Council favors tougher drug-testing legislation

The NCAA Council supports year-round random drug testing of student-athletes and stiffer penalties for those who test positive for performance-enhancing drugs.

In taking that position in its October 16-18 meeting in Indianapolis, the Council agreed to join the NCAA Executive Committee in sponsoring a sequence of proposals dealing with drug testing for consideration at the 1990 NCAA Convention. The intention of the Executive Committee, supported by the Council, is to offer the membership alternatives in regard to year-round testing, more stringent consequences for positive tests by individual student-athletes and the issue of team sanctions for positive tests.

While the membership will be offered alternatives, the Council will inform the Convention that it unanimously endorsed legislation that would establish year-round random testing in place of the current NCAA testing in relation to championship events and football bowl games.

The Council also will announce its support for tougher sanctions for student-athletes testing positive for performance-enhancing drugs and its belief that there should be no change in the current legislation regarding team sanctions.

The proposed legislation will deal differently with those testing positive for street drugs than it does for those using performance-enhancing drugs. "The feeling is to show more concern and compassion for those who use street drugs," NCAA President Albert M. Witte told a press conference after the meeting. "The emphasis there would be less for punishment than for curing or helping the athlete. The health and safety and welfare of those athletes are given much greater weight than for those who test positive for performance-enhancing substances such as steroids."

Executive Director Richard D. Schultz acknowledged that a move to year-round testing may result in a new series of legal challenges, "but we do feel that we are on solid legal ground," he said.

The Council asked that a detailed presentation of the drug-testing alternatives be presented in an upcoming issue of The NCAA News. Commission legislation

The Council supports the Presidents Commission's initiatives in principle

A major portion of the Council's fall meeting was spent reviewing the legislation that will be sponsored at the 1990 Convention by the NCAA Presidents Commission. Those proposals involve mandatory disclosure of graduation rates, the issues surrounding Proposal No. 42 as adopted at the 1989 Convention, means of reducing time demands on student-athletes and the provision of financial aid for incoming freshmen to attend summer school or summer orientation programs.

Witte reported that the Council supported the Commission's initiatives in principle and would discuss with the Commission officers some concerns regarding details of the proposals. The Commission officers and the NCAA Administrative Committee are authorized by the Commission and the Council, respectively, to make final decisions regarding the two groups' legislative proposals by the November 1 deadline for submitting legislation.

"Both groups are on the same page in terms of supporting the full disclosure of graduation rates," Witte said. "The Council strongly supports that initiative. There are some relatively minor areas in which we think some adjustments may need to be made."

The Division III Steering Committee urged that its division be included in the proposed disclosure requirement, while the Commission's Division III subcommittee has not favored such inclusion. The Division II Steering Committee asked for a period of years to begin developing the necessary data inasmuch as that division has not been involved in such a requirement before.

Proposal 42

One of the major issues to be discussed by the Commission officers and the Administrative Committee is what to do about Proposal 42. If it is not altered in January, the partial qualifier under the provisions of Bylaw 14.3 will be eliminated effective August 1, 1990. Individuals who formerly would have been partial qualifiers thus would be treated

Teddy award will go to former president

Former President Ronald W. Reagan will receive the Association's Theodore Roosevelt Award at the 1990 NCAA Convention in Dallas.

The "Teddy" award is the highest honor the NCAA can confer on an individual. Traditionally, the award has been presented at the honors luncheon during the Convention, but the 1990 program has been scheduled as a dinner that will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday, January 8.

Reagan, a 1932 graduate of Eureka College, worked briefly as a sports broadcaster and editor before pursuing a career in motion pictures. His film career, interrupted by three years of service in the Army Air Corps during World War II, included 53 feature-length motion pictures. He served six terms as president of the Screen Actors Guild and two terms as president of the Motion Picture Industry Council.

He worked in television in the 1950s as production supervisor and host of "General Electric Theatre." From 1964 to 1965, he was host of the television series "Death Valley Days."

Reagan began his public-service career in 1966, as governor of California. He chaired the Republican Governors Association in 1969.

After completing his second term as governor, he began a nationally syndicated radio commentary program and a newspaper column and undertook an extensive speaking schedule. From 1974 to 1975, he served as a member of a presidential commission investigating the Central Intelligence Agency.

Ronald Reagan

He was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976. Reagan joined the board of directors of the Committee on the Present Danger and founded Citizens for the Republic.

Reagan won the GOP presidential nomination in July 1980 and was elected to office the following November. He was sworn in as the 40th President January 20, 1981, and served two terms.

He has received numerous awards, including the Freedoms Foundation Award, the National Humanitarian Award from the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the Distinguished American Award from the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame and the Medal of Valor of the state of Israel.

He currently resides in Los Angeles, where he maintains an office.

NCAA intensifies data collection in study of academic performance

As the NCAA Study of the Academic Performance of Student-Athletes reaches the midway point this fall, the Association's research staff has intensified its data-gathering efforts in hopes of preparing the first of several preliminary reports early in 1990.

The Association's researchers say the report may include an initial analysis of the high school preparation and freshman academic performance of all Division I student-athletes who are being tracked in the study.

A similar study is under way for Division II; however, data collection will lag approximately two years behind that in Division I.

"The final data for the Division I study will not be collected until late in 1993, but there are several partial analyses that can be made as the data become available," said Todd A. Petr, NCAA assistant director of research. "We are in the process of collecting information on the study's last two groups of first-year student-athletes—those who began their freshman year in 1987 and 1988 so we soon will be able to make some comparisons among all freshman classes from 1984 to 1988."

Changes after '86

Most importantly, the data will reveal how the preparation, performance and demography of freshman student-athletes changed after 1986, the year Bylaw 14.3 (commonly called Proposition 48) went into effect.

"The overriding research question behind the study is: What have been the effects of Proposition 48?" said Ursula R. Walsh, NCAA director of research. "Specifically, has the high school preparation of freshman student-athletes improved? Has collegiate performance improved?"

"The results of this study will help us determine how well the standards established in Bylaw 14.3 predict the academic success of student-athletes. In addition, it will enable us to test other combinations of high school grade point averages and standardized-test scores to determine the cutting points that will best predict academic success and, at the same time, reduce the potential for a negative effect on minority groups."

Study is comprehensive

The NCAA study "may be the

The third in a series of forums on career counseling panels will focus more on the "nuts and bolts" of panels' efforts to advise student-athletes about their options in professional sports.

Honors program to be a dinner affair

The NCAA Convention honors program will be scheduled as a dinner event Monday, January 8, during the 84th annual meeting in Dallas.

The program was changed to accommodate the schedule of former President Ronald Reagan, who is this year's Teddy award recipient.

The honors dinner will be held from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The change in the program also will result in other scheduling changes in meetings and the addition of two delegate luncheons at the Convention.

Delegate luncheons will be offered Monday (January 8) and Tuesday (January 9) from noon to 1:15 p.m. for the convenience of delegates. The Administrative Committee, taking note of the location of the Loews Anatole and the difficulty in finding a range of luncheon alternatives, decided to provide two luncheons for delegates.

As a result of the change in the honors program to a dinner and the additional two luncheons, the registration fee has been increased from $50 to $70 because of the greater costs to the Association.

There also will be some minor adjustments in the time allotted for the division business sessions January 8, as well as scheduling of the Men's and Women's Committees on Committees meetings that day.

The general business session is scheduled Tuesday, January 9, and Wednesday, January 10, with adjournment planned for 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Hotel reservation forms and a composite meeting schedule will be mailed to member institutions at the end of October. A full Convention meeting schedule will appear in the October 30 issue of the News.

The Association will conduct a survey of the delegates at the Convention regarding various Convention issues. One item will solicit views regarding the Association's continuing to provide delegate luncheons as part of the registration fee or whether the fee should be lowered by not providing luncheons.

NYSP reached more than 55,000 youths last summer

Last summer, 55,851 youths participated in National Youth Sports Program projects in 42 states. More than 90 percent of those participants met Federal poverty guidelines.

A total of 56,919 medical examinations were given, and 8,628 participants were referred for further medical attention.

These figures were released during the October 12 to 15 meeting of the NYSP Committee in Kansas City, Missouri.

During its meeting, the committee reviewed evaluations of each of 135 projects. Five projects were commended as "outstanding." These projects were in compliance with all Federal guidelines, met all reporting deadlines for filing paper work and offered features that went beyond the requirements of the guidelines.

Another 23 projects received special recognition and three were ac-knowledgeable as most improved. Sixty-six other projects met all Federal guidelines.

Only 38 projects failed to meet all of the guidelines, down from approximately 60 in 1988. The committee attributed the decrease in part to NYSP's regional workshop program, which began before last summer. The program helps motivate projects to meet guidelines and responds to project staff members' concerns.

Each sponsoring institution will receive a letter that explains the status of its project and asks for recommendations for future compliance.

Three departing evaluators were recognized for service to NYSP. Barbara A. Thompson, an educator in Kansas City, Missouri, worked with the program for 17 years; Jerry W. Shelton, Floyd College in Georgia, eight years, and Henry D. Shannon of St. Louis Community College, Forest Park, six years. The committee also hired four new evaluators.

A workshop for the extended National Youth Sports Program will be held January 12 to 14 in San Antonio, Texas. The activity director, enrichment coordinator and drug-education specialist from each of the 45 participating projects will attend to help evaluate the pilot program.

I-A directors name award for Rice

The Division I-A Directors Association, under the administration of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, has named one of its three annual national awards after Homer C. Rice, athletics director at Georgia Institute of Technology.

The association, which annually presents The Delta Male and Female Scholar-Athlete Awards to the nation's top collegiate student-athletes, named its Division I-A Director Award after Rice at its inaugural luncheon October 10 in Tucson, Arizona.

The award will be known as the "Homer C. Rice Division I-A Directors Award" and will be presented annually to a past or present Division I-A director of athletics or conference commissioner who has contributed exemplary service to intercollegiate athletics in general and Division I-A concerns in particular.

NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz was the first winner of the award. After Schultz was presented with the honor, Milo R. Lude, director of athletics at the University of Washington and the chair of the directors association, announced that the award would be named for Rice.

"The officers deemed it appropriate that we name this award after Homer," said Lude. "He founded this organization, he spearheaded the Mission and Values Committee, and he founded our awards program. There is no one who has worked harder to make our association a viable one. And there is no one more appropriate to have his name on this award."

The Division I-A directors group in its fourth year.

Rice served as the first chair of the organization in 1986-87. He was also president of NACDA in 1986-87.

The Division I-A Delta Male Scholar-Athlete for 1989 is former Pennsylvania State University wrestler James Martin, the 1989 NCAA 126-pound national champion who has a 3.950 grade-point average in premedicine. The Delta Female Scholar-Athlete honoree was University of Nebraska, Lincoln, volleyball all-America Virginia Stahr, who compiled a 3.900 GPA in education. Both were honored in Tucson.

Rice is in his 10th year as director of athletics and assistant to the president at Georgia Tech. His career in athletics spans 39 years as a coach and an athletics director.

