Brown set a record in the event, but Bates broke it 10 minutes later with her winning effort.

Commission agenda features planning for National Forum

The NCAA Presidents Commission will concentrate on planning for the remainder of its National Forum during its September 29-30 meeting at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Kansas City, Missouri.

The fall meeting is the first for the Commission since the special Convention that it called in June of this year. "This meeting should be a significant one for the Commission, as it not only reviews the initial planning for the National Forum, but also begins to chart its future course in the aftermath of the special Convention," Commission Chair John B. Slaughter said.

Planning for the remainder of the National Forum, which was launched at the special June Convention, began with the formation this summer of the Commission's Ad Hoc Committee on the National Forum, chaired by the President Bernard F. Sliger of Florida State University.

That committee met August 1 in Atlanta and will conduct a telephone conference today (September 21) to continue its work. It then will meet at noon September 29, just before the Commission meeting begins, to complete its first report to the full Commission.

The Commission's Divisions I, II and III subcommittees all will discuss the Forum plans from their own division perspectives during those subcommittees' meetings during the afternoon September 29. Sliger then will present his committee's report to the full Commission the next day.

Included in the considerations of Sliger's committee and the Commission will be a proposal by the American Institutes for Research to conduct the studies attendant to the National Forum, as approved by the delegates to the June Convention.

Some freshmen welcomed to school with packages from NCAA sponsors

Incoming freshmen are being greeted at more than 100 NCAA member institutions with packages stocked with personal-care products, a drug- and alcohol-education booklet, and other useful materials, all courtesy of the Association and local athletics departments.

The Campus Welcome Packs were made possible by NCAA corporate sponsors and other major manufacturers, who provided enough product samples and printed materials to produce 400,000 of the packages. Coordinated by Host Communications, the project is designed to spark interest in athletics among freshmen while offering the manufacturers a means of introducing their products and services.

"We're hoping that the athletics departments at the participating schools find that the packs provide a strong communications link," said Host's Ralph McBarron, project coordinator. "If a student doesn't support athletics as a freshman, he probably won't later on, even as an alumnus."

Each school is encouraged to include its own promotional materials in the packs, including schedules, bumper stickers, introductory letters and decals.

In return for placing the packs in the hands of freshmen, the partici-

Championships dates, sites set for 1987-88

Regional action in Division III field hockey will kick off the Association's 1987-88 championships season, in which 76 NCAA championships are scheduled in 21 sports.

There currently are 11 National Collegiate Championships for which all divisions are eligible—four for men, five for women, and two men's and women's events. There are 22 National Collegiate Division I Championships (13 men's, nine women's), 19 National Collegiate Division II Championships (11 men's, eight women's) and 24 National Collegiate Division III Championships (13 men's, 11 women's).

Several men's tournaments will mark special anniversaries this season. Heading that list is the Division I Men's Basketball Championship, which will hold the 50th Final Four at Kansas City's Kemper Arena next April. Other notable events include the 10th Division I-AA football play-offs, the 65th swimming and diving finals, the 104th tennis championships, and the 35th skiing event (included here as a men's event since the championships became coed only a few years ago).

Followers of women's intercollegiate athletics may call 1987-88 the "women's lucky seven" when reviewing the NCAA championships calendar. Of the 28 women's championships events on the calendar, 22 will mark their seventh anniversary. The others were created more recently.

In addition to kicking off play-off competition, Division III field hockey also will crown the first NCAA champion of the new year. The championship game is set for November 14. Division I baseball will crown the last champion of 1987-88 June 11. That final game will be televised live by CBS Sports.

Following is a complete list of dates and sites for 1987-88 NCAA championships. Previews of each tournament, scores from and pairings for intermediate rounds of com-

Eligibility appeals published

Beginning with this issue (pages 6 and 7), The NCAA News will regularly publish decisions made by the NCAA Eligibility Committee concerning eligibility appeals on behalf of student-athletes. It is anticipated that the committee's decisions will be published in the News monthly.

"The committee recognizes the importance of the membership being aware of previous decisions. It is hoped that through understanding precedents set in earlier cases, institutions will be able better to understand decisions reached through the eligibility process," said Olav B. Kollevoll, director of athletics at Lafayette College. Kollevoll's term as chair of the Eligibility Committee expired September 1 after six years of service.

Appeals decisions are divided into two types to assist in their understanding. One category includes all appeals except those involving recruiting violations. The other consists of the recruiting violations that affect the eligibility of the involved student-athletes through the provisions of NCAA Bylaws 5-1-(i) and 5-6-(f). In the recruiting cases, a critical issue concerning restoration of eligibility is whether the institution gained a substantial recruiting advantage as

Bylaw 5-1-(j)—national testing dates

Divisions I and II member institutions are reminded that in accordance with the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 5-1-(j) [effective August 1, 1988, for Division II institutions], a student-athlete who initially enrolls in a Division I or II member institution and wishes to be eligible for intercollegiate competition during the freshman year must achieve a minimum SAT or ACT test score along with a minimum grade-point average in a core curriculum of courses. The minimum score on the SAT or ACT examination must be achieved no later than July 1 immediately preceding the individual's first enrollment at a collegiate institution. Further, the examination must be taken under normal testing conditions on a national testing date [i.e., no residual (campus) testing is permitted]. The testing date must be a national (as distinguished from regional) testing date.

Following are the SAT and ACT examination dates scheduled during the 1987-1988 academic year as national testing dates:

SAT 1987-88

October 10, 1987
November 7, 1987
December 5, 1987

Institutional control of printed recruiting aids

The NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee reviewed the application of Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(3) [printed recruiting aids], Bylaw 1-10 [precollege expense] and NCAA Constitution 3-2-(d) [institutional control] to a situation in which an independent publication, which provides information about the institution's intercollegiate teams and prospective recruits, develops a marketing plan that involves asking representatives of the institution's athletics interests to provide each high school in the state with a free subscription to this publication. The committee agreed that Constitution 3-2-(d) and (e), which provide that an institution is responsible for the acts of independent agencies and other individuals promoting the institution's intercollegiate athletics program, require that the institution advise the publication and the institution's athletics representatives that the provisions of Bylaws 1-1-(b)-(3) and 1-10 prohibit this type of promotional activity.

Basketball evaluation

The Divisions I and II subcommittees of the Legislation and Interpretations Committee have reviewed the application of Bylaw 1-3-(a)-(2) indicating that institutional staff members shall be limited to observing a maximum of four basketball contests in which a prospective student-athlete competes during an academic year. It was determined that any contest observed in which a prospect participates against outside competition (e.g., involvement in a recreational league or an all-star game) must count as one of the four permissible basketball contests for purposes of this legislation. Further, a member institution need not count those contests involving prospective student-athletes in which fewer than five members participate on a team (e.g., one-on-one, three-on-three) or any activities conducted in conjunction with practice sessions.

Committee Notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill interim vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancy must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA office no later than October 9, 1987.

Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism: Replacement for Martha E. Savery, formerly at Fitchburg State College. Savery has accepted a position at Harvard University, a Division I institution. Appointee must be a woman from Division III.

Committee Changes

Appointments are effective immediately unless otherwise noted:

Research: Janice A. Harper, North Carolina Central University, appointed to replace Susan A. Carberry, California State University, Dominguez Hills, resigned.

Baseball: Francis "Sonny" Pittaro, Rider College, appointed to replace Robert M. Hannah, University of Delaware, resigned, as a member of the committee; Gene McArtor, University of Missouri, Columbia, appointed to replace Hannah as chair of the committee.

Division II Women's Basketball: Nancy A. Rowe, New Hampshire College, appointed to replace Paula M. Mullen, resigned from Bentley College; Sherri Reeves, Northwest Missouri State University, appointed to replace Mullen as chair of the committee. Mullen would have taken office September 1.

Women's Fencing: Sherry Posthumus, Stanford University, appointed to replace Edwin K. Hurst, no longer at an NCAA member institution.

Men's and Women's Track and Field: Bill Cornell, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, appointed to replace Michael S. Muska, formerly at Northwestern, now at Brown University (same conference as another member of the committee).

