NCAA selects Student-Athlete Advisory Committee

The NCAA has selected 16 student-athletes to serve on the new Student-Athlete Advisory Committee, the first Association committee composed primarily of student-athletes, that will review certain NCAA activities and offer its opinions on those matters after consultation with former NCAA officers and current Council members.

The committee was authorized by legislation approved by the 1989

Soladay fills vacancy on Council

Doris R. Soladay, associate director of athletics at Syracuse University, has been appointed to a Division I at-large position on the NCAA Council, effective immediately.

The NCAA Administrative Committee appointed Soladay to replace Della Durant, who retired June 30 from Pennsylvania State University.

Under the provisions of the NCAA constitution, Soladay will serve until the next Convention, at which time she will be eligible for nomination by the Nominating Committee to serve the remainder of Durant's term, to January 1991.

A native of Carlsbad, New Mexico, Soladay has been a member of the Syracuse faculty since 1960. In addition to her duties with the athletics department, she also serves as associate professor in the departConvention in San Francisco.

Three Council members also serve on the 19-member committee.

The legislation that created the committee states, "The committee shall receive information on and explanations of NCAA activities and legislation and, in consultation with former NCAA officers, shall review and react to topics referred to it by other Association committees and the NCAA Council."

The committee is composed of eight members from Division I, four from Division II and four from Division III. Each of the four regions in each division has equal representation

Student-athletes are allowed to serve on the committee up to two years after the completion of their intercollegiate athletics eligibility.

The committee's first meeting will be held next fall.

After Convention delegates anproved legislation creating the committee, NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz said, "I hope that over a short time they can react to legislation and they can bring forth ideas to generate legislation that will work to their benefit."

Committee members are as follows (with 1988-89 class rank and sport):

Division I David Berkoff, sen-

Certification, Proposal 42 among items on Council's August agenda

A progress report on the development of a certification/peer-review process for intercollegiate athletics and recommendations regarding Proposal No. 42 from the 1989 NCAA Convention are among the key topics on the agenda for the NCAA Council's summer meeting August 2-4 in San Diego.

Executive Director Richard D. Schultz will report on the concept of a certification procedure that he first introduced to the Council in April. An ad hoc group of four Council members is working with him on the project-Robert R. Snell, Kansas State University; Charlotte West, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale; Amthony F. Ceddia, Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania, and John M. Schael, Washington University (Missouri).

Meanwhile, the Council Subcommittee to Review Proposal No. 42,

Men's basketball committee adopts mission statement

The NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee has adopted a mission statement to clearly define its role in the administration of the Division I Men's Basketball Championship.

The committee, which met July 2-6 in Grand Traverse, Michigan, defined its responsibilities and those of host institutions and organizing committees. The committee intends to assure that any corporate sponsor activities do not detract from the wholesome environment or the integrity of the championship. Pending Executive Committee action, a more detailed story will appear in a future issue of the News

The 30 conferences that received automatic qualification for 1989 will be recommended to receive it again in 1990. They are the Association of Mid-Continent Universities, the Colonial Athletic Association, the Eastern College Athletic Conference-North Atlantic, the Ivy League and the Atlantic Coast, Atlantic 10, Big East, Big Eight, Big Sky, Big Ten, Big West, East Coast, Metro Atlantic Athletic, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic, Mid-American, Mid-Eastern Athletic, Midwestern Collegiate, Missouri Valley, Northeast, Ohio Valley, Pacific-10, Southeastern, Southern, Southland, Southwest Athletic, Southwestern Athletic, Sun Belt, Trans America Athletic, West Coast Athletic and

In other actions, the committee increased radio rights fees from $200 to $250 for an originating commercial station and from $50 to $75 for a network commercial station. This is the first increase since 1980.

The minimum ticket price for first and second rounds, and regional competition was increased from $10 to $12 and from $12 to $15, respectively.

Report from committee chaired by Snell, will submit its recommendations after reviewing the positions taken earlier by the NCAA Presidents Commission, the Academic Requirements Committee, and the Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism.

As adopted in January, Proposal No. 42 would eliminate the partial qualifier in Division I effective August 1, 1990, if some other action is not taken at the January 1990 Convention.

Earlier this year, the Presidents Commission supported the intent of that legislation but recommended that a certain category of nonqualifiers be permitted to receive institutionally administered need-based aid in the same manner as other students. The Academic Require-See Certification, page 9

Receipts top $70 million for men's tournament

Gross receipts for the 1989 Division I Men's Basketball Championship topped $70 million for the first time.

Included in this figure are $57.2 million from television rights fees; $10.9 million from tickets sales, and $1.08 million from radio rights fees, which surpassed the $1 million mark for the first time.

The distribution to competing institutions was $34.08 million. The shares were $274,845 to institutions participating in the first round. $549,689 to those competing in the second round, $824,534 to regional-semifinal participants, $1.1 million to those reaching regional-championship games and 1.37 million to Final Four participants.

According to available information, all but one of the automaticqualifying conferences have sharing formulas for tournament receipts. Accordingly, 89.8 percent or 263 of the 293 members of Division I will receive a portion of the 1989 distribution of net receipts. An additional $3.5 million went to the conference-grant program.

Distributions for all of the participating conferences and independent institutions are listed below.

Change in procedure

Also, the committee will recommend that the drug-testing procedure be changed to include pregame rather than postgame testing. The committee also supports retention of the current policy of no financial penalty imposed against a team if one of its athletes tests positive for banned substances.

The committee is recommending to the Executive Committee sites for four Final Fours, beginning with 1994, and first and second round and regional sites for 1992 and 1993. (See related story, page 2.)

Western Athletic Conferences. The committee will divide conferences into four groupings based on five-year averages of the Rating Percentage Index (RPI) and will list conferences alphabetically within each grouping.

List to be available

The list will be made available to conferences to encourage head-tohead competition among similar conferences, in preparation for new selection criteria that will go into effect in 1991. The RPI of individual institutions will not be published.

The committee heard reports from the Denver Organizing Committee regarding the 1990 Final Four and from CBS Sports and NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz.

There was a six percent increase in the overall TV ratings of the championship from 1988 to 1989, which was attributed to the showing of regional semifinal games in prime time. CBS Sports received an Emmy for its production of the 1989 championship, and the statuette was presented to Schultz and committee chair Cedric W. Dempsey.

The committee also had a joint session with the Division I Women's Basketball Committee and met with the board of directors of the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Men's committee recommends '94 through '97 Final Four sites

The NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee will request that the Charlotte Coliseum, Seattle Kingdome, New Jersey Meadowlands Arena and Indianapolis Hoosier Dome be approved as the sites of the semifinals and finals of the Division I Men's Basketball Championship in 1994, 1995, 1996 and 1997.

Cedric W. Dempsey, men's basketball committee chair and director of athletics at the University of Arizona, said his committee is requesting that the Division I Championships Committee recommend these sites to the Executive Committee at its August 14-15 meeting.

Charlotte would host the Final Four April 2 and 4, 1994; the competition would be held in Seattle April 1 and 3, 1995; it would move to the Meadowlands March 30 and April 1, 1996, and to Indianapolis March 29 and 31, 1997.

These recommendations arc conditional awards, based first on the approval of the Executive Committee and then on written documentation to the men's basketball committee at its 1989 winter meeting that each site will comply totally with all NCAA guidelines and execute all contracts required by the NCAA.

"We were excited about the opportunity to award the Final Four to four distinct geographical areas, and we were attracted to the mix these sites offered for domed and traditional arenas," Dempsey said. "We have worked with these facilities in the past, and other competition is scheduled in the future. We know each can do the job.

"This is the first time that the committee has designated more than two Final Four sites at one meeting; however, our request has two important hurdles to clear before our choices become reality," Dempsey said. "The cities also must confirm in writing that they will indeed follow our specifications to the letter and execute any contracts that we require, such as with the arena, before the committee's November meeting."

The men's basketball committee initially received 16 bids to host the Final Four. The committee conducted six in-person surveys before inviting the four cities to make presentations.

