Black women a small part of golf picture

By David D. Smale
The NCAA News Staff

"LaRee Sugg rolled in a 25-foot birdie putt on the playoff hole..."

That line, in a story on the 1991 National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships, had significance beyond its description of how the University of California, Los Angeles, clinched its first women's golf crown.

LaRee Sugg was the only black woman in the 102-player field. In fact, her coach, Jackie Steinmann, said that in 15 years of coaching women's collegiate golf, she doesn't remember another black player in the national tournament.

This problem is not limited to colleges. There are no black players currently on the 320-member Ladies Professional Golf Association tour. The last full-time black player there was Renee Powell, who competed in the early 1980s. Of the 629 teaching professionals who are LPGA members, fewer than 10 are black, according to Kerry Graham, president of the LPGA teaching and club professional division.

Lack of opportunity

"I think that it's basically because black players have not had the opportunities like others have," Jim Webb, LPGA deputy commissioner, said. "Part of the reason is economics. Golf sometimes is considered to be an expensive sport."

"One of the things that was brought out at the PGA championship in Birmingham (at Shoal Creek in 1990) is that more needs to be done (with) minority golf. We have an LPGA program in Los Angeles every year that is directed entirely at minority (inner-

Schultz notes some progress with legislatures

The NCAA appears to be making progress in dealing with state legislatures in which so-called due process laws are in effect or pending, according to Executive Director Richard D. Schultz.

At this time, such laws are in place in four states: Florida, Illinois, Nebraska and Nevada.

Schultz said the Florida statute will become effective July 1, and that despite NCAA efforts to delay implementation, it will become law on that date. However, Schultz said the sponsors are interested in the changes proposed by the Special Committee to Review the NCAA Enforcement and Infractions Process and have said they might be interested in eliminating the law if the modifications in the NCAA enforcement process were considered adequate. In particular, he said, they seemed interested in open hearings, a special-committee proposal that would require approval of the membership.

The NCAA has challenged the Nevada statute in Federal court, claiming that it violates the Association's rights in several ways. A judge heard the case March 11, and it is not known when he will issue his ruling.

"If he does rule in our favor, I think it would help us in dealing with other state legislatures," Schultz said. He emphasized that no matter how the judge rules, only the Nevada law will be directly affected.

The formation of a committee to review the NCAA penalty structure (see story elsewhere on this page) appears to have had a favorable impact in New York and Kansas, Schultz said. In both cases, the legislation was motivated in part by the "innocent-victim" effect that current NCAA penalties may have on student-athletes who were not knowingly involved, or not involved at all, in rules violations but nonetheless were adversely affected by NCAA sanctions.

A committee in the Kansas House of Representatives recommended against passage of a due process law in that state after being informed of the NCAA's intent to review its penalty structure. Schultz met personally with New York legislators, who also reacted favorably to a study of the penalty structure. He said the New Yorkers also were

Executive Committee will consider larger fields for some championships

The NCAA Executive Committee will consider a request for expanded fields for several 1992-93 championships at its May 3-5 meeting in Tucson, Arizona.

The most dramatic changes would involve increasing the brackets for the Division I Baseball Championship from 48 to 64 teams and for the Division I Women's Basketball Championship from 48 to 56 teams.

Larger championships fields also are proposed for Division I softball, Division I women's swimming, Division I women's track and field, Division II men's basketball, Division II men's soccer, Division II women's volleyball, Division III women's basketball, and Division III women's cross country.

Expansion of championships fields is among several items being considered as a review of three-year fiscal plans submitted by each of the Association's sports committees. Other items included in the fiscal plans include committee expansion, officiating, official travel party, format changes and promotions.

The Executive Committee also will review the per diem policy for NCAA championships. The committee has received numerous requests from participating institutions for additional per diem to treat unusual or extenuating circumstances.

To clarify what is permitted, the committee will consider permitting several common exceptions to the current per diem policy.

The committee also will be asked to examine a proposed policy that

Presidents select Young

Charles E. Young, chancellor of the University of California, Los Angeles, has been selected to serve as Division I chair of the NCAA Presidents Commission.

Young fills the vacancy in that office created by the resignation of William H. Cunningham, who has been named head of the University of Texas System. Young will serve as Division I chair until his term on the Commission ends in January 1994.

He has been the Pacific-10 Conference representative on the Presidents Commission since 1988 and has been serving as the Division I vice-chair since 1990.

Young was selected by the Division I Commission members in a Penalty structure to be examined

A 15-person committee has been appointed to review the NCAA penalty structure.

At its January meeting, the NCAA Committee on Infractions requested the creation of the Special Committee to Review the NCAA Penalty Structure, which is a follow-up to the special committee that reviewed the infractions process last year.

R. Gerald Turner, chancellor of the University of Mississippi, will chair the committee.

Other members include Elaine Elliott, head women's basketball coach, University of Utah; Barbara A. Hedges, director of athletics, University of Washington; Gene E. Hooks, director of athletics, Wake Forest University; Carl C. James, commissioner, Big Eight Conference; Mike Maddox, former student-athlete, University of Kansas; Arend D. Lubbers, president, Grand Valley State University; and George Raveling, head men's basketball coach, University of Southern California.

Basketball committees stiffen technical fouls

In an effort to increase the penalty for unsporting conduct, the NCAA Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees have determined that all unsporting technical fouls and contact technical fouls will count toward player disqualification and bonus situations.

Meeting April 23-24 in Palm Springs, California, the committees expanded on action taken a year ago. In 1991, the committees ruled that contact technical fouls, in addition to personal fouls, should count toward a player's five for disqualification and toward the bonus situation. This year's decision takes that one step further to include all unsporting technical fouls.

"The price for committing these types of fouls has gone up," said Henry O. Nichols of Villanova University, secretary-rules editor of the men's committee.

In a similar move, the women's rules committee stiffened the penalty for the ejection of head coaches. Beginning with the 1992-93 season, head women's basketball coaches will be ejected from a contest with the assessment of a second technical foul. Previously, coaches were ejected on the third technical foul.

Marcy Weston of Central Michigan University, secretary-rules editor of the women's rules committee, said the change in the committee's thinking does not indicate that a problem with coaches' conduct existed in the women's game.

"This change does not reflect a reaction to coaches' inappropriate behavior but rather reflects an effort to ensure that positive behavior is encouraged," Weston said.

The rule brings the women's pen-

Other highlights

In other action at their April 23-24 meeting in Palm Springs, California, the NCAA Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees:

- Prohibited the placement of any commercial names or logos on the playing floor, backboards, rims and padding around the goal standard. Only the manufacturer's logo is permitted on the basketball.
- Ruled that a throw-in that becomes lodged in the rim support is a violation instead of an alternating-possession situation.
- Voted to assess only one technical foul for scorer's table violations discovered during the game.
- Agreed to assess only one timeout to a team when an injured player is attended to by team personnel and elects to remain in the game.
- Ruled as inappropriate equipment any type of shooting glove.

- Heard a presentation by KSI Sports, Inc., on a shooting glove.
- The men's committee eliminated the practice of resetting the shot clock to five seconds when the ball is deflected out of bounds and the clock has less than five seconds on it.
- The men's committee also made an exception to the definition of when a try ends for an airborne shooter to allow the shooter to return to the floor.
- The women's committee voted to repeat the principle of verticality, rough low-post play and illegal screening as points of emphasis.
- Points of emphasis for the men will include the principle of verticality, rough low-post play, bench decorum and taunting and baiting, and hanging on the rim.

alty for a coach's ejection in line with the men's rule and reflects a sentiment by the committees to work toward a common set of rules.

"For the men, I think the changes that were not made are as significant as the changes we did make," said men's committee chair B. Gene Bartow of the University of Alabama at Birmingham. "We made no changes in the three-point line, the free-throw lane or the shot clock. We also left alone the two-shot free throw after the 10th team foul in a half.

"We talked about all of these, but it was obvious that the committee was not prepared to make any changes, and the survey results did not mandate changes in any of these areas."

Schultz discusses Virginia case

NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz said April 23 that he was not aware of improper loans to student-athletes while he was athletics director at the University of Virginia.

Schultz conducted a news conference from the NCAA national office after the university released a 550-page report on its investigation of the athletics department that concluded that there had been no willful violations of NCAA rules. He accepted responsibility for incidents that occurred during his tenure, but he denied knowing about any loans to student-athletes. Such loans could violate NCAA legislation.

The report said that 30 athletes received 45 loans from the Virginia Student Aid Foundation for a total of $14,948.98 over a 10-year period.

In addition to the student loans, the report also noted loans that were made to athletics department and VSAF personnel that were not violations. Schultz was among those receiving such loans.

The report said: "In many ways, the most elusive factual issue confronted during this inquiry concerns Mr. (Ted) Davenport's testimony that at one point, Mr. Schultz ordered him to stop making further loans to student-athletes." Davenport was the VSAF administrator who signed the loan checks.

Schultz acknowledges telling Davenport that no more loans were to be made, but he said he was discussing the loans to athletics department personnel and not loans to student-athletes. He said he knew of no such loans and said that even in retrospect, it is difficult to see how he could have known.

"There weren't any rumor mills running around," he said. "Normally, when there's something wrong, you get vibrations. There were no vibrations with this. This highlights one of the great concerns that I think all administrators have, from president on down: What is going on that I might not be aware of?"

The institution's report has been submitted to the NCAA and will be considered in the same manner as any other case in the Association's enforcement and infractions process. Schultz noted that the executive director is never involved in any way in that process.

Committee notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancies must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA national office no later than May 13, 1992.

Student-Athlete Advisory Committee: Replacement for Margaret Smith, George Mason University, resigned. Appointee must be from Division I, Region I.

Men's and Women's Rifle Committee: Replacement for John W. Kaiser, St. John's University (New York), per Bylaw 21.1.3. Appointee must be an administrator.

Drug-testing consent form

Member institutions should note that in accordance with NCAA Constitution 3.2.4.6.1 and Bylaws 14.01.4 and 30.5, member institutions are required to administer the drug-testing consent form individually to student-athletes each academic year at the time the intercollegiate squad first reports for practice or prior to the Monday of the institution's fourth week of classes, whichever date occurs first. The consent form must be kept on file in the office of the director of athletics, and such files must be available for examination upon request by an authorized representative of the NCAA. Failure to complete and sign the consent form will result in the student-athlete's ineligibility for participation (i.e., practice and competition) in all intercollegiate athletics.

During its March 11, 1992, conference, the NCAA Interpretations Committee determined that a student-athlete who has not signed the drug-testing consent form by the deadline set forth in Constitution 3.2.4.6.1 (i.e., the first day of practice or the Monday of the institution's fourth week of classes, whichever occurs earlier) is not eligible for practice and competition until the student-athlete has signed the consent form. The committee noted that although it is not necessary for a student-athlete to sign the consent form by the deadline, a student-athlete who practices or competes prior to signing the form becomes ineligible for participation in intercollegiate athletics. The institution may appeal to the NCAA Eligibility Committee for restoration of the student-athlete's eligibility if the institution deems circumstances warrant such restoration.

Bylaw 15.4.6.2—academic honor awards—Division III

Division III member institutions should note that during its April 13-14, 1992, meeting, the NCAA Council affirmed the Division III Steering Committee's interpretation that a student-athlete may receive an academic honor award that meets the criteria of Bylaw 15.4.6.2 without consideration of need if the award includes criteria in addition to the specified academic requirements, provided the additional criteria are not based in any degree on athletics ability or participation.

Bylaw 30.10.7.4—dead period—Division I women's softball

Division I member institutions should note that during its April 13-14, 1992, meeting, the Council approved a previous NCAA Administrative Committee decision amending Bylaw 30.10.7.4 (softball, Division I women) to indicate that there is a dead period in the sport of softball from Tuesday prior to the National Collegiate Division I Women's Softball Championship game until noon on the day after the game. Thus, the dead period in Division I softball is from May 19 through noon May 26, 1992, and May 25 through noon June 1, 1993. Please note that Figure 13-7 will be revised in the 1993-94 NCAA Manual to include the correct dates.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to Nancy L. Mitchell, assistant executive director for legislative services, at the NCAA national office.

Checks from basketball fund mailed

Checks totaling $31,500,003 have been mailed to conference commissioners and directors of athletics in Division I in the first installment of the NCAA revenue-distribution plan for 1992.

The checks were sent April 24 to commissioners of qualifying conferences, which in turn will distribute the money to their members. Checks for qualifying independent institutions were mailed directly to the appropriate athletics directors.

NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz said each institution was credited with one unit for each game played by its team in the Division I Men's Basketball Championship from 1986 through 1991, except that no units were awarded for championship games.

The revenue plan distributes money from the NCAA's seven-year, $1 billion television contract with CBS to the membership through six different funds. The total distributed in 1992 will be $75,425,000. The basketball fund is the largest of the six funds.

The 1992 basketball fund is slightly larger than the $31.25 million distributed in 1991, but the value per unit is slightly smaller, according to Associate Executive Director Louis J. Spry. The 1991 distribution reflected tournament appearances from 1985 to 1990. In that period, the value of each unit was made larger because 19 units were voided when institutions used ineligible players.

For the 1986 through 1991 seasons (which determined this year's funds), 12 units were voided because of ineligible players, Spry said. Also, Spry said, three more units were added in 1991 because of the play-in games that preceded the first round of the tournament.

The average value of each unit is $42,857, a decrease of $246 from 1991. The Atlantic Coast Conference accumulated the greatest number of units, 92.

A table detailing the basketball fund distribution appeared in the February 26 issue of The NCAA News.

Revenue-distribution funds

The amount of money in each fund in the 1992 NCAA revenue-distribution plan and when the checks will be mailed:

Fund	Total	Date
Basketball	$31.5 million	Mailed
Division II	$2 million	May 22

Needy student-athlete	$3 million	July 31
Sports sponsorship	$10.5 million	August 14

News Fact File

The NCAA has discontinued eight championships in its history: boxing, which ended in 1960; men's fencing and women's fencing, which ended after the 1989 events when the two were combined into a single championship, and Division II championships in field hockey (last one in 1983), men's gymnastics (1984), women's gymnastics (1986), men's ice hockey (1984) and men's lacrosse (1981). [Note: Three of those will resume in 1992-93: Division II field hockey, men's ice hockey and men's lacrosse.]

