Weight of grants in revenue distribution studied

Only one element of a comprehensive plan to distribute moneys from the Association's long-term television contract with CBS remains to be finalized, following actions taken December 3 by the NCAA Executive Committee, which met in Kansas City.

The Executive Committee approved a number of recommendations developed over the past year by the Special NCAA Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues, which met October 17 in Chicago and conducted a November 29 telephone conference to continue work on various elements of the distribution plan.

Recommendations developed in Chicago were reported in detail in the October 22, 1990, issue of The NCAA News, and a memorandum outlining the recommendations also was mailed following the Chicago meeting to all NCAA Division I conferences and directors of athletics for their review and comment.

Acting December 3, the Executive Committee approved the recommendations developed in Chicago, with the exception of those relative to the grant-in-aid component of the broad-based portion of the distribution plan. Based on comments received from the membership regarding this issue, it was agreed that this particular aspect of the plan should be reconsidered and adjustments made.

The Executive Committee noted that there is sufficient time to address further this component of the plan before moneys are to be distributed to the membership (next August), and the special advisory committee is in the process of scheduling a February 1991 meeting to review this portion of the plan.

Also approved by the Executive Committee were the following items related to the revenue-distribution plan:

- A recommendation that the broad-based distribution, including the grants-in-aid component, be based on the most recent data available (i.e., from the 1990-91 academic year, if feasible), and that the grants-in-aid component be based on athletics aid at the outset (rather than based on countable aid for the first year of the plan and on athletics aid thereafter, as originally recommended).

- A recommendation that on behalf of the special advisory committee, an individual be appointed to clarify (at the 1991 Convention) that the distribution plan will reflect the new sports-sponsorship requirements if approved for Division I membership (i.e., an institution would receive credit in the sports-sponsorship component of the broad-based plan beginning with its 14th sport sponsored).

- An increase in the needy student-athlete fund from $1.5 million to $3 million for 1990-91, with $750,000 from both the basketball and broad-based pools supplying this additional funding.

- A recommendation that con-

Althea Gibson to receive 'Teddy'

Althea Gibson

Tennis great Althea Gibson will be the first woman to receive the NCAA's highest individual honor, the Theodore Roosevelt Award.

The award will be presented January 8 at the honors dinner during the 1991 NCAA Convention in Nashville, Tennessee.

A 1953 graduate of Florida A&M University, Gibson competed on the women's tennis and basketball teams and the men's golf team. She joined the Ladies Professional Golf Association in 1965 and made an attempt to qualify for an LPGA event this past summer.

Gibson, who was raised in New York City's Harlem area, was the first black tennis player to gain international prominence. She won 56 major singles and doubles championships during her 23-year career.

She was the American Tennis Association of National Negro Women singles champion for 10 consecutive years (1948 to 1957).

In 1956, she won the singles title and was a member of the winning doubles team at the French Open Championship. Gibson also won the singles titles at both Wimbledon and the U.S. Open Championship in 1957 and 1958, in addition to winning doubles titles at Wimbledon in 1956, 1957 and 1958. She was a member of the Wightman Cup team in 1957 and 1958.

After retiring from the tennis circuit in 1960, Gibson became director of community relations and

Grants, championships attract '91 legislation

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of seven articles outlining the legislation that will be considered at the 1991 annual Convention. This article reviews the proposals in the groupings dealing with financial aid and championships.)

Proposals dealing with equivalency grants and automatic qualification for NCAA championships probably will draw the most attention in the groupings of financial aid and championships legislation for action at the 1991 NCAA Convention.

In the financial aid section, the Southeastern Conference is proposing that in the Division I sports in which financial aid is based on equivalencies, no grant could be awarded that would represent less than one-third of a full grant.

The sponsors argue that the awarding of "meager scholarships" results in a "cheap tryout program" and leads to "misguided careers and transfers." Opponents of the proposal respond that a number of institutions offer a number of smaller grants (perhaps books only, or tuition only) in order to assist more students and attract more participants in certain sports.

In the championships grouping, four proposals address automatic qualification for NCAA championships, one affecting all divisions and the other three aimed at Division I only. Three of those may provoke some controversy.

One, submitted by the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, wants at least 50 percent of the positions in every championship field (all divisions) in team sports to be made up of automatic-qualifying conference representatives, provided the number of conferences requesting automatic bids is at least equal to 50 percent of the field in the sport involved.

Another, for Division I only, wants the Executive Committee to consider taking action that would give Division I conferences the same amount of time to comply with any

Paula Zahn to emcee NCAA honors event

Paula Zahn, coanchor of "CBS This Morning," will be the emcee for this year's NCAA honors dinner during the annual Convention in Nashville.

The dinner is highlighted by the presentation of the Theodore Roosevelt Award and the recognition of the College Athletics Top XII.

Zahn, a native of Naperville, Illinois, graduated from Stephens College in Columbia, Missouri. She attended Stephens on a cello scholarship and combined her music studies with journalism, her eventual major.

She competed on the varsity golf and swimming teams at Stephens. She also attended Caius College at Cambridge University in England and the University of Valencia in Spain.

In 1978, Zahn began her career at WFAA-TV in Dallas. From 1979 to 1987, she worked as an anchor and reporter at stations in San Diego, Houston, Boston and Los Angeles.

She joined ABC News in November 1987 and was coanchor of "World News This Morning" and the news segments of "Good Morning America." She also anchored "The Health

NCAA, CBS-TV, NBA join

National coalition is organized to control alcohol use at events

The NCAA has joined a national coalition that helps operators of public sports facilities develop policies and programs for dealing with alcohol consumption at athletics events.

The coalition is TEAM—Techniques for Effective Alcohol Management. The NCAA joins such organizations as CBS-TV, the National Basketball Association, Major League Baseball and the National Safety Council as members of TEAM.

NCAA involvement in TEAM will focus on two areas—training for athletics administrators who are responsible for facilities, and communications and media programs.

Two national office staff members will represent the Association in the TEAM coalition. They are James A. Marchiony, director of communications, and Frank D. Uryasz, director of sports sciences.

"Just because we—the NCAA and a great majority of our member institutions—ban the sale and consumption of alcohol at our events doesn't mean we don't have alcohol problems," Uryasz said. "We recognize that such bans constitute just a part of our commitment to deal with the alcohol use and misuse that is occurring on all collegiate campuses."

TEAM was created in 1985 as a result of the efforts of an arena manager to manage alcohol more effectively in his facility.

Jerry Sachs, president of the Capital Centre in Landover, Maryland, implemented various alcohol-management techniques at the arena and also became involved in community efforts to battle drunken driving before turning to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) for help in developing a comprehensive facility alcohol-management program that could be used across the nation.

The NHTSA, in cooperation with the International Association of Auditorium Managers, undertook the development of what became the TEAM program.

The goal of the program was to demonstrate to owners and managers of public facilities that they could create and implement policies and procedures that effectively reduce the threat of drinking and driving.

Today, TEAM's purposes continue to include the reduction of alcohol-impaired driving, as well as to promote responsible alcohol service at athletics facilities, enhance fan safety and enjoyment, and reduce facilities, potential legal liability for alcohol-related incidents.

ferences be urged (but not required) to distribute moneys from the basketball pool among all their member institutions in some manner.

- A recommendation made by the NCAA Presidents Commission that two percent of the annual television rights fee be set aside in a membership trust, beginning with fiscal year 1991-92. (Note: The Executive Committee further stipulated that the trust would not be used to fund new programs or services but rather to continue to fund current programs and services if there are compelling economic needs at the end of the current contract; that interest earned on these funds would accrue to the trust, and that if the trust is not required for its stated purpose, the moneys would be returned to the membership in some form.)

- A recommendation that 50 percent of the Division II allocation be distributed to conferences whose teams participated in the Division II Men's Basketball Championship during a rolling six-year period (beginning with 1985-1990), in accordance with the same guidelines developed for distribution of the Division I basketball pool, and that 50 percent be distributed equally among all active Division II members that are eligible for NCAA championships in accordance with Bylaw 31.2.1.4 (NCAA-NAIA joint-declaration program).

- A recommendation that the NCAA Committee on Infractions be asked to consider withholding all or a portion of an institution's share of the broad-based-distribution moneys as an additional penalty in infractions cases.

- A recommendation that the special advisory committee remain intact at least through fiscal year 1990-91.

Appeals heard

Two appeals also were heard, one of which resulted in a move to appoint a special committee to study automatic qualification in the Division I Men's Basketball Championship.

This appeal was presented by the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, which in recent weeks lost four members to other Division I conferences. As a result of this and other projected conference realignments within Division I, the Executive Committee voted to authorize the NCAA Administrative Committee to appoint a special committee comprising members of the Division I Championships Committee and the Division I Men's Basketball Committee to study automatic qualification relative to conference realignment.

In authorizing its appointment, the Executive Committee directed the special committee to develop by next March 1 recommendations regarding automatic qualification for consideration by the Executive Committee.

Also heard was an appeal from the Eastern College Athletic Conference that the Executive Committee reconsider its May 1990 approval of a playing rule change in football mandating the use of a visible 25-second clock beginning in 1992.

The appeal was denied by the Executive Committee, which noted that 1991 NCAA Convention Proposal No. 63 addresses the issue of playing rules flexibility among and between membership divisions.

Other legislation

Other Convention proposals also were reviewed by the Executive Committee, which voted to oppose several, including:

- No. 61, which specifies that the establishment of playing rules by rules committees without championships responsibilities shall not be subject to the final authority of the Executive Committee.

- No. 62, which would permit a membership division to adopt playing rules that are not common to all divisions.

- No. 93, which specifies that each governing sports committee in team sports shall award a minimum number of automatic-qualifying positions equal, but not limited, to 50 percent of the size of the championships fields, provided the number of conference seeking automatic bids is at least equal to 50 percent of the size of the championships fields.

- No. 96, which is a resolution dealing with automatic qualification to Division I championships.

- No. 120, which is a resolution dealing with access to NCAA Division I championships via automatic qualification and at-large selection (Note: This resolution was inadvertently omitted from the Official Notice of the Convention. It was published in its entirety on page 3 of the December 3, 1990, issue of The NCAA News).

Format changed

During review of recommendations regarding various NCAA championships, the Executive Committee voted to alter the format for the National Collegiate Women's Gymnastics Championships, effective with the 1993 event.

Specifically, the championships will be conducted over a three-day period, with team preliminaries and individual all-around competition completed the first day; team finals completed the second day, and individual-event finals completed the third day.

Full minutes of the Executive Committee's December 3 meeting will be published in the December 26 issue of The NCAA News.

Executive Committee approves ban on tobacco products at play-offs

The NCAA Executive Committee has banned the use of tobacco products on the field of play at all NCAA championships.

The ban, approved at the committee's December 3 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, will take effect at this year's winter championships and qualifying competitions conducted by the NCAA. It does not pertain to football bowl games, conference championships or regular-season competition.

