Gender-equity panel solicits comments, plans first meeting

The NCAA Gender-Equity Task Force is seeking comment and recommendations from the membership on the subject of achieving gender equity within the Association.

In a May 29 conference call, members of the task force stressed the need to gather ideas and concerns in advance of the group's first meeting, which will be July 9 in Dallas.

The agenda for the first meeting will address four broad topics, said Phyllis L. Howlett, Big Ten Conference, and James J. Whalen, Ithaca College, coauthors of the committee.

They are:

- The question of whether Title IX and gender equity are different concepts.

- The identification and correction of any NCAA practices and legislation that hinder a member institution from complying with Federal law with regard to gender equity. The committee is especially interested in hearing of any troubles member institutions may have encountered in this area.

- The establishment of acceptable gender-equity standards and suggestions on how to meet those standards (with recommendations coming from appropriate NCAA bodies).

- How to provide assistance to member institutions for accommodating gender-equity recommendations adopted by the NCAA. This could include use of the certification process, printed matter and workshops.

In the conference call, several task-force members expressed the need for a clear-cut definition of gender equity and for the formulation of a philosophical position on the subject.

Howlett noted that the issue is complex and that the committee must be prepared to make progress slowly.

The committee agreed that if appropriate legislation or resolutions are in order after the July meeting, they could be recommended to the NCAA Council or Presidents Commission for submission to the 1993 Convention. If legislative proposals are not achievable, the committee would consider presenting its deliberations to Convention delegates as a special report.

Individuals in the membership interested in making comments or recommendations to the Gender-Equity Task Force may direct them to Ursula R. Walsh, NCAA Director of Research, 6201 College Boulevard, Overland Park, Kansas 66211-2422.

Record breaker

Nebraska Wesleyan's Kim Oden ended her collegiate career in style at the Division III Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships May 27-30 by breaking her record in the heptathlon. Oden scored 5,320 points, breaking her previous record of 5,136.

Grad-rate report set for July

The first public release of Division I member institutions' graduation rates by the NCAA has been delayed approximately one month to late July in order to make changes designed to improve the clarity of the report and to enable the schools' chief executive officers to make one last check for accuracy.

The reports, which were scheduled for release in late June (see the May 20 issue of The NCAA News), are being delayed to improve reporting of admissions data that will be included along with the mandated graduation-rate data. No changes are being made in the manner in which graduation-rate and enrollment information will be reported.

Unlike the graduation-rate and enrollment data, which Division I member institutions will report under both NCAA and Federal legislation, the admissions data is required only by the NCAA.

One of the revisions involves including average scores on the "enhanced" ACT test in the report.

The report includes data for student-athletes who enrolled in NCAA member institutions during the 1990-91 academic year. It already included average scores from a version of the ACT that was administered

NCAA awards women's grants

The NCAA has awarded 10 post-graduate scholarships through the women's enhancement program.

The enhancement program, established in 1988 as a result of a recommendation of the Association's Committee on Women's Athletics, is aimed at increasing the pool of—and enhancing opportunity for—women's athletes.

Athletics programs sharing the wealth

By Ronald D. Mott
The NCAA News Staff

With scores of higher education institutions across the country undergoing severe cuts in state appropriations, often resulting in the loss of jobs and discontinuation of both educational and athletics programs, some college athletics programs are stepping forward to help by donating a share of their profits to the general operating fund.

The University of Louisville Athletics Association, Inc., has plans to donate $400,000 to its academic administration to help ease the crunch of a 10 percent reduction in state funds for fiscal year 1992-93. The University of Florida's University Athletic Association, Inc., has sent $2.2 million into its institution's general fund.

At Louisiana State University, where the athletics department is not subsidized by the institution but is not a wholly separate entity, $458,000 to fund various university programs has come from the athletics department. The University of Colorado, Boulder, athletics department recently announced it will give $200,000 of its payout from last December's Blockbuster Bowl to its institution's general fund.

Recently, the University of Georgia Athletic Association made its second $1 million pledge to academic programs at the institution. In 1985, it pledged $1 million as part of the Bicentennial Capital Campaign. That initial pledge will have resulted this summer in $800,000 contributed to the university and will be completed during the 1994-95 fiscal year.

Putting something back

Samples of athletics department gifts announced this year to NCAA member institutions:

	Institution	Amount of gift	Purpose of gift
	University of Colorado, Boulder	$200,000	To bolster the institution's general operating fund.
	University of Florida	$2.2 million	To bolster the institution's general operating budget.
	University of Georgia	$1 million	To fund academic programs at the university.
	Louisiana State University	$458,000	To fund various university programs.
	University of Louisville	$400,000	To offset a 10 percent reduction in state funding.

The new pledge will be paid over a period of seven years beginning in fiscal year 1996.

Capitalizing on flexibility

While many athletics programs find themselves in as much of a bind financially as their institutions, others have managed to find a solid financial footing.

"We just have the flexibility," said Jeremy Foley, director of athletics at Florida. "We're Checks totaling $2 million were mailed May 22 to conference commissioners and athletics directors in Division II in the second installment of the NCAA revenue-distribution plan for 1992.

The revenue plan distributes money from the NCAA's seven-year, $1 billion television contract with CBS to the membership through six funds. Checks totaling $31.5 million from the basketball fund were mailed to the Division I membership April 24.

One-half of the Division II fund was distributed equally among all Division II members, except those institutions that competed in one or more NAIA team championships.

The remaining $1 million was distributed to conference offices and independent institutions based upon the number of games played by members of each conference or by independent institutions in the NCAA Division II Men's Basketball Championship over the preceding

Gator, Blockbuster, Hancock form second tier of bowl alliance

The Gator, Blockbuster and John Hancock Bowls have been picked to participate in the second tier of a bowl alliance organized in January.

The commissioners of the Atlantic Coast, Big East, Big Eight, Pacific-10 and Southwest Athletic Conferences met last weekend during the College Football Association meetings in Dallas to organize the alliance and announced it June 1.

Teams from the ACC, Big East, Big Eight, Pac-10 and SWC—excluding the champion of each league—will be available for selection by the Fiesta Bowl and the two Florida bowls in the so-called Bowl Coalition II, according to The Associated Press.

An alliance involving the Federal

Express Orange, USF&G Sugar, Mobil Cotton and Fiesta Bowls was forged in January. Under that plan, champions of the Big Eight, SWC and Southeastern Conference will still head to Miami, New Orleans and Dallas, but their opponents, as well as the Fiesta Bowl teams, will not be determined until after the regular season.

The four primary games will pick from among the University of Notre Dame, two at-large teams, and the champions of the Big East and Atlantic Coast Conferences, based on The Associated Press poll.

Once these selections have been completed, the remaining three at-large teams will be available to Bowl Coalition II, which will select one team each. The Gator Bowl will select first, followed by the Blockbuster and John Hancock Bowls.

The Rose Bowl, which matches champions from the Big Ten and Pacific-10, is not part of the alliance.

In January, the Big East and ACC rejected an offer to send their champion to the Blockbuster Bowl each year. Last month, Penn State accepted an invitation from the Blockbuster Bowl to participate in its game next January 1.

Legislative Assistance

1992 Column No. 23

Institutional sports camps and clinics

In accordance with NCAA Bylaw 13.13.1.1, an institution's sports camp or instructional clinic is any camp or clinic that is owned or operated by a member institution or an employee of the member institution's athletics department, either on or off its campus, and, for Division I only, in which prospective student-athletes participate.

An individual coach must be at least a majority owner (i.e., 51 percent owner) of the camp or clinic in order to be considered an owner of an institution's sports camp or instructional clinic. Also, an individual coach must be personally and directly responsible for the management and operation of a sports camp or an instructional clinic in order to be considered an operator of the camp or clinic.

As stated in Bylaw 13.13.1.1.1, an institution's sports camp or clinic is one that: (1) places special emphasis on a particular sport or sports and provides specialized instruction, practice or competition; (2) involves activities designed to improve overall skills and general knowledge in the sport, or (3) offers a diversified experience without emphasis on instruction, practice or competition in any particular sport.

Please note that it is not permissible for an institution to conduct a camp or clinic that does not include instruction and that involves only sessions or tests/tryouts at which prospects reveal, demonstrate or display their athletics ability in any sport, inasmuch as such a camp would be considered an evaluation/tryout camp precluded under Bylaw 13.12 (tryouts).

A member institution's sports camp or clinic must be open to any and all entrants (limited only by number and age), except that a senior prospect is not permitted to enroll, participate or be employed at such a sports camp or clinic. A senior prospect may attend the camp or clinic, provided the prospect does not participate in any of its physical activities. Member institutions should accept camp/clinic participants on a first-come, first-served basis and may not accept participants on an invitation-only basis.

