Coach Miller saw (and did not object to) the wording of my statement prior to its release.

The upshot of this development was that the issue became a question of semantics as the press began to deal with it. Symbolically, however, it remained very important to Eldon Miller that we not use the word "resign" and to Rick Bay that we did not use the word "fire." Perhaps predictably, the media settled on the more sensational story that Eldon Miller had been fired. And indeed, coach Miller himself has used that term on various occasions. But I do not believe that Eldon Miller has ever said that Rick Bay fired him, because, in truth, that never happened. When coach Miller says he was fired, I believe he is speaking as the proud, competitive, successful individual that he is and that he means the fans and the press dismissed him in the sense that the environment that had been created was not conducive to the goals to which he and all of us aspired.

Whatever the case, Eldon Miller has conducted himself through all of this with more class and dignity than one could humanly hope for. He has not

Smaller schools benefit athletically from new academic rule

By Earnest Reese Atlanta Journal

NCAA Bylaw 5-1-(j), which sets tougher academic requirements for athletes to compete at Division I schools, has resulted in a banner recruiting year at many Division II schools. Other Division II schools with higher academic requirements feel the result might be a competitive imbalance.

"I work at Jacksonville (Alabama) State, and I love this new rule," declared second-year coach Bill Burgess, who by February 18 had signed 25 players from the state of Georgia since the first day (February 12) under NCAA rules that high school seniors could accept college football scholarships.

Under Bylaw 5-1-(j), prospects who fall below certain scores on standardized tests and in high school corecurriculum courses are ineligible as freshmen at Division I schools, those that compete at the highest level in college athletics. Many high school seniors throughout the country failed to meet these standards and subsequently turned their attention elsewhere—such as Division II schools. whose student bodies and athletics budgets are considerably smaller.

"In regards to athletic talent as it relates to Division II schools, its been a windfall," said Texas A&I football coach Ron Harms. "We've signed 22, and I'd say eight is a very conservative estimate of the number of them who might have gone to Division I schools in the past."

Valdosta State College, according to football coach Jim Berryman, might have signed as many as nine players who otherwise would have gone to Division I or I-AA programs. "I know for a fact that nine of the 13 kids we signed were recruited by Division I or I-AA schools who backed off because of grades," said Berryman, who handled Valdosta State's football recruiting despite having turned in his resignation. "One of the kids we got could've gone anywhere if he had the grades." Officials at schools such as West Georgia and Morehouse are troubled that this athlete and others like him are eligible to compete immediately in Division 11, while they would be ineligible in Division I.

Morehouse and West Georgia, which compete in two of the Southeast's biggest Division II conferences, have entrance requirements that are stiffer than the NCAA minimums for Division I. At West Georgia, for example, an athlete (like any other student) must make a minimum of 680 on the SAT or a 2.800 gradepoint average in high school. Under 5-1-(j), prospects must have a 700 SAT score and 2.000 high school average to be eligible as freshmen at Division I schools, although a lower test score (as low as 660) can be offset by a higher GPA for the next two years.

Since Bylaw 5-1-(j) has increased the pool of talent for Division II schools, the West Georgias and the Morehouses feel they will be operating at disadvantages.

"Obviously we're concerned about this," said Maurice Townsend, president of West Georgia, a member of the Gulf South Conference. "I'm going to work in our June meeting (of GSC presidents) to get adopted a higher academic requirement. We want good, stiff competition, but we want it against student-athletes, not semipros.

We're going to keep our standards, but if it gets too tough, we'll consider withdrawing from the Gulf Southif changes are not made."

At Valdosta State, also in the Gulf South, students can enter with a 1.800 grade-point average and either a 250 on the verbal part of the SAT or a 280 on the math portion. At Division Il schools in Alabama, the requirements are less.

"Alabama schools (in the Gulf South Conference) have open entrance requirements. If you're breathing and have a diploma, you can get in," said Brad Hovious, athletics director of Delta State.

"It's going to be hard for us to compete against those schools, because we've started a new standard that is tougher than the NCAA's," Hovious said.