This 'Doc' knows how to find the funny bone

By David D. Smale
The NCAA News Staff

Donald L. "Doc" Cooper has spent some time on the golf course, as doctors sometimes are known to do. In fact, Cooper was quite proud of his golf game.

Until that day about 20 years ago.

He was challenged by Oklahoma State University baseball coach Chet Bryan to a nine-hole match. It wasn't just any golf match, however. While Cooper was playing with his usual weapons, Bryan played his entire round with a fungo bat. The final score? Bryan 41, Cooper 42.

"He could hit that dang thing perfectly," Cooper said. "He was good. I got a lesson. It cost me a dollar." But the loss didn't stop Cooper from talking about his game. He quotes the saying: "The things I remember the best never happened to me."

"I believe that would apply to nearly every old athlete I know, including me," he said.

Comedian and storyteller

Cooper is the team doctor at Oklahoma State. He has been since 1960, when he also became director of OSU's student health center. He gave up that position two years ago, and although he still works full time at the center, his title is now director of athletics medicine and team doctor. "That's the title," he says, "but I have no authority."

That may be his title. It may even be what he gets paid to do. But he is known on campus and around all of college athletics as a comedian and a storyteller. A typical 30-minute Doc Cooper speech may spend only about five minutes addressing the assigned topic; the rest of the time is spent keeping his audience entertained and interested.

As a member of the NCAA Drug Education Committee from 1970 to 1979, he and Hardin Jones, a nationally known neurophysiology researcher from the University of California, Berkeley, traveled the country speaking about the harmful effects of drug use. "We talked to every coaches association we could find—football, basketball, baseball, track," he said. "We had a dog-and-pony show. Hardin was the serious researcher, and I was the comic relief. But we did get our point across."

Cooper remains a highly respected authority in sports medicine. The lists of memberships, appointments and honors takes up five pages of his vita.

He lectured on sports medicine in the Soviet Union and China and has appeared on several national television shows discussing various aspects of sports medicine. He has twice testified before Congress. He was the U.S. team doctor for the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, has been on the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports since 1981, is listed on numerous boards and advisory committees and has been published 40 times, in addition to being a quoted source in four books. Cooper likes to stay busy.

'Damning and condemning'

One of his biggest soapboxes is drug-abuse prevention. "I was damning and condemning steroids before the Drug Education Committee was formed (in 1970)," he said. "We worked long and hard getting that committee started. Twenty-two years ago, coaches and athletics directors didn't want to talk about drugs. They wanted to believe that there wasn't anything like that going on at their schools. Maybe somebody else's, but not ours. Well, when everybody gets together, then it's at nobody's. But the problem was there."

Cooper believes in the current drug-testing program. The biggest gain, he says, came when testing crews were permitted to administer a random test at any time. "Until they did that, it was a joke," he said. "It's still a problem. I don't think you can deal with human beings and not run into drug abuse. We still have a serious problem with drugs; we haven't resolved it. But we're (athletics) doing better than any other segment of society."

As chair of the NCAA Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports, Cooper also fought for the elimination of the crack-back block in football—a situation he had personal experience with in 1966 when a telephone repairman got excited on the sideline of a game and jumped into him from behind. Cooper suffered torn anterior cruciate ligaments in both knees. "I'm about 64, but my knees are 92," he says.

While chairing the competitive safeguards committee, he also served as medical adviser to the NCAA Football Rules Committee. One of his favorite stories—true ones, that is—occurred in that role.

Tough sell

"For years, mouthpieces were mandatory in high schools and junior colleges, but the NCAA would never pass it because the rules committee was dominated by coaches," he said. "Every time it would come up and being the medical consultant to the committee, I presented it every year—the complaint was that it would interfere with breathing and especially with communication. The quarterback couldn't be made to wear one, they said, because nobody could understand him."

"Finally, in 1973, I went to my local dentist and had him make me a clear plastic mouthpiece to fit my mouth. For about two weeks before the meeting of the rules committee, I wore it every day. When I went to the meeting, I made about a 30-minute report on everything from crack-back blocks and blocking below the waste to padding on the outer shell of the helmets and shoulder pads—they have padding on the knee pads and the thighs, everywhere but where they get hit—all with the mouthpiece in my mouth. When I was done, I said, 'Now, did any of you have any trouble understanding what I just said?' They said, 'No, what do you mean?' So I reached in my mouth and pulled out the mouthpiece, and said, 'You cut out that crap about not being able to communicate.' They voted it in unanimously."

With a mouthpiece or without, Cooper usually gets his point across. He has remained vocal on issues on which he feels strongly. On drug-abuse prevention, he says, "I kept telling people that the No. 1 reason we were getting into drug education and drug testing was the eventual continual health of the athlete. That has to be the bottom line. It wasn't that we were trying to chastise anybody because we were primarily interested in education."

Cooper has slowed down a little in the past few years. The dog-and-pony show no longer goes on the road, though anyone who has spent any time with Cooper knows that the comic relief is never too far removed. Except for his bad knees, he is in excellent condition... sort of.

"Amazingly enough, my physical health is good," he said. "My mental health has been in question many, many times."

His knees may be 92, but his wit is fresh.

Fast reaction helped save athlete's arm

While Donald L. "Doc" Cooper is widely known as a great storyteller, his most dramatic tale may be one that is completely true.

It involves an athlete whose arm was torn off by a water extractor. The arm was sewn back on surgically, and today the individual has 40 to 50 percent use of the limb.

The story began in 1964, when a basketball player was washing his clothes in the athletics laundry room. The laundry room was equipped with heavy-duty washing machines, as well as the extractors, to wash football uniforms. The washing machines, however, did not have a rinse cycle.

After going through the machines, the laundry was put in an extractor—a big drum that spun at a rate of 2,500 RPMs. The machines were old and didn't have the braking system of today's appliances. When they shut off, they simply slowed down. The centrifugal force of the drum diminished similarly.

One Sunday evening, 6-9 starting basketball center Bob Swaffar and another basketball player, Gary Hassmann—who, fortunately for Swaffar, was a premed student—were doing their laundry when Swaffar decided to pull his jeans out of the extractor before it stopped spinning. The force ripped his arm off at the midshaft of the humerus "in about 1/200th of a second," according to Cooper.

The lower part of the arm fell into the drum. Hassmann applied pressure to the axillary artery of what remained until the artery closed down. Hassmann then called the police, who called Cooper and an ambulance.

"I told Hassmann to pick up the arm out of the extractor—once it had stopped—wrap it in clean towels and bring it to the emergency room of the hospital," Cooper said. "Of course, there were plenty of clean towels there. When I got there in about 15 minutes, I put the arm in a zinc tub and packed it in ice. I rode in the ambulance with Bob holding on to his good hand, and I wrapped the end of the stump in clean towels."

Fortunately for Swaffar, a team of doctors had been doing research for two years on reapplying limbs on animals, though they never had had a human being upon which to work. They were located at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center in Oklahoma City, 70 miles to the south. After an ambulance ride at around 120 miles per hour, Swaffar was in the operating room just two hours after the accident.

The spinning drum of the extractor had drained the arm of all fluids, so there was no clotting. During surgery, the doctors first reattached the bone, then the blood vessels. "The minute they attached the artery, his fingernails were as pink as yours or mine," Cooper said.

Swaffar did not lose any tissue. He later had two more nerve-graft surgeries. He underwent physical therapy in the Student Health Center twice a day for the next two years. Although he dropped a couple of courses, he did not lose the semester and was able to graduate on time.

"Today, he can do push-ups and chin-ups," Cooper proudly proclaims. "He can open doors and hold glasses. His arm looks like he might have had polio. He has atrophy in his forearm, but his biceps and triceps came back pretty well. His fine movements in his hands are not that great, but he currently is the director of the graphics laboratory at the University of Texas school of architecture in Austin."

Donald L. "Doc" Cooper

"That still is one of the most successful replants that ever has been done. It is because the arm was spun dry, and we got it in ice right away before the tissue had a chance to devitalize."

adopted seven rules that were consistent for both games. The committees did not adopt any rules that were different, and each committee changed one rule to comply with the other committee's standard.

"I am strongly encouraged by the communication and cooperation between the Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees," Weston said. "No one made a rule change that went away from commonality."

Rita Castagna of Assumption College, chair of the women's committee, said the lack of significant rules changes indicates a satisfaction with the present format.

"It's evident that the game for women has improved enough with all of the rules that we don't need to look for major changes in the game," Castagna said. "This seems to indicate that we have rules that allow a style of basketball that anyone can present."

The men's committee continued to look at ways to address the delays in the last two minutes of the game. They will add language to the delay-of-game penalty with regard to huddles with coaches and teammates prior to free throws.

"There are other rules possibilities we are studying in this area," said Nichols. "And we will continue to seek input from coaches and other constituents."

Carnesecca's retirement is a loss for basketball

By Owen Canfield
The Hartford Courant

Wesleyan University men's basketball coach Herb Kenny was the right guy to ask about Lou Carnesecca. The game of basketball, international relations, people such as Kenny who know Carnesecca and anyone who likes entertainment suffered a wallop April 13 when the St. John's University (New York) coach announced his retirement.

Carnesecca has been on the board of directors of the National Association of Basketball Coaches a number of years. Kenny, who stepped down as president of the NABC April 5, laughs when he remembers some of the meetings he chaired with Carnesecca present.

"We used to kid Looie," Kenny said, "because he wore a hearing aid. When he wasn't interested in what we were talking about, he'd turn it off. And then, of course, Looie loves to talk, as everyone knows. He'd want to talk on and on, and I'd have to tell him he couldn't. Then I'd ask myself, 'Who are you to be telling this guy to be quiet?' But he was a terrific help to me and a hard worker in the NABC. Many times he would kind of lay the path for me and put me in touch with people I had to reach. We're going to miss him."

Sportswriters and broadcasters will lose an irreplaceable character—a genuinely funny and clever man—in Carnesecca. St. John's loses a coach so talented that he was elected to the Basketball Hall of Fame earlier this year. Big East Conference people have a huge hole to fill.

It gets wider and deeper. The veteran Kenny, nationally respected for his work at Wesleyan, testifies to the kindness of the man.

"Three years ago, we were at a coaches meeting in Traverse City, Michigan. My wife and I got word that our son Patrick had been involved in a serious automobile accident in Queens (New York).

"I asked Looie about the hospital where they had taken Patrick. It was Mary Immaculate Hospital in Queens. Looie immediately telephoned the hospital and got hold of the chaplain, Father Kiernan, and got him to go right to Patrick, who was in a coma.

"My wife and I made quick arrangements to fly home. Looie's wife (Mary) doesn't like to fly, so he was driving home. We were held up in Chicago. Looie, driving all that way, beat us to the hospital.

"The police had given Patrick up for dead at the scene and had taken all his identification for safekeeping. When Patrick got to the hospital, he had a sheet over his face. He was just an unknown male in the hospital. But a nurse named Sharon Brennan came in and said 'He's not dead' and brought him back. But he was in this coma.

"Anyway, Looie got there and walked in that room and Patrick opened his eyes. It's true. He needed six months to recover... but he's OK now."

Yes, Carnesecca has a friend in Herb Kenny, who respects Looie for what he gave back to the game as much as for his 526 victories. "All those years (24) at St. John's and all those postseason appearances (24) and never a minute on probation," Kenny said. "He continued a clean program after Joe Lapchick and had a great career in a pressurized conference, the Big East. And he's in the Hall of Fame.

"I'll tell you something else: basketball and this country are losing a great ambassador overseas. He did an awful lot of international traveling, and everywhere he went he was as popular as he is here."

Carnesecca has a heart and a Froggy the Gremlin voice and certain sweaters he wore for luck and funny cracks for interviewers and a rare temperament that preserved the persona and made him the same guy whether he won by a point in overtime or lost by 40.

I'll miss him most from my side of the basketball court, opposite his. Whenever St. John's was the University of Connecticut opponent, I knew I would miss a lot of the game action I was supposed to be watching. I've called him Mr. Dithers since the first time I saw him gyrating through a game, face contorted, shirt askew, short legs out of control, taking him wherever they would. When his players made a shot, Looie also made it with body English; when they jumped for a rebound, he reached, too. The advent of the coaching box must have been hell on earth for him, because when the Redmen took off on a fast break, Looie often ran with them stride for stride, necktie trailing like a windsock.

When the game ended, he looked like the Ragamuffin King. He had time for old-timers from large newspapers and kids working their first big assignments for little weeklies. One was no less important than the other.

Coaches come and go, time goes by, life goes on. Some are not missed, some are missed. And with still others, there is a real sense of loss. In this case, you just have to feel lucky if you can say, "When Mr. Dithers was doing the tango on the sidelines, I was there to see it," and be satisfied with that.

Neinas: Colleges seeking long-lasting solutions in athletics

Championships previews

Division I men's lacrosse

Syracuse bids for another championship in year of parity

Event: 1992 Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship.

Overview: No. 1 Syracuse (10-1), champion from 1988 to 1990, is one goal away from being undefeated. The Orangemen's only loss came at traditional power Johns Hopkins, 15-14, March 21. Defending champion North Carolina, a 15-10 loser to the Orange in Syracuse's opening game, is ranked second at 9-2. The Tar Heels bowed to Loyola (Maryland), 7-6, in their next game, but have run off seven straight wins since against a steady diet of top-15 competition.

Field: Twelve teams will compete in a single-elimination tournament. One team will be selected from each of the three geographical regions: Northeast, Southeast and West.

Dates and sites: First-round games will be May 9 and quarterfinals games are set for May 16 on the campuses of competing teams. The semifinals and final will be May 25 and 29, respectively, at Pennsylvania.

Results: Scores and pairings from the first round will appear in the May 13 issue of The NCAA News. Scores and pairings from the quarterfinals will appear in the May 20 issue. Results of the semifinals and final will appear in the May 27 issue.

Television coverage: CBS will televise the championship game tape-delayed at 1:30 p.m. Eastern time June 7. The semifinals will be televised by Prime Network; check local cable listings for date and time.

Championship notes: Johns Hopkins, Syracuse or North Carolina has won the championship every year since 1978.

What they are saying

Roy Simmons, head coach
Syracuse

Currently ranked No. 1

"We had our roll of three years, and it had to end sometime. The Gaits (former first-team all-American midfielders Paul and Gary) left behind a lot of attitude and tradition, and we still have a lot of kids who have tasted the gold. We have a happy chemistry of kids who, while not being genetically as talented as the Gaits, have gotten it done with a lot of heart."

