NCAA Visitors Center scheduled to open in fall

Part of the NCAA's new national office building will serve as the first true home for the history and tradition of college athletics—all of it, not just a few sports. Twelve thousand square feet of the Association's new headquarters in Overland Park, Kansas—the NCAA Visitors Center—will open sometime after Labor Day.

"For the first time ever, all of intercollegiate athletics will be saluted," said Robert E. Sprenger, NCAA assistant executive director for the Visitors Center and special projects. "There are many halls of fame around the country for various sports, but the Visitors Center will salute all of the NCAA's 77 championships plus Division I-A football."

Sprenger and Will J. Rudd, the Visitors Center's researcher/curator, have been developing displays for well over a year. Rudd is in the process of obtaining photos from every NCAA championships event contested for the past two academic years.

"Individual and team achievements will be highlighted," Sprenger said. "The academic honors segment by the student-athlete will be featured quite prominently." He said significant space will be devoted to NCAA postgraduate scholarship recipients and to the Association's honors program, which annually recognizes outstanding achievement though the Theodore Roosevelt Award and the College Athletics Top XII.

The Visitors Center will feature something for every college sports fan:

- A multimedia theater that will offer various video and multiimage programs.

- A gallery area for exhibitions that will cover everything from sports equipment to sports-medicine research and sports art and photography exhibitions.

- A 100-foot mural, created by nationally known artist John Martin, will depict various aspects of college sports.

- Football and basketball rooms that feature 360-degree photographs from midcourt and midfield.

- Some 400 photographs, both current and historic.

"One of the best aspects of the center is that displays will be up-

NYSP plans to double its extended program by '91

The status of the economically poor family in the United States was the featured topic at a recent workshop for representatives of the pilot extended National Youth Sports Program.

The January 12-14 workshop in San Antonio, Texas, was attended by project representatives from the 45 higher education institutions that are conducting extended programs.

NYSP plans to offer 50 more institutions an opportunity to conduct extended programs in 1991.

The Omnibus Drug Education Bill, which provided Federal funds to expand NYSP into a year-round program, was passed by Congress in 1988. The extended program's purpose is to make important life experiences available to many at-risk youths through sports and enrichment activities.

The extended program is offered for a maximum of 30 days from October 1 to April 30. Instruction is made available in a minimum of two of the following activities—badminton, basketball, dance, gymnastics, physical fitness, soccer, softball, football, swimming, tennis, track and field, volleyball, wrestling, or additional sports suitable to local interest and available facilities.

At least 15 hours of instructional activities is included in the enrichment program. Also, no less than 7½ hours is devoted to prevention of drug and alcohol abuse. Nutrition, personal health, higher education, career opportunities and job responsibilities are other topics covered.

Amie Revere, an associate professor at the University of Dayton, gave the featured presentation at the San Antonio workshop. Other speakers included Joel Phillips, Evaluation Management Training Associates; Steven J. Danish, chair, department of psychology, Virginia Commonwealth University; Darlind J. Davis, Office of Substance Abuse Prevention; A. Greg Lendo, East Baton Rouge Parish Schools, and Judith Jurin Semo, Squire, Sanders & Dempsey.

Other workshop topics included innovative programming, such as Regional evaluators selected for baseball umpiring project

A nine-member panel of regional evaluators has been selected to help carry out a three-year experimental NCAA project to improve college baseball umpiring.

The program is expected to be in place by August 1, according to Jon Bible, national coordinator of the NCAA Baseball Umpiring Program. Bible is a lawyer and professor of business law at Southwest Texas State University. His selection was announced in the August 16, 1989, issue of The NCAA News.

The regional evaluators will screen umpire applications for Division I regional assignments in 1991, and lists of umpires will be made available for Divisions II and III postseason competition.

Regional evaluators also will assist in conducting a series of umpiring clinics—estimated at eight a year—that will be started in 1991. It is expected that these clinics will be mandatory for umpires assigned to Division I regionals and for conference umpire supervisors. Details of the clinics will be announced.

The regional evaluators and their territories are Don January, 52 Humphrey Street, Swampscott, Massachusetts 01907 (Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island); Gus Steiner, 5573 Mohawk Drive, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania 18017 (New York; Pennsylvania; New Jersey; Delaware; Maryland; Washington, D.C.); Hank Rountree, 1091 Blue Springs Court, Buckhead, Georgia 30625 (Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, Georgia); Bruce Ravan, 80 Paula Court, Mary Esther, Florida 32569 (Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana); Randy Christal, 4601 Frontier Trail, Austin, Texas 78745 (Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas); Bob Jones, 5017 George Avenue, Kansas City, Missouri 64133 (North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Colorado); Dick Runchey, 44933 Albert Drive, Plymouth, Michigan 48170 (Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota); Dale Williams, 2268 North Rose Avenue, Signal Hill, California 90806 (California, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Hawaii), and Tony Patch, 1961 Clay, No. 103, San Francisco, California 94109 (Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming).

Effective August 1, January, Jones and Patch will serve four-year terms; Christal, Ravan and Runchey will serve for three years, and Steiner, Rountree and Williams will serve two years. Their replacements, if the program is continued past three years, will serve three-year terms.

Bible said the goals of the three-year program are to develop greater consistency in umpiring mechanics, philosophies and rules interpretations among different conferences and regions and to improve the process for selecting and evaluating umpires for regional tournaments and the College World Series.

Bible's address is 609 Rolling Green, Austin, Texas 78734.

Umpires with at least five years of Division I experience who want to be considered for a regional tournament assignment should contact Bible or the regional evaluator.

dated on a regular basis," Sprenger said. "As soon as possible after the fall championships season is completed, for example, we will display new NCAA champions and highlight top individual performances."

Sports personalities also will be recognized, Sprenger said. "People like President Bush, Bill Cosby, former President Ford and Kareem Abdul Jabbar—the only three-time MVP in Final Four history—will be featured."

"Nothing like this has ever been done for intercollegiate athletics," Sprenger added, "and we're anxious to let people know that only a few months from now, the heritage of intercollegiate athletics will have a permanent home."

A map showing the center's location is included in a full-color brochure on the Visitors Center that is being distributed to NCAA member institutions.

"We're sending the brochures to CEOs, athletics directors, senior women administrators, sports information directors, coaches and alumni offices," Sprenger said. "And we will be happy to provide additional copies to anyone who is interested."

For the next few weeks, Sprenger and Rudd may be reached through the national office (P.O. Box 906, Mission, Kansas 66201, telephone 913/384-3220). Following completion of the NCAA's move to Overland Park, the Visitors Center will have its own telephone number—913/339-0000.

Injury rate for football higher in 1984 than in '89

The NCAA News incorrectly reported in the January 24 issue that the 1989 football injury rate was the highest for the past six seasons.

Actually, statistics show that the 1984 injury rate was higher at 7.2 compared to a rate of 6.9 for 1989. The average rate for the period from 1984 through 1989 was 6.4, making 1989 the second highest year for the period.

An injury rate is the ratio of the number of injuries to the number of athlete exposures through competition and practice. This value is then multiplied by 1,000 to produce an injury rate per 1,000 athlete exposures.

Countdown begins

The countdown has begun for the NCAA's move to its new national office building in Overland Park, Kansas.

The move is scheduled Friday through Sunday, February 23-25.

Beginning February 26, the Association will have a new mailing address and telephone number. The address will be:

NCAA
6201 College Boulevard
Overland Park, Kansas
66211-2422

The Association's new telephone number will be 913/339-1906.

During the move, the NCAA's current national office buildings will be closed.

In its next few issues, The NCAA News will publish more information about how the Association will serve its membership during and after the move.

The News also will help readers get acquainted with the new building by reporting on several of its features and by publishing floor plans.

Articles also are planned about the warm welcome the NCAA is receiving from Overland Park and the advantages of the Association's presence in the city's College Boulevard community, as well as the NCAA's options for expansion.

Legislative Assistance

1990 Column No. 5

1990 Convention Proposal No. 58—20-year-age rule

Division I member institutions should note that the adoption of Proposal No. 58 at the 1990 NCAA Convention has modified the application of NCAA Bylaw 14.2.4.5 (participation after 20th birthday). In accordance with Bylaw 14.2.4.5, any participation as an individual or team representative in organized sports competition by a student during each 12-month period after the student's 20th birthday and prior to initial full-time enrollment in a collegiate (as opposed to a member) institution shall count as one year of varsity competition in that sport. The student shall not be charged with more than one season of competition in that sport in any 12-month period after the student's birthday. In addition, if in any 12-month period following the student's 20th birthday the student participates in organized sports competition, matriculates at a collegiate institution and begins a college season in that sport, the student may complete that collegiate season without being charged an additional season of competition in that sport. Participation in organized competition during time spent in the U.S. armed forces continues to be an exception to this rule.

The NCAA Interpretations Committee reviewed Convention Proposal No. 58 at its post-Convention meeting and determined that the adoption of the proposal applies retroactively to student-athletes enrolled prior to the 1989-90 academic year.

1990 Convention Proposal No. 90—conditioning programs

Division I-A member institutions should note that with the adoption of Convention Proposal No. 90, voluntary participation by student-athletes in weight-training or conditioning programs utilizing the institution's facilities outside the institution's established playing season may be supervised both by members of the institution's strength and conditioning staff and by athletics trainers who perform such duties on a department-wide basis.

The Interpretations Committee reviewed this proposal during its post-Convention meeting and determined that its adoption would allow such conditioning activities (e.g., running on the institution's track) to be supervised outside of the weight room.

1990 Convention Proposal No. 88—academic awards banquet

With the adoption of Convention Proposal No. 88, it now is permissible for member institutions in all divisions to conduct an annual academic awards or recognition banquet or meeting to honor members of its intercollegiate athletics teams for academic achievements. The following criteria must be met for such an event to be permissible:

1. It is held to commemorate the academic accomplishments of individual student-athletes,

2. It is conducted by and subject to the control of the member institution.
3. It is held within 100 miles of the institution's main campus and within the same state.
4. Only one such event is held per year.
5. Any award presented to a student-athlete must conform with the restriction set forth in 16.1.4.1.3, and
6. Only the institution or representatives of its athletics interests (through the institution) may provide expenses for the event.

Please note that it remains permissible for an institution to conduct a postseason awards banquet to honor one of its intercollegiate athletics teams, a postseason awards banquet to honor all of its intercollegiate athletics teams and a booster-club recognition banquet in accordance with the provisions set forth in Bylaw 16.1.6.