Holiday Bowl pay-out goes to $1 million

The earliest sellout in its history is one of the key ingredients enabling the Sea World Holiday Bowl to announce that it will guarantee a minimum of $1 million to each team participating in the 1989 game.

The Holiday Bowl also announced a new ESPN agreement that extends the original three-year pact signed in 1987.

Forty thousand seats in the 60,000-seat San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium are available for local distribution. The remaining 20,000 are held for the two teams in accordance with NCAA regulations.

The previous sellout record occurred in 1987 when the last of the local tickets were sold by November 15.

In 1988, ESPN had a 6.1 Holiday Bowl rating for the Oklahoma State-Wyoming game, making it the second most-watched event outside of NFL games in the history of the network.

News Fact File

From March 1, 1989, to August 29, 1989, the NCAA vita bank for women and ethnic minorities made a total of 340 referrals to 77 institutions. As of August 29, there were 193 registrants in the vita bank, of whom 135 were women and 58 were men. Sixty-eight of the 193 were ethnic minorities. Approximately 36 percent of those referred were considered for positions, and a third of those considered were interviewed.

NCAA Bylaw 14.3—qualifiers, partial qualifiers and nonqualifiers

The NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee recently approved the following initial-eligibility chart indicating how Bylaw 14.3 affects activities in which qualifiers, partial qualifiers and nonqualifiers may be involved. The NCAA Legislative Review Committee plans to include this chart in the 1990-91 NCAA Manual.

INITIAL ELIGIBILITY Divisions I and II

as nonqualifiers, in most cases reducing or eliminating the amount of financial aid they could receive as freshmen.

The Commission has proposed that the partial-qualifier category be retained and that such individuals be allowed to receive need-based, nonathletically related financial aid available to all other students. The Council in August favored eliminating financial aid from consideration in the Bylaw 14.3 provisions, thus allowing all nonqualifiers, including the current partial-qualifier category, to receive nonathletically related financial aid with certification that it was awarded without regard to athletics ability.

"The Council and the Presidents Commission are both agreed that we should seek to make certain that partial qualifiers have access to an education through some form of financial aid, and we are agreed that there should be no loosening of eligibility (for the freshman year)," Witte said.

"The Administrative Committee and the Presidents Commission executive committee will be meeting to work out any differences of emphasis that both groups might take," he said. The Division II Steering Committee continues to favor the Council's earlier approach for its division, while the Division I Steering Committee authorized the Administrative Committee to make a final determination regarding legislation for that division.

The Council declined to sponsor legislation to delay the effective date of Proposal No. 42 but noted that groups of members probably will submit that proposal, one to rescind No. 42 and possibly others to modify the partial-qualifier provisions.

Time demands

Noting the Commission's intention to sponsor legislation to reduce spring football practice, reduce the basketball playing and practice seasons, and require development of similar reductions in all other sports for future action, the Council had "a great deal of support for the idea of reducing the amount of time and the burden that athletes suffer from their involvement," Witte said. "There is some concern as to whether we can reach unanimity on the details."

"We strongly agree with the presidents that we should reduce the amount of time athletes spend... in athletics, but we want to assure that the steps taken are sensible and effective. I saw no signs of controversy with the Presidents Commission in this area, just some concerns regarding details."

The season-reduction proposals also will be discussed by the Administrative Committee and the Commission officers to see if a common position can be reached prior to the legislation deadline.

Other actions

In other actions at the Indianapolis meeting, the Council:

- Strongly supported Schultz's development of a certification program for Division I athletics programs and urged that it be implemented as a voluntary, pilot program in 1990.
- Voted to sponsor legislation to permit a Division I student-athlete to receive Pell Grant assistance in combination with other institutional financial aid that does not exceed the value of a full grant plus $1,700 or the actual cost of attendance at the institution, whichever is less. That would represent a $300 increase from the current $1,400 limitation.

- Agreed to sponsor legislation to extend the Association's current regulations regarding receipt of broken-time payments by student-athletes involved in participation on national teams and to permit student-athletes to take advantage of the U.S. Olympic Committee's health-insurance program.

"There is a felt need to work more closely and to develop better relationships with the USOC and the national governing bodies," Witte said. "We are hopeful that we can take some positive steps with this legislation."

A summary of all voting actions by the Council in the Indianapolis meeting will appear in the November 6 issue of the News.

present as part of a three-year program to assist member institutions in dealing with agents.

Among those invited to attend the event at the Kansas City International Airport Marriott are chairs of existing career counseling panels and faculty athletics representatives from institutions that have not formed panels.

NCAA legislation permits the establishment of on-campus career counseling panels to assist student-athletes in determining their options in professional sports and to provide information on player agents and related issues.

In addition to providing members of established panels with the opportunity to exchange ideas, the NCAA forums are designed to encourage the formation of career counseling panels at member institutions.

"In a sense, this is phase two," said Richard C. Perko, NCAA legislative assistant, who explained that the first two forums were designed "to find out what people want to know about and what people are doing."

"At the next forum, I think we'll get into the nuts and bolts of how a career counseling panel should work," he said.

Among topics of discussion at the forum are the Association's amateurism and professionalism legislation, a proposal to assist student-athletes in obtaining disability insurance, and methods of providing assistance to student-athletes in reviewing professional sports contracts.

Speakers scheduled to appear at the forum include Ed Garvey, the former executive director of the National Football League Players Association, who will describe his new program designed to "join competent agents with educated student-athletes," said Tom Condon, a player-agent based in Kansas City and a former NFL player. Other speakers will be announced at a later date.

The forum also will set aside time for a round-table discussion among career counseling panel members where they can discuss and resolve issues of mutual interest.

Those planning to attend the forum must register by using the form that appears elsewhere on this page. The registration fee is $15 in advance or $25 at the forum site.

Those requiring hotel reservations must call Sherry Abels at the NCAA (913/384-3220) by November 27. Travel and hotel accommodations are the responsibility of those attending.

Further information is available from Richard J. Evrard, director of legislative services, or Perko at the Association's national office.

most comprehensive data base on the academic preparation and performance of student-athletes ever assembled," said Petr. Each of the 291 Division I institutions has been assigned to one of five cohorts; each cohort collects data on the class entering college in the year assigned to it, beginning with 1984 and ending with 1988.

All student-athletes receiving grants-in-aid are tracked throughout their careers at the institutions, with school officials providing information on each athlete's high school preparation, core-curriculum grade-point average, SAT or ACT scores, declared majors, credits earned, college grade-point average, tutoring required, summer school hours, playing time, varsity status and more.

Because the last three cohorts were subject to the requirements of Bylaw 14.3 and the first two were not, the study will provide empirical data on how all of these variables have been affected by the legislation.

"The NCAA membership will have to make some difficult decisions about Proposition 48," Walsh said. "At least those decisions will have the benefit of scientifically obtained data."

Efforts doubled

NCAA members' eagerness to address the issue of initial eligibility has prompted Walsh's staff to nearly double its data-collection efforts. The amount of time between the end of summer school and the deadline for submitting data has been reduced drastically, and three cohorts are being asked to submit data from two academic years this fall.

Broadcasters urged to fight any limits on TV beer ads

Members of the National Association of Broadcasters have been asked to fight any move by the NCAA to limit beer advertising during the Division I Men's Basketball Championship, according to a report by Reuters news service.

Edward Fritts, president of the NAB, asked members October 20 to tell their local college and university officials that a restriction on ads by breweries, which advertise heavily on sports programs, would have a serious economic effect for broadcasters.

In a letter to member television and radio stations, Fritts said it appeared the NCAA was considering limiting beer ads to 60 seconds an hour as well as requiring that they be restricted to "educational messages," apparently referring to those ads that urge people to drink in moderation.

Fritts said the limitations could set a dangerous precedent. "Should such restrictions be duplicated with other sports," Fritts said. "We could see millions of dollars of ad revenues flow out of sports broadcasting."

Prep players made to hit books before taking on opponents

By Greg Sims
Dayton Daily News

When the NCAA instituted Proposition 48, I tried to tell my mother-in-law and aunt it was unfair.

They didn't say anything to me, but if looks could kill or maim, I would have been in trouble.

The argument against Proposition 48 is that the requirements are too stiff for inner-city kids living lives of the disadvantaged.

Sure, a kid can put forth the effort and achieve a 2.000 GPA, but will it help him on one of those (SAT or ACT) tests? Is the education he or she is getting anywhere near the same as the education a kid in the suburbs receives?

And what about the perception that the tests are written with a bias to test suburban kids?

That was the argument I was trying to deliver. My mother-in-law didn't buy it and I no longer do either, especially after hearing about Tom Montgomery's efforts at Dunbar High School.

Montgomery, the Wolverines' football coach, has been developing his own program to help his players develop and maintain study habits as well as 2.000 averages.

The program is simple. Each player has to attend study table one hour before practice, three days each week. At the end of the week, the players' grades are checked. If they are not par, they don't play.

Montgomery started the program three years ago — with good reason.

"When we played in the play-offs in 1986," Montgomery said, "we lost our star linebacker. He was academically ineligible. That alarmed us. So in 1987, we started the program. We didn't lose anybody. But after the season, we lost a lot of kids."

That was because football players were not required to attend study table after football season. Montgomery came up with a remedy for that.

"This year, when the season is over, we are still going to monitor players," he said. "We are going to make sure they are still making progress."

So now, Dunbar football players are required to attend study table from 3 to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday. When they arrive, they find four teachers there — one each for English, math, social studies and science.

"If they are having problems in a course, that teacher will tutor them,"

Top recruits pay little heed to recruiting rules, polls show

One hundred of the country's most highly regarded high school athletes scored an F average when quizzed about the rules and ethics of college recruiting, a newspaper survey revealed.

The Orlando Sentinel said the survey suggests the athletes themselves form a major link in a chain of corruption plaguing college athletics, because the athletes either don't know or don't care about their rights or ethical duties.

In telephone surveys with the newspaper, athletes identified by experts as the top 100 football and basketball recruits said they looked upon offers ranging from free T-shirts to cars as tokens of esteem or their share of the booty from a corrupt system.

"The college is going to make a lot of money off me. I'm going to put down what I want when I'm recruited and if we can't agree, I'll be on my way," said a basketball prospect from the Midwest whose name the Sentinel withheld.

"Even though we're getting a free education, it's nothing compared to what they're getting," said a football player from Florida. "I look at it as a way of extending my education without paying for it, and anything else if it's not traceable."

The survey showed other athletes were simply ignorant of the rules of college athletics recruitment, according to United Press International's report on the newspaper's survey.

Eight of 10 thought college boosters are permitted to participate in recruiting, and nearly one-third thought a booster could cosign a car loan for them. Nearly two-thirds mistakenly thought they were required to sign binding letters of intent with the college of their choice.

High school coaches contacted by the Sentinel said many of their young charges do not know the difference between right and wrong in terms of recruiting.

