Six selected as '92 Silver Anniversary honorees

Four football players join basketball, track standouts as award recipients

Success on the playing field, outstanding performance in business or law, and a willingness to improve the communities and the nation in which they live are the common threads that bind the six 1992 NCAA Silver Anniversary Award winners.

NCAA Silver Anniversary Awards recognize former student-athletes who have distinguished themselves since completing their college athletics careers 25 years ago.

This year's honorees are Robert Malcolm "Mal" Graham, basketball; Robert A. Griese, football; Floyd D. Little, football; James R. Lynch, football; Alan Page, football, and Ricardo Urbina, track and field/cross country.

These individuals and six of today's top student-athletes will be honored as this year's College Athletics Top XII. The group will be recognized January 8 at the Association honors dinner during the NCAA Convention in Anaheim, California.

Here are biographical sketches of the six award winners:

Robert Malcolm "Mal" Graham

A third-team all-America in basketball who finished third in the nation in scoring with an average of 28.7 points per game in 1966-67 as a New York University senior, Graham was named all-conference and the university's most outstanding athlete as both a junior and a senior. A 1982 inductee to his alma mater's hall of fame, he also was a member of the 1967 United States gold-medal-winning World University Games team.

After college, he was a first-round draft choice of the Boston Celtics, where he was part of two National Basketball Association championships.

An associate justice on the Massachusetts Superior Court since 1986, Graham served as associate justice for the Roxbury District Court from 1982 until attaining his current position. Prior to becoming a judge, Graham worked as a practicing attorney from 1974 to 1982.

Graham is the president of the Massachusetts Black Judges Conference and established the conference's book award for deserving minority law students from each of the state's seven accredited law schools. He serves on the board of directors for Project Commitment, a program in which a judge adopts a middle school with which he works throughout the year.

Graham also is a member of the American Arbitration Association, the Superior Court personnel committee, the District Court stress-

Don't count Arliss L. Roaden among those who believe the term "student-athlete" is an oxymoron.

Roaden, executive director of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission and a former NCAA Division I vice-president, says the two roles can work together.

"The role of (higher education) is teaching and learning and scholarship," he said. "By no means is that counter to having a strong competitive intercollegiate athletics program. It is just saying that the intercollegiate athletics program has among its student-athletes athletes who are, in fact, students."

Proposal would permit learning value as pro

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of seven articles discussing the legislation facing the delegates to the NCAA Convention in January. This article covers the proposals in the eligibility grouping and those dealing with academic requirements that are not included in the Presidents Commission Grouping.)

A proposed liberalization of the Association's amateurism rules to permit a student-athlete to determine his or her market value for professional athletics stands out among the proposals in the eligibility grouping for the January 7-10 Convention in Anaheim, California.

For the past two years, Executive Director Richard D. Schultz has urged that consideration be given to some means by which an individual could test the waters as a prospective professional athlete without necessarily losing future collegiate eligibility.

Now, the Professional Sports Liaison Committee has developed, and the NCAA Council is sponsoring,

Certification

Participants in a hearing conducted November 18 by the NCAA Council Subcommittee on Certification told the group that there is a need to identify the program's goals and purposes more clearly. Much of the discussion focused on whether the program should emphasize institutional self-study or be more evaluative in nature. Representatives of 23 institutions, conferences and affiliated organizations attended the hearing in Dallas, Texas. A story on the session appears on page 3.

Budget review planned by Executive Committee

Financial matters will occupy much of the NCAA Executive Committee's December 9 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

As it does annually during the December meeting, the Executive Committee will review a comparison of the Association's 1990-91 budget to actual revenues and expenditures. August 31 marked completion of the NCAA fiscal year.

Because the Executive Committee's charge includes oversight of championships, the group will look separately at that portion of the 1990-91 budget dealing with revenue and expenses related directly to last year's championships.

Among the general and special committee reports to be presented to the Executive Committee at this meeting is that generated by the NCAA Presidents Commission Subcommittee to Review Revenue-Distribution Principles. Received by the Commission during its October 1-2 meeting in Kansas City, the full text of the report was published in the October 14, 1991, issue of The NCAA News.

Legislation, too

Proposed legislation for the Association's 1992 Convention also will be a target of Executive Committee scrutiny at this meeting. Proposals related to NCAA championships or the Association's financial affairs are reviewed annually by the committee in advance of the Convention.

Non-NCAA legislation also is on the agenda, as the Executive Committee will receive a report on Federal and state legislation that could affect or is affecting the Association's ability to conduct the business

Bowl game, gymnastics also on agenda

Although recommendations and requests from several governing sports committees will be reviewed and acted upon December 9 by the NCAA Executive Committee, two agenda items appear to stand out.

Bowl talk

Representatives of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, the Southwestern Athletic Conference and the Heritage Bowl will appear December 8 before the Division I Championships Committee.

It is expected that their presentation will deal with 1992 Convention Proposal No. 86, which deals specifically with this Division I-AA postseason contest. Sponsored by the NCAA Council at the Executive Committee's request, No. 86 — if adopted by the membership — will mandate that the Heritage Bowl be played no earlier than one week after the conclusion of the NCAA Division I-AA Football Championship.

This year, the game is set for December 21 — the day of the Division 1991 Division I-AA final. The Executive Committee requested Council sponsorship of this proposal to ensure that the bowl in no way conflicts with the Division I-AA playoffs, which is consistent with the intent of the Division I-AA membership when it voted to establish the Heritage Bowl.

Gymnastics change

Proposed qualification and seeding changes for the National Collegiate Women's Gymnastics Championships also are on the Executive Committee agenda. During its August meeting, the group deferred until this meeting a recommendation that qualification and seeding for the championships be based solely on the results of regional competition.

Currently, a combination of regular-season and regional scores is used.

In deferring action on the recommendation until December, the Executive Committee requested that the NCAA Women's Gymnastics Committee prepare for this meeting a report on how the recommended qualifying and seeding procedures would have affected the championships over the past few years.

Current procedures will be used for the 1992 championships, regardless of Executive Committee action on the proposed changes.

of the membership.

Championships issues also will receive attention (see accompanying story).

Highlights of the meeting will be published in the December 18 issue of the News, and full minutes of the meeting will appear as soon as they are available.

Centennial

Committee Notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill interim vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancy must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA office no later than December 9, 1991.

Baseball Rules: Replacement for Frank Joranko, Albion College, no longer an administrator, as it is defined by NCAA regulations. Appointee must be a Division III administrator as defined in Bylaw 21.4.1.2.

COMMITTEE CHANGES

The following changes should be made in the 1991-92 NCAA Directory. Appointments are effective immediately unless otherwise noted.

Council-appointed committees

Student-Athlete Advisory: George Montgomery, Arizona State University, appointed to replace John M. Jackson as a Division I, Region 4 representative.

Sports committees

Men's and Women's Swimming: Susan Petersen-Lubow, U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, appointed to replace Dale Neuburger as secretary-rules editor.

NCAA Bylaw 16.8.1.4.1—travel to NCAA championships and special events during vacation period

The following guidelines (issued by the NCAA Interpretations Committee November 30, 1989) are applicable to travel to NCAA championships and special events (e.g., certified football bowl games and holiday basketball tournaments) conducted during a vacation period.

1. If a member institution provides round-trip team transportation for such an event (from campus to the event site and back to campus) and the student-athlete utilizes both "legs" of the transportation, the student-athlete who utilizes such team transportation (from campus to the event site and back to campus) and also travels home during the vacation period must pay for his or her transportation costs to travel home and back to campus. [Note: The only exception to this principle would be a situation in which a student-athlete previously has paid round-trip transportation costs to travel home during the vacation period. Under these circumstances, the institution may provide the actual round-trip transportation expenses for the student-athlete to travel between the campus and the student-athlete's home on a second occasion during the same vacation period, since the only reason the student-athlete incurred these expenses (for the second trip home) was due to participation in the special event.]

2. If a student-athlete travels directly to the event site from home or directly to home from the event site following completion of the event, the provisions of Bylaw 16.8.1.4.1 would be applicable. In such a case, the institution has the discretion of providing the student-athlete a travel allowance equal to the greater of the transportation costs for the student-athlete to travel from: (a) campus to the event site and back to campus; (b) campus to the student-athlete's home and back to campus, or (c) the student-athlete's home to the event site and back home. It should be emphasized that this is a formula designed to determine the permissible amount of travel allowance the institution may provide, and the formula is not based on the student-athlete's particular arrangements to travel home and is not intended to match (dollar for dollar) the actual cost incurred by the student-athlete in traveling home.

An institution that provides one "leg" of actual team transportation to the student-athlete (i.e., campus to the event site or the event site to campus) must deduct the value of the actual transportation cost for that transportation leg from the allowance provided the student-athlete under Bylaw 16.8.1.4.1-(a), (b) or (c).

A member institution utilizing Bylaw 16.8.1.4.1-(a) must calculate the value of the transportation cost based on the actual mode of transportation the institution utilizes to travel to and from the event. A member institution that utilizes Bylaw 16.8.1.4.1-(b) or 16.8.1.4.1-(c) shall determine the transportation costs by utilizing the regular airline coach fare from the campus to the student-athlete's home and back to campus, or the student-athlete's home to the event site and back home.

Finally, a member institution sponsoring or competing in a special event or NCAA championship in its home community during a vacation period would not be permitted to provide the additional personal transportation allowance associated with Bylaw 16.8.1.4.1 to its student-athletes. [Note: The only exception to this principle would be a situation in which a student-athlete previously has paid round-trip transportation costs to travel home during the vacation period. Under these circumstances, the institution may provide the actual round-trip transportation expenses for the student-athlete to travel between the campus and the student-athlete's home on a second occasion during the same vacation period, since the only reason the student-athlete incurred these expenses (for the second trip home) was because of participation in the special event.]

Please note that this interpretation is related to travel to NCAA championships and special events and would not be applicable to travel to regular-season contests (other than special events) conducted during a vacation period.

NCAA Bylaw 13.4.1.1—recruiting materials—greeting cards

Divisions I and II member institutions should note that in accordance with Bylaw 13.4.1.1 it is not permissible to send specialized cards to a prospect or the prospect's coach. The Interpretations Committee, during its January 31, 1991, conference, confirmed that an institution may not provide greeting cards (e.g., birthday cards, holiday cards) to a prospect (or the prospect's coach). A member institution is restricted to providing to a prospect (or the prospect's coach) only postcards issued by the U.S. Postal Service (i.e., blank cards) or institutional note cards that conform to the restrictions governing institutional stationery (e.g., in Division I, one color of print, single university logo).

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to Nancy L. Mitchell, assistant executive director for legislative services, at the NCAA national office.

Clearer goals, purposes urged for certification

Participants at a hearing on a proposed athletics certification program focused on the need to identify the program's goals and purposes more clearly.

The NCAA Council Subcommittee on Certification conducted the hearings November 18 in Dallas, Texas. Presentations were made by representatives from 23 institutions, conferences or affiliated organizations. Representatives from the Knight Foundation Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics and the NCAA Committee on Review and Planning also attended but did not make presentations.

"It was a very worthwhile day's session for the subcommittee," said John H. Leavens, NCAA assistant executive director for compliance services. "It helped the subcommittee focus on the membership's specific concerns regarding the certification concept."

Britton Banowsky, assistant commissioner of the Southwest Athletic Conference, raised a key point when he asked if the NCAA intended certification as a means for the institution to study what it sees in a mirror or for the institution to report outside through a window. A discussion followed on whether the program should lean more toward institutional self-study or whether it

The Very Rev. Brian J. O'Connell, president of Niagara University, was among the representatives of NCAA member institutions who testified at the November 18 hearing on certification should be more of an external evaluation.

Comments about the program were solicited from the membership in October (The NCAA News, October 14), and Leavens said approximately 50 NCAA institutions, conferences and organizations sent in observations about the program.

At the hearing, Leavens said discussion centered on seven primary areas:

- Administrative burden should be kept to a minimum. Concern was raised about keeping the program manageable enough so it doesn't contribute to a bureaucracy. The program's cost, undetermined at this time, also drew attention.

- Major decisions on certification should come from the membership rather than the NCAA staff.

- Peer review should play a role, although those participating did not seem to form a consensus on the extent of that role.

- Conferences should be involved in the process, perhaps as a bridge between the certifying teams and the institutions.

- The number of questions involved in the certification process itself should be streamlined. Self-study materials in the pilot certification program address seven topics and contain 200-plus questions.

• Affiliated organizations such as the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and NACDA's Division I-A Directors Association urged institutional administrators' involvement in the program's development and implementation.

The subcommittee has been mandated by a resolution at the 1991 Convention to have a certification proposal prepared for the 1993 Convention, but some of the participants at the hearing questioned if a suitable package can be formulated in that amount of time. The consequences of rushing the program would outweigh the benefits of implementing it quickly, they said.

The program also ranks among the Presidents Commission's top priorities, as stated in the report of its Subcommittee on Strategic Planning (The NCAA News, October 14).

The consequences of failing to meet certification standards, as well as their identification, also were discussed, although no consensus was reached, Leavens said.

Leavens said the subcommittee next will draft a report for the 1992 Convention and then will prepare a specific proposal for the Council to review at its April meeting.

Hall of fame sponsors poll

United Press International has announced that it will join with the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in carrying on UPI's four-decade tradition of providing weekly rankings of the nation's top college basketball teams.

The UPI Hall of Fame top-25 Division I rankings will be released for the first time December 2 and will continue through the final week of the regular season in March.

"We believe our new association with the Basketball Hall of Fame means this season's poll will be the strongest and most representative ranking of the best teams in college basketball," UPI Sports Editor Fred McMane said.

The rankings panel will be made up of 20 experts selected from hall of fame inductees and other prominent figures in college basketball. UPI previously compiled its basketball rankings by tallying votes only from coaches of competing teams.

Most high-schoolers drink alcohol

A Federal survey shows that 88 percent of the nation's high-school students have used alcohol, nearly a third have tried marijuana and more than six percent have used cocaine.

The survey results, reported November 14 by the Centers for Disease Control, indicated that 37 percent of students were heavy drinkers, having consumed five or more drinks of alcohol on at least one occasion during the 30 days preceding the study.

Male high-school students were "significantly more likely" than females to have used alcohol, marijuana and cocaine, according to the study, which also showed that use of the drugs increases substantially with age.

"For example, among students in grades nine through 12, more than one-third had first consumed alcohol before age 12 and 92 percent had

Questions/Answers

Readers are invited to submit questions to this column. Please direct any inquiries to The NCAA News at the NCAA national office.

Q What constitutes a quorum for the conduct of business at an NCAA Convention?

A One hundred active members and member conferences represented as prescribed in the constitution shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the Association's business. For purposes of voting by membership divisions, 40 members of each division shall constitute a quorum.

News Fact File

Since 1968, a total of 86 four-year colleges (NCAA members and nonmembers) have dropped football from their varsity athletics programs. But during that same period, 139 four-year colleges have added football. Two programs that began during that period are now in Division I-A: University of Nevada, Las Vegas (1968), and California State University, Fullerton (1970).

High-school alcohol/drug use

High-school students responding to a nationwide survey by the Centers for Disease Control were asked whether they ever had consumed alcohol, marijuana or cocaine at any time during their lives or during the 30 days prior to the survey. The percentages answering yes:

	Lifetime	Past 30 Days
Alcohol	88.1	58.6
Marijuana	31.4	13.9
Cocaine	6.6	2.1

consumed alcohol for the first time before age 18," the report said.

The CDC, in presenting the data, said the use of alcohol and other drugs is associated with the leading causes of death and injury—motor-vehicle crashes, homicides and suicides—among teenagers and young adults. It said that "nearly half of all deaths from motor-vehicle crashes in this age group involve alcohol use."

