NCAA vita bank is seeking qualified applicants

Matching qualified applicants with bona fide employment opportunities is the purpose of the NCAA sports administration vita bank, which has been developed and is operating as a result of actions taken the Council Subcommittee to Review Minority Opportunities in Intercollegiate Athletics and the Association's Committee on Women's Athletics.

"We already have received inquiries about the vita bank, and some individuals have registered," said Stanley D. Johnson, the Association's director of professional development and chief administrator of the vita bank program. Johnson is assisted in the day-to-day operation of the vita bank by NCAA employee Cynthia Cooper.

"Our focus now is on getting everything up to speed by expanding the pool of applicants and identifying appropriate job opportunities."

Johnson explained that the vita bank is one of many steps that have been taken to enhance opportunities in all areas of intercollegiate athletics for minorities and women.

"The first step was implementation of a scholarship program that would provide additional financial support for qualified candidates who were interested in a career in athletics," Johnson said. "The goal (of the scholarships) is to increase the pool of trained candidates for positions in athletics."

"An internship program at the national office then was developed to provide opportunities for professional experience," he continued. "The vita bank is yet another step. It will serve as a clearinghouse to identify qualified applicants for positions in all areas of athletics—coaching, officiating, administration and support services...the latter including positions in athletics training, business management, ticket operations, facilities management, sports information and so on."

Registration is easy

Johnson said individuals interested in being included in the vita bank need take only a few steps. Registration forms are available from the Association's national office (P.O. Box 1906, Mission, Kansas 66201, telephone 913/384-3220). These are to be completed and returned, along with a current resume and a list that includes a minimum of five references (three from faculty, staff or individuals who have taught the registrant or are personally familiar with the registrant's work; one from a former employer, and one from an individual of the registrant's choice).

When completing the registration forms, applicants will indicate their desired areas of employment and other pertinent information, all of which will be entered into the confidential, computer-based system.

"We are using a stand-alone computer system for the vita bank," noted Johnson. "The information we receive from registrants and from potential employers will be held in the strictest confidence."

information, Johnson's other major responsibility now involves tracking down every available job opportunity in athletics. "The top priority will be to obtain openings from member institutions and conferences and other organizations affiliated with the NCAA," he said.

"But we will not limit the pool of job opportunities to these entities.

One of the most important messages we need to deliver, in my opinion, is that the vita bank is open to any institution or sports organization that is interested in hearing from

New Association officers

Meeting at the NCAA national office last week were the Association's officers, who were elected during the 83rd annual Convention in San Francisco. They are, from left, Albert M. Witte, president; Jerry M. Hughes, Division II vice-president; Judith M. Sweet, secretary-treasurer; B. J. Skelton, Division I vice-president, and Alvin J. Van Wie, Division III vice-president.

Women get national spotlight

National Girls and Women in Sports Day will be celebrated for the third consecutive year February 2 in Washington, D.C., and across the U.S. by leading female athletes, members of Congress and key members of the new administration.

The day's events are being coordinated by the Women's Sports Foundation.

The day will be commemorated on Capitol Hill at a buffet luncheon and ceremony hosted by Sen. Al Gore, D-Tennessee, and Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kansas.

Among the women athletes attending the ceremony are Donna de Varona, winner of two swimming gold medals in the 1964 Olympics, television broadcaster, and founding member and chair of the Women's Sports Foundation; Carol Mann, LPGA Hall of Fame member and president of the Women's Sports Foundation; Evelyn Ashford, three-time track Olympian and gold medalist; Teresa Edwards, two-time Olympic basketball gold medalist (1984 and 1988), and Pam Shriver, ranked among the top-10 tennis players since 1980 and winner of 19

Study shows injury trends in fall sports for '88 season

The first of three annual reports on injury trends in college athletics has been released by the NCAA Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. The first report reflects data collected for fall sports; other reports will follow the winter and spring sports seasons.

The fall report reflects data collected for football, men's and women's soccer, field hockey, and women's volleyball.

According to Randall W. Dick, NCAA assistant director of sports sciences, "The information contained in this summary must be evaluated under the definitions and methodology outlined for the NCAA Injury Surveillance System. No statistical analyses of these data have been performed, and the information represents a descriptive reflection of injury tendencies in the sports mentioned."

The NCAA Injury Surveillance System was developed in 1982 to provide current and reliable data on injury trends in intercollegiate athletics.

Data are collected each year from a representative sample of NCAA member institutions, and the data are reviewed by the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. The committee's goal is to reduce injury rates through suggested rules changes, additional protective equipment or changes in coaching techniques.

Exposure and injury data were submitted weekly by athletics trainers at institutions selected to represent a cross section of the NCAA membership. The selected institutions composed a nine percent sample of institutions sponsoring the sport.

Dick said it was important to note that the system does not identify every injury that occurs at the institutions in a particular sport; rather, it collects a sampling that is representative of a cross section of NCAA institutions.

A reportable injury is defined as one that occurred as a result of participation in an organized intercollegiate practice or game, one that required medical attention by an athletics trainer or physician and one that resulted in restriction of the student-athlete's participation for one or more days beyond the day of the injury.

Each injury was described in detail, including type of injury, body part injured, severity of injury, type of field, field condition and special equipment used by the participant.

An athlete exposure is one athlete participating in a practice or game where he or she is exposed to the possibility of an athletics injury.

For example, five practices involving 60 participants and one game involving 40 participants would total 340 athlete exposures for a particular week.

An injury rate, Dick explained, is a ratio of the number of injuries in a particular category to the number of athlete exposures in that category. This value is then multiplied by 1,000 to produce an injury rate per 1,000 athlete exposures. For example, six reportable injuries during a period of 563 athlete exposures would give an injury rate of (six divided by 563 and then multiplied by 1,000) 10.7 injuries per 1,000 athlete exposures.

Dick said that because of the division and regional distribution of participants, injury-rate values expressed in the fall report should be representative of those that occur at any given NCAA institution.

For additional information, contact Dick at the national office.

Legislative Assistance

1989 Column No. 5

NCAA 14.3—initial eligibility (1989 Convention Proposal No. 42)

NCAA Division I member institutions are reminded that according to 14.3.1 (1989-90 NCAA Manual) [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(1)], a student-athlete who enrolls in a Division I member institution as an entering freshman with no previous full-time college attendance shall meet the necessary academic requirements, and any applicable institutional or conference regulations, to be considered a qualifier and thus be eligible for financial aid, practice and competition during the first academic year in residence. A qualifier is defined as: (1) one who is a high school graduate and who presented a minimum cumulative grade-point average of 2.000 (based on a maximum of 4.000) in a successfully completed core curriculum of at least 11 academic courses, including at least three years in English, two years in mathematics, two years in social science, and two years in natural or physical science (including at least one laboratory course, if offered by the high school) at the time of graduation from high school as certified on the high school transcript or by official correspondence, and (2) presented a minimum 700 combined score on the SAT verbal and math sections or a minimum 15 composite score on the ACT.

According to 14.02.9.2 (1989-90 NCAA Manual) [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2)], a partial qualifier is a student who does not meet the requirements for a qualifier but who, at the time of graduation from high school, presents a cumulative grade-point average of at least 2.000 (based on a 4.000 scale). Further, 14.3.2.1 (1989-90 NCAA Manual) [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2)] indicates that an entering freshman with no previous full-time college attendance who enrolls in a Division I institution and who is a partial qualifier may receive institutional financial aid (including receipt of athletically related financial aid) based on institutional and conference regulations but may not practice or compete during the first academic year in residence.

According to 14.02.9.3 (1989-90 NCAA Manual) [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(2)], a nonqualifier is a student who has not graduated from high school or who presented neither the core-curriculum grade-point average and SAT/ACT score required for a qualifier, nor the minimum cumulative grade-point average of 2.000 required for a partial qualifier.

Proposal No. 42, adopted at the 1989 NCAA Convention with an August 1, 1990, effective date, eliminates the opportunity for Division I

Nominations for NCAA postgraduate scholarships for men's and women's basketball players must be mailed by February 24 to the appropriate district selection committee chair, as outlined in the instruction and nomination folder that will be mailed to all NCAA member institutions.

A total of 20 scholarships (10 for men and 10 for women) of $4,000 each will be awarded by the NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship Committee, which, since 1964, has been honoring outstanding student-athletes from NCAA member institutions who excel academically and athletically.

Eight scholarships (four for men and four for women) will be allocated to Division I student-athletes, and eight (four for men and four for women) will be awarded in Divisions II and III. The remaining four scholarships (two for men and two for women) will be awarded at large.

Faculty athletics representatives are responsible for collecting the complete nomination forms and forwarding them, along with an official transcript of the candidate's academic record, to the appropriate district selection committee chair.

Each institution is asked to limit its nominations to one male student-athlete and one female student-athlete. Institutional representatives and student-athletes must complete the five forms included in the nomination folder.

The Association annually awards 100 postgraduate scholarships of $4,000 each. In addition to the 20 scholarships for basketball student-athletes, 25 are presented to football participants and 55 (30 for men and 25 for women) to varsity athletes in sports other than football and basketball in which the NCAA sponsors championship competition.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, at the NCAA national office.

member institutions to provide financial assistance to a prospective student-athlete who fails to achieve either the core-curriculum grade-point average or the required SAT/ACT test score, or both, but who graduates from high school with an overall 2.000 grade-point average. Students entering NCAA Division I institutions as freshmen in the fall of 1990 and thereafter will be affected by this change unless the rule is amended further at the January 1990 Convention.

Division I member institutions are reminded that a recruited nonqualifier is precluded from receiving athletically related financial aid, as well as any other institutionally administered financial aid. According to 15.02.3.1 (1989-90 NCAA Manual) [formerly O.I. 600, Case Nos. 199 and 346], this includes all funds administered by the institution (e.g., scholarships, grants, loans, work-study program assistance, on-campus employment, tuition waivers). This also includes aid from government or private sources for which the institution is responsible for selecting the recipient or determining the amount of aid, or providing matching or supplementary funds for a previously determined recipient. Additionally, off-campus employment earnings and other sources of aid during the academic year for which the athletics interests of the institution intercede in behalf of the recipient are considered institutional financial aid. This would not preclude a recruited nonqualifier from receiving Federal assistance, such as the Pell Grant, or from obtaining off-campus employment for which the athletics interests of the institution did not intercede in behalf of the recipient.

