Members to get 62.8 percent of record budget

Analysis of the 1990-91 general operating budget approved by the NCAA Executive Committee at its August meeting reveals that the Association continues to spend the vast majority of its revenues on member institutions, conferences, organizations, youth programs and student-athletes.

Of the record $160.6 million budget for the fiscal year, 62.8 percent will be paid directly to members, 20.9 percent will be spent on benefits for members, and 3.2 percent will benefit youth programs and student-athletes. The remaining 13.1 percent will cover the cost of operating the national office.

Substantive changes have been made in the format of the budget as may be seen in the charts below. Among them are:

1. Television revenue. Previously, rights fees were allocated to the various championships, and they formed a part of the gross receipts for each meet or tournament. Now the CBS contract payments are grouped with the football assessments and cable revenues. A sport-by-sport breakdown no longer will be made.

2. Royalties revenue. All foreign and domestic licensing income has been combined with royalties from corporate partners and official-ball designees.

3. Championships revenue. Television rights fees and official-ball royalties no longer will be allocated to each championship. Moneys received from host institutions, merchandising and radio rights fees will continue to be recorded in the income from each championship.

4. Sales and services revenue. This new category includes income from the publishing and communications departments and the NCAA Visitors Center.

5. Grants. On advice of NCAA auditors, the Federal grant received to fund the National Youth Sports Program has been included in revenue. Pass-through payments to institutions participating in the program and NCAA operating costs are shown in the expense budget.

6. Distributions to members. This is a new category, and it encompasses the $32 million to be distributed on the basis of participation in the Division I Men's Basketball Championship from 1985 through 1990 and the $32 million to be apportioned according to the broad-based-program formula. In addition, moneys for academic enhancement and to provide emergency funds for student-athletes are included. Conference grants have been increased from a maximum of $120,000 to a maximum of $128,000. Finally, grants to affiliated organizations and royalty payments have been included.

7. Championships expense. Included in this section are game expenses, per diem allowances, cost of transportation, and allocations to Divisions II and III. Distributions of net receipts have been eliminated in all sports.

8. Membership services. Expenses previously included in various department budgets or general expense have been grouped according to publications, sports sciences, promotion and public relations, and

Sports committee nominations open

Nominations for NCAA sports committee posts, which will be filled at the 1991 NCAA annual Convention in Nashville, must be forwarded to each member's Men's or Women's Committee on Committees district representative no later than December 3. The nominations are for vacancies that will occur September 1, 1991.

In addition, a copy of the nominations for men's committees is to be sent to the chair of the Men's Committee on Committees, Bruce A. Corrie, Director of Athletics, Northwestern University, 1501 Central Street, Evanston, Illinois 60208 (Division I, District 4). Copies of nominations for women's committees should be sent to the chair of the Women's Committee on Committees, Fern Gardner, Assistant Director of Athletics, University of Utah, Jon M. Huntsman Center, Salt Lake City, Utah 84112 (I-7).

In order that a complete summary of nominations can be prepared, a copy of each nomination letter is to be sent to Fannie B. Vaughan, Executive Assistant, NCAA, 6201 College Boulevard, Overland Park, Kansas 66211-2422.

When submitting nominations, the nominee's name, title, institution, division, district and conference should be provided, along with a brief paragraph describing the candidate's qualifications. A nomination letter must be submitted for each nominee and should indicate whether the nominee would serve if elected. Unless an unexpired term on a committee is involved, the positions to be filled by the Convention are three-year terms. Committee members who are eligible for reelection normally are reelected.

Nominees for committee service should have:

- A vital interest in, and current knowledge of, the sport or area involved.

- The reputation and character to indicate clearly that committee membership will be used to serve the sport and not the self-interest of the member or the member's institution, conference or area.

- The respect of others engaged in that sport.

- The time and ability to perform the duties involved.

Particular attention should be given to eligibility requirements set forth in Bylaws 21.1, 21.4, 21.5 and 21.6 of the NCAA Manual.

the Visitors Center. While the staff and travel expense necessary to shepherd these programs is included in the appropriate department budgets, the out-of-pocket costs are indicated for the various items.

9. National office operations. The general expenses of operating the national office are included, as are the expenses of the various departments.

While the budget rose by 63.5 percent, direct payments to member institutions increased by 69.7 percent. The most significant alteration in this category, of course, is the payments to member institutions for broad-based programs and academic enhancement.

Benefits to members increased by 86.4 percent, primarily as a result of including the NYSP moneys in the budget for the first time. Student and youth benefits also increased 63 percent.

The cost of operating the national office also increased, but as a percentage of the budget these expenses were reduced from 17.9 percent to 13.1 percent.

It should be noted that the NCAA Executive Committee will examine several recommendations at its December 1990 meeting for adjustments in the budget. However, it is not anticipated that the $160.6 million will change; rather, there may be adjustment in some line items.

During an evaluation period, it is permissible to be involved in off-campus activities designed to assess the academic qualifications and playing abilities of prospective student-athletes; however, it is not permissible to make in-person, off-campus recruiting contacts with a prospective student-athlete during such a period.

Finally, during a dead period, it is not permissible to make in-person recruiting contacts or evaluations on or off the member institution's campus or to permit official or unofficial visits by the prospect to the institution's campus. In addition, during a dead period, coaching-staff members may not speak at or attend a meeting or banquet at which prospects are in attendance and may not visit the prospect's educational institution. It remains permissible, however, for institutional staff members to write or telephone prospects during a dead period.

NCAA Bylaw 13.1.4.2— National Letter of Intent signing

Member institutions should note (particularly in light of the establishment of early signing periods in several sports) that any in-person, off-campus contact made with a prospect for the purpose of signing a National Letter of Intent or other commitment to attend the institution must be counted in the permissible number of in-person, off-campus recruiting contacts a member institution may make with a prospective student-athlete. Please note that in the sport of basketball, because the early signing period falls outside of a permissible contact period, it would not be permissible for a member institution to sign a prospective student-athlete at an off-campus site.

Publicity—comments regarding the signing of a prospective student-athlete

Member institutions should note that in accordance with Bylaw 13.11.1, prior to the signing of a prospect to a National Letter of Intent or institutional tender of financial aid, the member institution may comment publicly about a prospect only to the extent of confirming its recruitment of the prospect. The institution may not comment generally about the prospect's ability or the contribution the prospect might make to the institution's team; further, the institution is precluded from commenting in any manner as to the likelihood of the prospect's signing with the institution. Also, athletics department staff members may not evaluate or rate a prospect for news media, scouting services or recruiting services prior to the prospect's signed acceptance of the institution's written offer of admission as a student and/or written tender of financial assistance to be provided upon the prospect's enrollment.

In accordance with Bylaw 13.11.6, it is permissible for an institution to release publicity concerning a prospect's commitment to attend the institution. Such publicity may occur only after the prospect's signed acceptance of the institution's written offer of admission and/or financial aid and is limited to those media forms normally used by the institution. It is permissible for such publicity to include comments about the prospect's ability, statistical information or potential contributions the prospect might make to the institution's team. It is not permissible for an institution to conduct press conferences, receptions, dinners and similar meetings held for the purpose of announcing the signing of a specific prospective student-athlete. It is permissible for an institution to make an announcement on the institution's campus for the sole purpose of presenting at one time to the media the names of all prospects who have accepted offers of admission and/or athletically related aid in a particular sport from that institution, with the understanding that no prospects (or their friends or relatives) may be in attendance. Press conferences to announce a signing may be arranged independently by the prospect (or the prospect's family), provided there is no involvement whatsoever in such arrangements by the institution or representatives of its athletics interests.

Finally, institutional staff members are expressly prohibited from personal contact with media representatives at the site of the signing or at any other prearranged site when a prospect accepts a grant-in-aid offer made by the institution. This does not preclude the presence of bona fide media representatives who are employed on a part-time basis by the institution. Also, an institution is responsible for publicity related to signings on its campus (whether involving an individual or a group of prospects). Any contact by the media with the prospect on campus during the time the prospect signs the National Letter of Intent or a tender of financial aid will be considered to be prima facie evidence of institutional involvement in arranging media involvement and is prohibited.

