New program to target life-skills development

The NCAA and the Division I-A Athletics Directors Association are exploring development of an ambitious life-skills program designed to provide systematic personal development for student-athletes.

"We want to stress that this is not just another program," said NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz. "This is an all-encompassing way of developing life skills for student-athletes, one that can replace or enhance existing programs."

Schultz noted that the life-skills program fits with the NCAA Presidents Commission's phase of the strategic plan targeted for 1996, which is promoting value development, moral reasoning and ethical conduct in intercollegiate athletics.

Betty B. Norrie, program coordinator for the NCAA Foundation, said four sponsors from the private business sector would fund development and implementation of the program.

Pilot programs are planned to begin in fall 1994. Those programs will be evaluated and then made available to the membership.

Whole person

The program would focus on the individual as a whole person—academically, athletically and emotionally—and would emphasize the changing needs and skills of that individual in the years during college and after graduation. The program would provide a system of balanced "life learning" that other programs cannot match.

"This program will consider the special demands that face today's college athletes," Norrie said, "factors like a lack of free time, competitive and social pressures, time devoted to travel, and high visibility. With all of that in mind, the life-skills program will explore a well-rounded curriculum of topics designed to assist in personal enrichment in the years during and after college."

Justus appointed NCAA coordinator of women's issues

Janet M. Justus, NCAA director of eligibility, has been appointed to the new position of women's issues coordinator for the Association.

Justus

The concept of a women's issues coordinator was developed by the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics, which said the national office staff needed a position similar to the senior woman administrator at each campus.

Phyllis L. Howlett, assistant commissioner of the Big Ten Conference and chair of the Committee on Women's Athletics, said the committee believes designating a single individual for this purpose will improve the flow of information between the women's athletics committee and other parts of the Association. Although Justus will track gender equity and other NCAA legislative issues, she also will be responsible for monitoring external sources that affect women's athletics and making certain appropriate people and committees are aware of important developments.

"There is a need for somebody who makes sure things don't fall through the cracks," Justus said.

Justus, who continues to serve as eligibility director, has been staff liaison to the women's athletics committee since September 1992. "We've really been impressed with the job she's done," Howlett said. "She is the ideal person to fill the position."

Justus has been a member of the NCAA staff since 1984, when she was hired as an enforcement representative. She was promoted to assistant director of eligibility in 1987 and became director of eligibility in 1988. She also serves as staff liaison to the NCAA Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and the Eligibility Committee.

Before joining the NCAA, Justus was staff attorney for the Legal Aid Society of Topeka, Inc. She holds law and bachelor's degrees from the University of Kansas.

At the wire

Chris Nelloms (right) of Ohio State University edged the field in the 200-meter dash finals at the NCAA Division I Men's Indoor Track Championships. Nelloms won in 20.93 seconds. Arkansas also won the team title for the 10th straight year. See championships results, page 8.

Dates set to distribute fund checks

The first checks from the 1992-93 NCAA revenue-distribution plan will be mailed to the Division I membership April 23.

The NCAA Special Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues approved dates for distributing the funds at its March 8 meeting in Chicago. The plan, based on six funds, annually distributes money from the Association's seven-year, $1 billion contract with CBS.

The funds and the dates on which the checks will be mailed are:

- Basketball—April 23.
- Division II—May 21.
- Academic-enhancement—June 25.
- Special-assistance—July 30.
- Sports-sponsorship—August 13.
- Grants-in-aid—August 27.

Among the funds, the committee paid particular attention at its meeting to the grants-in-aid and special-assistance funds.

Regarding the grants-in-aid fund, the full committee approved a subcommittee recommendation to maintain the current distribution formula, which is based on

Gender equity

Task force set for March 23 meeting

The NCAA Gender-Equity Task Force will consider recommendations from its two subcommittees and also matters pertaining to its final report when it meets March 23 in Dallas.

Since the last meeting of the full task force, which occurred January 19-20, the institutional and NCAA standards subcommittees have discussed topics that apply to their respective areas.

The institutional standards subcommittee is expected to submit to the full task force a statement on participation opportunities based on discussions from the subcommittee's February 16 meeting. The NCAA standards subcommittee, which met February 10 and will meet again March 22, discussed the possibility of using emerging women's sports to meet membership requirements. The subcommittee emphasized the need to get reaction from the membership in formulating a list of emerging women's sports.

For more detail, see the January 27, January 20 and November 16 issues of The NCAA News.

Next meeting: March 23 in Dallas.

Enforcement

First meeting conducted for ad hoc committee

The NCAA Ad Hoc Committee to Study Enforcement Issues studied the two remaining recommendations from the report of the Special Committee to Review the NCAA Enforcement and Infractions Process at its first meeting March 8-9.

Those recommendations involve the use of independent hearing officers and the use of open hearings. Committee members are in the process of reviewing discussion from the first meeting, and a more complete report on the meeting will be available in the March 24 issue of The NCAA News.

Next meeting: To be determined.

Championships

Deadline imminent for championships survey

Time is running out for Division I members who want to respond to the NCAA Executive Committee's proposal to enhance the Association's championships program.

The Executive Committee's plan would base field sizes on sponsorship and would deemphasize the revenue potential of a championship. Per diem, traveling parties and committee structure also would be affected.

Looking ahead

Future meeting dates for the NCAA Council and Presidents Commission:

Council

April 19-21; Ritz-Carlton Hotel; Kansas City, Missouri.

August 4-6; Hyatt Regency Beaver Creek; Avon, Colorado.

October 11-13; hotel to be determined; Kansas City, Missouri.

Presidents Commission

April 7-8; Doubletree Hotel; New Orleans, Louisiana.

June 29-30; Ritz-Carlton Hotel; Kansas City, Missouri.

September 28-29; hotel to be determined; Kansas City, Missouri.

Certification

Committee's first meeting to focus on immediate tasks

The agenda for the first meeting of the NCAA Committee on Athletics Certification will focus on the large number of tasks that must be accomplished to get the Association's newly adopted certification program implemented.

The committee will meet for the first time March 31 in Dallas.

Tasks facing the committee include development of a certification schedule, creation of a certification handbook and refinement of the self-study instrument. Other administrative procedures must be developed, including the method for selecting a pool of peer reviewers.

Division I institutions are to be informed of the initial five-year certification schedule by August.

For more detail, see the January 27, January 20 and December 16 issues of The NCAA News.

First meeting: March 31 in Dallas.

Finances

Research staff beginning process of survey analysis

The responses to the package of 17 "legislative concepts" produced by the NCAA Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Intercollegiate Athletics are being placed on a computer tape, and actual analysis of the responses will begin soon.

The Association's research staff will create programs to categorize the responses by division and position, among other possibilities, to aid the committee in its analysis of the information.

The committee will consider the membership's reactions at its next meeting, which will be April 29-30 in Chicago.

The list examined the membership's reaction to a set of 1994 legislative concepts, longer-term legislative concepts (1994-1996), and recommendations to institutions and conferences.

In its most recent meeting February 10-11, the special committee heard reaction to the legislative concepts from several constituent groups.

For more detail, see the February 17, December 23 and November 30 issues of The NCAA News.

Next meeting: April 29-30 in Chicago.

Special committee confirms revenue-distribution schedule

The Special Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues has approved the dates on which checks will be mailed as part of the 1992-93 revenue-distribution plan.

The schedule appears in a story on page 1 of this issue.

The committee also recommended no changes in the grants-in-aid component of the plan and recommended to the NCAA Executive Committee that conferences assume responsibility for issuing interpretations relating to the special-assistance fund.

For more information, see page 1 of this issue.

Next meeting: To be determined.

Legislative dates

First week of April — 1993-94 NCAA Manual to be mailed to membership.

July 1 — 1994 Convention proposals due from membership.

August 15 — Convention proposals due from Council, Presidents Commission and division steering committees.

September 1 — Sponsors' amendment deadline (modifications may be more or less restrictive than original proposal).

October 15 — Nonsponsors' amendment deadline (modifications may not increase modification of original proposal).

1994 Convention — January 8-12, San Antonio.

Briefly in the News

Sportsmanship a big winner

Carrie Gorton, a javelin and shot put student-athlete at State University College at Brockport, felt something was amiss when she stepped into the circle and prepared for a shot put attempt at the New York State Division III indoor track and field championships recently.

The shot's weight seemed unusually light. After finishing a throw of 12.70 meters to qualify for a return trip to the NCAA Division III Women's Indoor Track Championships, Gorton mentioned it to Brockport State coach John Izzo, who took the shot to meet director and event official Scott Slade. The shot was weighed and found to be significantly under weight.

Her qualifying throw was disallowed. Gorton's best throw with a legal shot was only good enough for second place in the competition.

But Gorton's and Izzo's integrity won high marks from meet official Michael A. Miranda, an associate librarian at State University College at Plattsburgh, who told The NCAA News about the incident.

Miranda was especially impressed by how coach and athlete reacted to losing an NCAA qualifying mark.

"Simply, they said, 'It wouldn't have been fair.' They did their best to ensure a fair competition. It was also a display of class and honesty from two people who honor the ideas of athletics," he said.

Jumper hurdles cancer

University of Tennessee, Knoxville, high jumper Randy Jenkins was one of the best in the country two years ago after a strong freshman season in which he set a school record and won a conference title. But that was before he learned that a massive tumor had entwined his esophagus, lungs, throat and shoulders.

Today, Jenkins is looking forward to continuing where he left off.

Jenkins won the 1990 Southeastern Conference indoor title with a leap of 7 feet, 4½ inches and followed that with the 1991 SEC outdoor title on a jump of 7-6½.

"I felt like I was on a roll," Jenkins told The Associated Press. "Then all of a sudden, everything just fell apart."

He thought at first that he had a cold. He

Helping the homeless

had all of the symptoms of one—sore throat and achy shoulders. But he had a difficult time shaking the symptoms. Jenkins finally was told he had a rare form of cancer.

"The doctor said it was just wrapped around everything," he said. "There was no way to remove it."

He underwent chemotherapy treatments for a period of seven months and missed the 1992 track and field season. The treatments, however, were successful. Jenkins is now cancer-free and looking forward to completing his dream of competing in the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta.

"I think I'm stronger than I was," he said. "I think I can jump better. I think I can jump 7-8, 7-8½. My goal is to win the NCAA and beyond that, I still think I'm due an Olympics. I'm planning on being in Atlanta."

Students aid students

The Student Athletics Board at the University of Missouri, Columbia, consists of 70 students who develop and help promote school spirit for the institution's athletics programs. Recently, the group donated $1,000 to the university's Tiger Scholarship Fund to provide academic and athletics opportunities for two student-athletes.

"We have wanted to do something like this for quite a while," said Scott Winkler, president of the group. "It is a great opportunity for us to give something back to the athletics department while at the same time helping out our fellow students."

The money will be earmarked for two $500 scholarships—one for a male varsity student-athlete and the other for a female student-athlete. The group said it hopes to make similar contributions in the future.

Former SID healing

Bill Whitmore, former sports information director at Rice University, suffered a series of minor strokes last fall, but after a period of rehabilitation has returned home to complete his recovery.

Those interested in sending cards and notes are encouraged to write Whitmore at 218 Bylane, Houston, Texas 77024, or call him at 713/782-7928.

Facilities

Bethany College (West Virginia) announced plans for a $5 million Health and Recreation Center, which is expected to open in September 1994. The center will house a new swimming and diving facility, racquetball courts, weight rooms, three full-sized basketball courts that will convert into tennis and volleyball courts, and an indoor track.

Construction has started on the Lee Powell Fitness Center at Abilene Christian University. The center, designed primarily to provide facilities for weight training for the school's student-athletes, is named for a former Wildcat football and basketball player and longtime Abilene Christian trustee.

When 7,000 permanent seats at Joe Robbie Stadium in Miami were removed to make room for retractable seats in preparation for the Florida Marlins Major League Baseball franchise, Jacksonville University purchased 2,100 of those seats to use in renovations of its baseball stadium and a proposed soccer/track and field facility.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards announced that Tulane University will be one of the beneficiaries of a new multipurpose sports arena to be built on property adjacent to the Louisiana Superdome. The arena, which is expected to seat at least 22,000 for basketball, will be financed with $80 million to $90 million in state bonds and may be completed in time for the 1995-96 college basketball season.

Committee notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancies must be submitted in writing to Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA office no later than March 31, 1993.

Basketball Officiating: Replacement for Denny Crum, University of Louisville, declined reelection for another term. Appointee must be a basketball coach from Division I. The new member's term will begin September 1, 1993, and expire September 1, 1996.

Men's Soccer: Replacement for Don J. DiJulia, St. Joseph's University (Pennsylvania), resigned from the committee. Appointee must be from Division I, preferably from the New England or Middle Atlantic men's soccer region.

Eligibility guide now available

A publication explaining eligibility requirements for two-year college student-athletes is now available from the NCAA.

The NCAA Guide for the Two-Year College Student-Athlete was developed by the NCAA Two-Year College Relations Committee to explain the eligibility requirements for student-athletes who wish to transfer from two-year colleges to NCAA institutions. The topics include academic requirements, recruiting, graduation-rate information, the National Letter of Intent, amateurism, and drug policies and procedures.

Copies of the guide are available from the NCAA national office in lots of 25 for $7.50. Orders require approximately two weeks for delivery. Prepayment is required. Orders may be placed by calling NCAA publishing at 913/339-1900.

Reform is a race without a finish

By the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh
UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

Following three years of fruitful work on college sports reform, the members of the Knight Foundation Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics conclude their efforts this week with a mixture of satisfaction and concern. On March 18, the commission will issue its final report, "A New Beginning for a New Century." I have been privileged to cochair this effort along with my longtime colleague and friend, William C. Friday, former president of the University of North Carolina.

Hesburgh

Why the satisfaction? The commission believes it has accomplished what it set out to do. It has moved the reform process along. Even more gratifying is that coaches, athletics directors, conference officials, and college and university presidents, the people with the power to act, have backed the reform effort with courage and conviction at recent NCAA Conventions.

In effect, the "one-plus-three" model (presidential control, academic integrity, financial integrity and certification) proposed by the Knight Commission as the framework for reform is already in place. The great majority of our recommendations, embraced and advanced by the NCAA membership, have been adopted by overwhelming margins.