Women's Committee on Committees: Judith A. Sullivan, Southeastern Massachusetts University, appointed to replace Mary Lou Thimas, formerly at Bridgewater State College (Massachusetts), no longer at an NCAA member institution.

Other topics

In addition to the National Forum plans, the full Commission has the following topics on its agenda:

- Review and possible endorsement of a proposed institutional code of responsibility and a student-athlete code of ethics.

- A report from the Special NCAA Committee on Deregulation and Rules Simplification on its progress in revising the NCAA Manual.

- Discussion of means of strengthening the chief executive officer's role in institutional control of athletics programs, including a suggestion that an institution's governing board be required to make a formal commitment to compliance with NCAA regulations.

- Review of anticipated major legislation for consideration at the Association's January 1988 Convention.

- Review of the NCAA governance structure and procedures, focusing on the methods by which NCAA legislation is adopted and amended.

- Review of the Commission's role within the NCAA administrative structure.

- Review of the special June Convention.

- Remarks by the Association's new executive director, Richard D. Schultz, who assumes that position October 1.

Subcommittees

In their separate sessions, the Divisions I, II and III subcommittees will deal with certain topics of their own, in addition to their views of the National Forum planning.

Divisions II and III subcommittees will receive reports from the Divisions II and III Steering Committees on current division issues, and the Division III group also will discuss a pilot study of initial academic eligibility standards in that division.

The Division I subcommittee will review the usefulness and readability of the NCAA Division I academic-reporting data, at the request of the NCAA Council. It also will discuss a pending study of Division I-AA final-examination calendars as they relate to the Division I-AA Football Championship.

Division I-A members of the Commission will meet separately late in the afternoon September 29 to discuss the proposed plan to have Division I-A members vote in January on a resolution regarding interest in a Division I-A football championship.

The Commission's Presidential Nominating Committee also will meet during the Kansas City gathering to determine its slate of candidates to fill vacancies occurring on the Commission in January 1988.

In addition to Slaughter (Commission) and Sliger (ad hoc committee), chairs of the various sessions will be Chancellor Ira Michael Heyman, University of California, Berkeley, Division I and Division I-A; President James W. Cleary, California State University, Northridge, Division II; President James J. Whalen, Ithaca College, Division III, and President Lattie F. Coor, University of Vermont, nominating committee.

pating schools share in funds provided for the project by contributing manufacturers. Commonly, cheerleader and spirit groups or other organizations within the departments receive the funds in payment for handling distribution of the packs on their campuses.

Similarly, freshmen receiving the packages stand to benefit from more than just the free items inside. One student at each campus among those receiving the packs also will receive a $500 scholarship to be applied toward tuition and fees, provided that a market-survey card in the package is returned for drawings to be staged at the schools.

The packages also provide another vehicle for NCAA efforts to educate students about the dangers of drug and alcohol use. Through the drug- and alcohol-education booklets included in the packs, the Association is distributing "important information to kids who are in a transition period," McBarron said.

"We felt this was an excellent opportunity to educate students about the harm that can be caused by these substances."

Positive response

Early indications are that the Campus Welcome Packs are a success, McBarron said. "The response is very positive from the schools. The packages are well-received by the students. The athletics programs think it's a good way to distribute information about their programs."

As a result, the program probably will be expanded to even more schools in the coming years.

"We hope this will become something that helps raise funds for a group, provides a means of communication and creates a little good will," he said.

The Campus Welcome Packs program originated in meetings involving the NCAA's eight corporate sponsors. The program was conceived as a means of placing product samples and information directly in the hands of students in a manner that cuts down on the waste of materials and lack of control over distribution that plagues other campus free-sample programs.

Students representing the athletics departments and, in some cases, departmental personnel pass out the packs at venues varying from spirit rallies and orientation sessions to freshman dormitories and registration booths.

Coaches help, too

For instance, coaches manned the distribution booth at the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, to make themselves better known to new students, while cheerleaders handed out packs at a freshman-orientation dance at Rutgers University, New Brunswick. At Southeast Missouri State University, members of the men's and women's track teams distributed the packs at campus dining halls and the student center.

The "personal, hand-to-hand" distribution of the packages pleases the participating manufacturers, including Gillette, an NCAA corporate sponsor that McBarron describes as "the major fuel behind this program." Representatives of Gillette have observed some of the schools' distribution efforts and responded with news that the company may increase its participation in the future.

Other participating firms are Rawlings, AT&T, Johnson and Johnson, 3M, Tambrands, York Color Labs, Columbia House, and Time, Inc., which reported that it already is receiving subscription orders from students who received the packs.

"We limited the program this year to a manageable number of schools, but our ultimate goal is to add as many NCAA institutions who want to participate as possible," McBarron said.

a result of the violation.

Reports of the cases identify the involved institution and the NCAA regulation violated, and include a brief synopsis of the facts and the result of the appeal. Cases involving recruiting violations also indicate whether it was determined that a recruiting advantage occurred.

The first report includes cases decided between February 1 and August 20, 1987. The cases reported represent approximately the first six months of experience under the new process that includes an initial decision by the staff eligibility officer, Stephen R. Morgan, assistant executive director for compliance and enforcement, subject to ratification by the chair of the appropriate division subcommittee of the Eligibility Committee.

"We believe the new process is working well," said Edwin D. Muto, director of athletics at the State University of New York, Buffalo, and new chair of the committee. "It allows the involved institution to get a prompt decision on an appeal when necessary, permits the expeditious handling of more routine cases and allows the committee members to focus on complex cases. The opportunity for a full hearing by the appropriate division subcommittee is always available."

College baseball games attended by 14.3 million in '87—a record

College baseball attendance continued its upward climb in 1987, according to a nationwide survey by Collegiate Baseball newspaper.

The season's total turnout of 14,383,152 fans broke the all-time record set in 1986 and marked the third straight year in which attendance has increased. The 1987 figures are almost triple those in Collegiate Baseball's first survey in 1979.

Attendance figures, which include postseason play, were compiled from questionnaires sent to every four-year institution and junior college in the U.S. where baseball is played.

The increase last spring came despite consistently unfavorable weather in some sections of the country.

Among individual institutions, the University of Texas, Austin, and Mississippi State University were among the attendance leaders. Texas led in total fan turnout with 122,481 passing through the turnstiles at Disch-Falk Field during the regular season, while Mississippi State's refurbished Dudy Noble Field drew the highest average at 3,665 fans per game.

Mississippi State edged Texas in regional championship attendance, drawing 31,826 fans to the Longhorns' 30,100. Regional attendance increased overall, as did the turnout at the College World Series at Omaha.

After a record attendance of 130,659 in 1987, Rosenblatt Municipal Stadium will be expanded to accommodate future College World Series crowds.

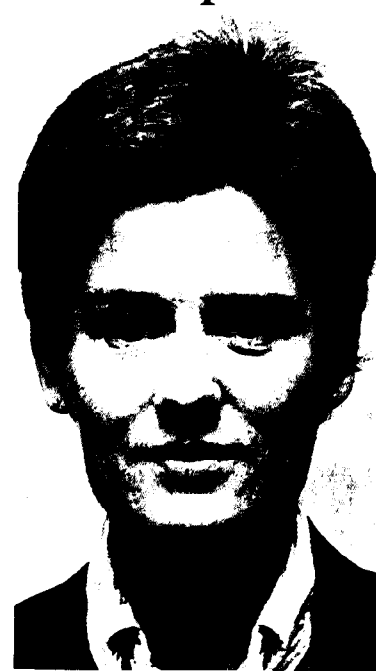

Also posting impressive figures were such schools as the University of Hawaii (105,646), California State University, Fresno (94,271) and Sunshine State competitors Florida State University (83,077) and the University of Miami (80,862).

Justus named to new post

Janet M. Justus has been named to fill the newly created position of assistant director of eligibility in the NCAA compliance and enforcement department. Justus has been a member of that department's staff since November 1984.

She joined the NCAA as an enforcement representative from the Topeka (Kansas) Legal Aid Society, where she had been a staff attorney. Justus received her undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Kansas, where she played intercollegiate tennis.

