Bills seek to restore tax deduction for donations

By Jack L. Copeland
Assistant Editor
The NCAA News

Efforts are under way again in Congress to reverse a 1986 Internal Revenue Service ruling that limits tax deductions for contributions to collegiate athletics programs.

However, a New Jersey congressman has reintroduced his own legislation to eliminate deductions for donations to an institution that fails to graduate at least 75 percent of its student-athletes.

Identical bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas, and in the Senate by Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, that would restore tax deductions to donors who receive preferential seating at athletics events.

The bills (H.R. 1106 and S. 74) would prohibit the IRS from disallowing otherwise qualified charitable contributions to an "institution of higher education" if the donor receives "the right to seating or the right to purchase seating in an athletics stadium" of that institution.

The legislation is similar to a bill introduced last year in Congress by Sen. David Pryor, D-Arkansas. Pryor is listed as a cosponsor of the new Senate bill.

"I have introduced H.R. 1106 to allow a charitable deduction for contributions to college and university athletics programs even if the donors receive preferential seating," Pickle said in a statement to The NCAA News. "I believe we should encourage private donations to collegiate athletics programs and that colleges should be allowed to continue their tradition of offering an incentive in the form of allowing donors to purchase tickets on a preferred basis."

"I hope that with the support of colleges and universities throughout the country, we will be able to re-establish this traditional means of encouraging support for athletics programs," Pickle said.

Introduction of the bills is the latest in a series of actions that began in 1984, when the IRS issued a ruling essentially eliminating any deduction for contributions that resulted in the donor receiving rights to prime seating at collegiate athletics events.

That initial IRS ruling threatened what was estimated at more than $100 million a year in contributions to athletics programs.

Because of objections by the NCAA and other organizations and institutions, the IRS withheld the ruling for public hearings. An administrative hearing on the ruling was held in January 1985, and the IRS issued a revised ruling early last year.

In the revised ruling, the IRS said in effect that a deduction can be claimed only for the portion of a donation beyond the amount for which the "right" to buy seats would sell.

The ruling required colleges to make a reasonable estimate of the

Bylaw 5-1-(j) explained in brochure

A brochure designed to provide a basic understanding of the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 5-1-(j) has been distributed to Division I member institutions.

The NCAA Academic Requirements Committee, meeting in Tucson, Arizona, February 26-27, emphasized the importance of having administrators, admissions officers, coaches and academic support personnel understand the guidelines for eligibility of freshman student-athletes.

The brochure includes definitions, requirements and interpretations of core curriculum and test scores.

In related action, the committee, chaired by Clifford F. Sjogren of the University of Michigan, approved the simplification of form 48-H, which must be completed by high schools for the implementation of Bylaw 5-1-(j).

The committee also referred to the NCAA Council a proposal from the Big Ten Conference that the NCAA national office serve as a clearinghouse for the submission of form 48-H by high schools.

In other action, the Academic Requirements Committee:

- Determined that art and vocational courses, while valuable, are not basic to other curricula and cannot function as core courses.

- Ruled that freshmen who transfer

Convention agenda awaits CEO survey results

The Presidents Commission's Ad Hoc Committee on Institutional Responsibility will meet one more time before it completes its recommendations to the full Commission for legislation to be considered at the special Convention in June.

Meeting March 2 in Arlington, Virginia, the ad hoc committee—chaired by Chancellor Ira Michael Heyman, University of California, Berkeley—reviewed reports from two NCAA Council subcommittees and from the new organization of Division I-A athletics directors, as well as the items in the survey of Division I chief executives that currently is being conducted for the Commission by the American Institutes for Research.

The ad hoc committee reached two conclusions:

- It does not want to make final decisions regarding Convention legislation until the results of the CEO survey are available late this month.

- It considers its deliberation in this regard—including the reports received from the Council committees—totally confidential. No announcement of the materials reviewed or any deliberations will be made until after the Commission's April 2 meeting.

The committee agreed to meet during the evening of April 1 in Greenbelt, Maryland. By then, the results of the survey of presidents will be available. The committee will make its final decisions that evening regarding the legislation it will recommend to the full Commission, which meets the next day.

Eugene F. Corrigan, director of athletics at the University of Notre Dame and chair of the Council's ad hoc committee to assist the Commission, and Mikki Flowers, associate athletics director at Old Dominion University and chair of the Council Subcommittee to Review Playing Seasons, have been invited to attend the April 1 evening session.

Both of them also appeared at the March 2 session, as did Homer C. Rice, chair of the Division I-A athletics directors' group.

After the Commission's meeting adjourns April 2, Chancellor John B. Slaughter, chair of the Commission, will conduct a press conference to announce the Commission's decisions regarding the special Convention. A full report on those decisions also will appear in the April 8 issue of The NCAA News.

April 30 is the deadline for submission of legislation for consideration at the special Convention.

Council will fill committee vacancies in April

Vacancies on the NCAA Nominating Committee and Men's and Women's Committees on Committees will be filled by the Council during that group's April 13-15 meeting in Kansas City. Member institutions are invited to submit nominations for these vacancies, which must be received in the NCAA national office by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, no later than April 1.

Following is a list of those whose terms expire, including those eligible and not eligible for reelection. Committee members' divisions, districts or regions are in parentheses:

Men's Committee on Committees (three-year term with no reelection)—Four expirations. Not eligible for reappointment: Kenneth A. Free, Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (I-3); Michael T. Johnson, University of Houston (I-6); Dennis J. Keihn, California State University, Los Angeles (II-at large); John L. Spring, Oswego State University College (III-at large).

Chair to be selected from among members who will be in the last year of their terms: James W. Lessig, Mid-American Athletic Conference (I-4); Noel W. Olson, North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (II-5); Allen F. Ackerman, Elmhurst College (III-at large); Roy F. Kramer, Vanderbilt University (I-at large).

Women's Committee on Committees (three-year term with no reelection)—Four expirations. Not eligible for reelection: P. LaVerne Sweat, Hampton University (II-2); Karen L. Womack, Miami University (Ohio), (I-4); Eve Atkinson, Temple University (I-at large); Sheila Brewer, Macalester College (III-at large).

Chair to be selected from among members who will be in the last year of their terms: Mary Lou Thomas, Bridgewater State College (Massachusetts) (III-1); Rosemary Fri, University of Northern Colorado (II-5); Margie McDonald, High Country

Athletic Conference (I-7); Kay Don, California State University, Long Beach (I-8).

Nominating Committee—One-year terms; limit of three in a five-year period. Sixteen members, at least one from each district. Four members must be Council members whose terms to not expire in January 1988 (two from Division I and one each from Divisions II and III). Chair must be selected from among the four Council representatives. Members are listed below by division and region:

Division I—Eight members, including at least two women. There must be two members from each Division I Council representation region. Eligible for reappointment only if selected as one of the Council representatives: Kathleen M. Wear-McNally, La Salle University (I-Region 1). Eligible for reappointment if all bylaw requirements are met: Edward Leland, Dartmouth College (I-Region 1); Nelson E. Townsend, Florida A&M University (I-Region 2); Richard M. Bay, Ohio State University (I-Region 3); John P. Mahlstede, Iowa State University (I-Region 3); Barbara B. Hollmann, University of Montana (I-Region 4). Not eligible for reelection: Cecil W. Ingram, Florida State University (I-Region 2); Fred Jacoby, Southwest Athletic Conference (I-Region 4).

Division II—Four members, including at least one woman; one from each Division II Council representation region. Eligible for reappointment if selected as one of the Council representatives: Sandra T. Shuler, North Carolina Central University (II-2). Eligible for reappointment if all bylaw requirements are met: George M. MacDonald, Grand Valley State College (II-Region 3); Edwin W. Lawrence, University of Alaska, Fairbanks (II-Region 4). ## Letters to the Editor

SMU's penalty was too severe

To the Editor:

I am shocked at the severity of the penalty assessed Southern Methodist University. It seems the Committee on Infractions has forgotten the Southwest Conference, SMU's full cooperation in reporting all findings and, most importantly, the student-athletes at SMU.

I always have believed that the well-being of the student-athletes has been central to our efforts as administrators and coaches. By handing down this severe penalty, the committee has ignored the academic and athletics goals of the student-athletes. At the same time, a former SMU recruit who accepted $5,000, a job for his father and an apartment for his family continues unscathed and playing at another NCAA Division I school. Is this justice?

I strongly urge the committee and the executive director of the NCAA to review this penalty. Let's give strong consideration to the innocent student-athletes, the honest effort of the SMU administration and the Southwest Conference.

The committee has set precedents in reviewing and rescinding other penalties. Why not review this one and provide the student-athletes an opportunity to play, the conference an opportunity to fulfill its schedule and SMU a chance to succeed?

Shirkers use NCAA rule as excuse

To the Editor:

As a prosecutor in the child-support enforcement program, I am constantly finding that male scholarship athletes avoid their child-support obligation by relying on the NCAA rule that these athletes may not hold jobs during the school year.

Has the NCAA considered this unjust side effect of the "no-work" rule? Most young men look up to scholarship athletes, and this certainly is not the type of behavior we want to encourage. This country is facing a crisis in child-support enforcement and it certainly would help if the NCAA would allow its male athletes to honor their statutory and court-ordered child-support obligations.

Four years is too long to wait

To the Editor:

This letter is in regard to an article by Rick Bozich, a columnist from the Louisville Courier-Journal. It is entitled "Give Proposition 48 time to take effect," which appeared in The NCAA News February 11, 1987.

The article states: "Let Proposition 48 have four years to take effect." This would not be beneficial to let the student who cannot handle both the workload in school and the workload of the athletics schedule to continue with athletics if the school work is so much below standards.

The student should be able to take a workload of credits to stay a full-time student and be able to meet maximum standards of the school. When the athlete does not meet the minimum standards, he or she will be suspended from the team until he or she meets the minimum standards set by the school.

If what you are saying is that Proposition 48 has four years to take effect, then the student who is suffering in school work would not be getting the education that he or she is entitled to.

The real reasons for knee injuries

To the Editor:

Your February 18, 1987, edition featured an article about football knee braces. It indicated the braces have not proved successful in reducing the probability of injury. The article stated that "approximately six to 11 percent of collegiate players will be injured (knees) each season."

I believe that one of the most significant factors in the increased frequency of football knee injuries is the extensive use of weights for conditioning and body-building. The body mass and muscle strength have been developed disproportionate to the strength and flexibility of the knee joint. It seems obvious that the knee joint is the weak link between the lower leg and massive thigh muscles.

Other factors that would seem to contribute to this type of injury are artificial turf, hard-molded helmets and free substitution.

The artificial surfaces have less "give" and permit greater speed. Natural grass permits cleated shoes to break away from the surface under stress. In contrast, shoes are designed to enhance traction on a hard, unyielding artificial playing surface.

Artificial surfaces enhance speed, and greater speed plus larger body mass will increase the likelihood for injury to both players upon contact.

Hard-molded helmets may provide better head protection than the leather helmets of 40 years ago. However, the old helmets had more "give" and could absorb great stress upon impact. If you wore a leather helmet and did not have a face guard, you would be wise not to attempt to use your head as a weapon. The face guard may cause more injuries than it prevents.

The plastic helmet clearly is more dangerous upon impact to the kneecap than a more absorbent leather helmet. The plastic helmet also is more likely to cause neck injury than a leather "hat" that gives upon impact.

A special-teams player on the kickoff often is like a driver who is out of control at high speed on an icy road. This speed is partly possible because of the free-substitution rule. If an athlete were playing both offense and defense, it is unlikely that he would have the energy or inclination to be a sprinter on a

Greek warning on using 'medicine' in athletics deserving of attention

By Maury White
Des Moines Sunday Register

"Athletes should be freed from the use of clay and mud and other irksome medicine."

— Philostratus

An observer of the athletics scene in Greece wrote the above words 200 years after Christ was born, making you wonder just how each substance was being misused. Was mud being sucked into the nose through a reed? Was clay being shaped into pills and sold as a magic elixir guaranteed to make wrestlers bigger and stronger?

Answers to those questions won't be available here. But recently, John Toner and Don Catlin, M.D., emphatically told a gathering of football coaches and sportswriters in Kansas City that sniffing cocaine and taking anabolic steroids are dirtier practices than wallowing in mud ever was or ever will be.

Toner, the athletics director at the University of Connecticut, is head of the NCAA's drug-testing committee. Catlin is the head of the UCLA laboratory, one of two in North America with the sophisticated equipment and trained personnel needed to actually ferret out steroid use. UCLA became a leader in the field because of subsidy by the U.S. Olympic Committee to do the testing for the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

"This is not routine chemistry. Only the large drug companies have similar equipment. And it's one thing to have the equipment, then find anabolic steroids use with it," said Catlin. "There are seven or eight known steroids in the United States. Worldwide, we know of 84."

The 35 percent of member schools doing on-campus testing quickly spot cocaine, alcohol and marijuana abuse. That ol' debbil steroid often evades local testing. So, at a cost of about $275 each, the NCAA had the UCLA lab test 1,047 athletes during fall sports and bowl games. Of 32 positives, over half involved steroids.

Every person intelligent enough to be admitted to college knows deep down that cocaine and marijuana don't help an athlete's career. Same with alcohol. The insidious thing about steroids is that many ill-informed athletes are convinced they do benefit by using massive doses of dangerous substance that helps 'em become bigger, stronger and more aggressive.

Do steroids enhance performance: "I think they do, taken in those kinds of doses," said Catlin, who has dealt with thousands of athletes. "But speaking as a professional who relies on the medical literature as a source of fact, I have to say there's little evidence that they do. Placebos are

"It wouldn't be hard to take a small percentage of that and set it aside for the participants. We could tell them, 'This will be here to help you complete your education.' What would be wrong with that? We ought to say, 'Hey, for what you've done for us, we're setting aside some of this television money for you to complete your education. Or, if you want to go to graduate school after your eligibility is over, we're going to help you.'"