1990 Convention Proposal No. 50—Division II academic honor awards

Division II member institutions should note that with the adoption of Proposal No. 50 at the 1990 Convention, it is permissible for a student-athlete to receive an academic honor award that is exempted from the institution's equivalency computations, provided the award meets the following criteria:

1. The award is part of the institution's normal arrangements for academic scholarships, awarded independently of athletics interests and in amounts consistent with the pattern of all such awards made by the institution;
2. The recipient was ranked in the upper 20 percent of the high school graduating class or achieved a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.500 (based on a maximum of 4.000) or a minimum ACT score of 24 or a minimum SAT score of 1,050, or
3. The recipient does not qualify under the criteria set forth in the preceding paragraph but has completed at least one academic year in college and achieved a cumulative grade-point average of 3.300 (on a 4.000 scale) for all academic work completed during the student's collegiate enrollment resulting in degree credits at the awarding institution.

Please note that although this type of award is exempt from a Division II institution's equivalency computation, it must be included in the student-athlete's individual limitations on financial aid.

Finally, it remains permissible for student-athletes at Division II institutions to receive honorary academic awards that satisfy the criteria of Bylaw 15.02.5. The honorary award in Bylaw 15.02.5 (unlike the honor award described in Convention Proposal No. 50) may not be based on the student-athlete's high school record, inasmuch as competition for the honorary award must be based on the student-athlete's record at the awarding institution.

Committee Notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill interim vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancy must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA office no later than February 14, 1990.

peer mentoring and parental programs; program evaluation; community-based networking with Federal agencies, and the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) food program.

Also, the National Youth Sports Program Committee gathered information during breakout sessions involving activity directors, enrichment coordinators and drug-education specialists.

That information was to be used in discussions at the committee's January 26-29 meeting in San Diego. The committee planned to consider if there is need to adjust program guidelines for 1991, when 50 institutions are expected to be offered the opportunity to conduct extended programs.

"Anytime you go into a new program, you have no standard by which to set guidelines," Donald W. Morefield of the University of Dayton and chair of the NYSP Committee, said. "We accomplished quite a bit (at the workshop) in pulling together the problems of the first-year program."

Morefield said that the extended programs have been able to take advantage of resources that are available during the academic year, such as the presence of university students and a variety of campus events. In addition, the ability to stay in contact with participants year-round should yield significant results, he believes.

"We see this as a direction that all programs will go to in the future," he said. "The ability to make a long-range impact (on the participants) is increased."

Peach Belt new league in Division II

Four South Carolina and three Georgia schools are organizing the Peach Belt Athletic Conference, which will sponsor championships in men's and women's basketball and eventually in other sports.

The conference, which will compete in NCAA Division II, includes South Carolina's Francis Marion College, Lander College, the University of South Carolina at Aiken and the University of South Carolina at Spartanburg, and Georgia's Armstrong State College, Columbus College and Georgia College.

"These seven colleges have agreed to form this conference because they are committed to developing and maintaining intercollegiate athletics programs that are broadly based and complement the campus experience for the entire student body," said Olin Sansbury, chancellor at South Carolina-Spartanburg, who announced the league's formation January 24.

"The conference will be operated on the fundamental premise that the educational future of the student-athlete is our foremost concern," Sansbury said.

Chief executive officers of the seven schools will serve as governing trustees of the conference. Sansbury said the league will appoint an interim commissioner and sponsor basketball championships during its first year and also will search for a permanent, full-time commissioner.

"In addition to athletics competition, the members of the PBAC plan to initiate student competition in other extracurricular activities, and, in general, we intend for the conference to promote a variety of positive interactions among our students and faculty in the interest of providing a better collegiate experience for our graduates," Sansbury said.

Central Florida to join American South league

The University of Central Florida will become the seventh member of the American South Athletic Conference this summer.

The school, which will be eligible for conference championships during the 1990-91 academic year, will become a member of the three-year-old league July 1.

Representatives of the conference's other six member institutions—Arkansas State University; Lamar University; Louisiana Tech University; the University of New Orleans; the University of Southwestern Louisiana, and the University of Texas, Pan American—voted unanimously to invite Central Florida into the league during a recent meeting, and Central Florida's board of regents approved the move January 25.

"Both parties did thorough studies and came to the same conclusion, that this league and UCF are compatible in background, athletics direction and goals," said Craig Thompson, commissioner of the conference.

"We are delighted to join the American South Conference," said Steven Altman, president of Central Florida. "It will provide an elevated level of competition for our growing programs and allow us to be associated with a strong conference committed to integrity in intercollegiate athletics. We look forward to the new rivalries that will be established."

Central Florida sponsors 15 varsity sports, including a Division I-AA football program. Its baseball, men's golf and women's soccer teams earned Division I tournament bids during 1989.

The school will begin construction of a 7,000-seat multipurpose arena and an adjacent outdoor track and field facility during February. Both projects are expected to be completed by summer 1991.

The American South Conference conducts championships in 12 varsity sports, excluding football. The championships are in baseball, men's and women's basketball, men's and women's cross country, men's golf, men's and women's indoor and outdoor track and field, women's tennis, and women's volleyball.

THE BLACK ATHLETE

WINNERS OR LOSERS IN ACADEMIA?

They have been called America's modern day gladiators. They are seen by millions of Americans every week in arenas, stadiums or on the living room television set. They are the most visible and controversial segment of American higher education. They are our major colleges' student athletes.

In a thorough and revealing telecommunications event, all of the issues surrounding today's college athletes will be evaluated, including: secondary preparation, recruiting, admissions, testing, the role of the NCAA, and graduation and matriculation issues. This live, interactive telecommunications event will provide a unique view of the best and worst aspects of how modern college programs have combined academics and athletics to the benefit of the individual athlete and the university. This event also will take a very insightful look at the myths and realities of the plight of the Black college athlete.

Small colleges have large stake in NCAA reforms

By Roger H. Martin

Since joining the reform-minded Presidents Commission of the NCAA last year, I've been asked by colleagues at small colleges: Why bother?

After all, the scandals in college football and basketball are not the problems of small colleges such as my institution Moravian College or Middlebury, Swarthmore, Drew, Ohio Wesleyan, or others in the NCAA's Division III.

Division III colleges offer no athletics scholarships, nor do they rely on game-admission receipts and TV contracts to balance budgets. Our athletes rarely go on to play professional ball. Our sports programs are an adjunct to our primary reason for existence, which is to prepare men and women for the work of the world.

On the other hand, the public sees small colleges as part of a greater higher education complex. Thus we, along with larger institutions in NCAA Divisions I and II, have an investment in how intercollegiate athletics is viewed.

All are stained

If American higher education is seen primarily as the purveyor of high-cost entertainment, all colleges and universities—large or small—are stained with that brush.

Over the long term, erosion of public confidence in higher education's ability to manage its athletics programs will have unwelcome consequences. It could, for example, manifest itself in Federal initiatives to "control" intercollegiate sports. That would add to the administrative costs of all institutions.

That's why I accepted a seat on the 44-member NCAA Presidents Commission. I believe reform is possible. It's essential if college sport is to regain credibility in the wake of widely reported scandals involving improper inducements to players, woefully poor graduation rates and behavioral misconduct.

The Presidents Commission supported several reforms at the NCAA Convention in Dallas January 7-10.

We were successful in requiring institutions to make public the graduation rates of students on athletics scholarships. We pushed through a proposal reducing to 25 the number of basketball games most teams can play in a season. Many Division I squads have been playing 30 or more games each year, resulting in too much time away from studies. For the same reason, spring football practice in Division I was cut from 20 sessions to 15.

Gains encouraging

Our gains in Dallas were encouraging. I was impressed with the leadership of Dick Schultz, NCAA executive director, who suggested that the old models of administering college sports are not working and that academic emphasis and integrity have to be part of the new model.

I was also impressed with my colleagues on the Presidents Commission, especially the leaders of Division I institutions.

The University of Pennsylvania's Sheldon Hackney is a strong supporter of reform, as one would expect an Ivy League president to be. Tom Hearn of Wake Forest, Ed Fort of North Carolina A&T and Charles Young of UCLA also are outspoken leaders. One of our most articulate spokesmen is Gen. Dave Palmer, superintendent at West Point. He believes, as he should, that his institution has a special mission, and it is not to provide the National Football League with employees.

I heard encouraging voices of reason from leaders of universities with decidedly "big time" athletics programs, such as Martin Massengale of Nebraska, chair of the Presidents Commission, and Bernie Sliger of Florida State, soon to be chair of Division I. I believe they want reform as much as I do.

CEOs' priorities

The real question, however, is how many presidents really see intercollegiate athletics as a national issue. Of more than 2,000 delegates registered, only 185 were college or university presidents (based on pre-registrations). Assuming these presidents were voting for their colleges, only 27 percent of the approximately 680 colleges and associations eligible to vote were represented by their chief executives. And yet, the issues on which we were voting will have a profound impact on higher education in this country.

Presidents of Division III colleges have the potential to make a significant difference in the reform movement. Unfortunately, most presidents of small as well as large institutions have declined to become personally involved.

I believe most athletics directors, who traditionally represent their schools at the NCAA Conventions, also support reform. It is ultimately up to the chief executives to show the way, however. Only the personal involvement of America's college and university presidents will make reform of college sports possible.

If we don't get involved now, our reputation for commitment to quality higher education will be seriously compromised. I am personally dedicated to never letting this happen.

Martin is president of Moravian College.

What's really needed is an eight- or nine-game cut

Joey Wright, varsity basketball player
University of Texas, Austin

The Dallas Morning News

"I don't think cutting the season by three games is going to make any difference.

"If they want to do something about academics and the athlete, they will have to go a lot farther than that. If they really are trying to make a difference, they need to cut it eight or nine games."

Jim Calhoun, head men's basketball coach
University of Connecticut

Scripps Howard News Service

"We have to spread the word how great this place is. But in the final analysis, that word will only be truly spread by going to the NCAA tournament."

Warner Alford, director of athletics
University of Mississippi

The Atlanta Journal and Constitution

"That's the only thing (suggestion by NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz to abolish athletics dormitories) I had a problem with.

"I just believe if we're going to try to do the academic things they're asking us to do, you need to have a little more control over your athletes. You need to be able to find them instead of having them scattered all over the campus."

Michael Ferrari, president
Drake University

The Des Moines Register

"There is strong sentiment that if left to its own determinations, the athletics establishment will not reform on its own.

"There is a need to continue our (Presidents Commission) strong prodding toward greater reform.