Dave Klarmann, head coach
North Carolina

Defending champion, currently ranked No. 2

"It (the parity in Division I) is what coaches have said it is. Everyone in America wants someone to be the ultimate best in everything, but it's not that way. Any team can beat any team now."

Bill Tierney, head coach
Princeton

Currently ranked No. 3

"This is the best chance we've had to win the national championship, yet that may be due to the fact that everyone seems to be pretty even. So many teams have proven that they're capable of beating top teams, but then they lose to lesser teams. (The champion could be) any one of eight teams."

National Collegiate women's lacrosse

Remaining regular-season games crucial

Event: 1992 National Collegiate Women's Lacrosse Championship.

Overview: Top-ranked Harvard (8-1) looms as the favorite, although anything could happen given the number of head-to-head games remaining among the top teams battling for six tournament spots and the evenly distributed talent. The Crimson has lost only to fifth-ranked Loyola (Maryland), 10-9, in overtime. Second-ranked Maryland (8-1) has lost only to Harvard, 7-5, but must face both Loyola and fourth-ranked Penn State before season's end. Defending champion Virginia (11-2) has lost only to seventh-ranked Princeton, 5-2, and Maryland, 5-4. The third-ranked Cavaliers have the leading goal scorer in the country, Jenny Slingluff.

Field: The championship is a six-team, single-elimination tournament with all teams selected at large.

Dates and sites: First-round games will be May 9 on the campuses of competing teams. The semifinals and final will be May 16 and 17 at Lehigh.

Results: Scores and pairings from the first round will be published in the May 13 issue of The NCAA News. Results of the semifinals and final will appear in the May 20 issue.

Championship notes: Since the tournament began in 1982, Temple and Penn State have won two championships apiece. No other team has won more than one.... Virginia's Jenny Slingluff was the leading scorer in the tournament last year.... This is the first time Lehigh has hosted the semifinals and championship.... Maryland, runner-up the past two years, has advanced to the championship game a record five times. The Terrapins' only championship came in 1986.

What they are saying

Carole Kleinfelder, head coach
Harvard

Currently ranked No. 1, 1990 champion

"We thought we had a good chance to win (the championship) again last year, but we got nudged out (in the first round) by one goal. Most of those players are back. They know what it takes, and they could see that it is within their grasp. The championship is up for grabs."

Cindy Timchal, head coach
Maryland

Currently ranked No. 2, 1991 runner-up

"Only six teams can go. All games increase in importance as the season goes on. You can't afford to lose now because a loss can take you out of the tournament."

Jane Miller, head coach
Virginia

Defending champion, currently ranked No. 2

"We lost a few players from last year, but we had a lot of depth returning, so we knew we could (be a contender again). Last year we were injury-free, but this year we had to work through some injuries."

Division III men's lacrosse

Tough field to challenge 12-time champs

Event: 1992 Division III Men's Lacrosse Championships.

Overview: Twelve-time defending champion Hobart, with a 6-3 record, is again the favorite, but there is more parity at the top than in previous years. The Statesmen's three losses have come against the top-ranked team in Division I, Syracuse (17-13); at 11th-ranked Virginia (15-14, on a last-second shot), and Cornell (14-12). Second-ranked Nazareth (New York) (7-1) led at Hobart April 15 until the last 20 seconds before losing, 13-12. Salisbury State (10-1), the 1991 runner-up, lost three starting high-scoring attackmen from last year but now features a more balanced offense.

Field: Eight teams will compete in a single-elimination tournament. Three teams from Districts 1 and 2 and one team from Districts 3 through 8 will be selected for the championship, with the remaining teams chosen at large.

Dates and sites: The quarterfinals will be May 10 on the campus of one of the competing teams. The semifinals will be May 17, also on the campus of competing teams. For the first time, the championship game will be held at the site of the Division I semifinals and final, Pennsylvania, May 24.

Results: Scores and pairings from the quarterfinals will appear in the May 13 issue of The NCAA News. Scores of the semifinals will appear in the May 20 issue. Results of the championship game will be in the May 27 issue.

Championship notes: Hobart has won every title since the championship began in 1980.... Hobart's 12 consecutive titles is the NCAA record for team championships. Kenyon, which won its 13th consecutive men's swimming and diving championship this year, holds the record for team-individual sports.

What they are saying

B. J. O'Hara, head coach
Hobart

12-time champion, currently ranked No. 1

"We know we can beat anybody we play

Jim Patten, a senior midfielder for 12-time champion Hobart, is the Statesmen's third-leading scorer and that anybody we play can beat us if we're not at our best. We don't overwhelm people with our talent anymore. A lot of teams feel that they can go all the way and they're probably right. It's a lot like basketball now; any team that's hot at the end of the season can win."

Scott Nelson, head coach
Nazareth (New York)

Currently ranked No. 2

"I haven't seen everybody, but I think the coaches are recruiting so much harder now that there is a lot of parity. (In the one-goal loss at Hobart) I don't think either team played particularly well. We were happy to be in a position to win a game after not playing well, but we were upset we lost the game."

Jim Berkman, head coach
Salisbury State

Currently ranked No. 3, 1991 runner-up

"There is parity at every level. There are so many good players now that five or six teams have a chance to win. Hobart is the favorite. The scores indicate that other schools are very close to them, but they're still in the driver's seat."

Division I women's tennis

Florida presents major challenge to Stanford streak

Event: 1992 NCAA Division I Women's Tennis Championships.

Overview: Stanford is vying for its seventh consecutive team championship, but it will be hard-pressed to repeat with undefeated and top-ranked Florida primed to win its first title. The Lady Gators, who are led by freshman standout Lisa Raymond, hope to avert a repeat of last year's event when they were ranked No. 1 but lost in semifinal play. If Florida is to end Stanford's reign, it will have to do so on the Cardinal's home court. Stanford, ranked No. 2 by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association, will attempt to follow up its 1991 feat of becoming the only host school to win the team title.

Field: A field of 20 teams will vie for the team title, while 64 singles and 32 doubles teams will compete for the individual titles. The team-championship field includes one team from each of six regions (Central, East, Midwest, Southeast, Southwest and West) receiving automatic berths and 14 teams selected at large. The singles and doubles competitors also will be selected at large; however, to obtain regional representation, a minimum of four singles players and two doubles teams will be selected from each region. No more than six singles players and three doubles teams will be selected from one institution.

Dates and sites: The championships will be May 13-21 at Stanford. The team championship will be May 13-17, and singles and doubles competition will follow May 18-21.

Results: Championships results will appear May 27 in The NCAA News.

Championships notes: Stanford (eight) and Southern California (two) are the only two teams to win the team title. . . . UCLA and Florida are the only teams to finish as runner-up in the past four events. UCLA finished second in 1989 and 1991, while Florida placed second in 1988 and 1990. . . . Stanford players have claimed six of the past seven individual titles, including the past three.

What they are saying

Frank Brennan, head coach
Stanford

Six-time defending champion, currently ranked No. 2

"Florida is obviously the big favorite. They are the only undefeated team in the country, and they've played just about everybody. They're going to be awfully tough to beat. They're an outstanding team. After Florida, I think we should fit in there along with teams like Duke, Georgia, Texas. We're playing fairly well. We've been bothered by injuries just like everyone else, but we traditionally have done pretty well at this point in the season. I feel good about (our chances) just like I do every year, but it's going to be an uphill battle against an undefeated Florida team."

Andy Brandi, head coach
Florida

1988 and 1990 runner-up, currently ranked No. 1

"I think this year's event is wide open. There are quite a number of teams capable of winning it all. If you have to compare this year's championships to anything, you'd have to say it was an absolute crapshoot. We're going in with one goal: to win four matches. Whether we're No. 1 or No. 91, we have to win four matches (to win the title)."

Bill Zaima, head coach
UCLA

1989 and 1991 runner-up, currently ranked No. 6

"I think Florida is almost a lock to win. If they get (Andrea) Garley back, they can put her in at No. 5 and that will give them a tremendous lift. I see Stanford and probably Texas and us as the only teams that can stay in contention (with Florida)."

Division II men's tennis

Defending champ likes place on top

Event: 1992 NCAA Division II Men's Tennis Championships.

Overview: Rollins ended an 18-year championship drought in 1991 by claiming the team title, its third overall but first since 1972. Based on their No. 1 ranking in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association's Division II poll, the Tars do not appear willing to wait another 18 years for the school's fourth title. Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, under the guidance of first-year coach Chris Eppright, and UC Davis head a group of as many as six teams capable of preventing a Rollins repeat. The 1990 champion, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, was runner-up a year ago—as well as in 1989—and is ranked No. 2. UC Davis, the 1990 runner-up, finished third a year ago and is in search of its first title.

Field: Eight teams, 64 singles players and 32 doubles teams compose the championships field. The team championship will feature the top eight teams in the nation—including the top-ranked team in each region (East, Midwest, South and West)—based on intraregional results. A maximum of 34 players in singles and doubles in addition to seven players from each team will make up the individual-championship field. Each of the four regions will nominate six singles players and three doubles teams, based on intraregional results.

Dates and sites: Central Oklahoma will serve as host for the championships May 8-14. The team championship will be May 8-10, and singles and doubles competition will follow May 11-14.

Results: Championships results will appear May 20 in The NCAA News.

Championships notes: Southern Illinois-Edwardsville has claimed a Division II championships-record seven titles.

What they are saying

Norm Copeland, head coach
Rollins

Defending champion, currently ranked No. 1

"I expect a real dogfight. There are five or six teams, and maybe eight, that could win. It's that close. This year's (championship) has the makings of a real clash. It's going to be a tight one."

Chris Eppright, head coach
Cal Poly San Luis Obispo

1991 runner-up, 1990 champion, currently ranked No. 2

"I think there will be four or five teams in the hunt. . . . teams that have a real good shot at winning. I think it's going to be a dogfight between the top five teams. It wouldn't surprise me if the same three (Rollins, UC Davis and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo) finish at the top, but if that happens, hopefully we'll move up a spot."

Division III women's lacrosse

Contenders know little about each other

Event: 1992 Division III Women's Lacrosse Championship.

Overview: Late in the season, five teams defending champion Trenton State, William Smith, Roanoke, Denison and Frostburg were undefeated. Except for Trenton State and Frostburg State, which are scheduled to play each other, how those teams stack up against each other will remain a mystery until the tournament because they don't play each other. Roanoke and Trenton State were to play April 4, but a rare spring snowstorm in Roanoke forced a cancellation. A few teams that have one or two losses also could challenge.

Field: The championship is an eight-team, single-elimination tournament. At least one team will be selected from each of the following five regions: New York, Northeast, Pennsylvania, South and West. The remaining three teams will be selected at large.

Dates and sites: First-round games will be May 9 on the campuses of participating teams. The semifinals and final will be May 16 and 17 at Lehigh.

Results: Scores and pairings from the first round will be published in the May 13 issue of The NCAA News. Results of the semifinals and final will appear in the May 20 issue.

Championship notes: Begun in 1985, the Division III championship is one of the NCAA's newest. . . . Either Trenton State or Ursinus has won every year. Trenton State has won four times, Ursinus three.

What they are saying

Sharon Goldbrenner, head coach
Trenton State

Defending champion, currently ranked No. 1

"Everyone has (winning the championship) in the back of their mind, but we don't discuss it on an everyday basis. The players write their goals down at the beginning of the season, and then we look at them in the middle of the season. Certainly, winning the championship is one of our long-range goals, but to be able to do that, we need to be progressing at a particular rate to even think about making it that far."

Pat Genovese, head coach
William Smith

Currently ranked No. 2

"Our defense has done an outstanding job, and offensively, we've been very balanced. Everyone on the field is capable of scoring. I feel we have a very balanced team, and with each game we seem to improve. We let it slip against Trenton State last year (11-8 semifinal loss) in the last three minutes, and this team is not willing to do that again."

Division II women's softball

Cal State Bakersfield bounces back into contention for title

Event: 1992 Division II Women's Softball Championship.

Overview: Three-time champion Cal State Bakersfield has bounced back after missing the tournament last year. Coach Kathy Welter's squad has only two players hitting above .350 but has three pitchers with earned-run averages below 0.60. Defending champion Augustana (South Dakota) and perennial power Bloomsburg have been in the top 10 all year. After its first trip to the tournament and the finals last year, Missouri Southern State has a chance to play in a championship close to home. Pitcher Andrea Clarke won 20 consecutive games at one point during the year.

Field: The championship provides for a field of 16 teams. Four teams will participate at each of four regional sites in double-elimination tournaments to determine four finalists. The finals will be a double-elimination tournament. Seven conferences have been granted automatic qualification; the remaining nine squads will be selected at large. Selections will be announced May 4.

Dates and sites: Regional competition will be May 9-10 on the campuses of competing schools. The finals will be hosted by the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association May 15-17 at the Johnson County Girls Athletic Association Softball Complex in Shawnee, Kansas.

Results: Scores from regional competition will be published in the May 13 issue of The NCAA News. Championship results will appear in the May 20 issue.

Championship notes: Augustana (South Dakota) won its first softball title in 1991, defeating Bloomsburg, 3-2, in 10 innings. Cal State Northridge owns the most championships, winning four during its membership in Division III. Augustana (South Dakota) and Portland State set two tournament records in their 16-inning contest during last year's finals. The teams combined for a record 26 hits.

What they are saying

Kathy Welter, head coach
Cal State Bakersfield
Currently ranked No. 1

"Our strengths this year have been pitching and defense. Those things have been consistent all year. Some of our teams in the past have had more explosive offensive power. This team has won more games by being consistent. In our region this year, there hasn't been a dominant team the way there has been in some years. Our main focus is always just to get to nationals. That's where you have fun and see what happens. Getting through the regional is the chore."

Pat Lipira, head coach
Missouri Southern State
Currently ranked No. 2

"It would be a really neat year to get into the championship. Not only is Shawnee (in suburban Kansas City) close to Joplin, but also many of our players are from the Kansas City area and have played on those fields during the summer. We have had a great following of parents and fans this year, and I know if we got there, it would be great."

Chris Bellotto, head coach Florida Southern
Currently ranked No. 3

"We've been fortunate this year. We've been pretty consistent hitting the ball, and our pitching staff has done a good job. Really, you just have to stay consistent and hope to have good balance between defense, hitting and pitching. If you drop down in one of those categories in postseason, certainly you are going to be in trouble."

