Top Six award winners to be honored by '87 Convention

Three Olympians, NCAA champions in gymnastics and track, and a finalist for the Broderick Award in volleyball comprise the group of student-athletes combining athletics prowess, academic achievement and community service who have been named recipients of the Association's Today's Top Six awards.

The 1986 honorees are Lisa Ice, San Jose State University, volleyball; Jon Louis, Stanford University, gymnastics; Cheryl Miller, University of Southern California, basketball; John Moffet, Stanford University, swimming; Dub Myers, University of Oregon, track and field, and Megan Neyer, University of Florida, diving.

These current student-athletes join six former varsity letter-winners who will receive Silver Anniversary awards to form the Association's College Athletics Top XII. The Silver Anniversary award winners were announced in the December 17, 1986, issue of the News.

The awards will be presented at the 22nd annual NCAA honors luncheon, to be held January 7, 1987, in conjunction with the NCAA Convention. The Theodore Roosevelt Award, the highest honor the NCAA confers on an individual, also is presented at the luncheon.

The Today's Top Six awards are presented to student-athletes who have excelled in athletics and academics while demonstrating leadership abilities and performing community service.

Lisa Ice

A finalist for the 1986-87 Broderick Award in volleyball, Ice has been a four-year starter at San Jose State. She was named Pacific Coast Athletic Association coplayer of the year this season. A team captain, Ice holds school records for season hitting percentage and career digs. She was named the most valuable player at two tournaments this season and was honored as the Greater San Jose Sports Association athlete of the year. She played on the gold-medal team at the 1983 National Sports Festival.

Ice has maintained a 3.160 grade-point average while earning a degree in human performance/athletics train-

Eight new members named to Commission

Presidents of NCAA member institutions have elected eight new members to begin serving on the NCAA Presidents Commission at the conclusion of the 1987 Convention in San Diego.

In addition, three Commission members who have served less than half of a term have been reelected for full, four-year terms.

The 1987 Commission membership will be announced during the annual Convention. Chief executive officers in each division voted by mail ballot for candidates representing the respective divisions, and that procedure was concluded in December. Also, one new member and one reelected member were designated for those positions by their Division I-AA conferences.

New members:

•Division I: Harold H. Haak, California State University, Fresno, replacing Stanley E. McCaffrey, University of the Pacific (designated by the Pacific Coast Athletic Association). Bernard F. Sliger, Florida State University (Division I-AA South independents), replacing William E. Lavery, Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Frederick P. Whiddon, University of South Alabama (Division I-AAA at large), replacing Pope A. Duncan, Stetson University.

•Division II: Billy C. Black, Albany State College (Georgia), replacing Ladell Payne, Randolph-Macon College. Lloyd D. Vincent, Angelo State University, replacing Arend D. Lubbers, Grand Valley State College.

•Division III: Jerry C. Lee, Gallaudet University, replacing Paul Hardin, Drew University. William A. McMillan, Rust College, replacing Cordell Wynn, Stillman College. Jack Stark, Claremont McKenna-Harvey Mudd-Scripps Colleges, replacing Richard C. Gilman, Occidental College.

The following were reelected to full terms:

•Division I: Martin A. Masengale, University of Nebraska, See Eight, page 8

Another record turnout expected for '87 Convention in San Diego

Attendance at the Association's 81st annual Convention January 6-10 in San Diego is likely to reach an all-time high for the seventh straight year.

As of December 24, four of the five hotels being used by the Association to house delegates were sold out. A total of 1,886 delegates and media representatives had preregistered as of that date. Based on the hotel reservations (this is the first year the Association has been able to computerize its preregistration figures, so no comparable data are available), another record turnout seems reasonable.

Last year, a total of 1,861 attended the annual Convention in New Orleans. That eclipsed the previous record of 1,742 in Nashville in 1985.

Prior to that, it was 1,737 in Dallas in 1984. A total of 1,521 attended the only other San Diego Convention, in 1983. In 1982, 1,315 registered in Houston, and 1,314 attended in Miami Beach in 1981.

The record going into the 1980s was 1,109 in Atlanta in 1978. In all, attendance first reached the 1,000 mark in St. Louis in 1976, dropped slightly in 1977, went up again in '78, dropped slightly in 1979 and dropped again in 1980 before beginning the climb from 1,075 that year to 1,861 last year.

It was because of that increased attendance and the fact that the annual Convention has become something of a "happening"—a "place you have to be" in the minds of more and more delegates—that the Executive Committee has expanded the Convention schedule this year and added activities and amenities to the week.

Delegates will receive a memento of the Convention, and chief executive officers will be entertained at their own special reception January 7. A day has been added to the schedule, giving delegates more time to enjoy

Amendment deadline January 7

The deadline for submission of amendments to the proposed legislation for the 1987 NCAA Convention is 1 p.m. Wednesday, January 7.

That deadline is applicable to the submission of amendments to the amendments in the Official Notice and Convention Program, requests for review of interpretations per Constitution 6-2, and submission of resolutions per Constitution 6-4.

For years, the amendment-to-amendment deadline was 1 p.m. on the day before the general business session. That changed last year, however, when the three membership divisions were permitted to take final voting actions in the division business sessions for the first time.