Stony Brook has opened a $17 million indoor facility for sports and other activities. The new facility, on the left, will be attached to the old gymnasium, right.

Stony Brook opens $17 million indoor sports complex

The indoor sports complex at the State University of New York, Stony Brook, next to the student union, was opened last month after three years of construction and over 20 years of planning.

"The opening of the new sports complex rings in a new era in physical education, athletics, intramurals, club sports and student activities," said John Reeves, director of the division of physical education and athletics.

On the weekend of November 16-18, two four-team basketball tournaments are being planned. The men will host Trinity (Texas), Swarthmore and MIT Friday and Saturday. On Saturday and Sunday, the women will play Amherst, Albany (New York) and Dickinson. "These tournaments draw precisely the kind of competition we want to bring to this campus," said Reeves. The basketball court will be dedicated prior to the men's game Friday evening.

"In conjunction with the collegiate basketball tournaments, we will have free youth basketball clinics. These clinics are an extension of our existing program that includes clinics for boy's and girl's soccer, volleyball, lacrosse, and football," Reeves said.

Opening ceremonies for the indoor track and squash courts also are being planned. Facility dedications will take place prior to their respective contests December 1. The inaugural event on the new track will be the Stony Brook Classic for the men's and women's track teams.

The opening of the squash courts will begin with a series of exhibition matches to take place before the squash team's matches against Wesleyan and Stevens Tech.

The main arena of the new $17 million, 105,000-square-foot sports complex will seat 4,100 for basketball and volleyball and 5,000 for special events such as lectures and concerts.

There will be a four-lane, six-sprint-lane track (177 meters in distance); six glass, back-walled squash courts; new locker-room facilities including six new team rooms, and a new training room with capacity for hydrotherapy and electrotherapy.

The complex also will contain two large lobby areas suitable for receptions and large gatherings, eight new offices for physical education and athletics personnel, and two concession stands.

The existing gymnasium, which will become the east wing of the indoor sports complex, was opened in 1964 and was designed to accommodate a student body of 4,000.

The existing facility houses a gymnasium that has served as the home for all indoor teams and seats 1,800 for basketball and volleyball. When not in use for competition, the gymnasium contains three multipurpose courts suitable for basketball, volleyball, badminton or indoor soccer. The facility also houses a six-lane, 25-yard pool; eight racquetball courts; two universal weight rooms; a free-weight room; a dance studio, and an exercise room. The existing facility will be attached to the new facility, providing a self-contained, expansive athletics complex.

The new complex will serve as the center for physical education, intercollegiate and intramural athletics and help address the recreational, educational and entertainment needs of the university community.

Plans are discussed for women's play-off

The Women's Final Four was the focus of the October 28-30 Division I Women's Basketball Committee meeting in New Orleans.

The committee continued its practice of holding its fall meeting at the site of the Women's Final Four and proceeded with plans for that event, including the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the championship. The highlight of the celebration will be a banquet that will include a multimedia presentation and special honorees from past championships.

A report regarding the 1992 Women's Final Four, which will be held in Los Angeles, was received. Hosts will be the University of California, Los Angeles; the University of Southern California, and the Los Angeles Sports Council.

The committee reviewed preliminary proposals from potential hosts for the 1994 and 1995 Women's Final Fours. It was voted that visits would be made to the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities; Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, Virginia, and San Diego (Greater San Diego Sports Association, University of San Diego and San Diego State University, hosts). After site surveys are made, the committee will invite all or some of these groups to make in-person presentations.

The direction of the championship during the 1990s was discussed, and long-range planning continued.

The committee will recommend to the NCAA Executive Committee that a seminar for regional tournament hosts be held in conjunction with the basketball committee's summer meeting. If this recommendation is approved, the first seminar will be held in July 1991 and will be attended by hosts of the 1992 and 1993 regionals.

The committee also will recommend that officials for regional finals be preassigned.

Currently, these officials are chosen from among the officials who work the semifinal games and are assigned after the conclusion of these games. This recommendation would allow separate crews to be assigned for each semifinal game and the championship. Assignments for all regional contests would be made after the completion of second-round play.

Two schools reprimanded for fighting during play-off

The NCAA Men's Lacrosse Committee issued public reprimands October 31 to Loyola College's (Maryland) and Syracuse University's lacrosse teams for an altercation during the final game of the 1990 NCAA championship.

The committee also issued public reprimands to two student-athletes on each team. James Egan and Shawn Magowan of Syracuse and Paul Cantabene and Brian Kroneberger of Loyola (Maryland). Egan and Kroneberger have graduated; Cantabene and Magowan, however, will be banned from participation in the first contest of the next championship in which their respective teams participate.

The committee also withheld two days' per diem for each team's traveling party of 36 individuals (approximately $2,800).

"The unsportsmanlike conduct displayed in the Syracuse-Loyola game undermined the principles of fair play and discredited the championship and intercollegiate men's lacrosse," said David J. Urick, chair of the Men's Lacrosse Committee and head men's lacrosse coach at Georgetown University. "The committee strongly believes that conduct of this nature should not occur."

Forum topic is career counseling

NBA Vice-President of Operations Rod Thorn is one of several speakers who will participate in the NCAA career counseling panel forum December 6-7 at the Doubletree Hotel in Overland Park, Kansas.

The forum is designed to educate member institutions' athletics personnel about professional sports careers for student-athletes.

"We're trying to present a balanced approach from management and the players association," said Richard C. Perko, NCAA legislative assistant.

Presentations will include:

- Thorn, on salary trends in the NBA and the future of careers in professional sports.

- Sports agent David Faulk will discuss marketing and endorsement opportunities in professional sports.

- Chris Mortensen, a writer for The National Sports Daily, will discuss dilemmas of agents and athletes that he has uncovered.

NCAA representatives will be on hand, including Executive Director Richard D. Schultz and Michael S. McNeely, director of operations. Information regarding the new disability-insurance program for exceptional student-athletes in football and basketball will be covered.

The forum is open to faculty athletics representatives, coaches, chief executive officers and those who serve on a career counseling panel.

The advance registration fee is $25. On-site registration is $35.

Hotel reservations must be made through Sherry Abels at the NCAA national office (913/339-1906). Rooms are $65. The deadline to preregister for the forum and hotel accommodations is November 30.

Those who claim sport mirrors life are out of focus

By Thomas Ehrlich

It is commonplace these days to hear and read about sports as a metaphor for life. But they are a misleading metaphor—particularly in the context of a college education.

On the playing field, only one team can win. Most of life is not made up of winning or losing—but rather of countless steps toward fulfilling oneself by serving others.

A college education is learning how to deal with complexity on the one hand and ambiguity on the other. Most difficult issues students face in their personal and professional lives have many dimensions. Judgments must be made where certainty is not possible and no rule book exists.

Intercollegiate athletics, however, abounds with rules.

The NCAA rule book is as complicated as the Internal Revenue Code. The rules put pressures especially on coaches—to walk as close to the line as possible between the permissible and the impermissible. The pressure is to stretch the rule, to gain the extra edge. Too often, the result is cheating, as evidenced by scandals at schools throughout the country.

I am particularly troubled by the pressures on college athletes. At some universities with over-eager alumni, money is paid to athletes, in spite of the rules. But even at schools of complete integrity, such as Indiana University, the glare of publicity is a prime pressure.

Too many fans forget that most student players are kids just out of high school and in transition from adolescence to adulthood. The athletes also read and hear the hyperbolic media prose about their talents. They begin to believe that prose. No one should expect from those with remarkable physical talents more than a display of those talents.

Bart Giamatti, the late commissioner of baseball, brought the metaphor argument to the public eye and ear with intensity—in part because of his position, more because of his eloquence. He revealed his passion for baseball in terms that seem to make the national pastime a mirror of the national scene.

The perils, the struggles and the triumphs of everyday life were, he suggested, displayed on the baseball field—perhaps magnified a bit, certainly heightened in their drama, and structured into innings, games and seasons, but, nonetheless, metaphors for life.