The 1990 youth risk-behavior survey sampled 11,631 students in grades nine through 12 in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Mona W. Brown, press officer with the National Institute on Drug Abuse, told United Press International that despite the survey results, drug and alcohol use apparently is decreasing by a "significant" margin among high-school students.

Senate panel reports antigambling legislation

The Senate Judiciary Committee has favorably reported the Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act (S.474), which would prohibit the expansion of state-sponsored or state-authorized gambling schemes involving the outcome of sports events. The NCAA, together with the professional leagues, has strongly supported passage of this bill. It currently enjoys 56 cosponsors in the Senate.

Last month, the House passed omnibus crime legislation containing a similar prohibition on new sports-betting devices. The House version, however, contains a "window" for New Jersey to authorize casino-style betting on sports events—a provision opposed by the NCAA and the professional leagues.

It is expected that differences in the Senate and House versions will be resolved in a conference on the omnibus crime bills that have been passed by each body. That conference may occur as early as this week, before the year-end Congressional recess. NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz has contacted each of the conferees, urging adoption of the terms of S.474 and rejection of the New Jersey "window." Senator Bill Bradley (D-New Jersey) is an original sponsor and active supporter of the Senate version.

The quest for excellence makes sports special

(Editor's note: Dave Kindred, columnist for The Sporting News, earlier this year was named recipient of the Red Smith Award for sportswriting excellence. Following are excerpts from his acceptance speech.)

Larry Bird's mother raised six children as a $2-an-hour short-order cook in French Lick, Indiana. His father had been something of a hotshot kid basketball player until he quit school after the eighth grade. Between drinks, Bird's father was said to be the best piano tuner in French Lick. He killed himself a year after the divorce. The boy, Larry Bird, was 17.

He went from his little nowhere town to the big state school, Indiana University at Bloomington. But he left after a month. He'd looked into his roommate's closet and seen all the new clothes he could never have. After making his millions with the Boston Celtics, he took to calling himself "the hick from French Lick."

There'd been a time at 17 when he'd never thought much about life after high school. He guessed he would work construction, pour concrete, something. All he cared about was basketball. Still, he would say, "I went to class and did my homework," because he believed it would catch up to you if you didn't do your work.

He once said, "The guy who won't do his schoolwork misses the free throw at the end. In high school," he said, "we used to shoot fouls at 6:30 in the morning before class, but one of my best friends never showed up. In the regional finals our senior year, he missed three one-and-ones in a row, and we lost in overtime. I never said nothing to him. I just looked at him and he knew."

For Larry Bird, the game is no metaphor. It is real. It is joy. It is Pete Rose explaining his rough-cut face by saying, "You'd look this way, too, if you'd slid head-first for 20 years." It is Al Campanis, a Dodger scout at the time, saying he'd seen a great young pitcher named Sandy Koufax and Campanis said, "When I stood at the plate against Koufax and saw that fastball coming, the hairs stood up on my arms. The only other time that happened was when I saw the Sistine (Chapel) ceiling."

The novelist W. P. Kinsella wrote, "Within the baselines, anything can happen. Tides can reverse, oceans can open. That's why they say, 'The game is never over until the last man is out.' Colors can change, lives can alter, anything is possible in this gentle, flawless, loving game."

And we are connected to the games. We're connected in ways we seldom acknowledge and may never understand. We may get no further as a player than sandlot games. We may race our fathers one day and discover we're not all we hoped to be. But when we go to the ballpark, the place of our dreams, we feel a connection to the game. We vibrate in tune to the game's eternal rhythms. It all feels right, as few things in life feel all right....

Sports touches real people in real ways. The theologian and writer Michael Novak wrote, "Most of what Americans know about the humanistic traditions—about excellence in act, about discipline, about community, about unity of body and will and spirit—they learn firsthand from their experiences in sport."

One of today's best sportswriters is Tom Callahan. He knew Red Smith better than I did, and he learned from the great man. Tom says of sports, "There's something there that buoys people. If you write about sports long enough, you're constantly coming back to the point that something buoys people, something makes you feel better for having been there. Something is hallowed here. I think that something is excellence."

It's Ted Williams at bat. It's Vince Lombardi and Bob Knight creating teams of simple purity. It's Larry Bird inventing a wonder when a wonder is the only answer. It's Walter Payton running, Muhammad Ali floating like a butterfly. It's ordinary people doing extraordinary things. We see these things done by men, the Sistine ceiling painted by a man, and we know at these moments that we are part of something greater than ourselves.

Consortium's program benefits all

By Richard E. Lapchick

In the past year, membership in the National Consortium for Academics and Sports increased from 49 to 79, showing a remarkable 62 percent growth. These member institutions have helped raise national graduation rates at a time when so much attention is being paid to these statistics.

One requirement for consortium membership is that institutions bring back, at university expense, any athlete who did not graduate while attending on scholarship in a revenue sport in the previous decade. The NCAA approves this because the returning athletes participate in an outreach program aimed at helping the future generation strike a balance in life.

To date, 2,238 former college athletes who did not make the pros have received tuition assistance through consortium institutions after their eligibility expired. This represents a 79 percent increase over the previous seven years combined. Also, 919 current professional athletes have joined the pro degree-completion program, along with 71 Olympic athletes.

In other words, 3,328 athletes who may not have thought of getting a second chance at an education have received one. More impressively, 1,266 former athletes have graduated, primarily in the past three years.

The 79 member institutions of the consortium have broken the stereotype that schools do not care whether their student-athletes get an education. They have paid the tuition for the 2,238 returning college athletes without any kind of athletics return. The outlay of $22 million in tuition fees proves they were vitally interested in the education of their student-athletes.

In many cases, schools are paying tuition for former athletes who are in their sixth years and beyond. These students will not appear in their institutions' five-year statistics as reported to the NCAA.

The 3,328 student-athletes returning to school through the consortium have worked with more than 811,000 high-school and middle-school students in outreach programs, counseling young people about academic balance, drug and alcohol abuse, teenage pregnancy and race relations. Lou Harris' 1990 Survey of Youth Attitudes showed that young people want to hear socially relevant messages from athletes more than any group.

While outreach programs of the National Consortium for Academics and Sports vary tremendously in size and type, all have one objective: to help young people make choices that will enable them to develop their full human potential.

The 26 former athletes who returned in Texas A&M University's degree-completion program worked 10 hours a week all year with 180 students in the Oakwood Middle School. Other Texas A&M athletes Commonwealth athletes regularly counseled nine small groups.

Nearly 20 percent of all the University of Georgia's student-athletes were involved in monthly outreach sessions in Athens and Atlanta. Working with 2,500 students, Georgia student-athletes provided counseling on education and drug and alcohol abuse.

National Student-Athlete Day (NSAD) was celebrated in 1991 for the fourth year at consortium member institutions in all 50 states. A record 600 events commemorated NSAD. In 1992, the NCAA Foundation will be cosponsoring NSAD.

Project Teamwork, launched in October 1990, affected more than 32,000 Boston-area students in its first year. It was set in motion with the publication of a major Lou Harris survey, conducted for the Center for the Study of Sport in Society and the Reebok Foundation, that documented both the depths of racist roots in our young people and the faith they have in athletes as role models to bring about change. The center also has initiated College Teamwork, through which diversity training was provided for male student-athletes at the University of Texas at Austin and for the entire staff of the athletics department at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Based on the success of the programs at Texas and Maryland, the center is committed to launching a full-scale version of College Teamwork in 1991-92. It is clear that student-athletes and athletics department staff are important role models on our campuses. At a time when racial conflict across those campuses is so widespread, the center believes that given a heightened level of sensitivity, those students and administrators representing our athletics departments can have a tremendous impact on the campus as a whole.

worked three hours each day in a latchkey program for 50 students from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m., providing tutoring assistance and teaching sports skills.

The University of Central Florida used its own athletes, plus Tony Bernavard of the Detroit Tigers, to reach more than 15,000 Orlando-area students in a stay-in-school program.

Lionel Bacon, former Virginia Commonwealth University basketball player, headed Virginia Commonwealth's outreach program, which reached 26,000 greater-Richmond students. In addition to assembly-style programs, Virginia

"I've seen this thing really snowball. If a network has a game Saturday and they promote that game through the week and you're playing a game not on TV, you're obviously not going to get the hype. And it's going to hurt you in the ratings."

"So I guess I'm leaning more toward a playoff because that would be the fairest way to settle it."

"The NCAA says its reforms would mean open hearings and independent officers to conduct them. The officers retired judges would listen to all evidence, determine the facts and report to the NCAA infractions committee."

"The goal is to be fairer, faster and more open. The bigger goal is to head off would-be reformers in Federal and state governments. The politicians' ability to smell votes in battling the big, bad NCAA is surpassed only by the unworkability of their reforms."

NCAA explains itself in new TV football spots

The NCAA is taking advantage of an opportunity to show sports fans what the organization is and how it works, all thanks to a recent agreement in which the Association gave up its share of rights fees from televised regular-season football games in a trade for TV time.

Earlier this year, the College Football Association and the Big Ten and Pacific-10 Conferences struck a deal with the Association in which the NCAA gave up its four percent share of rights fees collected by member institutions for national football telecasts in return for 30 seconds of time for "public service announcements" (PSAs) on each telecast.

As a result, the Association received TV time for PSAs on regular-season football games for the first time since the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the NCAA football television plan in 1984.

With all that time suddenly available, the national office staff asked the NCAA Communications Committee for advice on how to use it.

"The committee said we ought to explain more what this Association is and how it works, because the Association as a whole is so misunderstood by the general public," said James A. Marchiony, NCAA director of communications.

The committee also urged that the spots be used to call the public's attention to positive programs administered by the Association, including the degree-completion program, the CHOICES alcohol-education program, and the Youth Education through Sports clinics and National Youth Sports Program.

"We want the public to understand there are positive things going on at campuses that don't get the attention they deserve," Marchiony said.

Veteran producer

The NCAA is far from a newcomer to the production of PSAs. The Association has received 90 seconds of time on network telecasts of NCAA championships events for years and has been producing its own PSAs to fill that time since the 1970s.

But until recently, those messages always featured student-athletes warning youngsters against the abuse of drugs, alcohol or steroids, or focused on former student-athletes who have achieved success in such fields as business or government.

Most of the approximately 40 spots produced this year for football telecasts including telecasts produced as part of syndicated packages involving the Big East, Atlantic Coast, Southeastern, Southwest Athletic and Pacific-10 Conferences as well as those on ABC and ESPN focus on the antidrug theme, Marchiony said.

Still, about one-third of the spots deal directly with explaining the Association or promoting its programs, he said.

High-profile help

Some high-profile coaches and administrators were called on by Marchiony and his staff to do the explaining.

Football coach Bobby Bowden, whose Florida State University team was ranked No. 1 nationally until its November 16 loss to the University of Miami (Florida), appears in one of the spots to describe who makes up the Association's membership and why and how rules are made by that membership.

Similar spots airing on games in conference packages feature commissioners from those conferences, and yet another spot features Big Ten Conference Commissioner James E. Delany discussing the hundreds of millions of dollars in financial aid provided to student-athletes at NCAA member institutions.

Besides producing PSAs focusing on NCAA-administered programs, Marchiony's NCAA Productions staff also worked with TEAM (Techniques for Effective Alcohol Management) to produce three spots. Those PSAs, unique as the first produced by the NCAA that feature actors and actresses, portray young people who recall real-life situations and present the idea that it is OK to decide not to drink. The spots' tag line is, "You're not as cool as you think when you drink."

Marchiony has received positive feedback on the TEAM spots, but has not gotten a very good idea yet of how the public is responding to the PSAs explaining the NCAA. He is looking forward to hearing reports of viewer response, as well as reactions from the membership itself, from delegates at the NCAA Convention in Anaheim and from conference personnel.

He also hopes representatives of NCAA member institutions will feel free to give him ideas for future spots.

"We need to continue doing these spots, simply because educating the public about the NCAA has to be an ongoing process," Marchiony said. "That process should not end, but should be constantly reviewed. We'll constantly try to make these (PSAs) better."

The NCAA does not receive time on regular-season basketball telecasts, so the NCAA Productions staff will follow up its football-season blitz with PSAs for each of the 17 1991-92 NCAA championships that will air on CBS, ESPN and Prime Network.

Mid-Continent Conference gets sponsor for basketball

The Mid-Continent Conference has announced that Phar-Mor, a national chain of discount stores, will be the title sponsor for the conference's postseason basketball tournament for the next three years.

Phar-Mor's sponsorship will begin with the 1992 tournament, which will be played March 8-10 at the new 13,500-seat Convocation Center on the campus of Cleveland State University. Phar-Mor has committed $100,000 for each of the next three years, said Mid-Continent publicity director Tom Lessig.

"When we began our corporate sponsorship program three years ago," said Commissioner Jerry A. Ippoliti, "we envisioned that this day would come. But it's probably safe to say that none of us dreamed that it would happen so soon."

Phar-Mor is based in Youngstown, Ohio, which is the home of Youngstown State University, the newest Mid-Continent member.

Kelly collects Golden Spikes honor

Former Arizona State University outfielder Mike Kelly is the recipient of the Golden Spikes Award—given annually by the United States Baseball Federation to the nation's outstanding amateur baseball player.

Kelly, the second player selected in the first round of the 1991 amateur draft (by the Atlanta Braves), is the 14th recipient of the award, which recognizes athletics ability, sportsmanship, character and overall contributions to baseball. His selection was announced November 20.

Kelly is the third Arizona State player to win the award. Third baseman Bob Horner was the recipient of the first award in 1978, while outfielder Oddibe McDowell captured the honor in 1984.

Kelly, the first three-time all-America in Sun Devil history, said this was the high point of his career.

"I'm overwhelmed," he said. "I didn't expect to win it. I assumed if I didn't win last year, I wouldn't win it this year."

"This is a great way to finish off my college career."

Although he was pitched around frequently and walked 53 times, Kelly hit .373 this season with 15 home runs, 56 runs batted in and 23 stolen bases.

Added Kelly, "I think just about every time they had a base open, they would walk me intentionally. I lost a lot of RBIs that way. They just pitched me a lot tougher all year. I didn't get much to hit."

Kelly was named the Baseball America national player of the year after his sophomore year in 1990, when he hit .376 with 21 home runs,

Mike Kelly, the first three-time all-America player at Arizona State University, is the third Sun Devil to win the Golden Spikes Award 82 runs batted in and 20 stolen bases.

"This is an amazing man," Arizona State coach Jim Brock said of Kelly. "As great a baseball player as he is, the most amazing thing is that he doesn't have one enemy. To be the kind of player that he is and to be the best human being I've ever been around—that's really saying something."

Other finalists were David McCarty, Stanford University; Charles Johnson, University of Miami

(Florida); Brent Gates, University of Minnesota; Twin Cities; Bobby Jones, Fresno State University; Kenzie Steenstra, Wichita State University; Phillip Studham, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; Mark Sweeney, University of Maine; and Tom Vantiger, Iowa State University. The U.S. Baseball Federation's awards committee selects the Golden Spikes Award winner.

Each winner automatically is enshrined as a member of the USBF Amateur Baseball Hall of Fame.

Massachusetts-Lowell takes cross country title

Massachusetts-Lowell placed all five runners in the top 20, including three among the top four, to claim its first Division II Men's Cross Country Championships team title November 23 at Southern Illinois-Edwardsville. John Doherty, Mike Chamberas and Dave Cremin finished second, third and fourth, respectively, in the individual competition to pace the Chiefs.

Edinboro's Martin Lyons became the second Fighting Scot to claim the individual title.

The Chiefs' 48 points was the lowest total since Cal Poly San Luis Obispo won back-to-back championships in 1977 and 1978 with 42 and 45 points, respectively. Nebraska-Kearney finished second with 96 points, and Humboldt State was third with 100.

Lyons finished in 31:29, earning an eight-second victory over the first of the Massachusetts-Lowell trio. He became the first Edinboro runner since Gary Beardsley in 1982 to claim the individual title. Edinboro has four team titles, tied with South Dakota State for the most in the division, but has never had an individual champion in the same year.