"I don't think there is any doubt next year's Convention will be very critical and substantive. What happened in Dallas sets a mood among many members for change.

"...many presidents believe that what they are doing is correct even if it does cost them some money."

Judith M. Sweet, secretary-treasurer
NCAA

The Associated Press

"We've (women in athletics) gone virtually from nothing to where we are right now, which is a dramatic increase in the number of leadership opportunities.

"I'm somebody who's had the opportunity to experience things other women haven't experienced in the past. I feel very privileged to do that.

"But in these things, timing is everything. Two years ago, I didn't think I'd be in this position—not that a woman couldn't or shouldn't be. But there are so many well-qualified women with the abilities to serve the NCAA in leadership. I just happened to be in the right place at the right time."

The Dallas Morning News

"I don't think men are trying to drive women out of coaching and administration. It's just the normal dynamic of hiring."

Dick Enberg, television commentator
NBC Sports

The New York Times

"There is much more that is good than bad within our collegiate athletics programs. In covering football and basketball, as well as serving as the spokesperson for the GTE academic all-America teams, I am thoroughly convinced that most of our young men and women are truly deserving of the title of student-athlete.

"Sadly, the athletics minority grabs the mass media notoriety with headlines of drugs, cheating and academic failures. Please know that these few do not represent the whole. In big universities and small colleges, the majority of athletes are a credit to themselves and their schools. Furthermore, many deserve to be the role models we crave, and some do qualify as modern-day heroes."

Bob Huggins, head men's basketball coach
University of Cincinnati

The Cincinnati Post

"I don't think winning and losing can get overemphasized. What happens is people take shortcuts and try to do things the wrong way. When they do, bad things happen.

"Everybody says, 'College athletics... this happening and that's happening, but go to your newspaper; there are bad things happening there. There are people taking shortcuts everywhere, and they end up getting in trouble.

"It's not winning and losing (that causes problems), it's how you go about winning and losing."

The Washington Post

Excerpted from an editorial

"The (NCAA) presidents' victory in this matter (to reduce basketball schedules and spring football practice) was important: It showed a determination to regain control of sports programs and to put them in their proper place on campus.

"It also made it clear that doing this will involve cutting back and scaling down—of schedules, of spending and of money coming in. Athletics directors argue, with some justification, that big-money sports such as men's basketball and football help subsidize the unprofitable ones, including women's athletics.

"The answer to that argument is that while sports programs are an important part of education, they're not important enough to warrant the sort of cynical exploitation of young men that has become common at many schools."

Mark Marquess, head baseball coach
Stanford University

San Francisco Chronicle

"College baseball has really arrived, and television has really made the difference.

"Heck, 10 years ago, it was tough to find a score."

Andre Hayes, former varsity football player
University of Washington

Los Angeles Times

"I didn't feel like a student until I got done playing.

"Then, I got to see what it was really like, just going to school.

"You get some who have the wrong attitude about why they are there. They forget they are also students. Although a small percentage make the NFL, this is their main objective."

It's encouraging to see student-athlete win one for a change

By Larry Henze

For the first time in years, the student was placed before the athlete in the deliberations of the NCAA membership. In heeding the call for reform from Dick Schultz, NCAA executive director, the delegates took a long-awaited step toward restoring meaning to the student-athlete concept.

Within the span of three hectic and debate-filled days, the membership modified the controversial Proposition 42, reduced the Division I basketball season to 25 games and restricted the time period allowed for spring football.

Letter to the Editor

Choice challenged

To the Editor:

E. Gordon Gee, in his January 10 Comment piece, "A Division I-A football championship: At what cost?" expresses justifiable concern that "collegiate football... has become a business with enormous commercial opportunity, and... some colleges and universities have even diluted their academic standards and expectations to secure a winning team..."

It is interesting to note: Only a few weeks prior to Mr. Gee's pointed comments, the University of Colorado—of which Gee is president—promoted from football recruiting coordinator to assistant athletics director for football operations an individual, who, while serving in a similar capacity at the University of Illinois, Champaign, from 1985 to 1988, was directly implicated (Read: The NCAA News, February 17, 1988) in violations of NCAA requirements. These "major" recruiting infractions resulted in the Association placing Illinois on one-year probation.

What does this personnel action reveal about the University of Colorado's "values"; its "heritage"; its "mission"?

The indubitable truth is that few university leaders are willing to take on certain athletics interests for fear that anything they do will incite this narrow, volatile constituency. Meanwhile, the tragedy is that so many opportunities for reform are being lost.

In the final analysis, higher education needs not words but deeds. Presidents must directly and fully address the central question of "academic values" on their respective campuses. Reform leadership imposes a special burden. It also requires resolute monitoring of institutional standards.

News Fact File

The average NCAA member institution sponsored 15.9 sports (8.6 for men, 7.3 for women) in 1988-89. The average Division I institution (required to sponsor at least 14 if in I-A or 12 if in I-AA or I-AAA) sponsored 17.3 (9.4 for men, 7.9 for women). In Division II, where eight are required for membership, the average was 13.1 (6.9 for men, 6.2 for women). The Division III average (again, eight required) was 16.4 (9.0 for men, 7.4 for women).

The modified Proposition 42 denies athletics aid to individuals who do not meet the requirements—which is right—but it now permits need-based, nonathletics aid. It now properly encourages these young men to become students before they begin their collegiate athletics careers and allows them to receive much-needed financial aid.

As a result, many will attend rather than forego college. Let's hope that universities embrace the spirit of this proposition and continue to stress academic success once student-athletes are allowed to compete.

Another major reform movement pitted university presidents against athletics directors concerned with preserving the status quo and balancing program budgets. It is a long-awaited pleasure to see university presidents assert their power in an effort to bring sanity to intercollegiate athletics. The shortened basketball season—25 games and a November 1 starting date for practice—is an initial effort to reduce the time pressures on the athletes. At a later date, restrictions on the length of meetings and practice sessions may follow.

Many athletics directors, frightened at the prospect of the lost revenue from three games, urged that the restriction be placed on practice sessions.

Why not? Integrity and honesty. These honorable characteristics have often been in short supply in collegiate sports programs, and non-compliance with practice-session time limitations would be virtually uncontrollable by the minuscule NCAA enforcement staff. On the other hand, 25 games will be played under public scrutiny.

I am sympathetic to the plight of those athletics directors who are facing the increasing cost of college sports programs.

At the University of Dayton, the loss of just one home game costs the athletics program $70,000, a significant amount when the annual mortgage payment on the arena is $275,000.

For all institutions, the revenue losses will have to be recouped through strategic budget cuts, efficient team-travel schedules, and successful fund-raising programs. Universities house, and are supported by, many of the most creative minds in the country, so I am confident these budget struggles will be overcome.

Admittedly, many colleges could have continued to play a 28-game schedule and provided their student-athletes with a worthy education. The new restriction is similar to the entire class being punished for the indiscretions of just a few.

Ultimately, the objective of class punishment and the 25-game limit is the same: Discipline is needed to ensure that the academic process remains paramount.

For those of us disturbed by the recent trend of intercollegiate programs becoming the minor leagues for professional sports, these reforms are refreshing.

In athletics contests, a change in momentum often leads to an unanticipated result. Hurrah for the enlightened NCAA members for a momentous call for change.

Clarence "Big House" Gaines of Winston-Salem State joined Kentucky's legendary Adolph Rupp January 24 as the only college coaches to win 800 games. Gaines had an 801-391 record through games of January 27. He is outranked in men's college basketball only by Rupp, who had 875 victories in 41 seasons.

Gaines, 66, is in his 44th year of college coaching and achieved the milestone when his team beat rival Livingstone, 79-70. Last weekend, Winston-Salem State downed Johnson C. Smith, 91-89, to add to his win list.

"I enjoy what I'm doing, and as long as my health stays like it is, I'll continue," Gaines said. "The Lord has blessed me in so many ways."

He got his nickname when Jimmy Carter, then business manager at Morgan State, saw Gaines, a 6-5, 255-pound Morgan State football star, step out of a car.

"I've never seen anything bigger than you but a house," Carter exclaimed.

Gaines first coached football at Winston-Salem State. His 21st basketball team, led by all-America guard Earl "The Pearl" Monroe, won the 1967 NCAA Division II championship. His teams always have been noted for their work ethic, devotion to fundamentals and an up-tempo style tailored to the personnel.

Hundreds of his players have graduated and many, Monroe included, said they never would have gone to college except for Gaines' influence.

Georgetown's John Thompson said: "When I won the national championship, I pointed out there were several guys of color who never had been given the opportunity I had, and he was one." Eric "Sleepy" Floyd was captain of Thompson's first Final Four team in 1982. "I called Big House, told him I needed a shooting guard, and he helped me get Eric," Thompson says.

Coaching alumni

Looking at the current field of 292 Division I men's team head coaches, the college with the most graduates in the active ranks is Maryland with six. Next is Duke with five coaches, and then three schools with four coaches each: Mississippi State, North Carolina and St. Joseph's (Pennsylvania). Several have three each. Thirty-four of the graduates in Division I are coaching at their alma maters.

Five of the Maryland graduates played at least part of their careers under Bud Millikan, who in turn was a pupil of Henry "Hank" Iba at Oklahoma A&M (now Oklahoma State). The five are Long Beach State's Joe Harrington (1967), Old Dominion's Tom Young (1958), Maryland's Gary Williams (1968), Towson State's Terry Truex (1968) and Monmouth's (New Jersey) Wayne Szoke (1963). The other Maryland graduate—Southwestern Louisiana's Marty Fletcher (1973)—played under Charles "Lefty" Dreisell.

The five Duke graduates are James Madison's Dreisell (1954), Creighton's Tony Barone (1968), Illinois State's Bob Bender (1980), North Carolina-Charlotte's Jeff Mullins (1964) and Winthrop's Steve Vacendak (1966).

Mississippi State's graduates are Central Florida's Joe Dean Jr. (1976), Delaware's Steve Steinwedel (1975), Idaho's Kermit Davis Jr. (1982) and Mississippi State's Richard Williams (1967). The North Carolina graduates are Kansas' Roy Williams (1972), Furman's George Estes (1971), George Washington's John Kuester (1977) and Vanderbilt's Eddie Fogler (1970). The St.

Divisions II and III

Bowling Green, Cortland State and Winona State have the most graduates—three each—coaching actively at Division II schools, while 21 other schools have two each.