Constitution 7-3 and Bylaw 13-3 now specify that such submissions must be in hand by 1 p.m. "on the day preceding the division business sessions." Those sessions begin at 8 a.m. January 8; hence, the January 7 deadline.

Members wishing to submit something in accordance with that deadline may do so in suite 1012 at the Town and Country Hotel.

The only exception to the 1 p.m. deadline is that the NCAA Council, by a two-thirds vote of its members, is permitted to submit later amendments or resolutions, per Constitution 7-4

Record Association surplus set at $5.8 million

While expenses increased by six percent in 1985-86, revenues jumped by 17 percent to create an apparent record surplus of $5.8 million, according to a report from the NCAA Executive Committee that will be presented to delegates at the 1987 Convention.

The report will be published in the Association's Annual Reports, which will be available at the Convention.

Actual expenses for the fiscal year were $45,584,558, while revenues increased to $51,361,047. The increase in expenses was $1.6 million, but revenues rose $7.4 million.

Although no official records are kept, the amount of excess revenues over expenses probably is the largest surplus ever. The Association also returned a probable record 69 percent of its actual revenues to the membership in 1985-86.

Several reasons are noted for the increase in revenues. The largest amount of increased revenue came from the 1986 Division I Men's Basketball Championship ($5.7 million). Other Division I championships were up $700,000, marketing revenue rose $300,000, dues increased $200,000, football television assessments increased $200,000 and publishing revenue rose $100,000.

In 1984-85, the Association returned $29,861,473 of its actual revenues to the membership (68 percent). In 1985-86, the figure increased to $35,445,676 (69 percent) and 18.7 percent ($5,584,203) more than last year.

The Executive Committee already has allocated the surplus of revenue, with $1.15 million going to each of the Divisions II and III block-grant funds for 1986-87 championships in those divisions.

Additionally, $1 million was allocated for drug testing at NCAA championships and postseason bowl games; $1 million was allocated for equipment, including expansion of the Association's computer capabilities, and the largest amount ($1.5 million) was transferred to the funded operating reserve.

The funded operating reserve is valued at $7.2 million, or more than 60 percent of the goal established by the Executive Committee as the amount required to meet one year's cost of essential services.

An additional surplus of revenue was created by transfers from various reserves, such as youth and development and championships transportation, and from the excess of revenues over expenses for 1985 and 1986 spring championships.

This surplus has been distributed in the form of additional grants to the

Presidents will need courage, determination

By Paul Harrowood

Great publicity is being given to the ills of intercollegiate athletics, to the point that society generally is embarrassed by the continuing disclosures of malpractice and improper conduct. That is good in that it highlights and supports long-overdue action to regain a balanced perspective on the role of intercollegiate athletics. However, the time has come to shift the focus of concern from the ills to a cure.

How do we restore credibility and integrity to intercollegiate athletics? I am persuaded that the presidents of our NCAA institutions must accept the primary responsibility. A strong case can be made that it has been through their neglect of their responsibility that the current deficiencies and criticisms have evolved. Granted, there is enough blame for everyone in every facet of our athletics programs—athletics directors, coaches, alumni, NCAA, television, etc.—but the presidents cannot thereby rationalize away their lack of strong and firm leadership. The credibility problem in intercollegiate athletics is a measure of their credibility.

Presidents preside over and are accountable for all the affairs of their respective institutions, academic and nonacademic. On each campus, the president ultimately is responsible for the integrity of that athletics program. Further, in the broader context of the management of intercollegiate athletics within the NCAA, the presidents of member institutions, collectively, have ultimate responsibility. The policies, rules and procedures of the NCAA are determined by institutional vote, and the presidents decide those votes.

The public believes that the presidents have the power to clean up and shape up our athletics programs, and that view has been encouraged with all the recent publicity on the personal and direct involvement of the presidents in the business of the NCAA. The Presidents Commission has been especially noteworthy in that regard. But there are Doubting

Looking Back

Five years ago

The 76th annual Convention, January 11-13, 1982, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Houston, affirmed the existing NCAA television principles and soundly defeated a proposal that would have prohibited the Association from exercising effective control over the disposition of any type of property rights by member institutions. James Frank, Lincoln University (Missouri), was NCAA president.

Ten years ago

The 71st annual Convention, January 10-12, 1977, at the Hotel Fontainebleau in Miami Beach, rejected an NCAA Council plan to restructure Division I and defeated proposals to require that athletically related financial aid be based (all or in part) on need. John A. Fuzak, Michigan State University, was NCAA president.

Twenty years ago

The 61st annual Convention, January 9-11, 1967, at the Sheraton-Lincoln Hotel in Houston, voted to strengthen enforcement and extra-events procedures, as well as the 1,600 initial-eligibility requirements. It also honored Dwight D. Eisenhower as recipient of the first Theodore Roosevelt Award. Everett D. Barnes, Colgate University, was NCAA president.

Thirty years ago

The 51st annual Convention, January 9-11, 1957, at the Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis, voted to include grants for educational purposes (the "G.I. Bill") in determining the maximum amount of financial aid a student-athlete could receive. Clarence P. Houston, Tufts University, was NCAA president.