Mustang women extend cross country streak

Cal Poly San Luis Obispo extended the longest streak in the history of NCAA women's championships by winning its 10th straight Division II women's cross country team title November 23 at Southern Illinois-Edwardsville. The Mustangs finished with 60 points. UC Davis finished second, 33 points behind the Mustangs.

Christie Allen of Pittsburg State won the individual championship, finishing in 18:04. Allen was 20 seconds ahead of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's Kristina Hand, who was followed by teammate Melanie Hiatt in an identical time of 18:24. Becky Duda of Saginaw Valley State was fourth in 18:25.

Hand, however, was the top team finisher, as the Mustangs had three of the top six team finishers. All five Mustang scorers finished among the top 40 overall.

The 60 points was the second-highest winning point total in the history of the meet and was just one point better than last year's 61. The Mustangs had averaged 42 points in their previous nine team triumphs.

After eight straight titles under Lance Harter, this year's crown was the second straight for Deanne Johnson, who previously had coached UC Davis.

Tar Heel women's soccer coach leaves ample talent for I victory

Not even the 2,000 or so miles separating North Carolina from its coach and top two players from last year could wrest away the championship trophy in the Division I Women's Soccer Championship. The host Tar Heels defeated Wisconsin, 3-1, November 24 to claim the school's sixth straight title and ninth in the 10-year history of the tournament.

North Carolina coach Anson Dorrance and Tar Heel players Kristine Lilly and Mia Hamm are in Panyu, China, for the inaugural Women's World Cup. Dorrance is coaching the United States' squad, and Lilly and Hamm are among the several current and former North Carolina players on the squad.

Bill Pallidino coached in Dorrance's absence, and Pam Kalinoski, Jane Vest and Tisha Venturini played the Tar Heels to another crown.

The Tar Heels, in front of their home crowd for the fourth time in championship-game play, controlled the game from the outset, outshooting the Badgers, 19-2. Danielle Egan got the scoring going with just 47 seconds gone in the game on an 18-yard shot. Paige Coley of the Tar Heels scored 28 seconds into the second half, and after Wisconsin's Kari Maijala scored on a penalty kick, Venturini iced the game with a 14-yard turnaround shot.

North Carolina now stands 29-1 in NCAA postseason play. The Tar Heels have played in every Division I championship game, with their only loss coming to George Mason in the 1985 title game.

The Tar Heels finished the 1991 season 24-0, the second time they have gone through the season undefeated and untied. They also have had five seasons in which they did not lose but had at least one tie. A crowd of 3,800 watched North Carolina run its 13-year home record to 114-0-2.

The Tar Heels defeated Virginia, which also was playing without its coach, Lauren Gregg, an assistant on Dorrance's U.S. staff, 5-1 in the semifinal. Vest scored two goals and added an assist. Kalinoski had a goal and two assists in the game. In the other game, Wisconsin, which finished the season 17-3, got a goal from Maijala to eliminate Colorado College, 1-0.

Elementary-school recruiting ban proposed

An Illinois High School Association committee has proposed barring high-school coaches from recruiting elementary-school students for athletics purposes.

The measure, drawn by the IHSA's legislative committee, has been put to a vote of the association's full membership. Ballots have been mailed to more than 770 schools and must be returned by December 12.

The legislative panel approved the proposed amendment to the IHSA bylaw on an 18-3 vote.

"I think we're taking a lot of grade-school life away from these kids by starting to contact them in sixth or seventh grade, not even waiting 'til they're ready to make a decision," said Richard Siebs, administrator of Notre Dame High School in Peoria, who came up with much of the language of the proposed amendment.

IHSA Executive Director David Fry said the proposal would prevent coaches from doing anything extraordinary for student-athletes.

Rochester harriers outpace III field

Rochester men's cross country coach Tim Hale predicted a close race for the 1991 Division III team title, and he was right.

"I think it is going to be one of the greatest cross country races you could ever watch," Hale said. Certainly, the November 23 championships meet at Christopher Newport turned out to be one of the closest.

Eleven points separated the top three teams as Rochester won its first team championship with 139 points. North Central finished second, eight points back, and Wisconsin-Oshkosh was third, another three points back.

Add Wisconsin-Stevens Point and Wisconsin-La Crosse which finished fourth and fifth, respectively and 28 points separated the top five teams.

Rochester's 139 points was the second-highest winning total in meet history and the most since Occidental won with 149 points in 1977. It also was the closest meet since 1977, when Occidental beat Humboldt State by three points.

Sandu Rebenciuc of Augustana (Illinois) claimed the individual title with a two-second victory over James Dunlop of Rochester. Dave Lambert of Wisconsin-Oshkosh was another second back. The championship was the third individual crown in the last four years for Augustana (Illinois). David Teronez won in 1988 and 1989.

North Central, which leads the division with seven team championships, finished second for the seventh time in the 19-year history of the meet.

Wisconsin-Oshkosh, Horejs perform as predicted in III women's meet

Laura Horejs and Wisconsin-Oshkosh came into the Division III Women's Cross Country Championships November 23 at Christopher Newport as the favorites in the individual and team races, respectively. They left as champions.

Wisconsin-Oshkosh used Horejs' overall victory and a second-place team finish from Melissa Langlois to edge two-time defending champion Cortland State, 98-103. Wartburg was third with 105 points.

It was the third team championship for the Titans and coach Deb Vercauteren. The Titans tied St. Thomas (Minnesota) in 1987 and won the title alone in 1988.

Horejs, who finished in 17:21, claimed a 12-second victory in the individual championship over Occidental's Becky Kopchik. Langlois was two seconds behind Kopchik.

While Wisconsin-Oshkosh used strength at the top, Cortland State relied on consistency. Coach Jack Daniels was concerned about his squad, which lost last year's champion, Vicki Mitchell, to graduation. Expected to take over for Mitchell was sophomore Michelle LaFleur, but she was unable to run this fall because of a hip ailment.

Still, the Red Raiders managed to make it a race by placing their top five runners among the first 32 team finishers.

UC San Diego wins III men's soccer title

Chris Hanssen took a pass from Mike Alberts 10:55 into the second half of the November 24 final and drove it past Trenton State goalkeeper Mike Rentner to lift host UC San Diego to its second Division III Men's Soccer Championship.

With the 1-0 victory, UC San Diego finished the season 17-4-2. Trenton State dropped to 19-3-2.

Although both teams had first-half scoring opportunities, Trenton State outshot UC San Diego in the period, 5-0. In the second half, Trenton State picked up the pace, and the Lions created their best opportunities after they fell behind. But outstanding goalkeeping by Michael Madden kept Trenton State out of the goal.

The semifinals and final belonged to Madden. After giving up seven goals in the first three games of the playoffs, he turned in back-to-back shutouts in the semifinals and final. Madden, a first-year goalkeeper, was not even the starting keeper for UC San Diego at the beginning of the year.

Mike Alberts was the Tritons' other star. He scored the only goal in the semifinal victory over Ohio Wesleyan, and he assisted on the lone goal in the championship, UC San Diego's second in four years.

Trenton State advanced to the final after defeating Babson, 3-1, in the first semifinal. Anthony Daniele scored two goals for the Lions, who finished second for the first time after three championships in the first seven years of the tournament.

Babson finished the season 18-4-1, while Ohio Wesleyan finished 22-2.

Facilities

A new stadium at the State University of New York at Buffalo will be used for the World University Games in 1993

Buffalo stadium to host university games

The State University of New York at Buffalo will build a $22 million stadium that will be the site for track and field events at the World University Games Buffalo '93. After the games, the stadium will be the permanent site of the university's football, soccer, and track and field teams.

The stadium will have an eight-lane track and a computerized scoreboard capable of timing events to the one-hundredth second.

Seating capacity for the games will be about 27,000. After the games, portable bleachers will be removed, leaving the university with a 17,000-seat stadium - the third-largest sports complex in western New York.

Clemson opens athletics academic center

Clemson University dedicated a facility for enhancing athletics and academic programs on November 16.

The Kenneth N. Vickery Hall was constructed at a cost of $2.5 million and occupies 27,000 square feet. The facility was financed by the IP/AY scholarship fund.

St. Olaf breaks ground

St. Olaf College has begun construction on a $2.2 million athletics facilities building. The two-story, 16,000-square-foot structure will include a 2,400-foot weight room, five locker rooms, a meeting room, a training room and public restrooms. Completion is expected in August 1992.

University of Notre Dame officials will consider a plan to expand Notre Dame Stadium. A committee is expected to decide by the end of the academic year if the 61-year-old facility needs to be enlarged.

"No funding and no timetable for stadium expansion now exist," said Rev. E. William Beauchamp, Notre Dame executive vice-president. "In fact, the study may lead to a decision by the university not to expand."

Eligibility Appeals Drug Testing

(Note: Eligibility appeals regarding those student-athletes who have tested positive for drug use under Bylaw 18.4.1.5.1 will now be published on a periodic basis. Please note that as a minimum, any student-athlete who tests positive, including those who test positive at postseason championships or at certified bowl competitions, must remain ineligible for competition for the mandated period of one year and must retest negative by the NCAA. Moreover, in regard to those student-athletes who test positive prior to participation in a season (e.g., redshirt), such a student-athlete will be required by the Eligibility Committee to lose at least the equivalent of one season of competition. This policy is intended to ensure that all those who test positive will receive equitable treatment.)

The following cases have been processed to conclusion since the effective date of the year-round drug-testing program, August 1, 1990, and each has satisfied the 365-day minimum waiting period, and the student athletes have retested negative, qualifying their appeals for consideration and a decision by the Eligibility Committee.)

Freshman Faulk only must show up to win I-A scoring

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

San Diego State's Marshall Faulk can qualify for the Division I-A scoring title simply by playing at Miami (Florida) November 30. He does not have to score to become the first freshman ever to win it.

A player must play in 75 percent of his team's games to be eligible for the national rankings. The Miami (Florida) game would be Faulk's ninth in his team's 12-game schedule.

His four-touchdown spree vs. Brigham Young November 16 gave him 140 points and a 17.5 average. A zero at Miami (Florida) still would give Faulk 15.6 points per game to a final 12.6 for Michigan receiver Desmond Howard.

Football notes

Already assured of a flock of I-A freshman records, Faulk also has a chance for the national rushing crown. But although he is averaging 159.4 yards per game, he will need a big day against Miami's tough defense to finish ahead of a pair of seniors, Indiana's Vaughn Dunbar (finished at 154.4) and Rice's Trevor Cobb (153.8).

The all-purpose crown, however, is out of Faulk's reach. That has been clinched by Pacific (California) junior Ryan Benjamin, whose 249.7 average is second in history to the record 295.5 by Oklahoma State's Barry Sanders in 1988, his Heisman Trophy season.

396 for Sands

Kansas' little Tony Sands broke Faulk's NCAA all-time collegiate (all-divisions) single-game rushing record with 396 yards vs. Missouri November 23. Only 5-6 and 175, Sands carried a I-A record 58 times as the Jayhawks won the 100th renewal of the border rivalry, 53-29.

Faulk had 386 yards vs. Pacific (California) early this fall and reached 1,000 yards in the seventh game of his career, equaling the record set by Florida's Emmitt Smith in 1987. That same year, Tennessee's Reggie Cobb set the freshman scoring record of 120, shattered by Faulk this fall.

November 23 was highlighted by a 93-yard punt-return touchdown in Michigan's 31-3 victory over Ohio State. That jumped him to second place nationally in punt-return average at 17.4.

In addition to his season scoring figure mentioned above, the little guy averaged one touchdown every 4.3 times he touched the ball—23 TDs on 100 all-purpose plays—and 17.5 yards per play. In receiving, almost one of every three catches was a score—3.2, to be exact—on 19 of 61.

He averaged 13.8 yards on 12 rushing plays and 15.6 per catch. His 31.1 in kickoff returns would be first except that he needed two more returns to meet the minimum of 1.2 per game required for ranking.

Michigan quarterback Elvis Grbac wrapped up the national crown in passing efficiency, edging Brigham Young's Ty Detmer, 169 rating points to 168.5.

Detmer all-time leader

Detmer, this season's national leader in total offense (333.4 rushing-passing yards per game) set a number of all-time NCAA collegiate (all-divisions) career records in his regular-season career that ended November 23.

Most importantly, his 162.7 pass-efficiency rating smashes the 156.9 by Jim McMahon, whose last season at Brigham Young was 1981. Detmer's 15,031 passing yards and 14,665 total offense are No. 1, both by margins of more than 1,000 yards on the all-divisions charts. His 121 touchdown passes is a I-A record.

More records

Holy Cross ran its Division I-AA-record winning streak to 20 by defeating Colgate in its final game November 23. The old record was 18 by Eastern Kentucky in 1982-83... Virginia quarterback Matt Blundin, No. 3 in passing efficiency, ended up with a record 231 consecutive passes without interception—223 this season (old mark: 215)... Weber State quarterback Jamie Martin set three Division I-AA single-game records—624 passing yards, 643 total offense and 47 completions—in a 60-41 victory over Idaho State November 23. At the same time, his team had a I-AA record 845 yards in total offense.

Auburn men's basketball, tennis draw penalties

I. Introduction.

On November 10, 1989, the NCAA enforcement staff received two telephone calls from the mother of a prospective student-athlete in the sport of men's basketball. During both telephone conversations, the mother expressed concerns regarding possible violations of NCAA legislation involving the recruitment of her son by members of the Auburn University men's basketball staff. The NCAA enforcement staff interviewed the mother and the young man as a result of these telephone calls. Numerous other individuals also were interviewed, including several other prospective student-athletes who had been recruited by the university.

The violations regarding the basketball program were developed initially by the enforcement staff. The university conducted two internal investigations concerning the basketball program, and during subsequent interviews of prospective student-athletes by the enforcement staff, further information was developed. On November 21, 1989, a letter of preliminary inquiry was issued to the university. A letter of official inquiry was sent April 29, 1991. The university responded in writing July 15, 1991. The head men's basketball coach and an assistant men's basketball coach involved in this case each accepted the university's response as his own response.

On June 12, 1990, the university reported that it intended to investigate the men's tennis program and self-report any violations. On October 4, 1990, the university reported violations in the men's tennis program to the NCAA enforcement department.

Prehearing conferences were held with institutional representatives August 30, 1991, and with legal counsel for the assistant men's basketball coach September 10, 1991. As a result of the prehearing conferences, one follow-up interview was conducted September 18, 1991.

The university's president, other representatives of the university and legal counsel for the assistant men's basketball coach met with the NCAA Committee on Infractions at a hearing September 27, 1991. The Committee on Infractions found that a number of violations within the men's basketball program and the men's tennis program had occurred.

In the men's basketball program, the violations included:

- conveying information to a prospective student-athlete that he reasonably understood as an offer to assist him in obtaining an automobile loan;
- contacting a prospective student-athlete and his family in person on more than the permissible three occasions at sites other than the prospect's educational institution;
- encouraging a representative of the university's athletics interests to improperly contact a prospective student-athlete;
- encouraging a representative of the university's athletics interest to falsify the time when a National Letter of Intent was signed;
- providing improper entertainment to a high-school coach and a member of his family;
- providing an improper gift to the family of a prospective student-athlete;
- offering benefits to a family member of a prospective student-athlete;
- providing improper transportation to a prospective student-athlete;
- providing other benefits to prospective student-athletes;
- exceeding the number of basketball coaches permitted during one year, and
- unethical conduct by an assistant men's basketball coach.

In the men's tennis program, the violations included:

- providing improper transportation on many occasions to fathers of student-athletes;
- paying certain expenses of the relatives of student-athletes;
- providing improper loans to several student-athletes;
- permitting the use of a coach's automobile by a student-athlete, and
- unethical conduct by the head men's tennis coach.

