Review of NCAA membership structure continues championships but Division II does the NCAA Membership Structure, meeting May 10-11 in Kansas City, Missouri, agreed to continue its study of structure issues and to develop a package of proposals for possible submission to the 1991 NCAA Convention.

A month earlier, the NCAA Council approved the special committee's request that it be given until April 1990 to submit its recommendations to the Council. The committee agreed not to release details of its deliberations until it completes its considerations.

In the meantime, however, the

The Special Committee to Review committee will continue to seek membership reactions to the topics involved, including a discussion at the convention of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics next month in Anaheim, California.

The committee also noted that the deliberations of the NCAA Council, the Special Committee on Cost Reduction, the Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism, and the Division I Men's Basketball Committee may have some impact on its work.

Division I criteria

Meanwhile, the committee continues to consider means of strengthening the criteria for membership in Division I. Included among the data being reviewed are the following:

• The percentage of permissible financial aid that each Division I institution is awarding in each sport.

• The percentage of its playing schedule in each sport that each Division I institution is participating against other Division I members.

• The size of each Division I institution's home basketball facility and the average attendance at its home basketball contests.

• The numbers of sports sponsored by each Division I member, for men and women.

• The extent of each Division 1 member's participation in NCAA championships. Other topics

The special committee, chaired by Fred Jacoby, commissioner of the Southwest Athletic Conference, also will continue to discuss the other topics that it has identified as being part of its charge:

• Further restricting or eliminating multidivision classification.

 Championships opportunities for Division II institutions in sports in which the other divisions conduct not. Futher legislative autonomy for the Division I subdivisions, especially in determining the limit on the financial aid that a student-athlete may receive.

 Distribution of NCAA revenues as that issue affects membershipstructure concerns.

• The feasibility of a Division I-AAA football classification or some other championship opportunity for Division I (and possibly Division II) institutions that do not wish to conduct their football programs at that level.

• Possible eventual subdivision of Division III.

• Means of enhancing Division II membership, possibly by strengthening the Division II basketball championships.

The committee also considered a referral from the Committee on Women's Athletics and expressed concern regarding discrepancies in the numbers of sports sponsored for women in comparison to the number sponsored for men at some member institutions.

The special committee's next meeting will be scheduled in the fall.

Drug-test sanctions scrutinized

Five members of the Association's Executive Committee have been asked to consider the issue of teamineligibility sanctions when athletes test positive for banned substances at NCAA championships. Their efforts probably will lead to 1990 Convention legislation aimed at resolving the issue.

Appointed May 1 to the Subcommittee to Review Drug-Testing Ineligibility Sanctions were Executive Committee members Edward E. Bozik, University of Pittsburgh, who also was named chair; Eugene F. Corrigan, Atlantic Coast Conference; Don J. DiJulia, St, Joseph's University (Pennsylvania); Rovce N. Flippin Jr., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Rosemary Fri, University of Northern Colorado.

Proposed legislation for the 1990 Convention dealing with team-ineligibility sanctions as a result of positive drug tests seems certain. For one thing, the Executive Committee agreed during its May 1 meeting that a legislative approach should be used to propose and/or implement such sanctions. For another, a moratorium on team sanctions related to drug-testing that currently is in effect will expire at the end of the 1989-90 academic year. So, between now and the Executive Committee's August meeting in Hyannis, Massachusetts, subcommittee members will attempt to gather additional opinions from member institutions and conferences and formulate legislative alternatives See Drug, page 3

State legislation aimed at aiding Washington women's sports

Washington Gov. Booth Gardner signed into law May 12 a threepiece legislative package to enhance women's opportunities in intercollegiate athletics that affects six public institutions—three of them NCAA members, Eastern Washington University, the University of Washington and Washington State University all will have more money to spend on women's sports as a result of the new laws. Also affected by the legislation are Central Washington University, Evergreen State College and Western Washington University.

Sponsored by Rep. Ken Jacobsen (D-Seattle), the three-piece legislative package:

 Provides additional scholarships for women student-athletes;

 Requires four-year public institutions in the state to develop sexequity plans for athletics programs, and

• Establishes a 1990 conference for the discussion of women's sports issues

House Bill 2020 has been called the centerpiece of the package. Beginning in 1991, it permits four-year public institutions in the state to waive tuition and fees for a limited number of male and female studentathletes who may have had them paid for by scholarships funded from athletics-department budgets. More for women

Money saved through the tuition waivers is to be spent on increasing opportunities in those schools' women's athletics programs. Currently, state universities may waive four percent of all tuition and fees, with three percent of the waivers going to needy students and one percent to minority students and other programs.

House Bill 1430, the second of the three proposals, requires the institutions affected by the legislation to have in place prior to 1991 — plans to achieve sex equity in intercollegiate athletics. Areas such as student employment, financial aid and recreational activities also are included.

Schools must work toward equal athletics opportunities and equal support services for male and female students using proportions based on athletics participation at the elementary and secondary levels in Washington. Currently, women make up about 38 percent of participants at those levels statewide.

The third new law, House Bill 2016, mandates a 1990 sex-equity conference. Coaches, teachers and administrators from high schools and colleges will gather to discuss issues facing women's sports around Washington

"The conference will be good for the state," said Darlene Bailey, associate athletics director at Eastern Washington. "I believe it will foster greater awareness of women's sports issues at every level and not just on participation, but also on career opportunities for women in athletics. For example, we need to discuss why the number of women coaches is shrinking."

Two years ago, Washington's Supreme Court agreed, ruling that WSU had to provide equal opportunity and support for women's sports-and that football had to be included when making those calculations

Also, the justices ruled that Washington State had to achieve equity based on the proportion of males and females in the school's undergraduate population. Women currently represent 43 percent of enrollment

Because Washington State's concerns were more immediate-the school is under court order to implement sex-equity plans - Washington legislators appropriated an additional $300,000 to the school for 1990.

"Certainly, we're the institution affected most immediately (by the legislation)," said Marcia Saneholtz, senior assistant athletics director at Washington State, noting that womcn's soccer will be added as a varsity sport this fall - without help from the legislature.

"We'll have to find other ways (of supporting the program)," she added.

"We project having to add at least one more sport (in addition to soccer), maybe two," Saneholtz offered.

"The new legislation certainly will help us to maintain the levels of support for the sports we currently offer while working toward compliance with the court decision." Sancholtz called the legal opinion "landmark, since it defined for the first time a standard for use in judging equity."

According to their sponsor, the new laws also are precedent setters.

"This is really landmark legislation," Jacobsen said. "I am proud that Washington will now be a model for other states to follow in increasing sports and athletics scholarships opportunities for women athletes."

Jacobsen chaired a joint select subcommittee on women in sports that was formed last summer. Catherine "Kit" Green, associate athletics director at Washington, was impressed with the pace of the legislature in dealing with the issue.

"I remember back in 1976 and 1977 when we went to the legislature requesting its attention to increased opportunities for women in sports," she said. "They wouldn't even talk to us.

"This (Jacobsen's measures) went straight through. I think that is an indication to the rest of the country that this issue is extremely important and must be dealt with positively."

Division I baseball play-off sites selected

All eight regional sites were selected May 15 for the 43rd annual Division I Baseball Championship, it was announced by the NCAA Division I Baseball Committee.

The eight regional sites are as follows: West I at Tucson, Arizona (University of Arizona, host); East at Gainesville, Florida (University of Florida); Atlantic at Tallahassee, Florida (Florida State University); West II at Fresno, California (California State University, Fresno); South at Starkville, Mississippi (Mississippi State University); Midwest at Austin, Texas (University of Texas, Austin); Central at College Station (Texas A&M University). The Northeast regional previously had been assigned to Waterbury, Connecticut, a neutral site.

By virtue of being awarded regionals, both Florida and Mississippi State have been selected as atlarge teams. Florida State, Fresno State, Texas and Texas A&M also were selected at large but could win automatic berths this week in their respective play-offs.

Eleven teams already have clinched automatic berths by winning conference titles. They are: Arizona (Pacific 10-South), Auburn (Southeastern), Jackson State (Southwestern), New Orleans (American South), Pennsylvania (Eastern), Pepperdine (West Coast), Rider (East Coast), Sam Houston State (Southland), Stetson (Trans America), Western Carolina (Southern) and Western Michigan (Mid-American).

The remaining at-large teams, top eight seeds and first-round regional pairings will be announced May 22.

The 43rd College World Series begins Friday, June 2, at Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha, Nebraska.

NCAA Bylaw 17.7.2.1—first preseason football practice date

NCAA member institutions are reminded that the adoption of 1989 Convention Proposal No. 147 eliminated two of the three options for calculating the permissible starting date for preseason football practice. As amended, Bylaw 17.7.2.1 prohibits a member institution from commencing official preseason football practice sessions for the varsity, junior varsity or freshman team prior to the date that will permit a maximum of 29 "practice opportunities" prior to its first scheduled intercollegiate game, except as provided for student-athletes who are first-time participants in Divisions I-A and I-AA (see Bylaw 17.7.2.2).

The information below illustrates the application of Bylaw 17.7.2.1 and Figure 17-10 in determining permissible days to issue equipment, administer medical examinations and take squad pictures, and to establish, in Divisions I-A and I-AA, orientation periods for those student-athletes who are beginning their initial season of eligibility for football practice sessions at the institution.

The following example assumes that the institution's first contest is Saturday, September 9, 1989, and the institution's first day of classes is Tuesday, September 5, 1989.

Divisions I-A and I-AA:

Sunday (August 13)—Freshmen, transfer students and other first-time participants may report for evening meal (no football-related meetings).

Monday (August 14)—Medical exams (if needed) and issuance of equipment for first-time participants; Orientation Day No. 1 (see Bylaw 17.7.2.2.1).

Tuesday (August 15) -- Orientation Day No. 2.

Wednesday (August 16)—Orientation Day No. 3

Thursday (August 17) - Orientation Day No. 4; members of the varsity may report for evening meal (no football-related meetings).

Friday (August 18) Medical exams (if needed), issuance of equipment

3. Setting up offensive or defensive alignments.

- Chalk talks.
- 5. Lecture on or discussion of strategy relating to the sport.
- 6. Activities utilizing equipment relating to the sport.

7. Discussions or review of game films, motion pictures or videotapes relating to the sport.

8. Activities conducted under the guise of physical education class work (c.g., any class composed of or including primarily members of an intercollegiate team on a required-attendance basis or where the class utilizes equipment for the sport).

This column is intended to assist member institutions in calculating the permissible starting practice date in the sport of football. The date of the first scheduled contest, the start of classes at the institution and the option utilized will alter the starting date; therefore, if questions arise, please contact your conference office or the legislative services department.

NCAA Bylaws 17.02.2, 17.02.5—countable institutional contests and dates of competition for varsity events

The NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee recently reviewed the provisions of Bylaws 17.8.4.1.1 and 17.8.4.1.2 and a previous committee interpretation (reference: LIC 87-22.4), noting that a member institution shall be considered to have utilized a date of competition in the sport of golf if one or more student-athletes participate on behalf of the institution on a particular date. The committee confirmed that in determining whether a member institution has utilized a date of competition or participated in a contest for its varsity team in a sport, a varsity event shall be defined as one in which at least 50 percent of the individuals representing the institution in the contest participate primarily on the varsity level. Further, the committee agreed that this interpretation would apply to all sports that are subject to playing-season restrictions.

Bailey said the conference also should help foster cooperation between Washington high schools and colleges

Cougars different

Legislators had to go a step further in dealing with the sex-equity problems facing Washington State --- undoubtedly the catalyst for Jacobsen's proposals.

The Cougar athletics program was named in a 1979 suit filed against the university by women coaches and students who alleged sex discrimination due to disparate financing and treatment of men's to varsity team members and "picture day."

Saturday (August 19) First day of practice.

Sunday (August 20) — Practice continues (optional; institutional discretion).

Divisions II and III:

Thursday (August 17) Team members (including first-time participants) may report for evening meal (no football-related meetings).

Friday (August 18)-- Medical exams, issuance of equipment and "picture day."

Saturday (August 19) First day of practice.

Sunday (August 20) - Practice continues (optional; institutional discretion).

In accordance with the provisions of Bylaw 17.02.11, "practice" is any meeting, activity or instruction involving sports-related information and having an athletics purpose, held for one or more student-athletes at the direction of, or supervised by, any member or members of an institution's coaching staff. Practice shall be considered to have occurred if one or more coaches and one or more student-athletes engage in any of the following activities:

1. Team conditioning or physical fitness activities, except regular physical education classes and physical fitness classes as outlined in Bylaw

NCAA Bylaw 12.2.3.2.4.1 — major junior A ice hockey/ limitation on restoration of eligibility

NCAA member institutions are reminded that the adoption of 1989 Convention Proposal No. 111 amending Bylaw 12.2.3.2.4 denies at least the first year of intercollegiate ice hockey competition and requires the loss of at least one season of eligibility in ice hockey as the minimum penalty for the restoration of eligibility of individuals who have rendered themselves ineligible in the sport of ice hockey by virtue of their participation on teams in the United States and Canada classified by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association as major junior A teams.