Also, per Bylaw 13.13.1.5.1, a Division I member institution, a member of its staff or a representative of its athletics interests may not employ or give free or reduced admission privileges to a high-school, preparatory school or two-year college athletics award winner. For purposes of this rule, a high school would include the ninth-grade level, regardless of whether the ninth grade is part of the junior high school system.

Per Bylaw 13.13.1.5.2, a Division II or III member institution and members of its athletics department or representatives of its athletics interests may not employ or give free or reduced admission privileges to any individual who has started classes for the ninth grade.

Finally, in the sports of football and basketball, a Division I member institution's sports camp or instructional clinic may be conducted only during the months of June, July and August. In Divisions II and III, a football or basketball camp or clinic may be conducted only during the institution's summer vacation period.

Correction: Summer basketball and state games

Due to a production error, two lines of the Legislative Assistance column that appeared in the May 20 issue of The NCAA News appeared out of sequence. For that reason, the News is republishing the text of 1992 Column No. 21.

Player limitations

NCAA Divisions I and II member institutions should note that in accordance with NCAA Bylaw 13.14(e)-(1), all Divisions I and II players must limit their summer basketball competition to one team in one NCAA sanctioned league. Each team may include on its roster not more than one player with intercollegiate basketball eligibility remaining from any two- or four-year college.

Per Bylaw 14.8.5.2(b), there are no restrictions on the participation of Division III student-athletes in outside basketball competition during the summer. Please note that if a student-athlete (two- or four-year college student) is transferring and has been officially accepted for enrollment in a second institution, and the previous institution certifies that the student has withdrawn and does not intend to return to that institution for the next term, the student-athlete would be countable on the summer-league roster as a representative of the second institution.

Under such circumstances, written permission to participate in the sanctioned summer league must be obtained from the member institution to which the student-athlete is transferring.

Finally, basketball student-athletes from Divisions I, II and III institutions may participate in state or national multisport events sanctioned by the NCAA; however, not more than two student-athletes from the same Division I or II institution may participate on the same team. There are no restrictions on the number of student-athletes from a Division III institution who may compete on the same team in state or national multisport basketball competition.

Summer foreign tours

Member institutions should note that in accordance with Bylaw 30.7, a member institution may participate in a foreign tour in any sport (see Bylaw 17.23), provided the institution meets the conditions specified in the bylaw. The institution does not need to have the foreign tour sanctioned by the NCAA Council; rather, the institution must certify in writing that the conditions set forth in Bylaw 30.7 are met and must maintain the certification on file in the athletics department.

Further, only student-athletes who were eligible for intercollegiate competition during the previous academic year would be permitted to participate in an institution's summer foreign tour. During its August 22-23, 1990, meeting, the Interpretations Committee reviewed Bylaw 30.7.2(a) (eligibility of student-athlete to participate on institution's summer foreign tour) and determined that a nonqualifier, partial qualifier or transfer student serving a residence requirement would be precluded from participating on an institution's summer foreign tour during the summer following the student-athlete's first year of residence, inasmuch as the student-athlete would not have been eligible for intercollegiate competition during the previous academic year.

Foreign tours that are conducted by a conference or other outside organization may include student-athletes from more than one member institution and must be sanctioned by the Council per Bylaw 17.23.2. Please note that approval of such participation in the sport of basketball is required regardless of the number of student-athletes involved.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services staff as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to Nancy L. Mitchell, assistant executive director for legislative services, at the NCAA national office.

Basketball contract awarded to Rawlings

Rawlings will remain the official ball for the NCAA's six men's and women's basketball championships through the 1997 season as a result of a contract recently renewed between the sporting goods company and the NCAA Marketing Subcommittee.

Under the terms of the five-year contract, Rawlings will provide promotional assistance for more than 15 programs associated with the basketball championships.

Also included in the package are free basketballs for the championships and funding for Youth Education through Sports clinics and the National Youth Sports Program.

"We were able to cover some very important expenses related to the men's and women's basketball championships that, in turn, will free up money to be distributed to the membership," said Eugene F. Corrigan, commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference and chair of the Marketing Subcommittee.

Because Rawlings will assist with the funding of these programs, money no longer will come strictly from the gross receipts of the championships. As a result, more money will remain to be distributed to the membership.

Some programs that Rawlings funded in the past include production of regional semifinal games in the Division I Women's Basketball Championship, men's and women's highlight videos, officiating videos, the Spotlight on Women's Basketball, and receptions at Division II and III championships sites.

New programs to be underwritten by Rawlings include the Final Four dinner and Final Four exhibit, the Division I women's selection show on ESPN, and telephone press conferences before the championship finals.

Rawlings has been the NCAA's official basketball since 1987. Previous contracts all have been for three-year periods, with the most recent contract expiring in July. The new agreement will begin in August and run through July 1997.

Rawlings will be the official basketball for the NCAA championships through the 1997 season

Two players dismissed at Bryant

Two Bryant College men's basketball players were dismissed from the team and seven others were disciplined for violations of college or NCAA gambling rules, university spokesman Jack Oldham said May 28.

One student who was not a basketball player also was found to have violated gambling rules, Oldham said.

The college's disclosure came as it announced the findings and recommendations of a panel investigating gambling on the campus.

Among the recommendations is that Bryant reconsider its athletics programs and its emphasis on varsity basketball, The Associated Press reported.

"The presence of gambling on campus has jeopardized the future of varsity basketball," the report said. "In addition, it has adversely affected the quality of campus life and has caused embarrassment to everyone associated with Bryant, including students, staff, faculty, alumni and friends."

The task force was convened in March after the state police began looking into an alleged gambling ring that operated at Bryant and at the University of Rhode Island.

"It is estimated that more than 50 percent of male Bryant students engage in some form of gambling. It has been easy to locate a bookie and gamble on credit," the report said.

"The ubiquitousness of all forms of betting in society, including state- and church-sanctioned varieties, contributes to... misconceptions that gambling is neither serious nor harmful," the report said.

University President William Trueheart emphasized that gambling is not a victimless crime.

"We have seen painful evidence of this within the Bryant community," he said. "I'm referring to a handful of students who incurred large debts. They were victims of gambling. They became entangled in events they could not control, and they even risked their careers to support a compulsive gambling disorder."

The report said one athlete had built up a gambling debt of $7,500 and "rumors have circulated about figures in excess of $50,000."

Gambling, it said, preoccupied players at practice and games and "the pervasiveness of illegal gambling on the basketball team caused serious emotional harm to innocent players who did not gamble."

College officials said the players bet on professional and college sports but not on their own games.

SEC tries to turn down volume at football games

Southeastern Conference football fans will have to cheer on their teams without the aid of amplifiers, microphones and megaphones, the league's 12 member schools decided May 28.

Only cheerleaders will be allowed to use those devices, and even then can use them only during timeouts and pregame, postgame and half-time activities, the conference voted at its spring meeting.

Also, the rule prohibits cheerleaders from using stadium public address systems while the teams are on the field, including during pregame warm-ups.

"I don't think it was engendered by any one thing," SEC Commissioner Roy F. Kramer told The Associated Press. "Noise control is always a problem. We want the fans there, don't get me wrong. But the opponent obviously needs to have some ability to call the plays and be able to run its offense."

In other matters, the conference:

- Announced it would distribute a record $27.7 million to member schools this year.

The revenue-sharing plan for the budget year ending August 31, 1992, represents a 34 percent increase over last year. Shares will range from $2.2 million to $2.7 million, but the amounts for each school were not released.

The biggest part of the conference pot comes from football television revenue at $14 million. Other sources included bowls, $4.2 million; basketball television, $3.1 million; the SEC basketball tournament, $2 million, and the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship, $4.4 million.

The league's two newest members, the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, and University of South Carolina, Columbia, will share in basketball revenues but not those from football, Kramer said.

- Launched an effort to come up with new policies on gender equity in sports.

SEC and University of Georgia President Charles B. Knapp said the conference's presidents and chancellors asked athletics directors and senior women administrators to begin formulating how the conference should handle gender-equity issues.

The costs could be high if the conference decides schools should field equal numbers of male and female athletes, unless some men's sports are dropped, Kramer said.

- Restructured the point system for its annual all-sports trophy.

- Decided against changing ticket prices for the SEC basketball tournament.

Another rule change affecting football will permit players to receive three complimentary tickets for certain off-campus games, just as they do for home games. The rule would apply only if a school has two or more games at the same off-campus site during a season.

It is intended to accommodate Arkansas, which traditionally plays three games at Little Rock.

