Gender-equity panel seeks reaction to report

The NCAA Gender-Equity Task Force has provided a draft report and set of recommendations to the member-ship and now is in the process of soliciting response.

However, five members of the task force representing Division I-A constituencies have announced that they "do not concur fully" with the preliminary report and plan to address areas of disagreement.

The task force's report, which was mailed May 14 and which also appears on page 16 of this issue, contains a proposed definition of gender equity, along with a set of principles. Proposed legislation is provided, along with recommendations to various NCAA committees.

The report also contains information that would be published in a "source book" containing guidelines to assist members in achieving gender equity.

Task force cochairs Phyllis L. Howlett, Big Ten Conference, and James J. Whalen, Ithaca College, stressed the importance of membership reaction to the document and encouraged members to attend one of three hearings set for later this month.

They also said they were not surprised by the news of differences within the committee.

"There's going to be some disagreement," Whalen said. "We talked on a conference call about people issuing minority reports."

The five members who said they would be expressing different views are Judith E. N. Albino, president, University of Colorado; Joe Dean, athletics director, Louisiana State University; Thomas C. Hansen, commissioner, Pacific-10 Conference; Grant G. Teaff, athletics director, Baylor University, and Richard A. Rosenthal, athletics director, University of Notre Dame.

In discussing the minority view, Albino said, "The concern that brought us to the conclusion for a minority report came out of process issues" that resulted in wording being changed after several individuals had left the task force's April 26 27 meeting.

Albino said proportionality based on enrollment was one of the issues that was involved. In particular, she said she was concerned about "language that reflected the notion that proportionality might be an ultimate goal." She said other factors need to be considered, including interest and proportionality in the high-school pool of talent from which the colleges draw.

Albino did not say specifically when the dissenting views would be available, but indications were it would be after May 27, when the last of the hearings will be conducted.

Division I A representatives on the task force who were not among those disagreeing with the report were Howlett and Chris Voelz, women's athletics director at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities.

The legislation proposed by the task force pertains to

Graduation rates still at 52 percent, according to survey

The graduation rate for Division I student-athletes who entered college in 1985 is unchanged from the rate for those who enrolled in 1984, according to an NCAA study.

The Association's second survey of graduation rates for Division I institutions determined that 52 percent of student-athletes who enrolled in 1985 graduated within six years, the same as for the 1984 class, which was announced last July.

The complete study, including data for each Division I institution, has been mailed to the Division I membership.

The 1985 class was not affected by NCAA Bylaw 14.3 (commonly known as Proposition 48), which established stricter initial-eligibility requirements when it became effective in August 1986. The graduation-rate report for that first Proposition 48 class is expected to be available this summer. The overall graduation rate for all students entering college in 1985 was 54 percent, a three percent jump from 1984.

Among the key findings from the survey (all comparisons are between the entering class of 1985 and the entering class of 1984):

■ The graduation rate for male student-athletes rose from 47 to 48 percent (the rate for all male students was 52 percent).

■ Female student-athletes graduated at a 61 percent rate, down from 62 percent. The overall rate for females at Division I institutions was 55 percent.

■ The graduation rate for black male basketball players jumped from 29 to 33 percent, which was three points higher than the rate for all black male students at Division I institutions. The percentage of white male basketball players

Enhancements approved by Executive Committee

At its May 3.6 meeting, the NCAA Exec utive Committee approved a plan to enhance the Association's championships program by using a new approach that links bracket sizes for team championships more closely with sponsorship than with revenue potential

The new plan also equalizes the per diemallowance at $80 for all sports except Division I men's and women's basketball. The Executive Committee also established playins for certain championships but delayed action until its August meeting on whether to fund transportation and per diem for those play-ins.

At its most recent meeting April 29-30, the committee heard reaction from several groups to the 17 "legislative concepts" that it formulated earlier this year.

The NCAA Gender Equity Task Force has distributed a draft of its report to the membership and now will conduct hearings at three sites in late May. Those hearings will be May 24 in San Francisco, May 26 in Chicago and May 27 in Washington, D.C.

The complete report was mailed May 14 to all chief executive officers, directors of athletics, senior women administrators and faculty athletics representatives at member institutions. The report, minus attachments, also is included in this issue of The NCAA News.

The task force is encouraging those who cannot attend any of the hearings in person to submit written reaction by June 11.

After the hearings, a report will be redrafted for the NCAA Presidents Commission to consider at its June 29-30 meeting.

Final exams put first

For the Rutgers University, Newark, baseball team, there was something more important than a recent New Jersey Athletic Conference game - final exams

The school decided to forfeit a May 6 game against Trenton State College to take exams, giving up its opportunity to compete in postseason play.

"We will not compromise the academic integrity of our student-athletes or institution," Rutgers-Newark athletics director John Adams said. "This goes against the prime objective of the conference, which is to stimulate, foster and promote intercollegiate athletics as an integral part of the total education program, not to supersede it."

Rutgers-Newark and Trenton State were to meet to decide the fourth and final playoff spot in the conference, but final examinations were already scheduled at Rutgers-Newark, which requested that the conference reschedule the baseball game. The conference said it could not be rescheduled.

"Is there a lesson in this?" Adams said. "I don't know. I just hope the conference would review this situation."

Players honor coach

About 35 black football players who performed for San Jose State University gathered May 1 to honor the coach who they say made a dramatic impact on their lives.

The players all played for Bob Bronzan at a time when black athletes were not heavily recruited by white coaches. Bronzan coached at San Jose State from 1950 to 1956 and was athletics director there from 1960 to 1972.

"He didn't make any distinctions," Joe Barrington, a former running back at San Jose State, told the Oakland Tribune. "He was demanding (of) us on the football field, in ethics and values, in the classroom. He treated us as men. He didn't expect any less from you than any other man."

Said George Cobbs, who played fullback: "He knew how to reach inside people and find the better part of them. I can see how (former Spartans) Dick Vermeil and Bill Walsh learned from him. He was a good mentor.

Bronzan said having a group of former players honor him was worth more than

A blast from the past

To celebrate Tulane University's 100th anniversary of baseball, the Green Wave baseball team played an April 26 game in uniforms replicating those worn in the school's first season of competition in 1893. Track and baseball were the first two major sports to adopt organized team play on campus.

any of the other awards and honors he has received.

"I've had lots of honors in my life," Bronzan said. "But tonight has affected memore than any other tribute I've had."

Irish arena debut

The College of the Holy Cross men's basketball team will play the first basketball game at the first sports arena built in Ireland when the Crusaders clash with the Irish National Team May 23.

The Irish Basketball Arena is in Dublin and was built at the modest cost of $4 million. Its opening is the culmination of nearly a decade of effort by the Irish American Sports Foundation, founded nine years ago by Dan Doyle, former men's basketball coach at Trinity College (Connecticut). The government of Ireland chipped in $1 million toward the project.

"Ireland has no indoor facilities comparable to even junior high-school gymnasiums in the United States," said George Blaney, men's basketball coach at Holy Cross, "Dan and I felt the support of hundreds of people in both the U.S. and Ireland in our fund-raising efforts."

Attendance slump

University of Miami (Florida) baseball coach Brad Kelley is wondering where all of the Hurricane baseball fans have gone.

A year ago, an average of 3,230 people attended each Miami game, but that has dwindled to 1,530 this season, according to an Associated Press report.

Could competition from the expansion Florida Marlins professional baseball team be the reason?

"Even our hard-core fans walk in the gate with Marlins hats on," Kelley said. "It wasn't unusual for us to have a story on the front page of the sports section, especially in the '80s. Now the Marlins are taking the front page, the second page and part of the third page as well. We aren't getting the same type of free marketing from coverage of the games, so people don't know when you're playing or how you're doing."

Kelley said more aggressive efforts will have to be made in the future to improve attendance.

I Facilities

Work is continuing at Wittenberg University on installation of an artificial surface, lights and an all-weather track at Wittenberg Stadium, Completion of the $1.8 million project named for former coaches Dave Maurer and the late Bill Edwards is expected by mid-August. Also, the institution opened a new fitness center in Febru ary after converting space from its McGilvray Natatorium.

Illinois Wesleyan University began excavation in March for the $15 million Shirk Center, the institution's new athletics, recreation and wellness com plex. It is expected to be completed in 18 to 24 months and will include four multiuse courts for tennis, volleyball, basketball and other sports. It also will house three racquetball courts, a track, locker rooms, a training room, a wellness center, classrooms, a practice gym, a concession stand and other facilities.

The baseball complex at Northern Illinois University recently was renamed Ralph McKinzie Field in memory of the late hall of famer.

The football field inside the University of Northern Iowa UNI-Dome will be named Stan Sheriff Football Field in honor of the former Northern lowa coach and athletics director who died January 16. Sheriff was athletics director at the University of Hawaii from 1983 until his death.

The Wright State University baseball team has finished its first season in a new 4,000-seat facility that in cludes dressing rooms, coaches offices, training rooms, weight rooms, an un der-stadium hitting tunnel, concession stands and restrooms. Also included is a four-color message scoreboard.

One-game playoff best for everybody

By Charles B. Knapp and Vince Dooley UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

College football's television ratings are down. Overall Division I-A attendance has declined slightly from its record year of 1982. And, with roughly two-thirds of the athletics departments in the country reportedly operating in the red, something has to be done.

The popularity of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship, which will generate approximately $500,000 for each of the Division I schools, is an example of the public's interest in crowning a national championship team in collegiate sports.