Excerpted from an editorial

"A perfect example of overkill was demonstrated by the NCAA at the recent January Convention when it suddenly, mysteriously hobbled Division III baseball with a 40-game limit.

"NCAA Division III baseball coaches are perturbed because they have been singled out for what seems to be an unreasonable punishment.

"Marietta coach Don Schaly calls the restrictive NCAA legislation totally ridiculous.

"Since the Ohio Athletic Conference already has a limitation of 30 games, exclusive of spring vacation, Marietta will be forced to play eight or 10 games fewer while on vacation.

"In other words, the new NCAA legislation simply is telling us we can't play as many games during vacation days. This will have no effect on classes missed. Again, it's ridiculous."

"Kevin Cooney of Montclair State said, 'There are very few Division III schools that schedule more than 40 games anyway. So we were made an example in a show of power.'

"Many schools already are restricted as to the number of classes that can be missed during a season. So the latest legislation, in that respect, is meaningless."

NCAA has resources to solve athletics problems

By Wilford S. Bailey
NCAA President

"There is no such thing as a problem without a gift for you in its hands. You seek problems because you need their gifts."

In these words, Richard Bach ("Illusions: The Adventure of a Reluctant Messiah") gives poignant expression to a philosophy most of us have difficulty in comprehending in our youth, but one that is confirmed by the totality of life's experiences, viewed in retrospect in one's later years.

Problems present opportunities. The measure of persons and organizations is determined in large part by their ability to recognize the opportunities in those problems and by the commitment and courage with which they are grasped.

If these points have validity, and I believe they do, colleges and universities have the opportunity for contributions to society far beyond those associated with our primary mission of discovering, refining and transmitting knowledge. The problems of intercollegiate athletics that have tarnished the image of higher education are the problems of our society generally, grown big by lack of adequate attention and brought increasingly to our attention in the spotlight of public opinion, which has an intensity fueled by the fascination of our society for sports.

Confronted with such problems, the NCAA has been neither unconcerned nor impotent, as some would have us believe. As with any major, complex social ill, there are no easy answers, no magic solutions, no effective quick fixes.

In his concluding remarks at the close of our Convention in January (see the February 18 issue of The NCAA News), Jack Davis has given us an incisive summary of the significant progress that has been made in addressing such major issues as academic credibility of member institutions, the academic welfare of student-athletes, the integrity of our sports programs generally, and the recent initiative to reduce drug abuse among student-athletes, designed to promote equity of competition and the health and welfare of participants. These issues shall continue to receive the most careful attention as we move to address others with equal vigor, while striving to provide optimum opportunities for athletics competition for men and women in all our institutions.

It is most appropriate that institutional responsibility and balance between athletics and other institutional programs have been identified by the Presidents Commission as the theme for the special Convention called for June to address such specific problems as cost containment, recruiting, and length of playing and practice seasons. Having addressed some of the more urgent specific problems, we are moving now to the proper holistic approach to those and other related problems.

As I reflect on the privilege accorded me of serving as president of our Association in such an exciting time, I want to articulate my goals for the next two years, with primary emphasis on "process" as we continue to address specific program needs. I believe we have an adequate understanding of those needs and that our success will depend in large part on the effectiveness of the process with which we address our problems—grasp our opportunities—at this critical juncture in the history of intercollegiate athletics.

To illustrate the adequacy of the resources available to us for effectively addressing the problems of college sports, I want to use an analogy from my background in the biomedical sciences—the body's immune system, which, when functioning normally, is remarkably effective in protecting against disease.

The following features of that system have particular relevance for us:

1. The diversity of the components of the system and the specificity of their roles;
2. The elaborate communication network that achieves effective communication not only among components of the system, but also with other systems vital to the health and normal functioning of the body, and
3. The cooperative interaction of the components of the system that makes it effective in protecting the body against disease.

Some cells of the immune system have the highly specialized role of recognizing the foreign invader. A sophisticated communication network then is stimulated to evoke responses from other cells in that system. The fact that one of the specialized components of the system is referred to by the name "helper cell" is evidence of the cooperative interaction characteristic of the system, which is a striking example of a highly sophisticated hierarchy and bureaucracy of cooperating components.

Diminished responsiveness of one component impairs the system, and there are many ways in which it can malfunction. Daily media reports about AIDS make us painfully aware of the results of the most extreme example of impairment of function of cells essential for normal immunological responsiveness of the complex system.

With the adjustments of recent years, we have, I am confident, an adequate hierarchy of components in the Association, in conferences and in our institutions with which to address effectively the problems of intercollegiate athletics. But they must be called forth and respond as a cooperative and integrated system, with each component fulfilling its specific responsibility.

Proper modulation of this system will bring far greater success than we have thus far achieved. I sense a desire and willingness on the part of the membership to join together in cooperative effort to address our problems more effectively and thus to take advantage of the opportunities they provide. The interaction under way between a special Council subcommittee and the Presidents Commission's Ad Hoc Committee on Institutional Responsibility in preparation for the special Convention in June is but one striking example of this.

I am especially eager to promote more effective communication and cooperation among the Association, conferences and member institutions to achieve a true partnership in compliance and enforcement founded on institutional control.

Regardless of the abundance of resources available, or the potential effectiveness of the process we have in place to address our problems, there is an essential ingredient that must be present throughout the system if we are to succeed: integrity. An observation by Lewis Thomas, the distinguished contemporary physician and author, is particularly appropriate:

"Integrity is the most personal of qualities. Groups and societies cannot possess it until individual mortals have it in hand; it is hard work for civilization."

Integrity in intercollegiate athletics is indeed work, and it can be realized only when individual mortals involved in all phases of our endeavor have it in hand.

The NCAA is in unique position to make immeasurable contributions to society, far beyond the bounds of higher education. Working together in full cooperation and committing ourselves to becoming models of committed integrity, we can succeed. We must not fail.

I am grateful to the NCAA membership for the privilege of serving as your president at such an exciting and challenging time.

known to enhance performance, too."

What is being discovered, in disturbing figures, is that the cost to users includes masculinization in women, decreased spermatogenesis in men, liver and cardiovascular problems, and, possibly, cancer. And that's just the short list.

While individuals may decide drug-taking is worth the risk, the NCAA is determined to restore limiting competition to nonchemically "improved" humans, and those not using stimulants. Over 75 drugs are specifically taboo. While only athletes are being tested now, coaches and officials likely will be soon.

Drug testing is expensive and there are inequities. Currently, a winning high jumper testing positive in the NCAA meet would be stripped of the award and his points, which might cost his school the team title.

So far in team sports, only the guilty drug user is penalized. But the 1988 NCAA Convention in January will vote on a recommendation that a positive drug test for one athlete "who plays a significant role and influences a team's success materially" would rule out the entire team from a bowl game or championship event—or cause a victory to be taken away.

One wrong urine sample and, say, Iowa might have to hold a January 1 scrimmage at the 1989 Rose Bowl because a Pac-10 player had been belatedly caught. Another wrong urine sample might make the Final Four the Final Three.

There'll be some awesome hassles if the penalty is extended to cover teams. I can foresee lawsuits on the definition of a "significant role." I can foresee network television executives going berserk, finding out in the afternoon they've been sniffed out of a championship game that night.

But I can also foresee great peer pressure to keep the gung ho types from jeopardizing the team success by using drugs. I can foresee any coaches who have turned their heads, knowing steroid use was going on, suddenly playing strict attention.

My golly, optimist that I am, I can even foresee young people with athletics aspirations paying attention to their mommies, daddies, doctors and coaches on what should be sucked, chewed or injected into their bodies, instead of taking stupid advice from an ignorant so-called friend.

Philostratus still makes sense.

A freshman at Tulane turns a negative into a positive

By Dave Lagarde
The New Orleans Times-Picayune

Freshman James Toney is the first to admit there was a cloud of uncertainty hanging over him when he enrolled at Tulane University in August.

Toney's cloud, seeded by the NCAA had a name. It was called Proposition 48.

Toney, a gifted wide receiver from Archbishop Shaw High School, said he thought Proposition 48 was the equivalent of Excedrin headache No. 1, an academic nuisance that would keep him away from his pursuit of happiness—playing football, something he had done every fall for 10 years.

"I was depressed before school started. I really believed that Proposition 48 was a setback for me," Toney said. "I guess I was wrong."

Now that he has removed the cloud, Toney will always remember his first semester at Tulane—for all the right reasons. He turned a possible negative experience into a positive one.

Toney could have pouted. He could have moaned about his misfortune. Instead, he counted his blessings. He applied himself and proved he could make the right moves in a college classroom as well as on a football field. He took 17 hours. He made a 2.890 grade-point average.

Toney, who admitted he wasn't the best student in high school, said Proposition 48 is partly responsible for his first-semester report card. "It gave me the incentive to study," he said.

That's what the NCAA had in mind when it adopted Proposition 48.

Although he tried twice, a 14 was the best Toney could score on the ACT. He became one of Proposition 48's first statistics. He will become eligible if he maintains a cumulative 2.000 average for fall and spring.

"Being away from football made me realize how much I love it and how much I miss it," Toney said.

It also made him realize the importance of getting an education.

"I've got three sisters who have college degrees," Toney said. "So I knew I had to get an education. But I have to admit, getting that education was somewhere in the back of my mind. When I found out I couldn't play football, I think (getting an education) shot up to the front."

"This whole experience has been good. It's allowed me to budget my time. I can make sure I get everything done as far as school work is concerned. I don't know if I would have done that if I would have been at football practice every day."

Toney is one of four Tulane freshmen who were sidelined by Proposition 48.

"It's nice to see those guys walking around campus with smiles on their faces," Tulane coach Mack Brown said. "They've taken the proper classes and done well. It's helped their self-image outside of their athletics accomplishments."

That is not to say that all went smoothly during the first semester.

"Oh, I had my days when I'd get depressed," Toney said. "Whenever I did, I'd get a tape from one of Shaw's games during my senior year. I click it in and it would help."

Working out also helped ease some of Toney's frustration. He hit the Tulane weight room hard. When he enrolled, he weighed 155 pounds. He is pushing 170 now.

And he is still pushing hard in the classroom.

He is counting the days until fall football practice begins at Tulane. He is confident he will be there and that he will be prepared physically and academically.

kickoff. By playing more under control, it seems that impacts would be reduced and quick turns that place pressure on joints would be less stressful.

Free substitution permits such specialization that a player can minimize fatigue and will be encouraged to play at "full speed."

The NCAA will be hosting a special cost-containment convention in Dallas in June 1987. The theme is the economic aspects of sports. If limited substitution were to return, it clearly would reduce the need for such large squads and 95 scholarships. It is my view that it also would have a positive effect by reducing career-ending injuries and would permit athletes to enjoy the satisfaction of playing both offense and defense.

I believe that a survey of college athletes who played in the 1940s and early 1950s would show a lower incident of knee injuries than their counterparts today. If so, there must be predictable reasons for that variance.

Action was step in right direction

To the Editor:

I applaud the NCAA's action in the SMU case. I believe that this was a giant step in the right direction for college athletics.

It is wrong, however, for the SMU players to be allowed to transfer to other schools with immediate eligibility. What price are they paying for blatant rules violations? Why should the ones who took the money be allowed to walk off to bigger and better places to continue playing football? They should have to stay at SMU and pay the consequences. The players who took the money should be punished, not given a free pass to the next highest bidder.

In fact, the universities that recruit these players should be immediately investigated. Why should these young men change their ways? I'm sure they will approach every recruiting visit with their hands out.

Legislative Assistance

1987 Column No. 11

Limitations on out-of-season practice

NCAA Bylaw 3-4-(b) stipulates that postseason practice in basketball shall be prohibited. The provisions of O.I. 311 define postseason practice as any practice or instruction in a sport held after the last game of any institution's playing season and before the first day of the practice season for the next ensuing year. Postseason practice does not include practice for any established event (e.g., the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship or the postseason National Invitation Tournament), participation in which is not prohibited by the NCAA, provided such practice is limited to students eligible for that event. It should be noted, however, that a member institution not selected for participation in such postseason competition may not continue to conduct practice sessions after the last game of the institution's regular-season basketball schedule.

Part-time coach—expenses

The Division I subcommittee of the Legislation and Interpretations Committee has reviewed inquiries from several member institutions concerning the payment of expenses for part-time assistant basketball coaches to attend the 1987 National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) convention. The subcommittee determined that this type of expense would be considered an acceptable employee benefit available under similar circumstances to other institutional employees. Accordingly, the subcommittee concluded that it would be permissible for a Division I member institution to provide actual and necessary expenses for its part-time assistant basketball coach to attend the 1987 NABC convention.

Undergraduate student-athlete coach

The provisions of Bylaw 7-1-(c)-(2) permit a Division I member institution to utilize (under certain specified conditions) an undergraduate student-athlete as a coaching assistant in football or basketball. One of the applicable conditions is that the undergraduate student-athlete receive no compensation or remuneration of any sort from the institution other than the financial aid received by the individual as a student-athlete. The Division I subcommittee of the Legislation and Interpretations Committee has reviewed this regulation and noted that the restrictions in Bylaw 7-1-(c)-(2) would preclude a member institution from providing the use of an automobile to an undergraduate student-athlete coach to entertain a prospective student-athlete during an official paid visit to the institution's campus.

