Commission to face range of major issues

A variety of important agenda items - including academic initial-eligibility standards, membership restructuring and how to proceed with discussion of a Division I-A football championship - will face the NCAA Presidents Commission when it meets June 28-29 in Kansas City, Missouri.

The Commission also will devote substantial time to a report on student-athlete welfare, access and equity - the topic in the Commission's strategic plan for the 1995 NCAA Convention.

The Presidents Commission meeting will be preceded by a June 26-27 meeting of the NCAA Joint Policy Board. The Board, made up of the NCAA Administrative Committee and the executive committee of the Presidents Commission, is expected to appoint a Special Committee on Membership Restructuring.

The Joint Policy Board also is expected to act on a request from the NCAA Special Committee to Study a Division I-A Football Championship to extend its examination of the complex issues surrounding a playoff. That committee originally was to have made a recommendation for or against a playoff for the Commission to consider at this meeting. However, after two meetings, the committee concluded that it needed more time to evaluate a broad range of topics, among them revenue distribution, format and impact on student-athletes.

The Commission meeting will begin the morning of June 28 with a meeting of the Commission's executive committee, which includes Commission chair Judith E. N. Albino, president of the University of Colorado; Division I chair Eamon M. Kelly, Tulane University; Division II chair Judith A. Ramaley, Portland State University, and Division III chair Claire L. Gaudiani, Connecticut College.

The executive committee will review academic requirements and initial-eligibility matters contained in the report of the NCAA Special Committee to Review Initial-Eligibility Standards. That committee recently recommended a delay until August 1996 in the implementation of any new initialeligibility standards for Division I. It also recommended replacement legislation for 1992 Convention Proposal No. 16, endorsing a new scale that requires a minimum 2.000 grade-point average (4.000 scale) in 13 core courses but uses no endpoints for standardized test scores (see the June 15 issue of The NCAA News).

The executive committee also will discuss restructuring plans and the process for approaching that topic. Another agenda item involves Presidents Commission consultants.

The three division subcommittees meet the afternoon of June 28. Specific items up for discussion include the following:

Legislative deadline July 15

Due to a change this year in the legislative calendar, NCAA institutions and conferences have until July 15 to submit legislative proposals for the Association's 1995 Convention.

As a result of the adoption of 1994 Convention Proposal No. 19, the deadline for submission of proposals has been moved from the previous deadline of July 1.

Other requirements for submission of proposals are unchanged.

Again this year, a minimum of eight active member institutions are required to sponsor an amendment not sponsored by the NCAA Presidents Commission, Council or a division steering committee.

A proposal must be signed by the chief executive officer of a sponsoring institution or by the CEO's designee. CEOs must notify the Association's national office in writing of individuals designated to sign a proposal.

The chief elected or executive officer of a voting member conference (such as a conference commissioner) can submit legislation

North Carolina women's buzzer-beater heads list of fantastic finishes in 1993-94

By Ronald D. Mott THE NCAA NEWS STAFF

In about the time it takes to utter the word "unbelievable," Charlotte Smith did something that seemed to suspend reality for a moment. In only seven-tenths of a second, Smith became the focal point of a highlight reel that undoubtedly will be replayed many times in the years to come.

Smith

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, basketball player sank a game-winning three-point basket at the buzzer to lift the Tar Heels to a 60-59 victory over Louisiana Tech University and their first Division I Women's Basketball Championship title April 3.

Smith's feat — which set off a raucous boom in the Richmond Coliseum in Richmond, Virginia, and around the nation — stands as one of the most memorable moments of a recently concluded year of NCAA championships.

"I knew I had to do it," said Smith, who finished the game with 20 points and 23 rebounds, the latter a championship-game record. "It was an order from the coach, and

Beating the clock

Unlikely? You bet. But Charlotte Smith of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, hit a three-point shot at the buzzer to give the Tar Heels the Division I Women's Basketball Championship.

I had to keep confidence in myself. I want to commend my teammates for helping me keep my composure."

"We changed the play twice," said North Carolina coach Sylvia Hatchell. "They took the first play that we called away from us. I told (a player) if that happened to call a timeout and she did. Then we changed the play in the huddle, and I told the team that we were going for the win, not the tie."

Hatchell said she knew the shot was going in immediately after Smith released it. As the ball fell through the net, the coach said reality held for a moment and then vanished.

'As soon as it left her hand, you could tell it was right on course," Hatchell said recently. "She let it go with two-tenths of a second left on the clock. Her foot was an inch and a half behind the line.'

For the Tar Heels, winning a national title capped a reversal of fortune. Just three years before, North Carolina was at the bottom of the Atlantic Coast Conference standings. But in 1993-94, the program soared to the top of the conference and took its place among the powers in women's college basketball.

Next year, the challenge will be greater.

"People's expectations are going to be higher," Hatchell said. "I will be tougher on this year's team because everybody wants a piece

Joint Policy Board considers extension request

The NCAA Joint Policy Board will consider a request by the NCAA Special Committee to Study a Division I-A Football Championship to provide it with more time to properly evaluate several important issues related to a Division I-A playoff.

Assuming the Joint Policy Board grants the extension to the special committee, a subcommittee will be formed to give further attention to the impact of a championship on student-athletes (including the loss of free time, the future of spring football, and possible compensation and/or benefits), the distribution of revenue from such a championship, the impact of restructuring and concerns about an increased emphasis on sports at institutions. The Joint Policy Board meets June 26-27 in Kansas City, Missouri.

Charles E. Young, chancellor of the University of California, Los Angeles, and chair of the special committee, said at the conclusion of a June 2-3 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, that football-playoff legislation is unlikely at the January NCAA Convention.

include a sliding scale of initial-eligibility standards keyed to an SAT score of 650 and a grade-point average of 2.400 (4.000 scale). The committee also recommended that a minimum grade-point average of 2.000 must be achieved in 13 core courses.

According to the committee's proposal, no minimum cutoff would exist for standardized test scores. The scale would range from a

2.000 GPA and an 810 (or higher) SAT to a 3.000 GPA and a 410 SAT.

The committee also recommended a delay of one year in the effective date of any new initial-eligibility legislation for Division I. Currently, 1992 Convention Proposal No. 16 is to take effect August 1, 1995.

Restructuring

Members' restructuring proposals due by August 31

Those interested in submitting NCAA membership restructuring proposals have until August 31 to do so.

The original deadline was March 1, but in February, the NCAA Joint Policy Board moved the deadline back. At the time, the Joint Policy Board said that while legislation is still possible for the 1995 Convention, it preferred that the 1995 event be used instead as a forum for discussion of the matter, with legislation to be considered at the 1996 Convention

In a related matter, the Joint Policy Board is expected to appoint an NCAA Special Committee on Membership Restructuring at its June 26-27 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

Staff contacts: Tricia Bork and Stephen R. Morgan.

Ethical conduct

Committee to discuss sportsmanship, integrity issues

A committee of the NCAA Presidents Commission will discuss ethical conduct and sportsmanship issues at a June 23 meeting in Chicago.

Sportsmanship and ethical conduct in intercollegiate athletics is the 1996 Convention topic in the strategic plan of the Presidents Commission.

William E. Shelton, president of Eastern Michigan University, is chair of the committee Staff contact: Francis M. Canavan. Next meeting: June 23 in Chicago.

It's a wash: car and jersey

Clark Wagner certainly got more bang for his buck when he cleaned his vehicle at a car wash. In addition to spraying around the rims and blasting dirt away from the rocker panels, Wagner removed grass and dirt stains from his baseball uniform.