Forty years ago

The 41st annual Convention, January 8-10, 1947, at the Hotel New Yorker, New York City, adopted in principle the five points of the recommendations stemming from a Conference of Conferences (the principles commonly referred to as the "Sanity Code"): amateurism, institutional control and responsibility, sound academic standards, financial aid, and recruiting. The NCAA president was Wilbur C. Smith, M.D., of the University of Wyoming (formerly at Tulane University).

Fifty years ago

The 32nd annual Convention, December 28-30, 1937, at the St. Charles Hotel in New Orleans, established the College Committee to consider and bring to the attention of the Association any athletics matter of common interest to smaller colleges. Maj. John L. Griffith of the Big Ten Conference was concluding five years as NCAA president.

Sixty years ago

The 22nd annual Convention, December 29, 1927, at the Hotel Astor in New York City, appointed the Association's first playing-rules committees in the sports of baseball and gymnastics. Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, U.S. Military Academy, was NCAA president.

Seventy years ago

The 12th annual Convention, December 28, 1917, at the Hotel Astor, New York City, appointed the Association's first playing-rules committee in the sport of wrestling. It also recommended adoption of "military rifle shooting" as an intercollegiate sport. Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, U.S. Military Academy, was NCAA president.

Eighty years ago

The second annual Convention was held December 28, 1907, at the Murray Hill Hotel in New York City. The delegates granted authority to the Executive Committee to form a "representative" Basketball Rules Committee. Palmer E. Pierce of the U.S. Military Academy, then a captain, was NCAA president.

NCAA Manual revision project far more demanding than expected

Wilford S. Bailey, Auburn University professor

The Associated Press

"It's the most awesome undertaking (revision and simplification of the NCAA Manual) I think any member of this committee ever experienced. It's far more demanding than any of us realized when we began.

"It's often said that the regulations are so complex and the Manual is so complicated that nobody can understand it and comply with all the regulations. Frankly, that's used more as an excuse than a reason, I think. But at any rate, it's very clear that as the Manual has grown, it has gotten very complicated.

"It's a little too early for us to get a feel for what the total number of pages will be, but we're absolutely convinced that if it turns out to be just as big as the old book, the membership won't be concerned because of the ease with which it can be used."

Gordon P. Eaton, president
Iowa State University

The Associated Press

"I believe Iowa State University has been treated fairly by the NCAA in this matter (investigation of football violations that eventually led to probation for the school). The university has tried to cooperate fully with the NCAA in the conduct of the internal investigation and in the treatment of information concerning the charges, the investigation and subsequent ruling.

"The university's record of fair play has been an outstanding one. We have learned valuable lessons from this difficult experience, and those lessons will guide our actions now and in the future.

"This has been Iowa State's only brush with NCAA rules violations, and I intend to ensure that it will be the last."

"Many of the best private universities—such as Chicago, Columbia and Yale—decided to de-emphasize athletics at some point in their histories. Other schools have eschewed the big-money game, football. More seem likely to follow. With smaller numbers of alumni than public institutions have, the private universities that stay with the game seem under even more pressure to win. They are under pressure to sell seats in their stadiums and to capture TV attention; their wealthy boosters also seem especially difficult to control.

"While there is risk to such institutions in abandoning commercialized athletics programs, increasingly, there is greater risk in not doing so.

"Universities drive away supporters who want to contribute to learning institutions by holding on to supporters who want to hang on to their adolescent identities.

"It is said that no university ever became great through football. New scandals in sports programs suggest that it is time for more universities to make the tough choice to put education ahead of sports."

Rumeal Robinson, former high school basketball all-America
University of Michigan

The New York Times

"It's not a really good feeling sitting at the (Michigan basketball) games. It's hard to describe the feeling. You look at other freshmen doing well and there's nothing you can do. I just count the months (until he is academically eligible to participate in varsity athletics).

"I spend a lot of time in classroom reading and working out. What I found is that there's no way I could do all this if I was playing.

"I feel more a part of the campus. I meet a lot of people just as another student, not as this star player.

"One thing about being on the outside looking in is that the game looks easier. I see things I didn't see before, and I've become more of an observer of the team. I'm learning more just by sitting in the stands and listening to the comments of the fans."

"Whatever it takes to clean it up, let's do it. Kids don't have to take steroids. That's the easy way out.

tiny bit more each season, until we've got to the point where the colleges are playing about half the number of games the pros are—a situation that I feel is detrimental to college basketball, in general, and the student-athlete the game depends on, in particular.

"The problem... is that the NCAA has allowed teams to play more and more "extra" games—games that don't count against the season total of 28.

"The student-athlete pays the price. He misses a ton of classes, and he usually does not see or enjoy much on road trips because he plays two or three games in as many days rather than playing one game and then getting a couple of days off to soak up some culture.

"Think about this: Duke played 40 games last year. Of the normal 28, let's say 14 were at home, 14 away. But now the Blue Devils add 12 more games—all on the road because they're at neutral sites. If you go the day before and come back the day of the game, the least amount of time for a road game is two days. Usually, it's more like three. So you're talking about adding 24 to 36 days to the time a student-athlete must spend away from class and campus.

"For an Einstein, it may not matter. But how does the marginal student handle it?

"This inching by the NCAA and the institutions has got to stop. We've got to have some kind of rule that allows 28 regular-season games, plus the NCAA tournament—period."