"I can see the mentality of these kids," said Bill Byrd, basketball coach at Redan High in Stone Mountain, Georgia. "Everybody cheats. Their parents expect it, and they expect it."

Some coaches believe the NCAA's limited immunity procedure is an impediment to cleaning up the system. NCAA officials defend that procedure, noting that it is seldom used in infractions cases and then only when it will result in information regarding serious violations that otherwise would not be available.

"We're just a microcosm of our own society," said Bobby Bowden, head football coach at Florida State University. "We let kids go just like society often lets criminals go. But we're not sending good signals out. If a person is guilty, he's guilty."

Other coaches said part of the problem is that NCAA rules are frequently changed. Several coaches admitted using outdated rules books.

Many of the athletes contacted by the Sentinel said they believe they are worth more to a college than a $30,000 scholarship. Some cited poverty as an excuse, but others rejected that argument.

"My family isn't rich. Neither of my parents graduated from high school, and I don't have everything I want," said David Mayfield, a defensive back from Morgantown, West Virginia. "But I would say, 'No,' (to illegal offers) and others should, too. A big college is offering you a scholarship. That's an honor."

Athletes do set goals, achieve them

Cynthia Patterson, associate athletics director
Southern Methodist University Athletic Administration

"In the seven or eight years that I have worked with student-athletes one-on-one, they have continued to delight me with their ability to set goals and achieve them. That is a great quality they have that is much greater than other students."

"If you say, 'This is what you need to do,' they do it. That doesn't mean some won't struggle to get there. Even the most gifted student is going to struggle sometimes, with the time commitment of athletics and a full-time academic load. But the majority of them will take whatever steps it takes to succeed, assuming they had a legitimate chance to succeed when they were recruited."

"Let the academic process take its natural course. Let the kid flunk (an exam) and learn that there is a direct relationship between being in class and passing a class. Athletes don't need special privileges, and they don't need breaks. They need support."

Bill Snyder, head football coach
Kansas State University
Des Moines Sunday Register

"I'm in favor (of a tie-breaker rule in Division I football)."

"It adds a little something to the game — a little color."

"There are times when ties have an impact on the outcome of the conference season, and you wish you had an opportunity to come back and play it off."

"My major concern would be how it was designed. One thing that all of us would be concerned about, when you play extra time, is that the injury factor increases when kids get tired. I wouldn't want it to be something that's going to last halfway through the night."

Don Leahy, athletics director
Creighton University
Omaha World-Herald

"A lot of us would like to see a shorter season (in basketball), but you tie that in with a minimum of 25 games and that would mean a substantial cut in income."

"Many of us are really fighting the battle of the dollar bill. That proposal would further complicate our problems."

Glen Mason, head football coach
University of Kansas
The Associated Press

"I happen to be in a program right now where I really need spring practice. I used to coach at Ohio State, where we went to a bowl every year. When the other programs finished, they were finished practicing in November, done with football. In our case, we had all those days to practice until January, and we thought that was a great advantage."

"By use of that bowl practice, our players were a year to a year and a half more mature in football. I don't know when we'd teach our players the game if we cut back on spring practice. I'm against it."

By way of compromise: "If you go to a bowl game, you lose spring practice. If you don't go to a bowl game, you get your spring practice."

Smith takes dim view of basketball proposals

The NCAA may want to help students graduate, but not at the expense of the lucrative television packages that bring in money for the organization, says basketball coach Dean Smith of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

During a news conference October 17 in Chapel Hill, Smith seemed disturbed when asked about recent NCAA Presidents Commission proposals to cut practice time and shorten the season, according to the Associated Press.

"The Presidents Commission recommendation kind of took me by surprise," Smith said. "I think politically, they feel they have to say something about basketball and football."

The Presidents Commission has proposed that the start of basketball practice be delayed one month, until November 15, and that three games be shaved from regular-season schedules to provide players more study time. The committee also recommended that no games be played before December 20.

"I don't have any idea what they can accomplish with their suggestion if it is to help the student-athlete," Smith said. "What it does is jam up more games in January and February, and that gives you three games a week — and they all can't be at home — vs. two games a week."

"I think if they are really serious, they should spread out the season and say you only practice three days a week and play only weekends," Smith said.

"Of course, the real thing to do is take away some interest and do away with the NCAA tournament."

Basketball on right track at Tulane, CEO Kelly says

Men's basketball returns to Tulane University this season, ending a four-year, self-imposed exile resulting from a point-shaving investigation and NCAA violations.

First-year head coach Perry Clark says he cannot wait to bring the Green Wave back to the hardwoods at Fogelberg Arena.

"I feel like a woman that's in about her seventh month. I'm just anxious to get this thing going," Clark said.

Tulane also returns to the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference following the school's decision to abandon the program in April 1985. The Green Wave's first regular-season game is at home against Texas Christian University November 24.

"I think we have really class kids and that's going to help us through the tough times," Clark told United Press International.

Tulane President Eamon M. Kelly indicated that he is confident the kind of problems that hit the basketball program in 1985 will not be repeated.

"The environment at Tulane has changed dramatically, because everyone knows where the university stands on ethical issues," he said.

"The confidence of the university community is reinforced by the fact that we have Chet Gladchuk as our athletics director and Perry Clark as our basketball coach, two men in whom I have complete confidence."

"The area that concerns me (regarding proposed cuts in Division I basketball season) is starting December 20, and your first league game could be January 2, 3 or 4. I have difficulty with that because you're going into the league with just two weeks of preseason games.

"Are basketball and football being unfairly singled out?"

"That's a good point. College swimmers are all over the world; the track people are running all over the world. But basketball and football are in the limelight, so they're getting hammered.

"Why? Because the bottom line is dollars."

"Colorado should be complimented for sticking with him (head football coach Bill McCartney) when times were tough, and they're now being rewarded.

"I think it's a tribute to Colorado's patience. More schools should look at that and not be so impatient. They should take a look at truly how it is when a guy gets there, and say, 'We've got the best guy we could get, and we're going to make a commitment to him.'"

"I think what I'm hearing from out among the Division I schools is there are huge financial problems and they want to find a way to cut costs.

"If, in fact, cost containment is a priority, those people who have to run the programs day in and day out can't isolate freshman ineligibility from cost containment."

You notice they didn't say anything about that. Of course, they won't because that's all the money for the NCAA.

"They also said they wanted to make it a one-semester sport. Well, that would be easy; make it the spring semester. But they say, 'I'm sorry, we have to play the tournament before The Masters (golf tournament)' because of television again. I think it's rather hypocritical to come up with something like that instead of really looking at the issue.

"If you want to make it a spring semester sport, do it. The pros are still playing in the spring. Have a national tournament in May; start in January. That would be doing what you say you want to do."

"I like the idea of the presidents being involved... but I was hopeful it would be more of a thing where they would listen to other (qualified) people," Smith said.

"I think coaches as a whole could accomplish much more, especially if you get a smaller number," he said.

"It's funny... (in) baseball and golf, at least 80 years ago when I played, we missed a lot of class," Smith joked. "They never mention those sports."

Montgomery said. "If they are not having problems in a subject, they study ahead. If they don't attend study table, they can't go to practice. There has to be a legitimate, legitimate reason for them to miss study table."

The athletes study before practice because they will be tired afterward.

The program has been so successful that Montgomery has gotten all Dunbar coaches to use it. And the school has received funding for it.

Now, all schools in the Dayton City League are working through a tutorial program.

Whether this has an effect on players passing college boards has yet to be seen.

"It's too early to tell," Montgomery said. "Some kids are good test-takers and some are not."

It can't hurt.

And you have to believe that Proposition 48 gives athletes some reason, if not inspiration, to take the study routine seriously. There is no guarantee that a student-athlete can attend any college he or she wants to. But if they put forth the effort, they'll go to college somewhere.

More important, they'll know they tried their best. No one can take that away.

I-A passing, total offense at record-setting pace

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

The nation's hot passers stayed on their all-time-record pace October 21 with a fourth consecutive 400-yard Saturday, but do not overlook the runners who helped produce another high scoring day in Division I-A.

For instance, Indiana tailback Anthony Thompson, whose career touchdowns (58) are just one short of the all-time Division I-A record of 59 set by the legendary Glenn Davis of Army from 1943 to 1946 and tied by Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett (1973 to 1976).

Thompson, the national scoring leader, was overlooked last year, when his 24 TDs—surpassed by only four players in history—were 15 behind the 39 by Barry Sanders of Oklahoma State, the Heisman Trophy winner. Thompson lost his No. 1 rank in rushing when Florida's Emmitt Smith had a 316-yard game October 21 to squeeze ahead, 161.1 yards per game to Thompson's 160.8.

The latest spree brought the national passing average to 395 yards per game, both teams combined, far above the record 372.2 set in 1985. Total offense per game moved up to 725.1, above last year's record final 720.6.

Scoring increased to 46.9, still below last year's final 47.5.

Houston's record game

The biggest spree took place in Houston, where the run-and-shoot Cougars ran up some record figures—771 yards passing and 1,021 total offense (11.9 yards per play)—in a 95-21 victory over Southern Methodist's mostly freshman squad. Andre Ware, Houston quarterback, played only the first half but passed for 517 yards, the most ever in one half. His 340 and five TD passes in the second quarter also were records. It was the most points scored in college football since Houston beat Tulsa, 100-6, in 1968, also in the Houston Astrodome. But it is not a one-team thing. If Houston's six games were wiped off the books, the other 376 I-A games to date would average 390.3 passing, 721.7 total offense and 46.6 points, only a tiny reduction in each case.

Houston is on a I-A record pace in passing (542.8), total offense (663.2) and scoring (57.3). So is Ware in passing (430.7 per game), total offense (411.5) and TD passes (4.5). Remember, however, that the toughest part of Houston's schedule is to come. Its foes to date rank 83rd with a .391 winning percentage, while its remaining schedule ranks 22nd at .591.

Hot quarterbacks

Not all the hot quarterbacks are in Division I-A, by any means.

For instance, one of the more formidable collegiate, or all-divisions, records is held by Jack Trudeau of Illinois—215 consecutive passes without interception in 1985. Four passers, three of them in Division I-AA, have made a run at Trudeau's record this season, and one is still in pursuit.

Kirk Baumgartner of Wisconsin-Stevens Point came the closest, reaching 205 in a row before having one picked off October 21, but he set a Division III record. The 6-4 senior is the division's record-holder in career passing at 11,992 yards and total offense at 11,782 as well as TD passes at 99. With three games left, he ranks third in collegiate passing behind Portland State's Neil Lomax, 13,220 yards in a career that ended in 1980, and Mississippi Valley State's Willie Totten, 12,711

Florida's Emmitt Smith leads Division I-A rushers with a 161.14-yard average

Ernest Thompson, Georgia Southern, ranks among leading Division I-AA scorers

Butler's Steve Roberts is ranked among Division II rushers, punt returners

Steve Ginavan of Pittsburg State is a leading Division II punt returner yards through 1985, so he still has an outside chance for No. 1.