The Legislation and Interpretations Committee recently confirmed a staff interpretation that inasmuch as the effective date of Proposal No. 111 is immediate, the new standard would affect those individuals who participated in major junior A ice hockey subsequent to the effective date (January 11, 1989).

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director for legislative services, at the NCAA national office.

NCAA swimming field will be adjusted

At the request of the NCAA Executive Committee, the Men's and Women's Swimming Committee will develop qualifying standards for the 1990 championships in all divisions to arrive at fields equal to the average number of competitors in the championships for the past five years.

The swimming committee recently discussed alternatives for complying with this directive and will submit proposed 1990 qualifying standards to the Executive Committee at that group's August meeting

Meeting April 30-May 4 in Kansas City, the swimming committee voted to recommend that qualifying standards be established for the 200-yard medley and 200-yard freestyle relays for men and women. Both relays were optional-entry events in the past.

The committee also discussed possible dates for the 1992 championships in relation to the proposed Olympic trials dates of March 9-14.

Actions taken by division and rules subcommittees are as follows:

Division

A survey will be distributed to men's coaches soliciting opinions on the 200-yard medley and freestyle relays. Options would include elimination of the sprint relays, swimming in three of the five relays. eliminating trials in those two events or keeping the relays with newly established qualifying standards.

An optional-entry qualifying standard has been proposed to eliminate approximately two percent of the number of optional entries that were in the 1989 men's and women's meets

The women's championships order of events will follow the men's order used in 1989. Also, the possibility of having all heats of the 800yard freestyle relay at night in a finals-only concept will be explored for future meets.

All heats of the men's and women's 1,650-yard freestyle, except the timed finals, will be contested on Saturday afternoon at a time permitting completion by 6 p.m. The heats currently are conducted Saturday during the preliminaries.

Also, the awards ceremony for each event at the women's meet will be held immediately following the finals, as was done for the men's meet in 1989.

The Division III subcommittee voted to recommend that the men's and women's format be revised to follow the 1989 Division I men's championships format.

The group also acted to change the championships format so that diving prequalification will begin on Wednesday at 11 a.m. Also, it will be recommended that the men perform six dives, all optional, and that the women perform five optionals on the one-meter board.

It will be recommended that Wheaton (Illinois) host the 1990 championships, with the women's meet to be held March 8-10 at Schroeder Athletics Center in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and the men's meet scheduled March 15-17 at Northwestern University. It was further recommended that the 1991 men's and women's championships be held at Emory University. Rules

Among the changes adopted by the rules subcommittee were:

• A proposal that will require triple confirmation (machine, lane and side judges) whenever automatic relay-takeoff equipment is used.

•A clarification that an incomplete stroke cycle, consisting of an arm stroke without a following leg kick, may be used immediately before the touch at each turn and at the finish in the breaststroke events.

• An additional clarification that immediately upon entering the water after the butterfly start, the swimmer's body shall be in the prone position with the shoulders in a horizontal plane. This position shall be maintained until the touch is made at the next turn or at the finish

•A new scoring system to be used for all nonchampionships meets. Relay events will be scored 7-0, and all other events will be scored 5-3-1-0.

What if the test results were available before the end of the competition (e.g., in football or basketball, where tournaments stretch over a few weekends)? Should the team be disqualified at that point?

The average tenure of the chief executive officers in the institutions and university systems in the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC) at the end of the 1987-88 academic year was 4.17 years. Scholar-athletes remind us that ideals of sport live on ing in the National Football League.

By Dennis Huston

At a time when the world of sport offers us news of one scandal after another, genuine scholar-athletes represent an ideal that our society now too often seems to have forgotten.

This ideal is, of course, that the challenges and lessons of sport build character; help us to live better, more satisfying lives.

A long time ago, when I was a student, sport was viewed as an important component of college life; indeed, an essential part of an education.

Most obviously, sport taught us discipline.

By doing the same things again and again - hundreds, indeed, thousands of times - we disciplined ourselves to do the same sorts of things under pressure of competition.

In short, we learned that the way to success is fraught with hard work and tedium. And this lesson we thought transferable to other things-to school work and life work, for instance. The things we learned on the playing field we then took to the classroom, to jobs, to family relationships.

And, of course, we learned to win and to lose-to acknowledge and respect the efforts and talents of others even when we defeated them and to live with our own inadequacies when we lost.

Such lessons, though, now seem too often forgotten. For in almost every direction we turn today, we find a disjunction between the world of sport and the virtues it long seemed to teach

What has happened to the ideal that sport teaches us virtues that enrich our lives and help us to shape our destinies? Too often, these virtues now seem swallowed up by the vices of greed, opportunism and even crime.

And that is why we need to remember the extraordinary achievements of genuine scholar-athletes, those who have remained true to the ideals of sport even at a time when our society as a whole threat-

"But despite the nature of their competition, these scholar-athletes still refuse to surrender either to discouragement or to corruption. They remain true to the ideals of sport as we have long valued them in our society."

ens to lose contact with these ideals.

These scholar-athletes compete sometimes against athletes corrupted by Mammon and often against athletes who have no more business being in an institution of higher learning than I have of playin our society.

Even after long hours of practice and ferocious competition against all odds, they still find time, energy and self-discipline enough to turn to their academic work.

But despite the nature of their competition, these scholar-athletes still refuse to surrender either to discouragement or to corruption.

They remain true to the ideals of sport as we have long valued them

But they not only turn to their academic work, they do it with distinction.

They inhabit, then, two universes simultaneously.

They lead double lives and, at the same time, work miracles. They show us in a time when the very foundations of American sport as we know it seem shaken that we may yet find a meaningful relationship between sport and the good life.

In short, they show us that ideals live on even in a time when they too often seem forgotten.

Our scholar-athletes are models for us to emulate. That is why we should celebrate their achievements, admire them and honor them, for they give truth and life to an embattled ideal.

Big Ten, Pac-10 already have play-off

To the Editor:

I had to chuckle at the quote in your May 3 issue by Jim Brock, the executive vice-president of the Cotton Bowl. He criticized the College Football Association's plan for a national play-off because it did not include the Pac-10 and the Big Ten ("To the bowl members, this is perceived to be a CFA championship. How can you have a national championship without the Pac-10 and the Big Ten?")

Frankly, I don't see any problem at all. Not only would it end the discrimination directed toward Division I-A schools by not allowing them to crown a champion of the field, but it would also be a fitting pay-back to the Pac-10 and the Big Ten, who have been having their own little play-off for years without inviting anybody else.

It's called the Rose Bowl.

Higher education shouldn't lose faith in the term 'student-athlete'

By E. Gordon Gee

The controversy surrounding freshman eligibility in sports is not a question of to-play or not-to-play. Rather, it raises the broader question of scholarship and athletics.

It reminds us that it is time to return the word student to the phrase student-athlete.

My former colleague, Hunter Rawlings, the president of the University of Iowa, has stirred a hornet's nest by proposing that athletes be ineligible to participate in major sports during their freshman year. Furthermore, he says that if the within the next three years, he will implement one unilaterally at the University of Iowa.

NCAA does not pass such a rule

Draconian though it may seem, his position is commendable, for it brings sharp focus to an issue that has been ignored too long.

It is well-known that college athletics has increasingly come to resemble professional sports.

Marketing techniques and national attention have eclipsed the very purpose of athletics programs: to promote a competitive spirit within the academic environment.

Some alumni-and, too often, university administrators -- have placed more emphasis on getting a team to a bowl game than they have on the student graduation rates among athletes.

It is time to restore balance to college sports.

Admittedly, Rawlings' position is based primarily upon ideals, for there are no compelling data showing that freshman athletes not participating in sports are better students than those who do participate

Still, although his position may not be supported by convincing facts, President Rawlings is right in inisisting that all entering students, whether they are athletes or not, have a solid beginning in their collegiate careers.

And, as educators, we owe that to our athletics programs be competitive and that academic integrity be maintained. In our football program, for example, coach (Bill) McCartney and (athletics) director (Bill) Marolt have succeeded in producing one of the highest graduation rates of student-athletes in the nation.

And, unlike some colleges and universities, the University of Colorado has aggressively acted to address problems when they occur. We owe such action and integrity to the academic standards and traditions that we are charged to uphold.

It is time for colleges and universities throughout the nation to remember that all athletes are students first. Only then can we instill a competitive spirit in its proper context

Although the University of Colorado has not acted to remove fresh-

The selling of college sports: Necessity overcomes reluctance

By Jerry Lindquist Richmond Times-Dispatch

Laugh, if you will, about people selling their souls; but in college athletics, they're peddling just about everything else.

A couple of weeks ago, Georgia Tech announced it was seeking corporate sponsors for each of its seven home football games this fall. Five, including the September 19 game with Virginia, would go for $75,000. A Thanksgiving weekend game with Boston College had a $100,000 price tag. For $175,000, a company could have its named affixed to the season windup with archrival Georgia.

Wonderful. We already have the USF&G Sugar Bowl and the Sunkist Fiesta Bowl. Pretty soon, we'll have the Kingsford Charcoal Virginia-Georgia Tech football game.

Next thing you know, they'll follow television's lead and and sponsor individuals and/or plays, such as framing the kickoff with a Budweiser billboard. The possibilities are endless. My gosh, why should they do anything without being paid for it? Isn't that the American way?

Listen. You can hear the public address announcer now. "Virginia quarterback Shawn Moore is brought to you by Federal Express; he gets there first. Shawn will be passing today to Elmer's Glue-fingered Tim Finkleston...."

Imagine the Society of Podiatrists punt. That Cavaliers' Pro-Keds touchdown was scored by their Nike/K-Mart/Holiday Inn tailback Marcus Wilson.

Amateur athletics? Yeah, right. The phrase might as well be stricken from the language.

"Cost containment" is another one. The NCAA should be barred from using that term again. Who's kidding whom?

costs, or even hold that line. They're dreaming up new ways to make more so they can spend more.

It's called "keeping up with the Joneses." They do it, so I'd better do it, too, or they'll do it better; and in order to keep up, I must....Talk about the never-ending story.

Now, you know why the College Football Association has devised a plan for a national play-off. It has little to do with determining who really is No. 1. How can it? The Big Ten and Pac-10 aren't part of the CFA and, therefore, wouldn't be involved.

No, this has to do with only one thing—m-o-n-e-y. The ideal is to sell the package to a TV network, and first estimates are an annual windfall of \dots $80 million.

OK, so the hypocrites took over the world a long time ago. Jim Copeland and Dave Brainc arcn't hypocrites. They are, however, realists. Athletics directors at Virginia and Virginia Tech, respectively, they are bottom-line people.

And, says Copeland, "Division I schools are finding it harder to balance their budgets."

Yes, both Copeland and Brainc can appreciate what Georgia Tech is trying to do. While neither says he's prepared to follow a similar plan at his school, each man is watching with interest.

Georgia Tech AD Homer Rice isn't a hypocrite either. A couple of years ago, when everyone else at the NCAA Convention was talking about cost containment because it was the fashionable thing to do then, Rice admittedly was seeking new ways of funding his program.

"I know they're having problems attendance-wise, and they're doing things to make up for it," Braine says. "Give Homer credit. Football's a tough sell in [Atlanta] now, for all the pro sports there."

Chastise Georgia Tech and Rice for being greedy, if you will. Braine won't. Neither will Copeland. "I don't think it's greed," Braine says. "You're balancing your budget."

That hasn't been easy at Virginia Tech, either, where inherited red ink means Braine must find new sources of revenue, too, if the program is to grow. He rejected what he calls a very good offer from Vanderbilt to switch this year's game from Blacksburg to Nashville, Tennessee. It will be more difficult to say no to the Citrus Bowl.

In addition to their annual postseason game, the Citrus people are promoting one regular-season game a year in Orlando, Florida. For 1991, they would like that game to be Virginia Tech-Florida State, currently scheduled for Blacksburg.

"They have asked us if we would talk to them about playing it down there," Braine says. "Anytime you can make twice or three times the amount of money you can make at a home game, you have to look at it."

He knows Tech fans will not like the idea, but a man does what a man has to do. "If you are one of the schools lucky enough to be financially stable, then you don't have to be concerned about those kinds of things," Braine says.

"The day we get in a footballbasketball revenue-sharing conference, we hopefully won't have to worry about that any more, either. But, until that time comes, I also must have a balanced budget... and if you can make a million dollars a game...."

Like Braine and Tech, Copeland and Virginia use corporate sponsorship. "This is not a new concept," Copeland says, noting soccer's Coca-Cola Classic and basketball's Investor's Bank tournaments for men and women—among others.

Disciplinary program strict as any, McCartney asserts

University of Colorado head football coach Bill McCartney says his new disciplinary program is as stringent as any in college football.

McCartney told a Denver Rotary Club audience May 11 that some unspecified new measures will "hopefully be a deterrent to anyone getting into trouble. The details are private within the team, but we've tightened the disciplinary structure somewhat."

Tougher dealings with first-time offenders are part of the new program. Academics and the entire scope of college-life participation also are addressed.

"We've just made it tougher if a player should get into trouble," he said.

Colorado's football program has had its problems over the last few years, with players arrested for rape, burglary, shoplifting and brawling.