According to 14.3.2.2 (1989-90 NCAA Manual) [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)-(3)], a nonrecruited nonqualifier is not eligible for competition and practice during the first academic year in residence. However, such a student, for whom admission and financial aid were granted without regard to athletics ability, shall be eligible for nonathletics institutional financial aid, provided there is on file in the office of the director of athletics certification by the faculty athletics representative, the admissions officer and the chair of the financial aid committee that admission and financial aid were so granted.

didates. Maybe a professional franchise has an opening, or a junior college. To be most effective, we believe the vita bank must include all of these."

Referrals, not guarantees

"In no way does the Association want to imply, however, that use of the vita bank will guarantee an applicant a job—or a school or conference an employee," Johnson added. "The goal simply is to make candidates aware of positions and employers aware of qualified candidates."

"Say, for example, that we received a notice this morning that a member conference was looking for an individual to work in its service bureau," he offered. "All of the information concerning the position would be fed into the computer, and it would identify registrants who appear qualified and have shown an interest in that kind of job."

"The Association then would contact the registrants identified by the computer and notify them that their resumes would be forwarded to this conference. We then would contact the conference office and notify them that resumes from several individuals who were registered in the vita bank soon would be arriving."

"At that point, it becomes the registrant's and conference's responsibility to contact each other and continue from there," Johnson added.

Tracking all phases

Although the Association's involvement in the process of filling a given opening will end at that point, Johnson said additional contact will be made with registrants and potential employers after referrals are made.

"One would hope that, once a registrant has a job or an employer has filled a position, the individuals involved would contact the NCAA. However, we understand that situations may dictate that we do not hear from people."

"For that reason, we will be tracking all phases of a given job search," he explained. "One month after making a referral, we will contact the organization that had the opening to find out if the position has been filled. And when individuals register with the vita bank, the computer automatically will add a six-month follow-up to their files."

"Six months after receiving materials, we will contact individuals to see if they have been successful in landing a position and whether they would like to continue in the bank. If they do, another six-month follow-up note automatically will be added by the computer."

Filling a void

Johnson, although having served on the national office staff only since last October, already has seen the void that he hopes will be filled by the vita bank.

"Calls have come in to the national office from a number of member institutions and other organizations that basically were asking, 'Where can we find qualified minority applicants and women to consider for this position we have?'"

"And potential applicants have called saying, 'I know I am qualified, and I want to work in athletics...but I don't know where the jobs are.' The vita bank has been designed to be the clearinghouse that obviously is needed to bring potential employers and qualified prospective employees together."

"All we have to do now," Johnson said, "is get those resumes and job announcements rolling in."

Resolution's failure is disappointing

To the Editor:

As past president of the National Association of Academic Advisors for Athletics, I must say that I was disappointed in the NCAA Council's decision to oppose Proposal No. 55, a resolution calling for recognition of the NAAAA.

It is understandable that the Southeastern Conference faculty athletics representatives who initially sponsored the proposal felt pressure to withdraw the proposal from the Convention because of the overwhelming opposition to it. I also realize that the opposition was not to the NAAAA but to any special-interest groups attempting to gain a position of power within the NCAA structure.

Let me assure the faculty athletics representatives who opposed the legislation and the Council that we had no intention of seeking a place in the political machinery of the NCAA. Academic advisors have never been interested in the politics of the NCAA, only the results of those politics and how they affect the student-athlete. Our innocuous resolution was submitted to the NCAA as a gift. We implement the academic legislation passed at the NCAA Convention (no matter how good or bad it may be) at its most basic level—with the student-athletes.

We have a unique perspective. We meet with the faculty and administrators and understand their concerns regarding the academic integrity of the university. We understand that many coaches feed their families by winning. They have to win, or they are replaced. Primarily, we understand how all these factors affect the student-athlete. We wanted the NCAA to know that we have an expertise that has not been sought out in the past. We were making an attempt to let the membership know that our help is available and that if the NCAA Council wants our input, we are here to serve the student-athlete.

I do hope that if this resolution is ever submitted again, the presidents do not pass the paddle because "it is just not that big an issue," but instead, take charge and do something positive for the student.

Observing the Convention for the first time, I was amazed at the many positive aspects of the process. I was also dismayed with much of the self-serving politics. It appears that many times, right or wrong is not the issue but who the process serves.

Let me close by assuring the presidents, the Council and the faculty athletics representatives that the NAAAA only wants to help make the system serve those it was set up for—the student-athletes. If we can be of any assistance, please let me know.

Proposal 42 was a courageous step

To the Editor:

The NCAA should be complimented for its courageous action in formulating and passing Proposal 42. This proposal will eventually improve the quality of education on all levels.

It seems that many people have chosen to support or not to support this proposal. Apparently, those who have spoken out against this proposal are not concerned about the quality of education in institutions of higher learning. It seems that they are concerned only with building powerful athletics teams.

On the other hand, those who are in favor of this proposal might favor it for reasons other than improving and maintaining high academic standards. It seems that some of those institutions that favor this proposal do not have a large number of athletes who would be affected by the ruling.

The main purpose of attending college, to acquire an education, seems to be of little concern to those individuals who oppose this proposal and other means of improving educational standards.

Building powerful athletics teams and developing individual and institutional status and pride seem to be the major purpose of athletics on all levels of education. Some schools have allowed these aims, along with making large sums of money, to substitute for the real purpose of conducting athletics programs; that is, to benefit athletes.

Those institutions that advocate powerful athletics teams, winning at all

Government plans to install high standards for drug tests

(Editor's Note: The following article is adapted from remarks by the counsel to the U.S. House of Representatives' Committee on Energy and Commerce that were presented during the NCAA Professional Development Seminar January 6-7 in San Francisco.)

By Alan J. Roth

I won't waste time arguing whether drug testing is good or bad, whether it is right or wrong; it's a fact of life. It is, at this time, a $200-$300 million a year business in the United States. Projections are that by 1992, it will be a billion-dollar-a-year business.

The question is, "How do we do drug testing in a way that insures that it is fair and accurate and reliable to all concerned, and why is the government getting involved?"

In 1967, Congress passed the Clinical Laboratories Improvement Act. Under that regime, coupled with regulation of hospital laboratories through the Medicare system, we have had regulation of medical or clinical laboratories (those that do basic medical tests) for quite some time.

Higher standards are needed for drug testing; but until December 1988, virtually none existed; and even now, what exists is fairly limited.

Why are more stringent regulations needed for drug testing than for medical testing? There are several reasons: The first is that medical testing is generally voluntary.

You choose, in most instances, to go to the doctor or go to the hospital; and if a test is done, you may not know what test is being done or why this test is being done, but basically you have consented to go to the doctor and have a test done. That's not generally the case with drug testing. The vast majority of drug testing is involuntary—it's compelled, either in an employment context or in some kind of regulatory context.

"... a single test... often is the full basis for disciplinary action against a person, which can cripple the person... and destroy his reputation for life."

Secondly, medical testing is generally done under the direction of a physician whose primary concern is the patient's health. Drug testing is often done by someone who not only doesn't necessarily care about the patient's well-being, but in some cases is actually an adversary.

Another reason is that medical testing is always interpreted by the patient's physician in the context of some broader information about the patient—the patient's health, symptoms or history. Drug testing is often interpreted by a technician in a laboratory who doesn't even know who the human being is behind the test tube.

Finally, in medical testing, a single test is virtually never the sole basis for a decision about diagnosis or treatment of a patient. In drug testing, a single test can be and often is the full basis for disciplinary action against a person, which can cripple the person and his family economically and destroy his reputation for life.

Guidelines come first

How did Congress get into this area?

In 1986, President Reagan issued Executive Order 12564, which declared that there will be a drug-free Federal workplace. How were we to achieve this drug-free Federal workplace? Well, among other things, we were going to encourage drug testing—particularly random testing.

At the same time, the president authorized the Department of Health and Human Services to begin developing guidelines to govern drug testing in the laboratories that do drug testing.

That didn't put the brakes on the executive order or on drug testing in the Federal workplace; it just said to HHS, "You go out and develop some guidelines; and when you develop them, then the agencies will have to comply."

Well, Congress said, "Whoa, wait a second." First thing it did was cut off funds for the implementation of the executive order; it said nobody in the Federal workforce is going to be drug tested until we have a rational set of drug-testing guidelines

"In the early days (of the Association), there was a much greater spirit of cooperation among all the membership. There was more of a spirit of cooperation to work for the common good. The last several years, highlighted by the campaign by a few schools to destroy the (football) television plan, a lot of that cooperative spirit has been diluted.

and laboratory standards in place.

These initially proposed guidelines were issued within a month after Congress stepped in. Final guidelines were promulgated less than a year later; and in December, HHS certified its first batch of 10 laboratories that are now qualified to perform drug testing in the Federal workplace.

These HHS guidelines are the state of the art in drug-testing procedure. If you are in the process of setting up a drug-testing program, I would highly recommend that your university counsel get you a copy of the guidelines (Federal Register, April 11, 1988).

They represent the combined thinking of some of the best minds in the United States on toxicology, pharmacology, pathology and clinical chemistry. They basically proceed from the premise that if there is going to be drug testing, we want maximum accuracy in the results.

Even though the HHS guidelines apply only to Federal agency workplace testing, I predict they will become the generally accepted set of standards for drug testing in this country. Those laboratories that become certified by HHS will be able to go to employers, and to schools and colleges, and say, "If you're using us, we have a Federal imprimatur that says we have met the most rigorous standards that exist in this country for drug testing."

That would be a major comfort, I expect, to people conducting drug-testing programs—it won't insulate them from liability for mistakes, but it certainly will minimize the chance that those mistakes are going to occur.