All tobacco products are prohibited under the ban, including cigarettes, snuff and chewing tobacco. Any person including a student-athlete, coach, trainer or official found using tobacco on the field of play will be subject to the misconduct provisions of Bylaw 31.02.3. The sports committee for the championship may impose penalties according to Bylaw 31.1.8.

The sports committee also will be responsible for defining the field of play for its championship, although the Executive Committee did specify that dugouts would be included in the field of play in baseball.

The ban initially was proposed by the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports in June 1989. The Executive Committee denied the recommendation the following August but voted to draft a statement discouraging the use of tobacco and urging institutions and conferences to do likewise.

At its January 1990 meeting, the competitive-safeguards committee requested that the Executive Committee reconsider its decision or provide a rationale for allowing tobacco use at NCAA championships. In May 1990, the Executive Committee denied the proposal again on the grounds that tobacco is not an illegal or performance-enhancing drug and, thus, is not an appropriate area for legislation.

But before the December 3 meeting, the committee was presented with evidence that the use of smokeless tobacco is rising among young people and that an increasing number of teens begin using smokeless tobacco because they see their sports heroes using it on television.

"The medical representatives on the (competitive-safeguards) committee felt strongly that this is a significant medical problem on which the NCAA must take a stand," said Malcolm C. McInnis Jr., chair of the competitive-safeguards committee and faculty athletics representative at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

"The 1989 replication of the national study on the drug-abuse habits of student-athletes indicated a 40 percent increase in the use of smokeless tobacco over the previous four years. So the committee felt the harmful effects of tobacco, particularly smokeless tobacco, clearly had been documented.

"From a health standpoint, student-athletes should not use tobacco at all," McInnis said. "But it is impossible to ban it during the season and in athletes' free time. But the committee felt that it was appropriate to prohibit tobacco use at championships because they are highly visible events and a ban would be enforceable in such a limited scope."

The competitive-safeguards committee did not address how the ban would be enforced on a sport-by-sport basis, but committee members were confident that sports committees could set enforcement guidelines if the policy was limited to the area of competition at the championship events.

Legislative Assistance

1990 Column No. 44

Recruiting restrictions relating to a prospective student-athletes attendance at institutional practice sessions for a bowl contest

Division I member institutions should note that in accordance with NCAA Bylaw 13.1.3.5-(e), there now is a recruiting dead period from December 24, 1990, through January 1, 1991. During such a dead period, it is not permissible for institutional staff members to make in-person recruiting contacts or evaluations on or off the member institutions campus, or to permit official or unofficial visits by prospects to the institutions campus. It remains permissible, however, for an institutional staff member to write or telephone prospects during such a dead period.

During its November 29, 1990, conference, the NCAA Interpretations Committee reviewed the provisions of 13.02.4.4 and 13.1.3.5-(e) in reference to the manner in which these restrictions would relate to a prospective student-athletes attendance at institutional practice sessions for a bowl contest. In this regard, the committee determined that if a member institution permits a prospective student-athlete to observe the institutions practice during a dead period conducted at the event site where the institution will participate in a bowl contest, the practice session must be open to the general public and the prospective student-athlete may observe such a practice session only from the area reserved for members of the general public to observe the practice. The committee specifically determined that under such circumstances, the prospect would be precluded from observing the practice session from the sidelines of the practice field with the institutions team. In addition, the committee noted that an institution that permits a prospect to attend such practice sessions would do so at its own risk, and any contact (during the recruiting dead period) with institutional athletics staff members and/or representatives of the institutions athletics interests would be a violation of NCAA rules.

NCAA Bylaw 16.6.1.1—expenses for spouse/children to attend a postseason football game

Member institutions should note that an institution may provide the cost of actual and necessary expenses (e.g., transportation, lodging and meals) for the spouse and children of an eligible student-athlete to accompany the student-athlete to a certified postseason football game or an NCAA championship in the sport of football. This regulation was reviewed by the Interpretations Committee during its November 29 conference. Specifically, the committee considered the provisions of 16.6.1.1 and 16.12.2.1 (extra-benefit rule) and determined that in addition to the permissible transportation, lodging and meal expenses for the spouse and children of a student-athlete, a member institution also may provide entertainment expenses for these individuals when they accompany the student-athlete to a certified postseason football game or an NCAA championship in the sport of football, provided such expenses are associated with organized team entertainment functions (as distinguished from individual entertainment).

Incidental expenses—entertainment at championships and certified bowl games

Member institutions should note that Bylaw 16.8.1.5 permits an institution to provide $10 per day to each member of the squad to cover unitemized incidental expenses during travel and practice for championship events, during a period limited to the maximum number of days of per diem allowed for the involved championship, or, for certified postseason bowl contests, for a period not to exceed 10 days. In addition, in accordance with 16.7.1, an institution may pay the actual cost for reasonable entertainment that takes place within a 100-mile radius of where a team plays or practices in connection with an away-from-home bowl contest. It is not permissible for a team to remain more than 48 hours after the bowl contest or to transport the team to another area for entertainment purposes.

NCAA Bylaw 16.8.1.2.2—transportation for competition occurring between terms

Member institutions should note that in accordance with Bylaw 16.8.1.2.2, it is permissible for any athletics department staff member to furnish transportation to eligible student-athletes to the campus from the nearest bus or train station or major airport in conjunction with practice and/or team travel relating to competition that occurs between the end of a final examination period of the fall semester (or fall or winter quarter) and the beginning of the following regular term.

If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director for legislative services, at the NCAA national office.*

Omission noted in handbook for gymnastics

Women's gymnastics coaches at NCAA member institutions are being advised of an omission in the 1991 Men's and Women's Gymnastics Championships Handbook. The section regarding the round-off entry vault (page 36 in the handbook) is applicable only to the National Collegiate Men's Gymnastics Championships.

The moratorium on the round-off entry vault has not been lifted for the women's championships. The moratorium has been lifted only for the men's championships.

Although the men's moratorium has been lifted, protective matting (i.e., the vault safety zone) must be used when these vaults are performed. Any male student-athlete who performs the round-off entry vault without use of the vault safety zone will be disqualified from the competition.

Coaches who have questions about the continuing moratorium for women's championships should contact their respective regional advisory committee chairs or Cheryl L. Levick, chair of the NCAA Women's Gymnastics Committee.

new membership criteria for that division as the institutions in the division will have. In other words, conferences currently holding automatic qualification would not lose it due to changes in their membership caused by adoption of new criteria for Division I classification.

The third is the resolution regarding Division I automatic qualification that was inadvertently omitted from the Official Notice of the Convention, as reported in the December 3 issue of The NCAA News. Unanimous consent of the Convention will be necessary for it to be considered. It calls for a study of the feasibility of assuring NCAA championships opportunities for all Division I conferences in all sports. It will appear in the Convention Program as No. 120 but will be considered by the Division I business session immediately after it acts on No. 96.

Summary

Following is a summary of the 15 proposals in the financial aid and championships groupings. Listed with each is the business session in which the proposal will be acted upon.

Financial aid

No. 84: To permit athletically related financial aid to be awarded to incoming freshman student-athletes to attend an institution's summer term, summer school or summer orientation program, provided the aid is granted in proportion to the amount of aid the students would receive in the succeeding academic year and the recipients become counters during the succeeding academic year. Sponsored by the Southeastern Conference. General business session, Divisions I and II only.

No. 85: To specify that a Division I institution shall not award financial aid with an equivalency of less than one-third. Sponsored by the Southeastern Conference. Division I business session.

No. 85-1: To amend No. 85 by clarifying that it applies only to athletically related financial aid and only in the Division I sports in which financial aid is based on equivalencies. Sponsored by the Southeastern Conference. Division I business session.

No. 86: To permit institutional personnel to assist student-athletes in the management of students' financial resources. Sponsored by nine Division I-A institutions. Division I business session.

No. 86-1: To amend No. 86 by limiting the funds that can be managed to Pell Grant funds received by the student-athlete. Sponsored by 11 Division I-A institutions.

No. 87: To permit Division I student-athletes to request additional financial assistance from funds established to assist student-athletes with special financial needs through a program approved by the NCAA Council. This is part of the revenue-distribution plan developed by the Special Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues. Sponsored by the Council.

Division I business session.

No. 88: Resolution directing the Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism to study the extent to which there are student-athletes who receive full grants-in-aid but have additional unmet financial need and, if appropriate, to develop legislation for consideration at the 1992 Convention to provide additional aid beyond current NCAA limitations to Division I student-athletes with that type of need. Sponsored by 13 Division I-A institutions. Division I business session.

No. 89: To permit Divisions I-A and I-AA institutions to award no more than one athletics grant-in-aid per year to a football student-athlete and exempt such aid from the initial grant limitations if the student has been in residence at the institution for at least two academic years. Sponsored by the Southeastern Conference. Division I business session, Divisions I-A and I-AA only.

No. 90: To specify that a multiple-sport Division I participant who practices or competes in ice hockey and one or more other sports (other than football or basketball) shall be counted in the sport of ice hockey. Sponsored by 12 institutions classified in Division I in men's ice hockey. Division I business session.

No. 91: To permit an enrolled student-athlete in Division II to receive athletically related financial aid to attend an institution's summer term, regardless of whether the student-athlete received athletically related financial aid during the previous academic year. Sponsored by the Council. Division II business session.

No. 92: To permit a Division III student-athlete to receive earnings from off-campus employment during the academic year without consideration of the recipient's need. Sponsored by the Council. Division III business session.

Championships

No. 93: To specify that each sports committee in team sports (all divisions) shall award a minimum number of automatic-qualifying positions equal, but not limited, to 50 percent of the size of the championships fields, provided the number of conferences seeking automatic bids is at least equal to 50 percent of the size of the championships fields. Sponsored by the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference. General business session, all divisions.

No. 94: To permit new Division III member institutions to be eligible to participate in championships immediately upon meeting membership requirements, rather than being required to be in conformity with the Division III membership criteria for a period of two years. Sponsored by eight Division III institutions. General business session, all divisions.

No. 95: To permit new Division III member institutions to be eligible to participate in championships if they have operated in compliance with that division's membership criteria for one year, rather than two years. Sponsored by the same institutions that are sponsoring No. 94. General business session, all divisions.

No. 96: Resolution directing the NCAA Executive Committee to consider taking action, if the Convention adopts proposals establishing new Division I membership criteria that will become effective over a period of time, to allow the same time period for conferences to comply with the proposals without losing their current automatic qualification and to consider stipulating that a current automatic-qualifying conference during the specified time period would not lose its automatic qualification as a result of the merger or two or more affected conferences or incorporation of new members that do comply with the proposed new criteria. Sponsored by the East Coast Conference and the Trans America Athletic Conference. Division I business session.