"We don't hide anything," McCartney said. "Everyone knows what's happening. We need people to cast their lot with us."

He pointed out that his program has received national recognition for the percentage of players receiving degrees. How far he would go is something else. "You have to balance your needs with what you think is appropriate," Copeland says. "Every time you do it, you have to think it through thoroughly."

The athletics director at San Diego State, Fred Miller, is trying to line up schools to act as a group in seeking national sponsors. "We're not ready to do that," Copeland says.

He is ready, however, to endorse the play-off idea. "I like the concept," Copeland says. "It's something that will happen. I don't know when."

Braine is less enthusiastic about the CFA plan that would have a 16team field.

Most athletics directors will admit they could cut expenses here, and slice some there. But trimming the fat isn't easy, because it all comes back to trying to be like everyone else.

"We're always looking at ways of cutting costs," Braine says. "Every budget is scrutinized to figure out ways of saving money...but you also have to do what is right.

"We have 18 sports. Football and basketball are the only ones that make money. It's tough.

ings' statement. He has forcefully reminded us that athletics and scholarship are not separate entitics and that sports programs exist as part of the academic environment.

The immediate question of freshman eligibility is not as simple as it may seem. The University of Colorado's athletics department has already set an example for colleges and universities that wish to improve the academic performance of their student-athletes.

Let other institutions take note: Athletics programs and scholarship are not inseparable.

Nor are they incompatible, if the institution's priorities are in order.

But if sports programs take on a life of their own, their colleges, sports fans and most tragically—the students will be irreparably harmed.

Some athletes should get more aid, Schultz says

Richard D. Schultz, executive director of the NCAA, said May 11 that he favors the adoption of legislation that would enable athletes in need of financial aid to receive funding above Federal limitations.

Schultz said such legislation would depend on whether schools could agree on a ceiling for the aid. He said he has asked the NCAA Council to begin drawing up such legislation for a possible vote at the 1990 Convention in Dallas.

Schultz, speaking on Capitol Hill at a seminar on sports law, emphasized that he is not in favor of giving a stipend to student-athletes.

"There are young men and women who economically can't live like other students," Schultz said. "So I think we ought to be taking a look at doing something to provide some additional support to them. would be more comfortable with the plan because they could better afford to pay out extra aid, the Associated Press reported.

Schultz said a stipend "would create more problems than it would solve. That would just raise the ante (on illegal aid)."

TOP TEAMS CHOOSE SONY FOR SPORTS VIDEO ...AND SO SHOULD YOU!

Few things have impacted sports and sports training in the way that video has. While nothing can replace hard work, discipline, and practice in creating a total team effort, the ability to quickly review a team's strategy can yield a definite competitive advantage. That's where a Sony® Video System for Coaching can fit nicely into your game plan. But if you're asking who else uses video for training, consider this...increasing numbers of college coaches are already using Sony Sports Video Systems for Coaching because of their viewing quality and flexibility. Sony ED-Beta^{} professional Sports Video Systems have gained a great reputation among professional videographers, and now a Sports Video System can be configured to meet your team's requirements and budget.

You know, things like going to a movie, taking somebody out or going home during a break in classes."

He said aid could be determined according to need.

"It will vary from individual to individual, as any need-based aid does," Schultz said. "The neediest student would get the most, and those who don't need extra funds will not get anything above their scholarship."

Schultz said the first step would be a positive vote this January on a proposal to allow Division I-A and the remainder of Division I to determine their own ceilings for financial aid. Then, at the 1991 Convention, the two groups would be allowed to do whatever they chose.

THE SONY SPORTS VIDEO SYSTEM IS COMPRISED OF THREE MAIN ELEMENTS:

- 1. Field Acquisition System: a professional carncorder and lens from Sony. Like those used by news crews and TV broadcasters. Weather resistant, shock resistant, and tough – just like your players. Follow both tearns at wide angle, or zoom in close at one touch of a button. The auto-iris lets you follow a play from sunlight to shadows with all the resolution you would expect from a Sony professional carnera.
- 2. Dub/Edit System: allows you to make multiple copies of a tape in its entirety, or just specific plays – a valuable aid to your coaching staff. Just use one deck for playback and one additional deck for each break-down tape you wish to make. The results are smooth, high quality video, play after play.
- 3. Coaches' Viewing System: one ED-Beta Sports Deck coupled with a Sony high resolution monitor for the coach's office or a Sony large screen projection system for meeting rooms. A sports remote control handle lets you choose smooth forward or reverse play PLUS noise free slow motion and stop motion with full color reproduction.

Cougars win tennis title by familiar score

For the fourth year in a row, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville won a 5-4 match in the finals to earn the team title at the Division II Women's Tennis Championships.

Southern Illinois-Edwardsville hosted the championships May 7-13 at the Dwight Davis Tennis Center in St. Louis.

The third-seeded Cougars defeated Air Force and Abilene Christian to advance to the finals against UC Davis. Southern Illinois-Edwardsville led, 4-2, after the singles round and claimed the title when Christina Bokelund and Portia George defeated Alison Vidal and Reagan Solt at No. 1 doubles, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2.

UC Davis became the fourth team in four years to lose a 5-4 finals match to coach Bob Meyers' squad. The previous runners-up were Cal Poly San Luis Obispo (1988), Abilene Christian (1987) and Cal State Northridge (1986).

Bokelund and Vidal were on opposite sides of the net again in the semifinals of the singles competition. After dropping the first set 2-6, the top-seeded Bokelund won the second set by a 6-4 score and then needed a tic-breaker to win the third set, 7-6. She advanced to the finals against doubles partner George and defeated her, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1

George finished second in the singles competition for a third straight time. The previous two years, she was runner-up to Xenia Anastasiadou of Cal Poly Pomona. Anastasiadou would have been eligible to defend her title this year, but she died in February of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

Susan Wheeler and Layla De-Staffany of Air Force prevented a Southern Illinois-Edwardsville sweep of the championships by claiming the doubles crown. They advanced to the finals by defeating defending two-time champions Bokelund and George in the semifinals, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3. They then won the title with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 victory over Donna Sykes and Carla Martin of Abilene Christian.

Tritons knock off top seed, claim III tennis crown

After knocking off top-seeded Gustavus Adolphus in the semifinals, UC San Diego posted an easy 8-1 victory over Kenyon in the finals to claim the team title at the Division III Women's Tennis Championships.

Claremont-Mudd-Scripps hosted the May 8-13 championships.

The team crown was the Tritons' third in the last five years; they also won in 1985 and 1987. They remain the only team to have won more than one team championship.

UC San Diego defeated Sewanee (University of the South), 8-1, in the quarterfinals before recording the 5-4 upset of Gustavus Adolphus. Liz LaPlante's team led the Gusties, 4-2, after the singles round. Christine Behrens and Nancy Calhoun then posted a 6-2, 6-3 victory at No. 1 doubles to take the Tritons to the finals.

Behrens and Calhoun also claimed the doubles crown, giving UC San Diego two of the championships' three titles. The secondseeded team won every set in its first three matches before advancing to the finals against Kenyon's Julie Kipka and Kathryn Lane. Behrens and Calhoun earned the title with a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Kipka and Lane, who suffered their second straight defeat at the hands of the Triton tandem. Behrens and Calhoun had won in the team finals three days earlier.

In the singles competition, Carolyn Bodart of Menlo cruised to her second straight title. The topseeded sophomore from Belgium never lost more than five games in any of her five straight-set victories, even though she suffered an apparent mental block during service that forced her to serve underhanded throughout the competition.

Bodart defeated Karyn Cooper of Wellesley in the finals, 6-3, 6-2. The only other player to win as many games against her was Leslie Gale of Carleton, whom Bodart defeated 6-2, 6-3 in the first round. TEAM RESULTS

Balanced teams top I baseball

It is no surprise that Texas A&M, Mississippi State, Arizona and Arizona State have stayed at the top of the Division I baseball rankings this season. All four have strong, balanced teams.

Some observers might consider it a surprise, however, if one of these teams has what it takes to withstand a charge by 10 to 15 equally outstanding teams that also could win the 43rd Division I Men's Baseball Championship.

Jerry Kindall's Arizona Wildcats, with a 38-14-1 record, have weathered some tough storms the past two years.

"This team is built around two years of suffering through some painful losses with a lot of freshmen and sophomores," said Kindall, whose Arizona teams won the NCAA championship in 1976, 1980 and 1986. "Now, the kids are juniors and seniors and have shown great leadership and a tough-minded approach to the game. I think we have a chance."

The most impressive turnaround for the Wildcats has been the pitching

While last year's team earnedrun average stretched the outer limits at 6.20, this year's staff has hit its stride with an ERA of 3.97.

Scott Erickson (16-2 record, 2.97 earned-run average), the leader of the staff, has tied the Arizona record for victories in a single season. He also has 12 complete games and 91 strikeouts. Lance Dickson (4-5, 5.16 ERA, 87 strikeouts in 83²/₃ innings) and Jim Richardson (4-2, 5.27 ERA) round out the starters, with Jason Hisey (7-2, 4.04 ERA, two saves) and Matt Figueroa (2-2, 3.67 ERA, two saves) in the bullpen.

Switch-hitters Alan Zinter (.377 average, 17 home runs, 70 runs batted in) and J. T. Snow (.353, 10 HR, 54 RBIs), who Kindall said is "one of the best first basemen in the country," give the Wildcats power in the middle of the lineup.

Center fielder Kevin Long, the only player left from the 1986 championship team, is hitting .358, with 10 home runs, 39 RBIs and 17 stolen bases. He leads the team with 68 runs scored.

Arizona State (40-14), meanwhile, wants to celebrate its 30th-anniversary season with another trip to the College World Series.

The Sun Devils have advanced to Omaha 15 times, winning five national championships.

Jim Brock's squad, which has been ranked in the top 10 all season, has a blend of seniors and freshmen.

Shortstop Anthony Manahan (.384, five HR, 46 RBIs) was hitting ,275 in mid-March before he hit safely in 21 straight games. He now leads the Pacific-10 Conference in batting average and hits (86) and ranks among the league's top 10 in runs, RBIs and doubles.

Mike Kelly has been named the national freshman of the year after posting a .318 average, with 10 home runs and 55 RBIs-a Sun Devil freshman record. Kelly's flair for the dramatic was evident as six of his eight game-winning RBIs were a result of home runs, extrainning hits or both.

Steve Martin, a wide receiver on the Sun Devil football team, walked on this spring and has surprised everyone with a .378 average, 31 RBIs and five triples. Martin had not played organized baseball since

The Sun Devils' only question mark might be the pitching staff. Brock will rely on a five-man staff throughout the tournament, led by the red-hot David Cassidy (3-1, 2.03 ERA in $44^{1/3}$ innings). Five weeks ago, Cassidy was used in mop-up situations; however, in his last five games, he has worked 30 innings and allowed one carned run (three wins and one save).

Oscar Rivas (7-3, 2.77 ERA) started the season in the bullpen but now is the No. 1 starter. Bullpen stopper Dave "The Vulture" Alexander (12-2, 2.70 ERA, five saves) is Brock's ace in relief.

At Mississippi State (45-10), Ron Polk has coached some outstanding teams in his 14 years. This year, the Bulldogs won their 10th Southeastern Conference championship and their third in five years.

"We have an experienced club and one that returned a lot of good players," said Polk. "But I didn't know it would be this good."

Mississippi State won its 40th game earlier this year than any previous Bulldog team.

First baseman Tommy Raffo (.380, 16 HR, 65 RBIs, .671 slugging percentage) leads an offensive attack that should shatter a number of single-season team records. Raffo, who Polk said has "exceeded all expectations," is battling two other SEC players for the league's triplecrown title.

Second baseman/shortstop Jon Shave has been one of the hottest Bulldogs, hitting .375. Burke Masters (.362, four HR, 36 RBIs, 48 runs scored, 12 doubles) also will rotate at second base and shortstop.

Polk will start Tracy Jobes (7-3, 3.74 ERA), Bobby Reed (8-2, 3.89 ERA) and Chris George (6-0, 2.30 ERA). Reed, who led the nation last season with a 1.09 ERA, is almost

Perennial III baseball powers field strong teams again

The top contenders for the Division III Baseball Championship-Marietta, Methodist, Montclair State and Wisconsin-Oshkoshhave advanced to the final round the past seven years.

Arizona State's Anthony Manahan

According to the coaches, this year's field might be the strongest.

"We have good geographical representation, with strong teams in all areas," said Don Schaly, who never has had a losing season in 26 years as coach at Marietta. "That's exciting and it's good for baseball at the Division III level

Marietta (26-4-2) was left without a returning letterman on the mound this year. But the results have been anything but disappointing.

average, 25 stolen bases) sets the tempo for a Marietta offense that has averaged over nine runs per game. Outfielder Jim Sanger is hitting .440, with five home runs and 16 stolen bases. First baseman Bill Holmes (.426, 15 HR, 56 RBIs) "has just been awesome," said Schaly. "He is no doubt one of the top hitters in Division III baseball this season." Top-ranked Methodist (33-3) started the season 23-0 and has shown no signs of slowing. Coach Tom Austin, however, is well-versed in the moderate-praise department. We don't have an awesome hitting ball club, we're not an especially quick team and we are not an awesome defensive team," he said. "We're just a solid, consistent ball club."

