Research group to study concept of I-A playoff

The NCAA Joint Policy Board has formed a research group to gather information regarding the feasibility of an NCAA Division I-A football championship.

The group will be chaired by Charles E. Young, chancellor at the University of California, Los Angeles. It also will include incoming NCAA Executive Director Cedric W. Dempsey; Donnie Duncan, athletics director at the University of Oklahoma and chair of the NCAA Special Events Committee, and Thomas W. Jernstedt, chief operating officer of the NCAA. Other individuals may be added to the group, which will be assisted by NCAA staff.

The Joint Policy Board, which is cochaired by Joseph N. Crowley, NCAA president and president of the University of Nevada, and Gregory M. St. L. O'Brien, chair of the NCAA Presidents Commission and chancellor of the University of New Orleans, approved establishment of the research group to gather as much relevant information as possible about a playoff.

"There are some very strongly held views about a college football playoff," Crowley said. "The research group will help us separate fact from fiction.

"I've counted no fewer than four playoff proposals being advanced by groups outside of the NCAA. The NCAA membership needs solid, objective information to analyze O'Brien said the formation of the research group should not be interpreted as an endorsement of the playoff idea. "This is simply a decision to gather information," he said. "Where that information will lead us is anybody's guess."

Crowley and O'Brien said this research group will provide a report to a larger committee, representing all segments of the Division I-A membership, to be formed within the next several months. That larger committee will make recommendations to the NCAA Presidents Commission, Executive Committee and Council next sum-

Certification

Committee approves pool of peer reviewers

The NCAA Committee on Athletics Certification approved a pool of about 600 potential peer reviewers when it met November 29 in Dallas.

The committee agreed to continue receiving nominations for peer reviewers on an ongoing basis. Nominations will be solicited specifically from historically black institutions and from Division I-AAA because of concerns that those constituencies are underrepresented. Division I athletics directors, especially those from Division I-A, also are lightly represented.

Peer reviewers are those individuals responsible for evaluating the institutional self-studies that are required by the athletics certification program.

At its November 29 meeting, the committee also discussed training for peer reviewers and for chairs of peer-review teams.

Leadership

Big Eight's Gautt selected as NCAA secretary-treasurer

Prentice Gautt, associate commissioner of the Big Eight Conference, has been selected as the new NCAA secretary-treasurer.

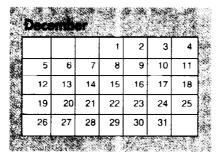

Gautt will fill out the term of Cedric W. Dempsey, who will become the Association's executive director in January. Gautt will serve as secretary-treasurer through the 1995 Convention.

The NCAA Administrative Committee, acting for the Council, selected Gautt during its December 5 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

For more information, see page 1 of this issue

Also, University of Colorado President Judith E. N. Albino has been selected as the next chair of the NCAA Presidents Commission.

Basketball participation

Survey indicates women's basketball may be on long-term growth track

A survey by the American Basketball Council reveals that basketball participation by females is on a long-term growth path.

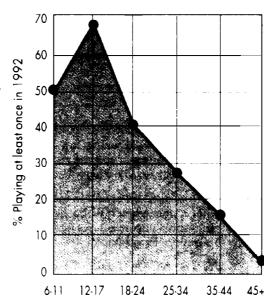

Although basketball participation rates for males have grown faster and are at higher levels in all age groups, female participation in basketball at ages 18 and younger indicates that significant future growth is almost certain.

The ABC study found that 12.2 million females played basketball at least once in 1992, an increase of about 11 percent over an 11 million figure in 1987. Almost 75 percent of the female players in 1992 — eight million — were age 17 or under.

"Clearly the growth in female participation is concentrated among younger players," said Gregg Hartley, executive director of ABC, which is an association of 88 companies that manufacture and distribute basketball equipment. "Basketball play by women drops sharply after the age of 18, as it does with many sports. In time, though, we should see more women continuing to play the game into their 20s and beyond, as men do."

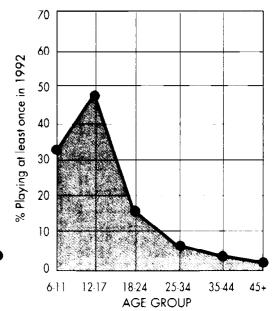

Not only is the drop for women ages 18 and older greater than for men (from 47 percent to 15 percent for women as opposed to 67 percent to 40 percent for men), the average number of days in which the game is played also drops at a much faster rate. Boys between 12 and 17 who played basketball played an average of 63 days in 1992; girls the same age played an average of 47 days. Male basketball players between 18 and 24 competed an average of 56 days — an 11 percent drop — but for women, the average number of days dropped to 23 — a 51 percent decrease.

Player and fan form a bond

Bucknell University football player John Caldwell figured he could not make much of a difference on the sidelines after a knee injury ended his season midway through the 1993 campaign. But he was wrong.

Caldwell's injury actually has made him a hero in the eyes of a 10-year-old fan who happened to attend Bucknell's homecoming game October 23 against College of the Holy Cross.

Don Swartzlander was devastated after a broken neck he suffered two years ago falling from a swing left him unable to play football again. He was not paralyzed by the accident, but it left him unable to talk about football or even watch a game without crying.

When his sister won two tickets to the Bucknell-Holy Cross game, she gave them to Swartzlander and his father.

Once there, the boy was fixated with Caldwell, who paced the sideline wearing a jersey without pads and a knee brace. Swartzlander gave Caldwell a banner that he made for the game. Caldwell, a junior defensive back, held up the work for the crowd to see.

At the team's last home game November 6 against Lehigh University, Swartzlander was summoned to the field by the publicaddress announcer. He watched the game from the Bucknell sideline, and Caldwell gave Swartzlander his jersey at the end of the game.

"John is a hero in this house," Swartzlander's mother told the sports information staff at Bucknell. "The whole thing is really something. They just bonded. This is the kind of thing you see in movies. I can't believe how much of a difference John has made in Donnie's life. You see so many people who are me, me, me, and I just wish there were more people in the world like John."

A bizarre game

As the saying goes, there is strength in numbers. And that is precisely what a December 1 women's basketball game between Rutgers University, Newark, and Rutgers University, Camden, turned into—a numbers game.

In the end, Rutgers-Newark had fewer points (68) on the scoreboard than Rutgers-Camden (70) but was declared the winner nonetheless. That is because with 4:45 remaining in the second overtime, Rutgers-Camden had only one player left after six Eastern Michigan University basketball player Ellery Morgan reads to a group of Burns Park School students as part of a unique reading program involving the school and Eastern Michigan's athletics department. The elementary students also had the chance to ask the players about the basketball season and college life in general.

members of the team had fouled out. The team was on the short end of a five-on-one mismatch, and so officials declared Rutgers-Newark the winner by forfeit.

In Rule 3, Section 1 of the basketball rules book, it states that "[w]hen there is only one player participating for a team, that team shall forfeit the game unless the referee believes that both teams have an opportunity to win the game."

Officials whistled 59 fouls during the game, 33 against Rutgers-Camden. Four Rutgers-Newark players fouled out in addition to Rutgers-Camden's six.

Even with two players going against five, Rutgers-Camden was competitive. The pair gained control of the jump ball to start the second overtime as Kamilah Byrd tapped the ball to Karla Robinson. Robinson raced down the floor and scored a field goal to put the team up, 70-68. But when Robinson was called for her fifth personal foul on Rutgers-Newark's next trip down the court, Byrd was the only player left for Rutgers-Camden. That made it difficult for her to inbound the ball, to say the least.

It's lights out

"Furn out the lights, the party's over." Well, not exactly. Although the lights went out, the "party" was just moved to another location.

With 18:48 remaining in the second half of the men's basketball game between Merrimack College and the University of New Haven November 20, a blown transformer cut off power to the Volpe Athletic Center at Merrimack and a three-community area surrounding the campus.

After nearly two hours of deliberations on how to proceed, both teams agreed to finish the game about 25 minutes away, at Costello Gymnasium on the campus of the University of Massachusetts at Lowell.

Once play resumed, Merrimack pulled away for a 74-68 victory. The game ended four hours and 33 minutes after it began.

Baseball endowment

Robert H. B. Baldwin has pledged a gift of $1 million to endow a baseball coaching position at Princeton University. It marks the third position Baldwin has helped endow at the university, including posts in basketball and football.

Baldwin, a 1942 graduate of the institution, competed in all three sports and was a member of Princeton's 1941 and 1942 Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League championship teams.

"I believe deeply that the opportunity to compete in sports at all levels while in college is a most valuable part of an undergraduate's life," Baldwin said.

If the current minimum percentage sponsorship requirements to maintain NCAA championships are not altered at the 1994 NCAA Convention, eight championships will be in jeopardy of being discontinued: National Collegiate Championships in men's gymnastics, men's volleyball, men's and women's rifle, and men's water polo, plus Division II championships in men's swimming, wrestling and men's ice hockey.

■ Committee notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations for vacancies on NCAA committees. Nominations to fill the following vacancy must be submitted in writing to Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA national office no later than December 29, 1993 (fax number 913/339-0035).

Football Rules Committee: Replacement for Ken Hatfield, formerly at Clemson University, no longer at an NCAA institution. Appointee must be from Division I, District 3.

Ward wins Heisman Trophy

Charlie Ward of Florida State completed an impressive collection of individual football awards December 11 by winning the Heisman Trophy.

Ward, who has quarterbacked the Seminoles to an 11-1 record and a berth in the Federal Express Orange Bowl January 1, won the award by the second-biggest voting margin in history.

Runners-up in the voting were underclassmen Heath Shuler of Tennessee and David Palmer of Alabama, who finished second and third, respectively.

Ward passed for 27 touchdowns this season and completed 264 of 380 passes for 3,032 yards. He set or tied 17 passing and offense records at Florida State, where he also is a basketball star.

He also has won the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award, Walter Camp Trophy, Maxwell Award, Davey O'Brien Award and Toyota Leadership Award.

Excess-revenue checks to be mailed

Division I members soon will receive checks for their portion of a distribution of excess revenues from the 1992-93 fiscal year.

At its December 5-6 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the NCAA Executive Committee voted to make a $7 million supplemental distribution to Division I members. Half of that will be distributed under the provisions of the basketball fund of the NCAA revenue-distribution plan, while the other half will be distributed under the provisions of the plan's broad-based funds (grants-in-aid and sports sponsorship).

The checks are expected to be mailed by early January.

Also, the Executive Committee voted to place $4 million of the unallocated surplus in the Association's funded operating reserve. That action was in keeping

Bracket sizes not based only on sponsorship percentages

When the NCAA Executive Committee revised the Association's championships program earlier this year, it established that one of the key clements in determining the bracket size for a particular championship is the number of institutions sponsoring the sport.

To illustrate how sponsorship relates to bracket size, the Executive Committee used charts that linked bracket size and sponsorship percentages. While a strong correlation does exist, the presentation may have left an impression that bracket expansion is automatic when sponsorship of a particular sport reaches a certain percentage.

In anticipation of requests for future bracket expansion, the

Schools can embrace, control gender equity

By Jim Livengood WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY

It is indisputable that some fashion of gender equity will be implemented within intercollegiate athletics. Of key importance is that athletics departments have a meaningful role in that implementation process.

In 1982, Washington State University began that effort, and we revised it in 1987. The responsibility and the goal of Washington State University was to have a ratio of financial aid and participation that equaled the ratio of male students to female students in the undergraduate population. The concerns of gender-equity critics, and the hopes of gender-equity proponents, currently being expressed were present at Washington State and to a great extent have been addressed.

