1.3 percent (20 of 1,589) fail fall '87 drug tests

Fall results of drug testing of student-athletes by the NCAA show that 1.3 percent (20 student-athletes in 1,589) lost their athletics eligibility because of positive tests for banned substances.

The fall results were slightly higher than the percentage (one percent—34 positives resulting in eligibility loss of 3,360 student-athletes tested) for the entire 1986-87 academic year.

During the 1987 fall championships season, 197 student-athletes from 10 championships were tested, and 1,392 football players were tested prior to postseason competition.

Of the 20 athletes who lost eligibility, seven tested positive for anabolic steroids, two for diuretics, and 11 for street drugs such as cocaine and marijuana.

Thirty-seven other student-athletes in the fall of 1987 tested positive for banned substances, but they did not lose their eligibility because they were either prescribed drugs or test results were below the cutoff level for banned substances, in accordance with NCAA drug-testing protocol.

There were 1,452 football players tested; and of that number, 1,392 were from Division I-A teams that competed in 18 postseason bowl games.

Test results show that more positive tests were found closer to postseason dates of competition.

Thirty-six from each of 30 bowl-bound teams were tested on campus prior to the bowl games. This testing occurred between November 30 and December 17. Nine student-athletes (.8 percent) lost their eligibility because of positive tests.

Of that group, four teams (24 student-athletes per team) were tested about three or four days prior to bowl games, and five student-athletes (5.2 percent) lost eligibility because of test results. These athletes had tested negative earlier.

However, those student-athletes did compete in bowl games because test results were not available before the competition.

Injury-insurance plan rates reduced again

Athletics directors at NCAA member institutions are receiving packets describing the Association's insurance programs for the 1988-89 academic year.

The information includes details on another reduction in rates for the NCAA's catastrophic-injury plan, which will be in its fourth year.

Following action by the Executive Committee, Association funds are being used to underwrite a portion of premiums for institutions in Divisions I, II and III that are participating in the plan.

The NCAA will pay 100 percent of the costs of the catastrophic-injury plan for all Division I participants in men's and women's basketball. Certificates of coverage soon will be mailed to institutions receiving that coverage.

In addition, the Association will pay 50 percent of the premium costs for participants in all other intercollegiate sports at Division I institutions.

In Divisions II and III, each premium class in the catastrophic-injury program has been reduced 20 percent from the 1986-87 premiums, with the Executive Committee directing that funds from several sources be used to help offset member institutions' insurance costs.

The plan, along with the NCAA basic program and a plan for athletics-staff coverage, is administered by National Sports Underwriters, Inc.

Programs successful

"Our insurance programs have been successful, and we're pleased with the number of institutions electing to participate," said Richard D. Hunter, NCAA director of operations. "I think the Executive Committee's action in providing funding points out the importance of having all student-athletes adequately covered."

The Executive Committee also approved a change in insurance companies for the 1988-89 programs. The membership plans now will be insured through Lincoln National Health and Casualty Company, which has

Rep. McMillen is keynote speaker for Commission's National Forum

Congressman Tom McMillen, a former all-America and professional basketball player and a Rhodes Scholar, will deliver the keynote address at the Presidents Commission National Forum June 20-21 in Orlando.

McMillen will speak at the opening session, which begins at 8 a.m. June 20. The June meeting is the third in the 18-month National Forum being conducted by the NCAA Presidents Commission to address the proper role of intercollegiate athletics in higher education.

Approximately 600 college and university presidents and chancellors, other institutional administrators, faculty, and male and female directors of athletics are expected to attend the June program, which will be held at the Hyatt Orlando.

McMillen was elected to Congress November 4, 1986, as the representative of Maryland's 4th Congressional district. He had retired earlier in 1986 after 11 years as a player in the National Basketball Association. Active in the paging and cellular telephone industry, he is the founder of PagePlus, a paging network for the Baltimore-Washington market.

A native of Elmira, New York, McMillen was a three-time all-America at the University of Maryland, College Park, where he also was Phi Beta Kappa. He earned his bachelor's degree in 1974 and delivered his graduating class' commencement address.

He was the first student from the university to become a Rhodes Scholar, and he received a master's degree in politics, philosophy and economics at Oxford University in 1978.

In the 1974 NBA draft, McMillen was the first

He was a member of the U.S. Olympic basketball team in 1972.

Baker to assume position with NCAA September 1

Merrily Dean Baker, director of women's athletics at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, has been named the NCAA's assistant executive director for administration. Baker will assume her duties September 1.

"Merrily will play a major role in the future of intercollegiate athletics, especially in the areas of women's programs and access for women to key coaching and administrative positions nationally," said NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz. "I am delighted that someone with her diverse background and wealth of experience is joining our staff."

Baker has been director of women's athletics at Minnesota since 1982. Prior to that, she was associate director of athletics at Princeton University for 12 years and in 1969 was the director of the first women's intercollegiate athletics program at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pennsylvania. She also has coached field hockey, gymnastics, this report, released by Frank D. Uryasz, NCAA director of sports sciences, provide details of the test results. Percentages are based on the number of positive substances found and not on the number of student-athletes testing positive.)

Complete results for 1986-87, the first full year of Association drug testing, are available for the first time.

The 3,360 athletes tested were from 30 NCAA championships and 10 postseason football bowl games.

Of the 34 losing eligibility, 26 tested positive for anabolic steroids, six for cocaine metabolites and two for various psychomotor stimulants.

During 1986-87 testing, there were an additional 40 athletes who tested positive but who did not lose eligibility under the NCAA's drug-testing protocol. Many of the student-athletes declared the substances for various medical reasons prior to testing; and during that testing period, positive tests for marijuana use resulted in warnings only.

The report released by Uryasz states that "since specimens were collected in 1986-87 at postseason events only, it cannot be surmised that the percentage of positive tests adequately reflects substance use at times other than the postseason period.

"In fact, since the student-athletes attending NCAA championships and postseason bowls do not represent a random sample of all college athletes, generalizations to the total population should not be made."

Under legislation approved by the NCAA membership at the January 1988 Convention, voluntary testing of football student-athletes for anabolic steroids at 25 volunteer institutions was conducted in March.

Results from those tests will not be available until after the Executive Committee meets in August, according to Uryasz.

Also, complete results from 1987-88 testing will be available at that time.

is a member of the Big Ten Conference Promotions and Television Committee and is a past president of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women.

"I am very excited about Dick Schultz's initiatives and his agenda items," Baker said, "including his determination to further the development of women's athletics. I foresee many positive changes within the NCAA, and it will very stimulating to be a part of those changes. I have always viewed myself as more of a builder than a maintainer."

The Association's administration department oversees the research efforts of the NCAA, including academic, general and health-related topics. The department administers drug-education and drug-testing programs and manages the Association's youth and postgraduate scholarship programs.

ESPN schedules All American Bowl

ESPN has reached an exclusive multiyear agreement to televise the All American Bowl, beginning this year on Thursday, December 29, in prime time.

ESPN will open its college football season Thursday, September 1, when Southern California visits Boston College in the first of 27 College Football Association telecasts.

Legislative Assistance

1988 Column No. 19

NCAA Bylaw 3-1(a)-(3)—contest limitations

The Division III subcommittee of the NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 3-1(a)-(3) indicating that a Division III institution's playing and practice season is limited to a maximum of five months (i.e., 21 weeks for each sport), except in those sports for which the National Collegiate Championship(s) is the only championship opportunity. These championships include:

National Collegiate Men's Fencing Championships, National Collegiate Women's Fencing Championships, National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships, National Collegiate Men's Gymnastics Championships, National Collegiate Women's Gymnastics Championships, National Collegiate Women's Lacrosse Championship, National Collegiate Men's and Women's Rifle Championships, National Collegiate Men's and Women's Skiing Championships, National Collegiate Men's Volleyball Championship, and National Collegiate Men's Water Polo Championship.

The subcommittee noted that in the excepted sports, an institution's playing season shall be limited to the length of the playing season for Division I institutions, and this limitation shall be implied in all subsequent legislative references affecting Division III. The subcommittee confirmed that in the excepted sports, Division III institutions are permitted to apply all Division I playing- and practice-season legislation, including number of contests, length of season and contest exemptions.

NCAA Constitution 3-9(b)-(1)—summer basketball competition

Member institutions are reminded of the provisions of Constitution 3-9(b)-(1), which state that a student-athlete may compete in organized basketball competition only during the period between June 15 and August 31 on a team in a league approved by the NCAA Council. Member institutions should advise any student-athlete who is returning home for the summer that unless the league is approved by the Council, competition on a team in that league will jeopardize the student-athlete's intercollegiate athletics eligibility. All student-athletes are reminded that if they are in doubt concerning the application of the Association's legislation relating to outside competition, they should consult their director of athletics or other appropriate institutional representative.

NCAA Constitution 3-1(h)-(1)—permissible travel expenses

The Council agreed that the provisions of Constitution 3-1(h)-(1) would permit a member institution to provide actual and necessary expenses for its senior student-athletes in any sport (as opposed to a particular team) to be recognized by the governor of the state in which the member institution is located.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director, at the NCAA national office.

Corbett Award goes to Lude

Milo R. Lude, director of athletics at the University of Washington, has been selected to receive the 1988 James J. Corbett Memorial Award, sponsored by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics.

The award is presented annually in memory of Corbett, NACDA's first president, and is bestowed upon the athletics administrator who through the years has most typified Corbett's devotion to intercollegiate athletics and who has worked unceasingly for its betterment.

"I have had other prestigious honors in my life and career but none surpasses being chosen as recipient of the Corbett Award," said Lude. "I've spent 40 years in intercollegiate athletics, and one cannot help but be overwhelmed. To receive the award is symbolic of respect of one's peers in athletics administration."

Lude, a major force in intercollegiate athletics, served as NACDA's 17th president in 1981-82.

Lude assumed the director's position at Washington in 1976, following a six-year tenure in the same position at Kent State University.

His first major coaching position came at the University of Maine, Orono, where he served as assistant football coach from 1949 to 1951. Lude held a similar position at the University of Delaware from 1951 to 1952.

In 1962, Lude assumed the head-coaching duties at Colorado State University, where he remained until leaving for the director's spot at Kent State in 1970.

A native of Kalamazoo, Michigan, Lude earned a bachelor of science degree from Hillsdale College in 1947. He earned a master of arts degree from Michigan State University in 1953. As an

Conference considers NCAA membership

Athletics directors in the West Virginia Conference, an NAIA league, have asked their college presidents to consider a move to NCAA Division II.

Shepherd College athletics director Mike Jacobs said most of the 13 athletics directors are "in favor" of the move.

He said the league's basketball coaches asked for the move, saying it would bolster recruiting, provide better exposure and publicity, and bring in more money.

In addition, tougher admission standards recently adopted by the NAIA—which put its requirements on roughly the same level as NCAA members—are behind the move, officials told the Associated Press.

Shepherd basketball coach Bob Starkey—the dean of the conference coaches with 21 years in Shepherdstown—said he's "1,000 percent" behind the proposal to move to Division II.

The college presidents are scheduled to meet June 3 to decide whether a study of the proposal should be made.

The West Virginia Conference, which along with former conference member West Virginia Wesleyan College makes up NAIA District 28, has been a member of the NAIA since 1940.

West Virginia Wesleyan dropped out of the conference after the 1986-87 season. It was not immediately known if the Bobcats also would consider a move to Division II.

Some conference officials said after the 1988 basketball tournament that they were considering a move to Division II to force Wesleyan into a decision on whether to reenter the conference, the Associated Press reported.

The West Virginia Conference annually fields some of the strongest basketball—and more recently, soccer—teams in the NAIA.

West Virginia State College was the NAIA's basketball runnerup to Washburn University in 1987, and the conference had three soccer teams ranked in the top 10 this season.

In addition, West Virginia State and Concord College both were ranked in the top 10 in football part of the 1987 season.

Player payment plan could be Biggerthan U. bargained for

By Francis W. Bonner
Furman University

Following is an interview with the director of athletics at Biggerthan University:

Q. Mr. Director, how long has Biggerthan been on a program of paying salaries to athletes?

A. Well, we don't use the word "salaries." We prefer to think of it as a "bonus" system. A kind of share-the-wealth program. Actually, we do it sort of like the stock market. We figure that the athletes are sort of like stockholders in a profit-making company. So we pay them—I mean reward them—in shares, which are really like bonuses. This is our second year on the program.

Q. I see. Why did you begin the program?

A. Well, our profits from football, basketball and ice hockey run from $6 million to $10 million a year—what with what we get from tickets, tournaments, bowl games, TV and so on. We figured it was only right to pass along some of that money to the athletes who were making it for ol' Biggerthan University.

Q. But under the old system of grants, an athlete could get his full college expenses, plus up to $1,400 from the government. That would be from about $10,000 to $20,000 a year at many schools. That's not bad for a kid of 18 or 20 who works only a few months in a year, part-time.

A. Maybe. But that's not entirely right. Playing football at BU is a full-time job. Man, we have those kids busy all year—weight-training, running and so on.

Francis W. Bonner

Q. That's interesting. Was the decision to pay the athletes an in-house decision?

A. Well, yes and no. Some of our boosters were urging it, and lots of sports writers were advocating it. And, as you know, our state legislature got into the picture.

Q. Are the athletes in sports you named the only ones getting paid—I mean, getting the shares?

A. Heck, no. We take care of the guys and gals in the other sports. Of course, they don't get near as much as the ones in the money-making sports.

Q. Do the athletes in the money-making sports all get the same?

A. Oh, no. We pay—I mean, we reward them on a scale determined by their individual contributions to the success of the particular team they play on.

Q. How does that work? Can you give me some specifics?

A. Sure thing. As I said, it's done on a share system. For example, every member of the football squad—all 200 of them—gets two shares—automatically. Then, extra shares are awarded according to the actual time a player is in the game.

Q. That's quite a system. Does the athlete's position on the team make any difference?

A. Sure. The first-team quarterback, for example, gets six shares. He's the key man, you know. Then, a star blue-chipper—say, a great running back—can get even more.

Q. Are there any other incentives?

A. Any what?

Q. Let me put it this way. Does a player get anything extra for making a game-winning play, or doing something really spectacular?

A. Sure. We have a committee—some of the coaches and a couple of alumni and a sports writer—who decide on extra shares for that kind of thing. For example, when Joe Speedy made five touchdowns last year against Phooeyon University

NFL's draft policy should be changed

By Glenn Dickey
San Francisco Chronicle

Each year, NFL teams give a test to those players eligible for the draft.

It is not a particularly difficult test. Paul Zimmerman had a copy of one year's test in his book, "The Thinking Man's Guide to Football," four or five years ago. When I looked at the test, it seemed that most college graduates should correctly answer 40 or more of the 50 questions. It seemed inconceivable that any graduate would get less than 30.

The average for NFL rookies is around 20. One of the top picks in this year's draft got four right.