Why regulate?

Some of you may ask, "Why don't you leave private-sector drug and send samples into a laboratory, nobody knows and nobody watches what goes on behind those doors.

At the end of the 100th Congress, my boss, Committee on Energy and Commerce chair John Dingell, D-Michigan, along with Rep. Tom Bliley, R-Virginia, got together and agreed upon a piece of legislation

"We're not going to exempt the NCAA or the U.S. Olympic Committee or amateur sports from the HHS certification program; but we will say, 'If there are peculiarities, if there are specific issues or problems that face amateur athletics, then amateur athletics can... argue as to why they should be treated separately....'" testing to people like us and trust our judgment?"

The problem is not that the Federal government or Congress doesn't trust your judgment. Part of the problem is that people who are going out and setting up drug-testing programs we have learned this from evidence and testimony before a subcommittee on oversight and investigations—often as not have very, very little knowledge about what it is that they are supposed to be looking for.

Furthermore, when they go home that was included in the Omnibus Drug Bill to set up a Federal drug-laboratory certification system.

For a variety of reasons, everything related to drug-testing in that bill, including our provision, was dropped. But I think everybody, including members of the Senate who had come in fairly skeptical, recognized that something really did need to be done in this area.

On January 3, the day the 101st Congress opened, Reps. Dingell and Bliley introduced H.R. 33, which is patterned after the legislation that we had worked out at the end of the last session of Congress, with some modifications. Some of those modifications would be of particular interest to people involved in athletics, and to the NCAA as well as professional sports.

Bill's provisions

To summarize, this legislation would:

- Require HHS to establish a program for the certification of drug-testing laboratories that conforms to the maximum extent practicable to the certification program it has established for the testing of Federal employees.

- Authorize HHS to approve state agencies or private, nonprofit bodies as accrediting bodies, but only to implement and enforce the HHS guidelines or more stringent guidelines.

- Require HHS to oversee the performance of these accrediting bodies.

- Require that, beginning one year after the HHS program takes effect, all urine drug testing done in this country be done only by HHS-certified labs.

- Set up a whole set of what I call quasi-civil-rights protections for test subjects—protection against breaches of confidentiality, testing for things other than drugs without consent of the subject, or taking adverse action against someone for refusing to give consent to test for something other than drugs or alcohol.

- Provide for civil and criminal penalties for violations and a cause for action in Federal court for any test subject whose rights are violated under the bill.

We've given sports drug testing different treatment in the bill in three specific areas.

Sports exemptions

One is, we're not going to exempt the NCAA or the U.S. Olympic Committee or amateur sports from the HHS certification program, but we will say, "If there are peculiarities, if there are specific issues or problems that face amateur athletics, then amateur athletics can go to the secretary of health and human services and argue as to why they should be treated separately or differently."

Secondly, we don't subject either amateur or professional sports to confidentiality requirements of the bill. We recognize that it isn't realistic for a spokesman to go before the cameras and say, "So-and-so is not playing or so-and-so had a medal taken away; but pursuant to Section 554(b)(1) of the Public Health Service Act, we're not allowed to tell you why."

Finally, a very peculiar issue arose with respect to steroids, diuretics and other performance-enhancing drugs that the sports world tests for but that are not really a concern in most other areas.

We prohibited taking adverse action against anybody on the basis of a refusal to consent to a test for something other than drugs. Obviously, that doesn't work in the case of steroids, diuretics and the other kinds of things that the NCAA and its member institutions test for.

So, essentially, we included a caveat for amateur and professional sports that says you can take adverse action against somebody who refuses to consent to a test for another substance, as long as you disclose to that individual what it is you are testing for.

I anticipate that we'll see fairly early hearings on the bill in Congress, probably mid- to late March. This is a priority item for Rep. Dingell; he's been concerned about it for quite a while and seriously wants to push it.

I expect that we will see action in the committee and in the House within the first six to nine months of this year, and we hope that we'll be able to generate the necessary support in the Senate to move it along.

Commitment to integrity not enough

To the Editor:

I agree with (NCAA Executive Director) Richard D. Schultz when he states that the "basic problems of athletics' integrity are a campus cause," but it will take more than a "commitment to integrity" to solve these problems.

NCAA researcher Mitchell Raiborn of Bradley University has identified the underlying cause on more than one occasion: Many universities, maybe most universities, are "chasing rainbows" financially. The tremendous emphasis on winning is driven by the budget processes at each institution. Without a realistic evaluation of expectations and costs, ADs and coaches simply must win to survive fiscally.

Even the NCAA as a body perpetuates this problem. Look at the manner in which revenues from the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship are divided. Give me one good reason a Final Four team deserves more revenue (above travel and per diem) than any other Division I program. Explain how the tournament would be less glamorous or the championship would be less sought-after if all Division I schools equally shared the wealth from their tournament.

The intent is not to discriminate

To the Editor:

I am very appalled at Georgetown University's John Thompson's actions and comments about the NCAA's ruling on Proposal 42.

Academic-performance standards made by the NCAA were not designed to discriminate, but to encourage all young students to excel in their academics so they can play NCAA sports.

I feel that Proposal 42 is a good idea. This country has needed to send a message to our children that a good education is very important, and the NCAA has stepped out in front of the crowd to help send this message.

Remember, not everyone has a right to a higher education. Some of these young students nowadays are getting a free higher education for playing basketball and other sports.

If these students do not want to excel in their academics, they should not be allowed a free higher education for playing sports. Scholarship money reserved for athletes today should be held for those students who deserve a higher education but can't afford it. If 18 years is not enough time to learn how to read, write and perform basic math, how much time is enough?

"The whole argument behind it is valid, but I think Proposition 42 went too far.

"We need to address the hypocrisy involved with amateurism vs. big business and academia vs. winning at all costs. College basketball still is supposed to be amateur sports. The stakes are way too high to think that there's not going to be some improper things done because of the pressures involved with keeping money coming into the coffers.

"Because there's so much money involved and there's so much pressure now on many coaches, there is a lot of temptation for people to do things they know they shouldn't be doing."

Loyola Marymount's Gathers could win two titles

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Loyola Marymount's 6-7 Hank Gathers, the national leader in scoring and rebounding, seems almost certain to become only the second player in Division I history to win both of these championships in a season.

The Philadelphia junior is averaging 33 points and 13.3 rebounds per game through January 30. Thus far, the only scoring-rebounding champion was Wichita State's 6-8 Xavier McDaniel in 1985 with 27.2 and 14.8.

Gathers scored at a 22.5 pace and averaged a respectable 8.7 rebounds last year for a 28-4 Loyola team, but he felt he had a bad game in a second-round NCAA tournament loss to North Carolina and was irked that he was not invited to the Olympic Trials. He has something to prove this junior season and has made the rebounding title his chief goal: "Being the top rebounder takes a lot of desire. I'm showing them, getting their respect."

As the team's best big man and inside scorer, he is expected to both start the break and finish it—a tall order in Loyola's run-run system (although all those 100-point games afford him more chances for rebounds and shots).

"The wide-open system gives me an opportunity to show what I can do," Gathers told Alan Drooz of the Los Angeles Times. "It also exposes what you can't do."

Loyola started only 10-7 and Gathers said, "Our young guys haven't totally bought into the Paul Westhead system. They don't believe you can go that extra five minutes at full speed.... I've bought in."

65,913 tickets sold

Tickets sold hit a record 65,913 (including blocks of tickets bought by corporations) January 28 for Louisiana State-Georgetown game won by LSU, 82-80 in the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans. Both 1987 Final Four sessions (same site) totaled 64,959 (sold in pairs for both sessions), which represents tickets sold, plus media. However, the January 28 turnstile count of 54,321 trails the two 1987 Final Four figures—56,707 (not 57,607, as announced by LSU coach Dale Brown and reported by wire services) for the title game and 55,841 for the semifinals. No turnstile count is available for the 1982 Final Four, when tickets sold, plus media, totaled 61,612 for both sessions.

Women's trends

The three-point field goal in men's college basketball was supposed to open up the inside game, give the taller players a chance to score more and put the outside shooter back in the game. But midseason Division I trends show this has not happened in the women's game, because use of the three-pointer still is very limited and specialized (and clogged, physical inside play is less of a problem in the women's game).

Only one of every 13 field-goal attempts now is a three-pointer in the women's game vs. one of every five in the men's game.

Last season, the first year for nationwide use of three-pointers by women, the average women's Division I game produced just three three-pointers made in nine attempts (both teams, combined). At midseason, three-pointers made are up only slightly to 3.4 per game, and attempts are up one per game to 10. Three-point accuracy is up from 33.6 percent last year to 33.9.

We know the inside shooters have not been helped because for the first time, we have a direct comparison

Duane Causwell of Temple is a leading shot blocker among Division I men

Northeast Louisiana's Fellsha Edwards is a Division I free-throw percentage leader

Kris Kearney, Florida Southern, ranks high in Division II field-goal percentage

Ohio Wesleyan's Krista Jacobs is among Division III women's leaders in scoring involving shots from two-point range. Last year, all Division I women shot 44 percent from inside the three-point line. Now, that figure is down to 43.6 percent (and from all ranges the national figure is 42.8 vs. last year's final 43.3).

Scoring at midseason is up to 138.5 per game (both teams combined, all 3,700 games involving at least one of the nation's 281 Division I women's teams) compared to last year's final 138.

Scoring would be down except for an increase of almost one per game in free throws made to a record pace of 27.1. Free-throw accuracy has stayed the same, however, at 66.1 percent.

ACC a double leader

The Atlantic Coast Conference leads in women's field-goal accuracy, 46.9 percent to 46.1, over the 1988 leader, the Southeastern Conference. Then comes the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference at 45.5 percent, the New South Women's Athletic Conference 45.43 and the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference 45.39.

In scoring, the ACC replaces the SEC at the top with 79.3 points per game. The New South is second at 78.5. Then come the SEC 76.3, Southland Conference 76.1 and the Southwest Athletic Conference 74.6.