In that case, why the concern? To say it as succinctly as possible: The struggle for reform is far from won. As our commission notes: "Tempted to believe the battle has been won because the framework is in place, presidents may turn their attention to other demands. This must not be allowed to happen. Reform is not a destination but a race without a finish."

Clearly, the public understands that the race is still being won. According to the most recent poll conducted by Louis Harris for the commission, many citizens remain troubled about college sports. Though the past three years have brought a dramatic 26-point rise in public confidence, about half

Jacoby editorial draws praise

I applaud Fred Jacoby's guest editorial in the February 3 issue of The NCAA News. I was beginning to wonder if anyone on the collegiate scene was aware of the problem and also whether the NCAA was preparing a defense from the recruiting services that are preying on unaware high-school students and their well-meaning but poorly informed parents.

Each week, I get letters from an ever-growing list of recruiting services, all of which have a common interest—the generation of income for their business. Although each portrays its objective as a service for its clients, high-school seniors, the real objective is profit for the recruiting service.

A danger in this issue is that many students, coaches, athletics directors, etc., are unaware of the intent of the recruiting services, and high-school student-athletes have been exploited and victimized by this lack of knowledge.

Help those of us who want to keep exploiters away from our student-athletes by passing sensible legislation that addresses the issue.

Financial burden of rules

Those of us in athletics shouldn't continue to be surprised when administrators and faculty complain about the expense involved with athletics.

For example, on our campus we have a $4,500 budget for the operation of the entire physical education program, which is obviously much less than our needs. Yet, we have various groups in athletics, like the NCAA Football Rules Committee, that continue to pass rules that create significant burdens on a school's budget.

As an athletics director, I must come up with the money for things such as narrower football goal posts or delay-of-game (25-second) clocks or be in violation of the rules of the game. It's hard to convince faculty and administrators that occasionally significant amounts of money are spent from an athletics budget for a purpose that was under the control of absolutely no one on our campus.

Obviously, the delay-of-game clocks "add to the game," but in the long view of a college president, these costs could have gone to much greater use in other areas of the college. And to burden all colleges and universities with the expense and labor involved in reducing the width (by a very small amount) of the goal posts a few years ago was absolutely ludicrous.

Until those of us in positions of responsibility in athletics begin seeing the larger issues on college campuses, we will continue to fight unnecessary battles regarding the true value of athletics.

□ Opinions

Top black athletes should be leaders

Michael Wilbon, columnist
The Washington Post

"We're very familiar with the fact that there are two black head coaches among 28 in the National Football League (Dennis Green and Art Shell), which is shameful considering that 60 percent of the men who play professional football are black. But I've got worse numbers for you. Of approximately 1,400 newspapers in this country, there are two black sports editors. Two. You want to compute that into a percentage? Or how about 200 full-time sports columnists in the cities with major-league teams: eight are black, fewer are women. Number of minority play-by-play people in the broadcast booth during the college bowl games this past holiday season? None. Zero. I know those stats because newspapers and communications are my business. I'm sure people in every profession could find at their fingertips similarly depressing data that suggest that the sports industry isn't at the bottom of the pile.

"But we don't spend much time thinking about minority contributions to science or art or advertising these days. Sports and entertainment, that's the ticket. That's all we care about. We're quick to defend Mike Tyson, who's made a trillion dollars, with cries of 'racism' over his incarceration. But a young black engineer in Dallas named Jeter was locked up in jail because of mistaken identity a few years back, and I can't remember for the life of me any of our nouveau rap/jock celebrities crashing the gate to visit him.

"So here we are, throwing our pennies and support at the richest group of African descendants in the whole wide world, athletes and entertainers. It used to be our preachers to whom we tithed; now it's our athletes and entertainers, most of whom won't even stand up and utter a single syllable on their own behalf. If you can dunk or rap in America, you've got it made, relatively speaking (at least while you're dunking or rapping). Imagine people whose salaries average $1 million needing someone else's support to ensure they don't fall off the edge of the earth when the cheering stops. It shouldn't even be necessary for Jesse Jackson to (have convened) the second meeting of the Rainbow Commission for Fairness in Athletics....

"This is not meant for one moment to criticize Jackson for his efforts, because obviously a loud, unwavering voice is necessary to stir the sleepers as well as the perpetrators. And as he said in convening the meeting, 'American sports at their best, while entertaining, have played perhaps the most pronounced role in transforming many attitudes and patterns of behavior in American life.'

"In fact, Jackson had an earlier hand than he knows in making sure the number of black sports columnists is as high as it is. I woke up one morning when I was 10, walked sleepily into my kitchen, and there was a 26-year-old activist named Jesse Jackson, leader of an organization called Operation Breadbasket, having breakfast with my parents. My father was the top route salesman for his company, Dean's Food Co., but he'd just gotten laid off. What a coincidence: He was the only black salesman in the company. Jackson organized what would be a boycott of Dean's products. Sufficiently trumped, Dean's called my father back before the boycott went into effect. A man who didn't graduate from high school used that job to put two sons through one of the most expensive universities in the country without a red cent of financial aid.

"That's what Jackson has always been best at, helping those who don't have the resources to help themselves. Strangely, he doesn't have to lead a group that ought to be leading the rest of us. We can only hope that after turning the ignition, the people who have been so silent, so non-participatory, will show enough interest to drive the car. Of all the timely remarks he made (at the meeting), the most important to me was: 'The players must match dignity with dollars. They must show courage beyond the lines of protection and regulation.... The present-day athletes, the prime beneficiaries of our struggle, must not be silent, not be naive about the great issues of our day. Even the best of them at the high noon of their careers must know that sundown is coming.'"

Recruiting

Jim Colletto, head football coach
Purdue University
Chicago Tribune

Recommendation to reduce recruiting expenses:

"Once a boy commits, that's it. All recruiting ceases. But if a kid commits early now, everyone still comes in and tries to change his mind. So now we have a kid committed to Purdue, and we still have to keep calling him to protect our interests...."

On extravagance at meals during recruiting:

"That's the thing that really blows my mind. Here you are taking them to a restaurant where they won't eat again for four years while they're a student here. You have kids talking about $60 dinners. I've seen kids order two or three entrees, because they know the coach isn't going to say anything for fear of offending them. You have to do it to keep up with the Joneses."

■ State legislation relating to college athletics

This report summarizes legislation currently pending in state legislatures that could affect, or is otherwise of interest to, the intercollegiate athletics programs and student-athletes at NCAA member institutions. Set forth below is a list of 46 bills from 26 states. The report includes 28 bills that have been introduced, and 18 pending bills on which action has been taken, since the last report (March 3). The newly introduced bills are marked with an asterisk. Pending bills discussed in the previous report on which no action has been taken do not appear in this report.

This report is based on data provided by the Information for Public Affairs on-line state legislation system as of March 11, 1993. The listed bills were selected for inclusion from a larger pool of bills concerning sports, and they therefore do not necessarily represent all bills that would be of interest to individual member institutions. Bills pending in the District of Columbia and U.S. territories are not available on-line and are not included.

The NCAA has not verified the accuracy or completeness of the information and is providing this summary as a service to members. For further information regarding a particular bill, members should contact the state legislature concerned.

As an overview, the table below summarizes the number of bills included in the report by subject:

Scalping.....	10
Trainers.....	7
Liability.....	6
Sports officials.....	6
Athlete agents.....	5
Anabolic steroids.....	3
Coaches.....	2
Wrestling.....	2
Graduation reports.....	1
High schools.....	1

■ Compliance briefs

General information

Resource file checklist: Copies of the 1993-94 NCAA resource file checklist are to be distributed to compliance coordinators of NCAA Division I member institutions and conferences by mid-April. The master checklist will contain a complete listing of all of the compliance-related resource materials available from the national office.

Condensed versions of the checklist (developed for use by chief executive officers, faculty athletics representatives, athletics administrators, coaches, and personnel in the offices of financial aid, admissions and registration) will be included in the 1993-94 NCAA Guide to Rules Compliance and distributed at the 1993 regional seminars.

Although samples of all the compliance-related resource materials will be available for review at each of the four regional seminar sites, checklist requests will be accepted by the compliance services staff in advance of the meetings. The compliance services staff will begin mailing checklist requests in May.

Graduation-rates disclosure form: The 1993 NCAA Divisions II and III enrollment and persistence-rates disclosure form (Form 93-6b) was mailed to chief executive officers of NCAA Divisions II and III member institutions in July 1992. The completed form is due in the national office June 15, 1993.

The June 15 reporting deadline—which replaces the July 1 reporting date previously identified—will enable the Association to submit institutional data to the U.S. Department of Education by the July 1, 1993, reporting date required by the Student-Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act.

To assist institutions in completing the reporting form, an electronic version will be available from the NCAA national office at no charge. Information for requesting the electronic form was mailed to the director of athletics and faculty athletics representative at Divisions II and III institutions March 3.

Institutional personnel responsible for completing the form may request a copy of the electronic form by contacting the compliance services staff at the national office. For Division II, failure to submit the required form by the deadline may jeopardize an institution's eligibility for participating in NCAA-sponsored championship events during the 1993-94 academic year. Questions regarding the form should be referred to the compliance services staff.

Exit interviews: The compliance services staff recently completed a telephone survey of selected Division I institutions concerning NCAA Constitution 6.3.2 (exit interviews). The objective of the survey was to identify some of the strategies being used to conduct the exit interviews since its August 1, 1991, effective date and to familiarize the compliance services staff with some of the current issues on campus being addressed that were raised during the exit-interview process.

The results of the survey will be incorporated in the existing student-athlete exit-interview resource material and offered as a resource tool that institutions may wish to use toward their preparation for upcoming exit interviews. The student-athlete exit-interview material will be available for distribution in late April.

Upcoming meetings

Representatives from the NCAA compliance services and legislative services staff will be participating in the following April regional association meeting: Western Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators, Santa Clara, California, April 26.

Compliance strategies

Summer employment: An institution's vulnerability to summer-employment rules violations may depend on the extent to which athletics department personnel arrange or assist prospective and enrolled student-athletes in procuring summer employment.

Even those institutions that are not involved directly in such arrangements may elect to monitor this area to better ensure compliance with NCAA regulations. Toward that end, institutional administrators may wish to establish and document summer-employment procedures; conduct summer-employment rules-education sessions for coaches and prospective and enrolled student-athletes, and develop and distribute a written summary of NCAA summer-employment rules to coaches, prospective and enrolled student-athletes, and employers.

In addition, institutional administrators may wish to consider requesting employers and prospective and enrolled student-athletes to submit written information concerning summer employment, including some or all of the following:

- Name, address and telephone number of employer.
- Job title and description of responsibilities.
- Wages and rate of pay.
- Method of payment (for example, cash or check, weekly or monthly).
- Hours worked per week, schedule, starting and ending dates.
- Method of transportation to and from work.
- Summer housing accommodations and address.
- Description of how position was obtained.
- Immediate supervisor's name.
- Tools or special clothing used in the summer job, including how such items were obtained.
- Union fees, including how fees were paid.
- Any benefits received other than wages (for example, loans, cash advances).

Lacrosse coach spells retirement c-o-a-c-h-i-n-g

By Martin T. Benson
THE NCAA NEWS STAFF

Typically, a guy who has coached at one school longer than any active peer in his sport would be ready for retirement.

And in the case of Towson State University men's lacrosse coach Carl Runk, that's true—sort of.

Runk, now in his 26th year as head man for the Tigers and a professor of physical education at the suburban Baltimore university, said that to him, retirement means doing what you want to do.

And he's been doing that. "Friends ask me what I plan to do when I stop coaching and I tell them I don't intend to stop," he said. "What else would I do? I feel like I've been in retirement for almost 30 years. I enjoy it now more than ever."

Earned respect

During his tenure he's earned the respect of his opponents, including Willie Scroggs, chair of the NCAA Men's Lacrosse Committee and lacrosse coach at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, from 1979 to 1990.

"If I had to pick another coach who would be great to play for and fun to be around, it would be him," Scroggs said. "We had terrific games with Towson. They gave us as much to contend with as anyone."

Entering this season, Runk had amassed a career mark of 223-128, making him one of only four active coaches with more than 200 career victories. Only Cornell University's Richie Moran has more.

Runk led the Tigers to the Division II championship in 1974. In 1980, Towson State moved into Division I. By 1989, the Tigers were in the Division I tournament. Two years later, before the Cinderella Tigers bowed to North Carolina in the Division I final, he became the only coach to lead teams to two divisions' championship games. Last season, Towson State was a quarterfinalist.

Although Towson State hardly is a household name, the Baltimore native and University of Arizona graduate never has considered leaving since he returned to the East.

"I like the freedom I've been given to coach and teach," he said.

Helping the deaf

Longevity and winning in athletics are only part of Runk's story. Helping his fellow man, especially the deaf or those who want to reach a deaf person, is the other.

Inspired by a wish to communicate better with his son Curtis, whose hearing was lost to spinal meningitis before his first birthday in 1963, Runk and his wife took graduate classes in 1978 in sign language, audiology and the sociology of deafness at Gallaudet University, a school for the deaf in Washington, D.C.

Runk, who regrets not taking those courses sooner, said bad professional advice led him to believe that it was better to rely on lip-reading to talk with his son, who is now 31 and a postal worker in Baltimore.

Although the classes helped, he wanted something more.

"I was so thirsty to learn, but every time I enrolled in class I was disappointed in the manner sign was being taught," he said. "I promised myself that if I ever had the opportunity to teach it, I would make it easier to learn."

Popular class

In 1978, Runk got that chance. Towson State started offering sign classes and Runk taught two sections—in the manner he had promised.

"I wanted my students to be in a position where if they met a deaf

Longevity certainly comes to mind when talking about Towson State University men's lacrosse coach Carl Runk. Runk, who has been at Towson State for 26 years, claims that even the pleasures of retirement couldn't lure him away from coaching.

person on the street, they wouldn't be nervous or turn away but would have the courage and confidence to say something," he said.

The sign program grew from nine sections to 30 and became one of the most popular courses on campus. His classes had as many as 67 students.

"Some say it's difficult to teach that large of a class effectively, but if you've had the background in coaching, you can apply it," he said. "Coaching involves teaching and teaching involves coaching."

In the 1989 and 1990 seasons, one of Runk's pupils on the lacrosse field was Murdo Henderson, a defenseman who was deaf. Many of the Tiger players took a sign class to communicate better with their teammate. Some adjustment was needed when Henderson was on the field, Runk said, but it wasn't hard.