In her new position, Justus will continue responsibilities assigned to her in January as staff liaison to the NCAA Eligibility Committee. Her primary duties will involve communicating with member institutions concerning appeals for the restoration of the eligibility of student-athletes who are ruled ineligible under NCAA rules.

Experimentation applications due by November 6

Women's basketball conferences wishing to use the right of option or an officiating technique to eliminate delays after a timeout or intermission as experimental rules during the 1987-88 season must apply for that privilege before November 6.

Permission to use experimental rules is granted by Dianne C. Jones, chair of the women's basketball experimental-rules subcommittee. Inquiries and applications may be directed to her at the University of Wisconsin, Whitewater, Wisconsin 53190.

Use of experimental rules is limited to conference games. Conferences that receive permission to use experimental rules are required to gather specific data and report that data on the appropriate forms. Data gathered through the use of experimental rules will assist the NCAA Women's Basketball Rules Committee in the rules-writing process.

The right-of-option rule allows a team to inbound the ball after a foul in lieu of shooting free throws. The procedure to eliminate delays after a timeout or intermission involves a signal from the timer 15 seconds prior to the end of the timeout or intermission and a second signal when play is to be resumed.

On a throw-in, after the second signal sounds, the official will place the ball at the disposal of the thrower-in even if the defense is not ready. If the thrower-in is not ready, the official will place the ball on the floor and begin the five-second count.

On a free-throw attempt, after the second signal sounds, the official will place the ball at the disposal of the free-thrower, which includes placing the ball on the floor and beginning the count if the free-thrower is not ready.

All free-throw restrictions go into effect when the count begins. If the shooting team commits a violation, the free throw is lost. If the non-shooting team commits a violation, a substitute throw would result on an unsuccessful attempt.

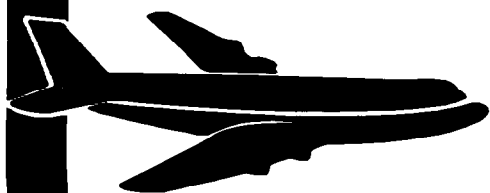

The experimental-rules subcommittee also is asking conferences to volunteer to collect data on the frequency of intentional fouls on shooters and nonshooters. Conferences willing to supply this data should follow the same procedure outlined above.

Sooners racking up points in classes, too

By Owen Canfield

The University of Oklahoma football program has always been known for turning out great teams and great athletes. Six national titles, 14 Big Eight Conference titles and 45 consensus all-Americas are part of the tradition.

Now, another tradition is beginning—producing football players who excel at studying more than just their playbooks.

"We're among the top four schools in academic all-Americas, but only one of those came between 1975 and 1986. That made me sick," said Jin Brown, who became academic counselor to the football team in 1981 and since 1985 has served as head counselor to all athletes.

"We're building that tradition back up now," he said.

In 1981, roughly 30 percent of football seniors graduated, Brown said. In the past three years, 35 of the 40 seniors have received their degrees.

In 1986, Oklahoma nominated 19 players for All-Big Eight academic honors and nine were chosen, both school records. Two players, linebackers Brian Bosworth and Evan Gatewood, were chosen to various academic all-America teams.

This year, Brown estimates 16 players will be eligible for conference academic honors and three may be eligible for all-America recognition.

Why the recent emphasis on grades?

"There was no particular reason. We just put forth the resources and made the commitment," said coach Barry Switzer.

"And, Proposition 48 came along. School was becoming tougher and competition is greater in the classroom. It's more demanding for a better student; so therefore, we had to gear up," he said.

Switzer in recent years has talked often about the strides

Coaches need five-year contracts to develop full potential of players

Bill McCartney, head football coach
University of Colorado

The Kansas City Times

"Give (a coach) a five-year contract, a legitimate five-year contract. If you're going to settle on him, then have enough confidence to say, 'We're going to hang in there for five years so we can get through your first recruiting class and graduate them.'"

"Do you know, I went over to our academic adviser's office the other day and checked on every single guy. We have 19 fifth-year seniors, and every one of them is on schedule to graduate by next summer.

"Not only that, but we have several guys who are fourth-year seniors who also are on schedule to graduate. That's part of what I'm talking about. Isn't that how you should be judging us?"

Leigh Steinberg, sports agent
Los Angeles

United Press International

"The easiest way to break in (as a sport-agent) is to sign a college draftee. Most veterans already are represented, so the exposure new agents have to the veterans is very limited. The college players are easy victims because many come from poor backgrounds.

"The college scholarship system does not allow many of these athletes from poor backgrounds to enjoy the normal pleasures of other college students. They do not have the money for cars and a real social life.

"NCAA regulations prohibit a full scholarship athlete from working during the school year, so they cannot earn money elsewhere. For football players, the window for a summer job is very narrow because most camps open early in August. This makes these young men very susceptible to offers of money, cars and women from agents.

"I think the NCAA has to redefine the amount of money it allows in scholarships. I think that amount needs to include $200 to $300 in laundry money a month. Not so the athlete can live like a prince, but so he does not have to worry about money day-to-day.

"There also should be some kind of short-term loan system where if a player gets into financial trouble, he can go to the athletics department and arrange a loan. This would help to make the agents' offering under-the-table money much less attractive."

Watson Brown, head football coach
Vanderbilt University

Houston Chronicle

"I don't like the death penalty one bit. I've taken a lot of heat for being as outspoken about it, because people think I'm taking up for cheating.

"That's not true, but I don't think it's fair to the players on the team that isn't playing any more who didn't know what was going on and were just there to play football and get an education.

"You've got to punish the kids who are doing it, not the others. I totally disagree with it."

Rep. Charles B. Rangel, New York Democrat
U.S. House of Representatives

The Associated Press

"We must strive to have adequate (drug) education, prevention and treatment programs at the professional, college and high school levels.

"We need to acknowledge that sports events and athletes are perceived by many people as larger than life. Therefore, stories about drug abuse and sports have assumed larger-than-life proportions. This places special responsibility on the sports community to come to grips with the problem of drug abuse.

"But drug abuse is a societal problem, and it should come as no surprise that athletes would have the same problems as society as a whole."

A. Bartlett Giamatti, president
National League of Major League Baseball

The Associated Press

"The NCAA is not entirely to blame for the sorry state of big-time athletics. Nor does one properly blame television entirely. I place blame for these scandals on those who run the colleges and universities that give money to young people for the sole purpose of playing a sport for the commercial gain of the institution.

The increase would be especially large for the top athletes, who generally come from

Letters to the Editor

NCAA stance on draft hypocritical

To the Editor:

"Byers criticizes NFL for... supplemental draft."

While reading the article that accompanied that headline in your September 2 edition, I was struck by the hypocritical nature of what Mr. Byers had to say. How can he oppose the National Football League when it is the last professional league to take a hands-off posture relative to college underclassmen?

Where are the cries of indignation when a college sophomore declares himself eligible for the NBA's so-called "hardship" draft? Why are no campuses declared off limits to NBA teams that actually draft those players (the way Pitt's Mike Gottfried has declared a ban against the Philadelphia Eagles for drafting Cris Carter)?

How can Mr. Byers (and everybody else associated with the NCAA) sit back and do nothing when Major League Baseball drafts players right out of high school, before they ever have a chance to go to college?

Just as it is time the NCAA treated I-A football the same way it does every other collegiate sport (with a national champion decided on the field), it is time to treat the NFL the same way every other professional team sport is treated.

What's good for one is good for them all.

Rules can penalize smaller schools

To the Editor:

From all I have read and heard, it appears that it has happened again. The lack of communication and common sense has created recruiting rules that hamper the efforts of those coaches at the smaller schools.

I have never been sure exactly who makes the recommendation for rules—faculty athletics reps, athletics directors or NCAA staff members.

The recent rule change regarding the evaluation and contact period for basketball and football recruiting is another classic example of policy with good intentions but not much insight.

As head basketball coach at a Division II university with only one part-time assistant, I am seeking suggestions on how I can evaluate this year's

Johnson intent on changing 'Canes' bad-guy image

By Herschel Nissenson

Call it Miami Nice.

It is the University of Miami (Florida) team's attempting to erase the catchy, headline-grabbing "Miami Vice" image it acquired last season after spending almost as much time on the news pages as on the sports pages.