Division III women's softball

Behind pitching, Central (Iowa) braces for challengers

Event: 1992 Division III Women's Softball Championship.

Overview: Defending champion Central (Iowa) returns all-American pitcher Jamie Mahnke. In addition, Central (Iowa) has received a strong pitching performance from Emily Grimes, who has a 0.83 earned-run average and a 10-2 record in 12 appearances. After being ranked third in the preseason poll, Trenton State has climbed to a familiar spot—No. 1. Third-ranked Hope has three starters hitting over .400.

Field: The championship provides for a field of 20 teams. Four teams will compete at each of two regional sites, and three teams will compete in each of four other regionals. All regionals and the finals will use a double-elimination format. Five conferences have been granted automatic qualification. The remaining teams will be selected at large. Selections will be announced May 3.

Dates and sites: Regional competition will be May 8-10 on the campuses of competing schools. The finals will be May 14-17 at Central (Iowa).

Results: Scores from regionals will be published in the May 13 issue of The NCAA News. Championship results will appear May 20 in the News.

Championship notes: Central (Iowa) captured its second championship with a 4-0 victory last year over defending champion Eastern Connecticut State. Eastern Connecticut State and Trenton State have the most tournament appearances with 10 each. Eastern Connecticut State owns the most titles with four.

What they are saying

George Wares, head coach
Central (Iowa)
Defending champion, currently ranked No. 2

"We returned eight of 10 starters from last year's club. We are pitching- and defense-dominated. We try to do whatever we can to win. We are very similar (to last year's team). The exception for this year's team has been that it is playing as the defending national champion. We have found that everybody we've played is out to get us."

Karla Wolters, head coach
Hope
Currently tied at No. 3 in rankings

"It is very exciting to have such a strong hitting team. This is the first time we have exploded in terms of hitting. We are usually known for our defense. This year, I think a big reason for our success has been maturity. The hitting has improved, and the defense and pitching have stayed solid. We have the confidence that we are one of the better teams in Division III—that we can beat any team we play. Not that we always will, but we think we can."

Cyndi Gramlich-Covello, head coach
William Paterson
Currently tied at No. 3 in rankings

"Our strength is in our hitting. We have some new kids, so if anything, we are a little young. As far as what we wanted to improve on from last year, that was our hitting, and I think we've done that. The bottom line is you just have to get ready and get up for each team you play every day. We're always going to be coming across the Trentons and the Glassboros."

More summer leagues approved

An additional 19 summer basketball leagues have been approved for student-athlete participation, bringing to 41 the number certified by the NCAA Council.

The first 22 approved summer leagues were reported in the April 22 issue of The NCAA News.

Following are the 11 men's and eight women's leagues recently approved for participation.

Hilliard AVCA player of year

Brent Hilliard, a junior at Long Beach State, has been named national men's volleyball player of the year by the American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) and leads the AVCA's 1992 all-America team.

Hilliard, who was named the most outstanding player in last year's NCAA National Collegiate Men's Volleyball Championship for leading the 49ers to the title, paced Long Beach State to a 27-4 record and the regular-season title this year in the Wilson Division of the Western Intercollegiate Volleyball Association.

Following is a complete listing of the AVCA all-America first and second teams:

First team

Thor Akinshyn, Rutgers-Newark; Duncan Blackman, Stanford; Canyon Ceman, Stanford; Dave Goss, Stanford; Brent Hilliard, Long Beach State; Alan Knipe, Long Beach State.

Second team

Lloy Ball, Indiana/Purdue-Fort Wayne; Eric Fonoimoana, UC Santa Barbara; Dan Landry, UCLA; Matt Lyles, Long Beach State; Jason Stimpfig, Long Beach State; Raul Papaleo, Indiana/Purdue-Fort Wayne.

Marlowe the difference as Utah women take gymnastics title

Utes set record for total points in championship

Missy Marlowe, who won three individual titles and was co-champion in a fourth event, led Utah to an NCAA Women's Gymnastics Championships record 195.650 points and its seventh team title April 24-25 at Minnesota.

Utah, which scored 49,000-plus points in two events (vault and uneven bars), eclipsed the previous championships scoring record of 195.125 set by Alabama in 1991. The triumph also marked the 10th time in the championships' 11-year history that the Utes have placed first or second.

Georgia, which won the 1987 and 1989 titles, placed second with 194.600 points. Alabama, the 1991 champion, was third (193.350), while Penn State (192.775) and Arizona (191.950) rounded out the top five.

Marlowe, co-champion on the balance beam in 1991, won the uneven bars, floor exercise and all-around titles and was co-champion on the balance beam to become the first gymnast in championships history to win four individual titles in one year. Kelly Garrison-Stevens of Oklahoma (1988) and Georgia's Hope Spivey (1991) held the record with three titles.

Marlowe scored 39.650 points in the all-around to edge Heather Stepp of Georgia (39.450) and Alabama's Dee Dee Foster (39.375). She claimed the uneven bars and floor exercise titles with marks of 9.925 and 9.975, respectively. On Utah had reason to celebrate after winning the 1992 team title with a championships-record 195.650 points. The Utes have won or finished second in 10 of the championship's 11 years. Utah's Missy Marlowe also won the all-around competition by edging Heather Stepp of Georgia.

the balance beam, she shared top honors with Dana Dobranskey of Alabama with a 9.900.

Tammy Marshall of Massachusetts finished in a three-way tie for first on the vault with Stepp and Utah's Kristen Kenoyer. Marshall's title performance marked the first time a Massachusetts gymnast has won an individual championship.

Minnesota's John Roethlisberger became the first gymnast since Peter Vidmar in 1984 to win consecutive all-around titles

Stanford surpasses its own scoring record in men's gymnastics

Stanford totaled 289.575 points to smash the national scoring record and claim its first NCAA Men's Gymnastics Championships team title April 23-25 at Nebraska.

The Cardinal, which entered the championships ranked No. 1, proved worthy as it eclipsed its own national mark of 288.400, set March 7 at California. The score shattered the championships meet mark of 288.150, set by Nebraska in 1988.

Paced by Jair Lynch and Tim Ryan, the Cardinal outdistanced seven-time champion and host Nebraska by .625 points. The Cornhuskers accumulated 288.950 points in finishing as runners-up for the fifth time in eight years.

In individual competition, John Roethlisberger of Minnesota totaled 116.075 points to become the first gymnast since 1984 to win back-to-back all-around crowns. Peter Vidmar was the last gymnast to complete the feat, winning in 1983 and 1984.

Roethlisberger's performance edged Scott Keswick of UCLA, who scored 115.825 points to finish second for the second consecutive year. Keswick rebounded to win the rings title with a mark of 9.900.

Lynch claimed the Cardinal's only individual title, winning the horizontal bars with a mark of 9.900. The title was the first for a Stanford gymnast in the event.

Lynch was not the only performer to claim a school's first event title. Dom Minicucci of Temple and Che Bowers of Nebraska won their school's first titles in the parallel bars and pommel horse, respectively.

Pepperdine sweeps Stanford for volleyball championship

Tom Sorenson and Alon Grinberg combined for 54 kills and Chip McCaw registered 77 assists as Pepperdine swept Stanford in three games to capture the National Collegiate Men's Volleyball Championship April 24-25 at Ball State.

Pepperdine, which was appearing in the tournament for the first time since 1986, got 33 kills from Sorenson and 21 from Grinberg to cruise to a 15-7, 15-13, 16-14 triumph. The three-game sweep was the first in the final since UCLA blanked Southern California in 1987.

Stanford was runner-up for the second time in two appearances. The Cardinal dropped a four-game decision to UCLA in 1989.

The final match drew a crowd of 7,391, boosting the championship to a two-day record attendance of 13,102. The previous record was 12,898 at UCLA in 1984.

Grinberg, who finished the two-match tournament with 46 kills, 16 digs and a hitting percentage of .493, was named the tournament's most outstanding player.

Joining Grinberg on the all-tournament team were Sorenson and McCaw, Dave Goss and Duncan Blackman of Stanford, and Penn State's David Muir.

Pepperdine advanced to the final by defeating Penn State, 17-16, 15-4, 15-9. The Cardinal earned its berth in the final, outlasting Indiana/Purdue-Fort Wayne, 15-11, 15-11, 11-15, 13-15, 15-10.

Penn State beat Indiana/Purdue-Fort Wayne, 15-4, 15-5, 15-6, to place third for the fourth time in the past seven years.

State legislation relating to college athletics

This report summarizes legislation currently pending in state legislatures that could affect, or is otherwise of interest to, the intercollegiate athletics programs and student-athletes at NCAA member institutions.

Set forth below is a list of nine bills from eight states. The report includes three bills that have been introduced, and six pending bills on which action has been taken since the last report (April 15, 1992). The newly introduced bills are marked with an asterisk. Pending bills discussed in the previous report on which no action has been taken do not appear in this report.

This report is based on data provided by the Information for Public Affairs on-line state legislation system as of April 23, 1992. The listed bills were selected for inclusion in this report from a larger pool of bills concerning sports, and they therefore do not necessarily represent all bills that would be of interest to individual member institutions. Bills pending in the District of Columbia and U.S. territories are not available on-line and are not included.

The NCAA has not verified the accuracy or completeness of the information and is providing this summary as a service to members. For further information regarding a particular bill, members should contact the state legislature concerned.

As an overview, the table below summarizes the number of bills included in the report by subject:

Trainers	4
Anabolic steroids	3
Coaches' retirement plan	1
Due process	1

Two bills relating to anabolic steroids have become law since the last report.

Sixteen state legislatures have adjourned their regular 1992 sessions: Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Dakota, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming. In Virginia, pending bills will carry over to 1993. In the remaining 15 states, bills will not carry over, and pending bills died at the conclusion of the session if they had not been cleared for the governor's signature.

*Alabama H. 810/S. 583 (Authors: Holley/DeGraffenried)

Provide for the regulation and licensure of athletics trainers; provide for an Athletic Trainers' Board; prescribe civil procedure for appeals; provide penalties.

Status: 4/9/92 S. 583 introduced. To Senate Committee on Health. 4/14/92 H. 810 introduced. To House Committee on Tourism, Entertainment and Sports. 4/16/92 H. 810 from House Committee on Tourism, Entertainment and Sports: Do pass.

Colorado H. 1015 (Author: Adkins)

Designates anabolic steroids as a Schedule III drug.

Status: 1/8/92 introduced. 4/21/92 passed House. To Senate.

*Louisiana H. 1283 (Author: Warner)

Specifies places where persons may work as apprentices in athletics training.

Status: 4/13/92 introduced. To House Committee on Commerce.

Nebraska L. 1019 (Author: Wesely)

Changes laws relating to anabolic steroids to amend provisions on access to records, action against credentials and notification of test results.

Status: 1/10/92 introduced. 4/14/92 passed Legislature. To governor. 4/17/92 signed by Governor.

Rhode Island H. 8916 (Author: Caruolo)

Provides that the NCAA must provide due process protections in all enforcement and eligibility proceedings that may result in the imposition of a penalty.

Status: 2/13/92 introduced. To House Committee on Judiciary. 4/10/92 from House Committee on Judiciary: Do pass as amended.

South Carolina S. 1255 (Author: Macaulay)

Clarifies the requirements for certification of an athletics trainer; provides that contractual work may constitute employment as an athletics trainer.

Status: 2/4/92 introduced. 4/9/92 passed Senate. To House.

Tennessee H. 1743 (Author: Rhinehart)

Moves anabolic steroids from Schedule VIII to Schedule III on the list of controlled substances.

Status: 2/4/92 introduced. 3/5/92 passed House. To Senate. 3/30/92 passed Senate as amended. To House for concurrence. 4/2/92 House concurred in Senate amendments. 4/14/92 to governor. Signed by governor.

Wisconsin A. 324 (Author: Brandemuehl)

Relates to authorizing the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin system to deduct contributions from the salaries of football coaches who are eligible and wish to participate in a pension plan.

Status: 4/5/91 introduced. 3/25/92 passed Assembly. To Senate. 3/27/92 passed Senate. 4/14/92 to governor.

interested in a detailed description of how the system currently works and of what a paralyzing effect varying due process requirements could pose for the NCAA. The bill is still pending in New York, but Schultz said he hopes the sponsors will withdraw it.

Also, similar bills have been killed or tabled in California and Mississippi, Schultz said.

Blockbuster moves

The Blockbuster Bowl has announced plans to join six others games on New Year's Day—including the nearby Federal Express Orange Bowl—and has set its kickoff at 1:30 p.m. Eastern time that day.

The move from December 31 results from a new three-year contract with CBS that was announced April 23. Raycom owns the television rights to the Blockbuster Bowl and will continue to produce the broadcasts.

"Ever since we started, we have had a desire to be on New Year's Day," Charlie Frankel, Blockbuster Bowl chair, told The Associated Press.

"The prestige of playing before a national television audience on New Year's Day is unmistakable," said Mike Lude, Blockbuster Bowl executive director.

The bowl's first two games at Joe Robbie Stadium were played at night in late December. CBS, which televised last season's game between the University of Colorado, Boulder, and University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, found itself without a January 1 game when the Mobil Cotton Bowl recently switched to NBC.

A new alliance involving several major bowls and conferences could lock up many of the highest-ranked teams, leaving the Blockbuster Bowl with a lackluster matchup. Blockbuster Entertainment Corp. chair H. Wayne Huizenga, fearing just such a development, has said his company might not continue as title sponsor when the current contract expires after this season.

Game officials hope the move to January 1 will help entice Huizenga to stay.

Effective defense helps produce sharply lower percentages, totals

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

Defenses are improving in men's Division I basketball that much seems certain.

After all, national scoring in 1992 fell more than five points per game to 147.6 (both teams combined, all games involving at least one Division I team), lowest since the 145.5 in 1987—the first season of universal use of the three-point shot.

Field-goal accuracy from all ranges is the lowest since 1974, three-point accuracy dropped to another record low, two-point accuracy went down a tiny bit and free-throw accuracy has not been lower since 1962. Field goals per game hit the lowest point since 1960.

And get this—if all field goals still counted as two points, the national scoring average would be 137.7—third lowest since 1952. Here are the national figures:

Three-pointer the answer?

What is going on? Suddenly, Division I men can't shoot so straight? The talent level is going down? Defenses are dramatically better?