Without question, the implementation choice of increasing opportunities for female student-athletes in an attempt to reach a gender-equitable program, as opposed to climininating opportunities for male student-athletes, takes a tremendous commitment of fiscal resources and facility sharing. However, the goals of all student-athletes, regardless of their gender, can be addressed, and gender equity should not be looked on as a messenger of intercollegiate athletics' demise as we know it.

The essence of this movement stems from the undeniable fact that student-athletes are representative of their institution of higher education.

Financial aid represents the opportunity for the student to obtain a postsecondary education. Participation is the accompanying opportunity for a student to benefit from all of the positive aspects that intercollegiate administrators know athletics offers. Not to have these opportunities available on a gender-equitable basis flies directly in the face of an institution's role and mission.

The logical conclusion, which is supported by the Knight Foundation Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics, is for the central administration to embrace an athletics department within the overall spectrum of campuswide responsibilities, including a financial responsibility on the part of the institution. To do so certainly will require difficult decisions at the athletics-department level. However, if it is approached as an

Why a I-A playoff is a bad idea

By John F. Gaski

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

It's that time of year again! As is the custom, followers of collegiate football are barraged with an end-of-season ritual that has become excessive and annoying.

The annual spate of bowl games is not what I refer to (though there truly may be a slight oversupply of that product). Rather, it is the coincident rabid outcry in the media for a major-college football playoff.

The essential argument for such an event is straightforward but banal: the felt necessity of determining an undisputed, "true" national champion. A responsible case against a playoff can easily be made, though, and I am sure most who have given serious thought to the matter (including any proacademics segment of the audience) could come up with multiple reasons against one. Here is part of my "top 10 list" of reasons a Division I-A playoff is a terrible idea:

- It removes the possibility of having more than one winner at the end of the season.
- It undermines the bowl system, which has served college football so well.
- It still would rely on subjectivity to select two, four, eight or 16 teams for a playoff.
- It would cause an intolerable elongation of the season, conflicting with final-exam schedules at most schools. (The lower divisions' approach of starting the playoffs earlier would not work in Division I-A because of the loss of regular-scason games and the badly needed revenue they generate.)

- Who is to say a single-climination tournament identifies the "best" team any better than using the overall results of an entire season, along with any expert judgment, to develop a consensus ranking, as is presently done, more or less? Does anyone really believe Villanova University had a better basketball team than Georgetown University in 1985?
- What is wrong with having one major sport that does things differently, for the sake of variety? Why the compulsion for boring sameness across all sports?

One particular football playoff proposal deserves mention. Readers may recall that NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz was one who championed a postbowl, two-team playoff. Now, most of the preceding points apply to this variation, as well. However, there is one aspect of the proposal that merits favor: the enormous projected revenue (tens of millions?) from such a special event, which possibly could be spread around the NCAA.

Contrary to the baffling and absurd public misconception, generating resources for universities is not an act of greed or evil. (Perhaps I am sensitive on this issue because of the unjust criticism my school, the University of Notre Dame, has taken.)

Athletics revenue, at the least, subsidizes nonrevenue sports, which means less diverted from general academic funds. Those few schools with an athletics surplus are able then to directly subsidize academics — and what higher purpose can there be for intercollegiate sports? I realize I am preaching largely to the converted, but maybe the college athletics world needs to do a better job of educating the public about these realities.

Yet the revenue projection for a championship game is only a guess, at this point. Considering (a) the likely need to subtract a high payout to participating teams, surely in excess of standard major bowl paychecks in view of their prospective major sacrifice of time and effort, and (b) the number of schools among which to share proceeds, even the most optimistic forecast would produce a nice payday per school for sure but not a make-or-break deal

Moreover, existing bowl games might be cannibalized to some degree — that is, audience interest shifted away to the new playoff, resulting in lower bowl payouts and a lesser overall net yield created by the proposed new event than expected. Prudence seems to be dictating, therefore, the need to be convinced of substantial benefits before taking the radical step of tampering with a status quo that is very attractive in its own

Prop 48 works; why keep changing?

Marian Washington, women's basketball coach University of Kansas President, Black Coaches Association

USA Today

"We (the Black Coaches Association) have worked extremely hard to step back as coaches and to try to look at what's happening in the college ranks that impacts our young people.

"For example, there is an alarming concern with the way standards are moving. We want our kids to be prepared for college, to get an education. We don't have a problem with standards. We just don't understand the rationale that appears to have moved the NCAA to stricter standards, based on what we believe has been a very successful approach with Prop 48. If something has worked, why are we moving toward legislation that's going to write African-Americans out of athletics if we're not careful?"

Academic standards

Lee McElroy, athletics director California State University, Sacramento

The Boston Globe

"Proposition 48 is not about standards, it's about appeasing the public. Sometimes it may force young people to fall through the cracks, but that's OK as long as the enterprise keeps going."

Academic expectations

Ron Brown, academic adviser University of Pittsburgh

Chicago Tribune

"Every kid who comes into Division I athletics thinks he has the opportunity — I'm talking about revenue-producing sports — to go on to the next level. And we can sit there and talk the education thing, getting a good education and degree when we're in the recruiting spiel.

"And the kid is saying: 'Yeah, yeah. I want a degree. I want to major in business and I want the best of both worlds.' But the bottom line is: 'Are we going to play on TV? How many are in the arena? What do the dorms look like?'."

Thomas Hill, dean of students University of Florida

Chicago Tribune

"We should teach them (the athletes) how to do it, not do it for them. Who will wake them up to get them to work on time once they graduate? Who will make sure their assignments are done when they're on the job?"

Jerry Welch, former academic adviser University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Chicago Tribune

Recalling how a student-athlete flunked out of school and blamed Welch "because Dr. Welch didn't get me out of bed."

"(It's hard to get through to athletes when) one night 1,000 people want your autograph and the next day some bozo is telling you to go to class. Here's the sad part: You're making the kids get an education."

Division I-A playoff

Donald Kaul, columnist

Tribune Media Services

"Some people are exercised because the college football bowl games may not produce an undisputed champion this year. They say it makes the case for a playoff system involving the nation's top teams.

"No, it doesn't. So what if there's a dispute over who is No. 1 in college football? It's more interesting that way.

"In any case, a playoff system doesn't prove anything; the best team doesn't always win the Super Bowl. It merely produces a winner.

"If we really want to pursue the fiction that the young men who play big-time college football are students who study, go to class, take tests, then we ought not to condemn them to 13 or 14 games a season."

Compliance Assistant training available at Convention

Two representatives of the NCAA compliance services staff will offer "hands-on" training with Version 3.00 of the NCAA Compliance Assistant software program at the 1994 Convention in San Antonio.

Four sessions will be offered for three-hour time periods by Carrie A. Dias and Janet T. Calandro. The sessions will be Saturday, January 8, and Sunday, January 9, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. both days in Room 16 of the Marriott Rivercenter Hotel.

The purpose of hands-on training is to allow individuals to learn the Compliance Assistant by working on the computer themselves. Twelve computers will be available in each session, and two people may be assigned to a computer if Because seating in the sessions is limited, it is necessary to sign up in advance. Participants will be chosen for this session on a firstreceived request basis.

Individuals who have requested and received Version 3.00 of Compliance Assistant (which was released in September) were sent a memorandum December 8 with a preregistration-request form. Division I compliance coordinators and Division II athletics directors at institutions who did not request Version 3.00 also received a memorandum.

Those who did not receive the memo and would like to attend a session can call Rhonda L. Linsley, registration coordinator, at 913/339-1906 to determine if scats are avail-

Also, a sign-up poster will be located outside of Room 16 in the Rivercenter for those who would like to attend.

The sessions will be structured to address any level of computer skills; even individuals who are novice computer users, as well as those who have some previous knowledge of Compliance Assistant, are being encouraged to participate.

Session content will include:

■ How to move through the program (including adding, deleting and listing information) and how to use the menu bar options (such as rules assistance, help).

■ How to use the information available to track in each module (financial aid/squad list, eligibility, recruiting).

■ How to produce reports (such as NCAA squad list, satisfactoryprogress worksheet), including ad hoc reports.

■ How to give others access to the program and to carry over information from one year to the right, and at least tolerable to all parties concerned — except for the sports media, which are hysterically and pathologically obsessed with the issue. (Their reaction has actually provided as much entertainment for some of us as any playoff would, as the proplayoff media reveal an intolerance of ambiguity that, in turn, is a symptom of intellectual immaturity.) It would be especially reckless to discard a promising alternative before it has had a fair chance to perform namely the bowl coalition.

Bear in mind, even before the coalition, genuine disputes over who was really No. 1 were somewhat rare, though they have been more common recently. In the 25 seasons from 1967 to 1991, inclusive, only five or six national championships were really subject to much argument, by my count.

The bowl coalition, as advertised and for better or worse, has delivered a No. 1 vs. No. 2 matchup in both years of its operation. This outcome would seem to be the best of both worlds, a quasi-national title game without the detrimental characteristics of a playoff. Of course, it all hinges on the reality, justice and integrity of the rating polls, which now appear to be problematic and a real threat to the credibility of the process, though a correctable problem.

This year, there has been a firestorm of criticism over some questionable ordering of the top teams, the championship contenders. This is no less than understandable, given the high stakes. Perhaps all the top teams except Florida State University have legitimate complaints about their rank-

Subjectivity is inevitably a part of any foreseeable selection system. Emphatically, the present danger of subjectivity evolving into bias, prejudice and favoritism should be noted. This year, based on testimony in the media and observation of polling results, some clements of the football poll electorate appear to be driven by unorthodox motives, most transparently the desire to assist a favorite team or popular coach, or to justify an early season high ranking.

If it becomes evident that the voting pattern is explicable in terms of bias, or even jealously against a particular team or coach, then the bowl coalition and the polls themselves become a fraud, and the system will collapse along with its integrity and the honor of the voters in the Associated Press and USA Today/CNN polls. (If they can't even get this selection right, let them stop whining about the need for an extra playoff game.)

Voters, beware that your conduct will be closely scrutinized, and it will reflect on your integrity. The bowl coalition is a system with great potential, and it would be a tragedy to compromise its validity through pettiness or bias.

extension of what higher education hopes to accomplish, and with recognition that athletics is included within the spectrum of higher education, then gender equity becomes a foregone conclusion.

If we look at financial aid within the context of education, a broad range of funding sources becomes applicable.

Washington State is fortunate in having a central administration that supports student-athletes, a legislature that appreciates the importance of gender equity and a staff that agrees on what is in the best interest of our student-athletes. With this support, we have developed the creditability necessary to warrant our involvement in implementing the decisions necessary to obtain gender equity. It will not happen by isolation or by assuming that the effort will incapacitate men's sports.

The greatest difficulty has been attempting this effort within a singular institution. If we address gender equity nationally, then we can control the impact and maintain the competitive nature that is currently enjoyed in men's sports, while improving the quality and competitiveness of women's sports.

Jim Livengood is director of athletics at Washington State University and was a consultant to the NCAA Gender-Eauity Task Force. Last week, he was selected to succeed NCAA Executive Director-elect Cedric W. Dempsey as director of athletics at the University of Arizona.

II champs

Elva Dryer (above) of Western State College of Colorado had reason to smile November 22. Dryer won the individual title at the NCAA Division II Women's Cross Country Championships at the University of California, Riverside, giving Western State its first championships title. But she wasn't the only winner. Shane Healy (left) of Adams State College won the men's individual title, helping Adams State claim its second consecutive men's team championship. The Indians took five of the top 11 individual spots and easily outdistanced runner-up Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, which finished with 103 points. Adams State also won the women's team title.