Black coaches group broadening its reach

The Black Coaches Association, which wants more black head football coaches at Division I schools, was formed when a group of assistant college basketball coaches decided to do something about their lot in life.

After years of seeing others getting the head coaching opportunities they felt they deserved, the coaches called a meeting six years ago. They invited Georgetown University head men's basketball coach John Thompson and black sociologist Harry Edwards to give a pep talk.

Expecting solace, the 40 or so black assistants were read the riot act.

"We weren't doing anything at all about our perception in collegiate sports," Rudy Washington, head men's basketball coach at Drake University, told The Associated Press. "People looked at us as recruiters, bag men, people who are moot, that sort of thing. John and Harry basically told us the problem was the way we were perceived."

With that admonishment, the Black Coaches Association was formed and consists today of about 3,000 high-school, college and professional black coaches of all sports.

The organization, which held its fifth annual convention last week in Atlanta, has evolved into more than a support group for disenchanted assistant coaches. It stages clinics for inner-city kids and raises social concerns of which it feels others need to be made aware. Washington, the group's executive director, said the BCA wants to be more of a force in minority affairs for the entire sports world.

The BCA publishes a resource manual that lists all the black coaches and administrators and distributes it to colleges throughout the country.

The group has drafted a letter to national sports groups about the lack of black head football coaches at Division I schools. Although it has made its position known, Washington is not certain what other action will be taken.

"How can you mandate legislation to hire Blacks?" Washington said. "We know that's wrong. But what we do is ask questions, make people take notice. We do plan to ask questions about ideas that are not embraced by others."

Turner looks back at NCAA reform movement

By R. Gerald Turner
Chancellor, University of Mississippi

The passage of the package of academic proposals by the NCAA Presidents Commission at the January 1992 NCAA Convention was another significant milestone toward addressing serious issues affecting the future of intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

The major thrust of these proposals established new academic standards for initial eligibility and continuing progress, beginning in 1995. Supporters asserted that these new standards constituted a more accurate description of the level of preparation required to pursue successfully a college degree and stay on track toward graduation.

Coupled with the legislation passed at the previous Convention addressing financial issues and time constraints on athletes, significant initial steps have been taken to address issues undermining the integrity of college athletics programs. These two years of historic action culminate several years of serious deliberation by university presidents and athletics officials regarding accusations of the exploitation of athletes and the dominance of financial considerations in the administration of intercollegiate athletics programs.

Turner

With the creation of the President Commission in 1984, campus CEOs began to face up to the necessity of their serious involvement in the leadership of intercollegiate athletics programs on their campuses. Over the decades, issues surrounding intercollegiate athletics had been generally left to athletics officials to resolve. Therefore, the full impact of the escalation of financial demands to achieve successful athletics programs and the attendant fascination of the American public with intercollegiate athletics had almost gone unnoticed.

A few celebrated cases drove home to campus CEOs the absolute necessity of their treating intercollegiate athletics programs with the same attention and oversight as their academic units. Certainly, there is some justification for the accusation that the presidents were too slow in coming to the realization of their group action and individual involvement.

The outcome of this involvement has been the legislation labeled by the press as the "reform movement." Its basic goals have been: (1) the recognition by boards of trustees that the CEO must be in control of intercollegiate programs; (2) the development of academic standards to ensure that student-athletes are prepared in high school to do successful college work and are required to maintain progress toward a degree in order to continue intercollegiate participation; (3) the creation of an environment for student-athletes that is as close as possible to that of other students; (4) the institutional control of finances supporting intercollegiate athletics programs, and (5) the development of a certification program that will ensure the existence and maintenance of standards of operation for intercollegiate programs to enhance trust and self-regulation among institutions within the NCAA.

Significant steps have been taken in each of these areas, although, in a very real way, the work never will be completed. As a result, the Presidents Commission recently created a strategic planning committee that is to maintain a three-year program of work.

Therefore, the membership will know beforehand the topics that will receive particular scrutiny at each annual Convention. For 1993, certification and institutional-control issues, including the role of the Presidents Commission within the NCAA, will be the focus of attention by the NCAA Council and the Presidents Commission. For 1994, fiscal issues will be revisited.

The improvements initiated by the reform movement hopefully will communicate to the general public, members of Congress and various state legislatures that the membership of the NCAA has both the will and the power to make whatever changes are needed within their intercollegiate programs.

These changes should also help athletics staff to identify and focus recruiting efforts on those student-athletes who will be able to benefit from the collegiate experience.

Nothing is more frustrating than expending the tremendous effort to recruit a student-athlete, only to find his or her academic preparation inadequate to maintain eligibility. In such a case, everyone loses.

The future of the NCAA and the continuing involvement of CEOs in its operations require that the NCAA move toward taking its place among those other very few higher education organizations in which campus CEOs provide leadership and other university officials help to frame and implement policies.

There is no question that the seemingly insatiable appetite of the American public for intercollegiate sports and the attendant media coverage require that the guidance of such a public part of our universities be provided by the direct involvement of the campus presidents and chancellors.

Therefore, although the implementation of a certification program and the official structuring of the Presidents Commission within the NCAA will signal the completion of another component of the reform movement, it is mandatory that the process continue for the betterment of the young men and women participating in intercollegiate athletics, and for the integrity of our colleges and universities.

R. Gerald Turner is a former chair of the NCAA Presidents Commission. This article first appeared in the newsletter of the National Association of Athletics Compliance Coordinators.

"Your whole life you've been treated differently, and all of a sudden, you have all these temptations in front of you, and you're supposed to act like you've grown up like everybody else. The structure for (athletes) to act the way everybody wants them to act is not really there because so many things have been done for them and handed to them."

"The talk of conquests is not as popular anymore. Now I think a lot of the guys are starting to have more respect for women. When we hear people talking about different girls, sometimes someone says, 'That's somebody's sister or somebody's daughter you're talking about.' And the players get the message."

"You can't expect a computer to give you all the right answers. They need to leave the human element in the process (of selecting teams for the Division I Baseball Championship)....

"We're tied to playing our conference games and a few other schools. We have no other alternatives. I'm not calling for any handouts. I think you should earn everything you get. But let's face it. America has to look at itself from the big picture. You just can't expect things to be equal when it never has been equal."

"If we play, say, a team like Clemson (in baseball), we've got to go to them, because no major school will ever agree to come to us. That means our travel budget would be shot right there. Things like this are not considered in the computer system. Every conference in Division I should get an automatic berth. Then you select the at-large teams."

"Those intellects who run college baseball are just as goofy as their basketball counterparts. To begin with, there's the Southeastern Conference playing its tournament under a roof, in the Superdome, with all that Southern sunshine out there. Now the NCAA committee has sent teams flying all over the United States, Stanford to Tallahassee and California to Gainesville, Florida, for instance, for regional tournaments. When will they ever come to their senses?"

Barbara Bergmann, professor

"For professors, the worst aspect of the current system is what I call the 'fake-student problem.' Even athletes who have the ability and interest to make it as real students are often forced by their schedule of practice, conditioning and travel to pretend to be students.

"For the 'fake students,' fake courses and fake majors are provided. If graduation rates continue to be an issue, fake graduations will surely be arranged."

"Baseball dugouts without chewing tobacco? That's what the minor leagues are aiming for.

"New rules prohibit players in most leagues from dipping tobacco. The reason is laudable—to educate about the risks of oral cancer—but the execution would seem all but impossible.

"(Is) an umpire going to feel under a player's lip for chew?" "Banning tobacco is silly. Instead, teams should follow the lead of the Texas Rangers. They no longer supply tobacco to players and encourage them to chew something else.

"It's up to individuals to make the choice. It shouldn't come down to absurd, unenforceable rules."

Goetze's 65 lifts Georgia to women's golf championship

Freshman Vicki Goetze of Georgia fired a tournament-record seven-under-par 65 in the final round to win the individual championship and San Jose State placed three of the top eight golfers to win the team championship at the National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships May 27-30 at Arizona State.

Goetze's 65 was six strokes better than the final round of runner-up Annika Sorenstam of Arizona, the defending champion and heavy favorite to win this year. Goetze finished at eight-under-par 280, while Sorenstam was the only other golfer to finish under par, at five-under 283. Audrey Wooding of Stanford finished third at 289.

Goetze and Wooding opened the tournament with the only sub-par rounds in the first round, tying at 69. But Sorenstam took over the lead after two rounds with a second round 68. The Arizona sophomore held the lead with an even-par 72 in the third round, but was victimized by the seven-under final round by Goetze.

Sorenstam's teammates likewise were favored to win their first team championship, but they never could make up ground lost on the first day. The Wildcats shot a 300 for the first round, nine strokes off the pace set by Georgia and Arizona State. While the Bulldogs, Sun Devils and third-place Stanford faded, the Wildcats never caught San Jose State, which led Arizona by one, two, two and four strokes, respectively, after each round. San Jose State carded a 290 for the final round, while Arizona tallied a 292.