The Bowling Green alumni are Oakland's Greg Kampe (1978), Wayne State's (Michigan) Ron Hammye (1978) and Tennessee-Martin's Tom Hancock (1967). Cortland

Fordham men's coach Nick Macarchuk on his team's 8-2 road record: "We only play nine home games, so before our next one, we are going to take a bus trip around the Bronx (Fordham's home) for an hour or so. If I could figure out why we've been so successful, I'd bottle it, sell it to the NBA and retire from coaching to start my own TV show." (Joe Favorito, Fordham SID)

Ellen Bayer, a 6-9 senior at Texas, had 12 blocked shots vs. Texas Tech—one short of the Division I record—along with 12 points and

Basketball notes

State's three are Adelphi's Jim O'Connor (1983), Long Island-C.W. Post's Tom Galeazzi (1961) and Quinnipiac's Burt Kahn (1952). The Winona State graduates are Northeastern Illinois's Rees Johnson (1965), Wisconsin-Parkside's Al Schiesser (1975) and Fort Hays State's Bill Morse (1959).

In Division III, Brockport State leads with nine graduates; Springfield has eight.

For Brockport State, they are Rochester Institute of Technology's Bob McVean (1969), Clarkson's Jay Murphy (1981), Bethany's (West Virginia) Jim Zalacca (1979), Geneseo State's Tom Pope (1960), Elmira's Kevin Moore (1983), Colorado College's Al Walker (1981), Utica's Ed Jones (1973), Johns Hopkins' Bill Nelson (1965) and Alfred's Ron Frederes (1967).

The Springfield alumni are Stevens Tech's Wally Whitaker (1962), New York Maritime's John Dwinell (1981), Whittier's David Jacobs (1965), Hamilton's Tom Murphy (1962), Ramapo's Todd Meyer (1981), Sewanee's (University of the South) Tony Wingen (1982), Union's (New York) Bill Scanlon (1966) and Trinity's (Texas) Charles Brock (1976).

Quotes of the week

Wofford men's coach Richard Johnson on his team's seven-game winning streak while he was experiencing back spasms: "I never thought I'd say this, but I hope I never walk upright again as long as we keep playing like we are." (Mark Cohen, Wofford SID)

Louisville women's coach Bud Childers on his team's 10-2 record vs. 4-24 last season: "We're doing it with mirrors. We're not as good as our record but not as bad as we looked on paper preseason." (Nancy Smith, Louisville women's SID)

10 rebounds, and did it in just 20 minutes in a reserve role. (Donna Hart, Texas women's SID)

Grand Valley State's men have scored at least one three-point field goal in 95 straight games since the rule was adopted three seasons ago. Can any team top that? (Don Thomas, Grand Valley State SID)

Seven of nine Livingston women's players fouled out vs. Delta State in a January 27 game. Delta State coach Lloyd Clark kept his five players on the floor, but only sent three, then two of his players down with Livingston when the Lady Tigers had the ball offensively. (Jody Corro, Delta State SID)

Central Missouri State has one of the best combined men and women's records in the nation. The men's team is 17-0 and ranked fourth in the Division II poll and the women's squad is 17-1 and ranked seventh. The combined 34-1 mark is approached by Division III's Wittenberg with a 35-2 record, but only Wittenberg's men's team is ranked.

In 1984, Central Missouri State recorded one of the more unusual achievements in college basketball when its men's and women's teams both won Division II championships in the same year. (Todd Gurnow, Central Missouri State assistant SID)

Van Valkenburg recovering after heart surgery

James M. Van Valkenburg, NCAA director of statistics, is recovering from triple-bypass heart surgery he underwent following a heart attack January 26.

He is expected to be released from Shawnee Mission Medical Center, Overland Park, Kansas, during the weekend of February 3-4.

Cal State Fullerton junior Genia Miller, shown here in a recent game at UCLA, ranks among Division I leaders in scoring (22.9-point average) and rebounding (12 per game)

NCAA Record

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

Ronald L. Applbaum appointed president at Westfield State. He previously was vice-president for academic affairs at Texas-Pan American... Albert Yates selected as president at Colorado State, where he also will be chancellor of the CSU system, effective no later than July 1. Yates is executive vice-president and provost at Washington State... William C. Richardson named president at Johns Hopkins, effective this summer. He is executive vice-president and provost at Penn State... E. Joe Middlebrooks appointed acting president at Tulsa.

DIRECTORS OF ATHLETICS

George Perles given additional duties at Michigan State, where he has been head football coach for seven seasons. He will step into the AD's post July 1 for a one-year term, after which school trustees will review whether one person should serve both as AD and football coach... Greg Warzecka selected at Redlands, succeeding interim AD Christopher Walker, who served in the post for 1½ years. Since 1985, Warzecka has been assistant chair of physical education and athletics at Chicago, where he also was head baseball coach. He also coached baseball from 1982 to 1985 at San Francisco State... Richard Rockwell promoted from assistant AD at Le Moyne, where he will retain his duties as head baseball coach for at least one year. Rockwell, who led last year's Le Moyne baseball team to the Northeast regional championship game in the Division I Baseball Championship, has coached at the school for 20 years... Steve McCarty named men's AD at Stephen F. Austin State, where he has been interim AD since December. He previously was associate men's AD at the school.

COACHES

Baseball—Frank Fulton promoted from assistant at Hampden-Sydney, replacing Louis "Weenie" F. Miller, who stepped down from the post to devote more time to his duties as athletics director and related activities. Fulton also served 1½ seasons (1985 and 1986) as head coach, compiling a 20-27-1 record. Miller's teams compiled a 68-34-1 mark through five seasons, including a two-year stint in the 1950s... Chicago's Greg Warzecka named athletics director at Redlands.

Baseball assistant—Phil Culicerto given new duties at Hampden-Sydney, where he served the past three years as men's tennis coach.

Men's basketball—John Thornton named interim head coach at Texas A&M, where he has been an assistant since 1981. He replaces Shelby Metcalf, who was dismissed by the school but was offered reassignment to other duties. During his 27-year tenure, Metcalf coached his Aggie teams to a 438-306 record and six Southwest Athletic Conference titles, as well as five Division I Men's Basketball Championship appearances. Metcalf has recorded more victories than any other Southwest Conference coach... Harold Merritt promoted from assistant to interim head coach at Northern Arizona, replacing Pat Rafferty, who resigned after the Lumberjacks' 16th game of the season. Merritt is a former head coach at Morris Brown and a former aide at Long Beach State and New Orleans. Through 1½ seasons, Rafferty coached his teams to an 8-35 record.

Women's basketball—Jan Martin promoted from assistant to interim head coach at Colorado State, replacing Brian Berger, who resigned after leading this year's team to a 9-6 record. Martin, a former Oregon State player, is in her first year at the school. Berger coached his teams to a 44-55 mark through 3½ seasons.

Women's basketball assistant—Julie Moffitt selected at Upper Iowa, where she also will be head women's volleyball coach.

Men's and women's cross country—Eva Sierra Giamboi appointed at St. Francis (New York), where she also will coach men's and women's track and serve as supervisor of intramurals and recreation. She replaces Patrick Horne, who is now the school's sports information director.

Field hockey—Dana Soper named at Mary Washington, where she also will coach women's lacrosse, effective August 15. She currently coaches the sports at Randolph-Macon, where her field hockey team was 11-4-1 last season.

Football—Jack Crowe promoted from offensive coordinator at Arkansas, where he joined the staff last year. He is a former head coach at Livingston who also has been an assistant at North Alabama, Wyoming, Auburn and Clemson... Larry Dorsey appointed at Mississippi Valley after one year as wide receivers coach at Mississippi. Dorsey, a former assistant at Mississippi Valley, also has been on the staffs at Delta State and Arkansas-Pine Bluff. He was an all-America receiver at Tennessee State in the mid-1970s... William M. Rees selected at Shippensburg after five seasons at Susquehanna, where his teams were 36-15-1 and won three Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference titles. Rees also has been an assistant at Bucknell and Colgate.

Football assistants—Jim Foster appointed assistant head coach and recruiting coordinator at Brown, which also hired Jim Bernhardt as defensive coordinator. Foster previously was an assistant football coach and head men's and women's track coach at Trinity (Connecticut), and Bernhardt was defensive coordinator at Hofstra... Karl Dorrell selected as an offensive assistant at Northern Arizona. He previously was on the staff at Central Florida and also has coached at UCLA, his alma mater... Arkansas defensive coordinator and secondary coach Bob Trott appointed to a similar position at Clemson, where he will be joined on the staff by seven other Razorback staff members—Wally Ake, inside linebackers coach; Roger Hinshaw, outside linebackers coach; Larry Brinson, offensive backfield coach; Richard Wilson, wide receivers coach; Larry Beckman, guards and centers coach; Dick Ellis, administrative assistant; and Peter Shinnick, graduate assistant coach. Clemson also announced the replacement of Tammy Frank, who will resign February 4 after 2½ years in the post to become an account executive for Penny/Ohlmann/Neiman, Inc., an advertising and public relations firm in Dayton, Ohio.

Strength coach—Steven D. Little selected at Temple. The former Iowa State all-Big Eight Conference football player has been assistant strength and conditioning coordinator at Purdue since 1988.

Assistant trainer—Kim Minger joined the women's training staff at Texas after serving as a graduate assistant trainer at North Carolina.

ASSOCIATIONS

Carl "Berny" Wagner, national coach coordinator for The Athletics Congress since 1982, named head men's and women's track and field coach at Western Oregon State. Wagner, who is credited as the inventor of the "Fosbury Flop" high-jumping technique, was head track and field coach at Oregon State from 1966 to 1975.

NOTABLES

Former Wisconsin wrestler Lee Kemp, who won three Division I individual titles at 158 pounds from 1976 to 1978, elected to the National Wrestling Hall of Fame. Kemp, who also won seven gold medals in international competition, will be joined in the hall by Stanley Abel, head wrestling coach at Oklahoma; the late Raymond H. Swartz, who coached at Central State (Oklahoma) and Navy, and the late Walter C. O'Connell, who coached at Cornell for 40 years beginning in 1909... Kermit Blosser, who retired last year after 42 years as men's golf coach at Ohio but still serves as a consultant to the team, selected by the Golf Coaches Association of America to receive its fourth Honor Award. The award recognizes outstanding contributions to collegiate golf.

Steven D. Little
appointed strength
coach at Temple

tion of two assistants—Larry Van Der Heyden, offensive line coach, and Rick Stockstill, quarterbacks coach.