More recently, George Plimpton mines a similar vein in "The X Factor." In between advertisements for Federal Express, Plimpton compares life to a game of horseshoes with President Bush. He quotes with approval the CEO of American Express, James D. Robinson III. "To this day, it's the single most important thing I have done in my life." The "it" is a golf shot before a national TV audience.

I love sports, particularly college sports, but they are not all of life—in college or thereafter. Intercollegiate athletics offers the pleasures of physical competition to our students and the entertainment of exciting contests to our fans. There is a festival dimension of intercollegiate sports that delights both participants and audiences. Sports are a rallying flag for universities and their alumni.

Sports also help impart key values, particularly when the coaches—like those at Indiana University—are also outstanding teachers. Primary among those values is the importance of teamwork. Much of the work of college students is done individually, although the professional responsibilities most of them will face will require at least as much teamwork as individual effort. Sports are a valuable means to promote teamwork and the special discipline it entails.

For all these reasons, and many more, sports are a vital part of college life. But they are only a part. To make them into more than fun and entertainment, like talking about the game of life, is risky business. Sports belong on the sports pages.

The athlete who's not up to par gets the most attention

Rebecca Daniels, tutor for student-athletes
University of Oregon

Eugene Register-Guard

"A lot of times when I tell people what I do, they laugh. That's a categorical reaction and, lately, I've been getting more and more hot under the collar about it.

"Sure, there is a small number of athletes who may be taking advantage of the system and want to be coddled, but I think that, like any other group of people, they're a diverse bunch and that there's just as many serious students. There's one (dumb jock) for every 50 (student-athletes), and that's the person everyone pays attention to."

Tom Shupe, director of athletics
Wichita State University

The Sporting News

"A lot of schools were curious about the move (to drop the football program) and looked at our university to see if enrollment was down, if fund-raising and philanthropic programs were adversely affected.

"There's no evidence of any of that. What is down is minority recruitment. We are concerned that opportunities for minority students are not as good as they were when we played football.

"We're confident they'll (administrators) reinstate football here someday, at some level. I don't think we'll play Notre Dame on a regular basis. There's not an outstanding appetite in our state, but we do have an alumni and community base.

"It'd be better to scale down a little. If the gap between the Division I-A 'haves' and the 'have-nots' continues to widen, as it has, that's the way we'll probably go. I don't see anything wrong with it. Let the big I-As continue to talk about superconferences and play-offs and bowls. The NCAA conducts the I-AA and Division II play-offs well. They play 12 games, make a little money, have a good play-off structure."

Opinions

Todd Turner, director of athletics
North Carolina State University

The National Sports Daily

"What happened today (NCAA's allowing school to help leukemia victim Robert Lee, a football recruit) gives you faith in the process.

"It's still a comment on the bureaucracy of college athletics that we had to dance with this thing like we did, but the most important thing is the right thing: Robert Lee will get the help he needs."

Archie Griffin, assistant director of athletics
Ohio State University

The Associated Press

"Someone will come along who won't leave early, or someone will come along who will win it (Heisman Trophy) as a sophomore and repeat as a junior. Records are made to be broken, and they will be broken."

Covering All Bases
Excerpted from an editorial
Publication of the American Baseball Coaches Association

"The presidents, through the Presidents Commission, have taken a major role in intercollegiate athletics with their reform-movement legislation that is going to be considered at the January NCAA Convention.

"...the Presidents Commission has approved the broad concepts that will be considered. Some of the action is probably needed, but if approved in total, many sports, including baseball, will suffer.

"College baseball's 70-game schedule, in the opinion of many, has been made the sport the 'whipping boy.' Administrators probably were saying, 'How can they play that many games and not miss a lot of class time?'

"What is not known is that many teams play weekend doubleheaders and night games. Games are played during quarter or semester breaks and during Easter break at many institutions.

"Inclement weather is a constant problem for college baseball, thus the proposed scheduling and playing-time restrictions will become even greater for a college baseball coach.

"Limiting coaching positions in baseball will save very little money, but it will drastically affect the game. It will limit the opportunities for young coaches and that will damage the game now and in the future."

Michael L. Jankowski, director of athletics
Niagara University

The Buffalo News

"We are going to realize more revenue from the (NCAA) TV money. Maybe we're only talking $40,000 to $45,000, but it's money that hasn't been available in the past."

Tim Brant, football analyst
CBS Sports

The Sporting News

"The Heisman Award has become the hype-man award. It's really gotten out of control."

E. Gordon Gee, president
Ohio State University

Chicago Tribune

"No matter how exceptional our program in molecular spectroscopy or in diplomatic history, I am not going to get 90,000 people out to hear about it. Nor am I going to get a play-by-play announcer to put it on the network.

"I only half-jokingly have said to people that on Saturday while they are watching football players, I am watching my budget run up and down the field."

Donald Hollas, student-athlete
Rice University

The Dallas Morning News

"The focus here is not on athletics; it's on academics. A lot of football players here are smart, but we are looked down upon. It was a weird adjustment.

"My buddies at other schools got to campus and were catered to from the first. Here, we are looked down upon as less than equal. It brings you down to earth."

Looking Back

Five years ago

The NCAA Presidents Commission and the NCAA Council announced November 1, 1985, that they would cosponsor legislation at the 1986 NCAA Convention to establish an indexing formula in the initial-eligibility provisions of Bylaw 5-1-(j) [now Bylaw 14.3] for a three-year phase-in period. (The NCAA News, November 4, 1985)

Ten years ago

Thirty-seven women's athletics leaders met November 23-24, 1980, in Kansas City, Missouri, with the Special Committee on NCAA Governance, Organization and Services and its Ad Hoc Committee to Review NCAA Legislation to discuss the provisions of the "governance plan" that would be voted upon at the 1981 NCAA Convention. (NCAA News, November 30, 1980)

Twenty years ago

The Special NCAA Committee on Financial Aid, chaired by William J. Flynn of Boston College, issued its preliminary report in the November 1 and December 1, 1970, issues of the NCAA News. It included proposals for financial aid based on need, limitations on the numbers of financial aid commitments in football and basketball, and a national "candidate's declaration" procedure for offering and accepting tenders of financial aid. (NCAA News, November 1 and December 1, 1970)

Thirty years ago

The NCAA officers appointed two special committees in November 1960: the Special Committee on Administration of Need, chaired by Abner V. McCall, Baylor University, and the Special Committee on Financial Aid Limitations—Academic Floor, chaired by Robert F. Ray, University of Iowa. (1960-61 NCAA Yearbook)

Two of those elected or reelected must be from Division I, one from Division II, one from Division III. One must be an administrator. Eckhoff must be replaced as chair.

Division I Women's Volleyball—Two expirations. Eligible for reelection: Chris Voelz, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities (I-Mideast-4). Not eligible for reelection: Beth Miller, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill (I-South-3). Legislation is pending that would increase the committee to eight members, including two from each of the four Division I volleyball regions and at least one administrator from each region. One of those elected or reelected should be from the Mideast, one from the South. If the new legislation is adopted, two members would be added, one from the Mideast and one from the Northwest.

Division II Women's Volleyball—One expiration. Not eligible for reelection: Jane Meier, Northern Kentucky University (II-Great Lakes-3). Legislation is pending that would increase the committee from four to six members. If it is adopted, the two additional members should be from among regions not already represented on the committee; i.e., Atlantic, South, South Central, Southwest. One of those elected should be an administrator.

Division III Women's Volleyball—Two expirations. Eligible for reelection: Allen F. Ackerman, Elmhurst College (III-Midwest-4); Joan Chamberlain, Messiah College (III-East-2).

BYU's Detmer on pace to become best ever in I-A

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Brigham Young's Ty Detmer is only a junior, but he leads the Division I-A career charts by a wide margin, with Texas A&M senior tailback Darren Lewis a distant second.