As a freshman on the Missouri Southern State College baseball team, Wagner and a teammate discovered how effective high-powered water hoses at the car wash are when it comes to removing tough stains from baseball pants. The rest, as you might predict, is a wash.

"We used to always put our uniforms on the ground and scrub them with a brush to get the grass stains out," Wagner told the Joplin (Missouri) Globe. "Then one day we were washing our cars and noticed how powerful the stream of water was and how clean it got the cars. We wondered if maybe it was powerful enough to get the grass stains out of our uniforms."

Wagner, a senior this year, lauds the carwash method of cleaning baseball uniforms.

"It worked great," he said. "The stains came out a lot easier than when we got down on our hands and knees and tried to scrub them out."

Monetary impact

The success of the Marshall University football team is well known. The Thundering Herd has played in the last three Division I-AA championship games and won the national title in 1992.

But the program's positive influence on the local economy is just as impressive.

According to a report released June 9 by Calvin A. Kent, dean of the university's college of business, Marshall's football program had an $18.6 million impact on the city of Huntington and Cabell County, West Virginia. That figure included the team's regular-season games only. Marshall hosted three playoff games and the national-championship game last winter.

"Marshall football has the same economic effect as a major industrial plant in the county," Kent said. "At a time in which there is concern about the economic future of the Huntington area, Marshall football is a major growth industry."

The study concludes that Marshall's football program generated $10.6 million in increased wages and compensation and was a factor in the creation of 560 full- and parttime jobs in the county.

The initial economic impact of the team's regular season was found to be $9.5 million, including additional personal income of $5.4 million and the creation of 360 jobs. Standard multipliers used to determine secondary spending and jobs creation resulted in the $18.6 million overall impact figure and the $10.6 million.

Pac-10 TV deal

The Pacific-10 Conference has reached a tentative agreement with Liberty Sports to broadcast that league's football games and other events to a national cable audience through the year 2000.

Beginning in 1995, Liberty Sports annually will air live 18 Pac-10 football games to its network of regional cable affiliates. In addition, Liberty will supplement the Pac-10's 1994 cable coverage on the Prime Ticket Network. The agreement gives Liberty Sports exclusive national and regional cable rights to Pac-10 football. ABC holds the network rights to Pac-10 football.

"The Pacific-10 Conference is delighted to enter into this agreement," said Thomas C. Hansen, Pacific-10 commissioner. "Liberty Sports is a fast-growing and dynamic network of regional cable systems that presents a tremendous opportunity to the conference.

"This agreement not only will showcase Pac-10 football to an expanding national audience, but will afford the conference the opportunity to provide exposure for a wide range of sports, both men's and women's."

I Milestones

Denise Fiore and Roger Kindel, women's and men's basketball coaches, respectively, at Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison, reached milestones during the 1993-94 season. Fiore registered her 100th victory and Kindel captured his 200th win.

Bob Hannah, baseball coach at the University of Delaware, recorded his 800th career win this year with a 20-7 defeat of the University of Maryland, College Park.

M. A. Kelling, women's basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, won her 300th game last season.

Gary Rundles and Vickee Kazee-Hollifield, baseball and women's softball coach, respectively, at Carson-Newman College, reached career coaching milestones recently. Rundles won his 200th game March 19 as the Eagles beat Gardner-Webb University, 10-9, and Kazee-Hollifield recorded victory No. 300 when Carson-Newman defeated Bluefield College, 4-0, April 13.

Al Zoccolillo won his 300th career baseball game April 30 when the Gaels of Iona College defeated St. Peter's College, 11-3. Zoccolillo is in his 14th season of coaching at the college level -- seven years at Iona and seven at Concordia College (New York).

Betty Hoff reached the 400-victory plateau April 23 when her women's softball team at Luther College beat Wantburg College, 8-5. Hoff has coached softball at Luther since 1969.

Terrie Grieb, women's softball coach at Bucknell University, recorded her 200th career victory in a 5-2 win over College of the Holy Cross April 30.

Winona State University baseball coach Gary Grob became the most-victorious college baseball coach in Minnesota with 755 wins when his team defeated Southwest State University, 19-13, May 13. Grob eclipsed former University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, coach Dick Siebert, who won 754 games.

March E. Ziegler, baseball coach at MacMurray College, registered his 100th collegiate coaching victory April 18 when MacMurray beat Blackburn College, 10-1.

Owen Wright won his 500th baseball game February 12 when his University of La Verne squad defeated Claremont McKenna-Harvey Mudd-Scripps Colleges.

Millersville University of Pennsylvania baseball coach Joseph Abromaitis tabulated victory No. 300 of his career April 22 with a 5-2 win over Alvernia College.

Sportsmanship issue should be a priority

By Steve Hamilton MOREHEAD STATE UNIVERSITY

As a former high-school, college and professional athlete and as a current college athletics administrator, I am concerned with the direction that athletics contests are taking.

The taunting and baiting of opponents is now common in amateur athletics, from the little leagues through the colleges. Degrading an opponent seems to be as important to many of our athletes as playing hard and winning or losing with class. In my opinion, directors of athletics have a responsibility to ensure that their coaches and athletes understand and abide by the principles of good sportsmanship and ethical behavior.

The directors of athletics and faculty athletics representatives of Ohio Valley Conference member institutions felt that something positive should be done to promote ethical behavior. We formed a committee, at the direction of the league presidents and Commissioner R. Daniel Beebe, to explore what we could do within our league to ensure that our players, coaches, administrators, spirit groups, game officials and fans would adhere to proper principles of sportsmanship.

As institutions of higher education, we feel that athletes should learn lessons other than using profanity, trash-talking and trying to "show up" opponents. We have created a league sportsmanship statement that has met with the approval of the presidents, athletics administrators and coaches of each Ohio Valley Conference institution. We intend to make our athletics contests more enjoyable for participants and fans, and this will happen because everyone involved has "bought in" to the concept. The statement may not be perfect, but it is a start. We can always make improvement with experience. We are not trying to eliminate hard, emotional play by our athletes, nor do we want to curb the enthusiasm of our fans. We expect our fans to be vocal and to support our teams, but we will eliminate those fans who exhibit vulgar language and abusive behavior toward opposing players, coaches and officials. It is not improper for fans to disagree

Class lasts after wins are forgotten

By David Hoch

Whether it be as a coach, fan, administrator or player, we all recognize the element of class in athletics when we see it. Obviously we also can easily detect the opposite behavior or approaches, those that lack class. However, even though class is easily observed, it is somewhat difficult to define succinctly.

The following suggestions may not guarantee that the label of class will be awarded or applied to a team or coach. These guidelines, however, are a step in the right direction and they certainly are worth adopting as a code of conduct:

■ Regardless of personal feelings, never publicly criticize an opposing coach.

■ If you lose a game, give credit to your opponent. At least admit that on this given day or occasion, the opponent may have played better. Perhaps the other coach simply did a better job.

Do not blame a loss on injuries or officials. Over the long haul, these variables always even out among opponents.

Always participate in the traditional postgame handshake. This simple act sets the necessary tone for your players and fans.

Avoid degrading your team publicly in print or verbally, even during games. The correcting of mistakes and criticizing of performance should take place in the privacy of the locker room and during practice sessions.