We support the idea that it's time for a onegame national championship in football, and we see a way to achieve that goal while at the same time forging a lasting partnership between the athletics and academic sides of the university community.

Initial estimates that we've seen for television rights to a one-game national championship range from $33 million, which the Home Shopping Network offered in 1991 for a University of Miami (Florida)-University of Washington game, to as much as $100 million.

Using $60 million (the figure mentioned for a one-game playoff by NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz in his January "State of the Association" address) as a starting point for discussion, it would be possible to pay expenses to two teams competing in a nationalchampionship game and still have enough money left over to provide at least a $500,000 payoff to each of the 107 Division I-A schools.

How should this $500,000 be spent? Here's our three-point plan, which-unlike other

Review of data vital, not sexist

We are disappointed that "equalization proponents" continue to present their argument for what we call the "50/50 definition" of gender equity without regard to compelling evidence beyond the use of enrollment ratios.

The conclusions reached in our editorial that appeared in the April 21 issue of The NCAA News were based on substantive information. Unfortunately, the editorial ("Interest Argument Just a Smokescreen," May 5) by William Stier and Laurie Priest was based mostly on emotion, rather than fact.

First, our use of intramural participation is totally relevant to interest measurement of a student body at an institution. Our survey was broadbased to include intramural sports and recreational activities so as to incorporate participation in all athletics activities, not just sports that may be biased toward one sex.

The Office of Civil Rights Investigator's Manual states: "There are various other acceptable methods that an institution may use to determine athletics interests and abilities. These other methods involve reviewing...club, intramural...and other programs." So, the "giant leap in logic" that we made by comparing intramural and intercollegiate participation is exactly that which is prescribed by OCR.

Secondly, consideration of sincere interest in sports of a student body is not sexist. Our intent is to work toward fairness. Hard data suggest that male/ female interest in sports is substantially proportionate to interest displayed in both intramural and interscholastic participation at approximately a 65/ 35 percent ratio. In order to attain a 50/50 ratio at the intercollegiate level, two options exist: Decrease male opportunities (probably in football) or increase costs in women's programs. Both of those options are grossly unfair to men's athletics, particularly when the data show that female interest is not as great as male interest. Therefore, pursuing those options is inequitable.

Regarding high-school sports participation, when participation rates are evaluated in conjunction with the growth of female participation, which plateaued in 1978, and the broad female interests displayed in other extracurricular activities, the evidence suggests that male interest in sports is greater than female interest, while female interests are more diversified than male interests. Examining raw participation numbers is too narrow to reach a convincing conclusion.

Stier's and Priest's comments regarding recruitment of athletes are flawed. Universities could create any number of women's teams and recruit athletes to play. Recruitment of players by teams that have the support of sincere interest is not to fill rosters, but to have the best players possible on the team. When slots are arbitrarily created in the name of equity and without the sincere interest of students. recruitment only fills roster spots. This is a disservice to all athletes, fans and supporters of an athletics pro

Also, scholarship dollar allocation is addressed by OCR. Although Stier and Priest assess the dollar amount of scholarships awarded to females as discriminatory, the statistical "z" test recommended by OCR shows that scholarship dollars are equitably distributed relative to the number of participants of each sex in Division I-A.

Proposed legislation in the U.S. House of Representatives would require men's departments to disclose, among other things, departmental expenses, but not revenues. We support full disclosure regarding athletics departments. But it has to be exactly that: full disclosure. We suggest reporting revenue and expenses of each sport in both men's and women's departments, methods of hiring coaches by both departments, participation rates with a breakdown of walkon and scholarship participants, and intercollegiate participation rates relative to intramural and interscholastic participation rates.

Men's athletics departments want to do what is fair. The articles that Terry Don Phillips and I have written have gotten both favorable and unfavorable responses, which is healthy for collegiate athletics.

What is not healthy is the polariza tion of men's and women's programs created by the unwillingness to examine all relevant data. Again, we implore those interested in gender equity to examine all data and all substantive information so we can work toward a common goal.

proposals we've seen - contains specific recommendations that will benefit both academics and athletics:

Divide the money equally. The NCAA would stipulate that half of each school's share of national-championship-game revenues must go toward academic support at the institution. College athletics has long trumpeted its positive impact on higher education. Let's put some reality behind that rhetoric and a $250,000 annual stipend for institutional academic support would do just that.

Ice hockey committee takes hard line on interference

The NCAA Men's Ice Hockey Rules Committee highlighted three areas of interference that it claims will be enforced strictly during the 1993 94 season.

The committee, which met May 11-14 at Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, stressed the following situations would be cause for an automatic penalty:

Holding, picking or pinching a player excessively against the boards after the puck has been played;

Interference that affects a prime goal-scoring opportunity, and Holding an opponent's stick anywhere on the ice.

The committee also noted that these types of interference will be demonstrated in detail at the four officiating improvement clinics this fall.

The committee expressed its concern that because interference infractions often take place away from the play, officials sometimes think they cannot call a penalty. The committee hopes that taking a hard line on three specific areas of interference will decrease the number of interference incidents.

With regard to the clinics, the committee issued a strong state ment of support for the officiatingimprovement program and the officiating mechanics that have been developed for all college ice hockey officials. The committee stressed that to achieve a national consistency in officiating, all hockey conferences would have to work together to implement the officiating mechanics.

Other action

In other actions at its May 11-14 meeting in Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, the Men's Ice Hockey Rules Committee:

Recommended that the hockey conferences review Rule 1-3-a (release-type goal-post fixtures) to ensure the safety of all ice hockey student-athletes.

Added a recommendation to Rule 1-3-g that the interior metal of the goal cage be padded (excluding the goal posts and cross bar).

Added a note to Rule 1-11-b so that a backup timing device must be provided by the home team for each contest.

Revised Rule 3-1-a to include fiberglass as a recommended stick material. The committee also recommends wood or a combination of wood and aluminum.

Deleted a sentence from Rule 4-2-d that states: "This rule also shall apply when a goal is scored on a penalty shot" game at the earliest possible time and make the player leave the game to have the uniform evaluated by medical personnel. If the team's medical personnel determine that blood has saturated the uniform, the player must change the bloodied part of the uniform. If saturation has not occurred, the player may continue to wear the uniform.

 Added wording to Rule 6-15 c 10 so that a goal shall not be allowed if the goal cage has been moved or dislodged.

Added wording to Rule 6.1.1

to state: "After a game, any verbal or physical abuse directed at an official shall result in a disqualification penalty and is subject to the progressive game-disqualification structure.

emerging sports for women and to financial aid.

Regarding emerging sports for women, the group recommended that any two of the following be acceptable toward meeting the minimum sports-sponsorship requirements: (team) crew, ice hockey, team handball, water polo; (individual) archery, badminton, bowling and squash. The task force also recommended a minimum number of contests and participants and maximum financial aid limits for each of those sports. Also, the group recommended that the emerging sports be used for revenue-distribution purposes (that is, for the sports-sponsorship and grants-in-aid funds).

With regard to financial aid, the task force recommended an increase in maximum financial aid limitations for Divisions I and II women's sports. It recommended no changes in the existing financial aid limitations for Divisions I and H men's sports. It also recommended that the Association explore legislation to decrease the O'Hare, Chicago.

The task force also asked the NCAA Council, the NCAA Executive Committee and six other NCAA committees to study a variety of ideas pertaining to enhancing gender equity.

The dates and sites for the hear ings are:

May 24, Hyatt Regency San Francisco Airport, San Francisco.

May 26, Hyatt Regency

May 27, Hyatt Regency Crystal City, Washington, D.C.

All hearings will begin at 10:30 a.m. local time. Those who plan to attend any of the hearings are asked to call Ursula R. Walsh, NCAA director of research and staff liaison to the task force, at 913/339-1906.

Those who will not be able to attend are encouraged to provide a written reaction to the task force. That correspondence is due June 11 and should he mailed to Walsh at the national office.

Division I Baseball

Pepperdine prospers with new pitching staff

Event: 1993 Division 1 Baseball Championship.

Overview: Pepperdine (35-13) will try to become only the fourth school in Division I baseball history to repeat as champion. The only other repeaters are Southern California (1970 through 1974), Texas (1949 and 1950) and Stanford (1987 and 1988). The Waves return only right-hander Steve Duda (9-3, 1.95 earned-run average) from last year's pitching staff but have the fourth-best team ERA (2.70) in the country. Opponents have scored three or fewer runs against Pepperdine's defense in 33 of the Waves' 48 games. Texas A&M (47-7), which won the Southwest Conference with a 15-3 record, has hovered at or near the top of the Division I poll for most of the season. The Aggies started the season 14-0 and have notched two eight-game winning streaks and one 10-game streak since. Senior outfielder Brian Thomas (.378, 12 home runs, 46 runs batted in, 17 stolen bases) leads a balanced offense that has a .311 team batting average. On the mound, the Aggies are led by sophomore Trey Moore (11-0, 1.87 ERA) and junior Jeff Granger (12-2, 2.34 ERA, 124 strikeouts in 100 innings). In its 100th season of intercollegiate baseball, Louisiana State (36-11-1) hopes to make it to the College World Series for the sixth time in the last eight years. Offensively, all-American second baseman Todd Walker has a 31-game hitting streak. Other teams expected to challenge for the national title include Florida State, Georgia Tech, Arizona State, Texas, Wichita State, Mississippi State and North Carolina State

Field: A maximum of 48 teams will be selected to compete in the championship-24 automatic qualifiers and 24 at large. Eight regional champions will advance to the College World Series.