The Final Four would return to North Carolina for the second time. North Carolina State defeated Marquette, 76-64, in the title game in Greensboro in 1974.

Seattle would host its fifth championship, the third in the Kingdome. The Emerald City's most recent championship was in 1989 when Michigan defeated Scton Hall, 80-79, in overtime. Kentucky beat Oklahoma State, 46-36, in 1949 and Kansas defeated St. John's (New York), 80-63, in 1952. The King-

Committee Notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill interim vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancies must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA office no later than August 9, 1989.

Men's and Women's Golf Committee: Replacement for Doug Neibuhr, resigned from Millikin University to accept a position at Wittenberg University. Wittenberg already is represented on the committee by Robert Rosencrans. Neibuhr was to take office September 1. Appointee must be a Division III representative of men's golf, and appointment will be effective September 1.

Communications Committee: Replacement for Louis M. Marciani, resigned from East Stroudsburg University of Pennsylvania to accept a position as associate director of athletics at the University of Southern Mississippi, Appointee must be from Division II.

COMMITTEE CHANGES

Council: Doris R. Soladay, Syracuse University, appointed to replace Della Durant, recently retired from Pennsylvania State University, as a Division I member; Craig Thompson, American South Athletic Conference, appointed to replace James W. Shaffer, former commissioner of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference, as a Division I member. Sports committees

Women's Basketball Rules Committee: Linda MacDonald, Temple University, appointed to replace Annette W. Lynch, resigned from the University of Rhode Island.

Division I Women's Basketball Committee: Alfreeda Goff, Virginia Commonwealth University, appointed to complete the term of Stanley M. Morrison, resigned from the University of California, Santa Barbara. Special committees and subcommittees

Special Committee to Review the Membership Structure: Tyronza R.

Richmond, North Carolina Central University, appointed to replace Raymond M. Burse, Kentucky State University, resigned; Charlotte West, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, appointed to replace Sarah E. J. Yates, Florida A&M University, resigned.

Subcommittee on Eligibility Appeals: Frederick E. Gruninger, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, appointed chair.

Convention committees

Credentials Committee: Paul H. Brand, University of Alabama, Huntsville; Diane Fairchild, Grinnell College, chair, and Johnny Hardwick, Alabama State University, appointed for 1990 Convention.

Memorial Resolutions Committee: James Doyle, DePaul University; Joanne A. Fortunato, Keene State College, chair, and Laurie Pricst, Marymount University (Virginia), appointed for 1990 Convention.

Voting Committee: District representatives Richard J. Hazelton, Trinity College (Connecticut) (District 1, Division III); Joseph Barresi, College of Staten Island (District 2, Division III); Eric Hyman, Virginia Military Institute (District 3, Division I-AA); Marnie W. Swift, University of Toledo (District 4, Division I-A), chair; Sandra Jerstad, Augustana College (South Dakota) (District 5, Division II); Gerard L. St. Martin, University of Southwestern Louisiana (District 6, Division I-A); Katherine E. Noble, University of Montana (District 7, Division 1-AA), and Bradley L. Rothermel, University of Nevada, Las Vegas (District 8, Division I-A), and at-large members Prentice Gautt, Big Eight Conference (District 5, Division I-A); Norman D. Kaye, St. Leo College (District 3, Division II); John C. Martin, Delaware State College (District 2, Division I-AA); Daniel P. Starr, Canisius College (District 2, Division I-A), and Patricia W. Wall, Southeastern Conference (District 3, Division I-A), appointed for 1990 Convention.

NCAA Bylaw 17—permissible summer practice

NCAA member institutions are reminded that in accordance with the playing- and practice-season regulations in Bylaw 17, only certain team and individual sports in various divisions are permitted to conduct summer practice and only under certain specified conditions.

The following list indicates the sports (and respective divisions) in which a member institution may provide expenses to student-athletes for practice sessions during the summer vacation period: baseball (Division I), cross country (Divisions I and II), fencing (all divisions), golf (Divisions I and II, and Division III women), gymnastics (all divisions), rifle (all divisions), skiing (all divisions), swimming (Divisions I and II), tennis (Divisions I and II), track (Divisions I and II), water polo (Divisions I and III) and wrestling (Divisions I and II).

Expenses for practice sessions in the sports listed above during the summer vacation period are permissible only when the student-athletes report for regular squad practice under the following circumstances:

1. The sessions are announced officially by the institution through a member of its athletics department staff prior to the beginning of the practice, and

2. The sessions involve the entire team in that sport.

In all other sports and divisions, student-athletes and members of the coaching staff shall not engage in organized practice activities (as set forth in Bylaw 17.02.11) outside the institution's declared playing season in that sport. Any practice that is organized or financially supported by a member institution in those sports with summer practice prohibitions shall not be permitted during the summer unless specifically authorized in the bylaws (c.g., foreign tour) or through official interpretations approved by the NCAA Council.

Please note that the following activities do not constitute out-of-season practice:

playing and practice seasons in NCAA Constitution 2.11, which states that time required of student-athletes for participation in intercollegiate athletics shall be regulated to minimize interference with their opportunities for acquiring a quality education in a manner consistent with that afforded to the general student body.

NCAA Bylaw 12.4.1—criteria governing summer employment compensation for student-athletes

As summer employment of student-athletes continues, member institutions should remind each athlete of the criteria governing compensation for student-athletes in Bylaw 12.4.1. All compensation received by a studentathlete must be consistent with the limitations on financial aid set forth in Bylaw 15. Additionally, compensation may be paid to a student-athlete: (1) only for work actually performed, and (2) at a rate commensurate with the going rate in the locality for similar services. Such compensation may not include any remuneration for value or utility that the student-athlete may have for the employer because of the publicity, reputation, fame or personal following that he or she has obtained because of athletics ability.

Additionally, a student-athlete may not receive compensation for teaching or coaching sports skills or techniques in his or her sport on a feefor-lesson basis. However, such employment is permitted prior to enrollment in a collegiate institution. An individual may be employed as a lifeguard or as a member of a beach patrol without jeopardizing his or her eligibility under the Association's amateur rules. Finally, a student-athlete may be employed by his or her institution, by another institution, or by a private organization to work in a camp or clinic as a counselor or lecturer, unless otherwise restricted by NCAA legislation (see Bylaw 13.12 for regulations related to camps and clinics). Out-of-season playing and practice limitations may restrict the number of players from the same institution who may be employed in that institution's camp (see Bylaw 17 for specific sport employment restrictions).

dome's first championship was in 1984 when Georgetown defeated Houston, 84-75.

The state of New Jersey would be home to the Final Four for the first time in 1996. The New York City area, however, hosted seven of eight championships from 1943 through 1950.

This is the second award to the Indianapolis Hoosier Dome, which will host its first Final Four in 1991. The championship also was played in Indianapolis in 1980 when Louisville defeated UCLA, 59-54. The men's basketball committee also will recommend first- and secondround and regional sites for the 1992 and 1993 championships.

Those site selections follow (host institution or conference in parentheses. 1. Individual consultation with a coach initiated voluntarily by a studentathlete, provided the coach and the student-athlete do not engage in practice activities. A coaching staff member is not permitted to request to see a particular student-athlete for this purpose.

2. Student-athletes in the sport may use an institution's athletics facilities, provided the activities are not supervised by or held at the direction of any member of an institution's coaching staff. In the event that the use of the institution's facilities is requested by a group composed partly of enrolled student-athletes and partly of individuals not otherwise affiliated with the institution, use of the facilities also shall be consistent with policies established for outside groups generally. In Division III, the opportunity for use of facilities by student-athletes shall be consistent with that provided for students generally.