In free-throw accuracy, the East Coast Conference leads at 71.3 percent. Then come the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference 69.9, Metro Atlantic 69.2, the Big Eight Conference 68.8 and ACC 68.6. Seven conferences are scoring at least two three-pointers per game per team: Big East Conference 2.58, Southwestern Athletic Conference 2.49, Southwest 2.32, Ohio Valley Conference 2.26, ACC and Atlantic 10 Conference each 2.25 and Southern Conference 2.12.

Nine conferences are above 37 percent in three-pointers: Southwest 38.5, Metro Atlantic 37.99, New South 37.98, West Coast Athletic Conference 37.62, Big East 37.61, ACC 37.59, Big Eight 37.5, Ivy Group 37.1 and Pacific-10 Conference 37.

Shortest man?

The shortest man now playing Division I basketball may be Paul Jackson of Southern-Baton Rouge. He is a Columbus, Ohio, native and junior college transfer in his first season. Jackson is 5-3½ and 148 pounds.

When he arrived on the Southern campus, he had a confession to make. "When we first talked on the phone, he told me he was 5-7½," recalls Southern coach Ben Jobe. "But when he walked in my office last fall, it was obvious he wasn't. He told me, 'Coach, if I had told you I was 5-3½, would you have invited me down?' and I admitted, 'No, I wouldn't have.'"

Jackson then went to the sports information office and gave his true

"Come to find out, Eddie came in and praised me and one of his assistants wanted him to shut up."

Twice on the road in two weeks, senior guard Reggie Adams won games for the Kent men with shots in the closing seconds, first over Central Michigan, 79-77, then over Eastern Michigan, 72-70. "Even as Reggie was shooting (at Eastern), I felt pretty good," said coach Jim McDonald. "He had both feet set and pointed toward the basket, and his shoulders were square to the basket. As he released the ball, I thought it would go in. Now, for his shot at Central... well, I closed my eyes and said my prayers." (John

North Carolina vs. Virginia in a Division I game in 1978 (16 of 17). The Division II mark was 88.1 by Northern Kentucky vs. Thomas More in 1984. For the game, Abilene Christian hit 70.5 and won, 83-76. (Garner Roberts, Abilene Christian SID)

Methodist's Clinton Montford harvested 36 rebounds (14 were offensive, 22 defensive) vs. Warren Wilson January 21. That tied the Division III record by Calvin's Mark Veenstra vs. Southern Colorado in 1976. Montford is only 6-1 and a junior college transfer from Beaufort, North Carolina. (Dan Lawrence, Methodist SID)

The Division II men's record for most three-point field goals made, both teams combined, was tied at 27 by Ashland (15) and Kentucky Wesleyan (12) January 19. Northern Michigan (17) and Oakland (10) also had 27 on November 25, 1987. (Roy Pickerill, Kentucky Wesleyan SID)

Academic-athletic standouts

The Indiana State women, with a 9-5 start, have a 3.100 grade-point average (4.000 scale) for the entire 13-player squad, with eight above 3.000. Cocaptain Amy Vanderkolk, averaging above 20 points and 10 rebounds, earned all A's for a perfect 4.000 last semester, improving her career grade average to 3.830 as an accounting major. (Karen Griess, Indiana State associate SID)

Fredonia State freshman point guard Sherri Ervin, averaging 6.6 assists per game, earned a 3.350 grade-point average last semester. She is a science and premed major. (Cathy Flanders, Fredonia State women's coach)

Four of Shenandoah's starting five made the dean's list, which requires a 3.500 grade average. They are Marcie Fox, a perfect 4.000 as a business major; Sharon Hitt, 3.920, therapeutic recreation; Michele Marston, 3.640, physical education, and Vickie Wright, 3.640, business. (John Earley, Shenandoah women's coach)

Pine Manor cocaptain Laura Wilson, whose 14 blocked shots vs. Salve Regina set a school record, also is a classroom star. The 6-4 senior from Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, had a perfect 4.000 grade-point average last semester. (Michele Arbour, Pine Manor SID)

Quotes of the week

Xavier (Ohio) men's coach Pete Gillen on his team's 17-game losing streak at Dayton: "We haven't won there since the Russian Revolution. Rasputin was in junior high."

From La Salle men's coach Bill "Speedy" Morris: "When I first got the job here, the phone rang and my wife told me it was Sports Illustrated. I cut myself shaving and fell down the steps in my rush to get to the phone. When I got there, the voice said, 'For just 75 cents an issue....'"

Wichita State men's coach Eddie Fogler and Kansas men's coach Roy Williams are long-time friends from their playing and coaching days at North Carolina. They did not look forward to playing each other at Kansas January 25 (Kansas won). Their families ate dinner together the night before the game. When Williams was a freshman, Fogler was a junior ("Eddie was only 100 times better player than I was"). Both were assistants under Dean Smith. "We roomed together for eight years on the road," Williams said. "I don't have a better friend in the world. It's funny. Eddie was a tough New York City kid, and I'm from the mountains of North Carolina, so we're different in a lot of ways but alike in a lot of ways. He understands me, and I understand him." This is Williams' first year at Kansas, but already they have gone head-to-head in recruiting. "The strange thing is, I went to a home and praised Eddie for five minutes—one of my assistants wanted me to shut up," Williams said.

Wagner, Kent SID

Vanderbilt's Barry Goheen may have a future in half-time shooting contests when he finishes his college career. He has made five game-winning shots in the final seconds over his career. He also hit a 53-footer at the half-time buzzer vs. Georgia, a game he won, 76-75, on a three-pointer with one second to go.

Early this season, he made a half-court shot at the buzzer to beat Louisville, 65-62. In the NCAA tournament last year, he made a pair of three-pointers in the final seconds against Pittsburgh to send it into overtime, and Vanderbilt won. His career figures are respectable but do not explain his success. "All-America players have gone their whole careers without as many exciting moments as I've had," says Goheen. "If all the shots were alike, you could explain it; but they were all different."

Missouri senior Gary Leonard, a 7-1, 264-pound senior, is playing with much more intensity these days. His body fat, measured at 25 percent last August, is down to 12, and he has more maturity. And it has happened despite a lingering illness that resembles walking pneumonia. Finally, he saw a doctor. Careful not to give him anything that would show up in an NCAA drug test, the doctor gave Leonard a substance later defined by country-boy teammate Greg Church as "pig medicine." This led coach Norm Stewart to joke that he hopes it doesn't work: "Who knows how we got him sick, but maybe we should keep him that way."

Legislation and Interpretations Committee minutes

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Legislation and Interpretations Committee reviewed various 1989 Convention proposals and other interpretations, as follows:

Convention Proposal No. 1

1. Championships — promotional posters. Considered Convention Proposal No. 1 amending NCAA Constitution 3-1-(e), which confirms that a student-athlete's name or picture may appear on a poster that promotes an NCAA championship, provided the poster is produced by the NCAA or by a member institution that hosts a portion of the championship; agreed that the application of this proposal would permit the same promotional opportunities for a conference championship, provided such a poster is produced by the conference or by a member institution hosting the conference championship.

Convention Proposal No. 49

2. Initial eligibility (Divisions I and II). Reviewed Convention Proposal No. 49 amending NCAA Bylaw 5-1-(j), which permits Division I prospective student-athletes to achieve the minimum required SAT or ACT score not later than the end of the student's final term of secondary education or the July 1 immediately preceding the individual's first enrollment in a collegiate institution, and allows a Division II prospective student-athlete to fulfill the standardized test requirement at any time prior to initial collegiate enrollment; confirmed that for both Divisions I and II member institutions, this legislation may be applied retroactively to student-athletes who did not meet the earlier deadline (i.e., the July 1 immediately preceding the individual's first collegiate enrollment) for completing their tests under the previous legislation, but did comply with the new requirements of Proposal No. 49; clarified that for Division I member institutions, this legislation is intended to extend the opportunity to complete the standardized test requirement only through the last term in which the student completes his or her high school graduation requirements.

Convention Proposal No. 56

3. Exempt financial aid. Reviewed Convention Proposal No. 56 exempting certain financial aid benefits listed in Bylaw 6 from the cost-of-attendance limitations; agreed that employment during vacation periods and legitimate student loans also would be exempt from the cost-of-attendance limitation, but confirmed that honorary academic scholarships must be included in the calculation of the student-athlete's financial aid subject to the cost-of-attendance limitation; referred this matter to the NCAA Legislative Review Committee for further consideration.

Convention Proposal No. 83

4. Contact restrictions. Reviewed Convention Proposal No. 83, which applies the contact restrictions outlined in Bylaw 1-2-(g) to any athletics competition in which a prospect is a participant; agreed that the provisions of O.I. 500 defining "organized competition" would be the standard utilized to determine the competition to which the restrictions in Proposal No. 83 would apply.

Convention Proposal No. 85

5. Summer sports camps and clinics (Divisions II and III). Considered Convention Proposal No. 85 amending Bylaw 1-7, which revises the Association's sports camp and clinic legislation for Divisions II and III; confirmed that a Division II or III member institution could employ football and basketball players at institutional camps; agreed that student-athletes employed in a member institution's camp may participate in normal camp athletics activities but may not participate in any organized practice activities (other than during the permissible playing and practice season) related to the institution's intercollegiate athletics program.

Convention Proposal No. 99

6. Game programs (Division I). Reviewed Convention Proposal No. 99, which eliminates game programs as a permissible printed recruiting aid; confirmed that it would remain permissible under this regulation to distribute game programs to a prospective student-athlete only during official and unofficial visits.

Convention Proposal No. 122

7. "Restricted membership" probationary period. Considered Convention Proposal No. 122 amending Bylaw 10-1-(f), which permits a one-year probationary period for institutions failing to meet the minimum sports sponsorship criteria for their respective divisions once in every 10-year period; agreed that institutions in "restricted membership" at the close of the general business session would be permitted to use the probationary year immediately and under such circumstances would be considered to have utilized their one sports sponsorship probation in the current 10-year period.