Having the element of class, therefore, is a combination of many things. It is treating others in a dignified fashion with politeness, compassion, courtesy and respect, even under very trying circumstances. Being considerate and positive and certainly involved. Style might be another word that should be included. Or perhaps, exhibiting grace under adversity is what class is all about.

Class embodies and encompasses all of this. In spite of the difficulty to concisely define this element in athletics, we do know it when we see it. Athletics is important and certainly a vital component in the total educational scheme for most schools and universities. Therefore, the exhibiting of class may be more vital and integral than we might imagine. The element of class just might be the greatest barometer of athletics success, even more important than wins and losses.

Kindness is the universal language

Jake Gaither, the legendary football coach for Florida A&M University, died earlier this year. Following are excerpts from the 1977 book "Jake Gaither: America's Most Famous Black Coach" by George Curry:

Jake Gaither, former football coach Florida A&M University

"Kindness is the universal language that all people understand. I made it a habit to never leave the field with a boy feeling that I was mad at him. Before I left the field, I'd pat him on the shoulder and say, 'Don't think I got anything against you. I'm chewing you out for your own good. You're still my boy.' That means a lot to a kid.

"If you don't do something like that to the boy, when he comes to practice the next day, he's got a chip on his shoulder — he figures Coach is mad at him and he's still in the doghouse. He'll sulk and you won't get the best work out of him. But if you let him know that you'll forgive him — just don't make that mistake again — the guy will come back with plenty of enthusiasm, believing, 'I'm still Coach's boy.' They want to be in the good graces of the coach; they don't want to be in the doghouse....

"There is no place in the life of my people for mediocre performances. We must excel. Some of the Chicago people were amazed at (Willie) Galimore's desire when he got there (to the Chicago Bears). They asked me, 'Coach, why does your boy run so hard?' and I told them this: 'For a black boy, this is not just a game of football. He is carrying a cross of 15 million Blacks on his shoulders. Willie Mays was a great baseball player because 15 million people said, 'Willie, you represent us.' Joe Louis was great for the same reason. This has to be the dominating factor in the life of any Black.

"There is no place in our life for mediocrity. If your job is to sweep this room, I want you to sweep it the best you can. If you're a dentist, I want you to be able to pull teeth better than any other dentist in your community.

and said, 'I'm OK.' He said, 'Go back in there and flank out and tell (Dennis) Jefferson to throw you the pass.' I went into the ball game, gave Jefferson the play, flanked out on the end and ran a pretty good pattern. I looked up and the ball was there — it hit me right in the hands. From there on, I took it in for about 60 yards, and we won the ball game. Jake came over later, and I told him I really hadn't felt like going in but that I'd do anything for him. Since Jake asked, I had to go back in and try again."

Paying athletes

Jerome Bettis, football player Los Angeles Rams

Palm Springs Desert Sun

"It won't kill amateur sports or anything. It's the '90s. Come on. It's time to let the kids have some of the monetary benefits....

"I think if you give the kids $100 or $200, then they wouldn't be as likely to go out and do things to get $300 and $400 from agents or people like that. They shouldn't have to do something criminal (in the eyes of the NCAA) just to survive....

"Yes, that education is valuable. But was that education comparable to the monetary benefits the school is making off these kids? It's a bit much, I think, what they're making off the kids.

"In a way, they are exploiting them. I mean, they're selling my jersey in the book store for $40. And that's just a small part of (athletics revenue).

"(College athletes) see that stuff, and it's to the point where the universities are making so much money off them, that they begin to wonder, 'Is what I am doing for the betterment of me or just the university?" "

"We try to evaluate our boys not by the number of games they win, not by how good a football player they are, but on how each will do 10 or 15 years later. The greatest joy that comes to me is seeing that a boy does well in life." Al Frazier, former football player

"I remember the time we were playing North Carolina A&T and we were behind by seven points. I think we had 25 seconds left in the game. We were back in our own territory, and I think there was time for two more plays.

"At that particular time, my tooth had come through my lip, my mouth was swollen, and I had played the whole game without sitting on the sideline — I was just pooped. As soon as I came out of the game for one play, Jake came over and just looked at me, knowing that I didn't want to go back into the game. I kind of looked off a bit and he said, 'Hell, baby, how are you feeling?'

"All this blood was running down my face, my mouth was puffed out and he says, 'How are you feeling?' I looked at him

Discussing how colleges should enforce more discipline, especially regarding attendance:

"One might argue we are no longer in high school. To that I say, true. Yet why do some students still act as if they were? Constantly skipping class and taking no interest reminds me of the actions of a high-schooler.

"Another argument is that students are consumers. They pay for their college service, so they can decide whether they want to attend class. However, the university system should not be held hostage by the students. A person in the work force would be fired if he or she held the same expectations for an employer as (such a student does) for the university.

"As a student, I understand that freedom is important. But when those acts considered freedom affect others, then it has gone too far. Students have to recognize limits, theirs and the university's. This is essential for a person to function in the workplace."

I State legislation relating to college athletics

This report summarizes legislation currently pending before state legislatures that could affect, or is otherwise of interest to, the intercollegiate athletics programs and student-athletes of NCAA member institutions. Set forth below is a list of 13 bills from eight states. The report includes three bills that have been introduced, and 10 pending bills on which action has been taken, since the last report (May 25 issue of The NCAA News). The newly introduced bills are marked with an asterisk. Pending bills identified by previous reports on which no action has been taken do not appear in this report.

The State Legislation Report is based largely on data provided by the Information for Public Affairs on-line state legislation system as of June 16, 1994. The bills selected for inclusion in this report were drawn from a larger pool of measures that concern sports and therefore do not necessarily represent all of the bills that would be of interest to individual member institutions. Bills pending before the governing bodies of the District of Columbia and U.S. territories are not available on an online basis and are not included in this report.

The NCAA has not independently verified the accuracy or completeness of the information provided by Information for Public Affairs and is providing this summary as a service to members. For further information regarding a particular bill, members should contact the state legislature concerned.

The bills set forth below address the following subjects:

vocally with an official's call since we all know they need our assistance, but there is a great difference between disagreements and being threatening and confrontational.

The fact is that coaches can control the behavior of their athletes. Each coach knows what is happening during a contest and how his or her team members are responding. Coaches must demand the proper attitude and responses from their athletes.

A problem occurs when one team is observing good sportsmanship principles and its opponent is not. The prevailing attitude is, "If they are going to do it, then cease. The chief executive officers and athletics administrators must see that it does.

Conference commissioners and supervisors of officials can demand that game officials enforce the principles of good sportsmanship. The Ohio Valley Conference officials will notify coaches and team captains before the contest that sportsmanship principles will be enforced and that there will be no warnings during the period of play. Officials who fail to enforce these principles may be suspended from further conference games.

We know that it will involve subjective decisions from these officials, but knowing they will have league support will make their jobs easier.

lege athletes today do not have an understanding of the history of the sport in which they are participating has bothered me for some time. It is difficult to have the proper respect for a game if you don't know its origins or those who have preceded you.

A lack of respect has caused many problems in athletics and put a premium on intimidation and vocalization during a contest. I feel that athletes should intimidate by ability and hard work. Until there is a respect for the game, your opponents, the coach, your teammates and the officials, we will never be where we should.

If we can eliminate penalties. technical fouls, ejections and fighting that result from unsportsman-putting athletics contests in the proper amateur context. We can't control the actions of professional athletes and the examples they set, but we can attempt to portray to young athletes, in particular, the values of proper sportsmanship received by athletes at institutions of higher education.

