Earnings restriction lifted on coaching positions

The NCAA Administrative Committee has acted to rescind the NCAA rule limiting compensation to coaches in restricted-earnings positions because of a Federal judge's ruling in a lawsuit against the Association.

The committee voted to remove the earnings restriction of the legislation (including the restriction on summer income) in order to allow NCAA members to comply with Judge Kathryn Vratil's May 24 court order. It left intact other provisions of the legislation, such as the restriction in Division I basketball that a coach in the position may not have served previously as a head coach or an assistant coach.

"The vote of the Administrative Committee is not a statement of the NCAA's position on the rule," NCAA Executive Director Cedric W. Dempsey said. "It is simply a procedural vote that allows the members to comply with a Federal judge's order. Once we have received the full opinion, we will examine all options and discuss how to proceed in the best interests of the Association."

Vratil, U. S. district judge for Kansas, ruled that the NCAA violates Federal antitrust law with the restricted-earnings provision, which limits coaches in the position to $12,000 compensation for the school year and $4,000 for the sum-

Thoughts, concerns shared on Title IX

By Ronald D. Mott
THE NCAA NEWS STAFF

Although no major actions resulted from a May 25 Title IX athletics working session organized by the U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights (OCR), the Federal agency has begun the process of evaluating its enforcement of the 1972 antidiscrimination legislation.

Norma V. Cantu, U.S. assistant secretary for civil rights, invited a host of athletics administrators, coaches and representatives of other groups to an all-day meeting in Washington, D.C., to discuss concerns expressed about her office's role in determining institutional compliance with Title IX.

The session did not produce any substantial changes in how the OCR investigates Title IX compliance, but Cantu said afterward that it was an important gathering nonetheless.

Those who attended the session included Richard M. Aronson and Roy Johnson, executive director and president, respectively, of the National Association of Collegiate Gymnastics Coaches (Men); C. William Byrne Jr., athletics director at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln; Joan C. Cronan, women's athletics director at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville; Steve Erber, secretary of the National Wrestling Coaches Association;

Vivian L. Fuller, athletics director at Northeastern Illinois University; Jasmine Hightower, head of athletics at the University of California, Santa Cruz; Anne Goodman James, women's swimming coach at Northern Michigan University and president of the College Swimming Coaches Association of America, Inc.; Jeffrey H. Orleans, executive director of the Ivy Group; Grant Teaff, executive director of the American Football Coaches Association; and Larry L. Travis, athletics director at Western Carolina University.

Cantu said the meeting had no agenda other than hearing thoughts and ideas her office may wish to incorporate into its enforcement policies.

"The purpose of meeting people was to hear all of the points of view," Cantu said. "It's been an ongoing outreach for our office. The meeting was not a decision-making meeting. They are discussion groups."

"I heard pretty much of the same concerns that I have heard at other meetings. I thought it was useful. We are having OCR staff pull together notes from other meetings, and we will compile all of the suggestions."

Cantu said the ideas forwarded by the invitees ranged from giving added publicity to institutions with gender-equity success stories to

Judge rules against NCAA in restricted-earnings case

The NCAA Administrative Committee has acted to rescind the NCAA rule limiting compensation to coaches in restricted-earnings positions because of a Federal judge's ruling in a lawsuit against the Association.

The committee voted to remove the earnings restriction of the legislation (including the restriction on summer income) in order to allow NCAA members to comply with Judge Kathryn Vratil's May 24 court order.

Vratil, U. S. district judge for Kansas, ruled that the NCAA violates Federal antitrust law with the restricted-earnings provision, which limits coaches in the position to $12,000 compensation for the school year and $4,000 for the summer.

Vratil's complete opinion had not been issued as of May 30.

The restricted-earnings coach position was approved at the 1991 NCAA Convention as part of a legislative effort to contain intercollegiate athletics costs.

Restructuring

Presentations available for related organizations

Organizations interested in a presentation on the proposed NCAA restructuring plan are encouraged to call the national office for assistance.

The NCAA can arrange for a speaker from the appropriate division task force, coordinate the speaker's travel and hotel arrangements, and pay for the presenter's travel expenses. NCAA legislative assistant Mike L. Racy emphasized that arrangements can be made on short notice.

In a related matter, the Special Committee to Study Division II Athletics Certification has completed a legislative draft for a certification program for Division II. That draft will be submitted to the NCAA Presidents Commission, which will consider it at its June 19-20 meeting, and to the NCAA Council, which will meet August 7-9.

The Division II committee also discussed a tentative schedule for making presentations at conference meetings, primarily in late summer or early fall. The NCAA staff will be in contact with Division II conferences to confirm dates and interest in such presentations.

Finances

Division I members receive $8.5 million supplement

A total of $8.5 million has been mailed to the Division I membership as a result of an adjustment in the 1994-95 NCAA revenue-distribution plan.

At its May 2-4 meeting, the NCAA Executive Committee voted to increase the basketball fund and the "broad-based" funds (grants-in-aid and sports-sponsorship combined) to $40 million each.

The original basketball-fund amount of $31.5 million was mailed to Division I members April 21, which necessitated the $8.5 million supplementary payment May 26.

The grants-in-aid and sports-sponsorship funds will be distributed in August.

Here are the dates for the remaining distributions:

Special-assistance July 28
Sports-sponsorship August 11
Grants-in-aid August 25

Honors program

Winter, spring nominations to be submitted by July 1

Nominations folders for winter and spring sports candidates for the 1996 honors program must be received at the NCAA national office by July 1.

Nomination folders were mailed in March to athletics directors, faculty athletics representatives and sports information directors at all member institutions.

Nominations

Membership invited to submit Council, committee nominations

Administrative personnel at NCAA member institutions are invited to submit nominations for upcoming vacancies on the NCAA Council.

Nominations must be submitted to Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, at the NCAA national office (fax 913/339-0035) and must be received no later than August 25.

The NCAA Nominating Committee will review nominations and make recommendations to fill the Council positions, as well as vacancies for NCAA officers.

Nominations for vacancies on the NCAA Executive Committee, general committees appointed by the Council and sports committees also are being accepted. Those nominations must be submitted to Vaughan and are due July 14.

Under the terms of a new policy adopted by the NCAA Council, committees may not add to the nominations received from the membership. If the members of a committee want to consider certain individuals, they should make certain that someone in the membership sends a nomination letter to Vaughan by the deadlines.

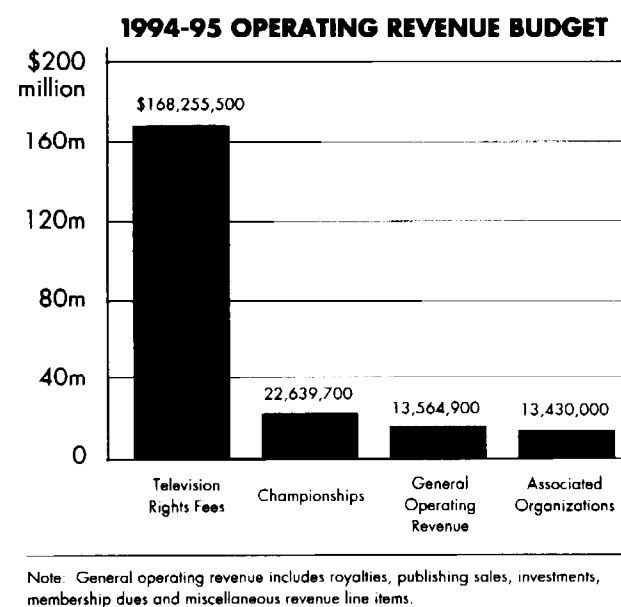

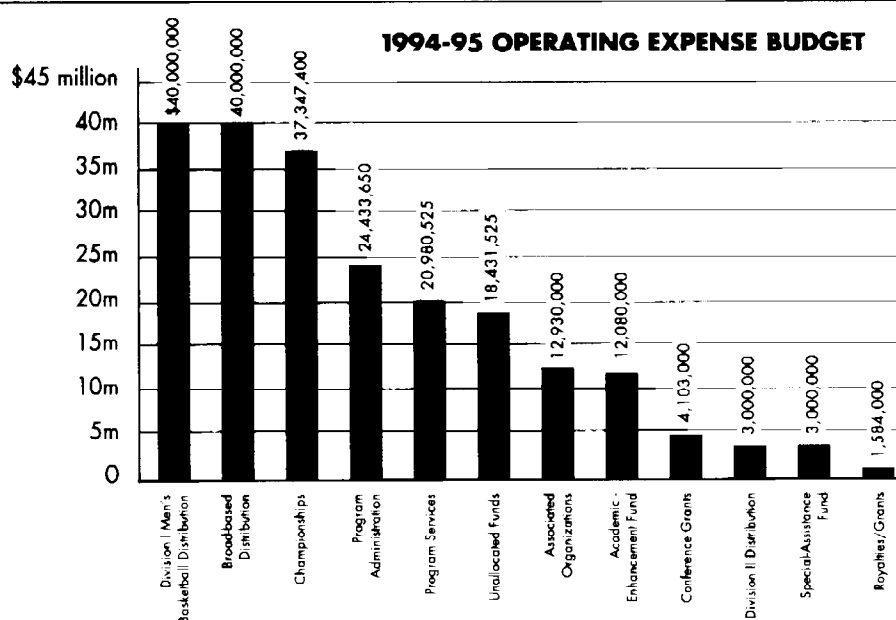

For more information, see the April 12 and April 5 issues of The NCAA News.

NCAA budget

The Association's 1994-95 budget has been revised as a result of the renegotiated television contract with CBS.

Originally, Division I institutions were to receive a total of $63 million from the basketball and "broad-based" funds of the NCAA revenue-distribution plan. However, at its May 2-4 meeting, the NCAA Executive Committee approved changes that increased the total of those distributions to $80 million.

The revised 1994-95 operating budget for the Association is $217,890,100.

Briefly in the News

Kids & Kops in Vermont

By getting youth involved personally with local law-enforcement officials, the University of Vermont's "Kids & Kops" program hopes to encourage youngsters to grow up free of alcohol and drug use and become beacons in society.

The program celebrated the close of its seventh season April 29 with more than 1,000 children, from second to eighth grades, participating in various athletics activities on campus. In addition, Vermont Gov. Howard Dean and Vermont U.S. Sen. Patrick Leahy were on hand for the festivities. Dean declared the day "Kids and Kops Day" in the state of Vermont.

"On behalf of the University of Vermont athletics department, I would like to welcome you to our athletics facilities," Vermont athletics director Richard A. Farnham told the young people. "Today is a day for you to enjoy some fun with our varsity athletes. But while you are playing basketball or soccer or floor hockey, don't forget the message behind this program. We want you to be good students. We want you to stay drug free, and we want you to be good citizens in the community."

The "Kops" portion of the program is fulfilled by area police officers who assist in several ways, especially by distributing trading cards that feature law-enforcement officials pictured with Vermont student-athletes.

Rain, rain go away

America's heartland again is being hit hard by heavy rainfall — an unwanted reminder of the devastating Midwest floods of 1993.

The waterlogged conditions wreaked havoc with the Carthage College women's softball team.

Through early May, Carthage had played only slightly more than half of its scheduled games, enduring 17 rainouts because of wet conditions.

On May 9, the team traveled to Milwaukee's County Stadium to watch the Brewers and Detroit Tigers. The baseball game was to be the team's season-ending party. But rain even followed them there.

"I'm sorry we had to inflict our problems on 7,928 others," Carthage coach Rich Fanning said. "It's just been one of those years."

First-base professor

Just how tough is it to be a first-base coach? Stephen Morillo, an assistant professor of history at Wabash College, aced the duties his first time out.

Scott Boone, head baseball coach at Wabash, was in a bit of a pinch when his first-base coach and assistant head coach Bill Boone, who doubles as a high-school teacher, left for Florida for a spring-break vacation. The entire Wabash faculty received electronic mail messages from Scott Boone soliciting a replacement first-base coach.

Enter Morillo, who was at the first-base bag for a couple of doubleheaders. Then Tobey Herzog, chair of the English department at Wabash, served in the role. Even Wabash's men's basketball coach Mac Petty took in some first-base coaching action.

"I spent some time watching coach Boone and learned that all I had to do was yell, 'OK, OK...back!' with a runner at second base," Morillo said. "Really, it wasn't that tough, but I would have liked for us to have won both games."

"Steve is really well-liked by the students at Wabash and the players on this team, so we were thrilled that he answered the call," Scott Boone said. "And I think it's a good idea to have faculty members down on the field so they can see another side of the Wabash educational experience."

Certification urged year-round for basketball events

The NCAA Recruiting Committee is proposing that the certification requirement for summer men's and women's basketball events be expanded to all nonscholastic, non-institutional events held during all Division I men's and women's basketball contact or evaluation periods.

The committee, which met May 18-19 in Monterey, California, will recommend to the NCAA Council that it sponsor such legislation for consideration by the membership. The Recruiting Committee is responding to concerns expressed by camp operators and coaches asso-

See Events, page 14 ▶

Other highlights

In other actions at its May 18-19 meeting in Monterey, California, the Recruiting Committee:

■ Recommended that the Council sponsor legislation in Division I to increase from $20 to $30 a day the amount of entertainment money that may be provided to a student host for a prospect. The increase was proposed by faculty athletics representatives in the Southeastern Conference. The $20 limit has been in effect since 1982, when it was increased from $10.

■ Reviewed requests for proposed legislation that have been received from coaches associations as part of the committee's ongoing efforts to solicit recommendations from those groups. Seven proposals were received from coaches — five involving men's and women's basketball, one involving football, and one involving women's softball. The proposals received the committee's support and were forwarded to the Council for consideration.

■ Provided recommendations to the national office staff for distributing information regarding the Association's initial-eligibility standards. "It is important that the NCAA undertakes as many efforts as reasonably possible to educate prospects on the initial-eligibility standards," said committee chair Vincent J. Dooley, director of athletics at the University of Georgia.

Committee notices

Member institutions are invited to submit nominations to fill interim vacancies on NCAA committees. Written nominations to fill the following vacancies must be received by Fannie B. Vaughan, executive assistant, in the NCAA office by June 19, 1995 (fax number 913/339-0035).

Division I-AA Football Committee: Replacement for William Moos, director of athletics, University of Montana, who has accepted the position as director of athletics at the University of Oregon, effective in July. Appointee must be from the Division I-AA football West region.

Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee: Replacement for Ron Bazil, U.S. Military Academy, who has accepted a position as cross country and track coach at Tulane University, which is in the same conference as another member of the committee. Appointee must be a Division I representative of men's track.

Division I Women's Volleyball Committee: Replacement for Sharon Holmberg, Big Sky Conference, resigned from the committee, effective July 1. Appointee must be a Division I representative of women's volleyball and should be an administrator from Division I women's volleyball District 5 (Big Eight, Missouri Valley and Mid-Continent Conferences). (Please note that District 5 does not refer to the geographic district defined in the NCAA Directory.)

Title IX serving a developmental role

By Jennie Bruening
KENYON COLLEGE

Stephen Chapman discussed the Cohen v. Brown University Title IX case in the May 10 issue of The NCAA News. Chapman, a newspaper columnist, suggested that the disparity in participation rates among women and men in intercollegiate athletics might be better attributed to a matter of interest, rather than unfair treatment.

As a woman who has fought for the right to participate, I would like to explain to him and others why some girls and women choose not to participate and how Title IX is changing this.

My mother never had the opportunity to play organized sports when she was growing up in the '50s, and luckily for me, she thought it was great that I did. But in the 1970s, I had to make many of those opportunities myself. My peers, and even my teachers, did not encourage me to go out and play kickball at recess with the boys in my class. I did that on my own and was stigmatized because of it. I can still hear the mothers of some of the boys I played Little League baseball with and against screaming, "Strike the girl out!" Not the fathers, the mothers!

Those women, and many others like them, had been conditioned to be nonparticipants and to shun those who did choose to play because athletics always had been considered a male realm. The imbalance in participation rates when Title IX came into existence was not because men were naturally more inclined to play, but because they were socially more inclined.

In the past, females have made the choice not to take part based largely on the input of negative societal opinion in regard to their place on the field of athletics competition, not of their own "free" will.

Yes, Title IX is mandating that schools provide opportunities to females as they provide them to males. And while it is unfortunate when male athletes have their opportunity to participate taken away, I believe what Title IX is accomplishing is beyond reproach.

Beyond gender equity, Title IX has been and continues to be instrumental in the resocialization of girls and women to believe that they belong on the playing fields and courts. It is becoming more widely accepted for girls

Success always comes from the inside

The following is an excerpt from remarks made by James H. Coleman Jr. at Virginia State University's spring commencement ceremony. Coleman, the first black justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, is a Virginia State alumnus.

You should remind yourselves from time to time that you are what you aspire to become, not what you are now. You are what you do with your mind. It is not the environment from which you come that necessarily determines what you become. While environment may be a factor, it is you — the quality of your mind and the determination of your will — that decides your future more than any other factors.

Some of you will ask: How does one go about achieving his or her goals in making one's dreams become reality given that racism still exists in our society? Discussions of topics such as "The Bell Curve" have existed over the last century and will no doubt continue into the 21st century. Just last month, The New York Times reported that "black Federal employees are more than twice as likely to be dismissed than their white counterparts." Ten days later, New Jersey's largest newspaper reported that despite educational achievements, Blacks still trail whites in wages and job opportunities.

So, then, how does one achieve his or her goals?

■ First, you must take responsibility for your own life. You must not live your life trying to find out whose fault it is should something go wrong in your life. I suggest that you take heed from what George Bernard Shaw once said: "People are always blaming their circumstances for what they are. I don't believe in circumstances. The people who get on in this world are the people who get up and look for the circumstances they want, and, if they can't find them, make them."

■ Second, be an optimist. The pessimist sees difficulty in every opportunity. The optimist sees opportunity in every difficulty. See the glass as being half-full rather than half-empty. See the world as a place with limitless opportunities rather than a place where racism will prevent you from achieving your goals.

I do not know if these are the best of times or the worst of times. But of one thing I am sure: This is the only time you have. So make the most of it by listening to positive music, reading positive books, watching positive videos and television, engaging in positive dialogue and, above all, by continuing to strive for excellence.

■ Third, learn to transform anger into positive motivation and a sense of empowerment. Make your motto to get better and not bitter in the pursuit of excellence. Focus on your goals, not your hardships. Never doubt yourself because once you begin to, all too often, that negative perception becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy.

■ Fourth, whatever task you undertake, perform at your best level. Not only will someone be watching you, but it is comforting to know you did your best.

■ Fifth, say a lot of prayers.

My generation of students and lawyers fought the civil rights war and won affirmative action programs to open the well-spring of opportunities. You must not allow affirmative action to become a crutch to lean on throughout a non-competitive lifetime. Nor should you wear racism on your sleeve of life, signifying you are either unwilling or unable to compete in the marketplace.

Some of you no doubt will become wealthy corporate executives. Others will reach the glass ceiling early in your upward climb, but don't give up on your dream. Some will hopefully become social engineers committed to the ideals of social and political justice. You, too, should continue dreaming. Still others will become lawyers hopefully who will be willing to use the law to further the cause of social justice. No matter what you become, do something to make life better for the next generation.

□ Opinions

Effective compliance program a must

Clarence Underwood, acting athletics director
Michigan State University
The Detroit News

"There's so much at stake. So much money from bowl games, money from TV during the season, recruiting — all those things are at stake if your university gets in trouble with the NCAA with a major violation.

"So you had better have on board a compliance officer, someone who can monitor your program, educate your staff, educate your student-athletes and your boosters, and do some overall preventive kinds of things, so these things will not occur.

"Because of that, most schools who have a very active, aggressive compliance program are going to detect secondary violations. If you deal with the secondary violations, and try to resolve those in some effective manner, that will prevent, in many cases, major violations from occurring."

NBA draft

Arleen Dagg, principal Chicago Farragut High School
Austin American-Statesman

Discussing the prospect of high-school basketball player Kevin Garnett being drafted by the National Basketball Association:

"The problem as I see it is that the NBA doesn't have anything in place, a support system, to help these kids once they get there. Maybe the NBA should use Kevin as a test case. There's a lot of talent at the high-school level, and a lot of these kids are going to be looking to see how Kevin does."

Title IX

Deborah Brake, staff counsel
National Women's Law Center
Chicago Sun-Times

"Football is not a third sex. If a school has a big football program, it benefits men. Then they need something to help women."

Kevin Bellis, former wrestling coach
Illinois State University
Chicago Sun-Times

The Illinois State wrestling program was eliminated earlier this year.

"The people that are suffering are not the people that are causing the problem. Gender equity is becoming absurd. I don't know what the answer is, but something is wrong here. And we're a perfect example."

Donna Lopiano, executive director
Women's Sports Foundation
Chicago Sun-Times

"I'd tell that wrestling coach (Bellis) he should be very mad at football. Football is the root of this whole problem. Football coaches don't want to cut back on their high standard of living, and they are arrogant enough to think they don't have to comply with Federal law."

Grant Teaff, executive director
American Football Coaches Association
Chicago Sun-Times

"I have seen the enemy eyeball to eyeball, and I can tell you they're out to get the game of football."

Softball

Cathy Compton, women's softball coach
Nicholls State University
New Orleans Times-Picayune

"I think more and more colleges across the country are turning to softball for their Title IX requirements because softball is a very popular sport. I also think schools are turning to softball because of practicality. There are a lot more softball teams than soccer teams playing at the Division I level, and that makes it easier for incoming teams to schedule their seasons....

"I think the interest in softball nationwide is growing more and more, and it's also growing from state to state. More states are developing strong summer programs like the ones already established in California, Texas and Oklahoma."

Walk-ons

Lindy Vivas, women's volleyball coach
California State University, Fresno
Fresno Bee

Discussing walk-ons:

"It's difficult for a coach to be a bad guy and make cuts, but that's something I've always had to do. Division I is supposed to be elite, the best kids, not every person who wants to take up space. That may sound rude, but that's competition, and we're in the business of competition."

■ State legislation relating to college athletics

This report summarizes legislation currently pending before state legislatures that could affect, or is otherwise of interest to, the intercollegiate athletics programs and student-athletes of NCAA member institutions.

Set forth below is a list of 16 bills from eight states. The report includes three bills that have been introduced, and 13 pending bills on which action has been taken, since the last report (May 17 issue of The NCAA News). The newly introduced bills are marked with an asterisk. Pending bills identified by previous reports on which no action has been taken do not appear in this report.

The State Legislation Report is based largely on data provided by the Information for Public Affairs on-line state legislation system as of May 25, 1995. The bills selected for inclusion in this report were drawn from a larger pool of measures that concern sports and therefore do not necessarily represent all of the bills that would be of interest to individual member institutions. Bills pending before the governing bodies of the District of Columbia and U.S. territories are not available on an on-line basis and are not included in this report.

The NCAA has not independently verified the accuracy or completeness of the information provided by Information for Public Affairs and is providing this summary as a service to members. For further information regarding a particular bill, members should contact the state legislature concerned.

The bills set forth below address the following subjects:

The legislatures of four states — Alaska, Florida, Minnesota and Missouri — have adjourned since the last report, bringing to 25 the number of state legislatures that have done so. In Alaska and Minnesota, pending bills will carry over to 1996. In Missouri, pending bills may be considered if the legislature reconvenes in 1995, but they will not carry over to 1996. In Florida, pending bills died at the conclusion of the legislative session if they had not been cleared for the governor's signature.

and women to exercise, participate in intramural sports and pick-up games, not to mention intercollegiate athletics.

I have seen things change dramatically in the last few years. Now when I go to watch my little sister play baseball, she is one of several girls in the league. All the mothers, and fathers, in the stands cheer for her and think it is great for her to be competing. I cannot wait for the day when I have a daughter because athletics will be even better for her. I will smile when she grabs her basketball on a Saturday afternoon and heads down the street to play because I will know that she will be included in the game.

At the simplest level, that is what Title IX is all about.

While fair treatment might not be best measured in statistical parity, the participation proportions in interscholastic athletics certainly are a measure of equity or inequity. I feel that girls and women are beginning to be treated better, but there is no objective way to measure that. The statistics do not lie. Opportunity and social acceptance go hand and hand. Now that girls and women see that they have been provided with the chance, even the invitation, to play, they will do just that. Maybe equal treatment does not always denote equal results, but is that any reason not to treat people equally? Once the opportunity for female athletes is there, the results will take care of themselves.

■ Administrative Committee minutes

Conference No. 9 May 25, 1995

The NCAA Administrative Committee was advised that a ruling had been issued against the Association in U.S. Federal District Court in the lawsuit concerning legislation limiting compensation for restricted-earnings coaches as a result of the application of NCAA Bylaws 11.02.3 and 11.3.4. Specifically, a Federal judge ruled that the Association was liable under Federal antitrust laws.

Acting on behalf of the NCAA Council, the Administrative Committee, using its authority under Constitution 5.3.1.1.1 to adopt "noncontroversial legislation," agreed to amend Bylaws 11.02.3 and 11.3.4 to remove those portions of the rules limiting compensation for restricted-earnings coaches, in order to allow NCAA member institutions to comply with the court order.

Transfer from Australia helps UCLA gun down Arizona in I women's softball

Entering the championship game of the 1995 Women's College World Series, Arizona had yet to play a full seven-inning game. The Wildcats also had yet to meet arch-rival UCLA — its opponent in three of the last four title games.

When the two powerhouses finally tangled May 29 in Oklahoma City, UCLA's Australian import Tanya Harding shut down a powerful Arizona offense with clutch pitching, and second baseman Kelly Howard sent the first pitch of her third at-bat over the fence to give UCLA a 4-2 victory over the Wildcats.

It was the Bruins' fourth victory in five meetings with Arizona this season and UCLA's eighth Division I Women's Softball Championship title.

"They've got a tough batting lineup," Harding said of Arizona's hitters. "We just wanted to keep them on the edge and pitch them inside and outside."

On the edge is exactly where Arizona had Harding in the first inning. Runners were at first and second with no outs on singles by Amy Chellevoid and Leah O'Brien. Harding struck out Jenny Dalton but the runners advanced on a passed ball. Then, Harding stranded those runners by striking out Laura Espinoza and Leah Braatz.

The Wildcats scored their first run in the top of the second inning, when Alison Johnsen singled and later scored on a ground out by Krista Gomez.

UCLA answered quickly, scoring in the bottom of the second inning on a two-run double by Jenny Brewster.

Arizona tied the score at 2-2 in the fifth inning when Gomez led off with a base hit and later scored on a single by O'Brien.

The Bruins' Ginny Mike reached base in the bottom of the fifth on an error by Chellevoid at first base. Howard then knocked Carrie Dolan's first pitch out of the park to cap the scoring.

"I was thinking that I should swing on the first strike," Howard said. "I didn't want to let a good pitch go by. I just wanted to get a hit and keep the rally going."

Harding allowed only one hit in the final two innings to seal the win for UCLA.

"We had a lot of runners left on base," Chellevoid said. "We just couldn't execute to score. There was a huge double play in the fourth inning that hurt us. I made a big error and we gave them runs when we shouldn't have."

Both UCLA and Arizona reached the title game virtually unscathed. The Bruins' toughest opponent was 1995's Cinderella team, Iowa. The Hawkeyes lost to UCLA, 2-1 in the first round. The Bruins then defeated Southwestern Louisiana, 3-0, and Iowa, 5-0.

Arizona barely worked up a sweat in wins over Princeton (9-1 in five innings), Cal State Fullerton (11-0 in five innings) and Nevada-Las Vegas (8-0 in six innings).

UCLA ended its season 50-6, while the Wildcats finished with a 66-6 record. The teams traded the No. 1 and No. 2 rankings throughout the season before squaring off in the tournament.

Harding was the tournament's most valuable player. Joining her on the all-tournament team were Braatz, catcher, Arizona; Kari Knopf, second base, Iowa; Howard, third base, UCLA; Julie Williams, shortstop, Cal State Fullerton; Jennifer Brundage, third base, UCLA; O'Brien, outfield, Arizona; Brandi Macias, outfield, Iowa; Johnsen, outfield, Arizona; Amie Stewart, pitcher, Nevada-Las Vegas; Nancy Evans, at large, Arizona; and Brandi Shriver, at large, Arizona.