No. 120: (Inadvertently omitted from the Official Notice.) Resolution directing the governing sports committees to address the feasibility of providing all Division I conference champions in each sport the opportunity to participate in NCAA championships by automatic qualification, at-large selection or NCAA-administered prechampionship head-to-head competition, with recommendations to be presented to the Executive Committee by April 1 and legislation to be sponsored by the Executive Committee at the 1992 Convention. Sponsored by five Division I conferences. Division I business session.

No. 97: To permit Division I institutions to meet the automatic-qualification requirements in men's basketball by competing in a minimum of 14 conference games and to delete specific automatic-qualification options for conferences with 12 or more members. Sponsored by eight Division I-AAA institutions. Division I business session.

In its relatively short history, TEAM has made significant strides in its efforts to promote responsible alcohol use, as well as in its training efforts, coalition members say.

The program's promotional efforts have included public-service announcements and other media materials, including a series of safety messages for the National Basketball Association and Major League Baseball that received more than $6 million in donated air time.

Meanwhile, TEAM has participated in the assessment and development of alcohol-management policies at public facilities across the nation and in Canada and in the training of thousands of employees at those facilities.

The NCAA quickly will become involved in the training aspect of TEAM, Uryasz said.

In February 1991, the Association will sponsor its first TEAM assessment workshop for athletics administrators. The four-hour workshop, scheduled in conjunction with an NCAA Drug-Testing Workshop in Dallas, will be presented from 1 to 5 p.m. February 22. Other TEAM assessment workshops, also scheduled in conjunction with drug-testing workshops, are set for April 12 in Philadelphia and April 19 in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Although the workshops are scheduled for the convenience of institutions that want to send one participant for both the drug-testing and TEAM workshops, administrators can register to attend only the assessment session.

Each TEAM assessment workshop will provide participants with a starting point for identifying and evaluating policies and practices for alcohol management in athletics facilities. Members of the TEAM coalition who have extensive experience in assisting with the development and implementation of alcohol-management programs will lead the workshops.

The TEAM assessment is the first step in a program titled Alcohol Management for Athletics/Assembly Facilities: Guidelines for Developing, Implementing and Evaluating Your Program. Following the assessment stage, in which administrators identify current alcohol-management policies and practices in their facilities, the next steps in the program are policy formulation, in which policies are selected and put in writing; team training, in which trainers from TEAM conduct a training seminar for facility employees; policy implementation, when policies are publicized to facility patrons and put into effect, and evaluation, in which the program's effectiveness is reviewed.

The Association also will become involved in TEAM's communications and media efforts. Marchiony said a public-service announcement noting the NCAA's participation in the program probably will be prepared soon, and consideration will be given to other promotional efforts.

Marchiony and Uryasz acknowledged that programs developed by TEAM for professional-sports facilities may not always be appropriate for the NCAA and its member institutions. But they said the TEAM coalition will be sensitive to the needs of college athletics.

In fact, TEAM already has worked in cooperation with collegiate programs. Two years ago, the Southwest Athletic Conference was involved in a TEAM program sponsored by the Texas Safety Association.

Case won't set precedent, Williams says

The NCAA Committee on Infractions was not setting a precedent in allowing the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, men's basketball team to postpone serving infractions penalties until next basketball season, according to D. Alan Williams, committee chair.

"Others may be champing at the bit, but we are not offering (alternatives) as any kind of solution for anybody else," Williams said. "This is one of a kind. This merely brings to a conclusion the UNLV case," Williams told the media December 3.

The Committee on Infractions offered UNLV the alternative of playing in the 1991 Division I Men's Basketball Championship while agreeing not to appear on television or participate in the 1992 tournament. The committee originally ruled that UNLV would not play in 1991 tournament but considered alternatives when the institution demonstrated its ability to take other actions (see December 3 issue of The NCAA News).

UNLV remains under court order barring it from suspending Tarkanian as the NCAA directed as part of the sanctions from a 1977 infractions case. The NCAA ordered UNLV to suspend Tarkanian or show cause why it couldn't. Tarkanian obtained an injunction preventing the institution from taking action against him.

"Everybody wants to compare this to their own situation," NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz said. "This is not a normal infractions case."

"It's not that UNLV is being given an opportunity to play because it is the defending champion. That has nothing to do with it," Schultz said. "People don't realize that UNLV served an institutional penalty 13 years ago. Now, it will serve the show-cause penalty because there were certain things it could not do because of the injunction," Schultz said.

In 1975, she was appointed state commissioner of athletics in New Jersey and served in that position until 1985. She served on the three-member state athletics control board from January 1986 until March 1988, when she was appointed to the Department of Community Affairs, specializing in physical fitness and its application to senior citizens.

Gibson has written an autobiography and performed as an actor and singer, and she was active in the formation of Vanguard Sports Management, Inc., a personal-management and sports-equipment corporation.

Compliance software program in mail

Copies of NCAA Compliance Assistant, a computer program developed by the national office staff, are being shipped this week to Division I member institutions that have asked to receive the software free of charge.

The initial version of the software focuses on financial aid and the generation of NCAA-required squad lists (see September 17 issue of The NCAA News).

The program, which was developed in a cooperative venture involving the Association's compliance services and legislative services departments and the data processing staff, currently is available only in the MS-DOS (IBM compatible) format, but development of software for Apple computers is scheduled for the future. Future versions of the software also are expected to focus on recruitment, initial eligibility and continuing eligibility.

Further information about the software is available from John P. Hardt, NCAA compliance representative, at the national office (6201 College Boulevard, Overland Park, Kansas 66211-2422; telephone 913/339-1906).

Gibson still participates in tennis, golf and bowling.

She traveled to Cuba in April 1989 to report on Mikhail Gorbachev's visit and to Moscow in May 1988 for the fourth Reagan-Gorbachev summit. In Cuba, she secured the only one-on-one interview with Fidel Castro. She also anchored the morning news broadcast from New Orleans during the Republican National Convention in August 1988.

Pro game compared to college football? No contest

By Dave Newhouse
The Oakland Tribune

The college spirit is so infectious, it's like a giant rash that covers the entire body. The pro spirit amounts to a few warts.

"In college, you could play four quarters on the energy that was in the stands," said San Francisco 49ers' linebacker Matt Millen, a Nittany Lion from Penn State. "I remember one year when Ohio State came to our place. The feeling in the crowd was unbelievable. You fed off it."

And the pros?
"It's more inward. It has to come from within," Millen replied. "Here, people get excited and you say 'Great.'"

Facetiousness was draped all over "great." The pro game is different, a corporate game. There are no fight songs that you instantly know by heart, and no hymns to the alma mater. And pro fans drive to their houses after a game, while college fans walk to their dorms.

But the biggest difference between the two is that the bands that play at pro games are college bands.

Coming from the Big Game (Stanford vs. California) one day to the 49ers-Tampa Bay game the next is like walking out of a disco into a senior-center bingo game.

The biggest home crowd 49ers tackle Bubba Paris, a Wolverine from Michigan, has played before at Candlestick Park is 64,769. The smallest crowd he played before in Ann Arbor was 104,000. The opponent was Northwestern.

"In college, there are more people who can relate to what's happening on the field," Paris said. "They have it in their blood, like the alumni. The excitement after the game, the whole campus came together. You went out to dinner, everyone was there. Everyone rallied around the victory. Whereas in the pros, everyone goes home."

The NFL obviously is a far better game than the NCAA in terms of talent. There are no Joe Montanas and Jerry Rices on our nation's campuses. Well, not yet, anyway.

But you'll never find a scene after a pro game to compare with Berkeley's Memorial Stadium following Saturday's Big Game, when triumphant Stanford fans poured onto the field.

"In college, you look for fans to get excited on every play," said Niners lineman Steve Wallace, a Tiger from Auburn. "Here (in San Francisco), they cheer on the big plays. Here, they get on your back more. It's more of an intense-like spirit."

A number of Niners come from big-time programs — Southern Cal, Notre Dame, Michigan, Oklahoma, Tennessee, etc....

"The college game is less inhibited," said Spencer Tillman, a Sooner from Oklahoma, who must be referring to the pre-Boz era in Norman. "Here, it's part business, part excitement. Fans who pop 25 bucks for a ticket want fun, but they want serious football."

Ninety-six thousand attend every Tennessee home game. On those days, 49ers' linebacker Keith DeLong, a Volunteer from Tennessee, pointed out, "Knoxville is the third largest city in the state." But when the Vols are away, Knoxville is the "fourth or fifth largest," DeLong said.

But the pulse of college football beats the strongest and fastest in South Bend, where the Friday night rallies before a Notre Dame game are as close to religion as the gridiron sport gets.

"In 1977, we lost one game to Ole Miss," said 49ers' safety Dave Waymer, a Fighting Irish from Notre Dame. "They gave the coach a new contract."

Niners wide receiver Mike Wilson, a Cougar from Washington State, comes from small-time college football: There seldom are sellout crowds in Palouse.

Maybe that's why he doesn't see much difference between Pullman and San Francisco.

"Candlestick Park's the most exciting place to play pro football," said Wilson, who hasn't spent enough time in Denver. "The first three games, the fans are there, but it's not do-or-die. But you get into the last six or seven games of the season, there's no comparison (with the college game)."

It's true that Memorial Stadium and Stanford Stadium are not citadels of excitement all season long. The Big Game is their only sellout each year, while the 49ers sell out every home game every year.

Nevertheless, the pure college spirit can't be duplicated, even with 35,000 in the stands.

And what was Bubba Paris singing as he left the 49ers' locker room after yesterday's 31-7 victory? Why, the Michigan fight song: "Hail to the Victors."

What is the 49ers' fight song, anyway?

Boosters involved in every aspect of sports administration

James Frey, faculty member
University of Nevada, Las Vegas
The National Sports Daily

"For the most part, today's boosters are not only involved in fund-raising, but involved in every aspect of sports administration.

"They hire and fire coaches and administrators. They sit on search committees. They pressure presidents, regents and trustees by threatening to withhold funds. They provide salaries, gratuities, and they recruit.

"They are people who move mountains in their own professional worlds, people with political and economic clout. They expect their wills to be obeyed."

Jim Harrick, head men's basketball coach
University of California, Los Angeles
USA Today

"It takes three to five years to really judge a coach, to give him an honest shot."

Linda Bruno, assistant commissioner

"We think this (proposal to reward 'Prop 48' players who have made satisfactory academic progress with another year of eligibility) would uphold the integrity of the partial qualifier/nonqualifier provision while rewarding kids for being successful in school. We're not here to punish kids. We're here to help them.

"There have been a couple of proposals in past years that tried to give another year back to the kids. But none of them had the academic requirements that we put in. We're hoping this might do it."

Derek Dooley, varsity football player
University of Virginia
The Washington Post

"We've found out who the true fans are. Even negative interest is interest. When we were winning, you could really feel the electricity around here. It's less now, but it isn't gone completely. They're talking about us still.