We must do this, not only for the public, but for ourselves.

I ice hockey committee backs new officiating system

The NCAA Division I Men's Ice Hockey Committee pledged support for the recently implemented tworeferee, one-linesman officiating system by recommending that only officials who work in such a system during the regular season be selected to officiate in the championship.

Of the four Division I conferences, only officials from the Central Collegiate Hockey Association --which intends to employ the onereferee, two-linesman system in 1994-95 — would be ineligible to work at the championship.

Committee recommendations will be considered by the NCAA Executive Committee August 2-5.

In a related matter, the committee - meeting June 12-15 in Kansas City, Missouri - voted to recommend that the head coach of each Division I institution be required to attend an officiating-program clinic this fall. The dates of the clinics are September 11 in Westborough, Massachusetts; September 17 in Minneapolis; September 18 in Ann Arbor, Michigan; and October 16 in Geneseo, New York.

The committee also spent a considerable amount of time discussing television coverage of the championship.

It expressed concern that the Executive Committee has deferred action on a hockey committee recommendation that championship receipts be used to cover television production costs for regional games that are not offset by rights fees paid by television stations. The committee agreed to pursue the concept.

The committee also reviewed results of a survey on the number of individuals who traveled from each participating institution to regional and championship sites in 1994. The committee expressed concern that reductions in the traveling party and per diem have caused institutions competing in the championship to lose money.

Other highlights

In other actions at its June 12-15 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the Division I Men's Ice Hockey Committee:

Reviewed the current television contract with ESPN that runs through the 1997 championship and discussed the impact of playing the championship game at the same time as the Division I Men's Basketball Championship semifinal games. The committee decided to move the championship game to a time during the afternoon when it can be broadcast live by ESPN.

■ Met with NCAA national office staff members to discuss the ratings percentage index. The committee asked the staff to review the current system - which is identical to the Division I men's and women's basketball, Division I baseball, and Division I women's volleyball RPIs - with a math-

Most institutions traveled with 27 players; seven coaches, managers and trainers; 25 band members; and ematician to determine whether it meets the needs of the committee.

Voted to recommend to the Executive Committee that two teams be selected automatically for the championship from each of the four conferences.

Determined that regionals games will continue to be played on Fridays and Saturdays.

Determined that each host institution would receive 10 percent of net receipts as an honorarium for hosting its respective round of competition.

Asked the national office staff to develop a proposal and cost estimates for the use of instant replay during the championship.

Agreed to review written proposals for 1996 regional sites during a September conference call. Proposals are due at the national office no later than August 15, 1994.

II women's basketball committee sets realignment, seeding plan

Recommendations for regional realignment and tournament seeding will be forwarded to the NCAA Executive Committee by the Division II Women's Basketball Committee.

At its June 6-9 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the basketball committee agreed upon a regional alignment plan for the 1995-96 season. The plan places no more than three conferences in each of the eight regions and scatters the independent schools among the regions.

The committee will forward its plan to the Executive Committee for consideration at its August meeting.

If approved, the alignment would be as follows:

West region — Northern California Athletic Conference, Pacific West Conference and California Collegiate Athletic Conference.

■ North Central region — North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, Colorado Athletic Conference and Northern Sun Conference.

South Central region — Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association, Lone Star Conference and Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference.

Great Lakes region — Great Lakes Valley Conference and Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

South Atlantic region — Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association, South Atlantic Conference and Peach Belt Athletic Conference.

■ South region — Gulf South Conference, Sunshine State Conference and Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Confer-

East region — Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference, West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference and Carolina Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Northeast region (previously the New England region)

Northeast-10 Conference, New England Collegiate Conference and New York Collegiate Athletic Conference.

The basketball committee also discussed the possibility of seeding the teams in the Women's Elite Eight. Currently, the matchups in the finals portion of the bracket are determined by regions on a rotating basis. The committee believes that once regional competition is completed, the eight winners should be seeded Nos. 1 through 8.

The seedings would be determined by the committee and would be based on the final regular-season poll in addition to results from conference tournaments and regional tournament games. Also factoring into the seedings would be the committee's tournament-selection criteria.

The seedings proposal requires Executive Committee approval and will be forwarded to that committee for discussion at its August meeting.

New system of selecting III championship teams endorsed by committee

Plan provides for more flexibility to deal with East-West imbalance

In an attempt to address a regional imbalance of schools affecting quality of competition, the NCAA Divisions II and III Men's Ice Hockey Committee has voted to propose flexibility for selecting teams for the Division III championship.

ing party was reduced by the Executive Committee from 40

Meeting June 7-10 in Kansas City, Missouri, the committee voted to select a minimum of four and a maximum of five schools from the East region. That would result in selection of a minimum of three and a maximum of four schools from the West region.

Currently, 42 schools sponsor Division III hockey in the East region and 17 schools sponsor hockey in the West. However, West region teams have won eight of the 11 championships, including six of the last seven.

final) to 31, beginning with the 1994

Under the proposal, the committee also recommends flying the fifthseeded team from the East region — if selected — to play the top seed in the West region during quarterfinal competition. However, the committee would drop that recommendation if another airplane flight is required within the East region.

Other highlights

In other actions at its June 7-10 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the Divisions II and III Men's Ice Hockey Committee:

■ Voted to propose an increase in the traveling party for the Division II and Division III championships from 26 to 28 persons.

Voted to recommend that automatic qualification be granted to the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and the State University of New York Athletic Conference for the 1995 Division III championship.

Voted to study the possibility of eliminating automatic quali-

In other actions at its June 6-9 meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, the Division II Women's Basketball Committee:

Agreed to continue to research potential neutral sites for the Women's Elite Eight.

Agreed to conduct a conference call with representatives of Women's Elite Eight participating teams on the Monday following regional competition. The committee believes such a call would enhance the administration of the event.

Agreed to inform the NCAA Executive Committee that it strongly supports the idea of incorporating the play-in games into the championship structure as the first round of championship competition.

Voted to recommend to the Executive Committee that 19 conferences be awarded automatic qualification for the 1995 tournament. Automatic qualification was redefined last season to guarantee a berth in play-in or regional competition but not automatic qualification into the 32-team bracket. The 19 conferences are the California Collegiate Athletic and Central Intercollegiate Athletic Associations and Colorado Athletic, Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic, Great Lakes Valley, Gulf South, Lone Star, Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics, New England Collegiate, New York Collegiate Athletic, North Central Intercollegiate Athletic, Northeast-10, Northern California Athletic, Peach Belt Athletic, Pennsylvania State Athletic, Rocky Mountain Athletic, South Atlantic, Southern Intercollegiate Athletic and Sunshine State Conferences.

fication and agreed to discuss the issue further at its meeting next June.

Voted to recommend that the 1995 Division II championship be played March 17-18 on the campus of one of the competing institutions.

Noted that the NCAA Executive Committee has approved dates for the 1995 Division III championship. The quarterfinals will be March 10-11 on the campus of one of the competing institutions and the semifinals and final will be March 24-25 in Maplewood, Minnesota

Eight more summer basketball events certified

Eight more summer basketball events have been certified in accordance with legislation regulating Division I men's and women's basketball coaches' attendance at camps.

In accordance with NCAA Bylaw 13.13.5, basketball coaches at Division I institutions may attend only institutional summer basketball camps as defined in Bylaw 13.13.1.1 and noninstitutional organized events held during the July evaluation period that are certified under Bylaw 30.15.