School officials say the comparisons with the popular TV crime show are cheap shots unfairly linking the school to the city's image.

They say the real problems concerning the football program have been cleaned up—or at least straightened up—and that many of the others fall into the boys-will-be-boys category.

"(Penn State coach) Joe Paterno told me he's had plenty of problems in State College, but nobody knows about them," said Miami coach Jimmy Johnson. "If I get a parking ticket, everybody in Miami knows about it."

Extracurricular brushes with the law are common on college campuses. But Johnson has learned that Miami's campus is much more visible than, say, Oklahoma State University in out-of-the-way Stillwater, where he coached from 1979 to 1983.

"We can't have the average number of problems," Johnson said. "Because of our image, we have to have less than the average number of problems, or we'll still have our image."

Numbers, however, are a problem.

In 1986, there were at least a dozen Miami football players involved in incidents such as gas-siphoning, shoplifting, sexual misconduct, fighting with police officers and leasing cars from sports agents. Some of the charges were upheld, some ended in acquittal and some were reduced. All received publicity.

"What's unfortunate is that almost all of what happened were allegations; and when the allegations proved false, hardly any mention was made of it," Johnson said.

There have been times when the players have been their own worst enemy.

Last December, the No. 1-ranked Hurricanes arrived in Phoenix for their Fiesta Bowl showdown with Penn State with about a dozen players wearing fatigues in keeping with their season-long slogan that they were "on a mission" to win the national championship.

"I wasn't on the plane, so I didn't know about the fatigues," Johnson said. "I was as surprised as anybody. But I wasn't going to cause a furor over what a dozen players wore a week before the game."

The incident heightened the already existing good-guy, bad-guy image between the two schools.

Later, at a dinner leading up to the game, the Miami team walked out after Penn State punter John Bruno chided Johnson's elegant coiffure and needled Miami's "family" concept by saying that Penn State lets its black players eat with the white players once a week.

"We caught all the criticism. And if a Miami player had said those things and Penn State had walked out, we would have been criticized for making racial remarks," Johnson said.

"It was a very frustrating year we went through," Johnson said. "To have the negative publicity and the feeling we have with an 11-1 football team...."

Johnson says he will run a tighter ship this year.

"If there are disciplinary problems, I will make it very, very clear that those players will not be asked to return to the lineup for the rest of the season," he said.

Also, Miami players will wear coats and ties on trips.

"We had good people last year and we have good people this year," Johnson said. "It's what's beneath those coats and shirts that counts."

Johnson has cleaned up one of the negative aspects of Miami's football history—its graduation rate.

Two of the 22 scholarship football players from Miami's class of 1982—9.1 percent—graduated within five years. The number increased to 27.8 percent (five of 18) for the class of '83 and 28.6 percent (eight of 28) for the class of '84.

Johnson arrived in June 1984, and the graduation rate for the class of '85 went to 72.7 percent (16 of 22). It dipped to 63.6 percent (14 of 22) for class of '87, but six others were in the process of completing their degrees.

"It's no big surprise that more guys are graduating," said halfback Mike Bratton. "Coaches will get on you as much for cutting a class or doing badly on a test as they will for anything on the field—sometimes even more."

Linebacker George Mira Jr. agrees.

"Since coach Johnson came, there's been a complete turnaround," he said.

However, it will take a lot for Johnson to clear the air surrounding the Hurricanes.

"People may question how I do things," he said, "but the bottom line is that we abide by NCAA rules and regulations, we're committed to academics, our players graduate, and we win football games."

prospects. These new rules penalize some members.

New Calendar

September 17 to October 7—Our university is on the quarter system and our students are scheduled to arrive September 19 and 20. I think it is important to be on campus at this time. Besides, there are no teams playing to evaluate. High school practice cannot begin until November 1, and we do not get many early signings in Division II.

December 11 to December 31—In Colorado, it is not permissible for high schools to practice or play during the winter recess. If things go well, I will be able to evaluate when my team is not practicing, up to December 19 when the high schools break for vacation. Plus, the junior colleges break for vacation about December 12.

February 8 to February 28—We are now playing the most important games of our season. We are in the conference schedule and have games scheduled every Friday and Saturday night. If we are lucky, some of the players we are interested in will be playing during the week, and I will be scheduled for an early practice time that week so I can get to the school by game time. The net result is the same: little evaluation because of game and schedule commitments.

March 1 to April 7—I hope that the players we are recruiting make it to the state tournaments. In many cases, because of conflicts, this will be my first opportunity to see them play since last summer. If they do not make it to the tournaments, there is a good chance I will not get to see them play.

July 10 to July 31—This is it. I can now go to Phoenix, Las Vegas, Orlando and Southern California to watch players who live within 50 miles of my campus. Not all, but most, of this will be wasted effort since high school juniors are not interested in Division II until they see if they get a Division I offer.

I have never understood why Division II schools must be governed by Division I rules. I keep hoping that someone can explain it to me. Our competition for players comes from NAIA schools and junior colleges; and thanks to the new rule, they certainly have the edge.

For those of you who would suggest that I talk with my administration about additional help, please keep in mind that one of the reasons given for the modification of the rule was to save money. My university has been penalized because some schools have spent in excess, and now we find we cannot go 50 miles down the road to watch a youngster play basketball when our schedules allow. Would you believe this was done in the name of better athletics?

Where are the cries of indignation when a college sophomore declares himself eligible for the NBA's so-called "hardship" draft? Why are no campuses declared off limits to NBA teams that actually draft those players (the way Pitt's Mike Gottfried has declared a ban against the Philadelphia Eagles for drafting Cris Carter)?

Players commended for helping kids

To the Editor:

We are writing to commend Darryl Henley, Brendan McCracken and Rodney Peete, all fine collegiate football players of the NCAA, for speaking out against drugs at the Athletes For Kids special antidrug-abuse program this summer. "Drug Free and Proud to Be" was developed by the Boys and Girls Clubs of America, and Athletes for Kids was invited to participate at special rallies during the summer months.

Darryl and Brendan of UCLA and Rodney, a quarterback from Southern Cal, took time out of their summer schedules to encourage youngsters to be "Drug Free and Proud to Be." The athletes made a tremendous impact on the hundreds of youths they addressed.

We of Athletes for Kids are impressed with the fine young people the NCAA is turning out. Keep up the great work.

Our best to you.

poor families.

"As schools compete in a more open and honest fashion, under-the-table payments to athletes and other subterfuges devised to cheat on the NCAA would disappear. This could end the so-called scandals that plague the NCAA...."

"Defenders of the present system claim that if colleges could compete freely for athletes, the athletes' education would suffer, they would be spoiled by large incomes and the financial stability of many athletics programs would be jeopardized."

"It is hard to believe that even the strongest defenders of the NCAA take these objections seriously. Under the present system, many of the best athletes never graduate from college, while those who do often cheat to get through or are steered into programs with little educational value."

A. Kenneth Pye, president
Southern Methodist University
The Associated Press

"Properly run big-time college athletics serves a useful purpose both in developing talent and developing a sense of communication between university and alumni and also encouraging the presence of a significant number of minority students on campus, the financing of which would not be possible without intercollegiate athletics."

made in the classroom. This year, more steps have been taken to get the news out. The cover of the football media guide shows Switzer and four players posing in front of the university library. All four players were honored in 1986 for their academic and football ability.

After Brown took over full-time in 1981, he proceeded to write the Academic Service Delivery Program that is used for all students. Among the highlights:

- Providing equal services to all student-athletes. "Before, we were only taking care of revenue sports," Brown said.

- Pushing the good students as hard as counselors push the weaker students. "Lots of times, if they know what the minimum expectations are, they'll hit just above that," Brown said. "We've raised the minimum expectations from just staying eligible to graduating on time."

Of this year's group of 23 football seniors, two are graduate students, as many as five could graduate in December and the remainder are on schedule to graduate in May.

- In-house academic testing for incoming freshmen. "Sometimes, you can't trust those test scores they come in with," Brown said. "We take a lot of steps to try to make sure who we've got as far as the academic student is concerned."

Brown and his staff also have daily contact with the athletes, provide tutors, help with class scheduling and show the athletes how to make the best use of their time.