"I grew up at a place where 80,000 people went to the stadium every week, where games were so big that they were almost dehumanizing, where nearly everyone seems to forget that the players were 20 or 22 and that football wasn't their job. At Virginia this year, we had a little taste of some of that.

"When you lose something, and it's something you never had before, you don't always know how to react. That was our problem after (the loss to) Georgia Tech. But our younger guys will learn from it. They'll be a top-20 team from now on, and they'll still be Virginia. I don't think that's ever going to change."

Jim King, representative
Florida Legislature
The National Sports Daily

"For too long, we've just sort of sat back and let the NCAA do their thing (in rules infractions cases).

"But as legislators, we have a responsibility to make sure people are treated properly and that the taxpayers aren't being hurt. If the penalty handed down by an unfair proceeding costs a university millions of dollars, who picks up that slack? The taxpayers.

"If the NCAA sees that an increasing number of us (state legislators) are concerned with this issue, it would behoove them to make some changes.

"No one wants to see the NCAA emasculated. We want them to have rules and to hold universities to those rules. This is a tough issue to take on. Actually, I guess you could say it gives a whole new meaning to the term 'political football.'"

P. J. Carlesimo, head men's basketball coach
Seton Hall University
The Associated Press

"It's just not a good rule (rule awarding two free throws on 10th team foul of a half).

"The only people who thought the games were too long were the media. Teams will still foul to try to catch up because of the 45-second clock. That's the only way to get the ball in the air.

"The rule is unfair to an aggressive defensive team. In the first half of our game against Iona, both teams were shooting the double bonus. I don't even know if that's the name, but that's what we call it, and that penalized us for playing solid man-to-man defense."

James E. Delany, commissioner
Big Ten Conference
Chicago Tribune

"We have a longstanding agreement with the Rose Bowl to promote that game. If you want to try to maximize the value of the game, you don't put Michigan (in the Fiesta Bowl) against Iowa (Rose Bowl representative).

"We do a lot of things that cost us money. We don't have a conference (basketball) tournament, because our presidents aren't for it. That costs us between $3 million and $5 million."

Janet Evans, varsity swimmer
Stanford University
The Atlanta Journal and Constitution

"We're really upset (about NCAA proposal to limit practice time for swimming and other sports). We came to college because we thought we could handle the academic load and the swimming load. I could have taken endorsements after 1988 (Olympic victories) and continued to swim without having to study.

"For this governing body to tell us when we can swim isn't right. This puts our training for the Olympics and international competition in jeopardy."

Tulane University
The Associated Press

"Hopefully, you're seeing a trend where presidents and ADs are more sensitive to the coaches' problems. They realize that with the limitations, with the academic requirements, it takes a while (to build a team).

"Look how long it took Bill McCartney at Colorado, George Welsh at Virginia, Dick MacPherson at Syracuse. Just everywhere.

"They're (coaches) saying, 'Hey, if you want us... to do it right, if you want us not to cut corners and to put the student-athletes first and to put the priority on education, then the tradeoff is, you're going to have to be a little patient.'"

Houston's run-and-shoot offense wins three stats titles

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Houston's run-and-shoot offense changed quarterbacks and head coaches but racked up a second straight triple-championship year in Division I-A, with titles in passing, total offense and scoring. The other offensive title went to Northern Illinois in rushing.

Defensively, the four championships went to four different teams—Washington in rushing, Alabama in pass-efficiency defense, Clemson in total defense and Central Michigan in scoring defense.

Houston's offense did not miss a beat when coach Jack Pardee and Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware moved on to professional football. The offensive mastermind, John Jenkins, became head coach and Ware's backup, David Klingler, took over and produced even better results. The team finished 10-1 vs. 9-2 last year, and Klingler surpassed most of Ware's records.

However, the all-time team I-A records set by the 1989 team were not broken by the 1990 edition. If this seems odd, note that Klingler's backup seldom played, averaging just six yards a game, while Ware's backups averaged 84 yards per game.

This season, Houston averaged 473.9 passing yards, second only to the record 511.3 in 1989, and 586.8 in total offense, second to the historic 624.9 in 1989. Houston has been playing a somewhat different game than other I-A teams the last two seasons. In 1989, Jenkins' team passed on 76.8 percent of its plays; this season, 72.8 percent (national average: 39.7 percent).

Brigham Young's 584.2 yards in total offense in 1983 (when Steve Young was the quarterback) now is No. 3 all time, as is its 448.3 passing average this season, the work of Heisman Trophy winner Ty Detmer.

In scoring, Houston's 46.5 points were a touchdown behind its 53.5 last year—an average exceeded only by Army's dominating Glenn Davis-Doc Blanchard team in wartime 1944.

Northern Illinois averaged 344.6 rushing yards in dethroning Nebraska, which was headed for its third straight crown until shut down by Oklahoma in the Cornhuskers' final game.

Washington's Pacific-10 Conference champions are the rushing-defense champions at 66.8 yards allowed per game, edging Clemson and Miami (Florida). Washington allowed just 1.9 yards per rush.

In defensive pass efficiency, Alabama wins at 82.47 rating points, barely edging Central Michigan and Ball State. Alabama's 4.91 yards per attempt also were first; the Crimson Tide also permitted just five TD passes while intercepting 15.

Clemson is the champion in total defense, permitting only 216.9 rushing-passing yards per game, with Ball State second and Alabama third, followed by Central Michigan, Florida, Louisville and Nebraska.

In scoring defense, Central Michigan's Mid-American Conference winners are the champions at 8.9 points allowed per game, a point better than Clemson, with Ball State, Alabama and Southern Mississippi next.

In the other team categories, Pittsburgh is the winner in net punting (41.2), Michigan in punt-return average (15.6; it had 579 yards on 37 punt returns while permitting just 14 yards on eight returns), Nebraska in kickoff-return average (27.8, nudging Michigan's 27.7) and Washington in turnover margin (2.09 per game, gaining 37 and losing 14), with Tennessee and Florida State next.

Scoring record is 48.8

Scoring hit an all-time high of 48.8 points per game (both teams combined) this season, despite small yardage dips in passing and total offense—both No. 2 in history to last year's record figures.

The previous scoring record was 48.2 last season.

Most of the scoring increase came from an increase in rushing touchdowns, a product of a small increase in rushing yards (335.3 per game vs. 332.8 in 1989). A little scoring also came from an all-time high in TD passes per game (2.42, shading last year's 2.41), even though passing is needed: all bowls played by a current or former major-college or Division I-A team, provided it played an opponent classified as major at the time of the bowl or was classified major itself at the time.

This excludes games in which a home team was determined in preseason as the host, regardless of its record, and/or games scheduled before the season, thus eliminating the old Pineapple, Grape, Glass and Palm Festival games.

Looking at the all-bowls chart, the Pacific-10 Conference is 14 games over .500—most of any conference—after last season's four-bowl sweep. But that means if the result is switched in just seven of its 128 bowl games, it would be at .500.

The Southeastern Conference is 12 games above .500, but if just six conferences are very close to .500. Even the 49 former majors, nonmajors and service teams that played in major bowls are exactly .500.

If the comparison is limited only to the "Big Four"—that is, the traditional four New Year's Day bowls that go back more than a half century—it is even more of a standoff. No single conference, independent group or region is more than seven games above or below the break-even mark. The Pacific-10 Conference leads with 41-34-3 for .539.

In comparing all bowls vs. the Big Four, note that the SWC moves up to within two games of .500 and the SEC falls to a game under, while Eastern independents go from four over to six under. The Big Eight Conference and SWC have better records in the Big Four than in all bowls, and the ACC, Midwest independents, Big Ten Conference and Pac-10 are virtually identical:

Colorado, 10-1-1 and ranked No. 1 in the polls, also played the nation's toughest schedule by a narrow margin over Stanford, according to the final NCAA toughest-schedule rankings.

Colorado's Division I-A opponents won 72, lost 42 and tied three for a .628 winning percentage vs. I-A teams when not playing Colorado. Stanford's I-A foes were 67-39-4 for .627 when not playing yards at 394.3 went down a bit, ranking second in history to last year's stunning 401.8.

Football notes

And a tiny bit came from an 11.2 percent increase in TDs by the defense and special teams. The scoring record came despite a drop in field goals.

Touchdowns from all sources averaged an all-time-high 6.07 per game, breaking the 5.94 a year ago.

Most of the final 1990 numbers are nearly identical to those in the national trends story in The NCAA News of November 27.

Total-offense yards per game ended up at 729.6 yards per game and yards per play at 5.11, both second in history to 734.6 and 5.16 last year. Rushing yards per play hit 3.90—same as last year. Passing yards per attempt reached a final 6.96, second only to last year's record 7.05.

Passing emphasis (percent of plays that were passes) this season is 39.7 percent, down a bit from last year's record 40 percent.

Field-goal accuracy fell to 67 percent—fifth highest ever but a big drop from last year's record 69.2. As a result, field goals made per game fell to 2.16 from last season's 2.26.

A standoff

History shows that bowls prove little about the relative strength of conferences or regions. When the top teams in the Division I-A conferences meet in bowls, things near the break-even level over the long run. A study of all major bowls, starting with the 1902 Rose Bowl, shows that every conference is close to the .500 level.

First, a definition of a major bowl of its 208 bowl games had gone the other way, it would be exactly at .500. Most of the conferences are within a very few games of .500, up or down. Regionally, it is much the same (we are combining the East and South regions because the Atlantic Coast Conference is in both):

ALL MAJOR BOWLS
East/South	W	L	T	Pct.
Eastern Ind. ....	46	42	4	.522
Atlantic Coast ....	49	45	2	.521
Southern Ind. ....	25	38	2	.402
Southeastern ....	105	93	10	.529
Midwest
Big Ten ....	44	48	0	.478
Mid-American ....	10	12	0	.455
Midwest Ind. ....	15	13	0	.536
Big Eight ....	54	58	1	.482
Southwest/Rockies
Southwest Athl. ....	65	78	9	.457
Western Athl. ....	23	27	2	.471
Pacific
Pacific-10 ....	68	54	6	.555
Big West ....	13	9	2	.583
Not currently I-A ....	39	39	8	.500

Remember, we are using current conference and independent lineups (but excluding recent changes, which will not take effect in our records until the teams involved are competing for titles in their new conferences), and this partly is why Southern independents are 15 under and the Southwest Athletic Conference is 12 under. The SWC record includes Texas Tech's 4-13-1 record, most of it coming before it joined the SWC. And the ACC record includes Georgia Tech's 15-8. Tech came to the ACC recently from the Southern independent ranks. Put Tech back there, and the Southern independents' figure would be much better, while the ACC would be under .500 (Georgia Tech also was once in the Southeastern Conference).

The point, though, is that all

Northern Illinois quarterback wins scoring crown

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Juniors like Brigham Young's Ty Detmer, Notre Dame's Raghib Ismail and Houston's David Klingler received much of the attention, but a talented group of 1990 seniors won seven Division I-A statistics championships and shows up high on the all-time career charts.