North Alabama, Mount Union take football titles

Lions score 27 in last period to capture II championship

Indiana (Pennsylvania) and North Alabama had played well all year. Well enough, in fact, to face each other in the Division II national-championship game December 11 as the division's only undefeated teams.

But these two titans saved their best for last—a 37-point, 362-total-yard fourth quarter that saw both teams come from behind to take seemingly safe leads. The only thing that stopped the fireworks was the clock; and when it finally expired, North Alabama had claimed a 41-34 victory and its first Division II title in front of 15,631 fans at its home stadium.

"We had it won, we lost it, tied it and then lost it again," Indiana (Pennsylvania) coach Frank Cignetti said in describing the emotional roller coaster his team rode during the hectic fourth quarter.

Two third-quarter touchdown passes by quarterback Scott Woods gave the Indians a 24-14 lead that stood up until three minutes into the final period. Then, in what Cignetti called the biggest play of the game, North Alabama's Israel Raybon blocked a punt and gave the Lions possession at the Indians' 28. Three plays later, Cody Gross threw a 24-yard touchdown pass to Demetrea Shelton to pull North Alabama within four with 11:26 to play.

"We didn't panic, but it was pretty obvious that we had to have somebody come through with a big play for us," North Alabama coach Bobby Wallace said. "Israel happened to come through when he had his chance. It got us going."

After Raybon turned the momentum in the Lions' favor, full-back Brian Satterfield turned the scoreboard their way as well. His seven-yard touchdown run with 8:22 left and his 20-yard dash with 3:17 remaining gave North Alabama a 34-24 lead and—seemingly—cause to celebrate.

But the scoring was far from Indiana (Pennsylvania) marched 70 yards in nine plays and pulled within three points on Michael Mann's one-yard run with 1:54 to play. After recovering an onside kick, the Indians tied the game at 34 on Michael Geary's 34-yard field goal with just 45 seconds left.

It looked like the teams were headed for the first overtime in title-game history, but North Alabama struck back quickly. Gross gained 28 yards on an option play, then hit Shelton 38 yards downfield inside the one-yard line. After spiking the ball to kill the clock, Gross dived into the end zone to give North Alabama the title.

"When I saw myself over the end zone, I can't explain the feeling." Gross said.

The teams racked up nearly 1,000 yards; North Alabama totaled 537, and Indiana (Pennsylvania) had 433. Satterfield accounted for 180 of the Lions' 359 rushing yards, and Gross completed eight of 16 passes for 178 yards. The Indians were led by Mann's 109 rushing yards and Woods' 299 yards through the air.

"We didn't panic, but it was pretty obvious that we had to have somebody come through with a big play for us."

Ballard's 387 passing yards lead Purple Raiders over Rowan in III

Cold weather, 35-mile-per-hour wind gusts and Rowan's defense were not enough to stop Division III's top passing offense as Jim Ballard threw for 387 yards and three touchdowns and Mount Union won the Division III Football Championship with a 34-24 victory December 11 in Salem, Virginia.

The victory capped a perfect 14-0 season for Mount Union. Rowan finished 11-2.

Even though Ballard was able to overcome the blustery conditions—which included snow, temperatures in the 20s and a windchill factor near zero—the weather did affect both teams. The team moving with the wind, which blew from goal post to goal post throughout the game, scored more points in each quarter. The teams exchanged leads five times in the battle.

Mount Union's ability to rack up 13 points in the fourth quarter while holding Rowan scoreless was the difference in the game.

After the Purple Raiders took the biggest lead of the game, 21-9, on Ballard's second scoring strike to Rob Atwood with 7:41 left in the third quarter, Rowan took advantage of the wind to mount scoring drives on its next two possessions.

Profs quarterback Ed Hesson, who completed 20 of 32 passes for 177 yards, capped the first march with a four-yard run. Later in the quarter, Calvin Easley took a shovel pass from Hesson and ran eight yards for the score to put Rowan on top, 24-21.

Then Ballard took the wind and control of the game. He passed for 71 of the team's 73 yards on an eight-play drive that resulted in a two-yard pass to Jim Gresko with 13:14 left.

After the Purple Raiders stopped Rowan on a fourth-down pass play, Mount Union took control at its own 20-yard line with 9:35 remaining. Ballard completed five of six passes for 55 yards on the Purple Raiders' 80-yard march, which he capped by scoring on a two-yard keeper with 5:04 left to seal the victory.

Wildcats win II volleyball crown

Host Northern Michigan railied from an early deficit to beat Cal State Bakersfield in four games and claim its first Division II Women's Volleyball Championship December 6 in front of 3,112 fans.

The 4-15, 15-5, 15-3, 15-10 victory culminated a 38-1 season for the Wildcats, who lost a grueling fivegame title match to Portland State in last year's championship.

Cal State Bakersfield forced the Wildcats into 12 errors and a hitting percentage of just .077 in Game No. 1, but Northern Michigan rallied behind seniors Stacy Metro, Andrea Gommans, Heather Koenig and Tricia Tuler—all of whom won a place on the all-tournament team.

Metro, two-time American Volleyball Coaches Association Division II player of the year, combined with Gommans for eight kills in Game No. 2 to help the Wildcats gain momentum. Then, Tuler scored seven kills in Game No. 3 to put Northern Michigan in command.

Cal State Bakersfield (32-3) had served up Northern Michigan's only loss of the campaign, a 3-2 set-back in the Portland State Showcase tournament in October. But after compiling a hitting percentage of .433 in the first game of the championship match, the Roadrunners hit just .083 in the remaining three games while committing 23 errors.

"We stayed focused and we kept battling back," said Northern Michigan's Jennie Long, who served during a nine-point run in the third game that turned the match around. "We panicked at first but then started to come back."

The win was the 32nd straight at home for the Wildcats and came in front of a school-record crowd.

"The crowd didn't give up on us," Tuler said. "They helped us out after we lost the first game."

Rifle Project takes aim at maintaining championship

By Martin T. Benson THE NCAA NEWS STAFF

Low sponsorship numbers can mean the end of a sport's National Collegiate Championship. That's the danger the sport of rifle faced in 1988, and still may face today.

But the NCAA Rifle Committee and the rest of the shooting community hope they have found the championships' savior in The NCAA Rifle Project.

The project began in the fall of 1990 with the National Rifle Association's manager of collegiate shooting programs, Margaret Schoap.

Ten schools have added the sport since then, making the project's success a near bull's eye although the rifle championships' future still is not assured.

As of September 30, 56 schools sponsored rifle. Under current legislation, rifle must be sponsored by seven percent of the membership (62 schools) to continue the National Collegiate Championship (all divisions combined).

However, there is a moratorium on climinating any National Collegiate Championship until after 1994-95, Proposed legislation for the 1994 Convention (Proposal No. 158) would replace the percentage with a set figure of 40 institutions---which would enable rifle to continue with full-fledged chainpionships.

Thanks to a $3,000 start-up grant from The NCAA Rifle Project, the Great Midwest became the first conference to sponsor rifle for each of its schools and to hold a conference championship.

International impact

Interest in continuing the championship extends beyond the collegiate community. The United States Shooting Team (USST) is heavily populated with current and former NCAA competitors.

"The NRA, as the national governing body for shooting sports in this country, recognizes the important, positive impact that NCAA rifle has on the U.S. Olympic Team and this country's medal count," said Randy Pitney, chair of the NCAA Rifle Committee and University of Alaska Fairbanks coach. "Because of this, it is very active through its collegiate program in creating stability for NCAA rifle and its championship."

The project's representatives either contact or are contacted by schools and conferences about adding rifle, which can be either a men's or women's sport or coed (in which case it counts as a men's sport). Information packets, which include a video and various written materials, are sent to interested schools. Lanny Bassham, a former Olympic gold medalist who directs the USST collegiate programs, visits schools to talk about the sport's attributes.

Of factors in favor of the sport cited by Bassham, perhaps the most attractive is economics: The set-up cost for rifle is relatively low and a team can have as few as four people on it. A school can sponsor air rifle and/or smallbore competition, with air rifle being the most eco-

Air rifle's first-year costs are $1,500 to $2,000. Every year thereafter costs $200 to $400 per shooter. Portable air rifle ranges can be set up in gymnasiums or classrooms, so facility expenses are low.

Start-up grants

If a school decides to add the sport, the project representative offers a $3,000 start-up grant, which can be applied to any rifle-related

After receiving a project grant last year, the Great Midwest Conference became the first conference to sponsor rifle at each of its schools and to hold a conference rifle championship last year. Brenda Weare, the conference's assistant commissioner for championships and compliance, said adding the sport of air rifle made

"It's not very expensive and adding it increased our revenue distribution from the (men's Division I) basketball tournament," she said. 'Since teams are small, travel can usually be done by car."

The Ohio Valley Conference will sponsor a rifle championship this year. Six conference teams sponsor rifle as an NCAA sport; the remaining four compete on the club level.

The project will continue to assist new programs through the coming year. No definite ending date is set for the program.

And even though the $3,000 is a one-time grant, the project continues to help young programs once they are started.

"The team members and coaches are helped in fund-raising efforts, training and coaching. The rifle programs are kept up to date on what's going on around the country in the sport to ensure that they're in the network with other schools," Schoap said.

Eligibility Committee gears up for additional waiver authority

Anticipating the passage of a proposal that would broaden its authority to grant extensions of the five-year/10-semester rule, the NCAA Eligibility Committee discussed preparations for reviewing such cases.

The committee met December 7-8 in Kansas City, Missouri.

Proposal No. 71, which is sponsored by the NCAA Council, would give the Eligibility Committee more authority by modifying NCAA Bylaw 30.6.1 requirements under which a student-athlete could be granted an extension.

Currently, the NCAA cligibility staff—acting on behalf of the Eligibility Committee—handles only extension requests where a student-athlete is unable to attend an institution. Those requests involving student-athletes whose circumstances allowed them to remain at an institution were forwarded to the NCAA Administrative Review Panel because they were outside the committee's current authority.

If the proposal is approved, the Eligibility Committee would review all cases pertaining to the fiveyear/10-semester rule and begin establishing criteria and case precedent by acting upon the appeals using a paper-review process.

The proposal would eliminate the requirement that a student-athlete must be unable to attend an institution (or, in Divisions II and III, to continue enrollment on a full-time basis) before being granted an extension of the five-year/10semester rule.

Instead, a student-athlete may qualify for an extension based upon objective evidence that the reason for the request is beyond the student-athlete's control.

Other highlights

In other actions at its December 7-8 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the Eligibility Committee:

- Continued reviewing and modifying eligibility appeals procedures. If approved by the NCAA Council, the procedures would be published in the 1995-96 NCAA Manual.
- Reviewed and emphasized mitigating factors that could result in the restoration of eligibility under satisfactory-progress requirements. Those mitigating factors include reliance on misadvice by institutional personnel, a lack of understanding of applicable legislation and the strength of the student-athlete's cumulative acad-
- Supported the NCAA Olympic Sports Liaison Committee's review of the definition of "professional team" as it relates to issues of amateurism and eligibility.
- Heard a drug-testing report by Frank D. Uryasz, NCAA director of sports sciences, and discussed concerns that the NCAA has no procedures for identifying and testing at NCAA championships those student-athletes who apparently have tested positive for banned substances at international competitions.