Encourage the disabled

He said that if a coach encounters a player with a disability, it's worth giving the player the chance.

"A lot of coaches are going to come in contact with a player who has a disability," he said. "That youngster is no different from any youngster on the field. He should be mainstreamed right in."

A year and a half ago, budget cuts forced Towson State to reduce its number of sign classes. Runk hasn't taught the sign course since then, but he would jump at the chance to do it again.

That's the attitude he has toward a practice, game or physical education class. He is a man who is excited about what he's doing.

Idaho may withdraw

The University of Idaho announced March 11 that it may not play football in the Big Sky Conference after 1993 because of a league decision to cut football grants-in-aid over the next four years.

University President Elisabeth Zinser has appointed a committee to study the school's options and issue a report by June 1, according to The Associated Press.

The options include:

- Remaining in the eight-member Big Sky Conference and complying with new scholarship rules.

- Remaining in the conference for all sports except football, which the school would play as an independent, beginning with the 1994 season.

- Staying in the conference but playing football in another conference, beginning in 1994.

The committee will include representatives from the school's faculty, administration and athletics department, as well as athletics boosters.

"We're proud to be associated with the Big Sky Conference and at this point anticipate continuing our membership," athletics director Pete Liske said. "However, it's only prudent that the University of Idaho leave its options open during this period of careful review."

The move follows a vote March 8 by the conference's Council of Presidents to cut each school's allotment of football grants-in-aid to 45 by the 1996-97 school year.

The cuts will be made gradually by phasing out six football scholarships annually at each school, beginning in fall 1994.

The NCAA currently permits Division I-AA schools to offer 65 scholarships, and is cutting the limit to 63 in 1994.

Supporters said the cuts are necessary to deal with tight budgets and to help schools meet gender-equity goals in sports.

Idaho officials have criticized the move, saying scholarship cuts would put the Vandals at a competitive disadvantage compared with Division I-AA teams outside the conference.

Administrative Committee minutes

Conference No. 4 March 10, 1993

1. Acting for the NCAA Council, the Administrative Committee:

a. Appointed Pamela Hixon, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, as chair of the Field Hockey Committee, replacing Jennifer P. Shillingford, resigned as chair but continuing as a member of the committee.

b. Appointed Jack Poland, University of North Carolina, Greensboro, to the Women's Soccer Committee, replacing Marcia A. McDermott, no longer at a member institution.

c. Appointed Anthony J. DiGiorgio, Winthrop University, as the Division I-AAA Presidents Commission representative on the Special Committee to Review Student-Athlete Welfare, Access and Equity, replacing Curtis L. McCray inasmuch as McCray now is president of a Division III institution and no longer serves on the Commission.

d. Modified the wording of 1993 Convention Proposal No. 67, pursuant to Constitution 5.4.1.1.1, to indicate that athletics department staff members are precluded from endorsing any noninstitutional publication dedicated primarily (as opposed to solely) to reporting on an institution's athletics activities.

e. Took the following actions regarding requests for waivers of NCAA legislation:

(1) Granted an incidental-expense waiver per Bylaw 16.13.1 to permit an institution to provide hospital expenses that are not covered by insurance to a student-athlete who attempted to commit suicide.

(2) Denied a request for an incidental-expense waiver per Bylaw 16.13.1 to permit an institution to provide a student-athlete the funds to rent an additional place to live while recovering from a knee injury that prevents him from climbing the stairs at his current apartment complex; suggested that the institution ask the Administrative Review Panel to consider this situation.

(3) Granted an incidental-expense waiver per Bylaw 16.13.1 to permit an institution to pay a student-athlete's taxes resulting from the institution's providing him with legal services as authorized under Bylaw 16.3.2.(f).

(4) Granted per Bylaw 14.1.8.2.1, as amended at the 1993 Convention, a waiver of the 60-day requirement when an NCAA championship is conducted at the conclusion of the traditional playing season but begins more than 60 days after the end of the student-athlete's academic term.

f. Discussed alternatives to the current legislation governing restricted-earnings coaches; agreed to confer with appropriate constituencies in this regard in preparation for discussion in the committee's next in-person meeting.

g. Noted that the executive director had been contacted by a group interested in developing a Division I-A football playoff and that he would request written materials from the group and provide them to the Administrative Committee; noted also that the topic will be considered by the Division I-A subcommittee of the Presidents Commission in April.

2. Acting for the Executive Committee, the Administrative Committee:

Approved a recommendation that Judith M. Sweet, immediate past president, and Eugene F. Corrigan, immediate past chair of the Division I Championships Committee, be invited to participate in the May 4, 1993, NCAA Executive Committee discussion of championships proposals, and that expenses be paid for Corrigan to attend (Sweet's expenses already have been approved in relation to her attendance at the Budget Subcommittee meeting, as approved last December).

3. Report of actions taken by the executive director per Constitution 4.3.2.

a. Acting for the Council:

(1) Granted per Bylaw 11.7.1.1.1.2 a request by Northeast Louisiana University to replace temporarily one of its women's basketball coaches.

(2) Granted waivers per Bylaw 14-8-6-1-(c) to permit student-athletes from 16 institutions to participate in competition involving national teams in basketball, cross country, field hockey, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, and tennis.

(3) Granted waivers per Bylaw 16.13.1 to permit institutions to provide incidental expenses in these situations:

(a) To student-athletes to attend funerals of members of the student-athletes' families, funerals of members of teammates' families, funerals of teammates and, in one case, a funeral of a former athlete at the institution.

(b) To provide flowers to families involved in such funerals.

(c) To student-athletes to return home to visit seriously ill family members.

(d) To a student-athlete to attend a recognition event at which the student-athlete would be honored.

(e) To student-athletes to reimburse them for personal items stolen from the locker room at an away-from-home competition site.

(f) To a student-athlete to change the departure date of a nonrefundable ticket given to him by the organizers of the National Football League scouting combine in order to enable the student-athlete to remain on campus for an institutional competition before departing for the combine.

b. Acting for the Executive Committee:

(1) Approved a recommendation by the Divisions II/III Men's Ice Hockey Committee that the dates of the 1993 Division II Men's Ice Hockey Championship be changed from March 12-13 to March 19-20.

(2) Approved a recommendation by the Division III Baseball Committee that Carthage College be realigned from the Midwest to the Central region for the 1993 Division III Baseball Championship.

(3) Approved a recommendation by the Division II Men's and Women's Basketball Committees that the dates of the 1993 men's South Central regional be moved from March 12-13 to March 11-12 and the dates of the 1993 women's South Central regional be moved from March 12-13 to March 13-14 if Washburn University of Topeka is selected as host institution for both regionals.

■ Championships previews

Men's and Women's Fencing

Key to victory is qualifying squads for all four weapons events

Event: 1993 National Collegiate Men's and Women's Fencing Championships.

Overview: As the fourth combined men's and women's championships approaches, it has become clear that a team must qualify four weapons squads to have a chance to win the overall title. Last year's second- and third-place teams—Penn State and Yale, respectively—were the first teams to qualify less than a full complement of weapons squads and still finish among the top four in the overall standings. Penn State, Columbia/Columbia-Barnard and Yale are likely to qualify teams in all four weapons, and Notre Dame has an outside chance. Penn State appears to be the odds-on favorite because of its superior men's sabre and women's foil teams; the sabre squad features individual champions Vitali Nazlimov (1991) and Thomas Strzalkowski (1992), and the women's team includes 1992 titlist Olga Chernyak. With Harald Bauder of Wayne State (Michigan) returning in epee and Stanford's Nick Bravin returning in men's foil, all four 1992 individual champions are back.

Field: Eight three-man teams will compete for team titles in each of three men's weapon events: foil, epee and sabre. Twelve four-woman teams will compete for the team title in women's foil. Minimum fields of 24 fencers will compete for individual titles in women's foil and men's foil, epee and sabre. The NCAA Executive Committee has authorized a maximum of 154 fencers to compete in the combined-scoring championships.

Dates and site: Wayne State (Michigan) will host the championships March 27-31.

Results: Championships results will appear in the April 7 issue of The NCAA News.

Championships notes: Penn State, Columbia/Columbia-Barnard, Notre Dame and Yale have finished among the top five in the overall team competition each year since the combined championships began in 1990. These four schools have claimed nine of 12 weapons team titles and nine of 12 individual titles won during that period....Bravin is the only person to repeat as an individual champion. He won foil titles in 1990 and 1992....This will be the first time Wayne State (Michigan) has hosted the combined championships. The last national fencing championships hosted by the school was the 1968 men's tournament.

What they are saying

Emmanuel Kaidanov, head coach
Penn State

Second place in 1992

"Usually, the epee team championship is the answer to all questions (about which team will win the overall title) because it's the last weapon to fence. That makes it intriguing, making everybody wait until the last minute. It's almost impossible to get so many points before the last weapon that you have the championship (clinched).

"Last year, we took second but did not qualify an epee team. Second place was quite an achievement, but you don't have a chance (for the overall title) unless you qualify all four weapons teams."

George Kolombatovich, cohead coach
Columbia/Columbia-Barnard

Defending overall champion

"There's a real mutual respect among the athletes involved in the championships. Many of the top collegiate fencers go to international competitions and socialize together or even stay together. It's one of the great things about our sport. And that's the way sports should be. You want to get on the strip and win, but once it's over there's no animosity—you compete in a spirit of friendship."

Henry Harutunian, head coach
Yale

Fifth place in 1990, fourth place in 1991, third place in 1992

"I really don't know about our chances (of moving up to second or first) because we have a very young team, and whenever you have inexperienced fencers, you cannot say what will happen in the championships. Two schools look very strong: Penn State and Columbia. Both teams have a good shot at winning the championship."

Division I Men's Swimming and Diving

Stanford seeks own streak

Event: 1993 Division I Men's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Overview: Stanford snapped Texas' string of four straight championships last season and is favored to successfully defend its title. The Longhorns, however, are a strong threat to reclaim the throne. Michigan, Florida, UCLA and Tennessee will challenge to round out the top five.

Field: The maximum number of participants allowed is 270. All qualifiers who have met the "A" time standard will be admitted in the meet; those who have met the "B" time standard will be considered until the event is filled. No team is allowed more than 18 competitors. An entrant who swims is counted as one competitor, an entrant who swims and dives is counted as one competitor and an entrant who dives only is counted as one-third of a competitor.

Dates and site: The championships will be March 25-27 at the Indiana University Natatorium in Indianapolis. Indiana will be the host institution.

Results: Championships results will appear in the March 31 issue of The NCAA News.

Television coverage: The championships will be televised tape-delayed by CBS at 1 p.m. Eastern time April 11.

Championships notes: Although Michigan is second on the all-time team-championships list with 10, the Wolverines have not won a title since 1961....Florida's Greg Burgess won three events at the Southeastern Conference championships to propel the Gators past Auburn, Tennessee and Georgia....Tennessee likely will be without sprint specialist Chris Compton, who suffered a broken elbow in December.

Brad Bridgewater and Texas are hoping to reclaim the team title.

What they are saying

Skip Kenney, head coach
Stanford

"I think Michigan and Texas would be the two teams that would battle with us. I don't think any other teams have enough bodies or enough swimmers. This Stanford team has more quality depth than any other we've had."

Jon Urbanek, head coach
Michigan

"Stanford is definitely the championship team. They have the full deck of cards with strong relay and individual swimmers. Texas is strong in the relays, and we're strong in the individual events. California, UCLA, Southern Cal and Florida also should do well."

Division I Men's Ice Hockey

Favored Maine seeks first title

Event: 1993 Division I Men's Ice Hockey Championship.

Overview: With only one loss during the regular season, top-ranked Maine is the favorite to capture its first NCAA ice hockey championship and its first NCAA team title in any sport. The Black Bears, who finished the regular season 35-1-2, wrapped up their second consecutive regular-season Hockey East Association title and third in history.

Field: The selection of 12 teams will be announced at 8 p.m. Central time March 21. Automatic qualification has been granted to champions of the Eastern College Athletic Conference and the Hockey East, Central Collegiate Hockey and Western Collegiate Hockey Associations.

Dates and sites: The playoff begins at two predetermined regional sites (East—Worcester, Massachusetts; West—Detroit), with six teams assigned to each site. The regionals will be played March 26-27. The two highest-seeded teams at each regional site will receive first-round byes. Four winners will advance from quarterfinal games at the regional sites to the semifinals April 1 in Milwaukee. The championship contest will be played April 3. The entire championship will use a single-elimination format.

Results: Championship results will appear in the April 7 issue of The NCAA News.

Television coverage: Broadcasts of the semifinal games will be produced by NCAA Productions and televised live April 1 on most Prime Sports Network affiliates. The championship game will be televised live by ESPN at 7 p.m. Central time April 3.

Championship notes: This is the 46th Division I Men's Ice Hockey Championship....Teams from 33 institutions have participated in the tournament....Michigan has won the most championships, seven.

What they are saying

Shawn Walsh, head coach
Maine

Currently ranked No. 1

"Michigan looks like the team on a roll right now. They have stumbled a few more times than we have this year, but right now they are really playing well. Honestly, I think any one of eight or nine clubs could win the whole thing."

Cal Ingraham set a Maine record with 40 goals this season.

Arkansas grabs 10th straight title in I men's track

Just when it appeared that the gap was narrowing between Arkansas and other Division I men's track teams, the Razorbacks showed they remain at a level all their own.

With Erick Walder becoming only the second Division I competitor to repeat as champion in both the long jump and triple jump in the same year, Arkansas chalked up 66 points to blow away the field and capture its 10th consecutive indoor title at the Division I Men's Indoor Track Championships at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis March 12-13.

Arkansas, which claimed three individual titles, beat its closest competitor, Clemson, by 36 points. The margin of victory was the biggest since the Razorbacks' 41-point spread over runner-up Tennessee in 1985. Arkansas' last six championships each were won by fewer than 10 points.

Tennessee finished third with 25 points, while UTEP (22) and

Ohio State (20) rounded out the top five.

Walder, who has won five NCAA individual titles—four indoors and one outdoors—joined former Arkansas standout Michael Conley (1984 and 1985) as the only athletes to repeat as long- and triple-jump titlist in the same year.

Niall Bruton was the other Arkansas champion. Bruton claimed the mile run in 4:00.05, edging Andrew Keith of Providence by .22 of a second.

In addition to Walder, Michael Green of Clemson (55-meter dash) and Kevin Coleman of Nebraska (shot put) successfully retained their titles.