Also, David Shuck named graduate assistant coach at California (Pennsylvania). He is a former Pittsburgh tight end... Mike Major and Spencer Leftwich appointed defensive line and offensive line coaches, respectively, at Stephen F. Austin State, which also announced the promotions of passing coordinator Zane Zamenski to offensive coordinator and secondary coach Phil Bounds to defensive coordinator. Major, who was defensive coordinator at Iowa Wesleyan last season, and Leftwich, who was a part-time assistant at Stephen F. Austin during 1989, both played at the Texas school.

Men's golf—Wayne Williams selected at Central Missouri State, where he is an assistant professor of secondary education. Williams, who coached golf at Dardanelle (Arkansas) High School during the early 1980s, replaces Brian Maloney, who was named club professional at the Blue Springs (Missouri) Country Club... John Thibault resigned after three seasons at Eastern Michigan to become the head professional at West Branch (Michigan) Country Club.

Men's lacrosse assistant—Mike Page named at Pennsylvania, where he was an all-Ivy Group and all-America player during the 1970s.

Women's lacrosse—Dana Soper appointed at Mary Washington, where she also will coach field hockey. Soper will coach the women's lacrosse team this spring at Randolph-Macon before moving to Mary Washington August 15.

Women's soccer—Citing personal reasons, Bert Frondorf resigned at Xavier (Ohio), where his teams compiled a 22-19-5 record through three seasons.

Women's softball—Chris Turner named at Philadelphia Textile, where he is assistant women's basketball coach... Sue Dilsworth appointed at Ferris State after two seasons as head coach at Grand Valley State, where her teams compiled a 45-40 mark. Dilsworth, who also has been head coach at Nazareth (Michigan), will take on additional duties as a program coordinator in Ferris State's recreation office.

Men's and women's tennis—Scott Vowels appointed men's coach at Western Kentucky, where he was a Sun Belt Conference all-academic player in 1988. He is a teaching professional at a tennis facility in Bowling Green, Kentucky... Kris Jeffery named men's and women's coach at Oakland, where she was the No. 1 singles and doubles player during the 1986 and 1987 seasons. Jeffery, who has coached at Oakland (Michigan) Community College, replaces Robert Chonoles, who was at the school for one season... Joe Bush appointed men's coach at Hampden-Sydney, where he is head football coach. He replaces Phil Culicerto, who was assigned to new duties as assistant baseball coach after leading his tennis teams to a 23-12 record through three seasons.

Men's and women's track and field—Eva Sierra Giamboi selected at St. Francis (New York), where she also will coach men's and women's cross country and serve as intramurals and recreation supervisor. She replaces Patrick Horne, who is now the school's sports information director... Jim Foster of Trinity (Connecticut) appointed assistant head football coach and football recruiting coordinator at Brown.

Women's volleyball—Julie Moffitt named at Upper Iowa, where she also will assist with women's basketball. She is a former academic all-America volleyball player at Northeast Louisiana... Jodi Fahy resigned after two years at Xavier (Ohio), where her teams compiled a 20-50 record.

Wrestling—Mike Hagerty resigned at Central Missouri State, effective at the end of the school year, to become West Coast regional representative for USA Wrestling. He has coached eight Division II all-America wrestlers, including one national champion, during his seven seasons at the school.

Wrestling assistant—Keith Healy selected as graduate assistant coach at California (Pennsylvania). The former Illinois wrestler previously was an assistant at St. Lawrence High School in Barabank, Illinois.

STAFF

Assistant to athletics director—Al Molloy will take on new duties at Pennsylvania as special assistant to the AD for alumni relations. He is stepping down as head squash coach after 31 years to move into the new post but will retain his duties as director of racquet sports at the school.

Sports information director—Beth Weber named interim women's SID at Iowa, where she is assistant SID. She will

(Season of competition used per B 14.2.4.1.1.) | DIVISION III | | |
| B 13.1.1.3 | Assistant football coach contacted transfer SA before receiving permission from SA's current certifying institution. SA sought enrollment at another institution prior to impermissible contact. | No. | Eligibility restored. | B 16.12.2.1 | Men's head basketball coach wrote personal check for $500 to hold rental furniture for SAs prior to enrollment. | Eligibility restored upon repayment. | B 14.8.1 | SA (men's soccer) participated in one outside competition one day after official practice began in August; institution withheld SA from next intercollegiate contest. | Eligibility restored. |
| B 13.3.3 | Former head track coach placed ad in magazine to solicit enrollment of athletes. PSA responded to ad and was recruited to attend institution. Institution's name was not mentioned in ad. | No. | Eligibility restored. | B 10.1 and 13.2.2 | Prior to enrollment, SA (football) received excess wages for summer employment from representative of university's athletics interests. SA provided false and misleading information to institution and NCAA enforcement staff. SA was encouraged to provide such information by the representative; the former head coach did not encourage SA to be forthcoming. | Eligibility restored after SA withheld from first three contests of 1989-90 season and additional loss of one year of eligibility, with two seasons of competition remaining. | B 14.8.1 | SAs (men's soccer) participated in one outside competition one day after official practice began in August; institution withheld SA from next intercollegiate contest. | Eligibility restored. |
| DIVISION III | | | | | | | B 14.8.2 | SA (men's basketball) participated in outside basketball tournament. SA was not a member of intercollegiate team at time of competition. Institution withheld SA from first two intercollegiate contests of 1989-90 season. | Eligibility restored. |
| B 13.1.1.1 | Women's soccer coach contacted PSA following contest. Upon learning PSA was a junior, coach terminated contact. | No. | Eligibility restored. | | | | | | |

Utah's tennis center is first phase of new athletics complex

With the dedication of a new indoor tennis center, the University of Utah has completed the first phase of an athletics complex that eventually will house training facilities for all 20 of the school's athletics teams.

The George S. Eccles Tennis Center, funded with a $1.375 million donation by George S. and Delores Eccles, also gives Utah's men's and women's tennis teams their first on-campus courts.

Located near the school's Rice Stadium, the center has eight courts and seating capacity for up to 1,000 spectators. It also features men's and women's locker rooms, including space for visiting teams; a pro shop; a classroom and office space, and a lounge and vending area.

"I haven't seen any college facility nicer than the Eccles," said F. D. Robbins, head men's tennis coach at Utah and manager of the center. "I've seen a lot of facilities, and even taking private facilities into consideration, I think this is one of the best around."

Already, the center has served as host for the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association Rolex Regional Championships.

"We've always had successful men's teams at the university; but now, being able to play and practice on campus, I think it will really make a difference," Robbins said. "It will help give us the home-court advantage we never really had when we had to play off campus."

The Lady Utes tennis team also is enjoying the new facility, says head women's coach John Tsumas. He noted that his team will play 20 home matches this season, compared to the three it played at a nearby racquet club last season.

The squad played 19 matches on the road last year.

Eventually, two other buildings will join the Eccles facility as part of a training facility for Utah student-athletes. One of the buildings will enclose a 90-yard, full-width football field surrounded by a 200-meter track; and the other building will feature weight rooms, batting cages and coaches' offices.

During dedication ceremonies in October for the tennis facility, a member of the Eccles family announced an additional $500,000 donation to the school. Half of those funds will be used for completion of the athletics complex and the remaining $250,000 is earmarked for a scholarship fund for Utah tennis.

SEC official says his plan would solve athletics problems

The Southeastern Conference official in charge of eligibility and academics for the 10 member schools said the problems of eligibility requirements, grades and graduation rates for athletes could be solved simply.

"All we have to do is eliminate the total number of scholarships for each sport," said Associate Commissioner Jim McCullough. "Allow a school to give only a certain number each year."

"That would change a coach's priority."

Schools currently are allowed to have a certain number of athletes under grants-in-aid in each sport. If an athlete drops out of school or gives up his grant for some other reason before his eligibility is completed, the school can simply recruit someone to take his place.

Under McCullough's idea, a coach "would have to recruit kids who can stay in school," he said. "Give him a certain number of scholarships each year, and that's it. Then, you don't have to worry about eligibility requirements or 2,000 grade-point averages or anything."

"That would help the graduation rates more than anything else, because with a limited number of players, a coach would do all he could to make sure a player makes the grades and stays in school."

McCullough, commissioner of the Gulf South Conference before he became an SEC associate commissioner eight years ago, said he wouldn't be surprised if some sports propose such a plan soon.

He said the Presidents Commission of the NCAA would have to look at the advantages and disadvantages.

"I think it should be done in all sports," McCullough told the Associated Press. "Pick out a number. That limits the size of a squad. You can still allow for walkons and for the kid who turns pro to be replaced."

One problem under the current system, he said, is that scholarships are divided among more than one athlete.

"It's not how many scholarships you have to offer," said McCullough. "It's how many kids those scholarships go to."

"We spend too much time fighting over what the qualifying standards are to get into school. Just tell the basketball coach, 'You've got four scholarships a year and that's all you've got,' and you won't have to worry about it. He'll recruit kids who can make it in the class and make sure they do."

Such a plan, McCullough said, also would help contain costs in college athletics because of smaller squads.

"Schools are spending all that money on tutorial work and that's great, but they could solve all that with limits."

McCullough said he does not receive athletes' grades from the SEC schools but does get reports on whether they are making satisfactory progress.

"The SEC has a rule that no other conference has, that a returning student must pass eight hours to be eligible for the next semester," he said. "We've had that rule a long time."

Grade-point averages from member schools would be largely meaningless, McCullough said, because of differences between academic disciplines.

"How do you qualify grades from various disciplines?" he asked. "Consequently, you cannot compare grades that way. It's just like high school. All A's in one school might be all F's in another."

Gift aimed at settling ticket dispute

The University of Washington athletics department has given the student body $10,000, the same amount it made in selling Apple Cup tickets from the students-only section to the public.

Tickets to the November 18 game were sold without consulting the students or offering them first chance at seats for the annual rivalry between the University of Washington and Washington State University.

Washington athletics officials said the student section had not been selling out. Students protested the decision bitterly at the time, but they praised the refund, the Associated Press reported.

"We think it's a real important gesture," student body president Mike Egan said.

Half of the $10,000 made from the sale of tickets went to the Cougars. Athletics Director Milo R. Lude said the Husky athletics department made up the difference.

After the 20-9 Washington victory, Washington students clashed with university police and security personnel before tearing down a goal post.

Questions/Answers

Readers are invited to submit questions to this column. Please direct any inquiries to The NCAA News at the NCAA national office.

Q Do married college football players whose teams are invited to postseason bowl games have to pay the way for their wives and/or children to accompany them?