Dates and sites: Regional competition will be May 27-31 at on campus sites. For the 44th consecutive year, the College World Series will be at Johnny Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha, Nebraska, with Creighton serving as host. The CWS is set for June 4-12.

Television coverage: CBS-TV will provide live coverage of a preliminary College World Series game June 5 and of the championship game June 12. ESPN will provide live or tape-delayed coverage of other College World Series games.

Results: Scores from regional competition and College World Series pairings will appear in the June 2 issue of the The NCAA News. Championship results will be published June 16.

Championship notes: Pepperdine won its first Division I Baseball Championship last year and became the fifth team in history to win the national championship in its first championship-game appearance....Pepperdine pitchers allowed only four earned runs in 36 College World Series innings (1.00 earned-run average)....Southern California has won more championships (11) than any other institution.

What they are saying

Andy Lopez, head coach Pepperdine

Defending champion

"Overall, I think this team has handled the expectations very well. I don't think anyone verbalized them, but it is a little difficult to stay away from the 'defending champion' label.

"I feel very good about our team, especially when I look back to last year and see that we were 35-10 at this stage, and now we are 35-13 with almost an entirely new pitching staff. And a lot of our position players who were not big cogs in our wheel last year have really done a good job as starters this year."

Division II Men's Track

Familiar foes square off again

Track and Field Championships.

Overview: St. Augustine's or Abilene Christian — it's a toss-up. Since 1982, the two teams have claimed all 11 team titles-Abilene Christian won seven in a row from 1982 through 1988 and St. Augustine's has won the last four. Both squads are evenly matched, sporting exceptional sprint and field-event squads. A year ago, St. Augustine's won four individual and two relay titles and blew away the field by 32 points. The Falcons are capable of repeating that feat behind returning individual champions Emmitt Higgins (triple jump), James Shelton (high jump) and Gilbert Hashan (400-meter hurdles). Host Abilene Christian, which ended the Falcons' five-year indoor title reign in March, looks to win another title in front of its home crowd. Like St. Augustine's, Abilene Christian boasts a deep and talented squad led by Brian Amos, defending champion in the 110-meter hurdles; Robert Guy, and Joseph Tengelei. Adams State, a newcomer to NCAA competition, and Western State should also make a strong showing.

Event: 1993 Division II Men's Outdoor four 1,600-meter relay crowns....Bryan Bridgewater of Cal State Los Angeles will attempt to become the first repeat champion in the same year in the 100- and 200-meter dashes.

What they are saying

George Williams, head coach St. Augustine's

"I'd like to finish in the top three. Right now, Abilene (Christian) seems to be the strongest team. Adams State is also coming on pretty strong, and Texas A&I has a strong team. We're not as strong as we have been (in the past). We're going to be very competitive and are going to have a good time. We'll be there and do the best that we can. Of the four teams that I mentioned, no one can make a mistake; if they do, they'll have someone breathing down their neck."

Division III Men's Track

Eagles chase third title in a row

Event: 1993 Division III Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Overview: Wisconsin-La Crosse, which won its third consecutive indoor track title earlier this year, seeks to repeat the feat outdoors. The Eagles, who have won three of the last five championships, will rely again on the one quality that has propelled them to the top the last two years - depth. Bruce Schroeder, runner-up in the long jump and triple jump a year ago, is the Eagles' top performer. Lincoln (Pennsylvania), runner-up at six of the last seven championships, and St. Thomas (Minnesota) are the primary threats to Wisconsin-La Crosse. Lincoln, which won the 1990 title, boasts a tremendous sprint corps led by Brandon Jones, Shannon Flowers and Jeff Taylor.

Field: The NCAA Executive Committee has approved a qualifying procedure that allows for a maximum of 344 studentathletes.

Dotes and site: Baldwin-Wallace will serve as host of the championships May 26-29.

Results: Championships results will appear in the June 2 issue of The NCAA News.

Championships notes: Lincoln (Penn sylvania) has won a championships record 20 individual titles ... Wisconsin La Crosse's 73½ points at the 1992 championships were the most since Rowan (formerly Glassboro State) scored 114 in 1984.

Field: The NCAA Executive Commit tee has approved a qualifying procedure that allows for a maximum of 236 studentathletes.

Dates and site: The championships will be May 27-29 at Abilene Christian.

Results: Championships results will appear in the June 2 issue of The NCAA News.

Championships notes: St. Augustine's won the title last year with 95 points, the fewest by a champion since Cal Poly San Luis Obispo won with 92 points in 1982....St. Augustine's has won the last five 400-meter relay titles and the last

Leonard Jones of St. Thomas (Minnesota) won the long-jump title at last year's championships.

What they are saying

Joe Thompson, head coach St. Thomas (Minnesota)

"(Wisconsin-La Crosse) is a heavy, heavy favorite. I'm not sure that anyone can make a serious run at them. They have a lot of depth and a lot of quality. I'm sure Lincoln (Pennsylvania) feels that they can make a run. We are definitely a dark horse. We have some quality athletes, but I don't know if we're deep enough to compete with (Wisconsin-La Crosse). If you look at the top five or six teams, I think it's a pretty tight battle for spots two through five."

National Collegiate Women's Golf

Unprecedented fourth championship in sight

Event: 1993 National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships.

Overview: Defending champion San Jose State, the first three-time winner in championships history, looks to make it four against strong challenges from Arizona State, Texas and Georgia, which will be playing on its home course. Georgia features sophomore Vicki Goetze, last year's medalist and single-round record-holder, who will be competing in her last collegiate tournament. Goetze has declared her intent to play professionally beginning in June.

Field: A total of 204 golfers representing five districts participated in two regionals to determine the champion ships field of 102 competitors.

Dates and site: The championships finals will be May 26-29 at Georgia.

Television coverage: A one-hour highlights show will be produced by AdCraft for delayed broadcast.

Results: Championships results will appear in the June 3 issue of The NCAA News.

Championships notes: This is the first year that the regional format has been used. A similar format has been in use for the Division I men's championships for four years....Goetze won last year's individual honors over Arizona's Annika Sorenstam, who has since turned professional. Goetze's role as the tournament favorite was strengthened by her 13-stroke victory over the field in Georgia's Preview Invitational in the fall....San Jose State had won 12 consecutive tournaments dating back to last season before Arizona State broke the string at its invitational in April.

What they are saying

Linda Vollstedt, head coach Arizona State

"We've been fortunate to have good players who have been consistent. All five of them can shoot 75 or better. Even out young players have performed well. Freshman Emilee Klein has finished in the top 10 in every tourna ment and has been medalist once, and sophomore Wendy Ward (Pacific-10 Conference champion) is having a spectacular season. This could be a great year for the championships because there are so many good teams near the top. San Jose State is the team to beat because of its experience, but Texas, Georgia and Furman have strong teams as well."

Mark Gale, head coach San Jose State

"This has been a very good year for us. We have four returning players from last year's championship team, which helps, and our new addition, freshman Vibke Stensrud from Oslo, Norway, has handled the competition her first year. In the 16 years that I've been coaching, I think this is our best team. We know that no one is a shoo in to win the championships, but we have a team that could get into the hunt, and that's where we plan to be."

Defending champion San Jose State is led by all-American Tracy Hanson.

Division II Women's Track

Wildcats clawing in comeback

Event: Division II Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Overview: Abilene Christian looks to regain the outdoor crown it owned until four years ago. The Lady Wildcats, who won four consecutive titles from 1985 through 1988, finished fifth outdoors a year ago. If the Lady Wildcats are to make the jump to the top, they will need strong performances from Hermin Joseph, Prisca Philip, Bigna Samuel and Amara Ezem. Joseph, Philip and Samuel each claimed individual titles at the indoor championships in March. If the Lady Wildcats stumble, there will be plenty of other teams capable of clinibing to the top, including defending champion Alabama A&M, Cal State Los Angeles, Norfolk State and Cat Poly San Luis Obispo. Cal State Los Angeles, runner-up a year ago, is particularly strong in the distance events with Kim Ojeda setting the pace. Norfolk State, runner-up indoors this year, will rely heavily on standout Chandra Sturrup, who became the championships' first triple winner last year. Sturrup will defend titles in the 100- and 200-meter dashes and the long jump.

Field: The NCAA Executive Committee has approved a qualifying procedure that allows for a maximum of 170 competitors.

Dates and site: The championships will be May 27-29 at Abilene Christian.

Results: Championships results will appear in the June 2 issue of The NCAA News.

Championships notes: Abilene Christian (1988) and Alabama A&M (1992) are the only two schools to win the indoor and outdoor titles in the same year .... Alabama A&M's 47-point victory a year ago was the largest victory margin since Abilene Christian outdistanced runner-up Cal Poly San Luis Obispo by 52 points in 1987....Karin Grelsson of Seattle Pacific and Christie Allen of Pittsburg State will attempt to become the first athletes to win consecutive heptathlon and 10,000-meter-run titles, respectively. Grelsson is also the defending triple-jump champion, and Allen is the defending 5,000-meter-run chamріоп.