Jonah Koech of Iowa State, winner of the 5,000-meter run in 1990 and 1991, claimed his third title at that distance with a time of 13:47.18.

Niall Bruton (left) of Arkansas was one of two Razorbacks to repeat as individual champions at the Division I Men's Indoor Track Championships. Bruton won the mile run in 4:00.05, edging Andrew Keith (right) of Providence by .22 seconds. Arkansas teammate Erick Walder also defended his titles in the long jump and triple jump, helping Arkansas win its 10th straight indoor title. The Razorbacks ran up 66 points, beating runner-up Clemson by 36—the largest margin of victory since the Razorbacks' 41-point victory over Tennessee in 1985. The meet was held March 12-13 at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis.

A clean sweep: Abilene Christian wins II titles

Wildcat women record fifth title in last six years

Abilene Christian claimed four individual titles—two in record-setting fashion—en route to its fifth team title at the Division II Women's Indoor Track Championships March 12-13 at South Dakota.

Sparked by record-setting performances by Hermine Joseph in the 55-meter dash and their 1,600-meter-relay team, the Wildcats racked up 57½ points, 24½ more than runner-up Norfolk State.

up at the 1992 championships, placed third with 28 points, and Alabama A&M, the defending champion, finished fourth with 26 points.

The title was Abilene Christian's fifth in six years, and all have been won at South Dakota, which served as host this year for the fifth time.

Joseph extended Abilene Christian's dominance in the 55-meter dash by cruising to the title in 6.76 seconds. She shattered the meet record of 6.77 and became the fifth Wildcat in six years to win the title.

Abilene Christian's 1,600-meter-relay team of Donna Hinkson, Amara Ezem, Beverly Williams and Prisca Philip gave the Wildcats their second meet record, clocking in at 3:44.95, nearly a second better than the previous meet mark of 3:45.82.

Philip and Bigna Samuel accounted for Abilene Christian's other individual titles, winning the 400-meter dash and 1,500-meter run, respectively.

Gina DeWitt (above) of Morningside won the 800-meter run at the Division II Women's Indoor Track Championships March 12-13 at South Dakota. Abilene Christian won four individual titles on the way to winning its fifth team title in the last six years. The Wildcats got record-setting performances by Hermine Joseph in the 55-meter dash and by their 1,600-meter-relay team. St. Augustine's 1,600-meter-relay team (right) had similar success in the men's Division II meet, winning its second straight title.

Men end St. Augustine's reign

Abilene Christian men's track coach Wes Kittley said before the Division II indoor track championships that 1993 "is the first chance we have to be up there (on top)."

His team took full advantage of the opportunity.

A year after finishing second, 57 points behind St. Augustine's, Abilene Christian totaled a team-record 69 points to win the Division II Men's Indoor Track Championships at South Dakota March 12-13.

The victory was Abilene Christian's second indoor title, but only its first outright crown—the Wildcats shared the title with St. Augustine's in 1988. It also ended St. Augustine's six-year reign as champion.

The victory also completed an Abilene Christian sweep of the Division II men's and women's indoor track titles.

St. Augustine's finished second with 61 points, while Adams State, competing at its first NCAA indoor championships, placed third with 42 points.

Abilene Christian won four individual titles, including the pole vault, where Mike Edwards shattered the meet record. Edwards claimed his first title, soaring 17 feet, 2¼ inches, one inch better than the previous mark set by former Abilene Christian standout Cameron Miller.

Brian Amos (55-meter hurdles), Robert Guy (400-meter dash) and Joseph Tengelei (800-meter run) also were in the winner's circle for Abilene Christian.

St. Augustine's won three events, all repeat victories, as James Shelton (high jump), Keith Holley (triple jump) and the Falcons' 1,600-meter relay team earned top honors.

Holley's victory in the triple jump was his third consecutive title, making him the first Division II men's athlete to achieve that feat. The Falcons' victory in the 1,600-meter relay extended their title streak in the event to four.

Louisiana State secures another odd-year crown

Odd years vs. even years.

If Louisiana State had its way, the Division I Women's Indoor Track Championships would be held only during odd years.

For the fourth time in seven years (1987, 1989, 1991 and 1993), the Tigers won the championships and in the process won three individual events.

The Tigers scored points in six events—including five top-three finishes—to edge Wisconsin, 49-44. The five-point differential was the closest finish since Texas outlasted Southern California, 31-26, in 1986.

Florida, the 1992 champion, was third with 34 points, followed by Villanova (22) and Indiana State and Alabama (20).

Leading the way for Louisiana State were Daphnie Saunders and Danyel Mitchell, champions in the long jump and shot put, respectively. The Tigers' third title came in the 1,600-meter relay as the foursome of Indira Hamilton, Dahlia Duhaney, Heather Van Norman and Youlanda Warren finished in 3:33.63.

Tracy Dahl Morris of Iowa was the lone individual repeat champion from last year with her title in the 5,000-meter run. Wisconsin's 3,200-meter relay team of Julie Coat, Sarah Renk, Kim Sherman and Amy Wickus earned the Badgers' second consecutive title in that event. Wickus also won the 800-meter run.

Holli Hyche of Indiana State (55- and 200-meter dash) and Wisconsin's Clare Eichner (mile and 3,000-meter run) were both dual and first-time champions.

Louisiana State's Daphnie Saunders won the long-jump title.

Lions win first III women's championship

Lincoln (Pennsylvania) won just one individual title, but the Lions still claimed their first Division II Women's Indoor Track Championships team crown March 12-13 at Bowdoin.

Lincoln (Pennsylvania), which never had finished higher than seventh, scored 36 points in earning its first title. The point total, lowest ever for a Division III women's champion, was nine better than runner-up Wisconsin-La Crosse's 27 points.

Brandeis placed third for the second straight year, scoring 24 points. Wisconsin-Oshkosh, runner-up at the last three championships, was fourth, and Wisconsin-Whitewater and Cortland State tied for fifth.

Narissa Crosson captured the only individual title for Lincoln (Pennsylvania), winning the 800-meter run in 2:16.13.

But Lincoln (Pennsylvania) supplemented Crossen's showing with points from Kelly Ross (second place in the 55-meter hurdles), Shawna Hardy (third in the 400-meter dash), Courtney Washington (fourth in the 400-meter dash) and its 1,600-meter-relay team, which placed second.

Champions repeating from last year were Sharon Lindo of Montclair State (400-meter dash) and Elena Zhelezov of Brandeis (triple jump).

Lindo won her second high-jump title in three years.

Not quite

Joel Mitre of UC Riverside just missed this attempt during the high jump competition at the Division II men's indoor track championships. Mitre finished second in the event behind St. Augustine's James Shelton. Abilene Christian won the team competition, knocking off St. Augustine's, which had won the six previous titles. The Wildcats also won the women's competition by 33 points over Norfolk State. See championships stories, page 8.

Eagle men win third III title

In what is fast becoming a familiar trend at the Division III Men's Indoor Track Championships, Wisconsin-La Crosse nearly was shut out in competition for individual titles but still managed to win its third consecutive team championship March 12-13 at Bowdoin.

Wisconsin-La Crosse, which has claimed only four individual titles (two in 1991 and one in 1992) during its three-year reign, again offset its lack of victories as it has in the past: with depth.

Led by Bruce Schroder, who claimed the long jump title and placed second in the triple jump, the Eagles recorded eight top-three showings and scored 70 points. It was more than enough to outdistance runner-up Lincoln (Pennsylvania), which finished with 48 points.

St. Thomas (Minnesota) earned third place with 33 points, followed by Montclair State (30) and Nebraska Wesleyan (28).

While Schroder set the pace for the Eagles, he was not the only contributor. Outstanding performances were turned in by several athletes, including Norris Thomas (55-meter dash and 55-meter hurdles) and Doug Oomens (35-pound weight throw), runners-up in their respective events, and third-place finishers David Coates (400-meter dash), Doug Clary (pole vault) and Chris Carley (long jump).

Lincoln (Pennsylvania), which dominated the sprints, got individual titles from Brandon Jones (55-meter dash), Shannon Flowers (55-meter hurdles), Jeff Taylor (400-meter dash) and Mike Taylor (800-meter run). Jones' title was his second in a row.

Gary Wasserman of Nebraska Wesleyan (5,000-meter run) and Muskingum's Chad Thomas (pole vault) became only the second and third competitors in Division III men's indoor history to win three consecutive titles in an event.

Sandu Rebenciuc of Augustana (Illinois) was the only other repeat champion, claiming the 5,000-meter run title.

Selection show for I hockey to be aired live

The announcement of the bracket for the NCAA Division I Men's Ice Hockey Championship will be broadcast live via satellite this month.

The NCAA Productions broadcast, which will originate from the studios of Midwest SportsChannel in Minneapolis, is scheduled for 8 p.m. (Central time) Sunday, March 21.

Satellite coordinates for the broadcast are ASC 1, Transponder 22; audio 6.2 and 6.8.

The announcement also can be heard by telephone. The number is 913/661-0786.

Cal State Bakersfield wins II swimming title

Cal State Bakersfield turned what was expected to be a closely contested meet into a romp March 10-13 at the Division II Men's Swimming and Diving Championships at the C. T. Branin Natatorium in Canton, Ohio.

The Roadrunners piled up a championships-record 951 points in winning their eighth consecutive team title. Oakland, runner-up in 10 of the last 15 years, was a distant second, followed by UC Davis, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and South Dakota.

Senior Ondrej Bures became the third Division II men's swimmer to win 10 career individual titles, winning three in one meet for the second time. Bures won his third 400-yard individual-medley and 200-yard-butterfly titles and his second 1,650-yard-freestyle crown.

David Huston added two victories for the Roadrunners, successfully defending his 100- and 200-yard breaststroke titles, and teammates Rasmus Jensen and Rodrigo Messias claimed victories in the 100- and 500-yard freestyles.

Huston led a parade of Roadrunners who held the top four spots in the 200-yard breaststroke. Cal State Bakersfield swimmers also accounted for seven of the top eight place-finishers in the 400-yard individual medley, five of the top six in the 500-yard freestyle, three of the top four in the 1,650-yard freestyle and four of the top eight in the 200-yard individual medley.

The meet's most dominant individual, however, was not a Roadrunner, but John Keppeler of UC Davis, who won four events with record-setting times. Keppeler, a transfer from Arizona State, established meet marks in the 100- and 200-yard backstrokes, the 200-yard freestyle and the 200-yard individual medley. Keppeler's times in each event were at least one and a half seconds faster than the second-place finisher.

Kenyon's Carla Ainsworth won the 50-, 100- and 200-yard freestyles.

No surprise: Kenyon grabs 10th consecutive III crown

Kenyon head coach Jim Steen couldn't let his Ladies pass up an opportunity to win their 10th consecutive Division III Women's Swimming and Diving Championships team title.

Led by senior and swimmer-of-the-year Jennifer Carter, sophomore Carla Ainsworth and junior Jessica Berkowitz—who combined to win eight individual titles—Kenyon cruised to victory at the March 11-13 championships at Emory.

"The mark of a champion is to believe in your abilities to create opportunities through the year," Steen said. "When the opportunities occur, then you're ready to step in and take advantage of the situation."

Opportunity came knocking early and often for the Ladies. Carter won three events, including her third straight 200-yard individual-medley and 200-yard breaststroke crowns. She also set a meet record in winning the 400-yard individual medley.

Ainsworth successfully defended her 100- and 200-yard freestyle titles and added a victory in the 50-yard freestyle. Berkowitz was a repeat winner in the 500- and 1,650-yard freestyles, the latter for the third time.

The trio also helped the Ladies sweep the five relays, three with record-setting times. In all, the Ladies established 10 meet records—eight in the finals and two in the trials.

"This is called an individual/team championship," Steen said, "but our kids approached it as a team, totally. We had six solid sessions. I don't know when we've come into nationals before and won it, 6-0. That's how I score them, namely on how well we do in each session. We've had some 5-1s and 4-2s, but never a 6-0."

UC San Diego finished second for the sixth consecutive season. Jill Jackson took the Tritons' lone individual title, winning the three-meter diving event over Emory's Katie Hughes, who captured the one-meter diving crown only a month after hitting her head on the board in the University Athletic Association championships.

Emory's Kendal Hansen posted her third straight victory in the 100-yard breaststroke, helping the Eagles to a fourth-place team finish behind Denison. Williams, the only team other than Kenyon to have won the championships, placed fifth.

Dawn Hoving of Hope was the other multiple individual winner, placing first in the 100- and 200-yard butterfly events. Julie Benker of Union (New York) won the 100-yard backstroke and Shan Hutcherson of Mary Washington captured the 200-yard backstroke.

Relay events help Oakland women cruise to II title

Oakland became the first team to win four consecutive titles in the Division II Women's Swimming and Diving Championships with its victory March 10-13 at the C. T. Branin Natatorium in Canton, Ohio.

The Pioneers won just two individual events but captured four of five relays to secure a 203-point cushion over second-place Clarion. It is the the largest margin of victory in championships history.

Florida Atlantic, which finished second in 1991; Northern Michigan, last year's runner-up, and Air Force rounded out the top five.

Freshmen Ellen Lessig and Kristen Nagelkirk were Oakland's top guns. Lessig edged defending champion Tea Cerkenik of Northern Michigan in the 50-yard freestyle, while Nagelkirk dethroned Cerkenik in the 200-yard freestyle. Cerkenik successfully defended her 100-yard freestyle crown, beating Lessig and Nagelkirk by just one-tenth and two-tenths of a second, respectively.

Florida Atlantic's Noemi Lung won three events, including her third consecutive titles in both the 200- and 400-yard individual medleys and her second straight 200-yard-backstroke crown. Lung finished second to Oakland's Amy Comerford in the 100-yard backstroke, thus falling just short in her quest to become the sixth four-event winner in Division II women's swimming history.

Teresa Stratman of Northern Colorado also was a multiple winner, taking the 500- and 1,650-yard freestyle titles, the latter for the second time. Stratman improved from a ninth-place finish in last year's 500-yard freestyle.

Sixth-place North Dakota boasted two individual winners in Shelly Ebbighausen, who won the 100-yard butterfly for the second time, and Tisha Yantzer, a first-time winner in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Kim Stanfield of Cal State Bakersfield and Clarion's Kim Strawbridge traded narrow victories over each other in the diving events, with Stanfield winning at one meter by less than three points and Strawbridge taking the three-meter crown by only seven points.