Does anybody still think that top football players are getting a good education?

That exposes the NFL's contention that it's important to keep the requirement that a player cannot be drafted until his class has graduated. Pro coaches know that it isn't doing the players any particular good to be required to stay in college for four years; the NFL is only interested in keeping college coaches happy.

This kind of hypocrisy makes college football vulnerable to the argument that players should be paid a living wage.

A college athletics scholarship is a great value if the player gets an education because of it. If he's not getting an education, he's only a player who is woefully underpaid for what he's contributing.

I don't believe players should be paid for playing intercollegiate football. But I do believe they should be allowed, as basketball and baseball players are, to leave school early to pursue their careers if they choose.

The colleges should have the responsibility to make it worthwhile for players to remain in school. If players are students as well as athletes, they'll want to stay—as Brad Muster did at Stanford when he could have left last year.

If they're only there to play football, they should be allowed to go where they can get paid what they're worth.

Bonus plans can arouse suspicion

Norm Frauenhelm, columnist
The Arizona Republic

"Dollars always arouse suspicion, especially in college football. Money (bonus plans) for the rate of graduation might tempt some coaches to steer players to easy courses. A degree in physical education is a lot easier to acquire than one in electrical engineering.

"Where would the coach's real interest be? In his wallet? Or in the player's future?"

"The potential conflict is cause for concern. Besides, it would be naive to think that boosters would be any less inclined to fire a losing coach because most of his athletes graduate.

"Notre Dame's football players graduate, regardless of the record. Education is simply part of the tradition. So is the won-lost record. The coach survives only when the team wins. Ara Parseghian's reputation is not pegged on the graduation record.

"The guess is that a Parseghian or a Joe Paterno would be embarrassed if his salary were tied to graduation. The best coaches are great teachers. If they can't teach, their teams will fail as students and athletes. There's no bonus in that."

"If I feel and (the Jets) feel it's (using anabolic steroids) the best thing to do, I will do it. I know their feeling about that is negative.

"I'd tell the NFL the same thing. If they don't like it, screw them. This is a business. They're not naive to the situation.

"I want to clarify this so I don't get stereotyped as a steroid user. I was tested 10 times in the last four years at USC and never showed positive.

"But after talking with my dad, I felt I would try a low dosage of steroids after the season.... My dad and

Schultz sees problems as nothing more than possibilities

By Bill Millsaps
Richmond Times-Dispatch

You're the chief executive officer of a voluntary association of 900 members with, seemingly, 900 agendas.

You are beset from within, by strains for reform, and from without, by charges that your organization cannot police miscreant members.

You spend 60 percent of your time on airplanes, in hotel rooms and meeting rooms across the country.

Sound like fun to you? It is fun to Dick Schultz, who was athletics director at the University of Virginia until the middle of 1987, when he was named to succeed Walter Byers as executive director of the NCAA.

Richard D. Schultz

To Schultz, the problems of his job are nothing more than possibilities.

He is, by nature, optimistic; and, despite evidence to the contrary, he believes his organization will embrace the concept and the reality of integrity in all phases of intercollegiate athletics.

To Schultz, the NCAA cannot clean up college athletics by passing more rules. The rules book is already "thick and cumbersome... and nobody understands it."

Change, he said, must come from the membership up through the organization, rather than from the top down.

It can happen, Schultz says, if the university boards, presidents, athletics directors and coaches commit themselves to running a clean, honorable athletics shop.

In his travels around the country, Schultz said he senses an increasingly favorable climate for such a change.

If such a change develops, then Schultz may achieve what seems to be an extremely ambitious job objective.

"If there's one thing I can accomplish," he said, "when I get through, when I return to Virginia to live, I hope they'll say that I helped coaches and athletes return to their rightful place as real role models for young people, as well as adults, in this country."

He'll need lots of help.

Commission tries to regroup after leadership losses

By Doug Bedell
The Dallas Morning News

In the midst of an 18-month push toward major reforms within the NCAA, the leadership group attempting to coalesce support for change has suffered two losses not easily overcome.

The chair of the Presidents Commission and its former Division I chair have announced their departures. And, most observers agree, the resulting leadership void certainly is not going to help strengthen the Commission's stand as it prepares for controversial showdowns over key issues.

"It certainly is a momentum-stopper of sorts," said Richard Lapchick, director of Northeastern University's Center for the Study of Sport in Society.

Commission Chair John B. Slaughter, chancellor of the University of Maryland, College Park, and one of the most ardent reformers, is stepping down this summer to assume the presidency of Occidental College.

and got us into a bowl game, he got a bonus of 10 shares. In fact, he made so much last year he dropped his plans to turn pro at the end of the season. He figured he would make more by staying at BU another year.

Q. Do some of the athletes complain about not getting enough pay? Do some complain about the inequity of the system?

A. Well, yeah. We have some griping by the ones who don't get to play much. In fact, some transferred to Phoeeyon University because Phoeeyon promised them more pay. But you have to expect that kind of thing. It's going to get real tough, though, if many other big-time schools get in the pay-for-play—I mean bonus business.

Q. In what way?

A. Well, some of them might be able to outbid us in the recruiting game. Take a blue-chipper like Joe Speedy, for example. He would probably go to the school that offered him the highest salary—uh, I

The ex-Division I chair, Chancellor Ira Michael Heyman of the University of California, Berkeley, resigned from the Commission last month to devote more time to his job.

Although they have at times been the object of scorn from NCAA counterparts and reassert power.

"I feel confident there will be no insurmountable problems," said NCAA President Wilford S. Bailey of Auburn University, "but I would be less than honest if I didn't say I really do regret the departure of Chancellor Slaughter at this point.

members critical of their stances, Slaughter and Heyman were roundly regarded as dedicated, eloquent spokesmen for their cause.

Both believe deeply that the NCAA can address troubles within big-time athletics programs if Commission members—all chief executive officers—join with their

"That old maxim about changing horses in midstream does pose something of a problem in terms of continuity of leadership and emphases."

The timing of the resignations is, perhaps, the most troubling aspect.

Without any clear consensus on such volatile issues as whether freshmen should be allowed to play varsity sports, the Commission a year ago began a National Forum designed to stir debate and promote compromise.

By January 1989, the group hopes to begin bringing its ideas to votes of the full NCAA membership.

With Slaughter leaving for his new post by August and Heyman already gone, the remaining Commission leadership is left with a task of politicking for those measures. However, many of the key Commission personnel only recently have begun service on the body.

Slaughter had begun his second two-year term as head of the Commission, while Heyman had served as the leader of Division I Commission members for two years. His term expired in January.

During the years Slaughter and Heyman served on the Commission, it successfully pressed for several measures designed to help bring academics and athletics into better balance.

At the Commission's behest, members adopted harsher sanctions for those schools that repeatedly violate NCAA regulations—including the so-called "death penalty" used on Southern Methodist University football. And the NCAA installed stricter academic-eligibility standards for student-athletes with Proposition 48.

The breadth of experience lost with the departures of Slaughter and Heyman is significant.

William C. Friday, president emeritus of the University of North Carolina System: "In my view, finding people of Dr. Heyman's courage in dealing with these issues and John Slaughter's persistence and diligence is absolutely essential. It's very important that all these things be kept very much up in front."

By discussing issues like academic integrity during two previous Forum sessions, the Commission had hoped to bring NCAA members to agreement on legislated changes in the way athletics programs are conducted.

Common ground lacking

However, since initial successes like Proposition 48, common ground among the more than 900 members has been hard to find. In fact, at a June special Convention last year in Dallas, cost-control recommendations backed by the Commission suffered stinging defeats.

After the Forum in Orlando, Florida, this June, the Commission is supposed to come forward with legislation it will back at the annual Convention in 1989.

"If those are watered down or weak, it's going to break the Commission," said Richard Esquinas, executive director of the National Association of Academic Advisors for Athletics. "Everyone's looking to them for direction. Their time has come. And if they don't showcase their knowledge, authority, power, insight and wisdom through their proposals for legislation, I don't know what's going to happen."

Schism ahead

Perhaps, said Friday, the end point for the Presidents Commission efforts will be a complete schism. Division I schools simply may have to separate from the smaller members and create new rules, he said.

But, he said, that will not necessarily head off the problems being caused by the large sums commanded by television and runaway operating costs.

"We've made sports a religion," Friday said. "And the distortion of the values it's bringing to this country is getting very serious."

The Commission must find some way of slowing down the big-time collegiate drive for more money to build bigger facilities to attract better athletes who will bring in more money, said Esquinas.

"They're in a tough position," he said. "They're trying to get this thing by the horns.... They're trying to get a grip on what they want college athletics to be—how they can show off academics through athletics. And they're trying to prevent other bodies from coming in and regulating college athletics."

Federal intervention

The NCAA is right to fear that, should the Commission fail in its reforms, the Federal government will move toward imposing its own rules, said Friday.

"I do think that the NCAA, by virtue of these huge television contracts, is showing it has lost control over all this," Friday said. "It's out of hand. When it grows to these kinds of dimensions, you've got things to worry about."

"We tested more than 3,000 athletes last year for drugs in our championship events. One percent were declared ineligible. The statistics, obviously, are not in this year because they are not completed, but the impression I have is that that percentage is going to be even lower.

"You could take any segment of society today and test that same number of people, and you wouldn't come within 20 percent of that number. So athletes are pretty good citizens; and drug testing, whether you like it or not, is a deterrent.

"I don't like it. I never have liked drug testing, but I started one (program) at Virginia (as athletics director), and I certainly support the one that we (NCAA) have here because I think it is an important deterrent and it gives those athletes an out against peer pressure.

"But we have to have a strong education program to go with that, because drugs are not only a challenge for intercollegiate athletics, they may be one of the most major challenges that we have in society today in this country."

mean the biggest bonuses. That kind of thing could get way out of hand—really eat into our profits.

Q. I see. Do you use the same sort of reward system in the other sports—basketball and ice hockey?

A. Sort of. But we're still working on that. Course, now, if a basketball player averages 30 points a game, he should get a lot more than some guy who sits on the bench most of the time. Same way for a hockey player who averages four goals a game.

Q. Now, how about the other sports, like track, golf, swimming and the like? Are those athletes being paid?

A. Well, yes. They get the base amount. About what they would get under the old scholarship system.

Q. Seems like they are no better off than they were before you started the pay-for-play system. Is that fair?

A. I don't see why not. They don't bring any money into the till.

Q. But don't some of them put just as much time and work into

A. Maybe so, but who's going to pay to see some guy run a foot race or splash around in a pool? Sports like that don't make a dime. They cost us.

Q. Well, how about the women? You have several women's sports. Are the female athletes getting the bonuses, or shares?

A. Sure. They get the base amounts—just like the other minor sports.

Q. Have they complained about that?

A. Hell, yes! They're really creating a problem. Talking about Title IX and all that stuff. Some are threatening to take us to court. But I got to admit that the women's basketball team has started making some money. I guess we got to do something to get those folks off our backs.

Q. I see. Just one or two more questions. Since you started this system of — er — bonuses, have you had any scheduling problems?

A. Well, yes, I got to admit that's a problem we didn't foresee. Some of those holier-than-thou schools we've been playing won't play us anymore. We're thinking of suing them for breaking their contracts, but that might cost a lot of money. And money is the name of this game, you know. And the NCAA seems about to kick us out, too.

Q. Really? What will you do when—I mean if—that happens?

A. Guess we'll have to start another organization.

Q. Will you call it the PAPA?

A. What's that mean?

Q. The Pay-Athletes-for-Play-Association.

A. Guess that's as good a name as any.

"What (Secretary of Education) Bennett's report (on school reform) doesn't spell out is that the benefits of school reform have gone primarily to those who were already doing all right—to the high school students in private schools or those in affluent suburbs who can measure up to more rigorous demands and enriched course requirements.

Southern Cal claims men's volleyball championship

Southern California won the 1988 National Collegiate Men's Volleyball Championship May 7 in another all-California final.

The Trojans bested UC Santa Barbara, 3-2, to win the title in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

The 19th annual championship was held at the Allen County Memorial Coliseum and hosted by Indiana/Purdue-Fort Wayne.

Top-ranked Southern Cal put an end to Ball State's championship dreams in a semifinal by overcoming the ninth-ranked Cardinals, 15-7, 15-7, 15-11 in 76 minutes of play.

Fourth-ranked UC Santa Barbara moved past No. 8 George Mason 15-9, 15-9, 15-13, to hit the final two for the first time since 1975. The Gauchos' victory over the Patriots came in 97 minutes of play.

Ball State and George Mason met in the third-place match, with the Cardinals winning, 14-16, 15-13, 15-9, 16-14.

Championship profile

Event: Division I men's lacrosse

Field: Twelve teams will be selected to compete for the 1988 championship. One team will be selected from each of three regions, and the remainder of the field will consist of at-large selections.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Johns Hopkins defeated Cornell, 11-10, for the 1987 title.

Schedule: Regionals and quarterfinals will be conducted at on-campus sites May 18 and 22, respectively. Syracuse University will host the semifinals and championship game May 28 and 30 at the Carrier Dome.

The NCAA News coverage: Scores and pairings from regionals and quarterfinals will appear in the May 25 issue of the News. Championship results will be published June 1.

Contenders: Johns Hopkins, North Carolina, Syracuse.

Championship notes: Only four times (1971, 1975, 1976 and 1986) in the 17-year history of the championship has Johns Hopkins not been a finalist... The Blue Jays have won seven titles and finished second six times... Four times, overtime was needed to decide the titlist... Teams representing 23 institutions have participated in the championship... After Johns Hopkins (15), Maryland has earned the most top-four finishes in the tournament (12—including two titles).

Usual I men's lacrosse contenders mix varying styles, solid defense

The team that wins the 1988 Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship will do so with style.

This year, two of the top teams play in an up-tempo style, while one is methodical. All three field good defenses.

Syracuse is undefeated after 11 games and off to its best start since 1984, when the Orangemen went 15-0 before losing to Johns Hopkins in the championship game. Syracuse won the championship in 1983.

Sophomore midfielder Gary Gait is the team's leading scorer with 53 goals and 12 assists through 11 games. Junior attackman John Zurberti is the assist leader (38) and has 16 goals. Sophomore midfielder Paul Gait owns 30 goals and 44 assists, while goalie Matt Palumb has a .626 save percentage.

"In my opinion, Syracuse has one of the best lacrosse teams ever assembled," said coach Don Zimmerman of rival Johns Hopkins, which will be trying to defend its 1987 title. "I do not see any weakness whatsoever."

"Syracuse can put an awful lot of pressure on you when they have the ball," said the coach of another contender, North Carolina's Willie Scroggs. "They have played well defensively but that has been overshadowed by their offense."