Tennessee Tech senior Thomas Debow is next at 199 straight, ending October 14. But he still set a I-AA record. His streak started last season.

Idaho's John Friesz had a streak of 174 ended October 21. He leads all I-AA passers in efficiency at 172.2 points, remarkable considering that he throws more than 35 passes a game. The 6-4 senior seems certain to top 10,000 career yards and has only six interceptions vs. 24 touchdowns this season. Despite injuring the pinkie finger on his throwing hand October 14, he completed a I-AA record 84.8 percent (28 of 33) against Montana State.

Maine senior Mike Buck still has a chance at Trudeau's collegiate record and Debow's Division I-AA record. He has 176 passes in a row without an interception, 165 this top in its conference.

Me superstitious?

Montclair State coach Rick Giancola was looking for a solution after his team lost its season opener to Central Connecticut State, and Jill Jeffrey, head coach in women's basketball, had just the thing. She gave him a bag of pumpkin seeds and said: "Eat these. You won't lose again." That Saturday, his team upset East Stroudsburg (a Division II team), and it has won every week since, through October 21. And every Monday morning, although Giancola says pumpkin seeds have nothing to do with the winning streak ("Superstitious? Me?"), he enters the office looking for Jeffrey. She hands him a bag of pumpkin seeds, and he eats some every day. (Al Langer, Montclair State SID)

Academic standouts

Missouri Southern State senior quarterback Alan Brown, a 3.300

a punt and 90 with a kickoff. He plans a career in teaching and coaching. (Patsi Barnes Trollinger, Emory and Henry SID)

Augsburg senior Kerry Owen, a 3.400 student majoring in psychology, really knows his way around the offensive line. A four-year starter, he lines up at right guard but has played both guards, both tackle positions, center and tight end (he caught an 11-yard TD pass in his first game there). (Gene McGovern, Augsburg SID)

Quarterback Tim Day, tailback Shane LaHousse and fullback Garret Moose are called the "Rocket Backfield" at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. All have speed and power, but what really sets this trio apart is that all are majoring in aerospace engineering. (Roger Crosley, Massachusetts Institute of Technology SID)

Quotes of the week

Liberty coach Sam Rutigliano at his weekly luncheon on his team winning two straight cliffhangers over Eastern Illinois and Eastern Michigan to remain undefeated: "The Lord can't bail us out every week." On publicity: "It is like perfume—it's OK unless you swallow." On praise: "The difference between a pat on the back and a kick in the pants is about six inches."

The team's bus driver at Eastern Michigan game was a Detroit Lions follower. He told the coach that he was hoping the Lions "would hire that guy who used to coach the Cleveland Browns (Rutigliano)." Then he looked back at the coach and said, "Did anyone ever tell you that you look like Sam Rutigliano?" When he learned he was talking to Rutigliano, he nearly drove the bus off Interstate 94. (Mitch Goodman, Liberty SID)

Cal State Sacramento's Drew Long, as the holder on a fake field-goal play, threw his first college touchdown pass in a 31-19 victory over Southern Utah State. Long, a quarterback in high school, was asked what he was thinking as he came out of his crouch and turned to throw. He said, "Man, those guys are big!" (Jeff Minahan, Cal State Sacramento SID)

Cincinnati coach Tim Murphy recently took a page out of Houston Oilers coach Jerry Glanville's book. When the Cincinnati ticket office received an order for 37 tickets to its October 14 Memphis State game from a Robert E. Lee, Murphy insisted that Lee be charged for only 36: "If Glanville can leave tickets for Elvis Presley, I can leave one for Robert E. Lee." (Tom Hathaway, Cincinnati SID)

Louisville's fourth annual athletics department symposium was attended by more than 300 student-athletes. They heard Phillip Bond, 1976 academic all-America in basketball at Louisville and now a certified public accountant and vice-president of the city's Metro United Way. "You have a great opportunity," he said. "Any play in athletics competition has options. When the first option doesn't work, you go to the next. For many players, the first option is sports, and if they do not take their studies seriously, they could have no second option." (Jeff Schneider, Louisville SID)

Can you top this?

DePauw staged one of the greatest comebacks in college football history to edge Anderson, 37-36, October 7. Down by 27 points (36-9) with 19 minutes left in the game, DePauw scored 28 unanswered points to win. The Division III record for most points overcome to win a game is 33, set by Wisconsin-Platteville vs. Wisconsin-Eau Claire in 1980 and tied by Salisbury State vs. Randolph-Macon in 1984. (Bill Wagner, DePauw SID)

However, Wisconsin-Platteville trailed 33-0 with seven minutes left in the second quarter and had 38 minutes to score its 33 points, while Salisbury State was down 33-0 with 14:18 left in the second period and had almost 43 minutes to score its 34 points.

The most-points-overcome records in the other divisions are below the III figure. From the standpoint of most points overcome per minute, only one game we know of exceeds DePauw's feat. That was in 1984 when Washington State, down by 28 points to Stanford (42-14) with about 19 minutes left in the game, scored 35 unanswered points to win, 49-42.

Houston's Andre Ware passed for an NCAA record 517 yards in one half to lead the Cougars to a 95-21 victory over Southern Methodist season, and ranks second to Friesz in efficiency at 171.1. The 6-4 Buck has 13 TD passes this season.

Football notes

Friesz is second in I-A total offense at 346.8 yards per game, a shade behind Todd Brunner of Lehigh at 347.3, with Holy Cross sophomore Tom Ciaccio third and Stephen F. Austin State senior Todd Hammel fourth.

In I-A, Brigham Young sophomore Ty Detmer leads in efficiency at 167.4 points, although, like Friesz, he is throwing more than 35 times a game. Detmer also ranks second to Ware in total offense at 370.4, followed by the 1988 champion, 6-6 Utah junior Scott Mitchell, and San Diego State's 6-8 Dan McGuire. Virginia junior Shawn Moore is second in efficiency, a notch above West Virginia junior Major Harris.

Quality freshmen

As an example of the talent level coming out of the high schools, three freshmen rank in the national I-A top 10 in passing efficiency and three more are in the top 40.

Gino Torretta of Miami (Florida) is fourth at 154.3, Pittsburgh's Alex Van Pelt is eighth at 146.5, Texas' Peter Gardere is 10th at 139.8, Washington State's Aaron Garcia is 12th at 137.3, Southern California's Todd Marinovich is 26th at 131.6 and UCLA's Bret Johnson 40th at 121.2.

Torretta, Garcia and Marinovich stepped in when the starter was injured and each has done an outstanding job. Van Pelt's team is 5-0-1 going against Notre Dame October 28. Gardere has led Texas to the student (4.000 scale) as a marketing and management major, has overcome leukemia and four coaching changes to become an accomplished quarterback who says, "I can probably tell you about more different offenses than just about any college quarterback."

In his first two seasons in junior college, the 5-9, 175-pounder ran a multiple offense, then the wing-T. Last season, using the run-and-shoot, he threw for 2,373 yards and set 14 school records. This season, he is running the veer. His fifth head coach, Jon Lantz, says, "He's just a great kid to coach; guys like Alan Brown are the reason I'm coaching. He's a survivor."

As a third-grade kid in Phoenix, Arizona, Brown wore a baseball cap to school every day. Sometimes, other kids would take the hat and tease him. That he could handle, but the taunting about his baldness was humiliating. He underwent three years of chemotherapy, spinal taps to extract bone marrow samples and 25 pills a day. The leukemia has been in remission nearly 10 years. Only recently has Brown started talking about it: "A lot of kids out there are going through traumas like this. I think it's encouraging for them to see someone like me." (Dennis Slusher, Missouri Southern State SID)

Doug Reaves, senior defensive back at Emory and Henry and an honor student with a 3.700 GPA as a history major, has three runback touchdowns already this season—76 yards on an interception, 63 with

He was 71. Calihan also was an all-America player at Detroit during the 1930s. Jim Bridwiser, a starting shortstop on the Southern California baseball team that won the 1948 College World Series, died August 25 in El Toro, California, from complications of brain cancer. He was 62. He also played in the major leagues for parts of seven seasons.

CORRECTIONS

A story in the October 9 issue of The NCAA News on a contract between the Sunkist Fiesta Bowl and NBC television incorrectly reported amounts paid to competing teams in last year's Mobil Cotton Bowl Classic and USF&G Sugar Bowl. The Cotton Bowl paid $2,600,692 and the Sugar Bowl paid $3 million.

Due to an editor's error, a story on NCAA championships competition in the October 9 News incorrectly stated that an NCAA champion will be crowned this season for the first time outside the contiguous 48 states. The 1987 National Collegiate Men's and Women's Skiing Championships were staged in Anchorage, Alaska, where Utah won the team title.

CLARIFICATION

As reported in a story on NCAA championships competition in the October 9 issue of The NCAA News, the Executive Committee has approved establishment of combined-scoring championships in men's and women's fencing in 1990. However, a proposal to revise Bylaw 18.3 to officially establish the event will be voted on at the 1990 Convention as the result of action by the NCAA Council at its August meeting. If the proposal is approved at the Convention, the legislation would take effect immediately.

Tar Heels seek a seventh women's soccer crown

The North Carolina women's soccer team (17-0) continues its quest for a perfect season and soon will try for a seventh title in the eight-year history of the Division I women's championship. The Tar Heels finished second behind George Mason in 1985.

Winning still is the norm at North Carolina thanks largely to all-American Shannon Higgins. Named the 1988 NCAA tournament's most valuable offensive player, the senior midfielder has improved her game, according to coach Anson Dorrance.

"Shannon has risen to even another level," Dorrance said. "I can't see another player coming close to her if she keeps turning in the performances she has this season."

Also leading the Tar Heels' attack is freshman forward Kristine Lilly, whose team-leading 11 goals (as well as three assists) complement Higgins' nine goals and seven assists.

Senior midfielder Tracey Bates, who injured her right knee in a 3-0 victory over North Carolina State, recently had the cast removed. Bates redshirted in 1988 with a foot fracture but returned to earn a spot on the U.S. national team.

Second-ranked

Colorado College (12-1) recently defeated Denver, 7-0, to give head coach Dang Pibulvech his 100th victory at the school. The Tigers, ranked No. 2 in the nation by the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America, have four games remaining in the regular season.

"It's been a big accomplishment for us to hold on to a No. 2 ranking after playing the tough schedule that we do," Pibulvech said. "I'm a firm believer that the tougher your schedule is, the more ready your players will be for tournament time.

"I'm pleased with our level of play; there are a few things we still need to improve on, but I'm pretty confident with the team and think we have a good shot at getting into the tournament," he added.

Pibulvech's team has been lucky as far as injuries go. Early in the season, five starters were out. The only key player out now is Shelley Separovich, who has lower-back problems. "It could very well be that Shelley will see limited action for the remainder of the season,"

Pibulvech said.

Connecticut strong

Connecticut's only loss this season was to North Carolina, and coach Len Tsantiris is pleased with his 12-1-2 team's play. The Huskies are on a seven-game winning streak, with regular-season games remaining against William and Mary, North Carolina State, and Hartford.