Other individual winners included Koren Pollock of UC Davis in the 200-yard butterfly and Shao Hong of Northern Michigan in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Utah peaks, wins ski championships

After a winter of less-than-dominating skiing in the regular season, Utah put together an almost flawless week to win the National Collegiate Men's and Women's Skiing Championships.

The Utes held the lead at the end of each day in the four-day competition March 10-13 at Steamboat Springs, Colorado. In fact, the 783 points scored by Utah was a record for the event.

Defending champion Vermont was second (700½), New Mexico (685) was third and host Colorado (628) was fourth.

"It was a very competitive week, and these things are very unpredictable," Utah coach Pat Miller said. "The athletes and coaches came together, and we probably had one of our most successful NCAA championships ever."

It was the first time in five years that the Utes have been in the winner's circle, after dominating the championships in the 1980s. They won this year with both strength and depth.

Karianne Erickson got the Utes off to a good start with an individual championship in the first race of the meet, the women's giant slalom. Utah won two other individual championships with Luke Bodensteiner in the men's diagonal cross country event and Mark Bonnell in the men's slalom.

Utah used its depth to win four of the eight team events and finished second in two others.

"They skied just flawlessly," Vermont coach Chip LaCasse said. "I think Pat deserves this win and congratulations to him. We did all right, even though we didn't ski as well as we think we can. But I still think the best team won."

"Vermont, New Mexico and Colorado are all good teams," Miller said. "It's just that we had our week, and it was very timely."

Other individual champions were Colorado's Sean Ramsden in the men's giant slalom and Anette Skjolden in the women's diagonal cross country, Vermont's Gibson LaFontaine in the women's slalom, New Mexico's Ivana Radlova in the women's freestyle cross country, and Northern Michigan's Peter Vordenberg in the men's freestyle cross country.

Colorado's Anette Skjolden won the women's diagonal cross country event.

Mountaineers claim sixth rifle title

West Virginia claimed an unprecedented sixth consecutive National Collegiate Men's and Women's Rifle Championships team title—its fourth straight under coach Marsha Beasley—in competition at Murray State March 13-14.

The Mountaineers held off second-place Alaska Fairbanks, 6,179-6,169.

The difference was in the small-bore event, in which the Mountaineers outscored the Nanooks, 4,643-4,626. That offset Alaska Fairbanks's 1,543-1,536 edge in air rifle.

In individual shooting in the team competition, the Mountaineers' Eric Uptagrafft led all small-bore scorers, shooting 1,173 out of a possible 1,200. In team air rifle, Alaska Fairbanks' Jennifer O'Neal led the way with 391 out of a possible 400.

In individual events, which do not figure into team totals, Uptagrafft scored 1,174 to win the small-bore title. It is the second year in a row that a West Virginia shooter has taken that championship. In individual air rifle, Mountaineer Trevor Gathman scored 390 and hit 26 inner tens to edge Murray State's Katherine Kelemen, who shot 390, with 19 inner tens. Gathman's effort gave his school its fourth straight individual air rifle title.

Seminars seek resource info on compliance

A room equipped with compliance-related resource materials used by campus and conference administrators will be featured at each of the 1993 NCAA regional seminars.

To assist in this effort, interested individuals (even those not attending a seminar) are asked to submit a single copy of materials they would like to share with others attending the seminars. Those responding are asked to submit the materials by April 9 to Chrystal L. Gates at the NCAA national office.

The following materials are of particular interest:

- Athletics department organizational charts;
- Procedures for investigation and reporting of rules violations;
- Rules-interpretation request forms;
- Booster-education materials;
- Fund-raising policies;
- Academic policies and services;
- Class-attendance policies;
- Summer-employment registration;
- Complimentary-admissions/ticket policies;
- Financial aid forms;
- Recruiting forms;
- Initial- and continuing-eligibility forms, and
- Other rules-education materials.

Community service

PACT of student-athletes formed

Students at California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, recently formed a group of interactive student-athletes to socialize, not only on-campus but off-campus at retirement homes, schools and elsewhere in the community.

The group is called Poly Athletes and the Community, Together (PACT), and is the creation of Robert Powell, assistant athletics director.

Two of the students most instrumental in the group's formation were Shawna Burroughs, a women's soccer player, and Steve Lombardi, a member of the school's football team.

PACT organized its first function February 18 when it hosted about 40 local children for "Children's Night at Cal Poly," where youngsters were treated to brownies and lemonade while Mustang student-athletes visited and played with kids throughout the night.

Computers

Denver goes high-tech in athletics

The University of Denver's athletics department recently went high-tech with the completion of phase one of a computerization project.

After three years of planning, budget prioritizing and instruction, the entire department is now "networked" so that all staff members and coaches can communicate with one another throughout the day. Also, all phone messages are delivered electronically. In addition, the Pioneer Pulse newsletter is published with a desktop publishing program.

The department also is linked with the university's mainframe computer to access student-athlete files to determine NCAA and university eligibility. The computer also aids with purchasing, budget and alumni files.

Late this spring, the university plans to begin laying fiber optics to provide the infrastructure for a campus computer network, says Jim Tuccy, associate vice-president for computing and information resources.

Major upset is likely in tournament

By Richard M. Campbell

NCAA ASSISTANT
STATISTICS COORDINATOR

If history is any indication, at least one No. 1 seed will be gone after the second round of the 64-team 1993 Division I Men's Basketball Championship. Since team seeding began in 1979, nine No. 1 seeds have been eliminated before reaching the Sweet 16; Kansas was the latest No. 1 victim, in last year's field.

A major upset is defined as one involving teams separated by at least five places in the seedings (such as No. 11 over No. 6 or No. 7 over No. 2) because that means the two teams were at least 16 places apart in the rankings used for regional seeding. By that definition, there were three major upsets in the first round of the 1992 tournament alone.

The March Madness jinx struck No. 3 Arizona in the Southeast region as No. 14 East Tennessee State posted an 87-80 victory. In the West region, No. 12 New Mexico State downed No. 5 DePaul, 81-73, and No. 13 Southwestern Louisiana upset No. 4 Oklahoma, 87-83. A No. 16 seed never has beaten a No. 1 in the first round, but in 1991, No. 15 Richmond upset No. 2 Syracuse, 73-69—the largest margin between seeds.

It is not as unusual for a double-

Top women coaches find way to field

By Richard M. Campbell

NCAA ASSISTANT
STATISTICS COORDINATOR

Nearly all of the top coaches in Division I Women's Basketball Championship history are in the 48-team field selected for the 1993 championship.

Coaches of the past eight champions are on hand—Stanford's Tara VanDerveer (1990 and 1992), Tennessee's Pat Summitt (1987, 1989 and 1991), Louisiana Tech's Leon Barmore (1988), Texas' Jody Conradt (1986) and Southern California's Marianne Stanley (1985 at Old Dominion).

Iowa's Vivian Stringer (at Cheney), Maryland's Chris Weller, Georgia's Andy Landers, Western Kentucky's Paul Sanderford, Auburn's Joe Ciampi, Virginia's Debbie Ryan, Southwest Missouri State's Cheryl Burnett and Connecticut's Geno Auriemma also have had Women's Final Four teams.

Top winners

In tournament games, Tennessee's Summitt has the most victories with 34, while Louisiana Tech's Barmore is next with 26 and Texas' Conradt with 19. Summitt has coached the most tournament contests, with 42, and she is the only coach to lead her teams to all 12 digit seed to reach the Sweet 16, as New Mexico State did in 1992, but reaching the Final Four is a different matter. Only one team seeded lower than eighth has reached the Final Four. Louisiana State, a No. 11 seed in 1986, overachieved its way to the semifinals, where eventual champion Louisville prevailed, 88-77.

Only five No. 1 seeds have won the championship over the 14 years of team seeding, although teams seeded in the top three have won 11 championships and finished second 12 times. At least one No. 1 seed has reached the Final Four every year except 1980 (Nos. 2-5-6-8). But never have more than two No. 1 seeds reached the Final Four since seeding began in 1979. In 1992, it was No. 1 Duke, No. 2 Indiana, No. 4 Cincinnati and No. 6 Michigan.

Since the tournament expanded to 64 teams in 1985 and byes were eliminated, never have all four top seeds in a region survived the opening round.

Top coaches

No doubt, the NCAA tournament is a haven for the best coaches in the nation, and this year's field is no exception. The field includes most of the nation's best, as well as many among the all-time coaching leaders.

North Carolina's Dean Smith, leader among active coaches with 768 victories, is the all-time leader in NCAA tournament wins with 49. Indiana's Bob Knight is second on the list with 35, followed by Louisville's Denny Crum and Duke's Mike Krzyzewski with 33 each. Smith, second to UCLA's John Wooden on the all-time list of Final Four appearances with eight, leads Crum and Krzyzewski with six each and Knight with five.

Knight has won three championships, a total surpassed only by Wooden (10) and Kentucky's Adolph Rupp (four). Krzyzewski and Crum each have won two titles and Smith and Michigan's Steve Fisher have coached one NCAA title team.

This is Smith's 19th consecutive appearance in the tournament, the record; but Georgetown's John Thompson (14 in a row for second) and Syracuse's Jim Boeheim (10 in a row for fourth) missed in 1993. Krzyzewski and Louisiana State's Dale Brown are tied for second on the current list with 10 straight appearances. Fisher has the best tournament winning percentage among current coaches with at least 10 games, at .857 (12-2 record), while Krzyzewski is next at .825 (33-7). The all-time leader is Cincinnati's Ed Jucker at .917 (11-1).

Oklahoma State's Eddie Sutton is the only coach ever to have Division I women's tournaments. Barmore has been an assistant, cohead or head coach in all 12 of Louisiana Tech's appearances.

Summitt also has won the most Division I championships—three.

Barmore (three times as cohead coach), Conradt, Landers and Penn State's Rene Portland all have led teams to 11 of the 12 tournaments. Virginia's Ryan holds the current streak for consecutive Women's Final Four appearances with three (1990 through 1992). Only Summitt (1986 through 1989) and Barmore (1987 through 1990) have more, with four each.

Summitt also has the second-best winning percentage in the tournament (minimum of 15 games) with a 34-8 record (.810), trailing only former Louisiana Tech coach Sonja Hogg's 14-3 (.824). Summitt is the leader in Women's Final Four appearances with seven, leading Barmore's six and three each by Ciampi, Ryan, VanDerveer and Sanderford.

Tournament seeds

To say that the top seeds in women's basketball are successful would be to state the obvious. Since the first NCAA tournament in 1982, the No. 1 seeds have won 123 games and lost only 35, while the No. 2 seeds have a 94-42 record. All 11 championship teams were seeded either No. 1 (nine times) or No. 2, and of the 44 teams in all 11 Women's Final Fours, 43 were seeded No. 4 or above.

For the first time since seeding began in 1982, the women's committee in 1993 did not seed teams below the top four in each region. The 16 strongest seeds were distributed evenly—four to each region—to balance the field.

A major upset is defined as one involving teams separated by at least five places in the seedings (such as No. 11 over No. 6 or No. 7 over No. 2). Here are upsets in past tournaments, based on seeding:

Past Seeding Upset Games
Year	Rd.	Winner (Seed)	Loser (Seed)	Score
1992	2	Southwest Mo. St. (8)	Iowa (1)	61-60 (OT)
1991	2	James Madison (8)	Penn St. (1)	73-71
1990	2	Arkansas (7)	Georgia (2)	81-70
1986	2	James Madison (8)	Virginia (1)	71-62

First-timers

Seven teams are appearing for the first time in the women's tournament. Florida, Georgia Southern, Georgetown, Georgia Tech, Montana State, San Diego and Xavier (Ohio) are the additions.

Eleven coaches also are making a first appearance in the big show. They are Bowling Green's Jaci Clark, Florida's Carol Ross, George-

■ Institutional secondary infractions

In addition to the secondary cases summarized below, several violations were found involving members of the Oklahoma State University men's basketball program.

Specifically: (a) an assistant coach provided off-campus transportation to a prospect during an unofficial visit; (b) a student manager delivered summer-school course registration fees for a student-athlete and two prospective student-athletes in order for each young man to secure enrollment in a course offered by a four-year non-NCAA institution, and (c) during the 1991-92 academic year, a student-athlete practiced, competed and received financial aid as a nonqualifier due to the university's reliance on a transcript from the four-year institution that was determined to be fraudulent.

It should be noted that it was determined that Oklahoma State, its coaching staff members and the student-athlete neither knew nor should have known that the young man's transcript was fraudulent.

In regard to the case, the institution took the following actions: (1) reprimanded the involved assistant coach; (2) ceased involvement with an employee of the involved four-year institution; (3) ceased recruitment of a prospect who had an established relationship with the employee of the involved four-year institution; (4) adopted corrective procedures regarding responsibilities for the education and advisement of prospective and enrolled student-athletes, and (5) declared ineligible the student-athlete whose transcript was fraudulent.

Although the NCAA accepted the university's actions, it also was determined that there should be a public announcement of the matter and, under the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 31.2.2.4, the team's and the involved young man's individual records from the 1992 NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship should be vacated.