"It's true that Bylaw 5-1-(j) has opened up the applicant pool for a lot of the smaller schools, but a lot of people fail to realize that a lot of us have our standards, too," said Morehouse football coach Maurice "Mo" Hunt. "This thing is not going to help us that much because we have high academic standards, and we're not going to change them."

"For us, in terms of recruiting, it's just as it's always been. We have to sit back and wait until the big dogs eat."

Coach Miller has been a great credit to Ohio State University as he will be to the University of Northern Iowa in the years ahead. Northern Iowa's gain is Ohio State's loss and frankly, the entire matter is a sad commentary on the state of affairs of intercollegiate athletics.

The one improvement, according to Riccio, is that the University is allowing her three full scholarships next year. Currently, she has 10 partial ones, partial in the sense that some of them only cover part of tuition and no room and board.

Sports groups agree to drug tests

The United States Olympic Committee announced April 1 that all 38 U.S. national governing bodies of amateur sports will participate in the committee's drug-abuse and drugtesting program.

The program will test more than 3,000 American amateur athletes this year. Athletes who fail the urinalysis test twice could face penalties ranging from six months' suspension from U.S. Olympic events to a lifetime ban, according to a USOC spokesman.

"We're leading the way with a tough program," said Dr. Robert O. Voy, the USOC's chief medical officer. "I think the fact that all 38 national governing bodies in the USOC family are in

Legislative Assistance 1986 Column No. 16

Certifying compliance with Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(14)

Member institutions are reminded that in order to determine whether a student-athlete can qualify under the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(14) for an exception to the normal transfer residence requirement, the institution to which the student transfers must obtain specific information on which to decide whether the student-athlete has met all the criteria of this legislation. For example, the procurement of a statement from the student-athlete's prior institution indicating that there is no objection to the transfer by itself does not qualify the student-athlete to use this transfer exception. Such a statement may satisfy the requirement of subparagraph (iv), but it does not address the criteria in the other subparagraphs. Particular attention must be directed to subparagraph (ii) [nonrenewal of aid] as it has been amended by Proposal No. 71 at the 1986 Convention.

Financial aid for summer school

Under the provisions of Constitution 3-4-(b)-(1), financial aid may not be provided to a student-athlete while attending a summer school or summer term unless the student-athlete has been in residence a minimum of one term during the regular academic year, or the student is attending a summer orientation program for which participation is required of both athletes and nonathletes and financial aid is administered on the same basis for all participants in the program

Financial aid awarded to an eligible student-athlete under Constitution 3-4-(b)-(1) for summer-school attendance is considered a separate award and would not be countable toward the maximum financial aid awards limitations set forth in Bylaw 6-5. The amount of aid an individual student can receive is limited by Constitution 3-1-(g)-(1) to tuition and fees, room and board, and required course-related books for the summer term.

Constitution 3-4-(d)-(1) permits a student-athlete to receive legitimate summer employment earnings without total-dollar restrictions, even if the student-athlete is attending summer school as a recipient of institutional financial assistance.

In addition, financial aid for summer-school expenses may be used only to attend the awarding institution's summer school. As discussed in Case No. 125 (page 291, 1985-86 NCAA Manual), it would not be permissible for the parent institution in which the student-athlete is enrolled to pay the student-athlete's summer-session expenses incurred in attending the institution's branch campus

Bylaw 7-1-(h)—extensions for graduate assistant coaches As set forth in Bylaw 7-1-(h), an individual may not serve as a graduate assistant coach at a particular member institution for a period of more than two years unless the Council has granted an exception. Exceptions will be granted only when circumstances clearly supported by objective evidence establish that the graduate assistant coach was unable to attend the collegiate institution for reasons that are unrelated to athletics or to personal or family finances and that are beyond the control of either the coach or the institution. Any such extension would cover the exact number of calendar days that the coach was unable to attend the member institution plus the time that elapses between the date the individual became able to return to the institution and the individual's first opportunity to enroll in a regular term.