For instance, the season scoring champion, Stacey Robinson, Northern Illinois senior, set a I-A career per-game record for quarterback rushers at 109.1 yards. Texas A&M's Darren Lewis is the fifth 5,000-plus rusher in I-A history, ending at 5,012 yards.

Houston's Manny Hazard repeated as season receiving champion and set a I-A career record at 10.5 catches per game. San Jose State's Sheldon Canley set a I-A career record in all-purpose yards per game at 205.8. Alabama's Philip Doyle, the season field-goal champion, tied for third in career field goals made at 78.

The other seniors to win titles this season are Oklahoma State's Gerald Hudson in rushing (edging Colorado's Eric Bieniemy to give the Big Eight Conference a one-two national finish), Virginia quarterback Shawn Moore in pass efficiency, Colorado's Dave McCloughan in punt-return average and Bowling Green's Cris Shale in punting average.

Juniors who won titles are Klingler with a record figure in total offense, teammate Jerry Parks in interceptions, San Diego State's Patrick Rowe in receiving yards per game and Tennessee's Dale Carter in kickoff-return average. The only sophomore champion is Stanford's Glyn Milburn in all-purpose running.

Rushing, scoring and all-purpose

Hudson edged Bieniemy by a scant 14 total yards (149.3 to 148 per game) with a 264-yard effort vs. Iowa State in the final game of his career. Lewis was a strong third at 140.9.

The season produced 26 rushers with at least 1,000 yards—16 of them seniors. Scoring champion Robinson, a game-breaker in his team's option offense, led the top 10 in yards per carry at 6.4.

Robinson averaged 10.9 points to win in scoring. His 1,238 rushing yards are sixth highest ever by a quarterback (he holds the record with 1,443 in 1989). All-purpose champion Milburn, a California native who transferred from Oklahoma to Stanford, edged Canley by only nine yards (202 to 201.2 yards per game) with a big season finale vs. archrival California.

In all-purpose yards per play, Notre Dame's Ismail is on top at 13.6, among those with at least 500 rushing yards.

On the career charts, next after Lewis in rushing is Army's Mike Mayweather, tied for 22nd at 4,299 yards.

The only rushing record is Robinson's 104.1 yards-per-game average for quarterbacks, but Houston's Chuck Weatherspoon comes mighty close to one of the oldest records in the book, held by a legend.

That is the 8.26 career yards-per-carry average (minimum 300 carries) by Army's Glenn Davis from 1943 to 1946. Weatherspoon averaged 8.22 for his 395 career rushes. In career all-purpose yards, he reached 16th at 5,715.

In career per-game scoring by nonkickers, Iowa State's Blaise Bryant reached ninth at 9.9 points and Robinson 16th at 9.4—the only quarterback on the per-game list after back-to-back 19-touchdown seasons.

Total offense and passing

Detmer and Klingler do not own all the records in the book—it only seems that way. Moore, who reached 160.7 rating points in winning the pass-efficiency title over Detmer, and San Diego State senior Dan McGwire are high in some career categories.

A complete rundown on the numbers achieved by Detmer, the Heisman Trophy winner, and Klingler, who wiped out the total-yards records set by 1989 Heisman winner Ware, appeared in The NCAA News December 3.

But we need to outline the high points again and make some additional comparisons.

First, both Detmer and Klingler are outstanding athletes who have mastered highly sophisticated offensive systems.

The long-striding Klingler, three inches taller than Detmer at 6-3, is a decent running threat. Detmer, a 28-21 victory. Detmer played with an injured finger on his throwing hand in a loss to Oregon. His worst game was at Hawaii, immediately after celebrating his Heisman victory.

The best in field-goal kicking in Division I-A is Alabama's Philip Doyle

On the career charts, Detmer is on an all-time-record pace in efficiency (160.7), passing yards (with 11,000, he needs only 426) and total offense (10,664, needing only 654). He already has the record in TD passes at 86.

Klingler is sixth in career efficiency at 146.4 with a year to go. McGwire ended up 18th in passing yards at 8,164, and Moore finished 27th in total offense at 7,897. McGwire is sixth on 8.34 yards per pass attempt, where Detmer's 9.76 will break the record if he maintains that average.

Receiving

Hazard averaged 7.8 catches per game in winning his second straight receiving title. Rowe averaged 126.6 in winning the title in receiving punting average is 46.8 yards. In second place in those categories are North Carolina junior Clint Gwaltney at 1.91 field goals and Pittsburgh senior Brian Greenfield at 45.6 yards.

In career field goals, Doyle tied for third with 78, and South Carolina's Collin Mackie ended up 10th at 69. In career points, five kickers rank high. Houston junior Roman Anderson already ranks fourth at 354 with a year to go, while Doyle (339), Oklahoma's R. D. Lasher (320), Mackie (319) and Oklahoma State's Cary Blanchard (314) finished 8-10-11-12, respectively.

Division II leaders

The only double champion in Division II is Ernest Priester, Grand Valley State senior, the scoring champion at 12 points per game and No. 1 in receiving yards per game with 132.5. The champion in receiving catches per game is Kutztown junior Mark Steinmeyer, narrowly (7.82 to 7.80) over Cal State Chico senior Ken Duimstra. Steinmeyer's teammate, quarterback Andy Breault, is the total-offense champion at 288.5 yards per game, and his 3,173 yards are 10th highest in division history.

Indiana (Pennsylvania) junior Tony Aliucci is the passing-efficiency winner at 172 rating points—eighth highest in division history. He edged Winston-Salem State's Mitch Nicholson, whose 167.2 is 13th highest.

Chadron State senior David Jones is the rushing champion at 157 yards per game, Pittsburg State junior Ron West wins in punt-return average at 16.9 yards, Livingston senior Alfred Banks wins in kickoff-return average at 31.1 yards, East Texas State junior Eric Turner in interceptions at 0.91 per game and West Texas State junior Mark Bounds in punting average with 46.3 yards—eighth highest in division annals.

On the career charts, Albert Fann of Cal State Northridge reached second in all-purpose running at 7,034 yards—fifth on the all-divisions list. Central Florida senior receiver Sean Beckton, who spent three seasons in Division II before his school moved to Division I-AA this season, finishes 11th on that list with 200 catches.

North Dakota State senior Chris Simdorn, the Harlon Hill Trophy winner, set a career record in rushing by quarterbacks at 3,313 yards, but Wofford sophomore Shawn Graves already has 2,807 with two years to go. Central Missouri State's Phil Brandt ended up eighth in career field goals at 46.

Valdosta State senior Jack McTyre wins the Division II field-goal title with 1.70 field goals per game followed closely by Mike Estrella of St. Mary's (California) with 1.60.

Sam Mannery of California

David Klingler, Houston junior, was the total-offense champion in Division I-A (Pennsylvania) reached second in both career passing yards (8,680) and total offense (9,125). New Haven's Jay McLucas reached fourth with 257 passing yards per game and Edinboro's Hal Galupi is sixth in pass efficiency at 135.

Division III leaders

There are two season individual records in Division III set by this season's champions—10.3 catches per game by Framingham State sophomore Scott Faessler (his 93 total catches is second), and two field goals per game by Mount Union senior Ken Edelman.

Two other champions rank second in division history—Pomona-Pitzer junior Nate Kirtman in kickoff-return average at 36.8, and the rushing champion, Wittenberg senior Jon Waga, whose 1,836 yards are second. His winning 183.6-yard average is third.

The scoring cochampions, Coc's Ryan Kolpin and Carnegie-Mellon's Scott Barnyak, both seniors, are tied for fourth all-time with 138 points, while their winning 13.8 average is tied for eighth. The 27.5-yard kickoff-return average by champion Melvin Dillard, Ferrum senior, ranks sixth.

Dayton senior Dan Sharley is declared the pass-efficiency champion (at 165.1—ninth highest), because even if he were given another pass attempt (to reach the qualifying minimum of 15 per game) and it was an interception, he still would have the highest figure.

Hofstra junior Rhory Moss is the total-offense champion at 308.3 yards per game—eighth highest. Carroll (Wisconsin) senior Bill Nolan is the punting champion with a 40.1 average. The champion in receiving yards per game—a new category—is Juniata senior Ray Shelley at 114.7.

Four players tied for the interceptions crown at 1.11 per game. They are Merchant Marine's Harold Krebs, Nebraska Wesleyan's Brad Bohn, Sewanee's Frank Greer and Fairleigh Dickinson-Madison's Craig Garritano.

Two Division III career records were set—Edelman with his 52 field goals and Simpson's Joe Blake in pass efficiency at 158.9 points. Wisconsin-Eau Claire's John Clark ended up fifth in total-offense yards (8,838), fourth in passing yards (9,146) and seventh in total-offense yards per game (226.6). In points per game, St. Thomas' (Minnesota) Greg Trettel finished fourth at 8.89 and Clark's teammate, Cary Osborn, 10th (8.25). In total points, Osborn (330) is third, Barnyak (308) eighth and Kolpin (288) 12th.

The only team record is Ferrum's 434.7 in rushing offense.

Football notes

too, is a good scrambler, but a bit better at making a play work by staying on his feet, finding a receiver and waiting until the last second before throwing the ball.

Klingler this season simply was the most prolific passer in history on a per-game basis. He threw more passes (58.5 per game) and completed more (34) for more yards (467.3) and touchdowns (4.9) than any player ever. Take away his record 11 TD passes vs. Division I-AA Eastern Washington and he still has 43 to Detmer's 41. Klingler's 474.6 per-game average in total offense is an all-time record by a wide margin.

On the other hand, Detmer has the edge in all the efficiency or per-play numbers and leads by a big margin on the career chart, having started more games.

This season, Detmer leads in efficiency, 155.9 to 146.8; in yards per attempt, 9.23 to 7.99, and in total offense per play, 7.9 to 7.4.

Detmer's best efficiency year was 1989—11.07 yards per attempt and 17.2 per completion, both records, and a near record in efficiency (175.6).

Against Houston's strongest opponent, Texas, Klingler got his team a quick 7-0 lead after a fumble, but then his offensive line broke down and he grew inaccurate while his team was outscored, 45-3, the next 30 minutes. He finished strongly in a 45-24 loss.

Miami (Florida) was BYU's strongest foe, and Detmer had possibly his best game of the season in yards per game.

In yards per catch among the top 50 receivers in catches per game, Utah's Bryan Rowley edged Colorado's Mike Pritchard, 27.2 to 26.2. In TD catches, Utah State's Tracey Jenkins and Pacific's Daryl Hobbs tied at 14.

Hazard, the record-holder in career catches per game as mentioned, reached sixth in total catches with 220, even though he played just two seasons. Louisiana Tech's Bobby Slaughter (198), Northwestern's Richard Buchanan (197) and BYU's Matt Bellini (196) all made the top 15.