Although there were many violations, the committee did not find a lack of institutional control at this time. The university's president had instituted a program that should have led to an athletics program free from any violations of NCAA rules, but unfortunately it did not. The coaches in the men's basketball program had been hired recently when most of the violations occurred in that sport. Although informed of the consequences of a violation of NCAA rules, the head men's basketball coach and an assistant men's basketball coach ignored these rules both intentionally and inadvertently. As a result of the action on the part of these two coaches, the basketball program of the university was placed in jeopardy.

In the men's tennis program, the head coach and the assistant coach were knowledgeable of NCAA rules and the university's commitment to compliance with those rules. The head coach chose to ignore those rules and the admonition given by the university's president.

Even though the university established a compliance program, problems such as those that occurred in the men's basketball program and men's tennis program should not have occurred if the athletics department staff were committed to full compliance with NCAA rules. It should be recognized that the university discovered and self-reported all of the violations in the tennis program and, when informed of violations in the men's basketball program, it carefully investigated those allegations. As a result of the attitude of cooperation by the president of the university to comply with NCAA rules and to promptly deal with violations, the Committee on Infractions imposed lesser men's basketball coach offered to assist a prospective student-athlete in arranging an automobile loan. Specifically, the coach telephoned the prospect on several occasions at the young man's residence and conveyed information the prospect reasonably could have understood to be an offer that he would be assisted in receiving an automobile loan upon his enrollment at the university.

During the summer of 1989 and the 1989-90 academic year, during the recruitment of a prospective student-athlete, the head men's basketball coach, two assistant men's basketball coaches and two representatives of the institution's athletics interests violated NCAA legislation regarding recruiting contacts with a prospective student-athlete. Specifically:

1. In July 1989, one assistant coach personally contacted the prospect off campus for recruiting purposes prior to the permissible contact period during the young man's senior year of high school. This contact occurred near the home of basketball coach made an offer of employment to the young man's mother. Specifically, during November 1989, during a telephone conversation with the young man's mother, the assistant coach told the young man's mother that after the young man had signed his letter of intent, the university had people who could get her a job closer to home, which the prospect's mother then interpreted as an offer of employment.

F. [NCAA Bylaws 13.1.2.1 and 13.1.2.3-(c)-(1)]

During the recruitment of a prospective student-athlete, a sports information department student assistant violated NCAA legislation involving recruiting contacts with a prospective student-athlete. Specifically, in September 1989, while visiting his parents, the sports information department student assistant telephoned the prospect at the young man's residence and encouraged the young man to attend the university. The sports information department student assistant transported the prospect from the young man's home to a restaurant where the sports information department student assistant purchased a meal for the prospect at no cost to the young man and encouraged the prospect to attend the university.

G. [NCAA Bylaws 10.01.1 and 10.1-(c)]

An assistant men's basketball coach acted contrary to the principles of ethical conduct inasmuch as he did not, on all occasions, deport himself in accordance with the generally recognized high standards normally associated with the conduct and administration of intercollegiate athletics. Specifically, the assistant coach demonstrated a knowing effort on his part to operate the university's intercollegiate men's basketball program contrary to the requirements and provisions of NCAA legislation by his involvement in the overall violations as set forth in this report.

H. [NCAA Bylaws 16.6.2.4 and 16.12.2.1]

On several occasions during the period March 18 through March 25, 1990, the head men's tennis coach and/or an assistant men's tennis coach provided automobile transportation to the father of a men's tennis student-athlete while he was attending a tennis tournament in which the university was competing. Specifically, on March 18 and 26, the head coach or the assistant coach provided round-trip automobile transportation to the young man's father between two airports (a round-trip distance of approximately 76 miles). On approximately eight occasions during the tournament, the head coach and/or the assistant coach provided round-trip transportation to the father from his hotel to the competition site.

I. [NCAA Bylaws 16.6.2.4 and 16.12.2.1]

On several occasions in February and April 1990, the head men's tennis coach and an assistant men's tennis coach provided lodging, automobile transportation and meals to the father of a men's tennis student-athlete while attending an NCAA member institution's tennis tournament and at dual team competitions at three locations. Specifically:

1. On April 18, 19, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27, the head coach and the assistant coach allowed the father of the student-athlete to stay in either his son's or the assistant coach's room. The total cost for the rooms was $296.30. The student-athlete reimbursed the university for the $296.30.

2. On at least 10 occasions during the period from February 15 through April 29, the head coach or the assistant coach provided round-trip automobile transportation to the father of the student-athlete.

3. On April 20, 1990, university staff members provided a meal to the father of the student-athlete at a restaurant at a cost of $26.44. On April 24, 1990, the father was provided a meal at a value of approximately $20.

J. [NCAA Bylaws 2.10, 16.12.2.1, 16.12.2.3-(a) and 16.12.2.3-(c)]

On several occasions during the 1987-88 and 1989-90 academic years, the head men's tennis coach provided cash loans from his personal funds and the use of an automobile to numerous men's tennis student-athletes. Several of the loans were to pay a portion of the cost of lodging and meals for the student-athletes since the university had reached its total of equivalency grants-in-aid in men's tennis. Specifically:

1. On one occasion each in January and March 1988, the head coach lent $440 (a total of $880) to a student-athlete to pay the young man's lodging expenses for the winter and spring quarters. The head coach never discussed repayment procedures with the student-athlete, and the young man never repaid this loan to the head coach.

2. On three occasions during the 1989-90 academic year, the head coach lent $460 (a total of $1,380) to the student-athlete to pay his lodging expenses.

3. On or about September 18, 1989, the head coach provided $500 to another student-athlete to pay the cost for meals during the fall quarter in the residence hall. In early January 1990, the head coach provided $1,000 to the student-athlete to pay the cost for meals in the residence hall for the 1990 winter and spring quarters.

4. On or about February 14, 1989, the head coach lent $20 cash to a third student-athlete to pay an overdue telephone bill. The young man repaid the head coach approximately five days later with money he had obtained from his parents.

5. On or about June 4, 1990, the head coach lent his automobile to another student-athlete for approximately one hour to allow the young man to drive to another city to take a test required to obtain a driver's license.

K. [NCAA Bylaw 10.1-(c)]

The head men's tennis coach acted contrary to the principles of ethical conduct in as much as he did not, on all occasions, deport himself in accordance with the generally recognized high standards normally associated with the conduct and administration of intercollegiate athletics in that the head coach's involvement in Part II-J of this report demonstrates a knowing effort on his part to operate the university's intercollegiate men's tennis program contrary to the requirements and provisions of NCAA legislation.

L. [NCAA Bylaws 30.3.3 and 30.3.5]

The institution's certification-of-compliance forms for the 1987-88, 1988-89 and 1989-90 academic years were erroneous based upon the findings of violations in this report, which indicate that the institution's men's basketball and men's tennis programs were not in compliance with NCAA legislation in that the head men's basketball coach, two assistant men's basketball coaches, the head men's tennis coach and an assistant men's tennis coach attested on statements filed with the chief executive officer of the institution that they had reported to the chief executive officer their knowledge of and involvement in any violations of NCAA violations involving the institution when, in fact, they had not done so. Specifically:

1. For the 1987-88 academic year, the head tennis coach attested May 31, 1988.

2. For the 1988-89 academic year, the head tennis coach attested April 19, 1989.

3. For the 1989-90 academic year, the assistant basketball coaches attested May 14, 1990, and the head basketball coach and the head tennis coach attested May 15, 1990. The institution's certification of compliance form for the 1989-90 academic year was incomplete in that the assistant men's tennis coach did not sign the form.

Without intent to do so, the president erroneously certified July 29, 1988; August 15, 1989, and August 23, 1990, that the university was in compliance with NCAA legislation for the 1987-88, 1988-89 and 1989-90 academic years because of the false information provided to him by the head basketball coach, two assistant basketball coaches, the head tennis coach and the assistant tennis coach.

M. [NCAA Bylaw 11.7.4.1]

During the 1989-90 and 1990-91 academic years, the university reported that the athletics-program assistant and the basketball-housing coordinator performed basketball-coaching duties while being compensated on an hourly basis by the university. As a result of the housing coordinator performing coaching duties, the university exceeded the coaching limitation of one part-time assistant coach.

III. Committee on Infractions penalties.

For the reasons set forth in Part I of this report, the Committee on Infractions found that this case involved several major violations of NCAA legislation that occurred after September 1, 1985. NCAA Bylaw 19.4.2.2, as adopted by the Association's membership, requires prescribed minimum penalties, "subject to exceptions authorized by the Committee on Infractions in unique cases on the basis of specifically stated reasons," that include: (a) a two-year probationary period (including a periodic, in-person monitoring system and written institutional reports); (b) the elimination of all expense-paid recruiting visits to the institution in the involved sport for one recruiting year; (c) a requirement that all coaching staff members in the sport be prohibited from engaging in any off-campus recruiting

See Auburn men's, page 15

Case summary

• Violations involving the recruitment of several prospective student-athletes were uncovered in the men's basketball program.

• Violations involving the provision of extra benefits were uncovered in the men's tennis program.

• Lack of institutional control was not found by the Committee on Infractions. However, internal and NCAA investigations suggested that coaches and representatives of the institution's athletics interests chose on some occasions to ignore rules. Other violations were inadvertent.

• As a result of institutional cooperation, the Committee on Infractions imposed lesser penalties than otherwise would have been justified.

• Penalties include two years' probation, a ban on men's basketball postseason competition at the end of the 1991-92 season, recruiting restrictions in men's basketball and men's tennis, and the adoption of penalties imposed by the Southeastern Conference and self-imposed by the institution.

penalties than otherwise would have been justified.

In assessing penalties as required by Bylaw 19.4.2 in cases involving major violations, the committee took into consideration the nature of the violations, the university's compliance program, the university's investigation, its prompt actions involving those who violated NCAA rules, and the self-imposed restrictions on its men's basketball and men's tennis programs.

The penalties the committee assessed include:

- a. Reprimanding and censuring the university's athletics program.
- b. A two-year probationary period.
- c. Continuing a comprehensive educational program in all sports with periodic reporting.
- d. Prohibiting postseason competition in men's basketball at the end of the 1991-92 basketball season.
- e. Limiting the number of off-campus recruiters in the sport of men's basketball during the 1992 calendar year.
- f. Limiting the men's head basketball coach's off-campus recruiting duties.
- g. Reducing expense-paid recruiting visits to the university in men's basketball for the 1992 calendar year.
- h. Eliminating all expense-paid recruiting visits to the university in men's tennis for the 1992 calendar year.
- i. Imposing a show-cause requirement on the head men's tennis coach.
- j. Adopting the university's action to reassign the involved assistant basketball coach to duties unrelated to coaching or recruiting for one year.
- k. Adopting other penalties self-imposed by the institution in men's basketball and men's tennis, as well as the Southeastern Conference penalties in men's tennis.

It also should be noted that following the hearing before the Committee on Infractions September 27, 1991, other alleged violations were reported by the news media in the sport of football. Those alleged violations have not been considered by the Committee on Infractions. The allegations are being investigated by the enforcement staff and the university. If alleged violations are presented to the committee as a result of the investigation, those matters will be brought back to the Committee on Infractions for further consideration of this case.

II. Violations of NCAA legislation, as determined by committee.

A. [NCAA Bylaw 13.2.1]

During the summer of 1989, an assistant the prospect's girlfriend. Present during this contact were two representatives of the institution's athletics interests.

2. During the 1989-90 academic year, the head coach and the assistant coaches personally contacted the prospect or members of his family off campus for recruiting purposes on more than the permissible three occasions at sites other than the young man's educational institution.

3. During the fall of 1989, a representative of the institution's athletics interests made numerous impermissible contacts with the prospect at the request and direction of one of the assistant coaches. Throughout the young man's recruitment by the institution, the representative assisted the assistant coach in the recruitment of the young man by relaying telephone messages from the assistant coach to the prospect since the young man did not have a telephone. On November 8, 1989, prior to 8 a.m., on the first day and time a prospect was allowed to sign a National Letter of Intent, at the direction of the assistant coach, the representative went to the prospect's home to obtain the National Letter of Intent that previously had been forwarded to the young man. He observed the prospect sign the letter and then took the letter to a local service station where he provided it to the assistant coach. At that time, the assistant coach requested that the representative return the National Letter of Intent to the prospect's home and have the number seven indicating 7 a.m. changed to an eight in order that the signed letter would conform with National-Letter-of-Intent procedures. In appreciation of the representative's efforts, the assistant coach provided a pair of basketball shoes to the representative.

C. [NCAA Bylaw 13.9.1]

On one occasion each in July and August 1989, the head men's basketball coach purchased a meal for a prospective student-athlete's high-school basketball coach. On the occasion in August, the head coach also purchased a meal for the high-school coach's son.

D. [NCAA Bylaw 13.2.2-(f)]

During the fall of 1989, while recruiting a prospective student-athlete, an assistant men's basketball coach committed a minor recruiting violation by providing a small gift to a member of the prospective student-athlete's family.

E. [NCAA Bylaw 13.2.2-(a)]

The student-athletes spoke to the children on the dangers of substance abuse, presented posters for classrooms and distributed red ribbons good for free admission to a Lumberjack football game. activities for one recruiting year; (d) a requirement that all institutional staff members determined by the Committee on Infractions knowingly to have engaged in or condoned a major violation be subject either to termination of employment, suspension without pay for at least one year or reassignment of duties within the institution to a position that does not include contact with prospective or enrolled student-athletes or representatives of the institution's athletics interests for at least one year; (e) one year of sanctions precluding postseason competition in the sport; (f) one year of sanctions precluding television appearances in the sport; and (g) institutional recertification that the current athletics policies and practices conform to all requirements of NCAA regulations.

The Committee on Infractions determined that this case was a "unique" case in which the institution should receive less than the full set of minimum penalties otherwise required by NCAA legislation. The factors would include: prompt detection of violations, thorough investigation and reporting of violations to the NCAA; cooperation in the processing of the case, and initiation of strong disciplinary and corrective actions, including the establishment of administrative procedures that were designed to ensure the institution would comply with the principles of institutional control and rules compliance.

A. The university shall be publicly reprimanded and censured, and placed on probation for a period of two years from the date these penalties are imposed, which shall be the date the 15-day appeal period expires or the date the institution notifies the executive director that it will not appeal, whichever is earlier, or the date established by NCAA Council subcommittee action in the event of an appeal by the university to the Council, it being understood that should any portion of any of the penalties in this case be set aside for any reason other than by appropriate action of the Association, the penalties shall be reconsidered by the Committee on Infractions. Auburn University shall be subject to the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 19.4.2.3 concerning repeat violators for a five-year period beginning on the effective date of the penalties in this case.

B. During this period of probation, the institution shall continue its comprehensive educational program (e.g., seminars and testing) to instruct coaches and athletics department personnel on NCAA legislation. This program shall be required for the coaches and athletics department personnel in all sports. The institution shall file annual reports with the NCAA enforcement staff by July 1 of each year during the probationary period with a particular emphasis on the instruction of new coaches and athletics department personnel prior to any recruiting or coaching responsibilities.

C. The institution's men's basketball team shall end its 1991-92 season with the playing of its last regularly scheduled, in-season contest and shall not be eligible to participate in any postseason competition or take advantage of any of the exemptions provided in Bylaw 17.3 in the 1992 calendar year.

D. The institution shall be limited to only one member of the men's basketball coaching staff at any one time who may engage in off-campus recruiting activities (in-person contacts and evaluation) for the 1992 calendar year.

E. In addition to other restrictions on recruiting, the institution shall not permit the head men's basketball coach to recruit off campus beginning March 13, 1992, until 8 a.m. April 15, 1992 (the date and time for signing the National Letter of Intent).

F. The institution shall reduce the number of expense-paid visits for prospective student-athletes in the sport of men's basketball to the institution's campus during the 1992 calendar year from 15 to seven.