Seeking No. 8

Johns Hopkins has seven titles to its credit, including three in the last four years. Through nine games, senior Mike Morrill is the team's top scorer with 24 goals and seven assists. He is the son and grandson of former Johns Hopkins all-Americans and lacrosse hall of fame members. Scott Marr has 10 goals and 15 assists, and goalkeeper Quint Kessenich has 92 saves.

"Hopkins is playing as well as any Hopkins team I've seen," Scroggs said.

If Johns Hopkins plays for the championship, Zimmerman believes, "it will be because the defense plays well and the offense plays smart."

North Carolina won back-to-back titles in 1981 and 1982 and captured its third championship in 1986. Senior midfielder Tim Welsh is the leading scorer through 10 games with 20 goals and five assists. Junior attackman Neill Redfern has 17 goals and eight assists. Junior attackman Corey Gavitt is the assist leader with 14 and he also has seven goals. Senior goalkeeper Barney Aburn has a .681 save percentage.

Defense comes through

"(Coming into this season) we were very concerned with our ability to play defense," Scroggs said. "I am very pleased with our defense. We have been pretty consistent and pretty tough."

"Carolina plays an explosive kind of lacrosse, as we do," Simmons said. "That is why Syracuse-Carolina games are so exciting."

Defense, ball control and goalie play will be factors in this year's championship, according to these coaches.

"I think its going to boil down to a goalie game again," Simmons said. "Last year, it was (Cornell's) Paul Schimoler and Quint Kessenich and Hopkins won on Kessenich's play. Ball control is important to an offense-oriented team."

"In order for anybody to be successful, they have to play defense as well as they possibly can," Scroggs said. "For North Carolina, the ability to control the ball on offense will be (the) key."

Scroggs added that, at times, a team will play well in a certain situation and still come up short. A team may play good defense but give up a goal, or get the shot it wants only to have the opposing goalie make a great save.

"How a team handles that frustration is very important," he said.

Serious Cal State Stanislaus seeks 11th men's golf crown

The Scottish have a saying about golf that goes, "Golf is not a matter of life and death; it is much more serious."

Cal State Stanislaus will not be suited up in kilts for the Division III Men's Golf Championships, but the Warriors take the championships very seriously.

Coach Jim Hanny has led Cal State Stanislaus to 10 team titles in the 13-year history of the championships and has seen four of his golfers win the individual title.

Cal State Stanislaus leads Division III in all-time team titles, thanks to Hanny's teams. The Warriors have won 12 team titles (the other two were in baseball) to lead the runner-up by four championships.

The Warriors' dominance of the championships is apt to continue another year. Hanny has a veteran team laden with depth that has won just about every tournament it has entered this spring, including the Sacramento Invitational, where several Division I teams were entered.

Veterans Glen Andrade and Joe McCormick are good bets to make Hanny's championships lineup. Andrade, who enters championships play with a team-leading 76.0 stroke average, tied for third at last year's championships. McCormick sports a 77.1 stroke average and is coming off a 16th-place championships finish.

Choosing the rest of Cal State Stanislaus' championships roster will not be easy for Hanny. John Groth (76.9), Garrett Cox (78.0),

Tom Clark (79.0), Ken Wood (79.5) and John Payne (80.0) are in contention for the last three tickets to the championships.

If Hanny's team plays up to its potential, the Warriors should run away and hide from the other 12 teams in the field. After all, Cal State Stanislaus takes its play at the championships very seriously.

There might be a campaign to rename the NCAA Division II Men's Golf Championships the "District 3 Invitational" if the outcome is the same as the past dozen tournaments.

Championships profile

Event: Division III men's golf.

Field: A total of 120 student-athletes will compete for team and individual championships in 1988.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Cal State Stanislaus won the 1987 title by 14 strokes over UC San Diego.

Schedule: The 1988 championships will be held May 17-20 at Bryan Park Golf Course, Greensboro, North Carolina.

The NCAA News coverage: Championships results will appear in the May 25 issue of the News.

Contenders: Cal State San Bernardino, Cal State Stanislaus, Gustavus Adolphus, Methodist.

Championships notes: Cal State Stanislaus has won the past three team titles, and UC San Diego has finished second those same three years... The former's 14-stroke margin of victory in 1987 was the largest during that time... Rochester's Greg Perry claimed the championships record for lowest round with a 5-under-par 66 in 1986... In the 13-year history of the championships, only Wooster (1975), Ramapo (1982) and Allegheny (1983) have won team titles besides Cal State Stanislaus.

District's golfers press claim in II

The district's track record, mainly produced by Tampa, Columbus, Florida Southern, Troy State and Rollins, includes team titles at 10 of the past 12 championships—including the last four titles—and nine second-place finishes during the same period. The region also has produced eight individual champions since 1976.

Top-ranked and defending champion Tampa and 1986 and 1987 runner-up Columbus, ranked second in the latest golf coaches poll, again are projected to vie for the team title. Fourth-ranked Florida Southern, the division's all-time leader in team titles with four and individual titlists with three; sixth-ranked Florida Atlantic, and eighth-ranked Columbus also should be in the title race.

Players in the 26th annual championships will have to negotiate a relatively short but tough course—The Oaks Golf Course at Tan-Tar-A Resort at Osage Beach, Missouri. The 6,442-yard, par-70 course has a 71.6 rating and requires driving accuracy and well-placed approach shots.

Tampa, led by defending championships titlist Jeff Leonard, has the personnel to conquer the course and some added motivation to defend the team title with the announced departure of coach Chuck Winship, who will resign effective at season's end to become Miami's (Florida) coach.

Winship has guided the Spartans through a successful spring season that included an impressive first-place finish at the Seminole Invitational, which had a 19-team field loaded with Division I teams. It was the first time a Division II team has won the tournament.

Stanford men regain familiar position in I tennis

After a season out of the tournament field, Stanford's men have their eyes focused on another Division I team tennis title.

The Cardinal, winner of eight Division I Men's Tennis Championships team crowns in the last 15 seasons, has emerged from the pack late in the season to claim the top spot in rankings by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA).

The team championship will be conducted May 20-24 at Henry Feild Stadium at Georgia, with individual singles and doubles competition to be held there May 24-28.

Stanford, glaringly conspicuous by its absence from the 1987 team-championship field, has leapt back into the fray with an influx of fresh talent. Freshman David Wheaton quickly has made a name for himself in Pacific-10 Conference competition, jumping from unranked status to the fourth rung in the ITCA singles poll. His doubles partner, sophomore Jeff Tarango, is close behind, and the tandem ranks third in doubles.

Another freshman, Martin Blackman, further bolsters the Cardinal. Provides stability

Adding a measure of stability to coach Dick Gould's championship equation is senior Patrick McEnroe—he of the famous brother. The younger McEnroe has team-championship experience in 1986 and a current top-12 singles ranking.

Gould is hoping for a repeat of 1983, when his team captured the title after not being invited to the tournament the previous spring.

"I think we've improved tremendously through April and May," Gould said. "We have a good record, even though we haven't blown anyone out. All the matches have been close. Again, it will come down to who's healthy, or maybe who's lucky, at tournament time."

Stanford's major challenge could come from a new quarter. Louisiana State, which only last season won its first dual match in NCAA tournament play, held the top spot in the team rankings for much of the spring and will challenge defending Division I champion Georgia for the Southeastern Conference title.

International lineup

The Tigers feature a strong blend of foreign and domestic talent led by junior Felix Barrientos, a native of the Philippines. Spaniard Billy Uribe, a tournament veteran, and Louisiana-born sophomore Don Leaycraft are other key performers for coach Jerry Simmons' team.

Southern California, which lost a bitterly fought semifinal match to Georgia last spring, again will be in the thick of the battle. Senior Scott Melville, who teamed with Rick Leach to win the doubles championship last year, has a new partner in junior Eric Amend, and that pair holds the top ITCA ranking.

David Wheaton

Pepperdine boasts the nation's top-ranked singles player and enough additional talent to be a contender. Senior Robby Weiss will be the favorite to succeed Andrew Burrow of Miami (Florida) as singles champion. Teammate Andrew Sznajder, a Canadian sophomore, could be one of his leading challengers.

Georgia, host of the Division I championships since 1977, will bid a temporary goodbye to the tournament after this spring.

The event will be held at Indian Wells, California, next year before returning to Athens in 1990. Dan Magill's Bulldogs would like nothing better than to stage another upset and capture their third team crown in four seasons.

Team leader Philip Johnson has graduated, but veterans Stephen Enochs and Trey Carter are joined by freshman Chris Garner.

UC Irvine, Michigan, Kentucky, UCLA, Arizona State and Georgia Tech are among the other squads that could contend for the team title.

Other challengers for the singles crown could include Shelby Cannon of Tennessee, Greg Failla of Long Beach State, Olivier Lorin of Oklahoma and Alex Nizet of Southern Methodist.

Bret Garnett and Ashley Rhoney of Southwestern Louisiana, Clinton Banducci and Earn Zinn of Texas Christian, and Mark Jeffrey and Mihnea Nastase of Mississippi State could be among the contenders in the doubles championship.

Championships profile

Event: Division I men's tennis.

Field: Twenty six-man teams, 64 singles players and 32 doubles teams will compete for team and individual titles in 1988.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: After upsetting Southern California, 5-4, in the semifinals, host Georgia won the 1987 team title with a 5-1 decision over UCLA.

Schedule: The University of Georgia hosts the May 20-28 championships.

The NCAA News coverage: Championships results will be published in the June 1 issue of the News.

Contenders: Louisiana State, Pepperdine, Southern California, Stanford.

Championships notes: Georgia has hosted the championships annually since 1977... The Bulldogs have won three of the last four team titles... This event is the oldest in NCAA championships history. Individual champions were crowned beginning in 1883... Although Harvard holds the championships record for most singles champions (16), a Harvard athlete has not won the NCAA singles crown since R. N. Williams II in 1923.

Abilene Christian men, women set up track act near home

Moving the championships closer to home is not likely to hurt Abilene Christian's bid for continued dominance in Division II track and field.

The Wildcat men's team has won six straight outdoor team championships; their women's team has won three straight.

Both teams enjoyed similar success in their first appearances this year at the indoor championships. And when the 1988 outdoor meet is held May 18-21 at Angelo State University, Abilene Christian, based only 100 miles away, should feel even more at home.

Men's championships

Challengers at least can take heart that they seem to be gaining on Abilene Christian. The Wildcats' margin of victory at last year's meet was 34 points, the narrowest in four seasons, and St. Augustine's managed a tie for the indoor title when Abilene Christian made its first appearance at that meet in March.

But with the presence of a strong corps of field-event specialists for the outdoor meet, coach Don Hood's team again will be primed for victory.

Three athletes who set meet records at the indoor championships will be counted upon to provide points outdoors. James Browne finished a close second in the long jump and won the triple jump. Cameron Miller shattered the meet pole vault record by a full 19 inches. And Ian Morris emerged as the Wildcats' new sprint leader with a victory in the 400 meters.

Injuries a factor

Joining those performers will be such proven standouts as sprinters Marvin Brown and Aaron Phillips. Freddie Williams, four-time champion in the 800 meters, has graduated, however, and discus and hammer champion Clifford Felkins (also the Division I discus champion) and decathlete Mike Ledsome have been beset by injuries.

"With those two, I would be very confident about our chances to repeat," said Hood. "Now, I think it will be up for grabs. But our kids always seem to rise to the occasion. We think in terms of the nationals every season, and I hope we can come up with another good performance."

St. Augustine's, also loaded with sprinters and jumpers, will attempt to offer as strong a challenge to Abilene Christian outdoors as indoors. The Mighty Falcons, third outdoors last season, are led by hurdler Derek Knowles and long jumper Xavier Donaldson, both indoor champions.

Trio carries hopes

Southeast Missouri State, outdoor runner-up for the last two seasons, will be led in its attempt to dethrone Abilene Christian by defending 10,000-meter champion Art Waddle, fellow distance standout Brian Radle and triple-jumper Mike Roberson. However, the Indians will be without the services of pole vault champion Bob Ferguson.

Host Angelo State is strong in both the 100 meters and the hurdles. The Rams won the 400-meter relay last season.

Whether or not they challenge for the team crown, the Mount St. Mary's (Maryland) Mountaineers likely will gain their usual share of individual titles and spectator attention. Kenyans Peter Rono and Charles Cheruiyot, who between them have placed first or second six times in Division II cross country and indoor track competition, again will be entered in the distance events.

Californians present

California teams, which rarely make an appearance at the Division II indoor meet, again will be out in force outdoors. Cal State Los Angeles, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, UC Davis and Cal State Northridge were all top-10 teams in 1987 and can be expected to enjoy similar success this spring.

Northwest Missouri State, Mankato State and New York Tech are other squads that could contend for team honors.

Women's championships

Abilene Christian and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo are accustomed to competing for supremacy in Division II outdoor women's track. Observers will be surprised if the 1988 championships take a different course.

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, winner of the last six cross country championships, also won the first three Division II outdoor meets before Abilene Christian began its current run of titles. Lance Harter's team has been runner-up for the last three years, and Wes Kittley's Abilene Christian squad has every intention of keeping the Mustangs on the second rung.

Kittley's Wildcats, making their first appearance in the national indoor meet this year, dominated that affair, setting meet records for total points and victory margin. Abilene Christian hopes that dominance continues at San Angelo and has the talent to produce such an outcome.

Titlists lead way

Speedsters Sylvia Dyer and Tracy Mayfield and weight specialist Marlene Lewis pace the Wildcat attack. Mayfield, 100-meter champion at last year's outdoor meet, added the indoor 55-meter title in March with a meet record in the event. Dyer was a double winner indoors, setting a meet record in the triple jump and also capturing the 55-meter hurdles. Lewis won both the shot put and the discus last spring.

Abilene Christian lost to graduation a pair of four-time outdoor national champions—triple-jumper Ann Foster and high-jumper Yolanda Henry. But the Wildcats boast talent in their fabled sprint corps and in the field events.

Leading is easier

Kittley realizes that the team on top has the rest of the field gunning for it.

"When Lance Harter's team was winning it every year, we aimed our program at them," Kittley said. "It's not a grudge thing, it's recognizing a fine program and wanting to be there yourself. It's not easy being on top, but it's better than being on the bottom."

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo relies on its distance corps and its field-event standouts. Gone is three-time hurdles champion Cece Chandler. But back on hand is Teena Colebrook, who broke meet records in both the 800 and the 1,500 meters last season and went on to earn all-America honors in cross country last fall.

Runner-up tries again

Hampton, indoor runner-up this year, is led by hurdlers Maureen Wiltshire and Sophia Brown, sprinters Vivienne Spence and Trina Creekmore, and high-jumper Judy McDonald.

Southeast Missouri State, consistently among the top finishers both indoors and outdoors, boasts one of the division's top individual performers in Kehinde Vaughan, champion in the 55 meters at the indoor meet.

St. Augustine's, winner of the first two Division II indoor meets, suffered a disappointing outing this year but has enough sprint talent to bounce back at the outdoor meet.