3. A member institution's strength and conditioning staff may be involved with enrolled student-athletes either in a supervisory capacity for the institution's weight-training facilities or assisting in conditioning programs, provided student-athlete participation is voluntary and such activities are supervised only by members of the institution's strength and conditioning staff who perform such duties on a department-wide basis. In Division III, assistance in conditioning programs for student-athletes shall be consistent with such assistance provided to students generally. Finally, member institutions are reminded of the principle governing NCAA Bylaw 13.11.2.4—recruiting tryouts/local sports clubs

In accordance with Bylaw 13.11.1, a member institution, on its campus or elsewhere, shall not conduct (or have conducted on its behalf) any physical activity (e.g., practice session or test/tryout) at which one or more prospects (as defined in Bylaw 13.11.1) reveal, demonstrate or display their abilities in any sport except as provided in Bylaws 13.11.2 and 13.11.3. As set forth in Bylaw 13.11.2.4, an institution's coach may be involved as a participant or in instructional or coaching activities in the same sport for a local sports club or organization located in the institution's own community, provided all prospects participating in such activities are legal residents of the area (within a 30-mile radius of the institution), and the club is not sponsored by the member institution. In this regard, it is not permissible for the institution's coach to assign a prospect who lives outside the 30-mile area to another coach of the club.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director for legislative services, at NCAA national office.

Research going to Council

Research mandated by the special Convention in June 1987 has been completed and will be submitted to the NCAA Council for review in its August 2-4 meeting in San Diego.

At that special Convention, the Big East Conference submitted a resolution directing the Council "to conduct a study of credits attempted versus credits earned by studentathletes in Division I-A football and Division I basketball for the entire 1987-88 academic year, including summer sessions."

As adopted, it called for the results to be reported not later than August 1, 1989. The Council is to present remedial legislation at the 1990 annual Convention if it believes the results of the study warrant such action.

Basically, the research shows that Division I-A football players and Division I men's basketball players attempt an appropriate number of hours, on the average, and generally drop a class sometime during the academic year.

The study shows that the men's basketball players, on the average, attempted 30.2 hours in 1987-88 and earned 27.2 hours, an average difference of three credit hours. Meanwhile, Division I-A football players attempted 28.7 hours that year and earned 25.9 hours, an average difference of 2.8 hours.

Of the 291 Division I institutions sponsoring men's basketball in 1987-88, 265 (or 92 percent) participated in the survey. Of the 105 Division I-A football programs, 98 (or 94 percent) took part.

Tables reflecting more detail regarding the research results will appear in a future issue of The NCAA News, after review by the Council.

Karl D. Benson has been promoted to director of championships, effective August 7. He replaces Daniel B. "Tucker" DiEdwardo, who resigned recently from the chiefaide-level position after being named commissioner of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference, effective August 4.

Benson is in his fourth year on the national office staff. He assumed duties as the Association's first compliance representative February 3, 1986. He joined the championships department as an assistant director August 1, 1987.

A graduate of Boise State University, Benson received a master's degree from the University of Utah. He coached baseball and was athletics director for five years at Fort Steilacoom Community College in Tacoma, Washington. He also coached baseball at Boise State.

Benson joined the national office from Utah, where he had been an administrative assistant and assistant baseball coach.

Comment

Football coaches seek accord with NCAA on meeting dates

(Editor's Note: The following commentary was submitted by the Board of Trustees of the American Football Coaches Association. Their names follow this article.)

Communication is one of the most effective methods of bring compromise and cooperation to different constituencies. It is what cuts through bureaucratic red tape and leads to a blending of ideas that results in effective and fair representation.

Lack of communication which can lead to faulty reasoning and illogical conclusions -- is something for which the NCAA has been roundly criticized in the past. NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz has been attempting to alleviate that problem since his tenure began; and in many cases, he and his staff appear to have been successful.

However, the American Football Coaches Association is concerned and has been for a few yearsabout the communication between the AFCA and the NCAA.

While significant progress has been made in that area, there has been one particular roadblock thrown up that has affected the lincs of communication, and that's the NCAA's implausible scheduling of its Convention at the same time as the AFCA, usually in another city. Neither group can be properly represented when the conventions are held on virtually the same dates. Communication suffers.

While that may sound relatively unimportant (why not communicate in the months prior to the Convention?), one has only to refer to the recent confusion at the 1989 NCAA Convention concerning Proposal 42 to make the point that who's voting for what may be in doubt up until the very second a ballot is cast.

It is logical to conclude that if those who have the opportunity to attend the NCAA meeting have difficulty in getting their message across, then those who cannot attend would be even more ineffective in communicating their concerns to those who vote, since they are thousands of miles removed from the process. Given the fact that entire blocks of legislation may hinge on a 10-minute conversation in a hallway outside a meeting room, it is necessary that all groups within the realm of collegiate athletics be given the opportunity to be properly represented.

At the most recent AFCA convention in Nashville, 3,000 coaches were in attendance, almost double the attendance of the NCAA Convention. That's a pretty strong constituency that needs to be heard. Given the current situation, NCAA delegates risk being misled by hearing from special-interest groups sometimes purporting to be the voice of the football coaching profession, when in reality they need to be hearing from the AFCA as a collective body.

The legislative process would be helped considerably if the AFCA were given the opportunity to present its views developed and refined in business and division meetings at the AFCA convention to the delegates attending the NCAA Convention.

Strong AFCA representation at the NCAA not only would give delegates a more realistic view of the majority of the football coaching profession, it also would be to the advantage of all groups that propose legislation. The AFCA normally has supported the vast majority an educated guess would be 95 percent of significant legislation that has come before the NCAA Convention.

The previous arrangement of the two groups meeting consecutively over a two-week period was logical, convenient and, in large part, necessary if for no other purpose than to have face-to-face communication between presidents, athletics administrators, coaches, faculty athletics representatives, etc., to clarify points pertaining to the legislative process and outcome of legislation.

In the previous meeting arrangement, three major groups benefitted: the ΛFCA , the NCAA and the American Baseball Coaches Association (with an attendance of 1,700), which traditionally meets prior to the AFCA in the same hotel.

Why that most convenient arrangement has not continued is somewhat of a mystery, since there was no apparent hue and cry to do away with it several years ago when the NCAA decided to go its own way and meet in early January. It is perplexing and, to be honest, frustrating to many of us who want to continue to have adequate communication with those involved in the NCAA's decision-making process.

It has been suggested that the AFCA convention be held following the NCAA Convention; but because the NCAA gathering is the final stop in the legislative process, the proposal is not sound. Any concerns coming out of the AFCA meeting would have little bearing or impact on NCAA legislation in the short term because they would be presented after the fact.

Editor's Note: Louis J. Spry, associate executive director whose responsibilities include NCAA Conventions, responds to the AFCA submission as follows:

In 1984, in a survey of chief executive officers, faculty athletics representatives and directors of athletics, only 12.8 percent of the membership favored moving the Convention to the third week of January. The NCAA staff considered this a mandate and has scheduled every annual meeting since to be finished not later than January 16.

In 1982 and 1983, NCAA representatives attempted to form a "collegiate convention consortium" encompassing the AFCA, ABCA, CABMA (College Athletic Business Managers Association) and NCAA to meet in the same hotel during the first two weeks in January. The idea was for all four groups to meet in the same hotel on consecutive (not concurrent) days to obtain the best possible rates. This plan required each group to meet on approximately the same dates each year, but the days of the week would change due to the calendar.

The AFCA opposed this proposal because it did not want to meet on Friday, Saturday or Sunday, thereby losing a recruiting weekend. AFCA also opposed changing the signing date to maintain the same number of recruiting weekends.

The question then becomes, "Is it more important for the football coaches to lose a recruiting weekend, or for NCAA representatives to meet on their preferred dates?"

Finally, at the time the AFCA and the NCAA were negotiating for hotel space for their 1987 meetings, which were held in San Diego, a sales manager for the Town and Country Hotel informed both the AFCA and NCAA representatives that the NCAA rate would be higher if we met in the third week of January. Subsequently, the AFCA selected another hotel, and the NCAA moved its Convention up so as to conclude on January 10.

Another Convention survey will be conducted this fall.

Perhaps questions regarding dates should be included to determine whether the membership has changed its mind.

Nonstudents don't belong in sports

"Major-college sports have no chance of becoming slime-free until they stop forcing nonstudents to be students.

"Under the present setup, cozily encouraged by the NF1, and NBA, major colleges serve as minor-league systems for professional sports. As long as that setup exists, there always will be talented high school athletes who wish only to play sports at the next higher level — but in order to do so, they must enroll as college students.