If Detmer continues through the last 15 games of his career at his 1990 season pace, he would finish his career in 1991 as the most productive and efficient quarterback in college football history in any division, in terms of statistics. Lewis, at his current-season pace, would reach sixth in career rushing.

Detmer already is above two all-time Division I-A efficiency records held by BYU's Jim McMahon, whose career ended in 1981. Detmer's career passing-efficiency figure is 162.8. McMahon's record is 156.9. The career record in touchdown passes is 84, also by McMahon. Detmer could end up with 120 (based on his pace this season).

In career passing yardage, Detmer would have 15,512 at this fall's pace. That is an amazing 4,087 above the I-A record of 11,425 by Todd Santos, San Diego State 1987. Total offense is similar: Detmer would have 15,026; the I-A record is 11,317 by Doug Flutie, Boston College 1984. The all-time NCAA collegiate (or all divisions) yardage marks of 13,345 total offense and 13,220 passing are held by Neil Lomax, Portland State 1980.

In fact, Detmer would be close to both Flutie and Santos at the end of this season at his current pace, with 10,873 passing and 10,538 total offense, making him the first to reach 10,000 before his senior year. Detmer insists he will not enter the professional ranks after this season.

Lewis, at his current-season pace, would have 4,958 career rushing yards—No. 6 on the all-time I-A list and close to the four-man group of 5,000-yard career rushers. No active player is close to him.

The season picture

On the season charts, several other names crowd center stage. Colorado senior Eric Bieniemy leads in rushing at 151.7 yards per game, with Lewis and others on his heels. But no season I-A rushing records are in danger.

In passing efficiency, Virginia senior Shawn Moore leads with 166.4 rating points, with Detmer second at 158.9. Neither is close to the I-A season record.

In passing yardage, Houston junior David Klingler and Detmer are in a two-man race, both averaging well above 400 yards per game (Klingler 444.1, Detmer 421.8), with Klingler throwing more than any passer ever.

And that brings up an interesting point. Houston's Andre Ware astounded everyone by averaging 427.2 passing yards per game—the first 400-plus passer in I-A history—and was rewarded with the Heisman Trophy. Now, Klingler and Detmer are at virtually the same level and, ho hum, it is causing only a blip on the awe meter.

In total offense, it again is a two-man race, with Klingler (446.3) and Detmer (408) both threatening Ware's record 423.7, but with little fanfare.

Ismail and others

Notre Dame's versatile and dangerous Raghib "Rocket" Ismail, only a junior but certainly living up to his nickname, heads the list of Division I-A career leaders in the other categories.

Ismail will not have enough plays to rank high in career all-purpose

Pittsburgh's Brian Greenfield leads Division I-A punters with a 47.55 average

Sophomore Trevor Cobb of Rice is ranked among the Division I-A rushing leaders

Portland State's Curtis Delgado is among the leaders in Division II rushing

Allegheny's Jeff Filkovski ranks second in Division III passing efficiency

yards, but his eye-popping per-play averages and long-range touchdowns may force the creation of new records. Perhaps the most astounding—his 14 career TDs in regular-season play have averaged 56.6 yards.

Over his career to date, Ismail is averaging eight yards rushing per carry with four TDs, 21.5 yards per catch in receiving with four TDs, 14.1 in punt returns with one TD

I-A career leader among active players in total field goals at 73—tied for sixth all time. And his 314 points is first among active players, but tied for eighth all time.

Other career leaders

Not many Division I-AA players are close to career-record status at this stage, but some do have impressive numbers.

Stan Greene of Boston University is fifth in total-offense yards per teams.

1,536-yard game

That wild passing circus at Houston November 3 (Houston 56, Texas Christian 35) produced an amazing 1,563 yards of total offense (827 by Houston).

That smashed by 127 yards the old record of 1,436 by Arizona State and Stanford in 1981. Many other records were set as well, but space does not permit a complete list.

The losing quarterback, TCU's Matt Vogler, a backup replacing the injured starter, set I-A records for total offense plays (94) and yards (696) as well as passing attempts (79), yards (690) and yards per attempt (15.68).

He and Houston quarterback David Klingler set two-man and two-team records for combined passing yards at 1,253, passing attempts at 135 and completions at 81.

Quotes of the week

Bill Davis, head coach of Division II Savannah State, after his team's 54-7 loss to Georgia Southern's defending Division I-AA champions: "We're a lot like Buster Douglas, except that he got to go home after the third round. We had to stick around." (Matt Rogers, Georgia Southern SID)

Yale defensive tackle "Rich" Lee (real name: Rich) and his teammate, fullback Terry Cuneo, have their own rock band. Lee has a ready and interesting explanation for his odd nickname: "I intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown in high school. The coach used to tell us: 'There is no I in team.' When a reporter interviewed me after we won the game, I told him, 'Spell my first name without an I because there is no I in team.' It stuck." (Steve Ulrich, Yale SID)

Can you top these?

Anyone play five consecutive homecoming games? Cincinnati is doing that, and it is not easy. The Bearcats dropped three straight homecoming games on the road—at West Virginia October 13, at East Carolina October 20 and at Tulane October 27—before returning for their own homecoming November 3 vs. once-beaten Louisville. They lost that one, too, and their fifth straight homecoming game will be November 10 before the old grads at—guess where?—Florida State, once-beaten under 200-game winner Bobby Bowden. (John Bianco, Cincinnati SID)

In Weber State's 36-34 victory over Eastern Washington, the two teams scored in every way possible in a college game with once exception—the one-point safety, rarest of the rare (see the Notes in The NCAA News of October 28). There were rushing and passing touchdowns, one-point and two-point extra points, a blocked punt by Weber State for a safety (the game-winning points), a field goal, and an interception of a two-point conversion pass that was returned for a score. And when Eastern Washington blocked a field-goal attempt, the ball hit a Weber State player in the chest and it was returned for a touchdown. (Brad Larsen, Weber State SID)

Ever hear of placekicker hitting the uprights four consecutive weeks? It has happened to Grand Valley State sophomore Miguel Sagaro, who as a freshman last season set a Division II record by kicking 65 successful extra points (in 66 attempts). He is hampered this fall by calcium deposits on his right foot. Sagaro, who came to this country as a high school exchange student, also handles the punting for coach Tom Beck. (Don Thomas, Grand Valley State SID)

Buffalo State's Bill Nashwinter equaled a Division III record held by several players when he returned two kickoffs for touchdowns (93 and 80 yards) vs. Alfred October 27.

Football notes

and 29.4 in kickoff returns with five TDs.

Five kickoff-return TDs is one short of the all-time I-A career record by Anthony Davis of Southern California, whose last season was 1974. Ismail's 29.4 ranks fourth on the all-time list.

Summing up, he has averaged 15.8 yards per all-purpose play 3,761 yards on 238 plays. Establishing records for all-purpose runners is extremely difficult, because no two players have the same mix of plays. The record using minimums of 5,000 yards and 275 plays is 17.9 by Anthony Carter, Michigan 1982.

But nearly half of Ismail's plays have been rushes, a much higher figure than Carter, mainly a receiver. Ismail has 50 rushes vs. 27 catches this season and 114 vs. 66 for his career. It likely will be necessary to create another mark for Ismail based on his unique play mix.

San Jose State senior Sheldon Canley leads the all-purpose yardage list with 4,802 yards in just 23 career games. More importantly, his 208.8 yards per game is above the record average of 193.7 by Howard Stevens for his two seasons (1971 and 1972) at Louisville (he played at Randolph-Macon for two seasons before that; his figures there count in his collegiate career, but not in his I-A career).

In receiving, Houston senior Manny Hazard, the 1989 national champion with record totals of 142 catches and 22 TD catches, missed the first four games this season with an injury and thus does not qualify for the national rankings (a player must play in at least 75 percent of his team's games).

Even so, Hazard seems likely to set a I-A career record for catches per game. His current 10.9 average for his two-season career is well ahead of the record of 10 by Howard Twilley for his three seasons at Tulsa, ending in 1965.

Alabama's Philip Doyle is the game at 296.8 (over 20 games) and Grady Bennett of Montana is seventh at 264.7. Greene's teammate, Daren Altieri, is fifth in career catches at 212.