Alabama A&M, Seattle Pacific and Cal State Northridge are among the other schools that could mount challenges for the team title.

Championships profile

Event: Division II men's and women's track.

Fields: Qualifying standards for the championships have been established by the NCAA Executive Committee in accordance with the 1:16 participation ratio approved for individual-team championships.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champions: Abilene Christian swept the men's and women's team titles for the third straight year in 1987. The men's title was the school's sixth straight.

Schedule: Angelo State University will host the championships May 18-21.

The NCAA News coverage: Championships results will appear in the May 25 issue of the News.

Contenders: Men's contenders include Abilene Christian, Angelo State, St. Augustine's and Southeast Missouri State. Women's contenders include Abilene Christian, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Hampton and Southeast Missouri State.

Championships notes: Although Abilene Christian holds the championships records for most men's and women's team titles (six and three, respectively), Cal Poly San Luis Obispo claims the marks for most individual titles by men and women (39 and 23, respectively)... The 1988 championships will be the first for either men or women staged in Texas... Individuals from 46 institutions scored points in the 1987 men's championships... Individuals from 36 institutions scored points in the 1987 women's championships.

Contenders in Division I softball headed for new championship site

The 1988 Division I Women's Softball Championship marks the beginning of a new era for the event. The tournament has left its accustomed site in Omaha, Nebraska, for the first time in the seven-year history of the tournament.

Championship action this year will take place May 25-29 at Twin Creeks Sports Complex in Sunnyvale, California, and will be hosted by California.

Following is a look at some of the top teams heading into the games:

UCLA (42-5) returns two of last year's top pitchers in Lisa Longaker and Samantha Ford, who together helped the Bruins lead the nation in 1987 with a team earned-run average of 0.41.

Longaker, who was an all-America last year as a freshman, leads the team this season with a 0.16 ERA. Her 23-1 record includes 18 shutouts, and she has three saves and has 185 strikeouts in 178 1/3 innings pitched.

In her junior year, Ford has pitched 124 1/3 innings for a 15-4 record, including seven shutouts, and a 0.96 ERA. Ford also has 67 strikeouts but has not seen action since April 16 due to a bout with mononucleosis. Coach Sharron Backus expects Ford to be back to form by championship time.

Newcomer Lorraine Maynez

leads the team in several categories at the plate—she has a .342 batting average and 50 hits and is tied for the lead in doubles with eight. Maynez also has contributed five triples and 22 runs batted in.

Janice Parks brings along experience when she steps up to the plate; in her junior year, Parks is batting .341 with 36 RBIs, eight doubles and six home runs.

Fresno State, coming off a 46-14 record and a Pacific Coast Athletic Association tournament title, heads into the championship ready to improve on last year's fifth-place finish. The Bulldogs, under head coach Marjorie Wright, return several veterans, including pitchers Melanie Parrent and Carrie Dever.

Wright uses Parrent, a lefty, and Dever to create an unusual mound combination that has been the key to the team's 31 shutouts this season. A combined 0.49 ERA for the season puts the Bulldogs well below the 1987 0.64 team ERA.

Leads in victories

In her senior year, Parrent has become the school's most victorious pitcher with a career record of 88-37. She has a 23-9 record and a 0.46 ERA this year; Dever is 23-5 with an 0.51 ERA.

Hot bats for the season belong to Gena Strang, Martha Noffsinger and Kathy Mayer. Strang and Noffsinger both are batting .284 and Mayer is hitting .282.

Strang is the team leader in RBIs (30), triples (six) and home runs (two), and Mayer leads the team in doubles with a school-record 15.

Oklahoma State's last appearance in the championship was in 1984, when the Cowgirls lost in 18 innings to Nebraska in Midwest regional play. Coach Sandy Fischer's team heads into the 1988 Big Eight Conference tournament with a 47-5 regular-season record.

Leading teammates at the plate is junior Shari Johnson (.417). In 144 plate appearances, Johnson has 60 hits and 20 RBIs. She has proven herself to be an extra-base hitter with eight doubles, three triples and two home runs.

Complementing Johnson's batting performance is freshman Dee Brewer (.377), with 55 hits, 26 RBIs, 11 doubles and six homers. Also hitting above the .300 mark are junior Deborah Mobius (.331), freshman Dena Carter (.333) and senior Mary Hammen (.313). The three have combined for 135 hits and 45

Event: Division I women's softball.

Field: Twenty teams will compete for the 1988 championship. Fifteen at-large selections and five automatic qualifiers will fill the bracket.

Automatic qualification: Big Eight Conference, Big Ten Conference, High Country Athletic Conference, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Pacific-10 Conference.

Defending champion: Texas A&M claimed the 1987 title with a 4-1 victory over UCLA.

Schedule: Regionals will be played at on-campus sites May 20-21. The University of California, Berkeley, will host the finals May 25-29 at the Twin Creeks Sports Complex, Sunnyvale, California.

The NCAA News coverage: Regional results will be published in the May 25 issue of the News, and championship results will appear June 1.

Contenders: Fresno State, Louisiana State, Oklahoma State, UCLA.

Championship notes: 1988 marks the first year that the finals have not been held in Omaha, Nebraska... UCLA in 1982 and Cal State Fullerton in 1986 went undefeated on their way to the Division I championship... UCLA's Debbie Doom holds the championship record for strikeouts (20), which was set in the Bruins' 2-1 victory over Oklahoma State in the 1982 tournament (May 27)... Cal Poly Pomona's Laura Myers had a championship-record 35 putouts in a 1-0 loss to Texas A&M May 24, 1984.

RBIs.

Hitter pitches

Carter also excels on the mound. She has a 17-2 record and a 0.35 ERA in 120 1/3 innings. She also has 105 strikeouts and has walked only 22 batters.

Sharing pitching duties is southpaw Michele Smith, who has a 0.50 ERA and a 23-3 record in 180 2/3 innings. The junior has 184 strikeouts. Senior Michelle Womacks, serving as backup pitcher, adds a 5-0 record and 0.42 ERA in 33 innings of duty.

Louisiana Tech has compiled a 44-6 record behind pitcher Debbie Nichols. Serving as the sole pitcher, Nichols has a 0.54 ERA with only 27 earned runs in 353 innings. Plus, she has a whopping 197 strikeouts and has walked only 34 batters.

Junior Chris Sherman (.323) leads the Lady Techsters at the plate with 51 hits in 158 at-bats. She also leads in several other categories, including runs batted in (31), doubles (12) and home runs (two). Nichols and shortstop Shirley Moir also have two homers apiece.

Jennifer Smith lends a hot bat to the team's efforts; the first baseman is hitting .322 and has brought in 28 runs in 158 at-bats. Also hitting above the .300 mark is right fielder DeAnna McGough (.309).

Jacksonville State leads high-scoring II baseball hopefuls

The top four contenders for the Division II Baseball Championship have proven they can score runs this season—a lot of them. The big question, however, is can anyone get them out?

The top-ranked Jacksonville State Gamecocks (37-5), a bridesmaid in 1983, might have enough pitching this year to win their first Division II title.

Other top contenders are Armstrong State, Florida Southern and Columbus.

Jacksonville State coach Rudy Abbott, who in 19 seasons has a career record of 573-226, will depend heavily on the arms of Jim Smith (8-0) and Todd Jones (7-2). Smith has recorded 88 strikeouts in 61 innings and has struck out 10 or more batters in seven of his victories.

Jones, a hard thrower, has 72 strikeouts in 60 innings. Senior Mark Eskins (3-0) and top reliever Dwayne Gregg (5-0, one save) also will see action.

Home run champ

Offensively, the Gamecocks rely on the big bat of Stewart Lee, the

Championship Preview

all-time college-division home-run leader. Lee, a two-time Division II all-America, is hitting .403 with 16 home runs and 50 runs batted in. He now has 69 career home runs. Jim Karanassos (.383, four HR, 25 RBIs), Mac Seibert (.360, 11 doubles, 11 HR, 47 RBIs) and designated hitter Larry Doyle (.406, eight HR, 32 RBIs) lead an attack that averages 9.8 runs per game with a .349 team batting average.

Despite being pestered by a few minor injuries, the Gamecocks look like the team to beat.

Armstrong State (39-7), ranked second in the latest Collegiate Baseball poll, can also light up the scoreboard. The Pirates average 11 runs per game and have a .345 team batting average.

Mike Mitchener, who doubles as the bullpen stopper, has supplied the power this season with 14 home runs and 73 RBIs. Danny Moore also slugged 13 home runs. Senior center fielder Calvin Culbertson, who had a 32-game hitting streak this season, has 41 stolen bases.

Seeks balance

"We are capable of scoring a lot of runs; we have a good offensive ballclub," said coach Joe Roberts. "However, for us to have a chance at winning a championship, our defense and pitching will have to show some consistency down the stretch."

The Pirates' pitching staff is led by Bill Gearhart, 11-1 this year and 21-1 over the past two seasons. Rob Musser, who is 8-1, and reliever Mitchener (1-1, six saves, 0.50 earned-run average) are the other top hurlers.

With eight starters returning, the Florida Southern Moccasins (39-7) will make a strong bid for the championship. The Mocs hope to make their first appearance in the finals series since they won the title in 1985, although they posted records of 45-15 and 44-12 the last two years.

"Those were not even good seasons for us," said coach Chuck Anderson. "Any season that we don't win the (championship) is not a good season for us."

Strong infield

Senior right fielder Billy Kull leads the Mocs' attack with a .429 average, including nine home runs, 57 runs

Championship profile

Event: Division II baseball.

Field: A maximum of 20 teams will be selected to compete for the 1988 championship. At-large selections and six automatic qualifiers will fill the bracket.

Automatic qualification: California Collegiate Athletic Association, Gulf South Conference, Great Lakes Valley Conference, New England Collegiate Conference, North Central Conference, Sunshine State Conference.

Defending champion: With a 7-5 victory over Tampa, host Troy State won the 1987 title—the school's second in a row.

Schedule: Troy State University will host the 1988 championship May 27-June 1. Regional competition will be completed by May 23 at on-campus sites.

The NCAA News coverage: Scores and pairings from preliminary rounds will appear in the May 25 issue of the News, and championship results will be published June 8.

Contenders: Armstrong State, Cal State Sacramento, Columbus, Florida Atlantic, Florida Southern, Jacksonville State, New Haven.

Championship notes: Quinnipiac's Bob Bruzik racked up 14 total bases—the championship record—during a 12-9 victory over New Haven during the 1983 play-offs (May 14)... Jacksonville State's Ted Barnicle got the championship record for strikeouts (20) May 16, 1975. His team lost to Southeastern Louisiana, 5-2... Teams from 127 institutions have appeared in the tournament since its inception in 1968.

batted in and 13 stolen bases. Shortstop Dino Ebel (.384, five HR, 34 RBIs, 12 stolen bases) anchors a strong infield that includes junior third baseman Chris Allen (.375), who leads team with 59 RBIs, and senior first baseman Bryan Arnold (.372, seven HR, 36 RBIs).

The Mocs have outscored their opponents 485-207.

Like the rest of the contenders, the quality, depth and consistency of the Mocs' pitching staff will determine how far they advance. John Hudek has been the top hurler, notching an 8-2 overall record but 7-1 out of the bullpen. Joe Logan (5-0, 3.88 ERA) and James Hurst (5-1, 3.53 ERA) round out a staff that has a team ERA of 3.89 but only five complete games.

Surprising contender

At Columbus (32-12), coach Derek Mann is ecstatic about this year's Cougar squad. After losing seven starters—including four all-America performers—to graduation, and his top left hander to surgery in January, Mann is just happy to be in contention.

Mann won his 300th game this season and has pieced together a lineup that consists of one returning starter, junior college transfers and seven freshmen.

Pitching is the key for the Cougars since Mike Bundesen, their top pitcher, has had arm problems. His longest outing has been 5 1/3 innings. Mann hopes to get seven innings out of him during regional competition.

Chris Clark has become the top starter and has a 7-4 record with a 2.33 ERA. In the bullpen, the Cougars' have Napoleon Robinson, who is 4-0 with a 2.28 ERA and six saves. Robinson has been effective this year using a split-finger fastball.

Junior left fielder Steve Ault (.465, 14 HR, 12 doubles, 53 RBIs) recently had a 26-game hitting streak snapped. He is the key to the Cougars' offensive attack. Freshman shortstop Scott Moseley, whose brother Brad is the starting second baseman, is hitting .364 with 21 stolen bases.

Cleveland State names advisory committee on athletics

Cleveland State University's board of trustees has appointed an 18-member, blue-ribbon commission to advise the school on its proper role in NCAA Division I athletics.

The move comes in the wake of the NCAA Council's recent action to affirm penalties imposed by the Association's Committee on Infractions following an investigation of Cleveland State's men's basketball program.

"We have to balance a high-quality athletics program with our academic mission—that's the key issue," said Henry J. Goodman, chair of the school's board of trustees. "This is not a unique problem in the United States. It is a growing concern at many universities around the country."

"We want to set a tone for other universities across the country," Goodman added. "We hope this (commission) blazes a new trail."

Goodman announced April 29 that Arthur Naparstek, dean of Case Western Reserve University's Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences, and E. Bradley Jones, retired chair and chief executive officer of the former Republic Steel Corporation, will cochair the panel. Other members are:

Frank E. Mosier of B. P. America; John A. Flower, Cleveland State provost; Wayne Embrey, general manager of the Cleveland Cavaliers professional basketball team; Clark Kellogg, a Cleveland native who starred at Ohio State University and later in the NBA; Steven Minter, director of the Cleveland Foundation; Albert Ratner, president and CEO of Forest City Enterprises; Richard W. Pogue, managing partner of the law firm of Jones,

ident and CEO of Alcan Aluminum Corporation, and Sister Mary Marthe Reinhard, president of Notre Dame College in Cleveland.

In a Cleveland State news release, Goodman said the university's administration and coaching staff understood the intent in forming the commission and "the crucial importance of the issue." He also noted that a mission statement for the group will be drafted by mid-May, although no date had been set for the panel's first meeting.

The Associated Press reported April 28 that those familiar with the panel's mission said some of the areas to be studied include recruiting, team travel, scheduling, and allegations of improper monetary payments made to players by coaches following games.

Some commission members, however, told the AP that they had not been briefed on the group's charge.

"Everything I know comes from a 30-second conversation with Henry Goodman," Mosier said. "I personally believe (that) Cleveland State athletics, and particularly its basketball team, are very important to the school and the area," he added. "We want to make sure it (basketball) doesn't disappear. We want to make sure it remains Division I."

"The university is not going to cry in its beer about being penalized by the NCAA," said commission co-chair Jones. "(University officials) have a positive attitude about the whole thing. We're to develop a model program that will reflect upon the university in the best possible way."

Summary of NCAA Council actions

Following is a list of all actions taken by the NCAA Council in its April 18-20, 1988, meeting in Washington, D.C.