Convention Proposal No. 136

8. Foreign tours (Division III). Reviewed the provisions of Convention Proposal No. 136 amending Bylaw 3-6-(b)-(4) and agreed that one effect of the adoption of this legislation would be that the provisions of Bylaw 3-3-(l) should be revised editorially to reflect that Division III member institutions would be permitted to exempt contests on a foreign tour once every three years in all sports.

Conference No. 1

Convention Proposal No. 143

9. Recruiting contacts (Divisions I and II). Reviewed the provisions of Convention

Proposal No. 143 amending Bylaw 13-1.4 (revised NCAA Manual), which establishes one limitation on the maximum number of recruiting contacts for all Divisions I and II sports; made determinations regarding the application of this regulation as follows:

a. During the permissible contact periods, institutional representatives in a particular sport are permitted to visit a high school or junior college one time per week (subject to b, d and e below).

b. Each member institution is permitted to make a total of three contacts with a particular prospect at the prospect's educational institution during the permissible contact periods.

c. Each member institution is permitted to make a total of three contacts with a particular prospect at sites other than the prospect's educational institution during the permissible contact periods.

d. If a prospective student-athlete is a multisport athlete, all institutional representatives are permitted only one visit per week on the same day to the prospect's educational institution.

e. If a high school, college preparatory school or two-year college has two prospective student-athletes being recruited by the same member institution in two different sports, then it would be permissible for the institutional representatives to visit the high school, college preparatory school or two-year college on two days during the same week, it being understood that only one of the two prospects is contacted on each occasion.

Convention Proposal No. 144

10. Promotional activities. Reviewed the provisions of Proposal No. 144 amending Bylaw 12.5 (revised NCAA Manual), which allows member institutions and charitable organizations to utilize a student-athlete's name, picture or appearance to support their charitable or educational activities or to support activities considered incidental to the student-athlete's participation in intercollegiate athletics; confirmed that a member institution now may provide or sell autographed game balls for this purpose; further, agreed that a student-athlete should be permitted to receive actual and necessary travel and meal expenses only within a 100-mile radius of the institution's campus when the student-athlete participates in the institution's charitable or educational activities.

Hardship

11. Institution's reliance on conference interpretation. Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(d)-(2) and Case No. 296, noting that a member conference issued an interpretation of Case No. 296 indicating that for purposes of the hardship rule, an institution may count participation in two different locations on the same date as two separate contests, provided that essentially the same competitors appear at both sites; agreed that in order to utilize this interpretation, a member institution must have the minimum number of participants (under the Association's sports sponsorship criteria) for both events conducted on the same day; recommended that this issue be reviewed further by the committee at a subsequent date.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

Marshall M. Criser announced his retirement as president at Florida, effective March 31. He is a member of the Presidents Commission. Percy A. Pierre announced he will step down May 31 as president at Prairie View A&M but will remain at the school as a professor of electrical engineering.

DIRECTORS OF ATHLETICS

C. M. Newton selected at Kentucky, effective April 1. Newton has been head men's basketball coach since 1981 at Vanderbilt. He also was assistant commissioner of the Southeastern Conference from 1980 to 1981. Newton will replace interim AD Joseph Burch, who has been in the post since last November. Robert C. King named at Millsaps, his alma mater, effective July 1. He is assistant headmaster at The Episcopal School of Dallas (Texas), where he is a former athletics director. King succeeds Harper Davis, who will retire in June. Bill Enockson appointed at Morningside after 28 years as an automobile industry executive. Among the posts he held was assistant general sales manager for the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors.

ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Holger Christiansen announced his retirement at Minnesota, effective September 30. Christiansen was the school's facilities coordinator for more than 21 years before becoming associate AD in 1985. He served as interim AD at the school for six months last year.

COACHES

Baseball assistant Sam Riggelman named pitching coach at Southern Illinois after 10 years as head coach at Mount Vernon Nazarene. He replaces Kirk Champion, who accepted a position in professional baseball.

Men's basketball — John Reynders announced he will step down at Allegheny following the season to become director of the school's Educational Enhancement Program. Through 10 seasons, Reynders has compiled more victories than any other coach in Allegheny history; his record as of January 22 was 173-74. His last three teams won North Coast Athletic Conference regular-season or tournament titles and the last two teams appeared in the Division III Men's Basketball Championship. John Carpenter said he will relinquish his coaching duties at Rider at the end of the season but will continue to serve as athletics director. Since 1967, Carpenter's teams have compiled a 290-318 record (through January 25), and his 1983-84 squad won the East Coast Conference's postseason tournament and appeared in the Division I Men's Basketball Championship.

Also, Vanderbilt's C. M. Newton named athletics director at Kentucky, effective April 1. Newton recently won his 500th game as a college's men's coach, and last season he led Vanderbilt to the Division I Men's Basketball Championship's Midwest region semifinals. He also coached from 1956 to 1968 at Transylvania and from 1969 to 1980 at Alabama, where his teams compiled a 211-123 record and won three consecutive Southeastern Conference championships. Joe Nesci promoted from assistant to interim head coach at New York University, replacing Mike Muzio, who stepped down January 23 to devote full time to his duties as athletics director at the school. Nesci has been at the school since 1984. Muzio, who had been head coach at the school since it resumed its varsity program in 1983, coached his teams to a 95-53 record.

Women's basketball G. Rankin Cooter assumed additional duties at Georgia State, where he is athletics director. Cooter replaces Dave Lucey, who resigned in his third season for personal reasons. Lucey, who also coached for one season at Georgia, leaves with a 32-41 mark at Georgia State. Cooter coached the women's team from 1975 to 1979 and posted a 59-28 mark before becoming athletics director.

Women's basketball assistant — Nolan Raines joined the staff at Georgia State, where he has been a developmental specialist.

Football — Lou Maranzana appointed interim head coach at Bucknell, replacing George Landis, who resigned after three years in the post because of what he called competitive "inequalities" in the Colonial League. Landis' teams compiled a 10-19-1 record. Western Kentucky's Dave Ro- berts selected at Northeast Louisiana. Roberts led Western Kentucky to Division I-AA Football Championship appearances the past two seasons and leaves the school with a five-year record of 26-30-2. He also has been an assistant at Vanderbilt, Davidson and Eastern Kentucky. Ray Greene relieved of coaching duties at Alabama A&M, where he compiled a 53-27-4 record through eight years, including a 7-3 mark last season. The school said it would honor Greene's contract, which expires in March 1990. Gerald Kimble hired at Southern-Baton Rouge, his alma mater. He previously coached at Green Oaks High School in Shreveport, Louisiana, where his teams were 76-40-1 through 11 seasons. Kimble was an assistant at Southern from 1971 to 1977.

Dave Roberts named football coach at Northeast Louisiana

Football assistants Texas announced that offensive coordinator John Mize will be reassigned to other duties on the staff and that defensive tackles coach Bill Hicks and tight ends and special teams coach Bryant Pool have been dismissed. Frank Kurth appointed wide receivers coach at Toledo after serving as a graduate assistant coach at Indiana. He is a former Ball State academic all-American. Marty Mornhinweg named quarterbacks coach at Southeast Missouri State. The former Montana quarterback previously was running backs coach at Northern Arizona, and he also has served on the staffs at UTEP and Montana. Donald B. "Butch" Caldwell selected to coach the offensive line at Livingston. Caldwell coached for the past three seasons at Tennessee-Chattanooga, serving most recently as outside linebackers and head junior varsity coach.

Men's and women's swimming and diving — Carnegie-Mellon's Jim Perkins resigned to move to Utah, where his wife has accepted an anchor position with a Salt Lake City television station. Through two seasons at the school, Perkins led his swimmers to a 28-8 record and led last year's men's team to its first Presidents' Athletic Conference title. The former Florida all-America also has been head coach at Cornell and Ithaca.

Men's tennis Nathan Digre named at Bethel (Minnesota). He is a tennis professional at Greenway Athletic Club in Minneapolis.

Men's volleyball — Tom Peterson appointed at Penn State. He previously coached the men's club team at Brigham Young and is a former head coach at Utah. Peterson also served stints as assistant women's volleyball coach at Utah and Brigham Young.

Women's volleyball — Rhonda Woodward selected at Indiana State. A former member of the U.S. women's volleyball team, Woodward served as an assistant last season at Georgia and also has been on the staffs at Houston, Ithaca and Colorado State. Sonya Hanson appointed at Tulane after one season as head coach at Pittsburgh-Bradford, where she also was head softball coach and assistant women's basketball coach. She also has coached at Jamestown Community College in New York. Hanson replaces Dorothy Franco, who returned to her alma mater, Alabama, as head coach.

STAFF

Assistant trainer Brian Sifferlin appointed at Akron, where he has been a graduate assistant since 1987.

NOTABLES

Mike Russo of Williams and Aliceann Wilber of William Smith named Division III men's and women's soccer coaches of the year, respectively, by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. Russo led Williams to its second consecutive 17-1 record and Eastern College Athletic Conference championship, and Wilber led William Smith to the Division III Women's Soccer Championship title. Rick Redding named public relations and promotions director for Raycom

Sports and Entertainment. He previously was executive editor of sports publications at Host Communications, where he was responsible for the production of NCAA championships programs. Jim Stoeckel, head baseball coach at Davidson, selected by the Royal Dutch Baseball Federation for a three-year term as field manager of the Dutch national baseball team.

CORRECTION

Due to an editor's error, an incorrect answer to a Briefly in the News trivia question was published in the January 25 issue of The NCAA News. La Salle had the best overall won-lost record last year among Big 5 women's basketball teams with a 25-5 mark. Pennsylvania's record was 6-20.

Tax law changes and proposals

Preferred seating: Included in the technical corrections tax legislation passed by Congress October 21, 1988, and signed by President Reagan November 10, 1988, is a provision authorizing deduction of 80 percent of each charitable contribution to an educational institution where the donor receives in return the privilege to purchase preferred seating at institutional athletics events. The provision is designed to eliminate problems created by two Internal Revenue Service revenue rulings taking the position that donors under preferred-seating programs would be required to establish the value of the preferred-seating privilege and could deduct only the amount by which the donation exceeded that value. An article explaining how the 80 percent deduction is to be applied in various circumstances was published in the November 7, 1988, edition of The NCAA News.