Georgia Southern rusher Joe Ross tops that category at 3,734—13th on the all-time career list. In passing yards, Connecticut's Matt DeGennaro is 10th at 8,741 and Idaho State's Jason Whitmer 15th at 8,536.

In Division II, Samford senior David Primus has 2,572 yards in career kickoff returns—already the all-time NCAA collegiate (or all divisions) record (his career average is 25.5).

Sam Mannery of California (Pennsylvania) is second in career total offense yards at 8,655, but far behind the record 10,667 by Earl Harvey of North Carolina Central, whose last season was 1988.

In Division III, John Clark of Wisconsin-Eau Claire is fifth in both career total offense at 8,478 yards and passing yards at 8,722.

22-for-23

It has been an almost-perfect season for Northern Iowa's junior kicker, Brian Mitchell. He has made 22 field goals in 23 attempts for 95.7 percent, and the I-AA record for a minimum of 20 attempts is 87.5.

The all-time NCAA collegiate (or all divisions) season record is 96.2 percent (25-for-26) by Washington's Chuck Nelson in 1982.

Mitchell has two games left this season.

First since 1936?

If 8-0 Houston, the only remaining undefeated-untied team in Division I-A, loses its showdown at 6-1 Texas November 10, 1990 will be the first regular season since 1936 without a perfect-record team.

That is 54 years. Of course, several times the perfects have been wiped out by bowl action. But 1936, 1927, 1886, 1884 and 1881 are the only regular seasons since 1881 without any major-college perfect-record

Louisiana Tech's Bobby Slaughter is No. 2 in Division I-A receptions per game

Hockey coach dies

Bob Kullen, who returned from a 1987 heart transplant to coach the men's ice hockey team at the University of New Hampshire for two seasons, died November 3.

Kullen, 41, was named 1990 New England Division I coach of the year after leading New Hampshire to a 17-17-5 record last season, but was not coaching this year due to ill health.

Defending I cross country titlists are favored to repeat

A year ago, Iowa State's men and Villanova's women never had won cross country championships. This year, the two schools are heading into the Division I championships not only as defending champions, but as favorites to repeat.

Last year, individual titlist John Nuttall led Iowa State to an 18-point victory over Oregon and a convincing 165-point margin over third-place Wake Forest.

Vicki Huber's individual championship helped Villanova to a 69-point margin over second-place Kentucky. Both Nuttall and Huber have departed, but the Cyclones and Wildcats are ready to defend their titles.

Men's championships

The Cyclones will not have their top runner from last season, but they will have the next best thing. Jonah Koech, a junior from Kenya, finished second to Nuttall at last year's meet. Seniors Roland Pauwels, who finished 35th overall last year and 21st among team finishers, and Andrew Hollens, 37th and 23rd, also give the Cyclones championship experience. And sophomore John Brown has been running third all year for coach Bill Bergan's squad.

But Hollens has been hampered by a knee injury, and Bergan says the Cyclones' chances of repeating hinge on that bad joint. "The key to our success is getting Andrew healthy and back in top form," Bergan said. "I don't know if that's possible, but we need him."

One advantage that Bergan has over every other coach this year is the motivation to defend the national championship. "It gives our guys a lot of pride," he said. "It is a motivational factor. But it hasn't added pressure. The guys know this is a new year and a new team. It has been all positive."

Iowa State's biggest competition likely will come from Arkansas. The Razorbacks are finishing their last run through the Southwest Athletic Conference before switching to the Southeastern Conference next year in all sports except football.

At the conference meet, Arkansas runners finished first through fifth. It was the first time in the 71-year history of the meet that a team has swept the top five positions.

"This is something you always dream about," Arkansas coach John McDonnell said of the sweep. "This is a record that can never be broken, only equaled. It's a great way to finish our last season in the Southwest Conference." McDonnell has been at Arkansas for 17 years, and the Razorbacks have won 17 straight conference cross country titles.

Brian Baker took top honors for Arkansas. He was followed by Johan Boakes, Niall Bruton, Eric Henry and Frank Hanley.

Also expected to contend for individual honors are Tennessee's Todd Williams and Louisiana State's Terry Thornton. Williams outleaped Thornton at the tape to win the Southeastern Conference title by .3 of a second.

Women's championships

Despite the loss of Huber, Villanova has held the top spot in the Division I women's poll all season. In fact, the Wildcats have held that spot every week but one since 1988. They have not lost a meet since 1988.

Louisiana State's Terry Thornton (No. 301) is a contender for the men's individual championship

It would be easy to say the main reason for Villanova's success this year is Sonia O'Sullivan, a junior who finished 26th overall and 18th among runners representing teams a year ago. But she did not run this fall until the Big East Conference meet, where she finished fifth. The four runners in front of her? All from Villanova.

Coach Marty Stern has a squad that is likely to keep coaches around the country restless for years to come. The Wildcats have faced the teams ranked second through sixth in the polls head-to-head this year and have beaten all of them. Then throw this in. Excluding O'Sullivan, who simply was rested after "a busy summer running in Europe," according to Stern, the top five runners in order are a freshman, two sophomores, a senior and a junior.

So maybe inexperience will hamper the "Babycats," without the leadership of Huber. "It is hard to believe we are doing so well without her," Stern said. "But that problem is solved in two ways. Vicki is an assistant coach for us. And most of these gals ran in the NCAA's last year."

"Things are going pretty well for our program. And I am grateful for that. You walk into the office and see pictures of (Olympian Marty) Liguori, and you know you have to uphold the tradition."

Stern says he is not expecting a cake-walk at the national meet. "Indiana is running well. Providence from the Big East scares me. And Wisconsin still has Suzy Favor, so they (the Badgers) are a threat."

Championships Profile

Event: Division I men's and women's cross country.

Field: In the men's and women's championships, 22 seven-member teams and 30 individuals will fill the field.

Automatic qualification: Although each region is guaranteed a certain number of team and individual qualifiers, there is no automatic qualification for conference champions.

Defending champion: Iowa State, behind individual champion John Nuttall, and Villanova, behind individual titlist Vicki Huber, each won its first cross country team championship. Neither Nuttall nor Huber is back, but Iowa State and Villanova are picked to win the team titles again.

Schedule: Tennessee will host the races November 19. The women's championships will begin at 11 a.m., and the men's championships will begin at noon.

The NCAA News coverage: Results from the championships will appear in the November 26 issue.

Contenders: Men's contenders include Iowa State, Arkansas, Wisconsin and Tennessee. Women's contenders include Villanova, Brigham Young and Providence.

Championships notes: If Iowa State and Villanova win the respective championships, it would mark the first time that both the men's and women's winners repeated... The lowest team score in NCAA men's history was 17, by UTEP in 1981. Mathews Motshwarateu took individual honors for the Miners, whose runners also claimed second, third, fifth and sixth... Virginia's 36 points is the lowest score in NCAA women's history. Villanova's 99 points in 1989 was the highest winning total in the nine-year history of the meet.

North Dakota State football is headed down familiar path

This year, North Dakota State seems to be headed down a familiar play-off path. For the past 10 years, the Bison have dominated Division II football in play-off appearances, with 21 wins and four titles.

Quarterback Chris Simdorn and running back Tony Satter, both seniors, are leading the Bison attack this season. Simdorn, who set a record by scoring 54 points on nine touchdowns during the 1988 play-offs, is fourth in scoring in the division through games of October 21. Satter ranks seventh in rushing, averaging 122 yards per game.

Although Simdorn and Satter are in the rankings, coach R. E. "Rocky" Hager notes the importance of all of his seniors. "We have a very capable senior class," Hager said. "Leadership comes from all areas, whether it be performance or emotion."

"We are still looking for ways to improve, and are taking one game at a time. The play-offs are a kind of reward for doing things right during the regular season."

With an unblemished record, something is definitely going right. North Dakota State has been ranked No. 1 for the past six weeks in the NCAA Division II football poll, with a 8-0 record (through October 29). However, the defending champion, Mississippi College, 7-1, is close behind.