Tampa plays perfect tournament in winning Division II baseball title

Led by the timely hitting of Brian Zaletel and Joe Urso, Tampa completed an unbeaten sweep of the Division II Baseball Championship with an 11-8 victory over Mansfield May 30 at Montgomery, Alabama.

Tampa, which finished with a 42-19 record, did not lose a regional or championship-round contest in the tournament. The Spartans scored 39 runs in their four victories at Montgomery.

Tampa, winning its first title, pounded out 14 hits against three Mansfield pitchers. Leadoff hitter Rodd Kelley had four hits, including a home run. But Zaletel added the crucial blow with a three-run home run in the fourth inning.

Mansfield led, 4-0, after the top half of the first inning, but Tampa stormed back with Kelley's homer. Later in the inning, Eric Foster scored on a double steal. Zaletel then collected his first run batted in with a single to make it 4-3 after the first.

Tampa coach Lolo Prado was not overly concerned after Mansfield sent seven batters to the plate in the first.

"We have a great hitting team, and I knew we would come back," he said.

Urso's biggest hit of the tournament came in the sixth inning as the Spartans held a 9-7 lead. The 5-foot-7 second baseman smacked a two-run double to right-center field, providing a four-run cushion for starting pitcher Matt Hudson. The win was Hudson's 12th of the year and his 10th complete game.

Urso collected nine hits in 16 at-bats during the tournament, with eight RBIs and seven runs scored.

"It was my last year, and I wanted that ring so bad," said Urso, who was named the tournament's most outstanding player. "I had a good tournament, but this is by no means a one-man thing. Twenty-three of us came together."

Said Mansfield coach Harry Hillson, "We got beat by the best team we played all year. It was a hitter's game, just like we like it, but we just came up short."

Joining Urso on the all-tournament team were teammates Kelley at shortstop, third baseman Zaletel and center fielder Foster. Catcher Al Probst, outfielders Andy McNab and Tim Fausnaught, and pitcher Steve Micknich were selected from Mansfield. Also named to the team were Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's Mike Oakland, first base; Brent Simonich, utility; Matt Drake, designated hitter, and Dan Chergey, pitcher.

Little left to chance for Alabama A&M in romp to track title

After finishing second last year by just one point, Alabama A&M left nothing to chance at this year's Division II Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

The Bulldogs sprinted away with a 47-point victory in the team competition at the May 28-30 championships at Angelo State. Alabama A&M totaled 112 points to Cal State Los Angeles' 65 and three-time defending champion Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's 63.

The Bulldogs claimed firsts in three individual events and both relays and piled up points with three seconds, a third and three fourths. Omolade, Omotayo and Taiye Akinremi claimed first, second and fourth place, respectively, in the 400-meter dash. Omolade Akinremi also won the 400-meter hurdles.

The margin of victory was the largest in the women's championships since 1987, when Abilene Christian bested the field by 52 points. The 65 points was the fewest scored by the runner-up team in the 11-year history of the meet.

Running all of the sprint finals and the relays on the final day of competition, Alabama A&M scored 98 points in that period to obliterate an 18-point lead by Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

Omolade Akinremi was one of five multiple winners. Freshman Chandra Sturup of Norfolk State won three events—the 100-meter dash (11.54), 200-meter dash (23.55) and long jump (20-9).

Other multiple winners were Karin Grelsson of Seattle Pacific (triple jump and heptathlon; also, second place in the long jump), Kristina Hand of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo (1,500- and 3,000-meter runs) and Christie Allen of Pittsburg State (5,000- and 10,000-meter runs).

Grelsson's 43-8 in the triple jump was a meet record, bettering the old mark by Diana Wells of Army by 2 1/4 inches. Rica Brown was the other record-setter. Her 53-3 mark in the shot put broke the old mark by nearly 3 1/2 feet. The previous mark was 49-11 by Deborah Corley of Cal State Bakersfield.

St. Augustine's soars to new Division II men's track crown

A clean exchange between Cedric Jackson (right) and Antonio Pettigrew helped St. Augustine's win the 400-meter relay in 39.64 seconds

The rest of the division is gaining, but the St. Augustine's Mighty Falcons still rule the roost.

After two straight 50-point-plus victories, St. Augustine's "struggled" to a 32-point victory and its fourth straight team title on the heels of four individual and two relay victories at the Division II Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships May 28-30 at Angelo State.

St. Augustine's scored 95 points, the fewest points by a champion since Cal Poly San Luis Obispo won the last of its three straight crowns in 1981. Abilene Christian, which won the seven championships before St. Augustine's began its current run, finished second with 63 points. Cal State Los Angeles and host Angelo State finished with 57 1/2 and 53 points, respectively.

The Falcons got repeat titles from Antonio Pettigrew in the 400-meter dash and from the two relay teams. They also retained titles in the 400-meter hurdles and the high jump, but with different athletes. The Falcons became the first team in NCAA men's track history to win both relays four straight years.

Bryan Bridgewater of Cal State Los Angeles won the 100- and 200-meter dashes, the latter in record time. Bridgewater's 20.15 eclipsed the 14-year old record of Mississippi College's Larry Myricks in the 200 by .29 seconds. Myricks' record was the second oldest in the division in the metric distances; Norfolk State's Steve Riddick has held the 100-meter dash record since 1972.

Erick McBride of Cal State Bakersfield was the other double winner. McBride won the 800- and 1,500-meter runs.

Mike Bennett of Northern Colorado defended his decathlon championship and became the first Division II athlete to win the event three times.

Christopher Newport takes new route to another title

Christopher Newport claimed no individual titles in its usual strength—the sprints—but two relay victories and a long jump title by Jennifer Martin propelled the Lady Captains to their fourth Division III Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships team title May 27-30 at Colby.

Martin leaped 19-7, beating the old meet record by a quarter of an inch. The Lady Captains scored 61 points, outdistancing runner-up and two-time defending champions Wisconsin-Oshkosh by 14.

Despite the comfortable winning margin, the meet was not decided until the last event. Christopher Newport led Wisconsin-Oshkosh, 51-46, heading into the 1,600-meter relay, with both teams fielding entries in the event. But Christopher Newport settled the issue with a victory while Wisconsin-Oshkosh finished eighth.

Jacqui Dent of Occidental won the 400-meter dash and the 800-meter run. She also finished fourth in the 200-meter dash. Ngozi Mwanambwa of Principia won the 200-meter dash and placed second in the 100- and 400-meter dashes.

Kim Oden of Nebraska Wesleyan ended a stellar collegiate career by smashing her Division III record of 5,136 points in the heptathlon. Oden scored 5,320 points and easily outdistanced her closest competitor, Julie Rademacher of St. Olaf, who scored 4,706 points.

Oden also broke her own meet record in the high jump, clearing 5-10½, one-quarter inch better than her old mark.

Wisconsin-La Crosse finishes first

Lincoln (Pennsylvania) won four events and Augustana (Illinois) and St. Thomas (Minnesota) each claimed three, but Wisconsin-La Crosse claimed the big prize by winning its second straight team championship at the Division III Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships May 27-30 at Colby.

The title was Wisconsin-La Crosse's third in the last five years. The Eagles won the 1,600-meter relay and Bruce Reynolds cleared 6-11½ in the high jump to lead Wisconsin-La Crosse to 73½ points. Lincoln (Pennsylvania) scored 51½ points, good for second place for the fifth time in the last six years. The Lions won in 1990.

Brandon Jones of Lincoln (Pennsylvania) won the 100- and 200-meter dashes. He set a Division III record in the third heat of the first round of the 100-meter dash. Jones clocked a 10.33, shattering the old mark by .14 seconds. Charles Burton won the 400-meter hurdles and the Lions also won the 400-meter relay.

Sandu Rebenciuc of Augustana (Illinois) won the 1,500- and 10,000-meter runs.

Three other meet records were set. DeWayne Stevens of Montclair State eclipsed the mark in the 400-meter dash. His 45.90 beat a 10-year-old mark by .24 seconds. Chad Thomas of Muskingum cleared 16-7½ in the pole vault -- three-quarters of an inch better than the old mark.

Scott Sargeant of UC San Diego threw the hammer 211-6, breaking that record by 20 inches.