"We've been playing tough teams every game so these last three will be no different," Tsantiris said. "Every team in New England is very aggressive, so I think my players are well-trained to play under pressure. We're ready to play anybody."

Leading the Huskies' scoring is Britton Arico with 12 goals and six assists. "Britton's playing really well and has been scoring goals and creating opportunities. She's a very skillful, aggressive player," Tsantiris said of the junior.

Sharing duties in goal are junior Amy Miller (0.45 goals-against average in 14 games) and sophomore Wendy Logan (0.43 goals-against average in 10 games).

Event: Division I women's soccer.

Field: At least one team from each of five regions will be selected for the 12-team, single-elimination tournament. The remaining teams will be selected at large.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: North Carolina. The Tar Heels successfully defended their 1987 title with a 4-1 victory over North Carolina State.

Schedule: All games will be played at on-campus sites. First-round games will be completed by November 5 and second-round games will be played by November 12. Semifinals and the championship game will be November 18-19 on the campus of one of the semifinalists.

The NCAA News coverage: Scores and pairings from first- and second-round games will appear in the November 6 and 13 issues of the News. Complete results of the semifinals and championship will be published November 20.

Contenders: Colorado College, Connecticut, North Carolina, UC Santa Barbara, William and Mary.

Play-off notes: North Carolina has the best winning percentage in the championship (.952), followed by George Mason (.643), Central Florida (.600) and Massachusetts (.588). Only Connecticut, Massachusetts and North Carolina have appeared in all seven tournaments. North Carolina set a goals-against-average record by holding opponents scoreless in the 1987 tournament.

its favor, it has something just as important — agility.

The 13-2 Gauchos rely on speed and mental quickness to overcome opponents, and that worked against all but two teams — North Carolina and North Carolina State. Bobak's team has games remaining against 13th-ranked California, 19th-ranked Stanford and U.S. International.

The leading Gaucho scorer is senior Dianne Manore with nine goals and three assists. Junior Kiersten Taub has scored five goals and seven assists, and Trisha Kimble has six goals and five assists.

Tending the net is Jan Urich, who has allowed eight goals in 15 games for a 0.53 goals-against average. She has 10 shutouts.

Seattle Pacific's Moe hopes to add to her NCAA titles

By J. Gregory Summers
The NCAA News Staff

Bente Moe has been so good for so long that it seems as though she has been around forever.

Although she hasn't been running cross country and track at Seattle Pacific University for quite that long, Moe still can claim NCAA individual championships in five straight academic years if she wins her second Division II women's cross country title in November.

Not only have observers of Division II track been hearing Moe's name for a long time, they also have heard it often. Since bursting onto the American running scene as a freshman by finishing first in the 1985 Division II Women's Cross Country Championships, the Norwegian distance runner has been a repeat outdoor track titlist in both the 5,000 meters (1986 and 1988) and 10,000 meters (1987 and 1989). In three cross country championships, four 5,000-meter finals and four 10,000-meter finals, Moe has finished no worse than third.

After taking the first quarter of last year off to run the Olympic marathon for Norway, Moe has returned for her fourth and final season of cross country eligibility. She wants to repeat the championship performance of her freshman year, which she regards as one of the highlights of her college career.

'Much harder'

"It would be fun to win the championship again," Moe said, "but it will be much harder because the competition is better and because of all that's happened this season."

She was referring to a streak of injuries and bad luck that began in June, when she sustained a stress fracture in her upper right leg while running in a local road race. She was unable to run for eight weeks and could not begin training for the coming season until mid-August.

A month after returning to training, and just a week before her first invitational meet, Moe was hit by a car while riding her bike and received numerous scratches and bruises. Ironically, she was on her way to get a physical examination to certify that she was ready to compete this season.

"It's been one thing after another," she said. "Coming back has taken time, but I'm pretty happy with my progress so far. Obviously, I'm behind what I've done before...but not too far behind."

She finished seventh in her first meet, the Emerald City Invitational September 23, with a time of 17:55 over five kilometers. That's a strong finish for most runners, but it was the first time in 17 career cross country races that Moe had not finished first or second.

She bounced back the following weekend by posting her 11th career win at the Simon Fraser Invitational.

Coach encouraged

Although she finished fifth a week later in the Casey Invitational—a race she won in 1985, 1986 and 1987—her coach was encouraged by her performance (16:36 over three miles).

"She ran only about 20 seconds behind what she ran two years ago when she won it," said Doris Heritage, who holds the record of four career Casey victories. "But there was hot competition this year; the top three finishers broke the course record. Bente got caught behind a group of runners at a mile-long stretch that is uphill and winds through trees and roots, so she couldn't pass."

"She's been running pretty well lately in workouts. I think she's over her stress fracture."

Moe estimates she will be running at about 90 percent by the November 4 regional qualifying meet. She hopes that will be enough to enable her to qualify for the Division II championships November 18, when she should be at 100 percent.

But even at full strength, Moe does not consider herself one of the favorites to win the individual title. "To be honest, I don't think I'm fast enough," she said. "But I'll give them a good race, that's all I know."

Races too short

Moe said cross country races are not quite long enough for her to take full advantage of her strength: extraordinary endurance. At age 28, she is in her prime as a distance runner, but she is encountering more runners who have great speed and just enough stamina to stay ahead of her for five kilometers.

"Bente's asset is starting out and hanging on to her pace," Heritage said. "Her strength is endurance, rather than speed. Her marathon pace is pretty much her cross country pace."

Still, Moe enjoys cross country more than the 10,000 meters and the marathon, races for which she may be better suited. She enjoys the challenge of the shorter race and the variety of courses she must negotiolate. "I just wish it were a five- or six-mile race, because three miles is too short," she added.

Three miles was just enough for her at the Summer Games in Seoul, however. That was how far Moe ran in the marathon before she developed leg cramps that forced her to leave the race. Before she withdrew, however, she ran another 15 miles, a further testament to her stamina.

Moe would like to return to the Olympics in 1992 for her native Norway. In the meantime, she has her sights set on graduating next spring or early next summer. An excellent student (3.900 grade-point average in computer science), Moe will attend graduate school in the fall at the University of Washington to pursue an advanced degree in biostatistics.

She would like to remain in the United States—specifically, the Seattle area—after she completes her education.

"I'd like to stay here, but a lot depends on what happens with my visa and things like that," she said. "But we'll see what happens. I really like it here."

New champion is likely in III women's soccer

The only surprise among contenders for the Division III Women's Soccer Championship is that defending champion William Smith, which was ranked No. 1 in the preseason, is not among the top-ranked teams any longer.

The Herons, who claimed a 1-0 overtime victory over UC San Diego to take the 1988 title, were ranked No. 1 in the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America's preseason poll but have dropped slowly to No. 13.

Rochester, UC San Diego, Plymouth State and Methodist, on the other hand, have remained in the first through fourth spots, respectively, since mid-September.

Top-ranked Rochester's 13-0-1 record includes 12 shutouts and a scoreless tie, a record that coach Terry Gurnett is naturally proud of. "The teams in our region have been very close all season, so to be ranked No. 1 is an accomplishment we're proud of," Gurnett said.

"Playing in our region teaches humility because the teams are so even that any one could win on any given day. Clearly the other regions' top teams are as good as our top teams, but I don't think the other regions' fifth- or sixth-ranked teams are equal to ours," he said.

"The big thing we have to do now is to make sure that we take each game one at a time," Gurnett said. "You just have to be ready to answer that higher calling once you get to tournament time."

Top players on the squad are Rochester's all-time leading scorer, senior Lisa Caracillo, who has eight goals and eight assists this season; senior Laura Galina, who has eight goals and three assists; Ann Frederick, and stopper/back Penny Wade-rich.

UC San Diego (12-1) remained undefeated and unscored on until Event: Division III women's soccer.

Field: This 16-team, single-elimination tournament will feature two teams from each of four geographical regions, with eight teams selected at large.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Last year, William Smith became the second team to win the title in the three-year history of the Division III tournament. The victory came with a 1-0 overtime defeat of UC San Diego.

Schedule: All games will be played at on-campus sites. First- and second-round games are set for November 4-5. Semifinals and the championship final will be played November 11-12.

The NCAA News coverage: Scores and pairings will appear in the November 6 issue of the News, and championship results will be published November 13.

Contenders: Methodist, Plymouth State, Rochester, UC San Diego.

Play-off notes: Nine of the 15 games played in last year's tournament were shutouts, including William Smith's victory in the final. The biggest scoring margin last year came in William Smith's 6-0 victory over Alfred in first-round action. Tournament newcomers last year included Salem State, Brandeis, Alfred, Allegheny, North Carolina Wesleyan and Kalamazoo. Of those newcomers, Kalamazoo was the only team to advance to the second round. Semifinal losers in the championship are credited with third-place finishes.

No clearcut favorite in Division III men's soccer

This season has been an unusual one in Division III men's soccer one of ups and downs.

Defending champion UC San Diego was ranked first in the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America's preseason poll but since has fallen to 17th place.

Last year's runner-up, Rochester Institute of Technology, bounced from second place to 10th and back, and Messiah dropped eight places after being top-ranked in the nation for five straight weeks.

All this bouncing around in the polls indicates there is no clear-cut leader in competition for the Division III title.

Messiah (15-2) fell out of the top spot after a loss to Muhlenberg. Coach Layton Shoemaker said the Falcons were hurt by key injuries.

"We played Muhlenberg without our leading scorer, Doug Alioth, who is out with a knee injury that he sustained in an October 7 game," Shoemaker explained. "Doug had scored 18 goals up until the time he was injured. We also played that game without one of our leading freshmen."

"We're going to try to play Doug in a very crucial game against Elizabethtown," Shoemaker added. "It's a backyard rivalry, so that really increases the level of competition. Last year, we lost to them in overtime in the regular season but defeated them, 3-0, in the regional final.

"I think right now that if you looked at the teams in our division, the level of competition is very even among all of us. There is no clear-cut leader."

Shoemaker described the Falcons as stuck on a plateau. "We need to find something to get us to the next level. It could very well be Doug's coming back into the game."

Ohio Wesleyan coach Jay Martin also feels the division title race is wide-open. "There are a lot of good teams out there. In the past, the top 10 teams were predictable. But this year, the top 15 or so teams have only a couple of losses each," he said.

"The rankings really reflect the parity this year."

Leading the 13-1 Battling Bishops in scoring are Andy Kessinger and Scott Gillanders. Kessinger has nine goals and six assists, and Gillanders, a junior, has 11 goals and five assists.

Martin, however, is surprised the team is doing so well, considering it lost eight starters from last year, including the entire defense.

"We don't have a senior on the team," Martin said. "The team has really come together, though. The guys came in knowing that we had no superstars and that in order for us to be successful, each of them would have to give it his all every game."