He was selected as the Pacific-10 Conference gymnast of the year in 1986 and has been Stanford's most outstanding gymnast for four consecutive years, as well as team captain for two years.

He was a member of the 1985 U.S. national gymnastics team and was ranked 13th in the nation after the 1985 season. He won a bronze medal at the 1985 Moncada Cup and a silver medal at the 1985 Maccabiah Games in Israel. Louis also competed in the 1986 International Sports Fair in Tokyo last May.

Louis established a 2.750 GPA while earning a communications degree at Stanford. Thomas, and they have ample evidence to justify their questioning of any serious commitment.

A number of presidents continue to provide special admissions for athletes—outside the normal channels and procedures established to guarantee satisfaction of the minimal criteria of their own institutions. Some of the most prestigious schools, headed by presidents allied with the "reform movement," are engaged in this practice.

Similarly, some presidents continue to support special "academic" programs for athletes—programs that even under the most liberal interpretation do not lead to legitimate college degrees.

The public no longer accepts the explanation that such special treatment is a manifestation of a commitment to affirmative action on behalf of the minorities and disadvantaged. The academic records of those students do not support that allegation. And it is not uncommon for a president to hire a known cheater as coach to build a more competitive program.

Against this backdrop of ridiculous graduation statistics and widespread irregularities, it is easy to conclude that athletics programs have become ends in themselves and no longer are complimentary to the primary mission of higher education.

Our way out of this dilemma, I repeat, hinges fundamentally on the leadership of the presidents of our colleges and universities.

First, they must ensure the integrity of their own programs. Second, they must collaborate to ensure the effectiveness of the NCAA in implementing their philosophy of intercollegiate athletics. This is a very simple strategy, logically, but one that I acknowledge is fraught with complexities.

Many presidents will be opposed and attacked by powerful forces of great influence. Real courage will be required to overcome their increased sense of vulnerability. Their strength to act and persevere will have to come from their unified front and an appreciative public.

Integrity and credibility must be restored to intercollegiate athletics. The strategy I have emphasized will not be easy, but I cannot conceive of any other satisfactory solution. Can you?

Cheryl Miller

One of the most decorated basketball players in NCAA history, Miller was a four-time all-America and three-time national player of the year. She was the leading scorer in the 1984 Olympic games for the U.S. gold-medal team. She was named ESPN's woman athlete of the year in 1985 and twice won the Broderick Award.

Miller was Pacific-10 Conference most valuable player three times and was named to the all-Pacific 10 team four straight years. She is the first Southern California basketball player, male or female, to have her jersey retired.

She compiled a 2.670 GPA while earning a sports information degree at Southern California. She is the first woman basketball player to be nominated for the Sullivan Award. She was honored December 12, 1986, by Mayor Tom Bradley with "Cheryl Miller Day" in the city of Los Angeles.

Miller is the 1986 chairperson for Athletes for Kids and a spokesperson for the American Lung Association and American Cancer Society. She was commissioner of the 1985 LAOOC Summer Youth Games and recipient of the YWCA Silver Achievement Award in Los Angeles.

John Moffet

Moffet posted a 3.200 GPA while earning a design degree at Stanford. He received the Biff Hoffman Award as outstanding male athlete at Stanford and the Jake Gimbel Award for the senior with the best competitive attitude.

He was Stanford's selection as Pacific-10 Conference medal winner for the senior student-athlete exhibiting the greatest performance and achievement in scholarship, athletics and leadership. He is a member of the athletics, physical education and recreation advisory committee to the university's president. Moffet currently attends Oxford University (England), studying art history.

A member of both the 1980 and 1984 U.S. Olympic swimming teams, Moffet won five NCAA individual titles and two relay events. He was a member of the 400-yard medley relay that set the current world record in 1985 at the Pan Pacific Championships in Tokyo.

He was a triple gold medalist at the 1985 World University Games in Kobe, Japan, and set a world record in the 100-yard breaststroke at the 1984 U.S. Olympic Trials. A member of the 1982 World Championship team, Moffet was a three-time NCAA champion in the 100-yard breaststroke and two-time titlist in the 200-yard breaststroke.

The 1986 NCAA 1,500-meter cham-

He is the 1986 Pac-10 champion in the 1,500 meters and won the 800 meters in 1985. He has been in the top five in the 1,500 meters at the NCAA championship each year and was sixth at the 1984 Olympic Trials.

While earning a degree in computer information science, Myers has maintained a 3.780 grade-point average. As a class project, he helped write a computer program for Goodwill Industries.

Governor, U.S. senator among Silver Anniversary honorees

Tennessee Governor Lamar Alexander, U.S. Senator William S. Cohen and Olympic champion Wilma Rudolph are among six former student-athletes who will receive the Association's Silver Anniversary award during the 1987 honors luncheon.

Joining Alexander (Vanderbilt University), Cohen (Bowdoin College) and Rudolph (Tennessee State University) are Alex Kroll, Rutgers University, New Brunswick; Merlin J. Olsen, Utah State University, and Joe Romig, University of Colorado.

Silver Anniversary awards honor former student-athletes who have led distinguished lives after outstanding college athletics careers 25 years ago.