Probably none of the above.

Certainly, some credit must go to better defensive play. And some of it also can be traced to the increased emphasis on the three-point shot, now a bigger part of the game than ever.

Now, almost one of every four shots (24 percent, to be exact) is a three-pointer vs. one of every six the first season of universal use (1987). Attempts climbed for the sixth straight season in 1992, but for the first time, three-pointers made fell a tiny bit (see table). Even so, the three-point share of the scoring pot climbed again, going above 20 percent for the first time.

Three-point accuracy fell a sixth straight season to a record low, and it is not solely due to more attempts. It is time to give defenses some credit. Princeton, the national scoring-defense leader, also is No. 1 in three-point percentage defense, permitting just 28.8 percent. Miami (Ohio) is second at 29.8 percent.

But national two-point accuracy is just barely below last year, as the table shows. The main factor in the scoring decline simply is that teams took—and made—fewer two-point shots than last year. That would seem to be attributable partly to better defense and partly to more time spent setting up the three-point shot.

As for the continued national decline in free-throw accuracy, we offer no reason. It also was 68.1 percent in 1971 and has not been lower since the 67.9 in 1962. However, the record high is only 69.7 in 1979. It is not a major factor.

Basketball trends

Just a year ago, scoring hit a 16-year high of 152.9, sixth highest ever. But to put that in perspective, it would have been 143.9 if all goals counted two points. And, as mentioned, 1992 would be 137.7 without the three-pointer. Only the 135.1 in 1982 and 136.3 in 1984 were lower, going back 40 years to 128.6 in 1952.

Those two low figures spurred experiments leading to universal use of the 45-second clock in 1986 and the three-point shot a year later.

Now defense is making a comeback.

Conference leaders

For the second straight year, the Southwestern Athletic Conference led the nation's conferences in scoring, edging the Big Eight, 80.8 to 79.9 points per game per team; the Atlantic Coast Conference was a close third at 79.5. Before last year, the Big Eight was the perennial leader. The figures include all games, conference and nonconference.

In field-goal accuracy, the ACC is on top, edging the Big Ten Conference, 48 percent to 47.9, with the Midwestern third at 47.6. In three-point accuracy, the Mid-Continent leads at 37.8 to 37.5 each for the West Coast and Big South, and in free-throw accuracy, it is the Patriot on top, 71 to 70.7 for the Metro-Atlantic; the West Coast is third at 70.4.

Women improve skills

Women's Division I players showed improvement in both two-point and free-throw accuracy in 1992, the latter setting another record, while three-point use and production continued to soar, setting more record highs.

Defenses improved. More time spent setting up the three-pointer may have been a minor factor in the record lows for field-goal attempts. The record low in accuracy for all field goals came because of more emphasis on the three-pointer, where accuracy is lower. Here are the figures:

In the first year of universal three-point use by women (1988), players averaged only three made per game in nine attempts. Now those figures virtually have doubled. At the same time, defenses are better and scoring has dipped a little.

Conference leaders

The Atlantic Coast Conference leads the country in both scoring at 76.2 points per game per team and field-goal accuracy at 45.8 percent, and finished second in three-point accuracy at 35.1 to 35.5 for the Colonial Athletic Association.

The Pacific-10 Conference is second in scoring at 74.6. The Western Athletic Conference is second in field-goal shooting at 44.1. In free-throw accuracy, it is the Big East Conference, 71.1 percent to 70.1 for the Mid-American.

Timetable to select site adopted for III football

The Division III Football Committee developed a timetable for the selection of a site for the 1993, 1994 and 1995 Division III Football Championship title games at its annual meeting April 21-23 in Overland Park, Kansas.

The committee agreed to accept bids from potential host agencies or institutions this fall and review them over the winter. It then will invite potential host groups to make presentations at its February 1993 meeting.

The committee expects to select a site late next spring and enter into a three-year contract with the host agency or institution beginning in 1993.

The championship game, called the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl, will be held in Bradenton, Florida, in 1992. This will be the third straight year that the game has been in Bradenton.

In addition to agreeing upon the details of the site-selection process, the committee reviewed the 1991 championship and began planning for the 1992 tournament.

Skiing committee discusses seeding, starting procedures

Alternative starting and seeding procedures for Alpine events were among the topics discussed when the Men's and Women's Skiing Committee met in Kansas City, Missouri, April 22-24.

While it was reaffirmed that collegiate skiing competition must be conducted under NCAA skiing rules, the committee agreed to recommend to the Executive Committee that individual international points assigned by the Federation Internationale de Ski (FIS) may be used to seed Alpine events.

The committee also agreed to allow as an alternate starting method the FIS practice of reversing the start order of the first 15 first-run finishers in Alpine events.

This would open the way for FIS to use the results of collegiate competition conducted under NCAA rules to assign point values for the competitors in future FIS meets. A similar relationship has been established with the United States Skiing Association, the national governing body for international competition.

Regional qualifying methods used during the regular season were discussed, and the committee agreed that each region must submit its qualifying procedures for the NCAA championships and dates of regular-season events to the NCAA national office no later than November 1. The committee will approve or recommend changes to the procedures used in each region.

Other highlights

In other actions at its April 22-24 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the NCAA Men's and Women's Skiing Committee:

- Assigned the University of Alaska Fairbanks to the Central region for the 1993 championships.
- Designated the University of Colorado, Boulder, host for the 1993 championships, with competition conducted at Steamboat Springs.
- Allocated six berths to the Central region for the 1993 championships. Future championships allocation will be adjusted based on a rolling two-year average.
- Agreed to send invitations directly to specific ski resorts and institutions to increase the number of potential championships sites.

Eligibility appeals

In cases involving prospective student-athletes, current NCAA policy allows the NCAA Eligibility Committee either to restore the involved prospect with all eligibility remaining at the violating institution or to render the prospective student-athlete permanently ineligible at that institution. Accordingly, because the eligibility ramifications of violations that involve prospects and enrolled student-athletes are treated differently, those cases that involve prospects are published separately from the other matters.

Also, note that any actions taken by the institution, conference or NCAA Committee on Infractions regarding the institution's responsibility for the occurrence of the violation that caused the ineligibility of the student-athlete are reported along with the publication of the particular eligibility case.

Eligibility Appeals Concerning Recruiting Violations Involving Prospective Student-Athletes

DIVISION I

No.	Sport	Citation	Facts	NCAA eligibility action	NCAA action regarding institutional responsibility	Institution/conference action
1.	Football	B 13.7.5.1	Student host transported prospective student-athletes (PSAs) beyond 30-mile radius of campus for entertainment purposes during official paid visit. PSAs had not committed to attend a particular institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution reprimanded head coach, restricted him from recruiting off campus for a period of time, and required him to attend institutional rules-education seminars and an NCAA compliance seminar.
2.	Women's basketball	B 13.5.1	PSA received four complimentary admissions from an assistant coach to away contest that was in PSA's hometown.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution reprimanded involved coach, required PSA to repay value of tickets, and required both assistant coaches to prepare and present a recruiting-rules seminar to all institutional coaches.
3.	Men's basketball	B 13.1.1.2	PSA, who was in initial year of attendance at junior college, had contact with assistant coach during several unofficial visits to campus. PSA clearly initiated both the visits and the resulting contacts. PSA also intended to transfer to institution prior to violation.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution issued written reprimand to involved coach and prohibited him from recruiting off campus until passing recruiting-rules test.
4.	Men's track, indoor; men's track, outdoor	B 13.7.2	PSA's official paid visit exceeded 48-hour period due to inclement weather.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
5.	Men's basketball	B 13.4.1	Recruiting materials were inadvertently sent to PSA, who was a freshman.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
6.	Men's basketball	B 13.1.1.1	Head coach had a conversation with PSA's brother. Head coach was unaware they were brothers.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
7.	Women's basketball	B 13.02.4.3	Head coach observed PSA's scrimmage during quiet period. Head coach did not realize that some states (e.g., Michigan) have different permissible evaluation periods.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution will reduce number of evaluations from four to three and number of in-person, off-campus contacts from three to two with PSA.
8.	Men's lacrosse; women's basketball	B 13.4.1.1	PSA received greeting cards that displayed a watercolor print of the institution's grounds.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
9.	Water polo	B 13.01.2 and 13.7.5.1	During official paid visit, student host transported PSA beyond 30-mile radius of campus to another campus where host was involved in a tryout for a national team. PSA also was invited to participate in a workout by the national team coach. Institution was unaware of these activities.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
10.	Women's lacrosse; women's soccer	B 13.7.1.2 and 13.7.1.2.1	PSA received two official paid visits in different sports to institution's campus. PSA's initial visit was to be "unofficial," but head soccer coach provided meal. Violation was discovered after PSA's second visit, which was "official."	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution will require student-athlete (SA) to repay cost of meal.
11.	Men's tennis	B 13.02.4.4	An unrecruited PSA made unofficial visit to campus during dead period before fall National Letter of Intent signing date. PSA had interview with admissions office, which called head coach to request he meet with PSA. Coach was unaware it was a dead period.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution prohibited coach from on- or off-campus recruiting for one week and issued written reprimand. Institution will notify admissions office by telephone and in writing of dead periods.
12.	Men's swimming	B 13.02.4.4	During dead period before fall National Letter of Intent signing date, PSA and PSA's father attended institutional contest and returned a signed National Letter of Intent. Visit was not arranged by coach and upon discovery of PSA's attendance, coach explained rule and asked PSA and PSA's father to leave.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
13.	Men's ice hockey	B 13.02.4.4	Assistant coach had off-campus contact with 12 PSAs during dead period. Contacts occurred during hour-long admissions seminar at PSAs' high-school guidance offices. Institution reminded head coach of dead period; however, head coach did not forward information to assistant coach.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution reprimanded head coach and will allow only one coach to recruit off campus for the remainder of the academic year.
14.	Women's swimming	B 13.12.2.3	Immediately before start of official paid visit, PSA practiced with local club team, which uses institution's pool. Institution's coaching staff did not observe the PSA's practice.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
15.	Women's cross country	B 13.02.4.4	PSA and PSA's mother made official paid visit to campus during dead period before fall National Letter of Intent signing date. Visit was arranged by assistant coach with the knowledge of the head coach, neither of whom realized it was a dead period.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required coaches to meet with compliance coordinator once a week for two months and did not allow PSA to sign early.
16.	Women's softball	B 13.1.2.4-(b)	Head coach contacted PSA by telephone twice in the same week. Coach discovered violation when recording second call in PSA's file. PSA eventually signed National Letter of Intent to attend the institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
17.	Women's cross country	B 13.02.4.4	PSA made official paid visit to campus during dead period before fall National Letter of Intent signing date. Visit originally was scheduled during permissible period but was changed due to scheduling difficulties between coach and PSA's family. PSA later visited several other institutions and did not sign early.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution limited official paid visits to nine for 1991-92 academic year. Conference required institution to cease recruitment of PSA, and required an internal review of policies and procedures with regard to official paid visits. Conference also will conduct a compliance review with the institution.
18.	Men's basketball	B 13.1.5.2-(c)	Head coach had brief in-person contact with PSA immediately after PSA's high-school all-star game. PSA previously had signed National Letter of Intent to attend the institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
19.	Football	B 13.1.5.2	Head coach and assistant coach contacted PSA at high school on day of PSA's basketball contest. PSA had not practiced or competed with the basketball team before or since the date. Three other member institutions were involved in same violation with PSA.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
20.	Women's cross country; women's track, indoor; women's track, outdoor	B 13.7.1.1	PSA received two official paid visits to institution's campus. PSA's initial visit was to be "unofficial," but assistant coach provided PSA and her parents with meal tickets. Violation was discovered after PSA's second visit, which was "official."	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required PSA to repay value of meals.
21.	Football	B 13.1.2.4-(b) and 13.7.2	Two coaches each inadvertently called PSA on same day; another PSA's official paid visit exceeded 48-hour period due to inclement weather.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.