Number of expense-paid visits

The Legislation and Interpretations Committee has reviewed the application of O.I. 106, which indicates that the limitations on total visits set forth in Bylaw 1-9 (i.e., that a prospect may accept not more than one expense-paid visit to not more than five member institutions) would apply separately to the period in which the prospect is in high school and to the period beginning with the prospect's enrollment in a college preparatory school or junior college. The committee concluded that the principle in O.I. 106 would relate to two separate periods of time and permit a total of no more than 10 paid visits for a prospect. In other words, the opportunity to visit five member institutions exists when the prospect is in high school, and the opportunity to make five additional visits exists if the prospect enrolls in a college preparatory school or junior college, or transfers from a four-year college. The committee noted that a transfer student under such circumstances would be considered a prospective student-athlete per Case No. 183 (1986-87 NCAA Manual) and could receive a paid visit only if it is counted within the five-visit limitation for the period following the completion of high school enrollment.

Bills

value of the right to buy preferred seating before a donor could claim a deduction. Although the IRS suggested that a college can consider such factors as the level of demand for tickets in estimating the value, it offered no method as to how demand itself can be valued.

Believing that the revised ruling still would discourage donations to athletics programs, universities and colleges turned to Congress seeking legislation that would overturn the IRS decision.

Efforts to reverse the ruling in the Tax Reform Bill of 1986 proved unsuccessful, but two members of Congress—Pickle and recently retired Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana—were able to insert a "transition rule" into the final legislation that granted special exemptions from the ruling for the University of Texas, Austin, and Louisiana State University.

The maneuver by Pickle and Long, although criticized heavily, probably has helped keep alive hopes for overturning the IRS ruling. However, Pickle recently agreed to accept amendments to the tax code that will eliminate the exemptions for Texas and Louisiana State.

"It is obviously unfair for only two schools to be exempted from this ruling and that was never anyone's intention," Pickle said. "There is agreement among Congressional leaders to remove the limited exemption from the tax code because all athletics programs should be treated the same."

Should the new Pickle-Gramm measure pass, donors to athletics programs could save an estimated $10 million a year, according to The New York Times. The measure would apply to amounts contributed in taxable years beginning January 1, 1984.

But even if the Pickle-Gramm measure succeeds, legislation introduced in January by Rep. James Howard, D-New Jersey, threatens the deductibility of athletics contributions from another angle.

Howard reintroduced a measure he originally proposed unsuccessfully in 1985 that would tie an athletics program's tax-deduction status to the graduation rate of its student-athletes on scholarship.

Titled the "College Education and Protection Act of 1987" (H.R. 335), the bill would require 75 percent of student-athletes receiving athletics scholarships for three or more years to graduate in a period of five academic years, in order for an institution to retain its tax-deduction status.

"In far too many instances, our colleges and universities have become training grounds for professional teams, instead of institutions for higher education," Howard told members of the House as he introduced his bill.

He said the legislation is needed because the NCAA has taken no action to require member institutions to graduate scholarship athletes.

In the past, Howard has criticized the NCAA for holding high schools responsible for the admissibility of student-athletes to college through Bylaw 5-1-(j), while saying "nothing about the type of education the athletes will receive once they arrive on a college campus."

"While the NCAA may feel no need to take any corrective action, I don't see why the Federal government should continue to play a role in the exploitation of athletes," he told House members.

Howard also disputes studies cited by the NCAA showing that athletes and nonathletes graduate at comparable rates. The NCAA has opposed Howard's legislation in part on the grounds that, according to the studies, only about 50 percent of scholarship student-athletes receive degrees.

"Some criticized my bill by saying that the Federal government should not get involved in this issue," Howard told the House. "I suppose they feel government involvement is acceptable when it subsidizes fund-raising activities. The fact is that government is already involved."

"All I am saying is the Federal government has every right to ensure that a tax deduction is being used in the manner in which it is intended," said Howard, who questioned whether contributions to an athletics department truly meet the legal requirement that they be used to "advance" education.

"The time has arrived for Congress to reconsider whether this particular deduction is warranted or deserved."

Howard's bill, if passed in its present form, would be effective after 1992 for student-athletes who begin school after June 30 of this year.

Howard's bill was referred to the House Ways and Means Committee for consideration, as was Pickle's legislation. Gramm's bill was assigned to the Senate Finance Committee.

Legislation and Interpretations Committee minutes

[Note: In accordance with Proposal No. 5 at the 1987 annual NCAA Convention, the NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee now is the body that makes interpretations of NCAA legislation in the interim between meetings of the Council. Interpretations relating only to a single division are handled by that division's representatives on the committee. Members of the committee were listed in the January 27, 1987, issue of The NCAA News. All interpretations and related actions taken by the committee will be reported in this column in The NCAA News.]

Conference No. 3 February 19, 1987

Acting for the Council, the Legislation and Interpretations Committee:

1. Granted a waiver per Bylaw 1-9-(d)-(1) to permit a member institution's women's tennis team to consider matches played at a substitute "home" site (located more than 30 miles from the institution's campus) as on-campus competition for the remainder of the 1987 season, noting that the substitute site is being utilized for reasons beyond the control of the institution and that although a prospective student-athlete may attend competition at that site during the prospect's official visit, no other entertainment of the prospect would be permitted outside a 30-mile radius of the institution's campus.

2. Determined that Constitution 3-1-(e) would prohibit a member institution's athletics team from appearing for promotional purposes at a movie theater (for the opening night of the showing of a commercial film) to raise money (through the sale of tickets to see the film) for a charitable organization, inasmuch as the theater initiated and advertised the involvement of the charitable organization and thus would be considered a cosponsor of the event, noting that under such circumstances, the student-athletes' attendance would constitute a promotion of a commercial product.

3. Agreed that the provisions of Constitution 2-2-(a) would prohibit a member institution from hosting and promoting an athletics contest between two professional teams in an attempt to generate revenue for the institution, noting that an alumni organization of the university would be considered indistinguishable from the institution in the promotion of this activity; referred to the Council the recommendation that an institution may not promote an athletics contest between individual professional players in order to generate revenue for the institution.

4. Confirmed that the provisions of Constitution 3-1-(h)-(1) require that all student-athletes, whether countable or exempted under NCAA financial aid limitations, receive identical meal allowances on intercollegiate athletics trips; suggested that the Council review the recommendation that as a maximum limit student-athletes be allotted a per diem that does not exceed the equivalent of that amount provided by the institution to institutional staff members on similar trips.

5. Determined that the application of O.I. 106, permitting a prospective student-athlete to receive one expense-paid visit to not more than five member institutions, would relate to two separate periods of time and permit a total of no more than 10 paid visits for a prospect (i.e., the opportunity to visit five member institutions exists when the prospect is in high school, and the opportunity to make five additional visits exists if the prospect enrolls in a college preparatory school or junior college, or transfers from a four-year college); noted that a transfer student would be considered a prospective student-athlete per Case No. 183 and could receive a paid visit only if it is counted within the five-visit limitation for the period following high school enrollment.

6. Confirmed that the provisions of Bylaws 1-9-(f) and (m) would not permit (under the specified regulation) a member institution to provide prospective student-athletes, high school coaches, college preparatory school coaches and junior college coaches with season passes to all of the institution's home contests, inasmuch as the receipt of a season pass would constitute an improper inducement and benefit to the prospective student-athletes and coaches; agreed that such complimentary admissions must be provided on a game-by-game basis to prospective student-athletes and coaches.

7. Determined that the provisions of Case No. 132 would permit a student-athlete who utilizes an off-campus living facility for a rental fee that is less than the amount determined as that individual's board allowance by the institution's office of financial aid (i.e., less than the average cost a student at that institution normally would incur living in off-campus facilities) to retain the additional money; concluded that the student-athlete may enter into a rental agreement with an athletics representative who owns the facility, provided the student-athlete is charged the rental fee normally required of other individuals utilizing such facilities.

8. Agreed that the provisions of Constitution 3-1-(g)-(5) and Case No. 24 would restrict a student-athlete's friends, relatives or legal guardians from receiving expenses from a professional athletics agent on the same basis that these regulations would preclude a student-athlete from receiving such expenses.

9. Determined that 1987 Convention Proposal No. 1, which affirmed that the annual, independent audit of a member institution's intercollegiate athletics program conducted for one fiscal year must be completed prior to the end of the institution's next fiscal year, would require even an institution that has an operating budget for intercollegiate athletics of less than $300,000 (per 1987 Convention Proposal No. 61) to complete its 1985-86 audit prior to the completion of the 1986-87 academic year, noting that Proposal No. 61 does not become effective until August 1, 1987; concluded that those institutions meeting the criteria of Proposal No. 61 would not be required to complete such audits for the 1986-87 academic year.

10. Agreed that the provisions of Case Nos. 67 and 291, as they relate to the issuance and retrieval of athletics equipment, permit a student-athlete to retain and utilize institutional athletics equipment (per the institution's normal equipment policy) during a summer vacation period without such action constituting the student-athlete's participation as a representative of the institution, provided the use of the equipment is the only criterion in Case No. 291 that is met under these circumstances.

11. Determined that the application of Constitution 3-1-(a)-(3) and O.I. 2 permits a summer sports camp to provide prospective student-athletes with actual and necessary expenses to attend a summer sports camp, provided the camp conducts organized competition in the sport for its participants.

12. (Divisions I and II) Concluded that for purposes of the missed-term exception of Case No. 332-(a), a student-athlete may not utilize hours earned while enrolled as a part-time student during the "missed term" in order to meet the satisfactory-progress requirements of Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(6); agreed that the institution shall not count the term(s) or any hours earned by the student-athlete as a part-time student during that period for purposes of the satisfactory-progress rule.

13. (Division I) Ruled that it is permissible per Bylaw 5-1-(j) for nonqualifiers in their first year of enrollment to be housed in athletics dormitories with student-athletes receiving athletically related financial aid, provided the nonqualifiers are not involved in any team meetings in the dormitory, do not receive any financial benefits made available to other athletes in the dormitory (e.g., free or discounted books) and pay the normal dormitory rate for any freshman student living in a similar on-campus facility.

14. (Division I) Determined that the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(5) require a nonqualifier, who attends a four-year institution less than one academic year and then transfers to another four-year institution, to serve not only one year of residence upon transfer, but also to remain ineligible to practice or receive financial aid for the one-year period following transfer.

15. (Division I) Concluded that 1987 Convention Proposal No. 63, amending Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2) and specifying that a nonqualifier or partial qualifier shall be entitled to three seasons of eligibility regardless of the individual's financial status during the first year of residence at the certifying institution, applies to recruited and nonrecruited prospective student-athletes; directed the staff to determine (based on past precedents) whether Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(3) should be amended to include the provisions of 1987 Convention Proposal No. 63; suggested that the Division I Steering Committee review this issue during its April meeting.

16. (Division I) Agreed that the provisions of Bylaw 5-6-(b)-(2) permit the NCAA Academic Requirements Committee to review on a case-by-case basis the application of Bylaw 5-1-(j) as it relates to high schools with grading systems that do not utilize any number or letter grades.

17. (Division I) Determined that the provisions of Bylaw 7-1-(e) permit a member institution to utilize temporarily (and pay) a volunteer coach in a full-time assistant coaching position under circumstances in which the regular full-time assistant coach has left the program; further, that the volunteer coach then may return to his original position once another permanent full-time assistant coach is employed by the institution.

18. (Division I) Recommended that the Division I Steering Committee review the application of Bylaw 1-5-(f)-(3) to determine whether club funds may be utilized by Division I member institutions to transport prospective student-athletes to an institution's campus.

19. (Division I) Agreed that the committee has no authority to waive the provisions of Case No. 280, which establish criteria that shall be met for a student-athlete to qualify for an extension of the five-year eligibility rule, in a situation in which the student-athlete was unable to represent a member institution during his fifth year of enrollment because of his status as a transfer student; noted that any possible misunderstanding by the involved institutions as to the student-athlete's transfer status would not alter the committee's authority to waive the criteria of Case No. 280.

20. Determined that 1987 Convention Proposal No. 88, restricting the one annual athletics press guide or recruiting brochure to one color of printing inside the covers, prohibits a member institution from developing guides or brochures that include multicolor fold-out pages attached to the inside front cover or inside back cover. [NOTE: The discussion of this interpretation was initiated by the Division I subcommittee and then was reported to and approved by the chairs of the Divisions II and III subcommittees.]

team selected in balloting by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA).

The academic all-America team honors outstanding college athletes who also excel in the classroom. Members of CoSIDA select several academic all-America teams annually.

Following is a complete list of the 1987 GTE academic all-America

UNIVERSITY DIVISION

First Team: Front court—David Butler, California, 3.520 grade-point average (4.000 scale) in business administration; Arne Duncan, Harvard, 3.500 in sociology; Shon Morris, Northwestern, 3.460 in human development and social policy/organizational studies; Michael Smith, Brigham Young, 3.500 in premedicine. Back court—Harold Jensen, Villanova, 3.430 in finance; Patrick Witting, American, 3.990 in applied statistics/applied mathematics/computer.

Second Team: Front court—Steven Frick, George Washington, 3.500 in zoology/psychology/premedicine; Chad Kessler, Georgia, 3.700 in microbiology. Back court—Jeff Harris, Illinois State, 3.380 in chemistry/premedicine; Derek Rucker, Davidson, 3.270 in economics.

Third Team: Front court—Keith Balderston, Oregon, 3.750 in biology; Bret Holmdahl, Manhattan, 3.900 in electrical engineering; Richard Rogers, Western Carolina, 3.700 in chemistry. Backcourt—Paul Crawford,

Shon Morris

Steve Frick

Richard Rogers

Texas A&M, 3.850 in mechanical engineering; Scott Zanon, Montana, 3.200 in business management.