Following are brief biographical sketches of this year's honorees:

Lamar Alexander

Alexander was a Phi Beta Kappa at Vanderbilt and earned two letters in track, competing in the 440-yard dash and on a school-record-setting 440-yard relay team.

He has been governor of the state of Tennessee since 1978 and is responsible for foreign-investment, school-construction and road-improvement programs totalling more than $5.5 billion. Active with the Boy Scouts of America, Alexander has been honored by the National Wildlife Federation, and he currently chairs the President's Commission on Americans Outdoors.

William S. Cohen

Cohen was a James Bowdoin scholar and started for three seasons on the Bowdoin basketball team. He received a law degree from Boston University in 1965 and joined a law firm in Bangor, Maine. After serving on that city's council and as mayor, he served three terms in the U.S. House of Representatives and was elected to the Senate in 1978.

Now serving his second term, Cohen has been recognized by Time magazine and by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Alex Kroll

Kroll was a consensus all-America center at Rutgers in 1961. He played in the Senior Bowl and North-South Shrine Game and was named a National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame scholar-athlete.

Except for one year in professional football with the New York Titans, Kroll has been with the Young and Rubicam advertising agency since four days after his graduation from Rutgers. He was named president and chief operating officer in 1982 and became chief executive officer in 1985.

Kroll is active in several charitable organizations, as well as with the Boy Scouts of America and Rutgers alumni and athletics activities.

Merlin J. Olsen

A Phi Beta Kappa and summa cum laude graduate of Utah State, Olsen was a consensus all-America at tackle in 1961. He won the Outland Trophy as college football's outstanding lineman that year and played in several all-star games. He was a three-time academic all-America and a National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame scholar-athlete.

The Los Angeles Rams' first draft choice in 1962, Olsen played with the team for 15 years. He played in the Pro Bowl an NFL record 14 times and was consensus all-pro five straight years. He is a member of both the College Football Hall of Fame and the Professional Football Hall of Fame. He is a critically acclaimed football analyst for NBC and has appeared in television series and made-for-TV movies.

Romig maintained a 3.900 (4,000 scale) grade-point average as a physics major at Colorado. He finished sixth in balloting for the 1961 Heisman Trophy and twice was named consensus all-America as a guard and linebacker.

Romig is involved with theoretical research for Radio-Physics, Inc., Boulder, Colorado. He serves as a consultant to several companies and teaches astrology for his alma mater's division of continuing studies.

A past chair of the Mental Health Association of Colorado, he also is active in affairs involving the University of Colorado.

Wilma Rudolph

Rudolph is the only American woman to win three track and field gold medals in a single Olympiad (Rome, 1960). Her performances earned her the 1961 Sullivan Award and the 1960-61 Babe Didrickson Zaharias Trophy. She has been inducted into five halls of fame.

Rudolph is founder and president of the Wilma Rudolph Foundation, a nonprofit amateur athletics and educational program based in Indianapolis. She has served as a commentator for ABC during its coverage of the Olympics.

Industrialist to receive Teddy award

Industrialist Walter Joseph Zable will receive the Association's Theodore Roosevelt Award at the 1987 honors luncheon.

The "Teddy" is the highest honor the NCAA can confer on an individual. It is presented annually to "a distinguished citizen of national reputation and outstanding accomplishment who, having earned a varsity athletics award in college, has by a continuing interest in and concern for physical fitness and competitive sport and by personal example exemplified most clearly and forcefully the ideals and purposes to which college athletics programs and amateur sports competition are dedicated."

Currently president and chairman of the board of Cubic Corporation, Zable competed in four sports at William and Mary, including baseball, basketball, football and track. He received a bachelor's degree from the school in 1937, continued graduate work there, and ultimately received a master's degree in physics and mathematics from the University of Florida.

Zable formed Cubic in 1951 and has built the corporation into a $332 million, highly diversified, electronics-based company with 4,500 employees in eight divisions.

A member of both the College Football Hall of Fame and the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame, Zable has received the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Gold Medal Award, and he was named to Sports Illustrated's silver anniversary all-America team in 1962.

His business accomplishments have been recognized by the San Diego Press Club and the California Manufacturers Association, and he has been named San Diego's man of the year and industrialist of the year.

Rather to emcee luncheon

CBS News anchor and managing editor Dan Rather will serve as master of ceremonies for the 22nd annual NCAA honors luncheon.

A native of Wharton, Texas, Rather is a 1953 graduate of Sam Houston State University and has attended the University of Houston and South Texas Schools of Law. He holds honorary degrees from several colleges and universities.

Before joining CBS in 1962 as chief of the network's Southwest bureau in Dallas, Rather worked for the Associated Press, United Press International, the Houston Chronicle, and radio and television outlets in Huntsville, Texas, and Houston.

His work as news director at CBS affiliate KHOU-TV in Houston was recognized by both the Headliners and Sigma Delta Chi awards for television news public service. Since joining the network, Rather has received six Emmy awards for work that included his coverage of the Watergate scandal.

In addition to his current position with the CBS Evening News, Rather has served as coeditor of 60 Minutes, anchor of CBS Reports, White House correspondent, chief of the network's London and Saigon bureaus, and anchor of the weekend editions of the CBS Evening News.

San Diego's attractions.

The new schedule results in the following major sessions:

• Tuesday, January 6: 3:30 p.m., opening business session. 7 p.m., reception for all delegates.