The Division I summer evaluation periods are July 5-31 for men and July 8-31 for women.

To date, 123 events have been certified by the Association. One of those camps has since been canceled.

In a related matter, the NCAA Recruiting Committee has declined certification for the West Coast Junior College Basketball Camp, due to violations by the camp operators in the NCAA summer event certification program during the summer of 1993.

Two other basketball camps organized by the same camp operators for high-school students — the West Coast All-Star Camp and Pump Discovery Shootout — have been certified for NCAA coaches to attend.

In another matter, the site and dates of the Eastern Invitational Basketball Clinic for women was reported incorrectly in the June 8 issue of The NCAA News. The clinic will be July 16-20 at East Stroudsburg University of Pennsylvania.

Following are the three men's and five women's events certified most recently, with sites and dates of camps and names, addresses and telephone numbers of principal owners or operators.

Also, a listing of all other events previously certified by the Association for 1994 follows. These events' certification was reported in previous issues of the News, but the list is being reprinted as an aid to coaches preparing for event visits.

Seventy-one additional basketball leagues approved for summer play

Another 71 summer basketball leagues have been certified by the Association for 1994 competition, increasing to 280 the number approved this year.

Student-athletes from NCAA institutions participate each summer in one of hundreds of leagues certified by the Association in accordance with NCAA Bylaws 14.7.5.2 and 30.14.

Questions about the applications process or requirements for NCAA certification should be directed to Christopher D. Schoemann, NCAA legislative assistant, at the national office.

Following are the leagues — 30 for men, seven for women and 34 combining men's and women's competition — recently approved for participation. Other approved leagues were published in the April 13 and 20; May 4, 11, 18 and 25; and June 1 and 15 issues of The NCAA News. League, Belmar; Wayne, Wayne.

Rhode Island — North Providence Summer Basketball League, North Providence.

Lacrosse committee urges use of criteria to evaluate strength of contenders

The NCAA Women's Lacrosse Committee recommended parameters for evaluating championship contenders' won-lost records and strength of schedule during its annual meeting June 13-16 in Hilton Head, South Carolina.

Under the recommendation to the NCAA Executive Committee, the committee would consider the following criteria, in no specific order: won-lost record, common opponents, late-season performance, opponents' records and records against teams under consideration. The committee also confirmed that regional advisory committees will produce

Other highlights

In other actions at its June 13-16 meeting in Hilton Head, South Carolina, the Women's Lacrosse Committee:

■ Revised the score-reporting process and revamped the regional conference-call procedure so that a committee member is assigned to each regional call, thus enhancing regional committee reporting to the lacrosse committee.

■ Voted not to implement the regular-season, 10-goal differential rule in championship play. When there is a 10-goal differential during the regular season, a running clock is used.

Deferred action on the current unlimited substitution rule until it can be discussed by the United States Women's Lacrosse Association rules committee. -

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Interpretations Committee issued the following interpretations:

Logos/apparel/uniform

1. Issues related to manufacturer's or distributor's logo or trademark on athletics apparel. The Interpretations Committee reviewed the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 12.5.4-(b) (use of logos on equipment, uniforms and apparel) and determined the following:

a. An institution's uniform or any item of apparel (e.g., team jersey, socks) that is worn by a student-athlete while representing the institution in intercollegiate competition may contain only a single manufacturer's or distributor's logo or trademark on the outside of the apparel (regardless of the visibility of the logo or trademark). The logo or trademark must be contained within a four-sided geometrical figure (i.e., rectangle, square, parallelogram) that does not exceed 21/4 square inches. The committee noted that such an item of apparel may contain more than one manufacturer's or distributor's logo or trademark on the inside of the apparel, provided the logo or trademark is not visible

b. If an institution's uniform or any item of apparel worn by a student-athlete in competition contains washing instructions on the outside of the apparel on a patch that also includes the manufacturer's or distributor's logo or trademark, the entire patch must be contained within a four-sided geometrical figure (i.e., rectangle, square, parallelogram) that does not exceed 21/4 square inches.

c. The restriction on the size of a manufacturer's or apparel's logo is applicable to all apparel worn by student-athletes during the conduct of the institution's competition, which includes any pregame or postgame activities (e.g, postgame celebrations on the court, pre- or postgame press conferences) involving student-athletes. [Reference: 12.5.4-(b) (use of logos on equipment, uniforms and apparel); IC 12/3/92, Item No. 5; IC 3/25/93, Item No. 2, and Council 4/20/94

Financial aid/Sunday evening meals/training table

2. Cost of meals when regular dining facility is closed. An institution whose studentathletes eat training table meals may provide cash to a student-athlete to cover the cost of such meals when the training table is closed (e.g., weekend meals), even if other institutional dining facilities remain open to students in general, provided the student-athlete is receiving financial aid that covers the cost of the meal. The committee noted that the cash amount must be equal to the official on-campus figure listed in the institution's catalog or the average cost of the meal in question based on a weighted average of all students who eat in on-campus facilities, excluding meals provided at the training table. [References: 15.2.2.1 (off-campus room and board stipend) and 15.2.2.5 (Sunday evening meals)]

3. Use of student-athletes in brochures tution may not use the names or pictures of student-athletes with remaining eligibility in the camp brochure if the student-athletes will not be employed as counselors at the camp. Such a brochure may include the name, picture and institutional affiliation of any student-athlete who will be a counselor at the camp only to identify the student-athlete as a staff member and may not use the student-athlete's name or picture in any other way to directly advertise or promote the camp. [References: 11.3.2.6 (promotional activities), 12.5.1.1 (institutional, charitable, educational or nonprofit promotions), 12.5.1.7 (institutionally sponsored summer camps) and 12.5.1.8 (privately owned sum-

home contests/on campus

(Divisions I and III). If an institution normally participates in home competition at a site that is not located on the institution's campus, the institution is subject to the same standards (i.e., benefits and restrictions) during the competition that apply to a competition conducted on an institution's campus. Thus, it would be permissible for the institution to provide meals to a prospect (and the prospect's parents or legal guardians) during an official visit at the site of the competition. Further, an institution's staff member who has permissible contact with the prospect at the competition site prior to, during or immediately following the competition would not be charged with an off-campus contact with the prospect. [References: 13.01.4 (off-campus recruiting); 13.1.2.4 (general restrictions: staff members and governing board); 13.7.1.4 (visit to off-campus contests); 13.7.5.7 (meals on official visits) and 13.8.2.2 (home games outside the community)]

Counter/I-AA football

5. Multisport participants who participate in a I-AA football program that awards aid omly on the basis of need (Division I-AA). An in stitution that conducts a Division I-AA football program that meets the criteria set forth in 15.5.5.2.1 may elect to continue to use the initial and overall counter limitations set forth in 15.5.5.2. Under such circumstances, if a student-athlete receives athletically related aid and participates in the sport of football and another sport, the student-athlete must count in the institution's financial aid limitations in the sport of football. If an institution uses the exception set forth in 15.5.5.2.1, a student-athlete who participates in the sport of football and another sport must be counted in the institution's financial aid limitations in the other sport. [References: 15.5.5.2 (Division I-AA football), 15.5.5.2.1 (exception — Division I-AA football), 15.5.7.1 (multisport participants --- football) and Council 1/12/94]