TEAM RESULTS

Administrative Committee minutes

1. Acting for the NCAA Council, the Administrative Committee:

a. Appointed Nelson E. Townsend, State University of New York at Buffalo, to the Olympic Sports Liaison Committee, replacing Larry Ellis, Princeton University, resigned.

b. Appointed Chris Studer, Boston University, to the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee, replacing Margaret Smith, George Mason University, resigned.

c. Asked the Division I Men's Basketball Committee to submit the names of at least two candidates to fill a vacancy that will exist on that committee effective September 1, 1992, and placed the appointment on the agenda for the Administrative Committee's June 3 telephone conference; reminded all sports committees that they are expected to submit the names of at least two candidates for each vacancy on those committees, in priority order if they wish, or to report the reasons if it is not possible to meet this requirement.

d. Appointed Vince Jarrett, Abilene Christian University, to the Men's and Women's Golf Committee, replacing Joseph E. Carlson, University of California, Davis, resigned.

e. Appointed Terri Howes, University of Wyoming, to the Men's and Women's Rifle Committee, replacing John W. Kaiser, St. John's University (New York), per Bylaw 21.1.3.

f. Appointed Sten Fjeldheim, Northern Michigan University, to the Men's and Women's Skiing Committee, replacing Margaret F. Strait, St. Lawrence University, effective September 1.

g. Approved the following recommendations by the Special Advisory Committee to Review Implementation of 1990 Convention Proposal No. 24:

(1) That the Association forward to all Divisions II and III member institutions a copy of the aggregate volume containing each Division I member's graduation-rates report when that volume is distributed in Division I.

(2) That the Presidents Commission executive committee be asked to distribute a memorandum to all Division I chief executive officers reminding them that the NCAA is actively pursuing a waiver from the Secretary of Education that designates the Division I graduation-rates disclosure and reporting requirements as "substantially comparable" to similar requirements specified in the Student Right-to-Know Act and encouraging the individual institutions not to submit their own waiver requests in that regard.

h. Denied a request by the American Baseball Coaches Association for permission to appear in person at the August Council meeting (Division I Steering Committee) to discuss proposed legislation regarding baseball in Division I, noting that Council policy since 1986 has prohibited members or others from appearing in person before the Council to discuss proposed legislation (page 12, 1992-93 Council Handbook).

2. Acting for the Executive Committee,

the Administrative Committee:

a. Approved a request for approval of funding to permit members of the Summer Baseball Subcommittee of the Professional Sports Liaison Committee to conduct inspections of approved summer baseball leagues.

b. Noted that the Greater Kansas City YMCA had determined that it would not be financially feasible to establish a day-care center in a building owned by the Association adjacent to the national office building.

3. Report of actions taken by the executive director per Constitution 4.3.2. Acting for the Council:

a. Granted requests by the University of Southwestern Louisiana and Gonzaga University to replace on a temporary basis coaches in football and basketball, respectively, per Bylaw 11.7.1.1.1.2.

b. Approved 152 summer basketball leagues (97 for men and 55 for women) per Bylaws 14.8.5.2 and 30.14, as reported in various issues of The NCAA News.

c. Granted waivers per Bylaw 14.8.6.1-(b) to permit student-athletes from four institutions to participate in tryouts leading directly to qualification for participation in the Olympic Games (gymnastics, swimming, wrestling).

d. Granted waivers per Bylaw 14.8.6.1-(c) to permit student-athletes from 22 institutions to participate in competition involving national teams in basketball, field hockey, lacrosse, soccer, water polo and wrestling.

e. Granted waivers per Bylaws 14.8.6.1-(d) and 14.8.6.2-(b) to permit student-athletes from various institutions to participate in the 1992 Sunflower State Games (Kansas), North Carolina Amateur Sports Festival, Empire State Games (New York), Commonwealth Games of Virginia and Maccabiah Games (Israel).

f. Granted waivers per Bylaw 16.13.1 to permit institutions to provide incidental expenses in these situations:

(1) To student-athletes to attend funerals of members of the student-athletes' families.

(2) To provide flowers to a student-athlete's mother who suffered a heart attack.

(3) To provide flowers for funerals of family members of student-athletes.

(4) To student-athletes to attend recognized events at which they would be honored.

Interpretations Committee minutes

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Interpretations Committee issued the following interpretations:

Seasons of competition/dates of competition/contest limitations

1. Use of institutional equipment during the academic year. The committee clarified that based on current legislation, a student-athlete who competes in outside competition and utilizes any equipment (e.g., golf clubs, tennis racket) provided by the institution during the academic year is charged with a season of competition as well as a date of competition/contest as a result of the use of such equipment. The committee recommended that the NCAA Council consider sponsoring legislation to eliminate the provisions of NCAA Bylaws 14.02.6-(e) and 17.02.8-(e) (intercollegiate competition) to permit student-athletes to utilize equipment provided by the institution during the academic year without being charged with a season of competition or a date of competition/contest, provided the student-athlete does not satisfy any of the other conditions set forth in 14.02.6 or 17.02.8. The committee also recommended that the Council consider sponsoring legislation to amend the provisions of 14.02.6-(c) and 17.02.8-(c) to indicate that a student-athlete would utilize a season of competition as well as a date of competition/contest if the student-athlete competes in a uniform of the institution or if any institutional identification appears on any of the apparel or equipment utilized by the student-athlete for the competition. [References: Bylaws 14.02.6-(e) (intercollegiate competition), 16.12.1.6 (summer use of athletics equipment), 17.02.8-(c) (intercollegiate competition), and IC minutes 2/9/89, Item No. 3]

All-star games (high school)

2. Sponsor of a high-school all-star contest providing expenses to parents of participants.

Conference No. 8
April 30, 1992

The sponsor of a high-school all-star game may provide actual and necessary expenses to the parents or legal guardians of participants in the contest without jeopardizing the amateur status of those individuals participating in the contest only if the sponsor provides such expenses to the parents (or legal guardians) of all participants in the contest. [References: 12.1.2-(f) and 12.1.2-(l) (forms of pay), Council minutes 10/10/83, Item No. 2]

Advertising/endorsements/amateurism/professionalism

3. Student-athlete with remaining eligibility conducting a camp in a different sport. A student-athlete who is a professional in one sport (but has eligibility remaining in a second sport) may not conduct a private camp or clinic in the sport in which the student-athlete is a professional without jeopardizing his or her remaining eligibility in the second sport. The committee recommended that the NCAA Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism review the issue of whether the provisions of 12.5.2.1, which preclude a student-athlete subsequent to enrollment from promoting a commercial product or service, should be sport-specific. [References: 12.5.2.1 (advertisements and promotions subsequent to enrollment), 13.13.2.1.1.1 (self-employment) and Council minutes 2/4/81, Item No. 1-(a)]

Basketball/practice

4. Date for beginning permissible preseason conditioning activities in the sport of basketball. It is permissible for an institution to engage in preseason basketball conditioning activities at any time subsequent to the beginning of the institution's academic year (i.e., before October 1). The committee noted that student-athletes' participation in preseason conditioning activities conducted before the date for permissible on-court practice activities are limited to eight hours per week for each student-athlete. Further, the committee recommended that the NCAA Legislative Review Committee amend the provisions of 17.3.2.1.1 to indicate that the October 1 starting date for permissible preseason conditioning activities no longer is applicable in Divisions I and II. [References: 17.1.5.2 (weekly hour limitations - outside of playing season), 17.3.2.1.1 (permissible conditioning activities) and IC minutes 9/5/91, Item No. 5]

Coaches

5. Countable coaches. Institutional staff members involved in noncoaching activities (e.g., administrative assistants) that are not conducted on a department-wide basis do not count in the institution's coaching limitations, provided such individuals are not identified as coaches, do not engage in any on- or off-field coaching activities (e.g., attending meetings involving coaching activities, analyzing videotape or film involving institution's or opponent's team), and are not involved in any off-campus recruitment of prospects or scouting of opponents. The committee recommended that the Council consider sponsoring legislation to eliminate the provisions of 11.7.1.1.1.1 related to department-wide responsibilities and utilize the above-mentioned standard in determining whether any individual counts in an institution's coaching limitations. [References: 11.7.1.1.1 (countable coach) and 11.7.1.1.1.1 (department-wide responsibilities)]

Council approves 30 more basketball leagues

An additional 30 summer basketball leagues have been approved for student-athlete participation, bringing to 202 the number certified by the NCAA Council.

Other lists of approved summer leagues appeared in the April 22 and 29 and May 6, 20 and 27 issues of The NCAA News.

Questions concerning the application process or the requirements for NCAA approval of summer leagues should be directed to Christopher D. Schoemann, legislative assistant, at the NCAA national office.

Following are the 17 men's and 13 women's leagues recently approved for participation:

Men's leagues

California Fast Action Pro-Am Basketball of Southern California, Cerritos.

Florida Clearwater Parks & Recreation Department Men's Summer Basketball, Clearwater; Dade Street Community Center Summer Basketball League, Tallahassee.