Site selection, ticket distribution top I basketball meeting

Site selection and the distribution of Final Four tickets were the major topics of discussion at the Division 1 Men's Basketball Committee's winter meeting November 30-December 2 in Seattle.

Eleven of the 12 preliminaryround sites for the 1997 championship were chosen by the committee. A decision on the 12th site, a Southeast region venue, has been delayed until the committee receives additional information. Following are the 1997 preliminaryround sites:

Carolina (Wake Forest University,

Other highlights

In other actions at its November 30-December 2 meeting in Seattle, the Division I Men's Basketball Committee:

■ Voted to liberalize its policy regarding media access to game officials. Beginning in 1994, the basketball committee representative at each site will have the flexibility to permit a pool reporter to interview a game referee on any situation that the committee representative thinks is in the best interest of the tournament and enhances the public's understanding of activities that occurred in a game. Previously, a pool reporter was permitted to interview a game referee only when a rules interpretation was needed. In the past, representatives of the Associated Press Sports Editors and the United States Basketball Writers Association have recommended that game officials be available to the media in much the same way coaches and student-athletes are in postgame interview sessions.

- Established $70 as the ticket price for the 1996 Final Four.
- Beginning with the 1995 Division I Men's Basketball Championship, increased the minimum ticket price for first- and second-round sessions of the tournament from $12 to $15 and increased the minimum ticket price for the regionals from $15 to $30.
- Adjusted the weighting system of the ratings percentage index (RPI) as follows: The three factors composing the RPI (Division I winning percentage, opponent's winning percentage and opponent's opponents' winning percentage) will be weighted 25 percent-50-25 rather than 20-40-40, and this ranking will be adjusted based upon a team's good wins, bad losses and nonconference scheduling.

- Approved the radio talent for the 1994 Division I Men's Basketball Championship.
- Met with representatives from the National Association of Basketball Coaches to review plans for the 1994 Final Four Fan Jam.
- Eliminated preliminary-round receptions held on the days between competition. Those receptions traditionally were hosted by the local chamber of commerce or the host instiin the last fiscal year were slightly less than $22 million.

In another financial matter, the Executive Committee noted increases in the championships travel expenses for 1992-93. Although factors such as the location of the participating institutions and the championship sites cause championships expenses to fluctuate from year to year, 1992-93 expenses grew more than usual because of air-fare increases.

In 1991-92, the travel expense for about 34,500 participants was $12.7 million. In 1992-93, the number of participants was almost exactly the same (about 34,300), but the expense was $15.0 million.

The committee will continue to monitor the situation, especially in view of the fact that the number of participants will increase beginning this year because of revisions to the championships program that were announced in May.

In matters pertaining to championships, the committee reviewed questions pertaining to Division I play-ins. It reaffirmed all current criteria and decided there would be no changes regarding play-ins in 1994 (winter and spring championships of 1993-94, fall championships of 1994-95), except that a two-year waiting period that applies to automatic qualification now also applies to play-ins.

In regard to the waiting period, Bylaw 31.3.4.2-(a) and (b) state that any conference seeking automatic qualification must have been a member conference of the NCAA for two consecutive academic years and that the conference must have conducted competition in the sport in question for two consecutive years at the time of its application for automatic qualification. The Executive Committee may grant waivers in both cases.

The four Division I sports in which play-ins were authorized were baseball, women's volleyball, women's softball and men's soccer.

The Executive Committee also approved changes in the championships awards program that had been recommended by the Special Subcommittee to Review the Championship Awards Program.

Regarding individual awards, the committee voted to:

- Reduce from 16 to four the number of teams in the Division I-AA Football Championship that receive individual awards, in order to make it consistent with the number of awards for most other team championships.
- Provide watches, rather than mini-trophies, to members of the official traveling party of each championship team.
- Direct the Division I Men's and Women's Basketball Committees to review the appropriateness of the current policy of providing watches to game officials who work championship sessions.

■ Increase the number of awards for top place-finishers in the National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships from 10 to 15.

In another action, the Executive Committee approved a change in dates for the NCAA Division I Men's Soccer Championship. Beginning in 1994, that event will begin the third week in November (rather than the second) and conclude the second week in December (rather than the first). The change, which is to accommodate the play-ins, was delayed until a study was made to determine how the change would interfere with exam schedules.

In addition to site selection, the committee voted to increase ticket allotments to the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) and Division I member institutions and conferences for the Final Four when it is held in domed arenas between 1995 and 2000. The increases are as follows:

- NABC allocation increases from 3,000 to 3,500;
- Participating institutions' allocation increases from 3,000 to 3,500;
- Division I institutions have the option to purchase 10 tickets if the school has participated in at least one Division I Men's Basketball Championship in the previous six years:
- Division I institutions have the option to purchase six tickets if the school has not participated in at least one Division I Men's Basketball Championship in the previous six years.
- Conferences that are members of the Collegiate Commissioners Association have the option to purchase 10 tickets if the conference has had at least one institution (other than its automatic qualifier) participate in a minimum of one Division I Men's Basketball Championship in the previous six years, and
- Conferences that are members of the Collegiate Commissioners Association have the option to purchase six tickets if the conference has not had at least one institution (other than its automatic qualifier) participate in a minimum of one Division I Men's Basketball Championship in the previous six years.

Bracket expansion not tied solely to sponsorship

Executive Committee approved the following policy at its December 5-6 meeting:

■ The application of the sportssponsorship percentage guidelines has resulted in an overall championships program that provides equitable opportunities for male and female student-athletes while reflecting the membership's priorities. Accordingly, sports sponsorship numbers and bracket sizes will be evaluated periodically, and any contemplated change in a specific championship bracket will continue to take into consideration the following factors, as well: (a) maintenance of an equitable number of opportunities for men and women in the overall championships program, (b) responsible allocation of the Association's financial resources, and (c) the ability to manage and administer the event efficiently.

- The established bracket sizes within each percentage category are not intended to be automatic; it is logical that there be interim steps for bracket expansion when some increase is warranted (for example, from 16 to 20 or 24 teams, rather than to 32). What those appropriate interim steps would be may differ from sport to sport and will be considered on a case-by-case basis.
- The Executive Committee will review a summary of sports sponsorship annually at its December meeting, with a view toward longrange planning for future bracket expansion or reduction. At that time, it will monitor sponsorship trends (both increases and decreases) and, in the case of increases in sponsorship, determine if the growth is sustained over a period of time. This planning is intended to ensure the appropriate allocation of the Association's financial resources relative to the membership's prioritics; further, it will encourage the maintenance of a consistent and equitable overall program and eliminate the need for sports committees to submit specific requests for bracket expansion independent of the Executive Committee's overall plan.

NACMA looking to increase membership

The National Association of Collegiate Marketing Administrators (NACMA) has begun a membership drive that will culminate with the third annual NACMA workshop next Junc.

The workshop, set for June 4-6, will be held in conjunction with the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics' 29th annual convention in Marco Island, Florida.

NACMA is contacting more than 2,000 current members, athletics directors and prospective affiliate members by mail, in hopes of doubling its current membership.

"We were very pleased with the results of our membership drive last year," said NACMA President Diane T. Wendt, associate athletics director for athletics and recreation at the University of Denver.

The association, now in its third year, has three primary purposes:

- Bringing together people who work in or around intercollegiate athletics and are practitioners in sports marketing, promotions, broadcasting or public relations.
- Provide educational and networking opportunities, enhancement of acceptable operating standards and ethics, and assistance in establishing the overall prestige and understanding of the profession.

Provide continuing education and career enhancement to its members at no cost beyond that for membership.

Other NACMA officers are Vince Cazzetta of the U.S. Military Academy, first vice-president; Peter Pilling of Morehead State University, second-vice-president/treasurer; Deena Johnson of California State University, Fresno, third vice-president/secretary, and Bob Vecchione of NACDA, assistant secretary/treasurer.

Information about NACMA membership can be obtained from Vecchione by calling 216/892-4000.

■ Interpretations Committee minutes

Conference No. 16 November 17, 1993

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Interpretations Committee issued the following interpretations:

Extra benefit/support services, career counseling

1. Materials provided to student-athletes as part of career-counseling program. An institution (or an outside entity) is limited to providing only informal handout materials of little or no commercial value in conjunction with permissible student-development and career-counseling programs using outside resources. [References: NCAA Bylaws 16.02.3 (extra benefit), 16.3.2-(d) (permissible) and 16.3.3-(b) (nonpermissible)]

Advertisement/endorsement

2. Use of footage of a student-athlete with remaining eligibility in conjunction with commercial advertisement. A commercial company may not produce a commercial that begins with the company's identification, followed by footage of plays involving a student-athlete with remaining eligibility and that concludes with a promotion of the company's product without jeopardizing the eligibility of the involved student-athlete. [Reference: 12.5.2.1 (advertisements and promotions subsequent to enrollment)]

Playing season/automatic-qualification contests

3. Practice session in preparation for "play-in" contest. An institution that has qualified for a "play-in" contest (i.e., contest between conference champions provided by NCAA Convention, Council or Executive Committee action in order to determine selection for automatic qualification into the respective. National Collegiate Championship) may continue to practice for the contest subsequent to the conclusion of its regular season without including the practice sessions as part of its declared playing season, inasmuch as the institution is considered to be practicing for the NCAA championship in the applicable sport. [References: 17.1.1 (playing season) and 17.1.8-(d) (NCAA or NAIA championships participation in team sports)]

Extra benefit/meals
4. Institution providing snacks to studentathletes the night before an institution's contest. It is permissible for student-athletes to receive a snack the night before an institution's contest as a benefit incidental to athlettes participation. [References: 16.02.3 (extra benefit), 16.5.1-(d) (meals incidental to participation), 16.7.3 (films/movies/

videotapes) and 16.12.2.1 (nonpermissible—general rule)]

Sports camps/clinics/admission

5. Institution providing children of athletics department staff members with free admission to camps or clinics. It is permissible for an institution to have a policy that permits free admission only to the children of athletics department staff members to attend the institution's camps or clinics. [Reference: 13.13.1.5 (no free or reduced admission privileges)]

Satisfactory-progress waiver

6. International-competition waiver of satisfactory progress (Divisions I and II). A student-athlete who qualifies for the international-competition waiver of satisfactory progress per 14.5.7-(b) may not use credits carned during the term in which the waiver is used to meet satisfactory progress. [Reference: 14.5.7-(b) (waivers of satisfactory progress—international competition)]

Geographical waiver/football/ scheduling

7. Geographical waiver for Division I-AA football scheduling requirements (Division I). For purposes of 20.9.7.2.4, in determining whether an institution offers fewer than 20 percent of the maximum allowable number of scholarships, an institution (previously classified in Division II before September 1993) must calculate the percentage in the same manner as computing its student-athletes' equivalency values (i.e., all institutional aid must be included in the equivalency capulation). [References: 15.5.3.5 (equivalency computations), 15.5.5.2 (Division I-AA football) and 20.9.7.2.4 (geographical waiver—Division I-AA)]

Smith makes court success a long-term project

By Richard M. Campbell NCAA STATISTICS COORDINATOR

No matter what ruler you use, North Carolina head coach Dean Smith truly is a "coach for the ages." Whether he is compared to his active contemporaries or measured against the all-time greats of the college game, Smith comes up Going into this season, he was fifth all-time in winning percentage (.776) and his 774 collegiate victories were second all-time only to legendary Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp (876). And remember, he has done this over a 32-year span, all at North Carolina.