By finishing one-two in the individual competition, Arizona State makes it three in a row in women's golf Kristel Mourgue d'Algue and Wendy Ward provided the one-two punch individually and combined with the rest of the Arizona State squad to knock out the field in team competition at the National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships May 24-27 at Wilmington, North Carolina.

Mourgue d'Algue and Ward finished first and second, respectively, to propel the Sun Devils to an unprecedented third consecutive team title. Mourgue d'Algue's five-under-par 283 on Landfall's Pete Dye Course made her the second consecutive Sun Devil medalist and third overall.

Ward, a pretournament favorite and the reigning U.S. Amateur champion, finished two shots behind her teammate and tied San Jose State's Vibeke Stensrud for second place. It was the second consecutive runner-up finish for Ward, who will join the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour later this summer.

Stensrud — buoyed by back-to-back rounds of 69 — held the lead through three rounds and entered the final round with a four-stroke advantage. But a fourth-round 76 opened the door for Mourgue d'Algue, who charged home with a two-under-par 70 to win the crown.

"I was really nervous," Mourgue d'Algue said afterward. "The funny thing is, on 16 and 17, I started to think...NCAA championship.... Then I was like, 'Oh my god, you're starting to think — that's not good!'"

In addition to Mourgue d'Algue and Ward, sophomore Heather Bowie finished tied for 12th and freshman Kellee Booth placed in a tie for 14th to help the Sun Devils post consistently low rounds of 288, 287, 291 and 289 to surpass second-place finisher San Jose State by 26 strokes. The three-over-par team total of 1,155 is a championships record for a par-72 course.

"I'm relieved to finally get it done," said Sun Devil coach Linda Vollstedt. "When you get a team like this that you know is so good, unless you win the national championships, no one will ever know."

"In our practice rounds, Kristel (Mourgue d'Algue) played the best golf I've seen her play, so I knew she was ready for the tournament. She was just in a zone out there and got it done."

Vollstedt credited Mourgue d'Algue's putting as the difference in the individual competition. Stensrud took 37 putts during the final round after hitting 15 greens in regulation.

"At the end I was just scared of putting," Stensrud said. "I'm a bit disappointed. The first three days my putts went in and today they didn't."

San Jose State, champion three previous times, was runner-up for the second time in five years. The Spartans have finished at least fourth in eight of the last nine championships.

Wake Forest placed two golfers in the top 10 and finished third overall, three shots ahead of Indiana. Stanford placed fifth, one stroke ahead of Furman, which was in last place after the first round but made up 12 spots in the standings with the help of a second-round 283 — a tournament best.

Stanford's top-five finish was boosted by Vicki Strada, who recorded her second career hole-in-one, acing the par-three eighth hole during the final round.

The final results were almost too good to be true for Arizona State's Kristel Mourgue d'Algue, who won the individual competition over teammate Wendy Ward.

Orangemen put the squeeze on Maryland in I lacrosse

Boosted by a timely offensive outburst, Syracuse's unheralded defense ultimately outshined its Maryland counterpart and preserved a 13-9 Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship title-game victory May 29 over the host Terrapins.

A championship-game record crowd of 26,229 fans saw the game, and thousands more watched on ESPN as the event was broadcast live nationally for the first time.

Coach Roy Simmons Jr., who has led the Orangemen to a record six championships — including two of the last three — praised the underrated component of the Syracuse machine.

"I've never had a defense as solid as this one," he said. "They played together well as a group."

In the early going, however, it was Maryland's defense that was dominant. In fact, goalie Brian Dougherty turned in a performance that clinched most-valuable-player honors for the 25th anniversary tournament.

Coming off a confidence-building upset of previously undefeated and top-seeded Johns Hopkins, Maryland battled to a 4-2 lead with 6:33 left in the first half. The Terrapins controlled the game tempo against a Syracuse squad that was averaging 17.2 goals per game.

Everything looked rosy for the hosts as the clock ticked into the final minute of the half. The Terrapins seemed ready to strut into the locker room with the lead, the momentum, the confidence gained by pitching a near shutout and the home-field advantage.

But it took the Orange only 41 seconds to change everything.

Mark Fietta ignited the rally with a goal with 44 seconds left, assisted by Ric Beardsley. Then, Syracuse's Toby Price won the ensuing face-off and Nick Licameli tied the score 11 seconds later. After Price won the next face-off, Paul Sullivan scored, assisted by Rob Kavovit. Suddenly Syracuse led, 5-4.

"This was their stadium and their crowd, and we had to take the wind out of them," Simmons said.

The Syracuse explosion left Maryland coach Dick Edell worried, even though his team had outplayed the Orange for most of the period.

"I didn't feel good at the end of the first half," he said. "We made three or four fundamental mistakes that cost us."

Maryland temporarily reclaimed the lead with 12:15 left in the third quarter on a Matt Hahn goal. But that was all the Terps would get until 1:45 remained in the game. By then, the Orangemen led, 13-7, and were ready to celebrate.

Syracuse defenseman Hans Schmid said he thought Maryland "ran out of steam" in the second half. He credited Orange goalkeeper Alex Rosier, whose solid play was overlooked somewhat because of the heroics of Maryland's Dougherty.

"He doesn't get enough credit," Schmid said of Rosier. "He saved our butts a few times. He proved himself today."

The Orangemen, who finished 13-2, suffered an uncharacteristically sour start this year, dropping two consecutive home games for the first time since 1975. One of those losses was a 15-7 thumping at the hands of Virginia, but Syracuse made amends in a 20-13 semifinal victory over the Cavaliers.

Meanwhile, Maryland claimed home-state lacrosse supremacy in the semifinals with a 16-8 whacking of tournament favorite Johns Hopkins. The Terrapins ended the season with a 12-4 record.

Fietta, Licameli, Kavovit, Beardsley and Casey Powell of Syracuse made the all-tournament team, as did Dougherty, Hahn, Dan Radebaugh, Peter Hilgartner and Rob Chomo of Maryland.

The event broke all attendance records set last year. The semifinals drew the largest gathering of the weekend — 30,327 fans. The total weekend attendance, including the May 28 Division III championship game, was 72,314.

Salisbury State romps in III lacrosse

Who could argue when Salisbury State coach Jim Berkman wondered aloud if his team is one of the best of all time?

The Sea Gulls dismantled previously unbeaten Nazareth, 22-13, to win its second consecutive NCAA Division III Men's Lacrosse Championship May 28. After such a convincing victory, Berkman probably got no argument from any of the record 15,768 fans who attended — 3,626 more than watched the Sea Gulls fly over Hobart (now in Division I) last year.

There probably were no dissenters among viewers of ESPN2's live broadcast of the championship game, either, and surely none of Salisbury State's opponents would argue the point. After all, even as a romp, Salisbury State's championship-game blowout was within one goal of being the Sea Gulls' closest game of the year.

"I'm not a lacrosse historian by any means," Berkman said. "But I've got to say that this is probably one of the most dominating performances ever in a season... (this has) got to be up there with the greatest teams of all time."

As convincing as the result was, the Sea Gulls' 32-game winning streak looked to be in jeopardy early. Nazareth built a 4-1 lead in the opening 12 minutes, only to see it evaporate to a 4-4 tie by quarter's end.

Nazareth coach Scott Nelson joked that he was hoping for bad weather when his team grabbed the early lead.

"I was hoping it would thunder and lightning," he said. "I thought if we could have kept it going from there we would have been fine."

Salisbury State's Sean Radebaugh, who finished as the game's leading scorer with six goals and three assists, said his team may have been too cocky early.

"We definitely didn't want to be another No. 1 seed losing (as Division I tournament entry Johns Hopkins did on the same field a day earlier)."

The game was still in question at half time, with the Gulls leading, 10-7, but Salisbury State scored four goals in the first three minutes of the second half and never looked back.

Nazareth, which finished the season 14-1, never got closer than 15-8 after that. The Sea Gulls' biggest lead was 10 goals.

"There was about a 10-minute stretch in the second half where we couldn't stop them," Nelson said.

Golden Flyers senior midfielder Brian Majczak echoed his coach's feelings.

"They were the deepest team I've ever played against," he said. "It seemed like they were playing 80 guys against us."

Both coaches agreed that face-offs, where Salisbury held a 24-15 edge, were a major factor in the Sea Gulls' dominance.

St. Augustine's men tie record with seventh straight II crown

The 1995 Division II Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships was billed as a St. Augustine's vs. Abilene Christian showdown. And that is what it was — at least through the first 12 events.

After that, it was all St. Augustine's.

Compiling 94½ points in the final nine championships events, St. Augustine's registered 140½ points and blew away the field to win its championships-record-tying seventh consecutive team title at Emporia State.

Abilene Christian, which held a 46½-42 advantage after 12 events, finished a distant second with 95 points. Cal State Bakersfield, Ashland and Pittsburg State rounded out the top five.

Coach George Williams' Mighty Falcons collected 13 individual top-three finishes — including seven victories — to compile the most championships points since Abilene Christian totaled 142 in 1986. The 45½-point margin of victory was the largest since St. Augustine's registered a 56 ½-point victory in 1991.

With its seventh consecutive team title, St. Augustine's tied Abilene Christian (1982 through 1988) for the longest victory streak in championships history.

Marlin Cannon was the Falcons' top individual performer, claiming individual titles in the 200- and 400-meter dashes and anchoring the Falcons' title-winning 1,600-meter relay team.

But Cannon's most impressive showing came in the 200, where he crossed the line nearly one-half second ahead of his closest competitor.

Ryan Hayden was part of two individual titles, winning the 400-meter hurdles and running the lead leg of the 1,600-meter relay. He also scored in the 400-meter dash.

St. Augustine's dominated the team competition, but competitors from other schools turned in outstanding individual performances — including Savieri Ngidhi of Abilene Christian, Charles Mulinga of Lewis, Sean Robbins of Ashland and Robert Dilts of UC Davis.

Ngidhi won the 800- and 1,500-meter runs, respectively, for the second consecutive year. He became the first competitor to win both titles back-to-back.

Mulinga also successfully defended two titles, claiming the 5,000- and 10,000-meter runs. Mulinga, who shattered the 10,000-meter run record at the 1994 championships, once again lowered the standard, this time by more than 11 seconds.

Robbins and Dilts also posted record performances. Robbins won the long jump, registering a winning leap of 8.09 meters (26 feet, 6½ inches). Dilts, meanwhile, heaved the hammer 65.64 meters (215-4) — nearly nine feet better than the previous record.

Ron Foster of Portland State finished third in the decathlon with 7,120 points.

Abilene Christian cruises in II women's competition

Wes Kittley knows what it's like to be on the losing side of a track championships team race that turns out to be anything but a race. And now, he knows about being on the winning side.

A year ago, Kittley's Abilene Christian squad finished second in the Division II Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships — a distant 35½ points behind Alabama A&M. But this year, the Wildcats won four individual titles — including a record-setting performance in the 400-meter relay — and cruised to their fifth team championship at Emporia State.

Bolstered by the quartet of Hermin Joseph, Mary Tombiri-Shiri, Amara Ezem and Revoli Campbell — the members of that 400-meter relay team — Abilene Christian racked up 106½ points. The Wildcats finished 35½ points ahead of runner-up Cal State Los Angeles, which collected 71 points.

Norfolk State, Cal State Bakersfield and Adams State finished Nos. 3, 4 and 5, respectively.

Abilene Christian, which garnered nine top-three individual showings, finished the 400-meter relay in 44.17 seconds, more than two seconds ahead of runner-up St. Augustine's.

Tombiri-Shiri, Campbell and Christy Boles claimed individual victories for the Wildcats. Tombiri-Shiri won the 100-meter dash, beating defending champion Joseph by .11 seconds.

Campbell also cruised to victory in the 400-meter dash, outdistancing runner-up Angeleta

Graham of Cal State Los Angeles by nearly one second. Boles won her first individual title, claiming the high-jump crown with a leap of 1.77 meters (5 feet, 9¾ inches).

Chandra Sturup of Norfolk State was the championships' top individual performer, garnering three top-three finishes, including two titles. Sturup, who won the 200-meter dash and the long jump, tied Teena Colebrook of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo (1987 through 1990) for the most individual career titles (seven). She also placed third in the 100-meter dash.

Karlene Haughton of St. Augustine's and Mirsada Buric-Adams of Adams State joined Sturup as double titlists. Haughton won the 100- and 400-meter hurdles, while Buric-Adams won the 1,500- and 5,000-meter runs.

Haughton, who has won two consecutive 400-meter hurdles crowns, is only the second competitor to win both hurdles titles in the same year. Marsha Guialdo of Cal State Los Angeles completed the feat in 1993.

Buric-Adams became only the second individual to win the 1,500- and 5,000-meter runs in the same year. Amy Harper of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo won both titles in 1983.

Elva Dryer of Western State also extended a streak by becoming the first competitor to win three consecutive 3,000-meter run championships.

Abilene Christian's Lindsay Welsh was a top finisher in two events, placing fourth in the long jump and third in the triple jump.

Titans ride team depth to III women's track title

With only nine individual-event championships in 13 Division III Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships, Wisconsin-Oshkosh has produced few marquee names.

But the Titans regularly have produced team success.

Displaying the consistency and depth that has made them one of the top Division III women's programs, the Titans amassed 58 points and won the championships team title May 24-27 at Carleton.

Wisconsin-Oshkosh won only one individual event, but still edged St. Thomas (Minnesota) by six points to win its third team title. The Titans finished as runner-up in 1994.

Christopher Newport placed third, followed by Wisconsin-La Crosse and Cortland State.

Lisa Melendez claimed the Titans' sole individual title, racing to victory in the 400-meter dash. Melendez edged Shawntell Manning of Tufts by .11 seconds to win her first championships title. She also placed fifth in the 200-meter dash.

Brenda Biskobing and Missy Oleson also contributed significant points by scoring in two events each.

Biskobing earned two top-four finishes, placing third in the 1,500-meter run and fourth in the 800-meter run, while Oleson earned fourth-place finishes in the shot put and discus throw.

Despite the Titans' display of teamwork, the championships also featured outstanding individual performances.

Eleena Zhelezov of Brandeis turned in the most noteworthy performance as she won her fourth consecutive triple-jump title. Zhelezov joins Kim Oden of Nebraska Wesleyan as the only competitors to win four consecutive event titles. Oden won four straight high-jump championships from 1989 through 1992.

Vandisha Wilder of Christopher Newport was the championships' only two-event winner, claiming the 100- and 200-meter dashes. Kelly Copps of St. Thomas (Minnesota) earned her third consecutive 10,000-meter run crown, finishing more than 22 seconds ahead of runner-up Michelle LaFleur of Cortland State.

Heather O'Shea of Mount Union (800-meter run), Lisa Marshall of Wisconsin-Eau Claire (discus throw) and Renee Erickson of Concordia-Moorhead (javelin throw) all successfully defended their titles.

Lions pull a fast one over III men's field

Lincoln (Pennsylvania) runs away with sprint events and team crown

Displaying its usual dominance in the sprints, Lincoln (Pennsylvania) claimed four individual titles and coasted to the Division III Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships team title May 24-27 at Carleton.

Lincoln amassed 80 points to easily outdistance runner-up Williams, which finished with 61 points. The 80 points was the fifth-highest total in the championships' 22-year history.

Defending champion North Central registered 47 points to place third, while Albany (New York) and Augustana (Illinois) placed fourth and fifth, respectively, with 39 and 32 points.

The team title was Lincoln's third, but first since 1990. The Lions, who also claimed the 1985 title, finished as runner-up in seven of the last 10 championships.

Led by Brandon Jones, who won both the 100- and 200-meter dashes, the Lions scored 60 of their 80 points in only four events — the 100- and 200-meter dashes and 400- and 1,600-meter relays.

Jones won an unprecedented third 100-meter crown, clocking in at 10.46 seconds. He also claimed his second 200-meter dash title, finishing in 21.40. The victories earned Jones his fourth and fifth individual-event crowns, tying him for second in career championships titles.

Jones also anchored the Lions'

400-meter relay team to victory. The foursome — also featuring Jeff Taylor, Don Waldron and Marcus Broach — cruised to victory in the event, finishing .76 seconds ahead of runner-up Claremont-Mudd-Scripps.

The 400-meter relay title was the Lions' fifth consecutive in that event and sixth in seven years.

Not to be outdone, the Lions' foursome of Taylor, Anthony Julien, William Robinson and Eric Schmidt claimed the 1,600-meter relay with a time of 3:15.96. The quartet shattered the championships record in the preliminaries, clocking in at 3 minutes, 12 seconds.

The previous record was 3:12.40, set by Rowan in 1984.

Mike Schnur of Wisconsin-La Crosse and Drew Orsinger of Coast Guard also etched their names in the championships records with a new standard in the pole vault. Both vaulted 5.19 meters (17 1/4 feet) to eclipse the record set by Schnur in 1994. Schnur claimed the title, his second in a row.

Jeffrey York of Albany won the 110-meter hurdles crown to join Roger Retherford of Otterbein (1974 through 1976) as the only three-time winners in the event. York finished in 13.85 seconds.

Committee urges year-round certification ciations, said Vincent J. Dooley, athletics director at the University of Georgia and committee chair.

Those groups have reported that an increasing number of events are being scheduled during other periods — especially the fall. Some events possibly are being scheduled to avoid certification; for example, some events that previously were scheduled during the summer now are scheduled during the fall contact period. Division I men's and women's basketball coaches are permitted to evaluate prospective student-athletes during that fall period.

Under NCAA Bylaw 13.13.5, basketball coaches at Division I institutions may attend only institutional summer basketball camps and noninstitutional organized events — such as camps, leagues, tournaments and festivals — held during the July evaluation period and certified under Bylaw 30.15.

The staff liaisons to the Recruiting Committee are reviewing the impact of an expansion of the certification requirement and will report findings to the committee before Council consideration of the proposal.

The Council will consider the proposal at its August meeting and could submit it for consideration by the membership at the 1996 NCAA Convention. If adopted, the legislation would become effective in August 1996.

Arizona State standouts head all-America list

Kristel Mourgue d'Algue and Wendy Ward of Arizona State, winner of the 1995 National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships team title, head the 1995 National Golf Coaches Association (NGCA) all-America team.

Mourgue d'Algue and Ward, seniors who finished first and second, respectively, in the individual championship (see page 6), were selected for the first team along with Arizona State sophomore Heather Bowie and freshman Kellee Booth.

In addition to Ward and Bowie, Janice Moodie of San Jose State and Stephanie Neill of Wake Forest were selected to the first team for the second straight year.

Criteria for selection include head-to-head competition, stroke average and differential to par, average place finish, and tournament victories. Selections are made by the all-American committee of the NGCA.

Coach-of-the-year honors went to Arizona State's Linda Vollstedt, who has led the Sun Devils to three consecutive team titles, and Oklahoma's Carol Ludvigson.

Following are this year's all-Americans:

First team

Kellee Booth, Arizona State; Heather Bowie, Arizona State; Sofie Eriksson, Tulsa; Siew Ai Lim, South Carolina; Janice Moodie, San Jose State; Kristel Mourgue d'Algue, Arizona State; Stephanie Neill, Wake Forest; Wendy Ward, Arizona State; Erika Wicoff, Indiana.

Second team

Cecilia Afzelius-Alm, San Jose State; Alexandra Armas, Wake Forest; Jennifer Biehn, Southern California; Jeanne-Marie Busitill, Florida; Mhairi McKay, Stanford; Caroline Peek, Furman; Kathi Poppmeier, Duke; Vibeke Stensrud, San Jose State; Karen Stupples, Florida State.

IMAGINE IF HE'D BEEN AS GOOD ON THE BACKBOARD.

Albert Einstein's strength was in physics, not on the basketball court. But what if he had been great at both? Chances are he could have been named a member of the

GTE Academic All-America® Team. In which case, he would have joined the ranks of people such as Doug Collins (Illinois State), Bob Elliott (Arizona), Michelle Johnson (USAF Academy) and

Pat Richter (Wisconsin). People who, after graduation, continued to excel—in sports, in life, in service to the community. Which is why we are inducting these four into the GTE Academic All-America Hall of Fame®, as selected by CoSIDA®. And saluting their quest for excellence in all aspects—a trait admired by many, yet achieved by few. It's amazing what we can do together.

Restriction

Committee removes compensation limits on restricted-earnings positions

mer. The class-action suit was brought by five Division I men's basketball restricted-earnings coaches; also, a class-action suit was filed by a men's lacrosse coach representing restricted-earnings coaches in other sports. A separate suit also was filed by several baseball coaches.

Vrtil's complete opinion had not been issued as of May 30. Any question of damages or propriety of class would be determined in subsequent court proceedings.

The restricted-earnings coach position was approved at the 1991 NCAA Convention as part of a legislative effort to contain intercollegiate athletics costs. The legislation was sponsored by the NCAA Council and developed by the NCAA Special Committee on Cost Reduction, chaired by Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Eugene F. Corrigan, the current president of the Association.

The rationale statement accompanying the legislation stated:

"The largest expense item in the athletics budget is personnel. Currently, only football and basketball have limits on the number of coaches who may be employed, and the existing categorical designations of part-time graduate student and volunteer coach have not been effective in reducing the number of full-time paid employees associated with the sport.

"In addition, the committee recognizes the recent proliferation of part-time personnel associated with many Division I sports. Proposed limitations reflect an effort to: (1) reduce the number of coaches associated with each sport by at least one full-time equivalent position; (2) establish an 'unrestricted' head or assistant coach category that will accommodate any type of volunteer, paid, full-time or part-time coach; and (3) establish a 'restricted-earnings' category that will encourage the development of new coaches while more effectively limiting compensation to such coaches."

At the 1991 Convention, the membership approved restricted-earnings coaches for all Division I sports, including I-A football, and also established coaching-staff limitations in all Division I sports. At the 1992 Convention, the Division I-A membership voted to eliminate the four restricted-earnings positions in football, replacing them with a full-time assistant and two graduate assistants.

Since its passage in 1991, the legislation pertaining to Division I sports other than football has withstood several significant challenges, including the following, which were defeated at the 1992 and 1993

Conventions (several other proposals were withdrawn or not moved):

■ To permit a restricted-earnings coach to receive compensation from the institution for duties not related to coaching (1992).

■ To exempt the $4,000 limitation on summer-camp employment (1992).

■ To eliminate the restricted-earnings coach in men's ice hockey and replace that individual with a second full-time assistant (1992).

■ To eliminate the restricted-earnings coach in men's basketball and replace that individual with a third full-time assistant (1993).

In some cases, the legislation has been fine-tuned, such as when a second full-time coach was approved in wrestling (1992) and when volunteer coaches were approved for all Division I sports other than football and basketball (1992).

Fifteen leagues are certified

Another 15 summer basketball leagues have been certified by the Association for 1995 competition, increasing to 152 the number approved this year.

Questions about the application process or requirements for NCAA certification of summer leagues should be directed to Christopher D. Schoemann, NCAA legislative assistant, at the national office.

Following are the leagues — nine for men, two for women and four combining men's and women's competition — recently approved for participation. Other approved leagues were published in the April 19 and 26 and May 3, 17 and 24 issues of The NCAA News.

publication of OCR letters of findings in cases as a learning tool.

Several of the participants, however, were under the impression that the meeting would center on the OCR investigator's manual, which is the document that guides the agency's enforcement.

"They didn't let us go in that direction," James said. "We had an opportunity to give some suggestions on what the concerns were. It was interesting and a little bit frustrating. I didn't leave with a strong feeling of confidence."

"We had been invited in to talk about the investigator's manual, but we really never got to that," Teaff said. "They're not champing at the bit to change it. It really worked out to be what I would call a focus group. We spent a full day answer-

23 senators support current application

Nearly one-fourth of the U.S. Senate has alerted the Department of Education that it believes the gains afforded women under Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 must be protected and any attempt at "turning back the clock for women in sports" will be met with much opposition.

In a May 15 letter to Secretary of Education Richard W. Riley, 23 senators said that Title IX threatens the viability of men's sports.

The senators' letter said that the Department of Education has no changes in its position that Title IX is a civil rights law that has been followed by the Department of Education and the Office for Civil Rights to carry out this important provision of the law.

ing questions, and we listened to a ton of things that everybody feels need to be done in the future.

"Ms. Cantu was open and she listened. I think she gets the picture. I think she was really understanding of things as they are in the real world, so to speak."

James said she was frustrated with the OCR's reluctance at the meeting to give much in the way of concrete answers to certain questions — particularly, how the agency plans to address concerns about the ambiguity of prongs two and three of the three-part compliance test.

Those components permit an institution to demonstrate a continuing history of program expansion for its underrepresented sex and to demonstrate that it meets the interests and abilities of its underrepresented sex.

The OCR has been accused by some critics of overemphasizing the first prong of the three-part test. Prong one involves male-to-female proportionality in athletics participation, compared to the male-to-female underrepresentation.

"There certainly is not a sense that they're prepared to do that

1995 Column No. 22

1995 NCAA Convention Proposal No. 104 Championships criteria — minimum sponsorship exception

NCAA institutions should note that with the adoption of 1995 Convention Proposal No. 104 (Bylaw 18.2.10.1, effective immediately), the moratorium on the discontinuation of the National Collegiate Championships was extended through the 1996-97 academic year. Further, during its April 24-26 meeting, the NCAA Council, using the provisions of Constitution 5.4.1.1.1 (modification of wording), amended Proposal No. 104 to extend the moratorium to all division championships. Thus, during the 1995-96 and 1996-97 academic years, an existing National Collegiate or division championship may not be canceled due to the championship's failure to meet the minimum numerical sponsorship requirements for maintaining the championship.

Bylaws 12.5.1.7 and 12.5.1.8 Institutionally sponsored and privately owned summer-camp advertisements

NCAA institutions should note that in accordance with 12.5.1.7, an institution's summer camp may use the name or picture of any student-athlete employed as a counselor to publicize or promote the camp, including the use of the student-athlete's name or picture in camp brochures or other advertising. An institution also may use the name or picture of any current student-athlete enrolled at the institution to promote the institution's camp or clinic (including a student-athlete who is not employed at the camp or clinic), provided the provisions of 12.5.1.1 are met. Such activity is considered a permissible institutional promotion.

Further, pursuant to 12.5.1.8, a privately owned summer camp may use a student-athlete's name, picture and institutional affiliation in its summer-camp brochure to identify the student-athlete as a staff member. However, a student-athlete may not be used in any other way to directly advertise or promote the camp.

Finally, during its April 28, 1994, telephone conference, the NCAA Interpretations Committee determined that an institutional staff member who conducts a camp independent of the institution may not use the names or pictures of student-athletes with remaining eligibility in the camp brochure if the student-athletes will not be employed as counselors at the camp, inasmuch as such a camp is considered a privately owned camp for these purposes. Such a brochure may include the name, picture and institutional affiliation of any student-athlete who will be employed as a counselor at the camp only to identify the student-athlete as a staff member and may not use the student-athlete's name or picture in any other way to directly advertise or promote the camp.

Bylaw 13.13.2.1.1 Employment of student-athletes at summer camps/clinics

NCAA institutions are reminded that in accordance with 13.13.2.1.1, a student-athlete who is employed in any sports camp or clinic must meet the following requirements:

1. The student-athlete must perform duties that are of a general supervisory character, and any coaching or officiating assignments must represent not more than one-half of the student-athlete's work time.

2. Compensation provided to the student-athlete must be commensurate with the going rate for camp or clinic counselors of like teaching ability and camp or clinic experience, and may not be paid on the basis of the value that the student-athlete may have for the employer because of the athletics reputation or fame the student-athlete has achieved. It is not permissible to establish varying levels of compensation for a student-athlete employed in a sports camp or clinic based on the level of athletics skills of the student-athlete.

3. A student-athlete who only lectures or demonstrates at a camp or clinic may not receive compensation for his or her appearance at the camp or clinic.