COLLEGE DIVISION

First Team: Front court—Brian Coderre, Illinois Wesleyan, 3.860 in accounting; David Galle, DePauw, 3.420 in economics; Kevin Locke, Denison, 3.800 in political science; Back court—Joe Fisher, Denver, 4.000 in finance/marketing; Jeff Fleming, Cornell College, 3.950 in economics/business.

Second Team: Front court—George Bent, Westfield State, 3.830 in computer science/mathematics; Paul Jackson, Washington (Missouri), 3.870 in systems science/mathematics; David Urbanek, Rose-Hulman, 3.300 in mechanical engineering. Back court—Brian Andrews, Alfred, 3.310 in computer science; Tom Clark, Mount Vernon Nazarene, 3.850 in computer science/mathematics.

Third Team: Front court—John Andrejko, Scranton, 3.300 in business; Brian Branson, Elon, 4.000 in accounting; Daniel Walsh, Dickinson, 3.590 in chemistry; Back court—Michael Erdos, Dickinson, 3.950 in Latin/mathematics; Brian Horst, Millikin, 3.860 in accounting.

Executive Regulations

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Executive Committee has adopted executive regulations consistent with the provisions of Constitution 6-3. Executive regulations may be amended at any annual or special Convention by a majority vote of the delegates present and voting in accordance with the procedures set forth in Bylaws 13-1, 13-2 and 13-3. Publication in this column of executive regulations adopted or revised by the Executive Committee constitutes official notice to the membership.

Regulations 1-2(d)(4) and (5), page 174, were revised as follows: (4) The Executive Committee will not consider an appeal of a decision of a governing sports committee, or a subcommittee designated by it, concerning questions of individual or institutional eligibility or the conduct of a championship at any time during the championship or 48 hours immediately preceding the beginning of a championship. During such period, the governing sports committee, or a subcommittee designated by it, shall be the final authority in acting upon appeals concerning the conduct of the championship, subject to the provisions of Executive Regulations 1-3 and 1-4 regarding institutional and individual eligibility questions.

(5) At no time will the Executive Committee or a governing sports committee consider an appeal of a decision of a governing sports committee, or a subcommittee designated by it, concerning selection of teams or individuals or their assignment in the championship competition, including determination of sites. (Revised February 11, 1987)

(b) Host institutions and sponsoring agencies shall provide primary comprehensive general public liability insurance coverage listing the NCAA as an additional insured, with combined single limits of at least $1 million per occurrence for bodily injury and property damage, and shall provide the NCAA national office with the appropriate insurance certificates. (Revised February 11, 1987)

Regulation 1-15, page 196, was revised as follows:

The NCAA owns or controls all rights and interests in its name, logo, seal, trademarks and service marks, whether registered or unregistered, including "The National Collegiate Athletic Association," "NCAA," "National Collegiate Championships," "NCAAAction!," "College Sports USA," "College World Series" and "Final Four." The NCAA will vigorously prosecute infringement of identical or confusingly similar marks. It is necessary for the NCAA to maintain control over the nature and quality of the goods and services rendered under the marks. Therefore, no use of the marks by others will be permitted in advertising, in association with commercial services or related to the sale of merchandise without the specific approval of the NCAA. (Revised February 11, 1987)

Regulation 1-16(b) and (d), page 196, were revised as follows:

(b) The NCAA owns the rights to all concession items other than food and drink sold at such events. Any merchandise or material to be sold at such events must have prior approval of the NCAA executive director, and any unapproved material shall be barred from the premises. (Rest of paragraph unchanged.)

(d) The NCAA may authorize others, including the host institution or the coaches organization for the sport involved in the particular event, to sell and distribute concession items. (Revised February 11, 1987)

Regulation 5-2(f), page 205, was revised as follows:

(f) If a player has not participated in the required 75 percent of his team's games but has the required minimum of returns or punts per game played, he is not be charged with the number of games necessary for qualification because it cannot be assumed that he will have maintained his average in the additional games. (NOTE: This is a new paragraph. Subsequent paragraphs should be relettered. Revised February 2, 1987)

Committee Notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations for interim vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancies must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA national office no later than April 1, 1987.

Men's and Women's Rifle: Replacement for Bill Cords, resigning from the University of Texas, El Paso. Appointee must be an administrator.

Research: Replacement for Gwendolyn Norrell, Michigan State University, retiring. Norrell also must be replaced as chair.

"Let's stop all the foolishness and get down to brass tacks. This country was made on opportunity; and if a coach has the ingenuity to create a private empire, what difference does it make—as long as he and his teams live by the rules of the particular university? That's the way it works for the rest of the campus citizenry."

"The point I'm trying to make is that as long as a coach lives within the image the school wishes to project, then what he does in his own time is nobody's business."

"So, let's stop it right now. Let's not take this outside-income thing a step further. A person's income is like his home, his castle; it's private, it's personal, and for some university president to receive that information through normal channels of secretaries and administrators—which is usually 18 levels, minimum—is outrageous."

Nevada-Las Vegas could set record

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Nevada-Las Vegas enters the 49th NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship with the field's best won-lost record and the 18th best in tournament history at 33-1. By reaching the championship game, Jerry Tarkanian's team can break the Division I record of 37 victories in a season set by Duke last season.

Duke finished second with a 37-3 record, breaking the mark of 36 set way back in 1948 by Kentucky's national champions. Nevada-Las Vegas can tie Duke's mark by reaching the Final Four.

Nevada-Las Vegas' .971 winning percentage has been surpassed in tournament history only by the 17 teams that entered the tournament undefeated. To put it another way, Tarkanian's team is in the upper 1.4 percent, because there have been 1,267 entrants.

Must counter the trend

Nevada-Las Vegas is the 45th team to enter the NCAA tournament with one loss. The first 44 won six championships and reached the Final Four 18 times, but the last once-beaten champion was North Carolina State in 1974. Since then, eight once-beaten entrants have fallen on hard times.

This trend has taken an alarming downward turn, with five of the last six once-beaten entrants upset in their first game. It will be a shock if Nevada-Las Vegas does not put an end to this, because its first game is with 15-15 Idaho State.

The first once-beaten entrant after 1974 was Tarkanian's 1976 team, 28-1, which bowed out in the second round with a 114-109 overtime loss to Arizona at Los Angeles. That same year, Al McGuire's Marquette team, 25-1 entering the tournament, missed the Final Four by one game, a 65-59 loss to Indiana's eventual national champions in the Midwest regional final at Baton Rouge.

Since then, it has been a 1-6 downhill slide for once-beaten entrants, with the only victory by Davey Whitney's 27-1 Alcorn State team in 1980, 70-62 over South Alabama in the first round, before losing to Louisiana State, 98-88. In 1977, two 29-1 teams fell in the first round—San Francisco (Bob Gaillard) to Nevada-Las Vegas, 121-95, and Arkansas (Eddie Sutton) to Wake Forest (Carl Tacy), 86-80.

Three straight years, 1980, 1981 and 1982, the legendary Ray Meyer took a once-beaten team to the NCAA and was bounced in the first round. UCLA and Larry Brown did it in 1980, St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania) and Jim Lynam in 1981 and Boston College and Tom Davis in 1982.

Most-improved in tourney

Seven NCAA tournament teams are among the most-improved teams for 1987 in won-lost terms. They are among 22 Division I teams up at least seven games over 1986. Central Michigan, 22-7, coached by second-year man Charlie Coles, tied for second on the list with Rhode Island behind the leader, James Madison. Coles' team was up 10½ games over its 11-17 finish of a year ago (11 more victories and 10 fewer losses is 21; divide by two). DePaul, in Joey Meyer's third year, went 26-2 (second-best won-lost record in Division I), up 9½ games. New Orleans soared to 25-3 under Benny Dees in his second year, up nine games and in the NCAA tournament for the first time in school history. UCLA's 24-6 Pacific-10 Conference champions under Walt Hazzard are up 8½ games. Two more NCAA teams are up eight games—Pittsburgh's 24-7 Big East Conference co-champions in Paul Evans' first year after moving from Navy and 25-5 Clemson under Cliff Ellis. And 27-4 Iowa under Tom Davis is up 7½ games.

15 first-time coaches

UCLA is in the NCAA tournament for the first time since 1983, and appropriately its coach is Walt Hazzard, floor leader of John Wooden's first national-championship team at UCLA in 1964. Hazzard leads a group of 15 who are head coaches in the NCAA tournament for the first time. Hazzard is one of four who also played in the NCAA tournament.

If the Bruins win it all, Hazzard would become only the third coach in history to both play on a championship team and coach a championship team. The only two at this time are Bob Knight (played for Ohio State in 1960, coached Indiana in 1976 and 1981) and Dean Smith (played for Kansas in 1952, coached North Carolina in 1982).

Kansas State's Lon Kruger, Wichita State's Ed Fogler and San Diego's Hank Egan are the other first-time coaches who also played in the NCAA tournament. Hazzard scored 149 points in nine NCAA tournament games, leading the 1962 team to the Final Four (ending up fourth) and the 1964 team to the title (in 1963, UCLA lost its first game). Fogler quarterbacked two Final Four teams at North Carolina—in 1968 (second) and 1969 (fourth), scoring 37 in eight games. Kruger made two NCAA trips, in 1972 and 1973 under Jack Hartman, scoring 45 in three games for Kansas State.

Egan played in two NCAA tournaments. See Nevada-Las Vegas, page 13

NCAA championships will end jumbled wrestling year

It has been a jumbled season in Division I wrestling, with the top powers spending much of the winter knocking off each other.

Iowa State defeated arch-rival Iowa. Oklahoma State defeated Iowa State but was tied by Penn State. The Cowboys bounced back to defeat the Nittany Lions in their next meeting, but were defeated by Iowa. The Hawkeyes then avenged their loss to Iowa State with a home victory.

So the season has come full circle. And Iowa will be the team to watch when the Division I Wrestling Championships are held at College Park, Maryland, March 19-21.

Coach Dan Gable's team has won the national title nine straight times.

Iowa's ride to this year's meet has been bumpier than in past seasons. Beset by injuries and disappointing individual performances, the Hawkeyes struggled in the early going. But after season-ending victories over two of the top teams in the nation, a healthy Iowa squad will offer a strong defense of its championship before the ABC-TV cameras at Maryland.

Leading the Hawkeyes will be Jim Heffernan, defending champion at 150 pounds. While occasionally overshadowed by top-ranked Tim Krieger of Iowa State, Heffernan did win his class for the third time at the Midlands Wrestling Championships.

Royce Alger (167) has bounced back from arthroscopic knee surgery to be Iowa's most dependable performer. After returning from injury is Rico Chiapparelli (177). Greg Randall, runner-up at 142 pounds last March, is ranked No. 1 at that weight by Amateur Wrestling News.

Other contenders include John Regan (126) and Brad Penrith (134). Penrith won at 126 last season.

Oklahoma State, which once dominated the championships as Iowa has in recent years, may have the best chance to dethrone the Hawkeyes. The Cowboys vaulted into first place in the rankings with their January victory over Iowa State and strengthened their position with a comeback win over powerful Penn State.

Tom Erikson will be the favorite at heavyweight, where he finished fourth last season. Erikson has been at his best in the key matches this winter.

Also ranked at the top of his weight class is 134-pounder John Smith. Transfer Glen Lanham (158) has been a welcome addition and was named outstanding wrestler at the Drake Midwest Championships.

Ed Woodburn (118), Angelo Cu-zalina (142) and Vince Silva (150) also could make an impact at College Park.

Iowa State has a well-balanced lineup of talented wrestlers. The Cyclones, top-ranked until their loss to Oklahoma State, have an excellent chance to improve on their fourth-place finish of 1986.

Coach Jim Gibbons' squad is strongest in the middle of the lineup, where Krieger has been ranked No. 1 at 150 throughout the season. Joe Ghezzi (142), Stewart Carter (158) and Kevin Jackson (167) all will contend in their divisions.

Other Cyclones to watch include Bill Kelly (126) and Bob Gassman (190).

If the first-place trophy should wind up outside the states of Iowa and Oklahoma (which has not occurred since 1967), it is most likely to travel from College Park to University Park. Penn State, ranked at the top of the National Wrestling Coaches Association poll for much of the season, has strong championship potential. The Nittany Lions tied Oklahoma State at the Virginia Duals tournament before losing by a narrow margin at Stillwater.

Penn State is led by Jim Martin (118), Greg Elinsky (167) and Dan Mayo (177).

Improved North Carolina, winner of the Midlands tournament, boasts two of the best individual wrestlers in the nation. Al Palacio was second at 118 in 1986, while teammate Rob Koll was third at 158. Chip McArdle (126) gives coach Bill Lam another proven performer.

Northern Iowa, Arizona State, Wisconsin and Bloomsburg are among the other top teams.

Listed below are other individuals to watch:

118—Jack Cuvo, East Stroudsburg, and Doug Wyland, Michigan. 126—Rick Bonomo, Bloomsburg, and Marc Sodano, North Carolina State. 134—Gil Sanchez, Nebraska, and Rob Johnson, Ohio. 142—Pat Santoro, Pittsburgh, and Nick Neville, Oklahoma. 150—Jim Akerley, West Virginia, and Jeff Jordan, Wisconsin. 158—Ken Haselrig, Clarion, and Ardeshir Asgari, Cal State Fullerton. 167—Jody Karam, Lock Haven, and Chris Geneser, Notre Dame. 177—Fred Little, Fresno State, and Steve Peperak, Maryland. 190—Jeff Weatherman, Northern Iowa, and Bruce Wallace, Bloomsburg. Heavyweight—Jim Neilson, Brigham Young, and Joel Greenlee, Northern Iowa.