Football study halls are held three nights a week for two hours a night, with 15 to 20 tutors on hand.

"They've got a greater load than anyone else," said Switzer. "But at the same time, when we make an investment of several thousands of dollars on each individual athlete to get him an education, we want him to be successful. Therefore, we've got to provide those tools to accomplish those goals for him and us."

Brown said the program has led to better relations between the athletics department and academic branches of the university. He visits often with professors and deans to discuss questions or problems they may have regarding the student-athletes.

While the program has contributed to the success rate, Brown said the key is the students.

"We're really bringing in better kids right now," he said.

"I've told coach Switzer, 'Give me a good kid, and we can overcome some of the school problems.'"

And for those who might look skeptically at the academic awards and assume the athletes are enrolled in fluff courses, Brown offers this rebuttal:

"I don't have any time for people who talk about the 'easies' in this program," he said. "My kids are getting degrees they can go out in the world and use to make a living with."

Archer has LSU at 3-0, too

Duke gets one of its best-ever starts at 3-0

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Duke's Steve Spurrier and Louisiana State's Mike Archer are off to the most successful starts among the nine first-year head coaches in Division I-A football. Each is 3-0.

By first-year, we mean no previous head-coaching experience at a four-year college. All have plenty of coaching experience; in fact, three coached in professional football.

Spurrier, the 1966 Heisman Trophy winner as a Florida quarterback, had a 35-19 head-coaching record at Tampa in the now-defunct USFL from 1983 to 1985 after serving three years as Duke's offensive coordinator (1980 through 1982). He played 10 seasons in the NFL.

Duke, 4-7 in 1986, has defeated Colgate, Northwestern and Vanderbilt. Virginia is next. The team has a quick-striking offense triggered by veteran quarterback Steve Slayden. "Coach Spurrier and the whole staff have instilled in us a certain confidence that we kind of lacked before," said flanker Clarkston Hines. "He expects more from us, so we expect more from ourselves." This is only the second time in 20 years that Duke has started 3-0.

Archer, at 34 years, two months, is the youngest head coach in all of Division I-A. His team got an impressive victory at Texas A&M, then easily defeated Cal State Fullerton and Rice. "I'm in this position because I worked under three guys—Lou Saban, Howard Schnellenberger [both at Miami (Florida)] and Bill Arnsperger [at LSU] who let me coach," Archer said. LSU players called Archer, the defensive coordinator, "Little Comish" (Arnsperger was "Big Comish"). Here is how all nine I-A first-year head coaches and nine more in I-AA now stand in their surprisingly good starts (through September 19):

Division I-A (9)	W	L	T
Bob Wagner, Hawaii	1	1	0
Jack Pardee, Houston	0	1	0
Larry Reisbig, Long Beach St.	2	1	0
Mike Archer, Louisiana St.	3	0	0
Joe Krivak, Maryland	2	1	0
Spike Dykes, Texas Tech	2	1	0
George Henshaw, Tulsa	0	3	0
Paul Roach, Wyoming	1	2	0
Division I-AA (9)	W	L	T
Houston Markham, Alabama St.	1	1	0
Skip Hall, Boise St.	2	0	0
Charlie Taaffe, Citadel	2	1	0
Bob Spoo, Eastern Ill.	2	1	0
Carl Torbush, Louisiana Tech	0	3	0
Ken Pettiford, Mississippi Val.	1	2	0
Mike Mahoney, Murray St.	2	1	0
Phil Greco, Nicholls St.	2	0	1

The I-A first-year coaches are 14-10 and those in I-AA 15-9-1 for a combined 29-19-1 or .602. Oddly, all three I-A coaches with losing records have lost to Oklahoma State. Pardee and Roach are the others with pro coaching experience. Henshaw was an Alabama assistant the last four years. The other five were assistants at the same colleges where they are now head coaches (Dykes actually served as head coach in Tech's bowl game last year but is counted as a first-year man).

Roach, an assistant to Lloyd Eaton at Wyoming in the mid-1960s and a pro assistant under John Madden, Bart Starr and Red Miller in the NFL, returned to Wyoming as athletics director last year. During the search for a new head coach in February (when Dennis Erickson moved to Washington State), he looked in the mirror and saw his best candidate. He remains AD, the first at Wyoming to hold both jobs.

By the way, Archer's status as the youngest I-A head coach is well-

Mike Hall, New Mexico State, is among Division I-A interception leaders

Minnesota sophomore Darrell Thompson is tied for the I-A rushing lead

Holy Cross' Jeff Willey is fifth in I-AA passing efficiency at 158.0

Santa Clara quarterback Greg Calcagno ranks third in Division II passing known, but who is next? Mississippi State's Rocky Felker and Temple's Bruce Arians are 3-4, but Felker is about four months older than Archer. Arians will be 35 on October 3.

The I-AA chart shows Murphy with the best record at 3-0, with Hall and Nicholls close. Murphy drew a lot of heat by deciding to start redshirt sophomore Mike Buck at quarterback in place of senior cocaptain Bob Wilder against Massachusetts, the overwhelming favorite to win the Yankee Conference. Murphy called it a "gut feeling." Buck completed 25 of 36 passes for 347 yards and two touchdowns in a 31-14 victory, the first for Maine at opening loss at Michigan State, his Trojans ended Boston College's 10-game winning streak September 19, 23-17. Smith well understands the Southern Cal tradition. He is not talking about rebuilding the program, but redirecting it and reaching for high goals. He welcomes the support of former greats like O. J. Simpson and Anthony Davis: "It motivates and stimulates our players to see them on the sidelines."

Here is how the 15 new-job coaches in I-A and four in I-AA have started this fall:

Division I-A (15)	W	L	T
Bill Curry, Alabama	2	1	0
Dick Tomey, Arizona	1	1	0
Bruce Snyder, California	1	2	0

Football notes

Amherst since 1909, and Murphy breathed a heavy sigh of relief, reports Maine SID Len Harlow.

Louisiana Tech's Torbush is the only one without a victory, but he lost a pair of tough games to two I-A teams, Baylor and Mississippi State. He is one of six I-AA first-year coaches who were assistants at I-A colleges. Murphy is the only one to move up at the same college. Markham and Pettiford both came from the Jackson State staff. Not one first-year coach in either I-A or I-AA is head-coaching at his alma mater. Markum's team defeated his alma mater, Alcorn State, September 19.

New-job coaches

Many of the new-job coaches in Division I-A (that is, with previous head-coaching experience at a four-year college but new on their current jobs) have outstanding career records, but only three of the 15 are above .500. They are 12-22-1 as a group.

Bill Dooley, with the most career victories (134), was known for his tough defensive teams at Virginia Tech. His Wake Forest team is 2-0, allowing just three points so far. Bill Curry, 2-1 at Alabama, was opposed by some followers because of his sub-.500 record at Georgia Tech and because he is not an Alabama graduate. Many adopted him after his team beat Penn State, but Alabama then was upset by Florida September 19. Erickson, mentioned earlier, is 2-1 at Washington State.

Southern California's Larry Smith, one of four at 1-1, has received the most media attention of any I-A new-job coach. After an

Earle Solomonson, Mont. St.	1	2	0
Marino Casem, Southern-B.R.	2	0	0

Smith rebuilt Arizona into a winner. Dick Tomey, who did the same at Hawaii, is now at Arizona and has installed a wicked combination of the run-and-shoot and wishbone offenses. "Doesn't surprise me a bit," said UCLA coach Terry Donahue, who was with Tomey at Kansas and UCLA and remains a close friend. "Having spent a lot of years as a defensive coach, he knows what gives him trouble, and he likes to do all the mean things that somebody else has done to him.... It's a great offensive philosophy. It represents two extremes, both a threat on every play. It is very difficult to defend."

Says Arizona State coach John Cooper, also with Tomey as assistants under Pepper Rodgers at Kansas: "Dick's not going to be any easier to beat than Donahue or Smith or (Washington's) Don James."