Regulation of lobbying by non-profit organizations: December 23, 1988, the IRS published proposed new regulations defining the amount of political lobbying that certain nonprofit 501(c)(3) organizations may do and still retain their tax-exempt status. The proposals provide guidance concerning what activities constitute "grass-roots lobbying" and "direct lobbying" for purposes of IRS limitations on the amount of lobbying in which a 501(c)(3) charitable organization or private foundation may engage without subjecting itself to an excise tax or jeopardizing its tax exemption. The proposed rules also address the allocation of expenses for activities with mixed lobbying purposes; treatment of expenses in connection with research and preparation of nonlobbying communications and communications with members; and exceptions to the proposed rules for nonpartisan analysis, study or research and for discussion of broad social, economic and similar problems.

Student loans and scholarships: The seven bills pertaining to deductibility of interest on student loans and taxability of scholarships died with the adjournment of the 100th Congress. Several of the sponsors have indicated that they will reintroduce their bills in the next Congress.

Drug-abuse prevention

Omnibus Drug Initiative Act of 1988: October 22, 1988, in its last hours, the 100th Congress passed a $2.8 billion omnibus antidrug abuse bill that increases the penalties for distributing anabolic steroids without a prescription, authorizes judges to suspend the eligibility of students for Federal student aid if they are convicted of drug possession or drug trafficking, and authorizes increased funding for National Youth Sports Program drug education and prevention activities.

Drug testing: Because of a deadlock between the Senate and the House on drug-testing issues, the law as enacted does not contain a House-passed provision mandating detailed standards for laboratories performing toxicological urinalysis in private drug-testing programs, including athletics-related programs such as those operated by the NCAA and many member institutions. House Energy and Commerce Committee Chair John Dingell, D-Michigan, reportedly remains concerned about the lack of Federal standards in the area; and it is virtually certain that a new bill will be introduced in the 101st Congress. The NCAA has been actively involved with committee staff in suggesting revisions appropriate to the testing of intercollegiate athletes.

Anabolic steroids: The Omnibus Drug Act increases to felony status the penalty for illegally distributing anabolic steroids and directs the comptroller general to conduct a study and to report to Congress by June 1, 1989, on the health consequences and extent of anabolic steroid and human growth hormone use among high school students, college students and adults. Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Delaware, the Senate sponsor of these provisions, cited abuse of anabolic steroids by athletes, and by college athletes in particular, in his remarks explaining these provisions. The new law provides penalties of up to three years' imprisonment and monetary fines for the distribution, or possession with the intent to distribute, of any anabolic steroid for any use in humans other than the treatment of disease pursuant to the order of a physician. Where anabolic steroids are distributed to individuals under the age of 18, the maximum period of imprisonment is doubled to six years. The effect of these provisions is to make it illegal not only to distribute anabolic steroids without a prescription, but also for a physician to prescribe them for any purpose other than for treatment of disease.

Suspension of eligibility for Federal student aid: Included among the "user accountability" provisions of the Omnibus Drug Act is a section authorizing judges to deny Federal benefits, including Federal student aid, to drug possessors and traffickers. An individual who is convicted of any Federal or state offense involving the possession of a controlled substance may be declared ineligible for any or all Federal benefits, including Federal student grants and loans, for up to one year upon the first conviction, five years after a second or subsequent conviction. In the case of drug traffickers, the court may suspend eligibility for Federal benefits for up to five years after the first conviction of any Federal or state offense consisting of the distribution of a controlled substance and up to 10 years after a second conviction. Upon a third or subsequent conviction for distribution of a controlled substance, the discretion of the court is removed; and the individual is permanently ineligible for all Federal benefits. These provisions become effective for convictions occurring after September 1, 1989.

Certification of drug-testing laboratories: In October 1988, Congress passed the Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments, a broad measure requiring certification of virtually all laboratories engaged in examination of materials from the human body for health-assessment purposes. Implementing regulations are expected to extend to laboratories currently engaged in athletics-related drug testing.

Other drug measures: Other drug measures pending in Congress, including a resolution expressing the sense of the House of Representatives that colleges and universities should demand drug-free campus environments and should enforce policies to eliminate drug use by students, died in committee.

Title IX and related law

Title IX complaints: According to Department of Education staff, increasing numbers of Title IX intercollegiate athletics complaints have been filed since March 22 when the Civil Rights Restoration Act became law. As previously reported, approximately 15 such complaints were filed between that date and August 31. Four of those complaints, which had been filed by coaches at Santa Clara University, were withdrawn in September. The department does not have summary information concerning the number of Title IX intercollegiate athletics complaints filed since August.

Title IX policy: In a December 5, 1988, conference call, the Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights, answered questions and provided guidance to the OCR regional offices concerning how to proceed in investigating Title IX intercollegiate athletics complaints. During that call, OCR made several changes in existing practice. Most importantly, regional offices were told that if a complaint concerns only participation opportunities and not benefits and services to student-athletes, the investigation may be limited to the accommodation of students' interests and abilities. During such an investigation, OCR investigators are to look for indications of problems in other areas. If it appears that such problems may exist, the investigation must be expanded to cover all aspects of the program. In the past, OCR either has conducted a comprehensive investigation of all the components of an intercollegiate athletics program, or if the complaint concerned only financial aid (or OCR jurisdiction was limited to financial aid under the Grove City College decision), it has limited its investigation to financial aid. As a further step to deal with expected increasing activity in this area, OCR intends to revise its Title IX intercollegiate athletics investigator's manual. An interim version of that manual was issued in 1980, but a final edition has never been published. The revised manual will incorporate policy and procedure changes contained in the 1982 OCR guide for writing Title IX intercollegiate athletics letters of findings, along with the changes made informally December 5. In most respects, the revised manual is not expected to alter OCR's current approach to assessing compliance with Title IX.

Title IX guide: NCAA Washington counsel has prepared a comprehensive explanation of the Title IX requirements in the area of intercollegiate athletics as they now exist, including the changes made December 5. An executive summary of this guide was published in the January 4, 1989, issue of The NCAA News; the guide itself will be made available as an NCAA publication. NCAA Washington counsel participated in the Professional Development Seminar January 6, 1989, to discuss this subject. It is expected that a supplement or revision to the guide will be issued once OCR finishes rewriting its manual.

AIDS opinion: September 27, 1988, the acting assistant attorney general, office of legal counsel, issued an opinion to President Reagan's counsel concluding that section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 protects otherwise qualified individuals who are infected with the AIDS virus against discrimination in any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance. Under the Civil Rights Restoration Act, this interpretation applies to all the operations of any higher education institution receiving Federal financial assistance, including intercollegiate athletics.

Litigation developments: The defendant in Leake vs. Long Island Jewish Medical Center filed an appeal from the July 13 ruling of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York that the Civil Rights Restoration Act applies retroactively to cases pending on the date of its enactment. As previously reported, the lower court held that the Restoration Act should be applied retroactively to the plaintiff's Section 504 claim alleging discrimination on the basis of handicap, where the defendant hospital received Federal grants for specific research and treatment programs, none of which went to the department for which he worked.

Counsel for the University of Alaska, Anchorage, and the Department of Justice reportedly are close to resolving DOJ concerns about the university's compliance with the terms of a 1981 consent decree issued in Pavey vs. University of Alaska. DOJ previously had raised questions about the university's accommodation of female students' athletics interests and abilities and its expenditures for publicity, recruitment and game guarantees.

Oral argument in the appeal from the dismissal of WEAL vs. Bennett, a long-standing suit against the Federal government, has been rescheduled from January to April 11, 1989. In previous orders issued in WEAL and related cases, the district court had established mandatory time limits for the investigation of Title IX and other civil rights complaints by the Department of Education.

Federal legislative developments: No action was taken before Congress adjourned on H.R. 4132, which would have amended 42 U.S.C. § 1981, a civil rights statute used principally in employment discrimination cases that now applies to race and alienage discrimination, to cover sex discrimination as well. Such a change would have enabled plaintiffs in sex discrimination cases to sue for damages under section 1981.

Academic and enforcement issues

Student-Athlete Right to Know Act: The companion "Student-Athlete Right to Know Act" bills that were pending in both houses (S. 2498 and H.R. 4797) died with the adjournment of Congress. Rep. Towns, D-New York, a cosponsor of the bill in the House, tried to have the House bill attached to other legislation being considered at the end of the legislative session, but House Education and Labor Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education Chair Pat Williams, D-Montana, declined, stating that there was no consensus in the higher education community in support of the bill. In his reply to Rep. Towns, chair Williams reportedly stated that the subcommittee would ask the General Accounting Office to study college athletes, their graduation rates, and student aid and would look into the issue more closely before moving ahead with legislation. It is expected that the bills will be reintroduced in the next Congress.

Sports-agent legislation: Rep. John Bryant, D-Texas, is preparing legislation that would require sports agents to register with the Department of Commerce and to disclose a wide range of their activities, as well as prior criminal, regulatory or civil actions against them. The secretary of commerce or his designees would be empowered to take disciplinary action, including revoking an agent's registration, suspending an agent for a year, and imposing fines. The draft bill also would establish a new regulatory association to monitor agents that would be empowered to promulgate rules in such areas as minimum qualifications and testing requirements. According to his staff, Rep. Bryant is trying to obtain comments from the sports community on the legislation before introducing it early in the next session.

Graduation rates: No action was taken before adjournment on H.R. 355, which would have denied income tax deductions for contributions to be used in the intercollegiate athletics programs of higher education institutions that do not graduate 75 percent of their student-athletes within a five-year period after enrollment.