Kenyon men to swim after eighth straight team crown

It may be old news, but Kenyon is heading for another Division III Men's Swimming and Diving Championships team title. A victory would be the Lords' eighth in a row.

The championships will be March 19-21 at C.T. Branin Natatorium in Canton, Ohio, with Mount Union serving as host institution.

Coach Jim Steen returns four individual national champions and 10 all-Americans, including Craig Hummer, Dennis Mulvihill, David Greenlee and Alan Schmidt.

The Lords set records in the 400-yard freestyle relay (2:59.78) and the 800-yard freestyle relay (6:43.19) a year ago. Swimming on the 400-yard team were Schmidt, Greenlee and Mulvihill; 800-yard swimmers were Schmidt, Hummer and Mulvihill. In addition to those titles, Mulvihill placed first in the 200-yard freestyle

(1:39.83), and Hummer finished first in the 400-yard individual medley (4:00.18).

Other top Kenyon swimmers are Tom Creech (16:05.42, 1,650-yard freestyle), Jeff Perkins (53.10, 100-yard butterfly; 1:55.78, 200-yard butterfly) and Dave Waltuch (50.13, 100-yard butterfly; 1:53.41, 200-yard butterfly).

Kenyon's Paul Difrancesco will have a shot at the one- and three-meter diving titles.

St. Olaf may have its strongest team ever, with the majority of the 1986 squad returning; nine talented freshmen also will help. The Oles finished fifth in 1986.

Among the leaders will be 1986 champions Robert Hauck (51.46, 100-yard backstroke; 1:52.00, 200-yard backstroke) and Kevin Casson

Texas women favored to win swimming title

Three-time champion Texas is the overwhelming favorite to claim the team crown at the 1987 Division I Women's Swimming and Diving Championships March 19-21 at the Indiana University Natatorium in Indianapolis.

The Longhorns' roster includes 1986 individual champions Betsy Mitchell (55.00, 100-yard backstroke; 1:57.26, 200-yard backstroke) and Patty Sabo (4:16.58, 400-yard individual medley). Sabo also finished third last year in the 1,650-yard freestyle (16:07.93) and fourth in the 500-yard freestyle (4:43.96).

Looking to finish on top in the 1,650-yard freestyle will be Tiffany Cohen, who finished second in 1986 at 16:03.74. Good performances also should come from Tori Trees (56.49, 100-yard backstroke) and Kara McGrath (1:56.91, 200-yard butterfly). McGrath's time earned her second place in last year's championships and a school record in the event.

Adding depth is Carrie Steinseifer, 1984 Olympic co-gold medalist in the 100-meter freestyle.

Stanford returns nearly all of last year's third-place team, and the addition of several talented freshmen makes this possibly the best Cardinal squad since the 1983 national championships.

Sophomore Jenna Johnson returns to defend titles in the 50-yard freestyle (22.46), 100-yard freestyle (49.03) and 100-yard butterfly (52.69). She also was a member of two first-place relay teams.

Susan Rapp is set to defend her 200-yard individual medley title (2:01.80) and go for titles in the 200-yard breast stroke and 400-yard individual medley.

Patty Sabo, Texas, returns to defend her title

Other returning finalists for the Cardinal include Michelle Donahue (55.94, 100-yard backstroke; 2:00.01, 200-yard backstroke), Jennifer Pokluda (56.25, 100-yard backstroke), Jennifer Shannon (2:00.96, 200-yard backstroke), Dana Anderson (4:47.43, 500-yard freestyle), Stacy Shupe (16:18.63, 1,650-yard freestyle) and Monica Nielebeck (2:03.82, 200-yard individual medley).

Stanford also boasts one of the nation's top recruits, Michelle Grigione. Another new face to watch is Laura McLean.

Don't count Florida out of the Division I title hunt. The Lady Gators have finished second the last two seasons and return a strong field of freestylers and butterflyers for 1987.

Returning titlists are Tami Bruce (4:40.87, 500-yard freestyle; 15:56.81, 1,650-yard freestyle) and Cindy Ounpuu (1:02.57, 100-yard breast stroke; 2:13.25, 200-yard breast stroke). The Lady Gators also won titles in the 400-yard freestyle relay (3:19.07) and the 800-yard freestyle relay (7:10.81).

Mary Wayne hopes to return to top form after third-place finishes last year in the 200-yard freestyle (1:47.30) and the 500-yard freestyle (4:43.33).

The loss of champion diver Megan Neyer certainly will have an impact on coach Randy Reese's team, but Debbie Fuller may come on strong to fill the gap with a title in the three-meter event.

Freshmen Julianne Brossman (freestyle) and Jill Horstead (butterfly) will give the Lady Gators even more stability.

Following a ninth-place 1986 finish, Georgia hopes to climb higher. The Bulldogs boast some of the division's best distance freestylers and some top relay teams.

Kathy Coffin, second in the 50-yard freestyle (23.02) and fifth in the 100-yard freestyle (50.31), will be joined by teammates Laura Thomas (2:00.65, 200-yard butterfly) and Susan Andra (16:29.36, 1,650-yard freestyle).

UCLA offset the loss of five outstanding seniors with a talented freshman class, and the Bruins could come up with some finalists in the 1987 championships.

Leading the way will be sophomores Kathy Long (23.69, 50-yard freestyle; 50.61, 100-yard freestyle), Suzette Moran (2:20.15, 200-yard breast stroke) and Jenny Susser (23.73, 50-yard freestyle; 51.43, 100-yard freestyle).

California returns several veterans for what coach Karen Thornton hopes will be another top-five finish; the Golden Bears have finished fourth the last two years.

The loss of Conny van Bentum will hurt, but the team has a number of strong recruits who should provide enough depth to keep the Golden Bears among the national leaders.

Butterflyer Mary T. Meagher, back to defend her 200-yard title (1:54.52), will be joined by Amy Clark (breast stroke), Cheryl Kreigsmann (freestyle), Kyrsten Burr (backstroke/freestyle) and Michelle Branchaud (freestyle/butterfly).

Top California recruits include backstrokers Lisa Meyers and Missy Frost, butterflyer Hilary Higdon, and breast-stroke specialist Megan Doberneck.

Other top teams are Southern California, Clemson, Louisiana State and Arizona State.

Mountaineers and Racers get ready for shoot-out

West Virginia and Murray State will square off for the third straight year in a shoot-out for the National Collegiate Men's and Women's Rifle Championships team title when 56 shooters from 12 institutions gather at Xavier University (Ohio) for the March 20-21 event.

However, unlike the past two seasons, when the defending champion Mountaineers and 1985 champion Racers got little in the way of serious challenges from the other team qualifiers, if either of these perennial powers slips, upstart South Florida will be ready to step into the spotlight.

The Bulls recorded the top team-qualifying score (4,652) in smallbore and, after finishing fifth a year ago, appear ready to claim their share of national recognition. "Those three teams (West Virginia, Murray State and South Florida) probably will be closer than ever in the team competition," said WVU head coach Ed Etzel.

Two years ago, the Mountaineers lost the NCAA team title by one point (6,150-6,149) to Murray State, but they rebounded to post a 66-point victory (6,229-6,163) over the Racers in last year's team competition. The burgeoning rivalry has continued during the 1986-87 regular season.

"We beat West Virginia three times this year," said Murray State head coach Elvis Green. "Our air rifle scores have been real good this season, but we've been up and down in smallbore. However, I think our kids want (the team title) bad enough that they'll be ready."

Joining West Virginia, Murray State and South Florida in the team competition, which will take place March 21 and will be decided by the aggregate score from smallbore and air rifle events, will be Army, Navy and Tennessee Tech. Tech is the only team beside West Virginia and Murray State to have won an NCAA team title. The Eagles took consecutive victories in 1980, 1981 and 1982.

In addition to the team-championship contenders, Alaska-Fairbanks and St. John's (New York) have qualified teams for air rifle, and Tennessee-Martin and Washington State have qualified for smallbore. This will be the Cougars' final appearance in the championships, as the sport will be dropped as a varsity activity by the university at the end of this academic year.

Murray State senior Pat Spurgin may provide the highlight of the individual competition, which will take place March 20. A 1984 Olympic gold medalist, Spurgin turned in the top qualifying scores in air rifle and smallbore and will be competing in her final NCAA championships.

Xavier (Ohio) previously hosted the championships in 1983. The school boasts separate smallbore and air rifle ranges with complete facilities.

Following is a list of team and individual participants for the 1987 championships, with qualifying scores:

Teams

Murray State, 6,196; West Virginia, 6,194; South Florida, 6,180; Army, 6,131; Navy, 6,110; Tennessee Tech, 6,107; Alaska-Fairbanks, 1,512 (air rifle only); St. John's (New York), 1,510 (air rifle only); Tennessee-Martin, 4,579 (smallbore only); Washington State, 4,583 (smallbore only).

Individual air rifle

Young teams answer critics and become hockey contenders

Two young teams that came up with nothing but right answers for skeptics this season are favorites in the Division I Men's Ice Hockey Championship.

North Dakota of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association and Boston College of Hockey East appear to be the best of the West and East, respectively, entering postseason play. The underclassman-dominated teams are the best bets for inclusion in the eight-team field for the championship, which gets under way March 20 and 21 at campus sites and ends March 28 with the title game at Joe Louis Arena in Detroit.

As the season began, both the Fighting Sioux and the Eagles had plenty of questions to answer about themselves, but both teams responded in convincing fashion.

At North Dakota, the question was whether a gang of promising but largely untested freshmen and sophomores could patch a defense depleted by graduation and a defection to the pros. The answer was a resounding yes from a squad that gave up fewer than three goals per game and rolled up a 34-8 record through the first round of the WCHA play-offs.

Sophomores Ian Kidd and Mike LaMoine and freshman Russ Parent have been standouts as defensemen for the Fighting Sioux, and freshman Ed Belfour has excelled as the No. 1 goalie.

Offensively, North Dakota boasts one of the nation's best left wings in junior Bob Joyce, who already has established a school record for goals scored in a season. Sophomore Tony Hrkac returned from a year playing for Team Canada to set a school total-points mark.

At press time, North Dakota was set to play sixth-ranked Minnesota for the WCHA's automatic-qualification spot in the Division I tournament. The loser of that showdown is likely to receive an at-large berth in the championship.

In the East, Boston College had to prove it could replace 10 seniors who led the Eagles to three straight appearances in the championship. Coach Len Ceglarski's talented underclassmen not only answered the challenge, they also put the Eagles in a position to win their first national title since 1949.

Ranked second in the nation, Boston College is not entirely lacking in senior leadership. Left wing Kevin Stevens, the only returning senior who played regularly for the Eagles last year, led this year's squad in scoring as it entered the Hockey East play-offs March 10 with a 28-7 record.

But Stevens' supporting cast is dominated by underclassmen, led by assist leader Craig Janney, a sophomore. Also instrumental in the Eagles' success this season have been juniors Dan Shea and Ken Hodge.

A national title would be the perfect way for Boston College to end a season that already has seen Ceglarski become America's most victorious collegiate hockey coach. Entering the Hockey East play-offs, Ceglarski owned a 563-266-27 career coaching record.

Should youth fail to serve the two top contenders for the title, 1986 finalists Harvard of the Eastern College Athletic Conference and Michigan State of the Central Collegiate Hockey Association are poised to fill the void.

After finishing second last season, third-ranked Harvard has hovered near the top of the polls all season and is capable of reaching the championship game once again. The Crimson won the ECAC's regular-season title and had reached the semifinals of the conference play-offs at press time with a 24-4 record.

Left wing Lane McDonald leads an offense that has averaged nearly five goals per game. On defense, the Crimson has allowed slightly more than two goals per game.

Defending champion Michigan State became the first team to clinch a spot in the NCAA tournament when it beat regular-season CCHA champion Bowling Green in overtime, 4-3, to win the conference play-offs. The fourth-ranked Spartans enter the tournament with a 30-9-2 record.

Senior defenseman Don McSweeney and one of the nation's best goalie tandems, Bob Essensa and Norm Foster, have helped the Spartans hold opponents to just over three goals per game this season. Michigan State's offense is paced by forwards Mitch Messier, Bill Shibicky and Kevin Miller.

Despite its loss to the Spartans, fifth-ranked Bowling Green is likely to be the CCHA's second entry in the NCAA field. The Falcons have a 33-8-2 record.

Lofton, scoring system to make news at fencing finals

All eyes will be on a single competitor when the National Collegiate Men's Fencing Championships open at Notre Dame March 16.

If New York University's Michael Lofton captures the individual title in sabre the first day, he will become the first fencer to win an NCAA championship four straight seasons.

Lofton is one of only four men to win three straight championships since the titles began in 1941 and was the first to do so in sabre.

Following Lofton's bid for history, attention will shift to the championships' new team-scoring system and its effect on the 1987 outcome.

Only a team's highest finisher in each weapon can score points for his team this year. In previous seasons, any qualifier could score.

Sabre competition will be followed by foil March 17 then the championships will conclude with epee March 18.

Notre Dame, defending its 1986 championship at home, is likely to be hurt by the new system. The Fighting Irish, 22-0 this winter, relied on superb depth last March in winning their first title since 1978.

Notre Dame's strength is in foil, where Yehuda Kovacs and Charles Higgs-Coulthard finished second and third last season. Higgs-Coulthard won as a freshman in 1984.

Michael DeCicco's squad suffered heavy graduation losses in the other events, but senior Kevin Stoutermire has compiled a 46-2 record in sabre this winter.

Columbia, last year's runner-up, could be the team to take the championship away from the Fighting Irish. The Lions feature proven performers in all three weapons.