"And they will cause problems because they really don't want to be in college; they just want to play college ball.

"It would take an immense effort by the NCAA to persuade the NFL and NBA to form minor leagues. But that is what must be done. Otherwise, the current cycle will merely repeat itself."

College athletes worthy of payments for efforts

By Blaine Newnham Seattle Times Excerpted from a column

It is time the NCAA recognizes the inherent differences in the athlete playing big-time college football and small-potatoes tennis, golf or baseball.

It is time to admit the majority of college football players have marginal academic and financial resources and wouldn't be in college if it were not for their athletics abilities. Time to remember they were recruited --- romanced, cajoled, begged to leave their homes to attend school and that their well-being is as much a responsibility of the recruiting school as it is their own.

Frankly, we're using them – using them to pay the athletics bills a university and its students and taxpayers don't want to pay.

Small, private schools decided it is important to have a well-rounded athletics program, with men and women participating in a broad See College, page 5 United Press International

"When you have a blue-chip athlete, you have to realize that the coach, the school and the parents are in charge. They should and must control the recruiting situation.

"If a player is that good, college coaches will play by your rules. But if you let it be known that you can be bought, the whole process breaks down."

"I'm not going to name names, but it's not just the East Germans (who take banned drugs). It involves an awfully lot of other Europeans as well.

"People used to question all the time in Moscow (during the Olympics) why the East Germans were kept totally segregated and why their women all had very big voices and five o'clock shadows. We knew what was going on, but it was something we just accepted.

"But now, I think it's got to the stage where everybody is doing it because it's the only way they can to sacrifice its integrity for a few thousand dollars."

AFCA Board of Trustees and many AFCA members have lobbied at various conference meetings, at National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics meetings and with other groups that are involved to return to the previous arrangement of holding meetings in consecutive weeks.

The AFCA has made several overtures to the NCAA asking for cooperation in solving the problem. However, it does not appear to be a top priority for those who make the decisions.

AFCA Executive Director Charles McClendon appeared before the NCAA Executive Committee and asked that it consider returning to the previous meeting arrangement.

The committee was presented a logical, detailed plan that could be implemented through the year 2000. The plan included the ABCA, the AFCA and the NCAA meeting on successive weeks in the same city. The Executive Committee's basic reaction apparently was to remain with the status quo—letting the NCAA office handle selection of dates.

In an article that appeared in the January 4, 1989, issue of The NCAA News, it was pointed out that (1) avoiding missed class time and (2) maintaining low hotel room rates were the two primary factors involved in the NCAA's reasoning to meet in early January.

Neither theory has any basis in fact.

Institutions surveyed

In a survey of the 41 institutions represented on the 1988-89 NCAA Council (as listed in the current NCAA Directory), more than 50 percent indicated their first day of class following the Christmas holidays was January 12 or before. In another informal poll, five of six institutions surveyed in the state where the AFCA office is located began classes between January 5 and January 10.

The bottom line: Large numbers of Convention delegates will miss class time, regardless of whether the NCAA meets the second, third or fourth week in January.

Using 'missed class time' to justify early NCAA Convention dates loses even more validity in light of the following statement by Georgia Southern College faculty athletics representative William H. Bolen in a bylined article in the July 7, 1987 issue of The NCAA News: "When one visits with various faculty athletics representatives, it is interesting to note how many currently do not teach undergraduate students or teach at all...."

For that matter, missing two or three days of class may be a small price to pay when it comes to addressing issues that may affect the entire collegiate athletics structure and the lives of thousands of stuenough cooperation and compromise to return to a very sensible arrangement that in the past has proved beneficial for all parties?

Continued from page 4 range of sports. And those institutions are willing to pay for the athletics department as if it were engineering or English.

At major schools, however, the men's football and basketball programs have been saddled with financing the athletics program. Indeed, they have borne the fiscal brunt of Title IX, chipping in the dollars so women as well as men can enjoy student-athlete scholarships.

The NCAA allows young men from families below the poverty level to make no extra money during the school year. Their summers often are filled as much with lifting weights and running as they are with working at jobs admittedly procured by the athletics department. It seems to me that the university ought to provide remedial academic help if they are academic risks as well as money for two round-trip airplane tickets home a year if they are needy.

In addition, recruits ought to receive another $200 a month on which to live, $200 more than other athletes get because it is in line with their needs and their value.

The cost to the athletics department would be $200,000 a year, less than one national television contract, less than five percent of annual team profits.

It would be a realistic assessment of both the player's worth and peculiar problems. It might help make them less vulnerable to breaking laws, give them more reason to respect their role as a student-athlete and, in turn, be a responsible member of both the athletics and academic communities.

If it means one less nonrevenue sport or that the university must dig in to pay its share, then so be it. It is, after all, responsible.

And, speaking of responsibility, the NFL ought to get out of the free-lunch line and contribute money to the NCAA, perhaps a fund for additional academic and social counseling for athletes.

It can be argued that colleges should not be involved in professional sports. But the reality is they are. They ought to quit exploiting their workers and help them.

Make it reasonable before you can make it responsible.

dent-athletes, coaches, administrators and even fans. Hotel rates

In regard to low hotel rates, during the last eight years of planning AFCA meetings, no convention sales manager has ever indicated to AFCA personnel that meeting one week earlier or later in mid-January would alter the price of rooms. Bringing an additional 3,000 to 4,000 people into a city to attend related conventions actually provides additional bargaining power. In fact, in the past it has led to even lower room rates.

Currently, both the NCAA and AFCA are in the process of committing to meeting sites and dates through the mid-1990s. Will it take until the next century before there's

Net receipts top $1 million in women's basketball

Net receipts for the Division I Women's Basketball Championship surpassed $1 million for the first time, with eight more teams participating than in 1988.

Gross receipts increased from $1.43 million in 1988 to $1.74 million in 1989, and the distribution to teams increased from $583,136 to $705,448.

The 1989 shares were $8,398 for teams that competed in the first and second rounds, $25,195 for teams in regional competition, and $33,593 for national semifinal and championship participants. All shares increased from 1988. Per diem increased from $60 to $70.

Paid attendance increased from 122,165 to 154,651.

The NCAA Women's Basketball Committee reviewed the financial report for the 1989 championship at its meeting in Grand Traverse, Michigan, July 2-6.

A total of 21 conferences, an increase of two from the 1989 championship, will be recommended to the Executive Committee for automatic qualification to the 1990 championship. They are the American South Athletic, Atlantic Coast, Atlantic 10, Big East, Big Eight, Big Sky, Big Tcn, Big West, Gateway Collegiate Athletic, High Country Athletic, Metro Atlantic Athletic, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic, Mid-American Athletic, Ohio Valley, Pacific-10, Southeastern, Southern, Southland, Southwest Athletic and Sun Belt Conferences and the Colonial Athletic Association. The American South and Southland Conferences are being recommended for the first time. The committee reaffirmed its policy of limiting the number of automatic qualifiers to a maximum of 50 percent of the field.

The committee also recommended sites for the 1992 and 1993 Women's Final Fours and 1991 regional competition.

A joint session was held in Grand Traverse with the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee. The rating percentage index (RPI) and automatic-qualification trends were discussed, and the men's and women's championships were reviewed.

The committees will divide conferences into four groupings, based on RPIs, and list conferences alphabetically within each grouping. These lists will be made available to the conferences for informational purposes. The RPIs of individual member institutions will not be published.

Also, officers of the Women's Basketball Coaches Association (WBCA) met with the women's committee, which supported the WBCA's request for a grant to assist the WBCA in-service summer seminar and to provide a professionaldevelopment segment at its annual convention.

Women recommend future tournament sites

The NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Committee has selected the sites for the 1992 and 1993 Women's Final Fours and regional sites for the 1991 championship. Committee chair Judith R. Holland, senior associate athletics director at the University of California, Los Angeles, said the recommendations will be presented to the NCAA Executive Committee for approval at its August meeting.