• Wednesday, January 7: Noon, honors luncheon. 6 p.m., reception for chief executive officers only.

• Thursday, January 8: 8 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 5 p.m., division business sessions.

• Friday, January 9: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., general business session.

• Saturday, January 10: 8 a.m. to noon, general business session, if necessary.

Registration for the Convention begins at 3 p.m. Monday, January 5, and continues until 7 p.m. that day. Delegates also may register from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, January 6; from 8 a.m. to noon and 2 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, January 7; from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, January 8; from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, January 9, and from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, January 10, if the Convention has not ended by then.

Special Convention?

Hanging over the proceedings in San Diego may well be the question of whether the Association will be conducting another Convention in about five months.

The NCAA Presidents Commission will decide in its January 7 meeting in San Diego whether to call the Association's sixth special Convention. If so, it would be held in June 1987, probably in Dallas or Washington, D.C. The Commission will announce that decision the same day.

If there is to be a special Convention, it would deal, at least in part, with cost-reduction issues in college athletics. That could have an effect on the business sessions at the San Diego meeting this month, because it has been suggested that a number of proposals before the delegates at this Convention might be withdrawn and included in the Presidents Commission's consideration of legislation for the special Convention.

If numerous withdrawals occur, or maybe even if they don't, the business session might be completed in one day, as it was last year. That would adjourn the Convention at the end of the day January 9 instead of at noon January 10.

Even without withdrawals, the Convention has half a dozen fewer amendments to act on this year than it did last year. And several of the more controversial proposals will be handled in the division business sessions January 8.

Convention leaders

Chairing the various major sessions at the Convention will be the following:

• John R. Davis, NCAA president, Oregon State University, opening business session and general business session.

• Wilford S. Bailey, NCAA secretary-treasurer, Auburn University, Division I-A business session.

• Jack V. Doland, NCAA Council member, McNeese State University, Division I-AA business session.

• Don J. DiJulia, NCAA Council member, Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, Division I-AAA business session.

• Lewis A. Cryer, Division I vice-president, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Division I business session.

• Asa N. Green, Division II vice-president, Livingston University, Division II business session.

• Judith M. Sweet, Division III vice-president, University of California, San Diego, Division III business session.

Davis, Cryer and Green are completing their service as NCAA officers at this year's Convention, while Bailey has been nominated to replace Davis as NCAA president for 1987 and 1988.

Legislation

All 152 amendments in the Official Notice of the 1987 Convention have been reviewed in The NCAA News, beginning in the issue of November 17 and ending in last week's issue (December 23).

A total of 43 are in the consent packages, and 18 more—Proposal Nos. 44 through 61—were designated by the Presidents Commission for a special grouping of legislation with particular presidential interest. Several of the major proposals at this year's Convention are in that grouping.

Highlights of the other legislative groupings:

Academics

Division II will decide in Proposal Nos. 64, 65 and 66 if it wishes to adopt initial-eligibility requirements comparable to those in Division I [Bylaw 5-1-(j)]. The division faces three alternatives in that regard.

The Big Ten Conference will try again (No. 70) to add grade-point requirements to the satisfactory-progress rule.

Recruiting

The major proposals clearly are in the special presidents' grouping, but the Council and the Pacific-10 Conference have several additional proposals to restrict recruiting activities, including the conference's attempt to limit to four the maximum number of high school (or junior college) basketball games in which a prospect competes that a member institution could observe (scout) during any year. That is No. 80.

Division II will consider whether it wishes to make a major change in the Association's traditional opposition to tryouts of prospects when it decides between two alternatives (Nos. 91 and 92) that would permit such tryouts in that division under certain circumstances.

Financial aid

The Pacific-10 Conference has proposed a modified version of "aid based on need" in No. 93, for Division

I only, but it has been reported that the conference intends to withdraw that amendment.

There also are proposals to reduce grants-in-aid in Divisions I-A and I-AA football and in Division I men's and women's basketball, which may or may not be withdrawn if the Presidents Commission calls a special Convention. Those are Nos. 94, 95 and 96.

Amateurism

The Association's members will attempt to solve the problems encountered during the past year with complimentary admissions. Four proposals—Nos. 98 through 101—offer alternatives in that regard.

Membership

Multidivision classification dominates this grouping. No. 105 would eliminate multidivision classification for all Division III members and would prevent Divisions I and II from classifying any sport in Division III. No. 106 would do the latter but would not prevent a Division III institution from being classified in Division I in one sport.

Championships

A resolution to prohibit any team sanctions when a student-athlete on the team tests positive in an NCAA drug test has the support of numerous sponsors but will be ruled out of order inasmuch as it is inconsistent with the authorities granted to the Executive Committee in the NCAA constitution.

Another controversial issue is the advancement of Divisions II and III athletes to Division I championships in the individual sports. The Executive Committee will delete that privilege effective next August unless an amendment to reinstate the regulation (No. 115) is approved in San Diego.

Seasons

An extensive attempt to lock all sports into certain, identified playing seasons—fall, winter, spring—leads off this grouping, but it has been reported that the Atlantic Coast Con-

Awards nominations open year-round

Member institutions are reminded that nominations for awards presented during the annual honors luncheon are accepted throughout the year by the Association's communications department.