Division III Women's Track

Duo's dominance in jeopardy

Event: 1993 Division III Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Overview: Christopher Newport and Wisconsin-Oshkosh have dominated the champion ships, combining for the last six team titles (Christopher Newport has won four, Wisconsin-Oshkosh two). But that domination may be coming to an end. Several teams, including Lincoln-(Pennsylvania), which won the indoor title; Wisconsin-La Crosse, indoor runner-up, and Brandeis all have a legitimate shot at the team title. Christopher Newport, while not as deep as in the past, will put up a good defense. Led by standout Vandisha Wilder, indoor champion in the 55-meter dash and runnerup in the 200-meter dash at the 1992 outdoor championships, the Lady Captains have the ability to play a major role.

in determining the order of finish. It may not be enough, however, to deter teams such as Lincoln (Pennsylvania), Wisconsin La Crosse, Brandeis and Occidental, which have the depth and talent to win.

Field: The NCAA Executive Committee has approved a qualifying procedure that allows for a maximum of 246 competitors.

Dates and site: Baldwin-Wallace will serve as host of the championships May 26-29.

Results: Championships results will appear in the June 2 issue of The NCAA News.

Championships notes: Christopher Newport has won a championshipsrecord four team and 16 individual titles....Baldwin Wallace is hosting its second championships in three years.

What they are saying

Vince Brown, head coach Christopher Newport

"I feel like we're going to be in the same position we were indoors (the Lady Captains finished seventh). We'd like to finish in the top five. A lot depends on how Vandisha (Wilder) runs. We've got about four people whom we are counting heavily on.... We just don't have the depth (to win). I was very impressed with (Wisconsin La Crosse) at indoors. Occidental is strong, and obviously so is Lincoln (Pennsylvania)."

Seattle Pacific's Karin Grelsson is the defending champion in both the hep-tathlon and triple jump.

What they are saying

Wes Kittley, head coach Abilene Christian

"I think Alabama A&M is the tough team out there. Cal State Los Angeles, from what I've seen, is also very strong. But again, A&M is the champion from last year. I feel very good about our chances. We've got a lot of numbers; we've got more kids qualified than we ever have. I hope being at home will make a difference."

Success is nothing new for Christopher Newport's Vandisha Wilder (right), who won the 55-meter indoor title and also helped the 1,600- and 400meter relays win national titles at the 1992 outdoor meet. She also was runner-up in the 200 meter dash.

Pat Healy, head coach Wisconsin-La Crosse

"I don't see a real dominant team out there—someone who will just run away with it. I see several teams that should be in (the title race). Obviously, Lincoln (Pennsylvania), which won the indoor title, should be very strong. Christopher Newport looks pretty good. I think we should be right in it. Right now, if everything goes right, we have 15 athletes who qualify for the meet in 14 different events. That at least gives us a chance."

UC Davis cruises in II tennis

UC Davis' women's tennis team finished the 1993 season the same way it began: top-ranked.

Kim Borah posted a come-frombehind, three-set triumph at No. 6 singles against Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and clinched the Aggies' second Division 11 Women's Tennis Championships team title May 9 at Industry, California.

UC Davis, which finished the season with a mark of 23-3 and went wire-to-wire as the nation's No. 1-ranked team, won the team final, 5-1.

yon claimed the singles title, and Francis Marion's duo of Mary Hirst and Lee Whitwell captured the doubles crown at the championships, which were hosted by Cal-Poly Pomona May 7-13.

"There was no stopping us today," said Caryn Maroni, UC Davis coach, after Borah's singles triumph clinched the Aggies' second title in four years. "It was a pressure setting and with everybody watching, Kim simply gutted it out."

UC Davis jumped out to a commanding lead early as four of the Aggies' top five singles players recorded two-set triumphs. Pam Enkoji, a freshman, set the pace, dropping only one game at No. 1 singles. Leslie Cavanaugh at No. 2, Katie Raney at No. 3 and Dixie Ching at No. 5 also had impressive victories.

"Pam (Enkoji) played near-per fect tennis and didn't make an error in the first 16 points," Maroni said. "She was off the court in 40 minutes?

The Aggies, who dropped only three of 22 sets, advanced to the final by beating Pace, 9-0, in quarterfinal play and two-time defending champion Cal Poly Pomona, 5-2, in semifinal action.

Grand Canyon's Lucie Ludvigova certainly proved her No. 1 ranking was well deserved. Ludvigova, a sophomore, won her final 33 matches of the season on her way to winning the Division II women's singles title over UC Davis' Pam Enkoji. Ludvigova, who won 60 of 75 games in her five tournament matches, ended the season 35-1; her lone loss came at the hands of Kim Shasby of Stanford, a Division I opponent.

Like UC Davis, Ludvigova opened the 1993 season at No. 1; she was the Division II preseason No. 1-ranked singles player. And like the Aggies, she finished at the

Only a sophomore, Ludvigova capped a nearly unbeaten season by defeating Enkoji, the No. 2 seed, 6-0, 6-4, in the singles final. The singles title was the first for Grand Canyon.

Ludvigova, who dropped only 15 of 75 games in five tournament matches, won her final 33 matches and finished the season at 35-1. Her only loss was to Kim Shashy of Stanford.

Francis Marion claimed its first championships title after Hirst and Whitwell upset the Nos. 1 and 3 seeds en route to the doubles championship. The duo, which was unseeded, rallied from a one set deficit to defeat No. 3-seeded Rebecca Huereque and Tracy Nguyen of Cal Poly Pomona, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, in the final. Hirst and Whitwell advanced to the final after a quarterfinal upset of No. 1-seeded Allison Bruhn and Sue Hsu of Cat State Bakersfield.

Kenyon finally makes it to winner's circle in III women's final

Kenyon's women's tennis team advanced to the final of the Division III Women's Tennis Championships, only to be turned away in its bid for the title.

This year, the Ladies made it four team final appearances in six years. But this time, Kenyon was not turned away.

Winning five of six singles en counters, Kenyon, the No. 1 seed, cruised past Gustavus Adolphus, 7-2, in the final to win its first title May 14 at Carleton.

The title was the third NCAA title for Kenyon in 1992-93. The school's men's and women's swimming teams also won championships.

Middlebury's Helen Motter, a freshman, became only the third individual to win the singles and doubles titles in the same year. Motter, only the second Middlebury women's player to compete in the singles championships, defeated Kenyon's Katja Zerck in the final and teamed with Nancy Olson to defeat Stephanie Desmond and Pascale Muhleman of Trinity (Texas) in the doubles final.

Kenyon, runner-up in 1988, 1989 and 1992, jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead as Lisa Weisman, Britt Harbin and Tegan Tindall each recorded two-set triumphs at Nos. 3, 4 and 6 singles, respectively. Weisman and Harbin registered shutout triumphs; Weisman defeated Molly McCormick, 6-0, 6-0, and Harbin posted an identical score against Tracy Erickson. Tindall recorded a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Linnea Carlson.

Kenyon, which won its final 22 matches to finish the season at 25-1, dropped only six of 27 individual

Three times in the last five years, matches in three championships encounters. The Ladies opened championships competition with an 8-1 victory over Sewanee in quarterfinal competition and followed with a 6-3 triumph over Trinity (Texas), 6-3, in semifinal play.

Motter, the championships No. 3 singles seed, became the second freshman to win the singles title when she defeated Zerck, 6-4, 6-1. Courtney Allen of Principia won the singles crown as a freshman in 1984. Motter earned a berth in the final by ousting Penny Foss of Williams, the No. 1 seed, in semifinal play.

Motter and Olson made it two straight individual titles for Middlebury with a 6-4, 7.5 triumph over Desmond and Muhleman. The first Middlebury doubles team to compete at the championships, Motter and Olson advanced to the doubles final with a 6-2, 6-1 semifinal victory over the No. 4 doubles team of Yuki Yokobori and Heather Sanchez of Smith.

Kenyon's Katja Zerck finished second in the singles championship.

Rally, rain highlight Virginia's lacrosse victory

Virginia survived an early deficit and two rain delays before winning the National Collegiate Women's Lacrosse Championship, 8-6, in overtime over Princeton May 16 at Maryland.

Princeton had built a 3-1 lead with 17:03 left in the first half when a thunderstorm forced a delay of one hour and 50 minutes. When play resumed, the Tigers made it 4.1 with Amory Rowe's second goal at 13:11. Virginia ral lied and narrowed the gap to 4-3 on Heather Goehringer's goal with six seconds left in the first half.

With 22:44 left in regulation and the score still 4-3, heavy weather struck again, forcing a delay of 18 minutes.

Princeton took a 5-3 lead with 20:49 remaining before Goehringer brought the Cavaliers within one goal at 17:23. Virginia's Anna Yates, assisted by Kelly Daddona, accounted for the game-tying goal with 16:07 remaining in regulation.

The Tigers' Lisa Rebane opened scoring with one minute left in the first of the overtimes. Daddona, assisted by Greer, tied the score for the last time with 39 seconds left in the first overtime. Virginia's Kelly Cowan, assisted by Yates, scored the game-winner with 2:13 left in the second overtime, and Greer added some icing a minute later with an unassisted goal.

"This was a great one," said Virginia coach Jane Miller. "Princeton did a great job when they came out firing. My kids are very disciplined, and they made it all the way back."

Virginia, which finished at 15-1, also had to go to overtime to win in the semifinals, 11-10, over 1992 runner-up Harvard. Princeton, which finished at 15-3, beat Mary land, 7.6, to reach the cliampion ship game.

The championship was Virginia's second in three years. It also marked the second consecutive year that the eventual champion had to go to overtime to win both its semifinal game and the championship.

The all-tournament team included Virginia's Kim Prendergast, Cherie Greer, Anna Yates and Crista Mathes; Princeton's Erin O'Neill, Jenny Bristow and Amory Rowe; Maryland's Betsy Elder and Harvard's Liz Berkery.