Georgia Atlanta "HOT NETS" Summer Basketball League, Atlanta; Metro Atlantic Summer Basketball League, Atlanta.

Hawaii Hawaii NCAA Summer League, Honolulu.

Iowa Prime Time, Iowa City.

Maryland The Mid-Atlantic Pro-Am "Assault on Illiteracy" Summer League, Largo.

Missouri St. Louis C.O.P.S., St. Louis; Tandy Man's Summer League, St. Louis.

New York Monroe Summer Basketball League, Monroe; The Greater New York Pro-Am, New York; Boys & Girls Club Midnight Madness Summer Basketball League, Syracuse.

Ohio Greater Dayton Summer League, Dayton.

Pennsylvania Easton Neighborhood Center Summer Adult Basketball League, Easton; Mon Valley Merchants League, Monessen.

Utah Pride of Utah, Orem.

Washington Pasco Parks & Recreation Summer League, Pasco.

Wisconsin Nellie's Pro-Am City Basketball League, Milwaukee; Central Wisconsin Basketball Tournament, Schofield.

Higher education

Study: Black institutions carry much of burden

The publisher of an educational newsletter said that historically black colleges shoulder too much of the weight in educating black students and that predominantly white institutions should do more, The Associated Press reported.

"Ultimately, we're talking about accountability," said Frank Matthews, whose biweekly Black Issues in Higher Education published a study ranking 100 institutions awarding degrees to Blacks.

Of the 20 colleges and universities that awarded the largest number of baccalaureate degrees to Blacks in 30 disciplines in the 1988-89 academic year, only three were predominantly white institutions.

Topping the list was Howard University with 744 black graduates, representing 85.8 percent of its graduating class that year.

nities for women in coaching, athletics administration and officiating.

These postgraduate scholarships are awarded to women who have completed an undergraduate degree and have been accepted into an NCAA member institution's sports-administration program or a related program that will assist the applicant in obtaining a career in athletics.

Recipients must express an interest in preparing for a professional career in administration of athletics. The scholarships are for one year only and are valued at $6,000.

Three alternates have been named if one of the recipients is unable to accept the scholarship. They are Dawn M. Allinger of Washington State University, first alternate; Kerry K. Fopma of the University of Hartford, second alternate, and Aryn M. Landau of Tufts University, third alternate.

Biographical sketches of recipients of the 1992 scholarships (including the institution awarding the undergraduate degree and, if different, the institution where the postgraduate scholarship likely will be used) are included in the accompanying profiles.

Suzanne M. Coyne [Wilmington College (Ohio), Ohio University] Coyne received her bachelor's degree in finance and management in May 1992. She was a member of the soccer, softball and basketball squads and served as captain of the soccer and basketball teams during her junior and senior campaigns. She was a first-team all-Ohio academic honoree in soccer in 1991. A member of the dean's list seven consecutive semesters, Coyne was vice-president of Delta Omega Theta, Wilmington's homecoming queen in 1991 and a 1991 Green Key inductee. She intends to pursue a postgraduate degree in sports administration and facility management.

Christine M. Drutonis (College of Charleston, undecided)—Drutonis earned a bachelor's degree in physical education in April 1989. Since graduation, she has competed in semipro volleyball, and in professional basketball in Germany and, most recently, has been training with the U.S. Olympic handball team. She was a member of Charleston's basketball and volleyball teams. She earned all-America and most-valuable-player honors in both sports and was captain of the volleyball team. She plans to obtain a master's degree in sports management.

Erica B. Brooks [Washington University (Missouri), Ohio University]—Brooks received her bachelor's degree in business in May 1992. She currently is serving an internship with the St. Louis Storm of the Major Indoor Soccer League. She is involved with numerous community organizations, including the Leukemia Society of America, Women's Week Committee and the St. Louis Cardinals' "Say No To Drugs" Elementary School Program. She intends to pursue a career in sports administration.

Kelly J. Brown (Virginia Commonwealth University, Georgia State University)—Brown earned a bachelor's of fine arts degree in graphic design in May 1990. She currently serves as head coach and coordinator of the USA Junior Field Hockey Program. Brown participated in field hockey and was a three-year starter. She plans to pursue a master's degree in sports administration.

Katherine M. Fosina (Old Dominion University, James Madison University)—Fosina is a May 1992 graduate. She was awarded a bachelor's of science degree in physical education. She participated in field hockey and lacrosse. She was named to the 1991 all-Colonial Athletic Conference team and the 1988 NCAA women's field hockey all-tournament team and helped lead Old Dominion to three national titles. Fosina was the 1991 recipient of the Donna Doyle Endowment Scholarship and the Old Dominion Faculty Award. Her plans include pursuing a graduate degree in health and physical education and a career in women's athletics.

Robin K. Frierson (University of South Florida, University of Florida)—Frierson earned a bachelor's degree in sociology in 1984, a master's degree in guidance and counseling in 1988, and a certification in educational administration in 1991. She has spent the past four years as a counselor at Plant City High School. She was the girls' soccer coach at Plant City High School from 1985 through 1990 and was named Hillsborough County Coach of the Year in 1990. She is a volunteer with several organizations, including the Special Olympics and a group that encourages voter registration. She plans to attain a master's degree in sports administration.

Wendy S. Knowles (Florida State University, undecided)—Knowles earned a bachelor's degree in sports information management and marketing in April 1991. She intends to obtain a master's degree in sports administration. She was a member of the dean's list during each semester from 1987 through 1991. She served as president of the Polk Scholarship House and was a member of the Phi Eta Sigma Freshman Honor Society as well as the Golden Key National Honor Society. She was also involved with the "Say No To Drugs" program.

Maureen T. Lennon (University of Notre Dame, undecided) Lennon was awarded her bachelor's degree in communications in May 1992. She participated on the soccer team and was selected captain during the 1991-92 campaign. She has worked in the Notre Dame sports information department and as an intern with a local television station. Lennon was involved with Special Olympics, Big Brothers/Big Sisters and the YMCA Youth Soccer Program. Her goals include pursuing a master's degree in sports administration/management.

Laura B. Myers (University of Kansas)—Myers will receive her bachelor's degree in recreation management later this summer. She is a member of the women's golf team. She has been selected to the academic all-Big Eight honor roll and has been named the recipient of the Outstanding Female Student-Athlete Award for women's golf. She also was Jayhawk Scholar Athlete in each of her semesters at the school. She is a volunteer with the Special Olympics, Lawrence (Kansas) Parks and Recreation, and University of Kansas Recreation Services. Myers plans to pursue a master's degree in sports administration and sports psychology.

Barbara K. Pranger (University of Kansas, undecided)—Pranger expects to receive her bachelor's degree in exercise science/prephysical therapy later this year. A member of the swimming and diving team, Pranger is a three-time all-American. She was a third-team at-large academic all-American and a College Swimming Coaches Association all-academic team selection in 1991. She was named Kansas' Women's Student-Athlete of the Year in 1989-90 and the Phillips 66 Classroom Champion. She is involved with numerous organizations and serves as the lobbyist for nonrevenue athletics support with the student senate. Her ambitions include working in physical therapy.

Athletics programs

riding some success right now.... State funding has been cut here tremendously, and we want to be perceived as people who care about the university. Fortunately, we have some financial stability."

In Kentucky, two separate five percent budget cuts were announced during this fiscal year. The result is an estimated decrease at Louisville of $13 million in the 1992-93 fiscal budget from 1991-92, said Donald C. Swain, university president and chair of the Louisville athletics association. Swain said half of the $400,000 donation from the association will go to assure adequate financial aid funding for students and the balance will be used to benefit the campus library.

"We are fortunate that our athletics department is fully self-supporting and has been able to build up some reserve funds," Swain said. "It's a happy development."

Added Georgia President Charles B. Knapp, "The emphasis the UGA

Athletic Association has placed on excellence in both academics and athletics is exemplified by these two pledges of $1 million, as well as the extensive involvement of Vince Dooley (former football coach and current athletics director) in the library endowment fund. This dual commitment to excellence is acknowledged and greatly appreciated."

A boost from winning

Those athletics departments that are currently operating in the black usually can point to one large reason for their financial stability—successful men's basketball or football teams. And if that is not the case at the larger Division I institutions, then there generally is active alumni support of the athletics department.

"We're strong when our programs are winning and things are going well," said William C. Olsen, director of athletics at Louisville. "That can reverse and reverse quickly."

The Louisville athletics department reversed its financial standing to the better around 1985, just two years after it was given a five-year mandate to become self-sufficient. It was accomplished, in part, by the development of an aggressive marketing effort.