Smith is first in victories at the current stage of his career (those who have coached 32 years) and has been the leader for each of his past eight years. In winning percentage, he is second to Rupp's .837 norm for 32-year coaches. Smith passed his former coach, F. C. "Phog" Allen, whose .773 percentage is now third. (Both Smith and Rupp played at Kansas under Allen, who played there under the game's inventor, James Naismith.)

Smith entered the season 102 victories behind Rupp's 876 Division I wins. Among all coaches, regardless of classification, Smith trails only Rupp and Winston-Salem's Clarence "Big House" Gaines, who compiled 828 victories in 47 years of coaching outside Division I.

Of his contemporaries, Syracuse's Jim Boeheim, Louisville's Denny Crum, Indiana's Bob Knight, Temple's John Chaney and Georgetown's John Thompson approach Smith's longevity and success.

Boeheim is second all-time in most victories at the current stage of his career (411 in 16 seasons) and eighth in winning percentage (.756), while Crum is second in the victories category after 22 seasons (518). Indiana's Knight is third in victories after 28 seasons (619) and seventh in percentage (.743). Thompson is third after 21 seasons (484), and Chaney, at the same stage of his career, is fourth in victories (478) and ninth in percentage (.754).

Other successes

Other coaches doing well at their respective stages are James Madison's Lefty Driesell, fourth with 621 victories after 31 seasons and eighth in percentage (.690); Illinois' Lou Henson, fifth with 609 victories after 31 seasons and ninth in percentage (.674); UTEP's Don Haskins, fourth with 627 victories after 32 seasons and seventh in percentage (.694), and Missouri's Norm Stewart, sixth with 612 victories after 32 seasons and eighth in percentage (.667).

Other coaches with at least five years as head of a Division I program who have excelled are Kansas' Roy Williams, second in victorics with 132 after five seasons; Arkansas' Nolan Richardson, fourth in victories with 308 after 13 seasons; Oklahoma's Billy Tubbs, fourth in victories with 424 after 19 seasons, and Oklahoma State's Eddie Sutton, fifth in victories with 502 after 23 seasons.

Active coaches

Smith heads an impressive list of active Division I coaches who have averaged more than 20 victories a year. Smith's stature among the all-time greats is already assured, but the Tar Heel mentor just keeps on winning. For his 32 head-coaching seasons, Smith has averaged 24.2 victories per year (see accompanying table).

He joins Syracuse's Boeheim (24.2 per year in 17 seasons) as the only active coaches with at least 400 career victories who have averaged 24 wins a year. Interestingly, the leader among active coaches with at least five years at a Division I school is Kansas' Williams, a former Smith assistant. Williams has averaged 26.4 victories in five seasons in Lawrence.

Other top-line per-season winners with at least 10 years as a Division I head coach are Arkansas' Richardson, 23.7 per year in 13 seasons; Louisville's Crum, 23.6 in 22 seasons; Georgetown's Thompson, 23.1 in 21 seasons; Temple's Chaney, 22.8 in 21 seasons; Oklahoma's Tubbs, 22.3 in 19 seasons and Indiana's Knight, 22.1 in 28 seasons.

Boeheim, Haskins, Knight, Richardson, Smith and Sutton are among the active coaches who have both played and coached in the NCAA tournament.

First-season winners

The best active coaches for victories in their first season are Montana's Blaine Taylor with 27 in 1992 and Boeheim, Crum, Richardson (at Tulsa) and Memphis State's Larry Finch, all with 26. The all-time leader is Indiana State's Bill Hodges, who fashioned a 33-1 mark in 1979 behind the play of Larry Bird.

Looking for some rising stars? How about Kansas' Williams and Xavier's (Ohio) Pete Gillen, who is eighth in victories with 180 after eight seasons. The career-beginnings lists for Division I were compiled by Gary K. Johnson, NCAA statistics coordinator, over a span of five years.

Longevity

North Carolina's Smith is in his 33rd season at the helm of the Tar Heels, tying UTEP's Haskins for second place on the list of active coaches with the most years at one school. Mount St. Mary's (Maryland) James Phelan leads the active list with 39 seasons—all at the Emmitsburg, Maryland, school. All three men have spent their entire head-coaching careers at one institution. Louisville's Crum is next with 22 seasons, followed by Georgetown's Thompson at 21.

Other coaches who have coached elsewhere but boast long stints at their present schools are Princeton's Pete Carril and Missouri's Stewart, both 26 years; Indiana's Knight, 22, and Holy Cross' George Blaney and Louisiana State's Dale Brown, both 21.

The all-time leaders for coaching at one school are DePaul's Ray Meyer and Western Kentucky's Ed Diddle, both with 42 years. Butler's Tony Hinkle and Kentucky's Rupp had 41 years each. The all-time leader in longevity is Kansas' Allen, who coached 48 years at four different schools.

Smith's success at North Carolina is unprecedented; his Tar Heel teams have posted 26 consecutive 20-victory seasons, followed by Kentucky's Rupp and Jerry Tar-kanian at Long Beach State and Nevada-Las Vegas, each with 23. Among active coaches, Driesell has 19 straight 20-victory seasons and Crum and Knight have 18 each.

Divisions II and III

Virginia Union's Dave Robbins has the top winning percentage among Division II active men's coaches with a 371-90 (.805) record in 15 years. Other top percentage leaders include West Texas A&M's Rick Cooper (.760), Millersville's John Kochan (.757) and Mercyhurst's Bill Morse (.746). For Division II victories among active coaches, LeMoyne-Owen's Jerry Johnson with 645 and Angelo State's Ed Messbarger with 610 head the list, followed by Philadelphia Textile's Herb Magee (544), Catawba's Sam Moir (529) and Bridgeport's Bruce Webster (498).

In Division III, Wisconsin-Eau Claire's Ken Anderson is the percentage leader with a 597-136 (.814) mark in 25 years. He is followed by Western Connecticut State's Bob Campbell (.778), Wisconsin-Platteville's Bo Ryan (.753) and New Jersey Institute of Technology's James Catalano (.743). Albany's (New York) Richard Sauers tops the active victory list with 630, followed by Anderson (597), Defiance's Marvin Hohenberger (530), and Wartburg's Lewis Levick and Beloit's Bill Knapton, both with 510.

Women's leaders

Texas' Jody Conradt flew past the 600-victory plateau in 1993, the first women's head coach to do so. With 620 victories going into the present season, Conradt was more than 100 victories ahead of her closest competitor—Tennessee's Pat Summitt at 499. Early this season, Summitt became only the third women's coach in history to pass 500 career victories. The only other head coach in that elite group in Division I is Fresno State's Bob Spencer, who retired last year with 578 victories.

Other active Division I women's coaches well on the way to the 500-victory mark as the season began included Iowa's Vivian Stringer (488), Louisiana State's Sue Gunter (483) and Florida State's Marynell Meadors (473). In Division II, Cal Poly Pomona's Darlene May surpassed the 500-victory barrier earlier this year.

The top winning percentage in Division I going into this year belonged to Louisiana Tech's Leon Barmore, who had a 307-52 (.885) record in 11 years. Behind him, in order, were Arkansas' Gary Blair (.830), Mount St. Mary's (Maryland) Bill Sheahan (.819), Iowa's Stringer (.814), Montana's Robin Selvig and Texas' Conradt (both at .802), and Tennessee's Summitt (.801).

In Division II, Delta State's Lloyd Clark topped all coaches at 267-45 (.856), followed by Pittsburgh-Johnstown's Jodi Gault at 265-45 (.855), Northern State's Curt Fredickson (.821), Cal Poly Pomona's May (.815), North Dakota's Gene Roebuck (.813), Bloomsburg's Joe Bressi (.810) and Norfolk State's James Sweat (.808). Hampton's Tiny Laster is behind May with 391 career victories in Division II.

In Division III, Southern Maine's Gary Fifield tops the list with a 151-26 (.853) mark in six years. He is followed by St. John Fisher's Phillip Kahler at 462-86 (.843), Moravian's Mary Beth Spirk (.837), Washington's (Missouri) Nancy Fahey (.810), Salem State's Tim Shea (.807), Wartburg's Monica Severson (.801) and Scranton's Mike Strong (.800). Kahler was the division's victory leader with 462, followed by Bridgewater's (Virginia) Laura Mapp (447) and Elizabethtown's Yvonne Kauffman (402).

Current streaks

For Division I women, Tennessee has the longest current home-court winning streak with 36 straight games, followed by Virginia at 30, Montana and Ohio State at 18 each, and Colorado and Iowa, each with 17.

For Division I men, Indiana holds the longest current home-court streak at 34, followed by Kentucky at 25, Cincinnati 21, and Iowa State and Massachusetts, both 20. Also Southern Illinois has won 19 straight and North Carolina, Northeast Louisiana and Vanderbilt have won 17.

Other coaching facts

Alabama-Birmingham's Gene Bartow and Southern-Baton Rouge's Ben Jobe head the list of active coaches who have coached at the most schools—six each. Elmer Ripley and Bob Vanatta head the all-time Division I list, having coached at seven colleges in their respective careers.

Of active coaches, nine share 14 NCAA Division I championships. Indiana's Knight is the leader with three titles (1976-81-87). Two-time winners are Louisville's Crum (1980-86), North Carolina's Smith (1982-93) and Duke's Mike Krzyzewski (1991-92). Single titles have gone to UTEP's Haskins (1966), Michigan State's Jud Heathcote (1979), Georgetown's Thompson (1984), Nevada-Las Vegas' Rollie Massamino (at Villanova in 1985) and Michigan's Steve Fisher (1989).

Self-reported	Men's volleyball	B 11.5.1.1	Part-time assistant coach accompanied head coach and assisted in eval- uation of prospects at a high-school competition even though the assist- ant coach had not taken the coaching certification examination. Assistant coach had no contact with prospects or parents.		Required institution to review leg- islation with all coaching staff members to avoid occurrence of a similar violation and to require assistant coach to pass test before further involvement in recruiting.
Conference	Women's swimming and diving	B 11.7.4	Institution employed one head, one assistant, one restricted-earnings and one diving coach (who would be placed in the head or assistant category based upon his earnings).	Upon discovery of violation during institution's review of coaching staff limitations in all sports, the university relieved restricted-earnings coach of her duties (but allowed her to retain her financial compensation inasmuch as it was the institution's error). Will review all proposed coaching assignments before approval.	No further action.
Self-reported	Men's volleyball	B 11.7.5.1	Two coaches were involved in off-campus recruiting activities at the same time.	Reprimanded head coach and pre- cluded any off-campus recruiting activ- ities for one month.	No further action.
Conference	Men's basketball	B 13.02.4.4	During a dead period, head coach spoke at an athletics banquet attended by prospective student-athletes.	Precluded further recruitment of any prospects in attendance at the banquet and will not allow them to walk on. Conference restricted head coach from off-campus recruiting during first three days of fall contact period.	No further action.
Conference	Men's basketball	B 13.4.5.1	Institution placed advertisement promoting its camp in sports magazine. Sports information director saw ad and notified coaches. Coaches	Canceled advertisement, precluded re- cruitment of any prospects who at-	No further action.
			withdrew ad but did not report violation.	tended camps and reduced camps from three weeks to two weeks, and institu- tion and conference required review of legislation with coaching staff members.
Conference	Men's swimming	B 13.9.1	Assistant coach paid for a meal for a high-school coach as repayment for the high-school coach providing lodging for him at his home while the assistant coach was on his way to another city for recruiting purposes. The only prospect the university recruited from the coach's high school signed with another institution.	Reprimanded assistant coach, and required him to participate in a rules-review session and secure repayment of the cost of the dinner from the high-school coach.	No further action.
Conference	Women's soccer	B 14.11	Student-athlete was allowed to compete for a season before being properly certified as eligible. The young woman was otherwise eligible.	Implemented new initial-eligibility cer- tification process, and educated coaches and student-athletes regarding the new process.	No further action.
Conference	Women's crew	B 14.2.1	Student-athlete was allowed to practice and compete in one contest even though five calendar years had elapsed since initial enrollment. Athletics staff members were aware and acknowledged on several occasions that the young woman was not eligible for practice or competition. Institution finished last in the contest.	Reprimanded head coach, placed him on probation indefinitely and reduced his salary by five percent for the duration of his contract; reprimanded partime assistant coach, and conducted rules-review session with both coaches.	Advised institution that similar violations in the future may result in further actions being taken by the NCAA.
Self-reported	Women's tennis	B 14.3.5.1.2	Student-athlete competed in one match before proper eligibility certifi- cation. Young woman has left the team. Coach was a first-year, part-time		Required institution to forfeit the contest if the young woman was no