The Pioneers outshot Adelphi, 58-46, but fim Murray came up with 27 saves, including nine each in the third and fourth quarters, after Adelphi had built a 64 ad

"One of the keys was Jim Murray, but one of the things we did, which we had not done in any previous game, was to come into a zone Sheehan said. "There was no way Post could have prepared for that. The way Jimmy played made that zone even more effective."

held a 51-36 edge in ground balls. Neither team converted any extraman opportunities.

It was the second consecutive Division II championship for the Panthers, with the twist being that the last one came in 1981. This is the first year since then that a Division II championship has been played.

"I feel elated about the win," Sheehan said. "In my 16 years at Adelphi, this is the first group that really had not had any postseason honor.

"They set a goal this year to do it, and to be able to accomplish this is really a great feat."

Wanted: ideas from successful life-skills models

Foundation to compile manual

Athletics directors at member institutions who have existing lifeskills programs for student-athletes are being asked to forward successful ideas to Betty B. Norrie at the NCAA national office.

The NCAA has announced plans for a life-skills program that would be made available to the athletics departments at all member institutions. The program will cover practical methods for preparing student athletes for their years beyond college athletics. The program was featured in the March 17 issue of The NCAA News.

The Division I-A Athletic Directors Association has adopted the promotion of a life-skills program as its focus for this year. The program is called CHAMPS (Challenging Athletes' Minds for Personal Success) and is sponsored with the support of the NCAA Foundation.

"We plan to compile a detailed manual/packet describing how to create the various program components," said Norrie, program administrator for the NCAA Foundation. "Each component will be written so that it can be personalized to meet each institution's specific needs."

Norrie said she is especially interested in topics that appear in the outline that accompanies this story. Those submitting ideas that are used will be credited unless they request that the source remain anonymous.

Norrie said the program manual is to be developed by May 1994. In the fall of 1994, a pilot program at selected institutions is scheduled to begin.

Twenty more summer basketball camps six for men and 14 for women - have been certified in accordance with legislation regulating Division I men's and women's basketball coaches' attendance at camps.

In accordance with new NCAA Bylaws 13.13.5 and 30.15, basketball coaches at Division I institu tions may attend only institutional summer basketball camps and noninstitutional camps that are certified by the NCAA.

The restriction is for events that occur during the Division I summer evaluation periods (July 5-31 for men and July 8-31 for women).

Further information about certification can be obtained from Christopher D. Schoemann, legislative assistant, at the NCAA national office.

To date, 59 summer basketball camps have been certified. Other certified camps were listed in the April 21 and May 5 and 12 issues of The NCAA News.

Duke wins CFA honor

Duke University recently won the College Football Association Academic Achievement Award for having graduated 100 percent of its football players.

It marked the fifth time Duke has claimed the honor since the award's inception in 1981.

According to CFA survey results, the overall graduation rate for its member schools was at an all time high of 58.9 percent. Last year's rate was the previous best at 57.1 percent; two years ago, the CFA survey revealed a 51.1 percent rate.

Duke previously won the award in 1981, 1984, 1987 and 1990.

H. Keith H. Brodie, president of Duke, said he and the institution are pleased with the football team's accomplishment.

"We are very proud of our football players and our football program here at Duke for upholding the university's tradition of edu cating true student-athletes," Brodie said. "Our colleagues in the CFA well know how strong the commitment throughout an academic institution must be to achieve a graduation rate of 100 percent for its football squad."

Duke, which will receive its award in December at the St. Jude Liberty Bowl huncheon in Memphis, Tennessee, also claimed another honor. Chris Kennedy, vicepresident and academic adviser tot athletics there, received his third Athletic Academic Adviser Award from the CVA Congratulations to four competitors for letting other people win.

Award from the CFA.

In addition, 19 other CFA members received honorable-mention status for registering graduation reports of 70 percent or higher. They are Boston College; University of Cincinnati; Georgia Institute of Technology; University of Hawaii; University of Kentucky; University of Miami (Florida); Uni versity of Mississippi; Mississippi State University; University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; University of Notre Dame; Pennsylvania State University; Rice University; Rutgers University, New Brunswick; Syracuse University; University of Tennessee, Knoxville: Tulane University; University of Tulsa; University of Virginia and Wake Forest University.

During their impressive college careers Raymond Berry, David Casper, James Grabowski, and Kermit Washington were known as intense competitors. Both on the field and in the classroom.

But today we congratulate these former Academic All-America' team members for helping others succeed. Their work with organizations like The Fellowship of Christian Athletes, The Romald McDonald House', The Better Boys Foundation, and The 6th Man Foundation has earned them the honor of being inducted into the GTF. Academic All-America Hall of Fame. And although they are no longer competing, they're winners in our book.

graduating was 62 percent (a nine percent increase and seven points higher than the overall white mate population at Division 1 institutions).

Twenty five percent of black male basketball players at Division I-A institutions graduated, a two percent increase.

■ Black football players in Division 1 A also graduated at a higher rate, going from 33 to 35 percent. The overall rate for black male students at Division I-A institutions was 33 percent. The graduation rate for white male football players in Division I rose from 56 to 58 percent, three points higher than the overall white male population in Division I.

This survey did not include the "refined rate," which was compiled for the 1984 class. That study permitted an institution to count transfer student-athletes among its pool of possible graduates and not to count those student athletes rates was compiled, although similar information will not appear in future reports.

A three-year average for refined fu

Average refined rates

- Refined rates include entering transfer student athletes and exclude student athletes who leave an institution in good academic stand ing.
- Institutions do not calculate refined graduation rates for the student body in general.

Amendment would require issue of final regulations first

U.S. Department of Education officials are opposing an amendment to the Federal Student Rightto-Know Act that would delay the initial date — now July 1, 1993 for institutions to report graduation-rate data.

The amendment, supported by the NCAA and the American Council on Education (ACE), would require the department to issue final regulations before initial reporting under the act could be required. Although proposed regulations were published in July 1992, the department recently advised the NCAA of its intention to issue a second set of proposed regulations, thereby foreclosing the possibility of final regulations before

July 1, 1993.

According to Congressional sources, the department believes that institutions adequately understand the requirements of the act based on last year's proposed regulations and two "Dear Colleague" letters circulated to institutions during 1991. Both the NCAA and ACE have advised Congressional education leaders of their belief that widespread confusion still exists as to reporting requirements.

The NCAA also has objected to the July 1, 1993, reporting date because it effectively prevents the NCAA from seeking a waiver for its members from the requirements of the act based on NCAA reporting of graduation-rate data.

The NCAA last summer publicly reported institutional graduationrate data consistent with the terms of the act and will do so again in August of this year. The NCAA membership overwhelmingly expressed its support for the submission of such a waiver request during the 1993 NCAA Convention. The Federal act expressly allows for waivers, but a request for a waiver cannot be considered until final regulations are issued. NCAA member institutions wishing to express their views on the department's current position may contact Richard W. Riley, Secretary, U.S. Department of Education, 400 Maryland Avenue, S.W., Washington D.C. 20202.

NCAA Gender-Equity Task Force report

1. Proposed Definition of Gender Equity

The Association asserts the value of equitable participation, and treatment of men and women in intercollegiate athletics, through its structure, programs, legislation and policies. It is the responsibility of the Association to act affirmatively to assure equity in the quantity and quality of women's athletics participation.

At an institutional level, gender equity in intercollegiate athletics describes an environment in which fair and equitable distribution of overall athletics opportunities, benefits and resources is available to women and men and in which student-athletes, coaches and athletics administrators are not subject to gender-based discrimination.

An athletics program is gender equitable when either the men's or women's sports program would be pleased to accept as its own the overall program of the other gender.

2. Principles of Gender Equity

a. It is the responsibility of the Association's members to comply with Federal and state laws regarding gender equity.

b. No legislation shall be adopted by the Association that would prevent member institutions from complying with applicable gender equity laws.

c. The Association should adopt legislation to enhance member institutions' compliance with applicable genderequity laws.

d. The activities of the Association shall be conducted in a manner free of gender bias.

3. Proposed Legislation

a. Emerging Sports for Women.

(1) Recommended any two emerging sports be acceptable toward meeting the minimum sports sponsorship requirements; further, established minimum contests and participants and maximum financial aid limitations in the following emerging sports: team sports — crew, ice hockey, team handball, water polo; individual sports—archery, badminton, bowling, and squash. Also, minimum number of contests and participants and maximum financial aid limits were established for each emerging sport (number available on request).

(2) Recommended that all of the above-mentioned identified emerging sports be countable for purposes of revenue distribution (i.e., for sports sponsorship and grants-in-aid).

b. Financial Aid.

(1) Recommended an increase in the maximum financial aid limitations for Divisions I and II women's sports. The subcommittee recommended no changes in the existing financial aid limitations for Divisions I and II men's sports.

(2) Recommended that the NCAA Council request the NCAA Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism and the NCAA Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Intercollegiate Athletics to develop a new financial aid model to decrease the amount of available athletics aid to student-athletes that is not based on need. Legislation should be proposed no later than the 1995 NCAA Convention with a grandparent clause to exempt student-athletes who are already enrolled in collegiate institutions and receiving athletics aid from the application of such legislation.

4. Recommendations to Other NCAA Committees

a. To the Council:

The NCAA Gender Equity Task Force recommended: (1) Consideration of methods to enhance hiring opportunities at all levels for women and minorities in intercollegiate athletics.