G. The Committee on Infractions adopts the penalties the institution imposed upon itself and its coaches and staff in the sport of men's basketball as follows:

1. An assistant men's basketball coach's salary was frozen from March 6, 1991, until July 14, 1992.

2. The assistant men's basketball coach was reprimanded, censured and, effective August 31, 1991, was reassigned to a position in the university that does not include duties and responsibilities involving contact by him with prospective or enrolled student-athletes or representatives of the institution's athletics interests for at least one year. The institution shall require him, during this period of reassignment, to attend all NCAA, Southeastern Conference and institutional rules and procedures seminars and workshops conducted for members of the athletics department staff. In addition, if the institution seeks to reinstate him to coaching duties, including the recruitment of prospective student-athletes, following the minimum one-year reassignment, the institution agrees to appear before the Committee on Infractions along with the coach to seek the committee's approval for reinstatement.

3. Another assistant men's basketball coach was reprimanded and admonished for his conduct.

4. The head men's basketball coach was reprimanded and admonished for his conduct.

5. The institution shall not employ an additional full-time assistant coach to replace the reassigned assistant men's basketball coach for the 1991-92 academic year.

6. The men's basketball program will not be permitted to employ any volunteer or graduate-assistant coaches for the 1991-92 academic year and will not be permitted to employ any restricted-earnings assistant coaches for the 1992-93 academic year.

7. The institution, through its compliance coordinator, shall closely monitor the recruiting activities of the men's basketball program for the 1991-92 academic year with any recurrence of violations subject to strict penalties.

8. The institution limited its institutional financial aid in men's basketball to a total of 14 grants-in-aid in the 1990-91 academic year.

9. The institution shall limit its institutional financial aid in the men's basketball program to a total of 12 grants-in-aid for the 1992-93 academic year.

10. To enhance its compliance and monitoring program, the institution shall employ an additional full-time compliance coordinator.

11. Two special rules-education workshops shall be conducted for the men's basketball coaching staff.

12. Letters of disassociation were sent to two representatives of the institution's athletics interests who were involved in this case.

H. Due to his involvement in certain violations of NCAA legislation found in this case, the involved assistant men's basketball coach will be informed in writing by the NCAA that in the event he seeks employment or affiliation in an athletically related position at another NCAA member institution during a two-year period (from November 18, 1991, to November 18, 1993), he and the involved institution shall be requested to appear before the Committee on Infractions in order for the committee to consider whether that member institution should be subject to the show-cause procedures of Bylaw 19.4.2.1-(1), which could limit the coach's athletically related duties at the new institution for a designated period.

I. The institution shall be prohibited from providing any expense-paid visits to the institution for prospective student-athletes in men's tennis during the 1992 calendar year.

J. Had the institution not terminated the employment of the head men's tennis coach and had it renewed the contract of the assistant men's tennis coach, the institution would have been required to eliminate all off-campus recruiting activities in the sport of men's tennis for one year.

K. If the former head men's tennis coach and the assistant men's tennis coach had still been employed at the institution, the institution would have been required to show cause in accordance with Bylaw 19.4.2.1-(1) why it should not be subject to additional penalties if it had failed to take appropriate disciplinary action against them.

L. Due to his involvement in certain violations of NCAA legislation found in this case, the former head men's tennis coach involved in this case will be informed in writing by the NCAA that in the event he seeks employment or affiliation in an athletically related position at an NCAA member institution during a five-year period (from November 18, 1991, to November 18, 1996), he and the involved institution shall be requested to appear before the Committee on Infractions in order for the committee to consider whether that member institution should be subject to the show-cause procedures of Bylaw 19.4.2.1-(1), which could limit the former coach's athletically related duties at the new institution for a designated period.

M. The institution has disassociated itself from two representatives of its athletics interests and one former coach based upon their involvement in violations of NCAA rules. Such disassociation shall be for the institution's probationary period and shall include: (1) refraining from accepting any assistance from the individuals that would aid enrolled student-athletes; (2) refusing financial assistance for the institution's athletics program from the individuals; (3) ensuring that no athletics benefit or privilege is provided to the individuals; and (4) such other actions against the individuals that the institution determines to be within its authority to eliminate the involvement of the individuals in the institution's athletics program.

N. The Committee on Infractions adopts the penalties imposed upon the institution by the Southeastern Conference and those penalties self-imposed by the institution upon itself and its coaches in the sport of men's tennis as follows:

1. Institutional penalties.

a. Requested and accepted the resignation of the head men's tennis coach and notified him of his disassociation with the institution's athletics program.

b. Reprimanded the assistant men's tennis coach and did not renew his contract in August 1990.

c. Obtained reimbursement for all extra benefits provided to student-athletes and their relatives.

d. Reduced the number of full-equivalency scholarships in men's tennis from five to four for the 1990-91 academic year.

e. Forfeited all victories in men's tennis from January 1, 1988, through May 31, 1990.

2. Conference penalties.

a. The men's tennis team was not permitted to play in any postseason competition in the 1990-91 academic year as a team or individual, including the 1991 Southeastern Conference Tennis Championships. The penalty did not apply to individual participation in 1991 NCAA tennis tournaments for those student-athletes who were not involved in any NCAA or Southeastern Conference violations.

c. The men's tennis program was reviewed for the 1990-91 academic year and will be reviewed in detail for the 1991-92 academic year.

O. The institution shall recertify that all of its current athletics policies and practices conform to all requirements of NCAA regulations.

Should Auburn University appeal either the findings of violations or proposed penalties in this case to the NCAA Council subcommittee of Division I members, the Committee on Infractions will submit an expanded infractions report to the members of the Council who will consider the appeal. This expanded report will include additional information in accordance with Bylaw 32.8.5. A copy of the committee's report would be provided to the institution prior to the institution's appearance before the Council subcommittee and, as required by Bylaw 32.8.6, would be released to the public.

The Committee on Infractions wishes to advise the institution that when the penalties in this case become effective, the institution should take every precaution to ensure that their terms are observed. The committee intends to monitor the penalties during their effective periods, and any action contrary to the terms of any of the penalties shall be considered grounds for extending the institution's probationary period, as well as to consider imposing more severe sanctions in this case.

Finally, should any actions by NCAA Conventions directly or indirectly modify any provision of these penalties or the effect of the penalties, the committee reserves the right to review and reconsider the penalties.

Council minutes

Following are the minutes of the October 7-9, 1991, meeting of the NCAA Council, which was held at the Allis Plaza Hotel in Kansas City, Missouri. All actions taken by the Council are included.

1. Opening Remarks. NCAA President Judith M. Sweet extended the Council's welcome to its newest members, Dorothy E. Dreyer, Jim G. Malik and Wayne Wright. Sweet also noted that the NCAA Presidents Commission would be represented during this meeting by Wilford S. Bailey, who had been retained by the Commission to assist in gaining support for the Commission's reform initiatives leading up to the 1992 Convention, and by R. Gerald Turner, the Commission's chair.

2. Previous Minutes. It was voted that the minutes of the July 31-August 2, 1991, meeting be approved as distributed.

3. Committee Reports. (Note: The Council received reports from a number of committees, including several information items. Only Council actions or points noted for the record are reflected in these minutes.)

a. Academic Requirements.

(1) The Council reviewed recommendations of the Academic Requirements and Research Committees concerning information provided by American College Testing (ACT) that the composite score on the enhanced ACT examination that is equivalent to an SAT score of 700 is 17, rather than 18, which had been considered earlier by ACT to be the proper concordance.

(a) Both committees recommended that an ACT score of 17 be considered the nearest equivalent to an SAT score of 700, based upon the research provided by ACT.

(b) The Academic Requirements Committee also presented two options for the effective date of this proposed revision. The committee recommended either that August 1, 1992, be the effective date and that the minimum score of 18 would continue to apply to students who entered Divisions I and II member institutions during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 academic years, or that the revision be made retroactive to the greatest extent possible, essentially restoring a fourth season of competition to student-athletes who had achieved a score of 17 and who enrolled as partial qualifiers or nonqualifiers in Division I and were members of the high-school classes of 1990-91 and 1991-92.

(c) It was voted that an ACT score of 17 should be considered equivalent to an SAT of 700, consistent with the revised concordance set forth by ACT; further, that August 1, 1992, be the effective date of the revision and that the minimum score of 18 would continue to apply to students who entered Divisions I and II member institutions during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 academic years.

(Note: The following action occurred later in the meeting but is included here for convenience of reference.)

(d) It was voted that the Council's action in this regard should be announced immediately following the adjournment of this meeting.

(2) The Council considered the application of Proposal No. 59 (in the Second Publication of Proposed Legislation for the 1992 NCAA Convention) to incomplete grades. The committee recommended that incomplete grades be treated in a manner consistent with the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 14.5.3.7; that is, once an incomplete grade has been removed, the course with the acceptable grade shall be counted either during the term in which the student-athlete initially enrolled in the course or during the term in which the incomplete grade was removed and acceptable credit was awarded.

It was voted that the Council approve the committee's recommendation.

b. Certification. The Council heard a report of the October 6, 1991, meeting of the Council Subcommittee on Certification. The subcommittee indicated its intention to invite all NCAA member institutions and other interested parties to submit written comments concerning an athletics-certification program and to attend hearings scheduled to discuss the certification concept November 18 in Dallas, Texas. The subcommittee reported that it also would extend invitations to participants in the Association's pilot certification program; representatives of regional accrediting agencies, and members of the Presidents Commission, the Knight Foundation Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics, the Collegiate Commissioners Association, the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, the Faculty Athletics Representatives Association and the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletic Administrators.

(Note: The following actions occurred later in the meeting but are included here for convenience of reference.)

(1) Council members noted that the Committee on Review and Planning recommended that the Council consider establishing either an ad hoc committee or a standing committee (rather than only a Council subcommittee) to oversee the development and implementation of the anticipated NCAA certification program. It was the sense of the meeting that a representative of the Committee on Review and Planning should attend the November 18 certification hearings.

(2) The Division I Steering Committee noted that the subcommittee's report did not specify clearly that the certification concept being contemplated by the subcommittee would be mandatory. The steering committee recommended that the Council affirm its support for a mandatory certification program.

It was voted that the steering committee's recommendation be approved.

(3) The Division II Steering Committee expressed interest in a certification program for Division II member institutions and suggested a close working relationship with the Council subcommittee to formulate a certification program for Division II consistent with the Division II philosophy.

(4) The Division III Steering Committee endorsed the general concept of certification but stated that the specific program under study would not be necessary for Division III. The steering committee took the position that the current institutional self-study requirement set forth in NCAA Constitution 6.3.1 is preferable for Division III institutions. The steering committee recommended that the staff (and possibly a Council subcommittee) evaluate the current Institutional Self-Study Guide to determine whether to develop a similar document specific to Division III issues and reflective of the Division III philosophy.

Meeting
Oct. 7-9, 1991

It was voted that the steering committee's recommendation be approved.

c. Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports.

(1) The committee recommended increasing the scope of the NCAA Injury Surveillance System (ISS) to monitor injuries in all sports in which the NCAA sponsors championships, to increase the number of schools participating in the ISS and to permit total conference participation in the program without compromising a representative national sampling.

(a) The Division II Steering Committee expressed interest in the budgetary implications of the committee's recommendation and requested information concerning how the data are used once they are collected.

(b) The Division III Steering Committee suggested that in order to save costs, the committee might wish to consider studying those sports with the smallest sponsorship on a rotating basis (perhaps every three years), giving consideration to a balance of team and individual sports.

(c) It was moved and seconded that the committee's recommendation be referred to the Executive Committee for its review and possible action.

(i) Council members raised questions as to what the Executive Committee might infer from the Council's action, if this motion were to be approved. It was suggested that the Executive Committee might benefit from some indication of the Council's position with regard to this (and other) budgetary requests forwarded to the Executive Committee.

(ii) Sweet directed that an ongoing list of budgetary requests referred each fiscal year by the Council to the Executive Committee be maintained; further, that the Council review that listing in its entirety during the Council's April meeting in order that, to the greatest extent possible, budgetary priorities may be assigned to requests forwarded either directly by the Council or on behalf of one of its standing committees to the Executive Committee for consideration during its May meeting.

(d) The motion to refer was adopted, with the understanding that this budgetary request would be made a part of the listing developed at Ms. Sweet's direction.

(2) The committee presented proposed revisions in the policy statements contained in the NCAA Sports Medicine Handbook, including one new policy statement entitled Assessment of Body Composition. The committee recommended that the Council approve the recommended revisions and that in the future the recommendations in the publication be referred to as guidelines.

It was voted that the committee's recommendations be approved.

d. Enforcement and Infractions Process. The Council reviewed the tentative timetable established for releasing publicly the recommendations of the Special Committee to Review the NCAA Enforcement and Infractions Process. NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz noted for the record that special consideration is being given to expediting implementation of the special committee's recommendations. The Council received the report without taking formal action.

e. Executive. The Council reviewed actions taken by the Executive Committee during its August 12-13 meeting.

(1) The Executive Committee supported a recommendation of the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports that the NCAA Squad List be revised to include a column to indicate the reason for a student-athlete's change in team status.

(a) It was noted for the record that for the time being, this change would be applicable only to Division I-A football, inasmuch as it is the only sport in which regular-season random drug-testing is currently conducted.

(b) It also was noted for the record that institutions would be required to document changes in status for any student-athlete on the Squad List at any time during the year.

(2) It was voted that the recommendation of the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports be approved.

f. Financial Aid and Amateurism. The committee recommended that the Council request that the Interpretations Committee clarify whether the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 15.01.7 permit an institution to calculate an individual cost of attendance that may not be the same for each student-athlete, or whether the cost of attendance for all students must be uniform; further, that the interpretation be published in The NCAA News to assist institutions in applying the appropriate method consistently.

It was voted that the issue be referred to the Interpretations Committee.

g. Implementation of 1990 Convention Proposal No. 24. The Council reviewed the recommendations of the Special Advisory Committee to Review Implementation of 1990 NCAA Convention Proposal No. 24.

(1) The Council noted that in August 1991, the U.S. Department of Education published a "Safe Harbors" letter, which described reporting procedures postsecondary institutions may follow to comply with the Student Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act, pending the department's issuance of final regulations related to the act. It also was noted that the committee, after consulting with legal counsel, has concluded that, as a whole, the reporting requirements set forth in the Safe Harbors letter are significantly less demanding than the reporting requirements contained in Bylaw 30.1. The committee recommended that the Association proceed with implementation of the reporting requirements specified in Bylaw 30.1 for Division I member institutions and that the Association should continue efforts to obtain recognition from the Secretary of Education that Division I reporting requirements are "substantially comparable" to reporting requirements contained in the act. It was the sense of the meeting that the committee's recommendations be approved, and Mr. Schultz reported conversations with Lamar Alexander, U.S. Secretary of Education, in which the two parties agreed informally to resolve the issue of substantial comparability.

(2) The committee recommended that the Council permit Division II member institutions to use the persistence guidelines specified in the Safe Harbors letter to fulfill the provisions of Bylaw 30.1.

(a) The Council noted its action in April 1991 to revise Bylaw 30.1 to specify that Division II member institutions shall report only the graduation-rates disclosure information required by the Student-Athlete Right-To-Know Act.

(b) It was voted that Bylaw 30 be amended in a manner consistent both with the recommendations of the committee and with the Council's April 1991 action in this regard; further, that the amended bylaw shall be reviewed by the committee prior to the Council's January 1992 meeting.

(3) The committee recommended that the Council modify action taken during its August 1991 meeting in order to specify that a July 1, 1993, reporting deadline applies to all Division II member institutions, including Division II members that sponsor sports in Division I.

(a) It was voted that the committee's recommendation be approved.

(b) It was the sense of the meeting that the Council's action in this regard also would be applicable to Division III institutions that sponsor sports in Division I.