The junior to watch is Virginia's Herman Moore. He is setting a record pace with his career average of 21.96 yards per catch.

All runbacks

McCloughan averaged 16.4 yards in winning the punt-return crown and Carter 29.8 in taking the kickoff-return title. Parks had eight interceptions (a nation-leading 0.73 per game) in getting the ball back for Klingler.

On the career charts, Ismail's five kickoff-return TDs puts him just one behind the record with a season to go. Texas A&M junior Kevin Smith is close to making the list with his 18 interceptions. In punt returns, Washington's Beno Bryant already has three TDs and a 15.3 average with two seasons left.

Punting and field goals

Doyle averaged 2.18 field goals per game in winning the field-goal championship, and Shale's winning

Outland is won by 'Canes Maryland

Russell Maryland, the anchor of Miami's (Florida) defensive line for four years, was named the winner of the Outland Trophy as college football's top interior lineman December 5.

Colorado offensive guard Joe Garten and Clemson offensive tackle Stacy Long were the other finalists in the voting by the Football Writers Association of America.

Maryland, a 6-foot-2, 273-pound tackle from Chicago, had 96 tackles and 10½ quarterback sacks for the Hurricanes this season.

He had 270 tackles and 20½ sacks during his four years at Miami. The Hurricanes had a 43-4 record during that span, including a 9-2 mark this year.

A fifth-year senior, Maryland

chose to remain at Miami rather than turn pro when he was eligible last spring. He is considered to be among the top five prospects for the 1991 National Football League draft.

Maryland said he had no regrets about passing up the NFL for a final year of college play, particularly since receiving the Outland Trophy.

"It's all worth it," he said of remaining in college. "This is what college football is all about."

Maryland will conclude his college career when the Hurricanes play Texas in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

Favor wins Babe Zaharias award

University of Wisconsin, Madison, track star Suzy Favor, who won nine NCAA championships, is the first recipient of the Babe Zaharias Female Athlete of the Year Award.

Favor received the award December 5 in a ceremony at the Beaumont, Texas, Civic Center.

The award pays tribute to Mildred "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias, an Olympic medalist in track and a pro golfer considered by many to be the greatest female athlete of all time.

The award will be presented annually to the nation's outstanding female amateur athlete and is sponsored by the Babe Zaharias Foundation, Inc. The award is meant to be a companion to honors such as the Heisman Trophy and Sullivan awards for top male athletes.

Olympic gymnast Mary Lou Retton spoke at the ceremony, and Favor agreed with her that the award to honor female athletes was long overdue.

"I started hearing about Babe Zaharias from my coach when I was young," said Favor. "It's great to have people like her as an inspiration to young athletes like me."

"We need that, and we need things like this award, especially in women's athletics. As Mary Lou said, 'It's time, it's due, it's overdue.'"

Runners-up for the award were swimmer Leigh Ann Fetter of Texas; track and field star Carlette Guidry of Texas; and track and field star Vicki Huber of Villanova.

Favor set records in the 1990 NCAA outdoor meet in the 1,500-meter and 800-meter races.

"This is such a wonderful honor," she said. "I am so happy to be able to share it with these three. It's not just one who is the champion. It's all four of us. This is such a wonderful way to end my college career."

Dedication held

Wartburg College officials December 8 dedicated the wrestling room in the school's physical education center in memory of the late Richard A. Walker, the school's wrestling coach for 22 years who died earlier this year in a traffic accident.

Wartburg President Robert Vogel and campus pastor Larry Trachte participated in the ceremony.

Bison win fourth football crown in six seasons

North Dakota State exploded for 30 third-quarter points en route to a 51-11 victory over Indiana (Pennsylvania) December 8 at Florence, Alabama, and won its fifth NCAA Division II Football Championship title in the last eight years. It also was the fourth title in the past six years for the Bison.

North Dakota State's one-two punch of quarterback Chris Simdorn and running back Tony Satter proved to be too much for Indiana, which was out to avenge a season-opening 28-18 loss to the Bison.

"Our congratulations go out to North Dakota State," Indiana coach Frank Cignetti said. "They have a very good team. We didn't match up with them very well defensively. We couldn't make the plays when we had to on the line of scrimmage. At the half, I felt good about our chances. I never envisioned what happened would happen."

Leading only 14-11 at the half, North Dakota State got its potent offensive attack clicking in the third quarter and stampeded to the most lopsided championship game victory since Central Michigan defeated Delaware, 54-14, in the 1974 final.

"The offense executed very well throughout the entire day, but especially in the third quarter," North Dakota State coach Rocky Hager said. "At the half, we made some minor adjustments offensively. Chris did a good job of reading the defense and an excellent job of calling audibles at the line of scrimmage."

Simdorn, winner of this year's Harlon Hill Trophy, which is awarded to the outstanding player in Division II, accounted for five touchdowns with two scoring runs and three touchdown passes. Fellow senior Satter ran for 174 yards and capped the third-quarter onslaught with a 66-yard touchdown run in Braly Municipal Stadium at Florence.

The Bison totaled 527 yards in total offense—448 rushing and 179 yards passing—while their defensive unit effectively shut down Indiana's offense.

Indiana's lone touchdown came in the second quarter on a 13-yard pass from Tony Aliucci to Johnny White.

North Dakota State's defense has not allowed a rushing touchdown since the third quarter of its fifth game of the season, against Morningside, a streak that stretches for 37 quarters.

"Our defense did an outstanding job," Hager said. "Our defense kept up its intensity the entire game."

North Dakota State, 14-0, completed the 11th perfect season in its history. The Bison also won the Division II title in 1983, 1985, 1986 and 1988.

Indiana finished the season 12-2.

Overtime win gives Allegheny its first Division III grid title

Allegheny's 21-14 victory over Lycoming in the December 8 Division III Football Championship title game was a first in many ways.

It was Allegheny's first football title and the first time two teams from the same state met in the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl. Although the two Pennsylvania campuses are about 200 miles apart, it was the first time the two teams met on the gridiron. Also, the championship was played in Bradenton, Florida's, Hawkins Stadium for the first time.

And it was the first time in the 18-year history of the Division III playoffs that the championship game was decided by a tie-breaker.

"It (overtime) was pretty wild," said elated first-year Allegheny coach Ken O'Keefe. "I've been on the other end of these before. This is just a great feeling."

"These kids have been the same all year long. They are great people with character who are willing to sacrifice. We were down by 14 at halftime and nothing was going right. To come back the way we did just feels great."

After being dominated by Lycoming in the first half and falling behind 14-0, momentum began to shift to the Gators.

Allegheny started its comeback in the third quarter with a 72-yard, 16-play drive that drained nearly eight minutes off the clock. Quarterback Jeff Filkovski capped the drive with an 11-yard scoring run to pull the Gators within seven points.

Allegheny tied the game with 1:38 remaining in regulation on a seven-yard touchdown pass from Filkovski to a diving Julio Lacayo.

Lycoming had a chance to win the game with one second left, but a 41-yard John Phillips field-goal attempt fell just short.

Lycoming won the tie-breaker coin toss and elected to play defense.

Filkovski found sophomore tight end Kurt Reiser in the tie-breaker's third play for Allegheny's 21st unanswered point. It was the first time Lycoming, 12-1, had trailed all season.

Lycoming's chance to force another overtime was snuffed out by Tony Bifulco's interception on a desperation fourth-down pass.

Allegheny finished the season with a 13-0-1 record.

Championship Results

Five underclassmen named to AP all-America team

Juniors are giants on the 1990 Associated Press all-America college football team.

Heisman Trophy winner Ty Detmer of Brigham Young, runner-up Raghieb "Rocket" Ismail of Notre Dame and three other underclassmen were named to the team December 5.

Detmer set or tied 34 NCAA records this year, including most passing yards in a season (5,188) and touchdown passes in a career (86). He already is second on the career passing-yardage list with 11,000, just 425 behind San Diego State's Todd Santos.

While Detmer drew raves for his passing, Ismail amazed fans and foes with his speed and versatility. The Rocket gained 157 all-purpose yards per game and scored six touchdowns as a runner, receiver and kick returner.

Other juniors on the team include Virginia wide receiver Herman Moore, Auburn offensive guard Ed King and Georgia Tech defensive back Ken Swilling. Everyone else is a senior.

Only four players are repeaters from last year's first unit—Ismail, Colorado offensive guard Joe Garten, Notre Dame defensive lineman Chris Zorich and Michigan defensive back Tripp Welborne. Notre Dame linebacker Michael Stonebreaker, who made the first team in 1988, is back after missing last season because of disciplinary problems.

Rounding out the offense are running backs Eric Bieniemy of Colorado and Darren Lewis of Texas A&M, wide receiver Lawrence Dawsey of Florida State, tight end Chris Smith of BYU, center John Flannery of Syracuse, offensive tackles Antone Davis of Tennessee and Stacy Long of Clemson, and placekicker Philip Doyle of Alabama.

The defense includes Colorado linebacker Alfred Williams, winner of the Butkus Award as the nation's top linebacker, and Miami's (Florida) Russell Maryland, Outland Trophy winner as the best lineman in the country.

Joining Maryland on the defensive line are Florida's Huey Ri-

Raghieb Ismail

Joe Garten

Chris Zorich

Tripp Welborne

chardson and Nebraska's Kenny Walker, the first deaf player to make the AP team. The defense also features Miami (Florida) linebacker Maurice Crum and backs Darryl Lewis of Arizona and Stanley Richardson of Texas. Cris Shale of Bowling Green is the punter.

Top-ranked Colorado and No. 5 Notre Dame each have three players on the team. Fourth-ranked Miami (Florida) and No. 13 BYU are next with two players apiece.

The offense

Bieniemy and Texas A&M's Lewis finished second and third in the nation in rushing. Bieniemy gained 148 yards per game, scored 17 touchdowns and became Colorado's all-time leader in rushing, scoring and all-purpose yards. Lewis averaged 141 yards per game and became only the fifth player in NCAA history to rush for more than 5,000 career yards.

Herman Moore teamed with Virginia quarterback Shawn Moore to form a deadly duo. The receiver caught 54 passes for 1,190 yards and 13 touchdowns, and set an NCAA record with at least one TD reception in nine straight games.

Dawsey had 65 receptions for 999 yards and seven scores, including a 13-catch performance against Miami (Florida), while Smith set a single-season record for receiving yards by a tight end with 1,156.

Syracuse coach Dick MacPherson called Flannery "the most complete lineman we have ever had. He has every tool for greatness—strength, speed, size and intelligence."

Garten anchored the offensive line for the country's sixth-best rushing team. A starter in 30 straight games, he allowed only one quarterback sack and was called for only one penalty this season.

King, an all-Southeastern Conference pick as a sophomore and junior, was a dominant force on Auburn's offensive line. Davis was a major factor in Tennessee's explosive offense, and Long was one of the keys to Clemson's powerful rushing game.