DIVISION I
How reported	Sport	Citation	Facts	Institutional action	NCAA action
Self-reported	Men's rifle	B 14.11	Student-athlete participated in eight practice sessions before proper per eligibility certification.	Reprimanded head coach and added to eligibility worksheet a place for coach to note required certification date.	No further action.
Self-reported	Men's lacrosse	B 13.02.4.4	Prospect was with coaches on campus for three hours after dead period began.	Declared young man ineligible, reprimanded coach and ceased recruitment of prospect.	Precluded involved coaches from recruiting for one day. Young man is ineligible unless restored through appeals process.
Conference	Wrestling	B 15.2.7	Student-athlete received summer financial aid, even though he did not meet the requirements necessary to receive the aid. Institution requested waiver of rule from conference, awarded aid before receiving answer from conference, and subsequently the request was denied by the conference.	Declared student-athlete ineligible and requested that he repay financial aid, and modified procedures regarding awarding of financial aid.	Admonished institution to ensure that it receives responses and answers to proper application of legislation before proceeding. Required institution to submit report regarding modification of procedures concerning aid.
Self-reported	Men's basketball	B 13.7.5.5-(a)	Prospect was allowed to charge four pay-per-view movies to his hotel bill during his official visit.	Requested repayment from the young man. University will not recruit the prospect and has implemented new checking procedures to avoid recurrence.	Young man is ineligible unless restored through NCAA appeals process.
Self-reported	Men's basketball	C 3.2.4.5 and 3.2.4.6, and B 14.01.3, 14.01.4, 14.1.3, 14.1.4, 14.1.1, 30.5 and 30.11	Student participated and competed in exhibition contest before proper eligibility certification and before signing drug-testing consent form and student-athlete statements. The young man was otherwise eligible and subsequently was certified.	Reviewed certification processes and requirements with coaching staffs and will conduct regular roster checks.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 13.1.2.4-(b)	Assistant coach made a telephone contact with a prospect who was only a junior in high school. Head coach had provided a list of names to the assistant coach.		Required institution to admonish coaching staff to verify year in school before contact. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Men's basketball	B 13.11.1	Head coach commented on prospect's interest in the institution during a local radio program. Coach did not comment regarding young man's athletics ability. Prospect signed a letter of intent with another institution.	Head coach reviewed recruiting rules and was reprimanded.	Young man is ineligible unless restored through NCAA appeals process.
Conference	Men's track, outdoor	B 14.11	Student-athlete competed in six contests before proper eligibility certification. Young man subsequently was certified as eligible.	Enhanced procedures to include supplying and reviewing eligibility lists with coaches and advising student-athletes of their eligibility status.	No further action.
Conference	Women's basketball	B 17.1.5.3.2	Team held practice for 10 minutes after exhibition contest.	Reduced practice to 17 hours for one week and reviewed practice legislation with coaching staff.	No further action.
Self-reported	Men's basketball	B 13.4.5.1.1	Institution placed full-page advertisement regarding camp in a high-school game program.	Will continue weekly legislative reviews.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Conference	Men's swimming	B 13.12.1	Prospect was allowed to practice with institution's team on one occasion. Coach thought that since the young man was 21 years old and had played for another institution, the prospect would have no eligibility remaining.		No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Baseball	B 15.2.4.1	Student-athlete received $88.50 in excessive financial aid. Young man has exhausted his eligibility, and financial aid did not cause the institution to exceed team limits.	Established guidelines for processing room-and-board fees.	No further action.
Conference	Women's soccer	B 11.5.1.1	Before being certified for recruiting, assistant coach evaluated and had contact with two prospects. Coach was attending a game with her parents at the high school from which she graduated.	Reviewed legislation with coaching staff.	No further action.
Self-reported	Wrestling	B 13.13.1.3	Assistant coach observed instructional clinic during a dead period.	Reprimanded head coach and involved assistant coaches and prohibited recruitment of any prospect who attended the clinic until 1995.	Advised institution that there would be no eligibility consequences. No further action.
Conference	Men's basketball	B 13.12.3.1-(a)	Institution conducted developmental clinic open to general public for young people aged 8 through senior year in high school. Conference received interpretation that students from junior and senior high schools would be considered "skilled participants," but institution did not understand that interpretation indicated that junior and senior high students would automatically be considered skilled participants.	Reviewed legislation with coaching staff, and conference forwarded interpretation to all of its members.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Women's softball	B 16.12.2.1	Booster club sent $1 to each student-athlete's parents as a fund-raising gimmick.	Secured return of the dollar from each parent; reviewed legislation with booster club, and required all such correspondence to be approved by athletics staff before sending.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Men's tennis	B 14.1.6.1	Student-athlete practiced while not enrolled in a full-time program of studies.		Required institution to submit written report regarding changes in procedures it has implemented in order to avoid an occurrence of a similar violation.
Conference	Men's tennis	B 13.1.2.4-(b)	Head coach and assistant coach each made a call to a prospect in the same week. Head coach forgot to log his call to the prospect and, therefore, the assistant coach thought his call would be permissible.	Reprimanded coaches and reemphasized compliance efforts.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Conference	Women's basketball	B 13.4.1-(m)	Institution's questionnaire included two logos (conference and institution).	Institution disposed of remaining questionnaires, and conference required institution to review legislation with entire coaching staff.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Wrestling	B 13.02.4.4 and 13.9.1	Prospect arrived at university for official visit one hour before dead period had expired. Also, head coach brought lunch for head coach of a two-year institution. Violations were discovered as a result of annual audit.	Head coach resigned. Institution requested repayment of money for lunch, and will send memorandums to coaches before dead periods as reminders.	No further action. NCAA restored eligibility of young man who visited campus during dead period.
Self-reported	Women's diving	B 14.1.6.1	Head coach allowed student-athlete to practice with the team, even though she was not enrolled at the institution. Young woman previously had competed for the institution, but was on academic leave. She was working on her thesis and working on campus at the time she participated in the practice sessions.	Reviewed legislation with the coach and placed a written reprimand in his file.	No further action.

Institutional secondary infractions

Self-reported	Wrestling	B 15.01.7 and 15.2.5.3-(b)	Student-athlete received $350 in excessive financial aid, and it was not disbursed through institutional procedures. Young man who received financial aid did not return to the university and did not win the one contest in which he participated during two-year period. Overaward did not cause team to exceed limit. Violations were discovered as a result of annual audit.	Head coach resigned. Institution requested repayment of $350 in excessive financial aid; implemented new procedures for financial aid, including increasing communication between athletics and financial aid offices, and reduced financial aid by $350 for 1992-93.	No further action.
Self-reported	Men's ice hockey	B 15.3.2.1 and 15.3.5.1	Student-athlete was not notified of renewal of financial aid through regular financial aid authority. Records indicate that coach always previously had awarded aid in appropriate manner.	Reviewed legislation with coach.	No further action.
NCAA inquiry	Administrative	B 13.3.1	Institution did not disclose graduation rates to the NCAA for publication. Institution was in a reclassification period and was not aware of the interpretation to require disclosure of graduation rates during the period, although it was prepared to do so and had attempted to obtain pertinent information related to doing so.		No action.
Self-reported	Wrestling	B 14.11 and 16.12.2.2.2	Two student-athletes made personal telephone calls that were billed to the university (on their hotel bill). Another student-athlete was omitted from eligibility form for wrestling. First two student-athletes no longer are competing (one has graduated). Third student-athlete was otherwise eligible, but had not included wrestling on student-athlete statement (football was primary sport). Violations were discovered as a result of annual audit.	Head coach resigned. Institution is seeking payment for telephone calls.	Required institution to submit written report regarding procedures implemented to avoid occurrence of similar violations.
Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 17.3.2.1.2-(f)	Before November 1, head and assistant coaches observed a scrimmage in which student-athletes were participating. Coaches watched from their office, which overlooked the court, and the lights were out in the office while they were watching.		Reduced practice sessions by one for 1992-93 season.
Conference	Men's tennis	B 14.3.1, 14.11 and 15.01.5	Head coach allowed student-athlete to compete in two matches, even though he had not been certified as eligible. It was ultimately determined that the young man was not eligible. In addition, the student-athlete had received athletically related financial aid.	Reprimanded coach; notified him that future violations would result in dismissal, and precluded him from receiving a merit raise for one year. In addition, institution requested repayment of financial aid by the young man.	Young man is ineligible unless restored through NCAA appeals process.
Conference	Field hockey	B 13.02.4.4	Head coach had contact with a prospect on campus during a dead period. Young woman arrived on campus unannounced.	Institution will not recruit the prospect	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Men's track, outdoor; men's tennis	B 11.02.6	Two volunteer coaches were permitted to receive training table meals for a two-month period. Compliance coordinator had provided approval, based on first entry in the NCAA Manual.	Compliance coordinator reviewed legislation with coaching staff members.	No further action.
Conference	Women's softball	B 13.1.2.4-(b)	Head coach telephoned a prospect who had not completed her junior year in high school. Admissions office personnel had given the information to the coach.	Updated admissions form to include year in school.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Conference	Men's tennis, wrestling	B 15.3.4.2	Institution graduated (increased) financial aid for five student-athletes during the award period. Increase did not cause individual or team overaward. Staff thought it could graduate aid for each semester before the first class of that semester.	Reviewed legislation with staff.	No further action, but expressed concern over nature of the violation.
Conference	Women's tennis	B 14.1.6.2	Student-athlete competed while enrolled in only six hours. Young woman was a fifth-year senior, and institution thought she only needed six hours to complete her degree and would be ineligible per B 14.1.6.2.2.1-(a).	Forfeited individual points in regular-season and conference championship competition, and instituted policy to include certification by registrar's office that student-athlete qualified under 14.1.6.2.2.1-(a).	No further action.
NCAA inquiry	Men's basketball	B 13.12.1, 13.12.2.3, 15.3.4.5.1, 17.3.2.1.2 and 17.3.2.1.2-(f)	On numerous occasions outside the playing and practice season, head and assistant coaches observed pick-up games being played by members of the intercollegiate team. On at least one occasion during the preseason, head coach gave instructions to players during a pick-up game involving intercollegiate players. Prospects were allowed to shoot baskets while on their official paid visit to the institution's campus and, on at least one occasion, the head coach shot baskets with a prospect. A student-athlete was not notified formally or immediately of the cancellation of his financial aid. Basketball workout gear was issued before the official first day of practice.	Did not begin preseason conditioning until October 3, 1992; coaching staff reviewed legislation; reduced official visits from 15 to 13 for 1992-93; notified former student-athlete that his account had been credited for $6,091.50, which was the outstanding balance owed for the spring of 1990 scholarship semester; coaching staff and financial aid office reviewed financial aid legislation; precluded head coach from recruiting off-campus for two weeks, and reprimanded head coach.	No further action.
Self-reported	Baseball	B 13.4.5.1	Head coach placed advertisement in a sports magazine.	Reprimanded coach and reviewed legislation with him; reviewed procedures for placing advertisements with coaching staff, and notified magazine of application of NCAA legislation.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Conference	Women's basketball	B 13.4.1	Coach sent recruiting materials to prospect who was only a high-school sophomore.		Required institution to admonish coaching staff to verify year in school before sending materials. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Men's ice hockey	B 11.3.3.1	Assistant coach attended NHL team's training camp as a guest coach and accepted no payment, but expenses were reimbursed. Coach thought it was permissible to be involved if he accepted only expense reimbursement.	Reprimanded coach.	Required institution to advise all coaching staff members of application of legislation.
Self-reported	Men's basketball	B 13.2.1	Coach provided a ride to a prospect from young man's high school to his home. Coach knew it was a violation, but it was raining hard and the young man did not have a ride home.	Precluded further recruitment of the young man, reprimanded coach and asked conference to conduct rules review for coaching staff.	Young man is ineligible unless restored through NCAA appeals process.
Conference	Women's volleyball	B 17.1.5.3.2	Team had practice for 45 minutes after a contest.	Reduced practice sessions by one and reviewed legislation with coaching staff.	No further action.
Conference	Men's soccer	B 14.11	Student-athlete competed before proper eligibility certification. Young man inadvertently was omitted from eligibility and squad lists. Student-athlete was otherwise eligible.		Required institution to submit report regarding procedures implemented to preclude occurrence of a similar violation.
Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 17.3.2.1.2-(f)	On four occasions before the first permissible practice date, head and two assistant coaches observed student-athletes in pick-up games for approximately one hour and, based on those observations, made decisions on who made the team. Head coach knew it was a violation.	Reprimanded head coach, precluded her from participation in first five practice sessions and precluded her from off-campus recruiting during that time; reprimanded two assistant coaches; reviewed legislation with coaching staff; publicly announced actions, and purchased blinds for offices that overlook courts.	No further action.
Self-reported	Men's basketball	B 16.2.1.2.2	Student-athlete used two "wild card" complimentary tickets for the same contest. Student-athlete borrowed four complimentary tickets from a teammate, one of which was a "wild card."	Reviewed complimentary admissions policy with student-athletes; revised procedures for away contests to resemble procedures for	No further action.