Rochester Institute of Technology held the No. 2 spot in the rankings for four consecutive weeks before dropping to 10th, then rebounded to second in the October 13 rankings. The Tigers, led by 10-year head coach Doug May, have a 13-1

III field hockey season may be headed into overtime again

Trenton State's Diane Rausenberger, all-tournament in 1988

The word "overtime" conjures up thoughts of a hard-fought, evenly matched contest that requires a little extra to yield a winner.

Overtime has been a consistent but not dominating occurrence in Division III Field Hockey Championship play. Since the championship began in 1981, at least one game has gone into extra periods each year.

In 1985, six of 16 contests required overtime. Last year, four games went into extra periods, including one semifinal contest and the title game. That was the second time a final went beyond regulation; in 1982, the championship was decided by penalty strokes.

This year, the NCAA Field Hockey Committee has modified the overtime procedure for regular-season and championship competition.

The first overtime period lasts 10 minutes. If the score is still tied at the end of that period, the next overtime period comes to an end as soon as a goal is scored. In championship play, up to two 10-minute sudden-death overtime periods may be played and then penalty strokes

Championship Profile

Event: Division III field hockey.

Field: The 16-team field will be made up of two teams from each of five regions and six at-large selections.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Trenton State. Jill Shipley scored the decisive goal as the Lions defeated Bloomsburg, 3-2, in double overtime.

Schedule: Regional competition will be November 3-4, and the semifinals, third-place game and championship will be played November 10-11. All games will be played at on-campus sites.

The NCAA News coverage: Regional scores and semifinal pairings will appear November 6. Championship results will be published November 13.

Contenders: Trenton State, Lock Haven, Bloomsburg, Cortland State.

Play-off notes: This is the ninth championship. The first title game in 1981 is the only final in which the winning margin was more than one goal. Trenton State defeated Franklin and Marshall, 2-0. That game and Bloomsburg's 1-0 decision over William Smith in 1987 have been the only shutouts in the championship game. No team has won consecutive championships. Bloomsburg has played in the final game three straight years. Trenton State has the most titles with four and has reached the semifinals every year except 1987. In 1988, Sharon Reilly of Bloomsburg set a championship record for goals scored with six and tied the record for goals in a game with four.

will be used to decide the winner.

"You really have to be in your game," Trenton State coach Sharon Goldbrenner said about playing in overtime. Her team won last year's double-overtime title match against Bloomsburg.

"The players have to feel confident because (the season) is coming down to minutes and seconds," she said.

Bloomsburg coach Jan Hutchinson concentrates on helping her players remain calm when a contest goes into overtime. She tries to get the players to "focus on basics and not worry about the time."

Conditioning also is a consideration in extra periods; she believes her teams have graded high in that category.

Basics are high on Goldbrenner's list of overtime keys. She said the difference between winning and losing may depend on players' ability to capitalize on opportunities or simply to be in the right place at the right time.

"You don't have to do anything flashy, just execute a fundamental skill," she said.

Hutchinson believes there is little difference between the pressure of playing a full overtime period and sudden death. She thinks it is important to score first, regardless.

losing, 1-0, to Cal State Dominguez Hills two weeks ago. The Tritons have outscored opponents 62-1.

The scoring frenzy has been spearheaded by senior Heather Mauro and Felicia Faro. A two-time all-America, Mauro has 21 goals and five assists, while Faro has 15 goals and eight assists.

Senior goalkeeper Julie Friess, who has 12 shutouts this season and 43 in her career, leads the defense.

With four games remaining before the tournament, coach Brian McManus' Tritons hope to capture their first title in the four-year history of the tournament. The squad was second last year to William Smith and tied with Cortland State for third place in 1986.

Plymouth State has a 10-1 record and is ranked first in its conference, which pleasantly surprises coach Phil Rowe. "We have only three seniors on the squad—Mary St. Germain, Kristen Dougherty and Shelly Szumiesz." "Mary has really anchored the defense and her leadership as a senior has shown on the field throughout the season. Kristen has excellent speed, which makes her a big scoring threat, and Shelly anchors the backfield for us. And we have junior Traci Walker, our leading scorer."

Rowe says the Panthers have been very consistent since losing their only game, to Division II opponent Keene State. "Remaining consistent throughout the season is something I think all coaches strive for," he said.

"We have a couple of tough regional games teams remaining, and we finish against quality opponents. It really helps prepare us for the tournament," he added.

Although Methodist's 11-5 record may not seem that impressive, coach Joe Pereira is proud of his squad. "Four of those losses have been to Division I teams and the other was to the top-ranked Division II team," he said. "And two of the Division I losses we took into overtime."

"We feel that we're stronger than we were last year, and playing a tough schedule has been a tremendous boost in preparing the team for playing Division III teams. I'm pleased with the way we've handled it," Pereira added.

Two-time all-America Anne Thorpe and freshman Leigh Murray lead the Lady Monarchs' attack. Thorpe has 19 goals and 12 assists this season and Murray has 20 goals and eight assists.

"With those two up front, we're a big scoring threat," Pereira said. "They've been a tremendous one-two punch for us all year long."

"Also, I really like our defense, which is pretty basic. The 10 shutouts we have recorded are because our goalkeeper, Andrea Ellison, has done a very good job," Pereira added.

Legislation and Interpretations Committee minutes

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Legislation and Interpretations Committee took the following actions:

Recruiting

1. Complimentary or reduced admissions for high school, college preparatory school or two-year college coaches. Reviewed the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 13.8.1 and the intent of 1988 Convention Proposal No. 124, and confirmed that:

a. In Division I, member institutions are required to utilize a pass-list system to distribute complimentary or reduced admissions to high school, college preparatory school or two-year college coaches;

b. In Division II, member institutions also are required to utilize a pass-list system to distribute complimentary or reduced admissions to high school, college preparatory or two-year college coaches; however, "hard" tickets for campus athletics events may be provided to visiting prospective student-athletes, and

c. In Division III, "hard" tickets may be issued to both prospective student-athletes and high school, college preparatory school or two-year college coaches.

Practice

2. Activities prior to permissible preseason on-court practice in the sport of basketball.

Reviewed the provisions of Bylaws 12.5.1, 17.02.11.1 and 17.3.2.1, as well as a previous staff interpretation, and determined that a member institution would be permitted per Bylaw 12.5.1 to have its student-athletes participate in team promotional activities (e.g., autograph sessions, fan picture sessions, meeting with fans) involving the assembling of team members prior to the start of preseason on-court practice at midnight October 15, provided these promotional arrangements do not involve any of the practice activities prohibited under the provisions of Bylaw 17.3.2.1.2.

Playing and practice seasons

3. Camps and clinics. Reviewed the provisions of Bylaws 13.12, 17.01.3, 17.6.5 and 17.6.6, and confirmed that field hockey student-athletes would be precluded from participation as campers (as distinguished from being employed as counselors) in their institution's summer field hockey camp, noted that this principle would apply to other sports with playing- and practice-season restrictions, inasmuch as such an arrangement is contrary to the prohibition against out-of-season practice.

Coaches

4. Professional team's scout employed as a member institution's coach in another sport. Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 11.3.3.1 and a previous committee interpretation (reference: Item No. 6 of the minutes of the committee's September 15, 1988, conference), and confirmed that a member institution would be precluded from employing a professional football team's part-time scout as the institution's part-time women's basketball coach, noting that the current provisions of Bylaw 11.3.3.1 could not be applied on a sport-by-sport basis.

Satisfactory progress

5. Academic year of residence/use of remedial course work (Divisions I and II).

Reviewed recommendations from the NCAA Academic Requirements Committee regarding the application of the satisfactory-progress rule, noting that these recommendations were made in response to a Legislation and Interpretations Committee request (reference: Item No. 6 of the minutes of the committee's December 7, 1988, conference), and confirmed the following interpretations:

a. The definition of "year of residence" for purposes of initiating the requirement for satisfactory-progress certification (as distinguished from the residence requirement for the transfer and initial-eligibility rules) is based on full-time enrollment and attendance

Conference No. 15
September 28, 1989

during any portion of a term in an academic year, except that when a student-athlete is granted a medical absence waiver per Bylaw 14.5.4-(c) during the first year of academic residence, that term is not counted in determining whether the student-athlete has been in residence at the certifying institution for one academic year.

b. In accordance with Bylaw 14.5.3.6, a student-athlete may take, during the first year of enrollment, more than 12 semester or 18 quarter hours of remedial courses, but not more than 12 semester or 18 quarter hours of remedial courses may be utilized for purposes of determining whether the student-athlete has met the satisfactory-progress requirements of Bylaw 14.5.2.

c. A midyear transfer student who must fulfill a residence requirement and, therefore, cannot be eligible to compete during the following fall semester must be certified for satisfactory-progress purposes at the beginning of the following spring semester utilizing the student-athlete's previous two semesters (i.e., such a student-athlete may not be certified based on his or her academic record in existence at the beginning of the fall semester); further, that a midyear transfer student who is immediately eligible upon transfer to the certifying institution, or who chooses not to play during the spring or the following fall semester, may be certified for satisfactory-progress purposes on the basis of his or her academic record in existence at the beginning of the fall semester.

It was recommended that the NCAA Legislative Review Committee incorporate these interpretations in the NCAA Manual.

Transfer/residence requirement

6. Completion of one-year residence requirement (Divisions I and II). Reviewed per a member institution's request the residence requirement for transfer students set forth in the provisions of Bylaw 14.6.1.1; confirmed that a student who transferred to a member institution and subsequently enrolled in a full-time program of studies for only one semester of the academic year would not be considered to have satisfied the requirements of Bylaw 14.6.1.1, even if the individual completed 24 hours of academic credit as a part-time student in the fall term, full-time student in the spring term and through enrollment in summer school following that academic year; noted that there is no authority to set aside the application of Bylaw 14.6.1.1 based on factors such as the student's possible misunderstanding of the full-time enrollment requirement.

Transfer

7. Enrollment after the 12th day of class (Divisions I and II). Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 14.6.5.1, and agreed that there is no authority to set aside the application of

Governmental affairs report

(A review of Federal government activities affecting the NCAA membership is published quarterly in The NCAA News. These reports are prepared by Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, the Association's legal counsel in Washington, D.C.)

Student-Athlete Right-to-Know Act

On September 12, the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources held a hearing on S. 580, the Student-Athlete Right-to-Know Act sponsored by Sens. Bradley, D-New Jersey, and Kennedy, D-Massachusetts. As noted in our last report, hearings were held May 18 and 24 in the House of Representatives before the Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education on the parallel bill introduced in that body by Reps. McMillen, D-Maryland, and Towns, D-New York.

The bill calls for collection of graduation-rate data on student-athletes and students in general from all institutions receiving Federal assistance and offering "athletics scholarships." These data would be made available to high school prospects and school officials and would be reported generally by institution and conference by the secretary of education. The data would be divided by sport, race and sex.

At the hearing, the committee, through Sen. Kennedy, released a report of the General Accounting Office analyzing NCAA graduation-rate data for Division I institutions. The report was widely quoted in the press (it had been "leaked" to The New York Times two days before the hearing) as finding that in the class entering in 1982-83, 68 of 97 institutions had graduated 40 percent or fewer of male basketball players and 53 of 103 institutions graduated 40 percent or fewer of football players.