Mississippi College won the 1989 title, downing Jacksonville State, 3-0. John Williams, last year's coach of the year, said his team, ranked No. 2, is not worried about the pressure to repeat this season.

"We knew we had a chance; we're a much better team than last year," said Williams. However, Williams is reluctant to predict a repeat trip to the play-off final. "We still have some tough games ahead," he said.

The Choctaws lost some key players to graduation but still have Fred McAfee, whom Williams describes as "bright-eyed, bushy tailed and enthusiastic." The senior tailback ranks sixth in the division's scoring race, averaging 10.5 points per game.

Where does 12th-ranked Jacksonville State fit into the play-off picture? The Gamecocks went into last year's play-offs undefeated. With losses to Mississippi College and Valdosta State, they must dominate the teams on the rest of their schedule to keep play-off hopes alive.

No one can overlook the talent at fourth-ranked Indiana (Pennsylvania), with juniors Andrew Hill and Tony Aliucci. Hill is first in scoring in the division, averaging nearly 13 points, and Aliucci is first in passing efficiency with 18 touchdowns and 1,418 yards.

The team leads the division in scoring offense and scoring defense. Last year Indiana (Pennsylvania) was eliminated in the semifinals by Mississippi College, 26-14.

The bracket will be announced November 11, and the selections for the play-off field are anybody's guess. Three of the top nine teams remain unbeaten. In addition to North Dakota State, undefeated teams are Pittsburg State and Virginia Union.

Shane Stewart's 19-yard field goal won the 1989 Division II football title for Mississippi College, which is among the contenders for the 1990 crown

Championship Profile

Event: Division II Football.

Field: Sixteen teams.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Mississippi College spoiled Jacksonville State's perfect record with a 19-yard field goal by Shane Stewart to capture last year's title, 3-0.

Schedule: First-round, quarterfinal and semifinal games will be played November 17, 24 and December 1. The championship game is December 8 in Florence, Alabama.

The NCAA News coverage: Scores and pairings from preliminary rounds will be published in the November 19 and 26 and December 3 issues. The championship results will appear in the December 10 issue.

Contenders: North Dakota State, Mississippi College, Grand Valley State, Pittsburg State, Indiana (Pennsylvania), Virginia Union, Edinboro, Wofford, Cal State Northridge, East Texas State, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Northeast Missouri State, Jacksonville State, Millersville, Ashland and Valdosta State.

Championship notes: This is the third year for a 16-team championship field... Pittsburg State was the only undefeated team that did not get knocked out in the first round last year... Mississippi College beat heavily favored Texas A&I, which was 10-0 going into last year's play-offs... Four teams made their first play-off appearances last year, bringing the total number of teams to earn play-off berths to 71... There are 119 Division II institutions sponsoring football this year.

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo harriers still seek sweep of titles

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo was under a lot of pressure a year ago to become the first Division II school to win both the men's and women's cross country championships in the same year. The women had won seven straight titles and were heavily favored to claim an eighth, and the men were top-ranked heading into the national finals.

Although the women won again in 1989, the Mustang men placed third, 17 points shy of pulling off the sweep. A year later, the men are ranked third, and although the women are again favored, they have a new coach. The limelight has faded a little.

But a dual celebration still could happen.

Men's championships

Edinboro is the class of the division. Uriel Rivera won the 5,000- and 10,000-meter runs at the outdoor track championships last year, and coach Doug Watts says he is "significantly better than a year ago." Chris Rauber finished second in last year's cross country competition and should be a big factor in this year's race. Brian Matthews is a senior transfer who has helped the Fighting Scots regain prominence. Backing up these three is a pair of all-Americans — Harvey Sipel, who was an all-America in 1988 and didn't run last year, and Scott Knapp, a steeplechase all-America last year.

The problem for the Scots is a lack of depth. "Our next runner is two minutes behind," Watts said. "If one of our guys gets hurt, we're in big trouble."

"On paper, this is a great team, maybe the best team I've ever had. But I won't claim that until they do it at the nationals."

Watts doesn't have to claim it. Others will do it for him. Scott Underwood, coach at defending champion South Dakota State, said, "If Edinboro's guys run like they are capable of doing, there is nobody who can run with them. They don't have much depth, so they are vulnerable."

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo is a young team that has "come alive," according to coach Tom Henderson. "I have had more talented teams before, but this is one of the very best racing teams I have ever had. This team runs smarter. They are conscious of other teams and the course they are on. They are not just seven guys out there doing their own thing."

The Mustangs' top runner is sophomore Scott Hempel, the 1,500-meter champion at last year's outdoor track meet. Mike Parrott, an all-America in 1988 in cross country, is one of only two seniors on the team, and Henderson says Parrott is taking his role seriously. "He is finally realizing that he is a senior and this is his last chance."

"We are a very young team. At the beginning of the season, we just looked to get through this year and prepare for next year. This team has really come alive."

Despite some problems this year, South Dakota State still could claim a second straight title. The Jackrabbits lost Nate Trebilcock, who finished 12th a year ago, to an Achilles' tendon injury. Craig Cassen, who finished third last year, has been sick, but Underwood says he is healthy again. Meanwhile, Derrick Powers, a junior college transfer, has been running well all fall.

Women's championships

First-year coach Deanne Johnson has the Cal Poly San Luis Obispo women in their usual place—as favorites. "They are the team to beat," said Gail Conway, coach at Air Force. "Just because of their tradition, they have to be favored," adds Underwood.

Johnson agrees.

"The people we had to count on have come through," Johnson said. "They could have sold out, but they have bought into the new program from the beginning."

The Mustangs are loaded. Sydney Thatcher, Kristina Hand and Amanda Marks have traded the team leadership all season long. Tracy Leichter and Shannon Sweeney have been strong as well, and Melanie Hiatt, who finished fourth in last year's championships, just ran in her third meet since undergoing arthroscopic knee surgery in September. "She's coming on like gangbusters," Johnson said.

After going through a tough regular-season schedule without a team victory, the Mustangs won their conference meet by placing seven runners in the top nine positions. Finishing first through fourth, sixth, eighth, and ninth, the runners finished within 19 seconds of each other.

"We want to break away a couple of our runners and let the rest of the field come to them at the national meet," Johnson said.

Johnson was riding high at the conference meet at Cal Poly Pomona. She had driven all night from Chico, California, where she had been inducted into the Cal State Chico Athletic Hall of Fame the night before. "That was quite a lift for me," she said. "I was psyched for the meet. Needless to say, one of my students had to drive my car home."

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's most

Championships Profile

Event: Division II men's and women's cross country.

Field: In the men's championships, 17 seven-member teams and 13 individuals will fill the field. In the women's championships, 11 seven-member teams and 15 individuals will fill the field.

Automatic qualification: Although each region is guaranteed a certain number of team and individual qualifiers, there is no automatic qualification for conference champions.

Defending champions: South Dakota State and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo won the men's and women's team titles, respectively. Craig Cassen's third-place finish led the Jackrabbits, while Jamie Park also finished third to lead the Mustangs. Rob Edson of Keene State won the individual men's title, and Darcy Arreola of Cal State Northridge claimed top honors for the women.

Schedule: Humboldt State will be the host institution for the events November 17. The men's championships will begin at 1 p.m. and the women's championships will begin at 2 p.m.

The NCAA News coverage: Results from the championships will appear in the November 19 issue.

Contenders: Men's contenders include Edinboro, Shippensburg, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and Humboldt State. Women's contenders include Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, South Dakota State, Air Force and Navy.

Championships notes: Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's streak of eight straight cross country championships is the longest in NCAA women's history and second only to Hobart and Kenyon's 11 straight in men's lacrosse and men's swimming, respectively. Lance Harter, who coached all eight of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's championship teams, now coaches at Arkansas. Deanne Johnson is trying to continue the tradition for the Mustangs.

likely challengers nationally are South Dakota State and Air Force. Even Underwood, whose South Dakota State women's team is ranked No. 2, says the Falcons should soar ahead of his Jackrabbits. "Air Force has to be considered strong," he said. "They (the Falcons) beat Cal Poly (San Luis Obispo) at the Stanford Invitational by putting two runners ahead of Cal Poly's top runner. They don't have the depth of Cal Poly, but are very strong up front."