22.	Football	B 13.1.2.4-(b)	For two-month period, assistant coach made several telephone recruiting calls to recruit two PSAs before their senior year in high school. High-school coach erroneously indicated to institution that PSAs were seniors.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
23.	Women's soccer	B 13.1.1.3	Institution erroneously believed written release had been granted by initial institution and had in-person and telephone contact with transfer SA. Initial institution only had given permission for one-time transfer exception. Both institutions realized miscommunication had occurred and initial institution later granted release.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
24.	Men's basketball	B 13.11.1	Sports information office circulated press release that contained comments about PSA's intent to attend institution and his athletics ability. Release was disseminated to conference coaches, but after institution learned of problem, was retrieved before public distribution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
25.	Men's rifle	B 13.02.4.4	PSA made official paid visit to campus that extended into dead period before fall National Letter of Intent signing date. PSA has not committed to attend a particular institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
26.	Men's basketball	B 13.11.1	Head coach and one assistant coach provided description of PSA's athletics abilities to PSA's mother for inclusion in pamphlet she produced to promote PSA's candidacy for high-school all-star team. PSA had not committed to attend a particular institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
27.	Field hockey	B 13.8.2.1	Coach provided meal to PSA and her parents at local restaurant. PSA verbally committed to attend institution before violation.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required PSA's parents to repay cost of meal.
28.	Women's soccer	B 13.12.2.4	During summer before initial enrollment, PSAs competed on a club team coached by head coach. Club team was in locality of the institution and PSAs' legal residences were beyond a 50-mile radius of campus. Coach believed that because PSAs were planning to attend the institution, their participation was permissible.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required involved coach to attend rules-education seminars.
29.	Football	B 13.1.2.4	PSA telephoned assistant coach on toll-free telephone line and spoke for approximately 45 minutes. Coach believed the toll-free service had been disconnected.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
DIVISION II
30.	Football	B 13.1.1.3	Institution had in-person contact with transfer SA before receiving written release from initial institution that SA attended for 1990-91 academic year. SA did not attend any collegiate institution during fall 1991 semester and initiated contact with second institution. Institution later obtained a release from initial institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
31.	Women's basketball	B 13.1.1.3	Institution had in-person contact with transfer SA before receiving written release from initial institution. SA withdrew from team but remained enrolled for duration of semester at initial institution. SA's cousin, who attended second institution, encouraged SA to transfer. Second institution did not believe release was necessary since SA had not participated at initial institution for more than a one-year period, but later obtained release from initial institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.
DIVISION III
32.	Women's basketball; women's volleyball	B 13.1.5.2	Head basketball and volleyball coach sat and talked with PSA's parents during PSA's high-school basketball game. PSA had not committed to attend a particular institution.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution ceased contact with PSA pending resolution of eligibility matter and required coaches to attend weekly rules seminars.
Eligibility Appeals (Other than those involving Recruiting Violations)
DIVISION I
1.	Women's volleyball	B 14.5.3.11-(b)	SA participated in three contests before designating a degree program at the beginning of her third year of enrollment. SA subsequently designated a degree program but was unable to compete during the remainder of the year due to an injury.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	SA will be withheld from first three contests for which she is able to compete.
2.	Football	B 12.5.2	A friend of SA's roommate used SA's name for a slogan on T-shirts that were sold to friends on campus. The individual who produced the T-shirts donated the $50 profit to charity.	Eligibility restored.
3.	Men's tennis	B 14.3.2.1.1, 14.6.4.1.2 and 14.13.4.3	SA received an athletics club scholarship and tuition waiver as a partial qualifier.	Eligibility restored upon repayment of the scholarship and tuition waiver.	Secondary violation; no further action.
4.	Baseball	B 14.3.2.1.1, 14.6.4.1.2 and 14.13.4.3	SA, who was not a qualifier, received an athletics club scholarship as a transfer student. SA participated in one intercollegiate competition during his year in residence.	Eligibility restored upon repayment of scholarship. (Note: SA used a season of competition per B 14.2.4.1.)	Secondary violation; no further action.
5.	Men's volleyball	B 14.8.1 and 17.19.9.1.1	SAs participated in one outside competition after the beginning of the academic year.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.		Institution withheld SAs from first three contests of the 1991-92 nontraditional fall schedule.
6.	Men's lacrosse	B 14.1.5.2.2	SA participated in scrimmage while enrolled in less than 12 hours.	Eligibility restored after SA is withheld from one intercollegiate contest.	Secondary violation; no further action.
7.	Women's cross country	B 12.1.1.2 and 16.1.3.1	SA participated in two road races and received prize money for place-finishes totaling $200. SA was unaware that her actions would violate NCAA rules.	Eligibility restored after SA is withheld from one contest during 1991-92 season and on basis of institutional action.		Institution required SA to repay money.
8.	Women's softball	B 14.8.1.1	SA competed on outside team during academic year before beginning of institution's season.	Eligibility restored after SA is withheld from first intercollegiate contest of 1992 spring season.
9.	Men's basketball	B 16.02.3 and 16.12.2.1	Head coach paid towing bill for SA. SA's car was obstructing traffic in parking garage and SA could not pay for tow.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SA to repay cost of tow.
10.	Women's tennis	B 14.6.4.1.1	Junior college transfer SA competed in two contests during year in residence; institution believed SA had been part-time, rather than full-time, student at junior college.	Eligibility restored. (Note: SA used a season of competition per B 14.2.4.1.)	Secondary violation. Institution was required to forfeit individual points earned by SA and adjust team's standings accordingly.

11.	Men's basketball	B 12.1.1	SA received check for $7,000 from junior college sponsor, apparently in part for graduating and in part for SA's ability as an athlete.	Eligibility restored after SA repays $7,000 and is charged with the loss of a season of competition. On appeal, the Eligibility Committee for Division I affirmed the staff decision. On appeal to the Council Subcommittee on Eligibility Appeals for Division I, the institution presented new information indicating that $2,400 of the $7,000 was compensation for back wages owed to the SA for work he had performed. Because new information was presented, the subcommittee remanded the matter to the Eligibility Committee. Upon consideration of the new information, the Eligibility Committee affirmed its original decision. On appeal, the Council Subcommittee disagreed with the Eligibility Committee and determined that $2,400 of the $7,000 was for back wages owed to the SA. The Council subcommittee determined restoration of eligibility was appropriate after SA is withheld from 50 percent of the 1991-92 season and upon repayment of $4,600.
12.	Football	B 16.3.3-(a)	Institutional staff member provided free typing services to SAs, despite being specifically instructed not to do so.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SAs to repay cost of typing and removed staff member from future contact with SAs.
13.	Football	B 16.12.2.3-(c)	Head coach loaned his automobile to SA for use as a student host in transporting PSAs during an official paid visit.	Eligibility restored upon repayment of value of transportation.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution issued written reprimand to coach and restricted him from recruiting off campus indefinitely. Institution also required coach to attend institutional rules-education seminars and an NCAA compliance seminar.
14.	Men's swimming; women's swimming	B 12.4.1	Several SAs received tips for valet parking services provided at home football games.	Eligibility restored upon repayment.
15.	Men's basketball	B 12.1.1	Before initial enrollment at a collegiate institution, SA appeared in two local television commercials demonstrating his athletics ability. SA received discount on car stereo repair for appearance in one of the commercials.	Eligibility restored upon basis of student-athlete's repayment of value of discount.
16.	Football	B 14.3.2.1.1 and 14.13.4.3	SA, a partial qualifier, competed in two contests and received athletically related aid during initial year in residence. SA's ACT score was later invalidated.	Eligibility restored after SA repays impermissible aid and is withheld from two regularly scheduled intercollegiate contests.
17.	Men's soccer	B 14.8.1.1	SA competed in one contest on outside team during academic year.	Eligibility restored after SA is withheld from first intercollegiate contest of 1992-93 season.
18.	Men's cross country	B 12.5.2.1	SA received remuneration for modeling in buyer's guide for local shopping mall.	Eligibility restored after SA repays money received and is withheld from first intercollegiate contest of 1992-93 season.
19.	Baseball	B 16.12.2.2.2	SAs used athletics department long-distance authorization code to charge phone calls. SAs obtained code while participating in athletics department phone-a-thon.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution withheld SAs from first two contests of spring season and required repayment of cost of calls.
20.	Men's basketball	B 16.8.1.2	SAs provided travel expenses to attend two contests while ineligible for competition.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SAs to repay cost of travel.

Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SAs to repay cost of typing services.
25.	Men's track, indoor; men's track, outdoor	B 14.6.4.1.2	Transfer SA practiced during 1991 fall semester and first week of 1992 spring semester, and received athletically related aid during his transfer year in residence. Institution erroneously believed SA was a qualifier out of high school.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required repayment of aid and corrected its certification process.
26.	Women's golf	B 12.1.2-(i)	SA won a jacket in an amateur golf tournament for closest ball to pin. During institutional rules-review session, SA reported the violation and returned the jacket.	Eligibility restored.
27.	Men's basketball	B 14.3.2.1 and 14.13.4.3	SA, a partial qualifier, received athletically related aid during initial year in residence. Institution appealed use of high-school class toward core curriculum to the Academic Requirements Committee and awarded aid to SA while appeal was pending. That appeals and an initial-eligibility waiver request subsequently were denied.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SA to repay the aid.
28.	Men's soccer	B 14.8.1.1.1	SAs competed in indoor soccer league scrimmage during the academic year. SAs were unaware of outside competition legislation.	Eligibility restored upon fulfillment of conference actions.		Conference required institution to withhold SAs for remainder of nontraditional season and first intercollegiate contest of 1992-93 season.
29.	Men's basketball	B 12.5.2.1	SAs appeared in university bookstore advertisement, which included the brand name of a product. Ad appeared in the men's basketball game program, which was approved by the institution's sports information office.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution removed reference to brand name from ad.
30.	Men's track, indoor	B 14.1.5	SA competed in one contest while enrolled in less than 12 hours. Competition was a nonscoring meet.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution withheld SA from next scheduled contest.
31.	Women's basketball	B 10.1 and 14.01.4.3	SAs admitted they previously provided false information to or withheld relevant information from the institution with regard to inquiries by enforcement staff. Several omissions occurred while they were PSAs and involved additional violations of contact rules under NCAA recruiting legislation; one SA admitted providing false information regarding impermissible transportation and a ticket at no cost from former head coach. Coach contacted all involved student-athletes and instructed them to provide false information.	Eligibility restored after three SAs were withheld from first-round competition of 1990-91 NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Championship. One SA was immediately restored. All SAs were required to repay value of extra benefits received.	This matter was heard by NCAA Committee on Infractions and the institution's self-imposed actions were considered appropriate; committee also imposed show-cause requirement if any member institution hires former head coach during three-year period.	Institution self-imposed the following actions: acceptance of head coach's resignation, limit program to maximum 10 official paid visits during 1991-92 academic year and limit program to one full athletics scholarship less than maximum number allowed under NCAA legislation for 1992-93 academic year.
32.	Men's golf	B 16.8.1.2	SA traveled with team to an away contest and received expenses before being certified as eligible for competition for fall 1991 semester.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SA to repay value of impermissible expenses received.
33.	Men's cross country; men's track, indoor; men's track, outdoor	B 15.2.5.3-(c)	SA received state General Assembly scholarship for which athletics ability was a major criterion.	Eligibility restored after SA repays value of impermissible scholarship.	Secondary violation. Institution was advised to continue monitoring scholarship awards process.	Institution has developed scholarship information forms and forwarded them to offices of state legislators who award scholarships.
34.	Men's soccer	B 14.8.1.1	Three SAs competed in outside competitions; number of contests ranged from one to three. SAs had been advised of new legislation prohibiting such competition during the academic year but erroneously believed recreational competition was permissible.	Eligibility restored on basis of conference action.		Conference required institution to withhold each SA from the same number of contests as the number in which each participated.
35.	Football	B 10.1, 14.01.4.3 and 14.3.2.1	SA, a partial qualifier, practiced and received athletically related aid during initial year in residence; SA was certified as eligible on the basis of ACT score, which later was invalidated. SA later admitted someone took the exam for him.	Eligibility restored for 1993-94 season after SA repays impermissible aid and is charged with the loss of one season of competition.	Secondary violation; no further action.
36.	Football	B 15.1	SA attended training camp with, received extra expenses from and participated in two exhibition contests with major junior A ice hockey team.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SA to repay compensation.
37.	Men's ice hockey	B 12.2.1.1, 12.2.1.3 and 12.2.3.2.4	SA attended training camp with, received extra expenses from and participated in two exhibition contests with major junior A ice hockey team.	Eligibility restored after SA is withheld from intercollegiate competition during initial year in residence at NCAA member institution and the first two regularly scheduled intercollegiate contests of first season of competition. SA also is charged with loss of a season of competition per B 12.2.3.2.4.1.
38.	Men's basketball	B 16.12.2.2.2	SAs charged personal long-distance calls to former coach's institutional telephone calling card. SAs received the number from a former SA, who told them it belonged to a relative who worked for the telephone company and that it was permissible to use the calling card. Head and two assistant coaches were aware SAs were using the phones, but were unaware that they were making long-distance calls.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	This matter was one of many treated by the NCAA Committee on Infractions as part of a major case. Penalties included three-year probation; implementation of (and annual reports regarding) rules-education program; maximum two initial athletically related aid awards for 1992-93 and 1993-94; maximum eight expense-paid visits to campus for 1992 calendar year, and recertification.	Institution required SAs to repay cost of calls.
39.	Men's track, indoor; men's track, outdoor; wrestling	B 14.3.2.1, 14.3.2.2 and 14.13.4.3	Track SA, a nonqualifier, practiced and received institutional financial aid during his initial year in residence. Two wrestling SAs, who were partial qualifiers, practiced during their initial year in residence.	Eligibility restored for wrestling SAs, and for track SA upon repayment of impermissible aid received.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution instituted new procedures to prevent future violations.

40.	Men's golf	B 12.1.1 and 14.8.1	SA participated in outside golf tournament during the academic year and received prize money based upon place finish.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action and after SA is withheld from first regularly scheduled intercollegiate contest.		Institution required SA to repay prize money.
41.	Football	B 16.12.2.1	Graduate assistant coach provided SA with one-way automobile transportation from campus to nearest airport at start of Christmas break.	Eligibility restored after SA repays cost of transportation.	Secondary violation; no further action.
42.	Baseball	B 12.1.2-(j)	SA participated in a semiprofessional baseball tournament sponsored by the American Legion and received $90 in prize money. Prizes were awarded for activities such as hardest hit ball.	Eligibility restored after SA repays prize money and is withheld from first regularly scheduled intercollegiate contest.		Institution required SA to repay prize money.
43.	Baseball; men's tennis	B 12.5.2.3.3 and 16.12.1.3.1-(a)	SAs participated in progressive three-point shooting contest sponsored by intramurals department. SAs won gift certificates in finals, which were held during half time at a men's basketball contest.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SAs to return gift certificates, reviewed NCAA rules with the intramurals department and will reemphasize relevant legislation during SA certification.
44.	Men's ice hockey	B 16.12.2.1	SA, who is an out-of-state student, erroneously was billed for in-state tuition for three semesters due to an admissions office error in designating SA's tuition status.	Eligibility restored upon fulfillment of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution withheld SA from two contests and will require SA to repay difference between in-state and out-of-state tuition for time period in question. Institution also implemented new procedure to prevent such violations in the future.
45.	Men's track, indoor; men's track, outdoor	B 14.1.5.2.2	SA participated in indoor track conference championship while enrolled in less than 12 hours.	Eligibility restored after SA is withheld from next two regularly scheduled intercollegiate outdoor track contests.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Conference deducted points earned by SA at championship and required institution to develop better tracking system for dropped courses.
46.	Men's lacrosse	B 14.8.1.1	Several SAs knowingly participated in outside competition in fall of 1991; number of contests per SA ranged from one to five.	Eligibility restored after each SA is withheld from the same number of regularly scheduled contests as the number in which he impermissibly participated.
47.	Men's soccer	B 14.8.1	SAs participated in organized outside competition with club team; number of contests per SA ranged from one to three. SAs asked for and received permission from head coach prior to participation.	Eligibility restored after each SA is withheld from one regularly scheduled intercollegiate contest.
48.	Men's cross country	B 16.12.2.1	Head coach and assistant coach provided round-trip transportation, one night's lodging and meals to SA at no cost. Coaches traveled to SA's hometown for recruiting purposes and allowed SA to accompany them.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution required SA to repay value of extra benefits received.
49.	Men's track, indoor; men's track, outdoor	B 14.3.2.2.1 and 14.13.4.3	Institution erroneously certified foreign student-athlete as a qualifier and awarded athletically related aid; institution later discovered test score had been achieved after July 1 prior to initial collegiate enrollment. SA subsequently received initial-eligibility waiver but becomes a qualifier during second year in residence.	Eligibility restored upon fulfillment of institutional action.	Secondary violation; no further action.	Institution cancelled SA's aid and required repayment of aid already received. Head coach was reprimanded and institution accepted coach's offer to volunteer one week of vacation to help develop rules-education materials.
DIVISION II
50.	Men's lacrosse	B 14.8.1.1	Several SAs knowingly participated in outside competition in fall of 1991; number of contests per SA ranged from one to eight.	Eligibility restored after each SA is withheld from the same number of regularly scheduled intercollegiate contests and the number in which he impermissibly participated.
51.	Men's basketball	B 14.6.6	Transfer SA participated in two contests during year in residence before fulfilling criteria for 4-2-4 transfer.	Eligibility restored. (Note: SA used a season of competition per B 14.2.4.1.)	Secondary violation; no further action.
52.	Men's soccer	B 14.8.1.1	SA competed in six contests on outside team during period between traditional and nontraditional seasons. SA was advised by head coach that participation was permissible.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.		Institution withheld SA from one date of competition during nontraditional season.
53.	Baseball	B 14.5.5	SA competed in two contests before completing necessary coursework to fulfill satisfactory-progress requirements.	Eligibility restored on basis of institutional action.	Secondary violation. Institution must submit report describing steps taken to avoid similar violations in the future.	SA was withheld from six contests pending appeal for restoration of eligibility. Institution offered to forfeit contest it won in which SA competed while ineligible.
54.	Men's track, indoor	B 14.3.2.2.2 and 14.13.4.3	SA, a partial qualifier, competed in three contests and received athletically related aid during initial year in residence. SA's high school apparently sent transcript to the institution that belonged to SA's brother and SA initially was certified on the basis of incorrect transcript.	Eligibility restored after SA is withheld from first three regularly scheduled contests of 1992-93 season and repays impermissible aid received.	Secondary violation; no further action.
55.	Men's track, indoor; men's track, outdoor	B 14.6.5.1	Transfer SA participated in entire 1990-91 indoor track season during year in residence prior to institution obtaining a release from SA's previous institution. SA would have been otherwise eligible if release had been obtained before participation. Institution later obtained a release.	Eligibility restored.	Secondary violation; institution was admonished to take precautions to avoid similar violations in the future.
DIVISION III
56.	Wrestling	B 14.6.5.1	Transfer SA competed in one contest during year in residence. Institution erroneously believed that SA met Division III transfer exception.	Eligibility restored (Note: SA used season of competition per B 14.2.4.1.)	Secondary violation. Institution was admonished to take precautions to avoid similar violations in the future.	Institution forfeited points earned in match in which SA competed while ineligible and adjusted team's score accordingly.