Student-athletes who complete their intercollegiate eligibility during the 1987 calendar year and those who completed their college athletics careers during the 1962-63 academic year can be nominated for inclusion in the College Athletics Top XII (Today's Top Six and Silver Anniversary, respectively) for 1988.

Any former letter-winner is eligible for consideration by the Theodore Roosevelt Award selection committee. Although not an annual presentation, special awards of valor also are given. The last NCAA Award of Valor was presented to the family of the late Joe Delany, who died in an attempt to save some youngsters from drowning.

All nominations must be made by representatives of the individuals' current institution or alma mater. For more information on the NCAA honors program or to nominate an individual for one of the awards, contact David E. Cawood, assistant executive director, at the national office.

Highest possible vote total is 863

If every voting NCAA member were in attendance at the 81st annual Convention, the highest possible counted vote on any issue would be 863, exactly what it was a year ago.

That is the total number of active member institutions and conferences with voting privileges. All of them do not attend the Convention, of course, although more than 80 percent have attended the past three annual Conventions. Last year, the attendance figure was 82.7 percent of all possible voters, an all-time high.

Included in the total of 863 are 790 active member institutions and 73 voting conferences, both figures identical to last year's totals. By divisions, the totals are as follows:

- Division I: 291 institutions and 35 conferences; total of 326 votes. Within that total, Division I-A has 105 institutions and nine conferences (114), Division I-AA has 87 institutions and nine conferences (96), and Division I-AAA has 99 institutions and 17 conferences (116).
- Division II: 185 institutions and 15 conferences (200).
- Division III: 314 institutions and 23 conferences (337).

There are other voting situations that complicate the matter of reaching a highest-possible vote. For example, all-male institutions cannot vote on an issue that relates exclusively to women's athletics, and all-female institutions cannot vote on one relating only to men's athletics.

In the membership are 10 all-male institutions (two Division I-AA, one Division II, seven Division III) and seven conferences offering programs only for men (one Division I-A, one Division I-AA, three Division I-AAA and two Division III).

There are 27 all-female institutions (four Division II, 23 Division III) and eight women-only conferences (one Division I-AA, three Division I-AAA, one Division II and three Division III).

All of that means that the highest possible vote on a women's-only issue would be 846; the highest on a men's-only issue would be 828.

The highest actual counted vote in Convention history—acknowledging that most issues are decided by a show of voting paddles and are not counted—was 641 at the 1984 annual Convention. That was a 313-328 vote on establishing a Board of Presidents instead of the successful proposal to create the NCAA Presidents Commission. (Two-thirds approval was required.)

In Nashville in 1985, the highest was 629, on a successful proposal to raise membership dues.

Last year, the highest was 622 on a proposal to permit an institution to grant aid to a student-athlete beyond the five-year eligibility period set forth in Bylaw 4-1. It received a 405-217 favorable vote for 65.1 percent approval, but a two-thirds majority was necessary.

Unusually high division votes in last year's Convention were 312 of a possible 320 in Division I on a proposal to insert grade-point-average requirements in the satisfactory-progress rule, 112 of a possible 114 in Division I-A on an amendment to drop the I-A sports sponsorship requirement from eight to six, 158 of 204 possible in Division II on a proposal dealing with how to count softball tournaments in the season limitations, and 190 of a possible 339 in Division III on a proposal to eliminate that division's indoor track championships.

Rain is in forecast

Forecasters in San Diego are expecting typical weather patterns during the NCAA Convention.

Some rain is expected. Almost two inches of the city's annual total rainfall of 9.32 inches falls in January.

However, temperatures throughout the week of January 4 are expected to be at or slightly above normal. Therefore, expect highs near 65 and lows in the mid- to upper 40s. Winds, if any, will be light.

Legislative Assistance

1987 Column No. 1

Principles of sound academic standards

Under the provisions of NCAA Constitution 3-3(a)-(1), (2) and (3) and Case Nos. 118 and 119 (page 319, 1986-87 NCAA Manual), in order for a student-athlete to represent a member institution in intercollegiate athletics competition, that student-athlete must have been admitted in accordance with the regularly published entrance requirements of that institution. If the institution's chief executive officer has discretionary authority to grant waivers of the university's normal entrance requirements, then in order to comply with the provisions of Constitution 3-3(a)-(1), such discretionary authority shall be identified in the official documents published by the university that describe the institution's admissions requirements, such as the university's official catalog. Further, for a student-athlete who becomes academically eligible or ineligible at the end of a regular term during the academic year, the provisions of Constitution 3-3(a)-(2) and (3) apply. These provisions state that such student-athlete shall become eligible or ineligible on the date the student-athlete's eligibility officially is certified by the appropriate institutional authority, which, in the event the student-athlete becomes ineligible, shall not be later than the first day of classes of the following semester or quarter.

Precollege expenses

The provisions of NCAA Bylaw 1-10(a) prohibit a member institution or a representative of its athletics interests from offering, providing or arranging financial assistance, directly or indirectly, for a prospective student-athlete to pay in whole or in part the cost of the prospect's educational or other expenses for any period prior to the prospect's enrollment at that member institution. The prohibition on the payment of precollege expenses applies to all prospective student-athletes, even those who have signed a National Letter of Intent or an institutional offer of admission or written tender of financial assistance.