Further, per 13.13.2.1.2, in sports other than Division I football, a member institution (or employees of its athletics department) may employ its student-athletes as counselors in institutional camps or clinics, subject to the following conditions:

a. The student-athlete may not participate in organized practice activities other than during the institution's playing season in the sport, and

b. The member institution's director of athletics must give prior approval to the student-athlete's employment arrangement.

Finally, as set forth in 13.13.2.1.3.1 and 13.13.2.1.3.2 in Divisions I-A and I-AA football, no member of an institution's intercollegiate football squad who has eligibility remaining may be employed or otherwise participate in that institution's football camp. A member of an institution's intercollegiate football squad who has eligibility remaining may be employed in any camp that specializes in the sport of football, other than his own institution's camp, provided not more than one football student-athlete from any one institution is employed in the camp.

Certification

Ten Division I institutions are approved by certification committee; seven certified with conditions as certified. Northern Illinois complied fully with the condition placed on the institution's certification by the committee in March, which was to create a comprehensive plan for addressing gender equity in its intercollegiate athletics program.

Seven institutions received a designation of certified with conditions pending. Those institutions are Bethune-Cookman College, State University of New York at Buffalo, Idaho State University, University of Memphis, St. Francis College (Pennsylvania), Tennessee Technological University and Western Kentucky University.

Conditions placed on Bethune-Cookman's certification include developing plans for upgrading academic support services for student-athletes, for ensuring policy input by appropriate campus constituencies, for ensuring that rules education and compliance responsibilities are shared with persons outside the athletics department, and for addressing gender equity in its intercollegiate athletics program. In addition, Bethune-Cookman must update the mission-and-goals statement of the athletics department and demonstrate a commitment to the fair treatment of student-athletes, including creation of a student-athlete committee.

Buffalo, Idaho State, St. Francis (Pennsylvania) and Western Kentucky must complete comprehensive plans for addressing gender-equity and minority opportunities in their intercollegiate athletics programs. St. Francis also must document its compliance with Division I financial aid minimums in order to provide evidence that the institution is ensuring full and stable opportunities for its student-athletes.

Memphis and Tennessee Tech must complete comprehensive plans for addressing minority opportunities in their intercollegiate athletics programs.

The 17 institutions completed a year-long certification process, which all 302 Division I members will undergo within the next five years. Twenty-five institutions have now completed the process. The program's purpose is to ensure integrity in the institutions' athletics operations.

Legislation mandating athletics certification was adopted by a vote of the Division I members at the 1993 NCAA Convention as a key part of the NCAA's reform agenda.

A designation of certified means that an institution has shown that it operates its athletics program in substantial conformity with operating principles adopted by the Division I membership.

A designation of certified with conditions means that an institution generally operates its athletics program in substantial conformity with the Division I operating principles; however, problems were identified that were serious enough to withhold full certification until the problems have been resolved.

A designation of not certified means that the institution is not operating in substantial conformity with the Division I operating principles. Problems were identified that were considered very serious or pervasive. Action must be taken by the institution before it can even be conditionally certified. The institution may be placed in a restricted-membership category for up to a year if it fails to make an effective effort to correct problems within the time frame set by the committee. If problems remain unresolved at the end of that year, the committee may reclassify an institution as a corresponding member.

If an institution desires an appeal, it can request, within 15 calendar days, a hearing before the Committee on Athletics Certification. If it still is not satisfied, the institution may appeal to the Division I Steering Committee of the NCAA Council.

The certification process, led by the chief executive officer on each campus, includes members of the faculty and staff, in addition to athletics department personnel who serve on the committee and subcommittees responsible for the self-study.

Certification examines the athletics department's academic integrity, financial integrity, governance and commitment to rules compliance, and commitment to equity. The self-study committee on each campus analyzed those four areas and submitted a report.

At the end of each institution's self-study, a peer group of administrators from other NCAA member institutions visited the campus and heard from the institution's self-study committee and others. The peer group then reported to the Committee on Athletics Certification, which made the final decision.

A decision of certified does not exempt an institution from concurrent or subsequent enforcement proceedings. The NCAA Committee on Infractions can ask the Committee on Athletics Certification to review an institution's certification status as a result of a completed infractions case.

The members of the Committee on Athletics Certification are R. Daniel Beebe, Ohio Valley Conference; McKinley Boston, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities; Robert A. Chernak, George Washington University; Lee A. McElroy, California State University, Sacramento; Hallie E. Gregory, University of Maryland, Eastern Shore; Patricia H. Meiser-McKnett, University of Hartford; Annette O'Connor, La Salle University; Frederick W. Obear, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga; Ed Pastilong, West Virginia University; Marcia L. Sanesholtz, Washington State University; William M. Sangster, Georgia Institute of Technology; Andrea Seger, Ball State University; R. Gerald Turner, chair, Southern Methodist University; Charlotte West, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; and Charles Whitcomb, San Jose State University.

now," James said of clearing the confusion surrounding prongs two and three. "I sense a reluctance to make those two more clear because Ms. Cantu wants to be flexible."

Members of the U.S. House Committee on Economic and Educational Opportunities, which includes a subcommittee that held a hearing on Title IX May 9, have asked Cantu to address the concern expressed by some in the NCAA membership about confusion over prongs two and three.

Rep. Howard P. "Buck" McKeon, R-California and chair of the Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education, Training and Lifelong Learning, and Rep. Steve Gunderson, R-Wisconsin, sent Cantu a May 24 letter in which they stated:

"...(T)estimony from the presidents of both Brown University and Eastern Illinois University clearly indicates that there is a lack of clarity in the higher education community as to how to show compliance with the latter two prongs of the test.... Given the lack of understanding on the part of the regulated community as to the means to demonstrate a history and practice of program expansion for the underrepresented sex or full and effective accommodation of the interests and abilities of the underrepresented sex, we would like you to provide us with an update of any plans that the Department has to clarify the three-prong test either through regulations or policy guidance. It might obviate the need for a legislative clarification if the Department provided a clear signal as to the parameters of the obligation of colleges and universities to provide equal athletic opportunities."

Cantu believes, however, that the three-prong test already is clear enough.

"We have examples of institutions that used prongs two and three to comply," she said. "If campuses are getting it right, then it is clear to me. It's not a view that is uniformly shared."

In the meantime, Cantu said, her office will continue discussions among its regional offices in the interest of ensuring consistency.

Executive Committee minutes

Following are the minutes of the May 2-4, 1995, meeting of the NCAA Executive Committee at Los Abrigados Resort and Spa in Sedona, Arizona. All actions taken by the Executive Committee are included. Highlights of the meeting were reported in the May 10 issue of The NCAA News.

1. Opening Remarks. NCAA President Eugene F. Corrigan welcomed new members Eugene D. Smith of Iowa State University, Lynn L. Dorn of North Dakota State University, Susan A. Collins of George Mason University and Patty Viverito of the Gateway Football and Missouri Valley Conferences to the Executive Committee.

2. Approval of Minutes.

It was voted that the minutes of the December 4-5, 1994, meeting be approved as distributed.

3. Administrative Committee Minutes.

It was voted that the minutes of Administrative Committee Conference Nos. 24-27 (1994) and Nos. 1-6 (1995) be approved as distributed.

4. Actions Taken by Executive Director.

It was voted that the actions taken by the NCAA executive director on behalf of the Executive Committee since the December 1994 meeting be approved as distributed.

5. Referrals from NCAA Council. The Executive Committee took the following actions on items referred to it by the Council from its April 24-26 meeting:

a. Minority Opportunities and Interests Committee. Approved a one-time allocation of up to $10,000 for the committee to conduct meetings of a group comprising representatives of the Black Coaches Association; African-American college presidents, conference commissioners and women's representatives; athletics directors from both nonhistorically and historically black colleges; and representatives of the National Athletic Steering Committee. It was noted that in accordance with NCAA policy, the group would not be permitted to meet in conjunction with the Final Four. In addition, the Executive Committee specified that the committee account for the use of the moneys.

b. 1995 Convention Proposal No. 104. Received the information that the Council had used the provisions of NCAA Constitution 5.4.1.1.1 to amend Proposal No. 104 from the 1995 Convention. (Constitution 5.4.1.1.1 gives the Council the authority to interpret legislation "consistent with the intent of the membership in adopting the legislation, provided sufficient documentation and testimony are available to establish that the new wording of the legislation is consistent with that intent.") Specifically, that action extended the moratorium on the discontinuation of National Collegiate championships to include division championships as well.

(1) By way of background, since the adoption of 1995 Convention Proposal No. 104, questions had arisen regarding whether the provisions of the proposal affected division championships, as well as National Collegiate championships. The statement accompanying Proposal No. 104 indicated that the intent was to "extend the moratorium on the discontinuation of National Collegiate championships." The Executive Committee, the Divisions I, II and III Championships Committees, and the NCAA legislative services staff had interpreted the proposal as affecting only National Collegiate championships and not division championships. Several institutions had indicated that it was their understanding when they voted to adopt Proposal No. 104 that the moratorium would be extended for both National Collegiate and division championships. The sponsor of Proposal No. 104 had indicated that it intended to include all championships in the moratorium, not just National Collegiate championships.

Meeting May 2-4, 1995

(2) It was noted that the immediate practical effect of the Council's action is to continue the Division II Men's Ice Hockey, Division II Men's Lacrosse and National Collegiate Men's Gymnastics Championships, which were to be discontinued after the 1995 championships, through the 1996-97 academic year.

c. Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. Received the information that relative to the NCAA drug-testing program, the Council had declined to sponsor legislation to reduce the penalties for first and second positive tests for the use of street drugs, to eliminate heroin from the list of banned drugs, or to authorize NCAA testing of student-athletes who test positive for banned substances by another athletics drug-testing organization; but agreed to sponsor legislation to provide that a second positive drug test for a banned substance would result in permanent loss of eligibility regardless of whether the second test occurred during or after the initial period of eligibility. [Also refer to Minute No. 8.]

d. Men's Committee on Committees. Noted that the Council had approved recommendations from the Men's Committee on Committees regarding the nomination and appointment process for sports committees and had asked that they be distributed to the championships committees for information.

6. Report of Budget Subcommittee. NCAA Secretary-Treasurer Phyllis L. Howlett reported on the earlier meeting of the Budget Subcommittee. The Executive Committee took the following actions:

a. Review of budget to actual expenditures. Reviewed a six-month comparison of actual revenues and expenses to budget as of February 1995. It was noted that the 1994-95 budget reflected $35,431,525 in unallocated funds resulting primarily from the new CBS television contract, and the Executive Committee agreed that supplemental distributions to the Division I membership will continue to be a top priority when excess revenues are available.

It was voted that an additional $17 million of the unallocated funds be distributed to the Division I membership as follows: $8.5 million based on the basketball distribution fund of the revenue-distribution plan, to be sent by the end of May, and $8.5 million based on the broad-based fund, to be sent in August.

[Note: This action increased the amount in each fund from $31.5 million to $40 million for fiscal year 1994-95.]

b. Preliminary 1995-96 general operating budget. Reviewed a preliminary budget for fiscal year 1995-96, noting that decisions made at this meeting and the July Budget Subcommittee meeting would be incorporated into the budget for final approval in August. The Executive Committee agreed to take a long-term approach to budgeting (through the end of the CBS contract in 2002) and discussed possible allocations for the 1995-96 budget and future years. It agreed to the following, with final action to be taken in August:

(1) Increase the basketball and broad-based funds of the revenue distribution plan beginning in 1995-96 and through the year 2002.

(2) Increase the academic enhancement component of the plan from $40,000 to $50,000 for each Division I institution and to maintain this amount through 2002.

(3) Increase the conference grants annually.

(4) Beginning in 1997-98 and through the year 2002, reestablish the membership trust and reevaluate the purposes of the trust.

(5) Allocate funds for Divisions II and III per the restructuring discussions.

c. Revenue-distribution plan. Reviewed a history of the development and components of the revenue-distribution plan. Upon the recommendation of the Budget Subcommittee, the Executive Committee took the following actions:

(1) Basketball fund. Discussed the application of the current guidelines of the basketball fund distribution to conference realignments, and agreed upon the following additional guidelines: In the event 50 percent or more of the member institutions in a given conference leave the conference simultaneously and the remaining conference membership falls below six member institutions, then for the purposes of the basketball fund distribution the conference shall be considered disbanded and each member institution shall retain the units it earned in the basketball fund as if the conference had in fact disbanded.

(2) Special-assistance fund for student-athletes.

(a) Denied the recommendation of the Committee on Financial Aid and Amaturism that foreign student-athletes be permitted to use fund moneys during vacation periods when the student-athletes remain on campus and no competition occurs.

(b) Agreed to revise the guidelines for the accumulation of special assistance funds, effective with the 1996-97 distribution. It was noted that the staff would submit a specific recommendation regarding this calculation for review at the August meeting.

d. One-time payment from CBS. Discussed possible uses of the one-time $50 million payment from CBS Sports that will be made in January 1996 as an additional consideration for the television rights for future years of the contract and agreed that the $50 million would be distributed to the Division I membership via the basketball and broad-based funds during the last five years of the contract.

e. Student-athlete benefits. Agreed to establish a subcommittee of the Executive Committee to discuss additional ways of benefiting student-athletes, with a view toward incorporating some of them into the 1995-96 budget.

The Executive Committee reviewed a list of concepts that would benefit student-athletes, some of which would require amendments to current legislation and others that could be accomplished by incorporating the necessary funding into future budgets. It identified those that appeared to be most feasible and agreed to forward them to the subcommittee for discussion before the July Budget Subcommittee meeting.

f. Investment guidelines. Consistent with discussions of the Joint Policy Board, took the following actions regarding the Association's investment guidelines:

(1) Voted to adopt a plan of investing primarily in short-term investment-grade securities with maturities less than 12 months, in order to increase yield from the Association's short-term investments by broadening the field from which current investments can be purchased.

(2) Voted to place $5 million of excess receipts from the 1994-95 budget in an investment reserve, separate from the NCAA operating funds, to provide the Association a better investment yield by using a long-term (10- to 12-year) outlook and a more diversified investment portfolio (including limited equity investments).

(3) Voted to engage the services of an investment manager and to establish an investment committee comprising the Association officers, with the assistance of additional individuals with investments knowledge and experience, to assist in the management of the Association's investments.

g. Per diem. Effective with the 1995-96 fiscal year, agreed to increase the per diem for members of all standing and special NCAA committees from $30 to $40; and agreed to increase the per diem for drug-testing crew members from $80 to $100 (with crew members being responsible for their hotel costs and incidental expenses).

h. NCAA national office staff. Discussed a report on the staff's review of Association programs, activities and services resulting from NCAA legislation or committee actions, and noted the numerous new activities that had resulted since 1990-91.

It was voted that the Executive Committee consider some reasonable national office staff expansion, with specific needs to be considered by the Budget Subcommittee at its July meeting.

i. Catastrophic-injury insurance. Voted to continue the catastrophic-injury insurance program with the current company, North American Specialty Insurance Company, for an additional three years, beginning August 1, 1995, and ending July 31, 1998.

7. Report of Oversight Committee to Review the NCAA Membership Structure. The Executive Committee received a status report on the proposals of the Divisions I, II and III Task Forces to Review the NCAA Membership Structure and the Oversight Committee. It was the sense of the meeting that it would be important to the restructuring effort to have the Division I task force provide more detailed recommendations as to the substructure of Division I (e.g., committee composition and structure, Management Council positions).

8. Report of Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. The Executive Committee took the following actions on the competitive-safeguards committee's recommendations:

a. In concurrence with the action of the Council relative to the NCAA drug-testing program, voted not to amend Bylaw 31.2.3 to reduce the penalties for first and second positive tests for a street drug. [For 11, Against 1.]

b. Voted not to amend Bylaw 31.2.3.1-(e) to eliminate heroin as a banned street drug, as recommended by the competitive-safeguards committee. [For 11, Against 1.]

c. Noted that the Council had declined to sponsor legislation to authorize automatic NCAA testing of student-athletes who test positive for banned substances by another athletics drug-testing organization (e.g., the International Olympic Committee, the United States Olympic Committee and national governing bodies).

d. Noted that the Council had voted to sponsor legislation to modify Bylaw 18.4.1.5.1 so that a second positive test for an NCAA banned substance would result in permanent loss of eligibility, regardless of whether the second test occurs during or after the initial period of ineligibility; and agreed to amend Bylaw 31.2.3 accordingly.

e. Received the results of drug testing from January through June 1994 and August through December 1994.

9. Report of Committee on Women's Athletics. The Executive Committee reviewed a recommendation that the Association provide a three-year grant ($25,000 per year, for a total of $75,000) for the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletic Administrators/Higher Education Resources Services (HERS) Institute for Administrative Advancement.

a. It was noted that at its December 1994 meeting, the Executive Committee had agreed that such a grant appeared to be compatible with the goals of the newly created education services group at the NCAA national office and with objectives of the Committee on Women's Athletics. It had requested additional information about the request for review at the May 1995 meeting relative to the administration of the program, anticipated numbers of participants, the financial contribution by NACWAA or other entities, and the nature of the working relationship between NACWAA, HERS, the committee and the NCAA staff.

b. Upon review of this additional information and the recommendation of the Budget Subcommittee, the Executive Committee voted to approve the grant request, with the expectation that the Committee on Women's Athletics would monitor the use of the grant and the results of the program and report to the Executive Committee.

10. Report of Special Degree-Completion Program Committee. The Executive Committee considered a request for a budget increase of $450,000 over the next three years (from the current budget of $500,000), and a request from a conference for a waiver of the requirement that applicants must have received athletically related financial aid.

a. Regarding the budget increase, the Executive Committee took no action on the specific request but agreed that it should be considered by the newly established subcommittee that will be discussing student-athlete benefits.

b. Regarding the request for a waiver of the eligibility requirements for this program, the Executive Committee noted that the Special Degree-Completion Program Committee had denied the Ivy Group's request that a former student-athlete be eligible for the funds despite the fact that he had not received athletically related financial aid, inasmuch as the Ivy Group does not award athletics-based aid.

It was voted that the appeal be denied.

11. Report of Research Committee. The Executive Committee reviewed the following recommendations from the Research Committee:

a. That the research budget (specifically, the academic research account) be increased by $150,000 to fund research on the student-athlete collegiate experience, as directed by 1995 Convention Resolution No. 29-1, contingent upon the NCAA Presidents Commission's approval of the study at its June meeting.

The Executive Committee took no action on the funding request. Instead, it agreed to advise the Presidents Commission that it believed the information accompanying the request was incomplete and that additional information should be provided as to the specific intent and goals of the study and how the results will be used; and that it had understood that Divisions II and III student-athletes were to be included in the study.

b. That an additional $15,000 be included in the 1995-96 research budget to repeat the Association's revenues and expenses study at two-year intervals (rather than quadrennially).

It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

12. Report of Olympic Sports Liaison Committee. The Executive Committee reviewed a recommendation from the liaison committee that the Association apply for a grant from the U.S. Olympic Committee to conduct a women's water polo "coaches academy" as a means of developing collegiate coaches for this emerging women's sport and "supporting" the existing National Collegiate Men's Water Polo Championship. The liaison committee noted that the Association traditionally has not pursued funding of this nature but suggested that there may be merit in using the water polo proposal as a model for how USOC funds might be allocated to the NCAA.

It was voted that the recommendation that the Association apply for USOC grant funds for this purpose be denied.

13. Report of Basketball Officiating Committee. The Executive Committee approved the recommendation of the officiating committee that on a one-year trial basis, a limited number of Divisions II and III basketball officials would be allowed to attend the regional officiating clinics for men's and women's basketball (40 each at the men's and women's clinics).

14. National Office Affirmative Action Report. The Executive Committee received without taking action the annual report on the national office's affirmative action efforts.

15. Status Report on NCAA Corporate Partner Program and NCAA International. The Executive Committee was provided a status report on the Association's contracts relative to the corporate partner program and NCAA International, noting that final recommendations would be submitted at the August meeting.

16. Annual Convention. The Executive Committee took the following actions regarding the annual Convention:

a. Approved San Diego as the site of the 2000 Convention, January 8-12 (headquarters: San Diego Marriott Hotel and Marina).

b. Noted that the following were under consideration for the 1998 Convention: Atlanta (headquarters: Hyatt Regency Hotel) and Orlando, Florida.

c. Agreed to limit in-room attendance at the 1996 general business session to the voting and alternative delegates from each institution or voting conference and the one accredited delegate permitted each nonvoting conference, provisional member and affiliated member. Delegates from the three latter groups would be placed in perimeter seating.

d. Agreed to eliminate the benediction at the honors dinner but to retain the invocation.

e. Agreed that the staff should consider the establishment of a policy that in the event of an obvious mechanical breakdown in the wireless voting equipment, the chair will call for a re-vote if the margin of the original vote was close enough to warrant such.

f. Reconfirmed the policy that only the Presidents Commission should be permitted to distribute handouts or other information suggesting how delegates should vote.

g. Agreed to open the window of reconsideration later in the general business session on Presidential Agenda Day to provide ample time to compile and distribute the division voting results (e.g., 90 minutes after the beginning of the afternoon session, or 4 p.m.).

h. Agreed to retain the reading of the necrology by the Memorial Resolutions Committee.

i. Reviewed the results of a survey of 1995 Convention delegates, noting that 96 percent favored returning the Convention to San Diego, 93 percent favored the selling of NCAA merchandise at the Convention, and 78 percent favored permitting NCAA corporate partners to have a presence at the Convention.

j. Agreed to send the appointment-of-delegates form earlier, possibly with the composite meeting schedule, and include a cut-off date for assigned seating.

17. Request for Waiver of Bylaw 31.2.2.4(b). The Division I Championships Committee reported that during its separate meeting, it had reviewed a request for a waiver of the provisions of Bylaw 31.2.2.4(b) relative to the participation of an ineligible student-athlete from Syracuse University, winner of the 1990 Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship, in that event.

a. In the infractions case processed by the NCAA Committee on Infractions, the institution acknowledged that the wife of the head lacrosse coach consigned a car note for the student-athlete. The Committee on Infractions processed the case as a secondary infractions case and, as a penalty, reduced the program's grants-in-aid by two for 1996-97.

b. Additionally, Executive Regulation 31.2.2.4(b) requires that when a student-athlete representing the institution in a team championship is declared ineligible subsequent to the competition, the record of the team's performance shall be deleted, the team's place in the final standings shall be vacated, and the team's trophy and the ineligible student-athlete's award shall be returned to the Association. The university, noting that the Executive Committee is authorized to grant waivers of this regulation "when warranted by special and unusual circumstances," appealed the application of Executive Regulation 31.2.2.4(b) on the basis of what it believed to be extenuating circumstances.

c. The Division I Championships Committee recommended that the provisions of Executive Regulation 31.2.2.4(b) be applied, and that the institution be required to return its awards, the student-athlete's records be stricken from the records and that the championship be vacated.

It was voted that the Division I Championships Committee recommendation be approved.

18. Playing Rules. The Divisions I, II and III Championships Committees took the following actions regarding playing rules, in accordance with their oversight responsibility for rules changes in the areas of player safety, financial impact and image of the sport:

a. Football.

(1) Approved that players who remove their helmets outside the bench area be penalized for unsportsmanlike conduct, unless it is done during a team, media or injury timeout or for equipment adjustment.

(2) Approved that players be disqualified after committing a second unsportsmanlike conduct foul in one game.

(3) Approved that if a coach or player receives his first fight-related disqualification of the season in the final game of the season, and the penalty would have called for him to be disqualified for either the first half or all of the next game, he would serve the applicable suspension in the first game of the next season for which he is eligible.

(4) Approved that if a coach or player with eligibility remaining receives his second fight-related disqualification of the season in the final game of the season, an infraction that would have caused him to miss the rest of the season if it had happened in a previous game, he would be suspended for the entire first game of the next season for which he is eligible and this suspension would count as his first fight of that season. Bowl games would count as the last game of the season for those teams that play in them, and preseason games would count as the first games of subsequent seasons.

[Note: Relative to Nos. (3) and (4) above, the Executive Committee specified that these carry-over penalties would apply to a coach who took a coaching job at another institution and to student-athletes who transferred from one institution to another.]

(5) The Division I Championships Committee also reported that it had discussed that carry-over penalties would have no impact on seniors participating in their final game. It agreed to ask the American Football Coaches Association and the National Association of Basketball Coaches to consider whether there was any action that might be appropriate to apply to seniors in this case (for example, withholding of championship awards).

b. Men's and women's soccer.

(1) Approved the rule that a player, coach or bench personnel shall be ejected if he or she deliberately strikes or attempts to strike another player, coach or bench personnel in a malicious manner or leaves the bench or coaching area to participate in an altercation; that an ejected player could not be replaced and would not be permitted to compete in the next regularly scheduled game, including tournament and postseason games, or, if the offense occurs in the final game of the season, in the first game of the next season; that a player involved in a second fight during the same season will be ejected and required to sit out the following game; and that a player involved in a third fight during the same season will be ejected and suspended for the remainder of the season; that players involved in a fight during the last game of the season will serve a one-game suspension in the first game of the next season; and that a head coach would be allowed to leave the bench or coaching area during a fight providing it is to restrain his or her own players in an attempt to restore order.

(2) Denied the recommendation that the diagonal (three-person) system of control for officiating be required for all intercollegiate competition, noting that the NCAA does not mandate regular-season officiating systems for any sport.

(3) Revised the current rule of "accumulation" of cautions to specify that it include yellow cards only, but not red cards (noting that the latter will continue to carry their own one-game suspension penalty); that the accumulation system carry over into postseason play; but that players participating in postseason play will receive a one-game suspension when a total of eight cautions, rather than five, has been accumulated; and that each additional three cautions beyond the total of eight shall result in additional one-game suspensions.

c. Wrestling.

(1) Accepted the position of the Wrestling Committee that its rules are sufficiently stringent to address fighting, and that no separate or additional fighting rules or penalties are necessary.

(2) Approved a return to the weight allowances mandated in 1993, which results in a gradual cutting of weight throughout the season.

(3) Approved that skin checks by a physician or authorized institutional athletics trainer be mandatory for all dual meets and tournaments, beginning in 1995-96.

d. Men's water polo. Approved that any squad member, coach or other team personnel who participates in a fight or leaves the bench area during a fight shall be assessed a brutality foul; that an individual who participates in a fight during the season (including exhibition games) will be suspended from participating in the team's next game, including tournament competition; that if an individual participates in a fight during his team's final game of the season, that individual will be suspended from participating in the team's next regular-season game for which that player or coach, or other team personnel, would be eligible; and that any player, coach or other team personnel under suspension for fighting may not sit on the team bench.

e. Men's and women's basketball. Approved that commercial logos may be placed on the playing court with the following stipulations: They cannot exceed 10 feet in diameter, are limited to one in each half of the court in no more than two of the areas described by a 10-foot square that measures 4 1/2 feet from the sidelines and 8 1/2 feet from the midcourt line.

19. Officiating Fees and Expenses. The Divisions I, II and III Championships Committees reported that in their separate meetings, they had approved increases in officiating fees or numbers of officials for numerous championships. Most notable among those changes are the implementation of three-person crews for the Division I Women's Basketball and Division III Men's Basketball Championships, effective in 1995-96.

20. National Collegiate Championships and Related Matters. John D. Swofford, Jerry M. Hughes and Mary R. Barrett, chairs of the Divisions I, II and III Championships Committees, respectively, reported the actions taken by their committees in their respective divisions. The Executive Committee took the following actions:

a. Field hockey.

(1) All divisions.

(a) Approved a tiebreaker procedure whereby ties would be broken by playing two 15-minute sudden-victory periods with teams comprising six field players and a goalkeeper.

(b) Denied the request to ask the Council to support legislation for the 1996 Convention to change the division representation on the committee, noting that if the restructuring proposals are adopted by the membership it is likely that there will be significant federation of and changes in committee composition.

(2) Division I.

(a) Designated Boston College as the host institution for the 1996 Division I Field Hockey Championship.

(b) Denied the recommendation that the format be revised to provide for first- and second-round games to be played at the same site (a total of four sites of three teams each), or to provide a day of rest between first- and second-round games.

(c) Approved the realignment to combine the West and Midwest regions to form a new West region, effective with the 1996 championship.