				home contests, and reviewed NCAA regulations with coaching staff members.
Conference	Men's basketball	B 14.1.4	Walk-on student-athlete practiced twice with team before signing Drug-Testing Consent form. Student-athlete signed the consent form and other forms when violation was discovered.	Reprimanded involved assistant coach. Director of compliance reviewed procedures with coaching staff.	No further action.
Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 14.11	Walk-on student-athlete competed in one contest before being properly certified as eligible. Young woman played approximately three minutes in the contest, which the university lost. Student-athlete subsequently was certified as eligible.	Head coach held young woman out of competition upon discovery that she had not been certified.	Required institution to submit written report regarding monitoring procedures in place to avoid occurrence of a similar violation.
Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 14.3.2.2.1 and 15.3.1.1	Student-athlete received athletically related financial aid, even though she was not a qualifier. Young woman did not practice or compete.	Declared student-athlete ineligible and required repayment of financial aid.	Required institution to submit written report regarding procedures implemented to avoid occurrence of a similar violation.
Self-reported	Women's crew	B 17.1.1	Team reported for practice before first day of classes. Crew is not sponsored by the NCAA, but was used for sport-sponsorship purposes.	Reduced practice by four days for each for the spring of 1993 and fall of 1993.	No further action.
Self-reported	Men's golf	B 14.6.4.1.2.2	Two-year college transfer who was a nonqualifier was allowed to practice for four weeks with team during his year of residency. Head coach (who is a part-time coach) allowed young man to practice without receiving written clearance from compliance officer.	Reprimanded head coach and placed him on probation for one year; reduced grants-in-aid by one for 1993-94; implemented more thorough process relating to proper eligibility certification before practice, and declared student-athlete ineligible until spring of 1994.	Young man ineligible unless restored through NCAA appeals process.
Conference	Men's tennis	B 14.3.1.2.9 and 14.11	Walk-on student-athlete competed in a tournament before being properly certified as eligible. Young man competed in one contest and lost. Student-athlete subsequently was certified as eligible, but has quit the team.	Reprimanded head coach and reviewed eligibility legislation with him.	No further action.
Self-reported	Men's basketball	B 14.11	Two walk-on student-athletes competed in one exhibition game before proper eligibility certification. Both young men subsequently were certified as eligible.	Declared student-athletes ineligible pending certification; withheld young men from one exhibition game and tournament; reviewed legislation with coaches, and sent memorandum to all coaches regarding certification procedures.	No further action.
Self-reported	Women's volleyball	B 17.1.5.1	Team practiced and competed in excess (by one-half hour) of 20-hour weekly limit. Coaches did not understand that competition must count as three hours. Error was discovered during review of weekly time sheets.	Reduced practice by three hours the following week. Compliance coordinator issued memorandum reviewing playing and practice legislation and will review legislation during annual educational seminars.	No further action.
Conference	Women's basketball	B 11.6.2.1	Institution paid expenses for assistant coach to make two trips to scout the same opponent.	Coach reimbursed the institution five days later. Institution admonished head coach and involved assistant coach.	Required coaching staff to review Bylaw 11.6.
Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 14.3.5.1.1	Student-athlete was allowed to practice 18 days before her initial certification. Young woman did not compete in any contests. Student-athlete subsequently was certified as eligible. Violation was discovered as part of annual conference compliance review.	Compliance officer will monitor timely processing of initial certification and will notify coaches regarding limits of temporary certification.	Required institution to admonish head coach to avoid occurrence of a similar violation.
DIVISION I-A
NCAA inquiry	Football	B 13.4.1	Game programs included center section of pages that constituted recruiting materials.	Will modify programs to be in compliance with NCAA legislation.	No further action.
Conference	Football	B 16.12.2.1	A room next to the weight room was supplied with leftovers from training table and beverages for consumption by student-athletes. One involved weight coach no longer at institution.	Reprimanded director of athletics, associate director and weight coach, and required them to attend a rules review.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Conference	Football	B 17.02.14.1-(c), 17.7.2.1 and 17.7.6	On two occasions before preseason practice, an assistant coach participated in the conduct of conditioning drills for 15 minutes.	Suspended coach from duties for one week during 1993 spring practice. Conference advised president of concern regarding pattern of violations.	No further action.
Conference	Football	B 17.7.6	Before spring practice, assistant coach conducted four "step-through" sessions and "chalk talks."	Reprimanded coach and required him to participate in additional rules review, and (in conjunction with other out-of-season practice violation) reduced 1993 practice schedule by four sessions and instructed coaches to consult with compliance officer regarding application of NCAA legislation.	No further action.
DIVISION I-AA
Conference	Football	B 14.4	Student-athlete participated in a contest, even though he had not met satisfactory progress requirements. Institution erroneously certified him as eligible. Institution lost the contest in which young man participated.		Required staff member involved in certification process to review Bylaw 14. Young man is ineligible unless restored through NCAA appeals process.
Self-reported	Football	B 13.02.4.3	Two assistant coaches attended a high-school game for evaluation purposes during a quiet period (one day before evaluation period began).	Institution will not recruit any of the prospects from either of the participating schools this year; reprimanded coaches, and asked conference to review recruiting rules with coaching staff.	No further action. Prospects are ineligible unless restored through NCAA appeals process.
Self-reported	Football	B 11.7.3.2	Institution utilized three undergraduates as coaches during fall preseason camp, even though they did not meet the criteria of an undergraduate coach.	Upon discovery of violation, young men were withdrawn from any further coaching activities.	Required institution to submit written report regarding actions taken to avoid occurrence of a similar violation.
DIVISION II
NCAA inquiry	Administrative	B 13.4.5.1	Institution placed an advertisement regarding its athletics program in a magazine.	Reviewed current publications to determine if other violations had occurred. Informed recruiting and public relations staff regarding legislation.	No further action.
NCAA inquiry	Men's basketball	B 16.12.2.1 and 16.12.2.3	Assistant coach provided $36 loan to a student-athlete in order that the young man could pay his wife's medical bill. Young man is no longer at the institution.		Required college to submit a written report regarding its regular educational programs for student-athletes and coaching staff members.
Self-reported	Men's golf	B 14.11	Student-athlete competed in one contest before being properly certified as eligible. Young man was otherwise eligible.	Director of athletics advised head coach that student-athletes may not	No further action.

Self-reported	Men's track, outdoor	B 16.1.4.2.2	Student-athlete received national-championship award (a ring) with value of $310 ($10 excess). Young man was a senior and has exhausted his eligibility.	Required student-athlete to make a $10 donation to a charity.	Admonished involved staff members to avoid occurrence of a similar violation.
Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 14.1.6.1	Three nonenrolled individuals participated in a practice game. Due to numerous injuries on the team, the coaching staff invited three nonenrolled individuals to practice with the team to scrimmage.		Required institution to admonish coaching staff to avoid occurrence of a similar violation.
Conference	Men's basketball	B 13.4.5.1	Institution placed copy of schedule in local high-school basketball program.	Requested high school to destroy programs and paid for reprinting of the program without the schedule.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Football	B 12.1.1-(a), 12.1.2-(k) and 16.1.3.4	Institution received $150 donation in student-athlete's name after he was named player of the game.	Advised sponsor to alter award so that in the future, a donation in a student-athlete's name will not be included.	Required institution to return $150, then no eligibility consequences.
Self-reported	Several	B 15.2.1.4-(a)	Since spring of 1988, admissions office waived application fee for some prospective student-athletes (primarily football).	Upon discovery of the violation, practice of waiving the fee immediately was terminated. University personnel and coaching staff underwent educational program and requested an on-campus NCAA compliance review.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
NCAA inquiry	Women's swimming	B 15.3.5.1 and 15.3.5.1.1	University did not notify student-athlete in writing of cancellation of financial aid or of opportunity for a hearing. Student-athlete had indicated (in writing) that she would not return to the team.		Advised institution to notify student-athletes in writing regardless of enrollment status indicated by student-athlete.
Self-reported	Men's ice hockey	B 13.4.1-(c)	Institution included black and white posters inside game programs.	Institution discontinued including posters in game programs.	No further action.

DIVISION III

Self-reported	Women's basketball	B 15.4.8.1	Institution had established an athletics scholarship fund and awarded financial aid to four student-athletes (one currently enrolled). Current student-athlete's financial aid was repackaged so as not to be a violation.	Institution deleted "athletics" as a criterion to be a recipient of the financial aid.	No further action. No eligibility consequences.
Conference	Men's basketball	B 11.6.3	Head coach attended a scrimmage at another institution for scouting purposes.	Conference will conduct rules seminar regarding new legislation after NCAA Convention.	No further action.

taken four different teams to the Division I tournament (Creighton, Arkansas, Kentucky and Oklahoma State). Kentucky's Rick Pitino and New Mexico's Dave Bliss are the only coaches in the field and two of only nine ever to have taken three different teams. And, of the nine coaches who have taken two different teams to the Final Four, only Arizona's Lute Olson and Illinois' Lou Henson are in the 1993 field.

Most improved

Tennessee State, the 1993 most-improved-team leader, currently is tied for fifth on the all-time list after improving 15 games over last season. The Tigers went from 4-24 in 1992 to 19-9 so far this year. To determine games improved, add additional victories in the second year and subtract losses from the previous year, then divide by two.

Top teams

Aided by its back-to-back titles in 1991 and 1992, Duke now has the best tournament winning percentage at .769 (50-15), surpassing UCLA's .747 (62-21). Kentucky has the most tournament appearances with 34 to outdistance UCLA's 28 and North Carolina's 27. UCLA still holds the record for tournament victories with 62, with Kentucky and North Carolina second with 56 each.

Coached and played

Two of this year's coaching field are in a select group of five men who have both played and coached in a Final Four. Smith played on Kansas' 1952 championship and 1953 second-place squads, while Knight was a player on Ohio State's 1960 title team as well as 1961 and 1962 runners-up teams.

Several of the coaches in this year's field both played and coached in the tournament. They are Seton Hall's P. J. Carlesimo, Evanville's Jim Crews, Memphis State's Larry Finch, Vanderbilt's Eddie Fogler, Virginia's Jeff Jones, Brigham Young's Roger Reid, Arkansas' Nolan Richardson and Oklahoma State's Eddie Sutton.

Undefeated seasons

In this age of parity, no 1993

team got through the season with fewer than three losses. Since 1979, only two teams have entered the NCAA tournament with an undefeated record, and both teams saw their perfect marks collapse. In 1979, Michigan State, led by Earvin "Magic" Johnson, stopped Larry Bird's unbeaten Indiana State squad in the championship game. And in 1991, Nevada-Las Vegas' perfect-season bubble was burst by Duke in the semifinals.

In all, 17 teams have entered the NCAA tournament without a loss, and only seven of those went on to win the NCAA tournament. Only five other teams finished with perfect seasons without participating in the tourney.

The last undefeated team in Division I college basketball was Knight's 1976 national-championship team at 32-0. (A note: During UCLA's 10 championship years, John Wooden's squads posted a 291-9 record, including four undefeated seasons.)

Perfect opposites

In the scheme of things, undefeated college basketball teams are rare. But the list of teams that have gotten into the NCAA tournament field with a losing record is even shorter. In fact, eight teams have accomplished the feat, including East Carolina (13-16) this year, but only one — Bradley in 1955 — has gone on to win a game.

The other six losing-record squads were Oklahoma City (1955), George Washington (1961), Texas (1974), Missouri (1978), Lehigh (1985) and Montana State (1986). Bradley went 2-1 and finished second in the regional.

- velopment would be targeted:
- Developing a sense of belonging. Students would learn how to gain a feeling of acceptance and comfort in the university environment and would gain experience in how to interact effectively in social situations.
  - Acquiring knowledge and skills. Students would learn to practice informed decision-making, to cultivate cognitive growth and to apply problem-solving techniques.
  - Choosing informed attitudes. Students would learn the importance of ethical behavior and would gain an appreciation of cultural diversity.
  - Assuming self-responsibility. Students would learn how to apply their learning in their personal lives.
- The program is designed to enable athletes to realize higher academic achievement. Other goals include increased likelihood of retention, graduation and entering a chosen profession, as well as a higher level of maturity and a greater sense of responsibility.
- Learning program
- An eight-point learning program would be used. It includes:
- Fundamental values: Recognition and demonstration of high ethical standards.
  - Academic enhancement: Improvement of time-management, communication and study skills as they apply to the classroom.
  - Social enhancement: Development of etiquette and public-communication skills; encouragement of leadership in community service; discussions on dealing with authority.
- Emotional development: Provision of support groups and counseling; stress management.
  - Physical development: Instruction regarding personal health, sexual behavior, and alcohol- and drug-education issues.
  - Spiritual development: Exposure to diversity as an opportunity for personal growth.
  - Financial instruction: Understanding personal financial-planning strategies, for both general and specific needs.
  - Career planning: Identification of career paths; development of resumes and interviewing skills.
- Participating institutions would conduct the program in the context of a high-quality athletics operation.
- The athletics staff at participating universities would be provided materials with which to implement the program (for example, life-skills manuals containing detailed information about each of the program components). Formats would include printed material, videos, scripts and curriculum outlines. Demonstrations would be provided on how to recruit the support of faculty and community leaders.
- Where programs already are in place, outlines would be available describing ways in which they may be converted to fit under the NCAA Life-Skills Program umbrella.
- "We hope member institutions will send us information regarding development programs they already have in place," Norrie said. "Our goal is for this comprehensive program to contain a wide variety of proven procedures so it can best serve all divisions of our membership."

Conference success

- The Southeastern Conference has the most teams in the 1993 field with six, while the Atlantic Coast Conference is next with five. The Big Eight, Big Ten and Pacific-10 Conferences each have four teams and the Big East Conference is next with three selections. The most teams selected from one conference was seven, from the Southeastern in both 1986 and 1991.
- Using current conference membership, the Southeastern has the most appearances in the tournament with 67. The Atlantic Coast Conference has 46 appearances and the Big Ten has 34, followed by the Atlantic 10 Conference with 27, the Pacific-10 with 25 and the Southwest Conference with 23.
- The SEC has fashioned a 96-58 record for a .623 winning percentage, the best among active conferences. The other top conferences in winning percentage with more than 10 games are the Pacific-10 (.612), Sun Belt (.600), Southwest (.545), Atlantic Coast (.517) and
- group concluded that not enough data were available to justify a change.
- However, the committee recommended to the NCAA Executive Committee that the responsibility for issuing interpretations for the use of the fund should lie solely with the conferences rather than the NCAA staff.
- In addition, the committee also

- Big West (.500). Teams competing as independents over the years have the best overall record at .627 (32-19).
- Undefeated teams scarce
- Vermont, for the second consecutive year, comes into the women's tournament with a perfect record (28-0), only the fourth team to do so since NCAA women's championships began in 1982. Vermont's 29-0 record last year was matched by Louisiana Tech in 1990 and Texas in 1986.
- In 1992, Vermont lost its first game in the tournament, 70-69, to George Washington. The 1990 Louisiana Tech team eventually lost in the Women's Final Four to Auburn, 81-69. Only Texas, which went 5-0 (to finish 34-0) in the 1986 championship, has posted a perfect record in NCAA Division I competition.
- Since 1982, 15 teams have entered the tournament with only one loss, and 41 have started with two losses. Among the 15 one-loss squads, Louisiana Tech in 1982 and Stanford in 1990 won the national title.
- recommended that interpretations issued to date by the NCAA Executive Committee (or the special committee) be incorporated into the guidelines and considered binding.
- The Executive Committee will consider the recommendations at its May meeting. After that meeting, more information will be sent to the conferences.

Players successful on and off the basketball court

GTE/CoSIDA All-American basketball teams released

Two student-athletes instrumental in their teams' national prominence this season have been named the 1993 GTE Academic All-American university division men's and women's basketball players of the year.

Nebraska forward Karen Jennings is the women's player of the year. Jennings, a senior from Persia, Iowa, is the nation's ninth-leading scorer with 22.0 points per game. She is the school's all-time leading scorer and has helped the Cornhuskers climb to a national ranking of 20th.

The Big Eight Conference player of the year majors in exercise science and has a 3.890 grade-point average (4.000 scale). Jennings also was the academic all-American player of the year in 1992.

Vanderbilt's Bruce Elder was named men's player of the year. Elder, a forward, is the Commodores' leading rebounder with six per game. He also averages 12 points for the 10th-ranked Commodores. Vanderbilt won the Southeastern Conference's East Division and set a school record for victories in a season.

Elder, a graduate student from Marietta, Georgia, majors in business administration and has a 3.840 grade-point average.

Angela Harbour, a senior guard at Catawba, is the college division's women's player of the year. Harbour has a 4.000 grade-point average in business administration.

The college-division men's player of the year is Raymond Gutierrez. The senior guard at California (Pennsylvania) is a pre-medicine major and has a 3.750 grade-point average.