Bob Cottingham (sabre), William Mendel (foil) and Jon Normile (epee) all placed in the top 10 last season. Sophomore Ivan Fernandez-Madrid and freshman Mark Kent could also challenge in foil.

Penn State will count on senior Adam Feldman and other veterans in challenging for the championship. Feldman held off Kovacs and Higgs-Coulthard to win in foil last season. Peter Cox (sabre) and George Polusny (epee) also make the Nittany Lions legitimate contenders.

One of the nation's top young fencers, Pennsylvania's Chris O'Loughlin, won in epee as a freshman last year. He is a strong favorite to repeat. The Quakers also welcome back senior Tom Cassidy from a sabbatical.

New York University, with the brilliant Lofton, also could be a challenger for team honors as could seven-time champion Wayne State (Michigan) and Yale.

(4:29.85, 500-yard freestyle).

Other returnees for the Oles will be breast stroker William Bloomberg, freestyler Brad Liddiard and butterflyer Chris Kvaal. Freshmen Tim Niznik, Randy Mortenson and Tim Olson give depth to the team.

Though the loss of 1986 diving champion Jeff Stabile may hurt UC San Diego, coach Bill Morgan will look to returning titlist Bill Kazmierowicz and a crop of newcomers to improve on the team's third-place finish.

Kazmierowicz finished first in the 1,650-yard freestyle (15:55.25) and the 200-yard individual medley (1:51.61) and placed second in the 200-yard freestyle (1:39.97). He also swam on the first-place 400-yard medley relay team (3:25.11).

Other Tritons to watch are Dave Higdon (16:04.26, 1,650-yard freestyle) Jim Cavataio (2:10.16, 200-yard breast stroke) and newcomers Piper Antimarino, Steve Denys and Ed Prado.

Wheaton (Illinois) may be the surprise of the season. The 10th-place finisher from 1986 is ranked fourth by the College Swimming Coaches Association of America.

Top returnees for the Crusaders are Stephen King (butterfly), Steven Wiper (backstroke), Rob O'Dell (freestyle), John Shank (backstroke) and Mark Van Ness (breast stroke).

Claremont-Mudd-Scripps lost three big scorers but still has high hopes with the return of six of last year's finalists. The Stags have finished second in the last four championships.

Top returnees are David Lewis (4:36.15, 500-yard freestyle; 1:53.62, 200-yard butterfly), Todd McKenzie (1:41.65, 200-yard freestyle), Don Kuhn (16:09.14, 1,650-yard freestyle) and Erik Ryba (1:53.08, 200-yard butterfly). Top performances from backstroker Bob Moore and diver Derek Eberhardt are expected.

Other top teams will be Johns Hopkins, Hope, Allegheny and Amherst.

Tim Wright, Cal State Bakersfield capture wrestling titles

Tim Wright made wrestling history before the home fans, but it was not enough to keep the Division II wrestling title for Southern Illinois-Edwardsville.

Cal State Bakersfield broke the Cougars' three-year stranglehold to regain the championship it held from 1979 through 1983. The Roadrunners now have matched Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo in all-time Division II titles with eight.

But SIU's team loss did not overshadow the achievement of Wright, who became the first wrestler in any division to capture four individual championships. After wrestling at 126 pounds much of the season, the senior returned to 118 for another title before family and friends at Edwardsville March 6-7.

Cal State Bakersfield tallied 90½ points to 69½ for the Cougars. North Dakota State, ranked at the top of the division through most of the winter, finished third with 62¼.

The victorious Roadrunners had individual champions in Junior Saunders (142), Darryl Pope (177) and Eric Mittlestead (190). The key match was Saunders' 2-1 decision over Southern Illinois-Edwardsville's Brian McTague in the finals.

Pope's win produced his second national title. He won the individual crown at 167 last season.

Cal State Bakersfield had a fourth finalist in Mike Dallas (126).

Kip Kristoff (150) joined Wright in winning for the Cougars.

Trenton State wrestlers win fifth championship

Led by three individual champions, Trenton State posted an easy victory at the Division III wrestling championships March 6-7 at Buffalo.

The Lions scored 107½ points to 70¾ for old rival Brockport State. It was the widest margin of victory in the division since 1974.

Trenton State now has won the national title five times, more than any other school. The Lions won previously in 1979, 1981, 1984 and 1985.

The champions got individual titles from Tim Jacoutot (118 pounds), Greg MacDonald (177) and Vince Pozsonyi (190). Jacoutot notched two pins on his way to the championship.

The Lion cause was further aided by Ralph Venuto (134) and Dwayne Standridge (158), each of whom reached the finals in his class.

Defending champion Montclair State got titles from brothers Karl and John Monaco. Karl won at 142, while John captured the 167-pound crown after winning last year at 177. The Indians finished fourth, behind third-place Albany (N.Y.). Host Buffalo placed a strong fifth.

The only other repeating champion was heavyweight Chris Tironi of Albany, who went to overtime in the finals before edging Mark Sullivan of John Carroll.

Runner-up Brockport State, champion four times, had an individual winner in 158-pounder John Leone, but saw defending champion Todd Slade (167) pinned in the quarterfinals.

Hoff, men's Nordic skiers propel Utah to victory

With outstanding efforts from Alpine skier Vibeke Hoff and the men's Nordic skiers, Utah outdistanced Vermont, 710-627, in the National Collegiate Men's and Women's Skiing Championships March 4-7.

The meet was held at the University of Alaska, Anchorage.

Hoff won the women's giant slalom and finished second to Dartmouth's Eva Pfofi in the slalom to help the Utes capture the team title in both events. Utah also won the men's cross country race, with Asmund Driveness capturing the individual title, and the relay.

Vermont's Gabriella Hamberg, the defending champion in the slalom and runner-up in the giant slalom, failed to finish in the top 10 in either event. The Catamounts were outscored 95-60 in the GS and 96-50 in the slalom—dropping 81 of the 83 points by which they lost to Utah.

Vermont's strong showings came in the women's Nordic events. Hanne Krogstad finished second in the individual event, and the Catamounts won the relay event.

Colorado's John Skajem swept the men's Alpine events to help the Buffaloes finish third in the team race with 593 points, and Colorado's Kristen Petty won the women's cross country event. Wyoming, the 1985 champion, was fourth with 582 points.

The victory marked Utah's second consecutive win and its fifth in the last seven years. Vermont, the 1980 champion, has captured the runner-up spot six of the last seven years.

Marsden hopes his athletes win at the game of life, too

In 12 years, Greg Marsden has seen the Utah women's gymnastics program grow. And, more importantly, the Utes' head coach has witnessed and fostered the growth of the athletes.

While working on a degree in sports psychology in 1975, Marsden agreed to coach the newly founded women's gymnastics team at Utah. This year, cerns. The group included a sports psychologist, a nutritionist, an academic adviser, a strength coach, a choreographer and a sports-medicine specialist.

"We try to deal with the athletes as total human beings," Marsden said. "When something in your life is not going well, it affects others aspects of your life. When I see a problem in the gym, 90 percent of the time it has nothing to do with gymnastics."

Marsden's multidimensional approach had an interesting byproduct.

"As we dealt with the total needs of the athletes, they became stronger competitors," he said. "As the quality of the program developed and we became better competitors, other aspects of the program developed."

The team competes before average crowds of 6,200, and 1,400 spectators hold season tickets. The women's gymnastics team participates in a television contract that calls for two prime-time live telecasts of meets. Others are shown on tape delay. In addition, 10 of the 15 squad members have at least a 3.200 grade-point average.

"Sport was originally designed to prepare individuals for what they face in real life through play situations," Marsden said. "I think we can be true to the athletes and provide a good education both in the classroom and through athletics experiences."

Florida coach gives players more study halls

High school football players will spend less time working on their game and more time hitting the books after their coach decided to substitute study halls for a quarter of his team's practices.

Ray Buscemi's decision is believed to be unprecedented in Florida.

"It has to take away from their execution on the field, but I would rather have them execute in the classroom," said Buscemi, coach of Boyd Anderson High School in Lauderdale Lakes.

"Everybody can use the help, the 3,000 players and the 1,500 players," said Dennis Wright, a junior expected to be a prime running back-defensive back next year for Boyd Anderson, which has more than 1,400 students.

"I think it's going to be great," he said.

The Cobras were 8-2 last season.

"If we still win, it will look great," Buscemi said. "If we go 5-5, people will say I'm crazy. But we'll make a commitment to it."

The program, designed to deal with the NCAA's academic requirements, was prompted by visiting college coaches, Buscemi said.

NCAA "Proposition 48" [Bylaw 5-1-(j)] has raised academic requirements for Division I freshman athletics eligibility.

"Joe Paterno (Pennsylvania State University coach) was here for two hours, and I don't think we spent more than two minutes talking about football," Buscemi said. "The whole discussion was about academics and the problems kids are having."

"Every coach that came through was stressing academics; and they suggested that if we are going to talk about it, do it. If we can help the kids a little and get them interested, it has to carry over," he told the Associated Press.

More than a dozen teachers have volunteered to teach the 100-member squad during three-hour, Thursday afternoon sessions. Players also will be prepared for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and the American College Test (ACT). The cafeteria will serve as a study hall.

The required study sessions also have been applauded by Broward County School Superintendent William Leary, who once coached basketball.

Fred Rozelle, executive secretary of the Florida High School Activities Association, said he has never heard of a Florida coach giving up practice time for studying. But off-season tutoring programs are required by several coaches around the state, he said.

The Palm Beach County School Board reversed itself recently in approving a policy requiring students to have at least a C average to take part in sports or other extracurricular activities.

The program is to be phased in over two years, raising the academic standards for participating students from at least a 1.500 grade-point average, already required by state law, to a 2.000 base average by 1989.

And Killian High School in Miami, the state's second largest prep school and a member of the 5-A class, has had mandatory prepractice study halls for the past three years; the grade-point average of the football team soared from 1.300 the first year to 2.450 this year.

The team was second-ranked when the program began. Last season, it finished the season with a 4-6 record, but 20 players were given college grants-in-aid.

Conference grows

There will be six teams in the North Star Conference next year with the addition of Northern Illinois University.

The women's Division I athletics conference was founded in 1983 with nine institutions, but five members have since left.

The remaining original members are the University of Dayton, Marquette University, the University of Notre Dame and DePaul University.

Doug Hauschild, a member of the athletics staff at Dayton, said Valparaiso University, which has been an associate member of the North Star because it did not play basketball in the conference, will become a full member of the conference next season.

Greg Marsden

the Utes will be trying to win their sixth straight NCAA championship.

"I really tried to stay true to the educational background from which I came," Marsden said about his coaching philosophy. "My teachers had an impact on my life, and I wanted the opportunity to help other people develop."

As a means to that end, Marsden put together a very special team when he assumed his coaching duties. That team was a support group designed to help the athletes with various con-ments for Navy under Ben Carnevale in 1959 and 1960, scoring six points in three games. The other 11 first-time coaches are Idaho State's Jim Boutin, Santa Clara's Carroll Williams, Marist's Dave Magarity, Central Michigan's Charlie Coles, Louisiana Tech's Tommy Eagles, Southern-Baton Rouge's Ben Jobe, Bucknell's Charles Woollum, Northeastern's Karl Fogel, Navy's Pete Herrmann, Southwest Missouri State's Charles Spoonhour and New Orleans' Benny Dees.

To recognize teams solely for how far they advanced in NCAA tournament play, we devised a point system (The NCAA News of March 4): five points for reaching the regional finals (or round of eight, one victory from the Final Four), 10 points for reaching the Final Four (either third or fourth—no third-place game was played in 13 tournaments), 12 for second place and 14 for first.

The top 15 teams under this system are UCLA 190 points, Kentucky 179, North Carolina 121, Ohio State 100, Kansas 95, Louisville 78, Indiana 76, Kansas State 72, Oklahoma State 70, Duke 66, Villanova 64, Cincinnati 60, San Francisco 58, Georgetown 55, and Michigan and Houston tied at 54 (with North Carolina State next at 53).

From another point of view, ranking the teams by total tournament victories, the top 15 are UCLA with 55, Kentucky 53, North Carolina 40, Louisville 33, Indiana 31, Kansas 28, Villanova 27, Houston 26, Marquette 25, Ohio State 24, North Carolina State 24, Duke 23, Kansas State 23, Notre Dame 22 and San Francisco 21 (with Georgetown and Cincinnati next at 20 each).

A coaching Who's Who

As always, the field includes most of the top coaches in the nation. Smith tops the list in total victories at 608, with Florida's Norm Sloan next at 581. Tarkanian is on top in winning percentage at .826 on 469-99, and six others have topped 400 victories—Illinois' Lou Henson, Alabama-Birmingham's Gene Bartow, Knight, St. John's (New York) Lou Carnesecca, Missouri's Norm Stewart and UTEP's Don Haskins.

Five-year history in one room

If our assignment was to write a history of the five-year-old NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Championship, we simply would put 14 coaches in the 1987 tournament field in one room and bring a tape recorder.

Talk about a coaching Who's Who. This "Gang of Fourteen" has head-coached 17 of the 20 Final Four teams and 16 of the 20 regional second-place teams, or those that were just one game from the Final Four. That adds up to 33 of the 40 teams reaching the round of eight over the five-year history. That is 82.5 percent.

Nine of them have been to the Final Four: Tennessee's Pat Head

Summitt and Southern California's Linda Sharp three times each; Louisiana Tech's Leon Barmore, Georgia's Andy Landers, Old Dominion's Marianne Stanley and Western Kentucky's Paul Sanderford twice each, and Texas' Jody Conradt, Iowa's Vivian Stringer and Northeast Louisiana's Linda Harper once each. Sharp's team won the championship in 1983 and 1984, Stanley's team won it in 1985 and Conradt's team in 1986. Barmore was a top assistant for the 1982 national champions at Louisiana Tech (beating Stringer's Cheyney team in the finals).