(4) It was suggested that all Divisions II and III institutions that sponsor sports in Division I should be permitted to report information on the Graduation-Rates Disclosure Form in the same manner as all other sports sponsored by the institution. It was the sense of the meeting that this issue be reviewed by the special advisory committee for its recommendation.

(Note: The following action occurred later in the meeting but is included here for convenience of reference.)

(5) It was noted that Section 103 of the Student Right-To-Know Act will contain a separate graduation-reporting requirement, effective July 1, 1993, that does not focus on institutions that award athletically related aid. It also was noted that Section 103 of the act also contains a "substantial comparability" waiver provision, and the committee recommended that the Council consider the desirability of developing a separate reporting form that Division III member institutions may use to fulfill Section 103 by forwarding the requisite graduation rates to the NCAA. The Division III Steering Committee reported its preference for reporting information directly to the Federal government, in an effort to save costs to the Association.

(6) The Council considered the timing and format of the admissions and graduation-rate report that member institutions must forward to prospects, prospects' parents, and to prospects' high-school and two-year college coaches pursuant to Bylaw 13.3.1.2.

(a) The committee recommended that the information forwarded to prospects and described in Bylaw 13.3.1.2 should be a summary of the institution's enrollment and graduation data published by the national office in a standardized format. The committee also recommended that member institutions should be permitted to provide supplemental reports to prospects but should not be permitted to alter or highlight the information contained in the reports prepared by the Association. It was the sense of the meeting that the committee's recommendations be approved.

(b) The Council reviewed a sample version of such a report, and it was the sense of the meeting that the initial draft be considered generally acceptable.

(7) The committee recommended that the reference to the partial qualifiers overall high school grade-point average be deleted from the reporting requirements specified in Bylaw 30.1.1.2-(a).

It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 30 consistent with the committee's recommendation.

(8) The committee recommended that computer software be developed as soon as possible to facilitate completion of the Graduation-Rates Disclosure Form and that this software accompany the form that Division I member institutions will use to meet the October 1, 1992, reporting deadline.

(a) It was noted for the record that in April 1991, the Council approved a feasibility study to investigate the development of computer software that would facilitate institutions' completion of the Graduation-Rates Disclosure Form and the compilation of report data by the national office.

(b) It was the sense of the meeting that once the feasibility study has been completed, the development of appropriate software should be completed with all deliberate speed.

(Note: The following action occurred later in the meeting but is included here for convenience of reference.)

(c) The Division II Steering Committee requested that the software developed in this regard also should be applicable to Division II institutions.

h. Initial-Eligibility Waivers.

(1) The Council reviewed a report of actions taken by the Council Subcommittee on Initial-Eligibility Waivers during its June 5, 1991, and August 7, 1991, telephone conferences.

It was voted that the reported actions of the subcommittee be approved.

(Note: The following action occurred later in the meeting but is included here for convenience of reference.)

(2) At the request of the involved member institution, the Council reviewed a written appeal of previous subcommittee actions submitted by DePaul University.

It was voted that the subcommittee's decisions be confirmed.

i. Legislative Procedures.

(1) The subcommittee outlined a tentative three-year timetable for the review and development of NCAA legislation related to major policy issues. According to the subcommittee's report, a subcommittee of the Presidents Commission would identify major policy issues that should be considered at future Conventions, and those topics would be announced at the Convention during the first year; hearings would be conducted, followed by a debate of major policy issues during the second year, and during the third year, the staff would work with the Council subcommittee that participated in the hearings in order to draft legislation to be voted upon at the annual Convention. Mr. Schultz expressed reservations concerning the subcommittee's tentative proposal and stated that he intended to discuss possible modifications with the subcommittee in the future.

(2) The subcommittee reported that it had considered again the possibility of increased authority for the Council to grant waivers of NCAA legislation. The subcommittee recommended that the Council sponsor a resolution during the 1992 Convention directing the Council to further study this issue and to submit legislation at the 1993 Convention if it believes legislation is appropriate.

It was voted that the Council sponsor a resolution for the 1992 Convention consistent with the subcommittee's recommendation.

j. Legislative Review.

(1) The Council reviewed a compilation of current interpretations recommended by the committee for incorporation in the 1992-93 NCAA Manual.

It was voted that the committee's compilation of interpretations be approved.

(2) The Council reviewed a compilation of editorial changes recommended by the committee for incorporation in the 1992-93 Manual.

It was voted that the committee's compilation of editorial revisions be approved.

k. Minority Opportunities and Interests. The Council received a report of the Minority Opportunities and Interests Committee without taking formal action.

l. Review and Planning. The Council received a report of actions taken by the Committee on Review and Planning during its September 16-17, 1991, meeting. The Council took no formal action in this regard.

m. Special Events.

(1) The committee recommended that the Council amend Bylaw 30.8 by adding definitions for the components of gross receipts, including ticket sales, membership fees/dues, programs/concessions/merchandising sales, advertising income, radio broadcast rights, television contracts, title sponsorship rights contracts, title sponsorship entertainment expenses, allocation of title sponsorship rights, film/movie/video rights, licensing fees, corporate sponsors/contributors, pregame/half-time shows, other revenues, interest income, letter-of-credit-recertification, affiliated organizations and game-related events.

(a) The Division I Steering Committee recommended that the Council amend Bylaw 30.8 as indicated by the Special Events Committee, except that the wording contained in the definition related to pregame/half-time shows should be revised to state that the pregame program shall occur in the stadium not earlier than one hour prior to kickoff; further, that the last sentence of the text related to the definition of other revenue should be deleted.

(b) It was voted that Bylaw 30.8 be amended consistent with the recommendations of the Special Events Committee and the Division I Steering Committee.

(2) The committee recommended that the Council encourage the Executive Committee to amend Bylaw 31.5.2 to include among the items listed as components of gross receipts all revenues derived from advertising for radio, television and tickets; video rights; merchandising sales; licensing fees; title sponsorship, corporate sponsors, contributors, interest income, and membership fees/dues. The committee also recommended that the Council encourage the Executive Committee to amend Bylaw 31.5.3 to include among the items that may be deducted from gross receipts, expenses incurred by the sponsoring agency of a postseason football game for corporate-sponsor expense approved by the Postseason Football Subcommittee, and all radio income, providing the official network or station of at least one of the participating institutions originates the broadcast of the game.

(a) The Division I Steering Committee recommended that the Council encourage the Executive Committee to amend Bylaws 31.5.2 and 31.5.3 as set forth in the Special Events Committee's report, except that the listing of possible expenses that may be deducted from gross receipts should include expenses of game-related events approved by the Postseason Football Subcommittee.

(b) It was voted that the Special Events Committee's recommendations be approved as amended by actions of the Division I Steering Committee.

(3) The Special Events Committee recommended that the waiver provision currently available under the provisions of Bylaw 30.8.17 (d) be eliminated, inasmuch as the waiver provision is contrary to recent actions approved by the Postseason Football Subcommittee to strengthen other requirements in this legislation.

It was voted that Bylaw 30.8.17(d) be amended consistent with the recommendation of the Postseason Football Subcommittee.

(4) The committee recommended that the Council amend Bylaw 30.8 to grant the committee authority to waive policies governing certified postseason football games for contests that are approved through the legislative, rather than the certification, process, provided that any waiver granted by the committee is approved by a two-thirds majority of those present and voting.

It was voted that the committee's recommendation be approved.

(5) The committee set forth a listing of reporting requirements applicable to the certification of postseason bowl games that the committee recommended be applicable to the Heritage Bowl. The Council noted differences between the committee's recommendation and the provisions of Proposal No. 116 contained in the Second Publication of Proposed Legislation for the 1992 Convention and declined to act on the committee's recommendation.

(6) The Council reviewed the committee's recommendations concerning all-star basketball and football games and took the following actions:

(a) Certified the following established college all-star basketball games for the 1991-92 academic year: Japan Classic, KRK Senior Classic, L.A.B.C. All-Star Game, Little Rock All-Star Classic, Michigan College All-Star Game, NABC All-Star Game, New Jersey College North-South All-Star Game.

(b) Denied certification for the following established college all-star basketball games: New England Hall of Fame All-Star Game, Orlando All-Star Classic, Portsmouth Invitational Basketball Tournament, Southern Shootout.

(d) Approved initial certification during the 1991-92 academic year for the Black College Conference All-Star Basketball Game, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

(e) Approved initial certification during the 1991-92 academic year for the Snow Bowl, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

(7) The committee recommended that the Council authorize the 1993 East-West Shrine Football Classic to be played January 23, pursuant to the exception available in Bylaw 30.2.2.6.

It was voted that the exception be approved.

n. Student-Athlete Advisory. The committee's report contained recommendations that the Council sponsor an amendment to Proposal No. 137 as set forth in the Second Publication of Proposed Legislation for the 1992 Convention to establish an immediate effective date for that portion of the proposal that would enable an additional term of service for committee members, and to establish a September 1, 1992, effective date for that portion of the proposal that would increase from 16 to 28 the number of student-athletes on the committee.

(1) It was voted that, if Proposal No. 137 is adopted during the 1992 Convention, the Council shall use its authority under the provisions of Constitution 5.3.1.1.1. to permit an additional term of service for student-athlete committee members, effective upon adjournment of the 1992 Convention.

(2) It was voted that the committee be permitted to use the services of consultants (e.g., former members of the committee) to provide additional opportunities for student-athletes to attend the committee's meetings until such time as the provisions of Proposal No. 137 (assuming the proposal is adopted) become effective, with the understanding that the use of such consultants would not cause the number of current or former student-athletes in attendance at a particular meeting to exceed 16.

o. Two-Year College Relations.

(1) The Council considered Convention Proposal No. 48 in the Second Publication of Proposed Legislation for the 1992 Convention, which is sponsored by the Council and would permit Division I institutions to honor hardship waivers granted at two-year colleges under certain specified conditions. The committee requested that the Council sponsor an amendment to Proposal No. 48 to change the effective date of the proposal from immediately to "for those students first entering a collegiate institution during the 1992-93 academic year."

It was voted that the Council sponsor an amendment-to-amendment consistent with the committee's recommendation.

(2) It was voted that the Council oppose Proposal No. 68 in the Second Publication of Proposed Legislation.

4. NCAA Presidents Commission. Chancellor Turner reported actions taken by the Presidents Commission in its October 1-2, 1991, meeting, including the Commission's approval of the report and recommendations of its Subcommittee on Strategic Planning and the recommendations of the Commis-

When members of the University of Georgia's 1966 Southeastern Conference champion football team returned to campus recently for their 25-year reunion, they brought with them a $100,000 donation to the Vincent J. Dooley Library Endowment Fund. Established by Dooley—Georgia's athletics director who coached the 1966 team—in 1990, the fund now stands at $400,000 on its way to $1 million. sion's Subcommittee to Review NCAA Revenue-Distribution Principles. The Council received the report without taking formal action.

5. Miscellaneous. The Council received a quarterly report of the Association's governmental affairs. [Note: A summary of the report appeared in the October 21, 1991, issue of The NCAA News.] Schultz offered comments concerning Federal legislation introduced by Congressman Tom McMillen that would provide a five-year antitrust exemption for the NCAA to negotiate television coverage of in-season college football and basketball games and an exemption for the NCAA and its member institutions from the unrelated business income tax, provided that the NCAA complies with a series of conditions within one year following passage of the legislation. Schultz also noted that he and representatives of the National Football League, National Basketball Association and Major League Baseball took part in hearings conducted in September concerning proposed Federal legislation that would authorize injunctive relief against the operation of any state-authorized gambling scheme related to the outcome of or performances in a professional or amateur sports event. All three representatives of the professional leagues and the executive director testified in the bill's favor, and several members of the House Subcommittee on Economic and Commercial Law, which conducted the hearing, expressed support for the bill. The Council received the report without taking formal action.

6. Administrative Committee Report on Interim Actions and Other Matters. The steering committees reviewed the actions in five telephone conferences conducted by the NCAA Administrative Committee since the previous meeting of the Council, including all decisions reached on behalf of the Council by the committee and by the executive director.

a. The three steering committees reported their approval of all actions in the five telephone conferences.

It was voted that the Council approve all of the Administrative Committee actions.

b. The Council considered action taken by the Administrative Committee during its August 28, 1991, telephone conference to authorize a three-member subcommittee of the Minority Opportunities and Interests Committee to meet with representatives of the National Football League regarding the NFL Minority Coaches Program. After meeting with NFL representatives, the subcommittee expressed its support for continuation of the program, with the NFL retaining the ability to select participating coaches and with the understanding that all three membership divisions would be represented.

(1) The subcommittee recommended that participating coaches receive stipends for their participation in the program, provided that any coach is permitted to take part in the program for no more than two consecutive years, previous participants would be permitted to recopy only after a two-year hiatus from the program, participating coaches would apply to the NCAA for a waiver of the provisions of Bylaw 11.3.3.1.1, participants in the program during the summer of 1991 would receive stipends retroactively and, in the future, the NFL would provide a list of participating coaches.

(2) Schultz suggested that consideration be given to implementing a procedure for at least the summer of 1992 in which the NFL would provide funds to the NCAA Foundation, to which coaches would apply for grants based upon their participation in the program; further, that a committee of collegiate coaches would be responsible for selecting participants and that participation by coaching staff members of Divisions II and III member institutions would be guaranteed. Mr. Schultz indicated that NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue had stated in conversations with Schultz that he would be amenable to this concept.

(3) It was the sense of the meeting that these recommendations be forwarded to the Minority Opportunities and Interests Committee for its review and recommendation, including possible legislation.

7. Membership.

a. The quarterly report of NCAA membership was noted for the record. It reflected 847 active member institutions as of September 20, 1991 (up 22 from the August report), and 1,053 in all categories as of that date (up 18 from August).

b. It was voted that the Council approve applications for affiliated membership submitted by the Independent Football Officials Alliance, Inc., Memphis, Tennessee, and the National High School Baseball Coaches Association, Omaha, Nebraska.

c. It was voted that the Council approve an application for corresponding membership submitted by Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia.

d. The Division I Steering Committee reported the following actions:

(1) Approved a request submitted by the University of Detroit Mercy for a waiver of the minimum number of contests per Bylaw 20.9.3.3.7.

(2) Approved a request submitted by Mississippi State University for a waiver of the minimum number of participants per Bylaw 20.9.3.3.7 and directed that the institution be admonished to make a more substantial commitment to meeting the standards set forth in this legislation.

(3) Took no action on a request submitted by the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, for a waiver of the limits established for minimum numbers of contests and/or participants per Bylaw 20.9.3.3.7. It was noted for the record that the Presidents Commission had requested that the Council consider withdrawing its sponsorship of this proposal. The Divisions II and III Steering Committees reported their continued support for the proposed legislation, and the Council took no formal action in this regard.

(5) The Council considered Proposal No. 19, which would amend Bylaws 11.2 and 11.3 to specify that coaches in Divisions I and II must receive prior annual written approval from the institution's chief executive officer (1) for all athletically related income and benefits from sources outside the institution; (2) to use, directly or by implication, the institution's name or logo in the endorsement of commercial products or services for personal gain; and (3) to accept outside compensation or gratuities from athletics shoe, apparel or equipment manufacturers in exchange for the use of such merchandise during practice or competition.

It was voted that the Council withdraw its sponsorship of the proposal.

(15) The Division II Steering Committee reported its continued opposition to Proposal No. 62, which would amend Bylaw 14.5 to specify that a student-athlete in Division I or II must have completed successfully a minimum percentage of course requirements in the student's specific degree program to be eligible for competition; to specify that a Division I student-athlete must present a minimum grade-point average based upon a percentage of the institution's cumulative minimum grade-point average requirement for graduation to be eligible for competition, and to establish a waiver procedure related to the application of the degree and grade-point average requirements in both divisions.

(42) The Division I Steering Committee recommended that the Council oppose Proposal No. 131, which would amend Bylaw 20.9.1.2.1 to revise the financial aid formula related to the computation of minimum awards for Division I membership requirements to indicate that only unearned, non-repayable financial aid shall be counted to meet the minimum Division I financial aid requirements.