Eligibility Appeals Drug Testing

(Note: Eligibility appeals regarding those student-athletes who have tested positive for drug use under Bylaw 18.4.1.5.1 will now be published on a periodic basis. Please note that as a minimum, any student-athlete who tests positive, including those who test positive at postseason championships or at certified bowl competitions, must remain ineligible for competition for the mandated period of one year and must retest negative by the NCAA. The application of Bylaw 18.4.1.5.1 necessarily causes the involved student-athlete who participates in the season in which he tests positive to lose at least the equivalent of a season of competition. Therefore, in regard to those student-athletes who test positive prior to participation in a season (e.g., redshirt), such a student-athlete also will be required by the Eligibility Committee to lose at least the equivalent of one season of competition. This policy is intended to ensure that all those who test positive will receive equitable treatment.)

city) golfers. It's been very successful. It was started with the help of the Amateur Athletic Foundation, left over from the 1984 Olympics."

The lack of black players is evident throughout the golfing world. Trish Davis of the National Golf Foundation said that while 13.5 percent of all Americans play golf, the percentage of Blacks who play is just 2.8. That translates to about 650,000 participants.

Couple that with the fact that women make up just 23 percent of all golfers (6.5 million of the 27.8 million golfers), and it is not hard to understand why there aren't more black women golfers.

Not bound by tradition

"When I was growing up, I looked at golf as a game for rich, white males who wore plaid pants," Davis said. "It is still a male-dominated sport. It is not as much as it used to be, but it is changing slowly."

Sugg is one person who did not accept the tradition. She was introduced to golf by her grandfather, who "sacrificed everything he could to get her into the right places and would reduce per diem from a full day to a half day for the host institutions and participants competing for institutions within 25 miles of the championship site if the institutions' residence and dining facilities are open. If they are not, the participants would be entitled to full per diem. If adopted, the savings to the Association would be approximately $330,000.

Other items on the agenda:

- The Division I Championships Committee will meet with representatives of the Collegiate Commissioners Association to discuss policies and procedures that govern the Division I championships program (items ranging from sports committee composition to tournament administration).

- The Executive Committee also will consider the recommendations of the Special Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues. That committee is continually monitoring the Association's plan to distribute revenue from the Association's television contract with CBS. Some members have suggested changes in the broad-based component of the plan, but the revenue-distribution committee has recommended that no modifications be made for the current year.

- The Men's Gymnastics Committee and the Men's Water Polo Committee have proposed a change in Bylaw 18.2.11-(a) that would change the exemption to the minimum sponsorship requirement. Neither sport is expected to have enough sponsors when Bylaw 18.2.10.2 (a legislative exception approved at the 1992 Convention) expires in 1994. Under the proposal recommended to the Executive Committee, a championship would be permitted to continue if receipts exceed disbursements (excluding transportation and per diem allowance). The legislation currently provides an exemption for a championship in which net receipts exceed expenses, including transportation and per diem.

Sweazy, faculty athletics representative, Texas Tech University; Bob Timmons, former track and field coach, University of Kansas; and Jim Wacker, football coach, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities.

The committee's charge will involve two principal concerns, Executive Director Richard D. Schultz said. The first, he said, is to study the minimum penalty structure for major violations, and the second "is a look at the penalty structure as it affects the innocent student-athlete and what might be done to change that particular situation."

The other Commission officers currently are Gregory M. St. L. O'Brien, University of New Orleans, Commission chair; Arend D. Lubbers, Grand Valley State University, Division II chair, and David L. Warren, Ohio Wesleyan University, Division III chair.

Championships corner

Division III women's softball: The NCAA Women's Softball Committee is soliciting bids from member institutions interested in hosting the 1993 Division III Women's Softball Championship, scheduled for May 20-23. Proposals must be received by June 10, 1992. Interested parties should contact Deborah R. Nelson, NCAA assistant director of championships, at the national office.

the right courses," Steinmann said.

The grandfather, James Nelson, was a retired professor who "played golf every day," Sugg said. "My parents were divorced, and my grandparents watched me during the day while my mom worked. I would tag along with my grandfather and drive his golf cart. After a few weeks, I thought it looked fun so I asked if I could play. He had some clubs and some shoes made for me, and I started taking lessons at the age of 6. I was traveling around the country playing in tournaments when I was 9 years old."

Nelson was instrumental in getting Sugg noticed at UCLA, as well. "He was very persistent," Steinmann said. "I believe he is the main reason LaRee is so determined."

Financial problems

Determination aside, Sugg became a top collegiate player because she had the opportunity to play. "When I was growing up, my grandparents spent $9,000 to $10,000 per summer to allow me to play golf," she said. "I was really lucky they could afford to do that. Under USGA (United States Golf Association) regulations, you can't accept sponsorship even to get good equipment. It's a Catch-22."

"Currently, to get recognized by colleges, you have to play the junior tour. That costs money. Yet to accept any assistance at all, you lose your amateur status and you are ineligible to play in college. I think they will have to redefine 'amateur status' to get more black kids playing competitively."

One other reason more Blacks are not playing golf may be a lack of interest. Many young players get involved in golf because their parents play the game, but because the percentage of black players is smaller, black children are not exposed to the game in this manner as extensively as white children.

The LPGA's Webb noted that the civil rights movement is only about 35 years old; previous to that, golfing opportunities for Blacks were almost nonexistent. Obviously, it is not a game that has been passed down through the generations of black families, but that could become the case over time.

Youth programs

But time is not the only hope for change. The LPGA's Amateur Athletic Foundation program, in which Steinmann works during the summer, is one factor that may produce a larger percentage of minority golfers—black as well as Hispanic. "Programs like the AAF program are definitely one way to do that," Steinmann said. "I don't see any Blacks in college golf right now. When we see another one, it will be somebody who has had the opportunities."

Sugg has used her opportunity well. After graduating from UCLA in December, she turned professional, and she soon will join the European tour. She is eagerly awaiting her first qualifying school in August for a shot at the LPGA tour. "I think my chances are pretty good," she said. "I am just starting to get the feel of things. But by then I think I'll have just as good a shot as anyone.

"I think being on the LPGA tour will be very helpful (in getting black girls interested in golf). They will have somebody to see on television. For women, there really are only two (professional) sports at which they can make a living—tennis and golf. If they see me making money doing this, they might choose golf."

Webb thinks that time is coming. "I believe there will be more black and minority players if they are given the opportunity to learn the game at an early age," he said.

He noted that some black players attempt to qualify for the LPGA tour every year but fall short.

"It's going to take a long time," he said. "The more they are exposed to it at a younger age, the more likely you will have black professional players. It's not a problem you address with the current high-school-age players, but (instead) with the very young children, getting them interested in the game."

United Missouri commits money to Foundation

The NCAA Foundation has announced a commitment of $50,000 from United Missouri Bank in 1992.

A long-time supporter of the NCAA's efforts to assist student-athletes at the collegiate level, United Missouri Bank is making this pledge to benefit the Foundation's support of programs for scholarships, substance-abuse education, life-skills training and career-development opportunities for women and ethnic minorities.

During the last several years, United Missouri Bank also has assisted with the development of a disability insurance program for student-athletes and with the administration of the ticket-application processing program for the NCAA Final Four.

United Missouri Bank's commitment represents growing concern in the private sector for the Foundation's commitment to providing opportunities for more than 271,000 male and female student-athletes to achieve academic and personal success.

"We've long been supporters of the NCAA's efforts to assist student-athletes," said Malcolm M. Aslin, president and chief executive officer of United Missouri Bank. "Now, with this contribution, we can help further the efforts of some very worthwhile programs."

The Foundation provides financial aid and development opportunities for qualified student-athletes. Since its establishment in 1988, the NCAA Foundation has made awards to more than 400 student-athletes to assist them in completing their degrees.

"We're pleased that United Missouri Bank has chosen to significantly contribute to the work of the NCAA Foundation," said Robert C. Khayat, president of the Foundation. "It's an indication of the company's commitment to the well-being of college athletes."

DIRECTORS OF ATHLETICS

Phil Wingert appointed at Wilkes, effective June 1. He succeeds John Reese, who was AD for 34 years and will remain at the school as wrestling coach. Wingert has been men's soccer coach at Wilkes for 10 years. Dave Bike announced his resignation at Sacred Heart, effective June 30.

Joe Bush selected at Hampden-Sydney, succeeding Louis F. "Weenie" Miller, who is retiring after six years at the institution. Bush will retain his duties as head football coach at the school, where he has compiled a record of 38-21-1 during his six seasons. Frank O'Brien appointed at Wisconsin-Stevens Point after serving one year as interim AD. He was previously the school's assistant AD in charge of business relations.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS OF ATHLETICS

Glenn Sample, a two-sport star and coach and athletics department administrator at Cincinnati since the mid-1950s, announced his retirement as assistant AD for intramurals and recreation there. He was a standout third baseman and captain of the Bearcats football team in 1952. He began his coaching tenure there in 1956 as a football assistant and later spent five seasons as wrestling coach and 21 years as Cincinnati's baseball coach.

Bruce Rasmussen appointed at Creighton, where he will step down as women's basketball coach. He led the team to its first NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Championship appearance this year.

COACHES

Men's basketball Scott Edgar received a contract extension through the 1995-96 season at Murray State. Rhode Island granted a contract extension through the 1995-96 season to Al Skinner. Steve Loy named at Walsh. Mike Bokosky named at Chapman. Bill Fenlon appointed at DePauw.

Doug Foote named at Marietta after spending the last five seasons at the University of Rio Grande in Ohio: two years as a men's assistant and three as head women's coach. Russ Pernel selected at Mississippi. Jim Kerwin named to succeed Jack Margenthaler at Western Illinois. Kerwin, a former head coach at Seminole (Oklahoma) Junior College, spent the last two seasons as an assistant at Kansas State and also was an assistant at Oklahoma. Western Illinois chose not to renew the contract of Margenthaler, who coached for 15 seasons. Mark Bernsen promoted from assistant at Southwest Missouri State, where he has been on the staff since 1989. He agreed to a three-year contract.

Men's basketball assistants Randy Stange hired at St. Louis. He spent the past five seasons as an assistant at Southwest Missouri State. Stan Van Gundy selected at Wisconsin. Denny Alexander will be retained at Mississippi. Lorenzo Romar joined the staff at UCLA. Since 1985, he has been both a player and coach with Athletes in Action, the athletics division of Campus Crusade for Christ.

Women's basketball Kim Oren selected at Oberlin after serving as girls' basketball coach at Avon Lake (Ohio) High School from 1989-1992. She played basketball at both Slippery Rock and Rockford. Glenn B. Schmidt appointed at Mississippi University for Women. He has been girls' basketball coach at Starkville (Mississippi) High School since 1978.

Suzanne Helfant selected at Marietta after serving as an assistant women's basketball and head softball coach at Lycoming. She also held similar posts at both John Carroll and Hiram. Bruce Rasmussen stepped down at Creighton to become assistant athletics director at the school. He led Creighton to its first NCAA Division I tournament appearance this year.

Football Patrick Higgins, a former William Penn football player, named at his alma mater. He replaces Randy Athay, who resigned after one season. Higgins was a graduate assistant at Kansas State and an assistant at St. Cloud State, Fresno State and Quincy. Mike Hodges promoted at Massachusetts after serving as defensive coordinator there the past six years. He joined the institution's football staff in 1978 and before that spent nine years as an assistant at Colby.

Mike Larry promoted from assistant at Carthage, where he has been on the staff

Brigham Young picked Bruce Brockbank as men's golf coach

Pattie Holthaus named for women's softball at Tulsa

Pac-10 promoted Carter Rankin to women's supervisor for seven seasons. During his tenure at Carthage, he has served as defensive coordinator, linebackers coach and offensive line coach. He replaces Jack Synold, who resigned after four seasons.