Five of them have reached the regional championship game only to lose and miss a trip to the Final Four. Long Beach State's Joan Bonvicini experienced that frustration three straight years—in 1983, 1984 and 1985. The others are Mississippi's Van Chancellor, Penn State's Rene Portland, Louisiana State's Sue Gunter and Rutgers' Theresa Greutz (six of the nine Final Four coaches also were regional second-placers at least once).

In tournament victories, it is Sharp 17-3, Summitt 13-5, Stanley 11-3, Barmore 11-4, Conradt 10-3 and Landers 10-5. Five tournament coaches with at least five years of head-coaching experience at the four-year level are above .800 in career winning percentage—Barmore .899, Bonvicini .837, Stanley .822, Stringer .807 and Conradt .802. An amazing 15 more, using the five-year minimum, are above .700. Conradt's 455 victories leads and five more have at least 300 career victories. Then come 15 more with at least 200 career victories.

11 first-time coaches

Eleven are head-coaching in the NCAA Division I tournament for the first time in their careers. They are Duke's Debbie Leonard, South Alabama's Charles Branum, Manhattan's Kathy Solano, New Orleans' Joey Favaloro, Kansas' Marian Washington, Kansas State's Matilda Mossman, North Carolina's Sylvia Hatcher, Tennessee Tech's Bill Worrell, Bowling Green's Fran Voll, New Mexico State's Joe McKeown and Eastern Washington's Bill Smithpeters. Washington's 14-year career goes back to the AIAW era, when she coached the career scoring record-holder, four-time all-America and 1984 Olympian, Lynette Woodard, in the 1981 AIAW tournament.

Eight first-time teams

Eight 1987 entrants are in the NCAA tournament for the first time. They are New Mexico State, Eastern Washington, Bowling Green, Duke, South Alabama, Manhattan, New Orleans and Kansas.

Most improved teams

Fourteen Division I teams are up at least seven games over last season. Two of them are in the NCAA tournament—27-2 Bowling Green, up 8½ games over its 18-10 finish in Voll's second year (nine more victories and eight fewer losses is 17; divide by two), and Southern Mississippi, 21-8 under Kay James, the national leader is Evansville, up 13 games (over 6-22) in Bill Barnett's third season. His team finished 19-9.

Second is 18-10 Southwest Missouri State, up 11½ games in Valerie Goodwin-Colbert's fourth year. Then comes 17-11 Oregon State, up 10 games from a rare losing year in Aki Hill's ninth season. Ron Fortner's 16-11 Pepperdine team is fourth, up 9½ games, and Bill Nepfel's Hawaii team is up nine games to 21-7. Tied at 8½ with Bowling Green is 20-7 Drexel under Lillian Haas.

Southern Mississippi and 21-8 Stetson are up eight games; 18-8 Princeton and 12-15 Indiana State are up 7½ games, and three teams are up seven games—23-5 Stephen F. Austin, 21-7 Mississippi Valley State and 15-13 Rice.

Changes noted

Paul Griffin, director of athletics at the University of South Florida, has announced that the university will begin sponsorship of women's cross country in the fall of 1987. Griffin said the university will discontinue its sponsorship of swimming, also effective this fall.

The moves give South Florida 13 intercollegiate athletics programs, six on the men's side and six for women, with one coed sport.

Basketball play-offs can be heard on about 400 stations

Approximately 400 stations are expected to take part in the NCAA Radio Network broadcasts of the Division I Men's and Women's Basketball Championships.

A total of 301 stations had been cleared through February 27. Of these stations, 107 are located in the top 170 radio markets in the United States. The broadcasts will be carried by stations in Hawaii, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The network will cover men's regional action and the Final Four and the women's final four. The network comprises CBS radio affiliates and additional stations cleared by Host Communications Inc. of Lexington, Kentucky.

A state-by-state list of NCAA Radio Network stations cleared through February 27 follows. Stations carrying the women's final four are indicated by a (w) after their call letters:

Alabama—WTCG, Andalusia; WDNG, Anniston; WVOK, Birmingham; WKLN, Cullman; WAGF (w), Dothan; WFPA, Fort Payne; WGAD, Gadsden; WKRK, Mobile; WACV, Montgomery; WHBB, Selma; WACT (AM and FM), Tuscaloosa; WVNA, Tuscumbia.

Arizona—KCKY, Coolidge; KFBR, Nogales; KTAR, Phoenix; KYCA, Prescott; KNST (w), Tucson; KTUC, Tucson.

Arkansas—KTOD (AM and FM) (w), Conway; KLRA, Little Rock; KENA, Mena; KUOL, Mena.

California—KPMC, Bakersfield; KXO, El Centro; KMAK, Fresno; KRTH, Los Angeles;

Swimming added

Ferris State College will offer an NCAA Division II varsity women's swimming program for the 1987-88 season, increasing to 18 the number of its varsity sports.

Athletics director Dean Davenport said that men's swimming coach Rick Kowalkoski has been appointed to coach the women's team, as well as continuing as men's coach. An assistant coach for both teams will be hired, and some scholarships will be offered for women.

Raveling promotes reading

George Raveling, head men's basketball coach at the University of Southern California, hopes to instill a love of reading in junior high school students by conducting a series of lectures at 30 schools. Raveling talks to students at Mt. Vernon Junior High School in south central Los Angeles. He was accompanied by senior center Rod Keller, a member of the Pacific-10 Conference academic team.

North Carolina-Greensboro plans to move all sports to Division I

By Wilson Davis

The University of North Carolina, Greensboro, has taken action toward upgrading its intercollegiate athletics program from Division III to Division I affiliation in the NCAA.

Acting on a recommendation from Chancellor William E. Moran, the board of trustees has approved guidelines to govern intercollegiate athletics and has authorized the shift to Division I.

"Our theme is Division I by '91," said Charles A. Hayes of Greensboro, trustee chair, referring to the university's centennial year.

"I'm very excited. I'm very pleased that my colleagues on the board voted for the move to Division I," said Hayes. Everybody wins in this situation, academically and athletically."

The guidelines adopted by the trustees emphasize that student-athletes "are students first and foremost. The policies controlling their admission to the university, living arrangements, required academic performance are to be the same policies that obtain to other students," the guidelines state.

The major policy change adopted by trustees means UNCG will begin offering athletics grants-in-aid to student-athletes, first as a member of Division II and then in Division I when the shift is completed. As a member of Division III, UNCG, with an enrollment of 10,382, fields teams in four men's sports and four women's sports.

The Spartans have won the Division III championship in men's soccer four of the past five years, and its men's basketball team and women's basketball team are ranked in the top 20 nationally.

In the past five years, UNCG athletics teams have won 68 percent of their contests.

Chancellor Moran's recommendation came after months of intensive study. He took steps to strengthen the Division III program in 1981 and noted at that time that the athletics issue would need reviewing again in five or six years.

Moran said, "Everyone here charged with carrying out these changes is confident that we can do it and that when we have done it, the university's best interests will be well-served."

Moran said the university has a strong interest in affiliating with the Colonial Athletic Conference. He added that preliminary discussions already have been held with conference officials.

Moran said the shift to Division I will involve adding two more men's sports—baseball and cross country—two more women's sports—soccer and golf—and hiring 11 additional full-time personnel. To accomplish the move by 1991, these new teams must compete by 1990-91, he said.

To fund the new program, he said UNCG's present athletics budget will need to be increased from approximately $500,000 to $1.4 million (exclusive of athletics scholarship funds) by 1991-92. Moran also reported that UNCG already has raised $900,000 in gifts and pledges to support athletics grants through 1991-92. He explained that other funds will be realized through increasing the student athletics fee and by gate receipts. By 1991-92, the student athletics fee is expected to increase from $58 at present to $157, he indicated.

The timetable for the changeover calls for UNCG teams to continue competing at Division III in 1987-88, while imposing Division II eligibility rules on its athletes. In 1988-89, Division II status will be implemented and athletics scholarships will be awarded. UNCG plans to remain at Division II through 1990-91 and then move to Division I in 1991-92.

Moran said he thinks the stronger athletics programs will help UNCG attract larger numbers of academically talented students. "I think we're going to see more students here of the kind we want, because these programs are of interest to them and lend spice and variety and delight to the undergraduate experience."

UNCG is building a $15.6 million physical activities complex, which will house its school of health, physical education, recreation and dance and department of intercollegiate athletics. A gymnasium, which will seat approximately 2,500, will be included in the complex. Moran also said UNCG will strongly consider playing basketball games in the Greensboro Coliseum, which seats more than 15,000.

Moran noted, "Recent athletics scandals at major universities have prompted public concern about the integrity of intercollegiate athletics generally. Among the many lessons to be learned from what has happened, one stands out prominently: Administrative oversight at the highest level is essential. A second is that financial and program controls must rest with the university and not with outside support groups, however benign their aims. All of the potential advantages of Division I athletics are rooted in the integrity with which the effort is carried on."

Davis is sports information director at North Carolina-Greensboro.

Utica to put all sports in Division III

Utica College, saying it cannot keep pace with the growing cost of maintaining Division I athletics programs, will change all of its NCAA programs to Division III in 1988, college President Lansing Baker has announced.

Baker said the decision was made "reluctantly" but that college officials thought it wiser "to put our energy and resources into building competitive Division III teams—a level more appropriate to colleges our size."

Utica College, with 1,550 students, has been one of the smallest Division I schools since moving to that division six years ago. In an attempt to build a nationally recognized men's basketball program, the school hired Larry Costello, who won an NBA championship while coaching with the Milwaukee Bucks in 1971.

Baker said the school's failure to get into a regional conference and its inability to compete with larger schools in meeting the requirements of maintaining Division I classification were contributing factors to the decision, the Associated Press reported.

Primarily, Utica College found the cost of travel, recruiting, scholarship awards and maintaining a Division I program to be "excessive" for a school its size, the president said.

The college will be unclassified during the 1987-1988 academic year and then compete in Division III beginning in the fall of 1988, he said.

CAROLE HUSTON resigned at Bowling Green, effective April 3, to become executive director of the Huron Valley Humane Society. She was women's tennis and swimming coach and, later, assistant AD at Eastern Michigan before joining the Bowling Green staff in 1976. SID WILSON named director of public relations for the Professional Golfers Association Tour.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

R. WEBB HATCH appointed at Marymount (Virginia), where he also will be head men's basketball coach.

COACHES

Men's basketball—JIM PARKS stepped down at Cal State Bakersfield, citing personal reasons. His teams compiled a 76-35 record during his tenure, including a 16-11 record and sixth-place finish in the California Collegiate Athletic Association this season. BOB NICHOLS resigned at Toledo after 22 years in the post. His teams compiled a 377-211 record during that tenure, including an 11-17 record this season. Nichols will remain at the school as a faculty member. WAYNE SZOKE selected at Monmouth (New Jersey) after three years at Columbia, where his teams were 37-41. He succeeds RON KRAYL, who took over as interim coach early this season and coached the team to a 7-13 record. AL BROWN dismissed at Ball State, where his teams were 68-75 during his five-year tenure. His 1985-86 team qualified for the Division I Men's Basketball Championship as the Mid-American Conference representative. BARRY PARKHILL dismissed at William and Mary with a four-year record of 43-68. He was promoted from assistant at the school in 1984. MIKE ROSENBAUM resigned at Gallaudet to pursue other opportunities and spend more time with his family. His teams compiled a 48-104 record during his seven years in the post, including a 15-12 record in 1985-86 and a 16-10 record this season. WAYNE MARTIN resigned after nine years at Morehead State to become a sales manager for WYMI-TV in Hazard, Kentucky. His teams at Morehead State compiled a 130-120 record. RAY SWETALLA announced his resignation at Wisconsin-Milwaukee, effective June 30. His teams at the school posted a 33-74 record through four seasons, including an 8-20 mark this year. R. WEBB HATCH named to head the new program at Marymount (Virginia), where he also will serve as assistant athletics director. He previously was an assistant at Virginia Wesleyan for eight years.

Women's basketball—MARK FRENCH resigned at Idaho State, where his teams compiled a 34-67 record during his four-year tenure. He said he plans to pursue coaching opportunities in California.

Football assistants—BRYANT POOL hired at Texas, where he will coach tight ends. He served last season as front-six coordinator and linebackers coach at Vanderbilt and also has coached at Alabama, Tulane and Rice. STEVE LOGAN named quarterbacks coach at Mississippi State after two seasons as running backs coach at Colorado. He also has been offensive coordinator at Tulsa. DENNIS CREEHAN and TOM KEELE appointed linebackers coach and offensive line coach, respectively, at California. Creehan previously was with Edmonton of the Canadian Football League for two seasons, and Keele served last season on the staff at Weber State. JAY VENUTO named offensive coordinator at Georgia Southern after one season as quarterbacks coach at Wake Forest. He also has coached at Appalachian State. Venuto replaces PAUL JOHNSON, who was named offensive coordinator at Hawaii. JIM STRONG selected to coach running backs at Notre Dame after three years as running backs coach at Minnesota. He succeeds MIKE STOCK, who was named special teams coach for the Cincinnati Bengals. TOM GAINEY hired to coach the defensive backfield at Nichols State. The former Southeastern Louisiana assistant previously coached at Salmen High School in Slidell, Louisiana.

Men's tennis—JERRY THOMAS appointed at Aurora, succeeding BOB GRAMHAM, who resigned after four years. Thomas will continue to serve as the pro at Aurora Country Club.