(d) Awarded automatic qualification to the following for the 1995 championship: Big Ten, Big East, Mid-American and North Atlantic Conferences; the Ivy Group; and the Colonial Athletic Association.

(e) Denied the recommendation that in order to be eligible for automatic qualification, conference members must play a minimum of 15 Division I contests, or that conferences must play at least a double round-robin schedule, or single round-robin with a conference tournament.

(f) Deferred until the August meeting action on a request to increase the squad size and official traveling party; and asked the staff to conduct a study of all championships squad sizes and official traveling parties, for review at the August meeting.

(g) Approved that for ranking and selection purposes, only games that consist of two periods of 35 minutes each, with ties played off, be counted.

(h) Authorized funding for the Division I subcommittee to develop a computer program to assist it in the evaluation of teams for rankings and selections, at an estimated cost of $1,200.

(3) Division II. Deferred action until the August meeting on the request to increase the squad size for the Division II Field Hockey Championship.

b. Men's and women's golf.

(3) Division II men. Approved a regional qualifying system, effective with the 1996 Division II Men's Golf Championships. The system provides for three regional tournaments to qualify 18 teams for the championships, resulting in a total of 93 individuals (an increase of three over the current limit of 90 competitors at the championships). Transportation expenses and per diem would be the responsibility of the participating institutions, as is the case for all regional qualifying competition; the expenses for conducting the qualifying tournaments would be paid by the Association, a total of approximately $18,000.

c. Women's gymnastics. Deferred action until the August meeting on the recommendation to increase the squad size and official traveling party for the National Collegiate Women's Gymnastics Championships.

m. Division I-AA football.

(1) Reviewed the recommendation that prospective hosts for preliminary games of the Division I-AA Football Championship be required to meet the following minimum financial guarantees in order to be considered for selection as a host; and that if these minimum guarantees are met, the site will be awarded to the higher-seeded team: First round — $55,000; quarterfinals — $75,000; and semifinals — $95,000.

(a) It was noted that these minimum financial guarantees would preclude a significant number of institutions from hosting championships competition, which was not in keeping with the Executive Committee's position on site-selection criteria.

(b) The Division I Championships Committee established the following minimum guarantees: First round — $30,000; quarterfinals — $50,000; semifinals — $70,000.

(2) Awarded automatic qualification for the 1995 championship to the following: Big Sky, Gateway Football, Ohio Valley, Southern, Southland and Yankee Conferences.

(a) The Division I Championships Committee reviewed an appeal from the Patriot League regarding its denial of automatic qualification. It noted that the appeal had not first been submitted to the Division I-AA Football Committee, in accordance with established policy, and it referred the appeal to that committee for consideration.

(b) The Division I Championships Committee noted, however, that contrary to the Patriot League's basis for appeal, the policy of providing access to eligible conferences through either automatic qualification or play-in competition had never been intended to apply to any championship other than the Division I Baseball, Men's Soccer, Women's Volleyball and Women's Softball Championships. It noted that the brackets in those four championships had been expanded to provide for 50 percent of the bracket being awarded to automatic qualifiers, with remaining eligible conferences participating in play-in competition, and that this system was not applicable to Division I-AA football. Further, it agreed that the Division I-AA Football Committee had appropriately applied the "quality of competition" criteria to the Patriot League, and that its review of the appeal be made on this basis.

(3) Agreed to provide conference supervisors of officials or experienced officials a $50 honorarium and expenses for ground transportation to evaluate officials during the championship.

(4) Reviewed the results of a survey of 1994 championship participants that was conducted to determine the composition of the participants' official traveling parties, in order to assess whether the increased parties, approved in May 1994, were necessary. It was the sense of the meeting that the increases were appropriate and would be maintained for future championships.

n. Division I women's softball.

(1) Declined to approve the use of an NCAA-generated computerized rating percentage index (RPI) to assist with the selection of teams for the Division I Women's Softball Championship, noting that it most likely would require additional staff; but agreed to allocate up to $3,000 to permit the softball committee to hire the services of a data programmer or statistics personnel to develop a system on a freelance basis.

(2) Deferred action until the August meeting on the recommendation to increase the official traveling party.

o. Division I men's and women's tennis.

(1) Approved the recommendation that regional qualifying tournaments be established, effective in 1996, to determine participants in the Division I Women's Tennis Championships; that the team competition at the championships consist of 16 teams, rather than the current 20; that the top 10 teams nationally be selected by the Division I women's subcommittee, with the remaining six teams qualifying through regional tournaments; that institutions participating in the regional tournaments be responsible for their own transportation expenses and per diem, with the Association providing administrative expenses for the conduct of the regional tournaments.

(2) Changed the dates of the Division I women's championships to begin one week later than currently, effective in 1996.

(3) Deferred action until the August meeting on the recommendation to increase the size of the official traveling parties for the Division I men's and women's championships.

p. Division I women's volleyball.

(1) Awarded automatic qualification for the 1995 Division I Women's Volleyball Championship to the following: Colonial Athletic Association; the Atlantic Coast, Atlantic 10, Big East, Big Eight, Big Sky, Big Ten, Big West, Mid-American, Midwestern Collegiate, Pacific-10, Southeastern, Southland, Southwest, Sun Belt and Western Athletic Conferences; and Conference USA.

(2) Approved that the following conferences participate in play-in competition for the 1995 championship: Northeast at North Atlantic Conference; Mid-Continent at Missouri Valley Conference; Southwestern Athletic at West Coast Conference; Big South at Trans America Conference; Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference at Patriot League; Ivy Group at Ohio Valley Conference; and Mid-Eastern Athletic at Southern Conference.

(3) Designated the following as host institutions for the championship: 1997 — Washington State University (Spokane Arena, Spokane, Washington); 1998 — University of Wisconsin, Madison (Wisconsin Fieldhouse).

(4) Denied the recommendation that the University of Hawaii, Manoa, serve as the host institution for the 1999 championship, primarily due to the financial impact on institutions sending coaches to the American Volleyball Coaches Association convention that is conducted in conjunction with the championship; but agreed to ask the Division I Women's Volleyball Committee to explain its recommendation in greater detail.

(5) Approved the following realignments for selection purposes for the 1995 championship: Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, from District 1 to District 2; Sun Belt Conference, from District 6 to District 4; Conference USA, from District 5 to District 6; and California State University, Northridge, from District 7 to District 8.

(6) Received as a point of information a report that the Division I Women's Volleyball Committee had issued a private reprimand to two institutions in the 1994 championship for failure to adhere to championships policies and procedures.

q. Division I wrestling. Approved the implementation of a double-elimination format for the Division I Wrestling Championships, effective in 1996.

r. Division II men's basketball.

(1) Restructured the Division II Men's Basketball Championship to provide for eight six-team regional tournaments (i.e., all six teams selected from a region would participate at one site for first-round, semifinal and finals competition at the regional level).

(2) Eliminated the third-place game at regional tournaments, effective in 1996.

(3) Received as information a report that the Division II Men's Basketball Committee issued a public reprimand to the University of Tampa for its coach's misconduct during the 1995 championship; that it withheld transportation expenses and per diem for the coach; and that it required the coach to serve a one-game suspension for the next championship in which he would participate.

s. Division II women's basketball.

(1) Approved the implementation of a six-team regional format for the Division II Women's Basketball Championship, effective in 1996, whereby all six teams selected from each region would compete at one site for first-round, semifinal and final competition at the regional level.

(2) Denied the recommendation to establish $3,000 as the minimum financial guarantee for prospective hosts for all regional competition; and directed the committee to establish guarantees appropriate for each region (similar to the Division I Men's Basketball Committee policies).

(3) Received as information a report that the Division II Women's Basketball Committee had issued private reprimands to a student-athlete for the use of a smokeless tobacco product and to the head coach for failure to explain the ban on the use of such products to his student-athletes during the 1995 championship.

t. Division II women's softball. Increased the number of regions from six to eight and the number of teams at the Division II Women's Basketball Championship from six to eight, effective in 1996.

u. Division II women's volleyball.

(1) Approved a regional rotation for final-round pairings in the Division II Women's Volleyball Championship.

(2) Eliminated automatic qualification for the championship, effective in 1995.

(3) Established a minimum guarantee of $6,000 for institutions interested in serving as host for the championship, effective in 1995.

(4) Deferred until the August meeting discussion of the regional allocations relative to the number of at-large bids per region.

v. Division II wrestling. Designated the following as host institutions for sessions of the Division II Wrestling Championships: 1997 finals — North Dakota State University; 1996 regional tournaments — West: Fort Hays State University; Midwest: Northeast Missouri State University; South: Longwood College.

w. Division III women's basketball. Approved that if revenues (beyond transportation and per diem) are generated by first-round games of the Division III Women's Basketball Championship, they be distributed to the participating teams as follows: $1,500 game expense allowance for host institutions of first-round games; travel expenses for a traveling party of 18 persons (prorated, based on available dollars); a prorated per diem; and an honorarium for host institutions for first-round games. The Division III Championships Committee noted that this same formula would apply to the Division III Men's Basketball Championship.

x. Division III football. Declined to authorize the Division III Football Committee to conduct a survey of the Division III membership regarding the size of the championship bracket, the length of the tournament, starting dates and the number of regular-season games, noting that these matters would most likely be discussed during the membership restructuring efforts.

y. Division III men's ice hockey. Effective with the 1996 Division III Men's Ice Hockey Championship, approved that a minimum of three and a maximum of four teams be selected from the West region, and that a minimum of four and a maximum of five teams be selected from the East region.

z. Division III women's volleyball. Effective with the 1995 Division III Women's Volleyball Championship, approved that quarterfinal pairings be predetermined according to a preestablished formula; those pairings would be as follows: 1995 — New York vs. New England; Mid-Atlantic vs. South; Midwest vs. Central; and West vs. Great Lakes regions; 1996 — New York vs. South; New England vs. Mid-Atlantic; Midwest vs. Great Lakes; and Central vs. West regions; 1997 — New York vs. Mid-Atlantic; New England vs. South; Midwest vs. West; and Central vs. Great Lakes regions.

21. Division I Play-In Systems. The Division I Championships Committee reported that on the recommendation of the Collegiate Commissioners Association, it had revised the criteria for eligibility for conferences to participate in play-in competition so that the criteria were the same as for automatic qualification. Specifically:

a. An institution must participate in its "traditional" conference if the conference has automatic qualification (i.e., an institution could not have access to the championship both through its traditional automatic-qualifying conference and through another conference formed to participate as a play-in conference).

b. Single-sport conferences would be eligible for play-in competition.

c. A conference could not subdivide for the purpose of obtaining more than one automatic-qualifying berth or play-in berth in the same sport.

d. The conference must comprise at least six Division I members.

22. Reduction in Field Sizes for Selected Championships. The Division I Championships Committee reported that at the request of a member institution, it had reviewed its May 1993 decision that effective with the 1995-96 academic year, the National Collegiate Men's and Women's Skiing, Rifle and Fencing Championships and the National Collegiate Men's Water Polo Championship field sizes would be reduced. It agreed that the action was consistent with the guidelines established at that time regarding field sizes for all NCAA championships, and it reaffirmed that decision.

23. Grant Request from Division I-AA Commissioners. The Division I Championships Committee reported that it had reviewed a request for a $50,000 grant from the Division I-AA commissioners to assist them in promoting Division I-AA football.

It was noted that most of the promotional activities proposed by the commissioners were already part of the NCAA promotional plans for the Division I-AA Football Championship. While the committee expressed some sensitivity to the issues facing Division I-AA in general, it emphasized that its purview was the administration of the Division I-AA Football Championship, as opposed to regular-season and division matters. It agreed that in lieu of providing a grant, representatives of the Division I Championships Committee and NCAA staff would meet with the commissioners to discuss possible ways of promoting the championship that would benefit both that event and the division generally, within the parameters of the current championships promotional budget.

24. Future Dates and Sites. The Executive Committee reviewed the following future dates and sites:

a. August 1-4, 1995, Coeur D'Alene, Idaho. [Budget Subcommittee, August 1; Executive and championships committees, August 2-3; Executive Committee, August 4.]

b. December 6-8, 1995, Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Kansas City, Missouri. [Budget Subcommittee, December 6; Executive and championships committees, December 7-8.]

c. April 29-May 2, 1996, Destin, Florida (contingent upon availability of space). [Budget Subcommittee, April 29; Executive and championships committees, April 30-May 1; Executive Committee, May 2.]

d. August 6-9, 1996, New Seabury, Cape Cod, Massachusetts (contingent upon availability of space). [Budget Subcommittee, August 6; Executive and championships committees, August 7-8; Executive Committee, August 9.]

e. December 4-6, 1996, Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Kansas City, Missouri. [Budget Subcommittee, December 4; Executive and championships committees, December 5-6.]

Infractions case appeal: University of Mississippi

A summary of the following case appeared in the May 3 issue of The NCAA News.

I. Introduction

On November 17, 1994, the NCAA Committee on Infractions issued Infractions Report No. 111 in which the committee found numerous violations of NCAA legislation in the University of Mississippi's football program. On the basis of these findings, the Committee on Infractions determined this was a major infractions case and imposed penalties accordingly. [Reference: November 28, 1994, edition of The NCAA Register, page 14.]

After the Committee on Infractions issued its infractions report November 17, 1994, Mississippi filed a timely notice of appeal November 30, 1994. The institution submitted an extensive appeal to the Infractions Appeals Committee January 13, 1995. The committee's response was filed February 15, 1995, and the institution's rebuttal was submitted February 27, 1995.

II. Violations of NCAA legislation as determined by the Committee on Infractions

The violations found by the Committee on Infractions were summarized by the committee as follows:

1. Representatives of the institution's athletics interests made numerous impermissible recruiting contacts with prospective student-athletes.

2. Representatives of the institution's athletics interests gave improper benefits to prospective student-athletes by providing them with transportation, entertainment at topless bars and strip clubs (otherwise described as "gentlemen's clubs"), meals, lodging, clothing and other inducements.

3. A representative of the institution's athletics interests attempted to induce a prospective student-athlete to commit to the institution by offering him an automobile.

4. Several student-athletes entertained prospective student-athletes on official visits beyond the permissible 30-mile radius from the institution's campus.

5. A member of the football staff attempted to induce a prospective student-athlete to commit to the institution by offering him money and airline tickets.

6. A representative of the institution's athletics interests provided an extra benefit to a student-athlete by giving him free clothes.

7. Representatives of the institution's athletics interests provided an extra benefit to a student-athlete by arranging for a deferred pay-back loan based primarily on his future earnings as a professional athlete.

8. A football staff member provided an extra benefit to a student-athlete by allowing him to use the staff member's car.

9. The former head football coach made impermissible comments in a newspaper article regarding the athletics ability of a prospective student-athlete.

10. There was unethical conduct by the former head football coach, a former assistant football coach and a former athletics department staff member.

11. The institution lacked institutional control over its football program.

III. Penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions

In imposing its penalties, the Committee on Infractions noted that had this case occurred within five years of the 1986 case, it would have considered seriously the penalties listed for repeat violators, including substantial restrictions on competition, financial aid and recruiting. The penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions were summarized as follows:

1. Public reprimand and censure;
2. Four years of probation;
3. Requirement that the institution develop a comprehensive athletics compliance education program, with annual reports to the committee during the period of probation;
4. Prohibition from participating in post-season competition in football during the 1995 and 1996 seasons;
5. Prohibition from televising any football games during the 1995 season;
6. Reduction by 12 in the number of permissible initial financial aid awards in football for the 1995-96 and 1996-97 academic years;
7. Reduction by 16 in the number of permissible official visits in football during the 1995-96 and 1996-97 academic years;
8. Recertification of current athletics policies and practices;
9. Disassociation of two representatives of the institution's athletics interests; and
10. Show-cause requirement on the former head football coach for four years.

Prior to the hearing before the Committee on Infractions, the institution terminated the employment of its head football coach, accepted the resignation of its long-time director of athletics, disassociated several representatives of its athletics interests, increased its efforts to educate its staff, students and alumni, and strengthened its athletics administration and compliance program.

On December 5, 1994, the institution requested that the Committee on Infractions change the time frame of the reduction in official visits. On December 9, 1994, the Committee on Infractions notified the institution that it had granted the request to apply the official visit penalty during the 1994-95 and 1995-96 academic years, rather than the 1995-96 and 1996-97 academic years.

On December 19, 1994, the Committee on Infractions denied a December 16 request from the institution to redistribute the official visit and grant-in-aid sanctions throughout the four-year probationary period rather than the two years specified by the committee. The committee noted that although it would make limited changes in the time frame of penalties, it determined that it should not make significant substantive alterations in a penalty once it has been imposed.

IV. Issues raised on appeal

In its notice of appeal filed November 30, 1994, the institution appealed the following findings and penalties:

- (1) The specific finding of violation of NCAA legislation (II-E) of the Committee on Infractions' report regarding impermissible offers to a prospective student-athlete:

"E. On December 8, 1991, during the official visit to the institution's campus of a prospective student-athlete, a member of the football staff made improper recruiting offers to the prospective student-athlete during a private meeting in the football office. After a staff member asked the prospective student-athlete what it would take for him to commit to the institution, the staff member offered cash if the prospective student-athlete would sign a National Letter of Intent. During this meeting, the staff member also offered free airline tickets for the prospective student-athlete's mother and girlfriend to use in traveling between the institution's campus and his home."

- (2) Committee on Infractions penalties III-(F) and (G) regarding reduction in athletically related financial aid awards in football and reduction in numbers of allowable expense-paid visits to the institution's campus by prospective student-athletes:

"F. During the 1995-96 and 1996-97 academic years, the institution shall be limited to 12 fewer initial athletically related financial aid awards in football that are countable under 15.02.3. This is a reduction from 25 to 13 under current rules.

"G. During the 1994-95 and 1995-96 academic years, the institution shall be limited in football to 16 fewer expense-paid visits to the institution's campus than the maximum number allowed under NCAA rules. This is a reduction from 56 to 40 under current rules." [Note: The Committee on Infractions originally placed the penalty on the 1995-96 and 1996-97 academic years, but amended it to 1994-95 and 1995-96 upon the request of the institution.]

- (3) Committee on Infractions penalty III-(i) insofar as it indicates that the institution should show cause why it should not disassociate a representative of the institution's athletics interests from the institution's athletics program. The institution formally disassociated the representative by letter of August 31, 1994, which previously was provided to the enforcement staff and referenced at the hearing before the Committee on Infractions.

V. Appellate procedures

In considering Mississippi's appeal, the Infractions Appeals Committee reviewed the institution's notice of appeal, the transcript of the institution's hearing before the Committee on Infractions, and several submissions by the institution and by the Committee on Infractions referred to in Section I of this report. The hearing on the appeal was held by the committee March 1, 1995. The president, vice-chairman for executive affairs, faculty athletics representative, director of athletics, athletics compliance coordinator and the institution's legal counsel appeared on behalf of the institution. The chair of the Committee on Infractions, accompanied by the administrator for the Committee on Infractions and two members of the NCAA enforcement staff, appeared on behalf of the Committee on Infractions. The NCAA group executive director for membership services and staff liaison for the Infractions Appeals Committee also were in attendance. The hearing was conducted in accordance with procedures adopted by the committee pursuant to NCAA legislation.

In its response to the institution's appeal and in its presentation to the Infractions Appeals Committee, the Committee on Infractions asserted that the institution, in its appeal, relied on evidence that was not newly discovered and was not presented at the Committee on Infractions hearing. The institution, in its rebuttal, disagreed generally with that assertion and countered that the committee's failure to identify the particular evidence of which it complained left the institution without information sufficient to respond fully on this point. At its March 1, 1995, hearing, the Infractions Appeals Committee, based on its review of all the material submitted to it, determined that all the information relied on by the institution in support of its appeal had been presented or discussed during the institution's appearance before the Committee on Infractions. The Committee on Infractions did not pursue this point. (The question of "evidence that was not newly discovered and was not presented at the Committee on Infractions hearing" will be addressed in Section VI of this report.)

Following the hearing, the parties and all staff were excused and the Infractions Appeals Committee then deliberated and reached a decision.

VI. Infractions Appeals Committee's resolution of issues raised on appeal

A. Appeal of findings.

The first issue presented is whether Specific Finding of Violation II-E by the Committee on Infractions — that a member of the football staff attempted to induce a prospective student-athlete to commit to the institution by offering him money and airline tickets — was clearly contrary to the evidence presented to the committee. This issue comes within NCAA Bylaw 32.10.2(a), authorizing the Infractions Appeals Committee to set aside determinations of fact and violations arrived at by the Committee on Infractions upon a showing that "[T]he committee's finding is clearly contrary to the evidence presented to the committee."

In its response to the institution's appeal, the Committee on Infractions stated that it had based its findings in this instance on statements by the prospective student-athlete and what it considered credible corroborating statements from several individuals. It also observed that the denials by the recruiting coordinator and the head football coach were self-serving statements and noted factors that, in its judgment, brought into question the credibility of the recruiting coordinator.

In support of its assertion that the committee's finding in this instance were clearly contrary to the evidence presented to the committee, the institution maintained that it did not find sufficient evidence to conclude that an offer of money and airline tickets was made to the prospective student-athlete in question by anyone associated with the institution. Specifically, it argued that it found the allegations to be without merit because of vagueness and uncertainty in the prospective student-athlete's claim of offers; the denials of any offer by the institution's recruiting coordinator and head football coach; the "lack of corroboration" of the prospective student-athlete's claim by others; and the "lack of credibility" in statements given by the prospective student-athlete himself.

In considering this appeal, it is important to emphasize the basis required for findings by the Committee on Infractions. Bylaw 32.7.6.2 provides that "[T]he committee shall base its findings on information presented to it that it determines to be credible, persuasive and of a kind on which reasonably prudent persons rely in the conduct of serious affairs." Under that standard, it is the Committee on Infractions that is to determine whether the information presented to it, and upon which it bases its findings, is credible, persuasive and of a kind described in the bylaw. In this case the committee acknowledged that "not all of the details regarding these offers are completely consistent." It also acknowledged that it had been "unable to determine which of these two individuals (the recruiting coordinator or the head football coach) made the actual offers" to the prospective student-athlete. However, the committee clearly stated that it had:

"No difficulty in determining there was sufficient evidence to support a finding that a member of the institution's football staff had made impermissible offers to [the prospective student-athlete] and that there was a violation on the part of the [university...]"

The institution acknowledged that there can be differences of opinion as to many of the facts, and the interpretations to be drawn from them, in an infractions case. It argued that in this case it could not reconcile the conflicting statements by the individuals involved in a manner that convinced it that the alleged violations had occurred. Finally, it pointed out that it would have admitted the violation had the evidence been more convincing. Those statements reflect the institution's assessment of the information and evidence in this case. However, as noted above, Bylaw 32.7.6.2 makes clear that it is the Committee on Infractions that is to make determinations regarding matters such as relevance, credibility and the sufficiency of the information presented to it.

There remains the question of the standard to be used by the Infractions Appeals Committee in reviewing a case involving such issues. As previously discussed, Bylaw 32.10.2(a) provides that the committee may set aside determinations of fact and violations arrived at by the Committee on Infractions upon a showing that "[T]he committee's finding is clearly contrary to the evidence presented to the committee."

It is important to note that the NCAA enforcement proceedings are not judicial proceedings. Formal rules of evidence are not applicable; testimony is not taken under oath; the Committee on Infractions, when it finds a violation, does not issue specific findings of fact; the committee is not required to consider the weight of the evidence (i.e., whether, and to what extent, the evidence supporting the finding of a violation outweighs evidence to the contrary). Bylaw 32.7.6.2 requires only that the committee base its findings on information presented to it that meets the criteria specified in the bylaw.

Because Bylaws 32.10.1 and 32.10.2 were intended to create a meaningful right of appeal, the reference in Bylaw 32.10.2(a) to "the evidence presented to the committee" must be read to include all the information that was presented to the Committee on Infractions. For that reason, the Infractions Appeals Committee, in hearing an appeal of a finding such as that in this case, will consider both the information upon which the Committee on Infractions based its finding and all other information that was presented to the committee, including information that might have supported a contrary result. In this case, for example, the institution disputed the probative value of the evidence upon which the committee based its finding and asserted that there was credible evidence that would have supported a contrary result.

However, Bylaw 32.10.2 specifies that a finding may be set aside on appeal only upon a showing that it is clearly contrary to the information presented to the Committee on Infractions. A showing that there was some information that might have supported a contrary result will not be sufficient to warrant setting aside a finding, nor will a showing that such information might have outweighed the information upon which the committee based a finding. The Infractions Appeals Committee under existing legislation will set aside a finding only upon a showing that information that might have supported a contrary result clearly outweighed the information upon which the Committee on Infractions based the finding.

That the Infractions Appeals Committee will consider all the information that was presented to the Committee on Infractions does not mean that it will conduct an infractions hearing de novo. Absent unusual circumstances, the Infractions Appeals Committee will not consider information that was not made available to the Committee on Infractions when it made its findings and will not consider "newly discovered" information. In the latter circumstances, the party may submit the newly discovered information to the Committee on Infractions in support of a request for reconsideration by that committee per Bylaw 19.6.2.8.1.

The Infractions Appeals Committee has considered all the information presented to the Committee on Infractions in this case, including the transcript of the Committee on Infractions hearing. It concludes that Committee on Infractions Specific Finding II-E, that a member of the institution's football staff had made impermissible offers to a prospective student-athlete and that there was a violation on the part of the institution, is not clearly contrary to the evidence presented to the committee.

The committee's consideration of this issue was complicated by the fact that the allegation made by the enforcement staff in the Official Inquiry specifically identified the former recruiting coordinator as the member of the staff who made the impermissible offers. When the institution appeared before the Committee on Infractions, it based its presentation on that allegation. However, the Committee on Infractions subsequently found that "a member of the football staff" had made the impermissible offers. In its response to the appeal and in its presentation at the Infractions Appeals Committee hearing, the Committee on Infractions explained that in considering all of the information that had been presented to it at its hearing, it had determined that the impermissible offers had been made either by the former recruiting coordinator or by the former head football coach but had been unable to determine which of them had made the actual offers.

The Infractions Appeals Committee was concerned by this change from a specific allegation to a more general finding for two reasons. First, the reference in the finding to "a member of the football staff" unfairly cast a shadow over members of the institution's football staff other than the former recruiting coordinator and the former head football coach. Second, the institution might have made its presentation differently had it realized that the allegation that specified the recruiting coordinator might ultimately be found to be a violation that also involved the head football coach. However, Bylaw 19.5.3 authorizes the Committee on Infractions to make new findings:

"New Findings. If a member appears before the committee to discuss its response to the official inquiry, the hearing shall be directed toward the general scope of the official inquiry but shall not preclude the committee from finding any violation resulting from information developed or discussed during the hearing."

The Infractions Appeals Committee interpreted this provision to encompass authority for the Committee on Infractions to make a finding that conforms an allegation made in the official inquiry to the information developed or discussed during a hearing.

On the basis of the foregoing discussion, the Infractions Appeals Committee affirms Specific Finding II-E by the Committee on Infractions.

B. Appeal of penalties.

The second issue presented is whether the Committee on Infractions Penalties III-(F) and (G), imposing reductions for two years in the number of athletically related financial aid awards in football and in the number of allowable expense-paid visits to the institution's campus by prospective student-athletes, should be set aside, in whole or in part.

The institution asserted that the initial financial aid and expense-paid visit reductions for the second year (1996-97) "are too severe and are not warranted" when appropriate consideration is given to (1) the undue serious impact that the penalties will have on innocent student-athletes and coaches; (2) the voluntary corrective actions already taken by the institution; (3) the full cooperation of the institution in the investigation of the alleged violations; and (4) NCAA policies calling for "fairness and the equitable resolution of infractions cases."

In its appeal, the institution also stated that it accepted the appropriateness of many of the penalties imposed on it by the Committee on Infractions. It pointed out that it had already implemented the reduction in initial financial aid awards by 12 and the reduction of expense-paid visits by 16 for the 1995-96 academic year. [As noted in Section V (Appellate Procedures) of this report, the second year of the reduction in the number of expense-paid visits will be 1995-96, not 1996-97, as the result of a modification in Penalty III-G requested by the institution under date of December 5, 1994, and approved by the Committee on Infractions December 9, 1994.]