The basketball committee will recommend that the 1992 event be held in Los Angeles April 3 and 5 and the 1993 Women's Final Four be conducted in Atlanta April 2 and 4

The Los Angeles Sports Arena will be the site of the 1992 championship, with the University of California, Los Angeles; the University of Southern California, and the Los Angeles Sports Council serving as hosts. Georgia Institute of Technology will be the host for the 1993 Women's Final Four in The Omni.

The recommended regional sites for the 1991 Division I Women's Basketball Championship are as follows:

East St. Joseph's University (Pennsylvania), host; The Palestra,

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, March 21 and 23, 1991.

Mideast-University of Tennessee, Knoxville, host; Thompson-Boling Arena, Knoxville, Tennessee, March 21 and 23, 1991.

Midwest-University of Texas, Austin, host; Erwin Center, Austin, Texas, March 21 and 23, 1991.

West University of Nevada, Las Vegas, host; Thomas and Mack Center, Las Vegas, Nevada, March 21 and 23, 1991.

Equipment rules changed in rifle

Some college shooters won't be carrying quite as much gear to matches next season, because of action taken by the Association's Men's and Women's Rifle Committee during its July 11-13 meeting in Kansas City.

During a review of the sport's playing rules, committee members voted to add sections to Rules 3-2 and 3-3 to stipulate that only one shooting jacket [new Rule 3-2-(j)] and one pair of shooting trousers [new rule 3-3-(d)] may be approved by the equipment control for each competitor for all rifle events in any match or tournament.

"This change makes NCAA rules consistent with those followed in international shooting," said Edward F. Etzel, rifle coach at West Virginia University and secretary-rules editor of the rifle committee.

"While I can only speculate on the rationale for adoption at the international level, I suspect these

Gadd could have been sentenced to up to two years in prison and fined $101,000 if convicted on both counts

Gadd was one of four former Gamecock coaches and a Maryland man indicted April 19 by a Federal grand jury. The others pleaded guilty in plea-bargain arrangements and are awaiting sentencing.

Gadd was an assistant at South Carolina from 1982 to 1986. He is now defensive coordinator at the University of Utah, the position he held for five years before taking the South Carolina job.

Disposition of litigation involving NCAA

Several court cases involving the NCAA recently have been concluded.

Following is a summary of those cases, including pertinent information regarding their dispositions.

Mark Vannelli vs. NCAA and Northern Michigan University. Vannelli filed this suit December 5, 1984, in the U.S. District Court for the District of Minnesota. Vannelli was recruited by Northern Michigan University for ice hockey and signed a National Letter of Intent in April 1980 Vannelli played hockey during the 1980-81 academic year and received a scholarship for the fall of 1981. Vannelli did not make the team in the fall of 1981 and was informed that his scholarship would not be renewed after the fall semester. In January 1982, Vannelli enrolled at St. Thomas College in St. Paul, Minnesota, where he was not eligible to compete until the fall of 1982.

David R. McCormack vs. NCAA. On February 24, 1987, the NCAA Committee on Infractions imposed several sanctions against the Southern Methodist University football program based on the payment of approximately $61,000 to 13 team members by an outside representative of the university's athletics interests. These sanctions included the elimination of the university's 1987 season, the curtailment of its 1988 season, the elimination of initial grants-in-aid during the 1987-89 academic year and three years probation.

The plaintiff, David R. McCormack, filed this class action in the U.S. District Court in Galveston, Texas, March 19, 1987, on behalf of all fellow graduates and current students of Southern Methodist University, as well as on behalf of that institution. The plaintiff claimed that the climination of the football program and the associated stigma and negative publicity endangered the institution's fiscal and academic integrity and diminished the value of the institution's diploma in violation of the due process provisions of the U.S. Constitution. The plaintiff also claimed that the Association's enforcement process is inherently unconstitutional and historically has been applied in a discriminatory manner against the institution. The plaintiff also alleged that the Association's actions violated the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The plaintiff sought a permanent injunction restraining the NCAA from enforcing the sanctions imposed by the Committee on Infractions and seeking revision of the Association's investigative and enforcement procedures, $20 million in damages related to the due process and property allegations, and $5 million related to the antitrust claim (to be trebled after judgment to $15 million).

The NCAA filed a motion to dismiss for lack of standing, failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and lack of a Federal question. The district court upheld the NCAA's motion and dismissed the case June 18, 1987.

The plaintiff subsequently appealed to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court. On June 1, 1988, the circuit court upheld the district court's dismissal of the plaintiff's complaint. In particular, the court noted that the Association's eligibility rules do not violate antitrust laws and that enforcement of them through suspensions and other restrictions does not constitute an illegal group boycott

Charlie J. Jones Jr. vs. Robert J. Bingham and NCAA. The plaintiff filed a personal-injury suit April 12, 1988, in the Circuit Court of Genesee County, Flint, Michigan, against Robert J. Bingham, director of athletics at Northern Illinois University, and the NCAA as a result of neck injuries suffered April 15, 1985, during football practice and subsequent treatment that allegedly exacerbated the injuries. The Association's general liability carrier, Firemans Fund Insurance Companies, defended this action on behalf of the NCAA. The Association filed a motion to dismiss the case.

On September 19, 1988, the plaintiff See Disposition, page 9

Pac-10 CEOs go on record against any type of I-A play-off

The Pacific-10 Conference's chief executive officers have agreed unanimously to oppose any national Division I-A postseason football play-off. This action was taken at the recent conference summer meetings in Laguna Niguel, California.

"The presidents and chancellors strongly favored going on the record in opposition to a football play-off of any type, sponsored by any organization," said Thomas C. Hansen, commissioner of the conference, "and they wanted their colleagues across the country to know their position on this issue.

"It is the belief of our member institutions that the demands of the current 11-game regular season and postseason bowl-game competition already require a significant commitment on the part of the studentathletes, and to extend the season and play additional contests would

Officiating coordinator named

Jim Garvey has been selected national officiating coordinator for men's lacrosse.

As national coordinator of officials for the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association the past two years, Garvey has teamed with James A. Grube, secretaryrules editor of the NCAA Men's Lacrosse Committee, to conduct regional lacrosse officiating clinics as part of a two-year pilot program.

At its May 1989 meeting, the NCAA Executive Committee made the men's lacrosse officials improvement program permanent and authorized the part-time position of national officiating coordinator of men's lacrosse.

Garvey will continue to work with Grube in conducting clinics and producing an instructional video ragarding the lacrosse playing rules. He will serve as the liaison in the area of officiating to the NCAA Men's Lacrosse Committee. He will coordinate the identification and assignment of officials for the Divisions I and III Men's Lacrosse Championships and coordinate the officials evaluation and advancement procedures for the championships.

Garvey was a top official in football, men's basketball and men's lacrosse. During his officiating career, he worked four bowl games and six NCAA Men's Lacrosse Championship title games. He also worked in the Division I Men's Basketball Championship three times

A 1964 graduate of Adelphi, Garvey was a high school teacher and administrator for 24 years. He has been the director of athletics at Hofstra University since August

Pac-10 reprimands UCLA

The University of California, Los Angeles, has been publicly reprimanded by the Pacific-10 Conference as the result of allowing an ineligible men's volleyball player to participate in intercollegiate competition during the fall of 1988, Commissioner Thomas C. Hansen announced July 14.

During the spring and summer of 1988, the student-athlete competed in a number of Association of Vollcyball Professionals two-man beach tournaments, including several in which his playing partners received prize money, a violation of NCAA rules

One of the student-athlete's partners who received prize money was a UCLA assistant men's vollevball coach. When UCLA athletics administrators learned of the improper competition, the assistant coach was reprimanded, placed on probation and informed that any future serious or knowing violation of NCAA rules would result in termination of employment.

"Both the student-athlete and the assistant coach had been made aware that receipt of any prize money by either would professionalize the student-athlete," Hansen said. "When the institution questioned the coach, he cooperated completcly. Without his cooperation, it is unlikely the investigation would have been successful. This cooperation, coupled with a quick action by the university, prevented the case from being more serious."

force unreasonable demands on them," Hansen added. "Very injurious impact on their academic programs would be unavoidable. At some institutions, this impact could affect two academic terms.