Most witnesses at the Senate hearing testified in favor of legislation. These witnesses included Sen. Bradley, Rep.

McMillen, Oscar Robertson and Rollie Massimino. James Whalen, president of Ithaca College, testifying for the American Council on Education, stated that ACE did not oppose the intent of the legislation, but believed the matter should be dealt with by internal NCAA legislation. Both Sen. Bradley and Rep. McMillen argued for adopting the bill promptly and not waiting for possible action at the 1990 NCAA Convention.

Richard D. Schultz, testifying for the NCAA, said he strongly supported the principle of disclosure of graduation rates and he expected that the 1990 NCAA Convention would adopt appropriate legislation on the subject. He raised questions, however, as to the wisdom of publishing only "raw" graduation rates for student-athletes and pointed out that the NCAA published "adjusted" rates as well. He also expressed concern that publishing individual-institution data divided by sport, race and sex could raise privacy issues under the Buckley Amendment.

On September 23, the staff of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee requested that the NCAA provide specific comments on S. 580, in anticipation of markup of the bill by the committee in the immediate future. This request suggests that the committee intends to mark up and report the bill out of committee in October. At least based on statements made by House Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education Chair Pat Williams, D-Montana, during the May hearings, similar action by the House Subcommittee is not expected prior to the 1990 NCAA Convention. House subcommittee staff have indicated that markup will be scheduled in advance of the NCAA Convention for a date shortly thereafter, so that the subcommittee can move quickly in the event that satisfactory legislation is not adopted at the Convention.

Drug-abuse prevention

A. Drug testing: H.R. 33, a bill that would establish standards for the certification of laboratories engaged in urine drug testing, remains pending before the House Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Health and the Environment. As previously reported, the subcommittee held a hearing on the bill June 13, and the NCAA submitted a statement for the record supporting several sections of the bill. According to staff members, Energy and Commerce Committee Chair Dingell, D-Michigan, one of the two original sponsors of the bill, plans to attach H.R. 33 as an amendment to any drug legislation that comes before the House. If no such vehicle is available, Dingell plans to move H.R. 33 forward independently.

B. Anabolic steroids:

1. Legislative developments: No further hearings have been held or scheduled on H.R. 995, the "Anabolic Steroid Restriction Act of 1989," which would ban any solicitation—e.g., by mail, radio, television or magazine—for anabolic steroids other than legitimate mailings to certified medical professionals. The bill also clarifies that anabolic steroids may not be mailed for any use other than the treatment of disease pursuant to the order of a physician. The bill was introduced by Rep. Stark, D-California, in February and currently has 112 cosponsors.

Similarly, no further hearings have been scheduled on S. 466, a parallel steroid restriction bill introduced by Senate Judiciary Committee Chair Biden, D-Delaware.

On October 5, Rep. Levine, D-California, introduced a bill (H.R. 3421) that would classify anabolic steroids as a controlled substance, making it a crime to sell steroids without a prescription.

2. Administrative developments: On August 18, the General Accounting Office issued the report mandated by the 1988 Anti-Drug-Abuse Act on the health consequences and extent of anabolic steroid and human growth hormone use among high school students, college students and adults. The report cites published studies and other information indicating that anabolic steroids are being misused primarily by high school, college and professional athletes to enhance their performance and, to a lesser extent, by others participating in sports. One national study found that more than six percent of male high school seniors, mostly participants in sports, use or have used anabolic steroids, and a more limited study covering five colleges found that about 20 percent of college student-athletes used steroids. The report states that misuse of human growth hormone, which is much less available on the black market, is a recent problem of smaller proportion than the misuse of anabolic steroids.

C. Legislative developments:

1. Congressional resolution: On August 2, during consideration of H.R. 2990, the FY (fiscal year) 1990 appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services (HHS), Education, and related agencies, the House adopted an amendment offered by Rep. Shaw, R-Florida, expressing the sense of Congress that colleges and universities should demand drug-free campuses and enforce strict policies to eliminate drug use by students. The provision is in the nature of a resolution and contains no enforcement mechanism. The Senate version of the bill, passed September 26, also contains this language.

2. Mandatory antidrug program: During consideration of H.R. 3015, the FY 1990 appropriations bill for the Department of Transportation and related agencies, the Senate added a provision that, in effect, would require institutions of higher education to adopt and implement programs to prevent the use of illicit drugs and the abuse of alcohol by students and employees. Institutions that did not adopt such programs would be ineligible to receive financial assistance under any Federal program, including Federally funded or guaranteed student loan programs. The House version of the bill does not contain such a provision, and conference on the bill has not been scheduled.

ence on the bill has not been scheduled.

National Youth Sports Program

A. FY 1990 appropriation: On August 2, the House passed H.R. 2990, the Labor, HHS, Education, and related-agencies FY 1990 appropriations bill, which allocated $9.669 million for the NYSP under the Community Services Block Grant (CSBG). This amount represents an increase of $3 million over last year's CSBG appropriation of $6.669 million, in order to maintain the same combined level of funding as last year when $3 million was provided under the Anti-Drug-Abuse Act. No funds were appropriated this year under the drug act, because the authorization under that act was viewed as a one-time authorization.

During Senate subcommittee markup of H.R. 2990 September 13, the subcommittee recommended the same $9.669 million allocation for the NYSP. Following full committee markup, the Senate passed H.R. 2990 September 26. Conference on the bill was held October 3-5, with no change made in the NYSP appropriation.

Despite completion of the regular appropriations process, the amount that ultimately will be appropriated for the 1990 NYSP is not certain. During Senate consideration of the FY 1990 appropriations bill for the Department of Transportation and related agencies September 27, the Senate added a section appropriating emergency funding for a variety of Federal programs providing services necessary to the antidrug abuse effort, including $11 million for the CSBG, by reducing spending for all nonentitlement programs, which include the NYSP, by 0.43 percent. The House version of the bill did not contain provisions concerning drug funding, so the final form of these provisions will be resolved in conference.

In apparent anticipation of some final measure being adopted requiring a cut of this magnitude, the conferees on the FY 1990 Labor, HHS, Education and related—agencies appropriations bill agreed to reduce discretionary spending in that bill by 0.43 percent by reducing specific appropriations, rather than making an across-the-board cut. No funds were taken from the NYSP appropriation, although $2 million was taken from the CSBG. If the final emergency drug-funding measure provides funding for the CSBG, up to nine percent of those funds may be available for CSBG discretionary programs, including the NYSP.

B. Summer Food Service Program amendment: In response to requests from the NCAA and NYSP supporters, the Senate included in its child nutrition reauthorization bill (S. 1484) a provision authorizing Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) payments to higher education institutions participating in the NYSP for meals served during the academic year in the new, extended NYSP originally funded by the 1988 drug act. This provision is necessary because the SFSP only authorizes payments for meals served during the months of May through September.

Sen. Harkin, D-Iowa, introduced S. 1484 August 2, and the Senate passed it the next day, bypassing the usual committee markup. The House bill (H.R. 24) did not include the NYSP provision and, during House-Senate negotiations, concern was raised that SFSP payments for NYSP meals served during the academic year would be higher than those available for lunches under the school lunch program. As of early October, it has been agreed to authorize payments to higher education institutions participating in the NYSP for such meals, but at the school lunch (and, for breakfasts and meal supplements, at the school breakfast) rate. In addition, several other provisions have been included to facilitate administration of the new program. The bill is expected to go to the House floor early next week, and thereafter to the Senate for final approval.

C. Office for Substance-Abuse Prevention funding: In mid-September, the HHS Office for Substance-Abuse Prevention notified the NCAA that it would not be awarded funding for the NYSP under the Community Youth Activity Program set-aside for programs of national significance. The NCAA application requested $450,000 over a three-year period for the training of trainers in substance-abuse prevention techniques and the provision of technical assistance by those trainers to NYSP projects nationwide. The NCAA has requested information concerning the basis for the decision not to fund its application.

Title IX

A. Administrative developments:

1. Investigator's manual: The Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights (OCR), now hopes to release its new Title IX intercollegiate athletics investigator's manual by the end of this year. According to staff, the revised manual does not make major substantive changes in the current intercollegiate athletics requirements, but it does make the manual much less cumbersome and contains detailed worksheets that are expected to make it easier to assess compliance. Unlike the old manual, the new one also will include provisions covering interscholastic athletics programs.

2. Complaints: Relatively few Title IX intercollegiate athletics complaints have been filed since the Civil Rights Restoration Act became law March 22, 1988. From that date until July 24, the last date for which information currently is available, approximately 21 such complaints were filed against 15 colleges and universities.

Of those, only six remain pending [Hobart-William Smith Colleges, Towson State University; Loyola College (Maryland); University of Wisconsin, Madison; University of Arkansas, Pine Bluff, and Southern Utah State College]. Three were closed with a finding of no violation [Towson State (separate complaint); University of Maryland, College Park, and Loyola (separate complaint)]. Three others were closed with a finding that the violation has been corrected [Athens State College (compliance being monitored); Louisiana State University (remedial action completed), and University of Nebraska, Lincoln (compliance being monitored)]. The remaining nine complaints were either closed for other reasons (e.g., lack of jurisdiction) or withdrawn [Salem College; Santa Clara University (five complaints); University of California, Santa Barbara; Bossier Community College, and Metropolitan State College].

B. Litigation developments:

1. A number of issues remain to be resolved following the July decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit reversing the district court dismissal of WEAL v. Cavazos, a longstanding suit against the Federal government seeking more aggressive enforcement of Federal civil rights statutes. Oral argument on the remaining issues has been scheduled May 15, 1990. In previous orders issued in WEAL and related cases, the district court had established mandatory time limits for the investigation of Title IX and other civil rights complaints by the Department of Education.

2. Earlier this year, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit affirmed the district court ruling in Leake v. Long Island Jewish Medical Center that the Civil Rights Restoration Act, which made Title IX (and three other civil rights statutes) institutional rather than program-specific in scope, applies retroactively to cases pending on the date of its enactment.

Copyright

A. Copyright Royalty Tribunal developments:

1. 1988 cable royalty fees: On July 31, the NCAA filed a claim on behalf of itself, 14 allied conferences and 81 member institutions for a share of the more than $198 million in 1988 royalty fees. A distribution proceeding has not been initiated.

2. Implementation of the Satellite Home Viewer Act: On August 10, the Copyright Royalty Tribunal published final rules to implement the Satellite Home Viewer Act of 1988, which extends compulsory licensing of television broadcast programming to satellite carriers. The rules, which took effect September 11, govern the procedures to be followed in filing claims for satellite-carrier compulsory licensing royalties and in distributing such royalties.

3. Adjustment proceeding: On September 11, the Copyright Royalty Tribunal denied the motions filed by two associations representing the cable industry requesting that the tribunal initiate a cable royalty adjustment proceeding to eliminate the syndicated exclusivity surcharge, which first became effective in 1983. The tribunal invited the associations to refile their motions after January 1, 1990.