Doyle was the nation's top placekicker, making 24 of 29 field-goal attempts and converting all 25 of his extra-point tries. His three field goals provided the winning margin in Alabama's 16-7 victory over Auburn December 1 and made him the SEC's all-time leader in field goals with 78.

The defense

Maryland and Crum formed the heart of a stingy Miami (Florida) defense that held opponents to 80 rushing yards per game. Crum led the team in tackles for the third straight year, while Maryland had 10½ sacks.

Although Notre Dame had defensive problems this season, they weren't caused by Zorich or Stonebreaker. Despite constant double-teaming, Zorich had 58 tackles, three sacks and one fumble recovery. Stonebreaker led the Irish with 95 tackles, made key fourth-quarter interceptions in close wins over Michigan and Michigan State and had a fumble recovery that helped preserve a victory over Miami (Florida).

Richardson led a Florida unit that was fifth in total defense, while Walker overcame his handicap to become the best lineman in the Big Eight.

Williams is Colorado's all-time sack leader with 35, including 12½ this season. "Alfred causes more problems for opposing teams than any other linebacker in the country," Colorado coach Bill McCartney said.

Swilling was the top defender for the only major unbeaten team. He led Georgia Tech with five interceptions despite missing two games with a severe ankle sprain.

Arizona's Lewis intercepted seven passes, including one he returned 70 yards for the game-winning touchdown against UCLA. He also made a game-saving tackle against Oregon, stopping quarterback Bill Musgrave on the Arizona one-yard line with nine seconds left.

Richard spearheaded one of the nation's best pass defenses at Texas. He had four interceptions and broke up 14 other passes. Welborne missed Michigan's regular-season finale against Ohio State with a knee injury but still finished as the team's second-leading tackler. He also was one of the best punt returners in the country.

Shale led the nation in punting with a 46.7-yard average. Eleven of his 66 punts traveled 60 yards or longer, including a 76-yarder and an 81-yarder.

The players were selected by AP sports editor Darrell Christian, college football writer Rick Warner and regional AP sports writers. The all-America team will be featured December 15 on Bob Hope's annual Christmas show on NBC.

CORRECTIONS

Due to a reporting error, a story on this year's Silver Anniversary Award winners in the November 26 issue of The NCAA News incorrectly stated that only one men's lacrosse player had won the Jack Turnbull Award three times as the nation's best offensive player. There have been two winners—Capt. James C. Lewis of Navy, who will receive a Silver Anniversary Award, and Tim Nelson of Syracuse was honored during the 1980s.

Due to a reporting error, the name of a Division III member institution was misspelled in stories on the Division III Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships that appeared in the November 19 issue of The NCAA News. The school, Binghamton, was represented at the championships by Arthur Gunther, who finished 13th in the men's individual competition, and Kristin Tschinkel, who finished 68th in the women's race.

Like its coach, this team has learned how to win

While the comeback of the Indiana University of Pennsylvania football program over the past few years has been remarkable, the comeback of head football coach Frank Cignetti has been nothing short of miraculous.

A team with a losing record in the mid-1980s, Indiana (Pennsylvania) reached the Division II Football Championship title game December 7 against North Dakota State in Florence, Alabama. It is the fourth consecutive year under Cignetti that Indiana (Pennsylvania) has participated in the play-offs.

Twelve years ago this month, Cignetti, 52, lay near death in a Morgantown, West Virginia, hospital, stricken with a rare disease that mysteriously caused his tissue to break up and spread throughout his body. His doctors didn't know what he had, but they knew it was killing him.

Cignetti had lost weight at the end of a grueling 2-9 season that had West Virginia University fans calling for his firing. Meanwhile, he dropped from 210 pounds to 167. His doctors didn't know how to save him because they didn't know what was destroying him.

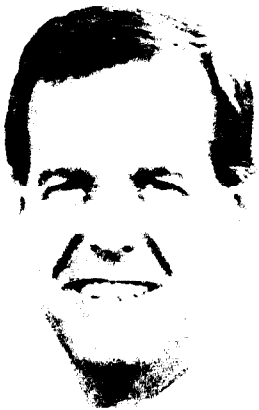

His condition became so bad his wife, Marlene, told their four children he might never get well. West Virginia officials drew up a contingency plan to select his successor.

Shortly after, doctors finally diagnosed Cignetti's disease as a rare form of lymph cancer. Within a year, he started getting well as quickly and as unexpectedly as he had gotten sick. Not only did he live, he returned to coaching that fall.

"I know how close to death I was," Cignetti said. "I was very fortunate," he told Alan Robinson of the Associated Press.

His coaching career ended briefly a year later when he was released after a 5-6 season and a 17-27 four-year record. He remained in Morgantown, close to his doctors, for two years as an assistant AD, then returned to Indiana (Pennsylvania), his alma mater, in 1982 as AD.

When coach George Chaump

left in 1985 for Marshall University, Cignetti decided to hire himself, saying, "The itch was always there to coach again."

So was the itch to win.

Indiana, known locally as IUP, was 3-7 the year before the Cignetti-Chaump team took over, but is 70-20-1 since.

Cignetti has achieved some satisfaction in proving he could coach and win, even if it hasn't been at a big-name power.

Not only does Cignetti win at Indiana, he makes money doing it.

IUP's scholarship fund has been enriched by more than $1 million since Cignetti took over as AD. Nearly every player on the team receives financial aid, and all of the

Passing it on

Art Still, former University of Kentucky all-America defensive lineman and Kansas City Chiefs defensive end, used to go nose-to-nose with some of the game's biggest. Now, he takes on pint-sized powerhouses as a volunteer physical-education teacher each Monday.

Recently, a second-grader didn't want to play soccer by the rules. Whenever the ball came his way, the boy tackled it with both hands and and the mother stayed home with the kids. Nowadays, both parents work, and that relationship with the parents isn't as developed. And you're going to see that in school."

Still moved back to the Kansas City area in May after ending his professional football career in Buffalo. He played 10 years for the Chiefs, so he's used to a tough day at least once a week.

"I figure I can torture myself one day a week," he said.

Teaching a seventh- and eighth-grade class recently, Still had to contend with several children playing rough. They didn't follow his directions and took advantage of his easy, joking manner.

He tries to teach the students that teamwork and following the rules are more important than winning.

"I don't have all the answers. I'm not Mr. Right on everything," he said. "But I try to teach kids to talk out their problems among each other. It's the same thing I was taught when I was young. It's just a matter of respecting a person."

Giving it back

Walter J. and Betty C. Zable of Rancho Santa Fe, California, members of the College of William and Mary classes of 1937 and 1940, respectively, have made a commitment of $10 million to the college's Campaign for the Fourth Century.

Of the total, $5 million will be used to endow scholarships for William and Mary student-athletes. Another $2.5 million will be used to endow graduate student aid, with the remaining $2.5 million earmarked to meet the needs of various university programs. The gift brings the total raised under the $150 million campaign to more than $92 million.

In honor of the Zables' commitment, the college's board of visitors has approved the naming of the football stadium at Cary Field the Walter J. Zable Stadium.

"This is truly one of the most significant gifts in William and Mary's history, and it couldn't have come at a more appropriate time," school President Paul R. Verkuil said.

Zable is chair and president of Cubic Corp. headquartered in San Diego, a diversified electronics company that has been recognized internationally in the field of electronics development.

In 1987, the NCAA acknowledged Zable's contributions to athletics with the Theodore Roosevelt Award, its most prestigious honor.

Upon receiving the award, Zable said, "I have to thank sports immensely for my success. Without sports, I would not have an education; and without an education, God knows what would have happened to my career."

After receiving a bachelor of science degree in physics from William and Mary in 1937, Zable continued graduate work at William and Mary and the University of Florida, receiving his master's degree in physics and mathematics.

While in college, Zable was the Southern Conference low-hurdle champion, an honorable mention all-America football player and first-team all-South Atlantic football player. He went on to play professional football for the Richmond Arrows and the New York Giants.

His sports honors have also included the 1962 Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary All-America team. In 1979, Zable was the first recipient of the Distinguished American Award from the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's San Diego Chapter. The foundation's highest recognition for athletics and humanitarian excellence, the Gold Medal Award, was presented to him in 1980. In 1981, Zable was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

Good sports

starters are on full scholarships.

"I've never doubted myself as a coach, and the success you have makes you feel good about your plans and yourself," Cignetti said.

"There are no secrets and magic men in this business. You have to be able to recruit and develop community and financial support. You must have the support of the administration, a good sports-medicine program, a weight-training program and a quality coaching staff.

Cignetti has attracted the attention of major-college ADs but has never actively sought a return to big-time football yet, he wouldn't automatically rule one out.

"I'm not job hunting," he said. "I'm happy here, and the challenge is here. Some guys throw their hat tried to take it out of play.

He slugged other youngsters who didn't go along with his designs, then started swinging at a teacher who intervened.

Still didn't raise his voice. At 6-foot-7 and 250 pounds, he simply hoisted the boy onto his shoulder and carried him off the field like a log.

"Times have changed since I was growing up," he said. "Man, if I hit the teacher...."

Still teaches once a week at Missouri City, Missouri, Elementary School. He says problems with children he sees there are found nationwide.

"You don't know the circumstances in the home," he said. "When I was growing up, the father worked

Economy in danger unless minorities educated, report says

America's economic future will be jeopardized unless colleges and universities develop strategies to recruit, retain and graduate more minorities, a report by a national task force said December 6.

The Education Commission of the States' task force said an 18-month study of colleges and universities in 10 states found there are too few minorities in higher education and those who do attend college often don't graduate or go on to graduate-level programs.

In comparison, labor statistics show that in less than 10 years, one-third of workers entering the work force will be members of minority groups and that a majority of all new jobs will require postsecondary education.

America's economic future will be "severely jeopardized" until all colleges and universities place the same priority on educating a much higher proportion of minority citizens, said the report, entitled

"Achieving Campus Diversity Policies for Change."

"Indeed, diversity can be a source of America's strength rather than a force that divides," Garrey Carruthers, outgoing governor of New Mexico who is chair of the National Task Force on Minority Achievement in Higher Education, told the Associated Press.

To increase campus diversity, the report said states should set two goals against which to measure their progress. Minority enrollment in higher education should be at least proportional to the minority population in each state. Also, minority graduation rates should be comparable to those of other students, the report said.

The report studied every four-year institution in California, Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

The states represented 42 percent of the nation's 1985 population and enrolled 39 percent of Native American, 42 percent of African American and 72 percent of Hispanic college students. The states showed declines in enrollment for all the groups.

According to the report, colleges must "remove barriers to participation" by recruiting more underrepresented students, providing adequate financial aid, using broadened admissions criteria and scheduling classes at convenient times for employed adults.