The intent of the legislation is to provide a limited opportunity for an individual to gain coaching experience and not necessarily to complete a specific graduate degree. It was noted that many graduate degrees could not be completed in two years if the student enrolled in only the minimum academic course load required by the legislation. Accordingly, the Council concluded that if extensions were granted to all those who did not complete a degree in two years, the two-year restriction would become meaningless.

Finally, at the 1986 Convention, Division I members voted to limit the number of graduate assistant coaches in football to five and basketball to two, making them subject to this legislation.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Texas' Ethridge gets Wade Trophy

Kamie Ethridge, who led Texas to the 1986 NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Championship, has been awarded the Margaret Wade Trophy, which goes to the top woman collegiate basketball athlete as selected by the National Association for Girls and Women in Sport.

"I'm still surprised," confessed the 21-year-old Ethridge. She said she expected senior Cheryl Miller of Southern California, who won the award last year, to repeat.

"Usually, when you hear about women's basketball, you hear Cheryl Miller as the best," remarked Ethridge. who said she wants to go into sports administration after getting a master's degree. She will graduate next fall with a physical education degree.

"We've come a long way since I played," said Margaret Wade, for whom the trophy is named. She played at Delta College (now Delta State University) in Mississippi from 1929 to 1932 and later became a teacher and coach there.

Kamie Ethridge

She coached Delta State to national titles in 1975, 1976 and 1977. She retired in 1979. Her overall coaching record for both high school and college was 610-112, a winning percentage of .845.

Ethridge credited her religious faith, her teammates and Texas head coach Jody Conradt, earlier named coach of the year by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association, for her success.

Ethridge also has been named recipient of the third annual Frances Pomeroy Naismith-Basketball Hall of Fame Award, which honors the nation's most outstanding woman senior collegian under five feet, six inches tall.

The five-foot-five native of Lubbock, Texas, played in 132 games in her four-year career and averaged 6.3 points and 5.9 assists per game. She will be presented the award May 6 in Springfield, Massachusetts, and she also will be introduced at the annual Hall of Fame enshrinement ceremonies

Increase sought in play-off field for Division I women's volleyball

Enlarging the field of the Division I Women's Volleyball Championship from 28 to 32 teams will be recommended by the Division I Women's Volleyball Committee, which met April 7-10 in Kansas City, Missouri. The committee also will recommend to the Executive Committee that the final-four dates be changed from Friday and Sunday to Thursday and Saturday, proposing that the 1986 championship finals be held December 18 and 20 at the University of the Pacific Seeding of the top four teams, which has been done for the past five vears, will not be done in 1986. Committee members were deadlocked, so no recommendation will be made. The committee will survey primary woman administrators of athletics programs and women's volleyball coaches in late summer for their preferences on seeding.

Included on the survey will be a proposal to conduct the final four a week earlier. First rounds would be held on Tuesday, with regionals the following weekend. Finals would be the following week, resulting in a twoweek championship rather than a three-week format. The survey will be evaluated in December.

The group also voted to pair teams from different regions in the tournament bracket, if such a pairing would result in economic savings to the championship. During discussion of this issue, it was noted that the Executive Committee already has affirmed a governing sports committee's right to utilize interregional pairings for economic reasons

In other actions, the committee voted to recommend

• That the third-place game be omitted from the championship;

• That a team's traveling party to the championship be increased from 17 to 18;

 That tickets to the regionals and finals be sold as packets until the day of the semifinals, at which time individual tickets may be sold;

• That a $4,000 grant be approved to develop a computer program that will assist in the selection of conferences for automatic qualification, and

• That all conference postseason tournaments must be best-three-offive-game matches.

The committee is recommending that the following 15 conferences receive automatic qualification for the tournament: Atlantic Coast Conference, Atlantic 10 Conference, Big East Conference, Big Eight Conference, Big Ten Conference, Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference, High Country Athletic Conference, Mid-American Conference, Mountain West Athletic Conference, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Pacific-10 Conference, Southeastern Conference, Southland Conference, Southwest Athletic Conference and West Coast Athletic Conference.

The Pacific-10 Conference and the West Coast Athletic Conference are members of the West Region.