A No. NCAA Bylaw 18.7.5 states that competing institutions may include the wives and children of players on its traveling squad as part of the official party to attend a certified postseason football game and may pay their necessary travel, lodging and meal costs.

Initial-eligibility waivers

Following is a report of actions taken by the NCAA Council Subcommittee on Initial-Eligibility Waivers. The report includes actions taken since the last summary was published. It appeared in the November 13, 1989, issue of The NCAA News.

The subcommittee:

a. Considered the following test-score waiver requests:

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.000 and an SAT score of 650 achieved January 1989. The student-athlete was unaware of the test-score component of NCAA Bylaw 14.3 and thus did not retake the test. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted the student-athlete's high core-course grade-point average.

- Reconsidered and approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 16 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.210 and SAT scores of 600, 600, 660, 670 and 590 with a composite score of 680. The student-athlete has a documented learning disability that was diagnosed July 14, 1989. The institution had requested that she be given the opportunity to take the SAT or ACT under circumstances that compensate for her learning disability. The institution submitted new documentation from an independent psychologist that confirmed the original diagnosis of the student-athlete's learning disability. The subcommittee's approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon her qualification for and successful completion of the ACT or SAT under conditions that compensate for her learning disability.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 14.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.500 in 11 core-courses and ACT scores of 12, eight, 12 and 10 with a composite score of 13.75. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete presented four low test scores.

- Reconsidered and denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.34, a standard SAT score of 680 and standard ACT scores of six, 10, 13 and 12 with a composite score of 13.25 and an ACT score of 12 achieved under conditions that compensated for his learning disability. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the low nature of the student-athlete's nonstandard ACT score.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented strong Israeli secondary credentials and no test score. The subcommittee's approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon his successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete was not recruited until subsequent to the final opportunity to register for the ACT or SAT in Israel.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.400 and a residual ACT score of 12. The student-athlete had a diagnosed learning disability as a child but subsequently was removed from the special education program. His high school maintained that he continues to suffer from learning disabilities. He has not yet had the opportunity to take the ACT or SAT under conditions that compensate for his learning disability. The subcommittee's approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon his qualification for and successful completion of the ACT or SAT under conditions that compensate for his learning disability.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented strong secondary credentials from South Africa and no test score. The subcommittee's approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon his successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 14.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.050 in 11 core courses and SAT scores of 560 and 630, and an ACT score of 10. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the student-athlete's three low test scores.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 14.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.140 in 11 core courses and ACT scores of 10 and 12 with a composite score of 13.75 and a residual ACT score of 16. The subcommittee's approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon her successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national test date under national testing conditions.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.450 and ACT scores of 12, 20, 14 and 13. The score of 20 was questioned by the testing agency. The student-athlete was given the opportunity to verify that test score by taking the test again under supervised (non-national) testing conditions. The student-athlete scored 14 on the retest, which was not sufficient to verify the score of 20 according to standards established by ACT testing officials. He again retested under nonnational conditions and scored 13. The student-athlete has a composite score of 15 based upon the two retests. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the low nature of the student-athlete's verified test scores, as well as the marginal nature of his composite score.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable Finnish secondary credentials and no test score. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted that the SAT test was offered in Finland subsequent to the student-athlete's recruitment.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.400 and no test score. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete was recruited on a limited basis two years prior to her initial enrollment, when the institution was an NCAA Division II member and not subject to the current initial-eligibility requirements. The subcommittee's approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented six core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.583 earned during the ninth grade. The student-athlete completed the remainder of her secondary education at home. She also presented a GED score of 57 and a residual ACT score of 20.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented strong Finnish secondary credentials and no test score. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted that the SAT test was offered in Finland subsequent to the student-athlete's recruitment.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.040 and no test score. The student-athlete transferred from a junior college. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete attended junior college full-time for two years but did not earn an AA degree.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable German secondary credentials and no test score. Her recruitment occurred subsequent to the July 1 test-score deadline. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon her successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.680, an ACT score of eight and an SAT score of 610. The student-athlete was unable to retake the ACT test in June 1989 due to an error on the part of her high school counselor. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the student-athlete's two low test scores.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented secondary credentials from the Netherlands that did not meet the criteria outlined in the NCAA Guide to International Academic Standards. The student-athlete presented three core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.330 earned during a foreign exchange year at an American high school, a high-school diploma and no test score. The institution requested that the student-athlete be given the opportunity to take the SAT or ACT test on a national testing date. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete's recruitment and year of secondary study in the United States presented sufficient opportunity to inform him of the test-score component of NCAA Bylaw 14.3.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable Canadian secondary credentials and a residual ACT score of 18. The student-athlete's recruitment occurred largely through his brother, who entered the same institution prior to the effective date of Proposal 48. The subcommittee's approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon his successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented strong Australian secondary credentials and no test score. The student-athlete was unsuccessful in an attempt to take the ACT in Australia in April 1989. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon the student-athlete's successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable secondary credentials from Yugoslavia and an SAT score of 690. The institution requested that the student-athlete be given the opportunity to retake the SAT. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the student-athlete's previous low test score and the fact that he spent the year immediately preceding his initial collegiate enrollment as a foreign exchange student in the United States.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 13 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.580 and an ACT score of 14. The student and his family misread his score of 14 as 17. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the student-athlete's low test score and the clear statement of the student's test-score report on his high-school transcript.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.818 and an ACT score of 14. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the student-athlete's low test score.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 12 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.080 and SAT scores of 640, 600 and 610. The student-athlete suffered serious head injuries in an automobile accident in February 1988; she completed her three SAT examinations subsequent to the accident. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted the student's acceptable core-course performance; medical documentation, which indicated that recovery from head injuries such as those suffered by the student-athlete occurs slowly over a period of months, and the fact that the student-athlete achieved a score of 740 on the PSAT, which was taken before she suffered her head injuries.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable Irish secondary credentials and no test score. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon her successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented four core-course credits (earned during her senior year of high school) with a grade-point average of 3.250 and an SAT score of 620. The student-athlete completed her first three years of high school in Japan with acceptable grades, but did not complete her secondary studies in that country. The subcommittee's approval of the application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Declined the consideration of the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 15.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.156 and a residual ACT score of 16. The student-athlete's initial collegiate enrollment occurred in the fall of 1986. During that semester, the member institution contacted an NCAA enforcement representative and a staff liaison to the NCAA Academic Requirements Committee to confirm the student-athlete's status as a nonqualifier. The institution submitted that these contacts constituted an initial request for a waiver of the initial-eligibility requirements and, therefore, it had met the waiver deadline. The subcommittee noted that it had given sufficient prior notice to the NCAA membership of the waiver application deadline for student-athletes whose first collegiate enrollment occurred in the fall of 1986 pursuant to prior articles published in The NCAA News.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable British secondary credentials and no test score. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete was not recruited prior to the July 1 test-score deadline.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 14.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.410 and Washington Precollege test scores of 44 (verbal) and 48 (quantitative), which predict an SAT score of 790. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete was not recruited until subsequent to the last date to register for an SAT or ACT test prior to the July 1 deadline.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 13 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.269 and a nonnational ACT score of 21. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of recruited student-athlete who presented strong Swedish secondary credentials and no test score. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon his successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete was not recruited until subsequent to the July 1 test-score deadline.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 15 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.030 and no test score. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon his successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions. In its approval of the waiver application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete presented a PSAT score of 1210.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.410 and an ACT score of 530 achieved under national testing conditions. The student-athlete had a condition diagnosed as a learning disability; he was unaware of the opportunity to take a nonstandard administration of the SAT or ACT until July 1989. On August 4, 1989, he achieved a score of 19 on the ACT under conditions that compensated for his learning disability. The use of that test score to fulfill the test-score requirement of Bylaw 14.3 has been approved by the Academic Requirements Committee.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented strong Czechoslovakian secondary credentials and no test score. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions. In its approval of the application, the staff noted that the ACT and SAT tests are not available in Czechoslovakia and that the student-athlete was unsuccessful in her attempt to obtain a visa to take the ACT or SAT in another country.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.630 and Washington Precollege test scores of 43 (verbal) and 67 (quantitative), which predict an SAT score of 1000.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 14.75 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.590, SAT scores of 600 and 600, and an ACT score of 14, all achieved under national testing conditions. The student-athlete has a condition diagnosed as dyslexic; he was unaware of the opportunity to take a non-standard administration of the ACT or SAT test prior to July 1989. In September 1989, he achieved a score of 17 on the ACT under conditions that compensated for his learning disability. The use of that test score to fulfill the test-score requirement of Bylaw 14.3 has been approved by the Academic Requirements Committee.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented acceptable British secondary credentials and no test score. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon her successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions. In its approval of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete was not recruited prior to the July 1 test deadline.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.220 and an ACT score of 14. The approval of the application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.090 and no test score. The approval of the application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.680 and a residual ACT score of 15. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented acceptable Brazilian credentials and a residual ACT score of 16 taken subsequent to the July 1 test-score deadline. The approval of the application was contingent upon his successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.260 and a residual ACT score of 26. The approval of the application was contingent upon the successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.363 and Washington Precollege test scores of 37 (verbal) and 49 (quantitative), which predict an SAT score of 730.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.790 and Washington Precollege test scores of 47 (verbal) and 59 (quantitative), which predict an SAT score 930.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.910 and Washington Precollege test scores of 60 (verbal) and 52 (quantitative), which predict an SAT score of 1000.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a 2.863 grade-point average and an SAT score of 680 achieved November 1988. The student-athlete was unaware of the test-score component of Bylaw 14.3 and, thus, did not retake the SAT test. The approval of the student-athlete's application was contingent upon her successful completion of the ACT or SAT on a national testing date under national testing conditions.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.180 and ACT scores of nine, 12, 10 and 10, with a composite score of 13.25. In its denial of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete presented four low test scores.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.540, an ACT score of nine and SAT scores of 540, 570, 600, 610, 590 and 440, with a composite score of 680. In its denial of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete presented seven low test scores.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.270, ACT scores of 10 and 14, and an SAT score of 580. In its denial of the waiver application, the staff noted that the student-athlete's core-curriculum grade-point average did not meet the threshold guidelines outlined in the waiver application instructions.

- Denied the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.860 and ACT scores of 11 and 14. In its denial of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete presented two low test scores.