It was voted that the Council oppose the proposal.

(43) The Divisions II and III Steering Committees recommended that the Council oppose Proposal No. 134, which would amend Bylaw 21.3 to establish a compliance committee to address various compliance-related issues and initiatives.

It was voted that the Council oppose the proposal consistent with the steering committees' recommendations.

(44) The Council considered Proposal No. 136, which would amend Bylaw 21.3.14.1 to specify that at least one Division I member of the committee shall be an individual with primary responsibilities in the area of compliance at a Division I member institution.

(a) The Division II Steering Committee recommended that the Council oppose the proposal.

(b) After discussing the proposal, a motion for Council opposition was withdrawn.

(45) The Divisions II and III Steering Committees recommended that the Council oppose Proposal No. 138, which would amend Bylaw 21.4 to establish a Women's Volleyball Rules Committee.

It was voted that the Council oppose the proposal.

(46) The Division III Steering Committee recommended that the Council request withdrawal of Proposal No. 142, which would amend Bylaw 31.1.4.4 to permit championship competition to begin prior to noon on Sunday if the host institution is selected to conduct two NCAA championship contests at the same outdoor facility and darkness is a primary concern.

It was voted that the Council request that the sponsors withdraw the proposal.

(47) The Division II Steering Committee recommended that the Council oppose Proposal No. 143, which would require that the Council appoint a Special Committee to Streamline NCAA Paperwork to review recommendations to streamline the paperwork required of member institutions and to study the proliferation of required filings with the intent of decreasing the amount of such documentation through the better coordination of required information; further, that the special committee develop recommendations to be presented to the Council and that legislation consistent with those recommendations be sponsored by the Council for consideration at the 1993 Convention.

It was voted that the Council oppose the proposal.

(48) The Division III Steering Committee recommended that the Council oppose Proposal No. 144, which would require that the Council and Presidents Commission review the Association's current annual legislative calendar and consider sponsoring legislation at the 1993 Convention that would establish a biennial legislative Convention and, in alternate years, a nonlegislative Convention to include forums and round-table discussions on specific proposals regarding issues affecting the interests of the various membership divisions.

It was moved and seconded that the Council oppose the proposal. (Defeated. For 23, Against 14—two-thirds majority required.)

(49) The Division II Steering Committee recommended that the Council oppose Proposal No. 145, which would direct the Academic Requirements Committee to review available research data and to recommend legislation to lessen, leave in place or strengthen the current NCAA requirements for both initial eligibility and continuing eligibility; further, that the committee re-evaluate the available research and present its recommendations for review by the Presidents Commission and the Council, and that the Commission and/or the Council submit appropriate legislation concerning academic requirements for consideration at the 1993 Convention, and finally, that each amendment offered at future Conventions as a result of the committee's recommendations be presented to the delegates of the Convention with research data that support the amendment or the amendment must be withdrawn.

It was voted that the Council oppose the proposal. (Show of Hands.)

(50) The Division III Steering Committee recommended that the Council support Proposal No. 146, which would require that each NCAA member institution and conference consider establishing student-athlete committees; further, that legislation be submitted for consideration at the 1993 Convention to encourage the establishment of student-athlete committees at the institutional and conference levels if the NCAA Council determines such action to be appropriate.

It was voted that the Council support the proposal.

c. The Council reviewed a compilation of proposed amendments to the Association's administrative regulations, on which the Council is authorized to act in the interim between NCAA Conventions. It was noted that all amendments to Bylaw 30 approved by the Council will be published in The NCAA News.

(1) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 30.8.10.1 to preclude an institution that accepts an invitation to participate in a certified postseason bowl game that did not distribute a minimum of $1 million to each participating team in the immediate past bowl from purchasing not more than one-sixth of the tickets available in the stadium unless the chief executive officer of the institution submits a written request for an exception to this policy to the Postseason Football Subcommittee and stipulates that the additional tickets will be purchased at face value by constituents of that institution.

(2) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 30.8.17 to require the sponsoring agency of a certified postseason bowl game to sell locally, at face value, at least 50 percent of the total tickets sold for the game, unless all game tickets have been sold and the sponsor is accommodating the ticket demands of a particular member institution.

(3) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 30.8.17 to specify that the site of a certified postseason bowl game shall not be changed without the approval of the Postseason Football Subcommittee of the Special Events Committee.

(4) It was noted that in August, the Council approved a Bylaw 30.9 modification related to the dead periods in the Association's Division I recruiting periods that was inadvertently omitted from this compilation.

It was voted that the Administrative Committee be authorized to review in legislative form the modification approved by the Council in August.

d. The Council reviewed a compilation of proposed amendments related to the Association's enforcement procedures per Constitution 5.2.3.3. It was noted that all revisions to Bylaw 32 approved by the Council will be published in The NCAA News and submitted by the Council as legislation at the 1992 Convention.

(1) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 32.3.8 to specify that interviews conducted by the enforcement staff shall be recorded through the use of a mechanical device whenever possible.

(2) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 32.9.1 to prohibit the division subcommittees of the Council from making new findings or imposing additional penalties after hearing an infractions appeal.

e. Council members reviewed a compilation of noncontroversial legislative proposals per Constitution 4.1.3-(f). It was noted for the record that proposals receiving the support of a three-fourths majority of the Council present and voting shall be effected immediately, published in The NCAA News and submitted by the Council as legislation for action at the 1992 annual Convention. Proposals that the Council adopted in its April and August meetings were included in the compilation but are not reflected in these minutes unless additional action was taken.

(1) The Council considered proposed legislation to amend Bylaw 11.7.2.3 to permit all nine full-time Division I-A football coaches to recruit off campus, with only seven coaches permitted to recruit during any one calendar week (Monday through Sunday).

It was voted that the calendar week set forth in the legislation be amended to begin at 12:01 a.m. Sunday and end at midnight the following Saturday, consistent with coaches' traditional recruiting schedules.

(2) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 11.7.4.2 to permit the restricted-earnings coach to contact or evaluate prospects off campus in all sports other than football and basketball with no increase in the number of coaching staff members who may contact or evaluate prospects off campus at any one time.

(3) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 17.1.5.3.5 to specify that daily and weekly hour limitations do not apply to countable athletically related activities that occur during an institution's official vacation period, as indicated in the institution's official catalog.

(4) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaws 17.2 through 17.21 to permit institutions that conduct a nontraditional segment in the fall to begin practice in team sports on September 7 or the first day of classes, whichever date occurs earlier.

(5) It was voted that the Council amend Bylaw 17.18.1 to permit member institutions that utilize both indoor track and outdoor track to meet division membership requirements for sports sponsorship the option of conducting either a 26-week or a 156-day playing season.

f. The Council reviewed a compilation of proposed legislative modifications pursuant to Constitution 5.4.1.1.1, which permits the Council to modify the wording of NCAA legislation in a manner consistent with the intent of the membership in adopting the original legislation, provided sufficient documentation and testimony exist to establish clearly that the original wording of the legislation was inconsistent with that intent. It was noted for the record that all such modifications approved by the Council will be submitted as legislation at the 1992 Convention. Modifications adopted by the Council during its April and August meetings were included in the compilation but are not reflected in these minutes unless additional action was taken.

(1) The Council considered a proposed amendment to Bylaw 13.1.2.4 to permit athletics department staff members to make unlimited telephone contacts with prospective student-athletes on the initial date for the signing of the National Letter of Intent and during the two days immediately following the initial signing date.

(2) It was voted that the Council approve the proposed modification.

10. Interpretations. The Council reviewed the minutes of 1991 Interpretations Committee conferences 11 through 15. The following actions were taken by the division steering committees or by the Council after review by those committees.

a. The Council reviewed an interpretation of Bylaws 14.2.5-(b) and 14.2.5-(c) that the calculation of an institution's completed events in individual sports in which championships selection is based upon competition throughout the entire season (e.g., tennis, golf) must include competition that occurs during the entire season (traditional and nontraditional segment, rather than just the traditional segment). The Division II Steering Committee recommended that the Council sponsor legislation to include any of the institution's outside competition prior to the NCAA championship in both individual and team sports in determining institution's completed events for purposes of applying the hardship rule. After discussion, the steering committee withdrew its recommendation. (Conference No. 12, Minute No. 1.)

b. The Council reviewed an interpretation of Bylaw 12.5.1.1 that it would not be permissible for a member institution (or member conference) to utilize noninstitutional outlets for the sale of an institution's (or conference's) media guide. (Conference No. 12, Minute No. 3.)

It was voted that the issue regarding the sale of media guides at noninstitutional outlets be referred to the Communications Committee for its review and possible recommendations.

c. The Council reviewed an interpretation of Bylaw 14.2.4.3 that for purposes of this legislation, a student-athlete "begins a season of competition" when the student represents the institution in outside competition (as opposed to practice sessions). The Division I Steering Committee reported that it had revised the interpretation to state that a student-athlete begins a season of competition for purposes of this legislation when the student first takes part in practice sessions. (Conference No. 13, Minute No. 2.)

d. The Council reviewed an interpretation of Bylaw 14.2.5 that a member institution that competes separately in an individual sport against two or more institutions on one calendar day would count all participation on that day as one contest for purposes of calculating the institution's completed events for hardship purposes. The Interpretations Committee recommended that the Council amend the legislation in Bylaw 14.2.5 to indicate that a hardship waiver shall be based on the institution's completed dates of competition (for those sports that utilize dates of competition) or completed contests (for those sports governed by contest limits). (Conference No. 13, Minute No. 4-c.)

(1) The Division I Steering Committee recommended that the Council treat dates of competition and numbers of contests for purposes of hardship waivers in the same manner as they are treated in Bylaw 17 for purposes of maximum numbers of contests or dates of competition.

(2) The Division II Steering Committee recommended that the Legislative Review Committee be requested to incorporate the recommendation of the Interpretations Committee in a manner consistent with the editorial change approved by the Council earlier in this meeting related to the Legislative Review Committee's editorial revision of Bylaw 14.2.5-(b).

(3) It was voted that the Council approve the recommendation of the Division II Steering Committee and that the Legislative Review Committee be directed to determine whether such a change would require legislation or could be incorporated editorially.

e. The Council considered concerns expressed by the Interpretations Committee regarding the April 1 date currently being utilized to separate an institution's winter season from its spring season for purposes of sports sponsorship. The Interpretations Committee recommended that the Council establish different dates for determining institutional sports seasons for purposes of Constitution 3.2.4.9.1 based on institutional academic calendars. [Conference No. 14, Minute No. 1.]

(1) The Division II Steering Committee recommended that the Administrative Committee be authorized to establish appropriate dates, based in part on recommendations of the national office staff.

(2) It was the sense of the meeting that the steering committee's recommendation be approved.

f. The Council reviewed the provisions of Bylaws 16.7.1.1, 16.8.1.2.1.1 and 16.8.1.4.1 and considered the Interpretations Committee's recommendation that the Council review the differences contained in those provisions related to the standards under which travel expenses may be provided to determine if legislation should be proposed to place identical limitations governing an institution's (or a student-athlete's) return from regular-season competition that occurs during the vacation period and an institution's (or a student-athlete's) return from NCAA championship events or postseason football games. (Conference No. 14, Minute No. 2.)

(1) The Division I Steering Committee recommended that the distinctions between travel-expense exceptions applicable to regular-season competition and postseason events be eliminated; specifically, that the words "and following" be deleted from the provisions of Bylaw 16.8.1.2.1.1-(b); further, that legislation be drafted for the Council's review in this regard.

(2) The Division II Steering Committee expressed its preference for the legislation currently in effect.

(3) It was voted that the Division I Steering Committee's recommendation be approved.

g. The Council reviewed an interpretation of Bylaw 13.4.1-(i) that the restrictions related to institutional stationery would be applicable to any department or office at the institution that reports to the athletics department and that the restrictions related to institutional athletics department stationery would not be applicable to other athletics department items (e.g., ticket brochures, alumni brochures, summer-camp brochures), except as stipulated in Bylaw 13.4.1 (i.e., media guide, recruiting guide, student-athlete handbook). (Conference No. 14, Minute No. 8.)

(1) The Division I Steering Committee recommended that the interpretation be revised to state that the restrictions related to institutional stationery be applicable to any department that reports solely to the athletics department.

(2) It was voted that the Council approve the Division I Steering Committee's recommendation.

h. The Council reviewed an interpretation of Bylaw 15.4.9.3 that a Division III athletics department staff member may not communicate with an institution's admissions department regarding a student-athlete's financial aid package, even after the financial aid package has been awarded. The Division III Steering Committee reported that it had reversed the interpretation, with the understanding that the steering committee will review previous financial aid interpretations during its April meeting. (Conference No. 15, Minute No. 8.)

i. It was voted that the minutes of 1991 Interpretations Committee Conference Nos. 11 through 15 be approved as amended by the specific actions of the Council and the division steering committees.

11. Reports of Division Steering Committees. The division vice-presidents reported on actions taken in the steering committee meetings that had not been reported earlier in this meeting. The Council took the following actions in that regard:

a. Mr. Hobbs reported that the Division I Steering Committee had reviewed concerns expressed by the Collegiate Commissioners Association concerning the timing for publication of procedures related to coaches certification. It was noted for the record that the Collegiate Commissioners Association had urged that certification procedures be distributed to conference offices no later than March 1, 1992.

b. Mr. Coddia noted for the record that the Division II Steering Committee had discussed the contents of a survey of various concerns related to Division II membership. It was noted that the survey, developed at the request of the steering committee, would be distributed to the Division II membership in approximately two weeks.

c. Carzo reported that the Division III Steering Committee had taken the following actions:

(1) Approved an award of circumstance submitted by Virginia Wesleyan College.

(2) Denied an award of circumstance submitted by Juniata College.

(3) Noted the importance of Division III institutions that sponsor a single Division I sport receiving information from the national office related to the institution's sponsorship of the Division I sport. The steering committee expressed concern that these institutions do not always receive information necessary to the proper conduct of those sports.

12. Dates and Sites of Future Meetings. The Council noted its 1992 meetings for the record:

a. January 5-10 (1991 Council) and January 10-11 (1992 Council), Anaheim Hilton Hotel, Anaheim, California.

b. April 13-15, Hyatt Regency Crown Center, Kansas City, Missouri.

c. August 5-7, Westin Hotel, Boston, Massachusetts.

d. October 12-14, Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza, Kansas City, Missouri.

Proposal would

Proposal No. 47, which would permit that but would continue to assure that the use of an agent in negotiating with a pro sports organization would mean the loss of amateur status.

Instead, the individual, the individual's family and the members of the institution's sports-counseling panel could enter into such negotiations to determine what the student-athlete might be able to earn as a pro athlete.

Others

Another proposal of note in the eligibility grouping is one that would have Division I recognize hardship waivers related to injuries or illnesses suffered at the two-year college level.

Currently, Divisions II and III recognize hardships from the time an individual is enrolled in a two-year college, but Division I does not. Now, the new Two-Year College Relations Committee has recommended that the waiver opportunity be extended to Division I, and the Council is sponsoring the proposal.

Meanwhile, with the major acaademic issues included in the Presidents Commission Grouping (reviewed in the November 18 issue of The NCAA News), only four proposals remain in the academics section of the Convention agenda. And one of those No. 40 probably will be withdrawn.

The only remaining amendment of particular note is this year's attempt to permit a nonqualifier or partial qualifier in Division I to earn a fourth season of competition if he or she has completed an appropriate number of credits toward a degree at the institution. That is No. 39, sponsored this time around by the Big East Conference.

When the same conference offered the proposal a year ago, Division I defeated it without a counted vote. A year before that, under the aegis of the Big West Conference, the amendment initially passed but was reconsidered and defeated in a roll-call vote, 125 in favor, 199 against, with three abstentions. And in 1989, again with the Big West as the sponsor, it was defeated, 135-179, with two abstentions.