The GTE academic teams are selected by a vote of the 1,600-member College Sports Information Directors of America. To be eligible, an athlete must be a starter or key reserve and maintain a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.200 on a 4.000 scale.

Lineups announced for inaugural college hockey all-star game

The American Hockey Coaches Association (AHCA) has announced lineups for the first Shrine East-West College Hockey Classic.

The game, which will be April 10 in Orono, Maine, will feature the top collegiate senior men's ice hockey players in the country.

The game is sponsored by the Anah Temple of Bangor, Maine. The net proceeds from the event will benefit the Shrine Hospitals for burned and crippled children.

The East All-Stars, coached by Shawn Walsh, head coach at Maine; Bruce Marshall, head coach at Connecticut, and Brian Durocher, assistant coach at Brown, will feature:

Defense: Jack Duffy, Yale; Chris Foy, Northeastern; Scott Meehan, Massachusetts-Lowell; Aaron Miller, Vermont; Kevin O'Sullivan, Boston U.; Chris Potter, Connecticut.

Forwards: Ray Alcindor, Middlebury; Greg Carvel, St. Lawrence; Bob Cowan, Providence; Steve Dubinsky, Clarkson; Dan Gravelle, Merrimack; Ryan Hughes, Cornell; Mark Kaufmann, Yale; Matt Mallgrave, Harvard; Chris McGee, Babson; Scott McNair, Rochester Institute of Technology; Jim Montgomery, Maine; David Sacco, Boston U.

Goal: Chris Rogles, Clarkson; Garth Snow, Maine; Grant Wood, Hamilton.

The West All-Stars, coached by Ron Mason, head coach at Michigan State; Steve Nelson, head coach at Wisconsin-Superior, and Jim Knapp, assistant coach at Minnesota-Duluth, will feature:

Defense: Joe Cook, Miami (Ohio); Brett Hauer, Minnesota-Duluth; Patrick Neaton, Michigan; Barry Richter, Wisconsin; Michael Smith, Lake Superior State; Chris Valicevic, St. Mary's (Minnesota).

Forwards: Chris Bergeron, Miami (Ohio); Chris Campbell, Wisconsin-Superior; Jamie Erb, Bemidji State; Brett Harkins, Bowling Green; Greg Johnson, North Dakota; Fred Knipscheer, St. Cloud State; Glenn Lang, Wisconsin-Superior; Derek Plante, Minnesota-Duluth; David Roberts, Michigan; Bryan Smolinski, Michigan State; Todd Tretter, Wisconsin-Stevens Point; John Young, Michigan Tech.

Goal: Shaun Gravistin, Alaska Anchorage; Tom Newman, Minnesota; Bryan Schoen, Denver.

Sports medicine

Athletes' chewing-tobacco use continues

A survey of college football and baseball players in California found that 36 percent of the athletes use smokeless tobacco, researchers at the University of California, San Francisco, School of Dentistry reported March 14.

Baseball players were twice as likely to use smokeless tobacco compared to football players, the survey found. Also, nearly half of the athletes who reported regularly using snuff or chewing tobacco said they began their use while in high school. More than 40 percent of the athletes indicated they had failed in their attempts at giving up the habit.

"The results suggest that prevention and cessation efforts should focus on high-school and college baseball programs," said Margaret M. Walsh, a professor of dental public health and hygiene at UC San Francisco.

Female athlete attribute conference set

"Unique Attributes of the Female Athlete," a course provided by the Johns Hopkins Sports Medicine Section of Orthopaedic Surgery and The Bennett Institute for Sports Medicine and Rehabilitation, will be conducted April 17.

The goal is to focus attention on the uniqueness of the female athlete and to educate the course participants in better addressing the specific needs of the female athlete.

The registration fee is $10 in advance and $25 at the door. Those desiring more information may contact The Bennett Institute at 3825 Greenspring Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland 21211 (attention: public relations department).

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION/EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

NCAA INITIAL-ELIGIBILITY CLEARINGHOUSE

Manager

In January 1993, NCAA Divisions I and II voted to establish an Initial-Eligibility Clearinghouse to simplify the NCAA eligibility certification process. In accordance with the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 14.3, the Clearinghouse will certify student-athletes to participate in Division I and Division II sports, beginning with the 1993-94 recruiting season (i.e., for prospective student-athletes planning to enroll as college freshmen during the 1994-95 academic year). American College Testing (ACT) in Iowa City, Iowa, has been selected by the NCAA to serve as Clearinghouse administrator.

ACT invites applications for the position of Manager of the NCAA Initial-Eligibility Clearinghouse. The manager will be responsible for the planning, implementation, and administration of all Clearinghouse activities, including the development and testing of the computer systems, training and supervision of all Clearinghouse staff, development of all publications and forms, and management of all production activities and services in support of the Clearinghouse.

The position requires a bachelor's degree (graduate degree preferred), excellent communications (written and oral) and quantitative skills, experience in the design and development of computer systems, and at least three years of progressively responsible experience in operations administration, including a proven record as a manager. Experience also is desired in the administration of NCAA athletics certification activities.

This position will be located at ACT's national headquarters in Iowa City, Iowa. Starting salary will be in the mid- to high-30s, depending on qualifications. Excellent benefits program.

To apply, send a letter of application and resume to: Human Resources Dept. (NC), ACT National Office, 2201 N. Dodge Street, P.O. Box 168, Iowa City, IA 52243, by March 24, 1993. Application screening begins immediately and continues until the position is filled.

■ Legislative assistance

1993 Column No. 11

1993 Convention Proposal No. 67 Contractual obligation with noninstitutional publication

Divisions I and II institutions should note that with the adoption of Proposal No. 67 (effective immediately), athletics department staff members no longer are permitted to endorse (either orally or in writing), or continue to write for or receive any remuneration from any noninstitutional publication dedicated to reporting on the institution's athletics activities.

During its February 11, 1993, telephone conference, the NCAA Interpretations Committee determined that if an athletics department staff member has a written contract signed and executed prior to November 15, 1992 (date of publication of the 1993 NCAA Convention Official Notice), with the noninstitutional publication, the staff member may continue to fulfill the terms of the contract for a one-year period. Such contracts must be forwarded to the Association's legal counsel for final review and approval.

1993 Convention Proposal No. 71 Seasons of competition

During its February 24, 1993, telephone conference, the Interpretations Committee determined that a student-athlete who initially enrolls during the 1993-94 academic year in a Division I institution that utilizes the exception set forth in Proposal No. 71 (i.e., the institution will not certify its student-athletes in that sport per the freshman academic requirements set forth in NCAA Bylaw 14.3 for the 1993-94 academic year, provided the institution continues to apply Division III financial aid guidelines) is entitled to four seasons of competition at a Division I institution, even if the individual is not considered a qualifier per 14.3.

Bylaws 13.1.1.3 and 14.6.5.3.10 Release of four-year college transfers/ one-time transfer exception

Division I institutions should note that with the adoption of 1993 Convention Proposal No. 78 (one-time transfer exception—Division I-AA), a student-athlete may utilize the one-time transfer exception per Bylaw 14.6.5.3.10 when transferring from a Division I-A institution to a Division I-AA institution. Please note that in accordance with Bylaw 13.1.1.3, an athletics staff member or other representative of the institution's athletics interests may not make contact with the student-athlete of another four-year collegiate institution directly or indirectly without first obtaining written permission from the first institution's director of athletics (or an athletics administrator designated by the director of athletics), regardless of who makes the initial contact. If permission is not granted, the second institution may not encourage the transfer and may not provide financial aid assistance to the student-athlete until the student-athlete has attended the second institution for one academic year.

1993 Convention Proposal No. 65 Countable coaches—managers, outside consultants

Division I institutions should note that with the adoption of Proposal No. 65, institutional staff members involved in noncoaching activities (e.g., administrative assistants, recruiting coordinators, academic counselors) do not count in the institution's coaching limitations, provided such individuals are not identified as coaches, do not engage in any on- or off-field coaching activities (e.g., attending meetings involving coaching activities, analyzing videotapes or films involving the institution's or opponent's team) and are not involved in any off-campus recruiting of prospects or scouting opponents.

During its February 11, 1993, telephone conference, the Interpretations Committee determined that a manager does not have to be included in the institution's limitations on countable coaches, provided the individual is a student who performs traditional managerial duties. The committee noted that it is not permissible to employ or utilize a manager for the purpose of being involved only in on-court or on-field activities (e.g., pitching batting practice) without including such an individual in the institution's coaching limitations in that sport. Further, an institution may not employ an outside consultant to observe institutional practice sessions and provide analysis of such sessions to teach coaching staff members without including the individual in the institution's coaching limitations in that sport.

Reform

Must be a continuous evolution

of the public still believes intercollegiate athletics is "out of control."

It is not hard to see why they hold that view. Many difficulties remain in intercollegiate athletics. Our commission lists several of them, including cost containment, relationships with high-school and professional sports, involvement with commercial interests, and gender equity. The commission's reform agenda is an agenda, not a magic wand.

Indeed, despite all the attention to recent changes, reform remains a promise yet to be kept. Most of these changes will not be implemented fully until the turn of the century, when the first student-athletes to be admitted under the new rules graduate and the NCAA's certification program completes a full cycle of all Division I institutions. So a lot of hard work remains to be done to secure reform and convince the public that colleges and universities have put their athletics house in order.

The commission's willingness to leave these difficulties to others is a function of what it set out to do. When the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation established the commission in 1989 and asked it to develop a reform agenda, the foundation was interested in answers to a number of very broad questions.

Our interest was not in rewriting the NCAA Manual, proposing new rules or suggesting new sanctions. Our interest was in the big picture: What is the place of athletics on our nation's campuses? What does the public think about abuse in college sports? Is there any hope for meaningful reform, and if so, where does it lie? We believed—and still believe—that if we could get the answers to those questions right, the rest of the enterprise would be right as well. And if we could not, everything else would be all wrong.

The commission's 1991 report, "Keeping Faith with the Student-Athlete: A New Model for Intercollegiate Athletics," provided our answers. They were straightforward: Sports and competition belong on campuses because they are an essential aspect of the human condition. The public in 1989 was deeply and profoundly disturbed by athletics abuse. The "one-plus-three" model is a road map promising meaningful reform, and the best hope of implementing it lies in the hands of college and university presidents backed up by their trustees.

Like my colleagues on the commission, I believe the presidents of the nation's colleges and universities now face a choice about how to proceed, a choice between business as usual or making a new beginning by supporting the "one-plus-three" model.

Business as usual in college sports will undermine higher education. It leads inexorably to regulation of intercollegiate athletics by the courts or Congress. That is a consequence no one wants but many, unwittingly, may invite. The second choice strengthens American higher education because it grounds college sports in the larger mission of the university and the institutional authority of the president and trustees.

These choices and their consequences are what is at stake in the athletics reform movement. And the outcome is far from clear. What is clear is that it is too early today to declare victory or defeat. The true test of the reform movement must await historians of the future who will ask whether today's presidents employed their new powers wisely and chose well.

Restrictions on hoop coaches' attendance at summer camps

As a result of the adoption of 1993 NCAA Convention Proposal No. 127 as amended by Proposal No. 127-1, Division I men's and women's basketball coaching staff members may attend only institutional summer basketball camps and noninstitutional summer basketball camps that are certified by the NCAA.

The restriction is for events that occur during the Division I summer evaluation periods (July 5-31 for men and July 8-31 for women).

The NCAA staff has developed all materials related to the certification process, and directors of those summer events now possess their certification packets.

Those packets, which were mailed March 5, included an application form, an information sheet and a review form for each director to complete. Those camps seeking certification must certify in writing that the camp will be operated in accordance with NCAA Bylaws 13.13.5 and 30.15 (1993-94 NCAA Manual). The application form is to be returned to the national office not later than May 10.

During its December 17, 1992, meeting (Item No. 10), the NCAA Interpretations Committee determined that a noninstitutional summer basketball camp seeking certification under the provisions of Bylaws 13.13.5 and 30.15 may use a Division I facility for the summer of 1993 only, provided the camp and the involved institution had a written contract that was executed before November 15, 1992. The committee did note that in order to use a Division I facility for this summer, those contracts must be submitted to the Association's legal counsel for review.

Applicants will be notified by mail whether their camp has been certified. The membership will be advised of which camps have been certified through The NCAA News. The notification process will come in a format similar to the one used for NCAA-sanctioned summer basketball leagues.

Any Division I men's and women's basketball coaching staff members who know of any noninstitutional summer basketball camps whose directors are unaware of this legislation are encouraged to have those directors contact the national office. Any inquiries regarding this program should be directed to Christopher D. Schoemann, NCAA legislative assistant, at the national office.

Transportation safety is discussed

Accidents like recent mishaps involving the Winthrop University tennis team and Delaware State College's baseball team are a school's darkest fear, according to athletics officials interviewed by The Associated Press.

"You make sure you have safe vehicles, drivers who are certified and pray it doesn't happen," said Walt Nadzak, athletics director at The Citadel. "I worry about it all the time."

School officials say they don't have the money to charter a bus or an airplane to transport teams to every game. Teams with fewer players—typically in sports that generate little public support and money—often ride to games in rented vans or school vehicles.

Player killed

Early on March 10, one Winthrop tennis player was killed and several team members were injured when the team van ran off Interstate 59 in Mississippi, flipped twice and crashed into road-building equipment.

Police in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, said the van's driver, a Winthrop graduate assistant coach, may have fallen asleep at the wheel.

The team had competed at Tulane University March 9 and then began a 350-mile drive from New Orleans to Birmingham, Alabama, where it was scheduled to play the next afternoon.

Winthrop has canceled the rest of its men's tennis season.

Also on March 10, two members of the Delaware State baseball team were slightly injured in a van accident on an interstate highway near Jacksonville, Florida, while heading to a game at South Carolina State University.

The driver tried to avoid another vehicle, crossed two lanes of traffic and struck a guardrail, authorities said.

'Disaster waiting....'

"Those long trips in vans have always been a disaster waiting to happen," said Tom Meinhardt, men's tennis coach at Towson State University. "I just don't feel safe with driving all night."

Towson State, like Winthrop a member of the Big South Conference, has adopted policies to try to ease travel hardships on athletes.

Can't legislate

Nadzak said each school is responsible for ensuring that schedules are reasonable and that proper arrangements are made to transport athletes.

The NCAA is not equipped to impose schedule or team-travel restrictions, he said.