Committee reports

Academic Requirements: The Council: Approved distribution of the Guide to International Standards for Athletics Eligibility to all certification officers, including those faculty athletics representatives who serve in that capacity.

Approved a recommendation that all test scores utilized for purposes of certifying a student-athlete's initial eligibility under the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(j) be sent directly from the testing agencies to the member institution involved.

Approved in concept and agreed to review further in August a proposed amendment to Bylaw 5-1-(j) to indicate that the SAT or ACT score must be achieved no later than July 1 immediately preceding the individual's first enrollment in a collegiate institution or be taken prior to the end of the last semester of the prospective student-athlete's secondary-level education, whichever is later.

Denied a recommendation that the method for determining core-curriculum grade-point averages under Bylaw 5-1-(j) be altered.

Approved revision of Form 48C to incorporate a checkoff box for "obvious qualifiers."

Agreed that 1988 Convention Proposal No. 41 was not intended to contradict Case No. 300 and that a student-athlete can become eligible on the day after the last scheduled examination period.

Bylaw 5-1-(j) Exceptions: The Council: Voted that the Council Subcommittee on Bylaw 5-1-(j) Exceptions is authorized to make exceptions to the subsections of Bylaw 5-1-(j), including the possibility of awarding a fourth season of competition to a nonqualifier when the subcommittee believes circumstances warrant.

Agreed that a report summarizing the subcommittee's actions should be printed in The NCAA News.

Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports: Approved a position statement regarding AIDS for inclusion in the Sports Medicine Handbook, The NCAA News and a mailing to NCAA sports committees. [The statement appeared in the May 4 issues of the News.]

Approved development of a bibliography on nutrition and eating disorders, which will be published in the News and disseminated to the membership.

Approved development of a pamphlet on eating disorders and nutrition as related to athletics participation.

Approved publication of a request for proposals for the production of a videotape on nutrition, eating disorders and athletics participation.

Approved development of a proposed amendment to Constitution 3-1-(h)-(4) to permit member institutions to provide counseling to student-athletes who suffer from eating disorders.

Approved continuation of data collection in the Injury Surveillance System, adding men's and women's basketball and spring football to the system.

Deregulation and Rules Simplification: The Council accepted a report on the Manual revision project, including two possible resolutions for the 1989 Convention to facilitate adoption of the revised Manual.

Minority Opportunities in Intercollegiate Athletics: The Council approved the subcommittee's recommendations regarding establishment of an NCAA Ethnic Minority Enhancement Program, including postgraduate scholarships in sports administration, a "vita bank" in the national office and internships in the national office, as reported in the April 27 issue of The NCAA News.

Women's Athletics: The Council approved in concept the committee's proposed NCAA Women's Enhancement Program, including the same elements as those proposed for the NCAA Ethnic Minority Enhancement Program, and agreed that the two programs should be administered as a single program in the national office, with the Executive Committee to be responsible for details of implementation.

The Council also approved development of a proposed amendment to Constitution 5-1-(a)-(6) to permit a member conference's primary woman administrator (who is not the conference's executive officer) to be eligible to serve on the NCAA Council.

It also agreed to consider in future meetings means of increasing student-athlete representation in NCAA matters other than by appointing student-athletes to existing committees.

Recruiting: The Council:

Referred to the Recruiting and Communications Committees for further review the issue of whether to eliminate recruiting brochures as permissible printed recruiting aids.

Asked the Recruiting Committee to review, prior to the Council's August meeting, proposed legislation to apply the contact restrictions of Bylaw 1-2-(g) to any athletics competition in which a prospective student-athlete is participating.

Referred a recommendation regarding agent affidavits in football to the Special Events Committee for review.

Asked the Recruiting Committee to review a proposed amendment to Bylaw 1-2-(f) to prohibit any in-person contact with or evaluation of prospective student-athletes by a member institution's coaching staff member during any event involving prospective student-athletes, unless such contact or evaluation occurs within the permissible contact or evaluation periods.

Research: The Council:

Approved revisions in several paragraphs of the guidelines for submission of research proposals, emphasizing that the Executive Committee has jurisdiction in funding research projects.

Agreed that Division II institutions should be included in the study of academic performance now being conducted only in Division I.

Special Events: The Council, at the suggestion of the Division III Steering Committee, took no action to support the suggestion that the Eastern College Athletic Conference's Division III play-off contests be exempt from the maximum contest limitation in football.

Review and Planning: The Council:

Noted for the record that any consideration of ways in which former NCAA officers might be included in appropriate NCAA activities should involve the Council, in terms of policy, and the Executive Committee, in terms of funding.

Agreed that the Committee on Review and Planning suggestions regarding NCAA legislative procedures and membership structure would be made a part of the Council's encompassing study of those issues after the June National Forum session.

Referred to the Academic Requirements Committee a suggestion that more specific NCAA academic requirements be developed for transfers from two-year colleges.

Stimulate the Membership's Compliance and Enforcement Efforts: The Council:

Endorsed the concept of a two-tiered educational program in the compliance area, to offer a series of compliance forums nationwide in 1988-89 and to enlist the aid of experienced administrators in all divisions to develop further institutional self-study instruments, with the Executive Committee to act on necessary funding.

Endorsed the recommendation that further consideration be given to reorganizing the national office staff to emphasize the distinction between the compliance and enforcement operations; referred the matter to the Executive Committee and the executive director.

Endorsed the addition of a sufficient number of national office staff members to implement efficiently the programs manifested by the Association's renewed commitment to compliance, including the two-tiered educational program, increasing numbers of institutional program reviews and the proliferation of conference compliance programs; referred the matter to the Executive Committee and the executive director.

Women's Committee on Committees: The Council:

Declined to initiate a study of the nomination procedures for sports committees or to change the effective date of appointments to such committees, suggesting that sports committees be encouraged to develop their own long-range plans to deal with recommendations to fill committee vacancies.

Deferred until August action on a recommendation to increase the size of sports committees where necessary to permit all championship regions in the sport to be represented; directed the staff to develop information regarding sports committee size and representation, including material previously reviewed by the Executive Committee, for review by the Council in August.

Denied a recommendation to reestablish separate men's and women's sports committees in sports where the men's and women's championships are conducted at separate sites, noting that legislation combining those committees had been in effect for only one year.

Division I Steering: The steering committee:

Approved the 1988 Division I Academic-Reporting Form, but voted not to preclude estimation of an institutional graduation rate in instances in which the institution has insufficient data or is unable to calculate an exact graduation rate. The Council also voted to include an item to ascertain whether the institution permits entering freshmen to declare specific baccalaureate degree programs.

Approved the 1987 Academic-Reporting Compilation for distribution but agreed that future reports should include information regarding the number of student-athletes in the "Undeclared/University College" category who were not permitted under institutional policy to declare a specific program of study at the time of enrollment.

Considered and acted upon an appeal by Cleveland State University concerning penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions, as reported in detail in the April 27 issue of The NCAA News.

Adopted a policy specifying that any motion to sponsor legislation would require a two-thirds majority vote of the steering committee members present and voting. The Council then adopted the same requirement for Council-sponsored legislation.

Division III Steering: The steering committee:

Concluded that a scholarship made available by a donor with the understanding that it must be awarded to a member of the donor's family can be considered exempted financial assistance consistent with the provisions of Constitution 3-4-(a)-(2).

Took the following actions regarding Division III financial aid, in accordance with recommendations by the Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism:

—Adoption of 1988 Convention Proposal No. 93 does not preclude the opportunity for a financial aid officer to exercise professional judgment.

—Transportation may be a consideration in determining need, provided the award does not exceed the limitations established by Constitution 3-1-(g)-(1). The steering committee will review legislation in August to establish that financial aid in Division III cannot be awarded in excess of the cost of attendance that normally is incurred by students enrolled in a comparable program at that institution.

—Division III member institution will not be required to use the College Scholarship Service's business/farm supplement in calculating financial need for prospective student-athletes.

—It shall not be necessary to mandate established percentages in dealing with the "self-help" component of a financial aid package.

—Consideration of athletics ability in "talent" scholarships provided to student-athletes no longer shall be permissible.

—Packaging of financial aid may not be decreased because a student-athlete does not participate in varsity athletics.

—If a staff member at a Division III institution serves as a financial aid officer and either volunteers or is employed as a part-time assistant or head coach in the athletics department, the individual no longer shall be eligible to serve in such a dual capacity.

—Passage of 1988 Convention Proposal No. 92 does not impinge on the academic freedom of tenured faculty members in Division III.

—Student athletes' rights are not being denied by prohibiting consideration of athletics talent in awarding financial aid.

—Student-athletes admitted to Division III member institutions prior to September 1, 1988, are not affected by the provisions of Proposal No. 93.

—The admissions process shall be considered separate and distinct from the institution's process for awarding financial aid.

—In instances in which admissions officers work on a matrix-rating system where, as part of the admissions process, factors other than academic ability are considered, once a decision is reached concerning admission and the student-athlete's application is reviewed by the financial aid officer, all consideration of athletics ability or participation shall be eliminated from any rating system utilized by the financial aid office.

—The defeat of 1988 Convention Proposal No. 95 should be interpreted to mean that leadership awards cannot be awarded without consideration of need. An individual's opportunity to participate in intercollegiate athletics shall not otherwise be precluded, provided athletics participation or ability is not a factor in determining such an award.

—Proposal No. 93 allows a student-athlete to receive an award for special talents outside of athletics (e.g., art, drama, music).

Requested that a review of Division III transfer requirements be prepared for review by the committee in August.

Miscellaneous

The Council reviewed a request by the new Faculty Athletics Representatives Association for NCAA funding for meetings (1) to develop a formal organizational structure and (2) to afford faculty athletics representatives regular opportunities to review legislative issues with academic implications. It voted that the request for this degree of formalization of the organization, and the actions necessary to achieve it, not be approved; however, it agreed with the concept of faculty representatives' reviewing proposed legislation with academic implications, noting that such funding would be left to the Executive Committee.

The Council reviewed working documents regarding possible modification of the Association's legislative and interpretative procedures, the role of the Council in those areas, and the NCAA membership structure. The Divisions II and III Steering Committees offered several specific suggestions, and the Council agreed to take no action on these matters until after the discussion of the topics in the National Forum session in June. It was the sense of the meeting, however, that an edited version of the working paper be distributed to the membership after the Forum.

Representatives of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, the Association's Washington, D.C., legal counsel, presented the quarterly governmental-affairs report and discussed the Council members' planned visits to members of Congress.

The Division I Steering Committee and the Council reviewed a prototype of state legislation, prepared at the suggestion of the Professional Sports Liaison Committee, concerning regulation and certification of personal representatives and player agents. No action was taken.

Presidents Commission

The Council received a report of the Presidents Commission's spring meeting, and President Wilford S. Bailey reported on a February 11, 1988, joint meeting of the NCAA Administrative Committee and the Commission's executive committee. It was noted that such meetings will be held at least annually in the future, and the division officers of each group will make efforts to attend at least one meeting of the other group's division sessions each year.

Compliance, Enforcement

The Council approved the 1988-89 version of the NCAA squad-list form.

It also approved the Student-Athlete Statement and accompanying Summary of NCAA Regulations, making editorial revisions in both.

Administrative Committee

The Council approved all actions in 1988 Administrative Committee Conference Nos. 1 through 6, as published in earlier issues of The NCAA News.

Membership

The Council and steering committees took the following actions regarding membership applications and requests:

Elected the South Florida Baseball Umpires Association, Miami, Florida, to affiliated membership.

Directed the staff to remind all corresponding members that they are prohibited by Constitution 4-3-(d) from using the Association's name, seal, logo or other insignia and that, after such warning, any corresponding member that persists in violating those provisions shall have its membership terminated. The Council also requested draft legislation to authorize the Council to terminate the membership of any affiliated or corresponding member without involvement of the Committee on Infractions.

Elected the College of Charleston, Charleston, South Carolina; College Prospects of America, Logan, Ohio, and the Young American Bowling Alliance, Greendale, Wisconsin, to corresponding membership.

Approved transfer of district membership from District 5 to District 6 for Cameron University, Lawton, Oklahoma, and Central State University, Edmond, Oklahoma.

Approved a request by the University of Texas, El Paso, for a scheduling waiver in women's basketball per Case No. 405.

Approved continuation of the use of non-NCAA sports per Bylaw 11-4-(b)-(7) at the University of Hawaii; Jacksonville University; Oregon State University; St. Mary's College (California), and the University of Wisconsin, Green Bay.

Approved requests for scheduling waivers per Bylaw 11-2-(h) for Cameron University, Lawton, Oklahoma; Fort Hays State University, Hays, Kansas; Missouri Southern State College, Joplin, Missouri; Missouri Western State College, St. Joseph, Missouri, and Pittsburg State University, Pittsburg, Kansas.

Denied a request for a scheduling waiver per Bylaw 11-2-(h) for the University of Wisconsin, Parkside.

Approved continuation of scheduling waivers per Bylaw 11-2-(h) for California Lutheran College; University of Minnesota, Duluth, and Pfeiffer College.

Denied continuation of scheduling waivers per Bylaw 11-2-(h) for Bemidji State University and Regis College (Colorado).

Deferred consideration of continued scheduling waivers per Bylaw 11-2-(h) for Davis and Elkins College and Pembroke State University, pending clarification of the division membership status of one of their opponents.

Approved waivers of the four-sport criterion for women per Constitution 4-2-(h)-(2) for Daniel Webster College, Nashua, New Hampshire, and the State University of New York Maritime College.

Approved a two-year continuation of a waiver of the four-sport criterion for women per Constitution 4-2-(h)-(2) for New York Polytechnic University.

Approved a waiver of the spring-sport sponsorship requirement per Constitution 4-2-(h)-(3) for Maine Maritime Academy.

Denied a request for a waiver of the spring-sport sponsorship requirement per Constitution 4-2-(h)-(3) for Potsdam State University College.

Denied a request for a scheduling waiver per Bylaw 11-3-(h) for California State University, Stanislaus.

Approved Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Georgia, for election to active membership (Division III), effective September 1, 1988, and approved a two-year scheduling waiver per Bylaw 11-3-(h) for that institution.

Approved continuation of the Pomona-Pitzer Colleges consortium.

Appointments

The Council appointed the 1988-89 Nominating Committee and the Men's and Women's Committees as reported in the May 4 issue of The NCAA News.

The Council also appointed Patricia A. O'Hara, University of Notre Dame, to the Committee on Infractions, replacing Marilyn V. Yarbrough, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, effective immediately; appointed Roy Kramer, Vanderbilt University, to that committee, replacing M. Minette Massey, University of Miami (Florida), effective September 1, 1988, and asked the committee to review the qualifications of potential candidates and to submit recommendations in August concerning a third pending vacancy, including four possible candidates recommended by the Divisions I and II Steering Committees.