Summary

Following is a summary of the remaining academic proposals and the eligibility proposals. Also indicated are the sponsors and the business sessions in which these will be acted upon.

Academics

No. 37: To require a student-athlete to be enrolled as a degree-seeking student in order to be eligible to practice. Sponsored by the NCAA Council, as recommended by the Academic Requirements Committee. General business session; all divisions vote together.

No. 38: To specify that a student athlete who competes while enrolled in less than a full-time program of studies during the final term of a baccalaureate program, but while carrying for credit those courses necessary to complete the degree requirements, shall not forfeit further eligibility in all sports if those degree requirements are completed during that term and if the individual is eligible to receive the baccalaureate diploma on the institution's next degree-granting date. Sponsored by the Council, as recommended by the Academic Requirements Committee. Divisions I, II and III business sessions.

No. 39: To permit nonqualifiers and partial qualifiers in Division I to earn a fourth season of intercollegiate competition if they have completed 96 semester or 144 quarter units toward a specific baccalaureate degree program at the certifying institution by the beginning of the fifth academic year after initial collegiate enrollment. Sponsored by the Big East Conference. Division I business session.

No. 39-1: To amend No. 39 by eliminating the references to specific numbers of semester or quarter units and requiring instead that the individual have completed satisfactorily the minimum number of credits required under the NCAA's satisfactory-progress legislation. Sponsored by the Big East Conference. Division I business session.

No. 39-2: To amend No. 39 by specifying that the proposal would not affect any currently enrolled student-athletes; i.e., it would apply to those first entering a collegiate institution after August 1, 1992. Sponsored by the Big East Conference. Division I business session.

No. 40: To specify that a prospect who signs a National Letter of Intent during the early signing period in a sport shall not be eligible for practice or competition during the first academic year in a Division I institution if the prospect does not present, at the time of signing, a minimum SAT score of 700 or minimum ACT score of 17 and a minimum 2.000 grade-point average in at least seven core courses. Sponsored by the NCAA Council, as recommended by the Recruiting Committee; however, the Council will withdraw the proposal in the Division I business session.

No. 40-1: To amend No. 40 by delaying the effective date until August 1, 1993. Sponsored by the Southland Conference, the Western Athletic Conference and nine members of the Big West Conference. Will be moot if No. 40 is withdrawn. Division I business session.

Eligibility
No. 41: To permit member institutions to administer the drug-testing consent form separately from the Student-Athlete Statement and to tighten the requirements regarding who must sign the drug-testing form and when. Sponsored by the Council, as recommended by the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. General business session; various voting requirements involved but all divisions vote together on the primary portions.

No. 41-1: To amend No. 41 by specifying that the drug-testing consent form must be administered when the squad first reports for practice or prior to the Monday of the institution's fourth week of classes, whichever occurs first. Sponsored by the Council. General business session; all divisions vote together.

No. 42: To permit a Division I student-athlete to be granted a hardship waiver based upon an injury or illness that occurred during enrollment at a two-year college, subject to several specified criteria. Sponsored by the Council, as recommended by the Two-Year College Relations Committee. General business session; all divisions vote together.

No. 42-1: To amend No. 42 by specifying that the hardship waiver must be granted only if the injury or illness occurred during enrollment at a two-year college, subject to several specified criteria. Sponsored by the Council, as recommended by the Two-Year College Relations Committee. General business session; all divisions vote together.

Ex-officer busy

university's representatives, he was in a small minority. Most CEOs were "too busy" to get involved in intercollegiate athletics at their own institutions, much less on a national basis. Roaden blames that attitude for uncontrolled athletics programs that developed at some institutions.

"The CEO of the institution has to be in athletics governance up to his ears just like he is in everything else at the institution," Roaden said. "Presidents say they have no power over athletics. That is nonsense."

"Every year, the forms come to the presidents to say who is going to be representing their universities and voting on these issues. If university presidents wanted to do so, they could fill in their own names as the voting delegates, and they would have absolute power. But the fact (then) was, presidents weren't interested in doing that."

Roaden said that when their institutions were penalized for rules violations, many presidents were embarrassed in the press and in front of their own constituencies. Some grudgingly responded to pressure to gain control of their athletics programs, although Roaden said they approached it as a necessary evil. Ultimately, it became the athletics department vs. the "good of the university" — an adversarial relationship, at best.

"That, in my opinion, is a dumb thing for a CEO to do," Roaden said. "What the CEO needs to do is see athletics as an important component of the institution. If the CEO devotes the level of interest and commitment that is needed, these surprises are not going to occur. That would be true in any other part of the university if the president made it a part of his or her business to be on top of the operation."

Roaden even suggests that athletics can bring a positive image to the rest of the university. "I have always been a strong supporter of intercollegiate athletics on a campus, and my support in intercollegiate athletics has been because I think that it is helpful in carrying out the broader missions of the institution," he said.

Once, while completing a research project in Hawaii on an alternative program in primary education, Roaden held a community hearing in Honolulu. "When I was introduced as the president of Tennessee Technological University," he said, "somebody in the audience said they were familiar with that university. 'That is the university that has that great women's basketball team,' they said."

When he recounted that story to some of his colleagues, one of them asked, "Didn't it bother you that you were thousands of miles away from home and the only thing that anybody knew about your university was that you had a great women's basketball team?"

Roaden's response was quick.

"As long as the newspapers have sports sections," he replied, "and the nightly newscasts have segments dedicated to intercollegiate athletics, that is where people learn about the institutions. I would also be very happy if a newspaper had a special section on physics or engineering or mathematics, and if the nightly news had a section that dealt with academics, but they don't. They do have them on athletics, and I think that just the visibility that comes to an institution through intercollegiate athletics is useful."

A one-room start

Roaden began his career in education as an 18-year-old teacher in a one-room schoolhouse in Whitley County, Kentucky. He taught primary through grade eight for 50 students, ranging in age from 6 to 26. The athletics program consisted of twice-a-year baseball games with another school three miles away.

But Roaden recalls that the students thirsted for knowledge. They read every book they could, including the ones issued to them and those they purchased with the money from bake sales.

A Carson-Newman College graduate, Roaden earned his master's and doctorate from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, where he met Orin Graff, a graduate professor after whom Roaden has modeled much of his teaching and personal philosophy.

In an article he wrote for a publication titled "Reflections: Personal Essays by 33 Distinguished Educators," Roaden noted, "Graff had studied with Boyd Bode at Ohio State University. During one of his class lectures, Graff announced that Professor Bode had died. His voice broke and he cried. I found it strange at the time that a distinguished professor would be so emotional about his graduate-school mentor. But I must confess that years later, when Orin Graff died, I cried."

Roaden espouses Graff's view about values being necessarily involved in theory. Graff also instilled the need for continuous learning in Roaden, who has a definite view of higher education that includes research, debate and study. "As long as I have been a professional in the field of education, there have been long debates about the demands for scholarship and the demands for publishing taking away the time, energies and interests of faculty members who want only to teach," he said.

"I have great admiration for colleges and universities that are described as teaching colleges and universities, as long as the teaching is fresh and current and is based on

Roaden helped pave CEOs' way

Historians someday may regard the early 1990s as the time when college presidents gained — or regained — control of their athletics programs. Overlooked, however, may be the people who paved the way...like Arliss Roaden.

Roaden started attending NCAA Conventions in the 1970s as Tennessee Technological University's president. "I never saw many other presidents at the Conventions," he said. "I really couldn't understand that. When CEOs have been distant from policy-making and athletics meetings and planning, they are likely to be surprised at the things going on that they didn't know about."

Later, as a member of the NCAA Council, Roaden helped develop a plan for presidential involvement in college-athletics governance.

At the same time, a group of CEOs was working on a plan of its own.

Under the umbrella of the American Council on Education, those presidents met in Vail, Colorado, to find a way to bypass the NCAA. "It had a pious flavor to it," Roaden offered, "a dictatorial flavor where a group of presidents drew up their own master plan for controlling the NCAA, but without the necessity of getting their hands dirty in the process."

"They wouldn't have to attend meetings. They wouldn't have to be involved. All they had to do was get together with other presidents and cancel out legislation that had been adopted, after wide debate, by the representatives of their institutions."

Saw the irony

Roaden saw the irony: that presidents already had the authority to dictate the direction of the Association but had failed to take advantage of the opportunity.

"I thought it was interesting because many presidents were claiming that they didn't know how their representatives were voting, and they believed they were voting contrary to the interests of the president," Roaden said. "We had no way of knowing the extent to which, prior to the Convention, presidents sat down with their representatives and went through the proposed legislation and said, 'Our institution would benefit from this. Our institution can't support this legislation.'"

"So it was a situation where the presidents claimed that they didn't trust their designated representative to vote the interest of the institution or to vote the interest that the president had on behalf of the institution. That's why we went to roll-call votes."

While the ACE was organizing its group to limit the NCAA's authority, the Council continued to develop its plan, which called for a Presidents Commission that would have certain rights and responsibilities but would not operate counter to actions taken by the NCAA membership.

Roaden led a contingent to Washington, D.C., to meet with the ACE's Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics. The groups talked about the issues, "but it was clear that the American Council was not going to veer from its position at all and that it was going to take its position to the Council and that it was going to try to lobby it through," Roaden recalled. "At the meeting, it was decided to put both plans on the agenda at the next Convention."

The debate

The ACE plan was the first one heard. Harvard University President Derek Bok was its designated spokesperson. Roaden spoke on behalf of the NCAA Council plan.

"While Bok was debating the American Council plan, I spoke against that plan, pointed out its flaws and pointed out that whatever involvement they wanted in NCAA policy-making, it was theirs if they chose to be involved," Roaden said. "Well, the (ACE) plan went down — the vote wasn't close on it. The NCAA plan was voted in overwhelmingly."

Roaden said the ACE had lobbyists at work for months; even during the course of the meeting, they sought to persuade people to go through with their plan.

"At one point," he said, "they even made statements that they had counted the votes and that they had the votes to pass. Well, obviously they either hadn't counted the votes or they certainly miscounted them by an extraordinarily wide margin."

As for the result, Roaden considers the Presidents Commission a success. "I think it will remain for historians to describe over the long haul the extent of the influence and the involvement of presidents," he said. "But there is no question that presidential involvement in intercollegiate athletics has multiplied literally multiplied since the action was taken at that NCAA Convention."

the latest research and scholarship. But if being a teaching institution means that teaching comes from the old yellowed notes that were taken in graduate school and a continuation of the basic knowledge that existed a decade or quarter-century ago, then that is something that I just don't agree with."

Today, Roaden's views are those of the highest-ranking official in higher education in the state of Tennessee. The commission is considered a coordinating board, without authority over personnel or selection of research. Instead, the commission oversees all the institutions of higher education within the state, setting a statewide plan and generating general budgets that assure that the institutions are operating on a level field. His role, as executive director, is to lead the commission as its chief staff officer in the development of master plans and budgets for higher education and in the approval process of new programs that are to be offered within the state.

Roaden is no longer directly involved in intercollegiate athletics. The man who as Division I vice-president was instrumental in getting the Presidents Commission started now deals only with the overall picture of higher education. But if you listen to Roaden, athletics is just a part of the overall picture anyway.

Atlantic 10 adds swimming meets

The Atlantic 10 Conference will sponsor championships in men's and women's swimming and diving, beginning with the 1992-93 academic year.

"We feel by adding swimming and diving to our championship schedule that we meet the goals set by our athletics directors by making the Atlantic 10 a stronger broad-based conference," said Ron Bertovich, conference commissioner.

Seven Atlantic 10 institutions sponsor men's and women's swimming and diving programs.

SPORTS SPONSORSHIP

Xavier (Ohio) will begin a women's golf program in 1992, giving the Division I school its 15th sport.

Northern Colorado announced it will discontinue its women's gymnastics program, effective immediately. The program, which was placed in temporary suspension a year ago, was dropped because of an inability to hire a qualified part-time coach, declining regional competition opportunities and the lack of a Division II championship, according to officials.

Centenary will sponsor a women's soccer program, beginning next year. The move will give the school seven women's sports.

CORRECTION

Due to an editor's error, the preview of the Division III Football Championship in the November 11 issue of The NCAA

News reported incorrectly that last year's championship game marked the first time that two schools from the same state met for the title. Wittenberg and Baldwin-Wallace, both from Ohio, played in the 1978 Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl, where Baldwin-Wallace won, 24-10.

Grade-schoolers find their heroes among student-athletes at Virginia

University of Virginia student-athletes are heroes. Just ask the kids at Clark Elementary School in Charlottesville, Virginia.

Now in its fourth year, the Hero Program exposes the grade-schoolers to positive role models. More than 50 Virginia student-athletes participated last spring, enough for two and sometimes three athletes to be "adopted" by a class.

"We can never have enough heroes," said Nina Clopton, the Clark teacher who established the program. In its first year (1988), Virginia Polytechnic Institute awarded the program an award of excellence in education.

In addition to having fun with the kids, former student-athletes like Shawn Moore and Tim Finkelston helped the youngsters establish goals and work toward reaching them. "We try to make a point of making sure the heroes talk about their majors," Clopton said, "so the kids aren't misled to believe that the only thing they can do is go to college and play a sport."

"The best part about the program," said current Virginia quarterback Matt Blundin, "is that you realize no matter how busy you are, you can always find an hour to go to Clark."

Program helping Santa again

Chip Rives' dream is alive, well and growing in the Winston-Salem, North Carolina, area. Rives is the former Wake Forest University football player who in 1986 formed Santa's Helper, a nonprofit organization that raises money to buy toys for underprivileged children.

Briefly in the News

"We are extremely pleased with the growth and success of Santa's Helper," said Rives, who now lives in Massachusetts but continues to help with the program. He graduated from Wake Forest in 1987 and earned a master's degree in business from the school in 1989.

Last year, Santa's Helper provided Christmas presents to more than 520 area families. This year, volunteers will wrap gifts December 7 for delivery December 14-15 and December 16-17. A party for patients at Brenner Children's Hospital is set for December 11.

Rallying Trenton's troops

Earlier this month, Trenton State College senior Eugene "Butch" Oberlander gave his cross country teammates a bit of a pep talk. "Before the race, I told the guys how badly I wanted to win the race, especially after we lost by just two points last year," Oberlander said of the New Jersey Athletic Conference championships. "I told them how much it would mean to me and coach (Rick McCorkle) to be the first team to beat Glassboro (State College, which had won the last 17 NJAC championships).

"I don't know if they did it for me, for coach or for themselves," he added, "but the way these guys carried out really touched me in the heart."

Oberlander failed to mention that he led the way, filling in for the injured Dave Pataky (ankle) by finishing third overall and first among Trenton State runners. His team won the league title, defeating Glassboro State for the first time in any cross country race.

Maybe Oberlander's bronze star—the one he got for his work in Saudi Arabia during Operation Desert Storm—was a factor. There, he was known as Sgt. Oberlander, a helicopter crew chief for the Second Armored Division.

Among his assignments in the desert was a rescue mission near Kuwait City in the midst of the fighting. He personally plucked wounded soldiers from the sand for evacuation to medical facilities in Saudi Arabia.

"We knew when the season started that Butch had been affected both mentally and physically by his involvement in Desert Storm," McCorkle said. "But he's a late-season runner, and we knew he'd be there at the end."

Sewing up a degree

University of Texas, Pan American, men's soccer coach Eloy Moran worked his way through undergraduate and graduate school in interesting fashion. One of his jobs was stitching together boxes for canteloupes in Pecos, Texas.

He was paid two cents a box and eventually was making $100 a day. Moran required an 11-hour day to make that much money because he had to complete 5,000 boxes to do it.

Former University of Virginia football players Shawn Moore (left) and Tim Finkelston were favorites of the children at a Charlottesville, Virginia, elementary school where the student-athletes participated in the Hero Program