The athletics department has gone from sending the university a $1 million-plus bill each year to returning $9 million to nonathletics programs since the inception of the athletics association in 1983.

"We're proud that we're in that position," Olsen said. "I'm glad we're in the black and in a position to help."

Dooley said Georgia's athletics association has remained on solid financial ground in spite of lofty expenses and the lingering recession.

"I'm proud that despite a substantial debt service of approximately $13.5 million and a very difficult economic climate, our athletics program has remained financially sound," Dooley said. "This financial stability enables us to continue our support of academic programs at the university by pledging this second million dollars."

While the Louisiana State athletics department has given back approximately $3 million over the last five years, Director of Athletics Joe Dean said, its profits already are more accessible by the university than at schools where the athletics program is separate from the university.

"The only thing that happens here is you've got to make it on your own," Dean said. "They let us operate independent of the institution. We've had financial success over the last five years, but (the university) could come and take the money. We traditionally have tried to help in funding some projects. We're on the team. We support academics."

Help with gender equity?

One question that may arise on some campuses is whether some of those funds turned over to academics should be used to upgrade women's athletics programs.

"We've had a very aggressive Title IX policy since it was instituted," Foley said. "The University of Florida does not have these concerns."

Foley added that the state of Florida annually reviews athletics programs at its higher education institutions for compliance with Title IX.

Dean said Louisiana State's women's programs are benefiting from athletics profits as much as the men's programs are. The school sponsors nine sports each for men and women.

"Everything we do is together," Dean said. "They're (women) included. If I could separate football and put it on the side.... But you cannot overcome the numbers. We need to come to a compromise that the ladies will feel comfortable that they're getting a fair shake. We work at our women's programs. We're interested in them."

CFA coaches, ADs split on grant question

Football coaches at NCAA Division I-A institutions, alarmed by grant-in-aid reductions, strongly recommended at the annual meeting of the College Football Association that the overall grant limit be fixed at 90, but CFA athletics directors said they prefer to retain current legislation reducing football grants-in-aid to an overall total of 85 beginning with the fall of 1994.

The CFA met May 29-31 in Dallas. During a business session on the final day, the coaches and athletics directors reported on their discussions during the meetings, as did faculty athletics representatives.

Some coaches attending the meetings reacted to the disagreement over the grant-in-aid limit, according to The Associated Press.

"Coaches are trying to figure out where the bleeding is going to stop," said Clemson University coach Ken Hatfield. "Everything has decreased and nothing has increased. Coaches are getting frustrated because losing scholarships takes away from the quality of the game."

University of Miami (Florida) coach Dennis Erickson said that if scholarships are reduced, some teams could be decimated by injuries.

"If you cut 10 scholarship players, it hurts," Erickson said. "If you get injuries, it can definitely affect the quality of the game."

Hatfield pointed out that with more players leaving college early for the NFL draft, the talent pool for colleges is being chipped away.

"The NFL is taking some of the most exciting players out of college football before they complete their careers," Hatfield said.

Football coaches also discussed relations with pro teams during their meeting but took no action. However, some coaches expressed displeasure with players being taken off campus for tests by NFL teams.

In other topics discussed at the business session:

- Faculty representatives, athletics directors and coaches supported legislation to permit one contact per week at a prospect's institution in Division I-A football and to permit not more than three contacts at other sites.

- The three groups also supported legislation that would preclude telephone contact with a prospective student-athlete before August 15 after completion of the prospect's junior year in high school. Thereafter, telephone contacts would be limited to one per week from August 15 through November 30.

They would be made at the discretion of the institution from December 1 through February 15. From February 16 through August 14 after the prospect's senior year, there would be a limit of one telephone contact per week.

- Faculty representatives supported restoration of a year of eligibility for student-athletes who scored 17 on the ACT before the NCAA Council's decision last fall to change the minimum score requirement for initial eligibility from 18 to 17.

The Council, which made the change as the result of a recommendation from the American College Testing Service, determined that the adjustment would not be retroactive. The CFA's faculty representatives asked for a review of the decision and also recommended CFA sponsorship of an NCAA Convention proposal to overturn that decision.

tered before October 12, 1989, when the enhanced version with its revised scoring scale was introduced nationally.

Now, the NCAA Special Advisory Committee to Review Implementation of 1990 Convention Proposal No. 24 has determined that average scores on both versions of the test should be included in the report.

The other revision in the report is being made in response to concerns expressed by member institutions about potential violations of the Federal student privacy laws commonly known as the "Buckley Amendment."

In the section of the report related to admissions data, situations may occur where data exist only for an individual student. In such cases, the special advisory committee has decided, the admissions information for that one student will not be reported.

Memorandums summarizing the revisions of the report are being sent this week to each Division I school's chief executive officer for review. Where applicable, scores from the enhanced ACT will be included in the memo, and a signature form will be attached that must be returned to the NCAA national office by June 12.

Athletics uses for computers to be taught

Using more than $48,000 in donated software and services, West Virginia University's sports management program will offer a class beginning this fall that will give students "hands on" experience with computer programs that are used in a majority of the nation's NCAA Division I athletics programs.

The course will introduce students to three software packages produced by Paciolan Systems—Ticketing; Support Group, a fund-raising package, and General Ledger, an accounting and budgeting program.

In addition to donating the software for establishment of a classroom/laboratory at West Virginia, the firm also will provide training in use of the software for the sports management program's coordinator, Dallas Branch Jr.

Some instruction already has been provided on the General Ledger system for graduate students in the sports management program, which is offered through West Virginia's school of sport and exercise studies.

'101 Promotions' sequel will highlight seminar

A sequel to the popular "101 Promotions" will be among the highlights of the 15th NCAA Professional Development Seminar June 24-26 in Atlanta.

The seminar is designed to assist those involved with marketing and promoting intercollegiate athletics programs. The session will be the only one this year, making this only the third time for the event to be limited to a once-a-year basis.

Alfred B. White, NCAA director of promotions, said the "101 Promotions" feature was especially popular at the June 1991 seminar. Leo Kirk of the University of California, Berkeley, and Gregory L. Lockard, director of athletics at Montclair State College, compiled 101 promotions that had proven effective and assembled them in a comb-bound publication.

White said that those attending the meeting generally reacted positively to the availability of such a collection of successful promotions, although some remained skeptical about how the promotions would work at their institutions.

"They would say, 'That may not work at my school,'" White said, "and there's probably a degree of truth in that. But there's a need for modification so that it would work at various campuses."

Kirk and Lockard plan to add a chapter a year to the book. This year, a list of vendors will be included (for example, to aid an institution that needs squeeze bottles with schedules printed on them).

Other topics in the seminar will include:

- Creating sales presentation packages. Includes ticket selling strategies and techniques, prospecting season ticket sales, cost-effective promotions and increasing campus involvement in athletics.

- How computers and computer software can help marketing and promotions practitioner. Includes desktop publishing, printed presentations, promotional flyers and newsletter design, production and editing, ideas on lowering production costs, and cost-effective advertising.

- State of college athletics financing. A discussion of financial pressures that have evolved for intercollegiate athletics departments; also, what additional revenue opportunities may be available.

- Event organization. Includes keeping the cost of the payroll down, automated vs. conventional ticketing, community rental of college facilities, coordinating volunteer efforts and promotional ideas that can enhance attendance.

- Marketing plans and marketing research. Includes sport-specific marketing, marketing baseball and basketball radio and television packages, choosing a national advertising representative, and low-budget/high-impact promotions.

- Corporate sponsorships. Includes identifying potential sponsors, changing sponsorships during volatile economic times, comparing urban sponsorship programs with those of rural institutions and dealing with donors who think they own the athletics department.

A mini-seminar also is planned on developing a personal image with more impact.

Facilities

Villanova stadium gets face lift

After countless football, soccer, lacrosse and field hockey games, graduation ceremonies, and track and field meets, the Astroturf and track at Villanova Stadium on the campus of Villanova University are getting a rest.

A $1.25 million resurfacing project underway May 12 will feature state-of-the-art Astroturf and Recotan surfaces installed on Leo Goodreau Field and the Jumbo Elliott Track.

"It's much needed," said athletics director Ted Aceto. "Our stadium is truly a multipurpose facility, used by our varsity teams and intramural and recreation programs, as well as the general Villanova community."

Illinois Wesleyan to build facility

Plans for a new $15 million athletics and recreation complex were announced in early May at Illinois Wesleyan University.

The facility is part of the $58 million Campaign for Illinois Wesleyan University, the largest fund-raising effort in the university's 142-year history. A $5 million challenge-fund gift from the Russell and Betty Shirk Foundation of Bloomington, Illinois — the largest contribution ever made to the institution — is earmarked for construction of the athletics and recreation center, which will be named Shirk Center.