Legislation

The Council reviewed the legislation that it had sponsored and that was not adopted at the 1988 Convention:

—The Division III Steering Committee will consider in August whether to resubmit Proposal No. 76.

—Proposal No. 103 was referred to the Recruiting Committee.

—The Division I Steering Committee defeated a motion to resubmit Proposal No. 39-A.

—Proposal Nos. 13 and 77 were referred to the Postseason Football Subcommittee of the Special Events Committee. In addition, the Division III Steering Committee will review legislation in August to exclude Division III from the bowl-game provisions in Bylaw 2.

—No action was taken to resubmit any of the other unsuccessful Council proposals from the 1988 Convention.

The Council also reviewed proposed legislation for the 1989 Convention. It voted to sponsor the following:

Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(4), to clarify that Division III member institutions are permitted to provide to prospective student-athletes information of a general nature that is available to all students.

Bylaw 11-3-(c), to confirm that the financial audit required of Division III institutions shall be a part of the institution's regular financial audit, regardless of whether that regular audit is annual or not.

Bylaw 12-6-(q), to revise the size and composition of the Women's Soccer Committee.

O.I.s 100 and 101, Bylaws 1-1-(b) and 1-6-(c), to define a prospective student-athlete as an individual who has started classes for the ninth grade.

Recommended Policy 8, to revise that policy so that it is consistent with the recommended policy on medical evaluations and records in the NCAA Sports Medicine Handbook.

The Council agreed not to sponsor the following:

Constitution 3-2, to require member institutions to designate a faculty athletics representative who must be a faculty member or administrator holding faculty rank and who shall not be affiliated with the athletics department at the institution.

Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(3), to confirm that the reference to a Division I nonqualifier encompasses a partial qualifier. The Council noted that this issue is handled in the revised Manual to be voted upon at the 1989 Convention.

O.I. 601, to clarify that an admissions officer's original statement related to the circumstances of a student's admission would suffice as admissions certification for subsequent years. The Council agreed with the clarification but believed the issue should be resolved without resorting to the legislative process.

Bylaw 12-6-(i), to modify the composition of the Field Hockey Committee. Instead, the Council added this to the study it had requested for August regarding size and representation of sports committees.

Recommended Policy 1. A proposal to delete the policy was abandoned inasmuch as the issue will be treated in the proposed steps toward deregulation that will be submitted by the Special Committee on Deregulation and Rules Simplification in August.

Interpretations

All new or revised interpretations approved by the Council have appeared or will appear in issues of The NCAA News, which constitutes official circularization per Constitution 6-2. In addition to those, the Council:

Top college golfer to get Nicklaus Trophy

The Golf Coaches Association of America and MacGregor Golf Co. have announced the establishment of The Nicklaus Trophy, named for Jack Nicklaus, to honor annually the country's best male college golfer.

The announcement was made at the site of Nicklaus' Memorial Tournament in Dublin, Ohio. The trophy will be presented during the summer.

The player will be chosen by a select committee of association coaches, based solely on statistical performance through the NCAA championships tournament in May, said Gregg Shimanski, executive director of the coaches association.

"Jack Nicklaus is possibly the greatest player in golf history. He was a great collegiate golfer—probably the first superstar to emerge from college golf (at Ohio State University)," Shimanski said.

"For these reasons, the association is extremely proud to have its player-of-the-year award carry Jack Nicklaus' name.

"Our goal is to create the golf equivalent to the Heisman Trophy," Shimanski said.

The Nicklaus Trophy is sponsored by MacGregor Golf Co., which will provide the trophy and promotional support.

"In many respects, the future of golf rests on the shoulders of good collegiate players. Like Jack Nicklaus and other greats, they can shape people's perception of the game," said John Baldwin, MacGregor's senior vice-president of marketing.

"That's why we're proud to offer an award that honors excellence in student-athletes."

More than 7,000 men participate annually in NCAA golf, so the player who receives the award based on performance truly represents "the cream of the crop," Shimanski said.

Summary of NCAA Executive Committee actions

Following is a listing of all actions taken by the NCAA Executive Committee at its May 2-3 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

Financial

Appointed the following to the National Collegiate Realty Corporation: Thomas J. Frericks, University of Dayton, president (ex officio); Richard D. Schultz, NCAA, secretary (ex officio); Louis J. Spry, NCAA, treasurer (ex officio); Howard Elwell, Gannon University, vice-president, and Royce N. Flippin Jr., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, vice-president.

Confirmed support for the concept of the National Collegiate Foundation and established a temporary planning committee to move forward with planning and incorporation of the foundation.

Authorized funding for a two-day meeting of a maximum of nine members of the Faculty Athletics Representatives Association, subsequent to the mailing of the 1989 Convention Official Notice, for the purpose of reviewing legislative proposals for the Convention.

Approved in concept the lease or purchase of an aircraft for Association travel, with details to be approved by the Administrative Committee.

General committees

Future Office Requirements: Approved by unanimous vote the relocation of the national office to a to-be-constructed building on 11.35 acres located on the southeast corner of the intersection of College Boulevard (West 11th Street) and Lamar Avenue in Overland Park, Kansas. Authorized the Administrative Committee to approve financial details still to be worked out.

Deregulation and Rules Simplification: Approved the committee's report, including recommendations that certain executive regulations be removed from the revised NCAA Manual and included in championships handbooks. Agreed to forward to the Association's Council a revision of Executive Regulation 1-1(a) to specify that any event that falls below required sponsorship levels and subsequently is reestablished must be done so in accordance with sponsorship requirements in Executive Regulation 1-1(b), which apply to championships established after 1982-83.

Conference Grant Program: Accepted a status report on the implementation and administration of the program.

Minority Opportunities in Intercollegiate Athletics and Women's Athletics: Approved similar programs developed by each committee to enhance opportunities in intercollegiate athletics for ethnic minorities and women. Specifically, approved funding of the opportunity-enhancement programs for the remainder of fiscal year 1987-88. Included in the programs' first full year (1988-89) will be 20 $6,000 postgraduate scholarships—10 each for women and members of ethnic minorities. "Vita banks" for each group will be established and maintained at the NCAA national office, and national-office internships (three each for women and ethnic minorities) will be available.

Also, authorized separate development and distribution of brochures announcing each program and applications for scholarships and internships. Approved first-year administration of the programs by the respective committees.

Walter Byers Postgraduate Scholarship: Deferred awarding of the first scholarships until April 1989. Approved a tentative agenda that included a committee meeting in mid-1988, announcement of the scholarship's availability in fall 1988 and announcement of the initial recipients in spring 1989. Voted to award the scholarships annually, regardless of renewals of awards from the previous year.

Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports: Voted to develop a bibliography, for publication in The NCAA News, of articles and materials on eating disorders and nutrition. Voted to develop a pamphlet on eating disorders and nutrition relating to athletics participation. Approved publication of a request for proposals for the production of a videotape on nutrition, eating disorders and athletics participation. Approved development of NCAA legislation to permit [under Constitution 3-1(h)-(4)] counseling of student-athletes who suffer from eating disorders.

Also, approved continuation of the Injury Surveillance System for the 13 sports currently studied; the addition of men's and women's basketball to the system, and the addition of spring football at the Divisions I-A, I-AA and II levels. Approved recommendations to "grandfather" mandatory equipment and standards adopted without Executive Committee review and approval and to have future manufacturers' submissions to the competitive safeguards committee made for review and comment only, with the Executive Committee giving final approval regarding the adoption of mandatory equipment. (Note: Neither committee will be involved with certification or development of safety standards for equipment.)

In addition, agreed that it would be desirable to administer the student-athlete drug-testing consent form separately from the student-athlete statement and to include a general statement of postseason drug-testing awareness in the latter; noted that such would require revision of Constitution 3-9(g) and agreed to recommend to the Council an amendment to this effect, pending advice of legal counsel. Approved attendance at future drug-testing crew-chief training sessions by members of the drug-education and drug-testing subcommittee of the competitive safeguards committee.

Basketball Officiating: Made permanent two-year pilot programs for men's and women's officiating and certification that had been in place. Specifically, approved each men's and women's clinic for 1988-89. Continued the part-time position of national coordinator of officiating. Voted to require assignment of three-man officiating crews by conferences seeking automatic qualification to the Division I Men's Basketball Championship. Acted to mandate elimination of "scratch lists" in conferences seeking that same automatic qualification (i.e., officials in these conferences no longer will be eliminated from consideration for a game assignment because of a coach's objection to the assignment). Voted to recommend legislation to the Council for the 1989 Convention to establish a standing committee to monitor the men's and women's officiating programs.

In addition, approved the invitation to regional rules clinics of a representative from each Divisions II and III conference. Forwarded a request to the Special Budget Subcommittee that expenses for the men's and women's programs be paid out of the Association's general operating budget since both have been made permanent.

Championships

Automatic qualification: Voted to continue the current appeal process (first to the governing sports committee, then to the appropriate division championships committee) for conferences that are denied automatic qualification. Directed all governing sports committees to issue a warning, one year in advance, to a conference that is in jeopardy of losing its automatic qualification.

Site selection: Revised Executive Regulation 1-14(b) to provide governing sports committees with more definitive guidelines for use in selecting championships sites (Note: See the Executive Regulations heading later in this summary).

Advancement: Affirmed August 1986 action that revised Executive Regulation 1-3(d) to stipulate that student-athletes enrolling in member institutions after the 1986-87 academic year are not eligible for championships advancement.

Officials' transportation: Directed that officials working NCAA competition be required to use the Association's travel service when traveling by air.

Baseball: Denied a request that 90 reserved tickets for the June 3, 1988, games in the College World Series be provided to individuals who contributed to an expansion of Rosenblatt Stadium. Authorized the NCAA Baseball Committee to use $1,000 to recognize or assist contributors in some other way.

Denied a Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association appeal of earlier action that denied the conference automatic qualification into the Division II play-offs.

The Executive Committee deferred until its August meeting action on a proposal to establish a national umpiring program similar to officiating programs in place for men's and women's basketball. The group also denied a joint recommendation that the Association endorse and provide funds to a group proposing establishment of an amateur baseball hall of fame.

Division I women's basketball: Voted to seek approval of a trademark for the term "Women's Final Four" for use with the championship after 1989. Deferred until the August meeting action on a request that incoming members of the committee receive transportation-expense reimbursement and a per diem to attend the committee's annual summer meeting.

Field hockey: Approved the University of Pennsylvania as host for the 1988 championship, November 19-20. Approved requests that no automatic qualification be established for the 1988 Division I and Division III tournaments. Approved a request that the 1988 Division III final be conducted at an on-campus site. Voted to require that every Division III regional and championship site have a regulation-size field and visible game clock. Denied a recommendation that conferences seeking automatic qualification be required to have had a minimum of two institutions in the Division I or Division III field the previous year. Approved a recommendation that conferences of eight or more members seeking automatic qualification be permitted to conduct regular-season single- or double-round-robin play among divisions of at least four members, with a conference tournament or play-off held between divisions to determine a champion; but that the national office staff study this criterion as it applies to other championships as well.

Football: Approved provision of a $4,355.29 honorarium to Idaho State University for serving as host institution for the 1987 Division I-AA championship final. Voted to increase the size of the Division I-AA official traveling party from 65 to 70, but limited the additional members to football-related individuals.

Also, approved revision of NCAA policy to permit sale of tickets on charter airlines used by Divisions I-AA and II participants on a prorated basis using all of the seats available (e.g., if a 100-seat plane is chartered to accommodate a traveling party of 65, the remaining 35 seats each may be sold at 1/100th the total cost of the charter. Reimbursed Pocatello (Idaho) $1,370—half the value of unsold tickets to the 1987 Division I-AA championship game that were returned by a competing institution.

In addition, referred to the national office staff for study a Division I-AA proposal to amend Executive Regulation 2-1(c)-(3) to provide committee members a $100 "flat rate" when traveling to preliminary rounds. Voted to increase Division I-AA officials' fees from $175 to $200 per game. Approved a request by Division I-AA for an editorial change in Executive Regulation 1-6(b)-(7) for clarification purposes (Note: See the Executive Regulations heading later in this summary).

In addition, approved The Shoals National Championship Committee and the University of North Alabama as host sponsoring agency and host institution, respectively, for the 1989 and 1990 Division II championships. They will be played December 10, 1989, and December 9, 1990, in Florence, Alabama, under the same contract provisions that applied to the 1986, 1987 and 1988 championships. Approved implementation of automatic qualification for the Division II championship beginning in 1990, with the addition of the following criteria to determine quality of competition:

- A conference must schedule at least 75 percent of its games against NCAA Divisions II, I-AA and/or I-A institutions, with no conference member permitted to schedule more than two teams not meeting this criterion.

- A conference must have a winning percentage of at least .500 against NCAA Division II competition.

Also, denied a request that the Division II committee be permitted to conduct an additional 1988 meeting (August 23-25). Returned to the Division II committee for more study a suggested addition to strength-of-schedule championship-selection criteria that would have weighted the consideration of victories on the basis of competition (e.g., a victory over a Division II opponent would receive more consideration than one over a Division III member). Referred to the national office staff for study a request for a waiver of Executive Regulation 2-1(c)-(3) that would permit committee members flying or driving to preliminary rounds of the championship to receive the $100 "flat rate" to defray expenses not covered by the per diem. Approved development of a separate championship handbook for Division II football. Requested more information and anticipated costs for a proposal that the NCAA underwrite the premium for catastrophic-injury insurance for Division II institutions that sponsor football.

In addition, approved the Phenix City (Alabama) Jaycees and Columbus College as sponsoring agency and host institution, respectively, for the 1988 and 1989 Division III championships. They will be held in Phenix City December 9, 1988, and December 8, 1989. Deferred action and requested more information on a proposal that the weekly Division III national top 20 be replaced with four weekly regional top-10 polls. Approved a request that the Division III committee be permitted to determine first-round opponents in situations where the two teams in closest proximity have previously played, or if both teams decline to host the contest. There was an Executive Committee stipulation, however, that no such pairing could be made that would result in air travel for one of the competing teams (i.e., teams must be within 400 miles of each other, permitting use of ground transportation).

Men's and women's golf: Approved the concept of a regional qualifying system for use in determining participants for the Division I Men's Golf Championships, but requested from the sports committee additional, detailed information as a basis for determining regional alignment and allocation of berths. Approved an adjustment in the proposed budget for the 1988 Division I Men's Golf Championships.

Men's gymnastics: Requested additional information from the sports committee concerning a proposal to establish a regional qualifying system for the championships. Approved the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, as host for the 1989 championships, April 13-15.

Women's gymnastics: Approved the University of Georgia as host institution for the 1989 National Collegiate Championships, April 14-15.