- Denied the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented acceptable credentials from France, ACT scores of 11 and nine, and an SAT score of 530. In its denial of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete presented three low test scores.

b. Considered the following core-course waiver requests:

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.140 and an ACT score of 17, with a mathematics subscore of 15. He lacked 5 core-course credits in mathematics. In its denial of the waiver application, the subcommittee noted the low nature of the student-athlete's core-curriculum grade-point average, as well as the fact that he did not approach the threshold guidelines outlined in the waiver application instructions.

- Denied the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 1.640 and SAT scores of 650 and 720. The student-athlete attended grades nine to 11 in Canada. He graduated from grade 12 in the United States. He completed seven core-course credits during his senior year with a grade-point average of 1.710. He subsequently completed secondary studies in Ontario, Canada, with a final grade-point average of 59.46 in all Canadian course work. A minimum average of 60 is specified in the NCAA Guide to International Academic Standards for Athletic Eligibility. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the low nature of the student-athlete's core-course grade-point average and SAT scores, as well as his marginal Canadian grade-point average.

- Reconsidered and approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.714 and an ACT score of 17, with a mathematics subscore of 21. The student-athlete lacked one-half core-course credit in mathematics. The subcommittee originally denied the application during its September 27 conference call; subsequent to that meeting, the institution submitted information indicating that the student-athlete lacked one-half (not 1.5) core-course credit in mathematics. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted the student-athlete's ACT mathematics subscore.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.090 and an ACT score of 22, with an English subscore of 14. The student-athlete lacked one-half core-course credit in English.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.450 and ACT scores of nine and 18, with natural sciences subscores of 14 and 15, respectively. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in natural science. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the marginal nature of the student-athlete's core-curriculum grade-point average and ACT scores.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 12.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.560 and an ACT score of 15 with a mathematics subscore of 16. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in mathematics. In its denial of the application, the subcommittee noted the marginal nature of the student-athlete's test score.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.650, an ACT score of 22 and an SAT score of 930. She lacked one additional core-course credit, although it appears that a health course taken during the fall of 1986 met the definition of a core course in effect at that time.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.800 and an SAT score of 1,010. He lacked one core-course credit in natural science. The subcommittee noted that the student-athlete completed the first half of a two-year biology course in the eighth grade which was not listed by the high-school principal on Form 48-H.

- Reconsidered and approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.450 and ACT scores of 11 and 13 with a composite score of 15 and natural science subscores of 21 and 13. She lacked one-half core-course credit in natural science.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.550 and an ACT score of 15, with a natural science subscore of 22. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in natural science.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.190 and an SAT score of 1,010 with a verbal subscore of 440. The student-athlete lacked one-half core-course credit in English.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.700 and an ACT score of 17, with a natural science subscore of 25. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in a natural science.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.004, an ACT score of 15 with a natural science subscore of 18, and an SAT score of 750. The student-athlete lacked one-half credit in natural science.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.660 and an SAT score of 990. The student-athlete lacked one-half core-course credit in a natural science laboratory course.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.272 and an ACT score of 20, with a natural science subscore of 17. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in natural science. In its approval of the application, the subcommittee noted that the student-athlete was recruited on a very limited basis.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.550 and SAT scores of 700, 700 and 750. She lacked one core-course credit in natural science.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.450 and ACT scores of 19 and 16, with natural science subscores of 16. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in natural science.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.428 and ACT scores of nine and 15, with natural science subscores of 13 and 18, respectively. The student-athlete lacked one-half core-course credit in natural science.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.760 and an ACT score of 17 with a mathematics subscore of six. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in mathematics. In its denial of the application, the staff noted the student-athlete's low mathematics subscore.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 1.910 and an SAT score of 780. In its denial of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete's core-curriculum grade-point average did not approach the threshold guidelines outlined in the waiver application instructions.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.150 and an ACT score of 13, with a mathematics subscore of 11. He lacked one core-course credit in mathematics. The student-athlete transferred from a junior college; he was unable to meet the junior college transfer provisions as a nonqualifier per Bylaw 14.6.4.2 due to family problems. In its denial of the application, the staff noted the student-athlete's low ACT mathematics subscore.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.150 and an ACT score of 22 with a mathematics subscore of 18. The student-athlete lacked one core-course credit in mathematics. In its denial of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete's core-curriculum grade-point average did not meet the threshold guidelines outlined in the waiver application instructions.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 10.5 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 2.238 and a residual ACT score of 15 with a social science subscore of 10. The student athlete lacked one-half core-course credit in social science. In its denial of the application, the staff noted the student-athlete's low social science subscore.

- Denied the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 1.909 and an SAT score of 740. In its denial of the application, the staff noted that the student-athlete presented a low core-curriculum grade-point average and ranked 21 of 21 in his high-school graduating class.

c. Considered the following high-school graduation waiver requests:

- Approved the core-course, test-score and high-school graduation waiver application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 10 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.025 earned during his first two years of high school, a residual ACT score of 22 with an English subscore of 16, and a GED test completed April 1989 with a standard score average of 56. The student-athlete was schooled at home following the completion of his sophomore year in high school.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 12 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.000 and an SAT score of 1,260. The student-athlete did not graduate from high school; he successfully completed the GED with a score of 60 before one year had elapsed since his high-school class graduation.

- Approved the application of a recruited student-athlete who presented 11 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 4.000 and an SAT score of 1,320. The student-athlete did not graduate from high school and does not meet the requirements of Bylaw 14.3.1.1.5 (early admissions program waiver) because the member institution does not have an early admissions program.

- Approved the application of a nonrecruited student-athlete who presented 12 core-course credits with a grade-point average of 3.000 and an SAT score of 1,260. The student-athlete did not graduate from high school; he completed the GED with an average of 60 prior to his high-school class graduation.

On October 28, 1989, WORLDTEK TRAVEL brought URI & Villanova together in Italy for the Milano Football Classic. Everybody came home a winner!

It was history in the making as WORLDTEK brought together the University of Rhode Island and Villanova for the first American college football game ever played in northern Italy.

It was a massive undertaking, moving two teams, tons of equipment, and hundreds of fans, but in the end everyone came out on top. For the players and coaches, it was the opportunity of a lifetime to play abroad.

For the fans, going on special WORLDTEK package tours, it was a unique chance to travel to Europe for less, while supporting their teams.

The universities were winners, too, with a no-cost opportunity to play abroad, revitalize fan interest, and profit financially. Sound exciting? You bet it is. If you'd like to take your team to play in Europe next year, call Andy Mooradian today at the number below for more details.

Outdoor track and field qualifying standards

The NCAA Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee has established qualifying standards for 1990 outdoor track championships that include automatic and provisional standards in Divisions I and II.

All student-athletes who meet the tougher automatic standards will qualify for the championships. The remaining spots in the championships fields up to the approved maximum for each event—will be filled from lists of student-athletes meeting the less stringent provisional standards. Lists for each event will be compiled in descending order so that the best performances fill the field first.

The procedure for Division III qualification will remain the same as in 1989.

The committee also approved both metric and imperial standards for Divisions II and III. Qualifying marks for field events in these championships will be accepted in either system of measurement. However, the committee has not approved a similar provision for Division I; all qualifying marks for Division I must be submitted in metrics.

Altitude adjustments for sites at elevations of 3,000 feet or higher have been established and will appear in the outdoor track championships handbook. The standards and adjustments listed in the 1990 Track and Field/Cross Country Rules are accurate for Divisions I and II; however, the Division III listings are out of date due to recent changes in the standards.

Qualifying marks must be made after December 1 and no later than May 24, 1990, in Division I or May 19, 1990, in Divisions II and III.

The men's and women's championships in Division I will be held May 30-June 2 at Duke University; Division II, May 24-26 at Hampton University, and Division III, May 23-26 at North Central College.

Qualifying standards for 1990 indoor track championships appeared in the November 27 issue of The NCAA News.

Due-process bill passes in Nebraska

The Nebraska Legislature passed a bill January 26 that would permit state universities to sue the NCAA for a violation of due process in disciplinary hearings.

Sponsored by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha and Sen. Cap Dierks of Ewing, the bill was passed, 29-7, by the 49-member assembly.

The legislation requires the NCAA to follow due process in its disciplinary proceedings. It allows institutions and individuals—including employees and students—to take legal action and would subject sanctions imposed by the NCAA to review by the state's courts.

NCAA officials have said they believe the Association's enforcement structure and procedures provide due process to institutions and individuals (see January 24 issue of The NCAA News).

Before it was passed, the Chambers-Dierks bill briefly became ensnared in a parliamentary controversy, according to United Press International.

Sen. Bernice Labedz, sponsor of an abortion-notification bill, introduced an amendment to strike the contents of the Chambers-Dierks bill and insert her own bill's words in their place after Chambers successfully led a week-long filibuster to prevent Labedz's bill from being put to a vote.

But Labedz and another legislator who filed amendments to the due process bill withdrew the amendments, permitting the Chambers-Dierks bill to be put to a vote.

Big Ten issues reprimand of Rumeal Robinson

Big Ten Conference Commissioner James F. Delany has issued a reprimand and censure order for University of Michigan basketball player Rumeal Robinson for public statements he made about officials after a Michigan-Iowa game.

Delany said Robinson broke conference regulations when he criticized referees in a postgame news conference after Michigan's 78-76 loss January 20.

Michigan interim director of athletics Jack Weidenbach and men's basketball coach Steve Fisher reportedly also took disciplinary action against Robinson.

Honors dinner to be on TV

ESPN will telecast a one-hour special on the 1990 NCAA honors dinner Tuesday, February 6, at 1 p.m. Eastern time.

Penders' criticism of officiating draws reprimand

The Southwest Athletic Conference has issued a public reprimand of University of Texas, Austin, head men's basketball coach Tom Penders for criticizing conference referees.

Commissioner Fred Jacoby issued the reprimand January 29 after reviewing game reports from the nationally televised (ESPN) Arkansas-Texas basketball game January 25 in Fayetteville, Arkansas.

Texas lost the game, 109-100, and Penders called the officiating "terrible."

For interns

Sixteen interns from member conferences and six interns from the Association's national office gathered in Overland Park, Kansas, January 25-27 for the annual NCAA Conference Intern Seminar. Richard J. Evrard (back to camera), NCAA director of legislative services, was one of several national office staff members who described the activities of their departments during the seminar, which also featured panel discussions and workshops designed to aid the interns in seeking careers in athletics administration. Other speakers included Carl C. James, commissioner of the Big Eight Conference, and Susan S. True of the National Federation of State High School Associations. The session was open to interns from any NCAA member conference.

Hartford's sports center aimed at bringing campus community together

The University of Hartford has opened its $10 million sports and recreation center.