(2) The establishment of a relationship between the Association and the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFSHSA) to jointly address issues related to gender equity, including the quality of coaching instruction available to female student-athletes at the high school level.

A letter from the cochairs

For background purposes, it is probably useful to recount the history of the NCAA Gender-Equity Task Force.

In the fall of 1991, the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletic Administrators asked the NCAA to conduct a study of the sports offered to men and women in the Association's member institutions. The results of that study, published in March 1992, indicated that disparities, sometimes gross disparities, existed between the men's and women's programs.

To address these problems, the NCAA appointed a task force representing a broad spectrum of experience and interest in both men's and women's intercollegiate sports programs. We were given a formidable charge: to develop a definition of gender equity; to assure that no NCAA policy, practice orlegislation could deter a member institution from compliance with Federal or state law relevant to gender equity; to examine the policies of the Association for gender bias; to attempt to correct any such policy, and to assist the member institutions in achieving gender equity.

In reviewing our draft recommendations, please keep in mind that we very much value your input. After the recommendations are finalized, we hope the appropriate NCAA committees will propose legislation for approval by the membership. The recommendations are not the work of any single member of the task force nor does any single member of the task force agree with every recommendation. Every member of the task force does agree, however, that it is time for the membership to join in this collaborative process.

In the draft, you will first find a proposed definition of gender equity followed by a set of principles of gender equity to guide the Association. The definitions and principles are followed by specific recommendations, some taking the form of recommended legislation, others in the form of recommendations to NCAA committees. Finally, you will find recommendations to assist member institutions in achieving gender equity. As you review these materials, we want you to know what our guiding principle was in our deliberations. We wanted to help foster an attitude of mutual respect and cooperation where all sustentathletes, and all who dedicate their working lives to sport, are treated fairly and are provided opportunities on an equitable basis. We look forward to your help in this endeavor. Phyllis L. Howlen championship should be discontinued the next academic year and a minimum of 50 should be required to reestablish a championship. In sports for which a combined men's and women's championship is conducted, for a five year period, if a men's sport meets the minimum number of sponsoring institutions necessary to continue a championship, a women's championship also would continue in that sport. If after five years, the women's sport does not meet the minimum number of sponsoring institutions necessary to continue a championship, the championship in the women's sport shall be discontinued.

c. To the Ad Hoc Committee to Administer the Conference Grant Program:

pregnant female to participate in intercollegiate athletics only to the same extent that is required of other studentathletes with conditions requiring medical attention.

f. To the Olympic Sports Liaison Committee:

The task force recommended:

The development of greater collaborative efforts with, and examining the possibility of obtaining grants (and other assistance) from, the U.S. Olympic Committee to support NCAA women's championships in Olympic sports.

g. To the Committee on Women's Athletics:

The task force requested that the committee explore the addition of one graduate assistant or volunteer coach, who must be a female, to the numbers of allowable coaches in men's and women's sports, not including football and basketball.

h. To the Special Committee to Review Student-Athlete Welfare, Access and Equity:

The task force recommended consideration of legislation allowing coaches to be involved in the coaching of student-athletes outside the playing season to increase the opportunity for female student athletes to develop sport-specific skills. Such involvement would be limited to two sessions per week with a limit of three student athletes at any session. Sessions may be conducted no longer than two hours, must be included in the eight-hour limitation and may not exceed a period of five weeks.

The Gender-Equity Task Force plans to publish further recommendations and guidelines to assist member institutions in achieving gender equity. Among these are the following:

a. With respect to participation:

(1) Institutions should support intercollegiate athletics participation opportunities for males and females in an equitable manner. The comparison of the numbers of male and female athletes with their proportions in the undergraduate student population is the benchmark in assessing equal opportunity and should be the goal toward which each institution is moving. Male and female participants in all sports should be counted in any such analysis.

(2) Proportionally offered opportunities may not yield identically proportionate participation. For example, there may be a difference between men and women in the yield and persistence of participants whether they be recruited scholarship athletes or non-recruited walk-on athletes. However, with regard to either of these groups of student-athletes, institutions should provide equitable encouragement, benefits and opportunities.

(3) Proportionality does not require fixed quotas. Changes over time in interests and abilities and in overall enrollment patterns may yield different patterns of appropriate sports for both women and men. An institution that is making the appropriate efforts need not be required to make year to year changes in the varsity status or support of specific teams simply to achieve numerical precision. The participatory interests and abilities of males and females in intercollegiate sport will be different on any individual campus, and each sex should be accommodated in light of these differences. Sports offered for one sex do not have to be identical to sports offered for the other.

(4) Currently, more than 3.4 million male and 1.9 million female student-athletes participate at the high-school level,' as against 186,045 male and 96,467 female student-athletes in NCAA sports.<sup>2</sup> There are, however, geographic differences in the patterns of high-school and open amateur sports for both females and males that may affect a particular institution's ability to recruit athletes. These differences do not relieve an institution from its obligation to provide equitable recruiting and scholarship resources and efforts for women's and men's teams, whether in-state or out-of-state, or from making the same effort and commitment to attract and retain participants once they are on campus.

b. To the Executive Committee:

The task force recommended:

(1) A minimum of 50 institutions sponsoring a sport for two consecutive years is an appropriate number for establishment of a new division or National Collegiate Championship for men or women, except for emerging women's sports, for a five year period; a minimum of 40 institutions sponsoring a sport for two consecutive years should be required to establish a new championship. [Note: The exception relates to new, emerging sports for which the Association does not presently sponsor championships and not to existing championships where sponsorship has fallen below minimum requirements.] (2) If the number of sponsoring institutions falls below an average of 40 for the most current three-year period, a

The task force recommended:

(1) Continued focus on the affirmative action component of the conference grant program, including officiating.

(2) That affirmative action funds may be used to inaugurate additional conference championships for women and for the establishment of conference gender-equity commit#### tees.

d. To the Committee on Athletics Certification: The task force recommended:

Modifications and additions to the self-study questions.

c. To the Committee on Competitive Standards and Medical Aspect of Sports:

The task force recommended:

That the Council direct the NGAA Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports to modify the guidelines related to pregnant student-athletes to make such guidelines consistent with legal requirements set forth in Title IX. It was noted that under Title IX, an institution may require medical certification from a National Federation of State High School Associations, 1992.
 NGAA Participation Study, 1993.

(5) When major gender differences in recruitment pools create real obstacles to the equitable recruitment and/or participation of women athletes, this may be addressed in various ways: e.g., (a) through offering additional participation opportunities in different sports for women athletes, and (b) through offering activities to encourage and support the accelerated development of women athletes. (6) In addition, institutions and/or conferences may consider conducting camps, clinics and workshops for elementary and middle school participants, perhaps in conjunction with conference championships, as is now being done by the Youth Education through Sports (YES) program, the recently introduced Discover Women's Sports program sponsored by the Sara Lee Corporation and other similar programs.

(7) Enhancing participation opportunities for men and women will require cooperative efforts at the institutional, conference and national governance levels to: (a) increase current and generate new revenues, (b) reduce costs, (c) redistribute resources, and/or (d) expand women's sport and championship participation opportunities. An example of this last point is the recent expansion of the NCAA championships program to encourage and accommodate more women's opportunities.

Conferences can play an important role in facilitating added opportunities for women. Decisions to add sports on a conference basis can reduce the cost of supporting new teams by providing good competition and championship opportunities.

(8) In support of participation opportunities, institutions should afford equitable treatment for male and female student-athletes in related areas, including, but not limited to:

- The provision of equipment and supplies;
- The scheduling of games and practice times;
- Travel and per diem allowances;

The opportunity to receive coaching and academic support services;

The assignment and compensation of coaches and tutors:

The provision of locker rooms, practice and competition facilities;

The provision of medical and training facilities and services;

The provision of housing and dining facilities and services;

- Publicity, promotions and marketing;
- Recruiting;

(9) In an effort to best serve the needs and interests of participating student-athletes, institutions should recruit and employ quality coaches and athletics personnel on a gender-equitable basis. The enthusiasm, time and commitment for personnel recruitment in the men's programs should also be reflected in the women's programs. Aggressive efforts are needed to successfully recruit more female coaches, administrators and staff members for employment in intercollegiate athletics.

Institutions should also continue to encourage and develop increased educational experiences for women in

General information

NCAA visitotion program: In an effort to enhance communication between the NCAA national office and member conferences and institutions, the compliance services and legislative services staffs have established an NCAA visitation program.

The program provides conference and institutional staff members with an opportunity to resolve issues of concern with the staffs of the membership services group (and other appropriate staff members) and to become more aware of the various services that the national office offers.

Although the average length of the visits to the national office has been one and a half days, conference and institutional staff members may adjust the lengths of their visits to meet specific needs.

intercollegiate athletics through internships, graduate assistantships and other mentored learning opportunities to help increase the pool of women candidates for coaching, administration and employment in intercollegiate athletics.

(10) Institutions should conduct gender-equity self studies and, if inequities exist in participation opportunities or in the quality of the experience for student-athletes, formulate strategies to address these inequities in a timely manner.

b. With respect to NCAA championships, the task force endorsed the Executive Committee action related to proposed changes in the conduct and format of NCAA championships and recommended the following:

(1) The number of participation opportunities for male and female student-athletes in NCAA championships should be equitable.

(2) In team sports, the size of each championship field should be based on the number of institutions sponsoring the particular sport.