Men's soccer: Awarded automatic qualification for the 1988 Division I championship to the Atlantic 10 Conference, Atlantic Coast Conference, Big East Conference, Colonial Athletic Association, Pacific Coast Athletic Association and ECAC Metro Athletic Conference. Denied a request that the 1988 Division I championship be conducted December 10-11 rather than the first weekend in December, citing those dates' proximity to many member institutions' final-exam dates. Approved the following revision in the Division I tournament format:

- The committee will select the best two teams from each of eight regions.
- The remaining eight teams will be selected at large.
- The top eight teams, as identified by the committee, will be placed in the bracket to receive first-round byes.
- The remaining 16 teams would be paired according to geographical proximity to each other and teams receiving first-round byes.

Also, awarded automatic qualification for the 1988 Division II tournament to the California Collegiate Athletic Association, New England Collegiate Conference, Northern California Athletic Conference, Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference and Sunshine State Conference. Approved the following regional allocation of berths to the Division II play-offs: Northeast two, Central two, South one, West one. Based on these, revised the tournament format as follows:

- The committee will select the top teams by region as noted in the allocations.
- The remaining teams will be selected at large.
- The top team in each region will receive a first-round bye, and all other teams will be paired in their respective regions. If a region has only two teams selected, the lower-seeded team will be paired with an at-large team from the nearest geographical region.

In addition, granted automatic qualification for the 1988 Division III championship to the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, Independent Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference, North Coast Athletic Conference, Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and State University of New York Athletic Conference.

Also, referred back to the sports committee a request for alteration of existing site-selection criteria. Denied a request for the Executive Committee's approval to require the three-official system for intercollegiate men's soccer.

Women's soccer: Approved alteration of the automatic-qualification criteria that will be used when the sports committee determines that such berths are feasible. The change is the same as that approved for field hockey (see above).

Also, approved administrative details for the inaugural Division II Women's Soccer Championship, to be held in 1988. Specifically, a four-team field will be selected November 1 that includes one team from each of four regions. Selection criteria currently used for the Divisions I and III championships will be used. An on-campus site will be used for the tournament, which will take place November 12-13 in 1988.

In addition, increased the Division III championship field from 12 to 16 teams, effective with the 1988 tournament. Approved a requirement that at least two teams, rather than one, be selected from each of four regions.

Women's softball: Approved $1 tickets to the 1988 Division I championship finals for sale to participants in the NCAA Youth Education Through Sports (YES) clinic to be conducted in conjunction with the championship. Further, approved the sale of discount tickets to any championship event that includes a YES clinic, if seats are available and if approved by the governing sports committee, which also will determine the discounted price.

Men's and women's tennis: Approved the University of Southern California as host for the 1989 Division I men's championships, which will be held May 19-27 at the Grand Champions Tennis Resort, Indian Wells, California. Approved the University of Georgia as host for the 1990 Division I men's championships, May 18-26.

Men's and women's track and field: Approved Iowa State University as host institution for the 1988 Division I Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships, November 21. Selected Brigham Young University to host the 1989 Division I Men's and Women's Outdoor Track Championships, May 31-June 3.

Women's volleyball: Awarded automatic qualification for the 1988 Division I championship to the Atlantic Coast Conference, Atlantic 10 Conference, Big Eight Conference, Big Ten Conference, Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference, High Country Athletic Conference, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, Mid-American Conference, Mountain West Athletic Conference, Pacific-10 Conference, Southeastern Athletic Conference, Southland Conference, Southwest Athletic Conference, West Coast Athletic Conference and Pacific Coast Athletic Association. Denied increasing the Division I traveling party to 19 (from 17) pending further study. Approved a $2,000 expenditure for the computer programs used in evaluating Division I automatic-qualification requests. Increased officials' fees as follows:

First round and regionals—first referee $80 (was $75); semifinals—second referee $75 ($60), alternate referee $40 ($35); final—second referee $90 ($75), alternate referee $40 ($35).

Also, referred to the staff for study a request that incoming Division I committee members' receive travel and per diem to attend the group's annual meeting. Denied a request that statistics compiled by the American Volleyball Coaches Association be recognized as official and be published weekly in The NCAA News.

In addition, deferred action until August on dates submitted by the Division II committee for the 1988 and 1989 Division II championships and on a request that the Division II tournament finals expand from four to eight teams beginning in 1988. Asked for more detailed information from the Division II committee on the latter. Awarded automatic qualification for the 1988 Division II play-off to the California Collegiate Athletic Association, Continental Divide Conference, Lone Star Conference and North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Increased alternate officials' fees for the Division II tournament to $25 (from $20). Denied a request to permit seeding of the top two teams in the Division II bracket.

Also, as recommended by the Division III committee, awarded automatic qualification to the 1988 Division III championship to the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin, Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Conference, Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, Ohio Athletic Conference, Old Dominion Athletic Conference, Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, and State University of New York Athletic Conference. Approved an increase in fees for second referees and alternate officials in the Division III tournament as follows:

First-round and quarterfinal competition—second referee $65 (was $45), alternate official $25 ($20); semifinals and final—second referee $90 ($60), alternate official $25 ($20).

Men's water polo: Approved the University of California, Irvine, as host for the 1988 championship, to be held November 25-27 at Belmont Plaza Pool, Long Beach, California. Approved Indiana University, Bloomington, as host for the 1989 championship, to be held November 24-26 at Indiana University Natatorium, Indianapolis, Indiana. Approved provision of air transportation for eight game officials to work the 1989 championship.

Also, increased fees for referees to $45 (from $35) and for goal judges to $10 (from $5). Denied granting of automatic qualification for the 1988 championship to the conferences recommended.

Playing rules

Basketball: Denied a recommendation by the men's rule committee that combined men's and women's rules books be discontinued and replaced, beginning in 1990, with separate and distinct publications for men and women. Approved continuation of common rules publications, as recommended by the women's rules committee. Approved creation of a six-member joint subcommittee of the men's and women's committees to help expedite annual production of the common rules publications, as recommended by the women's committee. Approved a women's recommendation that the men's and women's secretary-rules editors confer on interpretations of rules that have implications for both men's and women's basketball, and that all interpretations should be issued through the national office. Approved rules related to penalties for fighting; reminded the committees that changes related to these areas are subject to Executive Committee approval.

Also, reaffirmed support for development of common playing rules and requested annual reports on the progress and development of common rules.

Men's soccer: Noted deletion of the three-official requirement from the rules. Denied a request that the format of the rules book be revised and that the book be reorganized to correspond with rules published by the sport's international governing body.

Football: Approved deletion of a note from the illegal-equipment rule that applied NCAA Case No. 43 to helmets and shoes.

Americas named earlier this year to the newly established GTE Academic Hall of Fame. He and former University of Southern California football player Pat Haden were named as representatives of the 1970s. The other four selected were Pete Dawkins, the Rev. Donn D. Moomaw, Sen. Bill Bradley and Merlin Olsen.

In Congress, McMillen serves on the Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee and the Science, Space and Technology Committee. He is a member of the Environmental and Energy Study Conference, the Congressional Caucus on Women's Issues, the Democratic Study Group, the Congressional Competitiveness Caucus, and the Congressional Arts Caucus.

At the Orlando program, McMillen will be introduced by John B. Slaughter, chair of the Presidents Commission who is completing six years as chancellor of McMillen's alma mater.

Walters' Alabama trial is delayed

An Alabama judge May 10 delayed the trial of New York sports agent Norby Walters, who moved closer to settling a dispute with the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, over $250,000 it lost through the entertainment executive's dealings with former basketball star Derrick McKey.

While Circuit Judge John Karrh granted the postponement of the misdemeanor trial because of the death of the father of a key witness, prosecutors said the move might give Walters and the university time to agree on their differences, the Associated Press reported.

Karrh delayed the trial until May 13 because of the death of the father of Norman Blass, McKey's attorney.

Attorney General Don Siegelman said Blass, who went to New York upon learning of his father's death, was expected to testify for both the prosecution and the defense.

Walters is charged with commercial bribery, violation of the Alabama Deceptive Trade Practices Act and tampering with a sports event. Each count carries a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a $2,000 fine.

The charges stem from Walters' signing of McKey to a contract before McKey's college eligibility was completed. The university was forced to return $250,000 of NCAA tournament revenue it received for games McKey played after Walters advanced him a loan.

Robert Potts, general counsel for the university, said "nothing is finalized, but we're still hopeful—very hopeful" of an agreement. Potts said the school "would be happy to get back the tournament proceeds."

Former U.S. Sen. Donald Stewart of Anniston, an attorney for Walters, declined comment on the talks. "As I understood the judge, we'll be back in court Friday."

ward to a long and successful relationship."

The company provides similar coverage for other sports bodies, including the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and the U.S. Olympic Committee.

"That shows a commitment to this type of coverage, and also shows that the NCAA was a pioneer in the field," Wilson said. "Our plans have had excellent participation and good claims experience, and that results in lower premiums. And there are some athletes who are relying on our coverage after serious injuries."

"Unfortunately, the risk of catastrophic injury is part of intercollegiate athletics, and we think it is important to provide coverage to athletes and their families."

New benefits

Among the new benefits in the catastrophic-injury plan are the provision of up to $25,000 for family adjustment expenses and a $3,000 accidental-death benefit should the injured athlete die as a result of the covered accident within a year. The plan provides lifetime benefits, with no monetary limit, to students suffering catastrophic injury while participating in intercollegiate sports.

It supplements the benefits of the basic athletics-injury program, which provides medical expenses for two years to a maximum of $25,000 for injured student participants.

Also available is a plan covering athletics staff members at member institutions and allied conferences, regardless of whether they are on official business.

Member institutions participating in one or more of the programs currently total more than 350, including approximately 150 schools in Division I.

National Sports Underwriters has added regional marketing representatives with the intention of providing fuller coverage for participating institutions.

Institutions interested in receiving further details about any of the three NCAA-sponsored plans should write National Sports Underwriters, Inc., at 9300 Metcalf, Suite 230, Overland Park, Kansas 66212, or call 800/621-2116.

Committee Notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill interim vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancies must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA office no later than June 8, 1988.

Field Hockey Committee: Replacement for Donna Lee, Bentley College, resigned from the institution. Appointee must be a Division II representative, preferably from the Northeast region.

Men's and Women's Tennis Committee: Replacement for Linda B. Lipson, Emory University, resigning from the committee. Appointee must be a Division III representative of women's tennis.

Lack of black school prospects for Olympic team puzzles coach

Of the 93 players invited to the U.S. Olympic men's basketball tryouts, none is from a predominantly black school, and that has upset North Carolina A&T State University coach Don Corbett.

"I hurt," the nine-year coach said. "I really hurt."

U.S. Olympic assistant coach George Raveling of the University of Southern California said he can understand Corbett's concerns, but he said any omissions would be subject to criticism by the nation's college coaches. He said several mostly black schools were scouted before the final decision was made.

Raveling and John Thompson of Georgetown University, head coach of Olympic basketball team, are black.

To Corbett, not having a player from a traditionally black school among those invited to the tryouts in Colorado Springs, Colorado, is a bitter disappointment.

"Look, the Atlantic Coast Conference is a great basketball conference. This is no knock on the ACC. The guys who play in that conference play against great competition.

"But," he told the Greensboro News & Record, pounding his fist into his hands in time with his words, "there are some outstanding basketball players around who don't play in the ACC, who play at black schools. There's really only a fine line between black schools and the rest, anyway. Go back 15 years, and there's no line at all."

Three of the original 93 invited — North Carolina's Jeff Lebo, Louisville's Purvis Ellison and DePaul's Rod Strickland — have announced they will not try out, but chances are slim that Corbett's star, Claude Williams, will get a shot as a replacement.

"If we went to 125, someone would say they were disappointed because one player or a particular group of players was not selected," Raveling said in a telephone interview with the Associated Press.

In responding to the omission of players from predominantly black schools, Raveling said, "I don't know anybody with a greater sensitivity than John Thompson. I can think of two coaches whom we talked to at great length about players from predominantly black schools.

"We went and saw them and concluded that the players we in-the Olympic nominating committee chaired by Denny Crum of Louisville. Corbett submitted the names of four players from the MEAC, including Williams and guard Thomas Griffis, both from North Caroolina A&T.

All four were rejected. "They picked kids from junior colleges, from the military and from high school. But here's a guy with a national ranking in field-goal percentage, and he doesn't get a chance," Corbett said.

Among those originally selected were several making the switch from junior college to four-year programs, including Thompson's own John Turner. And the only high school athlete chosen was Alonzo Mourning of Indian River High in Chesapeake, Virginia.

Williams and Griffis led North Carolina A&T, long the dominant team in the MEAC, to its seventh straight conference championship and its seventh straight trip to the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship last season. Williams averaged 16.2 points a game, and Griffis scored 13.2 points. Williams was among the national leaders in field-goal percentage for much of the season before finishing at .608.

"The thing I don't understand is how they could overlook a kid that can do everything," Corbett said. "He can shoot from the outside; he penetrates well; he plays defense. What more do you want?"

Now, Corbett worries that the decision — reached jointly by coach and player — to use Williams in the post instead of his natural position at power forward has cost his star not only as an Olympic candidate but as a potential draftee in the NBA.

Corbett also worries now that he should have worked harder to sell his best player to the Olympic team selection committee. Belatedly, he has sought the assistance of Winston-Salem State University coach Clarence "Bighouse" Gaines in bringing Williams to Thompson's attention.

"It gets political," Corbett said of the selection process. "It's a you-take-my-kid-and-I'll-take-yours sort of thing. I don't think it's John Thompson as much as the system. I just don't like that."

"If we went to 125 (players invited to try out for the Olympic basketball team), someone would say they were disappointed because one player or a particular group of players was not selected."

George Raveling, Olympics assistant coach

vited were better," Raveling said. "We made a number of calls, and I don't think those players from the predominantly black schools went unnoticed."

Corbett was the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference's representative on lina A&T.

All four were rejected.

"They picked kids from junior colleges, from the military and from high school. But here's a guy with a national ranking in field-goal percentage, and he doesn't get a

Florida measure takes aim at illegal signings

College athletes who sign contracts with sports agents without telling their universities could face prison terms of up to five years under legislation that has cleared a subcommittee of the Florida House of Representatives.

The bill, which would impose the same penalty on the agents, is sponsored by House Speaker Pro Tempore James Burke, D-Miami, and is supported by the University of Florida and Florida State University.

It was approved May 4 by a subcommittee of the House Regulatory Reform Committee. It next will be considered by the full panel.

The bill would "impress upon athletes the importance of avoiding the unscrupulous guy who takes advantage of them," said Al Alsobrook, vice-president for government relations at Florida.

Burke predicted the measure would become law, the Associated Press reported.

"It guards our student-athletes from unscrupulous agents and our universities from unscrupulous agents and from student-athletes who may put their own selfish interests above the universities' giving them an education," he said.

and adoption of the language of Case No. 43 as it appears in the NCAA Manual. Approved the adoption of padded goal post supports as mandatory equipment.