The committee also plans to recommend to the Public Relations and Promotion Committee the following suggestions for its volleyball specialefforts program:

 Produce a universal graphic that will be distributed to all cable and network television;

• Televise regionals by NCAA Productions:

 Hold a "Spotlight on Women's Volleyball" in August;

• Continue to identify stories for magazine articles;

• Secure television spots in the fall to promote the volleyball championships

NCAA seminar reset for August

The NCAA Professional Development Seminar, originally scheduled for May 30-31, has been rescheduled for August 15-16 at the Radisson Hotel in Indianapolis.

This seminar, which will emphasize promotion and marketing in college athletics, has been planned for athletics department personnel interested in learning and sharing successful marketing techniques applied on campuses nationwide.

Hotel information and seminar registration forms will be published in upcoming issues of The NCAA News. For more information, contact John Craine at Host Communications (606/253-3230) or James A. Marchiony, NCAA director of media services (913/384-3220).

Two former coaches warn students of problems with substance abuse

Two former Vanderbilt University coaches whose lives were disrupted by substance abuse have launched a high school crusade against the use of illegal drugs and alcohol, according to the Associated Press.

Former strength coach E. J. "Doc" serving a one-vear uncu probation for selling steroids, and former football coach Fred Pancoast, who acknowledges having trouble with alcohol, say their program appears to be a hit. The two men say their ability to speak first-hand of how their abuse of these substances almost ruined their lives grabs the attention of teen-age audiences. Pancoast, a successful Nashville businessman, talks openly of his problems with alcohol, while Kreis conveys his concerns and experiences with drugs, particularly steroids.

I decided that 320 would be better," Kreis said.

"Everyone wants to change their outside appearance. I was like that." Kreis said. "Some people say I opened diences that steroids aren't the answer. "It's nutrition, eating right and putting the proper things into your body. That's when weightlifting gets you what you want to accomplish,"

Third Annual Conference

Kreis recently chronicled his introduction to anabolic steroids and how he came to use them on a regular basis.

"I decided that if at 270 pounds I could get your attention, I could get more (attention) at 300. Then at 300, Pandora's box by taking them. I did more than that; I kicked the thing over."

Four months ago, Kreis was put on probation in return for a guilty plea to a charge that he sold steroids to ex-Clemson University strength coach Sam Colson.

Kreis said he came to Vanderbilt to help people become better athletes. In the end, he said he got "so involved in helping them get bigger and stronger

Kreis said

Pancoast's bout with alcohol also hits home with the students.

"Do you know what it is like to be considered an alcoholic? To make a fool out of yourself? To be a college football coach and somewhere in Florida wake up in jail and not know where you are?" Pancoast asks the students.

"Do you know how embarrassing that is?" Pancoast asked.

"I want somebody to tell me sometime what good comes from alcohol and drugs," Pancoast said. "There isn't anything good, and there is a bunch of bad."

Pancoast and Kreis follow their short presentations with questionand-answer sessions with the students. "Maybe welve done some good. I Maybe we've helped someone," Pancoast said.

expected to be challengers include Marietta, Montclair State, Methodist, Eastern Connecticut State, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina Wesleyan.

Trenton State beat Ursinus for the first Division III women's lacrosse title last season, and the Lions probably will make another strong championship bid. The championship game of this tournament also will be held May 17 at Maryland as part of a doubleheader. Look for Ursinus to be strong again, as should Cortland State, Denison, Drew and St. Lawrence.

After winning the 1985 Western Open and playing the first round of the 1986 Master's with Jack Nicklaus, Oklahoma State's Scott Verplank should be ready to coolly lead the Cowboys' efforts in the 1986 Division I Men's Golf Championships, which will be decided May 28 to 31 at Wake Forest. Other contenders for the crown include the host Demon Deacons, Florida, Oklahoma, Houston, North Carolina and Southern California.

The Division II men's championships will be decided at Tampa May 20 to 23. Contenders include defending champion Florida Southern, Columbus, Sam Houston State, Stephen F. Austin State, Cal State Dominguez Hills and Jacksonville State.