(3) In comparable individual sports, the size of each championship field should be equal for both the men's and women's championships.

(4) All individual sports, irrespective of gender, should be treated comparably and all team sports, irrespective of gender, should be treated comparably except for Division I basketball, which would be treated differently from other Division I team sports, but that treatment would be gender neutral.

(5) The Executive Committee, in determining seeding for championships, should consider the effects upon opportunities for women as well as the developmental level of the sport.

(6) Current guidelines related to the hosting of NCAA championships should be reviewed to ensure that no policies exist that might hinder the growth of women's championships.

(7) Given the historic underfunding of women's teams, the NCAA should pay expenses for all tournament teams, including all play-in teams.

(8) The number and types of awards provided to male and female student-athletes participating in all championships shall be consistent in the type and number of awards for all championships.

c. With respect to financial aid:

(1) The task force established criteria for modifying the current limitations on Division I grants in aid. It was noted that, overall, any modification should facilitate gender equity. Further, the financial limitations should:

Be based on reasonable numbers of athletes needed to both practice and compete in the given sport;

Be sensitive to the injury rates reported in the given sport;

Consider common strategies and practices currently employed in the given sport (platoon systems, pitcher rotations, substitution rules);

Consider the maximum financial aid limitations currently allowed in the given sport. [Note: The subcommittee acknowledged that current maximums appear to be inconsistent among sports and that there is difficulty in ascertaining the rationale for the present numbers.];

Discourage stockpiling of athletes;

Be responsive to and reflective of the number of sponsoring institutions;

Consider racial equity;

Be attentive to the number of athletes wishing to participate in the given sport, and Allow all athletes, regardless of sport, to qualify for the same maximum amount of aid.

(2) The task force approved the following information to be used in the development of a new financial aid model. In the development of such a financial aid model, the following factors are critical:

The protection of needy student-athletes;

The development of a model applicable to all sports and all student athletes;

The need for consistency and integrity in analyzing each student athlete's need;

The need for sensitivity to differences in cost of attendance among member institutions, and

The potential for direction of any savings toward achieving gender equity.

d. With respect to the representation of women:

The task force affirmed that at the institutional, conference and NCAA level, women should be involved in incaningful ways in the decision-making process pertaining to intercollegiate athletics and took the following actions:

 Recommended that women, eligible for committees, should be identified and appointed. Appointing bodies (i.e., NCAA Council, Administrative Committee) should increase the ratio of female representation on NCAA committees. The goal of the Association should be to achieve significant and steady progress in female participation on an annual basis. Such progress should be monitored by the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics and reported to the membership. The above-mentioned recommendation should be included in Association publications (e.g., Council Handbook), where appropriate.

(2) Noted that female role models in leadership positions are important. Every institution should have a senior woman administrator and assure the inclusion of women in administrative positions. Toward that end, the NCAA shall annually publish, by name of each member institution, the total number of administrative positions and the number of females in administrative positions by position.

(3) Encouraged increased appointments of female faculty athletics representatives and increases in the numbers of females on athletics councils/boards.

Coordinators (NAACC) will conduct a meeting the Wednesday of each seminar from 10 a.m. to noon. Also, a representative from American College Testing will be present to provide a demonstration of the NCAA Intitial-Eligibility Clearinghouse. Those interested in more information regarding the 1993 seminars may contact Chrystal L Gates at the national office.

Upcoming meetings

Attention financial aid administrators: Representatives from the NCAA compliance services and legislative services staffs will host a financial aid workshop before the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administras (NASFAA) national conference in the April NASFAA mailing or by calling Rhonda L. Linsley, registration coordinator, at the NCAA national office. Participants are encouraged to bring their 1993-94 NCAA Guide to Financial Aid to the workshop.

Compliance strategies

Rules education: A solid rules-education program helps alleviate inadvertent violations while reemphasizing the institution's commitment to institutional control. To assist coaches in their efforts to prepare for the coaches certification exam, institutional administrators may wish to consider using novel rules-education activities. Some examples of the games and activities contained in the materials include:

Conference-office staff members interested in partici pating may contact Shane Lyons of the legislative services staff. Institutional staff members interested in participating may contact Garnett H. Purnell of the compliance services staff.

1993 NCAA Regional Seminars: The second of the four regional seminars is being conducted May 19 21 in Newport Beach, California. The remaining two seminars will be June 2.4 in Boston and June 16-18 in Orlando, Florida. Registration will be open from 5 to 7 p.m. the Tuesday preceding each seminar,

The format is "menu-driven" so that each seminar participant can develop a program that meets specific needs. A session for newcomers entitled "NCAA Structure and Services" will be conducted from 9 a.m. to noon in the Wednesday session of each seminar.

The National Association of Athletics Compliance

The workshop will be conducted Tuesday, July 6, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the San Diego Marriott Hotel and Marina.

All personnel involved in student aid administration are encouraged to attend. The agenda will concentrate on financial aid issues pertinent to Divisions 1 and II institutions. Topics for discussion will include a review of individual and institutional financial aid limits, an NCAA squad list overview and the role of the financial aid office in terms of athletics issues.

The new version of the NCAA Compliance Assistant software program (Version 3.00) also will be demonstrated.

Individuals from Division III institutions are welcome to attend the entire workshop; however, a specific opportunity to discuss Division III issues with NCAA staff members and other Division III representatives will be provided during the 3 to 4 p.m. round table discussions. Participants are asked to register for the workshop on or before June 11 by submitting the registration form included Mount Compliance (to reach the top of Mount) Compliance, participants must provide correct answers to legislative questions);

■ The Cite is Right (participants must identify legislative topics with correct bylaw cites), or

The Pyramid Game (participants must identify NCAA) terms associated with a given subject by listening to clues provided by partners).

The complete rules-education program is included in the compliance services resource file and may be requested through the 1993-94 NCAA resource file checklist.

This material was provided by the NCAA compliance services staff as an aid to member institutions and conference offices. Institutions or conference offices with questions or issues concering the content addressed in this column may contact John H. Leavens, assistant executive director for compliance services, at the NCAA national office.

There are no restrictions governing institutional note cards, inasmuch as the restrictions on in stitutional stationery were eliminated with the adoption of 1993 Convention Proposal No. 123. Thus, an institution may send a prospect an institutional note card that includes pictures of the institution's athlet ics department personnel or enrolled student-athletes. ### It's time for a one-game championship in football year from their $250,000 stipend toward an endowment fund to benefit those who helped create these national-championship-game revenues: the football players themselves. If both academics and athletics gave $50,000 a year to support the education of players whose five-year athletics scholarships have run out-or of those who want to pursue postgraduate: work-in 10 years, an institution would have a $1 million endowment in place.

College athletics has been criticized for not continuing to provide academic aid to players who need additional time in which to obtain their degrees. It's time for us to do something about that problem.

Increase support for women's and nonrevenue sports. Women represent one-third of all college athletes, but they receive less than 25 percent of overall athletics funds and less than 20 percent of athletics recruiting money. To begin to remedy this problem, we recommend that athletics departments use a significant part of nationalchampionship revenues to increase commitment to women's athletics and to nonrevenue sports in general.

There are always arguments against the concept of a nationalchampionship game, so let's examine some of them in light of our proposal:

A national-championship game would add another game to the schedule, thus extending the season forcing players to miss too many classes. First, a one-game national cham pionship is just that: one game, not an eight-team, three round tournament as was recently proposed to the NCAA. And, in terms of conflicting with school, it's not nearly as challenging to studentathletes as the three-week-long NCAA basketball tournament that seems to have everybody's blessing. It's worth noting that in making it to the Final Four, most college basketball teams have to make up work from approximately 20 days of missed classes. The NCAA already has two presea son exhibition games and countless postseason bowl games. Isn't that enough?

Our proposal includes the stipulation that the NCAA cancel the two preseason games, the Kickoff Classic and the Pigskin Classic, which are played solely for the purpose of funding the Football Hall of Fame and the Coaches Retirement Trust. That will not be a problem because the NCAA says promoters are having trouble finding teams that want to play in those games, and money from the national championship would be sufficient to maintain the same level of funding for both of those worthy causes.

In addition to canceling the two preseason games, we would propose eliminating the Southeastern Conference championship game, as well as any others like it. Why would we be willing to eliminate a game that will pay an estimated $450,000 to every school in our conference? Because we think it's a mistake for the SEC-and other conferences that will probably emulate us-to focus their attention on a conference championship when a one-game national championship has the potential to pay equivalent financial dividends not just to the conference schools involved but to all 107 Division I-A schools

By cancelling the two preseason games and doing away with conference championships, our proposal actually will reduce the current number of allowable games and, most importantly, eliminate the potential for future expansion of the season.

championship games were allowed to proliferate. Imagine, for example, how this year's Sugar Bowl would have been affected if an 8-3 University of Florida team had knocked off unbeaten Alabama in the SEC championship game.

If a national-championship game was created, it probably would mean that the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the country would not be paired in a bowl. But as we just pointed out, that seldom happens anyway. Of more importance, in our minds, is that as New Year's Day dawns, as many as four teams-or conceivably morecould still be in the hunt for an appearance in the national-cham pionship game.

We agree with what a columnist wrote recently: "The interest in college football has dropped immensely because it doesn't have a national championship. Every other sport does, and football doesn't"

We're certain that most college football fans would love to have seen two of the most dominant teams of the 1990s, Miami (Florida) and Washington, meet in a national-championship game after both schools emerged from the 1992 howls with 12-0 records. Or an Alabama-Florida State Univer sity matchup after the '93 bowls.