Restricted-earnings coach

6. Employment of restricted-earnings coach who was employed as head or assistant coach prior to 1993-94 academic year (Division I). An individual who was a head or assistant basketball coach in Division I prior to the 1998-94 academic year and is not currently employed (i.e., during the 1993-94 academic year) as a restricted-earnings coach at a Division I institution may not be employed as a restricted-earnings coach at any Division I institution during the 1994-95 academic year or thereafter. [References: 11.02.3.4.1 (additional limitations - basketball), and IC 12/15/93, Item No. 5]

Conference No. 7 June 2, 1994

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Interpretations Committee issued the following interpretations:

Restricted-earnings coach

1. Previous employment of restrictedearnings coach as a head or assistant basketball coach (Division I). The Interpretations Committee reviewed several issues related to the previous employment of a prospective restricted-earnings coach as a head or assistant basketball coach in Division 1 and determined the following:

a. An individual who previously has been employed as a part-time, graduate assistant or volunteer basketball coach in Division I is not precluded from being employed as a restricted-earnings coach in the sport of basketball.

b. For purposes of this legislation, men's and women's basketball are considered separate sports. Thus, an individual who previously has been employed as a head or fulltime assistant coach in the sport of Division I women's basketball may be employed as a restricted-earnings coach in the sport of men's basketball (and vice versa).

c. An individual who has been employed at one institution as a restricted-earnings basketball coach during the 1993-94 academic year and who previously was employed as a head or assistant basketball coach in Division I may not be employed as a restricted-earnings coach in the sport of basketball at another institution. Championships year in review

Walder, Parra close out careers in winner's circle

Arkansas standout racks up 10th individual crown

When it comes to the long jump and the triple jump, Erick Walder is leaps and bounds better — or maybe farther — than the rest.

Walder, competing for the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, capped a goldmedal-filled career by winning his ninth and 10th individual titles in early June at the NCAA Division I Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships. His six indoor and four outdoor titles over the past three years were vital to maintaining the Razorbacks' indoor (11) and outdoor (three) team championships streaks.

And his performance at this year's outdoor championships provided Arkansas with a big lift when it needed it most.

"I knew the team title was on the line and we needed 18 points badly," Walder said of his triple jump victory. "I dug down deep on my last jump and got it. I struggled in the early rounds, but thank God I pulled it out on the last jump."

Walder became only the third individual to win the long jump and the triple jump in the same year at the outdoor championships. Clarence Robinson of the University of New Mexico won both titles in 1965 and former Arkansas track star Mike Conley accomplished the feat twice, in 1984 and 1985

Jump start...

Winning gold medals is 10 times more exciting for Arkansas' Erick Walder. Walder ended his career with 10 individual national titles.

Walder also joined Edward Gordon of the University of Iowa (1929 through 1931) as the only individuals to win three consecutive long jump championships.

A list of Walder's accomplishments reads like a ready-made resume for a track and field hall of fame: 10-time NCAA champion...10-time all-American in the long jump and triple jump...the fifth U.S. jumper officially to reach the 28-foot mark in the long jump (in 1993)...Alabama high-school field athlete of the year in 1989-90...three-time high-school state champion.

"I thought I'd never have another Mike Conley (former Olympian and 17-time all-American at Arkansas)," said Arkansas head track and cross country coach John McDonnell. "But it's unbelievable to have a guy not only equal him, but surpass him (in championships won).

"To put it in perspective, it's like having an outstanding performer on a basketball team that wins four national titles.

"A guy like that inspires confidence in other people by his mere presence. He lifted everybody up a notch."

Other highlights

The 1993-94 men's championships were packed with many other memorable performers and moments. They include:

A return to the top for Oklahoma State University's wrestling team. The Cowboys, who broke Iowa's three-year hold on the team title, were led by Pat Smith, who became the only wrestler in the history of the Division I Wrestling Championships to win four individual titles.

In Division II, Portland State University wrestler Haig Brown became a "repeat" champion at the NCAA Division II Wrestling Championships — seven years after his first victory. Brown, who won his first NCAA title in 1987 in the 126-pound division, captured the 150-pound-class championship in 1994.

■ Three sweeps in swimming. Stanford University won the Division I swimming and diving title, Oakland University won the Division II title and Kenyon College won the Division III title. Nothing unusual about those victories — except that the same three schools also won their respective divisions at the women's championships.

A lacrosse season to remember for Princeton University. Both the men's and women's teams won their respective Division I championships. It marked the first time in NCAA history that an institution has claimed both lacrosse titles in the same year. The men defeated the University of Virginia, 9-8, in overtime and captured their second championship in three years. The women defeated the University of Maryland, College Park, 10-7, for their first title.

■ A "goodbye" to a long-time Division III lacrosse power. Salisbury State University didn't quite give Hobart College - winner of 13 of the previous 14 tournaments — the send-off to Division I competition that Hobart hoped. The Sea Gulls defeated Hobart, 15-9, to win their first championship. A victory, finally, for University of Oklahoma baseball coach Larry Cochell. He previously had led three schools to the College World Series — Oral Roberts University; California State University, Fullerton; and Oklahoma — without claiming the title. The Sooners hammered Georgia Institute of Technology, 13-5, to win their second NCAA baseball championship; the other came in 1951

Another victory for a small school. Lake Superior State University, a Division II school (enrollment 3,500) that sponsors ice hockey in Division I, cruised to that division's ice hockey championship by defeating Boston University, 9-1. It was the Lakers' second title in three years and their third in the past seven seasons.

■ The closest finish in the history of the Division II Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships. St. Augustine's College edged Abilene Christian University, 118-117, and the outcome was in doubt until the meet's final event — the 1,600-meter relay. St. Augustine's finished first in the event and collected 10 points. Abilene Christian took second and received eight points.

A breakthrough by the East in men's volleyball. Pennsylvania State University became the first Eastern school to capture the National Collegiate Men's Volleyball Championship. The Nittany Lions upset the heavily favored University of California, Los Angeles, for the title.

Arizona pitcher dazzles opponents on softball field

To truly understand how dominant University of Arizona softball pitcher Susie Parra can be, ask the experts.

First, check with her opponents. After all, Parra beat 33 of them this season. Only one, California State University, Fresno, managed a victory against her this season. Indeed, only nine teams beat her over the last four years. Her record during those four seasons was 101-9.

Second, ask the batters she has faced. She struck out 244 this season, including 13 in the Division I championship game - a 4-0 victory over California State University, Northridge. When Arizona won the title in 1993, Parra struck out six.

She also allowed just 143 hits during the season — and only one during the championship game - and finished with an earned-run average of 1.04.

No wonder her efforts landed her on both the all-tournament team and on the first team of the American Softball Coaches Association all-America squad for the second consecutive season.

"I have to give Susie Parra all the credit," Cal State Northridge head coach Gary Torgeson said after his team's loss to the Wildcats in the championship. "She changed speeds well and she had everything going."

Parra maintained a tradition of strong pitching in the Pacific-10 Conference. She followed Lisa Fernandez of the University of California, Los Angeles, who ended her career in 1993 with a 93-7 record.

Parra outdueled Fernandez in last season's championship final, when Arizona beat UCLA, 1-0.

"To go out after four years like she did with a one-hitter (in this year's championship) is incredible," Arizona head coach Mike Candrea said.

Other highlights

There were other incredible moments during the 1993-94 women's championships season. They include:

Record volleyball attendance. A record crowd of 11,114 saw Long Beach State University beat Pennsylvania State University for the NCAA Division I Women's Volleyball Championship title.

In other volleyball action, Washington University (Missouri) won its fourth Division III title in five years — this time with a vic-of us now."