The Committee on Infractions, in its response to the institution's appeal, summarized its position as follows:

"...these penalties are appropriate given the number and seriousness of the violations, the direct involvement in the violations of the football staff and numerous representatives of the institution's athletics interests, the similarity of the violations to the 1986 case and the institution's failure to create an atmosphere for and attitude of compliance with NCAA rules within the football program."

The committee commented that it had determined that the present case was one of the most serious cases that it had considered in recent years and, for that reason, warranted significant penalties.

Bylaw 32.10.2 provides that a penalty may be set aside on appeal:

"If the Infractions Appeals Committee determines that the penalty is excessive or inappropriate based on all of the evidence and circumstances."

The Infractions Appeals Committee, in its November 5, 1993, report regarding an appeal of penalties by the University of New Mexico, identified the following facts and circumstances that it would deem to be of particular significance in considering an appeal of penalties (1) the nature, number and seriousness of the violations; (2) the conduct and motives of the individuals involved in the violations; and (3) what the institution had done to correct the problem.

The committee focused on these factors in its March 3, 1995, report regarding an appeal of penalties by Coastal Carolina University. The committee also identified the analysis of the penalties imposed when compared with the penalties imposed in other cases with similar characteristics as an additional factor that it deems significant in considering an appeal of penalties.

This report will discuss the application of those four factors to the present case. It then will discuss the three additional factors that the institution advances for consideration: (1) Institutional cooperation in the investigation; (2) the impact of penalties on innocent student-athletes and coaches; and (3) NCAA policies regarding fairness in the equitable resolution of infractions cases.

1. Nature, number and seriousness of the violations.

There can be little question that the nature, number and seriousness of the violations warranted severe penalties in this case. Numerous major violations were alleged in the Official Inquiry. The institution, after conducting a thorough investigation, acknowledged that 11 of the 15 alleged violations had occurred, questioned several of the remaining allegations in its appearance before the Committee on Infractions and ultimately appealed only one finding of a violation to this committee. The violations found by the Committee on Infractions were serious, i.e., major violations. The nature of the violations in this case also warranted severe penalties.

Infractions case appeal: University of Mississippi

2. Conduct and motives of the individuals involved in the violations.

The second factor that this committee deems to be of particular significance in considering an appeal of penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions has to do with the conduct and motives of the individuals involved in the violations. The violations found by the Committee on Infractions included unethical conduct on the part of the former head football coach, a former assistant football coach and a former athletics department staff member. None of these findings was appealed. It is significant that the violations involved the same type of impermissible activities, in the same program (football), under the same head football coach and the same athletics department administration as the violations that resulted in the imposition of severe penalties on the institution in 1986.

This committee, in weighing the conduct and motives of the individuals involved in the violations that gave rise to the New Mexico and Coastal Carolina cases, considered whether:

- One or more of the individuals held a position that carried supervisory responsibility;
- The violations involved a basic NCAA principle, such as academic integrity;
- The conduct amounted to flagrant violations of clearly understood rules; and
- The violations constituted improper attempts to gain recruiting and competitive advantages.

The committee noted that (1) violations in this case involved, among others, the former head football coach, who was primarily responsible for maintaining control of the institution's football program; (2) the violations involved basic NCAA principles, including amateurism and ethical conduct; (3) the conduct by members of the football staff and representatives of the institution's athletics interests amounted to flagrant violations of clearly understood rules; and (4) the violations were intended to gain recruiting and competitive advantages by improper means. Here, again, the conduct and motives of the individuals involved in these violations warranted the imposition of significant penalties.

3. Corrective actions taken by the institution.

The third factor that this committee considers to be of particular significance in considering an appeal of penalties is what the institution has done to correct the problem or problems that resulted in the violations. The institution took several steps to correct the problems in its football program that gave rise to this case. It terminated the employment of its former head football coach; accepted the resignation of its long-time athletics director; disassociated several representatives of its athletics interests; employed a new athletics director and a new head football coach; increased its efforts to educate its staff, students and alumni regarding NCAA regulations; and strengthened its compliance program.

The infractions report in this case made no reference to these corrective actions taken by the institution. The institution, in its appeal, asserted that the committee "should have accepted the actions taken by the institution in mitigation of penalties and afforded [...] some relief in sanctions because of its responsible conduct." The Committee on Infractions acknowledged, in its response, that the institution had discussed these actions when it appeared before the committee. It explained that there was no reference to these actions in the infractions report because "they were not included in the written materials submitted to the Committee on Infractions." However, the committee indicated that the corrective actions had been considered when it decided on the penalties to be imposed.

The Committee on Infractions characterized the institution's commitment to compliance as "commendable." It acknowledged that less severe penalties might have been appropriate in this case if it had not been so similar to the earlier case, but again emphasized that the violations in both cases were of the same type, in the same program under the same athletics department administration. It also noted that a commitment to compliance is expected of all NCAA member institutions and that corrective actions do not erase or justify violations that have occurred.

The institution, in its rebuttal and during its appearance before the Infractions Appeals Committee, questioned whether the Committee on Infractions had given appropriate weight to the corrective actions it had taken in this case. While acknowledging the similarities between the earlier case and the present case, it questioned the extent to which the committee rested its penalties on those similarities. It also acknowledged that corrective or remedial actions are part of its NCAA membership responsibilities, but asserted that such actions "are important components in the success of NCAA enforcement procedures and should not be disregarded lightly by the Committee on Infractions."

In this case, the Committee on Infractions considered the corrective actions taken by the institution after the more recent violations had been discovered. The Infractions Appeals Committee agrees that such corrective actions, although an obligation of NCAA membership, are an important component of the NCAA enforcement program. It is for that reason that the committee considers "what the institution has done to correct the problem" to be of particular significance in considering an appeal of penalties. However, the Committee on Infractions also considered the apparent lack of adequacy of corrective or remedial action taken by the institution after the 1986 case to avoid or prevent repetition of the earlier violations. In the words of the committee:

"If instead of waiting for a new set of violations to occur and then cooperating in the investigation, the institution's athletics administration had developed a meaningful compliance program and had created an effective educational program for its alumni and supporters, this hearing would not be occurring."

Consideration of such mitigating and aggravating circumstances, and the balance struck by the Committee on Infractions here, is appropriate in a case involving successive major violations by the same institution. As the committee noted, had the present case occurred within five years of the 1986 case, the institution would have been subject to the more severe penalties listed for repeat violators in Bylaw 19.6.2.3.

4. Comparison of the penalty or penalties imposed.

The fourth factor of particular significance in considering an appeal of penalties is the review and analysis of the penalty or penalties imposed when compared with the penalty or penalties imposed in other cases with similar characteristics. Because each case presents its own set of facts and circumstances, this comparison cannot be made by mechanically applying a formula.

In its appeal, the institution did not attempt to compare its violations and resulting penalties to those in other cases. Rather, it stated that the penalties were among the harshest penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions in recent years. The Committee on Infractions did not dispute that observation by the institution. It observed that "[i]f one were to attempt to write a case study of what can go wrong in the recruiting process," this case would be a model. The committee's position was that because this was one of the most serious cases that it has considered in recent years, it was appropriate that the penalties were among the harshest penalties that it has imposed in recent years. The Infractions Appeals Committee does not disagree with that assessment.

5. Institutional cooperation in the investigation.

The institution also questioned whether the Committee on Infractions had given appropriate weight to its cooperation in investigating the alleged violations. In its infractions report the committee acknowledged that the institution's cooperation in the investigation was "complete and commendable." After noting that the postseason competition and television penalties in the 1986 case had been reduced from two years to one year because of the institution's cooperation in that investigation, the committee explained why it had concluded that no similar reduction of penalties was appropriate in this case:

In this case the committee gave careful consideration to whether the penalties to be imposed should be reduced as a result of the institution's cooperation in the investigation. Because these violations were very serious, involved the same program as the 1986 infractions case, and were very similar in nature to those in the previous case, and because of the apparent failure of the institution to create an atmosphere for and an attitude of compliance with NCAA rules within the football program, the Committee on Infractions did not reduce or mitigate its penalties.

There is a threshold question as to whether cooperation by an institution in the investigation of alleged violations should be considered in the mitigation of sanctions. Both the Committee on Infractions and the institution noted that Bylaw 19.01.3 makes explicit the responsibility of every member institution of the NCAA to cooperate in such investigations. Failure to do so can itself be a violation. However, the bylaws are silent about the extent to which the committee should consider cooperation as a mitigating factor in imposing penalties. In this case the Committee on Infractions "gave careful consideration to...the institution's cooperation in the investigation" because it characterized that cooperation as "complete and commendable."

The Infractions Appeals Committee agrees that it was appropriate for the Committee on Infractions to consider the institution's cooperation in this case. The NCAA enforcement process does not include many of the features of a judicial system, such as a subpoena power and testimony given under oath. It is therefore required in many instances to rely on the good faith, assistance and cooperation of the institution being investigated. For that reason, institutional cooperation is an important element in the NCAA enforcement program and such cooperation should be a factor when the Committee on Infractions imposes penalties and when this committee considers an appeal of penalties.

Although cooperation in an investigation of alleged violations is an obligation of NCAA membership, there are different levels or degrees of cooperation. Where an institution cooperates only to the extent necessary to meet its basic membership obligation, its conduct does not warrant special consideration in determining or imposing penalties. However, where an institution fully accepts its membership obligations and makes every effort to participate in and assist the enforcement process, its conduct must be a significant factor in determining and imposing penalties. The chief executive officer who requires his or her institution to open itself to the NCAA enforcement process, often in the face of powerful opposition, must be supported by the Association. Failure to accord such cooperation substantial weight in determining and imposing penalties would be a disincentive to the fullest possible institutional cooperation.

In this case the enforcement staff, in its presentation before the Committee on Infractions, took pains to praise the institution for its cooperation in the investigation. As previously noted, the Committee on Infractions characterized the institution's cooperation as "complete and commendable." Nevertheless, the committee concluded that the other factors in the case outweighed that cooperation. For that reason, the committee did not reduce or mitigate the penalties. The Infractions Appeals Committee is concerned that the balance struck by the Committee on Infractions does not accord appropriate weight to the institution's cooperation in this case.

6. Impact of penalties on innocent student-athletes and coaches.

The institution also based its appeal of penalties in this case on the assertion that they will have an undue serious impact on innocent student-athletes, prospective student-athletes and coaches who were not involved in the violations. In support of this basis for appeal it cited Bylaw 19.01.1, which includes the following provisions:

"Mission of NCAA Enforcement Program. It shall be the mission of the NCAA enforcement program to eliminate violations of NCAA rules and impose appropriate penalties should violations occur.... An important consideration in imposing penalties is to provide fairness to unininvolved student-athletes, coaches, administrators, competitors and other institutions."

In its response to the institution's appeal, the Committee on Infractions asserted that the impact on innocent students and coaches is always an important consideration when it determines appropriate penalties in a case. In this case, it attempted to minimize the impact on innocent parties by limiting to two the number of years on the postseason competition and television bans. Also, the initial scholarship and official-visit reductions were scheduled so that it would be possible for the institution to return to its 1994 scholarship levels by the 1998 or 1999 season, which will coincide with the conclusion of the probationary term imposed by the Committee on Infractions.

The institution is correct in its assertion that the penalties imposed in this case will have an effect on innocent students and coaches. However, it would be impossible for the Committee on Infractions to carry out its functions and responsibilities under Bylaw 19.01.1 without having some effect on innocent students and coaches. That bylaw directs the committee, in imposing penalties, to provide fairness to uninvolved parties. However, the bylaw also makes it clear that the primary mission of the committee is "to eliminate violations of NCAA rules and impose appropriate penalties should violations occur." The Infractions Appeals Committee concludes that the Committee on Infractions, in imposing the penalties in question, balanced properly its functions and responsibilities under Bylaw 19.01.1.

7. NCAA policies regarding fairness in, and equitable resolution of, infractions cases.

The final basis upon which the institution rested its appeal is the NCAA policy calling for "fairness and the equitable resolution of infractions cases." Here, again, the institution relies on Bylaw 19.01.1, citing that bylaw's provision that the NCAA enforcement program "is committed to fairness of procedures and the timely and equitable resolution of infractions cases."

The institution did not claim that the procedures followed were unfair or that the case had not been resolved in a timely fashion. Rather, the claim asserted here is that the penalties imposed on the institution by the Committee on Infractions did not constitute an "equitable resolution" of the case.

The Committee on Infractions appropriately imposed severe penalties in this case. Those penalties were intended to have substantial impact on the institution and its football program. The representatives of the institution who appeared before the Committee on Infractions and before this committee were the same representatives who had cooperated in the investigation of the allegations and who, in the face of threatened lawsuits, had taken the corrective actions discussed earlier. They argued that equity and fairness warranted a reduction in, or modification of, the penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions. The specific relief requested by the institution in its appeal was that the Infractions Appeals Committee lessen the initial financial aid and expense-paid-visit reductions imposed by the Committee on Infractions or, in the alternative, reduce the impact of these penalties by redistributing the reductions over the remaining three years of the probationary term.

The Infractions Appeals Committee considered carefully this request that Penalties III-(F) and (G) be reduced or modified. As previously discussed, the members of the committee agree unanimously that the NCAA must, whenever possible, support the chief executive officers and other representatives of institutions who cooperate in the NCAA enforcement program. Whether such support should be demonstrated by setting aside, in whole or in part, penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions must depend on the particular facts and circumstances of the case.

In making that determination in this case, the Infractions Appeals Committee was mindful of the fact that Bylaw 19.01.1, while calling for "equitable resolution of infractions cases," also sets forth the mission or primary goals of the NCAA enforcement program. That mission is "to eliminate violations of NCAA rules and impose appropriate penalties should violations occur." Those goals require that the committee, in determining whether or not the penalties appealed are fair and equitable, consider factors such as those discussed in this report — the nature, number and seriousness of the violations; the conduct and motives of the individuals involved in the violations; corrective action taken by the institution; proportionality of the penalty or penalties imposed; institutional cooperation in the investigation; the impact of penalties on innocent student-athletes and coaches; and the purposes and policies of the NCAA enforcement program.

The imposition of significant penalties in this case is consistent with the mission and primary goals of the NCAA enforcement program. Representatives of the institution's athletics interests, with encouragement by some member of the football staff, were actively involved in numerous flagrant violations of NCAA rules; the violations were the same type of violations, in the same program (football), that resulted in the finding of major violations and the imposition of significant sanctions as recently as 1986; the violations in this case occurred at a time when the institution's athletics director and head football coach were the same individuals who held those same positions at the time of the violations in the 1986 case; the repeated violations demonstrated the continuing failure of the former athletics director and the former head football coach to establish and maintain proper institutional control of its football program; the violations in this case included ethical conduct violations on the part of several former athletics department staff members, including the former head football coach, who had primary responsibility for maintaining control of the institution's football program. Imposing significant penalties in this case provides a clear message to the institution, its athletics department administration and the representatives of its athletics interests that any repeat violations of NCAA rules will cause great harm to the institution and its football program. It also serves to deter staff members, student-athletes and friends and supporters of other institutions from becoming involved in activities that might harm the programs that they wish to assist.

In determining whether the specific penalties imposed in this case are "excessive or inappropriate," consideration must be given not only to the aggravating factors summarized in the preceding paragraph but also to mitigating factors. Those mitigating factors are the corrective actions taken by the institution and its cooperation in the investigation. Consideration of these factors is also consistent with the mission and primary goals of the NCAA enforcement program.

As previously indicated, the Infractions Appeals Committee is concerned that the institution's cooperation was not accorded appropriate weight in imposing penalties in this case. The institution's chief executive officer, together with other members of the institution's administration, addressed the problems in the institution's football program with courage and integrity. That performance argues strongly for some credit or relief. However, given the many aggravating factors summarized above, which involved less praiseworthy conduct by other representatives of the institution, the Infractions Appeals Committee concludes that the penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions are neither excessive nor inappropriate.

C. Appeal of show-cause penalty.

The institution appealed the "show-cause" penalty requiring it to disassociate a representative of its athletics interests, inasmuch as the institution disassociated the representative August 21, 1994, one day before a prehearing conference with the NCAA enforcement staff and one month prior to the hearing before the Committee on Infractions. However, this information was not provided to the committee, and the committee issued the "show-cause" penalty. The Committee on Infractions stated in its response that if it had been aware of the disassociation when it issued its report, it would have adopted the disassociation with the qualifications contained in the penalty. It also noted that its knowledge of the disassociation would not have changed any of the other penalties imposed. Given the fact that the institution complied with the committee's intentions before the hearing, the Infractions Appeals Committee thus vacates the "show-cause" penalty in this instance.

Administrative Review Panel actions

The following is a report of actions by the NCAA Administrative Review Panel. The panel was created in 1993 to consider appeals — based on special circumstances — of actions of NCAA committees (other than the Eligibility Committee or Committee on Infractions) or the NCAA staff regarding the application of NCAA legislation.

This report contains actions taken by the panel from January through March 1995. The actions were reviewed by the NCAA Council in its April meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

Of these cases, 75 requests by institutions were granted; 52 were denied.

The following cases are listed in NCAA bylaw numerical order. The case number assigned to each case also is indicated.

Case No.: 842

Sport (division): Women's softball (I)
Citation: B 11.02.5

Special circumstances: The applicant institution is adding a women's sport for the 1995-96 academic year. The institution has hired a head coach and is in the process of hiring an assistant coach. Budget constraints do not permit hiring a restricted-earnings coach or funding a graduate-assistant coach at this time. A senior undergraduate student at the institution has approached the head coach regarding becoming an undergraduate assistant coach for the 1995-96 academic year. This individual does not wish to join the team; rather, she hopes to use the experience to determine her desire for future coaching positions.

Application of legislation: An undergraduate student coach is any coach who is an undergraduate student-athlete (SA) who has exhausted his/her eligibility in the sport or has become injured to the point that he/she is unable to practice or compete ever again, and who is participating as a student coach within the five-year/10-semester eligibility period.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the undergraduate assistant coach provision in this situation because the individual will be participating as an undergraduate assistant coach even though the individual has eligibility remaining.

Action taken: Granted

Case No.: 752

Sport (division): Football (I-A)
Citation: B 11.3.3.1, 13.4.2

Special circumstances: An individual, who currently is the defensive coordinator with a professional sports organization, recently was named as the applicant institution's head coach. The individual will assume those duties full time once the professional organization's season has concluded. In the interim, the institution would like the individual to be able to contact prospective student-athletes (PSAs) in writing as well as be featured in a three-minute video the institution is producing.

Application of legislation: An institution's athletics staff member may not accept compensation or gratuities for representing a professional sports organization as a coach or scout, in the negotiating of a contract, or for the performance of other services that involve the observation of or contact with athletics talent. Any compensation arrangement between the organization and a staff member is evidence of an indirect arrangement to assure the staff member's assistance in evaluating or procuring college talent. Further, an institution may show a highlight film/videotape to a PSA or the PSA's coach but may not send it to or leave it with the PSA or coach.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "employment with professional sports organizations" and the "video materials" rules because the institution believes it is being disadvantaged by appointing a head coach who is not yet permitted to take part in recruiting activities due to the individual's current association with a professional sports organization. The institution suggests that the individual would be permitted to have contact or communication only with those PSAs who have made a verbal commitment to the institution or who have indicated a strong interest in signing with the institution.

Bylaw 13

Case No.: 847

Sport (division): Football (I)
Citation: B 13.1.4.1

Special circumstances: On February 10, 1995, the applicant institution named its remaining assistant coaches and, thus, completed its staff due to the sudden departure of its head coach at the end of the 1994 season. One of the assistant coaches the institution hired currently is a high-school coach in the institution's locale. The institution has instructed this coach to terminate employment with the high school before assuming any job responsibilities at the institution; however, the coach's season-ending banquet with the high school's team is scheduled for March 10 and the coach will already have assumed coaching duties at the institution by that time. This banquet will be the coach's only remaining official function associated with the high school. The institution can assure the panel that the coach will not make any recruiting presentations if permitted to attend the banquet. However, it seems inevitable that the coach will have direct contact with the team because this will be the coach's final official function as its former head coach.

Application of legislation: A member of the basketball or football coaching staff may speak at a meeting or banquet outside the recruiting contact periods, provided the coach does not make a recruiting presentation in conjunction with the appearance and the coach does not have direct contact with any prospects in attendance.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the banquet legislation in this situation because the institution does not believe there to be a competitive advantage gained by allowing a former high-school coach to administer and attend his high-school, season-ending banquet.

Case No.: 835

Sport (division): Men's track (I)
Citation: B 13.7.1.2

Special circumstances: On October 22-23, 1994, the PSA used one of five permissible official visits at a four-year institution. After this visit, a violation occurred when that institution's head track coach and his wife both made in-home recruiting visits with PSAs outside the 30-mile radius of the institution, which included this PSA. On December 9, 1994, the conference reported the violation to the NCAA enforcement staff. The staff and a designated member of the Committee on Infractions reviewed this matter and determined it to be a secondary recruiting violation. As a result, all involved PSAs were declared ineligible for intercollegiate competition at this institution. Therefore, this PSA was no longer permitted to enroll and participate in intercollegiate athletics at the institution that violated the recruiting legislation. The PSA has taken five official visits and, therefore, is left with only four institutions that the SA has visited at which a National Letter of Intent (NLI) may be signed.

Application of legislation: In Divisions I and II, a prospect may take a maximum of five expense-paid visits, with no more than one permitted to any single institution. This restriction applies regardless of the number of sports in which a prospect is involved.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the limitation on the number of official visits in the PSA's situation because the PSA no longer is permitted to enroll as an SA at this institution and, thus, should be allowed an additional official visit to the institution of choice. The conference notes that except for the secondary recruiting violation that occurred, the PSA would have had five institutions to decide from when signing the NLI.

Case No.: 732

Sport (division): Men's basketball (I)
Citation: B 13.7.1.2.4, 13.7.1.2.4.4

Special circumstances: The applicant institution was informed that the PSA was not certified for an early official visit because the required number of core courses had not been met. The PSA had attended a different high school during the PSA's freshman year and the NCAA Initial-Eligibility Clearinghouse did not have an official transcript from that high school. The transcript was sent by overnight courier to the clearinghouse; however, the PSA was not certified before leaving for the institution. Because the PSA's parents already had purchased airline tickets, they decided to make it an unofficial visit. Therefore, the PSA would have to pay for air fare, hotel expenses and meals while on campus. About an hour after the PSA departed for campus, the institution learned that the PSA had been certified. The NCAA legislative services staff confirmed that since the PSA was not certified at the time of departure and because the PSA's departure constituted the start of an official visit, the PSA would be responsible for the transportation costs from the PSA's home to the institution and those expenses could not be reimbursed.

Application of legislation: A Division I institution may provide an expense-paid visit to a PSA in a sport that has an early signing period for the National Letter of Intent before the initial early signing date in that sport only if the PSA has presented the institution with a minimum combined SAT score of 700 or PSA score of 70 or a minimum composite ACT or PLAN (or PACT Plus) score of 17, and also has presented a minimum GPA of 2.000 in at least seven core courses. A PSA in the applicable sport who does not present these academic credentials shall not begin an official visit until 24 hours after the last day of the early signing period in that sport. Further, the PSA's fulfillment of these academic requirements shall be certified by an initial-eligibility clearinghouse approved by the Council.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application for expenses during official visits in the PSA's situation because the institution believes that the staff's position on this matter unfairly impacts this PSA. Specifically, the institution requests that the panel allow it to reimburse the PSA for travel expenses from the PSA's home to the campus. The institution also believes that the delay experienced in this situation was through no fault of the PSA. The institution realizes that although many institutions were forced to cancel or reschedule official visits, this was not an option in the PSA's case because the PSA's parents could not refund or change their airline tickets without significant financial penalty.

Case No.: 840

Sport (division): Women's swimming (II)
Citation: B 13.12.2.4

Special circumstances: A volunteer student coach, who is a native of Durango, Colorado (400 miles from the applicant institution's campus), and who was a member of the Durango Swim Club for 10 years before enrolling in the institution, would like to return home for the summer of 1995 and, as a source of income, accept a coaching position with the club.

Application of legislation: In sports other than Divisions I and II basketball, an institution's coach may be involved as a participant or in instructional or coaching activities in the same sport for a local sports club or organization located in the institution's home community, provided all prospects participating in said activities are legal residents of the area (within a 50-mile radius of the institution).

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the local-sports-club rule in this individual's situation because the individual competed as a member of the club team for 10 years and previously was employed as a coach for the team. Further, the coaching position with the institution during the academic year is nonpaying. However, the coaching position with the club team is a paid position and would cover the individual's expenses to attend college during the 1995-96 academic year.

Case No.: 744

Sport (division): Women's volleyball (III)
Citation: B 13.12.2.4

Special circumstances: Request denied based on prior similar cases.

Application of legislation: There is a 50-mile radius limit for coaching summer teams involving prospective student-athletes in the same sport.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the 50-mile radius rule because the coach was offered a part-time position with an Olympic development team located 70 miles from campus.

Bylaw 14

Case No.: 758

Sport (division): Women's basketball (III)
Citation: B 14.1.5.1.1

Special circumstances: The individual initially enrolled in a joint college/high-school program at the applicant institution in fall 1994, and was not considered to be a regular degree-seeking student. Accordingly, the individual is not eligible for extracurricular activities, including athletics. Since the time of the individual's enrollment, the institution has adopted a special exception to its normal admission requirements. This new policy states that qualified students who are taking courses to meet requirements of both a high-school diploma and a college degree may be admitted as regularly matriculated students if they (a) enroll full time; (b) submit a written request for special admission; and (c) provide proof of high-school graduation within one year of being admitted under this exception. This particular individual still is not considered a regular, degree-seeking student since the individual initially enrolled before the implementation of this special exception.

Application of legislation: An SA may be admitted under a special exception to the institution's normal entrance requirements if the discretionary authority of the chief executive officer (or designated admissions officer or committee) to grant such exceptions is set forth in an official document published by the institution (e.g., official catalog) that describes the institution's admissions requirements.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the special-admission rule in the individual's situation because the institution believes that this policy warrants retroactive application in this case. Specifically, the individual has been practicing with the team since October 24, 1994. Under Minnesota state high-school league rules, the individual may not play with the high-school team because the individual has practiced with a college team. Therefore, if this policy is not applied retroactively, it creates an undue hardship to the individual in question.

Case No.: 793

Sports (division): Men's cross country, men's track (I)
Citation: B 14.1.6.1

Special circumstances: Request granted based on prior similar cases.

Application of legislation: An SA must be enrolled in a minimum of 12 hours of academic credit.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the 12-hour rule because a head injury limited the number of hours the SA was permitted to enroll in for the spring of 1995. The SA wishes to begin practice with the track team.

Case No.: 739

Sport (division): Women's basketball (I)
Citation: B 14.1.8.1, 14.1.8.2

Special circumstances: The SA's fourth year of collegiate enrollment began in August 1994. The SA will have completed all degree requirements at the end of the fall semester of 1994, within 3 1/2 years of the SA's initial collegiate enrollment, with a GPA of 3.000 (4.000 scale). The SA would like to complete courses necessary for a minor and possibly take other courses of interest and/or participate in an internship during the spring semester. However, the legislation requires the SA, upon graduation, to declare a second major and be enrolled in 12 credits, or enroll in a graduate program. Another option for the SA is to withdraw from those classes the SA currently is enrolled in (which are required for the degree) and enroll in them next semester. Due to the fact that the academic coordinator was unaware until midsemester that the SA would be completing those degree requirements in December, the SA was not informed of the applicable legislation until then.