The two-level, 135,344-square-foot athletics and recreation center will replace the Fred Young Fieldhouse, which accommodates only basketball and was built more than 30 years ago.

Stadium dedicated at West Georgia

Dedication ceremonies were held recently for Grady Woodfin Cole Stadium on the campus of West Georgia College.

The late E. Woodfin Cole was the major contributor to the baseball facility, which seats about 600 and features a two-story press box, a VIP room, coach's office, umpire's dressing room, training and laundry rooms, concession stand, restrooms, and a large storage area.

New Hornets' nest

Renovations were completed in March on Hornet Field at California State University, Sacramento. The improvements included increasing the seating capacity from 6,000 to 26,000 temporary bleacher seats, adding a new press box with capacity for more than 120 media and special guests, upgrading power and utility capabilities and adding a state-of-the-art lighting system and new scoreboard with message center.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer

ECAC

Assistant Commissioner

The Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) invites nominations and applications for the position of Assistant Commissioner. This is a full-time, 12-month position with full benefits.

RESPONSIBILITIES: The primary responsibilities will include overall administration and supervision of two of the following three major services of the Conference: Officiating, Championships, Legislative Services/Compliance.

QUALIFICATIONS: Bachelor's degree with a minimum of two years of administrative experience in intercollegiate athletics. Knowledge/understanding of championship operation, experience in coaching and/or officiating, and/or background in legislative/compliance services at the college or conference level is desirable. Strong interpersonal and communication skills and willingness to contribute as a team member are essential.

SALARY: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Review of applications will begin June 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Desired starting date: July 15. Submit resume, two letters of recommendation and three references with telephone numbers to:

Clayton W. Chapman
Commissioner, ECAC
P.O. Box 3
Centerville, MA 02632
508/771-5060 Fax: 508/771-9481

The ECAC includes 268 colleges representing Divisions I, II and III from Maine to North Carolina and west to the Ohio border. The conference manages 93 championships, provides officiating and awarding services for 15 sports, conducts two conventions per year, assists member colleges with legislative services and manages numerous public relations services.

ECAC is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages women and minorities to apply.

Special storyteller

First-graders in the bilingual class at Windham Center School in Willimantic, Connecticut, were treated to a story by Eastern Connecticut State University pitcher Bob Douglas. Douglas was assisting with Eastern Connecticut State's Baseball Literacy Program, in which members of the baseball team visited the school until the end of May.

A change of culture permits Indian's tennis skills to flourish

Stanford University women's tennis player Laxmi Poruri has found success in tennis that would have been little more than a dream in her native India.

Poruri moved with her family from India to Claremont, California, at age 3 and eventually became the national junior champion in 1988. As a junior player, she defeated the likes of Monica Seles and Arantxa Sanchez.

Her chances of becoming a top-notch tennis player in India, where economics and culture would not have allowed a female to rise to championship levels, were "zilch," her father told the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Sports are not really accessible (in India)," Poruri said. "Girls are not encouraged when they're young. Studies come first, and marriage comes early. I would love to be the first Indian to do some things (in tennis). The first of anything is not a record that can be broken."

At the recent NCAA Division I Women's Tennis Championships, Poruri advanced to the semifinals of the singles competition before losing to eventual runner-up Shannan McCarthy of the University of Georgia.

How young can you go?

State University College at Brockport believes it may have the youngest pair of head basketball coaches in the nation, but it is seeking confirmation from NCAA member institutions in all divisions.

Women's basketball coach Michelle Carron recently was appointed at Brockport State at the age of 28 (born September 23, 1963), and men's coach Bill Bowe is 27 (October 10, 1964).

Institutions with a younger pair of men's and women's basketball coaches are asked to contact Brockport State sports information director Mike Andriatch at 716/395-2380.

Nine years and still counting

The Aurora University baseball team claimed its ninth consecutive Northern Illinois Intercollegiate Conference title this season with a 2-1 and 10-0 double-header victory over Rockford College April 30.

Briefly in the News

"We have had some great players at Aurora University over the past 10 seasons, and they have certainly been the key to our success," Aurora coach Jim Schmid said. "To win the conference is always a great accomplishment, but more importantly it is the first step toward a bid to the NCAA tournament."

Jordan rules on baseball diamond

State University College at Oswego senior Dan Jordan struck out 23 batters in a nine-inning game en route to a 9-0 shutout of State University of New York Institute of Technology at Utica/Rome. Last season, Jordan fanned 20 batters in another nine-inning contest.

Against Utica Tech, Jordan yielded just one hit and three walks. His strikeout total set a State University of New York Athletic Conference record.

Georgetown's Holman receives Duffey Award

Georgetown University senior Steve Holman was named the 1991-92 recipient of the Robert A. Duffey Award, given annually to the Georgetown student-athlete who best exhibits excellence in both academics and athletics.

Holman was a standout performer on the Hoyas' cross country and track and field teams, garnering 10 all-American and seven Big East Conference championships honors. He was named the 1991-92 Big East/Right Guard Academic Challenge Scholar-Athlete of the Year and was selected for the Big East Postgraduate Scholarship Team. For the past three years, Holman also has been honored by the Big East Conference on its Academic All-Star Team.

A dean's list student, Holman graduated with an English degree last month and will attend Georgetown law school this fall.

Former Steeler headlines clinic

Former Pittsburgh Steelers star and University of Notre Dame stand-out Rocky Bleier will be the featured speaker at a dinner and football coaches' clinic sponsored by the Siena College Football Booster Club.

Bleier, a decorated veteran of the Vietnam War, will headline the dinner called "A Motivational Evening" June 19 in Serra Hall on the Siena campus. He then will address the clinic June 20.

Madonna impresses baseball coach

University of Southern California assistant baseball coach Bill Hughes knows talent when he sees it. And when it comes to the diamond, pop diva Madonna apparently has some strengths in that area.

Hughes served as technical adviser for the soon-to-be-released movie "A League of Their Own," which focuses on the World War II-era women's professional baseball leagues. The film features Madonna as a center fielder and Academy Award-winning actress Geena Davis as a catcher.

Hughes told the Los Angeles Times that Madonna was a natural.

"Everybody wanted to do their own sliding," Hughes said. "Remember, these girls wore dresses, for one. And two, they had to slide on dirt. There were plenty of strawberries. One girl had such a huge strawberry that when you see it, you can bet it's real."

"(Madonna) was top of the line. She could not get enough work. She would even bother me, so to speak, at lunch time to go out and take some more swings. Our only day off was Sunday, but she wanted to work then, too. Her work ethic is second to none. She would run eight to 10 miles before anyone else ever came out (for practice)."

Community service

'Great DePaul Workout' aids homeless

DePaul University student-athletes, in conjunction with the DePaul student group Students Against Homelessness and Hunger, participated in the first "Great DePaul Workout" May 16 at several locations throughout the Chicago area.

The "Great DePaul Workout" provided manpower to local organizations for cleaning parks and shelters, painting, sorting clothing, etc. The goals of the event were to provide a positive volunteer experience for the student-athletes and to establish an annual event for that purpose.

Florida's Kruger honored for community service

University of Florida head men's basketball coach Lon Kruger received the Gainesville (Florida) Community Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse's Community Service Award for his efforts as chair of Alachua County's Red Ribbon Campaign, a week-long program last fall that was aimed at increasing awareness and promoting a drug-free environment for the community.

"Children are the most vulnerable and powerless victims of drug abuse," Kruger said. "If we are to stop this problem, we must teach our children the pitfalls of drug abuse and show them they can live drug-free. By uniting the effort of our community, we send a positive message to our youth that drug-free living is desirable, obtainable and endorsed by the adult community. It begins with awareness, with open communication, with good parent/child relationships and, most importantly, with strong community values that say, 'We support your choice to be drug-free.'"

Institutions donate to homeless

The Harvard University women's lacrosse squad, along with teams from Williams College, Springfield College and Colby-Sawyer College, presented the Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless with $3,500 before the Harvard-Princeton University game March 28.

Harvard cocaptain Ceci Clark and Sarah Leary presented the check to a representative of the coalition.

Helping turn corners at Lehigh

Before the April 5 women's lacrosse game between Lehigh University and Pennsylvania State University, Lehigh coach Jackie Keeley presented a $1,264.37 check on behalf of her team to the "Turning Point" shelter for women and children. The money was raised through Lehigh's participation in the "Score One for the Homeless" contest throughout the 1991 lacrosse season.

"I think it is a great program for both women's lacrosse and, in particular, the Lehigh women's lacrosse program to be involved in," Keeley said. "It was a neat feeling for the kids to be a part of the project and to see such positive results."