But Air Force's Conway says her depth may be a problem. "We have a strong four, but rely on how our fifth runner does. Cal Poly San Luis Obispo has such a close pack among their runners. A lot of their dominance depends on how Melanie Hiatt comes back."

Callie Calhoun leads Air Force.

She finished second to Michelle Dekkers of Indiana at the Indiana Invitational a week after the Stanford Invitational. That's the same Dekkers who won two consecutive Division I cross country titles, in 1987 and 1988. "She actually led from the two-mile mark until just before the finish," Conway said.

Calhoun teamed with Shannon Karpel to help defeat the Mustangs at Stanford. If Air Force is going to win, this might be the academy's best chance. Conway's four top runners are seniors.

As for South Dakota State's chances, Underwood says, "I feel that our team is stronger than last year. We have more depth. Of course, we were way behind Cal Poly and Air Force in third place. I'm not sure if we have made that next step up to their level."

Championship Profile

Event: Division III football.

Field: Four teams from each of four regions will be selected for the 16-team field.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Dayton won its second Division III title with a 17-7 victory over Union (New York). It had been 10 years since the Flyers' first championship, that one coming on the strength of a 63-0 victory in the championship game.

Schedule: First-round, quarterfinal and semifinal games will be played at on-campus sites November 17 and 24 and December 1. The championship will be decided in the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl December 8 at Bradenton, Florida.

The NCAA News coverage: Scores and pairings from preliminary rounds will be published November 19, 26 and December 3. Results from the championship game will appear in the December 11 issue.

Contenders: Hofstra, Cortland State, Ramapo, Dayton, Millikin, Mount Union, Ohio Wesleyan, Allegheny, Ferrum, Washington and Jefferson, Frostburg State, Lycoming, Carnegie-Mellon, Wisconsin-Whitewater, Wartburg.

Play-off notes: Dayton will be trying to become the first repeat champion since Augustana (Illinois) won four straight from 1983 to 1986. The Flyers' 63-0 victory over Ithaca in 1980 is the widest margin of victory in a championship game. Central (Iowa) holds the record for the largest shutout margin in the play-offs with a 71-0 victory over Occidental in 1985.

Unbeaten football teams scramble for spots in III play-off bracket

Thirteen.

That's how many Division III football teams were undefeated after games of October 27, which could make selection of the 16-team field for the Division III play-offs very difficult. The South region still had five undefeated teams, which makes things interesting considering that only four teams are picked from a region.

"I can remember years when you might get a bid to the play-offs with two losses," said Mike Kelly, head coach of defending champion Dayton. "That won't happen this year."

Mike Kelly

Many of the undefeated teams likely will not stay that way. Some of the undefeateds will play each other, as in the November 10 game between Dayton (8-0) and Ferrum (7-0), ranked No. 1 in the North and South regions, respectively. But there still appears the strong possibility that some very good teams will be watching the play-offs in the newspapers.

"That is a big game for us," Kelly said of Dayton's home contest against Ferrum. "We opened our season with a play-off team (John Carroll) and will close with one. A lot of eyes will be on that game, though the loser probably will go to the play-offs."

"Reports are that they are better than last year [when the Panthers lost in the semifinals to national runner-up Union (New York)]. Looking at the stats, I have to agree. People say that it was bad luck that they didn't make the finals last year. I would say it was good luck for us."

Each region can boast of at least one favorite to win the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl. Hofstra (8-0), in the East region, leads the nation in passing offense (330.4 yards per game) and is second in total offense (479.7). Ferrum has nearly that many yards on the ground (476.7) and leads in total offense (528.2).

Dayton is third in scoring offense (43.3 points per game), while Wisconsin-Whitewater in the West region has climbed to an 8-0 record without appearing in any of the Division III team statistical leader charts.

High-powered offenses seem to be keys to successful seasons. The four leading scoring offenses (Ferrum, Hofstra, Dayton and Cortland State) are a combined 31-0.

Given all that, is last year's champion the team to beat this year? "I don't think so," says Dayton's Kelly. "We are one of the teams that needs to be beaten. But I don't know if we're any better than any of the other top eight or nine teams."

"Our team this year is a better football team (than last year's). We have more maturity. We are a senior-dominated team. There are differences. Last year's team was more enjoyable to coach because we were not expected to do what we did. A little more pressure this year, because we are expected to win every time we step on the field."

Typical table talk in this house includes NCAA team title

A typical evening conversation in the Zupanc-Vercauteren household in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, might be similar to that in any other average American home—with one exception.

Zupanc: "By the way, honey, where is your team ranked?"

Vercauteren: "No. 1, and yours?"

Zupanc: "Oh, No. 1."

Vercauteren and Zupanc are the women's and men's cross country coaches at perennial cross country power Wisconsin-Oshkosh, the top-ranked teams this year in Division III cross country. Vercauteren and Zupanc also happen to be married.

"It is kind of fun to go to nationals and have someone along who understands the sport," Vercauteren said. "It's great to be able to talk track 24 hours a day."

Zupanc's men have won two straight NCAA Division III championships, and Vercauteren's women finished second last year after two straight titles. Heading into this year's championships, they once again are favored to win. Must be some trophy case.

Men's championships

The Titans appear ready to compete for a third straight title. "We feel we have a very solid team," Zupanc said. "We have a strong team up front and good depth. We have all the components of a championship team."

The Titans' top runner is three-time all-America Scott Steuarnagel. The senior finished 18th his freshman year, ninth the next year and eighth last year. The No. 2 man, junior Dave Lambert, has finished 25th and 11th in his two appearances in the nationals.

Zupanc does not shy away from the attention that winning two in a row brings. "We're trying to use it as a motivation that nobody ever has won three straight Division III championships," he said. "Rather than scaring the kids, our guys seem to thrive on that kind of thing."

He also believes that having an equally successful women's program has helped. "With both programs being successful, we get more media coverage," he said. "Everybody likes to see his program get exposure. It also helps with recruiting. Kids are attracted to our program because they hear about us in different ways."

But the championship is not won in the newspapers or on television. And Zupanc has a keen eye on his closest competitors. "North Central has a great tradition," he said of the school that leads Division III with seven team championships. "They (the Cardinals) always run better at the end of the year."

"Rochester is very strong. Augustana (Illinois) is extremely tough up front, though it may not have the depth that is necessary. Calvin College is excellent up front and has some depth, and John Lumkes (who won the 3,000-meter steeplechase at the outdoor meet) is a definite contender for the individual championship."

Women's championships

Wisconsin-Oshkosh appears to be headed for a showdown with last year's champion, Cortland State. The Titans are ranked No. 1, but Cortland State is just two points behind. Wisconsin-Oshkosh recently won its conference meet with 15 points, the lowest total possible. But Vercauteren is not overconfident.

"We're a little inexperienced," she said, "but the kids are enjoying competing. It's a little hard to say who should be No. 1, because we don't get to see the other teams until the nationals. Cortland State has more experience and depth, but we won't really find out anything until that day."

Wisconsin-Oshkosh has three runners back from last year's squad. Nancy Dare, who finished 14th last year, and Laura Horejs, who placed 10th, also teamed for a one-two finish in the 1,500-meter run at the Division III outdoor track championships last year to help the Titans take home that title. Also, Nancy Klatt, who was 34th a year ago, has been the No. 3 runner all season. "We are relying heavily on those three," Vercauteren said.

But Vercauteren is not worried about Cortland State, or anybody else. "We approach each meet with the idea that we can only control how we run. We have to be ready to give our best."

Cortland State lost its top two runners from last year to graduation. Their loss is magnified when you consider that Marybeth Crawley and Judy Sparks also were the two best runners in the country. Their one-two finish played a big part in the Red Dragons' 1989 championship.