Football assistants Peter Thurmond hired as quarterbacks and fullbacks coach at Georgia Southern. He spent two years as quarterbacks coach at Southwest Texas State and one season as a graduate assistant at Georgia Southern. George Hammill named at Oberlin as an offensive coach. He was head coach the past four seasons at Brookside (Ohio) High School, where his teams registered the first consecutive winning seasons since 1967 at the school. In 12 seasons at the high-school level, Hammill compiled a record of 93-45-3.

Ton De Meo, Mike Cavanaugh and Dick Adams joined the staff at Murray State. De Meo, an assistant last season at Massachusetts, will serve as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks and receivers coach; Cavanaugh, an assistant at Alma last year, will tutor the offensive line, and Adams, who spent last season as an assistant with the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Canadian Football League, will coach the defensive ends.

Charles Bresnahan and Timothy Pendergast named at Maine to serve as defensive coordinator and defensive secondary coach, respectively. Bresnahan has served as an assistant at Navy while Pendergast comes to Maine from Northwestern, where he had been an assistant since 1990. Melvin Smith named at Mississippi to replace James Thomas, who resigned. Dean Campbell joined the staff at Texas Tech.

Jeff McInerney, who spent the past two seasons as defensive coordinator and linebackers coach at Georgia Southern, and Joe DeForest named at Rice. DeForest, who has served as a graduate assistant on the Owls staff the past two seasons, will coach defensive ends, while McInerney will tutor outside linebackers and strong safeties.

Men's golf Karl Tucker announced his retirement at Brigham Young. He will be succeeded by Bruce Brockbank.

Men's lacrosse Charles Thompson "Tom" McClelland Jr. named at Fairfield, which recently elevated its lacrosse program to varsity status, effective with the 1992-93 academic year. McClelland spent the last two years as an assistant at Maryland.

Men's lacrosse assistants Michael Sweet, Andrew Collina and Kevin Bond named at Roger Williams. All three are currently seniors at Brown and competed on the lacrosse team.

Men's soccer Bob Jenkins hired at American after serving the past three seasons as an assistant at Virginia. He competed on Duke's 1982 Division I runner-up team.

Women's soccer Joe Erardi named at Eastern Connecticut State after 11 years at Manchester (Connecticut) High School, where his teams were 153-30-11, including a 103-1-2 stretch in which they won eight straight conference titles. Phil Dalessio appointed at Westfield State. Wendi Roberts appointed at Marietta, where she will continue to serve as an assistant women's basketball coach. She has also served as a graduate assistant women's basketball coach at Miami (Ohio).

Women's softball Pattie Holthaus named to head the new program at Tulsa. She was an assistant at Texas A&M for two years and spent another season as an aide at Oklahoma City.

Men's swimming Peter Daland, who leads active coaches in victories, announced his retirement after 35 years at Southern California, effective June 30. His athletes have claimed 93 individual NCAA championships and nine team titles.

Women's swimming Lisl Prater-Lee selected at Oberlin after serving in an interim capacity during the past season. A 1989 graduate of Oberlin, she holds school records in the 100- and 200-yard freestyles.

Women's track and field Bob McGuire announced his retirement after a 44-year career, the last 15 at Cal State Hayward. He began his coaching career in 1949 at Laton High School in Fresno, California.

Wrestling Bobby Douglas, who led Arizona State to nine Pacific-10 Conference titles and one national championship in 18 seasons there, selected at Iowa State. Douglas, who will coach the U.S. Olympic freestyle team in Barcelona this summer, compiled a 224-78-6 record at Arizona State. Ed Vatch stepped down at Northern Illinois, citing personal reasons. A two-time Big Ten Conference wrestling champion while at Wisconsin, Vatch spent 13 years as head of the program and led the 1988-89 team to a school single-season dual-meet record of 15-7.

STAFF

Operations/ticket manager Mike Candau resigned at San Francisco.

Recruiting coordinator Peter Shinnick, previously football tight ends coach at Clemson, hired at Oregon. A 1988 graduate of Colorado, he served as a graduate assistant at Richmond and Arkansas.

Sports information director Cal State San Bernardino's Dave Beyer reassigned to the position of staff writer in the school's public affairs office. The school will eliminate the SID's position for budgetary reasons. Louisiana State women's SID Tammy Broz named director of media relations and marketing at the Southland Conference.

Ticket manager Jackie Farmer promoted from assistant ticket manager at Georgia Southern, replacing Molly Stewart, who resigned after four years to pursue a family business. Farmer was an assistant for two years under Stewart.

CONFERENCES

Tammy Broz, director of women's sports information at Louisiana State, named director of media relations and marketing at the Southland Conference. She joined Louisiana State as an assistant SID in 1988 after a three-year stay in a similar position at Stephen F. Austin. She became women's SID in 1991.

Carter Rankin named supervisor of women's basketball officials for the Pacific-10 Conference. He has been associated with basketball officiating in the conference since 1971, serving most recently as assistant supervisor of both the men's and women's officiating programs. He succeeds Ray Dal Poggetto, who retired.

SPORTS SPONSORSHIP

Tulsa announced it will add women's softball, beginning with the 1992-93 academic year. It is the 16th varsity sport offered at the institution (eight men's and eight women's).

Texas A&I will add baseball, beginning in spring 1993. The Javelinas will compete on a nonscholarship basis, but the school plans to offer grants-in-aid in the future. The school now sponsors nine sports (four men's, five women's).

Lewis will sponsor a men's volleyball team, beginning with the 1993-94 academic year. The program will bring the total number of sports to eight for women and eight for men.

Northern Illinois will discontinue its field hockey program and replace it with women's soccer, beginning with the 1992-93 academic year.

Fairfield elevated men's and women's lacrosse to the varsity level, effective with the 1992-93 academic year. The school now sponsors 17 varsity teams.

NOTABLES

Moe Iba, who recently received a three-year contract extension as men's basketball coach at Texas Christian, was named to the board of directors of the National Association of Basketball Coaches. His Horned Frogs finished 23-11 last season.

Stanford men's volleyball coach Ruben Nieves named American Volleyball Coaches Association/Tachikara national coach of the year. Nieves, who led Stanford to second place in the 1992 NCAA championship, completed his second year as Cardinal head coach after serving there four years as an assistant.

Joe Neff, head men's and women's track and cross country coach at Cal State Sacramento, selected as a track and field coach for the United States team at this summer's ninth annual Paralympic Games in Barcelona, Spain. He will coach field events at the event.

DEATHS

Brad Friley, 23, a golfer at Lincoln (Missouri), collapsed and died April 21 while playing a practice round at the California (Missouri) Country Club in preparation for the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association tournament. The cause of death has not been determined.

Anthony Bellman, a basketball player at Valdosta State, died April 19 when a car in which he was riding hit a tree. He was 19. Bellman was from Decatur, Alabama.

CLARIFICATION

Among conferences with closely allied men's and women's postseason basketball tournaments are the Mid American Athletic Conference, the East Coast Conference and the Patriot League. The April 8 issue of The NCAA News included an article discussing a similar format for the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference.

SACRED HEART UNIVERSITY

FAIRFIELD CONNECTICUT

Established in 1963, Sacred Heart University is an independent Catholic comprehensive university in beautiful Fairfield, Connecticut, serving a student population of about 4,300 students. In the third year of implementing a comprehensive expansion plan, the University has experienced a surge in both applications and enrollment and is adding residential housing, an athletic/recreational complex and is enhancing its academic programs. Sacred Heart University announces the opening of the position of Director of Athletics.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

As university athletic programs nationwide are confronted with budgetary reductions, Sacred Heart University has instead embarked on an aggressive athletic expansion plan. In the Fall of 1990, three new sports were introduced; football, men's lacrosse and women's soccer. In September of 1992, we will add men's and women's bowling and golf, men's cross country as well as women's field hockey and lacrosse. As we continue our aggressive expansion plan to build a premier program in NCAA intercollegiate athletics, we are looking for an enthusiastic visionary leader with athletic and administrative experience to oversee intercollegiate, intramural, club and recreational programs.

The Director will report to the Vice President for Enrollment Planning & Student Affairs and will be involved in determining the strategy for the University's athletic programs. This individual will also help to finalize the planning for the new $13 million athletic/recreational complex and will lead the University in the analysis of its current NCAA membership classification. Candidates must hold a Bachelor's degree with further study preferred. A demonstrated ability to manage facilities and a comprehensive knowledge of state, federal and NCAA rules and regulations are essential. Effectiveness in the recruitment and retention of student-athletes, strong interpersonal and communication skills as well as a keen ability to work with the press and other external constituents are basic requirements for this position.

Qualified applicants should submit a letter of application, 2 copies of a resume and references by May 15, 1992 to:

Office of Human Resources
Sacred Heart University
5151 Park Avenue
Fairfield, Connecticut 06432-1000

Four jerseys take early retirement at Kentucky

It is rare for a university to retire the jersey of a student-athlete. After all, in most sports there are only 100 jersey numbers from which to choose.

But it is almost unheard of for an institution to retire the jerseys of four members of the same team.

That's what happened April 7 at the University of Kentucky when the jerseys of men's basketball players Richie Farmer, Deron Feldhaus, John Pelphrey and Sean Woods were retired and lifted into the tradition-adorned rafters of Adolph Rupp Arena.

"We are retiring these jerseys in honor of four young men who have been the heart and soul of our basketball program the past three years," Kentucky athletics director C. M. Newton said. "Three years ago, our basketball program was devastated. Today, it is back on top, due largely to four young men who persevered, who weathered the hard times and brought the good times back to Kentucky basketball. Their contributions to UK basketball cannot be measured in statistics and record books."

The quad joined 18 Kentucky standouts who have been similarly honored, including Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey, Cotton Nash, Dan Issel, Louie Dampier and Jack Givens, radio broadcaster Cawood Ledford, and the coaching legend himself, Adolph Rupp.

The Wildcats were placed on two years' probation for rules violations in the basketball program, and its 1989-90 team was left with just eight scholarship players, none taller than 6 feet, 7 inches. They finished a rather surprising 14-14 that season, improved to 22-6 the following year and fell short of reaching the Final Four this season by only a Christian Laettner overtime buzzer-beater for eventual national champion Duke University.

"Of all the people whose jerseys have been retired," said Ledford, the radio voice of the Wildcats, "none is more deserving than these four."

Freshman pitcher on fire after putting one out

University of Utah freshman baseball pitcher Jason Jarvis had a collegiate starting debut to remember.

About 13 hours before he took the mound in his first start for the Utes, he and a friend were busy fighting a fire with a garden hose and large trash can. While watching television about 1:30 a.m. April 12, Jarvis and his friend noticed shrubbery at a house across the street burning. By the time they made it to the scene, flames were rising 10 to 15 feet in the air in front of the house.

After alerting the occupants—including a former Layton, Utah, mayor—by pounding on the front door, Jarvis and his friend doused the flames by filling a garbage can a half-dozen times. Jarvis got to bed about 4 a.m. but was at the stadium at 9 a.m. to warm up for a double-header against the University of Northern Colorado, in which he was to start in the second contest.

Jarvis was impressive in the debut, yielding just six hits and getting a complete-game victory as the Utes defeated Northern Colorado, 9-1.

Former student-athlete now alma mater's VP

Marc Burnett accomplished several "firsts" while a basketball player at Tennessee Technological University in the late 1970s and early 1980s. As a freshman, he scored the first points inside Tennessee Tech's Eblen Center when it opened in 1977, and he is one of the very few (if not the first) players to serve as captain of a Division I basketball team for five years.

He has been around the Cookeville, Tennessee, campus since arriving as a freshman in 1977; he obtained a bachelor's degree in English/journalism and a master's degree in educational psychology there. He has since served in several professional capacities, including director of the minority engineering program and admissions counselor.

His most recent breakthrough came with his appointment as vice-president of student services there, making him the first Black to receive such an assignment at the institution.

In this newest venture, Burnett said he will help ensure that the voice of the student body is heard loud and clear by the administration.

"Students often accuse the administration of paying lip service to their problems, and that's not an entirely accurate viewpoint," Burnett said. "Sometimes it takes time to get all the questions answered, and we don't always do a good job of communicating that fact to our students. But it's more important that our students know and understand that we are genuinely concerned about them, in and out of the classroom. No matter how small the problem, we must let our students know that we will look into it."

Gallagher receives '92 Ford Award

David Gallagher, former University of Michigan academic and football standout in the early 1970s, was named the recipient of the 1992 Michigan Athletics Gerald R. Ford Award, presented annually to a former Wolverine student-athlete who epitomizes excellence in scholarship, sports and society. It is the second year for the award, named after the former president who played football at Michigan.

A three-time Big Ten Conference all-academic selection as a defensive tackle, Gallagher was an NCAA Today's Top Five honoree and recipient of an NCAA postgraduate scholarship in 1974. He later played professionally with the Chicago Bears, New York Giants and Detroit Lions, retiring in 1980 to pursue a medical degree. He now is a practicing orthopedic specialist in Columbus, Indiana.

Player throws two no-hit games

Eric Spillers, a senior at Valparaiso University, has set a school record with two no-hitters in one season and, more specifically, the same month.

He went five innings and struck out 10 of the 15 hitters he faced as the Crusaders defeated Bluffton College, 11-0, March 6. He then shut down Eastern Illinois University hitters in seven innings in a 7-0 victory.

Two Citadel players break records

Two baseball players from The Citadel found their way into the Southern Conference record book recently. Senior second baseman Dan McDonnell became the conference's all-time leading stolen base leader when he grabbed his 93rd in a 5-3 victory over Virginia Military Institute. In the same game, senior pitcher Hank Kraft established a school and conference single-season record for saves, gaining his 10th.

Pitcher throws school's first perfect game

Lincoln Memorial University pitcher Todd Fitzgerald etched his name in school record books by throwing a perfect game recently in a victory over Berea College. It was the first perfect game in the school's 95-year history.

The 6-1 junior left-hander from Margate, Florida, struck out 15 batters and allowed only two balls to be hit out of the infield, both fly balls to right field.

Flanked by family members, University of Kentucky senior basketball players John Pelphrey, Deron Feldhaus, Richie Farmer and Sean Woods watch as their jerseys are retired in the rafters of Rupp Arena