Conference	Administrative	B 15.2.1.4 and 15.2.1.4.1	The institution has waived the admission fee for student-athletes since 1988. Its policy allows the admissions fee to be rebated (permissible under NCAA legislation), but institution waived it instead of following procedure. No student-athlete received excessive individual financial aid.	Informed current student-athletes that they must pay the fee and re-established procedures to ensure that all students and student-athletes initially pay the admissions fee.	No further action.
Conference	Men's gymnastics	В 15,5.3.1	Institution exceeded the team limit of financial aid by .03 of one grant. One student-athlete who was not receiving any institutional aid received earnings from employment that was arranged by a representative of the institution's athletics interests.		Required institution to reduce in- itial financial aid by .03 of one grant for 1993-94.
Self-reported	Women's basketball, women's volleyball	В 16.12.2.7	Representatives of the institution's athletics interests served as "adoptive" families to student-athletes. Program was not organized by any staff member.	Distributed memorandum to coaching staffs and published instructions to boosters indicating that such an arrangement is not permissible.	Required institution to submit writ- ten report that indicates any benefi received by student-arhletes that were discovered as a result of its re view, and specifically what the role of the "adoptive" family was, and any actions taken to follow up with the representatives to ensure that the program is terminated.
Conference	Women's gymnastics	B 17.1.5.1	During 1991-92 and 1992-93 academic years, team practiced more than four hours per day for one or two days each week. Team did not exceed 20-hour weekly limit.	Sent letter of caution to coach, will review both daily and weekly limits, and will remind coaches to follow practice limitations.	Advised institution of strong con- cern regarding the head coach not knowing basic practice regulations No further action.
Conference	Women's soccer	В 17.1.5.4	Institution did not provide a day off from athletically related activities during one week. Coach discovered violation upon weekly review of item cards. In an unrelated action, the student-athletes had been given two days off the previous week.	Reprimanded coach, and supervisor met with her to review the need to give more attention to practice regulations.	Required institution to advise all coaching staff members of correct application of legislation.
Conference	Women's crew	B 17.1.5.4	Institution did not provide a day off from athletically related activities during one week. Team did not exceed 20-hour weekly limitation.	Reprimanded coach, and compliance officer reviewed legislation with her.	Required institution to advise all coaching staff members of correct application of legislation.
Conference	Women's tennis	В 17.1.5.4	Institution did not provide a day off from athletically related activities during one week.	Reprimanded head coach, and com- pliance officer met with head coach to review legislation.	Required institution to advise all coaching staff members of correct application of legislation.
Conference	Women's basketball	В 17.1.5.4	Institution did not provide a day off from athletically related activities during one week.	Reprimanded head coach, and assist- ant coaches met with compliance offi- cer to review legislation.	Required institution to advise all coaching staff members of correct application of legislation.
Conference	Men's basketball	B 17.1.5.4	Institution did not provide a day off from athletically related activities during one week. Coach believed that the Thanksgiving vacation period provided an exception.	Coaching staff reviewed legislation and will now submit practice schedules in advance to compliance officer for approval.	No further action.

Conference	Football	15.01.5-(c)	Soudent-athlete who was not a counter received athletically related fi- nancial sld for six years. Young man was injured and was medically ex- empt from being a counter and was not included on the squad list.	Reviewed 1992-93 records to ensure that other similar violations did not oc- cur; presently keeps supplemental list for all medically exempted and post- eligibility student-athletes, and deve- loped guidelines for processing and monitoring financial aid.	No further action.
			DIVISION I-AA
Self-reported	Football	B 10.1 and 14.2.1	Student-athlete competed even though five calendar years had passed since initial enrollment. The young man provided false and misleading information concerning his prior educational background.	The young man was declared ineligible and dropped from the team.	No further action.
Conference	Football	B 13.15.1	A coaching staff member provided meals for prospects during their of- ficial visits. The meals were permissible, but the institution refused reimbursement, which caused personal funds to be expended on pros- pects.	Required coach to present proper pro- cedures at next compliance meeting.	No further action.
			DIVISION II
Self-reported	Men's basketball	B 14.1.6	Student-athlete participated in 20 practice sessions even though he was enrolled in less than a full-time minimum program of studies. Young man now is enrolled full time.		Required institution to repri- mand head coach and review in- volved legislation with all coaching staff members.
Self-reported	* Administrative	B, 15.3.5.1	Student-athlete was not notified of renewal of financial aid before July 1.	Reviewed procedures with staff members to ensure that a similar viola- tion does not occur. Also, new letters have been developed and will be coor- dinated through the compliance stor- dinator.	No further action.
NCAA inquiry	Men's basketball	B 15.3.5.1 and 15.3.5.1.1	Institution did not notify a student-athlete by July 1 that his financial aid would be renewed, and the following year did not notify the young man of his opportunity for a hearing when he was notified that his aid would not be renewed. Since the institution did not notify the young man in writing that his aid was initially renewed, the institution did not acknowledge his enrollment, and the young man was forced to drop out of school.	Following notification that the young man was not advised of his opportunity for a hearing, the institution awarded financial aid for one semester the following year.	Advised institution of strong concern regarding the violation, and required institution to reduce initial financial aid by one grant for 1994-95 and submit a written report regarding the results of the hearing for the young man.

Administrative Committee minutes

Conference No. 21 December 5, 1993

- 1. Acting for the NCAA Council, the Administrative Committee:
- a. Appointed Prentice Gautt, Big Eight Conference, to complete Cedric W. Dempsey's term as secretary-treasurer, effective when Dempsey becomes NCAA executive director January 1, 1994.
- b. Appointed Ed Pastilong, West Virginia University, to the Committee on Athletics Certification, replacing C. William Byrne, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, resigned
- c. Appointed Marty W. Buckley, U.S. Air Force Academy, to the Men's and Women's Soccer Rules Committee, replacing Julie E. Andeberhan, no longer at a Division II insti-
- d. Appointed the following to serve as the Council subcommittee to review the relationship of apparel manufacturers to the intercollegiate athletics community, as directed by the Council in its fall meeting: Clint Bryant, Augusta College; Linda E Hopple, Middle Atlantic States Conference;

Richard A. Rosenthal, University of Notre Dame, and Patricia V. Viverito, Gateway Football Conference and Missouri Valley Conference (chair).

- e. Appointed Rita M. Castagna, Assumption College; Lynn Dorn, North Dakota State University, and G. James Francis, Colorado State University, to chair the Postgraduate Scholarship Committee selection committees for Districts 1, 5 and 7, respectively, effective in January 1994, replacing Irwin M. Cohen, Marjorie B. Giles and Jim G. Malik, whose Council terms expire
- f. Agreed that the executive director is authorized to approve surveys of the membership proposed by NCAA committees when there is no new funding involved; emphasized that the NCAA research staff should develop or review all such survey
- g. Denied a request by the University of Virginia for an incidental-expense waiver per Bylaw 16.13.1 to permit the institution to pay the expenses of the parents of a student-athlete to travel to and attend an awards banquet at which the student-athlete would be honored, noting precedent for providing parents with tickets to such an event but not with other expenses.

- 2. Acting for the Executive Committee, the Administrative Committee:
- a. Denied a request by the Two-Year College Relations Committee for a waiver of Bylaw 31.7.2.1.5 to permit the committee to conduct its spring 1994 meeting in Dallas instead of Kansas City, Missouri, noting that there would be minimal cost savings, if any, in using the Dallas location.
- b. Agreed to recommend to the Executive Committee that the Association support plans by a member of the Presidents Commission to request on behalf of the NCAA a grant from the Knight Foundation to support the initial work in the integrity and sportsmanship topic identified by the Commission as the primary topic in its strategic plan between now and January
- 3. Acting for the Council and the Executive Committee, the Administrative Confirmed that its next telephone conference will be at 2 p.m. Central time December 15, that an additional telephone conference will be held at 2 p.m. December 29 only if necessary and that the final conference of the 1993 Administrative Committee will be at 4 p.m. January 6 at the Marriott Rivercenter Hotel in San Antonio.

- 4. Report of actions taken by the executive director per Constitution 4.3.2.
- a. Acting for the Council:
- (1) Granted per Bylaw 11.7.1.1.1.2 requests by Boston College and Northeast Louisiana University for temporary replacement of coaches in men's ice hockey and football, respectively.

Ten Reasons To Consider Adding WOMEN'S WATER POLO

COST Compared to other sports, water polo is extremely cost effective (Studies indicate that water polo is the most cost effective of all intercollegiate sports.) EXISTING FACILITIES USE No special facilities are required, other than your existing pool, and the season does not begin until after swimming season is over. GENDER EQUITY Women's water polo provides from 25 to 35 competitive oppor-

NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP As an emerging sport, only 40 varsity programs are required to establish an NCAA championship.

COMPETITION Women's intercollegiate club programs exist throughout the country with the potential to go "varsity." United States Water Polo currently sponsors a National Championship for Division I and Division III schools.

ATHLETES Women students with a competitive swimming background number in the hundreds of thousands, many of whom have played water polo at some level. SUPPORT United States Water Polo, Inc., the national governing body, will provide educational grants for clinics and seminars for coaches and players.

GROWTH Women's water polo is one of the fastest-growing sports in the world. Women's water polo is a recognized FINA World Championship event and it has the support of the Sydney Organizing Committee for Olympic status in the 2000

HISTORY Men's water polo is an NCAA championship event and is the oldest team sport in the Olympic Games.

WOMEN'S WATER POLO IS A GREAT TEAM SPORT AND IT IS FUN TO PLAY

USA Today periodically will publish top-20 polls for the Directors' Cup, as NCAA championships are completed throughout the academic year.

Legislation

Deregulation package pertaining to recruiting to get first test from membership at Convention

viewed in the November 22 issue of The NCAA News). Although those 12 proposals are the last to appear in the Official Notice of the Convention, they will be acted upon in the recruiting grouping and will be voted on separately in the appropriate business sessions.

The proposals—which seek actions ranging from the simplification of existing legislation to the elimination of provisions deemed unnecessary or obsolete—are the first to result from what the Legislative Review Committee anticipates will be a five-year effort to review various bylaws for deregulation opportunities.

The NCAA Council, which has endorsed the committee's project, agreed to place the recruiting deregulation proposals on the Convention agenda as a package.