But coach Jack Daniels still has Vickie Mitchell, who finished fifth last year. Daniels will be counting heavily on Mitchell, not just because she was a two-time national champion in 1990 (1,500 meters indoors and 3,000 meters outdoors), but also because she is one of only two runners with cross country experience at Cortland State. The only other veteran is senior Patti Zoda.

Becky Bieber, a graduate student who did not compete last year, and Sharryn Whitmore, a 24-year-old who recently returned to school but never has run in college, offset inexperience with talent. Four freshmen—including Michelle LaFleur, who has finished third in many races this year—give the Red Dragons depth. At the conference meet, Daniels held out Bieber, Whitmore and LaFleur, but the Red Dragons still won.

Championships Profile

Event: Division III men's and women's cross country.

Field: In the men's championships, 21 seven-member teams and 37 individuals will fill the field. In the women's championships, 14 seven-member teams and 38 individuals will fill the field.

Automatic qualification: Although each region is guaranteed a certain number of team and individual qualifiers, there is no automatic qualification for conference champions.

Defending champion: Wisconsin-Oshkosh's men won their second straight team title by placing four runners in the top 13 finishers. David Terronez of Augustana (Illinois) repeated as individual champion. Cortland State's women took first, second and fifth places to easily win the school's first cross country championship. Marybeth Crawley claimed the individual crown. Neither Terronez nor Crawley is back.

Schedule: Grinnell will be the host institution for the races November 17. The men's championships will begin at 11 a.m. and the women's championships will begin at noon.

The NCAA News coverage: Results from the championships will appear in the November 19 issue.

Contenders: Men's contenders include Wisconsin-Oshkosh, Rochester, Augustana (Illinois) and Calvin. Women's contenders include Wisconsin-Oshkosh, Cortland State, Allegheny and Ithaca.

Championships notes: When Wisconsin-Oshkosh swept the men's and women's titles in 1988, it was believed to be the first time that a husband and wife guided separate teams to national championships in the same season. John Zupanc coaches the Titan men, and his wife, Deb Vercauteren, coaches the Titan women. Cortland State not only lost individual champion Marybeth Crawley, but runner-up Judy Sparks from last year's team. Wisconsin-Oshkosh is hoping for an imitation of Cortland State's feat from Nancy Dare and Laura Horejs. They finished one-two in the 1,500-meter run to help the Titans win the 1990 outdoor track title.

Steroid bill approved; NYSP receives funding

As reported in the October 29 issue of The NCAA News, the final days of the 101st Congress witnessed the passage of long-anticipated graduation-rate disclosure legislation, but the defeat of a bill, supported both by the NCAA and the professional sports leagues, to strengthen the Federal criminal statute dealing with sports-based lotteries.

Other late developments of significance to the Association include the addition of anabolic steroids to the list of Federally controlled substances, the death of two bills specifying drug-testing standards and the appropriation of more than $10.8 million for the 1991 National Youth Sports Program.

In its waning hours, the 101st Congress passed an anticrime bill that adds anabolic steroids to Schedule III of the Controlled Substances Act, thereby making distribution of anabolic steroids without a prescription a felony (punishable by up to five years' imprisonment and a fine of up to $250,000) and possession a misdemeanor (with initial penalties of up to one year's imprisonment and a maximum fine of $1,000).

The House crime bill would have imposed felony penalties on coaches, trainers and others who try to persuade athletes to use anabolic steroids; those provisions were incorporated in the initial version negotiated by the House and Senate but were blocked in the Senate and dropped before final passage.

Standards for the certification of laboratories engaged in urine drug testing also did not survive in the stripped-down anticrime bill passed by Congress. During consideration of the bill October 5, the House approved an amendment offered by House Energy and Commerce Committee Chair John Dingell, D-Michigan, adding the laboratory certification language. The drug-testing section, along with all other controversial provisions, was dropped from the crime-control bill before final approval.

Similarly, other drug-testing legislation, including the Hatch-Boren bill (S. 1903) that would have limited the circumstances in which drug testing may occur, died by adjournment. It is anticipated that a number of drug-testing measures will be introduced again in the next Congress.

Congress passed two measures of importance to the National Youth Sports Program. First, Congress on October 26 approved the fiscal year 1991 spending bill for the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services and Education and Related Agencies, which allocates $10.832 million for the NYSP, an increase of $214,000 over last year. The Senate had recommended an appropriation of $11.1 million for the NYSP; this amount was reduced in conference, along with appropriations for all domestic discretionary programs, by an across-the-board cut of 2.41 percent.

Second, Congress on October 18 approved the Human Services Reauthorization Act, which reauthorizes all Community Service Block Grant programs, including the NYSP, for four more years. The measure describes the NYSP more accurately than did the preexisting authorization.

Defeat of the antilottery legislation, which had passed the House and had been included in slightly modified form in the omnibus crime legislation approved by a House-Senate conference, was attributed to the absence of hearings on the measure in the Senate and concerns by officials in several states about the loss of a potential revenue-raising mechanism.

Only one such lottery, covering professional football and basketball games, is in operation, in Oregon. Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tennessee, who introduced a freestanding antisports lottery measure October 23, and other members of Congress have indicated that they will revisit the issue in the next session.

Congress recessed without taking action on a number of bills of interest to NCAA members, including the "Coach and Athlete's Bill of Rights Act," introduced August 3 in the House by Rep. James Bilbray, D-Nevada, and in the Senate by Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nevada. The measures would have required the NCAA to adopt rules that give educational institutions, coaches and players procedural and substantive due process in enforcement proceedings.

Elizabethtown College senior soccer goalie Jay Varrato broke the collegiate (all divisions) record for career shutouts October 30 when the Blue Jays defeated Drew University in overtime, 1-0, in Middle Atlantic States Conference play-off action.

Varrato earned his 15th shutout of the season and the 48th of his career to top the 47 recorded by former Duke University goalie Pat Johnston. That mark was set in 1985. As a three-year starter, Varrato has a 62-5-4 record.

"I thought things went very well, and everyone had a wonderful time," said athletics director Timothy Dillon, who added that this BYOB party helped show hundreds of college students that "you don't necessarily have to have alcohol at a party to have a good time."

broadcast team of Robert Hill (play-by-play) and Steve McCarty (color commentary on road games only) will have the latest information on the team. What else could they expect from a radio team that also serves as the school's athletics director (McCarty) and assistant AD (Hill)?

Hill has done play-by-play for the team since 1974, when he worked for the station that originated the broadcasts. McCarty joined him in 1985. And when the Lumberjacks' last radio contract expired two years ago, the operation was brought in-house.

Former University of Wisconsin, Madison, student-athletes who played football on teams coached by the late John Jardine returned to campus October 27 during homecoming weekend to raise money for an endowment fund for the football program. During half time of the Badgers' game against the University of Illinois, Champaign, the first John Jardine scholarship was presented.

"I can't give back enough (based on) what John gave me," former player Dave Crossen said. "This is all for our coach." Jardine died March 23 at age 54.

Crossen, who helped organize the event, said more than 60 former Wisconsin players were expected to be on hand for the fund-raiser and other activities.

William Pearce, the new chairman of the board of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, has announced that the foundation's annual black-tie dinner no longer will be a "stag" affair.

"In times past," Pearce said in announcing unanimous approval of the change by the board, "the stag character of this event was an accepted form of camaraderie. However, it no longer is an appropriate limitation for our organization, and we have changed it."

Set for December 4 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, the 1990 dinner already is approaching sell-out status.

Pearce also announced that the graduate fellow awards given annually to scholar-athletes chosen by the foundation have been increased to $10,000 each.

Career victory No. 200 went to Washington University (Missouri) women's tennis coach Lynn Stockman Imergoot October 19 when her 1990 Bears defeated the University of Evansville, 5-4. Washington's (Missouri) triumph also was the women's tennis program's first over Evansville since 1983.

University of Northern Iowa, after Bowden earned career victory No. 200 October 27. Gaither and Mudra both preceded Bowden in the 200-victory club.

Trivia Time: Who did Bobby Bowden succeed at Florida State? Answer later.