These days, Hatchell is a busy woman. The championship means that even visits to a discount store are different.

"I've done so much speaking since (the game)," she said. "I'm doing a lot of team-building seminars. I cannot go into K-Mart without giving autographs. Every little store on Franklin Street in Chapel Hill has North Carolina women's basketball national champions' stuff. It's been overwhelming and tremendous."

Still. Hatchell has moments when she questions whether the feat occurred.

"When people introduce me, they say 'national champions' and I think, 'Did we really win the national championship?" "Hatchell said. "Since April 3, my life definitely has changed. There are not enough seconds in the day." Fortunately for North Carolina, there were just enough ticks on the clock that day.

Small, but large

If there is one institution that can be singled out as "the little school that could" for 1993-94, Loyola College (Maryland) probably best fits the bill.

While the Greyhounds did not capture a national championship during the year, they did manage to qualify five teams - men's and women's basketball, men's and women's lacrosse, and men's soccer - for NCAA championships play. That is most impressive when one considers that the Division I institution sponsors only 14 athletics teams and enrolls just more than 3,000 students.

Loyola's men's and women's basketball teams gained their first berths in the Division I Men's and Women's Basketball Championships - and both did it in storybook fashion.

The men pulled off an unlikely, 16-point come-from-behind victory over defending champion Manhattan College in the championship game of the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) tournament to earn a spot in the Division I men's field. The women's team overcame sizable deficits in two consecutive games to win the MAAC crown. Those victories gave the women's team its first winning season in Division I competition.

"I had seniors come up to me... and tell me this was the first time that it really felt like a college campus," Thomas E. Scheye, provost and vice-president for academic affairs at Loyola (Maryland) and acting president until June 30, recently told Gary Lambrecht of the Baltimore Sun.

"We came into this year thinking we would have a pretty good year," said Joseph Boylan, athletics director at Loyola (Maryland). "The amazing thing is the school had targeted those five teams to make the tournament. Did we think it would happen in one year? No."

To look at Lovola College, as small as we are, and to say we sent five teams to national tournaments this year is unbelievable," said Diane Aikens, coach of Loyola's women's lacrosse team.

Record track attendance, too. A championships-record crowd of 34,816 - including 10,493 on the final day - saw the NCAA Division I Men's and Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships at Boise State University. And the fans weren't disappointed. Louisiana State University won its eighth consecutive outdoor title (the Tigers also won their second consecutive indoor championship earlier in the year). Leading the way individually was Villanova University's Carole Zajac, who became the only individual in championships history to win consecutive 10,000-meter run titles, and Flirtisha Harris of Seton Hall University, who became the only woman to win the 400-meter dash and anchor the winning 1,600-meter relay at both the indoor and outdoor championships.

In Division III, Christopher Newport University cruised to the team title — its championships-record fifth championship. Individually, Kelly Copps of the University of St. Thomas (Minnesota) won both the 5,000and 10,000-meter titles, outdistancing the field in the 10,000-meter run by nearly 50 seconds. Tammie Miller of State University College at Cortland claimed her third straight championship in the 3,000-meter run, becoming the first runner to win that event three consecutive times

A sweep in cross country — again. Villanova won both the team and individual titles for the fifth consecutive year. Zajac won her second straight individual crown. She joins former Villanova standout Sonia O'Sullivan as the only individuals to win back-to-back titles.

A sweep in golf, as well. Arizona State University won the individual and team titles at the National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships. The Sun Devils won their second team crown behind the play of sophomore Emilee Klein, who won the individual Talk about a strikeout queen. University of Arizona pitcher Susie Parra struck out 244 batters this season, including 13 in the Division I championship game.

competition by two strokes over teammate Wendy Ward

A continuation of swimming dominance. Champions repeated in all three divisions of swimming and diving this year. Kenyon College won its 11th straight Division III title - establishing the nation's longest streak of team championships. Oakland University won its fifth straight Division II title and Stanford University won its third straight Division I title. The same three schools also won the men's championships in their respective divisons.

A record for victories in Division III tennis. The University of California, San Diego, won a championships-record fourth team title.

Records in indoor track. Louisiana State's Daphnie Saunders won the long jump at the NCAA Division I Women's Indoor Track Championships with a record-breaking leap of 22 feet, 1 inch. Indiana State University's Holli Hyche not only won back-to-back titles in the 55- and 200-meter dashes, but set a championships record in the latter event with a time of 22.90 seconds. Amy Wickus of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and Eileen Vanisi of the University of Texas at Austin set meet records in the 800-meter run and shot put, respectively. Vanisi not only broke the championships record, but the collegiate mark as well; she also set a mark at the 1994 outdoor championships.

In Division II, Revoli Campbell and Bigna Samuel smashed championships records in the 400-meter dash and 1,500-meter run, respectively, and led Abilene Christian University to a championships-record sixth Division II team championship.

In Division III, Eleena Zhelezov of Brandeis University won her third consecutive Division III triple jump title with a championships-record leap. She also won her third straight outdoor championship this spring.

CORRECTIONS

A story on this year's College World Series in the June 15 issue of The NCAA News erroneously reported that the tournament drew a record attendance for the entire tournament. This year's tournament drew 161,638 fans in nine sessions, compared to the record 173,296 in 1993, when there were 10 sessions. The 1994 tournament did set a record for average attendance per session. This year's average of 17,960 broke the record of 17,330 set in 1993.

A North Dakota State heptathlete's place of finish at the 1994 Division II Women's Track and Field Championships was omitted from results appearing in the June 1 issue of the News. Susie Keller finished fifth in the heptathlon with 4,801 points. Finishing behind Keller in the event were Erin McLaughlin of Cal State Chico with 4794 points (sixth place), Lisa Kresky of North Dakota State with 4,700 points (seventh place) and Sarah Beasley of Humboldt State with 4,637 points (eighth place).

men's outdoor track and field team is the only other men's program that has a current streak of five consecutive championships or better after claiming its sixth straight Division II crown this spring.

On the women's side, the North Carolina women's soccer team and the Louisiana State University women's track and field squad are tied with eight consecutive championships, trailing the Kenyon women's swimming streak. The Tar Heels blanked George Mason University, 6-0, in the final of the Division I Women's Soccer Championship. Louisiana State's eighth consecutive championship was sealed with a big performance on the last day of competition, when the Tigers scored 53 of their 86 points.

Other women's programs with NCAA championships streaks of five or more are the Villanova University cross country team and the Oakland University swimming and diving team. Both of those programs won their fifth straight titles this year.

1994 Column No. 25

NCAA Bylaw 12.5.4

Use of logos on equipment, uniforms and apparel Institutions should note that during its April 28, 1994, telephone conference, the NCAA Interpretations Committee reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 12.5.4-(b) and determined the following:

I. An institution's uniform or any item of apparel (e.g., team jersey, socks) that is worn by a student-athlete while representing the institution in intercollegiate competition may contain only a single manufacturer's or distributor's logo or trademark on the outside of the apparel (regardless of the visibility of the logo or trademark). The logo or trademark must be contained within a four-sided geometrical figure (i.e., rectangle, square, parallelogram) that does not exceed $2\frac{1}{3}$ square inches. The committee noted that such an item of apparel may contain more than one manufacturer's or distributor's logo or trademark on the inside of the apparel, provided the logo or trademark is not visible.