The Division III men's golf race almost certainly will include Cal State Stanislaus, which has won eight of the past 11 titles. This year, the championships will be played at King's May 20 to 23. UC San Diego, Methodist, Millikin and Central (Iowa) are among the teams that will try to unseat Cal State Stanislaus.

Florida should provide a strong defense of its National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships team title May 28 to 31 at Ohio State. The Gators could be challenged by Arizona State, Miami (Florida), Tulsa, Furman, Stanford and San Jose State.

UCLA will not be in the best of shape to defend its Division I Women's Softball Championship. After winning two titles in a row and three of the four championships that have been held, the Bruins suffered top personnel losses after last season and are not ranked even at the regional level.

So a new champion could be expected at the Seymour Smith Softball Complex at Creighton, where the titlist will be decided May 21 to 25. Texas A&M won the 1983 title and was runner-up a year later, so the Aggies should be considered among the favorites. Also look for Cal State Fullerton, Fresno State, Louisiana Tech and Kansas to be in the thick of things.

Look for Cal State Northridge to play like a champion at Akron, site of the May 16 to 18 Division III softball championship round, and contend for a fourth consecutive title. 1982 champion Sam Houston State also should be in Akron for the final round. Akron, Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo, Southeast Missouri State and Sacred Heart are among the other contenders. Buena Vista hosts the Division III Women's Softball Championship May 15 to 18, which looks like the same old story with a different setting. Eastern Connecticut State, Trenton State and Buena Vista have a shot at making the finals, which at least two of them have done every year since the tournament began. Other challengers appear to be Allegheny, Wisconsin-Whitewater and Salisbury State. Last season, Georgia became the second team in 25 years [the other was Trinity (Texas) in 1972] to wrest the Division I Men's Tennis Championships title from UCLA, Southern California and Stanford. This season, even though Georgia again hosts the championships (May 17 to 25), one of the "big three" probably will be the top contender for the title. If not, Southern Methodist, Pepperdine and Clemson could sneak into contention.

Look for defending champion Chapman and 1985 runner-up Hampton to lead the field in Division II men's tennis. That event will be held at Cal State Northridge May 12 to 18. Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo, Stephen F. Austin and several other teams have the potential to do well.

Claremont-Mudd-Scripps will host the Division III Men's Tennis Championships May 12 to 18, and that competition could be dominated by defending champion Swarthmore. However, runner-up Kalamazoo will be in the thick of things as will Redlands, Carleton, Gustavus Adolphus, Washington and Lee, and the host Stags.

Texas hosts the Division I Women's Tennis Championships May 5 to 10, and Southern California will be there to defend its 1985 title. In fact, only Stanford and Southern Cal have won NCAA championships in Division I women's tennis, and the two appear to be the top contenders for the 1986 title. Other teams to watch for include Trinity (Texas), Miami (Florida) and the host Longhorns.

The 1986 Division II Women's Tennis Championships mark the final season of competition in this membership classification for Tennessee-Chattanooga (it moves to Division I next season), and it could win it all for a fourth straight—and final—time when the event begins at Cal State Northridge May 5. Southern Illinois-Edwardsville will contend, as will Cal Poly-Pomona and Northridge.

Davidson, Principia, UC San Diego and Trenton State are likely to battle it out for the Division III women's tennis team title. The championships will be held at Kalamazoo May 13-17. Florida International, Morehead State, Abilene Christian and Central Connecticut State also have championship aspirations.

As in previous years, the Divisions I, II and III Men's and Women's Outdoor Track Championships will be held at common sites (for men and women, by division). The Division I event will be held at Indianapolis, Indiana (Indiana University, Bloomington, host), June 4 to 7. The Division II championships are set for May 21 to 24 at Cal State Los Angeles, and the Division III meets will take place May 21 to 24 at Wisconsin-LaCrosse.

Division 1 men's favorites include defending champion Arkansas, Washington State, Southern Methodist, Tennessee, Texas and UCLA. Women's contenders in the division include 1986 indoor champion Alabama and Louisiana State, Florida State, Texas, Southern California and UCLA.