Package features

Proposals in the package include:

■ Two measures to eliminate the prohibition against visiting a prospect's high school more than once a week during a contact period.

One of those proposals would affect all Divisions I and II sports except football and basketball, while the other offers the membership the option of including those two sports.

In its rationale statements for the proposals, the committee observes that abuses in this area occur primarily in football and basketball, but it suggests that the reduction of administrative and compliance burdens created by the legislation is of greater benefit than maintaining the prohibition.

■ A proposal to eliminate restrictions on the number of telephone calls that can be made to a prospective student-athlete in Divisions I and II sports other than football and basketball. The legislation would prohibit such calls before July 1 after a prospect's junior year in high school.

That proposal is related to a deregulation proposal in the Presidents Commission grouping that proposes elimination of the one-call-per-week restriction during contact periods in Divisions I and II football and adoption of the July 1 start date for telephone contacts in that sport.

■ A measure to eliminate restrictions on publicity for the recruitment of prospective studentathletes in sports other than football and basketball. The purpose of the proposal is to eliminate overregulation while giving a boost to underpublicized sports.

Also in the package are proposals that would simplify legislation—for example, by significantly shortening the list of activities that would constitute recruitment of a prospective student-athlete and by shortening the list of specific examples of "unavoidable incidental contacts" with prospects. Other proposals would cut back restrictions on physical workouts during campus visits or on employment of student-athletes in camps and clinics that currently are applicable only in Division I.

Other recruiting measures

In addition to the deregulation package, the recruiting grouping includes 14 proposals sponsored by the Council or by member institutions

The Council-sponsored measures include a proposal to require institutions to provide a hearing to a student-athlete who is denied permission to discuss a transfer with another institution or is denied the written release required for immediate eligibility under the one-time transfer exception.

It also is proposing:

- An end to Divisions I and II institutions' use of services that provide published recruiting or scouting information about prospects in football and basketball.
- Measures pertaining to sports camps and clinics, including a proposal that would make any noninstitutional basketball event during the July evaluation period—not only basketball camps—subject to certification by the Association. That proposal is aimed at camps that have changed their format to avoid certification requirements recently adopted in Division I.

The Council also is opposing three membership proposals in the grouping, including a Division II proposal that would permit evaluation of prospects at any men's high-school all-star game within the state where the evaluating school is located and a Division I proposal permitting schools to provide special parking at an athletics event for a prospect making an unofficial visit.

It also is opposing a Division II football proposal that would make dates for permissible telephone contacts with prospects consistent with those in Divisions I-A and I-AA football, but that measure would become moot if the proposal in the deregulation package pertaining to telephone calls is adopted.

Amateurism

Heading a group of 13 proposals in the awards/expenses/amateurism grouping is a measure that would permit a basketball studentathlete to enter a professional basketball league's draft and then regain eligibility for intercollegiate competition within 30 days of the draft

The proposal, developed by the NCAA Professional Sports Liaison Committee, would make basketball more consistent with ice hockey or baseball. Basketball student-athletes currently must give permission to be included in the National Basketball Association draft—an act that requires the athlete to forfeit collegiate eligibility—while ice hockey and baseball athletes can be included in a draft without giving permission.

Also in the grouping are two proposals resulting from recommendations of the NCAA Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Intercollegiate Athletics. The proposals—which the Council will sponsor without taking a position—would eliminate training-table meals outside the playing season for student-athletes and end schools' practice of providing off-campus housing on the night before a regular-season home game.

The purpose of both proposals is to achieve cost savings.

Other proposals in the grouping address such topics as the sale of trading cards featuring student-athletes, payment of an athlete for appearances in commercial advertisements before that athlete enrolls in college, permissible expenses for athletes preparing for international competition and for their families, elimination of restrictions on whom a student-athlete may place on a pass list for complimentary admission to an athletics event, and student-athlete travel-expense restrictions.

Summary

Following is a summary of the proposals in the awards/expenses/amateurism and recruiting groupings. Also indicated are the sponsors, positions taken (if any) by the Council, actions resulting from committee review of the proposal (if any), and the business session in which the proposal would be acted on.

Awards/expenses/amateurism

No. 120: Permit a student-athlete in basketball to enter a professional league's draft without jeopardizing eligibility in that sport, as long as the student-athlete declares the intention to resume intercollegiate basketball participation within 30 days after the draft. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Professional Sports Liaison Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No 121: Prohibit the sale of player trading cards (bearing the names or pictures of student-athletes who have eligibility remaining) as a permissible promotional activity. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Communications Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No. 122: Permit an individual to receive payment for the display of athletics skill in a commercial advertisement before enrollment in college, as long as the U.S. Olympic Committee or an appropriate national governing body approves of the content and the production of the advertisement and the funds are forwarded to the U.S. Olympic Committee or national governing body and are not earmarked for the individual. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Olympic Sports Liaison Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No. 123: Permit the spouse, parents, legal guardians or other relatives of an individual who will participate in the Olympic Games to receive travel expenses to attend the Games from a commercial company or members of the local community without jeopardizing the individual's intercollegiate athletics eligibility. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Olympic Spons Liaison Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No. 124: Permit an individual to receive actual and necessary expenses for developmental training programs conducted at any time during the year, as long as the individual misses no class time and the program does not conflict with the individual's participation in institutional competition. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Olympic Sports Liaison Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No. 125: Prohibit a sports agent from being appointed to an institution's professional sports counseling panel. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Professional Sports Liaison Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No. 126: Preclude Division I institutions from providing training-table meals to student-athletes outside the playing season. Sponsored by the Council with no position taken; recommended by the Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Intercollegiate Athletics. Divisions I and 1-A business sessions.

No. 127: Eliminate special pregame housing for student-athletes before regularseason competition at home. Sponsored by the Council with no position taken; recommended by the Special Committee to Review Financial Conditions in Intercollegiate Athletics. Divisions I, I-A and III business

No. 128: Permit an institution to pay the fee charged by the NCAA Initial-Eligibility Clearinghouse to establish the initial-eligibility status of a nonrecruited student-athlete. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Special Committee to Oversee Implementation of the NCAA Initial-Eligibility Clearinghouse. Divisions I and II business sessions.

No. 129: Eliminate restrictions on whom a student-athlete may place on a pass list to receive complimentary admissions. Sponsored by the Atlantic Coast Conference. Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism position: None. Opposed by the Council. Division I business session.

No. 130: Eliminate the travel-expense exception for travel after regular-season competition during a vacation period. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Interpretations Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No. 131: Limit the application of the travel-expense formula in Bylaw 16.8.1.4.1 to travel in conjunction with NCAA championships or postseason bowl games, thus eliminating the need for an institution to define a "special event." Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Interpretations Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

No. 132: Permit student-athletes to receive expenses from an institution or conference to attend conference, regional or national student-athlete advisory committee meetings. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee. General business session; all divisions voting together.

Recruiting

No 133: Require an institutional appeals process for student-athletes who are denied permission to contact institutions about transferring or in the event an institution does not provide certification that it has no objection to a transfer and immediate eligibility under the one-time transfer exception. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee. Divisions I, II and III business sessions.

No. 134: In Division I, specify in all sports that an evaluation occurs at a prospect's practice or competition only if the prospect is observed practicing or competing. Sponsored by the Atlantic Coast Conference. Recruiting Committee position: Support. Division I business session.

No. 135: Prohibit the use of published recruiting or scouting services, but continue to allow an institution to use video scouting services. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Recruiting Committee. Divisions 1 and 11 business sessions.

No. 135-1: Amend No. 135 to permit the use of published recruiting services in sports other than football and basketball. Sponsored by the Council. Divisions I and II business sessions.

No. 136: Specify that a member of an institution's coaching staff may not participate in coaching activities involving any nonscholastic-based basketball teams competing primarily during the summer, rather than only Amateur Athletic Union teams. Sponsored by the Council; recommended by the Recruiting Committee. Divisions I, II and III business sessions.

No. 137: Permit a prospective studentathlete participating in a Division II tryout to participate against a member institution's team at any time during the academic year, rather then only during the team's playing season. Sponsored by the Council, Division II business session.

No. 138: Specify that Division II men's basketball coaches may evaluate prospects during any men's high-school all-star game that occurs within the state in which the member institution is located. Sponsored by eight Division II members. Recruiting Committee position: Support. Opposed by the Council. Division II business session.

No. 139: In Division II football, prohibit telephone contact with a prospective student-athlete before August 15 after completion of the prospect's junior year in high school, limit telephone contact to once per week from August 15 through November 30, permit telephone contacts with a prospective student-athlete at the institution's discretion between December 1 and February 15, and limit telephone contact from February 16 through August 14 of the prospect's senior year to once per week. Sponsored by 11 Division II members. Recruiting Committee position: Support. Opposed by the Council. Division II business session.

No. 140: Permit Division I institutions to use a toll-free (1-800) telephone number to receive telephone calls from prospective student-athletes. Sponsored by 17 Division I members. Recruiting Committee position: None. Supported by the Council for Division I-A; no position taken for the remainder of Division I. Divisions 1 and I-A business sessions.

No. 141: Eliminate the requirement that

NCAA Men's Committee on Committees and the NCAA Academic Requirements Committee. He also has served on the Special Committee on Deregulation and Rules Simplification (1985-1989), the Special Committee to Review NCAA Legislative Procedures

(1992) and the Voting Committee (1987-88).

Gautt is the second person from the Big Eight staff or a Big Eight institution to serve as an NCAA officer. Earl S. Fullbrook, faculty athletics representative at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, was secretary-treasurer from 1952 to 1954. Gautt was a standout running back at the University of Oklahoma in the late 1950s under coach Bud Wilkinson. He was the first black student-athlete at Oklahoma, and although he endured taunts and insults after he broke the color barrier, he ended up being one of the most popular Oklahoma players ever.

He was named the most valuable player in his final collegiate game, the 1959 Orange Bowl. He also was a two-time all-Big Eight first-team selection and also won academic all-America honors.

He played professionally for eight years, seven with the St. Louis Cardinals. He later coached at the University of Missouri, Columbia, and became the athletics department's academic counselor and counseling psychologist. He earned his Ph.D. in counseling psychology from Missouri and continues to have a limited psychology practice today.

Gautt's wife, Sandy, is an associate vice-chancellor at the University of Kansas.

Supreme Court lets reinstatement ruling stand

The U.S. Supreme Court

Colorado State, citing budgetary problems, dropped its baseball and women's softball programs in June 1992. Members of the softball team sucd, charging the school with violations of Title IX regulations.

Two lower courts ruled in their favor and ordered the school to reinstate the team. The Supreme Court allowed those rulings to stand without comment, according to The Associated Press.

State officials had argued that the university was wrongly found to have acted illegally because there was no gender-based discrimination. Their appeal also contended that a Federal judge exceeded her authority in ordering softball reinstated.

At the time the sport was November 29 refused to vacate a dropped, Colorado State fielded court order requiring Colorado eight varsity women's teams and State University to field a women's — seven varsity men's teams. But 77 percent of the school's spending on intercollegiate athletics went for > While women composed 48.2 percent of the undergraduate student population, women studentathletes were 37.7 percent of Colorado State varsity athletes.

> Based on that disparity, U.S. District Judge Zita Weinshienk in Denver ruled female athletics participation at Colorado State was not "substantially proportionate to female enrollment" and therefore found that dropping the softball program was illegal.

> The judge also cited the school's "failure to demonstrate a history of program expansion for women and...effective accommodation of female students' interests and abilities.'