2. If an institution's uniform or any item of apparel worn by a student-athlete in competition contains washing instructions on the outside of the apparel or on a patch that also includes the manufacturer's or distributor's logo or trademark, the entire patch must be contained within a four-sided, geometrical figure (i.e., rectangle, square, parallelogram) that does not exceed $2^{1/_{1}}$ square inches.

3. The restriction on the size of a manufacturer's or apparel's logo is applicable to all apparel worn by studentathletes during the conduct of the institution's competition, which includes any pregame or postgame activities (e.g., postgame celebrations on the court, pre- or postgame press conferences) involving student-athletes.

[Note: Institutions also should consult the playing rules of particular sports when considering whether a logo is permissible, inasmuch as the rules of specific sports may differ from the provisions set forth in Bylaw 12.5.4.]

Bylaw 11.02.3.4.1 Restricted-earnings coach — Division I basketball

Division I institutions should note that in accordance with Bylaw 11.02.3.4.1, an individual who has not been employed previously as a head or assistant basketball coach in Division I may be employed as a restricted-earnings coach in that sport. The individual shall complete his or her period of employment as a restricted-earnings coach within five calendar years of the date of initial employment in such a position and shall not subsequently be employed as a restricted-earnings coach in Division I basketball.

During its January 7-8, 1994, meeting, the NCAA Council determined that the provisions of Bylaw 11.02.3.4.1 are applicable beginning with the 1993-94 academic year. Thus, an institution would not be required to immediately cease the employment of a restricted-earnings coach currently employed (during the 1993-94 academic year) at a Division I institution in the sport of basketball who previously served as a head or an assistant basketball coach.

Also, the 1993-94 academic year would be considered the first year of the five calendar years, even if the coach was employed as a restricted-earnings coach at that institution during the 1992-93 academic year.

Further, during its April 28, 1994, telephone conference, the Interpretations Committee determined that an individual who was a head or assistant basketball coach in Division I prior to the 1993-94 academic year and who is not currently employed (i.e., during the 1993-94 academic year) as a restricted-earnings coach at a Division I institution may not be employed as a restricted-earnings coach at a Division I institution during the 1994-95 academic year or thereafter.

Finally, during its June 2, 1994, telephone conference, the Interpretations Committee reviewed several issues related to the previous employment of a prospective restricted-earnings coach as a head or assistant basketball coach in Division I and determined the following:

1. An individual who previously has been employed as a part-time, graduate assistant or volunteer basketball coach in Division I is not precluded from being employed as a restricted-earnings coach in the sport of basketball.

2. For purposes of this legislation, men's and women's basketball are considered separate sports. Thus, an individual who previously has been employed as a head or full-time assistant coach in the sport of Division I women's basketball may be employed as a restricted-earnings coach in the sport of men's basketball (and vice versa).

3. An individual who has been employed at one institution as a restricted-earnings basketball coach during the 1993-94 academic year and who previously was employed as a head or assistant basketball coach in Division I may not be employed as a restricted-earnings coach in the sport of basketball at another institution.

Conferences and institutions have until July 15 to submit proposals for 1995 Convention on behalf of eight or more active conference members, as long as those sponsoring institutions are listed and the proposal is signed by the chair of the conference's official presidential administrative group (or by at least two CEOs of conference schools if no such group exists).

Other procedures for submitting proposals for the 1995 Convention in San Diego were detailed in a May 13 memorandum to chief executive officers of NCAA institutions. The memo was accompanied by a copy of the official amendment-submission form.

Among the procedures:

The submission should include a clear and concise statement of intent, stating what the proposal is designed to accomplish. The intent statement should not be used to argue the proposal's merits.

For proposed amendments to federated bylaws, the sponsoring institutions must be members of the division or subdivision in which the amendment is to be offered. In such cases, the submission should indicate the involved division or subdivision.

■ A submission should identify the specific legislation to be amended, as it appears in the 1994-95 NCAA Manual. It also must specify the desired effective date and list a primary contact for information about the proposal (the contact docs not have to be from among the proposal's sponsors). Each proposal must be accompanied by a statement of rationale, not to exceed 200 words.

Proposals must be received at the national office no later than 5 p.m. (Central time) July 15. Proposals may be submitted by facsimile machine and should be submitted to the NCAA legislative services staff (fax number 913/339-0032).

All legislative proposals will be evaluated by an appropriate NCAA committee designated by the NCAA Administrative Committee before they are included on the agenda for the 1995 Convention.

The designated committee is obligated to report to sponsors the results of its review of a proposal by October 7. An effort will be made by committees to complete the review process in time for sponsors to make any alterations to proposals before the September 15 deadline for modifications by sponsors.

A committee may indicate support for or opposition to a proposal or suggest an alternative proposal as a result of its review. A committee position will not prevent a vote by the membership on a proposal, as long as submission requirements and deadlines are met.

Properly submitted proposals, after appropriate editing by the NCAA Legislative Review Committee and the national office staff, will appear in the Initial Publication of Proposed Legislation, which will be mailed August 15.

Future deadlines for preparation vi of legislation for the 1995 Convention are:

September 1: Convention proposals due from the Council, Presidents Commission and division steering committees.

September 15: Sponsors' amendment deadline (amendments may be more or less restrictive than the original proposal).

■ November 1: Nonsponsors' amendment deadline (amendments-to-amendments may not increase the modification called for by the original proposal).

Questions regarding any aspect of legislative procedures should be directed to Nancy L. Mitchell, NCAA assistant executive director for legislative services, or Daniel T. Dutcher, director of legislative services, at the national office.

Eligibility Committee refining criteria to evaluate extensions

The NCAA Eligibility Committee is in the process of refining the criteria used to evaluate extensions of eligibility under the newly revised five-year/10-semester rule that is At the 1994 NCAA Convention, the adoption of Proposal No. 71 liberalized the parameters of NCAA Bylaw 30.6.1 and broadened the authority of the Eligibility Committee tion. Because of the lack of case precedent due to the change in legislation, the committee developed a list of "guiding principles" that were used to review those extensions. The committee is continuing to adjust those principles in an effort to focus more specifically on the overall participation opportunity available to the student-athlete and on those factors that are beyond the control of the student-athlete. Those guiding principles, once the wording is agreed upon by the Eligibility Committee, will be reviewed by the NCAA Council and included within forwarded to the Council for its review.

The committee also discussed its concerns about the growing number of cases involving amateurism issues.

The Eligibility Committee met June 13-15 in Newport, Rhode Island.

As of June 1, approximately 30 extension requests had been submitted to the Eligibility Committee under the expanded waiver legislaBylaw 30.6.1 of the Manual.

In another matter, the Eligibility Committee recommended changes in appeals procedures and in procedures relating to waivers and extensions. Division III: Restructuring issues related to Division III (including proposed revision of the Division III philosophy statement, review of relevant restructuring models, and the role and composition of the Special Committee on Membership Restructuring) and a review of proposed legislation affecting Division III.

On June 29, the full Commission will hear reports from each of the division subcommittees and also will hear from the Commission Subcommittee on Strategic Planning (E. Roger Sayers, president of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, chair) and Subcommittee on Minority Issues (David G. Carter, president of Eastern Connecticut State University, chair).

Besides hearing the report of the special committee reviewing student-athlete welfare, access and equity, the Commission will receive a report from a subcommittee that is examining the Commission's strategic-plan topic for 1996 — ethical conduct in intercollegiate athletics.

This is the final meeting of the Commission before the September 1 legislative deadline. Its next meeting will be September 27-28, also in Kansas City.