Application of legislation: To be eligible to participate (i.e., practice and compete) in intercollegiate athletics, an SA shall be enrolled in at least a minimum full-time program of studies. An SA who is enrolled in a graduate or professional school may participate in intercollegiate athletics, provided the SA has eligibility remaining and such participation occurs within the applicable five-year or 10-semester period.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the baccalaureate and post-baccalaureate rules in the SA's situation in order for the SA to remain eligible for the spring semester while being enrolled in nondegree-seeking courses, which would enable the SA to meet the objective of obtaining a minor or pursuing other interests. The SA will graduate in May 1995 (within four years of entering college), with more academic credits than required.

Case No.: 844

Sport (division): Men's basketball (II)
Citation: B 14.2.4.1

Special circumstances: The SA transferred to the applicant institution in the fall of 1994. Before this transfer, the SA attended a four-year institution. The SA transferred to that institution after attending multiple two-year colleges. During the summer before enrolling full time (1993), the SA was told that an athletics scholarship would be awarded. However, in late summer, a coaching change was made, and then another coaching change was made right after that. Before the start of classes, the new coach agreed to award financial aid to the SA for books. After arriving on campus, the SA realized that the institution would not pay for the books. During the SA's only semester at the institution, the SA participated in one preseason scrimmage and played in only 22 seconds of a regular-season contest. The SA left school at the end of the fall 1993 semester. During the fall of 1994, the SA transferred to the applicant institution and completed the fourth and final season of intercollegiate participation. The SA still has one season remaining and would like an additional season to play next fall.

Application of legislation: Any competition [including a scrimmage with outside competition (except for approved two-year college scrimmages)] regardless of time, during a season in an intercollegiate sport shall be counted as a season of competition in that sport. This provision is applicable to an intercollegiate athletics competition conducted by a two- or four-year college institution at the varsity or subvarsity level.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the season-of-competition rule in the SA's situation because the SA attended the first four-year institution only because financial assistance was promised. The SA had limited participation at this school and transferred after one semester after learning that financial aid would not be provided. Therefore, the applicant institution believes it would be an injustice to charge the SA a season of competition due to a bad experience during the 1993-94 academic year.

Special circumstances: The SA participated in competition during the 1993-94 academic year unattached after being advised that the meet would not be scored and, thus, would not be considered intercollegiate competition. Shortly after the competition, the SA found out that the meet was scored and possibly could meet the definition of intercollegiate competition. It was later confirmed that the meet met such a definition and, thus, the SA's participation resulted in the use of a season of competition. The SA intended to sit out of competition for the 1993-94 academic year.

Application of legislation: Any competition [including a scrimmage with outside competition (except for approved two-year college scrimmages)] counts as a season of competition in that sport. This provision is applicable to intercollegiate athletics competition conducted by a two-year or four-year collegiate institution at the varsity or subvarsity level.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the season-of-competition rule in the SA's situation because of the miscommunication between the coaches as to whether the meet would be scored and ultimately result in intercollegiate competition and the use of a season of competition.

Case No.: 724

Sport (division): Women's soccer (III)
Citation: B 14.2.4.1

Special circumstances: The applicant institution's team began its second season in August 1994. At that time, the team consisted of 14 SAs. In late August, one of the SAs transferred and another was denied readmission to the institution. When the season began, the roster stood at 13. Between the first and fourth contests of the season, the number of SAs on the team was diminished due to injuries. Due to the questions surrounding the physical condition of team members and the low number of available SAs, the applicant institution canceled its remaining scheduled contests. The applicant institution has requested that this four-game season not count as a year of competition for the SAs that participated.

Application of legislation: Any competition [including a scrimmage with outside competition (except for approved two-year college scrimmages)], regardless of time, during a season in an intercollegiate sport shall be counted as a season of competition in that sport. This provision is applicable to intercollegiate athletics competition conducted by a two-year or four-year collegiate institution at the varsity or subvarsity level.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the season-of-competition rule because the SAs' season was terminated through no fault of their own after participating in only four contests. The unusual and unforeseen circumstances that caused the institution to cancel the season disrupted the SAs' opportunity to participate in a full season of intercollegiate competition.

Case No.: 694

Sport (division): Men's golf (I)
Citation: B 14.2.4.1

Special circumstances: Before transferring to the applicant institution, the SA participated in two tournaments while enrolled at the first four-year institution the SA attended. The SA signed a National Letter of Intent with that institution during the early signing period of 1992. The institution's coach was aware that the SA had been diagnosed with a learning disability (attention deficit disorder) and, thus, required special academic attention during the SA's collegiate enrollment. In the spring of 1993 (during the SA's first academic year of enrollment), the coach was fired and replaced by an individual with no collegiate-level coaching experience. In the fall of 1993, it became apparent that the SA would not be able to participate in competition and keep up academically. The SA withdrew from the institution in November and enrolled in the applicant institution during the spring of 1994. The SA was not eligible to participate in intercollegiate competition during the spring of 1994. The applicant institution has a program that assists SAs with learning disabilities and special needs. The applicant institution is requesting that the SA be granted an additional season of intercollegiate competition.

Application of legislation: Any competition [including a scrimmage with outside competition (except for approved two-year college scrimmages)], regardless of time, during a season in an intercollegiate sport shall be counted as a season of competition in that sport. This provision is applicable to intercollegiate athletics competition conducted by a two-year or four-year collegiate institution at the varsity or subvarsity level.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the season-of-competition rule in the SA's situation because the SA left the first institution because of a coaching change that was made after the SA's first season of intercollegiate competition. During that season, the SA competed in only two intercollegiate tournaments. In addition, the SA was forced to transfer to the applicant institution because of a learning disability. The applicant institution has a program to handle the SA's special needs. Finally, because of the SA's learning disability, it will take five full years to complete the SA's degree requirements; therefore, the institution believes the SA should be granted an additional season of competition.

Case No.: 428

Sport (division): Women's basketball (I)
Citation: B 14.2.4.1

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled in a four-year institution in the fall of 1993 after completing a two-year degree program at a two-year college during the 1991-92 and 1992-93 academic years. Soon after enrolling at the four-year institution, the SA realized that the institution was not going to meet any of the SA's educational or athletics needs. The SA expressed (to the institution's coach) an interest in transferring to another institution before collegiate competition. Later that semester, the coach played the SA in one competition, and the SA was led to believe that this would not constitute a season of competition. The SA thereafter transferred to the applicant institution and will be required to complete an academic year of residence there before being able to compete in the SA's final season of competition in the spring of 1995.

Appeal initially denied, but the institution requested reconsideration on the basis that the head coach intentionally misinformed the SA regarding National Letter of Intent commitment and eligibility status.

Application of legislation: Any competition [including a scrimmage with outside competition (except for approved two-year college scrimmages)], regardless of time, during a season in an intercollegiate sport shall be counted as a season of competition in that sport.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the season-of-competition rule because the SA was misled and did not realize that participation in one contest would constitute a season of competition.

Case No.: 757

Sport (division): Baseball (II)
Citation: B 14.2.4.1, 14.2.6

Special circumstances: In the fall of 1992, the SA transferred to the applicant institution as a two-year college transfer. After the faculty athletics representative (FAR) evaluated the SA's academic credentials, the institution's coach was advised that the SA was eligible and met NCAA eligibility requirements. At the end of August, the FAR retired and was replaced. The current FAR was not trained for the position of FAR before completing the spring sports eligibility list that the institution requires. The FAR was unaware of the responsibility of verifying the GPAs and certifying the eligibility of each SA on the conference eligibility list. The SA's cumulative GPA was reported incorrectly on this eligibility list. Upon receipt of the eligibility form, the conference rendered the SA ineligible based on the GPA. Before being rendered ineligible, the SA had participated in eight contests. As a result, the institution self-reported the incident to the enforcement staff and was required to forfeit the eight contests in which the SA participated. Ultimately, it was determined that the SA was actually eligible.

Application of legislation: Any competition [including a scrimmage with outside competition (except for approved two-year college scrimmages)], regardless of time, during a season in an intercollegiate sport shall be counted as a season of competition in that sport. Further, an SA may be granted an additional season of competition by the Eligibility Committee when he or she participated in a limited amount of competition as a result of a good-faith, erroneous formal declaration of eligibility by the institution's appropriate certifying authority. The competition must have occurred (a) within 60 days of the date the student first reported for athletics participation and (b) the SA did not participate in more than two events or 10 percent (whichever number is greater) of the institution's completed events in his or her sport.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the season-of-competition rule in the SA's situation because the SA was precluded from continuing participation during the 1992-93 season due to an erroneous formal declaration of ineligibility by the institution's appropriate certifying authority.

Case No.: 849

Sport (division): Men's basketball (I)
Citation: B 14.2.4.5

Special circumstances: The SA currently is enrolled full time in a two-year college and initially enrolled there in the fall of 1993. Before enrollment, as a citizen of Burundi, the SA participated as a member of the Burundi national team. The exhibition games took place between October and November 1991; therefore, the SA's participation occurred after the SA's 20th birthday and before initial enrollment in a collegiate institution. Since the SA has used two seasons of eligibility and is being charged with one season for participation on the Burundi team, the SA has only one remaining season of competition remaining. The SA intends to transfer to the applicant institution next fall to participate on its intercollegiate team.

Application of legislation: Any participation as a team representative in organized sports competition by an SA during a 12-month period after the SA's 20th birthday (and before initial full-time enrollment at a collegiate institution) may be counted as one season of intercollegiate participation.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the 20-year age rule and allow the SA to have two years of eligibility remaining because neither the U. S. State Department nor the Institute for International Sport (which sponsored the exhibition games) was aware of the eligibility consequences concerning their attempt to better relations in the troubled country of Burundi. In addition, the objective of this visit and the exhibition games in the United States were educational in nature.

Sport (division): Men's track (I)
Citation: B 14.2.4.5

Special circumstances: The SA graduated from a high school in Nigeria in 1986 and turned 20 years old in December 1990. In March 1992, the SA enrolled in a four-year institution in the United States. During 1991, the SA ran in two outdoor meets the year after his 20th birthday and used a season of competition. The SA enrolled in college during the second year after his 20th birthday (1992), with three seasons of competition remaining in one sport and four seasons of competition remaining in another sport. The SA competed in an outdoor sport during the spring seasons of 1992 and 1993 at the first four-year institution, competed in an indoor sport during the winter of 1993, and then competed in an outdoor sport during the spring season of 1994. The SA currently is competing at the applicant institution.

Application of legislation: Any participation as an individual or a team representative in organized sports competition by a student during each 12-month period after the student's 20th birthday and prior to initial full-time enrollment in a collegiate institution shall count as one year of varsity competition in that sport.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the participation-after-20th-birthday requirement in the SA's situation because the SA was unaware of NCAA regulations before arriving in the United States. The two races afforded the SA no competitive advantage in an NCAA sport. On July 7, 1991, the SA ran once in the only competition available in Nigeria. The meet was the All-Nigerian championships and it was the only method of qualifying for international competition. It also was a qualifying meet for the Pan-African championships. This was a qualifying meet for the World Championships, held once every four years.

Application of legislation: Any participation as an individual or a team representative in organized sports competition by a student during each 12-month period after the student's 20th birthday and prior to initial full-time enrollment in a collegiate institution shall count as one year of varsity competition in that sport.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the participation-after-20th-birthday requirement because the SA competed as a member of the U. S. ski team for one year after his 20th birthday.

Sport (division): Women's volleyball (II)
Citation: B 14.2.5

Special circumstances: The SA was involved in an automobile accident with three other SAs, two of whom were not hurt seriously; however, another was killed, and the SA was injured seriously with a skull fracture (the SA was comatose for four days). The SA's injuries resulted in an incapacity to compete for the remainder of the season. However, the SA was over the contest-participation limit in Division II to receive a hardship waiver.

Application of legislation: One of the criteria for a hardship waiver in Divisions I and II requires that the injury or illness occurs when the SA has not participated in more than two events or 20 percent (whichever number is greater) of the institution's completed events in his or her sport.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the 20 percent participation requirement of the hardship-waiver rule because the institution believes that the extenuating circumstances surrounding the SA's injuries warrant such relief. Further, one of the driving forces behind the SA's rehabilitation has been the thought of completing an education and regaining athletics eligibility to complete the final season of intercollegiate competition.

Special circumstances: The SA is a partial qualifier who graduated from high school in 1988. The SA spent four years in the U. S. Air Force, and upon discharge (spring 1994) enrolled in a four-year institution with the intention of participating in a cooperative engineering program at the applicant institution. However, the SA became a full-time student at the first institution only. In the fall of 1994, the SA transferred to the applicant institution.

Application of legislation: An entering freshman with no previous college attendance who enrolls in a Division I institution and who is a partial qualifier may not practice or compete during the first academic year in residence.

Case No.: 836

Sport (division): Baseball (I)

Citation: B 14.3.4.6, 14.4.3.1

Special circumstances: A recruited SA initially enrolled at the applicant institution in the fall of 1993. During the entire 1993-94 year, including the summer of 1994, the SA completed only 31 quarter hours. In an effort to regain eligibility, the SA successfully completed 17 quarter hours during the fall of 1994 (for a total of 48 hours), which would have met the credit-hour requirement; however, due to an oversight, six of the hours completed during the fall of 1994 cannot be counted because they are remedial, and remedial hours cannot be used to meet satisfactory progress after an SA's initial year of collegiate enrollment.

Application of legislation: Eligibility for competition for a midyear transfer SA, for an SA subsequent to the SA's first academic year in residence or after the SA has used one season of eligibility in any sport at the certifying institution, shall be determined by the SA's academic record in existence at the beginning of the fall term or at the beginning of any other regular term of that academic year. The determination shall be based on satisfactory completion before each fall term of a cumulative total of academic semester or quarter hours equivalent to an average of at least 12 semester or quarter hours during each of the previous academic terms in academic years in which the SA has been enrolled in a term or terms, or satisfactory completion of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of academic credit since the beginning of the previous fall term or since the beginning of the certifying institution's preceding regular two semesters or three quarters. Remedial courses may be used to satisfy the minimum academic progress requirement only if the credit in such courses does not exceed 12 semester or 18 quarter hours and the course is taken during the student's first academic year of collegiate enrollment.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the rule regarding the use of remedial courses because the SA was following the advice of the academic advisor based on the understanding that completion of the 17 hours would render the SA eligible for the winter and spring terms of 1995. In addition, it should be noted that the SA contracted mononucleosis during the winter of 1994 when the SA initially took the remedial courses, which affected the SA's grades.

Case No.: 843

Sport (division): Football (I)

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at the applicant institution in the fall of 1992 as a nonrecruited SA. In fall 1994, the SA participated in competition as a nonrecruited SA. During the fall of 1994, the SA successfully completed 13 hours; however, only eight are degree-applicable. The SA is enrolled in 15 credit hours during the spring of 1995, 10 hours of which are degree-applicable, giving the SA a total of 18 hours for the entire year. The SA has declared a major that follows a strict sequencing of required courses. No courses are offered during the summer of 1995 that would meet the SA's remaining requirements. The SA has met all other satisfactory-progress requirements.

Application of legislation: Eligibility for competition for a midyear-transfer SA, for an SA subsequent to the SA's first academic year in residence or after the SA has used one season of eligibility in any sport at the certifying institution, shall be determined by the SA's academic record in existence at the beginning of the fall term or at the beginning of any other regular term of that academic year. That determination shall be based on satisfactory completion before each fall term of a cumulative total of academic semester or quarter hours equivalent to an average of at least 12 semester or quarter hours during each of the previous academic terms in academic years in which the SA has been enrolled in a term or terms, or satisfactory completion of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of academic credit since the beginning of the previous fall term or since the beginning of the certifying institution's preceding regular two semesters or three quarters.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the 24-hour requirement because the SA was not made aware of the eligibility requirements for participation in an NCAA athletics program until the 1994-95 academic year. In addition, due to the strict sequencing of the SA's major, necessary courses are not offered before the fall of 1995.

[Note: At the request of the panel, the Academic Requirements Committee reviewed the institution's request and recommended an approval based on the SA's overall strong academic record and the SA's progress toward his degree. In addition, it was noted that the SA was nonrecruited and, therefore, was not aware of the academic requirements regarding eligibility for competition (six hours).]

Case No.: 829

Sport (division): Baseball (I)

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at the applicant institution in the fall of 1992 as a qualifier and a recruited SA. Upon entering the institution, the SA declared a major and, at the conclusion of the fall of 1994, successfully had completed 55 credit hours of degree-applicable course work with a grade-point average of 2.465. The SA had to repeat several courses because of an institutional policy that required students to achieve a grade of C or better for courses to be counted in that major. The repeated courses were overlooked by the academic advisor; although the SA was enrolled in 12 hours, the repeated courses could be counted only once toward satisfactory progress. As a result, during the 1993-94 academic year, the SA satisfactorily completed only 19 hours of degree-applicable course work. During the fall of 1994, the SA successfully completed an additional 12 credit hours and, together with nine credit hours from the spring of 1994, the SA has a total of 21 hours for the SA's last two full-time terms of attendance. The SA is enrolled in 14 hours of degree-applicable course work.

Application of legislation: Eligibility for competition for a midyear-transfer SA, for an SA subsequent to the SA's first academic year in residence or after the SA has used one season of eligibility in any sport at the certifying institution, shall be determined by the SA's academic record in existence at the beginning of the fall term or at the beginning of any other regular term of that academic year. That determination shall be based on satisfactory completion of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of academic credit since the beginning of the previous fall term or since the beginning of the certifying institution's preceding regular two semesters or three quarters.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the 24-hour requirement because the SA was following the advice of the academic advisor based on the understanding that the SA was meeting satisfactory progress. In addition, the fact that the SA's major requires a grade of C or better has attributed to the SA's academic deficiency.

[Note: At the request of the panel, the Academic Requirements Committee reviewed the institution's request and recommended a denial of the application, noting that the SA achieved a D in the 1994 spring term, which created the deficit of three credit hours rather than the repeated course completed during that term. In addition, the subcommittee noted that it was an institutional policy that the SA should achieve a grade of C or better and that the student had received a D in several courses.]

Sport (division): Women's track (I)

Citation: B 14.4.3.1, 14.4.3.4.6

Special circumstances: The SA is a recruited foreign student-athlete (FSA) and a partial qualifier. Upon enrollment at the applicant institution in the spring of 1994, to improve English skills, the SA was required to satisfactorily complete a number of remedial English courses. During the spring of 1994, the SA satisfactorily completed 15 credit hours, 12 of which were remedial. In the fall of 1994, the SA was enrolled in 15 credit hours, six of which were remedial. After an academic advisor's advice, the SA dropped a three-hour sociology class during the fall of 1994 on the assumption that the 12 hours remaining would be countable in order to be eligible in the spring of 1995. As a result, the SA successfully completed only 21 hours of countable course work and is not eligible to participate in competition during the spring of 1995.

Application of legislation: Eligibility for competition for a midyear-transfer SA, for an SA subsequent to the SA's first academic year in residence or after the SA has used one season of eligibility in any sport at the certifying institution, shall be determined by the SA's academic record in existence at the beginning of the fall term or at the beginning of any other regular term of that academic year. That determination shall be based on satisfactory completion of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of academic credit since the beginning of the previous fall term or since the beginning of the certifying institution's preceding regular two semesters or three quarters. Not more than 12 semester hours of remedial credit may be used to meet satisfactory progress, and the hours must be taken during the SA's first academic year of collegiate enrollment.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the 24-hour requirement because the SA was following erroneous advice from an advisor and already has satisfied an academic year of residence during which time the SA was not able to compete. It should be noted that the SA has completed a total of 27 hours; however, six are not countable because they are remedial and exceed the permissible 12 hours during the first academic year.

[Note: At the request of the panel, the Academic Requirements Committee reviewed the institution's request and recommended a denial based on the SA's weak overall academic performance in courses other than the remedial courses, as well as concern regarding the SA's future progress toward a degree due to the large number of remedial hours.]

Request of institution: In 1993-94, the university mistakenly declared the SA ineligible. Subsequently, the university then used courses from a minor to satisfy NCAA rules because the SA was ahead of schedule in his major. The institution learned of its errors at the 1994 NCAA regional rules seminar, and although the SA will graduate in May 1995, a waiver is necessary to complete the season.

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at the applicant institution in the spring of 1993 as a recruited two-year college transfer. Upon enrollment, the SA declared a major. At the beginning of the winter quarter of 1995, the SA declared a second major. The SA needs to be able to use 16 hours of course work, taken before declaration of a second major, in order to meet satisfactory progress.

Application of legislation: The provision that the calculation of credit hours under the satisfactory-progress regulation shall be based on hours earned or accepted for degree credit at the certifying institution in the SA's specific baccalaureate degree program shall be met as follows: An SA who changes his/her designated degree program may comply with the satisfactory-progress requirements if (1) the change in programs is documented appropriately by the institution's academic authorities; (2) the credits earned before the change are acceptable toward the degree previously sought; and (3) the credits earned from the time of the change are acceptable toward the new desired degree.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the hours accepted for degree credit because the SA would like to use the 16 credit hours of course work that were completed before declaring a second major. The SA needs the 16 hours in order to meet satisfactory progress.

[Note: At the request of the panel, the Academic Requirements Committee reviewed the institution's request and recommended a denial based on the large size of the waiver request (16 hours), even though the SA had a strong academic record, because it would establish a dangerous precedent.]

Sport (division): Men's basketball (II)

Citation: B 14.4.3.4.4, 14.4.3.4.5

Special circumstances: After the 1994 spring term, the SA was advised that summer courses needed to be completed to meet satisfactory-progress requirements. In compliance with institutional and NCAA requirements, the SA received permission to register at another institution and complete two summer courses. Before enrolling, the SA incorrectly was informed that the hours earned through correspondence courses in the summer could be used. Both of the courses the SA enrolled in were correspondence courses. Upon enrollment, the SA determined that the writing requirement in one of these courses was too demanding. Therefore, the SA substituted a history course without first securing permission to make such a substitution. The SA successfully completed both courses. Both courses are acceptable in meeting the requirements of the SA's program of study.

Application of legislation: Prior approval by appropriate academic officials of the certifying institution is required if courses taken during another institution's summer term are to be used in determining the SA's academic status (i.e., good academic standing and satisfactory progress). In addition, correspondence, extension and credit-by-examination courses taken from an institution other than the one in which an SA is enrolled as a full-time student may not be used in determining an SA's academic standing or satisfactory progress.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the prior-approved-summer-courses requirement and the correspondence-courses-from-another-institution restriction in the SA's situation because (a) the SA was misadvised that hours earned through correspondence courses in the summer from another institution could be used; (b) enrollment in the correspondence courses was due to financial reasons; (c) the SA was unaware that permission to substitute a summer course was needed; and (d) both correspondence courses were completed successfully and are acceptable courses to meet the requirements in the SA's program of study.

Special circumstances: The SA attended a four-year institution full time during the 1991-92 academic year and practiced but did not compete. The SA then transferred to another four-year institution, completing two years of full-time attendance. The SA competed in one sport during the 1992-93 academic year and another sport during the 1993-94 academic year. During those two years, the SA experienced a number of illnesses. As a result, the SA was unable to continue participating in athletics and withdrew from classes during the winter quarter of 1994. The SA experienced depression, ultimately attempted suicide and, eventually, received therapy. The therapist determined that the SA should return home, which the SA did at the conclusion of the 1993-94 academic year.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers to a member institution from any collegiate institution is required to complete one full academic year of residence at the certifying institution before being eligible to compete for or to receive travel expenses from the member institution, unless the student satisfies the applicable transfer requirements or receives an exception or waiver.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-year residence requirement in the SA's situation because the conclusion of the 1994-95 academic year will be the SA's eighth semester of collegiate enrollment and to date the SA has participated in only one season of competition. Further, as a result of the SA's reoccurring illnesses, the SA was unable to participate in athletics during the winter quarter of 1994.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the residence requirement in the SA's situation because the SA was non-recruited and will be entering the junior year at the start of the 1995-96 academic year. Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-year residence requirement in the SA's situation because the SA's reasons for leaving the original institution were related to (a) the serious illness of a close family friend; (b) the hardships created by that individual's illness;

Case No.: 788
Sport (division): Women's basketball (I)
Citation: B 14.5.4.1.2

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at a two-year college in the fall of 1992 and attended for two full academic years, completing all courses required for an AA degree. However, the SA failed the math portion of the CLAST, which made it impossible to graduate from the two-year college. The two-year college mistakenly assumed that the SA was a qualifier upon graduation from high school. Thus, the two-year college believed that the SA still would be eligible to participate immediately in Division I because graduating from a two-year college is not a transfer-eligibility requirement for qualifiers. However, the SA did not have the required core courses successfully completed when the SA graduated; so, the SA was actually a partial qualifier. Thus, as a partial qualifier, the SA is ineligible for financial aid, practice and competition at a Division I institution after transfer from the two-year college since the two-year college graduation requirement was not completed.

Application of legislation: The student who was not a qualifier is eligible for institutional financial aid, practice and competition the first academic year in residence only if the student has graduated from the two-year college, has completed satisfactorily a minimum of 48 semester or 72 quarter hours of transferable degree credit acceptable toward any baccalaureate-degree program at the certifying institution, and has attended a two-year college full time for at least three semesters or four quarters (excluding summer terms). In addition, such a student who first enrolled as a regular student in a two-year college after August 1, 1988, must have a cumulative GPA of 2.000.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the two-year college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA only lacks the math portion of the CLAST. In addition, the SA mistakenly was classified as a qualifier while enrolled in the two-year college. The SA and the applicant institution first became aware of the SA's partial-qualifier status after the SA's initial enrollment; therefore, the SA was never advised that graduating from the two-year college was a requirement for eligibility. In the event that the panel does not believe the SA should be permitted to compete, the institution requests consideration of a partial waiver to permit the SA to practice and receive institutional financial aid.

Case No.: 781
Sport (division): Men's swimming (I)
Citation: B 14.5.4.1.2

Special circumstances: The SA did not take the SAT or ACT before enrolling full time in a collegiate institution; thus, the SA was not a qualifier. In January 1995, the NCAA legislative services staff was asked to review the SA's academic records to determine educational history. The staff confirmed that full-time enrollment in a Swedish collegiate educational system is considered to be 20 points per semester or 40 points per year. The SA's academic records do not indicate enrollment in 20 points per semester or 40 points per year at a Swedish institution. The only institution that the SA attended full time was a two-year college in the United States. Thus, the SA is considered a "2-4" college transfer and must meet the academic requirements set forth for partial qualifiers or nonqualifiers to be eligible for institutional financial aid, practice or competition during the first academic year in residence at the applicant institution. The SA has not met the transfer requirements necessary to be immediately eligible.

Application of legislation: The student who was not a qualifier is eligible for institutional financial aid, practice and competition the first academic year in residence only if the student has graduated from a two-year college, completed satisfactorily a minimum of 48 semester or 72 quarter hours of transferable degree credit acceptable toward any baccalaureate degree program at the certifying institution, and attended a two-year college as a full-time student for at least three semesters or four quarters (excluding summer terms). In addition, such a student who first enrolled as a regular student in a two-year college after August 1, 1988, must have a cumulative GPA of 2.000.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "2-4" college-transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA is a foreign student who never has been advised of the NCAA eligibility or transfer rules. In addition, even though the SA attended multiple universities in Sweden part time, this is very common among students in that country. Further, the SA did not take the SAT in high school because the SA had no intention of attending an NCAA institution and such a test was not required to gain admission at a collegiate institution in Sweden. Finally, the SA is an outstanding student who has met the academic challenges of a four-year institution.

Application of legislation: The student who was not a qualifier is eligible for institutional financial aid, practice and competition the first academic year in residence only if the student has graduated from a two-year college, completed satisfactorily a minimum of 48 semester or 72 quarter hours of transferable degree credit acceptable toward any baccalaureate degree program at the certifying institution, and attended a two-year college as a full-time student for at least three semesters or four quarters (excluding summer terms). In addition, such a student who first enrolled as a regular student in a two-year college after August 1, 1988, must have a cumulative GPA of 2.000.

Request of institution: The SA did not graduate from junior college but was on the dean's list or honor roll for each term of attendance. The SA is a foreign student who has not been recruited and was unaware of NCAA rules. The SA was not a qualifier out of high school because no SAT or ACT was taken.