Schaly, whose teams have won three Division III national championships, said, "The staff has developed and still is developing each day.

"I'm excited about our pitching staff. I think we have the depth on the mound to compete in the tournament."

The Pioneers' staff is anchored by Jim Eddy (8-1 record, 2.22 earned-run average, seven complete games), whose fastball is in the low 90s. Starters Marty Davis (7-1, 2.60 ERA) and Doug Cook (6-0, 2.87 ERA, one shutout) will see a lot of action, as will Eric Karney (1-1, three saves) out of the bullpen.

hitting .383 this season, with 14 home runs, 57 runs batted in and 34 stolen bases. First baseman Jay Kirkpatrick (.394, four HR, 47 RBIs), who Austin said has "really blossomed as a player, both offensively and defensively," and senior outfielder Tim Schieffelin (.355, 25 RBIs, 15 stolen bases) highlight a potent Monarch attack.

The Monarchs do not have an overpowering pitcher; however, Austin will look to Richard Seagroves (7-0, 2.89 ERA) and Rod Jones (9-1, 2.08 ERA, five complete games, one shutout) to preserve Methodist's Division III ranking.

"Being ranked No. 1 is a nice honor, but it really doesn't mean a thing," said Austin. "You've still got See Perennial, page 13

Tulsa coach hopes women's golf history repeats itself

The return of the National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships to Stanford has Tulsa coach Dale McNamara hoping history will repeat itself.

"It's a thrill for me to take a team back to Stanford, because that's where we won our first title in 1982 (the first NCAA women's championships)," said McNamara, whose 1988 Golden Hurricane also claimed the NCAA team crown. "The girls are very proud of being champions, and I've been fortunate to have coached those teams.

"This year, there probably will be seven or eight teams that will be right in there, which is what makes the game interesting," McNamara said. "It's one of those times when all you can do is hope that things come together at the same time.

"The pressure of being defending champion isn't really that big of a deal. I'd rather have the pressure of being defending champs than not have won the championship at all," she added.

Four of last year's squad members will make the trip this year - Blue Kinnander, Kelly Robbins, Maggie Kelt and Caryn Louw. Missing is 1988 individual titlist Melissa McNamara, who is now touring in Europe after graduating in December. She will be replaced by junior transfer Cathy Mockett.

If anything, Arizona State is consistent. The Sun Devils have won numerous tournaments and individual titles this season and are hoping to carry that success to the championships

"We've finished in the top four at all nine of our tournaments this year," head coach Linda Vollstedt said, "and that's the first time we've ever done that. That definitely says something for our consistency.

"Our veterans are all playing better than last year," she added. "Amy (Furhwirth) won the Lady Sun Devil tournament this year and was runner-up at three other tournaments. She's really been great."

The Sun Devils also have one of the top golfers in the country-Pearl Sinn, a senior who has three years of championship experience. She recently won the Pacific-10 Conference championship and set a five-below-par course record of 68 on the first day.

Joining Sinn on the trip to the tournament will be Furhwirth, Missy Farr, freshman Lynne Mikulas and senior Heather Hodur.

While the key for Arizona State is consistency, Oklahoma State relies on experience. The Cowgirls, under 13-year coach Ann Pitts, will take exactly the same squad to the nationals this year as last - senior all-America Eva Dahllof; senior Sheila Luginbeel, and juniors Marnie McGuire, Carolyn McKenzie and Alice Plain. Dahllof recently won the Big Eight tournament for the third straight year.

"We've had a very good year and have six out of 11 tournament wins, including the conference tournament. As far as being prepared for the championships, we have the experience from last year that will help us immensely," Pitts said.

"We led for the first two days at last year's tournament, but the pressure was too much for a young squad. That has carried over into this year and has given the girls goals to prove themselves individually and as a team. They have a lot of team unity and pride about what they want to accomplish."

Texas' leadership has come from the Longhorns' lone senior, Kate Golden (76 stroke average). Even though she missed the first three these past few months.

tournaments of the year due to a knee injury, she came back to win the Betsy Rawls Longhorn Classic. "I'm extremely pleased with Kate's performance and proud for her," coach Pat Weis said. "She offers this team so much leadership. She had a tough fall season with her knee, but she's come on pretty strong

Hanny after one more III golf title before moving to II

"The difference between victory and defeat is using your head and making the least mistakes," Cal State Stanislaus coach Jim Hanny claims. And he speaks as something of an authority.

Hanny has coached his Warriors to 11 team titles in the 14-year history of the Division III Men's Golf Championships, and he is looking to add one more before a move to Division II in 1990. This year's tournament will take place May 23-26 at Lake Panorama National Golf Course, Panora, Iowa.

"We've been very fortunate to always have a mix of experience and youth. That way, they perpetuate the accomplishments and it helps the younger players develop," Hanny said. "I tell the players that they're playing for themselves. Once they get to the championships, my job is almost over. They're the ones who have to go out and do it.

Winning is not always as easy as Hanny's squad makes it seem. "So many times we've come from behind 13 strokes. That's when attitude and consistency become important. When you play 72 holes, the most important shot is the next one. You can't play worrying about the holes that are past; you've got to concentrate on the job at hand," he added.

Returning for the Warriors' final Division III season will be senior Joe McCormick (74.9 stroke average), junior Kenny Woods (76.5), sophomore Garrett Cox (75.8) and junior Mark Hutchison (76.8). The fifth spot will go to Greg Bystrom, John Payne or Greg Kilcoyne. McCormick and Cox tied for 11th at last year's championship, and Payne finished 20th.

Greensboro, last year's runnerup, has been ranked among the top three all season, but coach Jim Locke feels his team is not playing as well as they could be. "At last year's championships, we had the advantage of playing at home. This year, we have the ability. We just need to get it all together," Locke said.

the six tournaments we've played, so based on that we're doing okay. Jared (Spencer) won the Dixie conference title, and the team finished second to Methodist. Maybe it will all come together at the championships," he added.

A distinct advantage that Methodist has over other teams is one of the academics programs offered that of professional golf manage ment. "The program is designed to give students a business degree with a golf emphasis so they can become club pros," coach Steve Conley explained. "We're one of four schools in the country that offer this sort of program, so naturally we get a lot of golfers at our school. And the guys who make the team certainly are some of the best in the nation."

Among those drawn to the pro gram is sophomore John Garde, who has a 77.1 stroke average this year. Other top players for the Monarchs are freshman Rob Pilewski, sophomores Hank Klein and Jason Cherry, and junior championships veteran John McCullough. According to Conley, Pilewski is probably the team's most consistent player, with a 76.5 stroke average in 17 rounds. Not only was he an all-Dixie conference selection, he was chosen as the team's most valuable player for the season. Klein (77.1) won the Methodist College Invitational and also was an all-conference selection. Cherry is averaging 78.0, McCullough 78.6. An all-America who finished fourth last year, McCullough is preparing for his third championship trip.

Greensboro's Doug Trenor, runner-up in 1988

"John hasn't really played that many low rounds, but I have a feeling he'll do fine once he gets to the tournament," Conley predicted.

Ohio Wesleyan returns an experienced squad in a bid for another top-five finish. "I certainly hope that we're in the top five," coach Dick Gordin said, "but it pretty much could be up for grabs. I'd say this year you've got to rank Stanislaus first, but the next five or six spots could go to anyone."

Heading the Battling Bishops' lineup will be senior Dan Wyant (77.9), who tied for seventh in individual honors last year; junior Todd Benware (76.2), this year's North Coast Athletic Conference player of the year; junior Greg Wilhelm (77.2), and sophomore Barry Pry (77.4). Benware recently finished first at the NCAC tournament, followed by Wilhelm and Wyant at second and third. Kevin Fillman or Jon Whithaus will round out the sqaud.

Ohio Wesleyan and Wittenberg have been neck and neck throughout the season and, after four tournaments, are tied at 2,196 strokes. The Bishops won the first tournament by 11 strokes, the two teams tied the next two and Wittenberg took the next decision by 11.

Foes think Abilene Christian's track dominance may be over

Abilene Christian's Division II track dynasties soon may be coming to a end.

The men's team will enter the 1989 NCAA Division II championships with a chance to move within one title of tying the all-time record for consecutive collegiate track championships in any division.

The Wildcats have won the last seven Division II outdoor titles, a streak topped only by Southern California's nine straight Division I men's outdoor championships from 1935 to 1943. The Trojans also share the No. 2 spot on the all-time list, having won seven straight titles between 1949 and 1955.

But many observers believe that this will be the year Abilene Christian falls from the top rung of the Division II men's outdoor track ladder. In addition, the Wildcat women will face the strongest test they have had in their four-year reign as Division II outdoor champions.

Men's championships

"Abilene Christian's just not as strong as it was before," said Joey Haines, coach of the Southeast Missouri State men's team that finished second to the Wildcats in the 1986 and 1987 championships. "But we've all said that before."

Indeed, Abilene Christian has scored fewer points than the previous year in each of the last four championships. The Wildcats' 112 points last year was their lowest total during the team's seven-year reign.

This decline can be attributed to stronger competition stealing a few points here and there from a stilldominant Abilene Christian team. But this year, the Wildcats simply aren't as strong as they once were, observers believe.

The school did not renew the contract of Don Hood, who coached the Wildcats throughout their championship streak. New coach Jerry Dyes has inherited a program in transition -- a transition made even more difficult by the absence of several members of last year's team. Two key athletes transferred, one is academically ineligible and several have graduated.

"Even though the program has gone through a lot—the change in coaches, the kids transferring out— Abilene Christian still has a great tradition and still has outstanding athletes," Haines said.

Two of its top qualifiers are distance runner Michael Moloto and jumper James Browne. Moloto finished third in the 10,000-meter run and fourth in the 5,000-meter run at the 1988 championships, and he qualified this year with better times than those he recorded in the championships. His 1989 qualifying time of 29:46.26 in the 10,000 meters would have earned the title last year. Browne is the defending champion in the triple jump. He qualified this year with a mark of 16.16 meters, bettering his title-winning performance of last year. A wind-aided leap of 7.63 meters also qualified Browne in the long jump, in which he finished third at last year's championships.

One of the teams most likely to dethrone Abilene Christian is Angelo State, which ended the Wildcats' streak of five straight Lone Star Conference men's outdoor titles in April. As of May 8, the Rams had qualified 12 individuals and two relay teams for the championships.

The Rams return two national champions: Mike Smierciak and Randy Simmons. Smierciak set a Division II javelin record of 71.10 meters at last year's championships, and he nearly equaled it with a 70.86 mark at the LSC meet. Simmons is the defending 400-meter hurdles champion; his best time in that event this season in 51.59. He also has qualified in the 110-meter hurdles and the 1,600-meter relay.

The Rams look particularly strong in the weight events, led by four-time all-America Kyle Freeman. At last year's championships, he placed second in the shot put, fourth in the hammer throw and fifth in the discus. He scored victories in all three events at the conference meet.

In contrast, St. Augustine's will rely on sprinters and jumpers in its bid to improve upon last year's second-place finish.

"We're really very strong in the sprints and jumps," said coach George Williams. "We've been hanging in there with Division I teams."

Actually, "jumping in there" may be the most appropriate phrase. Defending champion Xavier Donaldson leads a group of long jump qualifiers that includes Tarrell Carpenter and Mark Mason, who have qualified with jumps longer than 7.82 meters. Earl Randolph will return to try to improve upon his fourth-place finish in the triple jump; his qualifying mark was just less than the 16.09 that won it for Browne of Abilene Christian.

The high-jump qualifiers are led by Darrin Moore and Ian Thompson, who finished first and second, respectively, in the 1989 indoor championships. The third jumper is Reid White. All three have cleared 2.13 meters (7 feet) in outdoor jumps this spring.

St. Augustine's 100-meter sprinters could dominate the field. Kenny Brokenburr (10.48), Rowan Wade (10.36) and Carpenter (10.42) all posted qualifying times that would have put them in the top five in last year's title heat.

One question mark is an injury to Wade that may keep him out of the individual sprints and off the 400meter relay team, which posted a qualifying time of 40.21 this spring. Williams said his status for the championships will be unknown until just before the competition.

Ablene Christian is counting on some points from Sylvia Dyer, who has qualified in three events

Other teams expected to make strong showings at the championships include Cal State Los Angeles, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Mankato State and Southeast Missouri State. Women's championships

"This will be a closer team race than ever before," said Lance Harter, whose Cal Poly San Luis Obispo women's team won titles from 1982 to 1984 and finished second in the next three championships. "For the first few years, we were the dominant team; then Abilene Christian was the dominant team. The rest of the teams battled for third place on down. But this year, it looks like it will be very closely fought."

Abilene Christian showed it still is a major force in women's Division II track by taking team titles at the Division II indoor championships in March and the LSC meet in April. The Wildcats' stars at both of those events were Jamaican seniors Mazel Thomas and Sylvia Dyer. Thomas, who won the Division 1 high-jump title in 1987 and earned a bronze medal in that event at the 1987 Pan American Games, set indoor championships records in the long jump and high jump. Dyer repeated as champion in the triple jump, also setting a meet record, and in the 55-meter hurdles.