"A football play-off is the wrong way to address financial problems that affect college football," he said the CEOs had agreed.

The Pac-10 CEOs also approved an cight-game conference football schedule beginning with the 1991 football season, with the understanding that a ninth conference game could not be scheduled. The conference will begin preparation of the eight-game schedules based on a ments Committee favored delaying the implementation of No. 42 until 1992, when ongoing NCAA rcsearch can be analyzed. The financial aid committee proposed eliminating any financial aid considerations in the initial-eligibility legislation, suggesting that all students, qualifiers or not, should be eligible for the same types of aid. Legislation

The Council will review drafts of all legislation submitted thus far for consideration at the 1990 Convention, including some proposals that it may or may not decide to move forward. Among the key legislative items:

• Permitting Division I-A and the rest of Division I to act separately on the maximum amount of financial aid that a student-athlete can receive

• Exempting the full amount of a Pell Grant for which a studentathlete qualifies, rather than the current $1,400 exemption.

• Permitting the Council to adopt noncontroversial legislative amendments between NCAA Conventions, in the same manner that the Executive Committee can alter executive regulations now.

 Changing the legislation regarding financial aid to an incoming freshman to attend summer school from a dominant provision to a federated provision, thus permitting divisions to act separately in that regard in the future.

• Requiring the use of the appropriate concordant score in the new ACT test-score system that goes into effect in October. In that new scoring system, a current score of 15 will become a score of 18, and that is the score that would have to be achieved on any test taken after the 16-year format, which will run through 2006.

"The primary reason for adopting an eight-game schedule was to eliminate the variance in the number of conference games played by our member institutions," said Hansen. "The presidents and chancellors, as did the directors of athletics and coaches, believed it was better to have an equal number of conference games determine the Rose Bowl representative, rather than the current system in which the number of conference games varies from seven to nine and the selection of the Rose Bowl representative could be determined by a complicated tie-breaking formula."

The conference officers for 1989-90 are president, Jerry I. Porras, faculty athletics representative, Stanford University; women's vice-president, Herman R. Frazier, associate athletics director, Arizona State University, and men's vice-president, Donald J. Livengood Jr., director of athletics, Washington State University.

Donald Kennedy, president of Stanford University, will remain as chair of the chief executive officers group through December 1989 and then will be succeeded by James Zumberge, president of the University of Southern California.

change in scoring system is implemented.

The Council also will consider a series of recommendations by the Recruiting Committee dealing with camps and clinics and with permissible contact and evaluation opportunities.

Other topics

The Council will receive a report on the cost of conducting a feasibility study on the establishment of a national clearinghouse for certification of initial eligibility. The Academic Requirements Committee recommended a study earlier this year, and the Council requested information on how much such a study would cost.

The group also will discuss planning for the new legislative calendar that becomes effective in February 1990, including the concept of holding regional hearings regarding proposed legislation before the final deadline for submitting or amending such legislation.

The agenda also includes the usual actions regarding Administrative Committee decisions, interpretations by the Legislation and Interpretations Committee, and membership applications and requests, as well as informational reports on the activities of the Presidents Commission and the quarterly governmental affairs report. Committees

Standing committees scheduled to report at the meeting are the Academic Requirements Committee, Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports, Legislative Review Committee, Men's and Women's Committees on Committees, Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee, Postgraduate Scholarship Committee, Professional Sports Liaison Committee, Recruiting Committee, Postseason Football Subcommittee of the Special Events Committee, and Committee on Women's Athletics

Special committees and subcommittees on the agenda are the Special Committee to Review Amateurism Issues, Special Committee on Cost Reduction, Council Subcommittee on Initial-Eligibility Exceptions, Special Committee to Review the NCAA Membership Structure and Council Subcommittee to Review Proposal No. 42.

The three division steering committees also will conduct separate sessions to treat matters relating to their respective divisions.

Highlights of the Council's actions will be reported in the August 16 issue of The NCAA News. A summary of all Council actions will appear in a September issue, after the minutes of the meeting have been completed.

Ezenwa filed suit against the NCAA November 11, 1988, in the District Court of the State of Texas and received a temporary restraining order on the same date prohibiting the NCAA from excluding him from participating in intercollegiate athletics contests. This order expired November 25, 1988, Conflicting opinions from foreign student records experts led the institution to believe that the student-athlete did not initiate his fiveyear clock in 1980. The institution requested a second review of the case and submitted further documentation to the foreign student records consultants November 30, 1988. The consultants group reaffirmed its original determination. The institution then requested an appeal of the NCAA's interpretation and, on December 7, 1988, the NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee reviewed the case and requested that the institution submit further documentation. On January 6, 1989, the Council heard an appeal from UTEP regarding Ezenwa's eligibility. The Council concluded that Ezenwa was not enrolled in a regular term in a minimum full-time program of studies in 1980 and his five-year clock began when he entered the New Mexico Military Academy for the 1987-88 academic year.

1988, the circuit court granted summary judgment dismissing the NCAA from this case.

Jeff Brown vs. Portland State University and NCAA. Portland State University recently took steps to change its membership classification from Division II to Division I. At the request of Portland State, the NCAA Council reviewed and confirmed that in accordance with Bylaw 10-4-(b)-(1), a member institution changing membership classification must meet all applicable membership criteria of the division to which it intends to transfer and must operate in conformity for a period of two years with all other bylaw requirements of the division.

The plaintiff in this case was a studentathlete at Portland State University whose eligibility for participation at a Division I institution has expired but who has one semester of eligibility remaining at a Division II institution. The plaintiff sought an injunction to prevent the NCAA from applying Division I regulations to the for a temporary restraining order and permanent injunction was denied by the Federal district court August 26, 1988. The plaintiff has voluntarily dismissed this case.

Francis Ezenwa vs. NCAA. In 1980, Francis Ezenwa enrolled in the University of Ife, Nigeria. The student subsequently enrolled in a junior college in New Mexico and currently is enrolled in the University of Texas, El Paso, and wants to play intercollegiate basketball. Upon request from UTEP, the foreign student records consultants for the NCAA Academic Requirements Committee reviewed the student-athlete's transcripts and determined that Ezenwa had enrolled in a regular term in a minimum full-time program of studies in a collegiate institution in his native country of Nigeria in 1980. Accordingly, on November 10, 1988, the NCAA issued an interpretation to the institution that the student-athlete's fiveyear clock began running in 1980 and, consequently, the student-athlete has no

Elizabeth O'Halloran and Alan Burch vs. University of Washington and NCAA. This case was filed July 20, 1987, in Washington state court by two University of Washington student-athletes. Plaintiffs objected to the administration of the university's drug-testing program on Fedcral and state constitutional grounds. At the July 23 preliminary hearing, the state court issued a temporary restraining order in the plaintiff's favor and ordered the university to join the NCAA as a thirdparty defendant because of the Association's drug-testing program.

The Association successfully removed the case to the U.S. District Court in Scattle, Washington. The university subsequently dropped the mandatory aspect of its drug-testing program, revising it so that testing was required only for those athletes suspected of drug use. The plaintiffs' claim against the university was dismissed.

On February 25, 1988, the Federal court upheld the NCAA program and the university's participation in the program.

The plaintiffs appealed to the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court, The court remanded the case to the state court on the basis that the University of Washington's thirdparty action against the NCAA did not raise a Federal question. On September 29, 1988, the Association filed a petition for rehearing with the Ninth Circuit Court. The motion was denied. Plaintiffs also filed for attorney's fees, which was denied by the court.

This case was remanded to the Washington state court, and the court approved the stipulation of dismissal filed by the parties. The settlement agreement and general release require the NCAA to announce that there is no evidence of the plaintiffs ever having used drugs (there was no test involved) and provide the plaintiffs counsel with 1990 Convention debate and voting results concerning amendments to the NCAA drug-testing program or consent procedure. The plaintiffs have agreed to dismiss the case with prejudice.

Professional Development Seminar set for Dallas

The 11th NCAA Professional Development Seminar will be held January 4-6 at the Loews Anatole in Dallas, preceding the 84th annual NCAA Convention.