Citation: B 14.5.4.2.2

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled in a two-year college in the fall of 1993, completing the fall term and achieving 17 credit hours with a GPA of 2.940. The SA was unable to attend the two-year college during the spring semester due to medical problems. The SA has a history of Hodgkin's disease. Once a node was discovered in the SA's upper chest, the SA withdrew from the two-year college to return home for medical treatment. During the summer of 1994, the SA enrolled at a local two-year college and completed nine hours. On July 21, 1994, the SA gained a health clearance to participate in intercollegiate athletics. The SA enrolled at the applicant institution in the fall of 1994 with 26 transferable degree-credit hours and a combined GPA of 2.960; however, the SA did not attend a two-year college as a full-time student for at least two semesters or three quarters. Thus, the SA is not eligible for practice or competition at the applicant institution during the 1994-95 academic year.

Application of legislation: A partial qualifier who is a transfer student from a two-year college is eligible at Division II institutions for practice and competition during his/her first academic year in residence only if the student has attended a two-year college as a full-time student for at least two semesters or three quarters and has either graduated from the two-year college or presented a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-year residence requirement in the SA's situation because the SA was unable to complete the two-year college transfer requirement due to medical reasons. In addition, the SA has shown an ability to perform academically in college as demonstrated by the SA's 26 hours of transferable degree credit and combined GPA of 2.960.

Special circumstances: The SA declared academic bankruptcy while at a two-year college that allowed the SA to delete hours attempted, hours passed and quality points earned related to the SA's cumulative GPA. The SA suggests that officials at the two-year college inappropriately advised this bankruptcy in order for the SA to meet appropriate transfer regulations.

Application of legislation: Grades earned in all courses that are normally transferable to an institution shall be considered in determining the qualitative GPA for meeting transfer requirements, regardless of the grade earned or whether such grade makes the course unacceptable for transferable degree credit.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the calculation of GPA rule in the SA's case because the SA was misadvised by officials at the two-year college. The SA would have remained at the two-year college for an additional academic term to complete the appropriate transfer requirements if the SA had known of the application of the GPA regulation.

Special circumstances: The SA was in the second year of intercollegiate participation at the first four-year institution during the 1994-95 academic year. Before the beginning of the 1994-95 academic year, the SA signed a financial aid agreement for the entire academic year. After the beginning of preseason practice, the SA was informed that the SA was being cut from the team and that financial aid would be terminated at the conclusion of the first semester. The SA finished that semester and then transferred to the applicant institution. To date, the applicant institution has neither granted the SA financial aid nor offered the SA a spot on the team's roster. The SA is unable to use the one-time transfer rule because the SA is seeking to participate with another Division I program.

Application of legislation: A transfer student from a four-year institution shall not be eligible for intercollegiate competition at a Division I, II or III institution until the student has fulfilled a residence requirement of one full academic year (two full semesters or three full quarters) at the certifying institution.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the residence requirement in the SA's situation because the SA is transferring to another Division I institution to participate in athletics only because the first Division I institution erroneously and illegally canceled the SA's financial assistance.

Special circumstances: The SA transferred to a second four-year institution because the first four-year institution did not offer the SA's degree and the SA was suffering from severe allergies. However, the SA soon realized that the cost of living at this second institution was high. The SA's family could no longer afford out-of-state tuition and room-and-board expenses. About this time, the SA's wife, who was pregnant, was diagnosed as a hemophiliac and, therefore, required the services of a specialist. The SA and his wife decided to return to their home state for the support of both of their families. Therefore, they decided to enroll in the application institution, which is only 40 miles away from the SA's wife's specialist.

Application of legislation: A transfer student from a four-year institution shall not be eligible for intercollegiate competition at a Division I, II or III institution until the student has fulfilled a residence requirement of one full academic year (two full semesters or three full quarters) at the certifying institution.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the four-year college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA's transfers were due to financial reasons and medical complications that the SA (allergies) and his wife (childbirth and hemophilia) suffered. In addition, the applicant institution notes that if the SA is subject to the residence requirement, the SA will not be able to participate in the SA's last season of competition because the SA's five-year clock will have expired.

Sport (division): Football (I-AA)
Citation: B 14.5.5.1, 14.5.5.3.10

Special circumstances: During the 1994 NCAA Convention, the one-time transfer exception was revised, thereby permitting an SA from either Division I-A or I-AA to transfer up or down a division without having to fulfill a year of residency at the next institution. Had the SA been afforded the opportunity to use the one-time transfer exception when the SA transferred from one four-year institution to another, the SA would not have had to fulfill a year of residency and, thus, used another year of the SA's five-year period of eligibility.

Application of legislation: The four-year college transfer rule and the one-time transfer exception may be used only if, in Division I-A, the participant transferred to the certifying institution from an institution that sponsors Division I-AA, or in Division I-AA, the participant transferred to the certifying institution from an institution that sponsors Division I-A. Further, the student must not have transferred previously from one four-year institution to another four-year institution unless, in the previous transfer, the SA received an exception per the discontinued/nonsponsored sport exception.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-time transfer exception in the SA's situation because the SA already has served a year of residency at the second four-year institution, and had the new legislation been in place before the SA's transfer, the SA would have had time left on the SA's five-year period of eligibility to complete all four seasons of competition.

Special circumstances: The SA's initial collegiate enrollment occurred during the fall semester of 1990 at a two-year college. In the spring of 1991, the SA transferred to another two-year college and participated in competition. In the fall of 1991, the SA transferred to a third two-year college and competed during the 1991-92 academic year. In the fall of 1992, the SA transferred to a four-year institution and participated in a limited preseason tryout September 19. In the fall of 1994, the SA transferred to the applicant institution. The SA did not participate in practice or competition after the September 19, 1992, tryout at the first four-year institution until September 12, 1994, at the applicant institution. On September 12, 1994, the SA was unclear of the two-year nonparticipation exception and participated in tryouts for the applicant institution seven calendar days short of the exception.

Application of legislation: The student transfers to the certifying institution from another four-year college and for a consecutive two-year period immediately prior to the date on which the student begins participation (practice and/or competition), the student has neither practiced nor competed in the involved sport in intercollegiate competition, or has neither practiced nor competed in organized noncollegiate amateur competition while enrolled as a full-time student in a collegiate institution. This two-year period does not include any period of time prior to the student's initial collegiate enrollment.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the residence requirement and apply the two-year nonparticipation exception in the SA's situation because the SA was seven days short of meeting the two-year nonparticipation exception and the student is in the final year of eligibility in Division I.

Sport (division): Men's basketball (I)

Citation: B 14.5.5.3.9

Special circumstances: Before transferring to the applicant institution, the SA tried out for a two-year college team but was cut. The SA was asked to try out for another team; ultimately, the SA participated in one varsity contest and, at the most, four junior-varsity contests. The SA transferred primarily due to the institution's academic reputation. The SA currently is not receiving financial assistance.

Application of legislation: To use the nonrecruited transfer exception, the following conditions must be met: (a) the SA was not recruited by the certifying institution; (b) no athletically related financial assistance has been received; and (c) the SA neither has practiced nor competed in intercollegiate athletics before transfer, except that a student may have participated in limited preseason tryouts.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the nonrecruited student exception in the SA's situation because the SA wishes to participate in a sport different than the one in which he previously participated. Further, the institution suggests that since the SA was not recruited, this case is one that was not contemplated in this exception. Finally, the institution suggests that the SA will have no guarantee of joining the team in subsequent years, and that this may be the SA's sole opportunity to compete for a Division I sports program.

Case No.: 820

Sport (division): Men's lacrosse (I)

Citation: B 14.5.5.3.10

Special circumstances: The SA enrolled in the fall term of 1994 at a two-year college and performed poorly academically due to extenuating circumstances that took place during that semester. In October 1994, the SA's stepfather committed suicide and the SA had an extremely difficult time dealing with this tragedy. The SA subsequently consulted a medical doctor, who verified that the events that occurred and the SA's mental condition affected the SA's academic performance. In the spring of 1995, the SA transferred to the applicant institution.

Application of legislation: One of the criteria under the one-time transfer exception states that the student must be in good academic standing and meet the satisfactory-progress requirements. The transferring student must be one who would have been eligible had he or she remained at the institution from which the student transferred, and he or she also must be eligible at the certifying institution as a regularly enrolled, full-time, degree-seeking student who was admitted in accordance with the regular, published entrance requirements of the institution.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-time transfer exception in the SA's situation because the institution believes that the suicide of the SA's stepfather and the events surrounding that incident affected the SA's academic performance in the fall term of 1994.

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled in the first four-year institution during the 1993 fall semester. The SA attempted to transfer to the application institution before the fall semester of 1994. The SA was placed on an admissions wait list and, thus, decided to attend a second four-year institution. During the fall semester of 1994, the SA participated in only limited preseason tryouts. During that fall semester, the SA reapplied to the applicant institution and was granted admission without regard to athletics ability and, thus, decided to transfer. The SA is a nonrecruited SA and has not received any athletically related financial aid. The SA recently participated in a tryout and was added to the team roster. The SA meets all applicable eligibility requirements of the one-time transfer rule except for the criteria set forth in the first-transfer rule.

Application of legislation: One of the criteria under the one-time transfer exception states that the student has not transferred previously from one four-year institution to another four-year institution unless, in the previous transfer, the SA received an exception per the discontinued/non-sponsored sport exception.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-time transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA transferred from the second four-year institution due to finances and academics. Specifically, the second institution was expensive and the SA was not offered an athletics grant. In addition, the psychology department was not as strong as the SA would have liked. Further, the SA is a good student, which is evidenced by the SA's academic records. Finally, if the SA must complete a residence requirement, it will create a 2 1/2-year gap in the SA's competitive experiences.

Case No.: 794

Sport (division): Football (I-A)

Citation: B 14.5.5.3.10

Special circumstances: The SA is a nonrecruited SA transferring from a four-year institution to the applicant institution. The applicant institution wishes to apply the one-time transfer exception; however, the SA, transferring from a Division I-AA program, may not use this exception to be immediately eligible due to the passage of 1995 Convention Proposal No. 70. On January 11, the SA registered for classes, and then began those classes January 12. The conclusion of the Convention was January 11, with the effective date of Proposal No. 70 immediate; thus, at the end of the Convention, the new rule was in effect.

Application of legislation: One of the criteria of the one-time transfer exception states that the student be a participant in a sport other than Division I football, basketball or ice hockey. A Division I-AA football SA may not use the one-time transfer exception to transfer to a Division I-A school.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-time transfer exception in the SA's situation because the SA was registered for classes before the conclusion of the Convention and began classes one day after the conclusion of the Convention. Further, the SA began the process of transferring with the understanding that an SA in the sport of football could transfer from a I-AA institution to a I-A institution and be immediately eligible, provided the conditions of the one-time transfer exception were met. This understanding was based on inquiries made by the SA's father to the first four-year institution in the spring of 1994, when the SA became interested in transferring. In addition, in December 1994, the SA's father contacted the applicant institution to inquire about the one-time transfer exception from I-AA to I-A and was told that the one-time transfer exception allowed for SAs in the sport of football to transfer from I-AA to I-A.

Sport (division): Women's track (I)

Citation: B 14.5.5.3.10

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled full time at a four-year institution during the fall of 1992 as a scholarship SA. The SA was a victim of abuse before enrollment. The SA's background made it difficult to adjust to college life. The institution's officials encouraged the SA to seek counseling. The SA eventually lost interest in the counseling sessions, struggled academically during the first year of school and subsequently was dismissed at the end of the spring semester. In an attempt to gain readmission, the SA followed the institution's direction and enrolled in a two-year college. When the SA reapplied for admission, the application was denied because the required counseling course was not completed. The SA subsequently applied for and received admission to the applicant institution for the fall semester of 1994; however, the first institution was unable to certify that the SA would have been academically eligible had the SA returned to the institution because of the SA's unfulfilled counseling requirement.

Application of legislation: To meet the criteria of the one-time transfer exception, a student must be in good academic standing and meet all satisfactory-progress requirements. The transferring student must be one who would have been eligible had he/she remained at the institution from which the student transferred, and he/she must be eligible at the certifying institution as a regularly enrolled, full time, degree-seeking student who was admitted in accordance with the regular, published entrance requirements of the institution.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-time transfer exception in the SA's situation because (a) the SA's certification problem was due to an unfulfilled, nonacademic requirement (counseling) set forth by that institution; (b) the SA is a victim of abuse and the trauma experienced has led to this dilemma; and (c) the SA has made significant adjustments and currently is thriving at the applicant institution.

Special circumstances: The SA completed two years at a two-year college, accumulating 40 hours of course work with a grade-point average of 2.600; however, the SA did not graduate. Thereafter, the SA transferred to a Division I institution; however, the SA withdrew after attending several days of classes. Had the SA remained at the institution, the SA would not have been eligible to participate in competition because the SA was not a qualifier upon graduation from high school and did not meet the two-year college transfer requirements for Division I partial qualifiers or nonqualifiers. Therefore, the SA has an unfulfilled residence requirement at the Division I institution. The SA now wishes to use the one-time transfer exception at a Division II institution.

Application of legislation: One of the criteria of the one-time transfer exception states that a student may transfer to the certifying institution from another four-year collegiate institution if the student is in good academic standing and meets the satisfactory-progress requirements. The transferring student must be one who would have been eligible had he or she remained at the institution from which the student transferred and he or she also must be eligible at the certifying institution as a regularly enrolled, full-time, degree-seeking student who was admitted in accordance with the regular, published entrance requirements of the institution.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-time transfer exception in the SA's situation because the institution believes that the SA was not properly advised concerning the choices in financial aid available to nonqualifiers at Division I institutions. Further, the institution emphasizes that had the SA transferred directly to a Division II institution, the SA would have been eligible upon transfer.

Sport (division): Women's basketball (II)

Citation: B 14.5.5.3.10

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at the first four-year institution in the fall of 1993. The SA had signed a National Letter of Intent (NLI) to participate in competition at the first four-year institution. During the fall of 1993, the SA aggravated a previous injury and withdrew from school after a short period of time. The SA saw limited playing time in four of the team's 15 contests. In the spring of 1994, the SA enrolled full time at another four-year institution. Before the SA's enrollment, the SA received a release from the NLI with the first institution based on extenuating circumstances. It appears that the second institution erroneously may have withheld the SA from practice and competition during the spring semester of 1994. In the fall of 1994, the SA officially enrolled in the applicant institution and now is interested in competing in another sport. Because the SA previously has transferred from one four-year institution to another four-year institution, the SA is unable to meet the criteria of the one-time transfer exception.

Application of legislation: The student transfers to the certifying institution from another four-year collegiate institution and the following condition is met: The student has not transferred previously from one four-year institution to another four-year institution unless, in the previous transfer, the SA received an exception per the discontinued/non-sponsored sport exception.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the one-time transfer exception that relates to not having previously transferred from any other four-year institution. The applicant institution believes that the SA meets all other requirements of the one-time transfer exception. In addition, the institution notes that the SA only participated in a limited number of contests in the first sport while at the first institution. Finally, the only reason the SA left the second institution was that it either erroneously had processed the SA's eligibility or was remiss in not submitting paperwork to clarify the SA's eligibility.

The SA did not participate in athletics while in attendance at the first four-year institution. In the spring of 1994, the SA returned home and attended another four-year institution for one term. The SA participated in competition during the spring semester of 1994. In the fall of 1994, for personal reasons, the SA transferred to the applicant institution and wishes to participate in competition. The SA will graduate in December 1995 and the one-year residence requirement would preclude the SA from participating in competition because the SA's five-year time period will have expired.

Special circumstances: The SA transferred to the applicant institution in the fall of 1993. After this transfer, the institution sent an eligibility tracer to the first institution the SA attended to determine whether the SA would have been academically eligible for intercollegiate competition had the SA remained there. The institution was informed that the SA would not have been academically eligible to continue participation. In an effort to protect the SA's remaining eligibility (the SA has only two semesters remaining), the SA enrolled part time during the 1993-94 academic year, earning 24 credit hours with a GPA of 2.100. After attempting to transfer those hours back to the first four-year institution for eligibility certification, the applicant institution was informed that the SA still was declared ineligible due to an unsatisfactory GPA.

Special circumstances: Request granted based on prior similar cases.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because AA degree requirements were met with the exception of a state-required exam that was delayed until after enrollment at an NCAA institution. That requirement then was completed.

Case No.: 838

Sport (division): Baseball (II)

Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled in the first four-year institution during the 1992-93 academic year. The SA was not recruited and did not receive athletically related financial aid. The SA used one season of competition at the first institution, having played in five games during the SA's freshman season. The SA then transferred to a two-year college to improve the SA's grades and to be near home. The SA attended the two-year college during the 1993-94 academic year, accumulating 34 semester hours of transferable degree credit with an overall GPA of 2.880. The SA did not participate in intercollegiate athletics while at the two-year college. The SA transferred to the applicant institution this past fall. The SA was not recruited and is not receiving athletically related financial aid. During the fall semester of 1994, the SA earned 17 credit hours with a cumulative GPA of 3.265. The SA is unable to participate in intercollegiate athletics because an AA degree was not received from the two-year college.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA did not participate in athletics at the two-year college and was not recruited by the applicant institution; therefore, the SA was unaware of the transfer eligibility rule requiring graduation from a two-year college. In addition, the SA was unaware of the effect that full-time attendance at the two-year college would have on future eligibility. Finally, the SA is demonstrating the ability to perform academically, as evidenced by the SA's performance this past fall at the applicant institution.

Case No.: 834

Sport (division): Baseball (II)

Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: The SA left the first four-year institution after the fall semester of 1993 due to a dispute regarding residency fees. In addition, the SA's family no longer could afford the tuition costs to continue the SA's enrollment in the first four-year institution. The SA did not have sufficient time to find another four-year institution to transfer to for the spring semester; therefore, the SA enrolled in a two-year college to permit the SA to continue a college education and investigate affordable four-year colleges. The SA spent only one semester at the two-year college before transferring to the applicant institution. The SA enrolled and contacted the institution's coaching staff only after admission. In addition, the SA lacks an AA degree from the two-year college.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA left the original four-year institution and enrolled at the two-year college due to financial reasons. In addition, the SA was never advised of NCAA transfer eligibility rules. Specifically, the SA was unaware of the effect that attendance at the two-year college would have on future eligibility. Also, the SA is nonrecruited. Further, the SA is an outstanding student, as evidenced by the cumulative grade-point average of 2.761.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA did not complete 36 hours at a two-year college because of the SA's accumulation at the first four-year institution. All other requirements were met.

Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: The SA, who was a qualifier upon graduation from high school in 1992, initially enrolled full time at the first four-year institution in the fall of 1992, and then transferred to a two-year college in the spring of 1994. The SA transferred to the two-year college for personal reasons (strained relationship with the head coach at the four-year institution). The SA was unaware of and never was counseled on the "4-2-4" college transfer rule. The SA was unable to attend the two-year college this past fall because the SA's two-year college eligibility had been exhausted; therefore, the SA could not receive any athletically related financial aid. Thus, the SA transferred to the applicant institution to continue the SA's education.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA left the original four-year institution and enrolled at the two-year college due to a strained personal relationship between the SA's family and the head coach. Further, the SA was unaware that attendance at the two-year college would effect future eligibility. In addition, the SA never was properly counseled regarding transfer eligibility rules. Finally, had the SA been aware of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule, the SA would have made a transfer decision that would have allowed the SA not to lose eligibility.

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at the first four-year institution in the fall of 1991. In the fall of 1993, the SA transferred to a two-year college. The SA enrolled at the applicant institution in the fall of 1994 and walked on with the team this spring. The SA completed 24 semester units at the two-year college and more than one calendar year has elapsed since the SA left the previous four-year institution. However, the SA did not graduate from the two-year college before enrollment at the applicant institution.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA is a nonrecruited, walk-on SA. In addition, the SA was unaware of any NCAA regulations regarding transfer eligibility. In fact, the SA's college athletics advisor from the two-year college encouraged enrollment at the applicant institution during the fall of 1994. Finally, the SA's overall grade-point average and GPA at the applicant institution both are above 3.000.

Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at the first four-year institution during the 1987-88 academic year and attended that institution for three semesters. Over the next few years, the SA attended several two-year colleges part time. On one occasion (during the winter quarter of 1989), the SA was enrolled at a two-year college full time. The only time the SA participated in intercollegiate athletics was during the SA's first year of college. The SA transferred to the applicant institution in the fall of 1994. Last fall, the SA carried 23 quarter unit hours and obtained a GPA of 4.000. The SA is ineligible to participate in intercollegiate athletics this academic year because the "4-2-4" college transfer rule has not been met.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA would meet the spirit of the two-year non-participation exception if the SA was transferring from a four-year institution. Further, the SA has a six-year time lapse between competing for the first four-year institution and the SA's renewed efforts to obtain a degree at the applicant institution. In addition, the SA was unaware that full-time attendance at the two-year college would effect future eligibility. Finally, the SA has demonstrated an ability to perform academically, evidenced by earning a GPA of 4.000 in 23 quarter units.

Case No.: 802

Sport (division): Men's swimming (I)

Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled in a four-year institution as a recruited SA. The SA withdrew in August 1994 in good standing, having acquired 75 credit hours and a cumulative GPA of 2.530. The SA had hoped to enroll in another four-year institution; however, the SA did not have ample time to research other four-year institutions. Therefore, the SA enrolled in two area two-year colleges during the fall of 1994 to continue studies and allow time to select a new four-year institution. One of the two area two-year colleges the SA enrolled in was located in Vancouver, Washington. While there, the SA did not participate in practice or competition. The SA is not eligible at the applicant institution because one calendar year had not elapsed since the SA left the first four-year institution and because the SA did not graduate from the two-year college.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college. In addition, students who first enroll as a regular student in a two-year college after January 10, 1990, must earn a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000 and the 24 semester or 36 quarter hours must be transferable degree credit.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA was unable to transfer to another four-year institution due to the late departure (August 1994) from the first institution. In addition, the SA only enrolled in a two-year college to continue academic studies while deciding on which four-year institution to attend. Further, the SA did not participate in practice or competition while enrolled full time at the two-year college. Finally, the SA is a good student, evidenced by the 75 credit hours and cumulative grade-point average of 2.530 the SA earned while attending the first institution.

In addition, the SA's academic performance at the first four-year institution suffered and the SA was placed on academic suspension. The SA enrolled at a nearby two-year college to concentrate on academics. During the SA's only semester at the two-year college, the SA earned a GPA of 3.000. The SA transferred and enrolled in the applicant institution. The institution's academic program and the cost of attendance (since it was an in-state institution) suited the SA's needs. The SA was not recruited by the institution to participate in intercollegiate athletics. Instead, the SA approached the coach after enrollment and asked to try out. The SA is unable to participate during the 1994-95 academic year because the "4-2-4" college transfer rule has not been satisfied.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA left the original four-year institution and attended the two-year college to concentrate on academics. Further, the SA was unaware that attendance at the two-year college would have an effect on future eligibility. In addition, the SA left the four-year institution to attend a nearby two-year college due to recent family and financial problems. Also, the SA never has received any athletics aid and never has participated in competition. In fact, the SA was not recruited by the applicant institution to participate in intercollegiate athletics. This is the SA's last semester under the five-year eligibility period and the SA will graduate in the spring of 1995. Therefore, this is the SA's last opportunity to participate in intercollegiate athletics. Finally, the SA has demonstrated an ability to perform academically based on the grade-point average of 3.000 at the two-year college and the GPA of 2.800 at the applicant institution.

Special circumstances: The SA was recruited out of high school by the applicant institution but chose to attend another institution to stay closer to home due to the illness of the SA's father. The SA's father died at the end of the SA's senior year in high school. At the end of 1994, the SA withdrew from the institution for personal reasons and enrolled in a two-year college, not realizing it would effect future eligibility. In December, the SA contacted the applicant institution's coach. Shortly after enrolling in the applicant institution, it was determined that the SA had enrolled full time in the two-year college.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA attended the original institution for reasons related to the SA's father's health and subsequently withdrew from that institution for personal reasons (which included seeking a degree in physical therapy or nursing and the first institution did not offer the appropriate courses). Further, the SA was unaware that attendance at the two-year college would have an effect on future eligibility. Finally, the SA has a good academic record.

Case No.: 777

Sport (division): Baseball (II)
Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: The SA attended a two-year college during the 1991-92 academic year while that institution was a two-year college. After transferring to another two-year college, the SA returned to the first two-year college for the fall of 1993, only to discover that the college had been reclassified as a four-year institution. In the spring of 1994, the SA returned to a two-year college before enrolling in the applicant institution. Thus, the SA is considered a "4-2-4" college transfer. The SA transferred to the applicant institution without first obtaining the necessary academic requirements at the two-year college.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours of transferable degree credit (with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college-transfer rule in the SA's situation because the SA was (a) unaware of the transfer eligibility rules requiring minimum academic achievement while at a two-year college; (b) uncertain that the first two-year college had changed to a four-year institution; and (c) not properly advised of the effects of transferring back to a two-year college after leaving a four-year institution. Further, the SA would have been eligible immediately under the "2-4" college-transfer rule if the first two-year college had not reclassified as a four-year institution.

Case No.: 759

Sport (division): Baseball (I)
Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: The SA majored in preengineering and received an associate in science degree with honors from a two-year college. The SA was recruited and signed a National Letter of Intent with a four-year institution June 29. On August 16, the SA went through the enrollment process and met with the coaching staff August 19. At this meeting, the SA was told that a prerequisite engineering course conflicted with the team's practice schedule. There were no other sections of this course offered at the institution. In addition, the SA discovered that another prerequisite engineering course the SA was going to take at a local two-year college would not be accepted by the institution's engineering department. By not successfully completing these two prerequisite courses during the fall term of 1994, the SA's degree would be delayed up to 1½ years. After learning of this potential set back, the SA withdrew from the institution and enrolled in a different two-year college closer to home. While there, the SA was able to take a full load of engineering courses and electives to advance the SA's pursuit of an engineering degree. The SA now has made application for admission to the applicant institution and has been accepted for the spring term of 1995.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless a student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours (transferable degree credit with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "4-2-4" college transfer rule in the SA's situation because (a) the SA transferred to the second two-year college to pursue course work necessary to complete the engineering degree requirements; (b) the SA erroneously was led to believe that these requirements could be completed at the first four-year institution; and (c) the SA was unable to make application to the applicant institution for the fall term of 1994 due to the new student admission deadline. Further, the SA is an exceptional student as demonstrated by the SA's grade-point average of 3.753 at the two-year college.

Citation: B 14.5.6

Special circumstances: Before transferring to the applicant institution, the SA participated in competition during the spring of 1993. At the end of the season, the institution discontinued the program. The SA was told by the coaches that a transfer to any other institution would result in no loss of eligibility and that the SA had one year to find an institution. It was further explained that attendance at a two-year college, part time or full time, would be permissible as long as the SA did not participate in sports. When seeking opportunities to participate in competition, the SA attended a two-year college full time for one term, and then attended another two-year college; however, while at the second two-year college, the SA enrolled in 12 hours but subsequently withdrew from two of those classes in order to work for financial reasons. In the fall of 1994, the SA transferred to the applicant institution and now wishes to participate in competition.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours (transferable degree credit with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Special circumstances: The SA was unaware that full-time enrollment at a two-year college would make the SA a "4-2-4" transfer if the SA decided to return to a four-year institution. The SA transferred to the applicant institution in the fall of 1994. The SA was not recruited by the institution to participate in competition. The SA approached the institution's coaching staff to inquire into becoming a volunteer coach. The institution first decided to investigate whether the SA had any eligibility remaining. The SA has used seven of 10 semesters of eligibility and has participated in three seasons of competition. However, the SA lacks a degree from the two-year college and, therefore, is ineligible to participate in competition during the 1994-95 academic year.

Application of legislation: A student who transfers from a four-year college to a two-year college and then to the certifying institution shall complete one calendar year of residence at the certifying institution, unless the student has completed a minimum of 24 semester or 36 quarter hours (transferable degree credit with a cumulative minimum GPA of 2.000) at the two-year college following transfer from the four-year college most recently attended, one calendar year has elapsed since the student's departure from the previous four-year college and the student has graduated from the two-year college.