Another new-job coach in the Pacific-10 is California's Bruce Snyder, who could hardly wait for his first game. He awoke at 3:45 a.m., reports SID Kevin Reneau, and an hour later swam laps in the hotel pool for 30 minutes. Later that day, his team beat Pacific, 42-0, the first shutout by a Cal team since 1982, and gained 537 yards. Then came two late-game, tough losses to San Jose State and Minnesota. Snyder was an assistant for the Los Angeles Rams the past four years after seven years as Utah State head coach. Snyder kept Cal at a torrid pace in training camp.

The only new-job I-A coach at his alma mater is Texas' David McWilliams, replacing Fred Akers, now at Purdue. The only new-job coach in the Big Eight Conference, Iowa State's Jim Walden, inherited only 44 scholarship players and now has just 61. The Cyclones' game at Tulane came only hours after a visit from Pope John Paul II. "I just hope I'll get some divine guidance," Walden quipped. "Maybe the Pope will leave a lot of it in the air. We'll need all the help we can get." Tulane won, 25-12.

In I-AA, the biggest new-job career winner (143 victories) is Marino Casem. And at 2-0, he is the only one with a winning record so far. Teevens is at his alma mater.

Montana State's Earle Solomonson, who won two Division II national championships at North Dakota State, replaced a passing game with his option game and silenced critics with a 52-48 victory over Sam Houston State.

High I-A turnover rate

The total of 24 new head coaches in Division I-A is a turnover rate of 23.1 percent (of 104 teams)—second highest in history since compilations of coaching turnovers began in 1947. The record high is 28.6 percent in 1973. Only two years ago the rate was down to 11.4 percent after steady drops over a decade, but in 1986 it jumped back up to 21 percent. Remember, the rate includes a change for any reason, and in many cases last year a promotion was involved.

The total of 13 in I-AA is 14.9 percent. There were 18 changes in 1986.

Brown ties record

Notre Dame's Tim Brown tied the Division I-A record held by many players with his two punt-return touchdowns in one game (70 and 66 yards) vs. Michigan State September 19. Both came in one quarter (the first), in a 31-8 Notre Dame victory. The last player to have two in one game, Garcia Lane of Ohio State (vs. Purdue in 1983, 63 and 71 yards), also had two in one quarter. The all-time collegiate, or all-divisions, NCAA record is three in one game by four different players in Division II.

Career record-breakers

Colgate's Kenny Gamble has set a Division I-AA career record for all-purpose yardage at 6,069. That ranks ninth on the all-time NCAA all-divisions collegiate career list. The old I-AA record of 5,925 was held by Northern Arizona's Pete Mandley, whose last season was 1983. The collegiate career record is 7,564 by Howard Stevens, who played two seasons (1968 and 1969) at Randolph-Macon and two (1971 and 1972) at Louisville.

Nevada-Reno's Marty Zendejas now has 323 career points, breaking the I-AA career scoring record (it also is a kick-scoring record in I-AA).

Quotes of the week

Miami (Florida) quarterback Steve Walsh, when asked what he tells people who want to compare him to former Miami quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Testaverde: "I say just don't compare. I'm riding a bicycle and he's driving a Jaguar." (Larry Wohl, Miami, Fla., assistant SID)

After the Kansas team bus hit the wing of a parked plane at the Montgomery, Alabama, airport (the driver was hurt, and the wing stopped inches short of coaches and players), Kansas SID Doug Vance said it best: "Looks like we'll be going to the single wing."

Oklahoma State's Thurman Thomas on his 49-yard touchdown run against Houston: "That play was supposed to go inside, but Garrett (Limbrick, the fullback) told me in the huddle to go outside. I make it a point always to listen to my blockers."

After his Missouri team, 4-18 the last two years, upset Baylor, bowl winners the last two years, coach Woody Widenhofer had this comment about the goal posts being torn down: "I think (athletics director) Jack Lengyel would be glad to give up a goal post for every victory, and he hopes to give up 10 this year." Said Lengyel: "Eleven." (Tim Allen, Big Eight Conference SID)

Santa Clara coach Terry Malley on his defensive line: "I think we're getting better. In the past, we've had linemen who didn't do two things: They never did windows and seldom rushed the passer." (Mike McNulty, Santa Clara SID)

Jacksonville State coach Bill Burgess, speaking at a press conference about Alabama A&M: "Believe me, they are good—and fast. They have managers who run a 4.3 in the 40." (Mike Galloway, Jacksonville State SID)

Divisions I and III establish membership records

The membership totals in NCAA Divisions I and III are the highest in their history.

As of September 1, there are 292 member institutions in Division I and 321 in Division III, both high marks since the three divisions were created in 1973. Division II's membership history, one of ups and downs, was reviewed in this column in the September 14 News.

Since 1973, Division III has gained 83 members. That's a 35 percent increase. Twenty-four of those are all-female institutions that have joined since the NCAA began offering programs for women's athletics in 1981. The biggest jumps in Division III membership came in 1974 (up 26 institutions) and in 1982 (an increase of 20).

In that same time period, Division I has increased by 55 members, and that growth has been steady—the largest single-year increase was 10 in 1981. The 14-year increase is 23 percent.

Within Division I, there were 177 institutions classified in Divisions I-A and I-AA football in 1978, when those subdivisions were established. The total in those subdivisions now is 192. Meanwhile, the Division I-AAA membership has risen from 82 in 1978 to 100 today.

Trivia: In its 81-year history, 27 individuals have served as president of the NCAA. Only one member institution has provided more than one NCAA president. Which institution (it has had two)? Answer appears later.

For five straight seasons, the University of Kansas lost some football players because of academic ineligibility. When Bob Valesente took over as head football coach a year ago, he introduced a no-nonsense approach to assuring that his players met academic requirements. A player who missed a class was held out of the next game. Players were required to attend early breakfast sessions to assure that they were on their way to class.

As a result, the Jayhawks had no academic ineligibilities—and no recruits who failed to meet Bylaw 5-1-(j) requirements—among the 108 players who reported this season. And the football team's overall grade-point average last spring was 2.570, compared to 2.070 two years earlier.

The first football game ever has been played between two members of the new University Athletic Association, an ambitious grouping of nine Division III private institutions in eight different states. Washington University (Missouri) beat the University of Chicago, 17-15, September 12 to win the inaugural Founder's Trophy, a traveling trophy that will go to the winner of that game every year.

Briefly in the News

It will be at least 1990 before conference members play each other enough to determine a football champion. Other UAA members are Brandeis University, Carnegie-Mellon University, Case Western Reserve University, Emory University, Johns Hopkins University, New York University and the University of Rochester.

How Can You Kick About That? Department: Central College of Iowa, which has the longest regular-season football winning streak in the country (34 straight), has three former Iowa all-state high school placekickers on this year's team. And the Flying Dutchmen also have their starting kicker from last season.

The home of presidents (NCAA)? It's the University of Iowa, whence came Karl E. Lieb and Robert F. Ray to serve as NCAA president from 1947 to 1949 and in 1963-1964, respectively.

Interestingly, both NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers and Executive Director-Elect Richard D. Schultz attended the University of Iowa, Byers as an undergraduate and Schultz as a graduate student (and subsequently as a coach and then an administrator).

Another member institution—the U.S. Military Academy—also filled the NCAA presidency twice, but it was the same man. Capt. Palmer E. Pierce served as the first NCAA president from 1906 to 1913, was reassigned by the Army, and then came back—as Brig. Gen. Palmer E. Pierce—to serve the NCAA again from 1917 through 1929.

This year's Division I Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships will be held at Foxfield Farms, Charlottesville, Virginia (hosted by the University of Virginia). That site is a steeplechase horse park, which is a good choice, according to John Goodridge, director of cross country and track at Wake Forest University.

"The increased use of steeplechase horse parks for cross country racing is an exciting development for the sport because spectator viewing is enhanced tremendously," he said, pointing out that crowds in excess of 30,000 have attended the World Cross Country Championships that have been held on that type of course in Europe.

Last week's News reported briefly that Howard University law school graduate Arthur J. McAfee III has joined the NCAA staff as an enforcement representative. It did not mention that he is the son of Arthur J. McAfee Jr., director of athletics and head basketball coach at Morehouse College. The elder McAfee was a member of the NCAA Council in 1978 and 1979 and of the NCAA Long Range Planning Committee from 1981 to 1986.