The seminar will feature detailed descriptions of successful athletics marketing and promotions programs.

NCAA members are invited to identify successful campaigns in different areas to be considered for presentation at the seminar. The topics will include, but not be limited to, season-ticket sales campaigns, organization of radio and television networks, special-event promotions, and the solicitation of corporate sponsors.

followed by a breakout session. Each breakout session will be followed by round-table discussions to provide an opportunity for speakers and participants to exchange ideas. One or two seminar sessions (full-

tensive presentation on a successful marketing or promotions program, group, breakout and round-table discussion) will be reserved for general marketing and promotions topics

Anyone with suggestions for presentations on successful marketing or promotions programs may submit them in writing to Alfred B. White, director of promotions, NCAA, P.O. Box 1906, Mission, Kansas 66201, by August 1.

The seminar will involve an ex-

15 leagues recommended for II women's basketball berths

The Division II Women's Basketball Committee will recommend to the Executive Committee that 15 conferences receive automatic qualification for the 1990 championship.

They are the California Collegiate Athletic, Central Intercollegiate Athletic and Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Associations and the Continental Divide, Empire State, Great Lakes Valley, Gulf South, Lone Star, Mideast Collegiate, New England Collegiate, North Central Intercollegiate Athletic, Northeast-10, Northern California Athletic, Pennsylvania State Athletic and Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conferences.

The committee, which met July 11-14 in South Lake Tahoe, California, will recommend that for 1991 the Empire State Conference be realigned from the East to the New England region.

The committee also will recommend a revision in the rotation for quarterfinal pairings so that all regions will have the opportunity to compete against one another. If this recommendation is approved, the pairings for 1990 will be Great Lakes vs. New England, South Atlantic vs. South Central, South vs. East and North Central vs. West.

Legislation and Interpretations Committee minutes

Acting for the NCAA Council. the Legislation and Interpretations Committee took the following action

Printed recruiting aids

1. Posters from member institutions and conferences: Conference media guide (Divisions I and II). Reviewed and confirmed the following staff interpretations of NCAA Bylaw 13.3.1.

a. In accordance with a previous Legislation and Interpretations Committee decision (reference: Item No. 3 of the minutes of the committee's September 30, 1988, conference), determined that a member institution or conference may provide to high schools flyers (e.g., a small handbill widely distributed) advertising or promoting a specific institutional or conference athletics program or event; however, posters may not be distributed to high schools for this purpose.

WAC names cowinners of Bates award

Former Brigham Young University wide receiver Chuck Cutler and former University of Wyoming quarterback Randy Welniak have been named cowinners of the ninth annual Western Athletic Conference Stan Bates Award.

Each will receive a $2,000 postgraduate scholarship, which is named in honor of the former WAC commissioner and recognizes the conference's top scholar-athlete.

Cutler graduated from Brigham Young in April. The business-finance major had an accumulative grade-point average of 3.390. He also was the recipient of an NCAA postgraduate scholarship, is a twotime academic all-America and was the winner of the 1988 Woody Haves Scholar-Athlete Award as the top male scholar-athlete in NCAA Division I Cutler excelled as a wide receiver, carning all-WAC first-team honors as a senior with 64 receptions for 1,039 yards and 10 touchdowns. He tied an NCAA record with touchdown catches in eight straight games.

Welniak currently is enrolled in Wyoming's MBA program and carries a 3.670 GPA. He received his undergraduate degree in 1988. Also the recipient of an NCAA postgraduate scholarship, Welniak was named to the district all-academic team Battling back from a shoulder injury that threatened his career, Welniak led the Cowboys to the 1988 WAC title, an 11-2 record and a berth in the Holiday Bowl. He completed 57 percent of his passes for 2,633 yards and 21 touchdowns, ranked ninth nationally in passing efficiency and was named the WAC's offensive player of the year.

News Fact File

b. Member conferences are precluded from providing the printed materials listed in Bylaw 13.3.1 to prospective studentathletes, subject to the exceptions listed in c. d and c below.

c. The Division I subcommittee noted a Council interpretation (reference: Item No. 9-d of the April 17-19, 1989, Council minutes), which permits conferences to send printed educational materials (e.g., Bylaw 14.3 academic brochure) to prospects, with the understanding that conferences will be permitted to distribute such materials only until December 31, 1989.

d. In accordance with a current Councilapproved interpretation, a member institution may provide a conference media guide (subject to the one-color restriction) in lieu of the institution's one permissible annual athletics press guide, if the institution has no such press guide; however, the committee suggests that the Council modify this interpretation to prohibit such activity.

e. Institutions and member conferences are permitted to publish and distribute to prospective student-athletes drug-education information (through brochures, not posters), inasmuch as drug-testing information is a permissible printed material per Bylaw 13.3.1-(f).

f. Member institutions and conferences are permitted to distribute NCAA educational publications (e.g., Guide for the College-Bound Student-Athlete) to prospective student-athletes and high schools. Recruiting

2. Published scouting service. Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 13.14.3 and determined that a prospective student-athlete may utilize a scouting service or other outside agency to produce a videotape highlighting his or her athletics ability in order to provide the videotape to a particular member institution, provided the institution does not arrange for or request that the videotape be produced.

Commercial endorsement

3. Distribution of national team's playing cards. Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 12.5.1 and two previous committee decisions (Item No. 3 of the minutes of the committee's September 1, 1988, conference and Item No. 1-d of the minutes of the committee's December 2, 1987, conference), and confirmed that other than acting for a member institution, a third-party distributor may market playing cards with the names and pictures of student-athletes only to promote the Olympic, Pan American and World University Games

All-star basketball contests 4. Conference all-tar basketball contest.

Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 30.2.2 and a previous committee interpretation (Item No. 1 of the minutes of the committee's March 2, 1989, conference), and determined that participation by student-athletes in a conference "barnstorming" tour (i.e., contests between conference student-athletes with no eligibility remaining and outside teams, and contests involving solely confer ence athletes) would constitute college allstar basketball contests under the provisions of Bylaw 30.2.2; agreed that if a member conference sponsors such a tour, it must meet the requirements of Bylaw 30.2.2; recommended that the Council review the provisions of Bylaw 30.2.2 and suggested that proposed legislation be developed to delete the prohibition in that rule against a member institution permitting its studentathletes to compete in such events.

Summer basketball

5. Permissible revenue from summer leagues (Divisions I and II). Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 30.11-(f) and various budget sheets received in the national office from summer basketball leagues, and noted that the operational magnitude of such leagues apparently has exceeded the intent of the Association's original legislation; requested that the Council ask the appropriate committee to review the Association's summer basketball league legislation to clarify the following:

a. What are permissible sources of revenue (e.g., concessions, novelty sales, corporate donations, program advertisements, program sales) for an approved league?

b. What are permissible expenses (e.g., officials, uniforms, salaries, travel, expense accounts) for an approved league?

c. May revenue exceed expenses and, if so, how may this additional revenue be expended (e.g., for charitable or educational purposes)?

Financial aid

6. Counting a previously nonscholarship recruited athlete after the first year of enrollment (Division I). Agreed that in accordance with the principle expressed in Bylaw 15.5.4.3.2, a recruited student-athlete in the sport of football who receives athletically related financial aid subsequent to his first academic year in residence may be considered an initial counter for either the current academic year (if the institution's annual limit has not been reached) or the next academic year.

Of the 196 team championships determined in NCAA Division III national championships from 1978-79 through 1987-88 (women's championships began in 1981), 82 were won by institutions with enrollments of 4,235 or more, 44 by institutions with enrollments between 2,130 and 4,234, 40 by those with enrollments between 1,412 and 2,129, 17 by those with enrollments between 922 and 1,411, and 13 by institutions with 921 students or fewer.

Committee drops women's softball tie-breaker

The controversial tie-breaker rule, which had been used in NCAA women's softball championships since 1986, is history.

Among the actions taken by the Association's Women's Softball Committee during its July 10-13 meeting in Newport, Rhode Island, was a decision to climinate the tiebreaker rule in NCAA postseason play.