Special circumstances: The SA is studying in Rome as part of the applicant institution's architecture program, and the SA has been there since September 1994 and will be there until May 1995. The SA has not been practicing or competing with either of the institution's teams during the 1994-95 academic year; however, in an effort to stay in shape while in Rome, the SA has been running on the city streets. In the interest of safety, the SA would like to train at a nearby track. The local amateur running club that trains at this same track has invited the SA to become a member, which would allow the SA to train there.

Application of legislation: In Division I, an SA in any sport other than basketball who participates during the academic year as a member of any outside team in any noncollegiate, amateur competition becomes ineligible for intercollegiate competition in that sport for the remainder of the year and for the next academic year.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the outside-competition rule and permit the SA to join the running club and compete with the club in local meets. Although the SA is enrolled in a university-sponsored academic program, the SA is not on campus and is not representing the institution in intercollegiate or noncollegiate competition. Further, the SA is required by the architecture program to study abroad for one academic year.

Special circumstances: The applicant institution will begin classes for its winter quarter January 3. The SA has been asked to compete in a high-school alumni contest that is scheduled for January 7. This contest will occur during the academic year and is outside the official vacation period for the applicant institution.

Application of legislation: In Division I, an SA who participates during the academic year as a member of any outside team in any noncollegiate, amateur competition becomes ineligible for intercollegiate competition in that sport for the remainder of the year and for the next academic year. However, an SA may compete in one contest a year involving players from the SA's former high school and its alumni team. In sports other than basketball, this contest must take place during an official vacation period of the institution's academic year.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the high-school alumni game exception because this contest was scheduled with the understanding that a majority of colleges and universities begin winter classes on or after January 9. In addition, the legislation restricts schools with early starting dates for winter classes and allows those schools with later starting dates to permit SAs to participate in such events.

Special circumstances: A recruited foreign student-athlete enrolled in the applicant institution, receiving a full grant-in-aid. The SA graduated from a secondary school in Croatia in 1993. The Croatian Republic has been ravished by civil war for the past three years. In an effort to assist the republic, an Open Society Fund was established to provide a fellowship and permit any recipient to travel out of the country to pursue an educational opportunity. The SA is a recipient of a fellowship award that has no relationship to athletics.

Application of legislation: In determining whether an SA's financial aid exceeds the value of a full grant-in-aid, all institutional financial aid and all funds received from government grants (for educational purposes) shall be included. Further, grants for educational purposes from outside agencies (i.e., GI Bill of Rights, military reserve training programs, special U.S. government entitlement programs, disabled veterans program) shall not be included when determining a permissible amount of a full grant-in-aid or cost of attendance of an SA.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the types of aid that can be included in an SA's financial aid limit in this situation and permit the institution to exempt the amount received from the Open Society Fund when calculating the SA's individual limit. The hardships placed on the SA as a result of the life-threatening dangers that exist in the SA's homeland make this situation and the purpose of the award unique to other forms of financial assistance received from outside agencies.

Special circumstances: The SA participated in the 1994 Winter Olympics during the 1993-94 academic year and, thus, did not attend the applicant institution during that time. During the summer of 1994, the SA attended summer classes in order to stay on schedule for graduation. The SA was told by the coach that the summer tuition would be paid; however, the SA discovered at the beginning of the 1994-95 academic year

See Administrative, page 14 ►

that the summer tuition had not been paid.

Application of legislation: One of the criteria of summer financial aid is that it may be awarded only to attend the awarding institution's summer term, provided the student has been in residence a minimum of one term during the regular academic year. In addition, institutional financial aid awarded to an enrolled SA subsequent to the first day of classes in any term may not exceed the remaining room-and-board charges and educational expenses for that term and may not be made retroactive to the beginning of that term.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the summer and retroactive financial aid rules in the SA's situation and permit it to pay the SA's summer tuition because the SA relied on the coach's word when told the summer tuition would be paid. Further, the SA's Olympic experience and desire to graduate on time were encouraged by the institution.

Sport (division): Football (I-A)

Special circumstances: The SA initially enrolled at the applicant institution in the fall of 1990 and participated in competition during the 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94 academic years. However, due to various injuries, the SA competed in only 18 of a potential 44 contests. Further, the SA (a) did not compete in either the first or last year of the SA's five-year clock; (b) participated in only 11 plays of the first contest of the year of a third season; and (c) only realized two potential "full" seasons of competition (the 1991 and 1992 seasons). In addition, the eligibility staff approved an extension of the SA's five-year clock for one year because the SA was deprived of the opportunity to participate for two seasons.

Application of legislation: Institutional financial aid may be awarded for any term during which an SA is in regular attendance as an undergraduate with eligibility remaining, or within six years after initial enrollment in a collegiate institution (provided the student does not receive such aid for more than five years during that period).

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the terms and conditions associated with the awarding of institutional financial aid to permit the institution to provide a sixth year of unearned financial aid to the SA because current NCAA legislation prohibits the receipt of more than five years of unearned financial aid within a six-year period.

Special circumstances: The SA was alleged to have stolen some teammates' credit cards and purchased items with those cards. The SA had been involved in a similar incident at the two-year college, about which the head coach was informed after the SA signed the National Letter of Intent with that school. Based on these allegations, the institution dismissed the SA from the team after the completion of one exhibition contest.

Application of legislation: An SA who is receiving financial aid based in any degree on athletics ability may become a counter for the year during which the SA receives the financial aid.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "financial aid counter" rule in the SA's situation because the institution received only a limited benefit from the receipt of one of its countable 13 scholarships. The institution suggests that having only 12 SAs who currently are considered counters puts it at a competitive disadvantage. The institution would like the opportunity to provide the last scholarship to a deserving SA.

Sport (division): Women's tennis (I)

Special circumstances: The SA is a transfer student from another four-year institution. At the beginning of the fall semester of 1994, the SA was one of eight scholarship SAs on the applicant institution's team. While at the institution, the SA suffered many emotional problems and received treatment and counseling from psychologists and physicians. As a result of this condition, the SA's physicians recommended the SA withdraw from the institution and return home to concentrate on regaining emotional health. At the conclusion of the fall semester of 1994, the SA returned home to Sweden. The SA had participated in competition on two occasions during the fall season; therefore, the institution is required to count the SA against the maximum financial aid limitations for the 1994-95 academic year. In addition to the SA's departure from the team, the institution also suffered the loss of another scholarship SA. Thus, only six of the original eight members of the team remain eligible to compete during the spring semester of 1995. Even though the institution is at its maximum limits, the institution would like to award an athletics scholarship to an individual who graduated from high school a semester early.

Application of legislation: If an incapacitating injury or illness occurs on or subsequent to an SA's initial practice in the sport, and results in the SA's inability to compete ever again, the SA shall be counted in the institution's maximum financial aid limitations for the current academic year, but need not be counted in subsequent academic years.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the legislation in this case to permit the institution to not count the SA for the 1994-95 academic year and, thereby, permit the institution to award another individual an athletics grant-in-aid for the spring semester of 1995. The institution suggests that the unusual circumstances surrounding the SA's emotional state and subsequent withdrawal from the institution warrant such administrative relief. In addition, the institution notes that the individual it wishes to offer the athletics grant-in-aid to cannot financially afford to attend college unless the athletics grant-in-aid is awarded. The individual's father has lost his job and currently is unemployed. The individual is a nonresident and total cost of attendance for the spring semester of 1995 will be more than $5,000.

Sport (division): Men's basketball (I)

Citation: B 15.5.4.1

Special circumstances: The applicant institution, which is a member of the Ivy Group, has a highly selective admissions process and need-based financial aid policy. The institution's 1994-95 varsity team is comprised of 17 recruited SAs, 16 of whom have received institutional financial aid, which means that the institution is over its institutional financial aid limit (in the same sport) by three SAs if all 16 SAs are allowed to compete for the institution. The institution believes that none of its current team members should be denied the opportunity to participate in varsity intercollegiate competition.

Application of legislation: There shall be an annual limit of 13 on the total number of counters in the sport of men's basketball at each Division I institution. In Division I basketball, a recruited SA who receives institutional financial aid granted without regard, in any degree, to athletics ability does not have to be counted until the SA engages in varsity intercollegiate competition.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the limitation on the number of counters in this situation because the institution's athletics recruiting efforts (e.g., admission and financial aid granted without regard to athletics ability) produce results that are significantly less predictable than institutions that offer athletics scholarships and participate in the National Letter of Intent program. In addition, NCAA rules permit institutions to award up to 13 full grants-in-aid in men's basketball. The total amount of the applicant institution's 1994-95 men's basketball financial aid equals only 11.73 full awards. Further, because NCAA rules only address the number of financial aid participants (rather than the total number of team participants), having up to 16 players on institutional (need-based) financial aid would not provide the institution with a competitive advantage.

Special circumstances: The SA's degree was received from the applicant institution at the conclusion of the 1993-94 academic year. The SA elected to return to the institution for the 1994-95 year to finish a remaining season of competition and to enroll in graduate school. The SA currently is receiving a scholarship for the 1994-95 academic year and is considered a counter.

Application of legislation: In Division I-A, a counter who graduates at midyear may be replaced by an initial counter, who shall be counted against the initial limit for the following academic year.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "midyear-graduate-replacement" rule in the SA's situation to allow the institution to provide financial aid without being charged for the use of an additional scholarship for the 1994-95 academic year. The institution suggests that because the SA completed eligibility (rather than the degree) at the conclusion of the 1994 fall season, the principles of the legislation should apply. The institution further suggests the inappropriateness of penalizing an institution whose SA graduated on time (rather than at the end of the next regular term).

Application of legislation: A counter who practices or competes in football and one or more other sports (including basketball) shall be counted in the sport of football.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the multiple-sport-participants rule to allow the SA to receive financial aid and compete for the institution in one sport and practice with the institution's team in another sport and not count in that sport. The institution makes this request due to the adoption of 1995 Convention Proposal No. 84, which permits a multiple-sport SA to participate in one sport without having to count against an institution's scholarship limits until that SA engages in intercollegiate competition. The effective date, however, of this proposal is August 1, 1995. The institution would like an immediate effective date for this proposal for the SA's situation.

Special circumstances: The applicant institution will conduct its annual recognition banquet with approximately 13 awards given to a variety of SAs. Four of the awards range in value from $200 to $250. Therefore, without a waiver of the applicable legislation, the institution likely will exceed the award value limitations.

Application of legislation: Awards for recognition of intercollegiate athletics participation may be presented each year by a member institution. In addition, the institution may present senior awards and awards in recognition of special attainments or contributions to a team's competitive season. Each of these awards shall have a value limitation.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the value limitations on annual participation awards because the amounts indicated in the awards section of the legislation are outdated. With prices for awards rising in every community, the institution is unable to purchase trophies and awards for under $100 (retail value). Therefore, the institution is faced with not providing the trophies to SAs or providing them with a significantly lesser award that was not intended when the award originally was initiated.

The practice week designated by the institution was from Tuesday through Sunday, with Monday serving as the institution's day off. On Tuesday, October 11, the team conducted practice; however, because of torrential rain showers caused by Hurricane Gordon, the team was unable to practice during the remainder of that week. The legislation requires the one practice (October 11) to be counted as one full week of practice. The institution requests that the five days missed due to inclement weather be added to the traditional segment of its season. Therefore, instead of starting practice for the traditional segment as scheduled (January 24), the institution requests permission to commence practice January 19.

Application of legislation: Practice or competition during any part of a week shall be counted as a full week. A week shall be defined as any consecutive seven-day period, regardless of the day on which the seven-day period begins (e.g., nine full weeks and one day shall be counted as 10 weeks).

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the rules governing the computation of a week during the institution's nontraditional playing season because the institution had no control over the weather. Four straight days of rain in the area caused the field to be unplayable until after October 18. Further, other teams received priority for use of the indoor practice facilities. Special circumstances: Recently, the applicant institution lost its head coach and assisting staff. The institution diligently has begun its search for a replacement coach. However, institutional policy requires that the announcement for this coaching position be open at least 30 days. Therefore, the applications for this position will not close until March 3, 1995. At that time, interviews will be conducted and a new head coach will be selected. The institution would like to conduct some spring practices on Sundays.

Application of legislation: In Division II, 15 postseason practice sessions are permissible, provided they are conducted within a period of 29 consecutive calendar days and no practices are permitted on Sundays.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the spring practice rule because with final exams starting April 24 and Easter being April 16, the new head coach will have less than 38 days (32, counting conflicting activities scheduled in the playing facility) to hire a new staff, organize coaching assignments, plan spring practice and conduct such practices. In addition, due to the location of the applicant institution, there is only one place where spring practices can be held, and this location has numerous events already scheduled during this spring period. Finally, because class schedules during the winter semester often conflict, it is difficult to organize a time when 65 current SAs can all get together and, thus, a Sunday practice may be the only time when the entire team can be present.

Special circumstances: The applicant institution's 1993-94 varsity schedule failed to meet applicable scheduling requirements. Four scheduled meets were canceled due to weather conditions after the teams had arrived. On July 25, 1994, a waiver was requested to permit these four contests to be exempted; however, there are no procedures for waiver requests due to weather conditions. One avenue that the institution did not pursue was a waiver of the Division I membership criteria. The criteria set forth specifies that such a request must be received not later than September 15 preceding a Convention. Because the institution did not have time to request such a waiver, the institution asks that its restricted status be delayed until the 1995-96 academic year so that a such a waiver may be pursued at the 1996 Convention.

Application of legislation: An institution that is placed in the restricted-membership category may request a waiver of the criteria from the membership of the preferred division. One such procedure is that the institution must submit its request for a waiver not later than September 15. In addition, a representative of the institution shall appear before the membership of the desired division at the next Convention under conditions prescribed by that division's steering committee.

Request of institution: Waive the normal application of the "waiver-of-division-membership" rule in this situation and, thus, delay the institution's restricted-membership status until the 1995-96 academic year because this restricted status creates a severe injustice by penalizing the institution's SAs from participating in the upcoming national championships. In addition, the institution did not have an opportunity to meet the September 15 deadline. Further, the institution contends that the facts and circumstances surrounding this inadvertent act are such that the sanction being received far outweighs the nature of the technical violation. Finally, the institution did not learn until the 1995 Convention that the issue of placing an institution in restricted-membership status could be considered at the Convention.

Presidents Commission minutes

Following are the minutes of the March 30-31, 1995, meeting of the NCAA Presidents Commission at the Westin Hotel in Seattle. All actions taken by the Presidents Commission are included. Highlights of the meeting were reported in the April 5 issue of The NCAA News.

1. Recognition of Service by Wilford S. Bailey. President Judith E. N. Albino, Commission chair, noted that Bailey had concluded his service as consultant to the Commission. She and the chairs of the Commission's division subcommittees spoke in recognition of Bailey's contributions to the Commission and to the Association, including in his role as consultant to the Commission since fall 1990. President Albino presented Bailey with a plaque commemorating his more than two decades of service, and the Commission resolved by acclamation to acknowledge Bailey's generous contributions to the Commission and the NCAA.

2. Opening Remarks.

a. President Albino introduced new members of the Commission in attendance at this meeting: in Division I, Chancellor Richard R. Eakin of East Carolina University and President William E. Kirwan of the University of Maryland, College Park; in Division II, President William R. Harvey of Hampton University; and in Division III, Presidents David L. Beckley of Rust College and Irvin D. Reid of Montclair State University.

b. President Albino extended the Commission's welcome to the five officers of the Association who would attend all or a portion of the meeting: NCAA President Eugene F. Corrigan, Secretary-Treasurer Phyllis L. Howlett, Division I Vice-President William M. Sangster, Division II Vice-President Lynn L. Dorn and Division III Vice-President Edward G. Coll Jr.

c. President Albino introduced Daniel Boggan Jr., who would serve as staff liaison to the Division I subcommittee of the Commission. President Albino noted that Stephen R. Morgan would serve as primary staff liaison to the Commission and that Nancy Mitchell would be attending Commission meetings in her role as primary liaison to the NCAA Council.

3. Previous Minutes.

It was voted that the minutes of the January 8, 1995, meeting be approved as distributed.

4. Report of the Oversight Committee on the NCAA Membership Structure. Joseph

Meeting May 30-31, 1995

N. Crowley, chair, Oversight Committee on the NCAA Membership Structure; James Jarrett, cochair, Division I Task Force to Review the NCAA Membership Structure; Charles Lindemann, cochair, Division II Task Force to Review the NCAA Membership Structure; and James Appleton and Daniel L. Bridges, cochairs, Division III Task Force to Review the NCAA Membership Structure, joined the meeting.

a. The Commission reviewed the report of the Oversight Committee on the NCAA Membership Structure. The report included the following key recommendations:

(1) Maintenance of a continuing national Association with core purposes, policies and principles applying to all members.

(2) Establishment of chief executive officers of member institutions as primary decision makers in the NCAA through the creation of an executive committee made up of chief executive officers and establishment of chief executive officers as the sole members of the primary governing bodies within each division.

(3) Greater divisional federation of the Association with a simplified, streamlined structure in each division.

(4) Greater authority within the Association as a whole and in Division I for institutions that are the subject of the most national public attention and that devote the most resources to intercollegiate athletics.

(5) Constitutionally guaranteed minimum budget allocations for Divisions II and III based on the current proportions of NCAA operating revenues allocated to those divisions, with the opportunity to seek additional funds in extraordinary circumstances.

(6) Preparation of basic constitutional changes for legislative action at the 1996 NCAA Convention with a transition period of 12 to 18 months before implementation.

(7) Simplification, consolidation and divisional federation of the current NCAA committee structure where possible.

b. President Crowley reported that since the last regular meeting of the oversight committee, additional discussions among committee members had suggested some modifications to the oversight committee's recommendations. President Crowley suggested that the Commission consider these modifications but noted that they had not been subject to formal review by the oversight committee. The modifications included expansion of the membership of the proposed new executive committee to include six (rather than five as set forth in the oversight committee's report) representatives from Division I (with four from Division I-A) and one each from Divisions II and III, and an increase in the guaranteed minimum budget allocation for Division III from 2.93 percent to 3.18 percent.

c. The Division I subcommittee recommended that the Commission approve the recommendations of the oversight committee, with the exceptions that the executive committee be expanded to eight members, consisting of four representatives from Division I-A, one representative each from Divisions I-AA and I-AAA, and one representative each from Division II and Division III; further, that divisions or subdivisions represented by only one member on the new executive committee be permitted to appoint alternate representatives; and finally, that the guaranteed minimum budget allocation for Division III be increased from 2.93 percent to 3.18 percent.

d. The Division II subcommittee expressed support for the oversight committee's report with the following modifications:

(1) Additional emphasis that the maintenance of core purposes includes a vigorous pursuit of the reform agenda, including a commitment to the principles of academic integrity, equity and diversity, ethical conduct, and fiscal integrity.

(2) Provisions that the divisional presidential groups in the proposed new governance structure conduct same-site meetings on two occasions annually to provide a forum for the discussion and resolution of Association-wide issues and that the proposed executive committee be authorized to convene the presidential entities as necessary to discuss and resolve Association-wide issues.

(3) Appointment of alternative representatives to the proposed executive committee to represent those divisions (or subdivisions) that have only one representative on the executive committee.

e. The Division III subcommittee expressed its general support for the report of the oversight committee but expressed a strong desire for the proposed new executive committee to be expanded to include more than one representative of Division III and for the executive committee to be authorized to convene combined meetings of the three divisions' presidential governing bodies.

f. It was voted that the Commission support the recommendations of the oversight committee with the following changes:

(1) That the new executive committee be expanded from seven members to 16 members, consisting of eight representatives from Division I-A, two representatives each from Divisions I-AA and I-AAA, and two representatives each from Divisions II and III; further, that all members of the executive committee be selected by their respective divisions from among the members of the presidential governing body of that division, it being understood that if a member of the executive committee is unable to attend a meeting, the appropriate group in the member's division or subdivision may designate an alternate from among the individuals serving on the division presidential governing body; and, finally, that the chairs of the three division "management councils" and the executive director will be ex officio, nonvoting members of the executive committee, except that the executive director may vote in the case of a tie vote among the executive committee members present and voting.

(2) That the constitutionally guaranteed minimum budget allocation for Division III be increased from 2.93 percent to 3.18 percent.

(3) That the powers of the executive committee be expanded to include the authority to convene at least one combined meeting per year of the three divisions' presidential governing bodies to ensure continuous vigorous pursuit of the reform agenda, including academic integrity, diversity and equity, ethical conduct and fiscal integrity, as well as to attend to other Association-wide matters. (Adopted unanimously — show of hands.)

5. Executive Committee. President Albino reported on the meeting of the executive committee earlier on this date. President Albino reported that the majority of the executive committee's discussion had focused on restructuring. She also noted that the executive committee discussed communication between and among the Association's chief executive officers and between members of the Commission and the NCAA staff. President Albino reported that the executive committee would consider further the use of a newsletter to address issues as they are identified and to summarize the outcomes of the Commission's quarterly meetings.

6. Commission Committee on Sportsmanship and Ethical Conduct in Intercollegiate Athletics. President William E. Shelton presented a report of the activities of the Presidents Commission Committee on Sportsmanship and Ethical Conduct in Intercollegiate Athletics.

a. President Shelton noted that the committee has organized its deliberations around the themes of shared values, shared responsibilities and shared successes. He also reported that a meeting with executive directors of coaches organizations will be conducted May 15 to provide opportunities for representatives of coaches associations to react to draft statements on shared values and shared responsibilities and to discuss means by which to coordinate the development of comprehensive orientation programs and other professional development opportunities for coaches, consistent with the provisions of 1995 Convention Proposal No. 31.

b. President Shelton noted that a May 18 meeting had been scheduled with executive directors of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the National Federation of State High School Associations and two-year college associations to explore issues of mutual interest and collaboration with respect to sportsmanship and ethical conduct.

c. The Commission received the report without taking formal action.

7. Knight Commission. NCAA Executive Director Cedric W. Dempsey reported on recent activities of the Knight Foundation Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics in regard to the Association's restructuring efforts. Dempsey reported that he met with representatives of the Knight Commission recently to review the results of a report generated by an independent accounting firm at the request of the Knight Commission. Dempsey reported that he had raised concerns regarding the relationship between the activities of the Knight Commission and those of the NCAA restructuring task forces and the oversight committee. It was noted that the recommendations in the report generally were consistent with those developed by the division task forces and oversight committee. Dempsey indicated that the Knight Commission had forwarded its report to the oversight committee for its use as deemed appropriate and had offered further assistance as appropriate.

8. Report by the Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism Concerning Need-Based Aid and Sport-Specific Grant-In-Aid Limits. Charles Harris, chair of the Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism, and David A. Knopp, NCAA director of compliance services, joined the meeting.

a. Harris presented the results of a study of need-based financial aid conducted by the Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism.

(1) The Division I subcommittee reported that it had discussed the potential advantages and disadvantages of the concept and raised questions concerning the effect that a need-based aid system may have on individual financial aid awards to student-athletes and the relationship that may exist between this proposal and a possible increase in participation opportunities for student-athletes. The subcommittee reported that it had offered its support for further study of the topic but did not recommend legislation at this time.

(2) The Division II subcommittee reported its general support for the concept of need-based financial aid but expressed concerns regarding the specific model submitted by the financial aid committee. The subcommittee reported concerns regarding the effect that the proposed model would have on institutional academic and merit-based scholarships and financial aid received from sources outside the institution. The subcommittee also questioned whether the removal of professional judgment from the institution would be consistent with Federal law.

(3) It was voted that the financial aid committee be directed to consider further the issues raised by the division subcommittees and prepare a specific proposal for consideration by the Presidents Commission during its June meeting.

b. Harris presented a report concerning possible changes in grant limits in specific sports. It was the sense of the meeting that the Commission take no formal action in this regard.

9. Division Subcommittees. The Commission's division subcommittee chairs reported actions of the division subcommittees that had not been reported earlier in the meeting.

a. Division I chair Samuel H. Smith reported that the Division I subcommittee had received a report on current activities concerning Division I Athletics certification. He reported that the subcommittee supported continued involvement of chief executive officers as chairs of peer-review teams and agreed to solicit the involvement of chief executive officers through personal contacts and through their respective conferences.

b. Division II chair Judith A. Ramaley reported the following actions of the Division II subcommittee:

(1) Expressed strong support for a document developed by the Division II restructuring task force and, in response to requests from the task force, recommended the following:

(a) That the Division II presidents council be comprised of 11 to 15 members with regional-based representation and that the task force address issues related to the different sizes of the current four regions.

(b) That a six-member nominating committee (comprising chief executive officers) be responsible for selecting members of the presidents council; further, that members of the nominating committee not also serve as current members of the presidents council.

(c) That the Division II legislative process retain the one-institution, one-vote principle governing the adoption of legislation by the Division II membership at an annual Convention; further, that, in an effort to ensure meaningful legislation of importance to the division as a whole, a significant increase in the number of institutions be required to sponsor legislation and that a mechanism be maintained to permit the management and presidents councils to review legislation before the Convention.

(2) Expressed continued support for the development of a Division II athletics certification program that would involve peer-review evaluations once every 10 years, as well as completion of a revised interim self-study every five years; further, reviewed a request from the Special Committee to Study Division II Athletics Certification to permit members of the special committee to attend selected Division II conference meetings.

(3) Reviewed changes adopted by the Division I membership at the 1995 Convention related to initial-eligibility and agreed to discuss differences between Divisions I and II initial-eligibility rules during the Commission's June meeting.

(4) Reviewed a recommendation of the Academic Requirements Committee to modify two-year college transfer regulations, identified a number of concerns regarding the proposal and agreed to forward its concerns to the Academic Requirements and Two-Year College Relations Committees in order to afford opportunities for comment before the Commission's June meeting.

c. Division III chair Michael F. Adams reported that the discussions of the Division III subcommittee had focused primarily on restructuring and that the subcommittee had expressed its interest in retaining the one-institution, one-vote legislative structure in Division III and had expressed concerns about possible growth in the division based upon movement of institutions from the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics to the NCAA.

10. Strategic Planning. President Adam W. Herbert presented the report of the Commission's Subcommittee on Strategic Planning. He reported that the subcommittee had reviewed a plan developed by the NCAA research staff to study the impact of recent reform legislation on student-athletes, consistent with the provisions of 1995 Convention Proposal No. 29-1. It was noted that the draft would be circulated to other members of the Commission in anticipation of discussion during the Commission's June meeting. President Herbert also noted interest of the subcommittee in raising awareness among members of all NCAA committees of the need to focus attention on student-athlete welfare issues. The Commission received the report without taking formal action.

11. Minority Issues. President David G. Carter presented the report of the Commission's Subcommittee on Minority Issues. The Commission reviewed a draft handbook related to the Commission's Fellows Leadership Development Program, and it was noted that efforts are underway to identify candidates for participation in the program. President Carter also noted plans for diversity training among members of the national office staff and reported the subcommittee's interest in engaging members of the Commission in the training program.

12. Convention Review and Planning. The Commission reviewed various aspects of the 1995 Convention and noted that during its May meeting, the NCAA Executive Committee will review suggestions related to administration of the 1996 Convention. It also was noted that of the 14 legislative proposals sponsored by the Commission for the 1995 Convention, 11 were adopted, one was defeated, one was withdrawn and one was referred to a committee.

13. Congressional Hearings on Title IX. Commission members received information concerning congressional hearings to be conducted in May and reviewed the Association's current position with regard to Title IX. Several members of the Commission suggested the need for the Association to better define its position in relation to Title IX issues. It was the sense of the meeting that this issue should be placed on the Commission's June meeting agenda and that an informal group of members of the Commission should discuss the matter by telephone before the June meeting.

14. Dates and Sites of Future Meetings. The Commission noted the following future meeting dates and sites for the record:

a. June 19-20, 1995, Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Kansas City, Missouri.

b. September 26-27, 1995, site to be determined.

c. January 7, 1996, Wyndham Anatole Hotel, Dallas.

Additionally, the representative provided the SA's father with the use of his vehicle for two or three days when the father's car broke down.