Convention

Approved the following Convention (and related meetings) dates and sites:

- 1990—Loews Anatole Hotel, Dallas, Texas, January 5-12.
- 1991—Opryland Hotel, Nashville, Tennessee, January 6-13.
- 1992—Anaheim Hilton and Towers, Anaheim, California, January 8-15.
- 1993—Opryland, January 7-14.

Also, accepted a report on planning for the 1989 Convention. Agreed to allow the Honda-Broderick awards dinner to be held in the Convention hotel if logistics and schedule permit—but not on the day of the NCAA honors luncheon. Noted that this decision reflected an exception to—not a change in—Executive Committee policy regarding commercialization of the Convention and related NCAA functions.

Executive regulations

Executive Regulation 1-2-(o)-(1) was amended to add, if a student-athlete or representative of an institution is found guilty of misconduct, the potential for that institution's being banned from participating in one or more subsequent championships in which its team in that sport otherwise would be eligible to participate.

Executive Regulation 1-3-(i) was amended to require that appeals by conferences that fail to submit forms by September 1 must be submitted to the national office no later than November 1 each year in order for conferences to apply the provisions of this regulation. If a conference has been granted a waiver by the Administrative Committee, based on such an appeal, and again fails to meet the September 1 deadline noted in the regulation, exceptions will be granted only upon payment of penalties ($150 for a second offense and $300 for each subsequent offense during the five-year period preceding the last offense).

Executive Regulation 1-5-(g) was amended to apply the "materially contributed" selection criterion to teams with players who are unavailable due to injury. Previously, this had applied only to teams with ineligible players.

Executive Regulation 1-6-(b)-(5) was amended to require that conferences interested in receiving automatic qualification to an NCAA championship complete regular-season and postseason competition no later than the selection date established for the appropriate NCAA championship.

Executive Regulation 1-6-(b)-(8) was amended for editorial and clarification purposes only.

Executive Regulation 1-9-(e)-(1) was amended to permit institutions hosting common-site men's and women's preregional or regional competition to deduct 15 percent or $400, whichever is greater, from the net receipts, and to permit institutions hosting common-site men's and women's finals competition to deduct 15 percent or $1,500, whichever is greater, from the net receipts.

Executive Regulation 1-2-(i) was amended on an experimental basis—for use during the 1989 Division I Women's Basketball Championship only—to permit bands playing at NCAA championship competition to use a limited number of amplified instruments, and to limit bands to no more than 15 members when amplified instruments are used.

Executive Regulation 1-14-(b) was amended to define in more detail the factors that governing sports committees should evaluate in selecting host sites for all competition in NCAA meets and tournaments.

Note: Complete texts of these revised executive regulations will appear in a future issue of The NCAA News.

196) to the Recruiting Committee for review.

Asked the Committee on Review and Planning to review general questions regarding the provision of medical services unrelated to athletics participation.

Referred current Situation 111 (Case No. 208) to the Recruiting Committee for additional review.

Agreed to delete Case No. 209, as recommended by the Legislation and Interpretations Committee.

The Council took the following actions regarding the minutes of the Legislation and Interpretations Committee, as published in earlier issues of The NCAA News:

Agreed that for purposes of determining grade-point averages in accordance with Division II's adoption of 1988 Convention Proposal No. 39-B, summer school courses shall be utilized in determining whether the student-athlete has achieved the minimum grade-point average. (Conference No. 1, Minute No. 5-h.)

The Division III Steering Committee reacted to Conference No. 3, Minute No. 13, in regard to financial aid legislation in that division, as reported earlier in this summary.

The Legislation and Interpretations Committee's decision concerning employment of a high school coach for the ensuing academic year should not apply to Division III in light of the provisions of Bylaw 1-1-(b)-(5). (Conference No. 14, Minute No. 2.)

The Division III Steering Committee affirmed that an institutional staff member would not be permitted to serve as both a coach and a financial aid officer, regardless of the circumstances of employment, in accordance with 1988 Convention Proposal No. 92. (Conference No. 6, Minute No. 7.)

The Council directed the staff to use the conference-contact program to determine whether current practices are consistent with the spirit of the legislation governing off-season conditioning programs and, if not, what types of changes should be effected.

The Council approved all other actions in 1988 Legislation and Interpretations Committee Conference Nos. 1 through 6, except as amended by specific actions of the Council and division steering committees.

The Council also:

Concluded that psychological or mental illness may be considered by the Council as a basis for waiving the residence requirement for reasons of health under the provisions of Bylaw 5-3-(f), provided sufficient medical documentation exists.

Granted a request by La Salle University for a waiver under the provisions of Bylaw 5-3-(f) to permit a student-athlete who had been enrolled at that institution to be immediately eligible upon enrollment at another institution, noting that this case specifically involved a mental illness.

Administrative Committee minutes

1. Acting for the Council, the Administrative Committee:

Legislation and Interpretations Committee minutes

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Legislation and Interpretations Committee:

Financial aid

1. Permissible financial aid beyond a five-year period. Considered a previous Council-approved interpretation (April 1988 indicating that the provisions of Constitution 3-4-(b), which preclude a student-athlete from receiving financial aid from a member institution for more than five years during a six-year period, would encompass only "unearned" athletics aid for which the athletics department intercedes on behalf of the student-athlete; noted a situation in which a member institution's booster club has established a fund to provide financial assistance to former student-athletes and their families in those instances in which the institution can document that the need of either the student-athlete or his or her family has changed significantly due to extraordinary situations since the student-athlete has left the institution (i.e., a disabling injury to or death of the primary income earner in the family); recommended that the Council amend Case No. 100 (disabled student-athlete benefits) to permit such a standing fund if it is administered only on the basis of the circumstances and principles in that case.

Five-year rule

2. Student enrolled in regular, full-time program of studies with "special-student" status. Reviewed the application of Bylaw 4-1-(a) to a situation in which a student-athlete had registered at a collegiate institution in a regular term in a minimum full-time program of studies as determined by the institution but was afforded "special-student" status (i.e., the student was permitted to enroll in courses on a space-available basis; was not required to go through the regular admissions process at the university, and was not eligible for any campus or extracurricular activities, including athletics); noted that the conditions in this situation were consistent with the criteria set forth in Case No. 276 (joint vocational-academic program) and, therefore, agreed to extend to this situation the principle of that case, which indicates that a student afforded "special-student" status under the specified criteria would not have his or her five-year period of eligibility begin upon enrollment as a special student; recommended that the NCAA Academic Requirements Committee review the ramifications of this interpretation as it relates to other provisions of NCAA legislation (e.g., utilizing a term for a residence requirement).

Football

3. Scheduling conference championship game. Determined that the provisions of O.I. 200 require that a conference championship semifinal football game must be played (as opposed to scheduled) the week prior to the first round of the NCAA football championship date; further, concluded that a contest conducted per O.I. 200 is a count-

Conference No. 7
April 14, 1988

able contest; recommended that the Council consider a member conference's request to permit a game to be played the week of the first round of the NCAA Division III Football Championship, with the understanding that the contest will continue to be countable and that this exception would be granted only for the 1988-89 football season.

Professional sports organization

4. Conference all-star baseball game played following a professional contest. Considered a previous Council-approved interpretation (October 1987) indicating that an institution is permitted to conduct an intrasquad game following a contest between two professional teams, provided the events are promoted independently of each other (e.g., no arrangements are made for reciprocal tickets) and the arena is cleared between contests; noted a situation in which a conference all-star baseball team wishes to participate against a European community amateur team in a contest that will be conducted following a professional baseball contest; concluded that the provisions of Constitution 3-8-(a), which indicate that a member institution shall not schedule intercollegiate athletics contests in conjunction with professional sports contests or exhibitions, would preclude such a contest from being conducted unless it is administered in a manner consistent with the Council-approved interpretation cited above.

Evaluation periods

5. Coaches' attendance at Olympic trials (Divisions I and II). Considered a previous Council-approved interpretation (August 1987), which indicated that the provisions of Bylaw 1-3 (evaluation periods) were not intended to preclude a member institution's coaching staff members from attending an international athletics competition, such as the Olympics, Pan American or World University Games; agreed that basketball coaching staff members at member institutions would be permitted to attend the Olympic trials (at which two prospective student-athletes would be in attendance) that occur outside the permissible contact and evaluation periods; further, agreed that coaching-staff members at member institutions who serve on the Olympic basketball coaching staff would be permitted to scout AAU-Soviet exhibition games (which may include prospective student-athletes) scheduled outside the permissible contact and evaluation periods, provided the coaching-staff members refrain from contacting any prospective student-athletes for recruiting purposes during that time.

Membership (sports sponsorship)

6. Automatic qualification (Division I). Considered Bylaw 5-7-(a), which indicates that to determine a conference championship for purposes of automatic qualification, at least six of the conference member institutions shall be classified in Division I in the sport in which Division I automatic qualification is sought; further, for those conferences seeking automatic qualification in the sport of basketball under this legislation, in each of the six sports in which a conference champion is determined, at least six of the conference member institutions shall sponsor the sport on the varsity intercollegiate level; concluded that it is permissible for a sport to be counted (as one of the six required) if one or more of the six members sponsoring the sport holds restricted membership; however, if automatic qualification is offered in a sport in which a restricted member is declared the conference champion, its automatic qualification (if relevant) shall be withdrawn for that year per Executive Regulation 1-6-(b)-(8); finally, agreed that the six members involved must only sponsor the sport on the varsity intercollegiate level, as opposed to sponsoring each of the six sports in accordance with the minimum requirements of Bylaw 11-4 (i.e., it is not necessary to meet the minimum scheduling criteria for this purpose).

Future site of national office

Above is an artist's conception of the Association's new national office building, which is scheduled for completion in late summer of 1989. District's ter shot a school-record 65 in the closing round to lead Tampa to the team title.

Leonard, who shot an 8-under-par 280 to win last year's championships individual title, also has had a banner spring season, compiling a 72.7 stroke average and capturing individual honors at the Lehigh Invitational and the Tampa Winter Invitational.

The team with the best chance to break District 3's dominance of the championships appears to be third-ranked Cal State Northridge. Led by Wayne Tymi, who tied for fifth at last year's championships, the Matadors show signs of regaining the form that earned the school three team titles from 1969 through 1974.

Championships profile

Event: Division II men's golf.

Field: A total of 90 golfers will compete for the team and individual championships.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Tampa won the 1987 team title, led by individual champion Jeff Leonard.

Schedule: The 1988 championships will be held May 17-20 at the Tan-Tar-A Resort and Golf Club, Osage Beach, Missouri.

The NCAA News coverage: Championships results will be published in the May 25 issue of the News.

Contenders: Cal State Northridge, Columbus, Florida Southern, Tampa.

Championships notes: Florida Southern holds the championships record for most team (four) and individual (three) championships. . . Columbus' Thomas Brannen set the championships record for lowest 18-hole score when he fired a 6-under-par 65 during the 1978 event. . . Tampa's winning total last year (1,175) was the second lowest in the last decade.

Delaware State's Lewis top SID among black institutions

Maxine Lewis, sports information director at Delaware State College, has been named winner of the third annual Cal Jacox-Champ Clark Award, sponsored by the Black College Sports Information Directors Association (BCSIDA). Voting by BCSIDA members determines the winner, who is recognized as the top SID among the nation's historically black institutions.

The award is named for Cal Jacox, an athletics-publicity pioneer on the East Coast, and Peter "Champ" Clark, who broke similar ground in the Southwest. "It really made my day when I heard I had won (the award)," Lewis told reporter Gene Bryson of the Delmarva Crossroads. "With all the hours and all the work you put out, to be honored by your peers makes it all worthwhile."

A recent women's softball game between the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, and Boston College was called for "unsafe playing conditions." Apparently, hammers were flying everywhere.

"I've never in my life had an experience like that," Massachusetts coach Elaine Sortino said in an account of the incident published by the Chicago Tribune. Errant throws by athletes competing in the hammer throw during the Boston College Relays led Sortino to pull her team from the field and protest the game, which was suspended after one inning.

"The officials tried to persuade us to play an inning, let the hammer throwers take some throws and then play another inning," Sortino added. "But there were scads (of hammer competitors). It was freezing cold, already late, and it would have gone on forever."

The Tim Ascherl Benefit Dinner was held May 9 at the Des Moines (Iowa) Golf and Country Club. Proceeds from the event will be added to the more-than $19,000 that has been raised since Ascherl, a Drake University freshman, was seriously injured during an early season meet at Oklahoma State University.

Speakers at the $50-a-plate dinner included college head coaches Dan Gable (University of Iowa), Jim Gibbons (Iowa State University), Don Briggs (Northern Iowa University) and Lonnie Timmerman (Drake). Hans Goettsch and former Iowa State coach Harold Nichols, both of whom coached Ascherl at Fort Dodge (Iowa) High School, also were featured speakers.

Trivia Answer: The NCAA headquarters building opened April 6, 1973, and was dedicated April 28. The West building opened November 29, 1982.

Carnegie-Mellon University track athlete Leslie Williams represented the school's student body by asking a question during the April 23 debate between Democratic Presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson and Michael Dukakis, which was held at Steel Valley High School in Munhall, Pennsylvania. She videotaped her question—a request to hear the candidates' plans to make educational opportunities more affordable for the middle class—before leaving with her teammates to compete at the University Athletic Association championships at Washington University (Missouri).

Williams, a senior, set a school record at the meet with her second-place finish in the 100-meter hurdles (15.97) and finished fourth in the 400-meter hurdles. She also may have landed a job.

Williams saw Dukakis' answer to her prerecorded question on a television broadcast of the debate at St. Louis' Lambert Field while waiting for the team's return flight to Pittsburgh. After outlining a three-point program on educational opportunities, Dukakis said, "I'm going to hire Leslie Williams. We need those young people in Washington, and we need them in public service. If she has a resume, I hope she sends us one."

Williams did have a resume, and she mailed it—to Dukakis and Jackson, according to Bruce Gerson, Carnegie-Mellon's sports information director.

Trivia Time: As reported in last week's issue of the News, the NCAA national office will have a new home sometime next year at the intersection of College Boulevard and Lamar Avenue in Overland Park, Kansas. How long has the national office been at the intersection of 63rd Street and Nall Avenue in Mission, Kansas? Answer later.

Tim Leber, sports information director at Mount Saint Mary's College (Maryland), contacted the News after reading a story on Stetson University's Glenn Wilkes in the February 24, 1988, issue of the paper. The story, written by Fred Goodall of the Associated Press, noted that Wilkes "has held the same position longer than any other active coach in the nation at his school (31 years)."

"In fact," Leber pointed out, "our men's basketball coach, Jim Phelan, has been at Mount Saint Mary's College for 34 years.... Also, Clarence "Bighouse" Gaines, the head coach at Winston-Salem State University in North Carolina, has been there for 41 full seasons.

"While we in no way want to diminish Wilkes' loyalty to Stetson University," Leber added, "we would