Colleges and universities also must help students achieve by making it clear what they expect and taking steps to help students reach academic standards. Institutions should develop partnerships with public schools and work with community colleges to ease the transition from two-year to four-year institutions.

Institutions also must increase the use of mentors and academic advising.

The final step for colleges and universities is to use assessment, learning assistance, better teaching strategies and curricular reform to "change learning environments for all students."

Women's awards banquet January 9

The 14th annual Collegiate Woman Athlete of the Year banquet will be held in Nashville January 9.

The banquet will honor 11 woman collegiate athletes who were voted the top performers in their respective sports during the 1989-90 college year. These athletes are candidates for the Honda-Broderick Cup, awarded annually to the nation's outstanding woman collegiate athlete.

The awards program is sponsored by American Honda Motor Co., Inc.

Track star Vicki Huber of Villanova University received the 1990 award last January in Dallas.

The candidates for the Honda-Broderick Cup are Jill Andrews, gymnastics, University of California, Los Angeles; Jennifer Azzi, basketball, Stanford University; Tara Cross, volleyball, California State University, Long Beach; Janet Evans, swimming, Stanford; Suzy Favor, track and field, University of Wisconsin, Madison; Debbie Graham, tennis, Stanford; Michiko Hattori, golf, University of Texas, Austin; Shannon Higgins, soccer, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; Huber, cross country, Villanova; Lisa Longaker, softball, UCLA; Leslie Lyness, field hockey, North Carolina.

Also honored at the banquet are the athletes of the year representing NCAA Division II and Division III member schools. Crystal Hardy, a basketball player from Delta State University, was the Division II winner, and swimmer Yvonne Grier from Massachusetts Institute of Technology was the top Division III athlete.

The awards program was started in 1976 to recognize outstanding achievements by collegiate women athletes. The 11 winners of the Honda awards were selected by a national vote involving the more than 800 NCAA member schools.

The winner of the Honda-Broderick Cup, also selected by national ballot, not only reflects individual athletics achievements, but also embodies the ideals of team contribution, scholastic endeavor, school and community involvement, and those personal characteristics that are reflected in the philosophy of intercollegiate athletics.

Championships Corner

The championships department has learned that member institutions have received conflicting information about dates for 1991 Division III cross country regionals and the national championships. The correct dates are November 16 for the regionals and November 23 for the championships.

Flynn to get Bailey award for service to athletics

William J. Flynn, director of athletics at Boston College and a former president of the NCAA, has been named 1990 recipient of the Wilford S. Bailey Award, which is given annually by the Touchdown Club of Auburn-Opelika, Alabama. Flynn will receive the award this month at a dinner in Alabama. The award is named in honor of former NCAA President Wilford S. Bailey, for his long and distinguished career of service to intercollegiate athletics.

The award is presented to an individual "who has made a significant and outstanding contribution to intercollegiate athletics within the past year or over a period of years." A committee of athletics administrators, coaches and media members select the honoree.

Colonial Athletic Association Commissioner Thomas E. Yeager announced December 4 that the CAA has established an annual award named in memory of Edward S. Steitz, former secretary-rules editor of the NCAA Men's Basketball Rules Committee, who died last May.

The award will be presented annually to an individual "in recognition of his dedication and contributions to the sport of college basketball and basketball officiating."

CAA coaches and members of the league's basketball officials bureau will select the honoree from nominated candidates.

In addition to receiving a plaque, each recipient's name will appear on a permanent award in the conference office.

Born in Brooklyn, Cohen lived in Israel from age 8 through his high school graduation except for a year in Houston. And from 1983 through 1986, as a member of Israel's armed forces, he served on the front lines in "Operation Peace for Galilee" and in Israel's self-designated "security zone" in southern Lebanon.

"I have been in situations where either I must kill or be killed," Cohen told Rubin. "All you want to do is get out of there, and you do what you must. You do not see if the shots you take hit. It isn't a marksmanship game. It's war, and it's not very pleasant."

Having fought the college basketball wars in the mid-1980s as an undergraduate at what now is known as the University of Texas, Pan American, former student-athlete Harold Anderson has returned Messiah College seniors Teresa Clark and Paula Fritz, leaders of the school's women's basketball team, both hit the 1,000-point career-scoring mark November 25 against Elizabethtown College. Messiah won the thriller, 62-61.

Two hall of fame inductees are Heisman winners

Heisman Trophy winners Earl Campbell and Jim Plunkett were among 11 players and a former coach inducted into the National Football Foundation's College Hall of Fame December 4.

Campbell won the 1977 Heisman as a running back at Texas, while Plunkett captured the 1970 award as quarterback at Stanford.

Others inducted into the hall of fame at the foundation's annual awards dinner were Miami (Florida) fullback Don Bosseler, Northwestern halfback Ron Burton, William and Mary fullback Jack Cloud, Penn State linebacker Jack Ham, Purdue halfback Leroy Keyes, Alabama center Vaughn Mancha, Duke guard Mike McGee, Washington guard Max Starcevich, and Indiana center John Tavener.

Ray Graves, who coached Florida from 1960 to 1969, was inducted into the hall in the coach's category.

The foundation also honored its 11 scholar-athletes. Each qualified for a $10,000 graduate fellowship.

The winners are John Lavalette of Holy Cross, Greg Frey of Ohio State, Kevin Donnalley of North Carolina, Solomon Graves of Louisiana State, Chris Howard of Air Force, Kent Keifer of Missouri, Craig Mahoney of Iowa State, Pat Tyrance of Nebraska, Lance Pavlas of Texas A&M, Bill Musgrave of Oregon, and Curtis Lovelace of Illinois.

earned career coaching victory No. 400 November 30 when his team defeated the University of Wisconsin, Stout, 102-82. With that triumph, McCarrell's mark at Mankato State climbed to 105-72 in seven seasons. He was 295-160 in 17 seasons at North Park College, where his teams won Division III titles in 1978, 1979 and 1980.

DePaul's men's basketball team defeated Hartford November 24, 84-73, in contest that saw the Blue Demons break the two-million attendance mark for games played at the Rosemont Horizon. The Hartford game crowd of 7,986 boosted DePaul's all-time attendance in 165 Horizon games to 2,001,429.

Colby-Sawyer student-athletes turned the school's December 6 men's and women's basketball double header against New England College into a fund-raiser for a local chapter of Habitat for Humanity, a nonprofit organization that builds and renovates housing for low-income families.

Players rounded up sponsors to contribute on a per-point basis, so every hoop meant more money to help the homeless. The idea was conceived by Debi Field McGrath, Colby-Sawyer athletics director.

"I have long been looking for a way for our students to become involved in a meaningful outreach project," she said. "Habitat for Humanity is a wonderful example of such a project. My hope is that our students will realize the value of this experience long past their days here, and that it will influence their future lives."

In response to an item in the November 26, 1990, issue of The NCAA News regarding the success of Mary Washington College's fall sports teams, Cortland State University College sports information director Pete Koryzno says that five of his school's eight fall teams earned NCAA postseason bids after six of eight participated in 1989 postseason competition.

Most notable, Koryzno said, is the women's cross country team, which became the first to win consecutive Division III team titles.

Also in the November 26 issue of The NCAA News, it was noted that men's basketball teams from the University of Texas, Pan American, have faced off against opponents hailing from 38 states. It was wondered if any other team could boast of such geographical variety.

Oklahoma State University can, according to Mike Strauss, associate sports information director. His research of Cowboy men's basketball reveals that Oklahoma State teams have faced opponents from 43 states and the District of Columbia. For ease of reference, Strauss listed the states not represented on the Cowboy opponent map: Alaska, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Earlier notice sought for NCAA research grants

The NCAA Research Committee has recommended changes in the procedure for reviewing investigator-initiated proposals that would enable researchers to learn if projects have been funded at least two months before the start of the academic year.

The committee made the recommendation at its November 29-30 meeting in Overland Park, Kansas. It is subject to Executive Committee approval.

Under the current timetable, the Executive Committee approves projects and funding levels at its August meeting. As a result, researchers often do not learn that a proposal has been approved until after the school year has begun.

The early part of the academic year is critical for projects that are based on year-long data or that require data-collection during early practices in fall sports. Researchers also need to make staffing decisions as early as possible.

"Researchers have had to wait until the next academic year to start their project or begin it before they know whether funding has been approved," said Todd A. Petr, NCAA assistant director of research. "The committee felt that it was important for researchers to have the summer before the school year to either set up or begin their project."

The proposed changes in the review procedure call for researchers to be notified of the status of their proposal by June 1. In addition, the Research Committee is suggesting changes in the budgeting of funds for investigator-initiated proposals. Under the recommended procedure:

- The Executive Committee would approve a research budget every August.

- The Research Committee would accept proposals until the following January.

- Review panels would examine the proposals and recommend those with merit to the Research Committee.

- The Research Committee would recommend proposals and funding levels at its spring meeting in February or March.

- The Executive Committee would issue final approval at its May meeting.

Currently, the Executive Committee approves research proposals individually without setting an annual budget limit. The Research Committee is asking for a budget figure to help determine how many proposals to recommend for funding.

If approved, the new procedure would begin in August 1991 and the next proposal deadline would be in January 1992.

The committee recommends the establishment of review panels to examine proposals in each of three areas of research: governance, academics and sports medicine. The three-to-four-person panels would consist of members of the Research Committee and the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. Panel assignments would be determined by the chair of the Research Committee.

In other action, the committee voted to alter its stance on considering proposals for basic research. The committee previously did not accept proposals for basic research, the purpose of which is to gather general data that can be applied in studies of more specific topics. The new guideline is that any proposal approaching a basic nature must show a practical use to the NCAA membership.

The committee also heard a presentation from John R. Nesselrode of Pennsylvania State University. Nesselrode, an expert in longitudinal research, explained how he would conduct a study of the effects of athletics participation on students during and after enrollment.

He proposed using a combination of data collected by the American Institutes of Research for the 1987-88 National Study of Intercollegiate Athletes, data from the NCAA Study of the Academic Performance of Student-Athletes and new data gathered specifically for the longitudinal study. The committee invited him to present a specific proposal at its meeting next July.

John J. McArdle of the University of Virginia, a consultant to the NCAA on the academic-performance study, reported on the progress of that research. The committee will issue a preliminary report on the effects of Bylaw 14.3 to the Academic Requirements Committee before its spring meeting. The Academic Requirements Committee will formulate an improved initial-eligibility requirement for consideration by the NCAA Council in April.

play Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl.

Williams edged Illinois' Darrick Brownlow for the award. Both players received six first-place votes, but Williams topped Brownlow, 31-28, in points in voting by a panel of sports journalists and football experts.

Players receive three points for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third.

Notre Dame's Michael Stonebreaker finished third, followed by Miami's (Florida) Maurice Crum and Clemson's Levon Kirkland. Stonebreaker received one first-place vote and 12 points, while Crum got five points and Kirkland two.