The pair carried their success outdoors at the conference meet. Thomas swept all three jumping events and anchored the winning 400-meter relay team; Dyer won both the 100- and 400-meter hurdles, finished second in the triple jump, and ran on the 400-meter relay team.

Thomas, the defending Division II long jump champion, has quali-See Foes, page 11

Trice carries Christopher Newport's hopes for third crown

The cold, damp weather that plagued the Eastern half of the country this spring has resulted in a comparatively small number of student-athletes meeting qualifications for the Division III Men's and Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships through May 10.

"The weather this spring has been just awful rainy, cold and windy," said Christopher Newport coach Vince Brown, whose women's team has won the last two outdoor titles. "We've had just two decent days (for meets) all spring, and in both cases they were relay meets. So our individual performers have had a tough time trying to qualify."

Wisconsin-LaCrosse, the defending men's champion, had eight qualifiers as of May 10. Coach Mark Guthrie said his program normally produces at least 15 championships qualifiers, but he has fewer this year "because the spring has been so bad."

"Bad" may be an understatement. Willard L. Huyck, chair of the Division III subcommittee of the NCAA Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee, has heard weather in the Midwest described as "vicious."

"In Wisconsin and Illinois this past weekend (May 6-7), teams had to compete in subfreezing weather with snow on the ground," he said.

The weather has played a larger role in Division III qualifying than in Division I or II because a disproportionate number of Division III track and field programs are con-meter dash and part of the Lady Captains' winning 400-meter relay team, already has qualified for five individual events and one relay.

Trice is the key to Christopher Newport's hopes for title No. 3.

"Last year, we were very deep and strong," he said. "Several of our athletes earned points for the team. This year, everything rides on Sheila Trice. If she has a good meet, we'll do well; if she doesn't, we'll be back in the pack. I don't like that feeling, but that's how our team is this year."

Trice has become more important because two key members of last year's team have left the Lady Captains to concentrate on academics. They are Sandy Shelton, who was the long jump titlist and a member of the champion 400-meter relay team, and Michelle Dickens, who was onc of the team's top sprinters. Christopher Newport's roster has other talent. Patina Walton has qualified in the 200-meter and 400meter dashes and in the 400-meter and 1,600-meter relays. She heads a strong supporting cast that will contend for team points in several events. But Trice is clearly one of the stars in collegiate track. By winning four individual titles at the Division III indoor championships in March, she tied Jesse Owens for the most track titles won during a single NCAA championships meet. Her performance carried Chris-See Trice, page 12 centrated in the Midwest, Northeast and Southeast — the regions hit hardest by unseasonable weather.

"In parts of the country where you are weather-vulnerable, it can be a real problem having to meet finite qualifying times," Huyck said. "But overall, finite standards are good. They provide a tangible target for an athlete; and once the athlete reaches that target, he or she can concentrate on technique or some other aspect of the event to be in top form at the end of the season." Huyck is not pushing the panic button. He is optimistic that better weather during the two weeks before the championships will give the top student-athletes a fair chance to

toward the end of the season, but then the weather will get better and there will be a run of good performances. We can get any number of qualifiers from the conference meets held just before the championships." "I still think there will be enough qualifiers," Brown agreed. "It could be that there will be 12 people in some events instead of two or three heats of ninc. Maybe we just won't have as many trials."

fied in all three jumps and in the 400-meter relay. Dyer will compete on the relay team, in the triple jump and in the 100-meter hurdles. Other athletes likely to score include Alesia Turner in the 100-meter dash, Wendy Ator and Rolanda Vickers in the high jump, and Daphne Harvey in the discus and shot put.

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo is looking to improve upon its lowest championships finish ever (fifth) in 1988. In what was supposed to be a rebuilding year, Harter's young team had qualified 16 athletes as of May 12.

The Mustangs will rely on depth in the distance events, qualifying at least three athletes in every track event 800 meters or longer. They are led by defending 800-meter champion Teena Colebrook, who holds the Division II records in the 800 and 1,500 meters. This year, she recorded a time of 2:02.87 in the 800, nearly five seconds faster than the championship time.

Proposed cuts in budget pose threat to sports

The threat of more than $700 million in state budget cuts has left collegiate athletics programs at most Louisiana universities in jeopardy, officials say.

Among the cuts legislators are looking at is $13.5 million in funding through student fees to 13 state colleges and universities. The cut would eliminate all state support for intercollegiate athletics.

"Athletics is on the hit list," said Sen. Randy Ewing, D-Ruston. "It puts many of the programs in jeopardy because they don't pay for themselves. It is indeed very sad."

"If the money is taken away, we would try to do something," said Louisiana Tech University President Daniel D. Reneau, whose athletics program stands to lose 42 percent of its $2.4 million budget. "But it would be very difficult.

Northeast Louisiana University could lose 52 percent of its $2.3 million budget. The University of New Orleans may forfeit two-thirds of its $1.5 million budget, the Associated Press reported.

Lousiana State University's athletics association is a private corporation not connected with the school and could escape the cuts. LSU's

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's other top distance runner is Patty Almendariz, who holds the fastest Division II time in the 10,000-meter run and also has qualified in the 3,000 and 5,000. Gina Albanese, one of the leading Division II 400meter hurdlers, gives the Mustangs depth in the hurdles. In addition, the school's longstanding tradition of success in the javelin could be rebuilt by Melissa White, Buffy Sexton and Tricia Lundberg. Each has qualified with throws of more than 150 feet.

The Mustangs' distance runners will face stiff competition from Bente Moe of Seattle Pacific, Darcy Arreola of Cal State Northridge and Laura Byrne of Southeast Missouri State. Moe is the defending champion in the 5,000-meter run, and Arreola will be defending her titles in the 1,500 and the 3,000. Byrne boasts 1,500- and 3,000-meter victories in the indoor championships, but she is expected to compete in the 5,000 at the outdoor meet.

The combination of a strong group of sprinters and the familiarity of the home track makes Hampton a strong contender for its first title. The Lady Pirates' perennially strong sprinting corps is led by Vivienne Spence, who returns to defend her titles in the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes. She also has qualified in the 400 meters. Hampton also should earn points in the 400- and 1,600-meter relays and in the triple jump, where Debra Alexander has posted a 12.12 qualifying mark.

St. Augustine's, after a fourthplace finish in the indoor championships, could score enough in the jumps, sprints and hurdles to place among the top teams outdoors.

Should you build a new stadium for $1,000 per seat, or make the one you have as good as new for $50 per seat?

he decision to restore the 77,000 seat stadium at Louisiana State University - rather than build a new one — was based in large part on how well one company, The Western Group*, had already done restorations for over 25 large college and professional stadiums. And at costs far below what the costs would have been to build.

The University learned that The Western Group's nearly 30 years of experience in stadium restoration and extensive technical know-how, coupled with financial responsibility and proven guarantees, is what kept making them the contractor of choice in

"I think what Gov. Roemer has cut is very realistic," said Sen. Don Kelly, D-Natchitoches. "Higher education in this state can't stand a 25 percent across-the-board cut. In essence, if you do that, you shut down every university. So you are going to see some programs suffer bigger cuts than others.

"But if people don't get upset about the magnitude of the cuts, the legislators may be inclined to let them stand," he said.

topher Newport past Rochester, which was led by Josefa Benzoni's title-winning performances in the 1,500 and 3,000 meters. But Benzoni's eligibility expired after the indoor championships, and Rochester had qualified only one athlete outdoors as of May 11. Carolyn Misch earned the right to compete in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 17:40.46.

This spring's weather has left many other top women's teams pinning their hopes on late-season qualifying meets. Among them is Tufts, which placed third in the indoor championships. Vera Stenhouse may earn points for the Jumbos in two events; she qualified for the long jump with a leap of 5.63 meters and for the triple jump with a mark of 11.81.

Another jumper who is carrying her team's hopes is Nebraska Wesleyan's Kim Oden. She finished sixth in the triple jump, third in the long jump and first in the high jump at the indoor championships, and she has qualified for the outdoor competition in all three events. She also has run a 14.4 in the 100-meter hurdles.

Men's championships

Guthrie's Wisconsin-LaCrosse squad will be defending its first outdoor championship without weight specialist Terry Strouf, who was lost to graduation. Strouf won individual titles in the shot put and discus and placed fourth in the hammer throw at the 1988 championships.

The Indians hope to make up Strouf's points with strong performances in the triple jump and the 1,500-meter run. Dean Cash, Chris Schumacher and Eric Keller all finished among the top 10 triple jumpers at the indoor championships, and 1,500-meter runners Brett Burt and Darin Shepardson have posted times better than 3:52 in outdoor competition this spring. Burt is also a strong contender in the 5,000 meters, having posted a remarkable 14:26.30 earlier this season.

Wisconsin-LaCrosse's other likely scorers will be Brad Chamberlin in the 400-meter hurdles, Brad Hall in the long jump and Troy Nelson in the shot put. Nelson finished third in the shot put at last year's outdoor championships and placed second indoors this year.

The return of long jumper Shawn Welti and the emergence of Jan Cado in the long jump and triple jump virtually assure coach Al Carius' North Central team of a finish equal to or better than last year's third-place showing. Welty won the long jump last year with a leap of 7.37 meters. His chief competition will be teammate Cado, who led North Central to this year's indoor championship with a meet-record jump of 7.6 meters. Welty finished second in that event at 7.14.

Cado also set an indoor meet record in the triple jump at 15.93 meters, more than one meter better than the second-place finisher.

The Cardinals also can count on strong performances from distance runners Rich Scopp and John Collet, who posted second-place finishes in the 1,500-meter and the 10,000-meter runs, respectively, last year. This spring, Collet already has bettered his 30:59.33 time at last year's championships.

After finishing second in each of the last three championships, Lincoln (Pennsylvania) is looking to enter the winner's circle for the first time since 1985. If the Lions are successful, they will have their sprinters and intermediate-distance runners to thank.

The foursome of Juan Edney, Mark Long, Vernon Miller and Clive Terrelonge will be out to win the school's second straight 1,600meter relay title. The team qualified with a time of 3:10.95—more than 1.5 seconds off last year's winning time.

In the individual events, Terrelonge should earn points in the 400and 800-meter runs; Victor Colter, fresh from winning the 55-meter hurdles indoors, hopes to improve upon his second-place finish in last year's 110-meter hurdles, and Miller will contend at 800 meters. Long has posted formidable times at 100, 200 and 400 meters.

Other teams likely to finish among the leaders include Nebraska Wesleyan, Loras, Bates and MIT.

Montclair State (31-6) is bidding for its eighth straight appearance and 10th overall in the Division III championship.

The Indians' offensive performances have been very impressive at times.

"Our pitching staff has done a good job, and the defense is hanging in there," said coach Norm Schoenig, whose team was 26-20 last year in his first campaign. "But our offense has been outstanding since day one."

The Indians, hitting .338, are led by two-time all-America John Deutsch (.435, 14 HR, 61 RBIs, .922 slugging percentage). A senior first baseman, Deutsch holds all but one career batting record at Montclair State.

Of Duetsch, Schoenig said, "Everyone wants to talk about his home runs. But John has developed into an all-round player.

"The only thing he is concerned with is winning. He will do whatever it takes to win."

Senior outfielders John McClain (.355, three HR, 28 RBIs, 13 doubles) and Leroy Horn (.338, seven HR, 44 RBIs), who hit a 10thinning, game-winning home run in fully recovered from an elbow injury he suffered last year.

A big key for the Bulldogs is the health of relief specialist Pete Young (5-1, 0.75 ERA, six saves). Young has not pitched since April 22, but Polk said he would be ready for the conference tournament.

Balance and a never-say-die attitude describe top-ranked Texas A&M (50-5), cochampion of the Southwest Athletic Conference.

"We have a well-rounded ballclub," said coach Mark Johnson, in his fifth year at Texas A&M after stints as an assistant at Arizona and Mississippi State. "We have hit 77 home runs, stolen 117 bases, have a .967 fielding percentage and a team ERA of 3.62. That is pretty good balance.

"But more than anything, this team never quits. It has scratched out some unbelievable wins in the late innings."

Third baseman John Byington (.429, 11 HR, 73 RBIs, 18 doubles), the conference's coplayer of the year, had a dream day against Texas April 16 when he hit a grand slam to win the first game of a doubleheader and a three-run homer on national television to win the nightcap.

The outfield is solid with Kirk Thompson (.380, 23 RBIs) in center field and strong-armed Andy Duke (.374, eight HR, 46 RBIs) in right field. Shortstop Chuck Knoblauch (.368, seven HR, 49 RBIs) has solidified the club's defense up the middle. He has stolen 34 bases—a single-season school record. The Aggies' pitching staff is led by starters Pat Sweet (8-3, 3.79 ERA, four complete games), Keith Langston (10-0, 2.47 ERA) and Ronnie Allen (9-1, 4.25 ERA, five complete games), with Scott Centala (5-0, 3.00 ERA, eight saves, 60 strikeouts in 51 innings) coming out of the bullpen. Said Johnson, "This is not a shutout type of staff but one that has excelled by throwing strikes, locating (the ball) well; and our team is playing great defense."