Other pending legislation: Both H.R. 1637, the Intercollegiate Athletics Integrity Act of 1987, and H.R. 2176, the Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics Act of 1987, died upon adjournment of Congress. H.R. 1637 would have terminated Federal financial assistance to institutions that aided or abetted in the corrupt offering or giving of financial inducements to college athletes and would have imposed criminal sanctions on individuals who made or offered such inducements. H.R. 2176 would have established a Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics to study ways in which to stop abuses in college sports programs.

National Youth Sports Program

Supplemental drug bill appropriation: The Omnibus Drug Initiative Act authorizes funding for the NYSP under the Community Youth Activity Program block grant. In the House-Senate negotiations, the House agreed to the Senate language, which authorizes funding to states for a variety of community youth activity programs, with a five percent set-aside for "programs of national significance." The NYSP is the sole example of such a program specifically mentioned. The Senate language also was amended expressly to authorize funding for "youth sports programs" at the state level. The final bill appropriates $3 million for NYSP drug education and prevention activities in fiscal 1989, which began October 1. In addition, $15 million was appropriated for the Community Youth Activity Program block grant, of which five percent, or $750,000, is available for programs of national significance. Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Massachusetts, a long-standing supporter of the NYSP, has rewritten to Health and Human Services Secretary Bowen asking how and when the supplemental drug appropriation for the NYSP will be made

Administrative Committee minutes

1. Acting for the Council, the Administrative Committee:

a. Took the following actions regarding committees and committee appointments:

(1) Sports committees:

(a) Appointed Hal Smeltzly, Florida Southern College, to serve as chair of the new Baseball Rules Committee.

(b) Appointed Joseph Russo, St. John's University (New York), to the Division I Baseball Committee, replacing Andy Baylock, University of Connecticut, declined.

(c) Reviewed the action of the Men's Committee on Committees in appointing Jeff Henderson, Occidental College, to the Division III Baseball Committee, which was based on the understanding that California State University, Stanislaus, was being reclassified in Division II; agreed that Jim Bowen of the latter institution should serve on the committee until the institution is reclassified, at which time Mr. Henderson will replace him.

(d) Sustained the action of the Men's Committee on Committees in appointing Douglas W. Weaver, Michigan State University, to serve immediately on the new Division I Men's Ice Hockey Committee; denied a request that Ron Mason of the same institution serve on the committee until September 1.

(e) Noted that the Men's Committee on Committees had appointed Dave Murray, University of Arizona, to the Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee, which already has a representative from the Pacific-10 Conference; declined to alter the existing interpretation that two men or two women from the same conference cannot serve on a committee, even if one represents men's interests and one represents women's interests; appointed Gary Schwartz, University of Kansas, to that committee in place of Mr. Murray.

(2) New standing committees and committee positions:

(a) Took the following actions regarding the Basketball Officiating Committee:

(i) Noted that the Council had failed to appoint a member of the Council to serve on the committee, as required by 21.3.1 in the new Manual; agreed to ask Sarah E. J. Yates, Florida A&M University, to serve as the Council member on the committee, rescinding the appointment of Michael Clayton of the same institution.

Conference No. 1
January 25, 1989

(ii) Approved the following term expirations for the committee: C. M. Newton, 1990; Dean Smith, 1991; David R. Gavitt, 1992; Gene Bartow, 1990 (coinciding with term on men's basketball committee); Fred Jacoby, 1992; Chris Gobrecht, 1990; C. Vivian Stringer, 1991; Margie McDonald, 1991; Marcy Weston, 1992 (coinciding with term on rules committee); Patty Viverito, 1992 (coinciding with term on women's basketball committee); Ms. Yates, 1990.

(b) Assigned a term expiration of 1991 to Max Williams, University of Mississippi, on the Eligibility Committee.

(c) Assigned the following term expirations to members of the Legislative Review Committee: Donna Lopiano, 1990; G. E. Moran, 1991; Jamie McCloskey, 1992; David Price, 1992; and William A. Marshall, 1990 (coinciding with term on Council).

(3) Special committees and subcommittees:

(a) Dissolved the following:

(i) Special Committee on Deregulation and Rules Simplification.

(ii) Special Council Subcommittee on the Incorporation of Interpretations and Legislation in the NCAA Manual.

(iii) Special Council Subcommittee to Review Academic Standards.

(iv) Special Council Subcommittee to Review NCAA Compliance and Enforcement Programs, agreeing that the Council will consider in a future meeting the advisability of creating a special committee for this purpose that would include members of the Council and former members of the Committee on Infractions.

(b) Appointed the following to the Special Council Subcommittee on Eligibility Appeals:

(i) Division I: Robert R. Snell, Kansas State University, and Frederick E. Gruninger, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, replacing Albert M. Witte and B. J. Skelton; chair to be appointed at a later date.

(ii) Division II: Karen L. Miller, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, and Douglas T. Porter, Fort Valley State College, replacing Joan Boand and Raymond M. Burse.

(iii) Division III: Robert G. Bottoms, DePaul University, replacing Lewis S. Salter.

(c) Noted that Arthur Eason, William Paterson College; Mr. Porter, and Albert E. Smith, South Carolina State College, automatically serve on the Special Council Subcommittee to Review Minority Opportunities in Intercollegiate Athletics, and that Mr. Burse and Thomas J. Frericks no longer serve; agreed that Judith M. Sweet and Messrs. Witte and Skelton would continue to serve inasmuch as the committee's work is nearing completion; appointed Charles Whitcomb, San Jose State University, to replace Mr. Burse as chair.

(d) Reviewed possible appointments to the new Special Committee on Cost Reduction as submitted by former NCAA President Wilford S. Bailey, who was authorized by the Convention to appoint and to chair the committee, with the appointments to be approved by the Council and the Presidents Commission; deferred action on approval of the appointments pending receipt of additional information.

b. Discussed recent developments regarding 1989 Convention Proposal No. 42, noting the following:

(1) Correspondence received in the national office has been overwhelmingly supportive of the proposal as adopted (approximately a 10-to-1 ratio).

(2) In a special meeting in Kansas City, Mr. Witte and Martin A. Massengale, chair of the Presidents Commission, agreed that the topic should be discussed when the Commission officers and the Administrative Committee meet in February; further, they will recommend that the Division I Steering Committee and the Division I Subcommittee of the Commission consider whether to recommend legislation at the 1990 Convention to postpone implementation of the proposal until after the research regarding 14.3 [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)] has been completed and analyzed.

(3) Suggested that the staff develop a paper that explains concisely the provisions of 14.3 and Proposal No. 42.

c. Noted that the meeting with the officers of the Presidents Commission will take place February 20-21 in Chicago.

2. Acting for the Executive Committee, the Administrative Committee:

a. Approved the following recommendations by the Men's and Women's Tennis Committee:

(1) That Southwest Baptist University serve as host institution for the 1989 Division II Men's Tennis Championships, May 15-21, at Four Seasons Tennis Resort, Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri.

(2) That Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, serve as host institution for the 1989 Division II Women's Tennis Championships, May 7-13, at the Dwight Davis Tennis Center, St. Louis, Missouri.

(3) That Kalamazoo College serve as host institution for the 1989 Division III Men's Tennis Championships, May 14-21.

(4) That Claremont McKenna-Harvey Mudd-Scripps Colleges serve as host for the 1989 Division III Women's Tennis Championships, May 8-13.

b. Approved a revision of former Executive Regulation 1-18-(e) to permit three, rather than two, minutes of action footage of an NCAA championship to be used on regular television news programs, with that change to be incorporated in 31.6.4.3 of the new Manual and in the championships administration handbooks as appropriate.

c. Took the following actions regarding committees and committee appointments:

(1) Dissolved the following:

(a) Special Basketball Officiating Committee.

(b) Special Committee to Review Future Office Requirements.

(c) Special Executive Committee Subcommittee on Allocation of Financial Resources, pending receipt of a Division II statement regarding that division's block grant.

(2) Special committees and subcommittees:

(a) Budget Subcommittee: Noted that Ms. Sweet, Messrs. Witte and Skelton, and Jerry M. Hughes automatically serve, with Ms. Sweet replacing Mr. Frericks as a member and as chair, and that Messrs. Bailey and Howard Elwell no longer serve.

(b) Staff Evaluation Subcommittee: Noted that Ms. Sweet automatically replaces Mr. Frericks as a member and as chair, and that Edward F. Bozik, University of Pittsburgh, continues to serve as the senior member of the Executive Committee. President Witte reappointed Marino H. Casem, Southern University, Baton Rouge, and Royce N. Flippin Jr., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to continue serving on the subcommittee.

Copyright

1988 cable royalty fees: Cable royalties for the first half of 1988 amount to $93 million, more than ever deposited for one accounting period. Claims for the 1988 fees will be filed in July.

1987 cable royalty fees: Because of delays in the 1986 distribution proceeding, the tribunal has not yet commended a proceeding aimed at distribution of the $166 million in 1987 royalty fees.

1986 cable royalty fees: One day before the distribution proceeding was to begin, the last of the Phase I claimants agreed to settle Phase I of the 1986 cable royalty fee distribution proceeding; and, on December 15, the Copyright Royalty Tribunal distributed most of the remaining 1986 royalty fees. The Joint Sports Claimants received $8,215,229. This amount is in addition to the $8,348,015 in 1986 fees that the Joint Sports Claimants received last April. Phase II proceedings, which will not affect the allocation to the Joint Sports Claimants, are scheduled to begin in February.

1984 cable royalty fees: In mid-November, 1988, the Copyright

Royalty Tribunal distributed $571,209 in late-paid 1984 royalty fees to the Joint Sports Claimants.

Other developments affecting the amount of royalty fees: The Copyright Office has not yet issued a decision concerning whether cable systems will be required to pay interest on overdue royalties that are due as a result of the Cablevision decision. Over $93 million in such overdue fees have been deposited since the January 5, 1988, Cablevision decision. The Joint Sports Claimants filed comments June 30 urging the Copyright Office to assess interest not only on these late payments but on any future late-filed cable royalty fees, as well.