Abilene Christian tops the Division II men's teams, followed by East Texas State, St. Augustine's and Mount St. Mary's. Abilene Christian's women have a national title to defend, too — the one they took from threetime champion Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo by three points a year ago. Both teams will be strong this spring, as will St. Augustine's and Alabama A&M.

Glassboro State could return to form in the Division III men's championships. The Profs won five titles in a row before Lincoln (Pennsylvania) took the 1985 crown. Lincoln should be strong again, as should Wisconsin-LaCrosse and St. Thomas (Minnesota). Among the teams expected to be challengers for the 1986 Division III women's team title are defending champion Cortland State, 1985 runner-up (by one point) Southern-New Orleans, St. Thomas (Minnesota), Massachusetts-Boston and Wisconsin-LaCrosse.

Complete coverage of all spring championships, from previews to final results, will begin in next week's issue of The NCAA News and continue through the June 11 issue.

Coach Mapp is honored by WBCA

Bridgewater College (Virginia) women's basketball coach Laura Mapp has been awarded the first annual Carol Eckman Award by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association "for demonstration of the values and character of Carol Eckman, which include sportsmanship, honesty, courage, ethical behavior, dedication to purpose and commitment to the student-athlete."

The award is named for Carol Eckman, who coached women's basketball at Lock Haven University of Pennsylvania and West Chester University of Pennsylvania and was instrumental in organizing the first National Invitation Women's Basketball Tournament in 1969. Eckman died of cancer last July.

Mapp leads active Division III coaches with 328 career victories and has been coaching basketball at Bridgewater for 25 years. She was named the Old Dominion Athletic Conference coach of the year for the 1985-86 season. Under Mapp, the Eagles have had 22 winning seasons, with a cumulative record of 328-175. She also coaches field hockey and women's tennis Committee members also learned that although there have been no catastrophic-injury claims filed in the program, at least three such injuries have occurred during the past year at nonparticipating institutions.

"We have spent considerable time in developing these programs and believe they represent the most comprehensive and economical athletics coverages available to the college community at the present time," members of the Insurance Committee say in a letter accompanying the information packet. Wrestling dropped

Men's intercollegiate wrestling at San Jose State University has been suspended indefinitely by President Gail Fullerton as part of a comprehensive reassessment of men's program finances.

'The suspension of this sport, although deeply regretted, is necessary due to the large deficit in this year's men's intercollegiate athletics budget," Fullerton said.

Wrestling has been an intercollegiate sport at San Jose State since the 1934-35 school year. The program was suspended for three seasons during World War II.

The remainder of the book includes the Association's executive regulations, special rules of order, recommended policies, enforcement procedure, consortium criteria, instructions to NCAA committees and the administrative-structure listings

NCAA adopts Pac-10 penalties against Southern California

The NCAA Committee on Infractions has announced that it has adopted Pacific-10 Conference penalties that were imposed upon the University of Southern California in December 1985 for violations found in the university's football program.

A two-year probationary period (effective December 11, 1985) was imposed in the case, and the university will be limited to 22 initial grants-inaid to new recruits in football for the 1986-87 academic year (rather than the normal 30) and will be limited to 14 initial grants in the 1987-88 academic year. The Pacific-10 Conference penalty limited total grants (initial and overall) to 91 and 92 (rather than 95), respectively, for the next two academic years. The NCAA's initialgrant limitations were based upon the university's representation that the conference penalty would reduce the number of available initial grants to 22 and 14.

In addition, the university was limited to the use of eight full-time assistant football coaches (rather than the normal nine) who could recruit off campus during the 1985-86 academic year, and the university will be required to monitor the physical activities of prospective student-athletes during visits to the university's campus in order to assure compliance with the NCAA recruiting regulations.

The university also will disassociate one athletics representative from involvement in any athletics-related matter at the university (with the exception of ticket purchases) during the probationary period as a result of his involvement in an improper recruiting contact.

The significant violations found in the case occurred during the 1984-85 academic year and primarily involved the actions of one assistant football coach, who resigned during the processing of the case.