Said Schoenig, "If we continue to play like we have and catch a break or two down the stretch...you never know what might happen."

For the first time in 20 years, Wisconsin-Oshkosh is without coach Russ Tiedemann, who retired. John Deutsch

Tom Lechnir, an assistant to Tiedemann for six years, will attempt to lead the Titans to their 11th straight tournament bid.

Wisconsin-Oshkosh is loaded with experience and talent. Eleven seniors form the nucleus of a team that is 23-10. Wisconsin-Oshkosh won the championship in 1985 and was runner-up the past two years.

Third baseman Chris Delarwelle (.439, 12 HR, 49 RBIs) leads the team in five offensive categories and has had 14- and 12-game hitting streaks. Two-time all-America Pat McDonald (.410, four HR, 30 RBIs, 13 doubles) and shortstop Bruce Schreiber (.342, three HR, 21 RBIs, 37 runs scored) head a list of seven Titans hitting over .300.

Mark Gullickson (4-3, 2.68 ERA) has 51 strikeouts in 47 innings. He also has six complete games and one shutout. Darin Leveraus (4-0, 3.41 ERA) and Todd Evers (4-2, 4.73 ERA, one shutout) round out the starting rotation.

Czech defector puts his name in NCAA records book

"When I was growing up in Czechoslovakia, I thought my life was normal," said Jan Cado, a worldclass triple jumper who defected to America during the 1987 World Games in Indianapolis and now is a full-time student-athlete at North Central College.

Cado set championships records in winning the long jump and triple jump titles at the 1989 Division III indoor championships, and he has qualified for both events in the 1989 outdoor finals.

"But then, I was about 18 and I started to travel to Western countries, and I figured out something's wrong. I thought to myself, 'Why are the (Czech officials) telling me what to do? I am not three years old.''

When he defected, Cado spoke no English. Fluent in the language now, he also has adapted to team workouts (he had his own coach in Czechoslovakia) and to life as an American college student.

"I am positive that sports officials in Czechoslovakia are convinced that I will never be able to match my former performance because here, track and field is a lesser sport," said Cado, who finished sixth at the 1983 world championships as a member of the Czech national team. "This is one of my motivations."

New honorariums approved for hosts to NCAA championships

New, varying levels of honorariums for institutions hosting NCAA championships competition have been established by the Association's Executive Committee.

During its May 1 meeting in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, the preliminary rounds or finals) and committee voted to apply the new honorariums to all divisions and adopted amounts that will be awarded based on the type of championship (i.e., team or individualteam), level of competition (i.e., number of days need to complete the competition.

Review of the issue began last December, when the Executive Committee first considered the concept of different levels of honorarium awards. At the May meeting, the group considered two alternatives.

The first proposed across-theboard increases of honorariums already in place. The second, which was adopted with one amendment by a 9-3 vote, established the new levels.

Effective with the 1989-90 academic year, the Association will provide the following honorariums for host institutions:

Team championships

Preliminary competition: Oneday event - $500; two-day event -$650; three-day or longer event-$800.

Final competition: One-day event - $1,000; two-day event $1,250; three-day or longer event $1,500.

Individual-team championships Preliminary competition: One-

Any member institution can apply to be host for any round of any NCAA championship event day event - $600; two-day event -$750; three-day or longer event ---$1,000

Final competition: Onc-day event - $1,500; two-day event-$1,750; three-day or longer event — $2,000.

Not changed were the percentages of net receipts that are awarded to host institutions when an event generates net receipts and those percentages would be greater than the flat honorarium (i.e., 15 percent of net for on-campus events and 10 percent of net for off-campus events).

Member institutions interested in hosting any round of any NCAA championships event should contact the national office for information.

Generally, prospective host institutions must submit proposed budget information for review by a governing sports committee. That committee then will select sites for recommendation to the Executive Committee, which has final authority in determining the dates and sites of the Association's championships events.

Extended delays allowed in skiing championships championships, with Alpine com-

Games committees for collegiate skiing meets now will be able to extend provisional discontinuances of either cross country or Alpine events through the announced dates of the meet plus one additional day.

That was the most significant change made by the Men's and Women's Skiing Committee at its annual meeting May 9-11 at Marco Island, Florida. The committee also selected sites for the 1990 and 1991 championships.

Races can be discontinued because of very cold temperatures, high winds, high humidity, or rapid deterioration of visibility below the point where it is possible to pick out directional or control flags or to judge the grade of the slope.

Competition also can be discontinued when an injury to a contestant requires immediate removal and the race course is the only route available for transportation.

In situations where weather or course conditions cause an interruption, officials previously could not extend the provisional discontinuance beyond the end of the day on which the event was started.

That situation occurred during the 1989 NCAA championships last March, when the women's giant slalom was discontinued after the first run. The second run could not be completed the same day, and the results of the event had to be based on only one run.

Under the new rule, the event can be continued at any time throughout the scheduled days of the meet, and the meet can be extended one day to complete all of the events.

As was true under the old rule, the results of any run that is interrupted longer than for a temporary hold will be annulled and the run will be restarted.

In other rules changes, the committee voted to disqualify a contestant from a race for misconduct and to bar the contestant from further competition in the meet by a majority vote of the jury for the event.

Also, the committee agreed that officials can view videotape if a contestant protests a disqualification for missing a gate or other technical reasons. However, the committee voted to disallow a protest against an official's failure to disqualify a contestant.

The committee will recommend to the NCAA Executive Committee that the University of Vermont be the host institution for the 1990

The Executive Committee: Authorized the committee to conduct a meeting for all Division I supervisors of women's basketball officials in Kansas City; declined to approve the committee's endorsement of the use of threeofficial crews in women's basketball; voted to recommend to the Division I Men's and Women's Basketball Committees that enforcement of the bench-decorum rule be included as a condition of officials' selection for the men's and women's tournament, and that failure to enforce the rule would subject a conference to having no official(s) assigned to the Division I championships; voted to urge the Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees to consider amending Rule 10-A to state that, effective with the 1990-91 season, a head coach would be ejected from the game after receiving a second technical foul, rather than after a third technical; authorized the national coordinator of men's basketball officiating and the secretary-rules editor of the women's rules committee to review the officiating sections of the conference-grant program applications and, where necessary and appropriate, make recommendations to the Ad Hoc Committee to Administer the Conference Grant Program regarding revisions of the required officiating components of the program; clarified the required components of the officiating section of the conference grant program to state specifically that in order to receive a grant, a conference must initiate or continue the assignment of officials by the conference office or by an independent booking agency for all games (conference and nonconference), as opposed to individual institutions assigning officials to their games; reaffirmed the clinic-attendance requirements and penalties for noncompliance that were established for the 1988-89 Division I men's and women's basketball officiating programs; authorized the national coordinator of men's basketball officiating and the secretary-rules editor of the women's rules committee to communicate directly with officials and conference representatives if any aspect of officiating deviated from the standards and requirements of the national officiating programs or the basketball rules, including the points of emphasis: reaffirmed that Divisions II and III supervisors or conference representatives responsible for basketball officiating may attend a regional clinic and receive complimentary copies of the instructional and clinic videotapes, but that the programs would not be expanded to include Divisions II and III officials or coaches.

medicine research proposals; earmarked a new position on the Special Planning Committee for Drug Testing for the chair of the drug-testing and drug-education subcommittee of the competitive safeguards committee; took several actions regarding the International Olympic Committee medical commission's recent suspension of accreditation of the Indianapolis laboratory (i.e., recognized the IOC medical commission's recommendation that the lab be allowed to test at a national level under the condition that positive A samples be sent to an IOCaccredited lab for confirmation and that the B analysis be performed in that IOC-accredited lab: agreed to discontinue sending samples from NCAA championships drug testing to the Indianapolis lab; agreed to require that the Indianapolis lab make advance arrangements with IOC-accredited labs in Montreal or Los Angeles for the confirmation testing of positive samples from the NCAA program; agreed to require the Indianapolis lab to submit to the NCAA a copy of its plan to improve the standards of the lab; agreed that these actions do not preclude the NCAA from exercising its right to terminate its contractual agreement for drug testing with the Indianapolis lab at a later date); appointed a subcommittee [Martha Hawthorne, Rice University, chair; Eugene F. Corrigan, Atlantic Coast Conference, and Don J. DiJulia, St. Joseph's University (Pennsylvania)] to request an explanation from a member institution's coach who violated drug-testing protocol by withdrawing a student-athlete from a testing area prior to the student-athlete's provision of a urine sample, and to determine what action, if any, should be taken, noting that if the action were taken and later appealed, that the appeal would be to the full Executive Committee; directed the drug-testing subcommittee of the competitive safeguards committee to discuss the appropriateness of allowing a student-athlete to designate a coach as a witness and of allowing coaches access to the drug-testing area; directed the drug-testing subcommittee of the competitive safeguards committee to explore the possibility of helping member institutions and conferences assess the accuracy of non-available to those labs. Special Committee on Grants to Undergraduates Who Have Exhausted Institutional Financial Aid Opportunity. The Executive Committee accepted a report from the committee that examined the program and policies regarding awards to undergraduates and voted to review 1989 applicants and grantees in August.

accredited labs by making pretested samples

Marketing Subcommittee: The Executive Committee noted that the subcommittee had negotiated new contracts with Wilson Sporting Goods Company for the official NCAA baseball and with Rawlings Sporting Goods Company for the Association's official men's and women's basketballs, and that the subcommittee had approved guidelines and principles proposed by the Special NCAA Committee on Women's Basketball Television regarding the telecast of six regular-season games during each of the next three academic years.

Special Planning Committee for Drug Testing: The Executive Committee directed NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz to discuss concerns this committee has expressed about differences between the NCAA drug-testing procedures and protocol and those of The Athletics Congress with representatives of TAC and/or the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Walter Byers Postgraduate Scholarship Committee: The Executive Committee authorized the purchase of commemorative awards for the two 1989-90 Walter Byers Postgraduate Scholarship recipients and the purchase of a plaque to which the names of awardees would be added annually—the latter for display in the visitors center at the new national office building commissioners and other appropriate groups or individuals and prepare alternatives for the Executive Committee's consideration in August.

Officiating improvement program. The Executive Committee voted to make permanent, effective with the 1989-90 academic year, the pilot programs that had been in effect in men's ice hockey and men's lacrosse. The committee also voted to establish pilot programs in baseball and wrestling, effective with the 1990-91 academic year. Proposed budgets were approved for all four programs.

Championships fields and participation ratios. The Executive Committee voted to reaffirm the current policy of using participation ratios as a guideline in establishing championships field sizes, noting that consideration would continue to be given to such factors as the size of each event relative to other NCAA championships; unusual factors relative to the quality of competition in a particular sport; net revenues or deficits generated by the event, and the number of participants considered necessary to conduct bona fide national competition. The committee also voted that desired numbers in swimming and track and field be considered a method of assessing an event's manageability and whether the field size provides for bona fide national competition, rather than as a tool for establishing the actual field size. Also reaffirmed was the principle that NCAA championships competition should comprise only exceptional teams and individuals and should not have so many competitors that they become "all-comers' meets and tournaments. Finally, the Executive Committee voted that the Men's and Women's Track and Field and Swimming Committees submit for review at the August meeting the five-year average number of competitors in their respective championships; that the 1990 qualifying standards in those sports be established so as to achieve those numbers; that the committees use their own discretion in establishing the number of participants in each individual event within that five-year average number, and that the committees submit proposed methods of achieving this average number (1) as a benchmark and (2) as a cap on the field size

Smokeless tobacco use. The Executive Committee voted to refer to the Association's Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports the topic of smokeless tobacco use in NCAA championships for further consideration and a recommendation after a review of all available information.

Men's and women's fencing. The Executive Committee approved a recommendation to establish a combined-scoring National Collegiate Men's and Women's Fencing Championships and agreed by virtue of that approval to submit a revision of Bylaw 18.3 (to officially establish the event) to the Council in August and subsequently to the membership at the 1990 Convention. Details on the format of the championships were published in the May 3, 1989, issue of The NCAA News.

Field hockey. The Executive Committee: Division 1 – Awarded automatic qualification for the 1989 championship to the Atlantic 10 Conference; realigned the state of Kentucky with the Midwest region, and voted to permit the Division I Field Hockey Committee to award first-round byes to the top four teams and pair the remaining eight teams geographically. Division III – Deferred until August ac-

Division III — Deferred until August action on a request to rank 20 teams, rather than 10, in the Division III poll, noting that other governing sports committees were expected to submit similar recommendations and that all requests should be considered at the same time.

Joint recommendations — Approved establishment of a power-rating system to assist in evaluating teams for selection purposes and in conducting polls in Division I and to assist in the Division III selection process; approved a recommendation to require that in order to be considered for selection, teams must play off tied games by using up to one 10-minute, field-play period and one 10-minute sudden-death period. granted a waiver of Bylaw 31.3.4.1-(b) regarding the conduct of divisional conference competition for the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference for the 1989 championship only; awarded automatic qualification for the 1989 tournament to the California Collegiate Athletic Association and the New England Collegiate, Northern California Athletic, Pennsylvania State Athletic and Sunshine State Conferences.