Unfortunately, for both college football fans and university academic departments, a national-championship game still is just in the talking stages. The earliest it could be ratified is at the 1994 NCAA Convention, meaning the first national-championship game could not be played before January 1995.

Community service Players speak on dangers of drugs

About 40 State University College at Brockport student-athletes participated in a program called "College Athletes for a Winning Attitude," which was initiated in 1990 by the office of New York Gov. Mario Cuomo in conjunction with the Brockport Against Chemical Abuse (BACA) program.

In March, the students spoke to fourth-graders about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse in addition to discussions on the importance of teamwork and sportsmanship.

'Adopt-An-Athlete' reaches out at UCLA

At the University of California, Los Angeles, this spring, members of the women's basketball team were up for adoption. The players participated in the university's Adopt-An-Athlete program that involves them speaking to female junior high-school students on education, athletics and other issues.

"We started the program in February, but it started developing back in September, when I kind of came up with it as I joked around with other people here (at Morgan Center)," April Spitzer, a marketing assistant at UCLA told the Daily Bruin newspaper.

Since its inception, more than 250 youngsters in the Los Angeles area have been visited by the UCLA student-athletes. The program soon will involve UCLA's track and field team.

Flyers visit children's hospital

Twelve members of the University of Dayton baseball team, along with an assistant coach and members of the sports information staff, recently visited the Children's Medical Center in Dayton, Ohio, to give the patients a copy of the team's 1993 media guide and an honorary contract.

"I think that this is a humbling experience," said player Brian Harlamert. "It makes you realize that all the problems that you have are trivial compared to all the problems these kids have."

Dayton athletics teams make at least one visit each to the facility.

The bowls adequately decide who's No. 1.

Contrary to what most people believe, No. 1 seldom meets No. 2 in the bowls; before this year's USF&G Sugar Bowl matchup between Miami (Florida) and the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, it had happened only eight times since 1943-three times in the 1960s, twice in the '70s and three times in the '80s.

A national championship game will diminish the drama inherent in the bowls and ultimately kill them. Television ratings for the bowls have dropped over the years, overall bowl attendance is down, and we shudder to think what would happen to them if conference

When this proposal is approved-and we firmly believe it will be before the year 2000--college football will receive a much-needed shot in the arm, and thousands of nonathletes who need financial aid to get through college will be better off because of it.

Golf an adventure for Northern Michigan team

Dean Ellis and his five players have had a lot of laughs since getting men's golf reinstated as a varsity sport at Northern Michigan University.

In fact, they love to laugh. But no snow jokes, please. The Wildcats missed their first meet because of an April 15 blizzard that dumped 20 inches of snow in Marquette, Michigan, and prevented them from getting out of town. The season has been filled with misfortunes and the weather was a factor in a few of them. The winter was hard in the Upper Peninsula this year, and the players were confined to practicing indoors. They could only hit balls into nets in a turf room. They finally got outdoors about a week after the blizzard.

"I really didn't know what to expect," Ellis told The Associated Press. "But I thought we could compete. There hadn't been a chance for our good U.P. kids to play a lot of golf. Now, they're getting that chance."

Every meet is a road trip for the Wildcats, who travel by van. Ellis, the driver, said it takes at least three hours just to reach the bridge over the Straits of Mackinac. But that only gets them from one peninsula to another. It is still three more hours to the nearest college on the schedule, Saginaw Valley State University.

"My girlfriend is hardly speaking to me," said sophomore Mark Carlson. "She's not real happy that I've only been home two days a week the last two weeks. But it's been fun. I sure can't complain."

Summer basketball leagues and state games

Player limitations

NCAA Divisions I and II institutions should note that in accordance with NCAA Bylaw 30.14-(e), all Divisions I and II players must limit their summer basketball competition to one team in one NCAA sanctioned league. Each team may include on its roster no more than one player with intercollegiate basketball eligibility remaining from any two- or four-year college. Please note that if a studentathlete (two or four-year college student) is transferring and officially has been accepted for enrollment in a second institution, and the previous institution certifies that the student has withdrawn and does not intend to return to that institution for the next term, the studentathlete would be countable on the summer-league roster as a representative of the second institution. Under such circumstances, written permission to participate in the sanctioned summer league must be obtained from the member institution to which the student-athlete is transferring. (Please note that a prospective student-athlete, regardless of whether he or she has signed a National Letter of Intent, would not be counted against any institution's limit of one player per team, inasmuch as he or she is not a student-athlete per Bylaw 12.02.6.)

Further, because there are no restrictions on the participation of Division III student-athletes in outside basketball competition during the summer per Bylaw 14.8.5.2-(d), there are no limits on the number of studentathletes from any one Division III institution who may participate in an NCAA-sanctioned or nonsanctioned summer basketball league.

Finally, basketball student-athletes from Divisions I, II and III institutions may participate in state or national multisport events sanctioned by the NCAA Council; however, no more than two student-athletes from the same Division 1 or 11 institution may participate on the same team. There are no restrictions on the number of studentathletes from a Division III institution who may compete on the same team in state or national multisport basketball competition.

NCAA Bylaws 13.12.3 and 14.8.6.1 Exceptions and waivers for state games

As set forth in Bylaw 14.8.6.1-(d), a student-athlete who wishes to participate in officially recognized state and national multisport events must be sure, before such participation, that the event in question is sanctioned by the Council. The Council's approval is necessary in order to waive the prohibition against outside competition set forth in Bylaws 14.8.1 (sports other than basketball) and 14.8.2 (basketball), and, where applicable, to permit a coach and a student-athlete from the same institution to participate on the same team. In accordance with the provisions of Bylaw 14.8.6.1-(d), the following state games have received approval from the Council to permit studentathletes with eligibility remaining to participate in all of the event's sports:

- Alabama Sports Festival State Games
- Badger State Games (Wisconsin)

- Bay State Games (Massachusetts)
- Big Sky State Games (Montana)
- Cornhusker State Games (Nebraska)
- Georgia Games
- Keystone State Games (Pennsylvania)
- Ohio Sports Festival State Games
- Prairie Rose State Games (North Dakota)
- Prairie State Games (Illinois)
- Star of the North Summer Games (Minnesota)
- State Games of Oregon
- Utah Summer Games
- White River Park State Games (Indiana)

Further, student-athletes with collegiate eligibility remaining who wish to participate in state-games competition not listed above should contact the institution with which they are affiliated or the applicable state-games organization to request that the organization submit the necessary waiver request to the NCAA legislative services staff. Please note that state games competition must be sanctioned by the Council annually

Finally, the use of a member institution's facilities for state games and the participation of an institution's athletics department staff member(s) or representatives of its athletics interests would be permissible in accordance with the provisions of Bylaws 13.12.3.3 and 13.12.3.4.2.

Court rejects argument on illegal restraint of trade

The U.S. Supreme Court May 17 refused to revive a former University of Notre Dame football player's challenge to an NCAA rule barring college eligibility for athletes who go through the pro draft.

The Associated Press reported that the court, without comment, rejected Braxston Lee Banks' ar gument that the NCAA rule amounts to an illegal restraint of trade.

Banks began attending Notre Dame in September 1986 on a full athletics scholarship. He played running back for three years and sat out his fourth year because of a knee injury. He had a fourth year of eligibility remaining.

In March 1990, Banks decided to enter the National Football League draft and retained a lawyer to represent him. When Banks wasn't drafted and then failed to make a team as a free agent, he sought to return to Notre Dame's team.

NCAA rules bar students from playing a college sport after hiring an agent and declaring eligibility for the pro draft in the same sport.

Notre Dame decided not to ask the NCAA to restore Banks' eligibility, and the NCAA refused his personal request because it said such a request must be made by the school.

Banks lost an initial court battle seeking reinstatement to play football at Notre Dame in the fall of 1990

He then filed a new antitrust lawsuit against the NCAA, seeking triple damages on the $16,000 value of the final year of his football scholarship. He also sought a other students because he had court order barring the NCAA from enforcing the no-draft and no-agent rules against any other student-athletes.

A Federal judge threw out the lawsuit, and the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the dismissal.

Banks failed to show that the NCAA rules created any anti-competitive effect prohibited by Federal antitrust law, the appeals court said. It added that Banks could not seek a court order on behalf of given up his own bid to play at Notre Dame.

In the appeal acted on May 17. Banks' lawyers argued that the 7th Circuit court's ruling, in effect, means students may never bring an antitrust challenge to NCAA eligibility rules.

In reply, the NCAA's lawyers said the appeals court had not decided that question, but simply ruled that Banks did not state a proper claim under antitrust law.

Bleachers collapse at stadium

About eight rows of bleachers collapsed May 17 in Memorial Sta dium at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln. University officials said there were no injuries

The concrete section of bleachers on the southeast end of the stadium fell and crushed metal bleachers below, according to The Associated Press. Some debris spilled onto the field in the south end zone.

The collapse affected an estimated 439 seats in the stadium, which seats about 76,000. The portion that fell contained about 189 seats in about eight rows, and the section below had about 250 seats, said Al Papik, senior associate athletics director. But Papik said he assumed the damage could be repaired before September 4, which is Nebraska's first home game of the football season.

"It doesn't appear that this is a big deal," Larson said. The bleachers collapsed about 8:45 a.m., said Orlando Maldonado, a freshman from Jersey City, New Jersey, who is an equipment manager with the football team and saw the concrete fall.