College all-star football contests

Member institutions are reminded that under the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 2-3, no member institution shall permit its student-athletes (i.e., those who were members of its intercollegiate team in the sport in question) to compete in any college all-star football contest unless the contest is approved by the NCAA Extra Events Committee and certified by the NCAA Council. Further, Bylaw 2-3(a) limits participation in a certified all-star game to enrolled or graduated student-athletes who have exhausted their seasons of eligibility in the sport in question but who were eligible to participate on their institution's intercollegiate team in that sport during the past season. Finally, Bylaw 2-3(d) stipulates that the management of a certified all-star game shall obtain permission from an institution's director of athletics before inviting a student-athlete from that institution to compete in the all-star game.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question that it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Amendment

and Bylaw 13-4.

The six-sponsor requirement does not apply to amendments to amendments, resolutions or requests for review of interpretations. A single sponsor that is eligible to vote on the matter is all that is required.

An amendment to one of the proposals in the Convention program will be ruled out of order if it attempts to deal with an issue that is not treated by the original amendment or if it increases the modification of the rule beyond that proposed in the circularized amendment.

To assure that an amendment does not increase the modification of the original proposal, what the amendment proposes must fall between the current circumstances and the change proposed in the previously circularized proposal.

For example, there is a current limitation of 80 baseball contests in Division I, and a proposal in the Convention Program would lower that to 60. Any amendment(s) to that proposal would have to fall between 60 and 80.

peted in National Collegiate and Division I championships in 1986-87, resulting in payments to 78.9 percent of the Division I membership.

Since 1980-81, the Association's revenues and expenses have doubled (revenues by 120 percent and expenses by 103.7 percent). The probable record surplus in 1985-86 comes only four years after the Association reported a deficit of $205,989 in 1981-82 when the NCAA's legal expenses tripled in one year and were $1.5 million above the budget.

Six committees oversee Convention activity

In addition to voting on legislation at the 1986 Convention, several representatives from NCAA member institutions will be active on the six Convention committees, which are appointed to oversee several areas of Convention-related business.

Members of the Nominating Committee and Men's and Women's Committees on Committees, which were appointed by the Council in April, are responsible for nominating candidates for NCAA offices, Council vacancies, and positions on all men's and women's sports committees.

The Nominating Committee comprises 16 members, including four women. Members serve one-year terms and are limited to three terms in any five-year period.

Composed of 12 members each, the committees on committees have been appointed to nominate candidates for the Association's men's and women's sports committees. Dennis J. Keihn, California State University, Los Angeles, is chair of the Men's Committee on Committees, and Eve Atkinson, Temple University, is chair of the Women's Committee on Committees.

The Credentials Committee, chaired by Jane Goss, Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania, has the authority to examine the credentials of delegates to the Convention. It can determine the authority of any delegate to vote or represent a member, although that determination is subject to appeal to the Convention.

Nancy M. Vedral, Northern Illinois University, chairs the Memorial Resolutions Committee, which has compiled the names of individuals associated with intercollegiate athletics who died during 1985. A report memorializing these individuals will be given during the Convention.

The Voting Committee, which is chaired by Donald G. Combs, Eastern Kentucky University, is responsible for counting votes when called on by NCAA President John R. Davis. It is composed of at least one member from each district, with the chair appointed at large.

Faculty reps to meet

NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers, outgoing President John R. Davis and Secretary-Treasurer Wilford S. Bailey are scheduled to speak during the third Faculty Athletics Representatives Forum, which will be held January 6 in San Diego.

Byers will provide the group with an overview of intercollegiate athletics' immediate problems and challenges. Davis will cover the work of the NCAA Council and Executive Committee, and Bailey will discuss progress on the revision of the NCAA Manual.

ference institutions sponsoring it intend to move to refer it to the Presidents Commission.

General

Attempts to reduce Division I coaching staffs in football and basketball are controversial but also fall into the package of cost-related proposals that may or may not be withdrawn and reviewed for consideration at a special Convention. Those are Nos. 135, 136 and 138.

Eligibility

The Big Sky Conference is back again with its concept of permitting five years of college athletics eligibility, rather than four. That is No. 145.

Note

Information regarding voting-paddle colors, Convention badges and NCAA Convention history—which has been included in the Convention issue of The NCAA News in recent years—now appears as appendices in the Convention Program.

164 chief executive officers preregister for NCAA Convention

More than 160 presidents and chancellors of NCAA member institutions had preregistered for the 81st annual NCAA Convention as of December 29, and the total undoubtedly will increase prior to the opening of the Convention in San Diego.

As of December 29, a total of 164 CEOs had appointed themselves as voting, alternate or visiting delegates. On a comparable date last year, 193 chief executives had preregistered, although this year's number is well over the 131 who preregistered for the 1985 Convention.

The all-time high for actual CEO attendance at a Convention (as opposed to preregistration) is 199 at the special Convention called by the NCAA Presidents Commission in June 1985.

Among the 164 preregistered for San Diego's gathering are 103 from Division I (44 from Division I-A, 36 from I-AA and 23 from I-AAA). There are 40 Division II CEOs preregistered, and 21 representing Division III.