Division III – Denied expansion of the play-off bracket from 24 to 32 teams; Granted a waiver of Bylaw 31.3.4.1-(b) regarding the conduct of divisional conference competition to the State University of New York Athletic Conference for the 1989 championship only, and awarded automatic qualification for the 1989 championship to the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic, Independent College Athletic, New Jersey State Athletic, North Coast Athletic, Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic and State University of New York Athletic Conferences.

Division I-AA-Designated Georgia Southern College as host institution for the 1989, 1990 and 1991 championships; deferred action on a recommendation to conduct the preliminary rounds of the championship the first three Saturdays in December and the championship game December 29, instructing the staff to survey immediately Division I-AA directors of athletics (with responses to be signed by the institution's chief executive officer or designee) on this issue; deferred action, until the schedule change is reconsidered, on three requests - that teams playing for the championship receive 11/2 days' additional per diem, that the number of independent teams that must be selected for the championship be reduced from two to one, and that certain conferences be granted automatic qualifica tion for the 1989 championship; provided the University of Idaho with day's per diem as a result of travel problems incurred in the 1988 championship; voted to require host institutions for all rounds of the championship to provide two visible 25second clocks; per Bylaw 31.4.4, provided Idaho State University a $5,000 honorarium for hosting the 1988 championship; voted to permit the Division I-AA Football Committee to meet in Kansas City to select teams and site for the championship, conduct a telephonic press conference, and announce the selection of teams by satellite hook-up. Division II-Realigned Elizabeth City State University, Hampton University, Norfolk State University, Virginia State University and Virginia Union University from the South to the East region; revised the policy regarding distribution of shares to participating teams to provide for 52 units, with one unit per team for those that receive byes and those that participated in first-round games, two units per team for quarterfinal participants, three units per team for semifinal participants, and four units per team for championship-game participants: voted not to require Portland State University to reimburse the Association $1,002 for unsold

Division I men's golf: The Executive Committee discontinued the policy of reducing the championships field from 156 participants to 15 teams and individuals plus ties (approximately 90 individuals) after 54 holes, noting that the field was reduced from 180 to 156 participants in August 1988 when the regional qualifying system was implemented.

Championships

NCAA drug-testing program and the application of ineligibility sanctions. The Executive Committee noted that the issue of application of ineligibility sanctions must be dealt with legislatively by the 1990 Convention, inasmuch as the current suspension of the application of such sanctions will expire at the end of the 1989-90 academic year. Accordingly, the committee also noted that it should review various alternatives at its August meeting. As a result, the following Subcommittee to Review Drug-Testing Ineligibility Sanctions was appointed: Edward E. Bozik, University of Pittsburgh, chair; Eugene F. Corrigan, Atlantic Coast Conference; Don J. DiJulia, St. Joseph's University (Pennsylvania): Rosemary Fri, University of Northern Colorado, and Royce N. Flippin, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The Executive Committee directed the subcommittee to discuss the topic with conference

Men's soccer. The Executive Committee: Division I-Approved expansion of the tournament bracket from 24 to 28 teams, rather than 32 as had been requested; remanded the proposed format to the Men's Soccer Committee for further review, inasmuch as it had been based on a 32-team bracket; granted a waiver of Bylaw 31.3.4.1-(b) regarding the conduct of divisional conference competition to the Atlantic 10, Big East and Midwestern Collegiate Conferences for the 1989 championship only; remanded to the soccer committee for further review the conferences recommended to receive automatic qualification, inasmuch as the recommendations had been based on a 32team bracket, and sustained the committee's actions against Brooklyn College for misconduct that occurred during a secondround game of the 1988 championship.

Division II—Denied expansion of the tournament bracket from 12 to 16 teams; ifornia Collegiate Athletic Association and the Continental Divide, Lone Star and North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conferences.

Division III -- Voted to require (effective with the 1990 championship) that in order to be eligible for automatic qualification, a conference must play best-three-of-fivegame matches, rather than best-two-ofthree-game matches, to 15 points in conference regular-season and postseason competition; awarded automatic qualification for the 1989 championship to the Collegiate Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin; Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association; New England Women's 8, and the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic, Minnesota Intercollegiate, Ohio, Old Dominion, Southern California Intercollegiate and State University of New York Athletic Conferences

Wrestling: The Executive Committee approved a recommendation that the 1990 Division II championships not be conducted one week later than normal (March 9-10) in order to coincide with the regional qualifying meets for the Division I championship.

Playing-rules changes. The Executive Committee: Men's water polo-Approved a recommendation that the minimum depth of pools built after January 1, 1990, be seven feet

Men's and women's soccer - Rejected the proposed elimination of free substitution and directed the Men's and Women's Soccer Rules Committees to undertake a comprehensive review and study of the issue; approved the addition of "the use of incidental vulgar or profane language" to the list of players' actions that are penalized with a caution by the referee.

Football: Rejected a recommendation that split officiating crews be prohibited, effective with the 1991 season, noting that rules committees should refrain from proposing rules in areas that traditionally have been the responsibility of conferences; rejected a proposal to require use of a visible 25-second clock and directed the committee to include a recommendation that such clocks be used.

Men's and women's basketball-Approved a change to prohibit bands or any component thereof from playing while a game is in progress; approved for men's basketball the required use of a device that would keep the ring attached to the backboard or support system if the backboard broke.

Convention

The Executive Committee reviewed several items relating to the Association's annual Convention and took the following actions: Legislation: Agreed to submit to the 1990

Convention 1989 Proposal No. 6 to administer the student-athlete drug-testing consent form separately from the student-athlete statement; agreed not to submit to the 1990 Convention 1989 Proposal No. 104 to apply more stringent sponsorship requirements to NCAA championships that were discontinued after falling below the required minimum sponsorship levels and that later sought reestablishment.

Planning: Agreed that the Convention should be shortened by one-half or one day; suggested that in order to accomplish this, consideration be given to conducting an honors dinner following the opening session Sunday (rather than a Monday honors luncheon) or conducting the delegates' reception prior to an honors dinner or on Monday evening; agreed not to schedule a window of reconsideration following the general business session; agreed to seek reaction from the Collegiate Commissioners Association as to whether the NCAA should provide lunch for delegates and raise the registration fee to partially cover the cost; agreed to make the media interview room available for separate Catholic and Protestant religious services on Sunday morning and to notify delegates of the services either by posting signs at the registration desk or by including a notice on the hotel daily event schedule or in the registration packet; asked the national office staff to develop alternatives, for review at the committee's August meeting, for addressing conferences' reserving seating in the business sessions, including consideration of seating by divisions or reserved seating established by the Convention director; agreed not to establish a system for alternating discussion between speakers for and against particular proposals; agreed that in accordance with Association policy, the Honda-Broderick Awards Dinner would not be listed in the Convention program; agreed that the Convention should not be scheduled later in the month, noting that surveys have indicated that delegates prefer having the Convention conclude before January 15; reaffirmed sites for the 1991 and 1992 Conventions; withdrew its May 1988 approval of the Opryland Hotel, Nashville, Tennessee, as site of the 1994 Convention and agreed to seek an alternate site; agreed that consideration should be given to enclosing a brief reply card in the registration packet to determine delegates' general reaction to the site and to solicit suggestions for future sites.

Miscellaneous

Minutes. The Executive Committee amended Minute No. 13-b-(6) of the December 5, 1988, meeting to permit a maximum of $225,000, rather than $255,000, in expenses related to the activities and operations budget of the Final Four Foundation to be charged as a games expense for the 1989 Division I Men's Basketball Championship; approved the minutes of that meeting as amended; approved actions taken by the executive director on behalf of the Executive Committee since its December 5. 1988, meeting; approved minutes of Admin istrative Committee Conference Nos. 19-20 (1988) and Nos. 1-6 (1989) regarding actions taken on behalf of the Executive Committee.

TEAM. Toll-free telephone line use. The Executive Committee authorized current Council and xecutive Committee members to use the Association's toll-free telephone number for calls to the national office related to the business of those groups.

The Executive Committee requested that for its next annual review of the plan, the

Bylaw 14.3 [formerly Bylaw 5-1-(j)] Exceptions

Following is a report of actions taken by the NCAA Council Subcommittee on Initial-Eligibility Exceptions. The report includes actions taken since the last summary was published. It appeared in the February 15, 1989, issue of The NCAA News.

a. The subcommittee considered the following core-course waiver requests:

Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.045 and an ACT score of 21. The student-athlete had completed 1.5 social science units pursuant to independent study courses that began in March and ended in July of his senior year. The subcommittee noted that the student-athlete took the courses late in his senior year and needed to pass the courses to become a qualifier since his corecourse grade-point average was low.

 Approved the application of a nonrec ruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.050 and an ACT score of 24. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in physical science. His ACT science subscore was 30.

• Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented a total of 13 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 1,700 and an SAT score of 680. The student-athlete experienced academic difficulties following a family tragedy during his senior year. The subcommittee noted the deficient nature of the student-athlete's academic record throughout high school.

• Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.180 and an ACT score of 17. The student-athlete lacked one-half core-course credit in English due to completion of French I instead of English I during his freshman year of high school pursuant to the advice of academic counselors. The subcommittee noted the student-athlete presented English subscores of 16 and 15 from prior ACT examinations.

• Reconsidered and approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.550 and an ACT score of 17. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in natural science. The student-athlete's ACT science subscore was 17. Following its initial consideration of the student-athlete's application, the subcommittee noted its approval of similar core course waiver requests.

• Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 12 core-course credits with a grade-point aver age of 2.917 and an ACT score of 17 (natural science subscore of 17). The student-athlete lacked one core course credit in natural science

The student-athlete is a junior college transfer student who presented approximately 56 transferable credit hours with a grade-point average of 2.307; however, the student-athlete did not earn her associate's degree as specified in Bylaw 14.6.4.1.2.

• Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 1.800 and an SAT score of 710.

b. The subcommittee considered the following graduation waiver requests:

 Reconsidered and approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.520, an SAT score of 1050 and an ACT score of 24. The student-athlete had not graduated from high school, but wished to enter a university in January 1989. The subcommittee noted that, although the student-athlete does not rank in the upper 20 percent of the class, the student-athlete's accumulative grade-point average placed her 18th out of a class of 41 ranked seniors in an academically competiuntil it received his official ACT or SAT score. The subcommittee noted that its original determination that the application deadline had expired prior to the submission of the student-athlete's application was erroneous

 Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 corre-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.500, an SAT score of 1400 and an ACT score of 30. The student-athlete left high school prior to graduation to pursue a more rigor ous curriculum.

c. The subcommittee considered the following test-score waiver requests:

• Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented acceptable credentials from the British system and no ACT or SAT score. The studentathlete did not apply to the university until August 1988, and there was no opportunity to advise him of the test-score component of Bylaw 14.3 prior to the July 1 deadline. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon a successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date

 Approved the application of a nonrec ruited student-athlete who presented a total of 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 1.95 and an ACT score of 22 achieved on a national testing date after July 1. The student-athlete was unaware of the test-score component of Bylaw 14.3 prior to reporting for athletics.

• Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented an acceptable Turkish academic record and no ACT or SAT score. The student-athlete was not recruited prior to the applicable July 1, 1988, test deadline. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon a successful completion of the ACT or successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date.

• Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable secondary credentials from the Federal Republic of Germany and an SAT score of 920 obtained on a national testing date after July 1, 1988. The student-athlete wished to matriculate in January 1989. He did not learn of the July 1 deadline until September 1988

 Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.590 and an ACT score of 22 achieved on a national testing date after the applicable July I deadline. The student-athlete was unaware of the test-score component of Bylaw 14.3 prior to enrollment.

• Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 15 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.030 and an SAT score of 960 achieved on a national testing date after the July I deadline. During her senior year in high school, the student-athlete did not intend to enroll in an NCAA Division I or II member institution.

• Denied the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.930 and ACT score of 13. The student-athlete was unaware of the standardized test-score requirement of Bylaw 14.3. The subcommit tee noted the low nature of the studentathlete's ACT score.

 Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 18 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.120 and a PSAT score of 840. The student-athlete was unaware of the standardized test component of Bylaw 14.3 prior to enrollment. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon national testing date following the July 1 deadline

The subcommittee noted the difficult and unfortunate circumstances surrounding the initial administration of the SAT test to the student-athlete and also noted his strong secondary record.

 Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented strong Norwegian secondary credentials and no ACT or SAT score. The student-athlete was unaware of the test-score component of Bylaw 14.3 prior to her collegiate enrollment. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date.

 Approved the application of a nonrec ruited student-athlete who presented 10.75 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.350, an SAT score of 650 and an ACT score of 9. The student-athlete is a learning disabled student; she took the ACT and SAT under normal testing conditions. Iowa State athlete on career path similar to that of Jesse Jackson

Paul Thibodeaux once shook hands with fellow Chicagoan Jesse Jackson. Now, the Iowa State University running back may be following in the politician's footsteps.

Thibodeaux, a fifth-year senior at Iowa State who admires Jackson, recently was elected student body president at the school.