Women's volleyball—Montana State's BILL NEVILLE selected to be technical director of the United States Volleyball Association. Neville coached at Montana State from 1977 to

John Kasser named associate executive director of CFA

Robert F. Riedel announced retirement as Geneseo State AD

1980, then returned after serving as assistant coach of the 1984 U.S. Olympic men's volleyball team.

ASSOCIATIONS

JOHN KASSER, athletics director at Long Beach State and a member of the NCAA Council, named associate executive director of the College Football Association. BILL NEVILLE, head women's volleyball coach at Montana State and an assistant coach with the 1984 U.S. Olympic men's volleyball team, appointed technical director of the United States Volleyball Association.

NOTABLES

PAUL SCHIMMEL, a swimmer at Maryland, and DENISE MURPHY, a two-time all-conference volleyball player at Clemson, selected to receive the Atlantic Coast Conference's annual postgraduate scholarships. Schimmel received the 16th Jim Weaver Scholarship, which honors the late ACC commissioner, and Murphy received the Marie James Scholarship, awarded in memory of the late wife of current commissioner Bob James.

DEATHS

HARRY L. LAWRENCE, former head football coach at Bucknell, died February 20 in Towson, Maryland, after a lengthy illness. He was 78. Lawrence coached at Bucknell from 1947 to 1957 and at one point led his teams to 17 straight victories from 1950 to 1952, including a 9-0 season in 1951. His record at the school was 45-51-1.

Admissions standards for athletes tightened, staff trimmed at Maryland

Chancellor John B. Slaughter has toughened admissions standards for student-athletes at the University of Maryland, College Park, but also has decided that day-to-day responsibility for the athletes' academic-support unit will remain in the school's athletics department.

Both moves represent modifications to recommendations made earlier by a campus task force that was formed to suggest academic reforms for student-athletes at Maryland.

Slaughter's directives are among the latest in a series of repercussions stemming from the death last summer of former Maryland basketball player Len Bias and subsequent revelations about academic shortcomings of the university's basketball team. In another recent development, 17 Maryland athletics employees were dismissed from their jobs in a move to reduce a departmental deficit of more than $1 million.

Under Slaughter's directives, Maryland now will admit only those student-athletes who qualify for admission under normal university guidelines.

At Maryland, marginally qualified student-athletes previously have been admitted in what is called an "individual admission" category, which is one of three admission classifications for incoming freshmen at the school. The other classifications are "regular" and "premium."

In its report, the task force at the school recommended that students in the individual category who were found to be "at-risk," or who were required to take remedial math or English, should be made ineligible to participate in athletics.

But Slaughter told The Washington Post that he rejected the task force's proposal because there is disagreement about what the definition of "at-risk" should be.

Instead, Slaughter said the school will admit far fewer student-athletes to the individual category in the future.

"My sense was that there was not a good definition of 'at-risk' and a better solution was not to admit students falling into that category," Slaughter told the Post.

As for his decision to leave management of the academic-support unit within the athletics department, Slaughter noted that the program's policy will be set by a board composed mainly of faculty, plus an academic dean and the athletics director.

The decision represents a change from plans previously announced by Slaughter to move management of the program to the school's academic sector.

Although the athletics department will retain responsibility for the academic-support unit, budget cutbacks have resulted in job cuts throughout many other areas of the department.

Jobs were cut primarily in the areas of tickets, marketing, sports information, equipment, facilities, maintenance and training, acting athletics director Charles Sturtz told the Post. However, no coaching positions were affected.

In all, 21 jobs were eliminated from the payroll, including the 17 positions affected by the dismissals plus four jobs that were not filled after recent resignations. The cuts are expected to save the department about $420,000 annually in salaries, or about 10 percent of the payroll.

The department's deficit is the result of revenue losses in several areas, including shortfalls in anticipated football and basketball gate receipts and the loss of approximately $350,000 that the financially strapped Cherry Bowl was unable to pay after the Terrapins appeared in the post-season football game in 1985.

NCAA extends probation for Alabama State for one year

During its February 13-16, 1987, meeting, the NCAA Committee on Infractions reviewed Alabama State University's performance during a probationary period imposed upon the university by the committee in April 1985. The university was placed on probation in 1985 because of serious deficiencies in the administrative practices of the athletics department at the university, which permitted a number of student-athletes to participate in practice and competition and to receive athletically related financial aid while academically ineligible under NCAA legislation.

Furthermore, in 1985, it appeared that eligibility decisions were made by some members of the football coaching staff, rather than by the director of athletics or university officials outside the athletics department.

To its credit, Alabama State University has taken steps during the probationary period to cure the deficiencies in its athletics department and has taken significant disciplinary action by suspending its head football coach for one year. The committee takes note of the improvements that have been made and commends the university for these actions. The committee's findings in this case, however, indicate that further improvements should be made.

One student-athlete participated in practice and competition in football during the 1985-86 academic year at a time when he was academically ineligible to do so. During the 1986-87 academic year, three prospective student-athletes were allowed to participate in the role of student managers in football at a time when they were ineligible to do so; and during 1986 an extra benefit in the form of transportation was provided a student-athlete. Finally, a weight-training program was conducted for football team members under circumstances that raised possible out-of-season practice and tryout issues.

Although the violations found in this case are not as serious in scope as those found in the past by the committee, they do indicate a continuing need to improve the administrative practices of the athletics department and to impress upon the football coaching staff that it must rely on the director of athletics and appropriate university officials outside the athletics department to ensure that decisions are in conformity with NCAA legislation.

The committee's findings are set forth in Part II of this report, and the committee's penalties are contained in Part III.

II. Violations of NCAA requirements or questionable practices in light of NCAA requirements as determined by committee.

A. Violations of the provisions governing eligibility [NCAA Bylaws 5-1-(j), 5-1-(j)-(2) and 5-6-(b)].

1. During the first semester of the 1985-86 academic year, a student-athlete was permitted to participate in practice sessions for more than a two-week period and to participate in one regular-season football game, even though the young man had not achieved the minimum academic requirements for entering freshmen to be certified eligible. Further, the university declared the young man ineligible after one game and withheld him from further competition, but failed to report the use of an ineligible player to the NCAA and also failed to apply the appropriate NCAA eligibility sanctions to the young man for participating while ineligible. [Bylaws 5-1-(j) and 5-6-(b)]

2. Prior to the opening day of classes during the first semester of the 1986-87 academic year, the university permitted three student-athletes to participate in football practice sessions and team meetings as student managers and to receive lodging and meals in the institution's dormitory at no cost to the young men, even though they had not met NCAA academic requirements for participation in such activities. [Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2)]

B. Violation of the provisions governing extra benefits to student-athletes [NCAA Constitution 3-1-(g)-(5)].

1. On or about June 20, 1986, two assistant football coaches provided a student-athlete automobile transportation at no cost to the young man from another city to Montgomery, Alabama (a distance of approximately 200 miles).

C. Questionable practice in light of NCAA requirements [NCAA Bylaw 3-1-(a)-(2)].

1. During the summer of 1986, the university's football coaching staff conducted a conditioning and weight-training program in a manner that was considered questionable in light of NCAA regulations that apply to such conditioning programs. Such a program is permissible if it is open to the entire student body, notice of the program is given to the general student body, and the program is not a subterfuge for conducting football drills. The program conducted by the university was questionable in that the notice given to the general student body was limited, and there was an appearance of football drills through the division of players into groups based upon their playing positions.

III. Committee on Infractions Penalties.

A. The probationary period previously imposed on Alabama State University will be extended for a one-year period, until December 30, 1987. During this period, the university shall develop measures to strengthen procedures for assuring that its athletics program is in compliance with NCAA legislation. The university should give particular attention to: (1) the development of a method for certification of eligibility for practice and competition by institutional staff members who are responsible for student academic records and who are not members of the athletics department coaching staff; (2) ensuring that proper certification is obtained prior to permitting student-athletes to participate in practice and competition, and (3) the development of a procedure that requires members of the coaching staff to seek interpretations of NCAA rules from persons outside the coaching staff who are specifically designated as responsible for such interpretations of NCAA rules. In implementing these procedures, the university should insist that all coaches and particularly the head football coach accept procedures that will allow the director of athletics to exercise effective administrative control over the university's athletics program.

B. Prior to the conclusion of the probationary period, the university shall review its procedures and policies in the areas described above with appropriate representatives of the NCAA compliance and enforcement staff during an on-campus inspection, and the university shall report the results of this review in writing for the approval of the committee.

[NOTE: Should Alabama State University appeal either the findings of violations or any of the proposed penalties to the NCAA Council, the Committee on Infractions will submit an expanded infractions report to the members of the Council who will consider the appeal. This report will include additional information in accordance with Section 6 of the Official Procedure Governing the NCAA Enforcement Program, and a copy will be provided prior to the institution's hearing.]

Also, the Committee on Infractions wishes to advise the university that when the penalties and corrective actions, as determined by the committee or Council subcommittee, become effective, the university shall take every precaution to ensure that their terms are observed. Further, the committee intends to monitor the penalties, and any action contrary to the terms of any of the penalties shall be considered grounds for extending the university's probationary period, as well as to consider imposing more severe sanctions in the case.]

Copyright royalty payments mailed to qualifying members

Member institutions and conferences have been mailed payments totalling $1,261,817 for 1984 cable television royalties as distributed by the Copyright Royalty Tribunal to various sports interests. The NCAA annually files claims on behalf of members to recover these payments.

It is believed this settlement, which has been distributed to appropriate member institutions and conferences in unit amounts of $762.02, represents the entire amount to be distributed for 1984. However, if the CRT rules that additional moneys are to be paid, funds will be forwarded when they become available.

These statutory royalty fees are based upon the number of broadcast stations' signals that a cable television system retransmits outside the community or "local service area" that those broadcasting stations serve. The exact amount of the royalty payment is determined by Federal statute, which consists of a specific percentage of the cable system's gross receipts for each distant signal equivalent.

Royalty payments are made for retransmissions of nonnetwork, over-the-air broadcast programming beyond the local service area of the broadcast station. The underlying rationale for the CRT system is the belief that the copyright owner should be compensated when cable television systems carry a telecast beyond the geographical area for which the sale of broadcast rights was negotiated. Royalties are not payable on cable retransmissions of national network programming.

Research aim: new method for strength

A Kent State University researcher has received a grant to test a method for increasing athletes' strength in hopes of providing a medically safe alternative to steroids, which have been used by some athletes as a muscle-builder.

Peter W. R. Lemon has received about $60,000 from Weider Health and Fitness Company to conduct research that will involve 10 to 12 college-age weightlifters who are in active training.

"There is a need to provide a scientifically sound, medically safe and natural way of improving athletics performance," he said.

Each of the athletes will be given a diet supplement consisting of two natural amino acids. These compounds are found in many foods and do not have any known side effects.

"The purpose of the study," Lemon said, "is to test the hypothesis that the amino acids, building blocks of protein, will produce increased muscle growth. This, in turn, will lead to greater strength."

"Specifically, we (himself and Morris Chaney, a postgraduate student at Kent State) will measure the changes that occur in blood growth hormone concentration, muscle size and strength, and nitrogen balance (a measure of muscle formation) when the weightlifters are given amino acids."

Lemon noted that the athletes taking part in the project will be divided into two groups. Each group will be studied over two successive periods.

One group will be studied first for 17 days on the diet supplement and for the next 17 days on a placebo (a sugar pill), while the second group will be studied first on the placebo and then on the supplement. The weightlifters will train normally throughout the study.

Neither the athletes nor the researchers will know in which order the treatments were given until all measurements have been analyzed.

Lemon said that the use of a diet supplement to improve athletics performance "is not considered unethical or illegal." He noted that, for example, it is common practice for endurance athletes to increase their dietary carbohydrates in order to improve their performance.

"If our study shows that the use of the two amino acids does produce greater strength," he said, "it is hoped that this could significantly minimize drug problems in strength sports."

The proposed effect of the diet supplement, if confirmed by the study, would have implications beyond athletics, according to Lemon.

"If we show that the supplement increases muscle strength, it could also be used to treat victims of degenerative muscle disease," he said.

Tests show decline in drug abuse

Twenty-nine of the 330 college football players at the NFL's tryout camp in Indianapolis tested positive for drug or alcohol use, an NFL official said. It was the first time the NFL included steroid screening in the six years it has tested college players.

One player tested positive for cocaine, six for marijuana, 20 for steroids and two for alcohol use in the screening six weeks ago, according to results found in a letter dated February 24, which was sent to each of the NFL's 28 clubs, The Dallas Morning News reported.

The results represent a sharp fall-off from last year, when 57 of the 335 college players tested positive at the combine in New Orleans. Three were found to have used cocaine, and 54 had used marijuana or other substances.

This summer, NFL players will be tested for steroids for the first time in the training camp.

The NFL official told the newspaper that the player testing positive for cocaine this year revealed the presence of a small traceable amount and that the player is considered a late-round draft choice or perhaps a free agent, the Associated Press reported.

Two of the 29 players on the "the dirty list," as it is called, are considered first-round picks in the April 28 draft, with one testing positive for marijuana and the other for steroids. The official said 21 were considered likely to be drafted before the test results were revealed.

The decrease in the number testing positive has been attributed to the fact that colleges are better at educating and randomly testing players, and players were more aware that they would be tested when they arrived at the combine January 28.

"Players who get caught are either very stupid or so heavily into it they can't get off it," one NFL general manager said.

"The players are getting smarter. And the fact that many schools are testing during the year may also be having an impact."

Chronic marijuana users will test positive for up to 33 days, and cocaine will be detected for up to 48 hours in the most common urinalysis drug screens, regardless of the amount, said Peter Dysert, M.D., director of clinical chemistry at the Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas.