Recommendation for repeal of cable compulsory license: October 27, 1988, the Federal Communications Commission voted to recommend that Congress repeal the compulsory license for cable system carriage of distant broadcast signals. Such repeal would require cable systems to negotiate directly with the owners of copyrighted nonnetwork broadcast programming, including the owners of nonnetwork sports programming, before retransmitting it. # Morehead State has high school dropout-prevention program

Morehead State University's school of education has launched "Destination Graduation," a high school dropout-prevention program in partnership with four high schools. Morehead State received a grant of almost $67,000 from the U.S. Office of Education, administered through the Council on Higher Education, to initiate the project.

Plans call for 24 Morehead State students to work with selected ninth graders at West Carter, Bath County, Menifee County and Rowan County high schools. Each of the schools has assigned math and English teachers to serve as local coordinators.

Dan DeRidder, a freshman on the Calvin College swim team, hasn't minded his first winter in Michigan, according to Howie Beardsley of The Grand Rapids Press. No wonder. This time last year, DeRidder was more than 4,000 miles north, living above the Arctic Circle in the Northwest Territories town of Inuvik.

"It's minus-40 degrees in Inuvik right now," DeRidder told Beardsley last month, "and it will stay that way for five months. There are no roads north of Inuvik, so they either fly or barge stuff in. And anything that can get over land has come on the ice highways (plowed-out paths over the solid ice of Beaufort Sea and Mackenzie Bay)."

DeRidder's father, Dan Sr., was transferred to the village (population 3,200) in his job as a regional property manager for the Canadian government. Dan Jr. joined him and the rest of the family last summer after graduating from Harry Ainlay High School in Edmonton.

"People on campus will ask where I'm from, and I say Inuvik in the Northwest Territories," DeRidder told Beardsley. "They'll look confused and still don't know where I'm from. So then, I'll tell them I'm north of the Arctic Circle. That's when they'll look at me funny and say something like, 'Whoa... that's way up there.'"

"I've had to explain to so many people where I'm from that I finally posted a map on my dormitory door," he added. "Now, when someone asks, I tell them to go look at the map."

Ohio Northern University and Heidelberg College met January 25 for the 100th time in men's basketball. "It's a rivalry that seems to go in spurts," said Gale Daugherty, Ohio Northern head coach. "We'll win four or five in a row, then they'll win four or five straight." This contest marked the 27th meeting of teams coached by Daugherty and his counterpart at Heidelberg, John Hill.

More Milestones: C. M. Newton, men's basketball coach at Vanderbilt University who recently was selected to become director of athletics at the University of Kentucky, earned his 500th coaching victory January 21 when Vandy defeated the University of Texas, Austin.

Two West Virginia University coaches earned milestone victories the same day—January 18. In the afternoon, swimming coach Kevin Gilson earned career victory No.

Gale Daugherty

200. That evening, wrestling coach Craig Turnbull got career triumph No. 100.

Trivia Time: Who won the 100th men's basketball game between Ohio Northern and Heidelberg? Answer later.

Kristen Holt enjoyed playing high school basketball for Gretchen Prichard so much, she decided to attend Ohio University—where she could play for Prichard's daughter, Amy.

"I respected her mother and liked her and figured Amy would be a lot like her," said Holt, a second-year guard at Ohio who attended Lima Bath High School.

During the Pace University women's basketball team's visit to Quinnipiac College earlier this season, head coach John Lauro had as tough a time keeping track of his players as some other coaches who have been featured recently in

C. M. Newton

Omaha, who has been active in NCAA affairs. "Now, every dollar donated during the (1989) walk will go totally to women's athletics."

Brockport State University College officials have received a $500 donation from the American Football Coaches Association toward a lectureship that has been created in memory of Gerry D'Agostino, head football coach at the school from 1964 to 1973. He also was an assistant professor in physical education and sport until his death last June. AFCA's contribution brought the total donated to $11,000, which will be used to bring guest lecturers to the school, representing a variety of specialties in physical education and sport.

As part of their annual men's basketball showdown, teams and officials from the University of Cincinnati and Xavier University (Ohio) joined forces to encourage their fans to give blood through "Hoop Aid," which benefits the Hoxworth Blood Center in Cincinnati.

Add the University of Louisville to the list of schools that have published histories of their men's basketball programs. "Above the Rim" is a 352-page volume available from the university's athletics association.

More Report Cards: Three University of Delaware swimmers with perfect (4.000) grade-point averages were among 17 team members who recorded GPAs of at least 3.000 during the fall semester. All women, the three 4.000 student-athletes are Carole Kammel, Penni Patton and Ann Marie Talerico.

At Rollins College, 125 of the school's 307 student-athletes (40.7 percent) posted fall-term GPAs of at least 3.000. Among them were women's basketball player Lirsten Dellinger and club-team (water skiing) member Helena Kjellander, who posted 4.000s.

Susquehanna University led members of the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference with three student-athletes selected to the league's fall all-academic team. The honorees included football players David Battisti and Rich Roth, and women's volleyball player Tracy Gillin.

Darcy Shriver, academic coordinator for athletics at Miami University (Ohio), announced in late January that 56 student-athletes were named to the dean's list for the fall 1988 semester by earning GPAs of 3.500 or better. Seven of those also were named to the president's list, which requires a 4.000. That group included Karen Elias, Missy Jewell, Steve Mansberger, John Paul, Susie Urbank, Tracie Wirtner and Martine Wurst. Notably, four of the president's list honorees (Jewell, Mansberger, Paul and Urbank) and 21 of the dean's list students competed in fall sports.

Trivia Answer: Heidelberg defeated Ohio Northern, 75-60, in the 100th men's basketball meeting between the two schools.

Briefly in the News

Briefly. At one point in the game, his on-the-floor group included Kris Hall, Kris Kutt, Kris Marsilio and Chris Michalopoulos.

Chances are, Lauro simply used the quartet's nicknames to keep things straight: "Mars" (Marsilio), "Kutt" (Kutt), "House" (Hall) and "Mike" Michalopoulos.

Donations: Women's athletics teams at the University of Nebraska, Omaha, will benefit from a $15,000 gift made to the "Women's Walk" program by Pepsi-Cola. The walk began in 1986, when 84 participants raised $12,000. Last year, 581 walkers raised in excess of $60,000. "Not only is this the largest single donation ever to women's athletics at UNO, it also covers all of our expenses on this year's walk," said Connie Claussen, women's athletics coordinator at Nebraska-

But for Thompson, '42' would have survived, Schultz says

Had John Thompson not boycotted two of his team's games, making a national issue out of Proposal 42, the measure likely would have weathered other protests, according to NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz.

The proposal, approved by the NCAA Convention earlier this month in San Francisco, would have eliminated partial qualifiers under 14.3.1 and 2 of the NCAA Manual [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)].

"I'm sure that in 1990, there will be legislation there either to delay or to eliminate it," Schultz said in an interview with Dirk Beveridge of the Associated Press at Virginia Polytechnic University.

"I don't think it was a surprise that a number of people spoke out in opposition to it (Proposal 42), but I think the fact that Thompson walked off the court, that really highlighted it and made it a national issue.

"Had he not done that," Schultz said, "you would have had some coaches make some negative comments about it. It would have been in the paper two or three days, and that's all you would have heard about it."

Since Thompson demonstrated his objection to the proposal by staying off his team's bench for two games, and other coaches supported his protest, it has been announced that NCAA President Albert M. Witte and NCAA Presidents Commission Chair Martin A. Massen- gale will ask the NCAA Council and the Commission to consider proposing legislation at the 1990 Convention to postpone the legislation, which would become effective in 1990.

Despite charges that Proposal 42 would negatively affect minority student-athletes, Schultz noted that some black leaders and black educators agree that the legislation's academic requirements are good minimum standards that should be met.

Concerning claims that Proposal 42 would lead to cheating, Schultz said, "I don't want to go on record as saying I think that's going to happen, because no one can be sure. But it's certainly going to be a great temptation if there's a great athlete who doesn't qualify and can't get institutional aid—for, all of a sudden, this person to come into a little nest egg that allows him to go to school and pay his tuition. It's been a temptation, and it's always going to be there."

Schultz said that if the legislation were to be voted on now, "I'm not sure if the result wouldn't be the same."

NCAA plans rules interpretations seminar

For the third consecutive year, representatives of Division I conferences affiliated with the Collegiate Commissioners Association and the University Commissioners Association will huddle with Association staff members for an NCAA interpretations seminar.

The Association is inviting each of the conferences to send a staff member who is primarily responsible for the interpretation and administration of NCAA regulations.

News quiz answers: 1-(b). 2-(d). 3-(a). 4-(c). 5-True. 6-(a). 7-(b). 8-(c). 9-(d). 10-True.

The seminar is set for February 22-23 in Kansas City, Missouri.

The purpose of the seminar is to offer participants an opportunity to thoroughly discuss current interpretations of NCAA legislation.

"The seminar gives the rules experts in Division I conferences a chance to come in and share their thoughts and to get on the same wavelength," said William B. Hunt, NCAA assistant executive director for legislative services.

"It's been very well-received," he said of the annual seminars, which began in 1987.

This year's seminar will open with a session on the recently adopted 1989-90 NCAA Manual, during which conference representatives can offer their reactions and identify specific difficulties they have encountered in using the Manual.

Also planned are presentations by NCAA legislative services staff members and question-and-answer periods.

Conferences are asked to provide the names of their representatives by February 6 to Debbie Krivjansky at the national office. The conferences also are being invited to suggest issues for discussion during the seminar.

Questions/Answers

Readers are invited to submit questions to this column. Please direct any inquiries to The NCAA News at the NCAA national office.

Q Is it possible for individuals to receive general mailings from the NCAA even if that individual is not directly involved in intercollegiate athletics?

A Yes. The Association offers a corresponding membership. According to the recently revised NCAA Manual, "a corresponding member is an institution, organization, conference or individual that is not eligible for active, conference or affiliated membership and desires to receive membership publications and mailings." For information on corresponding membership in the Association, contact Shirley Whitacre at the national office.