Next fall, when the architecture major/reserve back isn't working to stay on schedule for graduation in May 1990 or taking hand-offs in the Cyclone backfield, he will be immersed in campus politics.

His experience will be reminiscent of Jackson's. The civil-rights leader turned national political force was a linebacker and quarterback on the football team at North Carolina A&T State University more than a quarter of a century ago, in addition to serving as president of the student government. It was that background that won Jackson recognition by the NCAA in 1988 as a Silver Anniversary Award recipient.

Clearly, Thibodeaux and Jackson have more than a home town in common Thibodeaux told a columnist for The Des Moines Register, Marc Hansen, that he's not looking for a career in politics, even though he was active in student government at St. Rita's High School in Chicago and was president of Iowa State's Black Student Government organization prior to his election to the university's student body presidency.

Thibodeaux says he enjoys solving problems and working with people, not arguing ideology.

But Jackson had similar interests

$6,000 grants are available for volleyball

The United States Volleyball Association and The Sporting Goods Manufacturers Association have announced an incentive grants program to encourage the development of men's intercollegiate volleyball at the NCAA varsity level.

Three $6,000 grants will be made available for the 1990 season to those institutions that choose to make a three-year commitment to sponsor an NCAA-recognized men's varsity volleyball program

"It's an exciting moment for volleyball," said Cliff McPeak, executive director of the United States Volleyball Association.

All NCAA Divisions I, II and III institutions not sponsoring men's intercollegiate varsity volleyball are eligible to apply.

as director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's economic arm, Operation Breadbasket, and he was founder of Operation P.U.S.H. (People United to Save Humanity).

"It's not Jesse's politics I'm necessarily attracted to, but the way he carries himself as a person," Thibodeaux told Hansen. That admiration is reflected in Thibodeaux's own propensity for leadership.

Incidentally, Thibodeaux can carry the football pretty well. In Iowa State's recent spring football game, he took the day's first handoff and ran 58 yards to set up his Cardinal squad's first touchdown. The Cardinal beat the Gold, 28-17, and Thibodeaux racked up 120 yards for the day.

Questions/Answers

Readers are invited to submit questions to this column. Please direct any inquiries to The NCAA News at the NCAA national office.

When hiring athletics department staff members, how does a member institution obtain information from the NCAA national office concerning the potential employee's previous involvement in violations of NCAA rules?

The NCAA enforcement staff maintains a record of all NCAA violations from cases in which public announcements were made. Such violations involving athletics department staff members will be reported to an institutional representative (i.e., faculty athletics representative, director of athletics, chief executive officer or an individual designated by the chief executive officer) involved in the hiring process upon request to the NCAA enforcement staff. An individual's participation in a secondary violation, which did not result in penalties by the NCAA, generally is considered to involve inadvertent errors that do not relate to an individual's commitment to compliance with NCAA rules and, therefore, involvement in such a violation is not disclosed by the enforcement staff to other member institutions. Of course, an institution considering a candidate for an athletics department staff position may wish to contact the candidate's previous employer concerning all aspects of his or her employment performance.

All NCAA Divisions I, II and III institutions not sponsoring men's intercollegiate varsity volleyball are eligible to apply for one of the three grants, according to McPeak.

Inquiries should be directed to Dick Powell, USVBA director of recreational programs and services, telephone 719/578-4750. Powell will then mail formal applications for the grants.

Completed applications are due at the USVBA office by July I. A committee will review the requests, and recipients will be notified by July 10.

Institute program postponed to 1990

The Sports Management Institute's Executive Program, originally scheduled for this July, has been postponed until July 1990, it was announced May 2 by Bill Shumard, the institute's program coordinator.

"In founding the institute, the organizing committee took an agressive stance in trying to bring our executive program off the ground so quickly," said Shumard. "However, due to scheduling conflicts, we were not able to put together the team of quality faculty and practitioners necessary to provide a comprehensive program on such short notice."

The institute includes administrators and faculty members of the athletics departments and graduate business schools of the University of Notre Dame; the University of Southern California, and the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Brodhead files lawsuit for $300,000 after dismissal "Everything seems pretty clear-

Bob Brodhead, who was hired at Southeastern Louisiana University last summer to revive its football program and who was released last month when the project was dropped, has filed a $300,000 lawsuit.

The lawsuit, filed May 9 in state district court at Baton Rouge, claims his dismissal was "an arbitrary and capricious act made in bad faith," and further maintains there were neither good reasons nor complaints that justified his termination.

The money sought by Brodhead, the lawsuit said, is compensation for "lost wages; for consequential damages in the form of humiliation, mental anguish, emotional distress, and future lost earning capacity."

Named as defendants were the Board of Trustees for State Colleges and Universities; Larry Crain, the board's president, and Warren Smith, president of the school.

Brodhead claimed that he was promised $72,000 a year in a fiveyear contract --- an apparent violation of state law, which forbids the board to enter into contracts longer than a year in duration, the Associated Press reported.

Southeastern dropped football in 1986 because it was losing too much money. Brodhead, a former athletics director at Louisiana State University, was hired to get the program going again.

He was released after the higher education board's athletics committee found he had raised only $83,000 of the estimated $700,000 necessary to revive football at Southeastern. The board concurred with a committee recommendation that the football project be scrapped.

Despite probation, team may be seen on delayed basis

Oklahoma State University, banned from live telecasts of football games for two years because of NCAA sanctions, is near a deal that would allow all 11 games to be shown on a delayed basis, says athletics director Myron Roderick.

"We think it's going to happen," Roderick told the Tulsa World.

Roderick said Oklahoma State has agreed to terms with Grekel Production Company of Oklahoma City, which is shopping the games to various markets. Grekel must find enough television outlets interested in showing the games to make it financially feasible, Roderick said. "Basically, they're out there with the package now and seeing what can be done," Roderick said. "We'll know by the middle of June or before if this is going to get off the ground." As part of a four-year probation the NCAA announced for Oklahoma State in January, the Cowboys are banned from bowl games for three years and from live television for two years. The NCAA sanction allows the Cowboys to show its games on a delayed basis as early as 10:30 p.m. the day of the game. Roderick said production costs are high, and four major sponsors are needed.

Umpiring coordinator is sought for baseball

Assistance is being requested by the NCAA baseball committees in identifying qualified individuals who may be interested in applying for the recently authorized part-time position of national umpiring coordinator for baseball.

Meeting May 1, the Association's Executive Committee approved the Division 1 Baseball Committee's recommendation to implement a pilot program for umpiring improvement. The coordinator's position was authorized as part of the program.

During the 1989-90 academic year, preparations will be made for the two-year pilot program to be conducted during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 academic years. Then, a decision will be made about whether the effort will continue.

Duties of the national coordinator will include the following:

• Serve as liaison to the NCAA Division I Baseball Committee and the NCAA Baseball Rules Committee in the area of umpiring, and meet annually with the committees to provide progress reports.

•Assist the committees in the coordination and administration of NCAA umpiring groups, including identifying, evaluating and assisting in the assignment of umpires for NCAA postseason competition.

• Develop a panel of evaluators located throughout the United States that would assist in the identification and evaluation of umpires.

• Assist the Baseball Rules Committee and secretary-rules editor with the application of rules and interpretation of umpiring mechanics.

• Coordinate and conduct clinics and seminars (in cooperation with the secretary-rules editor) for umpires, coaches and conference supervisors to interpret the NCAA Baseball Rules and clarify umpiring mechanics.

• Produce educational materials (with approval of an umpiring subcommittee) for umpires, which would include video instruction, rules interpretations, mechanics films and a promotional message.

• Develop and implement an umpires-enhancement program that includes public relations, education and other elements.

Candidates should possess a work-

Academic hall of fame inducts football group

Six former college football stars have been inducted into the GTE Academic All-America Hall of Fame

The group, selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America, includes John Wilson, president of Washington and Lee University; Jim Swink and Steven Bramwell, both orthopedic surgeons; attorneys Willie Bogan and Carlos Alvarez, and astrophysicist Joseph Romig.

The six honorees represent the second class of inductees named to the hall of fame. They were selected from among nominees chosen by the 1,400-member CoSIDA from past academic all-Americas of the 1950s, '60s and '70s.

We at GTE are extremely proud to sponsor the hall of fame and to be associated with a group of people as fine as our six inductees," said James L. "Rocky" Johnson, chairman and chief executive officer of GTE.

"In today's society, where proper role models seem scarce, these six men set shining examples for America's youth. Their achievements affirm that competing at the highest level of college sports can be combined with achievement in the classroom and one's chosen profession."

Wilson played defensive back for three years at Michigan State University, which won the mythical national championship in 1952, his senior season. Swink was the Heisman Trophy runner-up in 1957 as a running back at Texas Christian University and was elected to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame in 1980.

Bramwell was a running back and kick returner at the University of Washington, where he now serves as team physician. He set an NCAA record in 1965 for career combined kickoff-and-punt return yardage (2.173)

Romig, a scientist with the Voyager space mission to Neptune, was an offensive lineman at the University of Colorado from 1961 to 1963, finishing sixth in the Heisman balloting in 1961.

Bogan played safety at Dartmouth College, and Alvarez was a wide receiver at the University of Florida, both from 1969 to 1971.

Bogan helped Dartmouth to the Lambert Trophy in 1970, the year after Alvarez set single-season Florida records that still stand for receptions (88), yards (1,329) and touchdowns (12).

Wilson, Romig and Bogan all were Rhodes scholars.

Tennis hall selects eight for induction

The Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association has announced that six players and two coaches, including retired University of Georgia coach Dan Magill, have been selected for the Collegiate Tennis Hall of Fame.

Magill, who retired after the 1988 season but remains an assistant athletics director at Georgia, has the most tennis-match victories of any coach in NCAA Division I history. During the 1955 to 1988 scasons, Magill's teams went 706-183, taking the Southeastern Conference title 13 times and NCAA Division I team titles in 1985 and 1987

Also chosen was the late Edwin J. Faulkner, coach at Swarthmore College for 41 years. His teams were 377-129-1, winning the Middle Atlantic States College Athletic Conference nine times. He was the U.S. Davis Cup team coach in 1930.

The players honored included the late W. P. Knapp of Yale University, NCAA singles champion in 1884 and 1885 and doubles winner in 1884, 1885 and 1886; Wilbur Hess, Rice University, NCAA singles winner in 1935 and NCAA singles runner-up in 1934; Frank Guernsey, Rice, NCAA singles champion in 1938 and 1939, and Keith Gledhill, Stanford University, 1931 NCAA singles champion and 1932 doubles champion

Other players honored were Whitney Reed, San Jose State University, the 1959 NCAA singles champion and No. 1-ranked U.S. player in 1961, and Martin Riessen, Northwestern University, NCAA singles runner-up in 1962, 1963 and 1964; winner of the French Open doubles title (with Arthur Ashe) in 1971, and member of U.S. Davis Cup teams in 1963, 1965, 1967, 1973 and 1981.

The inductees will be enshrined at the annual Collegiate Tennis Hall of Fame banquet in Athens, Georgia, May 23. The hall of fame is on the Georgia campus.

Mercer gets funds to stay in Division I

The Mercer University Board of Trustees has voted to keep its sports programs in NCAA Division I and the Trans America Athletic Conference after being persuaded that a fund-raising effort apparently will make up for a decrease in the athletics department budget. Boosters for the school pledged $265,000 in cash for this year and made commitments for an additional $180,000, according to David Jones, chair of the board's athletics committee. As a result, Mercer's athletics teams will remain in Division I and the TAAC, although the board cut the athletics department budget from about $700,000 to $480,000.

interest, we would go in with an open mind," Miami athletics director Sam Jankovich said.

The SEC would be interested in the Hurricanes, SEC Commissioner Harvey W. Schiller said.

"Put it this way," he said. "If Notre Dame were interested in joining a conference, don't you think the Big Ten would be interested?"

"If Miami is interested, I would think we would want to talk to them.

"We haven't invited anyone into our conference, and no one has asked to come. I'm not sure that we should expand, but it has been talked about."

Jankovich's comments May 9 followed weeks of speculation that the 10-team SEC was considering expanding into a 16-team confer-to negotiate a record television contract.

Independents such as Miami, Florida State University and the University of South Carolina, and Southwest Athletic Conference schools-the University of Texas, Austin; Texas A&M University, and the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville have been mentioned as prospective SEC members.

Any SEC decision to expand would require a two-thirds majority vote by the league's university presidents. Expansion will be a topic at the SEC meeting May 28 to June 1 in Destin, Florida.

There has been some talk of a 16team conference divided into two divisions sometime in the mid-1990s. Jankovich said he thought expansion could happen even sooner, the Associated Press reported.

"I'd say it would be possible, with independents, in two to three years," he said.

For Miami, "The positives would be the consistency in scheduling, the building of more rivalries and -- if the program were to slip-you'd have some revenue sharing, so you could get by," Jankovich said.

"The negatives would be that we wouldn't want to lose our national appeal, we wouldn't want to lose a lot of money to revenue sharing and we wouldn't want to lose our flexibility in bowl-game selection."

Sam Jankovich