Administrative Committee minutes

1. Acting for the Council, the Administrative Committee:

a. Appointed Judith A. Sullivan, South-eastern Massachusetts University, to the Women's Committee on Committees replacing Mary Lou Thimas, no longer at a member institution.

b. Appointed Janice A. Harper, North Carolina Central University, to the Research Committee replacing Susan A. Carberry, California State University, Dominguez Hills, resigned from committee; asked that legislation be prepared for review in October to add a position on this committee, with that position to be occupied by a member of the Council.

c. Appointed Gene McArtor, University of Missouri, Columbia, to chair the Baseball Committee replacing Robert M. Hannah, University of Delaware, resigned from committee; appointed Francis "Sonny" Pittaro, Rider College, to that committee, also replacing Mr. Hannah.

d. Appointed Sherri Reeves, Northwest Missouri State University, to chair the Division II Women's Basketball Committee replacing Paula M. Mullen, no longer at a member institution; appointed Nancy A. Rowe, New Hampshire College, to complete

Ms. Mullen's term on that committee, with the understanding that the Women's Committee on Committees will consider appropriate regional representation on the committee in determining future appointments to that position.

e. Appointed Sherry Posthumus, Stanford University, to the Women's Fencing Committee replacing Edwin K. Hurst, no longer at a member institution; granted a waiver of the policy that sports committee members' institutions must sponsor the sport involved in order to permit Janice L. McConnell, California University of Pennsylvania, to accept her recent appointment to chair the committee.

Conference No. 16
September 10, 1987

f. Granted a waiver of the policy that sports committee members' institutions must sponsor the sport involved in order to permit Raymond S. Goldbar, University of California, Davis, to complete his term on the Men's Gymnastics Committee.

g. Appointed Bill Cornell, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, to the Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee replacing Michael Muska, who now represents an institution in a conference that already has a member on the committee.

h. Consideration several alternatives regarding the small number of institutions that claim an inability to report precisely calculated student-body graduation rates in the Division I academic-reporting requirement [Bylaw 5-6-(e)]; concluded that the use of estimated rates should be approved for this year, with the compliance staff authorized to accept such estimations and to refer to the Administrative Committee any circumstance about which it has questions.

2. Acting for the Executive Committee, the Administrative Committee:

a. Noted that Richard D. Schultz would replace Walter Byers as executive director October 1, rather than in 1988 as originally envisioned, and expressed appreciation for Mr. Byers' cooperation in the transition.

b. Approved per Executive Regulation 2-1-(b) a request by the Committee on Women's Athletics for permission to conduct two meetings per year.

c. Denied an appeal by Calvin College of the application of Executive Regulation 1-9-(c) to that institution's service as host for the Great Lakes regional in the 1987 Division III Men's Basketball Championship, noting that the regulation clearly states that institutions may not claim television rights fees in a championship's gross receipts and that any exceptions to the regulation must be approved in advance by the Executive Committee.

3. Report of actions taken by the executive director per Constitution 5-1-(g).

a. Granted waivers per Constitution 3-9-(b)-(4)-(iii) to permit student-athletes from a member institution to participate in soccer competition as members of Ireland's national team.

b. Granted a waiver per Constitution 3-9-(c)-(2)-(iii) to permit a student-athlete from a member institution to participate in soccer competition as a member of Norway's national team.

c. Granted a waiver of the tryout rule per Bylaw 1-6-(c)-(1) to permit the use of facilities at the University of Michigan for a developmental field hockey clinic.

d. Granted waivers of the tryout rule per Bylaw 1-6-(c)-(5) as follows:

(1) California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, research experiment in the sport of baseball.

(2) University of Chicago, Upward Bound program activities.

(3) George Mason University, Straight Incorporated Sports Clinic.

(4) Kutztown University of Pennsylvania, local sports club swim practice.

(5) Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, prep school volleyball tournament.

(6) U.S. Military Academy, soccer tournament.

e. Granted a waiver of the tryout rule per Bylaw 1-6-(c)-(6) to permit the involvement of staff members at two member institutions in a Sport For Understanding international training program, including the use of facilities.

f. Approved a foreign tour per Bylaw 3-6-(b) by the University of Georgia men's basketball team to Japan, December 15-22, 1987.

g. Granted a request by Boston College for permission to replace temporarily a head coach with a part-time assistant coach for purposes of scouting off campus per Bylaw 7-1-(e), inasmuch as the head coach is hospitalized and will be unable to perform any coaching duties.

Legislation and Interpretations Committee minutes

Acting for the Council, the Legislation and Interpretations Committee:

1. Referred to the legislative services conference contact program further review of the issue of whether the application of Bylaw 1-9-(f) would permit an institutional staff member to transport a prospective student-athlete and those persons accompanying the prospect on a self-financed visit to view only those off-campus practice and competition sites within a 30-mile radius of the institution's campus, or whether the regulation also would permit such transportation to view other on-campus institutional facilities (e.g., law school, medical school).

2. Agreed that the application of Constitution 3-1-(e) and Case No. 44 would not require a student-athlete (or the institution acting on the student-athlete's behalf or in the student-athlete's name) to take affirmative action to have the name of the student-athlete removed from a novelty song recording that is aired on the radio, inasmuch as the use of the student-athlete's name in the song would be considered to be in the "public domain"; confirmed that the application of Case No. 44 would require the student-athlete (or the institution acting on the student-athlete's behalf or in the student-athlete's name) to take affirmative action to remove the student-athlete's name if the record is to be sold as a commercial item.

3. Concluded that the application of Constitution 3-1-(h)-(4) would permit a partial qualifier or nonqualifier to receive drug-rehabilitation expenses from the institution during the student-athlete's initial year of residency.

4. Agreed that the application of Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(3) would not prohibit a member institution from providing a high school, preparatory school or junior college coach with a blank videotape for purposes of transposing game footage of a prospective student-athlete to the videotape, provided the videotape is returned to the institution.

Conference No. 18
September 3, 1987

5. Concluded that the application of O.I. 600 would not encompass employment earnings received by a student-athlete whose work place is located at an on-campus site (e.g., dining facilities, construction work), but whose employer is an independent (e.g., noninstitutional) business or agency, it being understood that the athletics interests of the institution did not intercede in arranging the employment on behalf of the student-athlete.

6. Reviewed a previous committee interpretation (reference: Item No. 1 of the minutes of the committee's July 23, 1987, conference) defining "collegiate competition" and considered the application of Bylaw 3-3-(r) to a situation in which student-athletes from member institutions are invited to participate in a collegiate golf competition open only to collegiate competitors; agreed that in such an instance, the student-athletes would be considered to have utilized a season of competition per Case No. 287 by participating in the "collegiate competition"; concluded that if no other provisions of Case No. 287 are met, the student-athletes would not be considered to be participating on behalf of the institution per Bylaw 3-3-(r) and would not be considered to have utilized an individual date of competition.

7. Considered a previous Council interpretation (April 1987), which indicates that the provisions of Constitution 2-2-(a) prohibit a member institution from hosting and promoting an athletics contest between two professional teams as a fund-raising activity for the institution, and determined the following:

a. An institution is permitted to promote and generate revenue from contests or events involving "sports activities" such as the Harlem Globetrotters or professional wrestlers, inasmuch as the Council interpretation prohibits a member institution from hosting and promoting only those athletics contests between two professional teams from recognized professional sports leagues.

b. An institution is permitted to utilize a closed-circuit telecasting of a professional athletics event at the institutional facility to raise revenue, provided the telecast does not involve professional teams from a recognized professional league.

c. An institution is permitted to charge a professional team or organization with a rental rate for the use of its facilities that involves a percentage of the gross revenue and concessions from the event, provided the rental rate is consistent with the institution's "normal rental agreement."

d. A member institution is precluded from involvement in an arrangement for a local television station (or other agency) to promote a professional athletics contest between two teams from a recognized professional league by publicizing the fact that the proceeds from the event will be given to the member institution.

e. An institution is permitted to conduct an intrasquad game following a contest between two professional teams, provided the events are promoted independently of each other (e.g., no arrangement is made for reciprocal tickets) and the arena is cleared between contests.

f. Recommended that the Council review and modify its previous interpretation prohibiting member institutions from hosting and promoting athletics contests between two professional teams to permit these types of fund-raising activities for the institution; directed the legislative services department staff to develop language that would amend Constitution 2-2-(a) or its case-book interpretations to permit this type of activity.