The center has been planned for use by all students, faculty, staff and alumni, and not exclusively as a new home for the athletes.

C. Donald Cook, director of athletics, said, "The center, probably more than any other project undertaken here, will serve to rally the community together."

In addition to a basketball court under a semidomed ceiling and seating for 4,475, and an arena with two multipurpose areas, the 129,130-square-foot center includes:

- A 25-meter, eight-lane indoor

NCAA regulation swimming pool with one three-meter and two one-meter diving boards.

- About 2,800 square feet for fitness equipment and a strength and conditioning room for varsity athletes.

- The university's health services, which include laboratories and health examination rooms.

The center, which was opened January 23, houses a lounge for staff meetings and conferences, classrooms for sports and leisure studies, and offices for coaches and staff.

There are four racquetball courts and a squash court. A multipurpose room is designed for aerobics or dance classes, two multipurpose areas will be devoted to basketball and volleyball, and a court will be set aside for intramural sports and recreation use.

Other features are conference rooms, concession areas, saunas, locker rooms and a study hall for athletes.

Administrative Committee minutes

1. Acting for the Council, the Administrative Committee:

a. Appointed Doris R. Soladay, Syracuse University; Charles Cavagnaro, Memphis State University; Ronald J. Petro, University of Alaska, Anchorage; John M. Schael, Washington University (Missouri); and Arthur Eason, William Paterson College, to the Council Subcommittee on Eligibility Appeals, replacing former Council members Kathleen M. McNally, Robert R. Snell, Elwood N. Shields and Mary R. Barrett and continuing Council member George M. Harmon, who now serves on the Eligibility Committee.

b. Appointed Thurston E. Banks, Tennessee Technological University; James Fallis, Lake Superior State University; and Frederick F. Gruninger, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, to the Council Subcommittee on Initial-Eligibility Waivers, replacing former Council members John P. Reardon, Mr. Shields and Mr. Snell; appointed Douglas S. Hobbs, University of California, Los Angeles, to chair that subcommittee in 1990 and Karen L. Miller, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, to serve as chair in 1991.

c. Noted that Ollie Bowman, Hampton University, and William E. Lide, Salisbury State University, automatically are members of the Council Subcommittee to Review Minority Opportunities in Intercollegiate Athletics and that former Council member Sandra T. Shuler automatically leaves that committee.

d. Dissolved the Council Subcommittee to Review Proposal No. 42.

e. Noted that the five members who have been serving as the Special Walter Byers Scholarship Committee will continue now that it has been established as a standing NCAA committee and assigned these term expirations: Jeffrey Fogelson and Gail Fullerton, September 1, 1991; Edward B. Fort and Richard H. Perry, September 1, 1992, and Kenneth J. Weller, September 1, 1993.

f. Appointed Rose Peeples, Loras College, to the Women's Basketball Rules Committee, replacing Nancy Fahy, Washington University (Missouri), who was appointed by the Women's Committee on Committees effective

September 1, 1990, but is not eligible because another member of the committee represents the same playing conference.

g. Appointed James P. Pate, Livingston University, and Bruce A. Grimes, West Texas State University, to the Division II Men's Basketball Committee, which was expanded by two members by Convention action.

h. Affirmed that Yoshi Hayasaki, University of Illinois, Champaign, fills the position earmarked for an additional Division I member of the Men's Gymnastics Committee, as approved by the 1990 Convention, noting that Mr. Hayasaki had been serving the committee as a consultant pending that Convention action.

Conference No. 1
January 25, 1990

2. Acting for the Executive Committee, the Administrative Committee:

a. Affirmed that the charge to the Special Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues has been adjusted to specify that the special committee will concern itself primarily, though not exclusively, with the 60 percent of tournament receipts distributed to the membership.

b. Approved a recommendation by the Research Committee that Ronald Smith, Pennsylvania State University, be granted additional financial assistance and additional time to complete the previously approved study of the 1952-1978 disputes between the NCAA and the Amateur Athletic Union regarding governance of amateur sport.

c. Noted that former Executive Committee members Edward E. Bozik, Leanne Grotke and Alvin J. Van Wie no longer serve on the Budget Subcommittee and that Rocco J. Carzo automatically replaces Mr. Van Wie; reappointed Eugene F. Corrigan, Atlantic Coast Conference; Marino H. Casem, Southern University, Baton Rouge; and Royce N. Flippin Jr., Massachusetts Institute of Technology; agreed that the committee would return to its original size (seven) when Mr. Flippin's term on the Executive Committee ends in January 1991. (Note: The four continuing officers automatically serve on this committee, with Judith M. Sweet as chair.)

d. Appointed Cedric W. Dempsey, University of Arizona, to the Marketing Subcommittee, replacing Mr. Bozik; reappointed Mr. Corrigan and Martha E. Hawthorne, Rice University, with Mr. Corrigan to continue as chair.

e. Noted that Charles S. Boone, University of Richmond; Mr. Dempsey, and Phyllis L. Howlett, Big Ten Conference, automatically serve on the Division I Championships Committee, replacing Francis W. Bonner, Mr. Bozik and Ms. Grotke, and that all other Division I members of the Executive Committee continue to serve. Appointed Mr. Corrigan to replace Mr. Bozik as chair.

f. Appointed James Fallis, Lake Superior State University, to the Division II Championships Committee, replacing Elwood N. Shields as a Division II Steering Committee representative; reappointed Victor A. Buccola, Western Football Conference, as the at-large member; noted that Rosemary Fri, University of Northern Colorado; Marjorie Trout, Millersville University of Pennsylvania; and Jerry M. Hughes continue to serve, with Mr. Hughes as chair.

g. Noted that Mr. Carzo automatically replaces Mr. Van Wie as a member of the Division III Championships Committee; appointed Patricia A. Rogers, State University of New York, Albany, replacing Mary R. Barrett as a Division III Steering Committee representative; reappointed John A. Reeves, State University of New York, Stony Brook, as the at-large member; noted that Mr. Flippin and David A. Jacobs, Whittier College, continue to serve. Appointed Mr. Flippin to replace Mr. Van Wie as chair.

h. Agreed to delay until June 1990 the appointment of replacements for Ms. Grotke as a member and as chair of the Ad Hoc Committee to Administer the Conference Grant Program, thus permitting her to continue to chair that group during its current deliberations.

3. Acting for the Council and the Executive Committee, the Administrative Committee:

Scheduled its telephone conferences and meetings through June 1990 as follows: February 13; March 1, 15 and 27; April 12 and 22; May 6 and 24, and June 7 and 21. All will be telephone conferences conducted at 2 p.m. Central time except April 22, an in-person meeting in conjunction with the April Council meeting, and May 6, an in-person meeting in conjunction with the May Executive Committee meeting.

The intercollegiate athletics program currently fields teams which compete in NCAA Division II, including baseball, men's basketball, women's basketball, men's cross country, men's and women's fencing, football, men's golf, softball, men's swimming and diving, men's and women's tennis, women's volleyball, and cheerleading. The University is affiliated with the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

This senior administrative position reports to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs through the Vice President for Student Affairs. The Director is responsible for all aspects of the athletics, intramural and recreation program, including budgets, schedules, fund-raising, personnel and facilities.

The Director must be able to dream and accomplish, to lead and inspire, and to administer in a complex administrative environment.

Qualifications: Master's degree with several years of athletics administrative experience is required. Must have a reputation of impeccable integrity. Must be knowledgeable of NCAA rules and regulations. Should have a demonstrated success in marketing and fund-raising; a commitment to high academic standards for student-athletes and to build parity between men's and women's programs; and possess an ability and the stamina to develop long-range plans and aggressively market them. Candidates should possess skills in personnel management, motivation, public relations, communications.

This twelve-month position offers a competitive salary and benefits package. Applications should include a detailed resume and the addresses and phone numbers of at least three professional references (contact only with permission).

Applications must be received by March 2, 1990, for full consideration. Send to:

Kentucky basketball draws crowd—after games, too

New University of Kentucky men's basketball coach Rick Pitino has Wildcat fans by the thousands hanging around after home games to hear his postgame radio show, which is carried live over the Rupp Arena public address system.

And, in a major departure from his predecessors, Pitino joins veteran Kentucky broadcaster Cawood Ledford at courtside for the program.

"Coach Pitino gives the fans a

Rolex National Indoor Intercollegiate Tennis Championships are set for February 8-11 in Minneapolis. The University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, will host. Immediately preceding this event will be the Rolex National Small College Championships (February 6-7, also in Minneapolis).

Log this in the "what do you mean, you're busy?" file:

Because he had to leave before the end of the game, a reporter covering the January 12-13 women's basketball tournament at King's College (Pennsylvania) approached St. John Fisher coach Phil Kahler and asked to do an interview—on the spot.

According to Luke Miller, St. John Fisher sports information director, Kahler declined to answer questions until after the game. So, the reporter left.

chance to participate," said longtime Wildcat fan Van Florence, "to be a part of something they've never been able to touch."

Richard C. Cosby, athletics director at Stillman College, has written "The Organization and Administration of Smaller College Athletics," a 94-page, soft-covered volume published recently by Colonial Press.

The handbook is targeted specifically at small-college athletics administrators and includes information on everything from facility planning and management to developing a departmental "winning attitude."

Included are sample forms covering travel requests, injury reporting, vehicle requisition and several other areas. The book is available from Colonial Press, 1237 Stevens Road, S.E., Bessemer, Alabama 35023.

Two fans in particular distract Delaware State College wrestler Scott Fleming. "I sometimes get distracted when they show up," he said of his wife, Stephanie, and the couple's two-year-old daughter, Erin.

"I married my high school sweetheart nearly three years ago," said Fleming, a junior who turned 22 January 13. "There are a lot of responsibilities, but so far, things are going quite well."

They sure are. Not only has Fleming posted an 11-2 record through January 17, he also has maintained a 3.000 grade-point average (4.000 scale) in health and physical education.

"As a family man, my studies take on a whole new meaning," he said. "I know there's a lot more at stake because others are depending on me to do well."

Carmen L. Cozza, Yale University football coach, will be honored January 31 during a dinner at New York City's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel commemorating his silver anniversary at the school. Cozza will receive a life-size sterling silver football designed and created by Tiffany.

Columnist Calvin Trillin will serve as master of ceremonies. Guest speakers will include George W. Bush, son of the President and owner of the Texas Rangers baseball team.

Cozza's career record at Yale is 150-78-5 (116-54-5 in Ivy Group competition). Most notably, all but six of his players earned degrees.