B. Canadian copyright proceeding: The Copyright Board of Canada has set a schedule for proceedings to establish the royalties payable for cable retransmission in Canada on a distant-signal basis of copyrighted network and nonnetwork programming. Following the filing of statements of royalties June 30 by 11 collectives representing copyright owners, including the American College Sports Collective of Canada, Inc., a corporation created by the NCAA, the Canadian cable industry filed objections to those statements August 12. Ten collectives filed replies to those objections September 29. The schedule calls for prehearing memoranda to be filed by October 27 and hearings, which are expected to be protracted, to begin November 20.

C. Recommendation for repeal of cable compulsory license: On August 3, the Federal Communications Commission released a report recommending that Congress abolish the compulsory license for cable retransmission of distant and local television broadcast signals and replace it with full copyright liability. If Congress were to enact such legislation, cable systems would be required to negotiate directly with the owners of copyrighted nonnetwork broadcast programming, including the owners of nonnetwork sports programming, before retransmitting it. During consideration of the Copyright Revision Act of 1976, the NCAA and the professional sports leagues opposed the compulsory license and supported such retransmission consent.

Taxation of scholarships and interest paid on student loans

No action has been taken on the various pending proposals that would partially or fully restore the exclusion from taxable income of scholarships or would reinstate the deduction for interest paid on student loans. The eight bills have been referred to committee (House Ways and Means and Senate Finance), but no hearings have been held on any of them. In the first category, H.R. 391, introduced in January by Rep. Solomon, R-New York, would provide an exclusion for the portion of a scholarship that covers living expenses while away from home. H.R. 894, introduced in February by Rep. Henry, R-Michigan, would provide an exclusion for scholarships received for travel, research and living expenses.

The following bills would restore the deduction for interest paid on student loans: H.R. 649, introduced by Rep. Smith, R-Nebraska, in January; H.R. 747, introduced by Rep. Schulze, R-Pennsylvania, in January; H.R. 779, introduced by Rep. Fawell, D-Florida, in February; H.R. 784, introduced by Rep. Gaydos, D-Pennsylvania, in February, and S. 656, introduced by Sen. Grassley, R-Iowa, in March.

H.R. 488, introduced in January by Rep. Price, D-North Carolina, addresses both issues. It would restore the prior law exclusion for scholarships and fellowships, as well as the deduction for interest paid on educational loans. Some House staff members believe that the Schulze bill (H.R. 747) has the best chance of advancing, but no hearings have been scheduled.

Southern Conference conducts second drug-awareness week

The Southern Conference is conducting its second annual Substance Abuse Awareness Week October 21 to 28.

"We want to give student-athletes in our conference a forum where saying they are opposed to substance abuse is possible," said Southern Conference Commissioner Dave Hart. "We also want to provide them with accurate information so that they know the conference office and their athletics departments are concerned about their welfare."

This year, the conference will join the American Football Coaches Association, The National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth and The National Eye on Drugs Week Programs for a week of activities.

"The NCAA, through the conference-grant program, provided the seed money to get the program started last year," said Southern Conference Assistant Commissioner Wright Waters, who is coordinating the event. "Again this year, money provided by 10-K Thirst Quencher has allowed for expansion of the program."

A special feature of this year's program is a poster containing an eye chart that, when used properly, can signal that a potential problem may exist.

The technique has been used successfully by California law-enforcement agencies for years. Posters will be distributed to the public at Appalachian State, East Tennessee State, Marshall and Western Carolina home football games October 28. Others who want a poster can pick one up at the Southern Conference office or their local Southern Conference institution.

As Halloween approaches, Slippery Rock University's football opponents may want to keep a wary eye on the Rockets' sideline. If nothing else, they may see costumed coaches.

Batman (Joe Kopnisky) and Robin (Jay Foster) have a secret weapon they prepare to unleash against the "enemy." He is cocaptain and defensive end Tim Kelly of the Slippery Rock Rockets, who were 3-1-1 after five games. Kopnisky and Foster are Slippery Rock assistants.

After all, Slippery Rock assistants Joe Kopnisky and Jay Foster already have demonstrated a fondness for masks and capes. The coaches recently donned the garb of the Dynamic Duo—Batman and Robin—for a publicity photo toutdefense.

Since NCAA football rules do not permit the use of such high-tech gadgetry as Batmobiles and Batcopters, the defensive duo presumably has relied solely on its coaching abilities in helping Slippery Rock to and ethics. Jerry Ippoliti, the conference's commissioner, says the programs are designed to help athletes at all levels, parents, administrators and the public become more aware of athletics issues and to seek solutions to problems.

"We've had tremendous response about the potential of this show," said Ippoliti, who hopes it eventually will be broadcast in other AMCU cities. "We feel it has an opportunity to become an annual program. Our goal is to syndicate the program nationally in due time."

College football's most victorious coach recently enjoyed a day of his own when the Louisiana cities of Shreveport and Bossier City joined to honor Grambling State University football coach Eddie Robinson.

Officials of the two cities declared October 14 "Eddie Robinson Day" to recognize the coach for his "exemplary dedication to the best interests" of northwestern Louisiana. Robinson celebrated by claiming his 353rd coaching victory as the Tigers beat Mississippi Valley State, 72-14, in a game played in Shreveport's Independence Stadium.

Another celebrated football coach, Ara Parseghian, returned to the University of Notre Dame October 19 to observe yet another showdown between the Fighting Irish and their archrivals from the University of Southern California. The occasion, however, was the opener of a two-game baseball series matching the two schools.

Parseghian, who guided the Irish to three mythical national championships in football, and former Southern Cal quarterback Pat Haden threw out the ceremonial first pitches of the 1989 South Bend Tribune/Irish Fall Classic.

Let anyone think football stole the show, it should be noted that Kansas City Royals all-star George Brett was on hand to handle first-pitch duties for the second game, ing the Rockets' defense.

"Kopnisky and Foster are the codefensive coordinators at the Rock and they lead the fight against crime (opposing offenses) on a weekly basis," explains John Carpenter, Slippery Rock sports information director.

Kopnisky, a former head coach at Grove City College, coordinates the Rockets' run defense, while Foster, a former Plymouth State College defensive back, handles the pass a 3-1-1 record through its first five games.

Six Chicago-area radio stations aired the first of a series of half-hour programs produced by the Association of Mid-Century Universities that focuses on the "serious side" of athletics.

The AMCU's "Sportscheck" program, which started a 13-week run October 8, focuses on such topics as drug abuse, academics, recruiting

Coaches select 58 swimmers for all-academic recognition

A total of 58 NCAA student-athletes have been selected for all-academic teams compiled by the College Swimming Coaches Association of America.

While none of the honorees maintained a perfect grade-point average, three student-athletes were above the 3.900 mark—Scott Dresden of Wisconsin-Milwaukee (3.960); Kurt Kendall, Maryland (3.940), and Rebecca Little, Kenyon (3.980).

The coaches selected men's and women's squads in all NCAA divisions, and 23 members of last year's team were named again. To qualify for all-academic team honors, swimmers must qualify to participate at the NCAA swimming and diving championships, have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.500 (4.000 scale), and complete the equivalent of 24 hours at their institutions.

Following are the 1989 coaches' all-academic teams, including grade-point averages:

Division I men

Scott Dresden, Wisconsin-Milwaukee, 3.960; Kurt Kendall, Maryland, 3.940; Robert Leyshon, Iowa,

Erin Finneran

3.680; Brett Outcalt, Minnesota, 3.630; Dan Goodwin, Southern Methodist, 3.590, and Donald Dicer, Georgia, 3.560.

Division I women

Division II men

Wade Ritter, North Dakota, 3.550; Mike Olson, North Dakota, 3.510, and Mike Ewing, North Dakota, 3.500.

Division II women

Hillary White, Florida Atlantic, 3.800; Janine Etchepare, North Dakota, 3.780; Kristan McClocklin, North Dakota, 3.590; Michele Jensen, Army, 3.510, and Jamie Herrington, Florida Atlantic, 3.500.

Division III men

Joseph Turk, Wabash, 3.880; Jo Wollschlaeger, Carnegie-Mellon, 3.820; Thomas Burkart, Kalamazoo, 3.710; Tom Schinabeck, Kenyon, 3.710; Timothy Niznik, St. Olaf, 3.680; Mike Tolfree, Claremont-Mudd-Scripps, 3.630; Boadie Dunlop, Washington (Missouri), which was played October 20.

Trivia Time: Tracey Caulkins holds a Division I Women's Swimming and Diving Championships record as the winner of the most individual titles in one year. How many titles did she win? Answer later.

There's a saying that goes something like this: "The more things change, the more they stay the same." Those words certainly are appropriate at Wittenberg University—home of the seven Jennifers.

In the November 28, 1988, issue of The NCAA News, this column reported that seven members of the Wittenberg women's soccer team go by that very same first name. Since then, two of the seven Jennifer Armour and Jennifer Duff—have graduated.

"You would think coach Diana Daniels would have learned her lesson," says Alan Aldinger, sports information director at the school. "But what did she do? She went out and recruited two more Jennifers to replace them." The newcomers are Jennifer Feeny and Jennifer Haddad.

Actually, the ranks of Jennifers recently dwindled to six. One left voluntarily after this season began, "perhaps because practices got a little confusing," Aldinger suggests.

But never fear, name-game fans. The Tigers also put two Heathers on the field—freshman Heather Eastwood and sophomore Heather Hague.

Trivia Answer: The University of Florida won its 1982 Division I women's swimming title largely on the strength of Tracy Caulkins' record five individual titles in the meet (not counting the relay team she also led to victory). Caulkins also is the only Division I woman swimmer to win four individual titles in one year (1984).

Questions/Answers

Readers are invited to submit questions to this column. Please direct any inquiries to The NCAA News at the NCAA national office.

Q Does the NCAA sell merchandise such as T-shirts and caps? If so, where or how can it be purchased?

A Caps, T-shirts and other souvenir products are available to be purchased at all National Collegiate Championships. Individuals who cannot attend NCAA championships may contact Dan or Greg Schuh (Collegiate Sports Design, P.O. Box 8, New Strawn, Kansas 66839; telephone 316/264-8051) for more information about the souvenir products that are available at NCAA championships.

Satisfactory progress

8. Use of credit earned during an overlapping term when student receives "missed-term" exception (Divisions I and II). Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 14.5.4-(a) and a previous staff interpretation and determined that a student-athlete may count for purposes of the satisfactory-progress rule hours earned during enrollment in a two-year college "short term," which began during the last two weeks of the individual's "missed term," inasmuch as at least one-half of the "short term" at the two-year college occurred subsequent to the completion of the "missed term" at the certifying member institution; asked that the Academic Requirements Committee review the issue of requiring prior approval for courses taken from other institutions during "short terms" for purposes of achieving satisfactory progress at the certifying member institution; noted that these courses could be considered similar to summer or correspondence courses, and correspondence courses may not be utilized for satisfactory-progress credit.