8. Reviewed the application of Case No. 136 as it defines athletically related financial aid; agreed that Case No. 136 would not apply to references to financial aid in the provisions waiving the transfer residence requirement [e.g., Bylaw 5-1-(m)-(14)]; further, that only aid specifically administered as an "athletics grant" through the institution's athletics scholarship fund (as opposed to all O.I. 600 aid received by the recruited student-athlete) would constitute athletics aid for purposes of these transfer regulations.

9. Considered a previous Council-approved interpretation (reference: Item No. 7 of the minutes of the committee's June 4, 1987, conference) and agreed that the application of Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(3) requires that institutional questionnaires must conform to the following criteria:

a. The questionnaire and cover letter cannot include pictures of the institution's department of athletics personnel or enrolled student-athletes.

b. The questionnaire cannot contain any material designed to serve as a promotional item, but the questionnaire itself may be detachable from the letter explaining the questionnaire's purpose.

c. The questionnaire and cover letter must be printed in a manner consistent with

Legislation

d. The questionnaire cannot include information designed to serve as a recruiting promotion.

10. Discussed the application of Case No. 23 prohibiting a student-athlete from accepting expenses from a magazine or other media enterprise (e.g., newspaper, radio station, television network) to travel to a particular location (outside a 30-mile radius of the community in which the student-athlete's institution is located) for purposes of taking a photograph, filming or writing a story about the student-athlete, unless the photograph or story is in conjunction with the receipt of an established award at that location; agreed that the application of Case No. 23 and Constitution 3-1-(a)-(3) and 3-1-(g)-(2) would not prohibit a prospective student-athlete from receiving expenses from a Japanese television station to participate in a television program in that country.

11. (Divisions I and II) Reviewed the application of Bylaw 1-3 restricting the involvement of institutional staff members or representatives of the institution's athletics interests in off-campus scouting activities designed to evaluate the academic standing and playing ability of prospective student-athletes in the sports of football and basketball; confirmed that an institutional staff member or representative of the institution's athletics interests may visit a scouting service to view films or gather information about prospective student-athletes only during the permissible evaluation and contact periods specified in Bylaws 1-2 and 1-3.

12. (Division I) Considered 1987 NCAA special Convention Proposal No. 2 amending Bylaw 3-3-(k) to indicate that not more than once every four years in the sport of basketball, a member institution shall exempt from counting toward its maximum number of contests: (a) not more than one contest (or four contests as scheduled on a single regular-season trip to Alaska or Hawaii) or one tournament (not to exclude three contests) sponsored by an active member located in Alaska or Hawaii, and (b) not more than one contest (or four contests as scheduled on a single regular-season trip to Puerto Rico) or tournament (not to exceed four contests) in one of the situations set forth in Bylaws 3-2-(h) or 3-3-(k) or the foreign tour permitted per Bylaw

3-6; determined that this amendment would not permit an Alaska/Hawaii exception twice in the same four-year period; confirmed that the effective date of this legislation applies only to those contests conducted subsequent to August 1, 1987; agreed that those contests listed in Bylaw 3-3-(k), if scheduled through written contracts in effect prior to May 15, 1987, may be exempted from this legislation (if more than one contest or tournament is involved), subject to review by the Association's legal counsel.

13. (Division I) Reviewed the application of Bylaws 5-1-(j)-(2) and 5-1-(d)-(3) to a situation in which a prospective student-athlete has been charged with a year (or years) of varsity competition in a sport under the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(d)-(3) and initially enrolls as a nonqualifier or partial qualifier at a Division I institution; agreed that while Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2) indicates that a partial qualifier or nonqualifier shall be entitled to three seasons of eligibility per Bylaw 5-1-(d), Bylaw 5-1-(d)-(3) applies independently of the application of Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2), which may result in a student-athlete having fewer than three seasons of eligibility remaining subsequent to the initial year of residence at the certifying institution; concluded that the application of independent regulations such as Bylaws 5-1-(j)-(2) and 5-1-(d)-(3) could result in a student-athlete's being charged with more than one season of competition within a 12-month period subsequent to the initial year of residence at the certifying institution.

14. (Division I) Considered a previous Council-approved interpretation (December 19, 1985) confirming that it would be contrary to the principles expressed in Case No. 185 for a Division I member institution to employ as an assistant director of athletics an individual who is currently employed as the head basketball coach at a high school and determined the following:

a. A member institution is permitted to employ as a part-time coach an individual who currently serves as director of athletics at a local high school.

b. The subcommittee recommends that the Council amend its previous interpretation to permit the employment of an individual as a member institution's assistant director of athletics when that individual also is employed at a high school as a basketball coach, inasmuch as the individual remains associated with the high school in a capacity that does not involve the same sport.

15. (Division I) Reviewed the application of Bylaw 4-1-(a) and Case No. 264 to a situation in which a student-athlete enrolled in nine credit hours at a collegiate institution; agreed that for purposes of the five-year rule, a student-athlete shall be considered registered at a collegiate institution as a full-time student when the student-athlete registers for a regular term (semester or quarter) in a minimum full-time program of studies as determined by the institution and attends the student's first day of classes for that term; concluded that inasmuch as the original institution has documented that the student-athlete was registered for a regular term in a minimum full-time program of studies as determined by that institution, the student-athlete must be considered to have been enrolled in a full-time program of studies for purposes of initiation of the five-year rule. [NOTE: Additional information concerning this situation was reviewed August 29, 1987, by Ms. Cronan and Messrs. Price and Yeager, who confirmed the subcommittee's previous interpretation.]

Trainer assistants -- KAREN PRASHAW appointed at Rensselaer... JILL SNYDER named at Fairleigh Dickinson-Madison, where she also will be assistant women's basketball coach.

BRAD BOWER and STEFVE FENK selected for internships with the Pacific-10 Conference. Bower and Fenk are former student sports information assistants at Arizona and Oregon State, respectively. . . JOHN SPIESS, sports information director at New Jersey Tech, elected publicity director for the coming year in the Independent Athletic Conference.

WALTER HAAS, former Carleton athletics director and coach who also coached at Chicago when that school resumed varsity football in 1975, died September 13 in North Carolina at age 76. Haas coached football and track at Carleton beginning in 1939 and became AD in 1942. He moved to Chicago in 1956 to chair the physical education department at Chicago. Haas served on several NCAA committees and helped organize the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics. ... DOUG HAMLEY, former football linebackers coach at Louisiana State, died September 13 after a bout with cancer. He was 62. The former Mississippi standout, who was inducted into the Ole Miss Hall of Fame only a day before his death, coached at Louisiana State from 1962 to 1979.

FREDERICK EDWARD "FRITZ" HOWELL, retired Ohio sports editor for the Associated Press who played football at Bradley, died September 12 at age 87... FRANK B. CALLAWAY, a multi-sport standout and former baseball captain at Tennessee who played two seasons with the Philadelphia A's, died August 21 after a long battle with cancer. He was 89... KEVIN T. MYLETT, who was named all-Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference as a sophomore football cornerback at Shippensburg last season, died July 26 when the car he was a passenger in struck a fallen tree near Doylestown, Pennsylvania. He was 21.

Due to an editor's error, the name and institution of the new commissioner of the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin was reported incorrectly in the Record section of the September 14 issue of The NCAA News. He is Jack L. Swartz, associate athletics director at Wheaton (Illinois).

Due to an erroneous news report received by The NCAA News, the Record section in the September 2 issue incorrectly reported that three Arena Football League players were named assistant football coaches at Towson State. No players from the professional league were hired at the school, according to its sports information director.

An item on the selection of a new chancellor at East Carolina that appeared in the Record section of the February 11 issue of The NCAA News should have identified the appointee as Richard R. Eakin.

Year after year major Bowl games have two things in common... Players with the will to win and the Wilson Football.

Where there's a will there's Wilson.