Frank J. Remington, infractions committee chair, stated that "although this case did not involve a pattern of serious violations, the committee was quite concerned that violations took place during a period when the university was on NCAA probation. In fact, the penalties imposed by the NCAA would have been more severe if the committee had not been convinced that the university took swift and meaningful corrective actions on its own initiative prior to the NCAA's involvement in the case.

"It also should be noted," said Remington, "that the efforts of Pacific-10 Conference personnel to investigate and collect complete information concerning the matters under inquiry were exemplary, and the university's cooperation with conference and NCAA personnel aided the committee in the consideration of this case."

The violations found in the case included improper distribution of complimentary tickets, recruiting contacts, minor recruiting inducements, out-of-season practice and tryouts.

The following is the complete text of the penalty and a summary of the Teamup with Greyhound and see what kind of sports we really are.

Charter Greyhound, and we'll return up to 10% of your school's billings.

Every time you ride with us — from athletic teams to the band and other college organizations — you're helping to build the total amount of NCAA charter billings on Greyhound. And that adds up to big returns for your school So when you go Greyhound, you're getting more than our reputation for safety, service and reliability. You're getting a new way to keep expenses down. When you're ready to plan your charters for the season, call us at 1-800-USA-NCAA. We'll give you more information and immediate charter quotes. And your Greyhound NCAA sales representative will contact you soon afterwards.

Men's golf and men's tennis will be cut from the Nicholls State University athletics program at the end of this semester because of the state of Louisiana's budgetary crisis, President Donald J. Ayo said.

"These are difficult times and difficult decisions for all of us," Ayo said, "and we regret the impact on all who are affected. But the indications are that Nicholls will have $3.5 million less next year, and so athletes must make sacrifices to cope with a grave situation."

The president said he instructed athletics director Don Landry several months ago to propose a series of carefully planned cuts in the athletics program. Landry said eliminating golf and tennis will save about $50,000 a ycar. your school.

With our new game plan, as the total NCAA volume figure grows, the percentage of billings that are returned to you will grow as well. Up to a maximum 10% rate of return that goes directly to the athletic department.

This year, put a good sport on your team. Choose Greyhound charters all season long.

Survey reveals student's attitudes toward athletes

Almost half of the 999 college students surveyed by USA Today said eved student-athletes ge erential treatment on their campuses. More than 40 percent who indicated their perception of preferential treatment claimed easier grading (than that by which nonstudent-athletes' work is evaluated) as one example, and one-third claimed easier acceptance for enrollment as another. Results of the poll were published in the newspaper's April 4 edition. The random survey included students on 104 college campuses, and the paper reported that its methodology had a margin of error of plus or minus three percent. A majority of the respondents indicated their belief that college sports are overemphasized in the United States, and 83 percent said studentathletes should not be paid (in addition to the benefits received under their athletics grants-in-aid).

May 12 trial date set for USFL suit against NFL

A Federal judge has set a May 12 tively, rather than team-by-team, gave trial date in the United States Football League's $1.32 billion antitrust suit against the National Football League.

A lawyer for the USFL urged the judge to forego a trial and to rule for the three-year-old league that for the first time will be playing in the fall this year, opposite the NFL.

Arguing that the well-established NFL has frozen out competitors by making deals with all three television networks, the USFL asked U.S. District Judge Peter K. Leisure to grant it a "summary judgment" in the case, meaning the new league would win without having to go before a jury.

USFL lawyer Harvey Myerson contended that the key fact-and one which is not in dispute—is that the well-entrenched NFL holds contracts with CBS_NBC and ABC. He argued that a 1961 law that allowed the league to sell television rights collecthe NFL the right to contract with only one network at a time.

The USFL argues that by dealing with all three networks, the NFL essentially has flooded the market with pro football in the fall, satiating the networks so that no competitor can strike a deal, the Associated Press reported.

NFL lawyer Frank Rothman responded that the antitrust law contains no one-network restriction and that the NFL's television contracts are not exclusive. Thus, he said, the three networks are free to buy the rights to air USFL games if they wish.

The USFL suit, filed in 1984, also accuses the NFL of illegally monopolizing access to football players, officials and stadiums. But television and the millions of dollars it pumps into the sport have emerged as the central issue.