The rule stipulated that if the score is tied after nine complete innings, the offensive team shall, at the start of the 10th inning, put the player who completed the last at bat in the ninth inning on second base as a runner.

Beginning with the 1990 tournaments, championships games in all divisions will be played to completion, as during regular-season competition.

The committee also voted to recommend to the NCAA Executive Committee that officials be paid $50 per game in championship play and that institutions bidding for regional play must guarantee 75 percent of $1,500 in net receipts in order to be considered.

Actions of the division subcommittees follow.

Division I

It will be recommended that four officials (instead of two) be approved for air transportation to the finals.

The following conferences will be recommended to receive automatic qualification for the 1990 championship: Big Eight, Big Ten, Big West, High Country Athletic, Mid-American Athletic and Pacific-

10 Conferences. The Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference also will be recommended to receive automatic qualification for 1990-with a warning that it is in jeopardy of losing those privileges for the 1991 championship.

Division II Approved was a recommendation that the quarterfinals be played over three days instead of the twoday format used for the 1989 championship.

Conferences recommended for automatic qualification to the 1990 championship include the California Collegiate Athletic Association and the New England Collegiate, North Central Intercollegiate Athletic, Northeast-10, Pennsylvania State Athletic and Sunshine State Conferences. The subcommittee also recommended the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association but warned that it is in jeopardy of losing those privileges for the 1991 championship.

Division III

The subcommittee voted to expand the power-rating system it uses to assist in the subjective evaluation

UNLV soccer star still playing it by the numbers

James F.

When Simon Keith's number finally did come up, it was one.

Keith, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, soccer player who underwent a heart transplant three years ago, said following the surgery, "When your number's up, it's up. Mine wasn't up. That's the bottom line, I guess. Mine could be up tomorrow.

Actually, the number didn't come up until the recently completed draft of the Major Indoor Soccer League. Keith, chosen by the Cleveland Crunch, was the first player chosen, according to a report in USA Today.

After being stricken by a rare heart virus, Keith received the heart of a 17-year-old British soccer player who died from a blood clot in the brain. A Canadian, Keith most recently has been playing for the Canadian Soccer League team from Victoria, British Columbia.

'The owners from Cleveland said that they weren't picking me because of media exposure," he told USA Today. "They said they were picking me because I'm a good soccer player."

James F. Wright, NCAA assistant director of communications, recently was honored by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association as the 1989 receipient of the Wilbur Snypp Memorial Award.

Named in memory of longtime Ohio State University sports information director Wilbur "Bill" Snypp, a charter member of the NCBWA, the award is presented annually to a member for outstanding service to the organization.

Wright was honored for his service as media coordinator for the College World Series and for his support of the college game as a member of the Association's national office staff.

If only Julie Croteau could crase those first 14 at-bats.

The St. Mary's College of Maryland freshman, who started at first base in more than half of the school's 1989 baseball games, hit .297 after going hitless in her first 14 trips to the plate. "My hitting didn't come together until late," said Croteau, who finished the season with a .222 batting average. She had one RBI and 83 putouts with only five errors, and she maintained a grade-point average of 3.200 (4.000 scale).

The award is named for Mary Elizabeth Ramier, a University of Illinois, Champaign, graduate who also attended Butler. A graduate of the John Marshall School of Law in Chicago, Ramier helped develop the Mortar Board Foundation and continues to be active in its affairs.

Dave Hart, commissioner of the Southern Conference, has announced that 364 student-athletes have been named to the league's 1988-89 academic honor roll. Furman University led all league members with 75 honorees. Hart also noted that 10 of those named earned 4.000 grade-point averages (4.000 scale) for the year.

Independent Athletic Conference officials have announced the league's first group of scholar-athletes, which includes one student-athlete from each member school. Topping the list is Yeshiva College men's basketball player Yudi Teichman, who has a 3.830 GPA in history. He ranked in the top 10 in three Division III statistical categories, winning the national title in free-throw percentage (95.2).

Men's basketball player Andre Crenshaw (3.630 GPA last year) and women's tennis player Jean Gurney (3.680 GPA) have been named scholar-athletes of the year at the University of South Florida. A total of 53 student-athletes were named to the 3.000 club after earning GPAs at least that high during the spring semester. The school's men's and women's rifle, women's tennis, and women's cross country teams produced cumulative GPAs above 3.000.

From Peter P. Luguri, athletics director at Plattsburgh State University College, come the following statistics on the spring-semester academic performance of the school's student-athletes: Of the 98 who competed in spring sports, 13 percent achieved at least a 3.500 GPA, compared to eight percent of the general student body. In addition, 31 percent earned at least a 3.000, compared to 28 percent of the total undergraduates. Thirty percent of Plattsburgh's fall-sport student-athletes earned at least a 3.000 last spring, and nine percent were above 3.500.

Ralph McFillen, commissioner of the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, has announced that a record 512 student-athletes have been named to the 1988-89 commissioner's list after earning GPAs of at least 3.000. Ten of the honorees earned 4.000s.

Loyola College (Maryland) senior student-athlete Jeff Nattans, who played soccer and men's basketball, has been named Northeast Conference senior scholar-athlete. The recent NCAA postgraduate scholarship winner, an accounting maior, finished with a 3.850 cumulative GPA. He was one of 165 student-athletes from league members who were named to the commissioner's honor roll after earning GPAs of at least 3.200 during 1988-89

Two King's College (Pennsylvania) men's tennis players — Don Buzinkai and Bob Horth-have been named to the Volvo tennis scholarathlete team selected by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA). Both earned GPAs above 3.500.

A Salute To Canisius College For "Bringing It Home"

This is a heartwarming story that merits a salute.

Canisius College is a small, well respected Jesuit institution in Buffalo. Athletics hold an important place at Canisius because they are an integral part of the Jesuit educational mission to educate the whole person: body, mind and spirit.

But with a 14-acre urban campus almost filled to capacity, there was precious little exterior space for intramural programs and outdoor varsity teams who have not enjoyed a home game advantage except for a few years in the 40's.

Athletic Center into a multipurpose outdoor athletic complex.

That initiative and commitment struck a responsive chord in a '61 alumnus from Texas who agreed to match the $1.2-million student/college fund.

Through additional pledges, the fund has risen to almost three million dollars with a drive underway for the final piece of the athletic pie.

The stricter requirements were recommended by the conference faculty athletics representatives and approved by the council of presidents.

Effective with the 1991-92 academic year, the minimum grade-pointaverage requirement will be 1.800 on a 4.000 scale after one or two years of enrollment, and a 2.000 grade-point average after the third year of enrollment and any year thereafter.

The current minimum gradepoint-average requirement for student-athletes under legislation adopted by the conference in 1962 is 1.700 during the first year, 1.800 during the second year, 1.900 during the third year and 2.000 during the fourth year.

for athletics competition," said Paul G. Pearson, president of Miami University (Ohio) and chair of the council of presidents. "These standards will better assure the graduation of our student-athletes and, appropriately, raise the academic standards for participation in athletics." The MAC, the Big Ten and other conferences have sponsored legislation at recent NCAA Conventions, seeking to implement a national standard for minimum grade-point averages, but none has been adopted.

"The MAC has always been committed to the academic side of a student's involvement in intercollegiate athletics," Commissioner James W. Lessig said. "This action further emphasizes that commitment."

But not much longer.

Starting this September, outdoor athletics will have a home on campus. And the students are the ones who are "Bringing It Home.

Over a three year period ending in 1990, students will have raised more than $600,000 through a self-imposed special per-credit-hour tax. The college has agreed to match the fund dollar for dollar. The objective: a $4-million project to convert a dirt field adjacent to the Koessler pressed by the effort and provided a construction loan covering the entire budget.

A prominent architectural firm was hired to design a complex that will serve as a national model for urban campuses.

The complex will carry the name of the man who has served as President of Canisius College for the last 23 years and is its number one sports fan-Rev. James M. Demske, S.J.

All systems are go and on October 21, Canisius will host Hobart College for their first football home game in recent history as the highlight of Homecoming Parents Weekend.

At last, Canisius has "brought it home" and AstroTurf is proud to play an important role in that homecoming and many more homecomings to come.