She ordered Colorado State to for some fall play. The team participated in two tournaments and is to begin a full spring schedule in March.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Weinshienk's ruling in July, rejecting the university's argument that intentional discrimination must be shown before a Title IX violation can be found.

The appeals court also said the judge was justified in ordering the softball program reinstated, rather than giving the school a chance to decide how to comply with Title IX.

In their appeal to the Supreme Court, attorneys for the school said Federal appeals courts have reached conflicting rulings on whether the law "bars only intentional discrimination or whether it places upon educational institutions affirmative obligations to reinstate the softball team in time—ensure that the gender composition of their athletics departments mirrors the gender composition of their student bodies."

The appeal said the issue "affects" virtually every educational institution in the country."

Colorado State's arguments were supported in friend-of-the-court briefs submitted by the American Council on Education, the College Football Association and the National Wrestling Coaches Association.

Attorneys representing most of the members of the softball team urged the justices to reject the appeal. They said the university's defense boils down to: "We are only doing what everybody else is doing."

MCC adds six schools

The Midwestern Collegiate Conference December 9 announced the addition of six new members that currently are in the Mid-Continent Conference, thus giving the expanded league at least nine schools through the 1996-97 season and restoring its automatic bid to the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship beginning in 1995.

The new members are the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee; University of Illinois, Chicago; Northern Illinois University; Cleveland State University; Wright State University, and University of Wisconsin, Green Bay.

Those schools join current Midwestern Collegiate Conference members Butler University, University of Detroit Mercy, University of Evansville, Loyola University (Illinois), Xavier University (Ohio) and La Salle University, as well as the University of Notre Dame, which is a member in all sports except men's basketball.

Evansville has announced that it will leave at the end of the year to join the Missouri Valley Conference, while the status of Xavier (Ohio), La Salle and Notre Dame will be determined later, MCC Commissioner Jonathan B. Le-Crone said.

In the past two years, the University of Dayton and Duquesne University also left the MCC to join other conferences, leaving the league's future in doubt.

"We have worked very, very hard," LeCrone told The Associated Press. "This has been a collective and cooperative effort from the whole grouping of institutions."

"At times it's been frustrating...there were a number of press people, I think, that were waiting for us to have a funeral, and what we're announcing today is a wedding."

He said the expansion had been in the works for more than a year and that adding even more teams in the future is possible.

"We have always had a fairly aggressive expansion strategy, and the process has been fairly complex. But they have been on our prospective-member board for some time," he said of the new members, all state-supported col-

CORRECTION

Due to incorrect information provided to The NCAA News, team and individual results from the Division I Men's Cross Country Championships were reported incorrectly in the November 29 issue. Two runners who finished the race were not listed in results of the individual competition at the meet. Ryan Clive-Smith of Kansas State and Brian Ashworth of Miami (Ohio), finished Nos. 127 and 128, respectively. The addition of Ashworth to the final results improved the finish of his team from 17th to 16th place, with 354 points. As a result, Miami (Ohio) moved ahead of Oklahoma State (with an adjusted total of 381 points) in the team standings. The place-finish of other teams remains unchanged, but the scores of several teams in addition to Miami (Ohio) and Oklahoma State changed as a result of the correction of the individual results. Those changes, by place-finish, are: 9. Wisconsin, 292; 10. Michigan, 296; 11. Boston U., 304; 12. Portland, 307: 18. Tennessee, 409: 19. Iona, 416; 21. Florida, 459; 22. Texas, 536.

Deaths

Steven M. Gilbert and Kristov M. Knobloch, former football players at Albion, were killed in an automobile accident December 5 in Sheridan Township, Michigan. Gilbert was 22 and Knobloch was 23. Gilbert, who served as a volunteer assistant coach at Albion this year, won the NCAA Division III javelin championship in 1991 and 1993. Knobloch was the most valuable defensive player in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association in 1992 after leading the Britons with 86 tackles.

Leo Paquin, who played with Vince Lombardi on Fordham's "Seven Blocks of Granite" football line in the 1930s, died December 2 in Rutherford, New Jersey. He was 83. Paquin, who was inducted into Fordham's hall of fame in 1974, helped lead the Rams to a 5-1-2 mark and a No. 15 national ranking during his senior season in 1936.

Tom Scott, former athletics director at Davidson and a former basketball coach there and at North Carolina, died November 24 in Charlotte, North Carolina. He was 85. ### 1993 Column No. 45

NCAA Bylaw 15.2.4.2 Exempted government grants

During its October 11-12, 1993, meeting, the NCAA Council reviewed the application of Bylaw 15.2.4.2 to various Federal entitlement programs, including the G.I. Bill of Rights and other educational benefits for veterans. The Council utilized the provisions of NCAA Constitution 5.4.1.1.1 (modification of wording) to amend the provisions of Bylaw 15.2.4.2 as follows:

- 1. Replace the G.I. Bill of Rights in Bylaw 15.2.4.2-(a) with the Montgomery G.I. Bill—Active Duty and the Montgomery G.I. Bill—Selected Reserve.
- 2. Substitute the Dependents Education Assistance Program (DEAP) for the War Orphans Educational Program in Bylaw 15.2.4.2-(c), inasmuch as the war orphans program was renamed 17 years ago.
- 3. Specifically list the Reinstated Entitlement Program for Survivors (REPS) as part of the Social Security Insurance Program referenced in Bylaw 15.2.4.2-(c), inasmuch as the REPS is a component of the Social Security Insurance Program rather than a separate Veterans Benefit Program.

Further, the Council utilized the provisions of Constitution 5.3.1.1.1 (noncontroversial amendment) to amend the provisions of Bylaw 15.2.4.2 to include the Vocational Rehabilitation for Service-Disabled Veterans Program and the Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP) as exempted government grants under Bylaw 15.2.4.2.

NCAA Bylaw 15.2.4.1 Pell Grants

NCAA institutions should note that a student-athlete may receive a Pell Grant in combination with other institutional financial aid, provided the overall grant total does not exceed the value of a full grant-in-aid plus $2,400 in Division I institutions or $900 in Division II or III institutions, or the student-athlete's cost of attendance per Bylaw 15.01.7, whichever is less. Please note, however, that during its October 11-12, 1993, meeting, the Council utilized the provisions of Constitution 5.3.1.1.1 to amend Bylaw 15.2.4.1 to make the legislation applicable only to Divisions I and II institutions, inasmuch as in Division III a full grant-in-aid and cost of attendance are defined in the same way, so the cost of attendance always will be less than a full grant-in-aid plus $900 in Pell Grant funds.

NCAA Bylaw 30.10.5-(e)-(1)
Division I football—dead period during the American Football Coaches Association convention

Division Linstitutions should note that the 1993-94 Manual

(Figure 13-5, page 113) incorrectly indicates that there is a dead period from January 10-13, 1994. In accordance with Bylaw 30.10.5-(e)-(1), a dead period exists during the American Football Coaches Association's convention, which is scheduled for January 10-12, 1994. Thus, the dead period runs from January 10 to 12, 1994; and from January 13, 1994, through 8 a.m. January 31, 1994, a contact period would be in effect.

In addition, Figure 13-5 incorrectly indicates that there is a contact period from February 5 at 8 a.m. through February 7, 1994. The calendar should indicate that there is a contact period from February 4 at 8 a.m. through February 7, 1994.

Julie F. Bremner UCLA

Florida State.

Volleyball

Bremner is a senior setter on the Bruins' volleyball team that won the Division I women's championship in 1991, finished second in 1992 and advanced to the regionals in 1993. With Bremner in the starting lineup, UCLA is 81-4 over a three-year span. She is one of the nation's leaders in assists and as the Bruins' lone returning starter this year was instrumental in helping an inexperienced group of hitters rank among team leaders in the Pacific-10 Conference.

She was named the Pac-10 player of the year in 1993 and is a two-time all Pac-10 selection. She also is a two-time member of the U.S. National Team, which finished second in the 1992 World University Games, the team's best finish ever.

An all-Pac-10 academic selection, Bremner has compiled a 3.311 grade-point average while earning a degree in physiological science.

Volleyball

Haller holds the Southern California career record for digs with 1,702, and her 1,528 kills made her the only player in school history to reach the 1,500 kill/1,500 dig mark. She is a two-time team captain and helped her squad advance to the Division I championship regionals in 1991 and 1992 and to the second round in this year's expanded bracket.

Haller is a 1992 GTE academic all-American, a three-time all-Pac-10 academic choice and a perennial dean's list member. She has compiled a 3.950 grade-point average while earning a degree in exercise science, and she hopes to attend medical school after graduation in May.

She volunteers with Special Olympics and as a physical therapist for a local hospital. She also is a volleyball camp instructor for underprivileged children.

Katy L. Jameyson Texas

Volleyball

A two-time all-American and 1993 national player-of-the-year candidate, Jameyson leads a Texas squad that has been ranked as high as No. 2 this season and advanced to the regionals in the Division I championship. She averages nearly three kills per game and is second on the team in hitting percentage. She helped Texas set a Southwest Conference team block-assist record of 26 with her season-high nine blocks against the University of Houston.

Jameyson is pursuing a degree in health promotions and fitness and has compiled a grade-point average of 3.034. She received a Donna Lopiano scholarship in 1990, a Darrell Royal endowed scholarship in 1992 and a Kenneth Sims endowed scholarship in 1993.

She is a participant in the Neighborhood Longhorns program, which provides role models for at-risk youth throughout the Austin community.

Amy M. Sullivan Washington (Missouri) Volleyball

Sullivan has helped lead the Bears to three consecutive Division III championships, including this year's three-game sweep over host Juniata College in the championship match. In that match, Sullivan scored eight service aces to add to her career NCAA-leading total. She also holds an NCAA mark for aces with 14 in one match.

During Sullivan's three-year tenure at Washington, the Bears are 126-6, including a 59-match winning streak overall and a 77-match winning streak against Division III opponents. She is a three-time all-American and was named the University Athletic Association player of the year in 1992.

A Rhodes scholar candidate who hopes to attend medical school, Sullivan has carned a 3.850 gradepoint average while majoring in biology. She is a National Merit Scholar, a perennial dean's list member and a member of Golden Key. Sullivan also is a weekly volunteer at the Hope Center for Abused Children and at a local retirement center. She also has been a clinician at 33 youth sports camps.

TEAMLINE to broadcast Convention

Live coverage of the 1994 NCAA Convention in San Antonio will be available via the telephone services of TEAMLINE, beginning with the opening business session January 9.

"This is the second year that staff members of NCAA affiliated universities, media members and the general public will be able to listen to live gavel-to-gavel coverage of the NCAA Convention over the telephone," said Thomas R. Zawistowski, president of TRZ Sports Services, Inc., which operates TEAM-LINE.

The service is best known for offering live play-by-play broadcasts of college and professional sports.

Those wishing to listen to Convention sessions scheduled for January 9 through 12 can do so by calling a toll-free telephone number, 800/846-4700. Callers will be asked for the four-digit access code assigned to the NCAA for the Convention, which is 6222 (or "NCAA").

Charges for listening to the broadcast can be paid with Visa or Mastercard. The charges are between 50 cents and 20 cents per minute, depending on how long the caller listens. Listening for two hours will cost approximately $28.

"We are very excited about being able to provide live national coverage of the NCAA Convention this year on TEAMLINE," Zawistowski said. "One of the goals of TRZ Communications Services (of which TRZ Sports Services is a division) is to apply our technology to live broadcasts over the telephone to nonsports areas.

"Using the Convention format gives us a chance to demonstrate our unique technical abilities."
